§ 328-a. Special administrations. When any licensing examination is administered on a day of religious observance, a special administration of such licensing examination or an equivalent examination shall be offered to any affected test subject as soon after or before as is possible, at a comparable time, place and cost, provided that in no circumstances shall the special administration be more than thirty days before or after the regular test administration.