§ 146. Temporary assignment of judges. Nothing in this act is intended to prevent the temporary assignment of family court judges by the appropriate administrative judge to counties other than the one to which they were elected or appointed for the purpose of meeting a temporary need for judicial personnel or for greater contact between courts.