§ 688. Construction. To the extent that the provisions of this article are inconsistent with the provisions of any other general or special law, rule, regulation or charter, the provisions of this article shall be controlling.