(B) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, any policy that provides coverage required by this paragraph shall not impose patient cost sharing for follow-up screening or diagnostic services for lung cancer.

(C) For the purposes of this paragraph, "nationally recognized clinical practice guidelines" means evidence-based, peer reviewed clinical practice guidelines informed by a systematic review of evidence and an assessment of the benefits, and risks of alternative care options intended to optimize patient care developed by independent organizations or medical professional societies utilizing a transparent methodology and reporting structure and with a conflict of interest policy.

(D) Nothing in this paragraph shall be construed to prevent medical management or utilization review of the services, including preauthorization, to ensure that such services are consistent with nationally recognized clinical practice guidelines for the detection of lung cancer.

(E) If the policy is a high deductible health plan as defined in section 223(c)(2) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, such coverage may be subject to the plan's annual deductible if application of this requirement would result in ineligibility for a health savings account.

(m) A group policy providing hospital, surgical or medical expense insurance for other than accident only shall provide that if all or any portion of the insurance on an employee or member insured under the policy ceases because of termination of employment or membership in the class or classes eligible for coverage under the policy, such employee or member shall be entitled without evidence of insurability upon application to continue his hospital, surgical or medical expense insurance for himself or herself and his or her eligible dependents, subject to all of the group policy's terms and conditions applicable to those forms of benefits and to the following conditions:

(1) Continuation shall cease on the date which the employee, member or dependant first becomes, after the date of election: (A) entitled to coverage under title XVIII of the United States Social Security Act (Medicare) as amended or superseded; or (B) covered as an employee, member or dependent by any other insured or uninsured arrangement which provides hospital, surgical or medical coverage for individuals in a group which does not contain any exclusion or limitation with respect to any pre-existing condition of such employee, member or dependent, except the group insurance policy conversion option of this section shall not be considered as such an arrangement under which an employee, member or dependent could become covered.

(2) (A) An employee or member who wishes continuation of coverage must request such continuation in writing within the sixty day period following the later of: (i) the date of such termination; or (ii) the date the employee is sent notice by first class mail of the right of continuation by the group policyholder.

(B) An employee or member who wishes continuation of coverage under subparagraph (D) of paragraph four of this subsection must give notice to the employer or group policyholder within sixty days of the determination under title II or title XVI of the United States Social Security Act that such employee or member was disabled at the time of termination of employment or membership or at any time during the first sixty days of continuation of coverage.

(3) An employee or member electing continuation must pay to the group policyholder or his employer, but not more frequently than on a monthly basis in advance, the amount of the required premium payment, but not more than one hundred two percent of the group rate for the benefits being continued under the group policy on the due date of each payment. The employee's or member's written election of continuation, together with the first premium payment required to establish premium payment on a monthly basis in advance, must be given to the policyholder or employer within sixty days of the date the employee's or member's benefits would otherwise terminate.

(4) Subject to paragraph one of this subsection, continuation of benefits under the group policy for any person shall terminate at the first to occur of the following:

(A) The date thirty-six months after the date the employee's or member's benefits under the policy would otherwise have terminated because of termination of employment or membership; or

(B) The end of the period for which premium payments were made, if the employee or member fails to make timely payment of a required premium payment; or

(C) In the case of an eligible dependent of an employee or member, the date thirty-six months after the date such person's benefits under the policy would otherwise have terminated by reason of:

(i) the death of the employee or member;

(ii) the divorce or legal separation of the employee or member from his or her spouse;

(iii) the employee or member becoming entitled to benefits under title XVIII of the United States Social Security Act (Medicare); or

(iv) a dependent child ceasing to be a dependent child under the generally applicable requirements of the policy; or

(D) The date on which the group policy is terminated or, in the case of an employee, the date his employer terminates participation under the group policy. However, if this clause applies and the coverage ceasing by reason of such termination is replaced by similar coverage under another group policy, the following shall apply:

(i) The employee or member shall have the right to become covered under that other group policy, for the balance of the period that he would have remained covered under the prior group policy in accordance with this subparagraph had a termination described in this subparagraph not occurred, and

(ii) The minimum level of benefits to be provided by the other group policy shall be the applicable level of benefits of the prior group policy reduced by any benefits payable under that prior group policy, and

(iii) The prior group policy shall continue to provide benefits to the extent of its accrued liabilities and extension of benefits as if the replacement had not occurred.

(5) A notification of the continuation privilege and the time period in which to request continuation shall be included in each certificate of coverage.

(6) This subsection shall not be applicable where a continuation benefit is available to the employee or member pursuant to Chapter 18 of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act, 29 U.S.C. § 1161 et seq or Chapter 6A of the Public Health Service Act, 42 U.S.C. § 300 bb - 1 et seq. However, a group policy shall offer an insured who has exhausted continuation coverage pursuant to Chapter 18 of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act, 29 U.S.C. § 1161 et seq. or Chapter 6A of the Public Health Service Act, 42 U.S.C. § 300 bb - 1 et seq. the opportunity to continue coverage for up to thirty-six months from the date the employee's or member's continuation coverage began, if the employee or member is entitled to less than thirty-six months of continuation benefits under federal law.

(7)(A) Special enrollment period. An individual who does not have an election of continuation coverage as described in this subsection in effect on the effective date of the American Recovery and Reinvestment act of 2009, but who would be an assistance eligible individual under Title III of such act if such election were in effect, may elect continuation coverage pursuant to this subsection. Such election shall be made no later than sixty days after the date the administrator of the group health plan (or other entity involved) provides the notice required by section 3001(a)(7) of the American Recovery and Reinvestment act of 2009. The administrator of the group health plan (or other entity involved) shall provide such individuals with additional notice of the right to elect coverage pursuant to this paragraph within sixty days of the date of enactment of the American Recovery and Reinvestment act of 2009.

(B) Continuation coverage elected pursuant to subparagraph (A) of this paragraph shall commence with the first period of coverage beginning on or after the date of the enactment of the American Recovery and Reinvestment act of 2009 and shall not extend beyond the period of continuation coverage that would have been required if the coverage had instead been elected pursuant to paragraph two of this subsection.

(C) With respect to an individual who elects continuation coverage pursuant to subparagraph (A) of this paragraph, the period beginning on the date of the qualifying event and ending on the date of the first period of coverage on or after the enactment of the American Recovery and Reinvestment act of 2009 shall be disregarded for purposes of determining the sixty-three day period referred to in section three thousand two hundred thirty-two of this article.

(8) For purposes of this subsection, the term "dependent" shall include a child as described in subsection (f) of section four thousand two hundred thirty-five of this chapter.

(n) In addition to all the rights of conversion and continuation otherwise provided for herein, employees or members insured under the policy who are also members of a reserve component of the armed forces of the United States, including the National Guard, shall be entitled to have supplementary conversion and continuation rights in certain circumstances as follows:

(1) If the employee or member insured enters upon active duty as defined in subsection (o) of this section, and the employer or group policyholder does not voluntarily maintain coverage for such employee or member insured, the employee or member insured shall be entitled to have his or her coverage continued under the group policy in accordance with the conditions and limitations contained in paragraph seven of this subsection and have issued at the end of the period of continuation an individual conversion policy subject to the terms of this subsection. The effective date for the conversion policy shall be the day following the termination of insurance under the group policy, or if there is a continuation of coverage on the day following the end of the period of continuation.

(2) If the employer or group policyholder does not voluntarily maintain coverage for the employee or member insured during the period of active duty, and such employee or member insured does not elect the supplementary conversion and continuation rights provided for herein, coverage for such employee or member insured shall be suspended during the period of active duty.

(3) If the employee or member insured elects the supplementary continuation right provided for herein or coverage under the group plan is suspended, and such employee or member insured dies during the period of active duty, the conversion right provided by this section shall be available to the surviving spouse and children, and shall be available to a child solely with respect to himself or herself upon his or her attaining the limiting age of coverage under the group policy while covered as a dependent thereunder. It shall also be available upon the divorce or annulment of the marriage of the employee or member insured, to the former spouse of such employee or member insured, if such divorce or annulment occurs during the period of active duty.

(4) If the employee or member insured elects the supplementary conversion and continuation right provided for herein or coverage under the group plan is suspended, and such employee or member insured is either reemployed or restored to participation in the group upon return to civilian status, he or she shall be entitled to resume participation in insurance offered by the group pursuant to this section, with no limitations or conditions imposed as a result of such period of active duty except as set forth in subparagraphs (A) and (B) herein. The right of resumption provided for herein shall extend to coverage for the spouse and dependents of the employee or member insured and shall be in addition to other existing rights granted pursuant to state and federal laws and regulations and shall not be deemed to qualify or limit such rights in any way. No exclusion or waiting period may be imposed in connection with coverage of a health or physical condition of a person entitled to such right of resumption, or a health or physical condition of any other person who is covered by the policy unless:

(A) the condition arose during the period of active duty and the condition has been determined by the secretary of veterans affairs to be a condition incurred in the line of duty; or

(B) a waiting period was imposed and had not been completed prior to the period of suspension; in no event, however, shall the sum of the waiting periods imposed prior to and subsequent to the period of suspension exceed the length of the waiting period originally imposed.

(5) If the employee or member insured elects the supplementary conversion and continuation coverage provided for herein:

(A) when such employee or member insured is either reemployed or restored to participation in the group, coverage under the supplementary rights provided for herein shall terminate on the date that coverage is effective due to resumption of participation in the group.

(B) when such employee or member insured is not reemployed or restored to participation in the group upon return to civilian status, he or she shall be entitled to the conversion and continuation rights provided by subsections (e) and (m) of this section.

(i) To elect an individual conversion policy pursuant to subsection (e) of this section, the employee or member insured must apply to the insurer within thirty-one days of the termination of active duty or discharge from hospitalization incident to such active duty, which hospitalization continues for a period of not more than one year. Upon commencement of coverage under the conversion right provided pursuant to subsection (e) of this section, coverage under the supplementary continuation right provided for herein shall terminate.

(ii) To elect continuation of coverage pursuant to subsections (e) and (m) of this section, the employee or member insured must request such continuation of the employer within thirty-one days of the termination of active duty or discharge from hospitalization incident to such active duty, which hospitalization continues for a period of not more than one year. Upon commencement of coverage under the continuation right provided pursuant to subsection (e) of this section, coverage under the supplementary continuation right provided for herein shall terminate. The employee or member insured shall be entitled to have issued at the end of the period of continuation an individual conversion policy.

(6) If coverage under the group plan is suspended during the period of active duty:

(A) when the employee or member insured returns to participation in the group plan, coverage under the group plan shall be retroactive to the date of termination of the period of active duty.

(B) when such employee or member insured is not reemployed or restored to participation in the group upon return to civilian status, he or she shall be entitled to the conversion and continuation rights provided by subsections (e) and (m) of this section.

(i) To elect an individual conversion policy pursuant to subsection (e) of this section, the employee or member insured must apply to the insurer within thirty-one days of the termination of active duty or discharge from hospitalization incident to such active duty, which hospitalization continues for a period of not more than one year.

(ii) To elect continuation of coverage pursuant to subsections (e) and (m) of this section, the employee or member insured must request such continuation of the employer within thirty-one days of the termination of active duty or discharge from hospitalization incident to such active duty, which hospitalization continues for a period of not more than one year. The employee or member insured shall be entitled to have issued at the end of the period of continuation an individual conversion policy.

(7) A group policy providing hospital, surgical or medical expense insurance for other than accident only shall provide that if all or any portion of the insurance on an employee or member insured under the policy ceases because the employee or member insured is ordered to active duty as defined in subsection (o) of this section, such employee or member insured shall be entitled, without evidence of insurability, upon application to continue his or her hospital, surgical or medical expense insurance for himself or herself and his or her eligible dependents, under the supplementary conversion and continuation rights provided for herein, subject to all of the group policy's terms and conditions applicable to those forms of benefits and to the following conditions:

(A) continuation shall not be available for: (i) any person who is covered, becomes covered or could be covered by title XVIII of the United States Social Security Act (Medicare) as amended or superseded or (ii) an employee, member or dependent who is covered, becomes covered or could become covered as an employee, member or dependent by any other insured or uninsured arrangement which provides hospital, surgical or medical coverage for individuals in a group, except that the coverage available to active duty members of the uniformed services and their family members shall not be considered a group under the terms of this subsection, and except that the group insurance policy conversion option of this section shall not be considered as such an arrangement under which an employee, member or dependent could become covered.

(B) an employee or member insured who wishes continuation of coverage pursuant to this subsection must request such continuation in writing within sixty days of being ordered to active duty.

(C) an employee or member insured electing continuation pursuant to this subsection must pay to the group policyholder or his or her employer, but not more frequently than on a monthly basis in advance, the amount of the required premium payment, but not more than the group rate for the benefits being continued under the group policy on the due date of each payment.

(8) The supplementary conversion and continuation rights provided for herein shall apply to:

(A) policies not covered by Chapter 18 of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act, 29 U.S.C. section 1161 et seq or Chapter 6A of the Public Health Service Act, 42 U.S.C. section 300bb-1 et seq;

(B) policies covered by Chapter 18 of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act, 29 U.S.C. section 1161 et seq or Chapter 6A of the Public Health Service Act, 42 U.S.C. section 300bb-1 et seq, when active duty for reservists and the refusal of an employer to voluntarily maintain coverage for such period of active duty is not considered a qualifying event.

(o) To be entitled to the right defined in subsection (n) of this section a person must be a member of a reserve component of the armed forces of the United States, including the National Guard, who either:

(A) voluntarily or involuntarily enters upon active duty (other than for the purpose of determining his or her physical fitness and other than for training), or

(B) has his or her active duty voluntarily or involuntarily extended during a period when the president is authorized to order units of the ready reserve or members of a reserve component to active duty, provided that such additional active duty is at the request and for the convenience of the federal government, and

(C) serves no more than four years of active duty.

(p)(1) Except as provided in this section, if an insurer delivers or issues for delivery in this state a group or blanket policy which provides hospital, surgical or medical expense coverage for other than accident only, the insurer must renew or continue in force such coverage at the option of the policyholder.

(2) An insurer may nonrenew or discontinue coverage under such a group or blanket policy based only on one or more of the following:

(A) The policyholder or a participating entity has failed to pay premiums or contributions in accordance with the terms of the policy or the insurer has not received timely premium payments.

(B) The policyholder or a participating entity has performed an act or practice that constitutes fraud or made an intentional misrepresentation of material fact under the terms of the coverage.

(C) The policyholder has failed to comply with a material plan provision relating to employer contribution or group participation rules, as permitted under section four thousand two hundred thirty-five of this chapter.

(D) The insurer is ceasing to offer group or blanket policies in a market in accordance with paragraph three or seven of this subsection.

(E) The policyholder ceases to meet the requirements for a group under section four thousand two hundred thirty-five of this chapter or a participating employer, labor union, association or other entity ceases membership or participation in the group to which the policy is issued. Coverage terminated pursuant to this paragraph shall be done uniformly without regard to any health status-related factor relating to any covered individual.

(F) In the case of an insurer that offers a group or blanket policy in a market through a network plan, there is no longer any enrollee in connection with such plan who lives, resides, or works in the service area of the insurer (or in the area for which the insurer is authorized to do business).

(G) Such other reasons as are acceptable to the superintendent and authorized by the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act of 1996, Public Law 104-191, and any later amendments or successor provisions, or by any federal regulations or rules that implement the provisions of the Act.

(3)(A) In any case in which an insurer decides to discontinue offering a particular class of group or blanket policy of hospital, surgical or medical expense insurance offered in the small or large group market, the policy of such class may be discontinued by the insurer in accordance with this chapter in such market only if:

(i) the insurer provides written notice to each policyholder provided coverage of this class in such market (and to all employees and member insureds covered under such coverage) of such discontinuance at least ninety days prior to the date of discontinuance of such coverage. In addition to any other information required of notices by the superintendent, this written notice shall conspicuously include an explanation, in plain language, of the policyholder's and covered employee's or member insured's rights under this subparagraph and (B) of this paragraph, including:

(I) a statement that if the superintendent determines that the covered employee, member insured, or a dependent has a serious medical condition, and the covered employee, member insured or dependent within the previous twelve months utilized a benefit under the policy related to the serious medical condition that is not covered by the replacement coverage offered to the policyholder as a result of the discontinuance, then the superintendent shall require the insurer to offer the policyholder replacement coverage that includes a benefit that is the same as or substantially similar to the benefit set forth in the policy that the insurer discontinued; and

(II) an explanation as to how to contact the superintendent, and the date by which the superintendent shall be contacted, if the policyholder, covered employee or member insured believes that the covered employee, member insured or a dependent has a serious medical condition, and the covered employee, member insured or dependent within the previous twelve months utilized a benefit related to the serious medical condition that may not be covered by the replacement coverage offered to the policyholder as a result of the discontinuance;

(ii) the insurer offers to each policyholder provided coverage of this class in such market, the option to purchase all (or, in the case of the large group market, any) other hospital, surgical and medical expense coverage currently being offered by the insurer to a group in such market;

(iii) in exercising the option to discontinue coverage of this class and in offering the option of coverage under item (ii) of this subparagraph, the insurer acts uniformly without regard to the claims experience of those policyholders or any health status-related factor relating to any particular covered employee, member insured or dependent or particular new employee, member insured or dependent who may become eligible for such coverage, and the insurer is not discontinuing the coverage of this class with the intent or as a pretext to discontinuing the coverage of any such employee, member insured or dependent; and

(iv) at least ninety days prior to the date of discontinuance of such coverage, the insurer provides written notice to the superintendent of such discontinuance, including the reason for the discontinuance, and an officer or director of the insurer certifies to the superintendent that the insurer has complied with items (i), (ii) and (iii) of this paragraph. If such notice does not include the date or dates that the insurer mailed or delivered the notice to all policyholders, covered employers and member insureds, the insurer shall notify the superintendent of such date within seven days of the completion of the mailing or delivery.

(B) If the superintendent determines that the insurer has not complied with item (iii) of subparagraph (A) of this paragraph, then the superintendent may prohibit the insurer from discontinuing the class of policies and require the insurer to promptly notify every policyholder, covered employee and member insured that the insurer is not discontinuing the policies. If the superintendent determines that the insurer wrongfully discontinued the class of policies pursuant to item (iii) of subparagraph (A), then the superintendent shall require that the insurer take remedial action, including offering to group policyholders the option of reinstating the discontinued policy forms. If the superintendent determines that the insurer discontinued the class of policies without compliance with items (i), (ii), or (iv) of subparagraph (A), and an employee, member insured or dependent covered under the discontinued policy would have been entitled to relief under this paragraph, then the superintendent may require that the insurer offer replacement coverage to an affected policyholder consistent with item (ii) of subparagraph (C) of this paragraph.

(C) (i) If, within forty-five days after the insurer mails or delivers the written notice of discontinuance required by item (i) of subparagraph (A) of this paragraph, the superintendent is notified by a policyholder or covered employee or member insured that a covered employee, member insured or dependent has a serious medical condition and that a benefit utilized by the covered employee, member insured or dependent within the previous twelve months related to the serious medical condition may not be covered by the replacement coverage offered to the policyholder as a result of the discontinuance, then the superintendent shall, within twenty days of the notification, ask the insurer to confirm that the covered employee, member insured or dependent utilize a benefit within the previous twelve months to treat the medical condition that the covered employee, member insured or dependent asserts is a serious medical condition, and that the benefit is not covered by the replacement coverage. The superintendent may request such additional information as the superintendent may require. The insurer shall provide all requested information to the superintendent within five days of receipt of the request.

(ii) If, within twenty days of the superintendent's receipt of all additional information requested from the insurer, the superintendent determines that (I) the covered employee, member insured or dependent has a serious medical condition; and (II) the benefit utilized by the covered employee, member insured or dependent within the previous twelve months related to the serious medical condition is not covered by the replacement coverage offered to the policyholder as a result of the discontinuance, then the superintendent shall require the insurer to offer to the policyholder replacement coverage that includes a benefit that is the same as or substantially similar to the benefit set forth in the policy that the insurer discontinued. If the replacement coverage is not available, at the time that the policy would otherwise be discontinued, then the insurer shall keep the existing policy in force for the affected policyholder until the replacement coverage with the substantially similar benefit is available.

(D) The remedies as provided in this paragraph shall be in addition to and not in lieu of any other authority or power of the superintendent to impose monetary or other penalties for violations of this paragraph.

(E) In any case in which an insurer elects to discontinue offering all hospital, surgical and medical expense coverage in the small group market or the large group market, or both markets, in this state, health insurance coverage may be discontinued by the insurer only if:

(i) the insurer provides written notice to the superintendent and to each policyholder (and all employees and member insureds covered under such coverage) of such discontinuance at least one hundred eighty days prior to the date of the discontinuance of such coverage;

(ii) all hospital, surgical and medical expense coverage issued or delivered for issuance in this state in such market (or markets) is discontinued and coverage under such policies in such market (or markets) is not renewed; and

(iii) in addition to the notice to the superintendent referred to in item (i) of this subparagraph, the insurer shall provide the superintendent with a written plan to minimize potential disruption in the marketplace occasioned by the insurer's withdrawal from the market.

(F) In the case of a discontinuance under subparagraph (E of this paragraph in a market, the insurer may not provide for the issuance of any group or blanket policy of hospital, surgical or medical expense insurance in that market in this state during the five year period beginning on the date of the discontinuance of the last health insurance policy not so renewed.

(4) At the time of coverage renewal, an insurer may modify the health insurance coverage for a group or blanket policy offered to a large or small group policyholder so long as such modification is consistent with this chapter and effective on a uniform basis among all small group policyholders with that policy form.

(5) For purposes of this subsection the term "network plan" shall mean a health insurance policy under which the financing and delivery of health care (including items and services paid for as such care) are provided, in whole or in part, through a defined set of providers under contract either with the insurer or another entity which has contracted with the insurer.

(6) For purposes of this subsection, the term "dependent" shall include a child as described in subsection (f) of section four thousand two hundred thirty-five of this chapter.

(7) Notwithstanding paragraph three of this subsection, an insurer may discontinue offering a particular class of group or blanket policy of hospital, surgical or medical expense insurance offered in the small or large group market, and instead offer a group or blanket policy of hospital, surgical or medical expense insurance that complies with the requirements of section 2707 of the public health service act, § 42

U.S.C. 300gg-6 that become applicable to such policy as of January first, two thousand fourteen, provided that the insurer:

(A) discontinues the existing class of policy in such market as of either December thirty-first, two thousand thirteen or the policy renewal date occurring in two thousand fourteen in accordance with this chapter;

(B) provides written notice to each policyholder provided coverage of the class in the market (and to all employees and member insureds covered under such coverage) of the discontinuance at least ninety days prior to the date of discontinuance of such coverage. The written notice shall be in a form satisfactory to the superintendent;

(C) offers to each policyholder provided coverage of the class in the market, the option to purchase all (or, in the case of the large group market, any) other hospital, surgical and medical expense coverage that complies with the requirements of section 2707 of the public health service act, 42 U.S.C. § 300gg-6 that become applicable to such coverage as of January first, two thousand fourteen, currently being offered by the insurer to a group in that market;

(D) in exercising the option to discontinue coverage of the class and in offering the option of coverage under subparagraph (C) of this paragraph, acts uniformly without regard to the claims experience of those policyholders or any health status-related factor relating to any particular covered employee, member insured or dependent, or particular new employee, member insured, or dependent who may become eligible for such coverage, and does not discontinue the coverage of the class with the intent or as a pretext to discontinuing the coverage of any such employee, member insured, or dependent; and

(E) at least one hundred twenty days prior to the date of the discontinuance of such coverage, provides written notice to the superintendent of the discontinuance, including certification by an officer or director of the insurer that the reason for the discontinuance is to replace the coverage with new coverage that complies with the requirements of section 2707 of the public health service act, § 42 U.S.C. 300gg-6 that become effective January first, two thousand fourteen. The written notice shall be in such form and contain such information the superintendent requires.

group or blanket policy which provides hospital, surgical or medical expense coverage shall establish rules for eligibility (including continued eligibility) of any individual or dependent of the individual to enroll under the policy based on any of the following health status-related factors:

(A) Health status.

(B) Medical condition (including both physical and mental illnesses).

(C) Claims experience.

(D) Receipt of health care.

(E) Medical history.

(F) Genetic information.

(G) Evidence of insurability (including conditions arising out of acts of domestic violence).

(H) Disability.

(2) For purposes of paragraph one of this subsection, rules for eligibility include rules defining any applicable waiting periods for such enrollment.

(3) No insurer may, on the basis of any health status-related factor in relation to the insured or dependent of the insured, require any insured (as a condition of enrollment or continued enrollment under the policy) to pay a premium or contribution which is greater than such premium for a similarly situated insured enrolled in the plan.

(4) Nothing in this subsection shall require an insurer to issue a group or blanket policy to a group comprised of fifty-one or more lives exclusive of spouses and dependents.

(5) Where an eligible insured or dependent of an insured rejects initial enrollment in a group or blanket policy that provides hospital, surgical or medical expense insurance, an insurer shall permit an insured or dependent of an insured to enroll for coverage under the terms of the policy if each of the following conditions is met:

(A) The insured or dependent was covered under another plan or policy at the time coverage was initially offered.

(B)(i) Coverage under the other plan or policy was provided in accordance with continuation required by federal or state law and was exhausted; or

(ii) Coverage under the other plan or policy was subsequently terminated as a result of loss of eligibility for one or more of the following reasons:

(I) termination of employment;

(II) termination of the other plan or policy;

(III) death of the spouse;

(IV) legal separation, divorce, or annulment;

(V) reduction in the number of hours of employment; or

(iii) Policyholder contributions toward the payment of premium for the other plan or contract were terminated.

(C) Coverage must be applied for within thirty days of termination for one of the reasons set forth in subparagraph (B) of this paragraph.

(6) With respect to group or blanket policies delivered or issued for delivery in this state covering between two and fifty employees or members, the provisions of this subsection shall in no way diminish the rights of such groups pursuant to section three thousand two hundred thirty-one of this article.

(7) For purposes of this subsection, the term "dependent" shall include a child as described in subsection (f) of section four thousand two hundred thirty-five of this chapter.

(r) (1) As used in this subsection, "child" means an unmarried child through age twenty-nine of an employee or member insured under a group policy of hospital, medical or surgical expense insurance, regardless of financial dependence, who is not insured by or eligible for coverage under any employer health benefit plan as an employee or member, whether insured or self-insured, and who lives, works or resides in New York state or the service area of the insurer and who is not covered under title XVIII of the United States Social Security Act (Medicare).

(2) In addition to the conversion privilege afforded by subsection (e) of this section and the continuation privilege afforded by subsection (m) of this section, every group policy delivered or issued for delivery in this state that provides hospital, medical or surgical expense insurance coverage for other than specific diseases or accidents only, and which provides coverage of a child that terminates at a specified age, shall, upon application of the employee, member or child, as set forth in subparagraph (B) of this paragraph, provide coverage to the child after that specified age and through age twenty-nine without evidence of insurability, subject to all of the terms and conditions of the group policy and the following:

(A) An employer shall not be required to pay all or part of the cost of coverage for a child provided pursuant to this subsection;

(B) An employee, member or child who wishes to elect continuation of coverage pursuant to this subsection shall request the continuation in writing:

(i) within sixty days following the date coverage would otherwise terminate due to reaching the specified age set forth in the group policy;

(ii) within sixty days after meeting the requirements for child status set forth in paragraph one of this subsection when coverage for the child previously terminated; or

(iii) during an annual thirty-day open enrollment period, as described in the policy;

(C) An employee, member or child electing continuation as described in this subsection shall pay to the group policyholder or employer, but not more frequently than on a monthly basis in advance, the amount of the required premium payment on the due date of each payment. The written election of continuation, together with the first premium payment required to establish premium payment on a monthly basis in advance, shall be given to the group policyholder or employer within the time periods set forth in subparagraph (B) of this paragraph. Any premium received within the thirty-day period after the due date shall be considered timely;

(D) For any child electing coverage within sixty days of the date the child would otherwise lose coverage due to reaching a specified age, the effective date of the continuation coverage shall be the date coverage would have otherwise terminated. For any child electing to resume coverage during an annual open enrollment period, the effective date of the continuation coverage shall be prospective no later than thirty days after the election and payment of first premium;

(E) Coverage for a child pursuant to this subsection shall consist of coverage that is identical to the coverage provided to the employee or member parent. If coverage is modified under the policy for any group of similarly situated employees or members, then the coverage shall also be modified in the same manner for any child;

(F) Coverage shall terminate on the first to occur of the following:

(i) the date the child no longer meets the requirements of paragraph

one of this subsection;

(ii) the end of the period for which premium payments were made, if there is a failure to make payment of a required premium payment within the period of grace described in subparagraph (C) of this paragraph; or

(iii) the date on which the group policy is terminated and not replaced by coverage under another group policy; and

(G) The insurer shall provide written notification of the continuation privilege described in this subsection and the time period in which to request continuation to the employee or member:

(i) in each certificate of coverage; and

(ii) at least sixty days prior to termination at the specified age as provided in the policy.

(3)(A) Insurers shall submit such reports as may be requested by the superintendent to evaluate the effectiveness of coverage pursuant to this subsection including, but not limited to, quarterly enrollment reports.

(B) The superintendent may promulgate regulations to ensure the orderly implementation and operation of the continuation coverage provided pursuant to this subsection, including premium rate adjustments.

(s) An insurer subject to the provisions of this article or an insurance producer subject to this chapter shall not permit the renewal of a small group policy that provides hospital, surgical or medical expense coverage that renews on or after January first, two thousand fourteen, but before July first, two thousand fourteen, so as to renew the same policy prior to the policy's annual renewal date for the sole purpose of evading the requirements of the affordable care act and regulations promulgated thereunder with respect to such policy. An isolated, inadvertent renewal date change which was not made for the sole purpose of evading the requirements of the affordable care act shall not be deemed a violation of this subsection.

(t) (1) Any insurer that delivers or issues for delivery in this state hospital, surgical or medical expense group policies in the small group or large group market shall offer to any employer in this state all such policies in the applicable market, and shall accept at all times throughout the year any employer that applies for any of those policies.

(2) The requirements of paragraph one of this subsection shall apply with respect to an employer that applies for coverage either directly from the insurer or through an association or trust to which the insurer has issued coverage and in which the employer participates.

(u) (1) Every policy that provides coverage for physician services, medical, major medical or similar comprehensive-type coverage shall, upon the referral of a physician, provide coverage for comprehensive neuropsychological examinations for dyslexia when performed by a health care professional licensed, certified, or authorized pursuant to title eight of the education law and acting within their scope of practice and in accordance with this subsection and shall not exclude coverage for the screening, diagnosis or treatment of medical conditions otherwise covered by the policy.

(2) Nothing in this subsection shall be construed to prevent the medical management or utilization review of the services or prevent a policy from requiring that services be provided through a network of participating providers.

* (v) With respect to high deductible health plans offered in conjunction with a health savings account, if application of any cost sharing requirements would result in health savings account ineligibility under section two hundred twenty-three of the internal revenue code, such coverage may be subject to the plan's annual deductible.

* NB Effective January 1, 2027

§ 3222. Funding agreements. (a) Any insurer authorized to deliver or issue for delivery annuity contracts in the state may deliver or issue for delivery one or more funding agreements. The issuance or delivery of such funding agreements shall not be deemed to be doing a kind of business specifically authorized by section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter or engaging in any business authorized by section one thousand seven hundred fourteen of this chapter. Notwithstanding the definition of "insurance contract" in paragraph one of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred one of this chapter, the issuance or delivery of a funding agreement by an insurer in this state shall constitute doing an insurance business herein.

(b) Such funding agreements may be issued to persons authorized by a state or foreign country to engage in an insurance business or subsidiaries of such persons. Such funding agreements may also be issued to entities other than persons authorized to engage in an insurance business (and subsidiaries of such persons) and to individuals for the following purposes: (i) to fund benefits under any employee benefit plan as defined in the federal Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, 29 U.S.C. §§ 1001 et seq, maintained in the United States or in a foreign country, (ii) to fund the activities of any organization exempt from taxation under section five hundred one (c) of the Internal Revenue Code or of any similar organization in any foreign country, (iii) to fund any program of the government of the United States, the government of any state, foreign country or political subdivision thereof, or any agency or instrumentality thereof, (iv) to fund any agreement providing for periodic payments in satisfaction of a claim or (v) to fund any program of an institution which has assets in excess of twenty-five million dollars.

(c) No amounts shall be guaranteed or credited under any such funding agreement except upon reasonable assumptions as to investment income and expenses and on a basis equitable to all holders of funding agreements of a given class. Such funding agreements shall not provide for payments to or by the insurer based on mortality or morbidity contingencies.

(d) Amounts paid to the insurer, and proceeds applied under optional modes of settlement, under such funding agreements may be allocated by the insurer to one or more separate accounts pursuant to section four thousand two hundred forty of this chapter.

(e) (1) The superintendent may promulgate reasonable regulations relating to (i) the standards to be followed in the approval of forms of such funding agreements, (ii) the reserves to be maintained by insurers issuing such funding agreements, (iii) the accounting and reporting of funds credited under such funding agreements, (iv) the disclosure of information to be given to holders and prospective holders of such funding agreements, and (v) the qualification and compensation of persons selling such funding agreements on behalf of insurers.

(2) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the superintendent shall have sole authority to regulate the issuance and sale of such funding agreements, including the persons selling such funding agreements on behalf of insurers.

§ 3223. Group annuity contracts; standard provisions as to contractual rights and responsibilities of contract holders, certificate holders and annuitants, and insurers. Except as otherwise provided in section four thousand two hundred forty of this chapter, every group annuity contract delivered or issued for delivery in this state and every certificate used in connection therewith, other than a certificate to which subsection (a) of section three thousand two hundred nineteen of this article applies, shall contain in substance the following provisions to the extent that such provisions are applicable or provisions which the superintendent deems to be more favorable to annuitants, or not less favorable to annuitants and more favorable to the contract holders:

(a) in any such contract requiring payments to be made to the insurer, that, after the first payment, there shall be a grace period of thirty-one days following the due date of any subsequent payment within which the payment to be remitted to the insurer may be made. During such grace period, the contract shall continue in full force;

(b) specifying the document or documents, which shall include the contract and, if a copy is attached thereto, the application of the contract holder, constituting the entire contract between the parties;

(c) that if the age or sex of any person, or any other fact affecting the amount or date of any payment by or to the insurer, has been misstated, there will be an equitable adjustment, as provided in the contract, of the benefits payable thereunder or of the payments to be made to the insurer. Each certificate issued under the contract shall contain an appropriate reference to such provision for equitable adjustment;

(d) in any such contract providing for the maintenance by the insurer of one or more accounts for each annuitant and providing that withdrawals may be made from such accounts only with the annuitant's consent or upon termination of the annuitant's employment, that the insurer shall issue a certificate for delivery to each annuitant who contributes to the contract, specifying the nature and basis of ascertainment of benefits, which are deemed by the superintendent to be equitable to the annuitant and the contract holder, in the event of either the termination of the annuitant's employment, except by death, or the discontinuance of payments under the contract. The contract and certificate shall provide that if the annuitant dies before the commencement date of the annuity, the insurer shall pay a death benefit at least equal to the accumulated amount in the annuitant's accounts arising from the annuitant's contributions. Nothing herein shall be construed to require that the contract or certificate contain the same provisions required for contracts or certificates subject to section four thousand two hundred twenty-three of this chapter;

(e) that the insurer shall issue for delivery to each person to whom annuity benefits are being paid thereunder a certificate setting forth a statement in substance of the benefits to which such person is entitled under such contract.

§ 3224. Standard claim forms; accident and health insurance. (a) The superintendent shall establish standard claim forms for the services of hospitals, physicians and other health care providers to be used for all accident and health insurance claims. All insurers providing such insurance shall accept said standard claim forms when submitted by a hospital, physician or other health care provider covering services rendered to an individual covered by the policy or when submitted by an insured covering these same services. Corporations operating under article forty-three of this chapter shall be required to use standard claim forms as established by the superintendent pursuant to this section.

(b) The adoption of any uniform claim forms by the superintendent pursuant hereto shall not preclude an insurer from obtaining any necessary additional information regarding a claim from the claimant, provider of health care or treatment, or certifier of coverage.

(c) The superintendent is authorized and empowered to take such action as he deems appropriate for the proper implementation hereof and to provide by rule and regulation that any form which does not comply with the provisions of this section shall not be issued or reissued. The rules and regulations so adopted shall specify an effective date, which shall not be less than one hundred eighty days after the date of adoption or promulgation, after which no insurer may require any hospital, physician, other health care provider or insured to complete forms differing from those prescribed by the superintendent pursuant hereto, other than additional requests for information pursuant to subsection (b) hereof.

§ 3224-a. Standards for prompt, fair and equitable settlement of claims for health care and payments for health care services. In the processing of all health care claims submitted under contracts or agreements issued or entered into pursuant to this article and articles forty-two, forty-three and forty-seven of this chapter and article forty-four of the public health law and all bills for health care services rendered by health care providers pursuant to such contracts or agreements, any insurer or organization or corporation licensed or certified pursuant to article forty-three or forty-seven of this chapter or article forty-four of the public health law shall adhere to the following standards:

(a) Except in a case where the obligation of an insurer or an organization or corporation licensed or certified pursuant to article forty-three or forty-seven of this chapter or article forty-four of the public health law to pay a claim submitted by a policyholder or person covered under such policy ("covered person") or make a payment to a health care provider is not reasonably clear, or when there is a reasonable basis supported by specific information available for review by the superintendent that such claim or bill for health care services rendered was submitted fraudulently, such insurer or organization or corporation shall pay the claim to a policyholder or covered person or make a payment to a health care provider within thirty days of receipt of a claim or bill for services rendered that is transmitted via the internet or electronic mail, or forty-five days of receipt of a claim or bill for services rendered that is submitted by other means, such as paper or facsimile.

(b) In a case where the obligation of an insurer or an organization or corporation licensed or certified pursuant to article forty-three or forty-seven of this chapter or article forty-four of the public health law to pay a claim or make a payment for health care services rendered is not reasonably clear due to a good faith dispute regarding the eligibility of a person for coverage, the liability of another insurer or corporation or organization for all or part of the claim, the amount of the claim, the benefits covered under a contract or agreement, or the manner in which services were accessed or provided, an insurer or organization or corporation shall pay any undisputed portion of the claim in accordance with this subsection and notify the policyholder, covered person or health care provider in writing, and through the internet or other electronic means for claims submitted in that manner, within thirty calendar days of the receipt of the claim:

(1) whether the claim or bill has been denied or partially approved;

(2) which claim or medical payment that it is not obligated to pay stating the specific reasons why it is not liable; and

(3) to request all additional information needed to determine liability to pay the claim or make the health care payment; and

(4) of the specific type of plan or product the policyholder or covered person is enrolled in; provided that nothing in this section shall authorize discrimination based on the source of payment.

Upon receipt of the information requested in paragraph three of this subsection or an appeal of a claim or bill for health care services denied pursuant to this subsection, an insurer or organization or corporation licensed or certified pursuant to article forty-three or forty-seven of this chapter or article forty-four of the public health law shall comply with subsection (a) of this section; provided, that if the insurer or organization or corporation licensed or certified pursuant to article forty-three or forty-seven of this chapter or article forty-four of the public health law determines that payment or additional payment is due on the claim, such payment shall be made to the policyholder or covered person or health care provider within fifteen days of the determination. Any denial or partial approval of claim or payment and the specific reasons for such denial or partial approval pursuant to this subsection shall be prominently displayed on a written notice with at least twelve-point type. A partial approval of claim or payment shall state at the top of such written notice with at least fourteen-point type bold: "NOTICE OF PARTIAL APPROVAL OF MEDICAL COVERAGE". A denial of claim or payment shall state at the top of such written notice with at least fourteen-point type bold: "NOTICE OF DENIAL OF MEDICAL COVERAGE". Any additional terms or conditions included on such notice of partial approval or such notice of denial, such as but not limited to time restraints to file an appeal, shall be included with at least twelve-point type.

(c) (1) Except as provided in paragraph two of this subsection, each claim or bill for health care services processed in violation of this section shall constitute a separate violation. In addition to the penalties provided in this chapter, any insurer or organization or corporation that fails to adhere to the standards contained in this section shall be obligated to pay to the health care provider or person submitting the claim, in full settlement of the claim or bill for health care services, the amount of the claim or health care payment plus interest on the amount of such claim or health care payment of the greater of the rate equal to the rate set by the commissioner of taxation and finance for corporate taxes pursuant to paragraph one of subsection (e) of section one thousand ninety-six of the tax law or twelve percent per annum, to be computed from the date the claim or health care payment was required to be made. When the amount of interest due on such a claim is less then two dollars, and insurer or organization or corporation shall not be required to pay interest on such claim.

(2) Where a violation of this section is determined by the superintendent as a result of the superintendent's own investigation, examination, audit or inquiry, an insurer or organization or corporation licensed or certified pursuant to article forty-three or forty-seven of this chapter or article forty-four of the public health law shall not be subject to a civil penalty prescribed in paragraph one of this subsection, if the superintendent determines that the insurer or organization or corporation has otherwise processed at least ninety-eight percent of the claims submitted in a calendar year in compliance with this section; provided, however, nothing in this paragraph shall limit, preclude or exempt an insurer or organization or corporation from payment of a claim and payment of interest pursuant to this section. This paragraph shall not apply to violations of this section determined by the superintendent resulting from individual complaints submitted to the superintendent by health care providers or policyholders.

(d) For the purposes of this section:

(1) "policyholder" shall mean a person covered under such policy or a representative designated by such person;

(2) "health care provider" shall mean an entity licensed or certified pursuant to article twenty-eight, thirty-six or forty of the public health law, a facility licensed pursuant to article nineteen or thirty-one of the mental hygiene law, a fiscal intermediary operating under section three hundred sixty-five of the social services law, a health care professional licensed, registered or certified pursuant to title eight of the education law, a dispenser or provider of pharmaceutical products, services or durable medical equipment, or a representative designated by such entity or person;

(3) "plan or product" shall mean:

(i) Medicaid coverage provided pursuant to section three hundred sixty-four-j of the social services law;

(ii) a child health insurance plan certified pursuant to section twenty-five hundred eleven of the public health law;

(iii) basic health program coverage certified pursuant to section three hundred sixty-nine-gg of the social services law, including the specific rating group the policyholder or covered person is enrolled in;

(iv) coverage purchased on the New York insurance exchange established pursuant to section two hundred sixty-eight-b of the public health law; and

(v) any other comprehensive health insurance coverage subject to article thirty-two, forty-three, or forty-seven of this chapter, or article forty-four of the public health law; and

(4) "emergency services" shall have the meaning set forth in subparagraph (D) of paragraph nine of subsection (i) of section three thousand two hundred sixteen of this article, subparagraph (D) of paragraph four of subsection (k) of section three thousand two hundred twenty-one of this article and subparagraph (D) of paragraph two of subsection (a) of section four thousand three hundred three of this chapter.

(e) Nothing in this section shall in any way be deemed to impair any right available to the state to adjust the timing of its payments for medical assistance pursuant to title eleven of article five of the social services law, or for child health insurance plan benefits pursuant to title one-a of article twenty-five of the public health law or otherwise be deemed to require adjustment of payments by the state for such medical assistance or child health insurance.

(f) In any action brought by the superintendent pursuant to this section or article twenty-four of this chapter relating to this section regarding payments for medical assistance pursuant to title eleven of article five of the social services law, child health insurance plan benefits pursuant to title one-a of article twenty-five of the public health law, benefits under the voucher insurance program pursuant to section one thousand one hundred twenty-one of this chapter, and benefits under the New York state small business health insurance partnership program pursuant to article nine-A of the public health law, it shall be a mitigating factor that the insurer, corporation or organization is owed any premium amounts, premium adjustments, stop-loss recoveries or other payments from the state or one of its fiscal intermediaries under any such program.

(g) Time period for submission of claims. (1) Except as otherwise provided by law, health care claims must be initially submitted by health care providers within one hundred twenty days after the date of service to be valid and enforceable against an insurer or organization or corporation licensed or certified pursuant to article forty-three or article forty-seven of this chapter or article forty-four of the public health law. Provided, however, that nothing in this subsection shall preclude the parties from agreeing to a time period or other terms which are more favorable to the health care provider. Provided further that, in connection with contracts between organizations or corporations licensed or certified pursuant to article forty-three of this chapter or article forty-four of the public health law and health care providers for the provision of services pursuant to section three hundred sixty-four-j or three hundred sixty-nine-ee of the social services law or title I-A of article twenty-five of the public health law, nothing herein shall be deemed: (i) to preclude the parties from agreeing to a different time period but in no event less than ninety days; or (ii) to supersede contract provisions in existence at the time this subsection takes effect except to the extent that such contracts impose a time period of less than ninety days.

(2) This subsection shall not abrogate any right or reduce or limit any additional time period for claim submission provided by law or regulation specifically applicable to coordination of benefits in effect prior to the effective date of this subsection.

(h) (1) An insurer or organization or corporation licensed or certified pursuant to article forty-three or article forty-seven of this chapter or article forty-four of the public health law shall permit a participating health care provider to request reconsideration of a claim that is denied exclusively because it was untimely submitted pursuant to subsection (g) of this section. The insurer or organization or corporation shall pay such claim pursuant to the provisions of paragraph two of this subsection if the health care provider can demonstrate both that: (i) the health care provider's non-compliance was a result of an unusual occurrence; and (ii) the health care provider has a pattern or practice of timely submitting claims in compliance with subdivision (g) of this section.

(2) An insurer or organization or corporation licensed or certified pursuant to article forty-three or article forty-seven of this chapter or article forty-four of the public health law may reduce the reimbursement due to a health care provider for an untimely claim that otherwise meets the requirements of paragraph one of this subsection by an amount not to exceed twenty-five percent of the amount that would have been paid had the claim been submitted in a timely manner; provided, however, that nothing in this subsection shall preclude a health care provider and an insurer or organization or corporation from agreeing to a lesser reduction. The provisions of this subsection shall not apply to any claim submitted three hundred sixty-five days after the date of service, in which case the insurer or organization or corporation may deny the claim in full.

(i) Except where the parties have developed a mutually agreed upon process for the reconciliation of coding disputes that includes a review of submitted medical records to ascertain the correct coding for payment, a general hospital certified pursuant to article twenty-eight of the public health law shall, upon receipt of payment of a claim for which payment has been adjusted based on a particular coding to a patient including the assignment of diagnosis and procedure, have the opportunity to submit the affected claim with medical records supporting the hospital's initial coding of the claim within thirty days of receipt of payment. Upon receipt of such medical records, an insurer or an organization or corporation licensed or certified pursuant to article forty-three or forty-seven of this chapter or article forty-four of the public health law shall review such information to ascertain the correct coding for payment based on national coding guidelines accepted by the centers for Medicare and Medicaid services or the American medical association, to the extent there are codes for such services, including ICD-10 guidelines to the extent available, and process the claim, including the correct coding, in accordance with the timeframes set forth in subsection (a) of this section. In the event the insurer, organization, or corporation processes the claim consistent with its initial determination, such decision shall be accompanied by a statement of the insurer, organization or corporation setting forth the specific reasons why the initial adjustment was appropriate. An insurer, organization, or corporation that increases the payment based on the information submitted by the general hospital, shall pay to the general hospital interest on the amount of such increase at the rate set by the commissioner of taxation and finance for corporate taxes pursuant to paragraph one of subsection (e) of section one thousand ninety-six of the tax law, to be computed from the date thirty days after initial receipt of the claim if transmitted electronically or forty-five days after initial receipt of the claim if transmitted by paper or facsimile. Provided, however, a failure to remit timely payment shall not constitute a violation of this section. Neither the initial or subsequent processing of the claim by the insurer, organization, or corporation shall be deemed an adverse determination as defined in section four thousand nine hundred of this chapter if based solely on a coding determination. Nothing in this subsection shall apply to those instances in which the insurer or organization, or corporation has a reasonable suspicion of fraud or abuse or when an insurer, organization, or corporation engages in reasonable fraud, waste and abuse detection efforts; provided, however, to the extent any subsequent payment adjustments are made as a result of the fraud, waste and abuse detection processes or efforts, such payment adjustments shall be consistent on the coding guidelines required by this subsection.

(j) An insurer or an organization or corporation licensed or certified pursuant to article forty-three or forty-seven of this chapter or article forty-four of the public health law or a student health plan established or maintained pursuant to section one thousand one hundred twenty-four of this chapter shall accept claims submitted by a policyholder or covered person, in writing, including through the internet, by electronic mail or by facsimile.

(k) The superintendent, in conjunction with the commissioner of health, shall convene a health care administrative simplification workgroup. The workgroup shall consist of stakeholders, including but not limited to, insurers, hospitals, physicians and consumers or their representatives, to study and evaluate mechanisms to reduce health care administrative costs and complexities through standardization, simplification and technology. Areas to be examined by the workgroup shall include claims submission and payment, claims attachments, preauthorization practices, provider credentialing, insurance eligibility verification, and access to electronic medical records. The workgroup shall report on its findings and recommendations to the superintendent, the commissioner of health, the speaker of the assembly and the temporary president of the senate within eighteen months of the effective date of this subsection.

(l) Payments to nonparticipating or nonpreferred providers of ambulance services licensed under article thirty of the public health law. (1) Whenever an insurer or an organization, or corporation licensed or certified pursuant to article forty-three or forty-seven of this chapter or article forty-four of the public health law provides that any health care claims submitted under contracts or agreements issued or entered into pursuant to this article or article forty-two, forty-three or forty-seven of this chapter and article forty-four of the public health law are payable to a participating or preferred provider of ambulance services for services rendered, the insurer, organization, or corporation licensed or certified pursuant to article forty-three or forty-seven of this chapter or article forty-four of the public health law shall be required to pay such benefits either directly to any similarly licensed nonparticipating or nonpreferred provider at the usual and customary charge, which shall not be excessive or unreasonable, when the provider has rendered such services, has on file a duly executed assignment of benefits, and has caused notice of such assignment to be given to the insurer, organization, or corporation licensed or certified pursuant to article forty-three or forty-seven of this chapter or article forty-four of the public health law or jointly to such nonparticipating or nonpreferred provider and to the insured, subscriber, or other covered person; provided, however, that in either case the insurer, organization, or corporation licensed or certified pursuant to article forty-three or forty-seven of this chapter or article forty-four of the public health law shall be required to send such benefit payments directly to the provider who has the assignment on file. When payment is made directly to a provider of ambulance services as authorized by this section, the insurer, organization, or corporation licensed or certified pursuant to article forty-three or forty-seven of this chapter or article forty-four of the public health law shall give written notice of such payment to the insured, subscriber, or other covered person.

(2) An insurer shall provide reimbursement for those services prescribed by this section at rates negotiated between the insurer and the provider of such services. In the absence of agreed upon rates, an insurer shall pay for such services at the usual and customary charge, which shall not be excessive or unreasonable.

(3) Nothing contained in this section shall be deemed to prohibit the payment of different levels of benefits or from having differences in coinsurance percentages applicable to benefit levels for services provided by participating or preferred providers and nonparticipating or nonpreferred providers.

The provisions of this section shall not apply to policies that do not include coverage for ambulance services.

§ 3224-b. Rules relating to the processing of health claims and overpayments to physicians. (a) Processing of health care claims. This subsection is intended to provide uniformity and consistency in the reporting of medical services and procedures as they relate to the processing of health care claims and is not intended to dictate reimbursement policy.

(1) For purposes of this section, a "health plan" shall be defined as an insurer that is licensed to write accident and health insurance, or that is licensed pursuant to article forty-three of this chapter or is certified pursuant to article forty-four of the public health law.

(2) Subject to the provisions of paragraph three of this subsection, a health plan shall accept and initiate the processing of all health care claims submitted by a physician pursuant to and consistent with the current version of the American medical association's current procedural terminology (CPT) codes, reporting guidelines and conventions and the centers for medicare and medicaid services healthcare common procedure coding system (HCPCS).

(3) Nothing in this section shall preclude a health plan from determining that any such claim is not eligible for payment, in full or in part, based on a determination that: (i) the claim is not complete as defined by 11 NYCRR 217; (ii) the service provided is not a covered benefit under the contract or agreement, including but not limited to, a determination that such service is not medically necessary or is experimental or investigational; (iii) the insured did not obtain a referral, pre-certification or satisfy any other condition precedent to receive covered benefits from the physician; (iv) the covered benefit exceeds the benefit limits of the contract or agreement; (v) the person is not eligible for coverage or is otherwise not compliant with the terms and conditions of his or her contract; (vi) another insurer, corporation or organization is liable for all or part of the claim; or (vii) the plan has a reasonable suspicion of fraud or abuse. In addition, nothing in this section shall be deemed to require a health plan to pay or reimburse a claim, in full or in part, or dictate the amount of a claim to be paid by a health plan to a physician.

(4) Every health plan shall publish on its provider website and in its provider newsletter the name of the commercially available claims editing software product that the health plan utilizes and any significant edits, as determined by the health plan, added to the claims software product after the effective date of this section, which are made at the request of the health plan. The health plan shall also provide such information upon the written request of a physician who is a participating physician in the health plan's provider network.

(b) Overpayments to health care providers. (1) Other than recovery for duplicate payments, a health plan shall provide thirty days written notice to health care providers before engaging in additional overpayment recovery efforts seeking recovery of the overpayment of claims to such health care providers. Such notice shall state the patient name, service date, payment amount, proposed adjustment, and a reasonably specific explanation of the proposed adjustment.

(2) A health plan shall provide a health care provider with the opportunity to challenge an overpayment recovery, including the sharing of claims information, and shall establish written policies and procedures for health care providers to follow to challenge an overpayment recovery. Such challenge shall set forth the specific grounds on which the provider is challenging the overpayment recovery.

(3) A health plan shall not initiate overpayment recovery efforts more than twenty-four months after the original payment was received by a health care provider. However, no such time limit shall apply to overpayment recovery efforts that are: (i) based on a reasonable belief of fraud or other intentional misconduct, or abusive billing, (ii) required by, or initiated at the request of, a self-insured plan, or (iii) required or authorized by a state or federal government program or coverage that is provided by this state or a municipality thereof to its respective employees, retirees or members. Notwithstanding the aforementioned time limitations, in the event that a health care provider asserts that a health plan has underpaid a claim or claims, the health plan may defend or set off such assertion of underpayment based on overpayments going back in time as far as the claimed underpayment. For purposes of this paragraph, "abusive billing" shall be defined as a billing practice which results in the submission of claims that are not consistent with sound fiscal, business, or medical practices and at such frequency and for such a period of time as to reflect a consistent course of conduct.

(4) For the purposes of this subsection the term "health care provider" shall mean an entity licensed or certified pursuant to article twenty-eight, thirty-six or forty of the public health law, a facility licensed pursuant to article nineteen, thirty-one or thirty-two of the mental hygiene law, or a health care professional licensed, registered or certified pursuant to title eight of the education law.

(5) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to limit a health plan's right to pursue recovery of overpayments that occurred prior to the effective date of this section where the health plan has provided the health care provider with notice of such recovery efforts prior to the effective date of this section.

§ 3224-c. Coordination of benefits. An insurer or organization or corporation licensed or certified pursuant to article forty-three or forty-seven of this chapter or article forty-four of the public health law shall not deny a claim, either in whole or in part, on the basis that it is coordinating benefits and another insurer or organization or corporation or other entity is liable for the payment of the claim, unless it has a reasonable basis to believe that the insured has other health insurance coverage which is primary for that benefit. If an insurer or organization or corporation does not have current information from the insured regarding other coverage, and requests such information in accordance with subsection (b) of section three thousand two hundred twenty-four-a of this article, and no information is received within forty-five days, the claim shall be adjudicated provided, however, the claim shall not be denied based on the insurer, or organization or corporation not having received such information.

§ 3224-d. Prescription synchronization. (a) Every individual or group health insurance policy providing prescription drug coverage when applicable to permit synchronization shall permit and apply a daily pro-rated cost-sharing rate to prescriptions that are dispensed by a network pharmacy for less than a thirty day supply, when it is agreed among the covered individual, a health care practitioner, and a pharmacist that synchronization of multiple prescriptions for the treatment of a chronic illness is in the best interest of the covered individual for the management or treatment of that chronic illness provided that all of the following apply:

(i) The medications are covered by the policy or plan.

(ii) The medications are used for treatment and management of chronic conditions that are subject to refills.

(iii) The medications are not a Schedule II controlled substance or a Schedule III controlled substance containing hydrocodone.

(iv) The medications meet all prior authorization criteria specific to medications at the time of the synchronization request.

(v) The medications are of a formulation that can be effectively split over required short fill periods to achieve synchronization.

(vi) The medications do not have quantity limits or dose optimization criteria or requirements that would be violated in fulfilling synchronization.

(b) No individual or group health insurance policy providing prescription drug coverage shall deny coverage for the dispensing of a medication for partial fill when it is for purposes of synchronizing the patient's medications. When applicable to permit synchronization, every individual or group health insurance policy must allow a pharmacy to override any denial codes indicating that a prescription is being refilled too soon for the purposes of medication synchronization.

(c) Dispensing fees for partially filled or refilled prescriptions shall be paid in full for each prescription dispensed, regardless of any pro-rated copay for the beneficiary or fee paid for alignment services.

(d) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to require health care practitioners and pharmacists to synchronize the refilling of multiple prescriptions for a covered individual.

(e) The requirements of this paragraph shall apply only once for each prescription drug subject to medication synchronization except when either of the following occurs:

(i) The prescriber changes the dosage or frequency of administration of the prescription drug subject to a medication synchronization; or

(ii) The prescriber prescribes a different drug.

§ 3225. Eligibility for health insurance in cases of exposure to DES. No policy of accident or health insurance, or group or blanket accident or health insurance or renewals thereof shall be denied or cancelled by the insurer, solely because the insured person has been exposed to diethylstilbestrol, commonly referred to as DES.

§ 3227. Interest upon surrenders, policy loans and other funds. (a) Interest, at the rate provided for in section three thousand two hundred fourteen of this article, shall be payable by life insurers, fraternal benefit societies, and life insurance departments of savings banks upon: (1) the value of policies surrendered by policyholders for cash values, including the rollover of annuity funds to other entities, and (2) the funds disbursed as policy loans. Such interest payment shall be added to and be a part of the total sum paid or be paid separately at the option of the insurer.

(b) The interest calculated on amounts described in paragraphs one and two of subsection (a) hereof shall be calculated from the date the documentation necessary to complete the transaction is received by the insurer and shall be payable if the funds are not mailed or delivered by the insurer within ten working days of said receipt.

(c) No interest need be payable pursuant to this section unless the amount of such interest is at least twenty-five dollars or if the payment of benefits by the insurer has been deferred pursuant to other provisions of this chapter.

(d) Irrespective of the payment of interest in accordance with the above provisions, such life insurers, fraternal benefit societies and life insurance departments of savings banks shall make disbursements under paragraphs one and two of subsection (a) hereof as expeditiously as possible.

§ 3228. Individual accident and health insurance policies; premium refund at death of insured. If the death of the insured or a covered dependent occurs during a period for which the premium under an individual accident and health insurance policy has been paid, the insurer shall refund the premium or the portion of the premium actually paid by the insured for that person for any period beyond the end of the policy month in which such death occurred.

§ 3229. Minimum benefit standards for certain long term care plans. (a) The minimum standards for an insurance plan, which may qualify under the partnership for long term care program pursuant to section three hundred sixty-seven-f of the social services law, shall be established by regulations of the superintendent, in consultation with the commissioner of health and the director of the state office for the aging, as approved by the director of the budget, which shall require at a minimum (1) a residential health care facility benefit in an amount to be determined by the regulations of the superintendent; (2) a home care benefit with personal care, nursing care, adult day health care and respite care services, which shall provide total benefits in an amount determined by regulations of the superintendent; (3) a duration of benefits not less than twelve months; and (4) arrangements through the insurance plan for managed care including preauthorized assessment and referral programs, utilization controls and use of approved providers.

(b) In establishing minimum benefit standards for insurance plans pursuant to this section, the superintendent shall seek to ensure the cost effectiveness of the partnership for long term care program established pursuant to section three hundred sixty-seven-f of the social services law, and may establish minimum permissible payments under such insurance plans. The superintendent shall not approve an insurance plan which includes an exclusion for pre-existing conditions that exceeds six months, or which does not comply with paragraph six of subsection (b) of section one thousand one hundred seventeen of this chapter.

§ 3230. Accelerated payment of the death benefit or special surrender value under a life insurance policy. (a) The application for a life insurance policy or policy rider which provides for accelerated payment of death benefits or a special surrender value shall:

(1) contain a notice, prominently displayed, to read as follows: "Receipt of accelerated death benefits may affect eligibility for public assistance programs and may be taxable."; and

(2) include the amount of any additional premium associated with the accelerated payment or, if there is no separately identifiable premium, whether a discount is associated with acceleration.

(b) The application to accelerate benefits shall:

(1) be dated by the insurer upon transmittal and shall be completed and signed by the policy owner not more than thirty days thereafter; and

(3) contain a notice, prominently displayed, to read as follows: "Receipt of accelerated death benefits may be taxable. Receipt of accelerated death benefits in periodic payments may be treated differently than receipt in a lump sum. Prior to applying for such benefits, policy owners should seek assistance from a qualified tax adviser."; and

(4) contain a statement by the policy owner that such application is voluntary and without coercion on the part of any third party; and

(5) contain a statement of the remaining death benefit available to the beneficiary.

(c) Insurers are prohibited from paying accelerated death benefits or special surrender values to the policy owner or certificate holder for a period of five days from the date on which the information specified in subdivision (d) of this section is transmitted in writing to the policy owner or certificate holder. The policy owner or certificate holder shall have the right to rescind the request for such payments at any time during the process of application for said benefits.

(d) Within five day of receipt of an application to accelerate benefits an insurer must provide the policy owner with the following:

(1) an illustration demonstrating the effect of the accelerated benefit on the policy's cash value and policy loans;

(2) a numerical computation of the amount of the death benefit which would be payable upon death;

(3) a numerical computation of the amount of the death benefit that would be payable upon acceleration; and

(4) a notice that other means may be available to achieve the intended goal, including a policy loan.

(e) A group life insurance policy which provides for accelerated payment of death benefits or a special surrender value must provide that only the certificateholder has the right to accelerate the benefits.

(f) This section shall apply to all life insurance policies or policy riders or provisions thereof that provide for accelerated payment of death benefits or a special surrender value pursuant to subparagraph (A), (B), (C), (D), (E) or (F) of paragraph one of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter.

 § 3231. Rating of individual and small group health insurance policies; approval of superintendent. (a) (1) No individual health insurance policy and no group health insurance policy covering between one and fifty employees or members of the group or between one and one hundred employees or members of the group for policies issued or renewed on or after January first, two thousand sixteen exclusive of spouses and dependents, hereinafter referred to as a small group, providing hospital and/or medical benefits, including medicare supplemental insurance, shall be issued in this state unless such policy is community rated and, notwithstanding any other provisions of law, the underwriting of such policy involves no more than the imposition of a pre-existing condition limitation if otherwise permitted by this article. (2) Any individual, and dependents of such individual, and any small group, including all employees or group members and dependents of employees or members, applying for individual health insurance coverage, including medicare supplemental coverage, or small group health insurance coverage, including medicare supplemental insurance, but not including coverage issued on or after January first, two thousand fourteen, specified in subsection (l) of section three thousand two hundred sixteen, of this article must be accepted at all times throughout the year for any hospital and/or medical coverage offered by the insurer to individuals or small groups in this state. (3) Once accepted for coverage, an individual or small group cannot be terminated by the insurer due to claims experience. Termination of an individual or small group shall be based only on one or more of the reasons set forth in subsection (g) of section three thousand two hundred sixteen or subsection (p) of section three thousand two hundred twenty-one of this article. Group hospital and/or medical coverage, including medicare supplemental insurance, obtained through an out-of-state trust covering a group of fifty or fewer employees, or between one and one hundred employees for policies issued or renewed on or after January first, two thousand sixteen, or participating persons who are residents of this state must be community rated regardless of the situs of delivery of the policy. Notwithstanding any other provisions of law, the underwriting of such policy may involve no more than the imposition of a pre-existing condition limitation if permitted by this article, and once accepted for coverage, an individual or small group cannot be terminated due to claims experience. Termination of an individual or small group shall be based only on one or more of the reasons set forth in subsection (p) of section three thousand two hundred twenty-one of this article. (4) For the purposes of this section, "community rated" means a rating methodology in which the premium for all persons covered by a policy form is the same based on the experience of the entire pool of risks of all individuals or small groups covered by the insurer without regard to age, sex, health status, tobacco usage or occupation, excluding those individuals or small groups covered by medicare supplemental insurance. For medicare supplemental insurance coverage, "community rated" means a rating methodology in which the premiums for all persons covered by a policy or contract form is the same based on the experience of the entire pool of risks covered by that policy or contract form without regard to age, sex, health status, tobacco usage or occupation.

(b) (1) The superintendent may set standard premium tiers and standard rating relativities between tiers applicable to all policies subject to this section. The superintendent may set a standard relativity applicable to child-only policies issued pursuant to section 1302(f) of the affordable care act, 42 U.S.C. § 18022(f). The relativity for child-only policies shall be actuarially justifiable using the aggregate experience of insurers to prevent the charging of unjustified premiums. The superintendent may adjust such premium tiers and relativities periodically based upon the aggregate experience of insurers. (2) An insurer shall establish separate community rates for individuals as opposed to small groups. (3) If an insurer is required to issue a policy to individual proprietors pursuant to subsection (i) of this section, such policy shall be subject to subsection (a) of this section.

(c) (1) The superintendent shall permit the use of separate community rates for reasonable geographic regions, which may, in a given case, include a single county. The regions shall be approved by the superintendent as part of the rate filing. The superintendent shall not require the inclusion of any specific geographic regions within the proposed community rated regions selected by the insurer in its rate filing so long as the insurer's proposed regions do not contain configurations designed to avoid or segregate particular areas within a county covered by the insurer's community rates. (2) Beginning on January first, two thousand fourteen, for every policy subject to this section that provides physician services, medical, major medical or similar comprehensive-type coverage, except for medicare supplement plans, insurers shall use standardized regions established by the superintendent.

(d) (1) Notwithstanding any other provision of this chapter to the contrary, no policy form subject to this section shall be issued or delivered, nor any insurance contract entered into, unless and until the insurer has filed with the superintendent a schedule of premiums, not to exceed twelve months in duration, to be paid under the policy forms and obtained the superintendent's approval thereof. The superintendent may refuse such approval if he or she finds that such premiums are excessive, inadequate, or unfairly discriminatory. The superintendent may consider the financial condition of such insurer in approving or disapproving any premium. In determining whether to approve the schedule of premiums filed, the superintendent shall, subject to the provisions of section three thousand two hundred thirty-three of this article, consider the prior experience of the insurer's community pool and the insurer's projections relating to claim costs, utilization and administrative expenses and shall not adjust the insurer's rates based upon the rates approved for other insurers.

(2) An insurer shall provide specific claims experience to a municipal corporation, as defined in subsection (f) of section four thousand seven hundred two of this chapter, covered by the insurer under a community rated policy when the municipal corporation requests its claims experience for purposes of forming or joining a municipal cooperative health benefit plan certified pursuant to article forty-seven of this chapter. Notwithstanding the forgoing provisions, no insurer shall be required to provide more than three years' claims experience to a municipal corporation making this request.

(e) (1) (A) An insurer desiring to increase or decrease premiums for any policy form subject to this section shall submit a rate filing or application to the superintendent.

An insurer shall send written notice of the proposed rate adjustment, including the specific change requested, to each policy holder and certificate holder affected by the adjustment on or before the date the rate filing or application is submitted to the superintendent. The notice shall prominently include mailing and website addresses for both the department of financial services and the insurer through which a person may, within thirty days from the date the rate filing or application is submitted to the superintendent, contact the department of financial services or insurer to receive additional information or to submit written comments to the department of financial services on the rate filing or application. The superintendent shall establish a process to post on the department's website, in a timely manner, all relevant written comments received pertaining to rate filings or applications. The insurer shall provide a copy of the notice to the superintendent with the rate filing or application. The superintendent shall immediately cause the notice to be posted on the department of financial services' website. The superintendent shall determine whether the filing or application shall become effective as filed, shall become effective as modified, or shall be disapproved. The superintendent may modify or disapprove the rate filing or application if the superintendent finds that the premiums are unreasonable, excessive, inadequate, or unfairly discriminatory, and may consider the financial condition of the insurer when approving, modifying or disapproving any premium adjustment. The determination of the superintendent shall be supported by sound actuarial assumptions and methods, and shall be rendered in writing between thirty and sixty days from the date the rate filing or application is submitted to the superintendent. Should the superintendent require additional information from the insurer in order to make a determination, the superintendent shall require the insurer to furnish such information, and in such event, the sixty days shall be tolled and shall resume as of the date the insurer furnishes the information to the superintendent. If the superintendent requests additional information less than ten days from the expiration of the sixty days (exclusive of tolling), the superintendent may extend the sixty day period an additional twenty days to make a determination. The application or rate filing will be deemed approved if a determination is not rendered within the time allotted under this section. An insurer shall not implement a rate adjustment unless the insurer provides at least sixty days advance written notice of the premium rate adjustment approved by the superintendent to each policy holder and certificate holder affected by the rate adjustment.

(B) The expected minimum loss ratio for a policy form subject to this section, for which a rate filing or application is made pursuant to this paragraph, other than a medicare supplemental insurance policy, or, with the approval of the superintendent, an aggregation of policy forms that are combined into one community rating experience pool and rated consistent with community rating requirements, shall not be less than eighty-two percent. In reviewing a rate filing or application, the superintendent may modify the eighty-two percent expected minimum loss ratio requirement if the superintendent determines the modification to be in the interests of the people of this state or if the superintendent determines that a modification is necessary to maintain insurer solvency. No later than July thirty-first of each year, every insurer subject to this subparagraph shall annually report the actual loss ratio for the previous calendar year in a format acceptable to the superintendent. If an expected loss ratio is not met, the superintendent may direct the insurer to take corrective action, which may include the submission of a rate filing to reduce future premiums, or to issue dividends, premium refunds or credits, or any combination of these.

(2) (A) Until September thirtieth, two thousand ten, as an alternate procedure to the requirements of paragraph one of this subsection, an insurer desiring to increase or decrease premiums for any policy form subject to this section may instead submit a rate filing or application to the superintendent and such application or filing shall be deemed approved, provided that: (i) the anticipated minimum loss ratio for a policy form shall not be less than eighty-two percent of the premium; and (ii) the insurer submits, as part of such filing, a certification by a member of the American Academy of Actuaries or other individual acceptable to the superintendent that the insurer is in compliance with the provisions of this paragraph, based upon that person's examination, including a review of the appropriate records and of the actuarial assumptions and methods used by the insurer in establishing premium rates for policy forms subject to this section. An insurer shall not utilize the alternate procedure pursuant to this paragraph to implement a change in rates to be effective on or after October first, two thousand ten.

(B) Each calendar year, an insurer shall return, in the form of aggregate benefits for each policy form filed pursuant to the alternate procedure set forth in this paragraph at least eighty-two percent of the aggregate premiums collected for the policy form during that calendar year. Insurers shall annually report, no later than June thirtieth of each year, the loss ratio calculated pursuant to this paragraph for each such policy form for the previous calendar year. In each case where the loss ratio for a policy form fails to comply with the eighty-two percent loss ratio requirement, the insurer shall issue a dividend or credit against future premiums for all policy holders with that policy form in an amount sufficient to assure that the aggregate benefits paid in the previous calendar year plus the amount of the dividends and credits shall equal eighty-two percent of the aggregate premiums collected for the policy form in the previous calendar year. The dividend or credit shall be issued to each policy holder who had a policy which was in effect at any time during the applicable year. The dividend or credit shall be prorated based on the direct premiums earned for the applicable year among all policy holders eligible to receive such dividend or credit. An insurer shall make a reasonable effort to identify the current address of, and issue dividends or credits to, former policy holders entitled to the dividend or credit. An insurer shall, with respect to dividends or credits to which former policy holders that the insurer is unable to identify after a reasonable effort would otherwise be entitled, have the option, as deemed acceptable by the superintendent, of prospectively adjusting premium rates by the amount of such dividends or credits, issuing the amount of such dividends or credits to existing policy holders, depositing the amount of such dividends or credits in the fund established pursuant to section four thousand three hundred twenty-two-a of this chapter, or utilizing any other method which offsets the amount of such dividends or credits. All dividends and credits must be distributed by September thirtieth of the year following the calendar year in which the loss ratio requirements were not satisfied. The annual report required by this paragraph shall include an insurer's calculation of the dividends and credits, as well as an explanation of the insurer's plan to issue dividends or credits. The instructions and format for calculating and reporting loss ratios and issuing dividends or credits shall be specified by the superintendent by regulation. Such regulations shall include provisions for the distribution of a dividend or credit in the event of cancellation or termination by a policy holder.

(3) All policy forms subject to this subsection, other than medicare supplemental insurance policy forms, issued or in effect during calendar year two thousand ten shall be subject to a minimum loss ratio requirement of eighty-two percent. Insurers may use the alternate filing procedure set forth in paragraph two of this subsection to adjust premium rates in order to meet the required minimum loss ratio for calendar year two thousand ten. The rate filing or application shall be submitted no later than September thirtieth, two thousand ten.

(f) (1) In the case of disapproval or modification of a requested rate change by more than twenty percent for any policy to which prior approval applies, the insurer shall have the right to request a hearing before the superintendent, or his or her representative, in order for the insurer to present any evidence, arguments or other information as to why the insurer believes the superintendent's disapproval or modification is not appropriate. Such hearing shall not be a required condition prior to any challenge to the disapproval or modification pursuant to the civil practice law and rules, but if an insurer challenges the superintendent's disapproval or modification pursuant to the civil practice law and rules, the insurer shall not be entitled to such hearing. An insurer entitled to such hearing must make a written request for such hearing no later than thirty days after the date of the superintendent's decision. The hearing shall be held as soon as practicable thereafter, but not sooner than twenty days from receipt of the request for the hearing. A stenographic record of all hearings shall be made. The superintendent shall provide the insurer with a written response to the insurer's presentation at the hearing no later than forty-five days after the date of the hearing. The superintendent's written response pursuant to this subsection shall be subject to challenge as provided for in article seventy-eight of the civil practice law and rules.

(2) Such hearing shall not be required in any case where the superintendent returns the initial filing within thirty days on the basis that the premium increase or decrease requested by the insurer is unreasonable.

(g) * (1) (A) This section shall also apply to policies issued to a group defined in subsection (c) of section four thousand two hundred thirty-five of this chapter, including but not limited to an association or trust of employers, if the group includes one or more member employers or other member groups having one hundred or fewer employees or members exclusive of spouses and dependents. For a policy issued or renewed on or after January first, two thousand fourteen, if the group includes one or more member small group employers eligible for coverage subject to this section, then such member employers shall be classified as small groups for rating purposes and the remaining members shall be rated consistent with the rating rules applicable to such remaining members pursuant to paragraph two of this subsection. (B) Subparagraph A of this paragraph shall not apply to either the renewal of a policy issued to a group or the issuance, between January first, two thousand sixteen and December thirty-first, two thousand sixteen, of a policy, and any renewal thereof, to a group, provided that the following three requirements are met: (I) the group had been issued a policy that was in effect on July first, two thousand fifteen; (II) the group had member employers, who, on or after July first, two thousand fifteen, have between fifty-one and one hundred employees, exclusive of spouses and dependents; and (III) the group is either: (i) comprised entirely of one or more municipal corporations or districts (as such terms are defined in section one hundred nineteen-n of the general municipal law); or (ii) comprised entirely of nonpublic schools providing education in any grade from pre-kindergarten through twelfth grade.

* NB Effective until December 28, 2028

* (1) This section shall also apply to policies issued to a group defined in subsection (c) of section four thousand two hundred thirty-five, including but not limited to an association or trust of employers, if the group includes one or more member employers or other member groups which have one hundred or fewer employees or members exclusive of spouses and dependents. For policies issued or renewed on or after January first, two thousand fourteen, if the group includes one or more member small group employers eligible for coverage subject to this section, then such member employers shall be classified as small groups for rating purposes and the remaining members shall be rated consistent with the rating rules applicable to such remaining members pursuant to paragraph two of this subsection.

* NB Effective December 28, 2028

(2) If a policy is issued to a group defined in subsection (c) of section four thousand two hundred thirty-five of this chapter, including an association group, that includes one or more individual or individual proprietor members, for rating purposes the insurer shall include such members in its individual pool of risks in establishing premium rates for such members.

(h) * (1) Notwithstanding any other provision of this chapter, no insurer, subsidiary of an insurer, or controlled person of a holding company system may act as an administrator or claims paying agent, as opposed to an insurer, on behalf of small groups which, if they purchased insurance, would be subject to this section. No insurer may provide stop loss, catastrophic or reinsurance coverage to small groups which, if they purchased insurance, would be subject to this section. Provided, however, the provisions of this paragraph shall not apply to: (A) the renewal of stop loss, catastrophic or reinsurance coverage issued and in effect on January first, two thousand fifteen to small groups covering between fifty-one and one hundred employees or members of the group; and (B) the issuance between January first, two thousand sixteen and December thirty-first, two thousand sixteen, of stop loss, catastrophic or reinsurance coverage, and any renewal thereof, to a small group covering between fifty-one and one hundred employees or members of the group, provided that such group had stop loss, catastrophic or reinsurance coverage issued and in effect on January first, two thousand fifteen.

* NB Effective until December 28, 2028

system may act as an administrator or claims paying agent, as opposed to an insurer, on behalf of small groups which, if they purchased insurance, would be subject to this section. No insurer, subsidiary of an insurer, or controlled person of a holding company may provide stop loss, catastrophic or reinsurance coverage to small groups which, if they purchased insurance, would be subject to this section.

* NB Effective December 28, 2028

(2) This subsection shall not apply to coverage insuring a plan which was in effect on or before December thirty-first, nineteen hundred ninety-one and was issued to a group which includes member small employers or other member small groups, including but not limited to association groups, provided that (A) acceptance of additional small member employers (or other member groups comprised of fifty or fewer employees or members, exclusive of spouses and dependents) into the group on or after June first, nineteen hundred ninety-two and before April first, nineteen hundred ninety-four does not exceed an amount equal to ten percent per year of the total number of persons covered under the group as of June first, nineteen hundred ninety-two, but nothing in this subparagraph shall limit the addition of larger member employers; (B) (i) after April first, nineteen hundred ninety-four, the group thereafter accepts member small employers and member small groups without underwriting by any more than the imposition of a pre-existing condition limitation as permitted by this article and the cost for participation in the group for all persons covered shall be the same based on the experience of the entire pool of risks covered under the entire group, without regard to age, sex, health status or occupation; and (ii) once accepted for coverage, an individual or small group cannot be terminated due to claims experience; (C) the insurer has registered the names of such groups, including the total number of persons covered as of June first, nineteen hundred ninety-two, with the superintendent, in a form prescribed by the superintendent, on or before April first, nineteen hundred ninety-three and shall report annually thereafter until such groups comply with the provisions of subparagraph (B) of this paragraph; and (D) the types or categories of employers or groups eligible to join the association are not altered or expanded after June first, nineteen hundred ninety-two.

(3) An insurer may apply to the superintendent for an extension or extensions of time beyond April first, nineteen hundred ninety-four in which to implement the provisions of this subsection as they relate to groups registered with the superintendent pursuant to subparagraph (C) of paragraph two of this subsection; any such extension or extensions may not exceed two years in aggregate duration, and the ten percent per year limitation of subparagraph (A) of paragraph two of this subsection shall be reduced to five percent per year during the period of any such extension or extensions. Any application for an extension shall demonstrate that a significant financial hardship to such group would result from such implementation.

(i)(1) If an insurer issues coverage to an association group (including chambers of commerce), as defined in subparagraph (K) of paragraph one of subsection (c) of section four thousand two hundred thirty-five of this chapter, the insurer must issue the same coverage to individual proprietors which purchase coverage through the association group as the insurer issues to groups which purchase coverage through the association group; provided, however, that an insurer which, on the effective date of this subsection, is issuing coverage to individual proprietors not connected with an association group, may continue to issue such coverage provided that the coverage is otherwise in accordance with this subsection and all other applicable provisions of law.

(2) For coverage purchased pursuant to this subsection, through December thirty-first, two thousand thirteen, individual proprietors shall be classified in their own community rating category, provided however, up to and including December thirty-first, two thousand thirteen, the premium rate established for individual proprietors purchased pursuant to paragraph one of this subsection shall not be greater than one hundred fifteen percent of the rate established for the same coverage issued to groups. Coverage purchased or renewed pursuant to this subsection on or after January first, two thousand fourteen shall be classified in the individual rating category.

(3) An insurer may require members of the association purchasing health insurance to verify that all employees electing health insurance are legitimate employees of the employers, as documented on New York state tax form NYS-45-ATT-MN or comparable documentation. In order to be eligible to purchase health insurance pursuant to this subsection and obtain the same group insurance products as are offered to groups, a sole employee of a corporation or a sole proprietor of an unincorporated business or entity must (A) work at least twenty hours per week, (B) if purchasing the coverage through an association group, be a member of the association for at least sixty days prior to the effective date of the insurance policy, and (C) present a copy of the following documentation to the insurer or health plan administrator on an annual basis:

(i) NYS tax form 45-ATT, or comparable documentation of active employee status;

(ii) for an incorporated business, the prior year's federal income tax Schedule C for an incorporated business subject to Subchapter S with a sole employee, federal income tax Schedule E for other incorporated businesses with a sole employee, a W-2 annual wage statement, or federal tax form 1099 with federal income tax Schedule F; or

(iii) for a business in business for less than one year, a cancelled business check, a certificate of doing business, or appropriate tax documentation; and

(iv) such other documentation as may be reasonably required by the insurer as approved by the superintendent to verify eligibility of an individual to purchase health insurance pursuant to this subsection.

(4) Notwithstanding the provisions of item (I) of clause (i) of subparagraph (K) of paragraph one of subsection (c) of section four thousand two hundred thirty-five of this chapter, for the purposes of this section, an association group shall include chambers of commerce with less than two hundred members and which are 501C3 or 501C6 organizations.

* NB There are 2 § 3231's

 § 3231. Health insurance policies and subscriber contracts; prohibited claims. (a) For the purposes of this section the terms health care provider, practitioner, clinical laboratory services, pharmacy services, radiation therapy services, physical therapy services or x-ray or imaging services shall have the same meanings as are set forth in section two hundred thirty-eight of the public health law.

(b) No health care provider or practitioner may demand or request any payment for clinical laboratory services, pharmacy services, radiation therapy services, physical therapy services or x-ray or imaging services furnished pursuant to a referral prohibited by subdivision one of section two hundred thirty-eight-a of the public health law.

(c) No insurer shall be required to pay any claim, bill or other demand or request for payment by a health care provider for clinical laboratory services, pharmacy services, radiation therapy services, physical therapy services or x-ray or imaging services furnished pursuant to a referral prohibited by subdivision one of section two hundred thirty-eight-a of the public health law.

(d) Every policy of accident or health insurance issued by a commercial insurer and every subscriber contract issued by a hospital service corporation, health service corporation or medical expense indemnity corporation which provides coverage for clinical laboratory services, pharmacy services, radiation therapy services, physical therapy services or x-ray or imaging services shall include a provision excluding payment of any claim, bill or other demand or request for payment for such services furnished pursuant to a referral prohibited by subdivision one of section two hundred thirty-eight-a of the public health law.

(e) Every insurer subject to the provisions of this section shall report to the commissioner of health any pattern of submission of claims, bills or other demands or requests for payment submitted in violation of subsection (b) of this section, within thirty days after such insurer has knowledge of such pattern.

(f) Notwithstanding the requirements of subsections (c), (d) and (e) of this section, an insurer reimbursing for clinical laboratory services, pharmacy services, radiation therapy services, physical therapy services or x-ray or imaging services is not required to audit or investigate any claim, bill or other demand or request for payment for such items or services furnished pursuant to a referral.

* NB There are 2 § 3231's

§ 3232. Pre-existing condition provisions in health policies. Every individual health insurance policy and every group or blanket accident and health insurance policy issued or issued for delivery in this state which includes a pre-existing condition provision shall contain in substance the following provision or provisions which in the opinion of the superintendent are more favorable to the individuals, members of the group and their eligible dependents:

(a) In determining whether a pre-existing condition provision applies to a covered person, the group or blanket accident and health insurance policy or individual health insurance policy shall credit the time the covered person was previously covered under creditable coverage, if the previous creditable coverage was continuous to a date not more than sixty-three days prior to the enrollment date of the new coverage. In the case of previous health maintenance organization coverage, any affiliation period prior to that previous coverage becoming effective shall also be credited pursuant to this subsection.

(b) No pre-existing condition provision shall exclude coverage for a period in excess of twelve months following the enrollment date of coverage for the covered person and may only relate to a condition (whether physical or mental), regardless of the cause of the condition, for which medical advice, diagnosis, care or treatment was recommended or received within the six-month period ending on the enrollment date. For purposes of this section "enrollment date" means the first day of coverage of the individual under the policy or, if earlier, the first day of the waiting period that must pass with respect to an individual before such individual is eligible to be covered for benefits. If an individual seeks and obtains coverage in the individual market, any period after the date the individual files a substantially complete application for coverage and before the first day of coverage is a waiting period. For purposes of this section genetic information shall not be treated as a pre-existing condition in the absence of a diagnosis of the condition related to such information. No pre-existing condition limitation provision shall exclude coverage in the case of:

(1) an individual who, as of the last day of the thirty-day period beginning with the date of birth, is covered under creditable coverage as defined in subsection (c) of this section;

(2) a child who is adopted or placed for adoption before attaining eighteen years of age and who, as of the last day of the thirty-day period beginning on the date of the adoption or placement for adoption, is covered under creditable coverage as defined in subsection (c) of this section;

(3) pregnancy (except in an individual health insurance policy or a student blanket accident and health insurance policy in which an insurer may exclude coverage, subject to a credit for previous creditable coverage, for a period not to exceed ten months for a pregnancy existing on the enrollment date); or

(4) an individual, and any dependent of such individual, who is eligible for a federal tax credit under the federal Trade Adjustment Assistance Reform Act of 2002 and who has three months or more of creditable coverage.

Paragraphs one and two of this subsection shall no longer apply to an individual after the end of the first sixty-three day period during all of which the individual was not covered under any creditable coverage.

(c) For purposes of this section "creditable coverage" means, with respect to an individual, coverage of the individual under any of the following:

(1) A group health plan;

(2) Health insurance coverage;

(3) Part A or B of title XVIII of the Social Security Act;

(4) Title XIX of the Social Security Act, other than coverage consisting solely of benefits under section 1928;

(5) Chapter 55 of title 10, United States Code;

(6) A medical care program of the Indian Health Service or of a tribal organization;

(7) A state health benefits risk pool;

(8) A health plan offered under chapter 89 of title 5, United States Code;

(9) A public health plan (as defined in regulations);

(10) A health benefit plan under section 5(e) of the Peace Corps Act (22 U.S.C. 2504(e)).

(d)(1) For purposes of applying the credit of such creditable coverage an insurer shall count a period of creditable coverage without regard to the specific benefits covered during the period.

(2) Alternatively, an insurer may elect to count the period of creditable coverage based on coverage of benefits within each of several classes or categories of benefits as specified in regulations. Such election shall be made on a uniform basis for all insureds, participants and beneficiaries. Pursuant to such election an insurer shall count the period of creditable coverage with respect to any class or category of benefits if any level of benefits is covered within such class or category. An insurer making such election shall prominently state in any disclosure statement, and shall set forth in any policy or certificate issued in connection with the coverage, that the insurer has made such election. Such disclosure statement shall include a description of the effect of the election with regard to the application of creditable coverage.

(3) Notwithstanding the foregoing paragraph, for purposes of determining the extent to which a pre-existing condition limitation has been satisfied in a policy issued pursuant to subsection (l) of section three thousand two hundred sixteen of this article within thirty days of discontinuance of a class of health maintenance organization direct payment contract for enrollees whose contract was discontinued, an insurer shall credit the time that the enrollee was covered under a health maintenance organization direct payment contract issued prior to January first, nineteen hundred ninety-six, without regard to the specific benefits covered under the health maintenance organization contract.

(4) With respect to an "eligible individual", as defined in section 2741(b) of the federal Public Health Service Act, 42 U.S.C. § 300 gg-41(b), an insurer may not impose any pre-existing condition exclusion in an individual health insurance policy. For all other covered persons, the pre-existing condition crediting requirement of subsection (a) of this section shall be applicable.

(e) For the purposes of this section the term "group health plan" means an employee welfare benefit plan (as defined in section 3(1) of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974) to the extent that the plan provides medical care (including items and services paid for as medical care) to employees or their dependents (as defined under the terms of the plan) directly or through insurance, reimbursement or otherwise.

(f) An insurer shall not impose any pre-existing condition exclusion in an individual or group policy of hospital, medical, surgical or prescription drug expense insurance.

§ 3232-a. Certification of creditable coverage. (a) Every insurer who delivers or issues for delivery individual health insurance policies or group or blanket accident and health insurance policies shall provide to covered individuals written certification, in a form as the superintendent may approve, of:

(1) the period of creditable coverage, as defined in section three thousand two hundred thirty-two of this article, of the individual under such policy and any continuation coverage of the individual pursuant to state or federal law; and

(2) any waiting period or affiliation period (if applicable) imposed with respect to the individual for any coverage under the policy.

(b) The insurer shall provide such written certification:

(1) at the time an individual ceases to be covered under the policy, including any period of time such individual was covered pursuant to any right of continuation under such policy; and

(2) on the request on behalf of an individual made not later than twenty-four months after the date of cessation of the coverage described in paragraph one of this subsection.

(c) In the event of an election by an insurer or a group health plan to count the period of creditable coverage based on coverage of benefits within classes or categories of benefits as provided in state or federal law, if that insurer or group health plan enrolls an individual for coverage under its policy or plan and such individual provides written certification of coverage of the individual pursuant to subsection (a) of this section, then upon request of such insurer or group health plan, the insurer that issued the certification of coverage so provided by the individual shall promptly disclose to such requesting insurer or group health plan information on coverage of classes and categories of health benefits available under its policy. An insurer disclosing such information may charge the requesting plan or insurer for the reasonable cost of such disclosure.

(d) An insurer who delivers or issues for delivery group or blanket accident and health insurance policies is deemed to have satisfied the requirements of subsection (a) of this section if the policyholder by written agreement with the insurer actually provides the written certification in accordance with this section.

§ 3233. Stabilization of health insurance markets and premium rates. (a) Notwithstanding any provision of this chapter or any other chapter, on or before October first, nineteen hundred ninety-two the superintendent shall promulgate regulations to assure an orderly implementation and ongoing operation of the open enrollment and community rating required by sections thirty-two hundred thirty-one and forty-three hundred seventeen of this chapter, including provisions designed to encourage insurers to remain in or enter the small group or individual health insurance markets. The regulations shall apply to all insurers and health maintenance organizations subject to community rating. The regulations shall be designed to promote an insurance marketplace where premiums do not unduly fluctuate, insurers and health maintenance organizations are reasonably protected against unexpected significant shifts in the number of persons insured, and other market stability features deemed appropriate by the superintendent. Such regulations shall not require any insurer or health maintenance organization subject to this section, or any subsidiary or controlled person of a holding company of such insurer or health maintenance organization, to enter, continue to conduct, or withdraw from any line of business as a condition of entering, continuing in, or withdrawing from any other line of business.

(b) Prior to adopting such regulations the superintendent shall convene a technical advisory committee to provide advice and recommendations to the superintendent on issues including, but not limited to, voluntary reinsurance, pooling, risk sharing, the moderation of initial community rates as compared to prior rates, or premium stabilization methods. The technical advisory committee shall be comprised of nine members, one of whom shall be the superintendent or his or her designee. The superintendent or his or her designee shall chair the committee and shall appoint two other members to the committee. The temporary president of the senate and the speaker of the assembly shall each appoint three members to the committee. The appointees shall be representatives of commercial health insurers, not-for-profit health insurers, health maintenance organizations and purchasers of insurance and shall be named no later than July fifteenth, nineteen hundred ninety-two. In addition, the superintendent may obtain the services of an actuary with experience relating to premium rates and market stabilization for small group health insurance.

(c) (1) Such regulations shall include reinsurance or a pooling process involving insurer contributions to, or receipts from, a fund which shall be designed to share the risk of or equalize high cost claims, claims of high cost persons, cost variations among insurers and health maintenance organizations based upon demographic factors of the persons insured which correlate with such cost variations designed to protect insurers from disproportionate adverse risks of offering coverage to all applicants; provided that such regulations shall relate only to risk sharing among insurers and health maintenance organizations and shall not create differences in community rates charged by a single insurer because an individual's or small group's coverage has been reinsured or pooled, and neither the small employer nor the employee shall have reason to know that their coverage has been reinsured or pooled pursuant to such regulations. Such regulations may also include other mechanisms designed to share risks or prevent undue variations in insurer claim costs which are not related to expected differences in insurer costs based upon competition, innovation and efficiency of operation. The regulations may segregate any reinsurance, pooling or other process among various geographic regions of the state.

(2) Effective on and after January first, nineteen hundred ninety-six, health maintenance organizations and insurers shall be required to contribute only ninety percent of the amounts calculated pursuant to regulations based upon demographic factors. The required contribution will be further reduced by an additional twenty-two and one-half percent on each succeeding January first. The aggregate total contributions by health maintenance organizations and insurers required pursuant to regulations based upon specified medical conditions shall be increased by the aggregate total amount of savings resulting from decreased contributions calculated pursuant to regulations based upon demographic factors, provided, however, that the funds received by an insurer or health maintenance organization pursuant to such regulations be applied to reduce the premiums of the particular class of contracts issued pursuant to sections four thousand three hundred twenty-one and four thousand three hundred twenty-two of this chapter whose subscribers caused the payments to be received.

(3) On and after January first, two thousand, such regulations shall include only reinsurance or a pooling process involving insurer and health maintenance organization contributions to, or receipts from, a fund which shall be designed to share the risk of or equalize high cost claims or the claims of high cost persons; provided that such regulations shall relate only to risk sharing among insurers and health maintenance organizations and shall not create differences in community rates charged by a single insurer or health maintenance organization because an individual's or small group's coverage has been reinsured or pooled, and neither the small employer nor the employee shall have reason to know that their coverage has been reinsured or pooled pursuant to such regulations. Such regulations may also include other mechanisms designed to share risks or prevent undue variations in insurer and health maintenance organization claim costs which are not related to expected differences in insurer and health maintenance organization costs based upon competition, innovation and efficiency of operation. The regulations may segregate any reinsurance, pooling or other process among various geographic regions of the state. Prior to adopting such regulations the superintendent shall convene a technical advisory committee to provide advice and recommendations to the superintendent on issues including, but not limited to, voluntary reinsurance, pooling, risk sharing, the moderation of initial community rates as compared to prior rates, or premium stabilization methods. The technical advisory committee shall be comprised of nine members, one of whom shall be the superintendent or his or her designee. The superintendent or his or her designee shall chair the committee and shall appoint two other members to the committee. The temporary president of the senate and the speaker of the assembly shall each appoint three members to the committee. The appointees shall be representatives of not-for-profit and commercial health insurers, health maintenance organizations, consumers and other purchasers of insurance and shall be named no later than September first, nineteen hundred ninety-five.

The superintendent shall also convene the technical advisory committee periodically to evaluate the impact of the standardized direct payment enrollee contracts offered pursuant to sections four thousand three hundred twenty-one and four thousand three hundred twenty-two of this chapter on the individual health insurance market. In the course of such evaluation, the superintendent and the technical advisory committee shall consider: the adequacy of the benefits provided under the contracts and their effect on the affordability of the contracts; enrollment levels in the contracts in various regions of the state; utilization and claims experience of the contract holders; the impact of non-standardized direct payment enrollee contracts on the individual market; whether there is a need for an additional standardized direct payment enrollee contract and recommendations on whether other or different standardized benefit packages should be offered in the individual market; other options to enhance the affordability of the contracts; and such other areas as the technical advisory committee deems appropriate. After completing such evaluation, but in no event later than October first, nineteen hundred ninety-six, the technical advisory committee shall deliver a report to the governor, the speaker of the assembly and the temporary president of the senate which contains the results of its evaluation and any findings or recommendations on enhancing access to and affordability of individual health insurance products.

(d) Notwithstanding any provision of this chapter or any other chapter, the superintendent may suspend or terminate, by regulation, the operation, in whole or in part, of any mechanism established and operating pursuant to the authority of this section provided that the superintendent determines that the objectives stated in subsection (a) of this section are met by the operation of a mechanism or mechanisms established by the federal government pursuant to section 1343 of the affordable care act, 42 U.S.C. § 18063. Notwithstanding subsection (b) of this section, the superintendent may exercise this authority without convening a technical advisory committee.

 § 3234. Pre-existing condition provisions in group and blanket disability policies. (a) Every group or blanket policy issued or issued for delivery in this state which provides benefits by reason of the disability of the insured and which includes a pre-existing condition provision shall contain in substance the following provision or provisions which in the opinion of the superintendent are more favorable to the members of the group:

(1) In determining whether a pre-existing condition provision applies to an eligible person, the group or blanket disability policy shall credit the time the person was previously covered under a previous group or blanket disability insurance plan or policy or employer-provided disability benefit arrangement, if the previous coverage was continuous to a date not more than sixty days prior to the effective date of the new coverage. The credit shall apply to the extent that the previous coverage or level of benefits was substantially similar to the new coverage or level of benefits; and

(2) No pre-existing condition provision shall exclude coverage for a period in excess of twelve months following the effective date of coverage for the covered person.

(b) Nothing herein shall be construed to prohibit or restrict an insurer from utilizing other forms of underwriting for the members of the group in lieu of, or in addition to, the pre-existing condition provision described in subsection (a) of this section.

 § 3234. Limitations on administrative services and stop-loss coverage. No insurer, subsidiary of an insurer, or controlled person of a holding company system may act as an administrator or claims paying agent, as opposed to an insurer, on behalf of a group which denies or limits benefits for a specific disease or condition or for a procedure or treatment unique to a specific disease or condition in a manner which would be inconsistent with this chapter or regulations promulgated by the superintendent had the group purchased insurance. No insurer, subsidiary of an insurer, or controlled person of a holding company may provide stop loss, catastrophic or reinsurance coverage to groups which deny or limit benefits for a specific disease or condition or for a procedure or treatment unique to a specific disease or condition in a manner which would be inconsistent with this chapter or regulations promulgated by the superintendent had the group purchased insurance. A limit, maximum, or other mechanism that controls total coverage without regard to a specific disease or condition shall not be deemed one that denies or limits benefits for a specific disease or condition, or for a procedure or treatment unique to a specific disease or condition. Nothing herein shall be construed to mandate the inclusion of specified benefits in an employer group plan, if such plan is not subject to the provisions of this chapter.

§ 3235. Explanation of benefits forms relating to claims under medicare supplemental insurance policies and limited benefits health insurance policies or certificates designed primarily to supplement medicare benefits. (a) Every insurer issuing medicare supplement insurance policies or certificates and limited benefits health insurance policies or certificates designed primarily to supplement medicare benefits, including health maintenance organizations operating under article forty-four of the public health law or article forty-three of this chapter and any other corporation operating under article forty-three of this chapter, is required to provide the insured or subscriber with an explanation of benefits form in response to the filing of any claim under such policy or certificate.

(b) The explanation of benefits form must include at least the following:

(1) the name of the provider of service and the admission or financial control number, to the extent that they are included in the information received on the medicare claim from the medicare carrier or intermediary or from the beneficiary;

(2) a statement that the name and address of the provider of service, an identification of the service, the amount charged for the service, and the medicare approved amount are specified on the medicare explanation of benefits form to which the claim corresponds;

(3) the date of service;

(4) the amount of the benefit payable under the policy or certificate, including, if applicable, any amount exceeding medicare's approved charge;

(5) when payment under the policy or certificate is based upon the medicare approved charge and does not include any part of a charge which exceeds the medicare approved charge, a statement that the policy or certificate only provides reimbursement for the difference between the medicare approved charge and the medicare payment, that charges in excess of the medicare approved charge may be subject to limitations pursuant to section nineteen of the public health law, that the insured or subscriber has a right to appeal the medicare approved charge by writing to medicare's carrier or fiscal intermediary, and that the insured or subscriber may be responsible for the amount by which the charge exceeds the medicare approved charge; and

(6) a telephone number or address where an insured or subscriber may obtain clarification of the explanation of benefits, as well as a description of the time limit, place and manner in which an appeal of a denial of benefits must be brought under the policy or certificate and a notification that failure to comply with such requirements may lead to forfeiture of a consumer's right to challenge a denial or rejection, even when a request for clarification has been made.

(c) Except on demand by the insured or subscriber, insurers, including health maintenance organizations operating under article forty-four of the public health law or article forty-three of this chapter and any other corporation operating under article forty-three of this chapter, issuing medicare supplement insurance policies or limited benefits health insurance policies or certificates designed primarily to supplement medicare benefits shall not be required to provide the insured or subscriber with an explanation of benefits form in any case where the service is provided by a facility or provider on an assignment basis and the insurer's reimbursement is paid directly to the facility or provider.

§ 3236. Public health law assessments. Any insurer licensed pursuant to this chapter and any health maintenance organization certified pursuant to article forty-four of the public health law or licensed pursuant to this chapter shall reflect the methodology for financing the costs of graduate medical education in general hospitals and affiliated sites, uncompensated care in general hospitals and diagnostic and treatment centers, and other publicly financed programs established pursuant to sections twenty-eight hundred seven-j, twenty-eight hundred seven-k, twenty-eight hundred seven-l, twenty-eight hundred seven-m, twenty-eight hundred seven-p, twenty-eight hundred seven-s and twenty-eight hundred seven-t of the public health law for hospital and other health care services provided on and after January first, nineteen hundred ninety-seven in policies and contracts which provide reimbursement for, and in arrangements reflecting anticipated claims costs for, any of the following services:

(a) inpatient hospital services provided by a general hospital issued an operating certificate pursuant to article twenty-eight of the public health law;

(b) outpatient hospital services provided by a general hospital issued an operating certificate pursuant to article twenty-eight of the public health law;

(c) emergency services provided by a general hospital issued an operating certificate pursuant to article twenty-eight of the public health law;

(d) ambulatory surgical services provided by a general hospital issued an operating certificate pursuant to article twenty-eight of the public health law;

(e) ambulatory surgical services provided by a diagnostic and treatment center issued an operating certificate pursuant to article twenty-eight of the public health law;

(f) health care services provided by a diagnostic and treatment center issued an operating certificate pursuant to article twenty-eight of the public health law;

(g) clinical laboratory services provided by a clinical laboratory issued a permit pursuant to title five of article five of the public health law.

§ 3237. Health insurance coverage for full-time students on medical leaves of absence. (a) Every individual health insurance policy and every group or blanket accident and health insurance policy that provides coverage for dependent children who are full-time students to a higher age than other dependent children shall continue the coverage of a covered dependent student who takes a leave of absence from school due to illness for a period of twelve months from the last day of attendance in school, provided, however, that nothing in this section shall require coverage of a dependent student beyond the age at which coverage would otherwise terminate.

(b) In order to qualify under this section, the medical necessity of a leave of absence from school must be certified to by the student's attending physician who is licensed to practice in the state of New York. Written documentation of the illness must be submitted to the insurer.

§ 3238. Pre-authorization of health care services. (a) An insurer, corporation organized pursuant to article forty-three of this chapter, municipal cooperative health benefits plan certified pursuant to article forty-seven of this chapter, or health maintenance organization and other organizations certified pursuant to article forty-four of the public health law ("health plan") shall pay claims for a health care service for which a pre-authorization was required by, and received from, the health plan prior to the rendering of such health care service, unless:

(1) (i) the insured, subscriber, or enrollee was not a covered person at the time the health care service was rendered.

(ii) Notwithstanding the provisions of subparagraph (i) of this paragraph, a health plan shall not deny a claim on this basis if the insured's, subscriber's or enrollee's coverage was retroactively terminated more than one hundred twenty days after the date of the health care service, provided that the claim is submitted within ninety days after the date of the health care service. If the claim is submitted more than ninety days after the date of the health care service, the health plan shall have thirty days after the claim is received to deny the claim on the basis that the insured, subscriber or enrollee was not a covered person on the date of the health care service.

(2) the submission of the claim with respect to an insured, subscriber or enrollee was not timely under the terms of the applicable provider contract, if the claim is submitted by a provider, or the policy or contract, if the claim is submitted by the insured, subscriber or enrollee;

(3) at the time the pre-authorization was issued, the insured, subscriber or enrollee had not exhausted contract or policy benefit limitations based on information available to the health plan at such time, but subsequently exhausted contract or policy benefit limitations after authorization was issued; provided, however, that the health plan shall include in the notice of determination required pursuant to subsection (b) of section four thousand nine hundred three of this chapter and subdivision two of section forty-nine hundred three of the public health law that the visits authorized might exceed the limits of the contract or policy and accordingly would not be covered under the contract or policy;

(4) the pre-authorization was based on materially inaccurate or incomplete information provided by the insured, subscriber or enrollee, the designee of the insured, subscriber or enrollee, or the health care provider such that if the correct or complete information had been provided, such pre-authorization would not have been granted;

(5) the pre-authorized service was related to a pre-existing condition that was excluded from coverage; or

(6) there is a reasonable basis supported by specific information available for review by the superintendent that the insured, subscriber or enrollee, the designee of the insured, subscriber or enrollee, or the health care provider has engaged in fraud or abuse.

(b) Nothing in this section shall be construed to prohibit a health plan from denying continued or extended coverage as part of a concurrent review of a health care service.

(c)(1) If a health care provider, while providing a service or procedure to treat a patient, determines that providing an additional or related service or procedure, such as a service or procedure to address a co-morbid condition, is immediately necessary as part of such treatment, and in the clinical judgment of the health care provider it is a medically timely service and it would not be medically advisable to interrupt the provision of care to the patient in order to obtain pre-authorization from a health plan for the additional or related service or procedure, a denial of payment for the additional or related service or procedure due to lack of pre-authorization shall be upheld on appeal only if it is determined that:

(i) the additional or related service or procedure is not a covered benefit;

(ii) the additional or related service or procedure was not medically necessary pursuant to section four thousand nine hundred four of this chapter or section forty-nine hundred four of the public health law;

(iii) the additional or related service or procedure was experimental or investigational pursuant to section four thousand nine hundred four of this chapter or section forty-nine hundred four of the public health law; or

(iv) one of the conditions set forth in paragraphs one through six of subsection (a) of this section is met.

(2) The provisions of this subsection shall apply to situations in which pre-authorization was required and received for the initial service or procedure.

(3) The provisions of this subsection shall apply without regard to whether the current procedural terminology (CPT) code for the additional or related service or procedure is different than the CPT code for the initial service or procedure.

(d) Payment for such health care services shall be subject to a health plan's provider contracts or claims payment policies that are consistent with applicable law, rule or regulation.

(e) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to limit the right of a health plan to deny a claim if the health plan determines that it is not primarily obligated to pay the claim because other insurance coverage exists that is primary, including but not limited to workers' compensation and no-fault coverage.

(f) Notification that a health care service is being provided shall not constitute a request for pre-authorization of that health care service for purposes of this section; provided, however, that if a health plan provides a written acknowledgement of the notification to the health care provider, such acknowledgment shall clearly state that the acknowledgment does not constitute a pre-authorization of the services to be rendered.

(g) Nothing in this section shall preclude a health care provider and a health plan from agreeing to provisions different from those in this section; provided, however, that any agreement that purports to waive, limit, disclaim, or in any way diminish the rights of a health care provider set forth in this section shall be void as contrary to public policy.

§ 3239. Wellness programs. (a) An insurer licensed to write life insurance may establish a wellness program in conjunction with its issuance of life insurance policies and an insurer licensed to write accident and health insurance, a corporation organized pursuant to article forty-three of this chapter, a health maintenance organization certified pursuant to article forty-four of the public health law and a municipal cooperative health benefits plan may establish a wellness program in conjunction with its issuance of a group accident and health insurance policy or group subscriber contract. A "wellness program" is a program designed to promote health, longevity or prevent disease that may contain rewards and incentives for participation. A "wellness program" shall not include limited benefits health insurance. Participation in the wellness program shall be available to similarly-situated members of the group or with regard to life insurance, to all insureds within the same class and equal expectation of life and shall be voluntary on the part of the member or insured. With regard to life insurance, an insurer is prohibited from increasing premiums or charges stated in the policy as a result of participation or non-participation in the program. The terms of the wellness program shall be set forth in the policy or contract. With regard to a wellness program established in connection with life insurance, an insurer shall provide a prominent disclosure to an applicant at or prior to the time of application that the program is not health insurance and participants should not view the program as a substitute for the purchase of health insurance.

(b) A wellness program may include, but is not limited to, the following programs or services:

(1) the use of a health risk assessment tool;

(2) a smoking cessation program;

(3) a weight management program;

(4) a stress and/or hypertension management program;

(5) a worker injury prevention program;

(6) a nutrition education program;

(7) health or fitness incentive programs;

(8) a coordinated weight management, nutrition, stress management and physical fitness program to combat the high incidence of adult and childhood obesity, asthma and other chronic respiratory conditions;

(9) a substance or alcohol abuse cessation program;

(10) a program to manage and cope with chronic pain;

(11) a preventive care program, screenings (including biometric screenings), or chronic disease management program; and

(12) a stress management program, including participation in a meditation or sleep improvement program.

(c)(1) A wellness program may use rewards and incentives for participation provided that where the group health insurance policy or subscriber contract is required to be community-rated, the rewards and incentives shall not include a discounted premium rate or a rebate or refund of premium.

(2) Permissible rewards and incentives may include:

(A) full or partial reimbursement of the cost of participating in smoking cessation, weight management, stress and/or hypertension, worker injury prevention, nutrition education, substance or alcohol abuse cessation, preventive care programs, screenings, chronic disease management programs, or chronic pain management and coping programs;

(B) full or partial reimbursement of the cost of membership in a health club or fitness center;

(C) (1) the waiver or reduction of copayments, coinsurance and deductibles for preventive services covered under the group health insurance policy or subscriber contract;

(2) a premium refund, discount, or policy value credit, or other increase in benefits or decrease in charges under a life insurance policy;

(D) monetary rewards in the form of gift cards, gift certificates, vouchers or discounts on products or services in return for engaging in healthy behaviors;

(E) full or partial reimbursement of the cost of participating in a stress management program or activity, including participation in a meditation or sleep improvement program, provided that such program or activity shall be based on data and research that the program or service can be reasonably expected to result in overall good health, well being,

or improved mortality risk;

(F) full or partial reimbursement of the cost of participating in a health or fitness program; and

(G) full or partial reimbursement of the cost of a wearable device and any associated subscription membership to track physical activity or biometric data, and which incents behavioral changes to improve health or mortality risk.

(3) Where the reward involves a group member's meeting a specified standard based on a health condition, the wellness program under a health insurance policy shall meet the requirements of 45 CFR Part 146.

(4) A reward or incentive that involves a discounted premium rate or a rebate or refund of premium under accident and health insurance policies shall be based on actuarial demonstration that the wellness program can reasonably be expected to result in the overall good health and well being of the group. A premium refund, discount, or policy value credit, or other increase in benefits or decrease in charges under life insurance policies in connection with a wellness program shall be based on sound actuarial principles related to actual or reasonably anticipated experience.

(d) Fair collection and use of personal information. (1) Nonpublic personal information, including health data, an insurer collects and shares in connection with a wellness program shall be subject to all state and federal privacy and security laws and regulations promulgated thereunder, including 11 NYCRR 420.

(2) Wellness program participants shall have the right to obtain a copy of their wellness program information and an opportunity to correct any inaccuracies.

(3) An insurer may contract with a third party for purposes of administering or operating a wellness program on such insurer's behalf provided that the insurer maintains a system of supervision to ensure compliance with this section, including procedures to take appropriate corrective action for any participant harmed by a violation of this section by the insurer directly or by any third party with whom the insurer contracts.

 § 3240. Unclaimed benefits. (a) Definitions. For the purposes of this section:

(1) "Account" means: (A) any mechanism, whether denoted as a retained asset account or otherwise, whereby the settlement of proceeds payable to a beneficiary under a policy is accomplished by the insurer or an entity acting on behalf of the insurer placing the proceeds into an account where the insurer retains those proceeds and the beneficiary has check or draft writing privileges; or (B) any other settlement option relating to the manner of distribution of the proceeds payable under a policy.

(2) "Death index" means the death master file maintained by the United States social security administration or any other database or service that is at least as comprehensive as the death master file maintained by the United States social security administration and that is acceptable to the superintendent.

(3) "Insured" means an individual covered by a policy or an annuitant when the annuity contract provides for benefits to be paid or other monies to be distributed upon the death of the annuitant.

(4) "Insurer" means a life insurance company or fraternal benefit society.

(5) "Lost policy finder" means a service made available by the department on its website or otherwise developed by the superintendent either on his or her own or in conjunction with other state regulators, to assist consumers with locating unclaimed life insurance benefits.

(6) "Policy" means a life insurance policy; an annuity contract; a certificate under a life insurance policy or annuity contract; or a certificate issued by a fraternal benefit society; under which benefits are to be paid upon the death of the insured, including a policy that has lapsed or been terminated.

(b) Applicability. (1) This section shall apply to a policy:

(A) issued by a domestic insurer and any account established under or as a result of such policy; or

(B) delivered or issued for delivery in this state by an authorized foreign insurer and any account established under or as a result of such policy.

(2) Notwithstanding paragraph one of this subsection:

(A) with respect to a policy delivered or issued for delivery outside this state, a domestic insurer may, in lieu of the requirements of this section, implement procedures that meet the minimum requirements of the state in which the insurer delivered or issued the policy, provided that the superintendent determines that such other requirements are no less favorable to the policy owner and beneficiary than those required by this section; and

(B) this section shall not apply to a lapsed or terminated policy with no benefits payable that was searched within the eighteen months preceding the effective date of this section or that was searched more than eighteen months prior to the most recent search conducted by the insurer.

(c) Identifying information. (1) Except as set forth in paragraph two of this subsection, at no later than policy delivery or the establishment of an account and upon any change of insured, owner, account holder, or beneficiary, an insurer shall request information sufficient to ensure that all benefits or other monies are distributed to the appropriate persons upon the death of the insured or account holder, including, at a minimum, the name, address, social security number, date of birth, and telephone number of every owner, account holder, insured, and beneficiary of such policy or account, as applicable.

(2) Where an insurer issues a policy or provides for an account based on data received directly from an insured's employer, the insurer may obtain the beneficiary information described in paragraph one of this subsection by communicating with the insured after receiving the data from the insured's employer.

(d) Standards for cross-checking policies. (1) An insurer shall use the death index to cross-check every policy and account subject to this section no less frequently than quarterly, except as specified in subsection (g) of this section. An insurer may perform the cross-check using the updates made to the death index since the date of the last cross-check performed by the insurer, provided that the insurer performs the cross-check using the entire death index at least once a year. The superintendent may promulgate rules and regulations that allow an insurer to perform the cross-checks less frequently than quarterly but not less frequently than semi-annually.

(2) The cross-checks shall be performed using: (A) the insured or account holder's social security number; or (B) where the insurer does not know the insured or account holder's social security number, the name and date of birth of the insured or account holder.

(3) If an insurer only has a partial name, social security number, date of birth, or a combination thereof, of the insured or account holder under a policy or account, then the insurer shall use the available information to perform the cross-check.

(4) An insurer shall implement reasonable procedures to account for common variations in data that would otherwise preclude an exact match with a death index.

(e) Multiple policy search procedures. (1) Upon receiving notification of the death of an insured or account holder or in the event of a match made by a death index cross-check pursuant to subsection (d) of this section, an insurer shall search every policy or account subject to this section to determine whether the insurer has any other policies or accounts for the insured or account holder.

(2) An insurer that receives a notification of the death of an insured or account holder, or identifies a death index match, shall notify each United States affiliate, parent, or subsidiary, and any entity with which the insurer contracts that may maintain or control records relating to policies or accounts covered by this section, of the notification or verified death index match. An insurer shall take all steps necessary to have each affiliate, parent, subsidiary, or other entity perform the search required by paragraph one of this subsection.

(f) Standards for locating claimants. (1) An insurer shall establish procedures to reasonably confirm the death of an insured or account holder and begin to locate beneficiaries within ninety days after the identification of a potential match made by a death index cross-check or by a search conducted by the insurer pursuant to subsection (e) of this section. If the insurer cannot locate beneficiaries within ninety days after the identification of a potential match, then the insurer shall continue to search for beneficiaries until the benefits escheat in accordance with applicable state law.

(2) Once the beneficiary or beneficiaries under the policy or account have been located, the insurer shall provide to the beneficiary or beneficiaries the information necessary to make a claim pursuant to the terms of the policy or account. The insurer shall process all claims and make prompt payments and distributions in accordance with all applicable laws, rules, and regulations.

(3) Nothing herein shall prevent an insurer from requiring satisfactory proof of loss, such as a death certificate, for the purpose of verifying the death of the insured, provided that if a beneficiary cannot obtain a death certificate, then an insurer shall accept an alternate form of satisfactory proof of loss.

(g) This section shall not apply to:

(1) a group policy administered by the group policyholder where the insurer does not maintain or control the records containing the information necessary to comply with the requirements of this section; or

(2) any other circumstance as determined to be appropriate by the superintendent in a regulation.

(h) Lost policy finder. (1) The superintendent shall develop and implement a lost policy finder to assist requestors with locating unclaimed life insurance benefits. The lost policy finder shall be available online and via other means, including but not limited to the department's toll free telephone number. The superintendent shall assist a requestor with using the lost policy finder, including informing the requestor of the information an insurer may need to facilitate responding to the request.

(2) As soon as practicable, but no later than thirty days after receiving a request from a requestor via the lost policy finder, the superintendent shall:

(A) forward the request to all insurers deemed necessary by the superintendent in order to successfully respond to the request; and

(B) inform the requestor in writing that the superintendent received the request and forwarded the request to all insurers deemed necessary by the superintendent in order to successfully respond to the request.

(3) Upon receiving a request forwarded by the superintendent through a lost policy finder, an insurer shall search for policies and any accounts subject to this section that insure the life of, or are owned by, an individual named as the decedent in the request forwarded by the superintendent.

(4) Within sixty days of receiving the request referenced in paragraph two of this subsection the insurer shall:

(A) report to the superintendent through the lost policy finder the findings of the search conducted pursuant to paragraph three of this subsection;

(B) for each identified policy and account insuring the life of, or owned by, the individual named as the decedent in the request, provide to a requestor who is:

(i) also the beneficiary of record on the identified policy or account the information necessary to make a claim pursuant to the terms of the policy or account; and

(ii) not the beneficiary of record on the identified policy or account the requested information to the extent permissible to be disclosed in accordance with any applicable law, rule, or regulation and take such other steps necessary to facilitate the payment of any benefit that may be due under the identified policy or account.

(5) The superintendent shall, within thirty days of receiving from all insurers the information required in subparagraph (A) of paragraph four of this subsection, inform the requestor of the results of the search.

(6) When a beneficiary identified in paragraph four of this subsection submits a claim or claims to an insurer, the insurer shall process such claim or claims and make prompt payments and distributions in accordance with all applicable laws, rules, and regulations.

(7) Within thirty days of the final disposition of the request, an insurer shall report to the superintendent through the lost policy finder any benefits paid and any other information requested by the superintendent.

(8) An insurer shall establish procedures to electronically receive the lost policy finder request from, and make reports to, the superintendent as provided for in this section. When transmitted electronically, the date that the superintendent forwards the request shall be deemed to be the date of receipt by the insurer; provided, however, that if the date is a Saturday, Sunday, or a public holiday, as defined in section twenty-four of the general construction law, then the date of receipt shall be as provided in section twenty-five-a of the general construction law. The superintendent may promulgate rules and regulations that allow an insurer to apply for an exemption from the requirement that it electronically receive the lost policy finder request and report any benefits paid or other information the superintendent requests pursuant to section three hundred sixteen of this chapter.

(i) Reports. An insurer subject to this section shall include in the report required under section seven hundred three of the abandoned property law any information on unclaimed benefits due pursuant to this section and the number of policies and accounts that the insurer has identified pursuant to this section for the prior calendar year under which any outstanding monies have not been paid or distributed by December thirty-first of such year, except potential matches still being investigated pursuant to paragraph one of subsection (f) of this section. A copy of the report also shall be filed with the superintendent.

(j) The superintendent is authorized to promulgate any rules and regulations necessary to implement the provisions of this section in accordance with the provisions of the state administrative procedure act.

 § 3240. Student accident and health insurance. (a) In this section:

(1)(A) "Student accident and health insurance" means a policy or contract of hospital, medical, or surgical expense insurance delivered or issued for delivery in this state on or after January first, two thousand fourteen, by an insurer or a corporation, to an institution of higher education covering students enrolled in the institution and the students' dependents.

(B) "Student accident and health insurance" shall not include:

(i) a policy or contract that provides limited scope dental or vision benefits meeting the definition of "excepted benefits" set forth in section 2791 of the public health service act, 42 U.S.C. § 300gg-91(c);

(ii) an accident policy or contract that provides benefits meeting the definition of "excepted benefits" set forth in section 2791 of the public health service act, 42 U.S.C. § 300gg-91(c), if the policy or contract:

(I) is limited to coverage for intercollegiate sports injuries only;

(II) provides benefits to diagnose and treat any intercollegiate sports injury and does not include a benefit dollar maximum amount per injury that is less than the overall benefit dollar maximum amount per student under the intercollegiate sports injury policy or contract;

(III) provides benefits on an expense incurred basis;

(IV) provides that premiums are paid in full by the institution of higher education;

(V) includes prominent disclosure to the student that the accident policy is not a substitute for comprehensive hospital and medical coverage;

(VI) provides coverage for intercollegiate sports injuries primary to any student accident and health insurance policy or contract or any student health plan issued pursuant to section one thousand one hundred twenty-four of this chapter; except that a policy or contract meeting the requirements of this item may be excess or secondary to any other policy or contract of accident and health insurance; and

(VII) includes a maximum benefit amount that is no less than the deductible under the separate athletic association policy or contract if designed to coordinate with a separate policy or contract issued to an athletic association that extends coverage for intercollegiate sports injuries;

(iii) an accident policy or contract that provides benefits meeting the definition of "excepted benefits" set forth in section 2791 of the public health service act, 42 U.S.C. § 300gg-91(c)(1)(A), if the policy or contract:

(I) is limited to transportation expenses in the event an insured student incurs a covered sickness or accident, including transportation expenses for a medical escort to travel with the student and transportation expenses for returning the student to the student's domicile;

(II) provides that premiums are paid in full by the institution of higher education;

(III) covers students enrolled in the institution of higher education;

(IV) includes prominent disclosure to the student that the accident policy is not a substitute for comprehensive hospital and medical coverage; and

(V) provides coverage for a period of twelve months; or

(iv) an insurance policy, contract, or certificate that provides hospital, medical, or surgical expense coverage for a student while studying outside the United States for a period of twelve months or less that is issued to a student, provided that the student is also covered by comprehensive hospital and medical coverage within the United States and the insurance policy, contract, or certificate:

(I) is subject to the requirements of subsections (b), (c), (d), (e), (h), and (i) of this section;

(II) meets the definition of "expatriate health plan" set forth in 42 U.S.C. § 18014(d)(2);

(III) excludes coverage within the United States;

(IV) may offer coverage for global evacuation and repatriation in the event of the insured student's sickness or accident; and

(V) may offer coverage for trip cancellation, trip interruption, baggage, personal effects, or global evacuation and repatriation, including evacuation in the event of a natural or man-made disaster, such as an epidemic, political event, war, terrorist act, riot, or civil insurrection, pursuant to section three thousand four hundred fifty-two of this chapter.

(2) "Institution of higher education" or "institution" shall have the meaning set forth in the higher education act of 1965, 20 U.S.C. § 1001.

(3) "Insurer" means an insurer licensed to write accident and health insurance pursuant to this chapter.

(4) "Corporation" means a corporation organized in accordance with article forty-three of this chapter.

(5) "Intercollegiate sport" means a sport that has been designated as an intercollegiate sport by the institution of higher education in which a student is enrolled and that is organized or sponsored by an institution of higher education.

(6) "Intercollegiate sports injury" means an injury sustained by a student member of an athletics team during participation in an intercollegiate sport.

(b) An insurer or corporation shall not impose any pre-existing condition exclusion in a student accident and health insurance policy or contract. An insurer or corporation shall not condition eligibility, including continued eligibility, for a student accident and health insurance policy or contract on health status, medical condition, including both physical and mental illnesses, claims experience, receipt of health care, medical history, genetic information, evidence of insurability, including conditions arising out of acts of domestic violence, or disability.

(c) An insurer or corporation shall condition eligibility including continuing eligibility, on the covered individual being enrolled as a student in an institution of higher education to which the student accident and health insurance policy or contract is issued.

(d) A student accident and health insurance policy or contract shall provide coverage for essential health benefits as defined in subsection (a) of section three thousand two hundred seventeen-i or subsection (a) of section four thousand three hundred six-h of this chapter, as applicable.

(e) An insurer or corporation shall not refuse to renew or otherwise terminate a student accident and health insurance policy or contract except for one or more of the reasons set forth in:

(1) subparagraphs (A), (B), (D) or (G) of paragraph two of subsection (p) of section three thousand two hundred twenty-one of this article; or

(2) subparagraphs (A), (B), (D) or (G) of paragraph two of subsection (j) of section four thousand three hundred five of this chapter.

(f) Other than the provisions herein also required by article forty-three of this chapter, this section shall not apply to coverage under a student health plan issued pursuant to section one thousand one hundred twenty-four of this chapter.

(g) The superintendent may promulgate regulations regarding student accident and health insurance, which may include minimum standards for the form, content and sale of the policies and contracts and, notwithstanding the provisions of section three thousand two hundred thirty-one and four thousand three hundred eight of this chapter, the establishment of rating methodology to be applied to the policies and contracts; provided that any such regulations shall be no less favorable to the insured than that which is provided under federal law and state law applicable to individual insurance.

(h) The ratio of benefits to premiums shall be not less than eighty-two percent as calculated in a manner to be determined by the superintendent.

(i) Every insurer or corporation shall report to the superintendent annually, on a date specified by the superintendent in a regulation, claims experience and other data in a manner acceptable to the superintendent that shall demonstrate the insurer's or corporation's compliance with the applicable rules and regulations, including the minimum loss ratio required by subsection (h) of this section. Failure to comply with subsection (h) of this section is subject to corrective action, which may include the submission, to the superintendent, of an appropriate rate filing or form and rate filing to reduce future premiums, increase benefits, issue dividends, issue premium refunds or credits, or any combination of these such that the minimum loss ratio can reasonably be expected to be achieved.

(j) With respect to benefits for treatment relating to an intercollegiate sports injury, as defined in paragraph six of subsection (a) of this section, a policy or contract of student accident and health insurance or a student health plan issued pursuant to section one thousand one hundred twenty-four of this chapter shall be secondary to a separate accident policy or contract meeting the requirements of clauses (I) through (VII) of item (ii) of subparagraph (B) of paragraph one of subsection (a) of this section.

§ 3241. Network coverage. * (a) (1) An insurer, a corporation organized pursuant to article forty-three of this chapter, a municipal cooperative health benefit plan certified pursuant to article forty-seven of this chapter, or a student health plan established or maintained pursuant to section one thousand one hundred twenty-four of this chapter, that issues a health insurance policy or contract with a network of health care providers shall ensure that the network is adequate to meet the health and mental health needs of insureds and provide an appropriate choice of providers sufficient to render the services covered under the policy or contract. The superintendent shall review the network of health care providers for adequacy at the time of the superintendent's initial approval of a health insurance policy or contract; at least every three years thereafter; and upon application for expansion of any service area associated with the policy or contract in conformance with the standards set forth in subdivision five of section four thousand four hundred three of the public health law. The superintendent shall determine standards for network adequacy for mental health and substance use disorder treatment services, including sub-acute care in a residential facility, assertive community treatment services, critical time intervention services and mobile crisis intervention services, in consultation with the commissioner of the office of mental health and the commissioner of the office of addiction services and supports. To the extent that the network has been determined by the commissioner of health to meet the standards set forth in subdivision five of section four thousand four hundred three of the public health law, such network shall be deemed adequate by the superintendent.

(2) The superintendent, in consultation with the commissioner of health, the commissioner of the office of mental health, and the commissioner of the office of addiction services and supports, shall propose regulations setting forth standards for network adequacy for mental health and substance use disorder treatment services, including sub-acute care in a residential facility, assertive community treatment services, critical time intervention services and mobile crisis intervention services, by December thirty-first, two thousand twenty-three.

(b)(1)(A) An insurer, a corporation organized pursuant to article forty-three of this chapter, a municipal cooperative health benefit plan certified pursuant to article forty-seven of this chapter, a health maintenance organization certified pursuant to article forty-four of the public health law or a student health plan established or maintained pursuant to section one thousand one hundred twenty-four of this chapter, that issues a comprehensive group or group remittance health insurance policy or contract that covers out-of-network health care services shall make available and, if requested by the policyholder or contractholder, provide at least one option for coverage for at least eighty percent of the usual and customary cost of each out-of-network health care service after imposition of a deductible or any permissible benefit maximum.

(B) If there is no coverage available pursuant to subparagraph (A) of this paragraph in a rating region, then the superintendent may require an insurer, a corporation organized pursuant to article forty-three of this chapter, a municipal cooperative health benefit plan certified pursuant to article forty-seven of this chapter, a health maintenance organization certified pursuant to article forty-four of the public health law, or a student health plan established or maintained pursuant to section one thousand one hundred twenty-four of this chapter issuing a comprehensive group or group remittance health insurance policy or contract in the rating region, to make available and, if requested by the policyholder or contractholder, provide at least one option for coverage of eighty percent of the usual and customary cost of each out-of-network health care service after imposition of any permissible deductible or benefit maximum. The superintendent may, after giving consideration to the public interest, permit an insurer, a corporation, or a health maintenance organization to satisfy the requirements of this paragraph on behalf of another insurer, corporation, or health maintenance organization within the same holding company system, as defined in article fifteen of this chapter, including a health maintenance organization operated as a line of business of a health service corporation organized pursuant to article forty-three of this chapter. The superintendent may, upon written request, waive the requirement for coverage of out-of-network health care services to be made available pursuant to this subparagraph if the superintendent determines that it would pose an undue hardship upon an insurer, a corporation organized pursuant to article forty-three of this chapter, a municipal cooperative health benefit plan certified pursuant to article forty-seven of this chapter, a health maintenance organization certified pursuant to article forty-four of the public health law, or a student health plan established or maintained pursuant to section one thousand one hundred twenty-four of this chapter.

(2) For the purposes of this subsection, "usual and customary cost" shall mean the eightieth percentile of all charges for the particular health care service performed by a provider in the same or similar specialty and provided in the same geographical area as reported in a benchmarking database maintained by a nonprofit organization specified by the superintendent. The nonprofit organization shall not be affiliated with an insurer, a corporation subject to article forty-three of this chapter, a municipal cooperative health benefit plan certified pursuant to article forty-seven of this chapter, a health maintenance organization certified pursuant to article forty-four of the public health law or a student health plan established or maintained pursuant to section one thousand one hundred twenty-four of this chapter.

(3) This subsection shall not apply to emergency care services in hospital facilities or prehospital emergency medical services as defined in clause (i) of subparagraph (E) of paragraph twenty-four of subsection (i) of section three thousand two hundred sixteen of this article, or clause (i) of subparagraph (E) of paragraph fifteen of subsection (l) of section three thousand two hundred twenty-one of this chapter, or subparagraph (A) of paragraph five of subsection (aa) of section four thousand three hundred three of this chapter.

(4) Nothing in this subsection shall limit the superintendent's authority pursuant to section three thousand two hundred seventeen of this article to establish minimum standards for the form, content and sale of accident and health insurance policies and subscriber contracts, to require additional coverage options for out-of-network services, or to provide for standardization and simplification of coverage.

(c) When an insured or enrollee under a contract or policy that provides coverage for emergency services receives the services from a health care provider that does not participate in the provider network of an insurer, a corporation organized pursuant to article forty-three of this chapter, a municipal cooperative health benefit plan certified pursuant to article forty-seven of this chapter, a health maintenance organization certified pursuant to article forty-four of the public health law, or a student health plan established or maintained pursuant to section one thousand one hundred twenty-four of this chapter ("health care plan"), the health care plan shall ensure that the insured or enrollee shall incur no greater out-of-pocket costs for the emergency services than the insured or enrollee would have incurred with a health care provider that participates in the health care plan's provider network. For the purpose of this section, "emergency services" shall have the meaning set forth in subparagraph (D) of paragraph nine of subsection (i) of section three thousand two hundred sixteen of this article, subparagraph (D) of paragraph four of subsection (k) of section three thousand two hundred twenty-one of this article, and subparagraph (D) of paragraph two of subsection (a) of section four thousand three hundred three of this chapter.

§ 3242. Prescription drug coverage. * (a) Every insurer that delivers or issues for delivery in this state a policy that provides coverage for prescription drugs shall, with respect to the prescription drug coverage, publish an up-to-date, accurate, and complete list of all covered prescription drugs on its formulary drug list, including any tiering structure that it has adopted and any restrictions on the manner in which a prescription drug may be obtained, in a manner that is easily accessible to insureds and prospective insureds. The formulary drug list shall clearly identify the preventive prescription drugs that are available without annual deductibles or coinsurance, including co-payments.

* NB Effective until January 1, 2027

* (a) Every insurer that delivers or issues for delivery in this state a policy that provides coverage for prescription drugs shall, with respect to the prescription drug coverage, publish an up-to-date, accurate, and complete list of all covered prescription drugs on its formulary drug list, including any tiering structure that it has adopted and any restrictions on the manner in which a prescription drug may be obtained, in a manner that is easily accessible to insureds, prospective insureds, health care providers, and other interested parties. The formulary drug list shall clearly identify the preventive prescription drugs that are available without annual deductibles or coinsurance, including co-payments. A formulary drug list shall only be considered easily accessible if:

(1) it can be viewed on the insurer's public website without requiring an individual to create or access an account or enter a password or to be covered under an insurance policy issued by the insurer; and

(2) an individual can easily discern which formulary drug list applies to which plan, if an insurer offers more than one plan.

* NB Effective January 1, 2027

(b) (1) Every policy delivered or issued for delivery in this state that provides coverage for prescription drugs shall include in the policy a process that allows an insured, the insured's designee, or the insured's prescribing health care provider to request a formulary exception. With respect to the process for such a formulary exception, an insurer shall follow the process and procedures specified in article forty-nine of this chapter and article forty-nine of the public health law, except as otherwise provided in paragraphs two, three, four and five of this subsection.

(2) (A) An insurer shall have a process for an insured, the insured's designee, or the insured's prescribing health care provider to request a standard review that is not based on exigent circumstances of a formulary exception for a prescription drug that is not covered by the policy.

(B) An insurer shall make a determination on a standard exception request that is not based on exigent circumstances and notify the insured or the insured's designee and the insured's prescribing health care provider by telephone of its coverage determination no later than seventy-two hours following receipt of the request.

(C) An insurer that grants a standard exception request that is not based on exigent circumstances shall provide coverage of the non-formulary prescription drug for the duration of the prescription, including refills.

(D) For the purpose of this subsection, "exigent circumstances" means when an insured is suffering from a health condition that may seriously jeopardize the insured's life, health, or ability to regain maximum function or when an insured is undergoing a current course of treatment using a non-formulary prescription drug.

(3) (A) An insurer shall have a process for an insured, the insured's designee, or the insured's prescribing health care provider to request an expedited review based on exigent circumstances of a formulary exception for a prescription drug that is not covered by the policy.

(B) An insurer shall make a determination on an expedited review request based on exigent circumstances and notify the insured or the insured's designee and the insured's prescribing health care provider by telephone of its coverage determination no later than twenty-four hours following receipt of the request.

(C) An insurer that grants an exception based on exigent circumstances shall provide coverage of the non-formulary prescription drug for the duration of the exigent circumstances.

(4) An insurer that denies an exception request under paragraph two or three of this subsection shall provide written notice of its determination to the insured or the insured's designee and the insured's prescribing health care provider within three business days of receipt of the exception request. The written notice shall be considered a final adverse determination under section four thousand nine hundred four of this chapter or section four thousand nine hundred four of the public health law. Written notice shall also include the name or names of clinically appropriate prescription drugs covered by the insurer to treat the insured.

(5) (A) If an insurer denies a request for an exception under paragraph two or three of this subsection, the insured, the insured's designee, or the insured's prescribing health care provider shall have the right to request that such denial be reviewed by an external appeal agent certified by the superintendent pursuant to section four thousand nine hundred eleven of this chapter in accordance with article forty-nine of this chapter or article forty-nine of the public health law.

(B) An external appeal agent shall make a determination on the external appeal and notify the insurer, the insured or the insured's designee, and the insured's prescribing health care provider by telephone of its determination no later than seventy-two hours following the external appeal agent's receipt of the request, if the original request was a standard exception request under paragraph two of this subsection. The external appeal agent shall notify the insurer, the insured or the insured's designee, and the insured's prescribing health care provider in writing of the external appeal determination within two business days of rendering such determination.

(C) An external appeal agent shall make a determination on the external appeal and notify the insurer, the insured or the insured's designee, and the insured's prescribing health care provider by telephone of its determination no later than twenty-four hours following the external appeal agent's receipt of the request, if the original request was an expedited exception request under paragraph three of this subsection and the insured's prescribing health care provider attests that exigent circumstances exist. The external appeal agent shall notify the insurer, the insured or the insured's designee, and the insured's prescribing health care provider in writing of the external appeal determination within seventy-two hours of the external appeal agent's receipt of the external appeal.

(D) An external appeal agent shall make a determination in accordance with subparagraph (A) of paragraph four of subsection (b) of section four thousand nine hundred fourteen of this chapter or subparagraph (A) of paragraph (d) of subdivision two of section four thousand nine hundred fourteen of the public health law. When making a determination, the external appeal agent shall consider whether the formulary prescription drug covered by the insurer will be or has been ineffective, would not be as effective as the non-formulary prescription drug, or would have adverse effects.

(E) If an external appeal agent overturns the insurer's denial of a standard exception request under paragraph two of this subsection, then the insurer shall provide coverage of the non-formulary prescription drug for the duration of the prescription, including refills. If an external appeal agent overturns the insurer's denial of an expedited exception request under paragraph three of this subsection, then the insurer shall provide coverage of the non-formulary prescription drug for the duration of the exigent circumstances.

* (c)(1) Except as otherwise provided in paragraph three of this subsection, an insurer shall not:

(A) remove a prescription drug from a formulary;

(B) move a prescription drug to a tier with a larger deductible, copayment, or coinsurance if the formulary includes two or more tiers of benefits providing for different deductibles, copayments or coinsurance applicable to the prescription drugs in each tier; or

(C) add utilization management restrictions to a prescription drug on a formulary, unless such changes occur at the time of enrollment, issuance or renewal of coverage.

(2) Prohibitions provided in paragraph one of this subsection shall apply beginning on the date on which a plan year begins and through the end of such plan year.

(3) (A) An insurer with a formulary that includes two or more tiers of benefits providing for different deductibles, copayments or coinsurance applicable to prescription drugs in each tier may move a prescription drug to a tier with a larger deductible, copayment or coinsurance if an AB-rated generic equivalent or interchangeable biological product for such prescription drug is added to the formulary at the same time.

(B) An insurer may remove a prescription drug from a formulary if the federal Food and Drug Administration determines that such prescription drug should be removed from the market, including new utilization management restrictions issued pursuant to federal Food and Drug Administration safety concerns.

(C) An insurer with a formulary that includes two or more tiers of benefits providing for different copayments applicable to prescription drugs may move a prescription drug to a tier with a larger copayment during the plan year, provided the change is not applicable to an insured who is already receiving such prescription drug or has been diagnosed with or presented with a condition on or prior to the start of the plan year that is treated by such prescription drug or is a prescription drug that is or would be part of the insured's treatment regimen for such condition.

(4) An insurer shall provide notice to insureds of the intent to remove a prescription drug from a formulary or alter deductible, copayment or coinsurance requirements in the upcoming plan year, ninety days prior to the start of the plan year. Such notice of impending formulary and deductible, copayment or coinsurance changes shall also be posted on the insurer's online formulary and in any prescription drug finder system that the insurer provides to the public.

(5) The provisions of this subsection shall not supersede the terms of a collective bargaining agreement, or the rights of labor representation groups to collectively bargain changes to the formularies.

* (c) Every policy delivered or issued for delivery in this state that provides coverage for prescription drugs shall include in the policy a process that allows an insured, the insured's designee, or the insured's prescribing health care provider to immediately obtain, on the insured's behalf, an additional thirty-day supply of any current prescription of the insured, except as provided in section two hundred seventy-eight-a of the public health law, at the same level of coverage as a normal refill of such prescription drug upon the declaration of a state disaster emergency pursuant to section twenty-eight of the executive law.

§ 3243. Discrimination because of sex or marital status in hospital, surgical or medical expense insurance. (a) With regard to an accident and health insurance policy that provides hospital, surgical, or medical expense coverage or a policy of student accident and health insurance, as defined in subsection (a) of section three thousand two hundred forty of this article, delivered or issued for delivery in this state, no insurer shall because of sex, marital status or based on pregnancy, false pregnancy, termination of pregnancy, or recovery therefrom, childbirth or related medical conditions:

(1) make any distinction or discrimination between persons as to the premiums or rates charged for the policy or in any other manner whatever;

(2) demand or require a greater premium from any person than it requires at that time from others in similar cases;

(3) make or require any rebate, discrimination or discount upon the amount to be paid or the service to be rendered on any policy;

(4) insert in the policy any condition, or make any stipulation, whereby the insured binds his or herself, or his or her heirs, executors, administrators or assigns, to accept any sum or service less than the full value or amount of such policy in case of a claim thereon except such conditions and stipulations as are imposed upon others in similar cases; and any such stipulation or condition so made or inserted shall be void;

(5) reject any application for a policy issued or sold by it;

(6) cancel or refuse to issue, renew or sell such policy after appropriate application therefor;

(7) fix any lower rate or discriminate in the fees or commissions of insurance agents or insurance brokers for writing or renewing such a policy; or

(8) engage in sexual stereotyping.

(b) For the purposes of this section, "sex" shall include sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, and transgender status.

§ 3244. Explanation of benefits forms relating to claims under certain accident and health insurance policies. (a) Every insurer, including health maintenance organizations operating under article forty-four of the public health law or article forty-three of this chapter and any other corporation operating under article forty-three of this chapter, is required to provide the insured or subscriber with an explanation of benefits form in response to the filing of any claim under a policy or certificate providing coverage for hospital, medical or pharmaceutical expenses, including policies and certificates providing nursing home expense or home care expense benefits.

(b) The explanation of benefits form must include at least the following:

(1) the name of the provider of service the admission or financial control number, if applicable;

(2) the date of service;

(3) an identification of the service for which the claim is made;

(4) the provider's charge or rate;

(5) the amount or percentage payable under the policy or certificate after deductibles, co-payments, and any other reduction of the amount claimed;

(6) a specific explanation of any denial, reduction, or other reason, including any other third-party payor coverage, for not providing full reimbursement for the amount claimed; and

(7) a telephone number or address where an insured or subscriber may obtain clarification of the explanation of benefits, as well as a description of the time limit, place and manner in which an appeal of a denial of benefits must be brought under the policy or certificate and a notification that failure to comply with such requirements may lead to forfeiture of a consumer's right to challenge a denial or rejection, even when a request for clarification has been made.

(c) Except on demand by the insured or subscriber, insurers, including health maintenance organizations operating under article forty-four of the public health law or article forty-three of this chapter and any other corporation operating under article forty-three of this chapter, shall not be required to provide the insured or subscriber with an explanation of benefits form in any case where the service is provided by a facility or provider participating in the insurer's program and full reimbursement for the claim, other than a co-payment that is ordinarily paid directly to the provider at the time the service is rendered, is paid by the insurer directly to the participating facility or provider.

(d) This section shall not apply to medicare supplemental insurance policies or certificates or limited benefits health insurance policies or certificates designed primarily to supplement medicare benefits.

(e) The provisions of this section requiring an explanation of benefits form for pharmaceutical claims shall be satisfied by either a quarterly written summary of the information prescribed by subsection (b) of this section or by making such information available electronically on the member portal of the insurer's, health maintenance organization's, or article forty-three organization's website, provided that the member consents to receiving the information electronically.

§ 3245. Liability to providers in the event of an insolvency. In the event an insurance company authorized to do an accident and health insurance business in this state is deemed insolvent, as provided in section one thousand three hundred nine of this chapter, no insured covered under a policy delivered or issued for delivery in this state by the insurance company shall be liable to any provider of health care services for any covered services of the insolvent insurance company. No provider of health care services or any representative of such provider shall collect or attempt to collect from the insured sums owed by such insurance company, and no provider or representative of such provider may maintain any action at law against an insured to collect sums owed to such provider by such insurance company.

§ 3401. Insurable interest in property. No contract or policy of insurance on property made or issued in this state, or made or issued upon any property in this state, shall be enforceable except for the benefit of some person having an insurable interest in the property insured. In this article, "insurable interest" shall include any lawful and substantial economic interest in the safety or preservation of property from loss, destruction or pecuniary damage.

§ 3402. Executory contract not a change in interest, title or possession. The making of a contract to sell or to exchange real property shall not constitute a change in the interest, title or possession, within the meaning of the applicable provisions of any contract of fire insurance, including any contract supplemental thereto, covering property located in this state.

(b) (1) No policy or contract of fire insurance shall be made, issued or delivered by any insurer or by any agent or representative thereof, on any property in this state, unless it shall conform as to all provisions, stipulations, agreements and conditions with such form of policy, except policies subject to the provisions of section three thousand one hundred two of this chapter which shall be required to comply with the provisions of paragraph one of subsection (f) of this section.

(2) There shall be printed or typewritten at the head of such policy the name and home office address of the insurer or insurers issuing the policy and a statement whether such insurer or insurers are stock or mutual corporations or are reciprocal insurers or Lloyds underwriters. In lieu of such statement a corporation organized under a special act of the legislature of any state may so indicate upon its policy. The head of the policy may also have such devices as the insurer or insurers issuing it desire.

(3) The standard fire insurance policy need not be used for effecting reinsurance between insurers.

(4) If the policy is issued by a mutual, cooperative or reciprocal insurer having special regulations with respect to the payment by the policyholder of assessments, such regulations shall be printed upon the policy, and any such insurer may print upon the policy such regulations as may be appropriate to or required by its form of organization.

(c) Two or more insurers authorized to do the business of fire insurance in this state may, with the approval of the superintendent, issue a combination standard form of fire insurance policy which shall contain the following provisions:

(1) A provision substantially to the effect that the insurers executing such policy shall be severally liable for the full amount of any loss or damage, according to the terms of the policy, or for specified percentages or amounts thereof, aggregating the full amount of such insurance under such policy.

(2) A provision substantially to the effect that service of process, or of any notice or proof of loss required by such policy, upon any of the insurers executing such policy, shall be deemed to be service upon all such insurers.

(d) (1) Appropriate forms of a supplemental contract or contracts or extended coverage endorsements insuring against one or more of the perils which the insurer is empowered to insure, in addition to the perils covered by such standard fire insurance policy, may be approved by the superintendent, who may authorize their use in connection with a standard fire insurance policy.

(2) The first page of the policy, in a form approved by the superintendent, may be rearranged to provide space for the listing of amounts of insurance, rates and premiums for the basic coverages insured under the standard form of policy and for additional coverages or perils insured under attached endorsements, and such other data as may be conveniently included for duplication on daily reports for office records.

(e) The form of the standard fire insurance policy of the state of New York (with permission to substitute for the word "company" a more accurate descriptive term for the type of insurer) shall be as follows:

SECOND PAGE OF STANDARD FIRE POLICY

Concealment, fraud. This entire policy shall be void if, whether before or after a loss, the insured has wilfully concealed or misrepresented any material fact or circumstance concerning this insurance or the subject thereof, or the interest of the insured therein, or in case of any fraud or false swearing by the insured relating thereto.

Uninsurable and excepted property. This policy shall not cover accounts, bills, currency, deeds, evidences of debt, money or securities; nor, unless specifically named hereon in writing, bullion or manuscripts.

Perils not included. This Company shall not be liable for loss by fire or other perils insured against in this policy caused, directly or indirectly, by: (a) enemy attack by armed forces, including action taken by military, naval or air forces in resisting an actual or an immediately impending enemy attack; (b) invasion; (c) insurrection; (d) rebellion; (e) revolution; (f) civil war; (g) usurped power; (h) order of any civil authority except acts of destruction at the time of and for the purpose of preventing the spread of fire, provided that such fire did not originate from any of the perils excluded by this policy; (i) neglect of the insured to use all reasonable means to save and preserve the property at and after a loss, or when the property is endangered by fire in neighboring premises; (j) nor shall this Company be liable for loss by theft.

Other Insurance. Other insurance may be prohibited or the amount of insurance may be limited by endorsement attached hereto.

Conditions suspending or restricting insurance. Unless otherwise provided in writing added hereto this Company shall not be liable for loss occurring
(a) while the hazard is increased by any means within the control or knowledge of the insured; or
(b) while a described building, whether intended for occupancy by owner or tenant, is vacant or unoccupied beyond a period of sixty consecutive days; or
(c) as a result of explosion or riot, unless fire ensue, and in that event for loss by fire only.

Other perils or subjects. Any other peril to be insured against or subject of insurance to be covered in this policy shall be by endorsement in writing hereon or added hereto.

Added provisions. The extent of the application of insurance under this policy and of the contribution to be made by this Company in case of loss, and any other provision or agreement not inconsistent with the provisions of this policy, may be provided for in writing added hereto, but no provision may be waived except such as by the terms of this policy is subject to change.

Waiver provisions. No permission affecting this insurance shall exist, or waiver of any provision be valid, unless granted herein or expressed in writing added hereto. No provision, stipulation or forfeiture shall be held to be waived by any requirement or proceeding on the part of this Company relating to appraisal or to any examination provided for herein.

Cancellation of policy. This policy shall be cancelled at any time at the request of the insured, in which case this Company shall, upon demand and surrender of this policy, refund the excess of paid premium above the customary short rates for the expired time. This policy may be cancelled at any time by this Company by giving to the insured a five days' written notice of cancellation with or without tender of the excess of paid premium above the pro rata premium for the expired time, which excess, if not tendered, shall be refunded on demand. Notice of cancellation shall state that said excess premium (if not tendered) will be refunded on demand.

Mortgagee interests and obligations. If loss hereunder is made payable, in whole or in part, to a designated mortgagee not named herein as the insured, such interest in this policy may be cancelled by giving to such mortgagee a ten days' written notice of cancellation.

If the insured fails to render proof of loss such mortgagee, upon notice, shall render proof of loss in the form herein specified within sixty (60) days thereafter and shall be subject to the provisions hereof relating to appraisal and time of payment and of bringing suit. If this Company shall claim that no liability existed as to the mortgagor or owner, it shall, to the extent of payment of loss to the mortgagee, be subrogated to all the mortgagee's rights of recovery, but without impairing mortgagee's right to sue; or it may pay off the mortgage debt and require an assignment thereof and of the mortgage. Other provisions relating to the interests and obligations of such mortgagee may be added hereto by agreement in writing.

Pro rata liability. This Company shall not be liable for a greater proportion of any loss than the amount hereby insured shall bear to the whole insurance covering the property against the peril involved, whether collectible or not.

Requirements in case loss occurs. The insured shall give immediate written notice to this Company of any loss, protect the property from further damage, forthwith separate the damaged and undamaged personal property, put it in the best possible order, furnish a complete inventory of the destroyed, damaged and undamaged property, showing in detail quantities, costs, actual cash value and amount of loss claimed; and within sixty days after the loss, unless such time is extended in writing by this Company, the insured shall render to this Company a proof of loss, signed and sworn to by the insured, stating the knowledge and belief of the insured as to the following: the time and origin of the loss, the interest of the insured and of all others in the property, the actual cash value of each item thereof and the amount of loss thereto, all encumbrances thereon, all other contracts of insurance, whether valid or not, covering any of said property, any changes in the title, use, occupation, location, possession or exposures of said property since the issuing of this policy, by whom and for what purpose any building herein described and the several parts thereof were occupied at the time of loss and whether or not it then stood on leased ground, and shall furnish a copy of all the descriptions and schedules in all policies and, if required, verified plans and specifications of any building, fixtures or machinery destroyed or damaged. The insured, as often as may be reasonably required, shall exhibit to any person designated by this Company all that remains of any property herein described, and submit to examinations under oath by any person named by this Company, and subscribe the same; and, as often as may be reasonably required, shall produce for examination all books of account, bills, invoices and other vouchers, or certified copies thereof if originals be lost, at such reasonable time and place as may be designated by this Company or its representative, and shall permit extracts and copies thereof to be made.

Appraisal. In case the insured and this Company shall fail to agree as to the actual cash value or the amount of loss, then, on the written demand of either, each shall select a competent and disinterested appraiser and notify the other of the appraiser selected within twenty days of such demand. The appraisers shall first select a competent and disinterested umpire; and failing for fifteen days to agree upon such umpire, then, on request of the insured or this Company, such umpire shall be selected by a judge of a court of record in the state in which the property covered is located. The appraisers shall then appraise the loss, stating separately actual cash value and loss to each item; and, failing to agree, shall submit their differences, only, to the umpire. An award in writing, so itemized, of any two when filed with this Company shall determine the amount of actual cash value and loss. Each appraiser shall be paid by the party selecting him and the expenses of appraisal and umpire shall be paid by the parties equally.

Company's options. It shall be optional with this Company to take all, or any part, of the property at the agreed or appraised value, and also to repair, rebuild or replace the property destroyed or damaged with other of like kind and quality within a reasonable time, on giving notice of its intention so to do within thirty days after the receipt of the proof of loss herein required.

Abandonment. There can be no abandonment to this Company of any property.

When loss payable. The amount of loss for which this Company may be liable shall be payable sixty days after proof of loss, as herein provided, is received by this Company and ascertainment of the loss is made either by agreement between the insured and this Company expressed in writing or by the filing with this Company of an award as herein provided.

Suit. No suit or action on this policy for the recovery of any claim shall be sustainable in any court of law or equity unless all the requirements of this policy shall have been complied with, and unless commenced within twenty-four months next after inception of the loss.

Subrogation. This Company may require from the insured an assignment of all right of recovery against any party for loss to the extent that payment therefor is made by this Company.

(COMPANY)

It is important that the written portions of all policies covering the same property read exactly alike. If they do not, they should be made uniform at once.

(f) (1) Subject to the approval of the superintendent, a policy which insures solely against the peril of fire or which insures against the peril of fire in combination with other kinds of insurance either for a divisible or indivisible premium need not comply with the provisions of subsection (e) of this section, provided:

(A) the policy contains, with respect to the peril of fire, terms and provisions no less favorable to the insured than those contained in the standard fire policy;

(B) the provisions in relation to mortgagee interests and obligations in such standard fire policy are incorporated without substantive change; and

(C) the policy or contract is complete as to all of its terms without reference to the standard form fire insurance policy or any other policy.

(2) Policies of automobile or aircraft physical damage insurance or policies of inland marine insurance may be issued as heretofore without reference to the limitations contained in paragraph one of this subsection.

(g) Notwithstanding any other provision of law to the contrary, the provisions of the appraisal clause set out on the second page of the standard fire policy and the provisions of section three thousand four hundred eight of this article, including determinations as to the amount of loss or damage rendered thereunder, shall be binding on all parties to the contract of insurance evidenced by the policy and may be enforced by either the insurer or the insured by application made pursuant to subsection (c) of section three thousand four hundred eight of this article.

(h) As used in this section, "binder" means a written document (1) which includes the name and address of the insured and any additional named insureds, mortgagees, or lienholders; a description of the property insured; a description of the nature and amount of coverage which shall be deemed to include the terms of the standard fire insurance policy except as conspicuously noted on the binder; the identity of the insurer and of the authorized representative executing the binder; the effective date of coverage; the binder number or the policy number where applicable to a policy extension, and (2) which temporarily obligates the insurer to provide that insurance coverage pending issuance of the insurance policy. The cancellation of such a binder shall be governed at the minimum by the provisions of the standard fire insurance policy and the provisions of this chapter applicable thereto. No exempt organization, as defined in section five hundred ninety of the banking law, or licensed mortgage banker which originates mortgage loans shall, at the time of title closing for a loan secured by a one to four family residential real property, refuse to accept a binder, issued by an insurer, or a duly authorized representative of an insurer, licensed to do business in this state, as evidence that hazard insurance has been procured for the mortgaged premises. Nothing herein is intended to prohibit the mortgage banker or exempt organization from requiring the borrower to also furnish a receipt indicating that the annual or installment premium on such insurance policy has been paid.

§ 3405. Fire insurance contract; losses from nuclear reaction or radiation. (a) Insurers issuing the standard fire insurance policy pursuant to section three thousand four hundred four of this article are authorized to affix or include in the policy a written statement that such policy does not cover loss or damage caused by nuclear reaction or nuclear radiation or radioactive contamination, all whether directly or indirectly resulting from an insured peril under such policy.

(b) This section shall not prohibit the attachment to any such policy of an endorsement specifically assuming coverage for loss or damage caused by nuclear reaction or nuclear radiation or radioactive contamination.

§ 3406. Copy of examination of insured to be delivered to insured. (a) If any policy or contract of insurance against loss or damage to property located in this state contains any provision requiring the insured to permit any examination by the insurer of the insured, or of a member of his family, or of any employee of the insured, and if any such examination takes place and is reduced to writing, whether or not signed by the insured or by such person so examined, such insurer shall, within ten days from the time when the insured shall have requested the same in writing, deliver to the insured a copy of such examination so reduced to writing.

(b) If such copy is not delivered to the insured as required, no part of the examination shall be used by the insurer as a part of the proof of loss or damage or as evidence in any action or proceeding based upon or involving such policy or contract.

§ 3407. Property insurance; proofs of loss; notice of loss. (a) The failure of any person insured against loss or damage to property under any contract of insurance, issued or delivered in this state or covering property located in this state, to furnish proofs of loss to the insurer or insurers as specified in such contract shall not invalidate or diminish any claim of such person insured under such contract, unless such insurer or insurers shall, after such loss or damage, give to such insured a written notice that it or they desire proofs of loss to be furnished by such insured to such insurer or insurers on a suitable blank form or forms. If the insured shall furnish proofs of loss within sixty days after the receipt of such notice and such form or forms, or within any longer period of time specified in such notice, such insured shall be deemed to have complied with the provisions of such contract of insurance relating to the time within which proofs of loss are required. Neither the giving of such notice nor the furnishing of such blank form or forms by the insurer shall constitute a waiver of any stipulation or condition of such contract, or an admission of liability thereunder.

(b) If any contract of insurance issued or delivered in this state, covering loss of or damage to property by fire provides that the insured give immediate notice, in writing, to the insurer, of any loss or damage, it shall be sufficient compliance if immediate written notice is given, by or on behalf of the insured, to any licensed agent of the insurer in this state, with particulars sufficient to identify the insured and the property insured under such contract and to notify the insurer of the time and place of such loss or damage.

§ 3407-a. Property/casualty insurance contract and policy standard provisions. No property/casualty insurance policy or contract shall be issued or issued for delivery on a risk located or resident in this state insuring against damage to the insured's real property unless it contains in substance the following provision or a provision which is equal or more favorable to the insured: a provision that in the event of a pending claim for damage to real property, upon request, the insurer shall furnish to the insured's representative, designated in writing, or if none has been designated, to the insured, a copy of any written estimate or estimates of the cost of damages to real property resulting from the loss which the insurer has independently prepared for its own purposes, or had prepared on its behalf for its own purposes, specifying all appropriate deductions, within thirty days after the request or preparation, whichever is later, of such estimate or estimates. An insurer shall not be required to provide an estimate on claims for damages to real property unless it has independently prepared one or had one prepared on its behalf for the insurer's own purposes.

§ 3408. Fire insurance; appraisal of loss; procedure for selection of umpire on failure to agree. (a) Whenever application shall be made for the selection of an umpire pursuant to the provisions relating to appraisals contained in the standard fire insurance policy of the state of New York it shall be made to a justice of the supreme court residing in the county or to a county judge of the county in which the lost or damaged property is or was located. The application shall be on five days' notice in writing to the other party. Any such notice in writing, when served by the insured, may be served upon any local agent of the insurer.

(b) The court shall, on proof by affidavit of the failure or neglect of the appraisers to agree upon and select an umpire within the time provided in such policy, and of the service of notice pursuant to subsection (a) hereof, forthwith appoint a competent and disinterested person to act as such umpire in the ascertainment of the amount of such loss or damage.

(c) In the event of a covered loss, whenever an insured or insurer fails to proceed with an appraisal upon demand of the other, either party may apply to the court in the manner provided in subsection (a) of this section for an order directing the other to comply with such demand. An appraisal shall determine the actual cash value, the replacement cost, the extent of the loss or damage and the amount of the loss or damage which shall be determined as specified in the policy and shall proceed pursuant to the terms of the applicable appraisal clause of the insurance policy and not as an arbitration. Notwithstanding the provisions of this subsection, an appraisal shall not determine whether the policy actually provides coverage for any portion of the claimed loss or damage.

§ 3409. Distribution of hazardous material report forms. The superintendent shall require every insurance company issuing a policy of fire insurance against a risk located in this state to annually issue to each of its fire insurance policyholders engaged in commerce in this state a suitable supply of forms supplied by the office of fire prevention and control for reporting the presence of hazardous materials as required by section two hundred nine-u of the general municipal law.

§ 3410. Fire insurance contract; payment of liens on proceeds; certain cases. (a) Every fire insurance policy insuring the interest of an owner pursuant to this article shall include a statement that, prior to the payment of any proceeds thereunder otherwise payable to the insured for damages resulting to the premises from a loss occasioned by fire, the insurer will deduct and pay the claim of any tax district which renders a certificate of lien pursuant to the provisions of section three hundred thirty-one of this chapter.

(b) Such statement shall further relate that upon the payment of such claim the insurer shall, to the extent of such payment, be released from any obligation to pay the same to the insured and that the payment of any such claim within thirty days of receipt by the insurer of the certificate of lien shall, as between the insured and the insurer, operate as a conclusive presumption that such claim was valid and properly paid.

* NB Effective until May 15, 2024

* Automobile physical damage insurance covering private passenger automobiles; standard provisions; inspections; duties of insurers and insureds.

* NB Effective May 15, 2024 until October 1, 2027

* Automobile physical damage insurance covering private passenger automobiles; standard provisions; required inspections; duties of insurers and insureds.

* NB Effective October 1, 2027

(a) The provisions of this section shall be applicable to all automobile physical damage insurance policies covering private passenger automobiles registered in this state, notwithstanding any other provisions of this chapter.

(b) In this article, "renewal" means the issuance and delivery by an insurer, at the end of the policy period, of a policy superseding a policy previously issued and delivered by the same insurer, or the issuance and delivery of a certificate or notice extending the term of a policy beyond its policy period or term. Any policy with a policy period or term of less than one year shall, for the purpose of determining each renewal date in this section, be considered as if written for a policy period or term of one year commencing with the annual anniversary date, and any policy written for a period or term of more than one year or any policy with no fixed expiration date shall, for the purpose of this section, be considered as if written for successive policy periods or terms of one year commencing with the annual anniversary date.

(c) No policy providing automobile physical damage insurance for private passenger automobiles registered in this state shall be issued, delivered, or renewed unless it complies with this section.

* (d) A newly issued policy shall not provide coverage for automobile physical damage perils prior to an inspection of the automobile by the insurer.

* NB Effective until May 15, 2024

* (d) A newly issued policy shall not provide coverage for automobile physical damage perils prior to an inspection of the automobile by the insurer, unless the insurer has waived the right to such inspection pursuant to a statement of operation filed with the superintendent. In its statement of operation, an insurer may waive the right to inspect some or all automobiles. Every statement of operation shall take effect upon its filing with the superintendent and may cover some or all automobiles.

* NB Effective May 15, 2024 until October 1, 2027

* (d) A newly issued policy shall not provide coverage for automobile physical damage perils prior to an inspection of the automobile by the insurer.

* NB Effective October 1, 2027

(e) For a renewal of a policy referred to in subsection (d) of this section, an insurer may require, as a condition of such renewal, that the automobile be made available for inspection.

(f) If an insurer requests an inspection pursuant to subsection (e) of this section, the insured shall make the automobile available for inspection by the insurer, upon reasonable notice. If the insured fails to make the automobile available for inspection, the insurer may refuse to continue such physical damage coverage.

* (g) If an automobile subject to the provisions of this section is acquired by the insured as a replacement for or an addition to an automobile insured for physical damage coverage, and the insured requests physical damage coverage for the replacement or additional automobile, such coverage for physical damage shall not be effective before such inspection is made. If, at the time of the request for such coverage, the automobile is unavailable for inspection because of conditions of purchase or other circumstances and is thereafter made available for inspection, the insurer shall promptly inspect the automobile, and physical damage coverage shall not become effective before the inspection has been made.

* NB Effective until May 15, 2024

* (g) If an automobile subject to the provisions of this section is acquired by the insured as a replacement for or an addition to an automobile insured for physical damage coverage, and the insured requests physical damage coverage for the replacement or additional automobile, such coverage for physical damage shall not be effective before such inspection is made, unless the insurer has waived the right to such an inspection pursuant to a statement of operation filed with the superintendent. If, at the time of the request for such coverage, the automobile is unavailable for inspection because of conditions of purchase or other circumstances and is thereafter made available for inspection, the insurer shall promptly inspect the automobile, and physical damage coverage shall not become effective before the inspection has been made.

* NB Effective May 15, 2024 until October 1, 2027

* (g) If an automobile subject to the provisions of this section is acquired by the insured as a replacement for or an addition to an automobile insured for physical damage coverage, and the insured requests physical damage coverage for the replacement or additional automobile, such coverage for physical damage shall not be effective before such inspection is made. If, at the time of the request for such coverage, the automobile is unavailable for inspection because of conditions of purchase or other circumstances and is thereafter made available for inspection, the insurer shall promptly inspect the automobile, and physical damage coverage shall not become effective before the inspection has been made.

* NB Effective October 1, 2027

(h) Where an inspection is made pursuant to this section, it shall be conducted by the insurer or its authorized representative and shall be recorded on a form prescribed by the superintendent. Such form shall be retained by the insurer with its policy records for such insured, and a copy of such form shall be made available to the insured upon request.

(i) Payment of a physical damage claim shall not be conditioned upon the repair of the automobile, provided, however, the insured shall replace any inflatable restraint system (airbag), as defined in subparagraph (b) of S 4.1.5.1 of standard 208 of part 571 of title 49 of the code of federal regulations, that inflated and deployed, or that was stolen, which is included in a physical damage or theft claim. The insurer may request that the automobile be made available for inspection whether or not the automobile is repaired. The results of such inspection may form a basis for determining the value of the automobile in the event of a subsequent loss. If the automobile is repaired the insurer shall request the repair invoice and shall require the insured and the automobile repairer to certify, under penalties of perjury, whether the applicable deductible has been paid to the automobile repairer, whether any repairs have been made and whether the repairs did not include all items allowed by the insurer.

(j) The superintendent may approve policy forms for physical damage coverage, for new and renewable business, which exclude coverage for specified items of personal property located in or upon the automobile.

(k) Each insurer which offers physical damage insurance subject to the provisions of this section shall offer such insurance with a standard deductible of two hundred dollars for each occurrence. The insured shall, however, at the inception of the policy or at the annual anniversary date, or at the time of the replacement or addition of an automobile, have the option of purchasing a policy with a lesser deductible, but in no event may the insurer sell a policy with a deductible of less than fifty dollars for fire, theft or comprehensive insurance coverages (one hundred dollars for assigned risk policies issued pursuant to paragraph two of subsection (a) of section five thousand three hundred three of this chapter) and one hundred dollars for collision insurance coverage except that window glass coverage may be sold without a deductible. Each insurer which offers physical damage insurance subject to the provisions of this section shall also offer physical damage coverages with co-insurance or deductible provisions or combinations thereof as the superintendent may prescribe, including but not limited to deductibles of two hundred fifty dollars, five hundred dollars and one thousand dollars.

(l) Every insurer subject to the provisions of this section shall report to the commissioner of motor vehicles any evidence of overcharges, improper repairs or adjustments or other wrongdoing by motor vehicle repair shops, in order that the department of motor vehicles may properly discharge its responsibilities under the vehicle and traffic law to protect consumers from dishonest, deceptive and fraudulent practices in the repair of automobiles, to protect the public from improper repairs and to eliminate unqualified motor vehicle repair shops.

* (m) (1) The superintendent, in regulations implementing the provisions of this section, shall also require that insurers take appropriate action to ensure that there is wide public dissemination of the provisions of this section relating to the rights and obligations of insureds and insurers.

(2) The inspections provided for in this section may be dispensed with or deferred under circumstances specified in regulations of the superintendent. Such circumstances may include but are not limited to, the insuring of a new automobile, the insuring of an automobile whose inspection would constitute a serious hardship to the insurer, the insured or an applicant for insurance, and the insuring of an automobile for a limited specified period of time.

(3) Inspections made pursuant to this section shall be made at locations and times reasonably convenient to the insured. The results of any inspection may be considered in determining the value of the automobile.

* NB Effective until May 15, 2024

* (m) (1) The superintendent, in regulations implementing the provisions of this section, shall also require that insurers take appropriate action to ensure that there is wide public dissemination of the provisions of this section relating to the rights and obligations of insureds and insurers.

(2) The inspections provided for in this section may be dispensed with or deferred by an insurer under circumstances specified in their statement of operation filed with the superintendent or in regulations of the superintendent. Such circumstances may include but are not limited to, the insuring of a new automobile, the insuring of an automobile whose inspection would constitute a serious hardship to the insurer, the insured or an applicant for insurance, and the insuring of an automobile for a limited specified period of time.

* NB Effective October 1, 2027

(n) If the superintendent, after notice and hearing, finds that any insurer or its authorized representative has violated any provision of this section, he shall order the payment of a penalty, not to exceed five hundred dollars for each such offense. Each issuance, procurement or negotiation of a policy of insurance in violation of this section shall be a separate offense.

§ 3412. Automobile physical damage insurance covering private passenger automobiles; salvage; total losses; thefts; duties of insurers. (a) Notwithstanding any other provision of this chapter, the provisions of this section shall be applicable to all physical damage losses incurred on policies covering private passenger automobiles registered in this state for model year nineteen hundred seventy-three or later.

(b) In accordance with regulations of the superintendent insurers shall, except where the insured is permitted to retain the automobile as part of the claim settlement, take possession of any salvage and the certificate of title, properly endorsed to them of private automobiles whenever a loss is determined by the insurer to be a total loss or a constructive total loss. Insurers, in disposing of the salvage, shall fully comply with the requirements of section four hundred twenty-nine of the vehicle and traffic law. An insurer shall also have the right, where a claim is filed for the replacement of an inflated and deployed or stolen inflatable restraint system (air bag), as defined in subparagraph (b) of S 4.1.5.1 of standard 208 of part 571 of title 49 of the code of federal regulations, to inspect the vehicle for which the claim is being filed to verify that the air bag did inflate and deploy or was stolen. The insurer shall also have the right to take possession of a deployed airbag.

(c) Except with respect to vehicles recovered after a theft loss has been paid and which meet the criteria set forth in subdivision two of section four hundred thirty of the vehicle and traffic law, insurers shall not, directly or indirectly, transfer within or without this state any vehicle for salvage, except to a governmental agency, an automobile dealer, a vehicle dismantler, or a scrap processor licensed, registered or certified in accordance with the provisions of the vehicle and traffic law, or any such person meeting licensing, registration or certification requirements of the state in which such person does business. An insurer or its agents shall not purchase salvage vehicles or used major component parts of motor vehicles except from a registered vehicle dismantler or an automobile dealer.

(d) Insurers shall report private passenger automobiles involved in total losses, including the vehicle identification number and such other information as may be required, to a central organization engaged in automobile loss prevention as designated by the superintendent, in accordance with regulations of the superintendent. The central organization shall also be responsible for recording any special vehicle identification number issued by the commissioner of motor vehicles pursuant to subdivision two of section four hundred thirty-one of the vehicle and traffic law and in accordance with regulations of the superintendent.

(e) Prior to the payment of total losses, insurers shall comply with verification procedures in accordance with regulations of the superintendent.

(f) Police and other law enforcement agencies charged with the investigation of automobile thefts shall promptly report to the owner of the automobile and the central organization designated by the superintendent, all locations of private passenger automobiles reported stolen or found to be abandoned. In accordance with regulations of the superintendent, the central organization shall be responsible for receiving and recording such reports, and shall promptly transmit such information to the insurer of the automobile physical damage coverage.

(g) All policies providing automobile physical damage coverage shall include a provision authorizing the insurer to take the insured motor vehicle into custody for safekeeping, when notified that the motor vehicle reported stolen or found to be abandoned has been located.

(h) (1) The central organization designated by the superintendent and each insurer authorized to issue automobile comprehensive insurance policies covering losses incurred to private passenger vehicles shall upon request of any appropriate law enforcement agency or insurance organization engaged in automobile loss prevention release information in its possession resulting from an investigation conducted by it pertaining to such comprehensive loss, including information as such agency or organization deems related to its investigation. Should a central organization or the insurer be of the opinion that the loss was caused by any criminal or fraudulent act of any person or organization, or that an improper action occurred in the disposition of automobiles subject to the provisions of this section, it shall notify the appropriate law enforcement agency or insurance organization engaged in automobile loss prevention of that opinion, and it shall notify the department of financial services or department of motor vehicles of any improper action of their respective licensees or registrants.

(2) Any information or evidence furnished pursuant to this subsection shall be held in confidence by the appropriate agency or insurance organization engaged in automobile loss prevention, until such information is required to be released pursuant to a criminal proceeding, or if such agency or organization shall be served a summons or subpoena to testify as to any information or evidence in its possession regarding such automobile comprehensive loss in any civil action where an insured or other person is seeking recovery under a policy against an insurer for such loss.

§ 3413. Standard claim forms for fire losses. (a) (1) On or before April first, nineteen hundred eighty-two, the superintendent shall establish a standard claim form to be used for all fire loss claims under an insurance policy which is issued or issued for delivery in this state covering such losses for property located in this state.

(2) The superintendent shall investigate and review claim forms which are currently utilized prior to establishing such standard claim form.

(3) All insurers shall require the completion and filing of the standard claim form.

(b) The adoption of such standard claim form by the superintendent shall not preclude an insurer from obtaining any necessary additional information regarding a claim from the claimant or any other source.

(c) (1) The superintendent is authorized and empowered to take such action as he shall deem appropriate for the proper implementation hereof and to provide by regulation that any form which does not comply with this section shall not be issued or reissued.

(2) The regulation so promulgated shall specify an effective date, which shall not be less than one hundred eighty days after the date of promulgation, after which no insurer may require any claimant to complete a form differing from the one prescribed by the superintendent, other than additional requests for information pursuant to subsection (b) of this section.

§ 3414. Reports by insurers of certain casualty loss on property owned or operated by religious organizations. (a) Insurers shall report all claims in excess of two hundred fifty dollars filed for casualty losses resulting from desecration, vandalism and theft of religious articles sustained by a "Religious Corporations Law corporation", "incorporated church" or "unincorporated church", as such terms are defined in section two of the religious corporations law, to the division of criminal justice services for a period of twelve months commencing with the effective date of the rules and regulations required to be promulgated pursuant to subsection (b) of this section.

(b) Such division shall promulgate rules and regulations within ninety days of the effective date of this section detailing the contents of such reports which shall require at least the following information:

(1) name and address of the claimant;

(2) nature, substance and approximate dollar value of the claim;

(3) date and specific place in which the claim arose.

§ 3415. Supplemental claim form to be submitted for certain fire loss claims in excess of ten thousand dollars in a city with a population of one million or more persons. (a) For the purposes of this section, the following terms shall have the following meanings:

(1) "Supplemental claim form" means a form which shall be established by the superintendent and which shall be used as provided in this section for fire loss claims. The superintendent shall, within one hundred twenty days, promulgate regulations for the implementation of the supplemental claim form as provided herein.

(2) "Local fire investigation agency" or "agency" means an officer or agency of a city with a population of one million or more persons designated by the mayor of such city.

(3) "Fire loss claim" means a claim for fire loss in excess of ten thousand dollars under a policy covering real property located in a city with a population of one million or more persons, property permanently affixed to such real property or personal property, except motor vehicles, located on or within such real property against the perils of fire or explosion which is issued or issued for delivery in this state.

(b) Within thirty days after the effective date of this section, the mayor of a city with a population of one million or more persons shall designate a local fire investigation agency. Within sixty days after such designation the local fire investigation agency shall establish and shall thereafter maintain a central registry of those fires and explosions in such city which have been determined to be incendiary.

(c) All fire loss claims filed by an insured or an insured's representative after the effective date of a regulation promulgated by the superintendent establishing a supplemental claim form shall be subject to the provisions of this section.

(d) Within seven days after the receipt of a fire loss claim, the insurer shall contact the central registry maintained by the local fire investigation agency for information as to whether the fire or explosion which is the subject of the claim has been determined to be incendiary.

(e) Within seven days after the receipt of such request the local fire investigation agency shall advise the insurer whether or not the fire or explosion has been determined to be incendiary. If within such seven day period the agency advises the insurer that the fire or explosion has been determined to be incendiary, unless the insurer is reasonably satisfied that neither the insured nor any of its agents, officers, directors, or persons in control of or controlled by the insured intentionally started the fire or cause the explosion or acted in concert with another individual to start the fire or cause the explosion, the insurer shall require the insured to submit a supplemental claim form and shall withhold payment of the claim until a completed supplemental claim form has been received.

(f) The withholding of any payment pursuant to this section shall not constitute an unfair claim settlement practice within the meaning of section two thousand six hundred one of this chapter or any implementing regulation thereof.

(g) Within twenty days after receiving a completed supplemental claim form from an insured, the insurer shall file a copy with the local fire investigation agency.

(h) Supplemental claim forms shall not be subject to public disclosure under the freedom of information law or any other law which requires public disclosure of records maintained by a governmental agency.

(i) The supplemental claim form shall require the insured to provide the insurer with the following information:

(1) the name and address of the insured and of all persons with an interest of five percent or more in the proceeds of the claim;

(2) the names and addresses of all persons with an ownership interest in the property, any mortgagee, vendee in possession, receiver, executor or trustee;

(3) if any of the persons described in paragraphs one and two of this subsection is a trustee, the names and addresses of the beneficiaries of the trust;

(4) if any of the persons described in paragraphs one and two of this subsection is a partnership, the names and addresses of all the partners, including limited partners;

(5) if any of the persons described in paragraphs one and two of this subsection is a corporation (other than a banking organization as defined in section two of the banking law, a national bank association, a federal savings and loan association, the mortgage facilities corporation, savings bank life insurance fund, the savings bank retirement system, an authorized insurer as defined in section one hundred seven of this chapter or a trust company or other corporation organized under the laws of this state all the capital stock of which is owned by at least twenty savings banks or by at least twenty savings and loan associations or a subsidiary corporation all of the capital stock of which is owned by such trust company or other corporation or a corporation the shares of which are listed on a national securities exchange or regularly quoted in over-the-counter market by one or more members of a national or affiliated securities association) the names and addresses of all officers, directors and persons having an interest in more than ten percent of the issued and outstanding stock of the corporation.

(j) For the purposes of section 176.05 of the penal law, a supplemental claim form shall be considered to be a part of a claim for payment or benefit pursuant to an insurance policy and the information required in such form shall be considered to be material thereto.

§ 3416. Parametric insurance. (a) Except as provided in subsection (b) of this section, an insurer that issues a parametric insurance policy shall disclose the following information in the application for the insurance policy and in a prominent writing upon policy issuance and renewal:

(1) the policy is not a substitute for property insurance or flood insurance, as relevant, which generally provide more comprehensive coverage in the event of a loss; and

(2) a mortgagee or loss payee may not accept a parametric insurance policy.

(b) An excess line broker who procures a parametric insurance policy pursuant to section two thousand one hundred five of this chapter shall provide the disclosures required by subsection (a) of this section on behalf of the insurer.

§ 3420. Liability insurance; standard provisions; right of injured person. (a) No policy or contract insuring against liability for injury to person, except as provided in subsection (g) of this section, or against liability for injury to, or destruction of, property shall be issued or delivered in this state, unless it contains in substance the following provisions or provisions that are equally or more favorable to the insured and to judgment creditors so far as such provisions relate to judgment creditors:

(1) A provision that the insolvency or bankruptcy of the person insured, or the insolvency of the insured's estate, shall not release the insurer from the payment of damages for injury sustained or loss occasioned during the life of and within the coverage of such policy or contract.

(2) A provision that in case judgment against the insured or the insured's personal representative in an action brought to recover damages for injury sustained or loss or damage occasioned during the life of the policy or contract shall remain unsatisfied at the expiration of thirty days from the serving of notice of entry of judgment upon the attorney for the insured, or upon the insured, and upon the insurer, then an action may, except during a stay or limited stay of execution against the insured on such judgment, be maintained against the insurer under the terms of the policy or contract for the amount of such judgment not exceeding the amount of the applicable limit of coverage under such policy or contract.

(3) A provision that notice given by or on behalf of the insured, or written notice by or on behalf of the injured person or any other claimant, to any licensed agent of the insurer in this state, with particulars sufficient to identify the insured, shall be deemed notice to the insurer.

(4) A provision that failure to give any notice required to be given by such policy within the time prescribed therein shall not invalidate any claim made by the insured, an injured person or any other claimant if it shall be shown not to have been reasonably possible to give such notice within the prescribed time and that notice was given as soon as was reasonably possible thereafter.

(5) A provision that failure to give any notice required to be given by such policy within the time prescribed therein shall not invalidate any claim made by the insured, injured person or any other claimant, unless the failure to provide timely notice has prejudiced the insurer, except as provided in paragraph four of this subsection. With respect to a claims-made policy, however, the policy may provide that the claim shall be made during the policy period, any renewal thereof, or any extended reporting period, except as provided in paragraph four of this subsection. As used in this paragraph, the terms "claims-made policy" and "extended reporting period" shall have their respective meanings as provided in a regulation promulgated by the superintendent.

(6) A provision that, with respect to a claim arising out of death or personal injury of any person, if the insurer disclaims liability or denies coverage based upon the failure to provide timely notice, then the injured person or other claimant may maintain an action directly against such insurer, in which the sole question is the insurer's disclaimer or denial based on the failure to provide timely notice, unless within sixty days following such disclaimer or denial, the insured or the insurer: (A) initiates an action to declare the rights of the parties under the insurance policy; and (B) names the injured person or other claimant as a party to the action.

(b) Subject to the limitations and conditions of paragraph two of subsection (a) of this section, an action may be maintained by the following persons against the insurer upon any policy or contract of liability insurance that is governed by such paragraph, to recover the amount of a judgment against the insured or his personal representative:

(1) any person who, or the personal representative of any person who, has obtained a judgment against the insured or the insured's personal representative, for damages for injury sustained or loss or damage occasioned during the life of the policy or contract;

(2) any person who, or the personal representative of any person who, has obtained a judgment against the insured or the insured's personal representative to enforce a right of contribution or indemnity, or any person subrogated to the judgment creditor's rights under such judgment; and

(3) any assignee of a judgment obtained as specified in paragraph one or paragraph two of this subsection, subject further to the limitation contained in section 13-103 of the general obligations law.

(c) (1) If an action is maintained against an insurer under the provisions of paragraph two of subsection (a) of this section and the insurer alleges in defense that the insured failed or refused to cooperate with the insurer in violation of any provision in the policy or contract requiring such cooperation, then the burden shall be upon the insurer to prove such alleged failure or refusal to cooperate.

(2)(A) In any action in which an insurer alleges that it was prejudiced as a result of a failure to provide timely notice, the burden of proof shall be on: (i) the insurer to prove that it has been prejudiced, if the notice was provided within two years of the time required under the policy; or (ii) the insured, injured person or other claimant to prove that the insurer has not been prejudiced, if the notice was provided more than two years after the time required under the policy.

(B) Notwithstanding subparagraph (A) of this paragraph, an irrebuttable presumption of prejudice shall apply if, prior to notice, the insured's liability has been determined by a court of competent jurisdiction or by binding arbitration; or if the insured has resolved the claim or suit by settlement or other compromise.

(C) The insurer's rights shall not be deemed prejudiced unless the failure to timely provide notice materially impairs the ability of the insurer to investigate or defend the claim.

(d)(1)(A) This paragraph applies with respect to a liability policy that provides coverage with respect to a claim arising out of the death or bodily injury of any person, where the policy is: (i) subject to section three thousand four hundred twenty-five of this article, other than an excess liability or umbrella policy; or (ii) used to satisfy a financial responsibility requirement imposed by law or regulation.

(B) Upon an insurer's receipt of a written request by an injured person who has filed a claim or by another claimant, an insurer shall, within sixty days of receipt of the written request: (i) confirm to the injured person or other claimant in writing whether the insured had a liability insurance policy of the type specified in subparagraph (A) of this paragraph in effect with the insurer on the date of the alleged occurrence; and (ii) specify the liability insurance limits of the coverage provided under the policy.

(C) If the injured person or other claimant fails to provide sufficient identifying information to allow the insurer, in the exercise of reasonable diligence, to identify a liability insurance policy that may be relevant to the claim, the insurer shall within forty-five days of receipt of the written request, so advise the injured person or other claimant in writing and identify for the injured person or other claimant the additional information needed. Within forty-five days of receipt of the additional information, the insurer shall provide the information required under subparagraph (B) of this paragraph.

(2) If under a liability policy issued or delivered in this state, an insurer shall disclaim liability or deny coverage for death or bodily injury arising out of a motor vehicle accident or any other type of accident occurring within this state, it shall give written notice as soon as is reasonably possible of such disclaimer of liability or denial of coverage to the insured and the injured person or any other claimant.

(e) No policy or contract of personal injury liability insurance or of property damage liability insurance, covering liability arising from the ownership, maintenance or operation of any motor vehicle or of any vehicle as defined in section three hundred eighty-eight of the vehicle and traffic law, or an aircraft, or any vessel as defined in section forty-eight of the navigation law, shall be issued or delivered in this state to the owner thereof, or shall be issued or delivered by any authorized insurer upon any such vehicle or aircraft or vessel then principally garaged or principally used in this state, unless it contains a provision insuring the named insured against liability for death or injury sustained, or loss or damage occasioned within the coverage of the policy or contract, as a result of negligence in the operation or use of such vehicle, aircraft or vessel, as the case may be, by any person operating or using the same with the permission, express or implied, of the named insured.

(f) (1) No policy insuring against loss resulting from liability imposed by law for bodily injury or death suffered by any natural person arising out of the ownership, maintenance and use of a motor vehicle or an altered motor vehicle commonly referred to as a "stretch limousine" having a seating capacity of eight or more passengers used in the business of carrying or transporting passengers for hire, by the insured shall be issued or delivered by any authorized insurer upon any motor vehicle or an altered motor vehicle commonly referred to as a "stretch limousine" having a seating capacity of eight or more passengers used in the business of carrying or transporting passengers for hire, then principally garaged or principally used in this state unless it contains a provision whereby the insurer agrees that it will pay to the insured, as defined in such provision, subject to the terms and conditions set forth therein to be prescribed by the board of directors of the Motor Vehicle Accident Indemnification Corporation and approved by the superintendent, all sums, not exceeding a maximum amount or limit of twenty-five thousand dollars exclusive of interest and costs, on account of injury to and all sums, not exceeding a maximum amount or limit of fifty thousand dollars exclusive of interest and costs, on account of death of one person, in any one accident, and the maximum amount or limit, subject to such limit for any one person so injured of fifty thousand dollars or so killed of one hundred thousand dollars, exclusive of interest and costs, on account of injury to, or death of, more than one person in any one accident, which the insured or his legal representative shall be entitled to recover as damages from an owner or operator of an uninsured motor vehicle, unidentified motor vehicle which leaves the scene of an accident, a motor vehicle registered in this state as to which at the time of the accident there was not in effect a policy of liability insurance, a stolen vehicle, a motor vehicle operated without permission of the owner, an insured motor vehicle where the insurer disclaims liability or denies coverage or an unregistered vehicle because of bodily injury, sickness or disease, including death resulting therefrom, sustained by the insured, caused by accident occurring in this state and arising out of the ownership, maintenance or use of such motor vehicle. No payment for non-economic loss shall be made under such policy provision to a covered person unless such person has incurred a serious injury, as such terms are defined in section five thousand one hundred two of this chapter. Such policy shall not duplicate any element of basic economic loss provided for under article fifty-one of this chapter. No payments of first party benefits for basic economic loss made pursuant to such article shall diminish the obligations of the insurer under this policy provision for the payment of non-economic loss and economic loss in excess of basic economic loss. Notwithstanding any inconsistent provisions of section three thousand four hundred twenty-five of this article, any such policy which does not contain the aforesaid provisions shall be construed as if such provisions were embodied therein.

(2) (A) Any such policy shall, at the option of the insured, also provide supplementary uninsured/underinsured motorists insurance for bodily injury, in an amount up to the bodily injury liability insurance limits of coverage provided under such policy, subject to a maximum of two hundred fifty thousand dollars because of bodily injury to or death of one person in any one accident and, subject to such limit for one person, up to five hundred thousand dollars because of bodily injury to or death of two or more persons in any one accident, or a combined single limit policy of five hundred thousand dollars because of bodily injury to or death of one or more persons in any one accident; and any such policy insuring against loss resulting from liability imposed by law for bodily injury or death suffered by any natural person arising out of the ownership, maintenance, and use of an altered motor vehicle commonly referred to as a "stretch limousine" having a seating capacity of eight or more passengers used in the business of carrying or transporting passengers for hire, shall provide supplementary uninsured/underinsured motorists insurance for bodily injury, in an amount of a combined single limit of one million five hundred thousand dollars because of bodily injury or death of one or more persons in any one accident. Provided however, an insurer issuing any such policy, except a policy insuring against loss resulting from liability imposed by law for bodily injury or death suffered by any natural person arising out of the ownership, maintenance, and use of an altered motor vehicle commonly referred to as a "stretch limousine" having a seating capacity of eight or more passengers used in the business of carrying or transporting passengers for hire, in lieu of offering to the insured the coverages stated above, may provide supplementary uninsured/underinsured motorists insurance for bodily injury, in an amount up to the bodily injury liability insurance limits of coverage provided under such policy, subject to a maximum of one hundred thousand dollars because of bodily injury to or death of one person in any one accident and, subject to such limit for one person, up to three hundred thousand dollars because of bodily injury to or death of two or more persons in any one accident, or a combined single limit policy of three hundred thousand dollars because of bodily injury to or death of one or more persons in any one accident, if such insurer also makes available a personal umbrella policy with liability coverage limits up to at least five hundred thousand dollars which also provides coverage for supplementary uninsured/underinsured motorists claims. Supplementary uninsured/underinsured motorists insurance shall provide coverage, in any state or Canadian province, if the limits of liability under all bodily injury liability bonds and insurance policies of another motor vehicle liable for damages are in a lesser amount than the bodily injury liability insurance limits of coverage provided by such policy. Upon written request by any insured covered by supplemental uninsured/underinsured motorists insurance or his duly authorized representative and upon disclosure by the insured of the insured's bodily injury and supplemental uninsured/underinsured motorists insurance coverage limits, the insurer of any other owner or operator of another motor vehicle against which a claim has been made for damages to the insured shall disclose, within forty-five days of the request, the bodily injury liability insurance limits of its coverage provided under the policy or all bodily injury liability bonds. The time of the insured to make any supplementary uninsured/underinsured motorist claim, shall be tolled during the period the insurer of any other owner or operator of another motor vehicle that may be liable for damages to the insured, fails to so disclose its coverage. As a condition precedent to the obligation of the insurer to pay under the supplementary uninsured/underinsured motorists insurance coverage, the limits of liability of all bodily injury liability bonds or insurance policies applicable at the time of the accident shall be exhausted by payment of judgments or settlements. As used in this subsection, "motor vehicle" shall include fire vehicles, as defined in section one hundred fifteen-a of the vehicle and traffic law, and police vehicles, as defined in section one hundred thirty-two-a of the vehicle and traffic law.

(B) In addition to the notice provided, upon issuance of a policy of motor vehicle liability insurance pursuant to regulations promulgated by the superintendent, insurers shall notify insureds, in writing, of the availability of supplementary uninsured/underinsured motorists coverage. Such notification shall contain an explanation of supplementary uninsured/underinsured motorists coverage and the amounts in which it can be purchased. Subsequently, a notification of availability shall be provided at least once a year and may be simplified pursuant to regulations promulgated by the superintendent, but must include a concise statement that supplementary uninsured/underinsured motorists coverage is available, an explanation of such coverage, and the coverage limits that can be purchased from the insurer.

* (2-a) (A) Notwithstanding paragraph two of this subsection, this paragraph shall apply to any new insurance policy or contract subject to this subsection entered into after the effective date of this paragraph. This paragraph shall not be deemed to apply to any policies originally entered into prior to the effective date of this paragraph, but renewed after the effective date of this paragraph, or to any policy of commercial risk insurance. Any new insurance policy or contract entered into after the effective date of this paragraph shall, at the option of the first named insured, also provide supplementary uninsured/underinsured motorists insurance for bodily injury, in an amount equal to the bodily injury liability insurance limits of coverage provided under such motor vehicle liability insurance policy; provided, however, that a first named insured may exercise the choice to decline such supplementary uninsured/underinsured motorists insurance or select a lower amount of coverage through a written waiver signed, or electronically signed, by such insured, subject to the requirements of subparagraph (B) of this paragraph. Supplementary uninsured/underinsured motorists insurance shall provide coverage, in any state or Canadian province, if the limits of liability under all bodily injury liability bonds and insurance policies of any other motor vehicle liable for damages are in a lesser amount than the bodily injury liability insurance limits of coverage provided by such policy. Upon written request by any insured covered by supplemental uninsured/underinsured motorists insurance or a duly authorized representative and upon disclosure by the insured of the insured's bodily injury and supplemental uninsured/underinsured motorists insurance coverage limits, the insurer of any other owner or operator of another motor vehicle against which a claim has been made for damages to the insured shall disclose, within forty-five days of the request, the bodily injury liability insurance limits of its coverage provided under the policy or all bodily injury liability bonds. The time of the insured to make any supplementary uninsured/underinsured motorist claim, shall be tolled during the period the insurer of any other owner or operator of another motor vehicle that may be liable for damages to the insured, fails to so disclose its coverage. As a condition precedent to the obligation of the insurer to pay under the supplementary uninsured/underinsured motorists insurance coverage, the limits of liability of all bodily injury liability bonds or insurance policies applicable at the time of the accident shall be exhausted by payment of judgments or settlements.

(B) In addition to the notice provided, upon issuance of a policy of motor vehicle liability insurance pursuant to regulations promulgated by the superintendent, insurers shall notify insureds, in writing, of the availability of supplementary uninsured/underinsured motorists coverage. Such notification shall contain an explanation of supplementary uninsured/underinsured motorists coverage and the amounts in which it can be purchased. Subsequently, a notification of availability shall be provided at least once a year and may be simplified pursuant to regulations promulgated by the superintendent, but must include a concise statement that supplementary uninsured/underinsured motorists coverage is available, an explanation of such coverage, and the coverage limits that can be purchased from the insurer. If an insured elects to reject supplementary uninsured/underinsured motorist coverage or select a lower amount of supplementary uninsured/underinsured motorist coverage than the bodily injury liability insurance limits of coverage provided under the insured's motor vehicle liability insurance policy, the selection of lower supplementary uninsured/underinsured motorists coverage or rejection of such coverage must be made on a written or electronic form provided to the first named insured. Such form shall also advise that such coverage is equal to the insured's bodily injury liability limits under the motor vehicle liability insurance policy unless lower limits are requested or the coverage is rejected.

(i) The form shall also advise that supplementary uninsured/underinsured motorists coverage (sum coverage) provides insurance protection for any person included as insured under your policy if he or she is injured in an accident involving another motor vehicle whose owner or operator was negligent but who has either no bodily injury or liability insurance, or less than the insurance you carry. Sum coverage shall be equal to the level of the bodily injury liability coverage of your motor vehicle liability insurance policy unless you sign a waiver requesting lower coverage or declining the coverage. You are urged to carefully consider this decision.

(ii) An insured's written waiver shall apply to all subsequent renewals of coverage and to all policies or endorsements which extend, change, supersede, or replace an existing policy issued to the named insured, unless changed in writing by any named insured.

(iii) The selection of lower supplementary uninsured/underinsured motorists coverage or the rejection of such coverage by any first named insured shall be binding upon all insureds under such policy.

(C) Notwithstanding the provisions of subparagraph (A) of this paragraph, at the insurer's option, the insured's supplementary uninsured/underinsured motorists coverage limit may be required to equal the insured's bodily injury liability insurance limit under the motor vehicle liability insurance policy.

(D) An insurer may provide the coverage described in this paragraph available in an umbrella or excess liability policy if the umbrella or excess liability policy expressly provides such coverage.

* NB Repealed June 30, 2029

(3) The protection provided by this subsection shall not apply to any cause of action by an insured person arising out of a motor vehicle accident occurring in this state against a person whose identity is unascertainable, unless the bodily injury to the insured person arose out of physical contact of the motor vehicle causing the injury with the insured person or with a motor vehicle which the insured person was occupying (meaning in or upon or entering into or alighting from) at the time of the accident.

(4) An insurer shall give notice to the commissioner of motor vehicles of the entry of any judgment upon which a claim is made against such insurer under this subsection and of the payment or settlement of any claim by the insurer.

(5) This paragraph shall apply to a policy that provides supplementary uninsured/underinsured motorist insurance coverage for bodily injury and is a policy: (A) issued or delivered in this state that insures against liability arising out of the ownership, maintenance, and use of a fire vehicle, as defined in section one hundred fifteen-a of the vehicle and traffic law, where the fire vehicle is principally garaged or used in this state, or a police vehicle, as defined in section one hundred thirty-two-a of the vehicle and traffic law, where the police vehicle is principally garaged or used in this state; or (B) as specified in paragraph one of this subsection. Every such policy that insures a fire department, fire company, as defined in section one hundred of the general municipal law, an ambulance service, a voluntary ambulance service, as defined in section three thousand one of the public health law, or a police agency, as defined in section eight hundred thirty-five of the executive law, shall provide such supplementary uninsured/underinsured motorist insurance coverage to an individual employed by or who is a member of the fire department, fire company, ambulance service, voluntary ambulance service, or police agency and who is injured by an uninsured or underinsured motor vehicle while acting in the scope of the individual's duties for the fire department, fire company, ambulance service, voluntary ambulance service, or police agency covered under the policy, except with respect to the use or operation by such an individual of a motor vehicle not covered under the policy.

* (g) (1) Except as otherwise provided in paragraph two of this subsection, no policy or contract shall be deemed to insure against any liability of an insured because of death of or injuries to the insured's spouse or because of injury to, or destruction of property of the insured's spouse unless express provision relating specifically thereto is included in the policy. This exclusion shall apply only where the injured spouse, to be entitled to recover, must prove the culpable conduct of the insured spouse.

(2) (A) (i) Upon issuance of a motor vehicle liability policy and payment of a reasonable premium established in accordance with article twenty-three of this chapter, an insurer issuing or delivering any policy that satisfies the requirements of article six of the vehicle and traffic law and is subject to section three thousand four hundred twenty-five of this article shall provide coverage in such a policy issued to a first named insured who has indicated that such insured has a spouse on the insurance application, against liability of an insured because of death of or injuries to the insured's spouse up to the liability insurance limits provided under such policy even where the injured spouse, to be entitled to recover, must prove the culpable conduct of the insured spouse, unless a first named insured elects, in writing and in such form as the superintendent determines, to decline and refuse such coverage in the first named insured's policy. Such insurance coverage shall be known as "supplemental spousal liability insurance".

(ii) Upon written request of an insured, and upon payment of a reasonable premium established in accordance with article twenty-three of this chapter, an insurer issuing or delivering any policy that satisfies the requirements of article six of the vehicle and traffic law, other than as specified in item (i) of this subparagraph, shall provide coverage in such a policy against liability of an insured because of death of or injuries to the insured's spouse up to the liability insurance limits provided under such policy even where the injured spouse, to be entitled to recover, must prove the culpable conduct of the insured spouse.

(B) (i) Upon issuance of a motor vehicle liability policy that satisfies the requirements of article six of the vehicle and traffic law and is subject to section three thousand four hundred twenty-five of this article, the insurer shall notify a first named insured who has indicated that such insured has a spouse on the insurance application, in writing, that such policy shall include supplemental spousal liability insurance unless a first named insured declines and refuses such insurance, in writing and in such form as shall be determined by the superintendent. Such notification shall be contained on the front of the premium notice in boldface type and include a concise statement that supplemental spousal liability coverage is provided unless declined by a first named insured, an explanation of such coverage, and the insurer's premium for such coverage.

(ii) Upon renewal or amendment of a motor vehicle liability policy that satisfies the requirements of article six of the vehicle and traffic law and has supplemental spousal liability coverage under the policy, the insurer shall provide a notification to a first named insured that includes a concise statement that such policy includes supplemental spousal liability coverage unless declined by a first named insured in writing and in such form as shall be determined by the superintendent, an explanation of such coverage, and the insurer's premium for such coverage. Such notification shall be contained on the front of the premium notice in boldface type.

(iii) A written declination shall apply to subsequent policy renewals unless a first named insured requests supplemental spousal liability insurance.

(C) A notification of the availability of supplemental spousal liability insurance shall be provided upon policy issuance, other than for the policies to which the notification requirement in item (i) of subparagraph (B) of this paragraph applies, and at least once a year for all motor vehicle liability policies that satisfy the requirements of article six of the vehicle and traffic law, where the policy does not already provide supplemental spousal liability insurance. Such notice shall be contained on the front of the premium notice in boldface type and include a concise statement that supplemental spousal liability coverage is available, an explanation of such coverage, and the insurer's premium for such coverage.

* NB Effective until July 31, 2027

* (g) No policy or contract shall be deemed to insure against any liability of an insured because of death of or injuries to his or her spouse or because of injury to, or destruction of property of his or her spouse unless express provision relating specifically thereto is included in the policy as provided in paragraphs one and two of this subsection. This exclusion shall apply only where the injured spouse, to be entitled to recover, must prove the culpable conduct of the insured spouse.

(1) Upon written request of an insured, and upon payment of a reasonable premium established in accordance with article twenty-three of this chapter, an insurer issuing or delivering any policy that satisfies the requirements of article six of the vehicle and traffic law shall provide coverage against liability of an insured because of death of or injuries to his or her spouse up to the liability insurance limits provided under such policy even where the injured spouse, to be entitled to recover, must prove the culpable conduct of the insured spouse. Such insurance coverage shall be known as "supplemental spousal liability insurance".

(2) Upon issuance of a motor vehicle liability policy that satisfies the requirements of article six of the vehicle and traffic law and that becomes effective on or after January first, two thousand three, pursuant to regulations promulgated by the superintendent, the insurer shall notify the insured, in writing, of the availability of supplemental spousal liability insurance. Such notification shall be contained on the front of the premium notice in boldface type and include a concise statement that supplementary spousal coverage is available, an explanation of such coverage, and the insurer's premium for such coverage. Subsequently, a notification of the availability of supplementary spousal liability coverage shall be provided at least once a year in motor vehicle liability policies issued pursuant to article six of the vehicle and traffic law, including those originally issued prior to January first, two thousand three. Such notice must include a concise statement that supplementary spousal coverage is available, an explanation of such coverage, and the insurer's premium for such coverage.

(h) In this section, the term "insurance upon any property or risk located in this state" includes insurance against legal liability arising out of the ownership, operation or maintenance of any vehicle which is principally garaged or principally used in this state, or arising out of the ownership, operation, use or maintenance of any property which is principally kept or principally used in this state, or arising out of any other activity which is principally carried on in this state.

(i) Except as provided in subsection (j) of this section, the provisions of this section shall not apply to any policy or contract of insurance in so far as it covers the liability of an employer for workers' compensation, if such contract is governed by the provisions of section fifty-four of the workers' compensation law, or by any similar law of another state, province or country, nor to the kinds of insurances set forth in paragraph three of subsection (b) of section two thousand one hundred seventeen of this chapter.

(j) (1) Notwithstanding any other provision of this chapter or any other law to the contrary, every policy providing comprehensive personal liability insurance on a one, two, three or four family owner-occupied dwelling, issued or delivered in this state on and after the first of March, nineteen eighty-four, shall provide for coverage against liability for the payment of any obligation, which the policyholder may incur pursuant to the provisions of the workers' compensation law, to an employee arising out of and in the course of employment of less than forty hours per week, in and about such residences of the policyholder in this state. Such coverage shall provide for the benefits in the standard workers' compensation policy issued in this state. No one who purchases a policy providing comprehensive personal liability insurance shall be deemed to have elected to cover under the workers' compensation law any employee who is not required, under the provisions of such law, to be covered.

(2) The term "policyholder" as used in this subsection shall be limited to an individual or individuals as defined by the terms of the policy, but shall not include corporate or other business entities or an individual who has or individuals who have in effect a workers' compensation policy which covers employees working in and about his or their residence.

(3) Every insurer who is licensed by the superintendent to issue homeowners or other policies providing comprehensive personal liability insurance in this state shall also be deemed to be licensed to transact workers' compensation insurance for the purpose of covering those persons specified in this subsection.

§ 3421. Homeowners' liability insurance; dogs. 1. With respect to homeowners' insurance policies as defined in section two thousand three hundred fifty-one of this chapter, no insurer shall refuse to issue or renew, cancel, or charge or impose an increased premium or rate for such policy or contract, or exclude, limit, restrict, or reduce coverage under such policy or contract based solely upon harboring or owning any dog of a specific breed or mixture of breeds.

2. The provisions of this section shall not prohibit an insurer from refusing to issue or renew or from canceling any such contract or policy, nor from imposing a reasonably increased premium or rate for such a policy or contract based upon the designation of a dog of any breed or mixture of breeds as a dangerous dog pursuant to section one hundred twenty-three of the agriculture and markets law, based on sound underwriting and actuarial principles reasonably related to actual or anticipated loss experience subject to the applicable provisions of section three thousand four hundred twenty-five of this article.

§ 3422. Hate crimes; coverage refusal. (a) For purposes of this section, "insured" means a current policyholder or a person or entity that is covered under an insurance policy.

(b) This section shall apply to policies of insurance if the insured or proposed insured is:

(1) an individual;

(2) a business entity that is independently owned and operated and employs one hundred or fewer individuals;

(3) a religious organization;

(4) an educational organization; or

(5) any other nonprofit organization that is organized and operated for religious, charitable or educational purposes.

(c) An insurer that issues or delivers a policy in this state shall not cancel, refuse to issue, refuse to renew, or increase the premium of a policy or exclude, limit, restrict, or reduce coverage under such policy solely on the basis that one or more claims have been made against any policy during the preceding sixty months for a loss that is the result of a hate crime, as defined pursuant to article four hundred eighty-five of the penal law, committed against the person or property insured if the named insured provides evidence to the insurer that the act causing such loss is a result of a hate crime and that an insured was not the perpetrator of the hate crime.

(d) Nothing in this section shall prohibit an insurer from canceling, refusing to renew, increasing the premium of an insurance policy or excluding, limiting, restricting, or reducing coverage under such policy due to other factors that are permitted by any other section of this chapter, including the factors set forth in section two thousand three hundred three of this chapter.

§ 3425. Certain property/casualty insurance policies; cancellation and renewal provisions; agents' contracts and brokers' accounts. (a) This section shall apply to covered policies of insurance as defined in paragraphs one, two and three hereof.

(1) "Covered policy" means a contract of insurance, referred to in this section as "automobile insurance", issued or issued for delivery in this state, on a risk located or resident in this state, insuring against losses or liabilities arising out of the ownership, operation, or use of a motor vehicle, predominantly used for non-business purposes, when a natural person is the named insured under the policy of automobile insurance; provided, however, that the use or operation of the motor vehicle by a transportation network company driver as a TNC vehicle in accordance with article forty-four-B of the vehicle and traffic law or the use or operation of the motor vehicle through a peer-to-peer car sharing program in accordance with article forty of the general business law, shall not be included in determining whether the motor vehicle is being used predominantly for non-business purposes.

(2) "Covered policy" also means a contract of insurance, referred to in this section as "personal lines insurance", other than a contract of insurance defined in paragraph one hereof, issued or issued for delivery in this state, on a risk located or resident in this state, insuring any of the following contingencies:

(A) loss of or damage to real property used predominantly for residential purposes and that consists of not more than four dwelling units, other than hotels and motels;

(B) loss of or damage to personal property in which natural persons have an insurable interest, except personal property used in the conduct of a business;

(C) other liabilities for loss of, damage to, or injury to persons or property, not arising from the conduct of a business, when a natural person is the named insured under the policy; and

(D) parametric insurance, as defined in paragraph thirty-four of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter.

(3) A personal umbrella liability policy shall be considered a "covered policy" under paragraph two, and not paragraph one, of this subsection.

(4) A contract which insures any of the foregoing contingencies described in paragraph one or two hereof as well as other contingencies shall be a covered policy if that portion of the annual premium attributable to such foregoing contingencies exceeds that portion attributable to other contingencies.

(5) A covered policy shall not include a policy issued pursuant to any plan established under article fifty-three or fifty-four of this chapter or legal services insurance.

(6) "Renewal" or "to renew" means the issuance and delivery by an insurer, at the end of the policy period, of a policy superseding a policy previously issued and delivered by the same insurer, or the issuance and delivery of a certificate or notice extending the term of a policy beyond its policy period or term; provided, however, that any policy with a policy period or term of less than one year shall, for the purpose of this section, be considered as if written for a policy period or term of one year, or any policy with no fixed expiration date, shall, for the purpose of this section, be considered as if written for successive policy periods or terms of one year.

(7) With respect to personal lines insurance, "required policy period" means a period of three years from the date as of which a covered policy is first issued or is voluntarily renewed.

(8) With respect to automobile insurance, "required policy period" means a period of one year from the date as of which a covered policy becomes effective after first issuance or voluntary renewal.

(9) With respect to automobile insurance, "voluntary renewal" means the renewal of a covered policy which has completed the required policy period pursuant to this section.

(10) "Nonpayment of premium" means the failure of the named insured to discharge any obligation in connection with the payment of premiums on a policy of insurance or any installment of such premium, whether the premium is payable directly to the insurer or its agent, or indirectly under any premium finance plan or extension of credit. Payment to the insurer, or to an agent or broker authorized to receive such payment, shall be timely, if made within fifteen days after the mailing to the insured of a notice of cancellation for nonpayment of premium.

(11) "Administrative suspension" means a temporary suspension of a driver's license pending a hearing, prosecution or investigation or an indefinite suspension of a driver's license because of the failure of the person suspended to perform an act, which suspension will be terminated by the performance of the act by the person suspended.

(b) During the first sixty days a covered policy is in effect, no notice of cancellation shall be issued or be effective unless it states or is accompanied by a statement of the specific reason or reasons for such cancellation.

(c) After a covered policy has been in effect for sixty days, or upon the effective date if the policy is a renewal, no notice of cancellation shall be issued to become effective unless required pursuant to a program approved by the superintendent as necessary because a continuation of the present premium volume would be hazardous to the interests of policyholders of the insurer, its creditors or the public, or unless it is based on one or more of the following:

(1) With respect to automobile insurance policies:

(A) nonpayment of premium, provided, however, that a notice of cancellation on this ground shall inform the insured of the amount due;

(B) suspension or revocation during the required policy period of the driver's license of the named insured or any other person who customarily operates an automobile insured under the policy, other than a suspension issued pursuant to subdivision one of section five hundred ten-b of the vehicle and traffic law or one or more administrative suspensions arising from the same incident which has or have been terminated prior to the effective date of cancellation; or

(C) discovery of fraud or material mis-representation in obtaining the policy or in the presentation of a claim thereunder.

(2) With respect to personal lines insurance policies:

(A) nonpayment of premium, provided, however, that a notice of cancellation on this ground shall inform the insured of the amount due;

(B) conviction of a crime arising out of acts increasing the hazard insured against;

(C) discovery of fraud or material misrepresentation in obtaining the policy or in the presentation of a claim thereunder;

(D) discovery of willful or reckless acts or omissions increasing the hazard insured against;

(E) physical changes in the property insured occurring after issuance or last annual anniversary date of the policy which result in the property becoming uninsurable in accordance with the insurer's objective, uniformly applied underwriting standards in effect at the time the policy was issued or last voluntarily renewed; or

(F) a determination by the superintendent that the continuation of the policy would violate or would place the insurer in violation of this chapter.

(3) The provisions of this subsection shall apply to each and every coverage or limit afforded under the policy.

(d) (1) Unless the insurer, at least forty-five but not more than sixty days in advance of the end of the policy period, mails or delivers to the named insured, at the address shown in the policy, a written notice of its intention not to renew a covered policy, or to condition its renewal upon change of limits or elimination of any coverages, the named insured shall be entitled to renew the policy upon timely payment of the premium billed to the insured for the renewal. The specific reason or reasons for nonrenewal or conditioned renewal shall be stated in or shall accompany the notice. This paragraph shall not apply when the named insured, an agent or broker authorized by the named insured, or an insurer of the named insured, has mailed or delivered written notice to the insurer that the policy has been replaced or is no longer desired.

(2) If an insurer has the right to cancel a policy it may, in lieu of cancellation, condition continuation of such policy upon change of limits or elimination of any coverage not required by law, if written notice of such intention is mailed or delivered to the insured at the address shown in the policy at least twenty days prior to the effective date of such action.

(3) At its discretion, the insurer may, in lieu of renewing the policy in the form as last issued, substitute at the annual renewal date another approved policy form which contains at least substantially equivalent value in the aggregate of benefits, as determined by the superintendent. Notice of intention to substitute a different policy form on a renewal shall be made in the same manner as is prescribed in paragraph one of this subsection for a conditioned renewal but with respect to automobile insurance policies shall not be subject to the percentage limitations contained in subsection (f) of this section applicable to a conditioned renewal. Notice of intention to substitute a different policy form shall be accompanied by a full and clear comparison of the differences between the policy form as last issued and the substitute policy form.

(e) With respect to personal lines insurance policies, no notice of nonrenewal or conditional renewal of a covered policy shall be issued to become effective during the required policy period unless it is based upon a ground for which the policy could have been cancelled. With respect to homeowners' policies as defined in section two thousand three hundred fifty-one of this chapter, on properties located in areas served by a market assistance program established by the superintendent for the purpose of facilitating placement of homeowners' insurance, notices of cancellation, nonrenewal or conditional renewal shall conform with standards established by the superintendent in regulation. Such standards shall require that the notice include, at a minimum: notification of the possibility of eligibility for coverage through a market assistance program or the New York property insurance underwriting association; information on how to apply; and such other information as required by the superintendent.

(f) (1) With respect to automobile insurance policies, the total number (rounded to the nearest whole number) of notices of intention not to renew a covered policy, and of notices of intention to condition renewal upon reduction of limits or elimination of any coverages, which an insurer may issue shall be limited for each calendar year to two percent of the total number of covered policies of the insurer in force at last year-end in each such insurer's rating territory in use in this state which have completed their required policy period under this section, except as set forth in subsection (r) of this section. However, the insurer may non-renew or conditionally renew one policy in any such insurer's rating territory in use in this state, if the applicable percentage limitation results in less than one policy. Cancellations made pursuant to subsection (b) or (c) of this section shall be independent of and in addition to the number of notices of intention not to renew or to condition renewal upon reduction of limits or elimination of any coverages not required by law, permitted under this subsection.

(2) For every two new automobile policies which the insurer voluntarily writes in each such territory, such insurer shall be permitted to non-renew or conditionally renew one additional automobile policy in that territory in excess of the two percent limit established in paragraph one of this subsection, subject to a fair and nondiscriminatory formula developed by the superintendent, which shall consider the number of automobile policies written less cancellations initiated by the insurer within the first sixty days of the policy period.

(3) The superintendent shall revoke the rights of any insurer or group of insurers under paragraph two of this subsection, upon a determination, after a public hearing, that such an insurer or group of insurers has utilized such rights to the detriment of any class or group of classes within a rating territory.

(g) Notwithstanding any of the provisions and limitations of this section, any property/casualty insurance company organized for the sole and exclusive purpose of providing insurance policies to members of an organization, and providing such insurance policies on risks in New York, may refuse to renew automobile liability policies of persons who fail to meet the requirements contained in the by-laws of such company prohibiting the sale of policies to non-members of the organization, provided that such company shall continue to participate in any assigned risk plans established pursuant to article fifty-three of this chapter.

(h) (1) Proof of mailing of a notice of cancellation, reduction of limits, substitution of policy form, elimination of coverages, conditioned renewal or of intention not to renew, or proof of the mailing of the reasons therefor, to the named insured at the address shown in the policy, shall be sufficient proof of the giving of notice and the giving of reasons required by this section.

(2) No notice of cancellation, reduction of limits, substitution of policy form, elimination of coverages, conditioned renewal or of intention not to renew, or notice of the reasons therefor, that fails to include a provision required by this section shall be an effective notice for purposes of this section.

(3) A copy of every notice of cancellation, reduction of limits, substitution of policy form, elimination of coverages, conditioned renewal or of intention not to renew, including the reasons therefor, or a summary of such notice, shall be mailed, delivered or transmitted to the insured's authorized agent or broker within seven days of the time such notice is mailed to the named insured. Electronic transmission or any other means of delivery or transmission of information commonly used by the insurer to communicate with agents or brokers shall be deemed sufficient for compliance with this paragraph. Failure to mail, deliver or transmit a copy of such notice to the insured's authorized agent or broker pursuant to this paragraph shall not render any such notice ineffective, provided that all of the other requirements of this section are met and shall not be considered failure to include a provision required by this section for purposes of paragraph two of this subsection.

(i) No insurer shall refuse to issue or renew a covered policy solely on the ground of the advanced age of the applicant or insured.

(j) (1) Where an insurer or an agent who is authorized by such insurer to accept lines of insurance from licensed agents or brokers notifies a licensed agent or broker that its contract or account shall be terminated:

(A) with respect to a personal lines insurance policy required to be continued by this section, the insurer shall offer to continue the policy for any remaining part of the required policy period and any statutory extension and the insurer shall offer to continue the policy through the terminated agent or broker for at least its next one year policy period which commences within one year following the date of mailing or delivery to the terminated agent or broker of written notice of termination of such contract or account, and thereafter, at the specific request of the insured, shall offer to continue the policy through such terminated agent or broker for any remaining part of the required policy period including statutory extension;

(B) with respect to an automobile insurance policy subject to this section, the insurer shall offer to continue the policy for any remaining part of the required policy period and, unless the policy is cancelled or non-renewed in accordance with the provisions of either subsection (b), (c) or (f) of this section, it shall, at the specific request of the insured, offer to continue the policy through the terminated agent or broker for three successive one year policy periods which commence within the year following the date of mailing or delivery to the terminated agent or broker of written notice of termination of such contract or account;

(C) with respect to all new personal lines and automobile insurance business offered by such terminated agent or broker which is subject to the provisions of this section, the insurer shall accept all such business meeting the insurer's then current underwriting standards during the period of one hundred twenty days next following the date of mailing or delivery to the agent or broker of written notification of such termination;

(D) the terminated agent or broker shall be entitled to receive commissions on account of all business continued or written pursuant to this paragraph at the insurer's prevailing commission rate for such lines of insurance; and

(E) the provisions of subparagraph (B) hereof in relation to continuation of coverage for three successive one year policy periods are subject to the rights of the insurer pursuant to subsection (b), (c) or (f) of this section to cancel or non-renew. The provisions of subparagraph (D) hereof in relation to commissions shall not be mandatory after completion of the three one year policy periods provided for in subparagraph (B) hereof.

(2) This subsection shall not apply to an agent who agrees to represent exclusively one insurer or a group of insurers under common management or an agent or broker whose license has been revoked by the superintendent or whose contract or account has been terminated for insolvency, abandonment, gross and willful misconduct, or failure to pay over to the insurer moneys due to the insurer after receipt of a written demand therefor.

(k) The superintendent may, after public hearing, promulgate rules and regulations implementing and coordinating the provisions of this section and article fifty-three of this chapter.

(l) (1) The superintendent shall monitor the operation of this section. Every insurer subject to the provisions of this section shall file in the office of the superintendent periodic reports in such form as the superintendent may prescribe.

(2) The superintendent shall collect, analyze and compile such reports with regard to the number of new insureds, non-renewed insureds and business written by each insurer in each rating territory of each such insurer and, in each case, the class of insureds (including age and sex) affected so that a statistical analysis of the results obtained pursuant to subsections (f) and (m) of this section, and the reasons in the aggregate for the non-renewal of policies shall be provided to the speaker of the assembly, the temporary president of the senate, the chair of the assembly insurance committee, and the chair of the senate insurance committee on or before June thirtieth, two thousand twenty and every two years thereafter.

(m) (1) Paragraphs eight and nine of subsection (a), subsection (f) and subparagraphs (B) and (E) of paragraph one of subsection (j) of this section shall not apply to any new covered policy of automobile insurance voluntarily written on or after August first, nineteen hundred eighty-five and prior to January first, nineteen hundred eighty-six, and on or after August second, two thousand one and prior to the effective date of the property/casualty insurance availability act, and on or after June thirtieth, two thousand twenty-nine, but the legal rights granted to insurers or policyholders under such provisions shall not be extinguished or impaired thereby.

(2) In lieu of such provisions, paragraph seven of subsection (a), subparagraph (A) of paragraph one of subsection (j) of this section and paragraph three of this subsection shall apply to such automobile insurance policies that are newly and voluntarily written to have an effective date on or after August first, nineteen hundred eighty-five and prior to January first, nineteen hundred eighty-six, and on or after August second, two thousand one and prior to the effective date of the property/casualty insurance availability act, and on or after June thirtieth, two thousand twenty-nine.

(3) On and after August first, nineteen hundred eighty-five and prior to January first, nineteen hundred eighty-six, and on or after August second, two thousand one and prior to the effective date of the property/casualty insurance availability act, and on or after June thirtieth, two thousand twenty-nine, no notice of nonrenewal or conditional renewal of such covered automobile insurance policies referred to in this subsection shall be issued to become effective during the required policy period unless it is based upon a ground for which the policy could have been cancelled or unless it is based upon one or more of the following grounds that occurred during the thirty-six month period ending on the last day of the fourth month preceding the month of the effective date of such notice of nonrenewal or conditional renewal:

(A) Where a named insured and/or any other person who customarily operates an automobile insured under the policy is convicted of any of the following:

(i) operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated or impaired by the consumption of alcohol; or

(ii) operating a motor vehicle while impaired by the use of a drug (within the meaning of section eleven hundred ninety-two of the vehicle and traffic law); or

(iii) homicide or assault arising out of the use or operation of a motor vehicle, or criminal negligence in the use or operation of a motor vehicle resulting in the injury or death of another person, or use or operation of a motor vehicle directly or indirectly in the commission of a felony; or

(iv) operating a motor vehicle in excess of the speed limit, or in a reckless manner, where injury or death results therefrom; or

(v) operating a motor vehicle in excess of the speed limit, or reckless driving, or any combination thereof, on three or more occasions; or

(vi) operating a motor vehicle insured under the policy without a valid license or registration in effect (except when the person convicted had possessed a valid license or registration which had expired and was subsequently renewed), or during a period of revocation or suspension thereof, or in violation of the limitations applicable to a license issued pursuant to article twenty-one or article twenty-one-A of the vehicle and traffic law; or

(vii) operating a motor vehicle while seeking to avoid apprehension or arrest by a law enforcement officer; or

(viii) filing or attempting to file a false or fraudulent automobile insurance claim, or knowingly aiding or abetting in the filing or attempted filing of any such claim; or

(ix) leaving the scene of an incident without reporting; or

(x) filing a false document with the department of motor vehicles, or using a license or registration obtained by filing a false document with the department of motor vehicles; or

(xi) operating a motor vehicle in a race or speed test; or

(xii) knowingly permitting or authorizing an unlicensed driver to operate a motor vehicle insured under the policy.

(B) Where a named insured or any other person who operates a motor vehicle insured under the policy is individually or are aggregately involved in three or more vehicle accidents while operating a motor vehicle insured under the policy, resulting in either personal injury, or in property damage in excess of two hundred dollars. For the purpose of this paragraph any of the following occurrences involving a motor vehicle operated by a named insured or such other person shall not be considered an accident:

(i) such motor vehicle was struck in rear; or

(ii) such motor vehicle was struck while legally parked; or

(iii) only the operator of another motor vehicle involved in the accident was convicted of a crime, offense or violation contributing to the accident; or

(iv) the named insured or other operator of the motor vehicle insured under the policy, or the insurer thereof, was reimbursed by or on behalf of a person responsible for the accident or has a judgment against such person.

Where more than one motor vehicle in a household is insured by the same insurer, the number of accidents which would permit conditional renewal or non-renewal shall, as for the aggregate, be increased by two for each additional motor vehicle insured. For the purposes of this paragraph accidents occurring as a result of the use or operation of a motor vehicle in response to an emergency, where the operator was responding to a call of duty as a paid or volunteer member of any police or fire department, first aid squad, or of any law enforcement agency; or was performing any other governmental function in a public emergency, shall not be accidents which afford an insurer the right to cancel or to refuse to renew.

(C) Where there is a material change in the type of motor vehicle insured which so substantially increases the hazard insured against as to render the motor vehicle uninsurable in accordance with the insurer's objective, uniformly applied underwriting standards in effect at the time the policy was issued or last voluntarily renewed and which are currently in effect; provided, however, that if the insured motor vehicle is uninsurable for physical damage coverages only, the insurer must offer to renew the policy without the physical damage coverages.

(D) Where such other objective, uniformly applied standards for cancellation or non-renewal exists, as may be prescribed by regulation promulgated by the superintendent.

* (n) Notice of cancellation/real property escrow accounts. With respect to all covered policies for which the insurer submits bills for real property insurance premiums directly to a mortgage investing institution, or such other institution or agent as designated in writing by the mortgage investing institution, under a real property insurance escrow account, the insurer must send copies of a notice of cancellation for nonpayment of premiums to both (i) the insured mortgagor of the real property and (ii) the mortgage investing institution, or such other designated institution or agent. Failure to send this notice to both parties in paragraph (i) and paragraph (ii) shall render the notice of no force and effect.

* (n) Withdrawal from writing automobile and homeowners' insurance. In the event of a determination by the superintendent that an insurer's elimination of premium installment plans, reduction in commission, or any other marketing action was implemented to effectuate a withdrawal or substantial withdrawal from writing automobile insurance:

(1) an agent shall be permitted to terminate its contract with the insurer, or that portion of the contract authorizing the agent to accept automobile insurance, and the insurer shall be required to accept new business and issue renewals in accordance with paragraph one of subsection (j) of this section;

(2) notwithstanding the provisions of subparagraph (D) of paragraph one of subsection (j) of this section, where an agent's contract is terminated or a portion thereof is terminated pursuant to this subsection, commissions for automobile insurance shall be paid at the rate in effect applicable to the agent for the longest duration during the twelve-month period immediately preceding the action which is determined by the superintendent to have been implemented to effectuate a withdrawal or substantial withdrawal from writing automobile insurance;

(3) premium payment installment options shall be maintained in a manner substantially similar to options offered by the automobile insurance plan established pursuant to article fifty-three of this chapter;

(4) paragraphs one and two of this subsection shall not apply to an agent who agrees to represent exclusively one insurer or group of insurers; and

(5) with respect to homeowners' insurance, in the event that an insurer intends to materially reduce the volume of policies written pursuant to paragraph two of subsection (o) of this section, any commissions payable pursuant to an agent contract shall be mandatory for an additional one year period beyond the completion of the required policy period specified in paragraph seven of subsection (a) of this section. The provisions of this paragraph shall not apply to policies cancelled or nonrenewed by the insured or policies not renewed or cancelled pursuant to subparagraph (A), (B), (C), (D) or (E) of paragraph two of subsection (c) of this section.

* NB There are 2 sb§(n)'s

(o) (1) An insurer that intends to materially reduce its volume of policies written, covered by this section, shall submit to the superintendent, at least thirty days in advance of implementing such actions, a plan for orderly reduction that: (i) describes the contemplated actions; (ii) sets forth the reasons for such actions; (iii) describes the measures such insurer intends to take in order to minimize market disruption; and (iv) provides such other information as the superintendent may require.

(2) (A) An insurer that writes homeowners insurance policies as defined in subsection (a) of section two thousand three hundred fifty-one of this chapter, who intends to materially reduce its volume of such policies written, shall submit to the superintendent, at least sixty days in advance of implementing such actions, a plan for the orderly reduction of the number of policies written. Such plan shall: (i) describe the contemplated actions; (ii) set forth the reasons for such actions; (iii) describe the measures such insurer intends to take in order to minimize market disruption; and (iv) provide such other information as the superintendent may require.

(B) The superintendent after receiving such plan shall have thirty days in which to approve it or disapprove it. The superintendent shall approve such plan if the applicant demonstrates that such material reduction is accomplished in a manner that minimizes market disruption in areas of material reduction. In the review of each plan submitted prior to the submission of the report required by subparagraph (E) of this paragraph, the superintendent shall assess the impact of the planned withdrawal in the counties of Nassau and Suffolk; areas within one mile of a saltwater shoreline, canal or bay in the counties of Queens, Kings, Richmond, Bronx or Westchester; and areas where policies issued by the New York property insurance underwriting association have increased by an amount deemed significant by the superintendent since January first, nineteen hundred ninety-two. For plans filed subsequent to the submission of the report required by subparagraph (E) of this paragraph, the superintendent shall assess the impact of the planned withdrawal on such areas as the superintendent may identify pursuant to subparagraph (E) of this paragraph. In the event that the plan is disapproved, the superintendent shall state the points of objection with such plan and any amendments to such plan that the superintendent may require consistent with the provisions of this section, including, but not limited to, amendments designed to accomplish such material reduction in a manner that minimizes market disruption. The insurer shall file an amended plan within fifteen days from the date of return. Any intended withdrawal pursuant to the plan is prohibited until such time as the original or any amended plan is approved by the superintendent.

(C) The superintendent shall promulgate rules and regulations to establish standards for the definition of "materially reduce its volume of policies" as used in this paragraph. Such definition shall require that a plan be filed with the superintendent if the insurer plans to reduce the net number of homeowners insurance policies as defined in subsection (a) of section twenty-three hundred fifty-one of this chapter by twenty percent or more, or plans to reduce the net number of such policies it writes by five hundred, whichever is greater, within a five year period of time; provided, however, that if an insurer is not otherwise required to file a plan pursuant to this subparagraph, a plan shall be filed if the insurer plans to reduce the net number of such policies it has in force in a twelve month period by four percent or more or the net number of such policies it writes by one hundred, whichever is greater.

The provisions of this subparagraph shall not apply to policies cancelled or nonrenewed by the insured or policies not renewed or cancelled pursuant to subparagraph (A), (B), (C), (D) or (E) of paragraph two of subsection (c) of this section.

(D) The superintendent shall promulgate rules and regulations to establish standards to approve such an application and to define "minimizes market disruption."

(E) The superintendent shall conduct a study of market dynamics and homeowners insurance policies written as defined in subsection (a) of section twenty-three hundred fifty-one of this chapter, cancelled or nonrenewed in geographic regions as he designates, including but not limited to coastal regions, urban regions and rural areas and shall report such findings to the governor and legislature on or before February fifteenth, nineteen hundred ninety-eight.

(p) Notwithstanding the provisions and limitations of this section or any other provision of law, the superintendent may, for a stated period not to exceed three months (which the superintendent may thereafter extend another three months), declare a moratorium precluding policy termination, or suspend or otherwise adjust the provisions and limitations of this section, for any area of the state that has been declared by the president of the United States or by the governor to be in a state of emergency due to disaster or catastrophe.

(q)(1) Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, a covered policy shall not be subject to a required policy period if the policy is:

(A) a policy issued to an insured for a seasonal purpose;

(B) a policy issued to cover a specific event or particular project that will be performed in less than one year;

(C) a new policy where the specific term is made to coincide with the term of an insured's already existing covered policy with the same insurer; with any insurer, at the insured's written request; or, in the case of a personal umbrella policy, with different insurers. The new policy shall have the same required policy period as that of the existing policy, except where one policy is an automobile insurance policy and the other policy is a personal lines insurance policy; or

(D) a new policy issued pursuant to a mass merchandising program where the specific term is made to coincide with the term of all other policies in the program.

(2) In regard to a policy subject to subparagraphs (A) and (B) of paragraph one of this subsection, the insurer shall not be required to give the notice of nonrenewal or conditional renewal required by subsection (d) of this section if:

(A) the policy provides coverage for sixty days or less;

(B) the policy contains a prominent and explicit notice of expiration, specifying the date the policy will expire and stating that no notice of nonrenewal will be issued; and

(C) the policy is accompanied by a conspicuous notice in bold type, explaining that the policy provides short-term coverage for the policy period as specified on the declarations page.

(3) Subsection (f) of this section shall not apply to an automobile insurance policy subject to subparagraphs (A) and (B) of paragraph one of this subsection.

(r) An insurer that has no more than seven hundred fifty automobile insurance policies in-force at last year-end and intends to non-renew all of the policies shall submit to the superintendent a plan for the orderly nonrenewal of the policies. The proposed plan shall not become effective without the approval of the superintendent. The plan shall:

(1) describe the contemplated action;

(2) set forth the reasons for the action;

(3) describe the measures the insurer will take or has taken to minimize market disruption as set forth in subsection (o) of this section;

(4) explain why the action would not be detrimental to the interests of the people of this state; and

(5) provide any other information as the superintendent may require.

(s) With respect to automobile insurance, no insurer shall refuse to issue or renew a covered individually-owned private passenger policy solely on the ground that the motor vehicle to be insured under such policy shall be used for volunteer firefighting.

(1) "Covered policy" means, for purposes of this section, a policy of commercial risk insurance, professional liability insurance or public entity insurance, and shall include any contract, certificate or other evidence of such insurance.

(2) "Required policy period" means a period of one year from the date as of which a covered policy is renewed or first issued.

(3) "Nonpayment of premium" means the failure of the named insured to discharge any obligation in connection with the payment of premiums on a policy of insurance or any installment of such premium, whether the

premium is payable directly to the insurer or its agent, or indirectly under any premium finance plan or extension of credit. Payment to the insurer, or to an agent or broker authorized to receive such payment, shall be timely for the purpose of this section if made within fifteen days after the mailing to the insured of a notice of cancellation for nonpayment of premium.

(4) "Renewal" or "to renew" means the issuance or offer to issue by an insurer of a policy superseding a policy previously issued and delivered by the same insurer, or another insurer under common control, or the issuance or delivery of a certificate or notice extending the term of a policy beyond its policy period or term; provided, however, that any policy with a policy period or term of less than one year shall, for the purpose of this section, be considered as if written for a policy period or term of one year, and any policy with no fixed expiration date shall, for the purpose of this section, be considered as if written for successive policy periods or terms of one year.

(5) "Administrative suspension" means a temporary suspension of a driver's license pending a hearing, prosecution or investigation, or an indefinite suspension of a driver's license because of the failure of the person suspended to perform an act, which suspension will be terminated by the performance of the act by the person suspended.

(6) "Excess liability policy" means a policy of commercial risk, public entity or professional liability insurance, including a commercial umbrella policy, when written over one or more underlying liability policies that provide with respect to the same risk coverage of at least five hundred thousand dollars in the aggregate.

(7) "Hyper limits excess liability policy" means an excess liability policy of commercial risk, public entity or professional liability insurance, including a commercial umbrella policy, when written over one or more underlying liability policies issued by authorized insurers that provide with respect to the same risk coverage of at least ten million dollars in the aggregate.

(8) "Jumbo risk" means a business entity that generates gross revenues exceeding one hundred million dollars annually and that develops an annual liability premium for the policy of at least five hundred thousand dollars, but shall not include any public entity or not-for-profit corporation.

(9) "Renewal date" means the date specified in a conditional renewal notice, renewal certificate or in the renewal policy itself, for coverage under a renewal policy to take effect.

(10) "Blanket" or "mass" nonrenewal means a situation where the insurer within a six month period is nonrenewing policies representing more than one percent of a market.

(11) "Market" shall have the meaning ascribed by paragraph one of subsection (a) of section two thousand three hundred forty-four of this chapter.

(b) During the first sixty days a covered policy is initially in effect, except for the bases for cancellation set forth in paragraph one, two or three of subsection (c) of this section, no cancellation shall become effective until twenty days after written notice is mailed or delivered to the first-named insured at the mailing address shown in the policy and to such insured's authorized agent or broker.

(c) After a covered policy has been in effect for sixty days unless cancelled pursuant to subsection (b) of this section, or on or after the effective date if such policy is a renewal, no notice of cancellation shall become effective until fifteen days after written notice is mailed or delivered to the first-named insured and to such insured's authorized agent or broker, and such cancellation is based on one or more of the following:

(1) With respect to covered policies:

(A) nonpayment of premium provided, however, that a notice of cancellation on this ground shall inform the insured of the amount due;

(B) conviction of a crime arising out of acts increasing the hazard insured against;

(C) discovery of fraud or material misrepresentation in the obtaining of the policy or in the presentation of a claim thereunder;

(D) after issuance of the policy or after the last renewal date, discovery of an act or omission, or a violation of any policy condition, that substantially and materially increases the hazard insured against, and which occurred subsequent to inception of the current policy period;

(E) material physical change in the property insured, occurring after issuance or last annual renewal anniversary date of the policy, which results in the property becoming uninsurable in accordance with the insurer's objective, uniformly applied underwriting standards in effect at the time the policy was issued or last renewed; or material change in the nature or extent of the risk, occurring after issuance or last annual renewal anniversary date of the policy, which causes the risk of loss to be substantially and materially increased beyond that contemplated at the time the policy was issued or last renewed;

(F) a determination by the superintendent that continuation of the present premium volume of the insurer would jeopardize that insurer's solvency or be hazardous to the interests of policyholders of the insurer, its creditors or the public;

(G) a determination by the superintendent that the continuation of the policy would violate, or would place the insurer in violation of, any provision of this chapter; or

(H) where the insurer has reason to believe, in good faith and with sufficient cause, that there is a probable risk or danger that the insured will destroy, or permit to be destroyed, the insured property for the purpose of collecting the insurance proceeds, provided, however, that:

(i) a notice of cancellation on this ground shall inform the insured in plain language that the insured must act within ten days if review by the department of the ground for cancellation is desired pursuant to item (iii) of this subparagraph (H);

(ii) notice of cancellation on this ground shall be provided simultaneously by the insurer to the department; and

(iii) upon written request of the insured made to the department within ten days from the insured's receipt of notice of cancellation on this ground, the department shall undertake a review of the ground for cancellation to determine whether or not the insurer has satisfied the criteria for cancellation specified in this subparagraph; if after such review the department finds no sufficient cause for cancellation on this ground, the notice of cancellation on this ground shall be deemed null and void.

(2) With respect to that portion of a covered policy providing motor vehicle coverage, in addition to the basis for cancellation set forth in paragraph one of this subsection, suspension or revocation during the required policy period of the driver's license of any person who continues to operate a motor vehicle insured under the policy, other than a suspension issued pursuant to subdivision one of section five hundred ten-b of the vehicle and traffic law or one or more administrative suspensions arising from the same incident which has or have been terminated prior to the effective date of cancellation.

(3) With respect to professional liability insurance policies, in addition to the bases for cancellation set forth in paragraph one of this subsection, revocation or suspension of the insured's license to practice his profession or, if the insured is a hospital, it no longer possesses a valid operating certificate under section twenty-eight hundred one-a of the public health law.

(4) With respect to an excess liability policy, in addition to the basis for cancellation set forth in paragraph one of this subsection, cancellation of one or more of the underlying policies providing primary or intermediate coverage, where: (A) such cancellation is based upon paragraph one, two or three of this subsection; and (B) such policies are not replaced without lapse.

(5) Written notice of cancellation in accordance with this subsection shall be mailed or delivered to the first-named insured, at the address shown on the policy, and to the insured's authorized agent or broker.

(d) (1) After a covered policy has been in effect for sixty days, or on and after the effective date if such policy is a renewal, no premium increase for the term of the policy shall be made to become effective unless due to and commensurate with insured value added, subsequent to issuance or the last renewal date, pursuant to the policy or at the insured's request or, in lieu of cancellation, where such increase is based upon one or more of the grounds for cancellation set forth in subparagraph (D) or (E) of paragraph one of subsection (c) of this section.

(2) No covered policy which provides for a policy term of less than one year may be issued, or issued for delivery, in this state, except:

(A) a policy issued to an insured for a seasonal purpose;

(B) a policy issued to cover a specific event or particular project that will be performed in less than one year;

(C) a new policy where the specific term is made to coincide with the term of an insured's already existing policy with the same insurer, with any insurer at the insured's written request or, in the case of an excess liability policy, with different insurers;

(D) a group property/casualty policy or certificates, policies issued pursuant to a safety group or mass merchandising program, or a medical malpractice or for-hire vehicle policy whose expiration date is common to all other policies issued by an insurer; in any of which events the first policy period may be for a period of less than one year with subsequent renewals requiring at least a one year policy period, and any such policies issued since the effective date of this section may be amended to conform to a common expiration date; or

(E) where an insured requests a liability insurance policy with a term of less than one year from an insurer that offers such policies; provided that the insurer also offers the insured the option of purchasing a policy with a term of one year, and:

(i) the insurer writes the policy on an occurrence basis;

(ii) the insurer writes the policy on a defense cost outside limits basis;

(iii) the insurer may extend the policy, provided that:

(a) the coverage remains in effect at the same terms and conditions;

(b) the rate accords with the rates filed with the superintendent at the policy's inception; and

(c) the extension does not result in the policy period exceeding eleven months in total;

(iv) the policy has no annual aggregate liability limit but may have aggregate limits for the term of the policy, and such aggregate limits shall continue with any policy extension provided pursuant to item (iii) of this subparagraph;

(v) the policy does not provide medical malpractice coverage; liability insurance required by articles six, eight, or forty-four-B of the vehicle and traffic law or under any other financial responsibility law of this state; or public entity insurance;

(vi) the policy provides for a term of at least one month;

(vii) the policy does not contain a clause limiting the timely filing of a claim;

(viii) the policy provides for a return of premium on a pro-rata basis if the insured cancels or otherwise terminates the policy before the policy's expiration; and

(ix) the insurer provides a written disclosure to the insured that explains that a policy issued pursuant to this subparagraph may be more expensive than a policy with a term of one year.

(e) (1) A covered policy shall remain in full force and effect pursuant to the same terms, conditions and rates unless written notice is mailed or delivered by the insurer to the first-named insured, at the address shown on the policy, and to such insured's authorized agent or broker, indicating the insurer's intention:

(A) not to renew such policy; or

(B) to condition its renewal upon change of limits, change in type of coverage, reduction of coverage, increased deductible or addition of exclusion, or upon increased premiums in excess of ten percent (exclusive of any premium increase generated as a result of increased exposure units, pursuant to subsection (d) of this section, or as a result of experience rating, loss rating, retrospective rating or audit), except that with respect to an excess liability policy, the insurer may also, consistent with regulations promulgated by the superintendent, condition its renewal upon requirements relating to the underlying coverage, in which event the conditional renewal notice shall be treated as an effective notice of nonrenewal if such requirements are not satisfied as of the later of the expiration date of the policy or sixty days after mailing or delivery of such notice; or

(C) that the policy will not be renewed or will not be renewed upon the same terms, conditions or rates; such alternative renewal notice must be mailed or delivered on a timely basis and advise the insured that a second notice shall be mailed or delivered at a later date indicating the insurer's intention as specified in subparagraph (A) or (B) of this paragraph and that coverage shall continue on the same terms, conditions and rates as the expiring policy, until the later of the expiration date or sixty days after the second notice is mailed or delivered; such alternative renewal notice also shall advise the insured of the availability of loss information pursuant to subsection (g) of this section and, upon written request, the insurer shall furnish such loss information within ten days consistent with the provisions of such subsection.

(2) A nonrenewal notice as specified in subparagraph (A), a conditional renewal notice as specified in subparagraph (B), and the second notice described in subparagraph (C) of paragraph one of this subsection shall contain the specific reason or reasons for nonrenewal or conditional renewal, set forth the amount of any premium increase (or, where such amount cannot reasonably be determined as of the time the notice is provided, a reasonable estimate of the premium increase based upon the information available to the insurer at that time), and describe in plain and concise terms the nature of any other proposed changes specified in paragraph one of this subsection. The superintendent shall by regulation specify the permissible range of such estimate (which shall not exceed five percent of the actual amount) and the permissible methods by which an insurer may satisfy the notice requirements of this section.

(3) The notice required by paragraph one of this subsection shall be mailed or delivered at least sixty, but not more than one hundred twenty, days in advance of the expiration date of the policy, except that for an excess liability policy or a policy issued to a jumbo risk, the notice shall be mailed or delivered at least thirty, but not more than one hundred twenty, days in advance of the expiration date of the policy.

(4) Paragraphs one, two and three of this subsection shall not apply when the named insured, an agent or broker authorized by the named insured, or another insurer of the named insured has mailed or delivered written notice that the policy has been replaced or is no longer desired.

(5) (A) If the insurer employs an alternative renewal notice as authorized by subparagraph (C) of paragraph one of this subsection, the insurer shall provide coverage on the same terms, conditions, and rates as the expiring policy, until the later of the expiration date or sixty days after the mailing or delivery of the second notice described in such subparagraph, except to the extent that, prior thereto, the insured has replaced the coverage or elects to cancel, in which event such cancellation shall be on a pro rata premium basis.

(B) In the event that a late conditional renewal notice or a late nonrenewal notice is provided by the insurer prior to the expiration date of the policy, coverage shall remain in effect, at the same terms and conditions of the expiring policy and at the lower of the current rates or the prior period's rates, until sixty days after such notice is mailed or delivered, except to the extent that, prior thereto, the insured has replaced the coverage or elects to cancel, in which event such cancellation shall be on a pro rata premium basis; provided, however, that if the insured elects to renew on the basis of the conditional renewal notice, then such terms, conditions and rates shall govern the policy upon expiration of such sixty day period unless such notice was provided at least thirty days prior to the expiration date of the policy, in which event the terms, conditions and rates set forth in the conditional renewal notice shall apply as of the renewal date.

(C) (i) In the event that a late conditional renewal notice or a late nonrenewal notice is provided by the insurer on or after the expiration date of the policy, coverage shall remain in effect on the same terms and conditions of the expiring policy for another required policy period, and at the lower of the current rates or the prior period's rates unless the insured during the additional required policy period has replaced the coverage or elects to cancel, in which event such cancellation shall be on a pro rata premium basis.

(ii) Every notice mailed or delivered pursuant to this subsection shall advise the insured of the insured's rights to coverage and the duration thereof.

(6) Paragraph five of this subsection shall not create a new annual aggregate liability limit (if any) for the covered policy, except that the annual aggregate limit of the expiring policy shall be increased in proportion to the policy extension pursuant to such paragraph five; provided, however, that if the insured elects to accept the terms, conditions and rates of the conditional renewal notice pursuant to subparagraph (B) of paragraph four of this subsection, a new annual aggregate limitation (if any) shall become effective as of the inception date of the renewal, subject to regulations promulgated by the superintendent.

(7) Each insurer subject to this section shall adopt and implement reasonable standards and procedures to ensure compliance with the provisions of subparagraphs (A), (B) and (C) of paragraph one and paragraphs two and three of this subsection. Each such insurer shall maintain a written or electronic record of any notice not in compliance with such provisions. Such record shall indicate the expiration date of the policy, the date notice should have been sent, the date when notice was sent, the policy number, and the name and address of the insured. Such records shall be available for inspection upon request by the superintendent.

(8) No insurer may issue blanket or mass nonrenewal notices for any market, except upon submission to the superintendent, at least forty-five days in advance of mailing or delivery of such notices, of a plan for orderly withdrawal that describes the proposed nonrenewals, states the basis for such nonrenewals, and identifies any measures such insurer intends to take in order to minimize market disruption.

(9) This subsection shall not apply to a hyper limits excess liability policy except in regard to nonrenewal or to a policy of the type specified in subparagraph (A), (B), or (E) of paragraph two of subsection (d) of this section.

(f) If an insurer provides the notice described in paragraphs one, two and three of subsection (e) of this section, and thereafter the insurer extends the policy for ninety days or less, an additional notice of nonrenewal is not required with respect to the extension.

(g) (1) Every notice mailed or delivered by an insurer pursuant to this section shall advise the first-named insured and such insured's authorized agent or broker of the availability of loss information consistent with paragraph two of this subsection.

(2) Upon written request by the first-named insured or such insured's authorized agent or broker, the insurer shall mail or deliver the following loss information covering a period of years specified by the superintendent by regulation or the period of time coverage has been provided by the insurer, whichever is less, within ten days of such request:

(A) Information on closed claims, including date and description of occurrence, and any payments;

(B) Information on open claims, including date and description of occurrence, and amounts of any payments; and

(C) Information on notice of any occurrences, including date and description of occurrence.

(3) The insurer may charge a reasonable fee as determined by the superintendent only for such information provided upon request, but not for such information (even in the absence of a request therefor) required to be provided.

(4) For purposes of this subsection, the term first-named insured shall include an individual certificate holder under a property/casualty group policy with respect to such certificate holder's loss information.

(h) Every notice of cancellation issued pursuant to this section shall specify the grounds for cancellation and shall contain where applicable a reference to the pertinent paragraph or subparagraph of subsection (c) of this section. Every notice of nonrenewal issued pursuant to this section shall set forth or be accompanied by the reason for nonrenewal, and any such stated reason shall be valid and effective unless such reason violates this chapter or any other state or federal law.

(i) No cancellation, conditional renewal or nonrenewal notice that fails to include a provision required by this section shall be an effective notice for purposes of this section.

(j) The provisions of subsection (e) of this section, regarding conditional renewal shall apply to the master contract under a property/casualty group policy, but shall not apply to individual certificate holders under such group policy.

(k) (1) Subject to the rights of an insurer to cancel a policy pursuant to subsection (b) or (c) of this section, in the event that an insurer terminates the contract or account of a licensed agent or broker, the insurer shall offer in regard to any policy written through such terminated agent or broker to continue each such policy with that agent or broker for any remaining part of the required policy period.

(2) The terminated agent or broker shall be entitled to receive commissions on all business continued pursuant to paragraph one of this subsection at the commission rate applicable to such agent or broker at the time of termination.

(3) This subsection shall not apply to an agent or broker: (A) who exclusively represents one insurer or a group of insurers under common management; (B) whose license has been revoked by the superintendent; or (C) whose contract or account has been terminated due to the agent's or broker's insolvency or gross misconduct.

(l) (1) This section shall apply to any policy issued or issued for delivery in this state covering risks with multi-state locations, where the insured is principally headquartered in this state or where the policy provides that this section, as a matter of choice of law, is to govern the policy in regard to such locations.

(2) This section shall not apply to policies issued pursuant to a plan established under article fifty-three, fifty-four or fifty-five of this chapter, surety policies, policies providing workers' compensation or employers' liability coverage, financial guaranty insurance, policies providing mortgage guaranty or credit insurance, policies principally marine insurance as defined by paragraph twenty of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter, legal services insurance, reinsurance contracts, policies written on an excess line basis, or policies subject to section three thousand four hundred twenty-five of this chapter.

(m) Nothing in this section shall be construed to prohibit an insurer from providing terms more favorable to an insured or other party in interest with regard to cancellation, nonrenewal or conditional renewal; nor shall anything herein be construed to limit the grounds for which an insurer may lawfully rescind or suspend a policy or decline to pay a claim under a policy.

(n) (1) Except for subparagraphs (B) and (C) of paragraph five and paragraph seven of subsection (e), an insurer doing business in this state which violates the provisions of subsection (e) with such frequency as to indicate a general business practice shall be subject to the penalties provided in paragraph two of this subsection.

(2) If it is found, after notice and an opportunity to be heard, that an insurer has violated subsection (e) of this section, each instance of noncompliance with paragraph one of this subsection may be treated as a separate violation of this section for purposes of ordering a penalty pursuant to section one hundred nine of this chapter.

(o) The provisions of subsections (e) and (h) of this section shall not apply to a policy the term of which expires during the period commencing with the original effective date of this section and ending on the sixtieth day after such effective date, provided, however, that in the interim the provisions of former sections three thousand four hundred twenty-six and three thousand four hundred twenty-seven of this article as in effect on the day preceding the original effective date of this section shall apply, as if such sections were not repealed by a chapter of the laws of nineteen hundred eighty-six, but in the event any such policy is at any time reexecuted, renewed, altered, modified or amended, such provisions shall apply to such policy.

Definitions. As used in this section:

(1) "Covered policy" means, for purposes of this section, a policy or contract of gap insurance, issued or issued for delivery in this state, on a risk located or resident in this state.

(2) "Nonpayment of premium" means the failure of the named insured to discharge any obligations in connection with the payment of premiums on a policy of insurance or any installment of such premium, whether the premium is payable directly to the insurer or its agent, or indirectly under any premium finance plan or extension of credit. Payment to the insurer, or to an agent or broker authorized to receive such payment, shall be timely, if made within fifteen days after the mailing to the insured of a notice of cancellation for nonpayment of premium.

(b) Lessor gap insurance:

(1) A covered policy of lessor gap insurance shall be subject to all the provisions of section three thousand four hundred twenty-six of this article, except as otherwise provided in this section.

(2) Subject to the notice requirements of subsection (c) of section three thousand four hundred twenty-six of this article, a covered policy of lessor gap insurance may be cancelled only for:

(A) one or more of the bases for cancellation set forth in subparagraphs (A) through (D), and (F) through (H) of paragraph one of subsection (c) of section three thousand four hundred twenty-six of this article;

(B) material change in the nature or extent of the risk, occurring after issuance or last annual renewal anniversary date of the policy, which causes the risk of loss to be substantially and materially increased beyond that contemplated at the time the policy was issued or last renewed; or

(C) if the policy automatically provides coverage for the gap amount waived under new leases entered into by the lessor, or acquired by the lessor's assignee, the lessor's or assignee's (whichever is the insured) failure to provide, within sixty days or as otherwise specified in the policy, the insurer with the name and address of each lessee and other information reasonably required by the insurer.

(c) Lessee gap insurance: (1) Except as provided in this section, the provisions of sections three thousand four hundred twenty-five and three thousand four hundred twenty-six of this article shall not apply to a covered policy of lessee gap insurance.

(2) During the first sixty days a covered policy of lessee gap insurance is initially in effect, no cancellation shall become effective until twenty days after written notice is mailed to the first named insured at the mailing address shown in the policy, except for the bases for cancellation set forth in subparagraphs (A) through (H) of paragraph one of subsection (c) of section three thousand four hundred twenty-six of this article for which fifteen days notice shall be given.

(3) After a covered policy of lessee gap insurance has been in effect for sixty days, or on or after the effective date if the policy is a renewal, no cancellation or nonrenewal shall become effective until fifteen days after written notice is mailed or delivered to the first named insured at the mailing address shown in the policy and cancellation or nonrenewal is conditioned upon the termination of the lease for reasons other than a total loss of the personal property caused by its theft or physical damage, or is based on one or more of the reasons set forth in subparagraphs (A) through (H) of paragraph one of subsection (c) of section three thousand four hundred twenty-six of this article; except that where the lease is for ten years or longer, the policy may be cancelled or nonrenewed forty-five days after written notice is mailed or delivered to the first named insured at the mailing address shown in the policy if the cancellation or nonrenewal is to be effective upon the tenth anniversary date of the policy or any subsequent annual anniversary date.

(4) If the policy is not issued for a term coextensive with the length of the lease, the insurer shall renew it for successive terms for the duration of the lease, unless cancelled or nonrenewed in accordance with the provisions of this subsection.

(d) Creditor gap insurance:

(1) A covered policy of creditor gap insurance shall be subject to all the provisions of section three thousand four hundred twenty-six of this article, except as otherwise provided in this section.

(2) Subject to the notice requirements of subsection (c) of section three thousand four hundred twenty-six of this article, a covered policy of creditor gap insurance may be cancelled only for:

(A) One or more of the bases for cancellation set forth in subparagraphs (A) through (D), and (F) through (H) of paragraph one of subsection (c) of section three thousand four hundred twenty-six of this article;

(B) Material change in the nature or extent of the risk, occurring after issuance or last annual renewal anniversary date of the policy, which causes the risk of loss to be substantially and materially increased beyond that contemplated at the time the policy was issued or last renewed; or

(C) If the policy automatically provides coverage for the gap amount waived under new loans or other credit transactions entered into by the creditor or acquired by the creditor's assignee, the creditor's or assignee's (whichever is the insured) failure to provide, within sixty days or as otherwise specified in the policy, the insurer with the name and address of each debtor and other information reasonably required by the insurer.

(e) Debtor gap insurance:

(1) Except as provided in this section, the provisions of sections three thousand four hundred twenty-five and three thousand four hundred twenty-six of this article shall not apply to a covered policy of debtor gap insurance.

(3) After a covered policy of debtor gap insurance has been in effect for sixty days, or on or after the effective date if the policy is a renewal, no cancellation or nonrenewal shall become effective until fifteen days after written notice is mailed or delivered to the first named insured at the mailing address shown in the policy and cancellation or nonrenewal is conditioned upon the termination of the loan for reasons other than a total loss of the personal property caused by its theft or physical damage, or is based on one or more of the reasons set forth in subparagraphs (A) through (H) of paragraph one of subsection (c) of section three thousand four hundred twenty-six of this article; except that where the loan or other credit transaction is for ten years or longer, the policy may be cancelled or nonrenewed forty-five days after written notice is mailed or delivered to the first named insured at the mailing address shown in the policy if the cancellation or nonrenewal is to be effective upon the tenth anniversary date of the policy or any subsequent annual anniversary date.

(4) If the policy is not issued for a term coextensive with the length of the loan or other credit transaction, the insurer shall renew it for successive terms for the duration of the loan or other credit transaction, unless cancelled or nonrenewed in accordance with the provisions of this subsection.

(f) For purposes of this section, "property insured", as used in subparagraphs (E) and (H) of paragraph one of subsection (c) of section three thousand four hundred twenty-six of this article, means the property which is the subject of the lease or loan or other credit transaction.

(h) Every notice of cancellation issued pursuant to this section shall specify the grounds for cancellation.

(i) If a lessor, creditor or assignee charges the lessee or debtor for the waiver of the gap amount, the lessor or creditor, or, in the absence of a waiver by the creditor or lessor, the assignee, as part of the waiver offer, shall provide the lessee or debtor with a notice specifying the name of the insurer that has issued the lessor or creditor gap insurance policy, the cost of the lessor or creditor gap insurance coverage, and the charge for the waiver. Any person having been found, after notice and hearing, to have wilfully violated this subsection shall be liable to the people of this state for a civil penalty in a sum not exceeding five hundred dollars for each violation.

(j) Notwithstanding any other provision of this chapter, the cancellation and nonrenewal provisions of this section shall apply only to the gap insurance provisions of a policy or contract that also provides other coverages and the gap insurance coverage shall be severable from the other coverages for the purposes of cancellation and nonrenewal; except that lessor or debtor gap insurance coverage included within a policy insuring a mobile home shall be subject to the cancellation and nonrenewal requirements applicable to the mobile home policy.

(k) Notwithstanding section three thousand four hundred thirty-five of this article, a covered policy of lessor or creditor gap insurance that insures a lessor or creditor and the lessor's or creditor's assignees shall not be considered a group insurance policy.

(l) The superintendent may prescribe by regulation minimum policy provisions for gap insurance which the superintendent deems to be necessary or appropriate for lessor gap insurance, creditor gap insurance, lessee gap insurance and debtor gap insurance contracts or policies.

§ 3428. Cancellation of insurance contracts; return premiums; financed insurance premiums. (a) Except as provided in subsection (e) of this section, whenever an insurance contract made or issued in this state is cancelled or otherwise terminated by the insured before the expiration thereof in accordance with the terms of such contract, the earned premium to be retained by the insurer shall be determined by the applicable rate filing, if any, otherwise in accordance with the provisions of such contract.

(b) No authorized insurer or its agent may knowingly accept payment of premiums, for an insurance contract made or issued in this state, advanced under a premium finance agreement as defined in section five hundred fifty-four of the banking law by or for any person, firm, corporation or association who is not authorized either to engage in the business of a premium finance agency or to make loans for the purpose of financing insurance premiums in accordance with the banking law, or to include an amount for insurance in a retail instalment contract or obligation in accordance with the personal property law.

(c) No authorized insurer shall honor a power of attorney or other authority to cancel an insurance contract executed by an insured in connection with insurance premium financing, except in accordance with section five hundred seventy-six of the banking law. Voluntary advancement of a premium to the insurer by an agent or broker, where no additional charge over and above the premium has been imposed upon the insured and the insured has not signed a note or other obligation to pay the premium shall not be construed to be within the meaning of insurance premium finance agreement as defined in article twelve-b of the banking law.

(d) Whenever an insurance contract the premiums for which are advanced under a premium finance agreement as defined in section five hundred fifty-four of the banking law, is cancelled, the insurer or insurers within a reasonable time not to exceed sixty days after the effective date of the cancellation shall return whatever gross unearned premiums are due under the insurance contract or contracts to the bank, lending institution, premium finance agency or sales finance company, for the benefit of the insured.

(e) Whenever an insurance contract, issued by or on behalf of an authorized insurer or insurers, the premiums for which are advanced under a premium finance agreement as defined in section five hundred fifty-four of the banking law, is cancelled, upon such cancellation the authorized insurer or insurers shall return the gross unearned premiums due under the insurance contract or contracts, on a pro rata basis to the bank, lending institution, premium finance agency or premium finance company, for the benefit of the insured, provided, however, that such authorized insurer or insurers shall be entitled to retain a minimum earned premium on the policy of ten percent of the gross premium or sixty dollars, whichever is greater.

§ 3429. Geographical location of risks; fire, fire and extended coverage policies; private passenger automobile insurance policies. (a) No insurer shall refuse to issue or renew or shall cancel a policy of:

(1) fire insurance or fire and extended coverage insurance, or

(2) automobile insurance subject to section three thousand four hundred twenty-five of this article based solely on the geographical location of the risk within this state. Such prohibition shall not preclude an insurer from refusing to issue or renew or from cancelling such policies based on sound underwriting and actuarial principles reasonably related to actual or anticipated loss experience subject to the applicable provisions of section three thousand four hundred twenty-five of this article.

(b) The superintendent shall by regulation establish procedures with respect to notification to insureds of the insurer's specific reason or reasons for refusal to issue or renew or for cancellation of such policy.

§ 3429-a. Geographical location of risks in area serviced by a volunteer fire department; fire, fire and extended coverage policies. (a) No insurer shall refuse to issue or renew or shall cancel a homeowner's insurance policy including fire insurance or fire and extended coverage insurance based solely on the insured residing in an area that is serviced by a volunteer fire department. Such prohibition shall not preclude an insurer from refusing to issue or renew or from canceling such policies based on sound underwriting and actuarial principles reasonably related to actual or anticipated loss experience subject to the applicable provisions of section three thousand four hundred twenty-five of this article.

(b) The superintendent shall by regulation establish procedures with respect to notification to insureds of the insurer's specific reason or reasons for refusal to issue or renew or for cancellation of such policy.

§ 3430. Right of insured, agent or broker aggrieved on basis of geographical location of property or risks. (a) An insured aggrieved by an inability to obtain:

(1) homeowner's insurance, including fire insurance or fire and extended coverage insurance, other than from the New York property insurance underwriting association, or

from any insurer or through any insurance agent or broker because of the geographical location of the risk or property within the state or a licensed agent or broker whose contract or account was terminated or not renewed because of the geographical location of the agent or broker or the geographical location of the risks within the state for which coverage is afforded through the agent or broker and the grievance was not the result of the application of sound underwriting and actuarial principles reasonably related to actual or anticipated loss experience may file a complaint to that effect with the superintendent on a form prescribed by him.

(b) The superintendent shall investigate the complaint pursuant to rules and regulations promulgated by him. In addition to any other power or procedure authorized by this chapter, the superintendent may require the physical inspection of the risk or property or hold a hearing, or both, for the purpose of assisting him in his determination of the issues raised by the complaint.

§ 3431. Immunity; insurers' reports to insureds, to applicants for insurance and to terminated agents or brokers. (a) In any written notice of:

(1) refusal to issue,

(2) cancellation,

(3) reduction of limits,

(4) substitution of policy form,

(5) elimination of coverages,

(6) conditioned renewal,

(7) non-renewal, or

(8) termination or refusal to renew a contract or account of a licensed agent or broker, or in any other communication, oral or written, specifying the reasons for such action, there shall be no liability on the part of, and no cause of action of any nature shall arise against any insurer, its authorized representatives, agents, or employees or any licensed agent or broker for any statement made in good faith by any of them or for providing information pertaining thereto or for statements made or evidence submitted at any hearings in connection therewith.

(b) Subsection (a) hereof shall provide immunity with respect to all obligations and duties performed pursuant to sections three thousand four hundred twenty-five, three thousand four hundred twenty-six, three thousand four hundred twenty-nine and three thousand four hundred thirty-three of this article.

(c) Notwithstanding subsection (a) hereof in the case of any statement made pursuant to section three thousand four hundred twenty-six of this article, there shall be no liability unless the statement is shown to have been in bad faith and with malice in fact.

§ 3432. Immunity; reports to certain public officials and to designated organizations. (a) In the absence of fraud or bad faith, there shall be no liability on the part of, and no cause of action of any nature shall arise against, an insurer or a hospital or any person acting on their behalf, with respect to obligations and duties performed pursuant to the sections referred to in subsection (b) hereof.

(b) The immunity shall apply to:

(1) reports and statements, made in good faith, to the commissioner of motor vehicles required by subsection (l) of section three thousand four hundred eleven of this article;

(2) information, reports, notification and assistance in investigations, made in the absence of fraud or bad faith, pursuant to section three thousand four hundred twelve of this article and this immunity extends to a central organization designated by the superintendent pursuant to such section or any person acting on its behalf;

(3) reports required by section three hundred fifteen of this chapter, made in good faith (which shall be presumed) and without malice, and this immunity includes any liability, civil or criminal;

(4) information, reports, assistance in investigations, notification, made in the absence of fraud or bad faith, to any authorized law enforcement agency pursuant to section three hundred nineteen of this chapter, and this immunity, civil or criminal, extends to an authorized law enforcement agency defined in such section or any person acting on its behalf; and

(5) reports required by section three hundred eighteen of this chapter, made in the absence of fraud or bad faith, to a central organization designated by the superintendent, and this immunity extends to the central organization or any person acting on its behalf.

(6) information required by the insurer or provided by the insurer in the absence of fraud or bad faith to a local fire investigation agency pursuant to section three thousand four hundred fifteen of this article.

§ 3433. Termination of contracts or accounts of licensed agents or brokers; prohibition; geographical location. (a) No insurer shall terminate or refuse to renew a contract or account of a licensed agent or broker who negotiated policies of:

(1) fire insurance or fire and extended coverage insurance or

(2) automobile insurance subject to section three thousand four hundred twenty-five of this article when such termination or refusal to renew is based solely on the geographical location of the agent or broker or of the risks for which coverage is afforded through such agent or broker.

(b) The superintendent shall by regulation establish procedures requiring notification to such agents or brokers of the insurer's specific reason or reasons for termination or refusal to renew the agent's or broker's contract or account.

§ 3435. Group property/casualty insurance.

(a) This section shall apply to public entities as defined in section one hundred seven of this chapter, organizations described by section 501(c)(3) of the United States internal revenue code, charitable corporations as defined in paragraph (a) of section one hundred two (Definitions) of the not-for-profit corporation law and formed pursuant to paragraph (a) of section two hundred one of the not-for-profit corporation law, and organizations described by section two hundred sixteen-a of the education law.

(b) Notwithstanding any other provision of this chapter, group coverage for homogeneous groups formed for purposes other than obtaining insurance may be approved, subject to regulations to be promulgated by the superintendent, for the kinds of insurance permitted in subsection

(c) of this section, provided such policies shall be available to all eligible members of such group upon application.

(c) Group policies may be written pursuant to this section for any of the kinds of insurance authorized by subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter, except the kinds of insurance authorized by paragraphs one, two, three, sixteen, seventeen, eighteen, twenty-one, twenty-two, twenty-three and twenty-five of such subsection.

(d) Group policies approved pursuant to this section shall not be eligible for the filing exemptions specified in section six thousand three hundred one of this chapter.

§ 3435-a. Motor vehicle insurance policies; New York state licensed drivers; prohibitions against refusing to issue policies or renew policies. (a) Insurers shall be prohibited from refusing to issue a motor vehicle liability insurance policy to any person with a valid New York state driver's license which has been maintained by such person for at least thirty-nine months prior to the time of application for such policy of insurance solely on the basis that such person has not owned or leased a vehicle during such period, unless such decision is based on sound underwriting and actuarial principles reasonably related to actual or anticipated loss experience. Provided, however, that an applicant demonstrating a continuous, valid out-of-state or out-of-country driver's license during such thirty-nine month period due to active service in the United States army, navy, air force, space force or marines shall be treated as if continuous licensing had been maintained in New York and such person shall not be rejected based solely on the fact that such person served in the military.

(b) Insurers shall be prohibited from refusing to renew an existing motor vehicle liability insurance policy solely upon the basis of the named insured having reached sixty years of age and shall be prohibited for the purpose of policy renewal from requesting a physical examination or medical questionnaire solely on the basis of the named insured having reached sixty years of age unless such decision is based on sound underwriting and actuarial principles reasonably related to actual or anticipated loss experience.

(c) Insurers shall be prohibited from refusing to renew an existing motor vehicle liability insurance policy solely upon the basis of the age of the motor vehicle to be insured unless such decision is based on sound underwriting and actuarial principles reasonably related to actual or anticipated loss experience.

 § 3436. Medical malpractice insurance; type of coverage. (a) Every insurer which issues or renews policies for primary levels of medical malpractice insurance covering physicians licensed to practice in this state shall issue such policies on a claims-made or occurrence basis, as prescribed by the superintendent by regulation; provided, further, that nothing in this section shall preclude any insurer from applying otherwise applicable underwriting standards in determining whether to issue or renew such policies.

(b) A claims-made policy shall contain the following provisions:

(1) if the insured has purchased a claims-made policy from an admitted insurer for a period of five or more consecutive years and the insured, after attaining the age of sixty-five or older, retires permanently and totally from the practice of medicine or if the insured has purchased such a policy for a period of ten or more consecutive years, and the insured, after attaining the age of fifty-five or older, retires permanently and totally from the practice of medicine, the insurer shall, without charging an additional premium therefor at the time of, or subsequent to, such retirement, also cover all occurrences between the inception date of the first such consecutive policy from such insurer and such retirement date which, subsequent to the termination date, are reported in accordance with statutory and policy requirements;

(2) if the insured dies or becomes permanently disabled and unable to practice medicine while covered by such a policy, the insurer shall, without charging an additional premium therefor at the time of, or subsequent to, such event, also cover all occurrences between the inception date of the first such consecutive policy from such insurer and the death or disability of the insured; and

and the termination of such policy which, subsequent to the termination date, are reported in accordance with statutory and policy requirements, pursuant to such terms and conditions as may be specified by the superintendent by regulation. The insured shall have the option of purchasing such coverage either in a single payment, or in three annual installments with an additional finance charge.

(c) Such regulation shall also provide that if the coverage of an insured who continues to practice in this state is transferred from an admitted insurer or the medical malpractice insurance association to another admitted insurer or the medical malpractice insurance association without any gap in coverage, the former entity shall pay over to the successor an actuarially appropriate dollar amount to provide for the requirements of subsection (b) of this section, and the insured shall be entitled to the benefits of such subsection as if such insured had been continuously covered by the successor entity during the entire period of consecutive years of coverage.

(d) Such regulation shall also provide that if the coverage of an insured is transferred from an insurer in liquidation to another insurer not in liquidation without any gap in coverage, then the successor entity shall accept the amounts payable from the property-casualty insurance security fund as provided in subparagraph (G) of paragraph one of subsection (a) of section seven thousand six hundred three of this chapter, to provide for the requirements of subsections (b) and (c) of this section, and the insured shall be entitled to the benefits of such subsections as if such insured had been continuously covered by the successor entity during the entire period of consecutive years of coverage.

(e) An insurer may issue a claims-made policy with more liberal policy provisions than are required in this section, subject to the approval of the superintendent. Such liberal policy provisions may include but not be limited to a provision which, for all of the policyholders of the insurer, grants credit toward the cost of the coverage provided in subsection (b) of this section in proportion to the number of years the insured has purchased a claims-made policy.

* NB There are 2 § 3436's

 § 3436. Group credit unemployment insurance and individual credit unemployment insurance. (a) Any policy of credit unemployment insurance which covers more than one person shall be deemed a group credit unemployment policy.

(b) No policy of group credit unemployment insurance, and no certificate thereunder, shall be delivered or issued for delivery in this state unless it conforms to the requirements of this section and section three thousand two hundred one of this chapter.

(c) A policy of group credit unemployment insurance may only be issued to a creditor, vendor, trustee, trustees or agent insuring a group of debtors or vendees, all as defined and set forth in paragraph three of subsection (b) of section four thousand two hundred sixteen of this chapter and under the same conditions and limitations and subject to the definitions as specified therein; provided, however, that the amount of benefits payable with respect to any person insured thereunder shall not at any time exceed:

(1) in all cases except as hereinafter provided the lesser of fifty-five thousand dollars and the total of payments scheduled to be paid by the person to whom credit has been extended;

(2) in the case of a loan commitment pursuant to a program for defraying the cost of attendance of a student at a college or university or at an elementary or secondary school providing education for minors, the lesser of fifty-five thousand dollars and the total amount of the unpaid balance of the scheduled periodic payments whether due or not due and the amount of any outstanding loan commitment pursuant to such a program;

(3) in the case of a transaction secured by a real estate mortgage, the lesser of one hundred ten thousand dollars and the total of payments scheduled to be paid by the person to whom credit has been extended; or

(4) in all cases the amounts of the payment or payments due during the period of unemployment of the covered person, excluding such amounts which may have become due by acceleration or default.

(d) Benefits under a policy of group credit unemployment insurance may be provided to a debtor or vendee only if such debtor or vendee qualifies for unemployment insurance benefits in this state pursuant to article eighteen of the labor law or would qualify thereunder but for exclusion therefrom pursuant to subdivision three, four, five, six, ten or eleven of section five hundred eleven of the labor law, or by reason of exhaustion of benefits or length of employment. No insurance company writing a policy permitted by this section shall, directly or indirectly, through an agent or representative, have standing to participate in a hearing or court proceeding in which the eligibility for unemployment insurance benefits of an insured under this section shall be in controversy, unless the insured was an employee of said company.

(e) Credit unemployment insurance may be written separately or in combination with all or any of the kinds of insurance authorized in paragraphs three, seven and twenty of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter. The superintendent may by regulation prohibit or limit any combination based upon the amount of insured indebtedness or the amount of premium. The premium rate for each kind of insurance shall be disclosed and the total premium charge for the combination shall likewise be disclosed.

(f) Acceptance of credit unemployment insurance by a debtor must be voluntary and not a condition of extending credit nor a factor in the cost of the credit agreement other than the cost of credit unemployment insurance. The insurance agreement must be signed and dated separately from the request for credit and must clearly and conspicuously disclose to the debtor (1) that the insurance coverage is not required by the creditor and (2) the cost of the credit unemployment insurance.

(g) (1) Any dividend hereafter apportioned on any participating group insurance policy, or any rate reduction hereafter made or continued on any non-participating group policy for the first or any subsequent year of insurance under any such policy heretofore or hereafter issued under this section, may be applied to reduce the policyholder's part of the cost of such policy, except that the excess, if any, of the insured's aggregate contribution under the policy over the net cost (gross premium less dividends or rate reductions) of the insurance shall be applied at the discretion of the insurer either as a cash payment to the insured or to reduce the insured's premium. If a dividend or rate reduction is payable upon termination of the policy the insurer shall either make payment to the insured or to the policyholder upon receipt of a certification from the policyholder that the dividend or rate reduction will be distributed by the policyholder to the insureds or applied to reduce the insured's premium.

(2) The provisions of paragraph one of this subsection shall apply to New York residents insured under a policy issued in any other jurisdiction to a group which is described in this section.

* NB There are 2 § 3436's

§ 3436-a. Adverse action against legal reproductive health care or gender-affirming care. (a) Every insurer that issues or renews medical malpractice insurance or professional liability insurance covering a health care provider licensed to practice in this state shall be prohibited from taking any adverse action against a health care provider solely on the basis that the health care provider engages in legally protected health activity, as defined by section 570.17 of the criminal procedure law. The superintendent is expressly authorized to interpret "legally protected health activity" as if such definition was stated within this section. Such policy shall include health care providers who prescribe abortion medication to out-of-state patients by means of telehealth.

(b) Every insurer that issues or renews medical malpractice or professional liability insurance covering a health care provider licensed to practice in this state shall be prohibited from refusing to issue or renew, canceling, or charging or imposing an increased premium or rate for, or excluding, limiting, restricting, or reducing coverage under a medical malpractice or professional liability insurance policy based solely upon the legal use or prescription in this state of any drug prescribed for the purpose of an abortion, including both generic and brand name drugs, that has not been approved by the food and drug administration for abortion, provided, however, that such drug shall be a recognized medication for abortion in one of the following established reference compendia:

(1) The WHO Model Lists of Essential Medicines;

(2) The WHO Abortion Care Guidance; or

(3) The National Academies of Science, Engineering, and Medicine Consensus Study Report.

(c) As used in this section, "adverse action" shall mean but not be limited to: (1) refusing to renew or execute a contract or agreement with a health care provider; (2) making a report or commenting to an appropriate private or governmental entity regarding practices of such provider which may violate abortion laws in other states; and (3) increasing in any charge for, or a reduction or other adverse or unfavorable change in the terms of coverage or amount for, any medical malpractice or professional liability insurance contract or agreement with a health care provider.

(d) As used in this section, "medical malpractice insurance" shall have the meaning set forth in section five thousand five hundred one of this chapter.

(e) As used in this section, "professional liability insurance" shall mean insurance against legal liability of the insured, and against loss, damage, or expense incident to a claim of such liability arising out of the death or injury of any person due to medical, psychiatric, mental health, or other malpractice by any licensed physician assistant, physical therapist, physical therapist assistant, pharmacist, registered pharmacy technician, nurse, psychologist, psychiatrist, social worker, occupational therapist, speech-language pathologist, or mental health practitioner.

(f) As used in this section, "health care provider" shall mean a person who is licensed, certified, or authorized under title eight of the education law and acting within their lawful scope of practice and includes, but is not limited to persons subject to articles one hundred thirty-one, one hundred thirty-one-B, one hundred thirty-six, one hundred thirty-seven, one hundred thirty-seven-A, one hundred thirty-nine, one hundred forty, one hundred fifty-three, one hundred fifty-four, one hundred fifty-six, one hundred fifty-nine, or one hundred sixty-three of the education law or any other person designated as a health care provider by law, rule, or regulation.

§ 3437. Credit insurance for in-vitro fertilization or intrauterine insemination. (a) Except as provided in subsection (b) of this section, an insurer that issues a credit insurance policy pursuant to clause (III) of item (i) of subparagraph (D) of paragraph seventeen of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter shall provide a statement in the application for the insurance policy and in a prominent writing upon policy issuance that the credit insurance policy is not a substitute for comprehensive health insurance.

(b) An excess line broker who procures such a credit insurance policy pursuant to section two thousand one hundred five of this chapter shall provide the statement required by subsection (a) of this section on behalf of the insurer.

§ 3440. Insurance covering private passenger motor vehicles; rental vehicle coverage. (a) For the purposes of this section, a "private passenger motor vehicle" is a motor vehicle: (1) of the private passenger or station wagon type that is owned or hired by an individual or by husband and wife under a long-term contract and is neither used as a public or livery conveyance for passengers nor rented to others without a driver; or

(2) with a pick-up body, a delivery sedan, panel truck or van, owned by an individual or by husband and wife who are residents of the same household or by a family farm co-partnership or a family farm corporation, and not customarily used in the occupation, profession or business of the insured other than farming or ranching, whether or not used in the course of driving to or from work.

(b) Subject to subsection (d) of this section, every motor vehicle liability insurance policy which insures less than five private passenger motor vehicles registered in this state shall by endorsement, provide coverage for the obligation of the insured for actual damage to, or loss of, vehicles (including loss of use) rented by an insured in the United States, its territories or possessions and Canada under a rental agreement with a term of thirty continuous days or less, regardless of where within those areas such rental vehicle is registered, rented, or operated, subject to such maximum coverage limitations as the superintendent may by regulation prescribe or any other applicable limits in the policy, whichever is higher. The term "rental vehicle" shall be used as defined in section one hundred thirty-seven-a of the vehicle and traffic law, if a private passenger motor vehicle and not used for the transportation of persons or property for hire.

(c) In no event shall payment be made by more than one insurer or under more than one policy, and where a person is insured under more than one policy, such coverage shall apply in the following order of priority: (1) the policy or policies with respect to which the person is a named insured; (2) if the person is not a named insured on any policy, the policy with respect to which the person is an insured; (3) where two or more policies provide coverage of equal priority, the insurer to which the claim is first submitted.

(d) (1) Every policy to which this section applies shall, either upon issuance or upon the first renewal after April first, nineteen hundred eighty-nine, be accompanied or supplemented by a notice, in a form prescribed or approved by the superintendent, advising the insured of the rental vehicle coverage provided pursuant to this section.

(2) In the event that a separate charge based upon rental vehicle coverage experience is included in the rate or policy premium, the insurer shall thereafter advise each new insured and with the initial renewal notice for policies thereafter renewed of the insured's opportunity to reject such coverage within ten days following such notice.

(e) Nothing in this section shall be construed to require an insurer to make payment under the coverage herein for damage to, or loss of, a rental vehicle (including loss of use) which the rental vehicle company is precluded from recovering from the insured whether pursuant to the terms of the rental agreement or due to the prohibitions of section three hundred ninety-six-z of the general business law or similar statutory provisions of other jurisdictions; or which is not otherwise recoverable under the applicable insurance policy or policies.

(f) Nothing in this section shall preclude an insurer from pursuing subrogation rights in connection with claims involving rental vehicle coverage.

§ 3442. Credit card, debit card, or checking account group policies. (a) For purposes of this section, unless the context requires otherwise:

(1) "Account group member" means a person:

(A) to whom a credit card account or debit card account is issued by a sponsor or who has agreed with the sponsor to pay obligations arising from the use of a credit card or debit card issued to another person; or

(B) who may access by check an account maintained by the sponsor.

(2) "Account group policy" means a group policy, including certificates issued to the group members, where the group policyholders, and each additional group policyholder, if any, is:

(A) a sponsor and the policy's group members are its account group members or other authorized users of the account group member's payment medium; or

(B) an interchange organization, or the trustee or trustees of a trust established, or participated in, by one or more interchange organizations or one or more sponsors who are members of the interchange organization, where the policy's group members are the authorized users of the payment medium administered by the interchange organization or by its member sponsors.

(3) "Authorized user" means a group member or any other person designated by the group member as an authorized user of the account group member's payment medium.

(4) "Beneficiary" means an authorized user of a payment medium or any other person who is a recipient of the benefits of the payment medium who is designated as an additional insured under an account group policy.

(5) "Certificate" or "certificate of insurance" means any policy, contract, or other evidence of insurance, or rider or endorsement thereto, issued to a group member under an account group policy.

(6) "Check" means a check, draft, credit union share draft, negotiable order of withdrawal, or other written, electronic or telephonic order but does not include a traveler's check.

(7) "Commercial creditor" means a corporation, partnership, association or other organization that, as part of its vocation, extends credit by making loans, issuing credit cards, or otherwise, including:

(A) a bank, trust company, savings bank, savings and loan association, or credit union, as those terms are defined in section two of the banking law;

(B) a national bank, federal savings bank, federal savings and loan association, or federal credit union, as those terms are defined in title twelve of the United States Code;

(C) a foreign banking corporation licensed to maintain a branch or agency in New York under article five of the banking law or title twelve of the United States Code;

(D) a creditor, as defined in section one thousand six hundred two of title fifteen of the United States Code;

(E) an issuer of a credit card, within the meaning of article twenty-nine-A of the general business law;

(F) a transmitter of money, within the meaning of article thirteen-A of the banking law; or

(G) a retailer.

(8) "Conditional renewal" means change of limits, change in type of coverage, reduction or elimination of coverage, increased deductible or addition of exclusion, or increased premiums in excess of ten percent (exclusive of any premium increase generated as a result of increased exposure units or as a result of experience rating, loss rating, retrospective rating, or audit).

(9) "Credit card" means a payment medium that takes the form of a credit card, credit plate, charge plate, courtesy card, or other identification card or device, issued by a sponsor to an account group member (or a check drawn by an authorized user against the credit card account), which an authorized user may use to obtain a loan, credit, or cash advance, or to purchase, hire, rent or lease property or services.

(10) "Debit card" means a payment medium that takes the form of a card, plate, or other identification card or device, issued by an issuer to an account group member who is an owner of a deposit account maintained by the issuer, which an authorized user drawing upon the deposit account may use to purchase, hire, rent or lease property or services. "Debit card" does not include a credit card or a check.

(11) "Group member" means an account group member who is insured under the account group policy.

(12) "Interchange organization" means a person that administers a payment medium for the benefit of one or more sponsors and the sponsor's account group members.

(13) "Motor vehicle" means a motor vehicle as defined in section three hundred eleven of the vehicle and traffic law, whether or not used on a public highway, and includes a snowmobile as defined in section two thousand two hundred twenty-one of the vehicle and traffic law.

(14) "Payment medium" means a credit card, debit card or check.

(15) "Person" includes an individual, corporation, partnership, association, or other legal entity.

(16) "Sponsor" means:

(A) a commercial creditor that issues a credit card or debit card to its account group members;

(B) a commercial creditor that maintains an account which may be accessed by check by the commercial creditor's account group members; or

(C) the trustee or trustees of a trust established, or participated in, by one or more commercial creditors for the benefit of the commercial creditor's account group members.

(b) An account group policy or certificate may be issued or issued for delivery in this state only in compliance with the provisions of this section.

(c) Coverage under an account group policy shall extend only to beneficiaries and shall be associated with the direct use or employment of a payment medium by an authorized user to purchase, hire, lease or rent property or services.

(d) An account group policy may provide only one or more of the following property/casualty insurance coverages, subject to the following limitations:

(1) Loss of or damage to personal property, other than loss of use or loss resulting from a defect in materials or workmanship, where:

(A) the article of personal property is owned by;

(i) an authorized user; or

(ii) a beneficiary other than an authorized user, if coverage is provided under the account group policy to the beneficiary as an additional insured;

(B) the article of personal property is purchased using the account group member's payment medium;

(C) the amount of coverage is limited to the amount charged, debited, or drawn, unless the insurer repairs or replaces the article of personal property, but in no event shall the coverage exceed ten thousand dollars per article and fifty thousand dollars in the aggregate per group member per policy year;

(D) the period of coverage for each article of personal property does not exceed ninety days from date of purchase; and

(E) the coverage is excess over any other valid and collectible insurance covering the same article of personal property, except that the coverage need not be excess over insurance issued pursuant to this paragraph.

(2) Obligation to a person engaged in the business of renting or leasing motor vehicles, for loss of or damage to a motor vehicle rented or leased from that person, where:

(A) the obligation is incurred by:

(i) an authorized user; or

(ii) another person driving the motor vehicle with the authorized user's permission, if coverage under the account group policy is provided to such beneficiary as an additional insured;

(B) the rental or lease of the motor vehicle is paid wholly by means of the account group member's payment medium;

(C) the period of the rental or lease coverage does not exceed:

(i) forty-five consecutive days where the payment medium used for the rental or lease was a credit card issued to an account group member that is an employee of a person that has contracted with a sponsor to provide credit cards to the person's employees primarily for business use; or

(ii) thirty-one consecutive days for all other authorized users;

(D) the coverage is excess over any other valid and collectible insurance covering the same motor vehicle, except that the coverage may be primary for motor vehicle rentals or leases:

(i) when the motor vehicle is used outside the United States, its territories and possessions; or

(ii) where the payment medium used for the rental or lease was a credit card issued to an account group member that is an employee of a person that has contracted with a sponsor to provide credit cards to the person's employees primarily for business use; or

(E) the motor vehicle is rented or leased without a driver.

(3) Loss of, damage to, or loss of use of baggage and its contents, where:

(A) (i) the authorized user owns or uses the baggage and its contents, and the loss, damage, or loss of use occurs in connection with the authorized user being in transit; or

(ii) a beneficiary other than an authorized user owns or uses the baggage and its contents, and the loss, damage, or loss of use occurs while in connection with that beneficiary being in transit, if coverage under the policy is provided in regard to the beneficiary as an additional insured;

(B) the account group member's payment medium is used to obtain transportation or accommodations for the owner of the baggage and its contents, in connection with that owner being in transit; and

(C) the amount of coverage does not exceed two thousand dollars per bag, including contents, and ten thousand dollars in the aggregate for all insureds per trip.

(4) Loss of, damage to, or loss of use of personal property resulting from a defect in materials or workmanship in that property, where:

(A) the article of personal property is owned by:

(i) an authorized user; or

(ii) a beneficiary other than an authorized user, if coverage is provided under the account group policy to the beneficiary as an additional insured;

(B) the article of personal property is purchased by means of the account group member's payment medium;

(C) the amount of coverage is limited to the amount charged, debited, or drawn, but in no event shall exceed ten thousand dollars; and

(D) the article of personal property has one or more warranties issued by a manufacturer, distributor or seller.

(5) Loss of, damage to, or loss of use of personal property occurring in connection with the use of rented or leased motor vehicles where:

(A) the article of personal property is owned by:

(i) an authorized user; or

(ii) a beneficiary other than an authorized user if coverage is provided under the account group policy to the beneficiary as an additional insured;

(B) the rental or lease of the motor vehicle is paid for wholly by means of the account group member's payment medium;

(C) the period of coverage does not exceed the lesser of:

(i) the rental or lease period; or

(ii) forty-five consecutive days where the payment medium used for the rental or lease was a credit card issued to an account group member that is an employee of an entity that has contracted with a sponsor to provide credit cards to the entity's employees primarily for business use; or thirty-one consecutive days for all other authorized users;

(D) the motor vehicle is rented or leased without a driver; and

(E) the amount of the coverage does not exceed five thousand dollars.

(6) Losses incurred in connection with the unauthorized use of a payment medium, where:

(A) one or more individuals are designated authorized users of a payment medium by virtue of their status as employees of a group member in accordance with procedures established by such group member for authorized use of the payment medium;

(B) the group member that employs such authorized users has agreed with another group member to pay obligations arising from the use of such payment medium by such authorized users;

(C) an authorized user uses such payment medium in a manner that is unauthorized by the group member that employs the authorized user;

(D) the obligation of the group member that employs the authorized users to such other group member, pursuant to the agreement described in subparagraph (B) of this paragraph for a loss incurred in connection with use in an unauthorized manner, is discharged by payment of the insurance benefit to such other group member;

(E) the amount of coverage shall be limited to the amount of the loss, but in no event shall exceed fifteen thousand dollars; and

(F) for purposes of this paragraph only, the term "group member" shall include (i) those entities specified in subparagraphs (A) through (F) of paragraph seven of subsection (a) of this section which are insureds under the insurance described in subparagraph (D) of this paragraph, and (ii) employers of account group members who are designated authorized users of a payment medium by virtue of their employee status.

(7) Loss resulting from an inability to use a ticket to an event where:

(A) the ticket was purchased with the account group member's payment medium;

(B) the event does not fully reimburse the person for the expenses disbursed or to be disbursed for the ticket, including any fees, or provide a ticket of equal value or a rain check;

(C) the amount of coverage is limited to the amount charged, debited, or drawn, but shall not exceed seven hundred fifty dollars per ticket; and

(D) the coverage is excess over any other reimbursement.

(8) Loss due to cancellation of a catered affair where:

(A) the expenses were paid by means of the account group member's payment medium;

(B) the amount of coverage is limited to the amount charged, debited, or drawn, but shall not exceed thirty thousand dollars in any twelve month period; and

(C) the coverage is excess over any other reimbursement.

(9) Loss of tuition and other educational expenses due to a student's dismissal or withdrawal from an educational institution where:

(A) expenses were paid by means of the account group member's payment medium;

(B) the amount of coverage is limited to the amount charged, debited, or drawn, but shall not exceed sixty thousand dollars in any twelve month period; and

(C) the coverage is excess over any other reimbursement.

(10) Loss resulting from the cancellation or interruption of a trip, where:

(A) coverage is limited to a specific trip;

(B) the trip was paid by means of the account group member's payment medium;

(C) the amount of coverage is limited to the amount charged, debited, or drawn, but shall not exceed fifteen thousand dollars per trip; and

(D) the coverage is excess over any other reimbursement.

(11) Loss of or damage to personal property, where:

(A) (i) the authorized user owns or uses the personal property, and the loss or damage occurs in connection with a specific trip; or

(ii) a beneficiary other than an authorized user owns or uses the personal property, and the loss or damage occurs in connection with a specific trip, if coverage is provided under the account group policy to the beneficiary as an additional insured;

(B) the trip was paid by means of the account group member's payment medium;

(C) the amount of coverage does not exceed one thousand dollars per article of personal property, and five thousand dollars in the aggregate for all insureds per trip; and

(D) the coverage is excess over any other valid and collectible insurance covering the same article of personal property.

(12) Loss of or damage to wireless communications equipment or loss of use resulting from a defect in materials or workmanship to wireless communication equipment, where:

(A) the wireless communications equipment is owned or leased by;

(i) an authorized user; or

(ii) a beneficiary other than an authorized user, if coverage is provided under the account group policy to the beneficiary as an additional insured;

(B) the account group member's payment medium is used to obtain the wireless services related to the wireless communication equipment;

(C) the amount of coverage does not exceed ten thousand dollars per wireless communications equipment, but in no event shall the coverage exceed fifty thousand dollars in the aggregate per group member per policy year;

(D) the period of coverage for the wireless communication equipment does not exceed 60 days from each date wireless services are charged, debited, or drawn; and

(E) For purposes of this paragraph, the term "wireless communications equipment" shall mean wireless handsets, pagers, personal digital assistants, wireless telephones or wireless telephone batteries and other wireless devices and accessories related to such devices that are used to access wireless communications services and includes wireless services.

(13) Coverages which, in the opinion of the superintendent, are determined to be substantially similar to one of the foregoing coverages specified in paragraphs one through twelve of this subsection, or such other coverages that the superintendent determines are limited in scope, and not duplicative or a substitute for other more comprehensive coverages, and thereupon for purposes of this section shall be deemed to be permissible pursuant to regulations promulgated by the superintendent.

(e) (1) An account group policy shall not cover a motor vehicle, except in regard to coverage under paragraph two of subsection (c) of this section.

(2) An account group policy shall not be considered a motor vehicle policy for purposes of this chapter.

(f) The premium for the account group policy, including certificates, may be paid by the group policyholder from funds contributed:

(1) wholly by the group policyholder;

(2) wholly by the group members; or

(3) jointly by the group policyholder and group members.

(g) (1) Any policy dividend, retrospective premium credit, or retrospective premium refund in respect of premiums paid by the group policyholder may:

(A) be applied to reduce the premium contribution of the group policyholder, but not in excess of the proportion to its contribution; or

(B) be retained by the group policyholder.

(2) Any policy dividend, retrospective premium credit, or retrospective premium refund not distributed under paragraph one of this subsection shall be:

(A) applied to reduce future premiums and, accordingly, future contributions, of existing or future group members, or both; or

(B) paid or refunded to those group members insured on the date the payment or refund is made to the group policyholder, if distributed by the group policyholder, or on the date of mailing, if distributed directly by the insurer, subject to the following requirements:

(i) the insurer shall be responsible for determining the allocation of the payment or refund to the group members;

(ii) if the group policyholder distributes the payment or refund, the insurer shall be responsible for audit to ascertain that the payment or refund is actually made in accordance with the allocation procedure; and

(iii) if the group policyholder fails to make the payment or refund, the insurer shall make the payment or refund directly or use the method provided in subparagraph (A) of this paragraph.

(3) Notwithstanding paragraphs one and two of this subsection, if a dividend accrues upon termination of coverage under an account group policy, the premium for which was paid out of funds contributed by group members specifically for the coverage, the dividend shall be paid or refunded by the group policyholder to the group members insured on the date the payment or refund is made to the group policyholder, net of reasonable expenses incurred by the group policyholder in paying or refunding the dividend to such group members.

(4) For the purposes of this subsection, "dividend" means a return by an insurer to a group policyholder of excess premiums paid by that group policyholder in light of favorable loss experience, including retrospective premium credits or retrospective premium refunds. The term "dividend" does not include reimbursements or fees received by a group policyholder in connection with the operation or administration of an account group policy, including administrative reimbursements, fees for services provided by the group policyholder, or transactional service fees.

(h) The insurer must treat in like manner all eligible account group members of the same class and account status.

(i) The group shall consist of at least one thousand members.

(j) An account group policy or certificate shall not be eligible for placement by an excess line broker licensed pursuant to article twenty-one of this chapter.

(k) Coverage provided under an account group policy or certificate issued pursuant to paragraph four of subsection (d) of this section shall be deemed miscellaneous property insurance, as enumerated in paragraph five of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter.

(l) (1) The insurer shall be responsible for the mailing or delivery of a certificate of insurance to each group member insured under the account group policy. The insurer shall also be responsible for the mailing or delivery to each group member of an amended certificate of insurance, or endorsement to the certificate, whenever there is a change of limits; change in type of coverage; addition, reduction, or elimination of coverage; or addition of exclusion, under the account group policy or certificate.

(2) The certificate shall contain in substance all material terms and conditions of coverage afforded to the group member, unless the account group policy is incorporated by reference and a copy of the group policy accompanies the certificate.

(3) If coverage afforded to the group member is excess of other applicable insurance coverage, the certificate shall contain a notice advising the group member that, if the member has other insurance coverage, specified coverages under the account group policy will be excess over the other insurance.

(m) A group policyholder shall comply with the provisions of section two thousand one hundred twenty-two of this chapter, in the same manner as an agent or broker, in any advertisement, sign, pamphlet, circular, card, or other public announcement referring to coverage under an account group policy or certificate.

(n) An account group policy or certificate shall not be subject to section three thousand four hundred twenty-five or section three thousand four hundred twenty-six of this article. The following requirements shall apply in regard to termination of coverage:

(1) (A) An account group policy or certificate may be cancelled by an insurer only if cancellation is based on one or more of the reasons set forth in subparagraphs (A) through (D) or (F) through (H) of paragraph one of subsection (c) of section three thousand four hundred twenty-six of this article; provided, however, that an act or omission by a group member which would constitute the basis for cancellation of an individual certificate shall not constitute the basis for cancellation of the account group policy.

(B) Where the premium is derived wholly from funds contributed by the group policyholder, an individual certificate may be cancelled by the insurer only if cancellation is based on one or more of the reasons set forth in subparagraph (B), (C) or (H) of paragraph one of subsection (c) of section three thousand four hundred twenty-six of this article.

(2) (A) An insurer's cancellation of an account group policy, including all certificates, shall not become effective until fifteen days after the insurer mails or delivers written notice of cancellation to the group policyholder at the mailing address shown in the policy.

(i) Where all or part of the premium is derived from funds contributed by a group member specifically for the coverage, written notice of cancellation of the account group policy shall also be mailed or delivered by the insurer to the group member at the group member's mailing address.

(ii) Where none of the premium is derived from funds contributed by a group member specifically for the coverage, the group policyholder shall mail or deliver written notice to the group member advising the group member of the cancellation of the account group policy and the effective date of cancellation. The written notice shall be mailed or delivered by the group policyholder within ninety days after receiving notice of cancellation from the insurer.

(B) An insurer's cancellation of an individual certificate shall not become effective until fifteen days after the insurer mails or delivers written notice of cancellation to the group member at the group member's mailing address and to the group policyholder at the mailing address shown in the account group policy.

(C) (i) A group policyholder may cancel an account group policy, including all certificates, or any individual certificate, for any reason upon thirty days written notice to the insurer and each group member; and

(ii) The group policyholder shall mail or deliver written notice to each affected group member of the group policyholder's cancellation of the account group policy or certificate and the effective date of cancellation. Such written notice shall be mailed or delivered to the group member's mailing address at least thirty days prior to the effective date of the cancellation.

(3) (A) Unless an account group policy provides for a longer policy period, the policy and all certificates shall be issued or renewed for a one-year policy period.

(B) The group policyholder shall be entitled to renew the account group policy and all certificates upon timely payment of the premium billed to the group policyholder for the renewal, unless:

(i) the insurer mails or delivers to the group policyholder and all group members written notice of nonrenewal, or conditional renewal; and

(ii) the written notice is mailed or delivered at least thirty, but not more than one hundred twenty days prior to the expiration date specified in the policy or, if no date is specified, the next anniversary date of the policy.

(C) Notwithstanding subparagraph (A) of this paragraph, an account group policy insuring an experimental program that is test marketed for a period of one hundred twenty days or less may be issued for that policy period. The provisions of subparagraph (B) of this paragraph shall not apply if the group members were previously notified of the expiration date of the account group policy.

(4) (A) Where the account group policy is nonrenewed by the group policyholder, the group policyholder shall mail or deliver written notice to each group member advising the group member of nonrenewal of the account group policy and the effective date of nonrenewal. The written notice shall be mailed or delivered by the group policyholder at least thirty days prior to the nonrenewal.

(B) The provisions of subparagraph (A) of this paragraph shall not apply in the case of a sponsor's nonrenewal in connection with an account group policy insuring an experimental program test marketed for a period of one hundred twenty days or less, if the group members were previously notified of the expiration date of the account group policy.

(5) Every notice of cancellation, nonrenewal, or conditional renewal shall contain the specific reason or reasons for cancellation, nonrenewal, or conditional renewal.

(6) (A) An insurer shall not be required under this subsection to give notice to a group member if the insurer has been advised by either the group policyholder or another insurer that substantially similar coverage has been obtained from the other insurer without lapse of coverage.

(B) A group policyholder shall not be required under this subsection to give notice to a group member if substantially similar coverage has been obtained from another insurer without lapse of coverage.

(7) (A) If, prior to the effective date of cancellation, nonrenewal, or conditional renewal of the account group policy, or a certificate, whether initiated by the insurer, group policyholder or by the group member in regard to the group member's certificate, coverage attaches pursuant to the terms of an account group policy providing insurance of one or more of the types enumerated in this section, then the coverage shall be effective until expiration of the applicable period of coverage provided in the account group policy notwithstanding the cancellation, nonrenewal or conditional nonrenewal of the account group policy.

(B) Notwithstanding subparagraph (A) of this paragraph, an insurer may terminate coverage under an individual certificate on the effective date of cancellation, if the certificate is cancelled in accordance with the provisions of subparagraph (B) of paragraph one of this subsection.

(o) The superintendent may, pursuant to regulation, adjust the monetary limitations set forth in subsection (d) of this section for inflation.

§ 3443. Workers' compensation and employers' liability insurance; optional policyholder deductibles. An insurer issuing a workers' compensation and employers' liability insurance policy, may offer, as part of the policy or by endorsement, deductibles optional to the policyholder for benefits payable under the policy, subject to approval by the superintendent and subject to underwriting by the insurer, consistent with the following standards or factors:

(a) claimants' rights are properly protected and claimants' benefits are paid without regard to any such deductible;

(b) appropriate premium reductions reflect the type and level of any deductible approved by the superintendent and selected by the policyholder;

(c) premium reductions for deductibles are determined before application of any experience modification, premium surcharge, or premium discount;

(d) recognition is given to policyholder characteristics, including size, financial capabilities, nature of activities, and number of employees;

(e) if the policyholder selects a deductible, the policyholder is liable to the insurer for the deductible amount in regard to benefits paid for compensable claims;

(f) the insurer pays all of the deductible amount, applicable to a compensable claim, to the person or provider entitled to benefits and then seeks reimbursement from the policyholder for the applicable deductible amount; and

(g) failure to reimburse deductible amounts by the policyholder to the insurer is treated under the policy in the same manner as nonpayment of premiums.

§ 3444. Flood insurance notice. 1. Insurers shall provide to their homeowners and dwelling fire personal lines insureds an annual notice prescribed or approved by the superintendent, explaining clearly and in plain language that: (a) such policies do not provide coverage for loss caused by mudslide or flood; and (b) insurance is available under separate policies issued in accordance with the National Flood Insurance Program, 42 U.S.C. § 4001 et seq., including information regarding flood insurance eligibility and access.

2. The policyholder notice required by this section shall accompany all new homeowners and dwelling fire personal lines policies and all renewal homeowners and dwelling fire policies.

§ 3445. Windstorm insurance notice; deductible trigger standards. (a) The superintendent shall by regulation establish disclosure requirements with respect to the operation of any deductible in a homeowner's insurance policy or dwelling fire personal lines policy which applies as the result of a windstorm. Such regulations shall prescribe the form of a notice to be provided by an insurer to an insured. The notice shall explain in clear and plain language the amount of the deductible, the circumstances under which the deductible applies and any other matters which the superintendent, in his or her discretion, shall deem necessary or appropriate.

(b) The superintendent shall by regulation establish standards for hurricane windstorm deductibles, which create, to the greatest extent possible, uniformity in the operation of such deductibles with respect to the triggering event.

The superintendent shall promulgate such regulations by emergency adoption or otherwise, within one hundred eighty days of the effective date of the chapter of the laws of two thousand twenty-three which added this subsection. Notwithstanding paragraph seven of subsection (a) of section three thousand four hundred twenty-five of this article, any changes in a homeowner's insurance policy or dwelling, fire, or personal policy registered as a result of the adoption by the superintendent of regulations under this section, may be applied to such policies on the policy's initial renewal date or the policy's next annual renewal after the effective date of such regulations.

§ 3446. Product or system group insurance policies. (a) A group policy may be issued to a group policyholder, who shall be a manufacturer, distributor, or installer of a product or system, or a trustee of a trust established, or participated in, by one or more manufacturers, distributors, or installers, in accordance with the provisions of this section.

(b) The group shall consist only of members who have purchased or own the product or system where the manufacturer, distributor, or installer has represented that the product or system is designed to prevent loss or damage to property from a specific cause (other than loss or damage resulting from defect in materials or workmanship, or wear and tear), and the policy shall only cover such loss or damage.

(c) The policy, and certificates issued thereunder, may provide coverage for a kind of insurance authorized by paragraphs four through twelve, nineteen and twenty of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter, and may be issued or delivered in this state only by an insurer authorized in this state to write the coverage.

(d) The coverage shall not be duplicative of coverage under any other applicable insurance policy.

(e) The insurer must treat in like manner all eligible group members of the same class.

(f) The premium for the group policy, including certificates thereunder, shall be paid by the group policyholder from funds contributed wholly by the group policyholder.

(g) The superintendent may promulgate regulations regarding product and system group policies, including regulations governing issuance of certificates to group members; minimum provisions of certificates; policy cancellation and renewal; minimum number of group members; payment of premium; and policy dividends, retrospective premium credits, or retrospective premium refunds; and may establish other reasonable limitations.

(h) A product or system group policyholder shall comply with the provisions of section two thousand one hundred twenty-two of this chapter, in the same manner as an insurance agent or broker, in any advertisement, sign, pamphlet, circular, card, or other public announcement referring to coverage under a group policy or certificate.

(i) A product or system group policy or certificate shall not be subject to section three thousand four hundred twenty-five or section three thousand four hundred twenty-six of this article.

(j)(1) "Manufacturer" means a person that:

(A) manufactures or produces the product or system and sells it under its own trade name or label;

(B) does not manufacture or produce the product or system but sells it under its own trade name or label;

(C) manufactures or produces the product or system and it is sold under the trade name or label of another person; or

(D) does not manufacture or produce the product or system but, pursuant to a written contract, licenses the use of its trade name or label to another person that sells the product or system under the licensor's trade name or label.

(2) "Manufacturer" shall also include a distributor which is a parent, affiliate, or subsidiary of a manufacturer.

(3) The holder of a patent shall not be considered a manufacturer solely because it receives royalties on its patents.

§ 3447. Qualification of environmental remediation insurance for tax credit. (a) The superintendent of financial services is hereby authorized to promulgate regulations relating to the certification of policies of insurance which qualify for the environmental remediation insurance tax credit provided for under section twenty-three of the tax law. Such tax credit shall only apply against a portion of the premium paid for coverage provided under subsection (b) of this section.

(b) In order to qualify for the environmental remediation insurance tax credit provided for under section twenty-three of the tax law, the insurance must be written pursuant to the provisions of paragraph thirteen or fourteen of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter and contain any of the following coverages or substantially similar coverages or combination of coverages:

(1) coverage for the costs of on-site clean-up of pre-existing pollution conditions from the insured property which are outside the scope of the remedial work plan pursuant to section 27-1411 of the environmental conservation law for such insured property;

(2) coverage for third-party claims for on-site bodily injury and property damage resulting from pre-existing pollution conditions outside the scope of such remedial work plan for the insured property;

(3) coverage which caps clean-up costs relating to such remedial work plan; and

(4) coverage for the costs of state re-openers pursuant to section 27-1421 of the environmental conservation law or modifications to such remedial work plan to fill any gap in any liability limitation provided pursuant to section 27-1421 of the environmental conservation law for environmental conditions.

§ 3448. Involuntary unemployment insurance policies. (a) In this section, the term "policy of involuntary unemployment insurance" includes any policy covering the kind of insurance described in paragraph thirty of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter.

(b) A policy of involuntary unemployment insurance shall not be subject to section three thousand four hundred twenty-five or three thousand four hundred twenty-six of this article.

(c) The superintendent may promulgate regulations regarding involuntary unemployment insurance policies, including, but not limited to, regulations governing policy terms and conditions, and may establish other reasonable limitations.

§ 3449. Wireless communications equipment insurance policies. (a) In this section:

(1) "Policy of wireless communications equipment insurance" means an insurance policy covering the kind of insurance described in paragraph two of subsection (d) of section two thousand one hundred thirty-one of this chapter.

(2) "Wireless communications equipment" shall have the same meaning as described in section two thousand one hundred thirty-one of this chapter.

(3) "Wireless communications equipment protection plan member" means any individual who purchased a wireless communications equipment protection plan and such wireless communications protection equipment plan has not expired or been terminated.

(4) "Wireless communications equipment protection plan" means an optional plan offered for sale by a wireless communications equipment vendor licensed pursuant to section two thousand one hundred thirty-one of this chapter and the plan provides:

(A) a policy of wireless communications equipment insurance covering the wireless communications equipment under a group policy subject to this section where the wireless communications equipment vendor is the group policyholder;

(B) a service contract subject to article seventy-nine of this chapter, provided that the service contract provider or its affiliate recycles, reuses, or disposes the wireless communications equipment in accordance with section 27-2303 of the environmental conservation law, as added by chapter seven hundred thirty of the laws of two thousand six; and

(C) may include one or more of the following:

(i) a wireless communications equipment upgrade program, provided that the program recycles, reuses, or disposes the wireless communications equipment in accordance with section 27-2303 of the environmental conservation law, as added by chapter seven hundred thirty of the laws of two thousand six;

(ii) technical support with respect to the wireless communications equipment; and

(iii) any other services related to the use of the wireless communications equipment that the superintendent deems to be meaningful and appropriate, in accordance with subsection (h) of this section.

(5) "Wireless communications equipment vendor" means a retail seller, manufacturer or distributor of the wireless communications equipment or the entity providing the telecommunications service that is licensed pursuant to section two thousand one hundred thirty-one of this chapter.

(b) (1) A group policy of wireless communications equipment insurance, and certificates issued thereunder, may be issued only by an authorized insurer.

(2) A group policy of wireless communications equipment insurance may only be issued to a wireless communications equipment vendor.

(3) A group policy of wireless communications equipment insurance may be offered as part of a wireless communications equipment protection plan, provided that the wireless communications equipment vendor at the same time also offers the wireless communication equipment insurance from the same insurer on a stand-alone basis. The stand-alone wireless communication equipment insurance coverage may be issued either on a group or individual basis.

(c) Where a group policy of wireless communications equipment insurance is provided as part of a wireless communications equipment protection plan, the premium for the group policy, including certificates, may be paid by the group policyholder from funds contributed:

(1) wholly by the group policyholder;

(2) wholly by the wireless communications equipment protection plan members; or

(3) jointly by the group policyholder and wireless communications equipment protection plan members.

(d) For the purposes of this section, a wireless communications equipment protection plan member shall be a certificate holder of wireless communications insurance and a service contract holder as defined in section seven thousand nine hundred two of this chapter.

(e) (1) A group policy of wireless communications equipment insurance, and certificates issued thereunder, shall not be subject to the provisions of section three thousand four hundred twenty-five or three thousand four hundred twenty-six of this article.

(2) An insurer shall not terminate or otherwise change the terms and conditions of a group policy of wireless communications equipment insurance, and certificates issued thereunder, whether offered on a stand-alone basis or as part of a wireless communications equipment protection plan, except upon providing the policyholder and certificate holders with at least sixty days notice. If the insurer changes the terms and conditions, then the insurer shall provide the policyholder with a revised policy or endorsement and each certificate holder with a revised certificate or endorsement, an updated brochure or facsimile thereof and an explanation of the changes.

(3) Notwithstanding paragraph two of this subsection, an insurer may terminate a certificate upon fifteen days notice for:

(A) nonpayment of premium; or

(B) discovery of fraud or material misrepresentation in obtaining the certificate or in the presentation of a claim thereunder.

(4) Notwithstanding paragraph two of this subsection, an insurer may automatically terminate a certificate if the certificate holder:

(A) ceases to have active telecommunications service with the wireless communications equipment vendor; or

(B) exhausts the aggregate limit of liability, if any, under the certificate and the insurer sends notice of termination to the certificate holder within fifteen business days after exhaustion of the limit. However, if notice is not timely sent, coverage shall continue notwithstanding the aggregate limit of liability until the insurer sends notice of termination to the certificate holder.

(5) Notwithstanding paragraph two of this subsection, an insurer may terminate a certificate of wireless communications equipment insurance upon the termination of a wireless communications equipment protection plan by a wireless communications equipment protection plan member when the insurance is provided as part of such a plan program and the wireless communications equipment protection plan member had been provided clear and express notice in the plan documents when the plan was initially purchased that the certificate of wireless communications equipment insurance will cease upon termination of the wireless communications equipment protection plan program. The insurer shall give the wireless communications equipment protection plan member the option to purchase a policy of wireless communications insurance on a stand-alone basis.

(6) Notwithstanding the provisions of subparagraph (B) of paragraph four of this subsection, upon the request of a certificate holder, the certificate holder's coverage shall be eligible for reinstatement not more than twelve months following the date of exhaustion of the coverage limit in accordance with the terms of the policy and subject to the enrollment criteria then applicable to prospective certificate holders generally.

(7) Where the group policy of a wireless communications equipment insurance, whether offered on a stand-alone basis or as part of a wireless communications protection equipment plan, is terminated by the policyholder, the policyholder shall mail or deliver written notice to each certificate holder advising the certificate holder of the termination of the group policy and the effective date of termination. The written notice shall be mailed or delivered to the certificate holder at least thirty days prior to the termination.

(f) Whenever notice is required pursuant to this section, it shall be in writing and mailed or delivered to the policyholder at the policyholder's mailing address and to affected certificate holders at the certificate holders' last known mailing addresses on file with the insurer or delivered by electronic means pursuant to section three thousand four hundred fifty-eight of this chapter. Every notice of termination shall specify the reason or reasons for termination.

(g) (1) Notwithstanding subsection (f) of this section, an insurer shall not be required to give notice of termination to the certificate holder if the insurer has been advised by either the policyholder or another insurer that substantially similar coverage has been obtained from the other insurer without lapse of coverage.

(2) A policyholder shall not be required to give notice of termination to a certificate holder if substantially similar coverage has been obtained from another insurer without lapse of coverage.

(h) The superintendent may promulgate regulations regarding policies of wireless communications equipment insurance, including, but not limited to, regulations governing policy terms and conditions, the inclusion of such policies in wireless communications equipment protection plans, treatment of dividends, and may establish other reasonable limitations.

§ 3450. Insurance for expenses incurred as a result of an act or threatened act of violence. (a) Insurance authorized by subparagraph (D) of paragraph seven of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter may be written only as provided in this section, except for ransom or reward payment coverage incurred as the result of the theft of property.

(b) As part of a homeowners' insurance policy, as such term is defined in section two thousand three hundred fifty-one of this chapter, or motor vehicle physical damage insurance policy, an insurer may provide insurance for loss to any person as the result of an act or threatened act of violence against an insured person.

(c) For purposes of this section, an "insured person" may include:

(1) with respect to a homeowners' policy, a member of the household, a minor under the custody or care of the named insured, or a minor child of the named insured, regardless of where the act or threatened act occurs; or a person on the insured premises, or any other premises within the temporary control of the named insured, or in a vehicle owned, operated, leased or rented by the named insured.

(2) with respect to a motor vehicle policy, a person engaged in the lawful use or operation of the vehicle.

(d) "Loss" for purposes of this section shall include loss or damage to property; reimbursement of a deductible under another policy of property/casualty insurance; ransom or reward payment; travel and lodging expense; lost wages; expense incurred to locate or identify a missing or abducted insured person; or other expenses to respond to a violent act or threatened act or to prevent a reoccurrence thereof.

(e) A policy written pursuant to this section providing coverage for loss to any person as the result of an act or threatened act of violence against an insured person may also provide coverage for medical expenses to any such person incurred as a result of the act or threatened act of violence. For purposes of this subsection, coverage for such medical expenses shall be deemed included in medical, hospital, surgical and disability benefits to injured persons, and funeral and death benefits to dependents, beneficiaries or personal representatives of persons who are killed, irrespective of legal liability of the insured as authorized by paragraph thirteen of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter.

(f) The superintendent may promulgate regulations necessary to effectuate the purposes of this section.

 § 3451. Identity theft group insurance policies. (a)(1) An identity theft group insurance policy, and certificates thereunder, may be issued or delivered in this state only in accordance with the provisions of this section.

(2) An identity theft group insurance policy, and certificates thereunder, may be issued only by an authorized insurer.

(3) The policy may be issued to:

(A) an employer, or a trustee or trustees of the fund established by an employer, which employer or trustee shall be deemed the policyholder, where the policy insures the employees of the employer;

(B) a labor union, or a trustee or trustees of a fund established by a labor union, which labor union or trustee shall be deemed the policyholder, where the policy insures the members of the labor union;

(C) a trustee of a trust established, or participated in, by two or more employers or labor unions, or by one or more employers and one or more labor unions, which the trustee shall be deemed the policyholder, where the policy insures the employees of the employers, and the members of the labor unions;

(D) a sponsor, where the policy insures account group members, as the terms are defined in subsection (a) of section three thousand four hundred forty-two of this article;

(E) an association, or to a trustee or trustees of a fund established, created, or maintained for the benefit of one or more associations, which the association or trustee shall be deemed the policyholder; where all the eligible members of the association or associations have the same profession, trade, or occupation, and the association or associations have been organized and maintained in good faith for purposes principally other than that of obtaining insurance, and have been in active existence for at least two years, and where the policy insures the members of the associations;

(F) a business that sells services or products designed to prevent, or to minimize the effects of stolen identity events, which the business shall be deemed to be the policyholder, where the policy insures the persons that purchase the services or products;

(G) any other business or association that has in its possession individuals' personal identification information, where the policy insures the individuals whose information the business or association possesses; or

(H) any other entity where the superintendent has determined in a regulation that the members are engaged in a common enterprise, or have an economic or social affinity or relationship, and that the issuance of the policy would not be contrary to the best interests of the public.

(4) For purposes of this section, the term "employer" shall include subsidiaries or affiliates of the employer.

(b) The group shall consist only of natural persons, hereinafter referred to as group members, as specified in paragraph three of subsection (a) of this section, and may also include a member of the group member's immediate family or household or, where the group policyholder is a sponsor, an authorized user, as the terms are defined in subsection (a) of section three thousand four hundred forty-two of this chapter.

(c)(1) The policy shall cover losses and expenses incurred because of stolen identity events, as defined in subparagraph (E) of paragraph seven of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter.

(2) An insurer shall treat in a like manner all eligible group members of the same class.

(3) Except for groups as described in subparagraph (F) of paragraph three of subsection (a) of this section, a group member shall not be required to purchase any product or service to be eligible for the coverage.

(d) The premium for the group policy, including certificates, may be paid by the group policyholder from funds contributed: (1) wholly by the group policyholder; (2) wholly by the group members; or (3) jointly by the group policyholder and the group members, except that with regard to subparagraph (G) of paragraph three of subsection (a) of this section, the premium for the group policy shall be paid from funds contributed wholly by the group policyholder.

(e) A group identity theft insurance policy or certificate issued thereunder, shall not be subject to section three thousand four hundred twenty-five or section three thousand four hundred twenty-six of this article. The following requirements shall apply with regard to cancellation, nonrenewal, or conditional renewal of coverage:

(1) Unless the group policy provides for a longer policy period, the policy shall be issued or renewed for a one-year policy period.

(2) A group policy, or any certificate thereunder, may be cancelled by an insurer only if cancellation is based upon one or more of the reasons set forth in paragraph one of subsection (c) of section three thousand four hundred twenty-six of this article, provided, however, that an act or omission by a group member shall not constitute the basis for cancellation of the policy and provided further, that coverage for an individual group member shall terminate upon termination of the member's employment by, or other affiliation with, the group policyholder that constitutes membership in the group.

(3) An insurer's cancellation, nonrenewal, or conditional renewal of a group policy, or any certificate issued thereunder, shall not become effective until at least forty-five days, or twenty days if based upon non-payment of premium, after the insurer mails or delivers written notice of the cancellation or nonrenewal to the group policyholder at the mailing address shown in the policy and to affected certificate holders at each certificate holder's last known mailing address. If so authorized by the insurer, the group policyholder may mail or deliver the notice to the certificate holder on behalf of the insurer. For purposes of this section, the term "conditional renewal" shall mean a renewal that is conditioned upon change of limits, change in type of coverage, reduction or elimination of coverage, increased deductible or addition of exclusion, or increased premiums in excess of ten percent (exclusive of any premium increase generated as a result of increased exposure units or as a result of experience rating, loss rating, retrospective rating, or audit).

(4) Every notice of cancellation, nonrenewal, or conditional renewal shall set forth the specific reason or reasons for cancellation, nonrenewal, or conditional renewal.

(5) A group policyholder may cancel the group policy for any reason upon thirty days written notice to the insurer and each affected group member. A group policyholder shall not be required to give notice to a group member if substantially similar coverage has been obtained from another insurer without lapse of coverage.

(6) If prior to the effective date of cancellation, nonrenewal, or conditional renewal of the group policy, or cancellation, nonrenewal, conditional renewal or termination of a certificate, whether initiated by the insurer, group policyholder, or by the group member, with respect to the group member's certificate, a group member sustains an identity theft loss, the loss shall remain covered in accordance with the coverage provided under the policy, notwithstanding the cancellation, nonrenewal, conditional renewal, or termination.

(f) The superintendent may promulgate regulations pertaining to identity theft group insurance, including regulations regarding:

payments of dividends or retrospective premium refunds; minimum provisions; minimum number of group members; and other reasonable limitations.

* NB There are 2 § 3451's

 § 3451. Regulations. Notwithstanding any other provision of this article or article twenty-three of this chapter, and subject to the superintendent's approval of the rates and forms in accordance with such article, the superintendent may promulgate regulations authorizing an insurer licensed to write workers' compensation and employers' liability insurance, as defined in paragraph fifteen of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter, to provide coverage as afforded under article six-G of the executive law in a manner to effectuate the intent and purposes of such article.

* NB There are 2 § 3451's

§ 3452. Group property travel insurance policies. (a)(1) A group property travel insurance policy, and certificates thereunder, may be issued or delivered in this state only in accordance with the provisions of this section.

(2) A group property travel insurance policy, and certificates thereunder, may be issued only by an authorized insurer.

(3) The policy may be issued to:

(A) any railroad company, steamship company, carrier by air, public bus carrier, or other common carrier of passengers, which shall be deemed the policyholder, where the policy insures its passengers;

(B) an institution of higher education as provided in paragraph two of subsection (a) of section three thousand two hundred forty of this chapter; or

(C) any other group where the superintendent has determined in a regulation that the members are engaged in a common enterprise, or have an economic or social affinity or relationship, and that the issuance of the policy would not be contrary to the best interests of the public.

(4) (A) Except as provided in subparagraph (B) of paragraph one of subsection (a) of section three thousand two hundred forty of this chapter, the policy may provide coverage for trip cancellation, trip interruption, baggage, and personal effects when limited to a specific trip. The policy shall be sold in connection with transportation provided by the common carrier or, with respect to other groups as permitted by the superintendent in accordance with subparagraph (C) of paragraph three of this subsection, subject to such limitations provided in the regulation promulgated by the superintendent.

(B) A policy issued to an institution of higher education shall comply with clause (V) of item (iv) of subparagraph (B) of paragraph one of subsection (a) of section three thousand two hundred forty of this chapter.

(5) Coverage under the policy shall be limited to the group member's risks with respect to a particular trip, except a policy issued to an institution of higher education shall comply with item (iv) of subparagraph (B) of paragraph one of subsection (a) of section three thousand two hundred forty of this chapter.

(6) A person shall not be required to purchase any product or service to be eligible for group property travel insurance coverage, or required to purchase coverage as a condition of becoming a passenger or a group member.

(b) An insurer shall treat in a like manner all eligible group members of the same class.

(c) A group travel insurance policy or certificate issued thereunder, shall not be subject to section three thousand four hundred twenty-five or section three thousand four hundred twenty-six of this article. The following requirements shall apply with regard to cancellation, nonrenewal, or conditional renewal of coverage:

(1) Unless the group policy provides for a longer policy period, the policy shall be issued or renewed for a one-year policy period, except a policy issued to an institution of higher education shall be issued or renewed for a period consistent with item (iv) of subparagraph (B) of paragraph one of subsection (a) of section three thousand two hundred forty of this chapter.

(2) An insurer may cancel a group policy, only if cancellation is based upon one or more of the reasons set forth in paragraph one of subsection (c) of section three thousand four hundred twenty-six of this article, provided, however, that an act or omission by a group member shall not constitute the basis for cancellation of the policy.

(3) An insurer's cancellation, nonrenewal, or conditional renewal of a group policy shall not become effective until at least sixty days after the insurer mails or delivers written notice of the cancellation, nonrenewal, or conditional renewal to the group policyholder at the mailing address shown in the policy. For purposes of this section, the term "conditional renewal" shall mean a renewal that is conditioned upon change of limits, change in type of coverage, reduction or elimination of coverage, increased deductible or addition of exclusion, or an increase in premiums in excess of ten percent per group member.

(4) Every notice of cancellation, nonrenewal, or conditional renewal shall set forth the specific reason or reasons for cancellation, nonrenewal, or conditional renewal.

(5) A group policyholder may cancel the group policy for any reason upon thirty days written notice to the insurer.

(6) Any certificate in effect when the group policy is cancelled, nonrenewed or otherwise terminated shall continue to be in effect for the period of coverage specified in the certificate.

(7) (A) An insurer may terminate a certificate upon fifteen days notice for:

(i) nonpayment of premium; or

(ii) discovery of fraud or material misrepresentation in obtaining the certificate or in the presentation of a claim thereunder.

(B) The coverage shall terminate as provided in the certificate, which shall in no event be later than the conclusion of the trip, except coverage under a policy issued to an institution of higher education as provided in item (iv) of subparagraph (B) of paragraph one of subsection (a) of section three thousand two hundred forty of this chapter shall terminate in accordance with the provisions of that section.

(d) The superintendent may promulgate regulations pertaining to group property travel insurance, including regulations regarding: payments of dividends or retrospective premium refunds; minimum provisions; minimum number of group members; and other reasonable limitations.

 § 3453. Group policy for service providers listed in a commercial directory. (a) For purposes of this section, the following definitions shall apply:

(1) "Commercial directory" means any listing of businesses in print or electronic form that is issued by an entity that publishes both white and yellow page directories.

(2) "Group member" means a service provider that is insured under the group policy.

(3) "Group policyholder" means an entity that publishes commercial directories.

(4) "Service provider" means any individual or business entity who is listed in a commercial directory; purchases advertising services from a publisher of a commercial directory; and provides certain types of services as specified by the publisher of the commercial directory.

(b) A group policy may be issued or issued for delivery in this state to a group policyholder only in accordance with the provisions of this section.

(c) Coverage under a group policy shall extend only to service providers, and shall be associated with the performance of contracts entered into by service providers.

(d) A group policy may provide coverage for the kind of insurance authorized by paragraph sixteen of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter, and the amount of coverage shall not exceed five thousand dollars for each contract guaranteed by the coverage.

(e) The premium for the group policy, including certificates, may be paid by the group policyholder from the funds contributed:

(1) wholly by the group policyholder;

(2) wholly by the group members; or

(3) jointly by the group policyholder and the group members.

(f)(1) A group policy, including certificates, on which all or part of the premium is to be derived from funds contributed by the group members specifically for their insurance may be placed in force only if the group policy insures not less than fifty percent of the then eligible service providers, or, if less, one hundred or more of such eligible service providers excluding any as to whom evidence of individual insurability is not satisfactory to the insurer. A group policy, including certificates, on which no part of the premium is to be derived from funds contributed by the group members specifically for their insurance must insure all eligible service providers, excluding any as to whom evidence of individual insurability is not satisfactory to the insurer.

(2) The group policy shall insure at least one hundred service providers at date of issue, except that if part of the premium is to be derived from funds to be contributed by the group members specifically for their insurance, then the group policy shall insure at least two hundred service providers at date of issue.

(g) (1) Any policy dividend, retrospective premium credit, or retrospective premium refund in respect of premiums paid by the group policyholder may:

(A) be applied to reduce the premium contribution of the group policyholder, but not in excess of the proportion to its contribution; or

(B) be retained by the group policyholder.

(2) Any policy dividend, retrospective premium credit, or retrospective premium refund not distributed under paragraph one of this subsection shall be:

(A) applied to reduce future premiums and, accordingly, future contributions, of existing or future group members, or both; or

(B) paid or refunded to those group members insured on the date the payment or refund is made to the group policyholder, if distributed by the group policyholder, or on the date of mailing, if distributed directly by the insurer, subject to the following requirements:

(i) the insurer shall be responsible for determining the allocation of the payment or refund to the group members;

(ii) if the group policyholder distributes the payment or refund, the insurer shall be responsible for audit to ascertain that the payment or refund is actually made in accordance with the allocation procedure; and

(iii) if the group policyholder fails to make the payment or refund, the insurer shall make the payment or refund directly or use the method provided in subparagraph (A) of this paragraph.

(3) Notwithstanding paragraphs one and two of this subsection, if a dividend accrues upon termination of coverage under a group policy, the premium for which was paid out of funds contributed by group members specifically for the coverage, then the dividend shall be paid or refunded by the group policyholder to the group members insured on the date the payment or refund is made to the group policyholder net of reasonable expenses incurred by the group policyholder in paying or refunding the dividend to such group members.

(4) For the purposes of this subsection, "dividend" means a return by an insurer to a group policyholder of excess premiums paid by that group policyholder in light of favorable loss experience, including retrospective premium credits or retrospective premium refunds. The term "dividend" does not include reimbursements or fees received by a group policyholder in connection with the operation or administration of a group policy, including administrative reimbursements, fees for services provided by the group policyholder, or transactional service fees.

(h) The insurer must treat in like manner all eligible group members of the same class and status.

(i) A group policy or certificate shall not be eligible for placement by an excess line broker licensed pursuant to article twenty-one of this chapter.

(j)(1) The insurer shall be responsible for the mailing or delivery of a certificate of insurance to each group member. The insurer also shall be responsible for the mailing or delivery to each group member of an amended certificate of insurance, or endorsement to the certificate, whenever there is a change of limits; change in type of coverage; addition, reduction, or elimination of coverage; or addition of exclusion, under the group policy or certificate.

(2) The certificate shall contain in substance all material terms and conditions of coverage afforded to the group member, unless the group policy is incorporated by reference and a copy of the group policy accompanies the certificate.

(3) If coverage afforded to the group member is in excess of other applicable insurance coverage, then the certificate shall contain a notice advising the group member that if the member has other insurance coverage, specified coverages under the group policy will be excess over the other insurance.

(k) A group policyholder shall comply with the provisions of section two thousand one hundred twenty-two of this chapter, in the same manner as an agent or broker, in any advertisement, sign, pamphlet, circular, card, or other public announcement referring to coverage under a group policy or certificate.

(l) A group policy or certificate shall not be subject to section three thousand four hundred twenty-five or section three thousand four hundred twenty-six of this article. The following requirements shall apply in regard to termination of coverage:

(1)(A) An insurer may terminate a group policy or certificate only if cancellation is based on one or more of the reasons set forth in subparagraphs (A) through (D) or (F) through (H) of paragraph one of subsection (c) of section three thousand four hundred twenty-six of this article; provided, however, that an act or omission by a group member that would constitute the basis for cancellation of an individual certificate shall not constitute the basis for cancellation of the group policy.

(B) Where the premium is derived wholly from funds contributed by the group policyholder, an insurer may cancel an individual certificate only if cancellation is based on one or more of the reasons set forth in subparagraph (B), (C) or (H) of paragraph one of subsection (c) of section three thousand four hundred twenty-six of this article.

(2)(A) An insurer's cancellation of a group policy, including all certificates, shall not become effective until fifteen days after the insurer mails or delivers written notice of cancellation to the group policyholder at the mailing address shown in the policy.

(i) Where all or part of the premium is derived from funds contributed by the group member specifically for the coverage, the insurer also shall mail or deliver written notice of cancellation of the group policy to the group member at the group member's mailing address.

(ii) Where none of the premium is derived from funds contributed by a group member specifically for the coverage, the group policyholder shall mail or deliver written notice to the group member advising the group member of the cancellation of the account group policy and the effective date of cancellation. The group policyholder shall mail or deliver the written notice within ninety days after receiving notice of cancellation from the insurer.

(B) An insurer's cancellation of an individual certificate shall not become effective until fifteen days after the insurer mails or delivers written notice of cancellation to the group member at the group member's mailing address and to the group policyholder at the mailing address shown in the group policy.

(C)(i) A group policyholder may cancel a group policy, including all certificates, or any individual certificate, for any reason upon thirty days written notice to the insurer and each group member; and

(ii) The group policyholder shall mail or deliver written notice to each affected group member of the group policyholder's cancellation of the group policy or certificate and the effective date of cancellation. The group policyholder shall mail or deliver the written notice to the group member's mailing address at least thirty days prior to the effective date of cancellation.

(3)(A) Unless a group policy provides for a longer policy period, the policy and all certificates shall be issued or renewed for a one-year policy period.

(B) The group policyholder shall be entitled to renew the group policy and all certificates upon timely payment of the premium billed to the group policyholder for the renewal, unless:

(i) the insurer mails or delivers to the group policyholder and all group members written notice of nonrenewal, or conditional renewal; and

(ii) the insurer mails or delivers the written notice at least thirty, but not more than one hundred twenty days prior to the expiration date specified in the policy or, if no date is specified, the next anniversary date of the policy.

(4) Where the group policyholder nonrenews the group policy, the group policyholder shall mail or deliver written notice to each group member advising the group member of nonrenewal of the group policy and the effective date of nonrenewal. The group policyholder shall mail or deliver written notice at least thirty days prior to the nonrenewal.

(5) Every notice of cancellation, nonrenewal, or conditional renewal shall set forth the specific reason or reasons for cancellation, nonrenewal, or conditional renewal.

(6)(A) An insurer shall not be required under this subsection to give notice to a group member if the insurer has been advised by either the group policyholder or another insurer that substantially similar coverage has been obtained from the other insurer without lapse of coverage.

(B) A group policyholder shall not be required under this subsection to give notice to a group member if substantially similar coverage has been obtained from another insurer without lapse of coverage.

(7)(A) If, prior to the effective date of cancellation, nonrenewal, or conditional renewal of the group policy, or a certificate, whether initiated by the insurer, group policyholder or by the group member in regard to the group member's certificate, coverage attaches pursuant to the terms of a group policy, then the coverage shall be effective until expiration of the applicable period of coverage provided in the group policy notwithstanding the cancellation, nonrenewal or conditional nonrenewal of the group policy.

(B) Notwithstanding subparagraph (A) of this paragraph, an insurer may terminate coverage under an individual certificate on the effective date of cancellation, if the certificate is cancelled in accordance with the provisions of subparagraph (B) of paragraph one of this subsection.

(m) Notwithstanding any regulation to the contrary, rates and forms for any group policy issued or issued for delivery in this state pursuant to this section shall be filed with the superintendent in accordance with article twenty-three of this chapter.

* NB There are 3 § 3453's

 § 3453. Self-service storage company group insurance policies. (a) For purposes of this section, unless the context requires otherwise:

(1) "Self-service storage company group policy" means a group policy, including certificates issued to the group members, where the group policyholder is a self-service storage company and the policy provides insurance to group members of the type described in paragraph three of subsection (d) of section two thousand one hundred thirty-one of this chapter.

(2) "Group member" means a person who rents storage space from a self-service storage company and who is insured under the self-service storage company group policy.

(3) "Certificate" or "certificate of insurance" means any policy, contract, or other evidence of insurance, or rider or endorsement thereto, issued to a group member under a self-service storage company group policy.

(b) A self-service storage company group policy or certificate may be issued or issued for delivery in this state only in compliance with the provisions of this section.

(c) Coverage under a self-service storage company group policy shall extend only to group members.

(d) A self-service storage company group policy may provide only the insurance coverages described in paragraph three of subsection (d) of section two thousand one hundred thirty-one of this chapter.

(e) The premium for the self-service storage company group policy, including certificates, shall be paid wholly by the group members if the group policyholder is licensed pursuant to section two thousand one hundred thirty-one of this chapter. In all other cases, such premium may be paid by the group policyholder from funds contributed:

(1) wholly by the group policyholder;

(2) wholly by the group members; or

(3) jointly by the group policyholder and group members.

(f)(1) Any policy dividend, retrospective premium credit, or retrospective premium refund in respect of premiums paid by the group policyholder may:

(A) be applied to reduce the premium contribution of the group policyholder, but not in excess of the proportion to its contribution; or

(B) be retained by the group policyholder.

(2) Any policy dividend, retrospective premium credit, or retrospective premium refund not distributed under paragraph one of this subsection shall be:

(A) applied to reduce future premiums and, accordingly, future contributions, of existing or future group members, or both; or

(B) paid or refunded to those group members insured on the date the payment or refund is made to the group policyholder, if distributed by the group policyholder, or on the date of mailing, if distributed directly by the insurer, subject to the following requirements:

(i) the insurer shall be responsible for determining the allocation of the payment or refund to the group members;

(ii) if the group policyholder distributes the payment or refund, the insurer shall be responsible for audit to ascertain that the payment or refund is actually made in accordance with the allocation procedure; and

(iii) if the group policyholder fails to make the payment or refund, the insurer shall make the payment or refund directly or use the method provided in subparagraph (A) of this paragraph.

(3) Notwithstanding paragraphs one and two of this subsection, if a dividend accrues upon termination of coverage under a self-service storage company group policy, the premium for which was paid out of funds contributed by group members specifically for the coverage, the dividend shall be paid or refunded by the group policyholder to the group members insured on the date the payment or refund is made to the group policyholder, net of reasonable expenses incurred by the group policyholder in paying or refunding the dividend to such group members.

(4) For the purposes of this subsection, "dividend" means a return by an insurer to a group policyholder of excess premiums paid by that group policyholder in light of favorable loss experience, including retrospective premium credits or retrospective premium refunds. The term "dividend" does not include reimbursements or fees received by a group policyholder in connection with the operation or administration of a self- service storage company group policy, including administrative reimbursements, fees for services provided by the group policyholder, or transactional service fees.

(g) The insurer must treat in like manner all eligible group members of the same class.

(h) A self-service storage company group policy or certificate shall not be eligible for placement by an excess line broker licensed pursuant to article twenty-one of this chapter.

(i) (1) The insurer shall be responsible for the mailing or delivery of a certificate of insurance to each group member insured under the self-service storage company group policy. The insurer shall also be responsible for the mailing or delivery to each group member of an amended certificate of insurance, or endorsement to the certificate, whenever there is a change of limits; change in type of coverage; addition, reduction, or elimination of coverage; or addition of exclusion, under the self-service storage company group policy or certificate.

(2) The certificate shall contain in substance all material terms and conditions of coverage afforded to the group member, unless the self-service storage company group policy is incorporated by reference and a copy of the group policy accompanies the certificate.

(3) If coverage afforded to the group member is excess of other applicable insurance coverage, the certificate shall contain a notice advising the group member that, if the member has other insurance coverage, specified coverages under the self-service storage company group policy will be excess over the other insurance.

(j) A group policyholder shall comply with the provisions of section two thousand one hundred twenty-two of this chapter, in the same manner as an agent or broker, in any advertisement, sign, pamphlet, circular, card, or other public announcement referring to coverage under a self-service storage company group policy or certificate.

(k) A self-service storage company group policy or certificate shall not be subject to section three thousand four hundred twenty-five or section three thousand four hundred twenty-six of this article. The following requirements shall apply in regard to termination of coverage:

(1) (A) A self-service storage company group policy or certificate may be cancelled by an insurer only if cancellation is based on one or more of the reasons set forth in subparagraphs (A) through (D) or (F) through (H) of paragraph one of subsection (c) of section three thousand four hundred twenty-six of this article; provided, however, that an act or omission by a group member that would constitute the basis for cancellation of an individual certificate shall not constitute the basis for cancellation of the self-service storage company group policy.

(B) Where the premium is derived wholly from funds contributed by the group policyholder, an individual certificate may be cancelled by the insurer only if cancellation is based on one or more of the reasons set forth in subparagraph (B), (C) or (H) of paragraph one of subsection (c) of section three thousand four hundred twenty-six of this article.

(2) (A) An insurer's cancellation of a self-service storage company group policy, including all certificates, shall not become effective until fifteen days after the insurer mails or delivers written notice of cancellation to the group policyholder at the mailing address shown in the policy.

(i) Where all or part of the premium is derived from funds contributed by a group member specifically for the coverage, written notice of cancellation of the self-service storage company group policy shall also be mailed or delivered by the insurer to the group member at the group member's mailing address.

(ii) Where none of the premium is derived from funds contributed by a group member specifically for the coverage, the group policyholder shall mail or deliver written notice to the group member advising the group member of the cancellation of the self-service storage company group policy and the effective date of cancellation. The written notice shall be mailed or delivered by the group policyholder within ninety days after receiving notice of cancellation from the insurer.

(B) An insurer's cancellation of an individual certificate shall not become effective until fifteen days after the insurer mails or delivers written notice of cancellation to the group member at the group member's mailing address and to the group policyholder at the mailing address shown in the self-service storage company group policy.

(C) (i) A group policyholder may cancel a self-service storage company group policy, including all certificates, or any individual certificate, for any reason upon thirty days written notice to the insurer and each group member; and

(ii) The group policyholder shall mail or deliver written notice to each affected group member of the group policyholder's cancellation of the self-service storage company group policy or certificate and the effective date of cancellation. Such written notice shall be mailed or delivered to the group member's mailing address at least thirty days prior to the effective date of the cancellation.

(3) (A) Unless a self-service storage company group policy provides for a longer policy period, the policy and all certificates shall be issued or renewed for a one-year policy period.

(B) The group policyholder shall be entitled to renew the self-service storage company group policy and all certificates upon timely payment of the premium billed to the group policyholder for the renewal, unless:

(i) the insurer mails or delivers to the group policyholder and all group members written notice of nonrenewal, or conditional renewal; and

(ii) the written notice is mailed or delivered at least thirty, but not more than one hundred twenty days prior to the expiration date specified in the policy or, if no date is specified, the next anniversary date of the policy.

(4) Where the self-service storage company group policy is nonrenewed by the group policyholder, the group policyholder shall mail or deliver written notice to each group member advising the group member of nonrenewal of the self-service storage company group policy and the effective date of nonrenewal. The written notice shall be mailed or delivered by the group policyholder at least thirty days prior to the nonrenewal.

(5) Every notice of cancellation, nonrenewal, or conditional renewal shall contain the specific reason or reasons for cancellation, nonrenewal, or conditional renewal.

(6) (A) An insurer shall not be required under this subsection to give notice to a group member if the insurer has been advised by either the group policyholder or another insurer that substantially similar coverage has been obtained from the other insurer without lapse of coverage.

(B) A group policyholder shall not be required under this subsection to give notice to a group member if substantially similar coverage has been obtained from another insurer without lapse of coverage.

* NB There are 3 § 3453's

 § 3453. Employer sponsored group personal excess insurance. (a) For purposes of this section, the following definitions shall apply:

(1) "Certificate" or "certificate of insurance" means any policy, contract or other evidence of insurance, or rider or endorsement thereto, issued to a group member under an employer sponsored group personal excess insurance policy.

(2) "Conditional renewal" means any change of limits, change in type of coverage, reduction or elimination of coverage, increased deductible or addition of exclusion, or increased premiums in excess of ten percent (exclusive of any premium increase generated as a result of experience rating, loss rating or retrospective rating).

(3) "Employee" means a director of the employer, or an individual or partner who receives or has received income, wages or salaries from the employer.

(4) "Employer" means a person, partnership, corporation or other entity which pays or has paid income, wages or salaries to a person or persons.

(5) "Employer sponsored group personal excess insurance" means a group policy of insurance providing the kind of insurance defined in paragraph thirteen or fourteen of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter, written as an excess policy with premiums remitted by the employer, insuring groups of active and/or retired employees designated by the employer.

(6) "Group member" means a designated active or retired employee insured under this section and also may include the employee's domestic partner or any person related to the employee by blood, marriage, adoption, or operation of law, who resides in the same household (including a ward or foster child) or who is a dependent child away at school.

(7) "Group policy" means employer sponsored group personal excess insurance written for the designated employees of an employer or other group members as defined in this section.

(b) Employer sponsored group personal excess insurance may be written in this state pursuant to this section.

(c) The premium for the group policy may be paid by the employer from funds contributed:

(1) wholly by the employer;

(2) wholly by the employees or group members; or

(3) jointly by the employer and employees or group members.

(d) An employee or group member shall have the right to refuse coverage offered by an employer under this section.

(e) Each policy written pursuant to this section shall provide separate limits of coverage for each group member.

(f)(1) The insurer shall be responsible for the mailing or delivery to the employer a group policy and certificates of insurance for each group member insured under the group policy. The insurer shall also be responsible for the mailing or delivery to the employer for each group member any amended certificate of insurance, or endorsement to the certificate, whenever there is a change of limits; addition, reduction, or elimination of coverage; or addition of an exclusion, under the group policy or certificate.

(2) The certificate shall contain in substance all material terms and conditions of coverage afforded to the group member, including, but not limited to, the disclosure in clear and easily understandable language of any limitations, exclusions or required underlying coverages, unless the group policy is incorporated by reference and a copy of the group policy accompanies the certificate.

(g)(1) A group policy or certificate shall not be subject to section three thousand four hundred twenty-five or section three thousand four hundred twenty-six of this article. The following requirements shall apply to authorized insurers in regard to termination of coverage.

(2) A group policy or certificate may be cancelled by an insurer only if cancellation is based on one or more of the reasons set forth in paragraph one of subsection (c) of section three thousand four hundred twenty-six of this article, provided, however, that an individual group member may also be canceled upon termination of his or her employment with the employer.

(3) An insurer's cancellation of a group policy, or any certificate, shall not become effective until forty-five days, or twenty days if based upon non-payment of premium, after the insurer mails or delivers written notice of cancellation to the employer at the mailing address shown in the policy. The employer shall mail or deliver written notice of such cancellation to each affected group member within ten days of receiving a cancellation notice from the insurer advising the group member of the cancellation and the effective date of the cancellation.

(h) An authorized insurer may nonrenew or conditionally renew a group policy, or any certificate, under this section, for any reason upon forty-five days written notice to the employer. The employer shall mail or deliver written notice of such nonrenewal or conditional renewal to each affected group member within ten days of receiving such notice from the insurer.

(i) An employer may cancel a group policy, or any certificate, for any reason upon thirty days written notice to the insurer and each affected group member.

(j) Unless a group policy provides for a longer policy period, the policy and all certificates shall be issued or renewed for a one-year policy period commencing with a common inception date. A new employee may be added to the group policy for less than one year to conform with a common expiration date.

(k) No policy form shall be delivered or issued for delivery by an authorized insurer unless it has been filed with the superintendent and the superintendent has either approved it, or thirty days have elapsed and the superintendent has not disapproved such form as misleading or violative of public policy. The initial rate of filing pursuant to this section shall be subject to the prior approval of the superintendent,

* NB There are 3 § 3453's

§ 3454. Sponsored group personal insurance. (a) For purposes of this section, the following definitions shall apply:

(1) "Certificate" or "certificate of insurance" means any policy, contract or other evidence of insurance, or rider or endorsement thereto, issued to a group member under a group policy.

(2) "Conditional renewal" means any change of limits, change in type of coverage, reduction or elimination of coverage, increased deductible or addition of exclusion, or increased premiums in excess of ten percent (exclusive of any premium increase generated as a result of experience rating, loss rating or retrospective rating).

(3) "Personal excess insurance" means insurance as defined in paragraph thirteen or fourteen of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter, written as an excess insurance policy.

(4) "Personal property floater insurance" means insurance as defined in subparagraph (C) of paragraph seven of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter.

(5) "Group policy" means a group insurance policy providing personal excess insurance, personal property floater insurance, renters' insurance, and vintage vehicle insurance, or any combination thereof, insuring sponsor group members.

(6) "Group policyholder" means a sponsor.

(7) "Renters' insurance" means insurance insuring residential property tenants, housing cooperative shareholders, or condominium owners against the contingencies described in subparagraphs (A), (B) and (C), or (B) and (C) of paragraph two of subsection (a) of section three thousand four hundred twenty-five of this article.

(8) "Vintage vehicle insurance" means insurance insuring against losses or liabilities arising out of the ownership, operation, or use of a motor vehicle, and covering a motor vehicle that is antique, classic, or made from a kit. For the purposes of this paragraph:

(A) an "antique" motor vehicle means a private passenger motor vehicle that is at least twenty-five years old, and is maintained primarily for use in exhibitions, club activities, parades, or other functions of public interest, and occasionally used for other purposes; and

(B) a "classic" motor vehicle is a private passenger motor vehicle that is at least ten years old, may be used on a regular basis, and the motor vehicle's value is significantly higher than the average value of other motor vehicles of the same make and model year.

(9) "Sponsor" means:

(A) an association, organization, labor union, federation, fraternity, club or similar entity:

(i) in which the members are engaged in a common pursuit or enterprise;

(ii) that was formed for purposes other than obtaining insurance;

(iii) that has been in existence for more than three years;

(iv) that has twenty-five or more members; and

(v) that has adopted by-laws or similar governance rules, and a method to enroll or register members; or

(B) a bank, corporation, partnership, trust company, or trustee of a trust that owns twenty-five or more residential properties or living units or a tenants' association, condominium association, or similar organization, with respect to renters' insurance sold to lessees or occupants of residential properties or living units owned by the bank, corporation, partnership or trust, or who are members of the tenants' association, condominium association, or similar organization.

(10) "Sponsor group member" means:

(A) an enrolled member, officer, or director of a sponsor;

(B) any domestic partner of the enrolled member, officer, or director;

(C) any person related to the enrolled member, officer, or director by blood, marriage, adoption, or operation of law, who resides in the same household (including a ward or foster child) or who is a dependent child away at school; or

(D) a lessee or occupant of a residential property or living unit owned by a bank, corporation, partnership or trust when the bank, corporation, partnership, trust company, or trustee of the trust is the sponsor, or when the sponsor is a tenants' association, condominium association, or similar organization.

(b) A group policy written pursuant to this section may be issued or issued for delivery in this state only in compliance with the provisions of this section.

(c) The premium for the group policy, including certificates, shall be paid by the sponsor group members. An insurer shall not provide coverage in regard to a group policy that requires the purchase of insurance as a condition of sponsor group membership or imposes any penalty upon a sponsor group member if the sponsor group member does not purchase insurance. If so authorized by the insurer, the sponsor group may aggregate the group members' premiums and remit them to the insurer or to the licensed insurance agent or broker representing the sponsor group. If an insurer authorizes a sponsor group to aggregate and remit the premiums of sponsor group members, then payment to the sponsor group by a sponsor group member shall be deemed to be payment to the insurer.

(d) (1) Any policy dividend, retrospective premium credit, or retrospective premium refund not distributed shall be:

(A) applied to reduce future premiums and, accordingly, future contributions, of existing or future group sponsor members, or both; or

(B) paid or refunded to those sponsor group members insured on the date the payment or refund is made to the group policyholder, if distributed by the group policyholder, or on the date of mailing, if distributed directly by the insurer, subject to the following requirements:

(i) the insurer shall be responsible for determining the allocation of the payment or refund to the sponsor group members;

(ii) if the group policyholder distributes the payment or refund, the insurer shall be responsible for audit to ascertain that the payment or refund is actually made in accordance with the allocation procedure; and

(iii) if the group policyholder fails to make the payment or refund, the insurer shall make the payment or refund directly or use the method provided in subparagraph (A) of this paragraph.

(2) Notwithstanding paragraph one of this subsection, if a dividend accrues upon termination of coverage under a group policy, then the group policyholder shall pay or refund the dividend to the sponsor group members insured on the date the payment or refund is made to the group policyholder.

(e) The insurer shall treat in like manner all eligible sponsor group members of the same class and sponsor status.

(f) A group policy or certificate written pursuant to this section shall not be eligible for placement by an excess line broker licensed pursuant to article twenty-one of this chapter.

(g) A group policy written pursuant to this section shall provide separate limits of coverage under the certificate issued to a sponsor group member.

(h)(1) The insurer shall be responsible for the mailing or delivery of a certificate of insurance to each sponsor group member insured under the group policy. The insurer also shall be responsible for the mailing or delivery to each sponsor group member of any amended certificate of insurance, or endorsement to the certificate, whenever there is a change of limits; change in type of coverage; addition, reduction, or elimination of coverage; or addition of an exclusion, under the group policy or certificate. If so authorized by the insurer, the sponsor group may mail or deliver certificates, endorsements and other coverage notices to the sponsor group members on behalf of the insurer.

(2) The certificate shall contain in substance all material terms and conditions of coverage afforded to the sponsor group member, unless the group policy is incorporated by reference and a copy of the group policy accompanies the certificate.

(3) If the coverage afforded to a sponsor group member is excess of other applicable insurance coverage, then the certificate shall contain a notice advising the sponsor group member that, if the member has other insurance coverage, specified coverages under the group policy shall be excess over the other insurance.

(i) A group policyholder shall comply with the provisions of section two thousand one hundred twenty-two of this chapter, in the same manner as an insurance producer, in any advertisement, sign, pamphlet, circular, card, or other public announcement referring to coverage under a group policy or certificate.

(j) A group policy or certificate shall not be subject to section three thousand four hundred twenty-five or section three thousand four hundred twenty-six of this article. The following requirements shall apply in regard to termination of coverage:

(1) An insurer may cancel a group policy or certificate only if cancellation is based on one or more of the reasons set forth in paragraph one of subsection (c) of section three thousand four hundred twenty-six of this article; provided, however, that an act or omission by a sponsor group member that would constitute the basis for cancellation of an individual certificate shall not constitute the basis for cancellation of the group policy.

(2)(A) An insurer's cancellation of a group policy, including all certificates, shall not become effective until forty-five days, or twenty days if based upon non-payment of premium, after the insurer mails or delivers written notice of cancellation to the group policyholder at the mailing address shown in the policy, and to the sponsor group member at the sponsor group member's mailing address.

(B) An insurer's cancellation of an individual certificate shall not become effective until forty-five days after the insurer mails or delivers written notice of cancellation to the sponsor group member at the sponsor group member's mailing address and to the group policyholder at the mailing address shown in the group policy.

(C) (i) A group policyholder may cancel a group policy, including all certificates, or any individual certificate, for any reason, upon ninety days written notice to the insurer and each sponsor group member.

(ii) The group policyholder shall mail or deliver written notice to each affected group member of the group policyholder's cancellation of the group policy or certificate and the effective date of cancellation. The group policyholder shall mail or deliver the written notice to the sponsor group member's mailing address at least ninety days prior to the effective date of the cancellation.

(3)(A) Unless the group policy provides for a longer policy period, the policy and all certificates shall be issued or renewed for a one-year policy period.

(B) The sponsor group member shall be entitled to renew the certificate upon timely payment of the premium billed to the sponsor group member for the renewal, unless:

(i) the insurer mails or delivers to the sponsor group member written notice of nonrenewal or conditional renewal; and

(ii) the insurer mails or delivers written notice at least ninety, but not more than two hundred forty days prior to the expiration date specified in the policy or, if the policy does not specify a date, then the next anniversary date of the policy.

(4) Where the group policyholder nonrenews the group policy, the group policyholder shall mail or deliver written notice to each sponsor group member advising the sponsor group member of nonrenewal of the group policy and the effective date of nonrenewal. The group policy holder shall mail or deliver the written notice at least ninety days prior to the nonrenewal.

(5) Every notice of cancellation, nonrenewal, or conditional renewal shall contain the specific reason or reasons for cancellation, nonrenewal, or conditional renewal.

(6)(A) An insurer shall not be required under this subsection to give notice to a sponsor group member if the insurer has been advised by either the group policyholder or another insurer that substantially similar coverage has been obtained from the other insurer without lapse of coverage.

(B) A group policyholder shall not be required under this subsection to give notice to sponsor group member if substantially similar coverage has been obtained from another insurer without lapse of coverage.

(k) If an insurer cancels or nonrenews a renters' insurance group policy, then the insurer shall offer to convert a certificate to an individual insurance policy, using the insurer's filed rates and forms for individual policies, for any remaining part of the required policy period set forth in section three thousand four hundred twenty-five of this article.

(1) "Transportation network company" shall have the same meaning as set forth in article forty-four-B of the vehicle and traffic law.

(2) "Certificate" or "certificate of insurance" means any policy, contract or other evidence of insurance, or endorsement thereto, issued to a group member under a transportation network company group policy.

(3) "Transportation network company group policy" or "group policy" means a group policy, including certificates issued to the group members, where the group policyholder is a transportation network company and the policy provides insurance to the transportation network company and to group members:

(A) in accordance with the requirements of article forty-four-B of the vehicle and traffic law;

(B) of the type described in paragraph thirteen, fourteen, or nineteen of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter; and

(C) in satisfaction of the financial responsibility requirements set forth in section three thousand four hundred twenty of this article, subdivision four of section three hundred eleven of the vehicle and traffic law, article fifty-one of this chapter, and such other requirements or regulations that may apply for the purposes of satisfying the financial responsibility requirements with respect to the use or operation of a motor vehicle.

(4) "Group member" means a transportation network company driver as defined in article forty-four-B of the vehicle and traffic law.

(5) "Group policyholder" means a transportation network company.

(6) "TNC vehicle" shall have the meaning set forth in article forty-four-B of the vehicle and traffic law.

(b) An insurer may issue or issue for delivery in this state a transportation network company group policy to a transportation network company as a group policyholder only in accordance with the provisions of this section.

(c)(1) A transportation network company group policy shall provide coverage for a TNC vehicle in accordance with the requirements of article forty-four-B of the vehicle and traffic law.

(2) A transportation network company group policy may provide:

(A) coverage for limits higher than the minimum limits required pursuant to article forty-four-B of the vehicle and traffic law.

(B) supplementary uninsured/underinsured motorists insurance for bodily injury pursuant to paragraph two of subsection (f) of section three thousand four hundred twenty of this article;

(C) supplemental spousal liability insurance pursuant to subsection (g) of section three thousand four hundred twenty of this chapter; and

(D) motor vehicle physical damage coverage as described in paragraph nineteen of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter.

(3) The coverage described in paragraphs one and two of this subsection may be provided in one group policy or in separate group policies.

(4) A transportation network company group policy, including certificates, shall be issued by authorized insurers or from excess line brokers pursuant to section sixteen six hundred ninety-three of the vehicle and traffic law.

(5) A policyholder also may be an insured under a group policy.

(d) The premium for the transportation network company group policy, including certificates may be paid by the group policyholder from the funds contributed:

(1) wholly by the group policyholder;

(2) wholly by the group members; or

(3) jointly by the group policyholder and the group members.

(e) (1) Any policy dividend, retrospective premium credit, or retrospective premium refund in respect of premiums paid by the group policyholder may:

(A) be applied to reduce the premium contribution of the group policyholder, but not in excess of the proportion to its contribution; or

(B) be retained by the group policyholder.

(2) Any policy dividend, retrospective premium credit, or retrospective premium refund not distributed under paragraph one of this subsection shall be:

(A) applied to reduce future premiums and, accordingly, future contributions, of existing or future group members, or both; or

(B) paid or refunded to those group members insured on the date the payment or refund is made to the group policyholder, if distributed by the group policyholder, or on the date of mailing, if distributed directly by the insurer, subject to the following requirements:

(i) The insurer shall be responsible for determining the allocation of the payment of refund to the group members;

(ii) If the group policyholder distributes the payment or refund, the insurer shall be responsible for audit to ascertain that the payment or refund is actually made in accordance with the allocation procedure; and

(iii) If the group policyholder fails to make the payment or refund, the insurer shall make the payment or refund directly or use the method provided in subparagraph (A) of this paragraph.

(3) Notwithstanding paragraphs one and two of this subsection, if a dividend accrues upon termination of coverage under a transportation network company group policy, the premium for which was paid out of funds contributed by group members specifically for the coverage, the dividend shall be paid or refunded by the group policyholder to the group members insured on the date the payment or refund is made to the group policyholder, net of reasonable expenses incurred by the group policyholder in paying or refunding the dividend to such group members.

(4) For the purposes of this subsection, "dividend" means a return by the insurer of a transportation network company group policy of excess premiums to the group policyholder in light of favorable loss experience, including retrospective premium credits or retrospective premium refunds. The term "dividend" does not include reimbursements or fees received by a group policyholder in connection with the operation or administration of a transportation network company group policy, including administrative reimbursements, fees for services provided by the group policyholder, or transactional service fees.

(f) The insurer shall treat in like manner all eligible group members of the same class and status.

(g) Each policy written pursuant to this section shall provide per occurrence limits of coverage for each group member in an amount not less than that required by this article, and may provide coverage for limits higher than the minimum limits required under the law.

(h) (1) The insurer shall be responsible for mailing or delivery of a certificate of insurance to each group member insured under the transportation network company group policy, provided, however, that the insurer may delegate the mailing or delivery to the transportation network company. The insurer shall also be responsible for the mailing or delivery to each group member of an amended certificate of insurance or endorsement to the certificate, whenever there is a change in limits; change in type of coverage; addition, reduction, or elimination of coverage; or addition of exclusion, under the transportation network company group policy or certificate.

(2) The certificate shall contain in substance all material terms and conditions of coverage afforded to group members, unless the transportation network company group policy is incorporated by reference and a copy of the group policy accompanies the certificate.

(3) If any coverage afforded to the group member is excess of applicable insurance coverage, the certificate shall contain a notice advising the group members that, if the member has other insurance coverage, specified coverages under the transportation network company group policy will be excess over the other insurance.

(i) A group policyholder shall comply with the provisions of section two thousand one hundred twenty-two of this chapter, in the same manner as an agent or broker, in any advertisement, sign, pamphlet, circular, card, or other public announcement referring to coverage under a transportation network company group policy or certificate.

(j) A transportation network company group policy shall not be subject to section three thousand four hundred twenty-five or section three thousand four hundred twenty-six of this article; provided that the following requirements shall apply with regard to termination of coverage:

(1)(A) An insurer may terminate a group policy or certificate only if cancellation is based on one or more of the reasons set forth in subparagraph (A) through (D) or (F) through (H) of paragraph one of subsection (c) of section three thousand four hundred twenty-six of this article; provided, however, that an act or omission by a group member that would constitute the basis for cancellation of an individual certificate shall not constitute the basis for cancellation of the group policy.

(B) Where the premium is derived wholly from funds contributed by the group policyholder, an insurer may cancel an individual certificate only if cancellation is based on one or more of the reasons set forth in subparagraph (B), (C) or (H) of paragraph one of subsection (c) of section three thousand four hundred twenty-six of this article.

(2) (A) An insurer's cancellation of a group policy, including all certificates, shall not become effective until thirty days after the insurer mails or delivers written notice of cancellation to the group policyholder at the mailing address shown in the policy.

(i) Where all or part of the premium is derived from funds contributed by the group member specifically for the coverage, the insurer shall also mail or deliver written notice of cancellation of the group policy to the group member at the group member's mailing address. Such cancellation shall not become effective until thirty days after the insurer mails or delivers the written notice to the group member.

(ii) Where none of the premium is derived from funds contributed by a group member specifically for the coverage, the group policy holder shall mail or deliver written notice to the group member advising the group member of the cancellation of the group policy and the effective date of cancellation. The group policy holder shall mail or deliver the written notice within ninety days after receiving notice of cancellation from the insurer.

(B) An insurer's cancellation of an individual certificate shall not become effective until thirty days after the insurer mails or delivers written notice of cancellation to the group member at the group member's mailing address and to the group policyholder at the mailing address shown in the group policy.

(3) (A) A group policyholder may cancel a group policy, including all certificates, or any individual certificate, for any reason upon thirty days written notice to the insurer and each group member; and

(B) The group policyholder shall mail or deliver written notice to each affected group member of the group policyholder's cancellation of the group policy or certificate and the effective date of cancellation. The group policyholder shall mail or deliver the written notice to the group member's mailing address at least thirty days prior to the effective date of cancellation.

(4) (A) Unless a group policy provides for a longer policy period, the policy and all certificates shall be issued or renewed for a one-year policy period.

(B) The group policyholder shall be entitled to renew the group policy and all certificates upon timely payment of the premium billed to the group policyholder for the renewal, unless:

(i) the insurer mails or delivers to the group policyholder and all group members written notice of nonrenewal, or conditional renewal; and

(ii) the insurer mails or delivers the written notice at least thirty, but not more than one hundred twenty days prior to the expiration date specified in the policy or, if no date is specified, the next anniversary date of the policy.

(5) Where the group policyholder nonrenews the group policy, the group policyholder shall mail or deliver written notice to each group member advising the group member of nonrenewal of the group policy and the effective date of nonrenewal. The group policyholder shall mail or deliver written notice at least thirty days prior to the nonrenewal.

(6) Every notice of cancellation, nonrenewal, or conditional renewal shall set forth the specific reason or reasons for cancellation, nonrenewal, or conditional renewal.

(7) (A) An insurer shall not be required under this subsection to give notice to a group member if the insurer has been advised by either the group policyholder or another insurer that substantially similar coverage has been obtained from the other insurer without lapse of coverage.

(B) A group policyholder shall not be required under this subsection to give notice to a group member if substantially similar coverage has been obtained from another insurer without lapse of coverage.

(8) (A) If, prior to the effective date of cancellation, nonrenewal, or conditional renewal of the group policy, or a certificate, whether initiated by the insurer, group policyholder or by the group member in regard to the group member's certificate, coverage attaches pursuant to the terms of a group policy, then the coverage shall be effective until expiration of the applicable period of coverage provided in the group policy notwithstanding the cancellation, nonrenewal or conditional nonrenewal of the group policy.

(B) Notwithstanding subparagraph (A) of this paragraph, an insurer may terminate coverage under an individual certificate on the effective date of cancellation, if the certificate is cancelled in accordance with the provisions of subparagraph (B) of paragraph one of this subsection.

(k) Any mailing or delivery to a group member required or permitted under this section may be made by electronic mail if consent to such method of delivery has been previously received from such group member.

(l) An insurer may issue a transportation network company group policy to a transportation network company, notwithstanding that it may be a condition of operating a vehicle on the transportation network company's digital network for the TNC driver to participate in such group policy.

(m) An insurer shall not include a mandatory arbitration clause in a policy that provides financial responsibility coverage under this section except as permitted in section five thousand one hundred five of the insurance law.

§ 3456. Prohibition against cancellation of policy when motor vehicle is used or operated through a transportation network company program.

(a) An insurer shall not cancel an existing motor vehicle insurance policy solely on the basis that the motor vehicle covered by the insurance has been made available pursuant to a transportation network company program in compliance with article forty-four-B of the vehicle and traffic law.

(b) The definitions set forth in section three thousand four hundred fifty-five of this article shall apply to this section.

§ 3457. Group insurance policies for certain for hire motor vehicles. (a) For purposes of this section, the following definitions shall apply:

(1) "Certificate" or "certificate of insurance" means any policy, contract or other evidence of insurance, or endorsement thereto, issued to a group member under a for hire motor vehicle group policy.

(2) "For hire motor vehicle" or "vehicle" means a motor vehicle engaged in the business of carrying or transporting passengers for hire, having a seating capacity of not less than eight passengers, excluding the driver.

(3) "For hire motor vehicle group policy" or "group policy" means a group policy, including certificates issued to the group members, where the group policy provides insurance to the group members or both the group policyholder and the group members of the type described in paragraph twelve, thirteen, fourteen, or nineteen of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter.

(4) "Group member" means the owner of a for hire motor vehicle.

(5) "Group policyholder" means a sponsoring entity.

(6) "Owner" shall have the same meaning as set forth in section one hundred twenty-eight of the vehicle and traffic law.

(7) "Sponsoring entity" means:

(A) an association or other organization, or a trustee or trustees of a fund established, created, or maintained for the benefit of one or more associations or other organizations, where all the eligible members of the association or associations or other organization or organizations have the same profession, trade, or occupation, and the association or associations or other organization or organizations have been organized and maintained in good faith for purposes principally other than that of obtaining insurance, and have been in active existence for at least two years;

(B) an entity that owns for hire motor vehicles and leases them to drivers; or

(C) any other entity where the superintendent has determined in a regulation that the members are engaged in a common enterprise, or have an economic or social affinity or relationship, and that the issuance of the group policy would not be contrary to the best interests of the public.

(b) An authorized insurer may issue or issue for delivery in this state a group policy to a sponsoring entity as a group policyholder only in accordance with the provisions of this section.

(c)(1) A group policy shall provide coverage in satisfaction of the financial responsibility requirements set forth in section three thousand four hundred twenty of this article, section three hundred seventy of the vehicle and traffic law, article fifty-one of this chapter, and such other requirements or regulations that may apply for the purposes of satisfying the financial responsibility requirements with respect to the use or operation of a for hire motor vehicle.

(2) A group policy may provide:

(A) coverage for limits higher than the minimum limits required pursuant to section three hundred seventy of the vehicle and traffic law and paragraph two of subsection (f) of section three thousand four hundred twenty of this article;

(B) supplemental spousal liability insurance pursuant to subsection (g) of section three thousand four hundred twenty of this article; and

(C) motor vehicle physical damage coverage as described in paragraph nineteen of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter.

(3) A group policy, including certificates, shall be issued by an authorized insurer.

(4) A policyholder also may be an insured under a group policy.

(d) The premium for the group policy, including certificates, may be paid by the group policyholder from the funds contributed wholly by the group members or jointly by the group policyholder and the group members.

(e) Each policy written pursuant to this section shall provide per occurrence limits of coverage for each group member in an amount not less than that required by this article and may provide coverage for limits higher than the minimum limits required pursuant to law.

(f)(1) The insurer shall be responsible for mailing or delivery of a certificate of insurance to each group member insured under the group policy. The insurer shall also be responsible for the mailing or delivery to each group member of an amended certificate of insurance or endorsement to the certificate whenever there is a change in limits, change in type of coverage, addition, reduction, or elimination of coverage or addition of an exclusion, under the group policy or certificate.

(2) The certificate shall contain in substance all material terms and conditions of coverage afforded to group members, unless the group policy is incorporated by reference and a copy of the group policy accompanies the certificate.

(g) A group policyholder shall comply with the provisions of section two thousand one hundred twenty-two of this chapter, in the same manner as an insurance agent or insurance broker, in any advertisement, sign, pamphlet, circular, card, or other public announcement referring to coverage under a group policy or certificate.

(h) A group policy shall not be subject to section three thousand four hundred twenty-five or section three thousand four hundred twenty-six of this article, provided that the following requirements shall apply with regard to termination of coverage:

(1) An insurer may cancel a group policy or certificate only if cancellation is based on one or more of the reasons set forth in subparagraph (A) through (D) or (F) through (H) of paragraph one of subsection (c) of section three thousand four hundred twenty-six of this article; provided, however, that:

(A) an insurer may cancel an individual certificate if the driver's license of the group member insured under that certificate is suspended or revoked during the period of coverage, other than a suspension issued pursuant to subdivision one of section five hundred ten-b of the vehicle and traffic law or one or more administrative suspensions arising from the same incident that has or have been terminated prior to the effective date of the cancellation; and

(B) an act or omission by a group member that would constitute the basis for cancellation of an individual certificate shall not constitute the basis for cancellation of the group policy.

(2) An insurer's cancellation of a group policy, including all certificates, shall not become effective until thirty days after the insurer mails or delivers written notice of cancellation to the group policyholder at the mailing address shown in the policy. The insurer shall also mail or deliver written notice of cancellation of the group policy, including all certificates, to the group member at the group member's mailing address. Such cancellation shall not become effective until thirty days after the insurer mails or delivers the written notice to the group member.

(3)(A) A group policyholder may cancel a group policy, including all certificates, or any individual certificate, for any reason upon at least thirty days written notice to the insurer and each group member; and

(B) the group policyholder shall mail or deliver written notice to each affected group member of the group policyholder's cancellation of the group policy or certificate and the effective date of cancellation. The group policyholder shall mail or deliver the written notice to the group member's mailing address at least thirty days prior to the effective date of cancellation.

(4)(A) Unless a group policy provides for a longer policy period, the policy and all certificates shall be issued or renewed for a one-year policy period.

(B) The group policyholder shall be entitled to renew the group policy and all certificates upon timely payment of the premium billed to the group policyholder for the renewal, unless:

(i) the insurer mails or delivers to the group policyholder and all group members written notice of nonrenewal or conditional renewal; and

(ii) the insurer mails or delivers the written notice at least sixty, but not more than one hundred twenty days, prior to the expiration date specified in the policy or, if no date is specified, the next anniversary date of the policy.

(5) Every notice of cancellation, nonrenewal, or conditional renewal shall set forth the specific reason or reasons for cancellation, nonrenewal, or conditional renewal and the insurer shall also mail or deliver the notice to the insurance producer that procured the group policy when the group policy and any certificates are cancelled, nonrenewed, or conditionally renewed.

(6)(A) If, prior to the effective date of cancellation, nonrenewal, or conditional renewal of the group policy, or cancellation of a certificate, whether initiated by the insurer, group policyholder, or group member in regard to the group member's certificate, coverage attaches pursuant to the terms of the group policy, then the coverage shall be effective until expiration of the applicable period of coverage provided in the group policy notwithstanding the cancellation, nonrenewal or conditional nonrenewal of the group policy.

(B) Notwithstanding subparagraph (A) of this paragraph, an insurer may terminate coverage under an individual certificate on the effective date of cancellation if the certificate is cancelled in accordance with the provisions of paragraph one of this subsection.

(i) An insurer shall not include a mandatory arbitration clause in a policy that provides financial responsibility coverage under this section, except as permitted in section five thousand one hundred five of this chapter.

(j) The superintendent may promulgate regulations pertaining to a for hire motor vehicle group policy, including regulations regarding payments of dividends or retrospective premium refunds, minimum number of group members, and other reasonable limitations.

 § 3458. Electronic notices and documents. (a) As used in this section, the following words shall have the following meanings:

(1) "Delivered by electronic means" includes:

(A) delivery to an electronic mail address at which a party has consented to receive notices or documents; or

(B) posting on an electronic network or site accessible via the internet, mobile application, computer, mobile device, tablet, or any other electronic device, together with separate notice of the posting which shall be provided by electronic mail to the address at which the party has consented to receive notice or by any other electronic delivery method that has been consented to by the party.

(2) "Party" means any recipient of any notice or document required as part of a property/casualty insurance transaction, including but not limited to an applicant, an insured, or a policyholder.

(3) "Property/casualty insurance" means basic kinds of insurance and non-basic kinds of insurance, as defined in section four thousand one hundred one of this chapter, provided that "property/casualty insurance" shall not include accident and health insurance as defined in paragraph three of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter.

(b) Subject to the requirements of this section, any notice to a party or any other document required under this chapter in a property/casualty insurance transaction or that is to serve as evidence of property/casualty insurance coverage may be delivered by electronic means so long as it meets the requirements of article three of the state technology law. Where this chapter requires that notice be mailed or delivered to an address shown in the policy, the notice may be delivered by electronic means to an electronic address not specified in the policy.

(c) Delivery of a notice or document in accordance with this section shall be considered equivalent to any delivery method required under this chapter, other than section three thousand one hundred eleven of this chapter, including delivery by first class mail; first class mail, postage prepaid; certified mail; certificate of mail; or certificate of mailing.

(d) A notice or document may be delivered by electronic means by an insurer to a party under this section if:

(1) the party has affirmatively consented to that method of delivery and has not withdrawn the consent;

(2) the party, before giving consent, is provided with a clear and conspicuous statement informing the party of:

(A) the right of the party to withdraw consent to have a notice or document delivered by electronic means, at any time, and any conditions or consequences imposed in the event consent is withdrawn;

(B) the types of notices and documents to which the party's consent would apply;

(C) the right of a party to have a notice or document delivered in paper form; and

(D) the procedures a party must follow to withdraw consent to have a notice or document delivered by electronic means and to update the party's electronic mail address;

(3) the party:

(A) before giving consent, is provided with a statement of the hardware and software requirements for access to and retention of a notice or document delivered by electronic means; and

(B) consents electronically, or confirms consent electronically, in a manner that reasonably demonstrates that the party can access information in the electronic form that will be used for notices or documents delivered by electronic means as to which the party has given consent; and

(4) after consent of the party is given, the insurer, in the event a change in the hardware or software requirements needed to access or retain a notice or document delivered by electronic means creates a material risk that the party will not be able to access or retain a subsequent notice or document to which the consent applies:

(A) provides the party with a statement that describes:

(i) the revised hardware and software requirements for access to and retention of a notice or document delivered by electronic means; and

(ii) the right of the party to withdraw consent without the imposition of any condition or consequence that was not disclosed at the time of initial consent; and

(B) complies with paragraph two of this subsection.

(c) Delivery of a notice or document in accordance with this section shall be considered equivalent to any delivery method required under this chapter, other than section three thousand one hundred eleven of this chapter, including delivery by first class mail; first class mail, postage prepaid; certified mail; certificate of mail; or certificate of mailing.

(e) (1) Before a notice or document is delivered by electronic means, an insurer shall obtain a party's consent to deliver that kind of notice or document by electronic means. A party's consent to receive one type of notice or document shall not be construed as a blanket consent for every kind of notice and document to be delivered by electronic means. A party's consent shall only apply to the types of notices and documents identified in the clear and conspicuous information statement provided to the consenting party, as required by subparagraph (B) of paragraph two of subsection (d) of this section.

(2) Any electronic mail being sent by an insurer to a party in connection with the delivery of a cancellation notice, non-renewal notice or conditional renewal notice delivered by electronic means shall include in the subject line and body of the communication clear and conspicuous language alerting the receiving party as to the importance of the communication and the type of notice being delivered by electronic means to such party.

(f) This section does not affect requirements related to content or timing of any notice or document required under this chapter.

(g) If a provision of this chapter requiring a notice or document to be provided to a party expressly requires verification or acknowledgment of receipt of the notice or document, the notice or document may be delivered by electronic means only if the method used provides for verification or acknowledgment of receipt.

(h) The legal effectiveness, validity, or enforceability of any contract or policy of insurance executed by a party may not be denied solely because of the failure to obtain electronic consent or confirmation of consent of the party in accordance with subparagraph (B) of paragraph three of subsection (d) of this section.

(i) (1) A withdrawal of consent by a party does not affect the legal effectiveness, validity, or enforceability of a notice or document delivered by electronic means to the party before the withdrawal of consent is effective.

(2) A withdrawal of consent by a party is effective within a reasonable period of time after receipt of the withdrawal by the insurer.

(3) Failure by an insurer to comply with paragraph four of subsection (d) and subsection (k) of this section may be treated, at the election of the party, as a withdrawal of consent for purposes of this section.

(j) This section does not apply to a notice or document delivered by an insurer in an electronic form before the effective date of this section to a party who, before that date, has consented to receive a notice or document in an electronic form otherwise allowed by law.

(k) If the consent of a party to receive certain notices or documents in an electronic form is on file with an insurer before the effective date of this section, and pursuant to this section, an insurer intends to deliver additional notices or documents to such party in an electronic form, then prior to delivering such additional notices or documents electronically, the insurer shall:

(1) provide the party with a statement that describes:

(A) the notices or documents that shall be delivered by electronic means under this section that were not previously delivered electronically; and

(B) the party's right to withdraw consent to have notices or documents delivered by electronic means, without the imposition of any condition or consequence that was not disclosed at the time of initial consent.

(2) comply with paragraph two of subsection (d) of this section.

(l) An insurer shall deliver a notice or document by any other delivery method permitted by law other than delivery by electronic means if:

(1) the insurer attempts to deliver by electronic means the notice or document and has a reasonable basis for believing that the notice or document has not been received by the party; or

(2) the insurer becomes aware that the electronic mail address provided by the party is no longer valid.

(m) This section may not be construed to modify, limit, or supersede the provisions of the federal Electronic Signatures in Global and National Commerce Act, Public Law 106-229, as amended.

* NB There are 2 § 3458's

 § 3458. Group insurance for peer-to-peer car sharing programs. (a) For the purposes of this section, the following definitions shall apply:

(1) "Certificate" or "certificate of insurance" means any policy, contract or other evidence of insurance, or endorsement thereto, issued to a group member under a peer-to-peer car sharing group policy.

(2) "Group policyholder" means an administrator.

(3) "Group policy member" means a shared vehicle owner or a shared vehicle driver participating in a program.

(4) "Peer-to-peer car sharing group policy" or "group policy" means a group policy, including certificates issued to the group members, where the group policyholder is an administrator and the policy provides insurance to the administrator and to group members:

(A) in accordance with the requirements of article forty of the general business law;

(B) of the type described in paragraph thirteen, fourteen, or nineteen of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter; and

(C) in satisfaction of the financial responsibility requirements set forth in section three thousand four hundred twenty of this article, subdivision four of section three hundred eleven of the vehicle and traffic law, article fifty-one of this chapter, and such other requirements or regulations that may apply for the purposes of satisfying the financial responsibility requirements with respect to the use or operation of a motor vehicle.

(5) "Peer-to-peer car sharing program" or "program" shall have the same meaning as set forth in article forty of the general business law.

(6) "Peer-to-peer car sharing program administrator" or "administrator" shall have the same meaning as set forth in article forty of the general business law.

(7) "Shared vehicle driver" shall have the same meaning as set forth in article forty of the general business law.

(8) "Shared vehicle owner" shall have the same meaning as set forth in article forty of the general business law.

(9) "Peer-to-peer car sharing period" or "car sharing period" shall have the same meaning as set forth in article forty of the general business law.

(10) "Motor vehicle" shall have the same meaning as set forth in article forty of the general business law.

(b) An insurer may issue or issue for delivery in this state a group policy to an administrator as a group policyholder only in accordance with the provisions of this section.

(c) (1) A group policy shall provide coverage for a shared vehicle owner's motor vehicle in accordance with the requirements of article forty of the general business law.

(2) A group policy may provide:

(A) coverage for limits higher than the minimum limits required by subdivision two of section nine hundred one of the general business law, with regard to financial responsibility coverage;

(B) supplemental spousal liability insurance pursuant to subsection (g) of section three thousand four hundred twenty of this chapter; and

(C) motor vehicle physical damage coverage as described in paragraph nineteen of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter.

(3) The coverage described in paragraphs one and two of this subsection may be provided in one group policy or in separate group policies.

(4) A group policy, including certificates, shall be issued by authorized insurers or through excess line brokers pursuant to section two thousand one hundred eighteen of this chapter.

(5) A policyholder also may be an insured under a group policy.

(d) The premium for the group policy, including certificates, may be paid by the group policyholder from the funds contributed:

(1) wholly by the group policyholder;

(2) wholly by the group policy members; or

(3) jointly by the group policyholder and the group policy members.

(e)(1) Any policy dividend, retrospective premium credit, or retrospective premium refund in respect of premiums paid by the group policyholder may:

(A) be applied to reduce the premium contribution of the group policyholder, but not in excess of the proportion to its contribution; or

(B) be retained by the group policyholder.

(2) Any policy dividend, retrospective premium credit, or retrospective premium refund not distributed under paragraph one of this subsection shall be:

(A) applied to reduce future premiums and, accordingly, future contributions, of existing or future group policy members, or both; or

(B) paid or refunded to those group policy members insured on the date the payment or refund is made to the group policyholder, if distributed by the group policyholder, or on the date of mailing, if distributed directly by the insurer, subject to the following requirements:

(i) the insurer shall be responsible for determining the allocation of the payment or refund to the group policy members;

(ii) if the group policyholder distributes the payment or refund, then the insurer shall be responsible for conducting an audit to ascertain that the payment or refund is actually made in accordance with the allocation procedure; and

(iii) if the group policyholder fails to make the payment or refund, then the insurer shall make the payment or refund directly or use the method provided in subparagraph (A) of this paragraph.

(3) Notwithstanding paragraphs one and two of this subsection, if a dividend accrues upon termination of coverage under a group policy, the premium for which was paid out of funds contributed by group policy members specifically for the coverage, then the dividend shall be paid or refunded by the group policyholder to the group policy members insured on the date the payment or refund is made to the group policyholder net of reasonable expenses incurred by the group policyholder in paying or refunding the dividend to such group policy members.

(4) For the purposes of this subsection, "dividend" means a return by an insurer to a group policyholder of excess premiums paid by that group policyholder in light of its favorable loss experience, including retrospective premium credits or retrospective premium refunds. The term "dividend" does not include reimbursements or fees received by a group policyholder in connection with the operation or administration of a group policy, including administrative reimbursements, fees for services provided by the group policyholder, or transactional service fees.

(f) The insurer shall treat in like manner all eligible group policy members of the same class and status.

(g) Each policy written pursuant to this section shall provide per occurrence limits of coverage for each group policy member in an amount not less than that required by article forty of the general business law, and may provide coverage for limits higher than the minimum limits required under the law.

(h)(1) The insurer shall be responsible for the mailing or delivery of a certificate of insurance to each group policy member, provided, however, that the insurer may delegate the mailing or delivery to the administrator. The insurer also shall be responsible for mailing or delivery to each group policy member an amended certificate of insurance, or endorsement to the certificate, whenever there is a change of limits; change in type of coverage; addition, reduction, or elimination of coverage; or addition of exclusion, under the group policy or certificate.

(2) The certificate shall contain in substance all material terms and conditions of coverage afforded to the group policy member, unless the group policy is incorporated by reference and a copy of the group policy accompanies the certificate.

(3) If coverage afforded to the group policy member is in excess of other applicable insurance coverage, then the certificate shall contain a notice advising the group policy member that if the group policy member has other insurance coverage, specified coverages under the group policy will be excess over the other insurance.

(i) A group policyholder shall comply with the provisions of section two thousand one hundred twenty-two of this chapter, in the same manner as an insurance agent or insurance broker, in any advertisement, sign, pamphlet, circular, card, or other public announcement referring to coverage under a group policy or certificate.

(j) A group policy or certificate shall not be subject to section three thousand four hundred twenty-five or section three thousand four hundred twenty-six of this article, provided that the following requirements shall apply with regard to termination of coverage:

(1)(A) An insurer may terminate a group policy or certificate only if cancellation is based on one or more of the reasons set forth in subparagraphs (A) through (D) or (F) through (H) of paragraph one of subsection (c) of section three thousand four hundred twenty-six of this article; provided, however, that an act or omission by a group member that would constitute the basis for cancellation of an individual certificate shall not constitute the basis for cancellation of the group policy.

(B) Where the premium is derived wholly from funds contributed by the group policyholder, an insurer may cancel an individual certificate only if cancellation is based on one or more of the reasons set forth in subparagraphs (B), (C), or (H) of paragraph one of subsection (c) of section three thousand four hundred twenty-six of this article.

(2)(A) An insurer's cancellation of a group policy, including all certificates, shall not become effective until thirty days after the insurer mails or delivers written notice of cancellation to the group policyholder at the mailing address shown in the policy or to an electronic mail address at which the group policyholder has consented to receive such notice.

(i) Where all or part of the premium is derived from funds contributed by the group policy member specifically for the coverage, the insurer also shall mail or deliver written notice of cancellation of the group policy to the group policy member at the group policy member's mailing address or to an electronic mail address at which the group policy member has consented to receive such notice. Such cancellation shall not become effective until thirty days after the insurer mails or delivers the written notice to the group policy member.

(ii) Where none of the premium is derived from funds contributed by a group policy member specifically for the coverage, the group policyholder shall mail or deliver written notice to the group policy member advising the group policy member of the cancellation of the group policy and the effective date of cancellation. The group policyholder shall mail or deliver the written notice within ninety days after receiving notice of cancellation from the insurer.

(B) An insurer's cancellation of an individual certificate shall not become effective until thirty days after the insurer mails or delivers written notice of cancellation to the group policy member at the group policy member's mailing address, or to an electronic mail address at which the group policy member has consented to receive such notice, and to the group policyholder at the mailing address shown in the group policy or to an electronic mail address at which the group policyholder has consented to receive such notice.

(3)(A) A group policyholder may cancel a group policy, including all certificates, or any individual certificate, for any reason upon thirty days' written notice to the insurer and each group policy member; and

(B) The group policyholder shall mail or deliver written notice to each affected group policy member of the group policyholder's cancellation of the group policy or certificate and the effective date of cancellation. The group policyholder shall mail or deliver the written notice to the group policy member's mailing address, or to an electronic mail address at which the group policy member has consented to receive such notice, at least thirty days prior to the effective date of cancellation.

(4) A group policy member may cancel optional coverage upon providing notice to the group policyholder. For the purposes of this subsection, "optional coverage" means coverage other than financial responsibility coverage that an individual group policy member purchases on an optional basis. "Optional coverage" does not mean optional vehicle protection as defined in article forty of the general business law.

(5)(A) A group policy and all certificates shall be issued or renewed for a one-year policy period unless the group policy provides for a longer policy period.

(B) The group policyholder shall be entitled to renew the group policy and all certificates upon timely payment of the premium billed to the group policyholder for the renewal, unless the insurer mails or delivers to the group policyholder and all group policy members written notice of nonrenewal, or conditional renewal, at least thirty but not more than one hundred twenty days prior to the expiration date specified in the group policy or, if no date is specified, then the next anniversary date of the group policy.

(6) Where the group policyholder nonrenews the group policy, the group policyholder shall mail or deliver written notice to each group member advising the group policy member of nonrenewal of the group policy and the effective date of nonrenewal. The group policyholder shall mail or deliver written notice at least thirty days prior to the nonrenewal.

(7) Every notice of cancellation, nonrenewal, or conditional renewal from an insurer shall set forth the specific reason or reasons for cancellation, nonrenewal, or conditional renewal.

(8)(A) An insurer shall not be required under this subsection to give notice to a group policy member if the insurer has been advised by either the group policyholder or another insurer that substantially similar coverage has been obtained from the other insurer without lapse of coverage.

(B) A group policyholder shall not be required under this subsection to give notice to a group policy member if substantially similar coverage has been obtained from another insurer without lapse of coverage.

(9)(A) If, prior to the effective date of cancellation, nonrenewal, or conditional renewal of the group policy, or a certificate, whether initiated by the insurer, group policyholder or by the group policy member in regard to the group policy member's certificate, coverage attaches pursuant to the terms of a group policy, then the coverage shall be effective until expiration of the applicable period of coverage provided in the group policy notwithstanding the cancellation, nonrenewal or conditional nonrenewal of the group policy.

(B) Notwithstanding subparagraph (A) of this paragraph, an insurer may terminate coverage under an individual certificate on the effective date of cancellation, if the certificate is cancelled in accordance with the provisions of subparagraph (B) of paragraph one of this subsection.

(k) Any mailing or delivery to a group policy member required or permitted under this section may be made by electronic mail if affirmative verifiable consent to such method of delivery has been previously received from such group policy member.

(l) An insurer may issue a group policy to an administrator notwithstanding that it may be a condition of using or operating a motor vehicle through the administrator's program for the shared vehicle owner to participate in such group policy.

(m) An insurer shall not include a mandatory arbitration clause in a policy that provides financial responsibility coverage under this section except as permitted in section five thousand one hundred five of this chapter.

(n) Coverage under a group policy, as provided for in this section, shall not be dependent on an insurer that issued a shared vehicle owner's policy of liability insurance or other motor vehicle insurance, nor shall an insurer be required to first deny a claim before the group policy shall afford coverage pursuant to this section.

* NB There are 2 § 3458's

§ 3459. Car share exclusions for motor vehicle insurance policies. (a) The definitions set forth in section three thousand four hundred fifty-eight of this article shall apply to this section.

(b) Notwithstanding any other provision of law to the contrary, the shared vehicle owner's policy of liability insurance or other motor vehicle insurance may exclude any and all coverage afforded under the policy issued to the shared vehicle owner for any loss, death, or injury that occurs during the car sharing period including:

(1) liability coverage for bodily injury and property damage;

(2) coverage provided pursuant to article fifty-one of this chapter;

(3) uninsured motorist coverage;

(4) supplementary uninsured/underinsured motorist coverage; and

(5) motor vehicle physical damage coverage as described in paragraph nineteen of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter.

(c) The shared vehicle owner's motor vehicle insurer shall notify the shared vehicle owner that there is no duty to defend or indemnify any person or entity for the liability for any loss, death, or injury that shall occur during the peer-to-peer car sharing period.

(d) Nothing in this article shall invalidate or limit an exclusion contained in a motor vehicle insurance policy, including any insurance policy in use or approved for use that shall exclude coverage for motor vehicles made available for rent, sharing, hire or any business use.

§ 3460. Prohibition against cancellation of policy when motor vehicle is used or operated through a peer-to-peer car sharing program. (a) An insurer shall not cancel an existing motor vehicle insurance policy solely on the basis that the motor vehicle covered by the insurance policy has been made available pursuant to a peer-to-peer car sharing program in compliance with article forty of the general business law.

(b) The definitions set forth in section three thousand four hundred fifty-eight of this article shall apply to this section.

§ 3461. Notice of claim. (a) For purposes of article fifty-one of this chapter, 11 NYCRR Part 65 and general liability claims, notice of claim to the shared vehicle owner, shared vehicle driver, peer-to-peer car sharing program administrator, or any insurer of the shared vehicle owner, shared vehicle driver, or peer-to-peer car sharing program administrator shall be deemed notice to all appropriate parties and insurers.

(b) Any shared vehicle owner, shared vehicle driver, peer-to-peer car sharing program administrator, or any insurer of the shared vehicle owner, shared vehicle driver, or peer-to-peer car sharing program administrator receiving such notice shall provide such notice to all appropriate parties.

(c) The definitions set forth in section three thousand four hundred fifty-eight of this article shall apply to this section.

§ 3462. Affordable housing underwriting and rating. (a) An insurer that issues or delivers in this state a policy of insurance covering loss of or damage to real property containing units for residential purposes or legal liability of an owner of such real property, shall not inquire about on an application, nor shall an insurer cancel, refuse to issue, refuse to renew or increase the premium of a policy, or exclude, limit, restrict, or reduce coverage under a policy based on, the following:

(1) The residential building contains dwelling units that shall be affordable to residents at a specific income level pursuant to a statute, regulation, restrictive declaration, or regulatory agreement with a local, state, or federal government entity;

(2) The real property owner or tenants of such residential building or the shareholders of a cooperative housing corporation receive rental assistance provided by a local, state, or federal government entity, including, but not limited to, the receipt of federal vouchers issued under section eight of the United States Housing Act of 1937(42 U.S.C. § 1437f);

(3) The level or source of income of the tenants of the residential building or the shareholders of a cooperative housing corporation; or

(4) Whether such residential building is owned by a limited-equity cooperative; owned by a public housing authority; or owned by a cooperative housing corporation subject to the provisions of article two, article four, article five or article eleven of the private housing finance law.

(b) Nothing in this section shall prohibit an insurer from canceling, refusing to issue, refusing to renew, or increasing the premium of, an insurance policy, or excluding, limiting, restricting, or reducing coverage under such policy, due to other factors that are permitted or not prohibited by any other section of this chapter.

4{3} or 20{4} - for each such kind	$500,000	$500,000

Notes to TABLE ONE

{1} If licensed to write paragraph 4, no additional paid-in capital and surplus is required.

{2} If licensed to write paragraph 4 or 20, no additional paid-in capital and surplus is required.

{3} If licensed to write paragraph 4, no additional paid-in capital and surplus is required for a license to write paragraphs 5, 6, 12, 19, 20, (inland marine only) and 34.

(2) A stock property/casualty insurance company licensed to write one or more of the kinds of insurance as specified in TABLE ONE, Group A, and having a minimum capital of one million dollars, may be licensed to write any other kind of insurance specified in TABLE ONE, Group A, upon at least having an initial surplus to policyholders equal to the aggregate of the paid-in capital and paid-in surplus specified in TABLE ONE for the kinds of insurance for which it is to be licensed, and shall thereafter maintain a surplus to policyholders at least equal to the aggregate paid-in capital prescribed in TABLE ONE for the kinds of insurance licensed or one million dollars, whichever is greater.

(3) A stock property/casualty insurance company licensed to write any kind of insurance specified in TABLE ONE, Group A, must have a minimum capital of one million dollars and a surplus to policyholders as specified in this paragraph before being licensed to write either kind of insurance specified in Group B. If licensed to write the kind or kinds of insurance specified in TABLE ONE, Group B, it may, in addition write any one or more kinds of insurance specified in TABLE ONE, Group A, provided it has a minimum capital of one million dollars and a surplus to policyholders as specified in this paragraph before being licensed to write any other kind or kinds of insurance specified in TABLE ONE, Group A. Every such company shall have an initial surplus to policyholders at least equal to the aggregate of the paid-in capital and paid-in surplus specified in TABLE ONE for the kinds of insurance for which it is to be licensed and shall thereafter maintain a surplus to policyholders at least equal to the aggregate paid-in capital prescribed in TABLE ONE for the kinds of insurance licensed or one million dollars whichever is greater.

(4) A stock property/casualty insurance company licensed under subsection (c) of section four thousand one hundred two of this article to reinsure risks or write insurance on risks outside the United States, its territories and possessions, must maintain a surplus to policyholders of at least thirty-five million dollars.

(5) The dollar amounts set forth in paragraphs one (except the dollar amounts set forth for paragraphs (22), (24) and (26)), two and three of this subsection shall be reduced by fifty percent for a domestic stock property/casualty insurance company initially licensed to do business in this state prior to July first, nineteen hundred eighty-two.

(b) No foreign stock property/casualty insurance company shall be granted a license to do business in this state unless it has a paid-in capital and surplus at least equal, respectively, to the amounts required by subsection (a) hereof for the organization of a domestic company to write the same kind or kinds of insurance which such foreign company is to be licensed to write in this state, and every such company shall thereafter maintain a minimum capital and a surplus to policyholders at least equal to the amount required of a domestic company licensed for the same kind or kinds of insurance.

(c) No alien stock property/casualty insurance company shall be granted a license to write any kind of insurance specified in TABLE ONE, Group A, except as permitted by the provisions of notes {1} and {2} to TABLE ONE, unless it has a trusteed surplus, as defined in section one thousand three hundred twelve of this chapter, at least equal in amount to one hundred fifty percent of the paid-in capital set forth in TABLE ONE for such kind or kinds of insurance, nor to write any kind of insurance specified in TABLE ONE, Group B, unless it has such a trusteed surplus at least equal in amount to two hundred percent of the paid-in capital set forth in TABLE ONE for such kind or kinds of insurance. Every such insurer shall thereafter maintain a trusteed surplus at least equal to the paid-in capital set forth in TABLE ONE for such kind or kinds of insurance.

(d) The financial requirements specified in subsections (b) and (c) hereof shall be reduced by fifty percent for a foreign or alien stock property/casualty insurance company initially licensed to do business in this state prior to July first, nineteen hundred eighty-two, but such reduction shall not apply to such a foreign or alien insurer licensed under subsection (c) of section four thousand one hundred two of this article to reinsure risks or write insurance on risks outside the United States, its territories and possessions. Such reduction shall also not apply to the financial requirements specified in subsection (a) of this section in order to write paragraph twenty-two, twenty-four or twenty-six.

* SPECIAL NOTE.--Notwithstanding that Chapter 585 of the Laws of 1984:

Bill sections 2, 3, 5, 6, 7, and 9 of such chapter amend provisions of the former Insurance Law that are not possible to juxtapose at this time due to the highly technical nature of such changes and will need future corrective legislation to implement such provisions into the new Insurance Law as enacted by such Chapter 367 of the Laws of 1984.

 § 4104. Deposits. (a) Before being licensed to write one or more of the kinds of insurance defined respectively in the following paragraphs of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter: burglary and theft (7), glass (8), boiler and machinery (9), elevator (10), animal (11), personal injury liability (13), property damage liability (14), workers' compensation and employers' liability (15), fidelity and surety (16), or credit (17), a domestic property/casualty insurance company shall have made a deposit with the superintendent of eligible securities in an amount of at least five hundred thousand dollars or the amount required as paid-in capital or minimum surplus for the kind or kinds of insurance which such company is to be licensed to write, whichever is the lesser, but in no event shall the amount of the deposit be less than four hundred thousand dollars for any stock company writing any two kinds of insurance designated in this subsection.

(b) Before being licensed pursuant to subsection (c) of section four thousand one hundred two of this article to reinsure risks or to write insurance on risks outside of the United States, its territories and possessions, a domestic property/casualty insurance company shall have made a deposit with the superintendent of eligible securities in an amount of at least three million dollars. Such deposit shall be inclusive of any deposit required by subsection (a) or (c) hereof.

(c) Before being authorized to issue non-assessable policies pursuant to section four thousand one hundred thirteen of this article, a domestic mutual property/casualty insurance company shall have made a deposit with the superintendent of eligible securities in an amount of at least five hundred thousand dollars. Such deposit shall be inclusive of any deposit required by subsection (a) or (b) hereof.

(d) Before being granted any license or renewal license, every foreign property/casualty insurance company shall have made a deposit with the superintendent of eligible securities in an amount not less than the amount required for a similar domestic property/casualty insurance company. The superintendent shall accept in lieu of such deposit a certificate of the proper state officer of the state under whose laws such company is organized showing that such company has deposited with the proper officer of such state, in trust for the benefit and protection of, or for the security of, all of its policyholders, or of all of its policyholders and creditors, securities valued at an amount not less than the amount hereinbefore specified. Such certificate and deposit shall be governed by the provisions of sections one thousand three hundred eighteen and one thousand three hundred nineteen of this chapter.

(e) The dollar amounts of the deposits specified in subsections (a) and (c) hereof shall be reduced by fifty percent for any property/casualty insurance company initially licensed to do business in this state prior to July first, nineteen hundred eighty-two.

* SPECIAL NOTE.--Notwithstanding that Chapter 585 of the Laws of 1984:

Bill sections 2, 3, 5, 6, 7, and 9 of such chapter amend provisions of the former Insurance Law that are not possible to juxtapose at this time due to the highly technical nature of such changes and will need future corrective legislation to implement such provisions into the new Insurance Law as enacted by such Chapter 367 of the Laws of 1984.

§ 4105. Domestic stock companies; declaration and payment of dividends. (a) Except as provided in subsection (c) of this section no domestic stock property/casualty insurance company shall declare or distribute any dividend to shareholders except out of earned surplus. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the superintendent may permit a domestic stock property/casualty insurance company to restate its earned surplus under a plan of quasi-reorganization in accordance with regulations as may be promulgated by the superintendent. No domestic stock property/casualty insurance company shall declare or distribute any dividend to shareholders which, together with all dividends declared or distributed by it during the next preceding twelve months, exceeds the lesser of ten percent of its surplus to policyholders as shown by its last statement on file with the superintendent, or one hundred percent of adjusted net investment income during such period unless, upon prior application therefor, the superintendent approves a greater dividend distribution based upon his finding that the insurer will retain sufficient surplus to support its obligations and writings.

In this section, (1) "earned surplus" means the portion of the surplus that represents the net earnings, gains or profits, after deduction of all losses, that have not been distributed to the shareholders as dividends, or transferred to stated capital or capital surplus or applied to other purposes permitted by law but does not include unrealized appreciation of assets;

(2) "adjusted net investment income" means net investment income for the twelve months immediately preceding the declaration or distribution of the current dividend increased by the excess, if any, of net investment income over dividends declared or distributed during the period commencing thirty-six months prior to the declaration or distribution of the current dividend and ending twelve months prior thereto; and

(3) "surplus" means the amount of the insurer's admitted assets in excess of its capital and liabilities, and both "surplus" and "surplus to policyholders" include any voluntary reserves, or any part thereof, which are not required by law.

(b) If the superintendent finds, after notice and hearing, that any such company has distributed any dividend in violation of this section, he may order the company to cease doing any new business until the amount of the dividend has been restored to the company. The directors of any such company who vote in favor of the declaration and distribution of any dividend in violation of this section shall, in addition to all other liabilities or penalties prescribed by law, be jointly and severally liable to the creditors, including policyholder creditors, of the company to the extent of the dividend so declared and distributed, and every shareholder receiving any such dividend shall be liable to the creditors of the company to the extent of the dividend received by such shareholder.

(c) Such company may declare and distribute a stock dividend to its shareholders whenever it shall have a surplus, as defined in subsection (a) hereof, in an amount at least equal to the sum of the dividend and thirty percent of its unearned premium liability as shown by its last statement on file with the superintendent and, for such purpose, the company may increase its capital stock from such surplus in the manner prescribed in section one thousand two hundred six of this chapter, and it shall distribute the additional or increased stock to its shareholders in proportion to the stock held by each, respectively.

§ 4106. Stock companies; participating policies. A stock property/casualty insurance company authorized to do business in this state may include in its charter a provision authorizing the board of directors to permit its policyholders from time to time to participate in the profits of its operations through the payment of dividends to policyholders. For the purpose of carrying into effect this provision, the board of directors may from time to time make reasonable classifications of policies. Every such classification of risks shall be filed with the superintendent and shall not be effective as to policies issued or delivered in this state unless approved by the superintendent as fair and equitable and not unfairly discriminatory. Any classification approved by the superintendent shall remain in effect in this state until disapproved by him or until withdrawn or modified with his approval by the company filing the same. No dividends to policyholders shall be declared or paid by any such company except out of its earned surplus as defined in subsection (a) of section four thousand one hundred five of this article.

* SPECIAL NOTE.--Notwithstanding that Chapter 585 of the Laws of 1984:

Bill sections 2, 3, 5, 6, 7, and 9 of such chapter amend provisions of the former Insurance Law that are not possible to juxtapose at this time due to the highly technical nature of such changes and will need future corrective legislation to implement such provisions into the new Insurance Law as enacted by such Chapter 367 of the Laws of 1984.

Notes to TABLE TWO

{1} If licensed to write paragraph 4, no additional surplus is required for a license to write paragraphs 5, 6, 12, 19, 20, (inland marine only) and 34.

{2} The aggregate premiums in respect to the separate risks shall be at least $100,000 and each applicant shall have paid one-half of the premium payable with the balance due upon the issuance of the policy.

{3} Shall have received cash from each applicant at least equal to 1/2 of the annual premium on the policy.

{4} Not more than 5 risks from any one member.

{5} If licensed to write paragraph 13, no additional surplus is required for a license to write paragraphs 6, 12 and 14.

{6} The aggregate annual premium cost of such insurance shall be at least $50,000.

{7} Substitute "employers" for "members" and "employees" for "separate risks"

{8} If licensed to write paragraph 20, no additional surplus is required for a license to write paragraphs 12, 19, and 21.

{9} The aggregate amount of cash received for the premiums on the policies applied for shall be at least $150,000.

{10} The 20 applications shall be from persons, firms, corporations, associations or joint stock companies, each owning, operating or chartering one or more vessels.

{11} Applicants shall take insurance covering in the aggregate at least 200 vessels having an aggregate gross tonnage of at least 500,000 tons.

{12} Shall have received cash, from such applicants, on account of the premiums on the respective policies applied for, a sum at least equal to 20 cents per ton upon such aggregate gross tonnage.

(2) A mutual property/casualty insurance company whose membership is limited to hospitals may be organized in the manner prescribed in subsection (a) of section one thousand two hundred one of this chapter and may be licensed pursuant to subsection (e) of section one thousand one hundred two of this chapter to write the kinds of insurance specified in paragraph thirteen or fourteen of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter provided (i) it shall have applications from at least forty members on at least forty separate risks, (ii) the total annual premium cost shall be at least seven hundred fifty thousand dollars, (iii) it shall have an initial surplus of at least five hundred thousand dollars and shall maintain a surplus of at least four hundred thousand dollars and (iv) it shall receive from its members advances pursuant to the requirements of section one thousand three hundred seven of this chapter averaging not less than one-third of the average annual indicated premium, but the total thereof shall not be less than the initial minimum surplus.

(b) If licensed to write any kind of insurance specified in TABLE TWO, a mutual property/casualty insurance company may in addition write any one or more of the kinds of insurance specified in Group A and/or Group B of TABLE THREE, and if licensed to write any kind of insurance specified in Group A, it may in addition write any one or more of the kinds of insurance specified in Group C of TABLE THREE, in either case, upon at least meeting the initial surplus requirement prescribed in TABLE THREE for the kinds of insurance for which it is to be licensed. It shall thereafter maintain the minimum surplus prescribed in TABLE THREE for the kinds of insurance licensed.

Notes to TABLE THREE

{1} The amounts shown in TABLE THREE are added to the initial and minimum surplus for the kind of insurance for which the mutual was organized as set forth in TABLE TWO. In addition, if organized to write paragraphs 4, 20 or 21 the initial and minimum surplus required for paragraphs 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 13, 15, 16 or 17 shall be determined from TABLE TWO for the kind of insurance with the highest initial surplus requirement as indicated in TABLE TWO. After such determination use TABLE THREE to derive the initial and minimum surplus requirements for all other kinds of insurance.

{2} If licensed to write paragraph 13, no additional surplus is required for a license to write paragraphs 6, 12, and 14.

{3} If licensed to write paragraph 4, no additional surplus is required for a license to write paragraphs 5, 6, 12, 19, 20, (inland marine only) and 34.

{4} If licensed to write paragraph 20, no additional surplus is required for a license to write paragraphs 12, 19, and 21.

{5} If licensed to write paragraph 4 or 13, no additional initial and minimum surplus is required.

{6} If licensed to write paragraphs 4, 13 or 20, no additional initial and minimum surplus is required.

(c) A mutual property/casualty insurance company licensed pursuant to paragraph four of subsection (b) of section four thousand one hundred two of this article to write the kind of insurance specified in paragraph nineteen of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter must maintain a minimum surplus of at least six hundred thousand dollars.

(d) A mutual property/casualty insurance company licensed pursuant to subsection (c) of section four thousand one hundred two of this article to reinsure risks or write insurance on risks outside the United States, its territories and possessions, must maintain a surplus to policyholders of at least thirty-five million dollars.

(e) The dollar amounts of initial surplus, minimum surplus and surplus to policyholders set forth in subsections (a), (b) and (c) of this section shall be reduced by fifty percent for any mutual property/ casualty insurance company initially licensed to do business in this state prior to July first, nineteen hundred eighty-two. Such reduction shall not apply to the financial requirements specified in subsection (b) of this section in order to write paragraph twenty-two, twenty-four or twenty-six.

(f) Notwithstanding any provision of this section to the contrary, if licensed to write the kind of insurance specified in paragraph fifteen of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter, a mutual property/casualty insurance company may be licensed for the purposes of article nine of the workers' compensation law to write the kind of insurance specified in item (i) of paragraph three of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter without having any additional surplus.

§ 4108. Foreign and alien mutual companies; licensing. (a) No foreign or alien mutual property/casualty insurance company shall be granted a license to do business in this state unless it substantially complies with all of the requirements set forth in this chapter for a domestic mutual property/casualty insurance company licensed to write the same kind or kinds of insurance.

(b) No alien mutual property/casualty insurance company shall be authorized to do business in this state unless it maintains a trusteed surplus, as required by section one thousand three hundred twelve of this chapter, at least equal to the surplus to policyholders required to be maintained by a domestic stock property/casualty insurance company licensed to write the same kind or kinds of insurance.

(c) The financial requirements specified in subsections (a) and (b) hereof shall be reduced by fifty percent for a foreign or alien mutual property/casualty insurance company initially licensed to do business in this state prior to July first, nineteen hundred eighty-two, but such reduction shall not apply to such a foreign or alien insurer licensed under subsection (c) of section four thousand one hundred two of this article to reinsure risks or write insurance on risks outside the United States, its territories and possessions. Such reduction shall also not apply to the amounts required in order to write paragraph twenty-two, twenty-four or twenty-six of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter.

§ 4109. Mutual companies; special contingent surplus. (a) A domestic mutual property/casualty insurance company licensed to write any of the kinds of insurance defined respectively in the following paragraphs of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter: accident and health (item (i) of (3)), non-cancellable disability (item (ii) of (3)), burglary and theft (7), glass (8), boiler and machinery (9), elevator (10), animal (11), personal injury liability (13), property damage liability (14), workers' compensation and employers' liability (15), fidelity and surety (16) or credit (17), shall establish on its general ledger a special contingent surplus and shall thereafter maintain the same unimpaired so long as it is licensed to write one or more of the foregoing kinds of insurance. An impairment exists in the surplus of any such company at any time when the aggregate value of its admitted assets is less than the amount of all of its liabilities and the special contingent surplus which it is required to maintain at such time.

(b) During each full calendar year except the first two full calendar years next following the calendar year in which such company was licensed to write any kind of insurance specified in subsection (a) hereof, the amount of such contingent surplus shall exceed the required amount thereof at last year-end, by an amount at least equal to one and one-half percent of the net premium income received for the kinds of insurance referred to in subsection (a) hereof during such whole calendar year, until the amount of such contingent surplus shall be at least equal to the amount of surplus to policyholders required under section four thousand one hundred three of this article to be maintained by a similar domestic stock property/casualty insurance company licensed to do any one or more of the kinds of insurance specified in subsection (a) hereof. Such special contingent surplus, by whatever name called, shall be inclusive of the minimum surplus required by the provisions of this chapter and shall be exclusive of any divisible surplus available for the payment of dividends.

(c) No domestic mutual property/casualty insurance company shall declare or pay any dividend to policyholders if, after the payment of such dividend, its special contingent surplus as herein required will be impaired. The declaration and payment of dividends by any such company shall be subject to the provisions of section one thousand two hundred eleven of this chapter.

(d) Any domestic mutual property/casualty insurance company shall be authorized in any year to further increase its special contingent surplus by an amount in excess of the annual accumulation required by this section, and any such excess shall be credited upon the amount which otherwise it would have been required to accumulate by the provisions of this section in any subsequent year or years.

(e) The superintendent may refuse to issue a license or renewal license to do an insurance business in this state to any foreign or alien mutual property/casualty insurance company which does not comply in substance with this section applicable to a similar domestic mutual property/casualty insurance company licensed to write the same kind or kinds of insurance.

§ 4110. Domestic mutual companies; expense limits. (a) No domestic mutual property/casualty insurance company licensed to write a kind of insurance specified in paragraph seven, eight, nine, ten, eleven, thirteen, fourteen, fifteen, sixteen or seventeen of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter shall expend in any one calendar year for management expenses a greater amount than thirty percent of the sum of its net premium income and seventy-five percent of its investment income for such year; provided that any insurer whose principal line of business is medical malpractice liability insurance or any insurer who is the subject of a proceeding pursuant to article seventy-four of this chapter shall not expend in any one calendar year for management expenses, a greater amount than thirty percent of its net premium income for such year. Management expenses shall be held to include all expenses of the company except expenses incurred in the investigation, adjustment and settlement of claims, taxes, fees and expenses of examination, and taxes, repairs and expenses on real estate. In applying the provisions of this section the net premium income of, and expenses of, boiler and machinery insurance or elevator insurance shall not be included. In the event expenses incurred in making a new system upgrade result in this subsection's management expenses limit being exceeded, then the insurer shall inform the superintendent sixty days in advance of the expense limit being exceeded. Subject to approval by the superintendent, the limit shall be temporarily raised to the amount necessary to encompass the aforestated new system upgrade, provided that in no event shall the limit be raised more than five percentage points and shall not be in effect for more than three years, and provided further that an insurer may submit to the superintendent, for the superintendent's prior approval, a written request to temporarily raise the limit for up to an additional three years, for a total of no more than six years. An insurer shall submit such written request to the superintendent at least sixty days but not more than one hundred twenty days before the expiration of the initial period during which the limit was raised. The insurer shall not increase premiums solely as a result of the management expenses cap limit being exceeded. For purposes of this subsection, a new system upgrade is defined as the acquisition of electronic data processing apparatus and related equipment constituting a data processing, record keeping or accounting system and operating and non-operating software.

(b) Subsection (a) hereof shall not apply to a mutual company organized before the effective date of this chapter as a domestic mutual fire or marine or marine protection and indemnity company.

§ 4111. Mutual companies; assessments. (a) Except as provided in section four thousand one hundred thirteen of this article, every domestic mutual property/casualty insurance company shall in its by-laws and policies prescribe the contingent mutual liability of its members for the payment of assessments, in such a way that each member shall be liable to pay the member's proportionate share, subject to the limitations hereinafter specified, of the amount of any assessment or assessments permitted for any purpose under any provisions of this chapter or necessary to make good an impairment of the minimum surplus of such company. The contingent liability of a member may be limited to an amount not less than one additional annual premium on each policy held by a member. The aggregate amount of all assessments whether levied by the board of directors of such insurer or by the superintendent as liquidator or rehabilitator of the insurer, or otherwise, shall be no greater amount than that specified in the by-laws and policies. Except as provided in section four thousand one hundred thirteen of this article, no such insurance company shall make, issue or deliver any policy of insurance, which does not prescribe the contingent liability of the policyholder in clear and explicit language printed in type not smaller than eight point.

(b) If any domestic mutual property/casualty insurance company does not have admitted assets at least equal in amount to the aggregate of its liabilities and its minimum surplus as required by the provisions of this chapter, and if such impairment is not otherwise made good, the board of directors of the company may, with the approval of the superintendent and within such time as he prescribes, order an assessment in the manner specified in the by-laws for an amount which will provide sufficient funds to make good the impairment, except that no member shall be liable for an assessment exceeding the limit specified in his policy in accordance with subsection (a) hereof. All orders of assessment made by the board of directors shall be filed with the superintendent and shall not take effect unless and until approved by him. The superintendent may refuse any such approval if, in his judgment, refusal will best promote the interests of the policyholders and creditors of the company, and of the insuring public. Every assessment shall be made upon all members liable to assessment therefor in the proportion hereinafter specified. Every person, firm or corporation who or which was a member of such company at any time during one year prior to the making of an order of assessment by the board of directors shall be liable to pay and shall pay the member's proportionate share of any assessment which may be made in accordance with law, if the member is notified of the assessment within one year after making of an order of assessment. A member's proportionate part of any assessment shall be determined by applying to the premium earned on the member's policy or policies in force during a period of one year next preceding the order of assessment the ratio of the total assessment to the total premiums earned during such period on all policies subject to assessment.

(c) Unless specifically authorized by the provisions of this chapter to issue non-assessable policies in this state, no foreign mutual property/casualty insurance company shall be or continue to be authorized to do business in this state unless its by-laws and policies issued in this state contain provisions for the levying and collection of assessments upon members, at least for the payment of losses and expenses, which conform in substance to subsection (b) hereof.

(d) In the case of a mutual property/casualty insurance company subject to paragraph two of subsection (a) of section four thousand one hundred seven of this article, an assessment authorized by this section shall be made when, in addition to the grounds set forth in this section, if the ratio of net premium writings to surplus as regards policyholders is four to one or greater, based upon the last annual statement or any quarterly statement projected on an annual basis, subject to the approval of the superintendent, and if, at any time, upon examination, the superintendent determines that an assessment should be made pursuant to subsection (b) hereof or this subsection the superintendent shall make an appropriate order that the assessment be made.

§ 4112. Mutual companies; protection against assessments. No domestic mutual property/casualty insurance company and no officer or representative thereof shall make any contract whether on behalf of such company or of all or any of its policyholders, whereby the company or the policyholders are insured or indemnified against the imposition or payment of assessments which may be made upon members of the company, if the contract is cancellable or otherwise terminable by any party thereto upon the giving of notice of cancellation or termination within a period of less than one year before the effective date of the cancellation or termination.

 § 4113. Mutual companies; non-assessable policies. (a) Every mutual property/casualty insurance company licensed to do business in this state, if its charter or by-laws permit or are amended to permit the issuance of policies without contingent mutual liability of the policyholder for assessment, may with the permission of the superintendent issue non-assessable policies in this state upon compliance with the following requirements:

(1) It shall maintain a surplus, as determined from its latest filed statement, which together with its unearned premium reserve from its latest filed statement is at least equal to the surplus to policyholders required to be maintained by a domestic stock property/casualty insurance company licensed to write the same kind or kinds of insurance.

(2) It shall have submitted a copy of its proposed non-assessable policy or policies for approval of the superintendent, and shall have obtained his approval.

(b) Every policy issued by any such company shall clearly state whether or not the holder of the policy is subject to a liability for assessment.

(c) Any surplus required for the purposes specified in this section shall be inclusive of any surplus required by any other sections of this chapter.

(d) A mutual property/casualty insurance company subject to paragraph two of subsection (a) of section four thousand one hundred seven of this article and subject to subsection (d) of section four thousand one hundred eleven of this article may with the prior approval of the superintendent amend its charter and by-laws to permit the issuance of policies without contingent mutual liability of the policyholder and may with the permission of the superintendent issue non-assessable policies in this state upon compliance with the requirements of this section.

(e) The financial requirement specified in paragraph one of subsection (a) hereof shall be reduced by fifty percent for a mutual property/casualty insurance company initially licensed to do business in this state prior to July first, nineteen hundred eighty-two.

* SPECIAL NOTE.--Notwithstanding that Chapter 585 of the Laws of 1984:

Bill sections 2, 3, 5, 6, 7, and 9 of such chapter amend provisions of the former Insurance Law that are not possible to juxtapose at this time due to the highly technical nature of such changes and will need future corrective legislation to implement such provisions into the new Insurance Law as enacted by such Chapter 367 of the Laws of 1984.

§ 4114. Mutual companies; dividends. The board of directors of a mutual property/casualty insurance company may from time to time fix and determine an amount to be declared and paid as a dividend or as a return of unused or unabsorbed premiums or premium deposits on policies, retaining such sums as they may deem necessary to meet outstanding policy obligations and for the maintenance of reserves and surplus as herein provided. The determination, declaration and payment of such dividend shall be subject to section one thousand two hundred eleven of this chapter. In declaring any dividend to policyholders, the board of directors may make reasonable classifications of policies. Every such classification shall be filed with the superintendent and shall not become effective unless approved by the superintendent as fair, equitable, not impracticable in operation and not unfairly discriminatory. Any such classification approved by the superintendent shall remain in effect until disapproved by the superintendent or until withdrawn with the superintendent's approval by the company filing the same. The requirements as to filing and approval, as applied to any foreign or alien mutual property/casualty insurance company, shall apply only to risks located or resident in this state.

§ 4115. Certain mutual companies existing prior to January first, nineteen hundred forty. (a) Notwithstanding the provisions of sections four thousand one hundred eleven, four thousand one hundred thirteen and four thousand one hundred fourteen of this article, any domestic mutual property/casualty insurance company heretofore organized as a domestic mutual marine and fire insurance company under special act of this state and reincorporated pursuant to former section fifty-two of the insurance law in effect immediately before January first, nineteen hundred forty and doing business immediately prior to such date, may continue to issue non-assessable policies in accordance with its charter powers, without making any deposit, if and so long as it maintains a surplus of not less than one million dollars.

(b) Notwithstanding the provisions of sections one thousand two hundred nine and one thousand two hundred eleven of this chapter and section four thousand one hundred fourteen of this article, any such domestic mutual insurance company of the kind specified in subsection (a) hereof, may continue to issue both participating and non-participating policies or contracts of insurance, in accordance with its charter, and may continue to exercise its existing charter powers as to the qualification of its members and trustees and as to the election and powers of its board of trustees.

§ 4116. Domestic mutual companies; voting rights of members. The charter or by-laws of any domestic mutual property/casualty insurance company may, with the approval of the superintendent pursuant to section one thousand two hundred nine of this chapter, provide for the distribution of voting power, at all meetings of the corporation, among the members on the basis of the amount of insurance held, the number of policies held, or the amount of premiums paid, by the member or on any other basis which the superintendent finds to be fair and equitable; but in any event every member whose insurance is in force at the time of the election shall be entitled to at least one vote, and no member shall be entitled to more than ten votes.

§ 4117. Loss and loss expense reserves. (a) In determining the financial condition of any property/casualty insurance company for the purpose of applying the provisions of this chapter, and in any financial statement or report of any such company, there shall be included in the liabilities of such company loss reserves and loss expense reserves at least equal to the amounts required under the provisions of this section, and the amount of such reserves shall be diminished by allowance or credit for reinsurance recoverable from assuming insurers in accordance with paragraph nine of subsection (a) of section one thousand three hundred one of this chapter. The date as of which such determination, statement or report is made is hereinafter referred to as the date of determination.

(b) For all outstanding losses and loss expenses, the reserves shall include the following:

(1) the aggregate estimated amounts due or to become due on account of all known losses and claims and loss expenses incurred but not paid, including the estimated liability on any notice received by the company of the occurrence of any event which may result in a loss;

(2) the aggregate amounts of liability for all losses and loss expenses incurred but on which no notice has been received, estimated in accordance with the company's prior experience, if any, otherwise in accordance with the experience of similar companies under similar contracts of insurance. The estimated liabilities for such losses under all its bonds, policies or contracts of fidelity insurance, shall be not less than ten percent of the net premiums in force thereon, and the estimated liabilities for all such losses under all its surety contracts shall be not less than five percent of the net premiums in force thereon.

(c) Except as provided in subsection (e) hereof the minimum reserves for outstanding losses and loss expenses under policies of personal injury liability insurance and under policies of employers' liability insurance, where the losses were incurred during the three years immediately preceding the date of determination, shall be calculated in accordance with any method adopted or approved by the National Association of Insurance Commissioners and shall be not less than the aggregate of the estimated unpaid losses and loss expenses for claims incurred computed in accordance with subsection (b) hereof.

(d) The minimum reserves for outstanding losses and loss expenses under policies of workers' compensation insurance, except as provided in subsection (e) hereof, shall be computed as follows:

(1) For all such compensation policies where losses were incurred more than three years prior to the date of determination, such reserves shall be the sum of the present values, at five percent interest per annum, of the determined and estimated unpaid losses computed on an individual case basis plus the estimated unpaid loss expenses computed in accordance with subsection (b) hereof.

(2) Where losses were incurred during the three years immediately preceding the date of determination, such reserves shall be the sum of the reserves for each year, which shall be calculated in accordance with any method adopted or approved by the National Association of Insurance Commissioners and shall be not less than the sum of the present values, at five percent interest per annum, of the determined and estimated unpaid losses computed on an individual case basis plus the estimated unpaid loss expenses computed in accordance with subsection (b) hereof.

(e) Whenever in the judgment of the superintendent, the loss and loss expense reserves of any property/casualty insurance company doing business in this state calculated in accordance with the foregoing provisions are inadequate or excessive, he may prescribe any other basis which will produce adequate and reasonable reserves.

(f) Every property/casualty insurance company doing business in this state shall keep a complete and itemized record showing all losses and claims on which it has received notices including all notices received by it of the occurrence of any event which may result in a loss.

(g) (1) Effective with the nineteen hundred ninety annual statement, every licensed property/casualty insurer required to file such annual statement with the superintendent by the following April first, shall, unless exempted by the superintendent, engage a qualified independent loss reserve specialist for the following year to render an opinion as to the adequacy of its loss and loss adjustment expense reserves when two of three of such insurer's results of its loss and loss adjustment expense ratios as indicated below are outside of the indicated acceptable ranges:

(A) One Year Reserve Development to Surplus

Add the year-end estimate of the losses that were outstanding one year earlier to the payments on those losses made during that year. The difference between that sum and the reserves that were established at the end of the prior year is the one-year reserve development. The ratio of one-year reserve development to prior year's surplus is the deficiency or redundancy. The acceptable range is less than twenty-five percent deficiency. Any redundancy is acceptable.

(B) Two Year Reserve Development to Surplus

Add the year-end estimate of the losses that were outstanding two years earlier to the payments on those losses made during those two years. The difference between that sum and the reserves that were established at the end of the second prior year is the two-year reserve development. The ratio of two-year reserve development to the second prior year's surplus is the deficiency or redundancy. The acceptable range is less than twenty-five percent deficiency. Any redundancy is acceptable.

(C) Estimated Current Reserve Deficiency to Surplus

For the last two years the reserves as stated in those years are adjusted by the one-year or two-year reserve development as calculated in the above two ratios. This total is then divided by the net premium earned in the appropriate year to obtain the developed reserve to premium ratio. The estimated reserves required is the current net premium earned multiplied by the average ratio between developed reserves and earned premium for the last two years. The estimated deficiency is the difference between the estimated reserves required by the company and the actual reserves maintained. The estimated current reserve deficiency or redundancy is taken as a percentage of surplus and the acceptable range is less than twenty-five percent deficiency. Any redundancy is acceptable.

(2) Such opinion shall be submitted by the qualified loss reserve specialist to the insurer and the superintendent, by such date established by the superintendent. For the purposes of this section, a "qualified independent loss reserve specialist" shall mean a person who is not an employee, principal or director or indirect owner of the insurer and is a member of the Casualty Actuarial Society, or has such other experience as is acceptable to the superintendent to assure a professional opinion on the adequacy of loss and loss adjustment expense ratios.

(3) Nothing in this subsection shall be construed to restrict or diminish any right or power of the superintendent under any other provision of this chapter.

(4) The superintendent shall keep the contents of each report made pursuant to this subsection and any information obtained in connection therewith confidential and shall not make the same public without the prior written consent of the insurer to which it pertains unless the superintendent after notice and an opportunity to be heard shall determine that the interests of policyholders, shareholders or the public will be served by the publication thereof.

§ 4118. Limitation of risks; fidelity and surety; fire; hospital mutuals. (a) (1) In applying the limitation of section one thousand one hundred fifteen of this chapter to fidelity and surety risks the net amount of exposure on any one fidelity or surety risk shall, except as provided in paragraph four hereof, be deemed within the limit of ten percent if the company is protected in excess of that amount by:

(A) reinsurance in a company authorized to write such business in this state or reinsurance in an accredited reinsurer, as defined in subsection (a) of section one hundred seven of this chapter, which is in such form as to enable the obligee or beneficiary to maintain an action thereon against the ceding insurer jointly with the assuming insurer or, where the commencement or prosecution of actions against the ceding insurer has been enjoined by any court of competent jurisdiction or any justice or judge thereof, against the assuming insurer alone, and to have recovery against the assuming insurer for its share of the liability thereunder and in discharge thereof; or

(B) the co-suretyship of any other company authorized to do such business in this state; or

(C) a deposit of property with it in pledge or conveyance of property to it in trust for its protection; or

(D) a conveyance or mortgage of property for its protection; or

(E) in case a suretyship or guaranty obligation was made on behalf or on account of a fiduciary holding property in a trust capacity, by such a deposit or other disposition of a portion of the property so held in trust that no future sale, mortgage, pledge or other disposition can be made thereof except with the consent of the insurance company or by decree or order of a court of competent jurisdiction.

(2) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph one hereof, a company may execute bonds of the kind commonly known as transportation or warehousing bonds for United States internal revenue taxes in a net amount not exceeding twenty percent of its surplus to policyholders, determined as provided in paragraph one hereof.

(3) In determining the net amount of exposure on any one risk, the following rules shall be applicable to the kinds of obligations hereinafter described:

(A) When the penalty of a suretyship obligation exceeds the amount of a judgment prescribed therein as appealed from and thereby secured, or exceeds the amount of the subject matter in controversy or of the estate in the hands of the fiduciary for the performance of whose duties it is conditioned, the bond may be executed by such company if the actual amount of the judgment or the subject matter in controversy or estate not subject to supervision or control of the surety, is not in excess of a limitation of ten percent.

(B) When the penalty of a suretyship obligation executed for the performance of a contract exceeds the contract price, the latter amount shall be taken as the basis for estimating the limit of risk within the meaning of this paragraph.

(4) In addition to any other limitation contained in this chapter, no authorized company shall at any one time be exposed to risks on suretyship obligations guaranteeing the deposits of any single financial institution in an aggregate net amount in excess of ten percent of the surplus to policyholders of such company, determined as provided in paragraph one hereof, unless it shall be protected in excess of that amount by security in accordance with the provisions of subparagraphs (A), (B), (C) and (D) of paragraph one hereof.

(b) No insurer authorized to write fire insurance in this state shall expose itself to any loss on any one fire risk, whether located in this state or elsewhere, in an amount exceeding ten percent of its surplus to policyholders, except that in the case of risks adequately protected by automatic sprinklers or risks principally of non-combustible construction and occupancy such insurer may expose itself to any loss on any one risk in an amount not exceeding twenty-five percent of the sum of its unearned premium reserve and its surplus to policyholders. Any risk or portion of any risk reinsured in an assuming insurer authorized to write such business in this state or in an accredited reinsurer, as defined in subsection (a) of section one hundred seven of this chapter, shall be deducted in determining the limitation of risk prescribed in this subsection.

(c) A mutual property/casualty insurance company subject to paragraph two of subsection (a) of section four thousand one hundred seven of this article may be permitted to write coverage on any one risk in excess of the limitation provided by section one thousand one hundred fifteen of this chapter, based upon criteria approved by the superintendent.

§ 4119. Foreign and alien companies; license qualification. No foreign or alien property/casualty insurance company shall be licensed to do business in this state unless it shall have continuously transacted an insurance business in the state or country of its incorporation for at least three years immediately prior to the issuance of such license. The superintendent may waive or reduce the three year requirement, with respect to a license applicant, upon determination that the three year period is not necessary to safeguard the interests of the public or policyholders.

§ 4121. Security may be required from banking officers and employees. (a) The board of directors or trustees of each bank, trust company, savings bank or savings and loan associations in this state, may require from each officer and employee thereof an individual fidelity bond in favor of the institution in an amount and form approved by such board of directors or trustees.

(b) Such bond shall be accepted only from a corporation authorized to issue fidelity bonds and doing business in this state under the authority of the department.

(c) The premium for such bond may be paid as a necessary expense of any such banking institution.

4241. Penalty for violation of filing requirements.

§ 4202. Capital and surplus requirements of life insurance companies. (a) (1) A stock company may be organized as prescribed in section one thousand two hundred one and subsection (e) of section one thousand one hundred two of this chapter and licensed to do the business of life insurance as specified in paragraph one of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter with a paid-in capital of at least two million dollars and a paid-in initial surplus at least equal to the greater of four million dollars or two hundred percent of its capital, and it may in addition do any one or more of the kinds of insurance business specified in paragraphs two, three, twenty-nine and thirty-one of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter, without having additional capital or surplus.

(2) Every such company shall at all times maintain a minimum capital of two million dollars, except that every such company

(A) if organized prior to April fourth, nineteen hundred sixty-two shall at all times maintain a minimum capital of at least three hundred thousand dollars and a surplus at least equal to fifty percent of such capital; and

(B) if organized on or after April fourth, nineteen hundred sixty-two and prior to September first, nineteen hundred sixty-six shall at all times maintain a minimum capital of at least five hundred thousand dollars and a surplus at least equal to fifty percent of such capital; and

(C) if organized on or after September first, nineteen hundred sixty-six and prior to September first, nineteen hundred seventy-nine shall at all times maintain a minimum capital of at least one million dollars and a surplus at least equal to fifty percent of such capital.

(b) (1) The superintendent may permit the organization, in conformity with section one thousand two hundred one and subsection (e) of section one thousand one hundred two of this chapter, of a stock company to do on a restricted plan any one or more of the kinds of insurance business specified in paragraphs one, two and three of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter, with a minimum paid-in capital and a minimum paid-in surplus in an amount prescribed by him, but not less than a paid-in capital of two hundred thousand dollars and a paid-in surplus at least equal to one hundred thousand dollars provided the superintendent, after investigation, finds that the restricted plan is sound, economical and practical and that there is a public demand for such insurance or annuity contracts.

(2) Every such company shall at all times maintain such prescribed minimum capital except that every such company organized prior to April fourth, nineteen hundred sixty-two shall at all times maintain a minimum paid-in capital and a minimum paid-in surplus in an amount prescribed by the superintendent, but not less than a paid-in capital of one hundred thousand dollars and a paid-in surplus at least equal to fifty thousand dollars.

§ 4203. Transfer of shares of domestic life insurance company. (a) No shareholder of a domestic life insurance company shall vote his shares until the earlier of (i) ten days after written notice of acquisition thereof has been filed with the superintendent, or (ii) one year after the date of acquisition thereof.

(b) This section shall apply only to shares acquired after such a company has been licensed under this chapter.

§ 4204. Financial requirements for the organization of stock accident and health insurance companies and stock legal services insurance companies. (a) (1) A stock company may be organized in the manner prescribed in section one thousand two hundred one and subsection (e) of section one thousand one hundred two of this chapter and licensed to do only the kind of insurance business specified in item (i) of paragraph three of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter, with a paid-in capital of not less than one hundred thousand dollars, and a paid-in surplus at least equal to fifty percent of its capital. Every such company shall at all times thereafter maintain a minimum capital of one hundred thousand dollars.

(2) Notwithstanding the foregoing, any such stock company initially licensed on or after July first, nineteen hundred eighty-two shall have a paid-in capital of not less than two hundred thousand dollars and a paid-in surplus at least equal to fifty percent of its capital and shall at all times maintain a minimum capital of at least two hundred thousand dollars.

(b) (1) Any company organized under the provisions of subsection (a) of this section may be licensed to do the kind of insurance business specified in item (ii) of paragraph three, paragraph twenty-nine and paragraph thirty-one of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter, if it has a paid-in capital of not less than one hundred fifty thousand dollars, and a paid-in initial surplus at least equal to fifty percent of its capital. Every such company shall at all times maintain a minimum capital of one hundred fifty thousand dollars.

(2) Notwithstanding the foregoing provisions of this subsection, any such company initially licensed on or after July first, nineteen hundred eighty-two shall have a paid-in capital of not less than three hundred thousand dollars and a paid-in surplus at least equal to fifty percent of its capital and shall at all times maintain a minimum capital of at least three hundred thousand dollars.

(c) A stock company may be organized to do only the kind of insurance specified in paragraph twenty-nine of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter if it complies with the financial requirements of paragraph one of subsection (a) of this section.

§ 4205. Life, accident and health, and legal services insurance companies; engaging in other business. No life insurance company licensed to do a life insurance business in this state shall do any business other than the kinds of business specified in paragraphs one, two, three, twenty-nine and thirty-one of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen, sections one thousand one hundred fourteen, one thousand seven hundred fourteen and three thousand two hundred twenty-two of this chapter and such other business as is necessarily or properly incidental thereto. Except as stated in section one thousand one hundred six of this chapter, this section shall apply to the business within or without this state of such a foreign life insurance company and shall apply only to the business within the United States of such an alien life insurance company.

§ 4207. Dividends to shareholders of life, and accident and health insurance companies. (a)(1) For purposes of this subsection, "earned surplus" means an amount equal to an insurer's positive unassigned funds, excluding eighty-five percent of the change in net unrealized capital gains or losses less capital gains tax, for the immediately preceding calendar year as set forth in the insurer's most recent annual statutory financial statement filed with the superintendent pursuant to section three hundred seven of this chapter.

(2) Notwithstanding paragraph five of this subsection, any domestic stock life insurance company may distribute a dividend to its shareholders out of earned surplus where the aggregate amount of such dividends in any calendar year does not exceed the greater of:

(A) ten percent of its surplus to policyholders as of the immediately preceding calendar year; or

(B) its net gain from operations for the immediately preceding calendar year, not including realized capital gains, not to exceed thirty percent of its surplus to policyholders as of the immediately preceding calendar year; provided, however, that, notwithstanding this paragraph, in no event may a dividend be distributed without approval of the superintendent, in accordance with paragraph five of this subsection, in the calendar year immediately following a calendar year for which its net gain from operations, not including realized capital gains, was negative.

(3) Notwithstanding paragraph five of this subsection, any domestic stock life insurance company may distribute a dividend to its shareholders where the aggregate amount of such dividends in any calendar year does not exceed the lesser of:

(A) ten percent of its surplus to policyholders as of the immediately preceding calendar year; or

(B) its net gain from operations for the immediately preceding calendar year, not including realized capital gains.

(4) An insurer shall not distribute a dividend pursuant to both paragraph two and paragraph three of this subsection.

(5) Except as provided in paragraphs two and three of this subsection, no domestic stock life insurance company shall distribute any dividend to its shareholders unless a notice of its intention to declare such dividend and the amount thereof shall have been filed with the superintendent not less than thirty days in advance of such proposed declaration. The superintendent may disapprove such distribution by giving written notice to such company within thirty days after such filing that the superintendent finds that the financial condition of the company does not warrant such distribution.

(6) With respect to dividends to shareholders distributed pursuant to paragraph two of this subsection, every domestic stock life insurance company shall report to the superintendent all such dividends within five business days following the declaration thereof and at least ten days prior to the payment thereof.

(7) A domestic stock life insurance company's surplus to policyholders following any distribution of dividends to its shareholders under paragraph two of this subsection shall be reasonable in relation to the company's outstanding liabilities and adequate to meet its financial needs.

(8) With respect to dividends to shareholders distributed pursuant to paragraph two of this subsection, the superintendent may limit or disallow dividends if the superintendent determines that the:

(A) domestic stock life insurance company's surplus to policyholders is not reasonable in relation to the company's outstanding liabilities and not adequate to meet its financial needs; or

(B) domestic stock life insurance company is financially distressed or troubled.

(b) (1) Except as provided in paragraph three hereof, no domestic stock accident and health insurance company shall declare or distribute any dividend on its capital stock, except out of earned surplus, as defined in subsection (a) of section four thousand one hundred five of this chapter. Notwithstanding the forgoing, the superintendent may permit a domestic stock accident and health insurance company to restate its earned surplus under a plan of quasi-reorganization in accordance with regulations as may be promulgated by the superintendent. No domestic stock accident and health insurance company shall declare or distribute any dividend to shareholders which, together with all such dividends declared or distributed by it during the next preceding twelve months, exceeds the lesser of ten percent of its surplus to policyholders, as shown by its last statement on file with the superintendent, or one hundred percent of adjusted net investment income for such period unless, upon prior application therefor, the superintendent approves a greater dividend payment based upon his finding that the insurer will retain sufficient surplus to support its obligations and writings. Within the meaning of this section, "adjusted net investment income" means net investment income for the twelve months immediately preceding the declaration or distribution of the current dividend increased by the excess, if any, of net investment income over dividends declared or distributed during the period commencing thirty-six months prior to the declaration or distribution of the current dividend and ending twelve months prior thereto; "surplus" means the amount of the insurer's admitted assets in excess of its capital and its liabilities; and both "surplus" and "surplus to policyholders" shall include any voluntary reserves, or any part thereof, which are not required by law.

(2) If the superintendent finds, after notice to and hearing of such company, that any such company has distributed any dividend in violation of this subsection, he may order such company to cease doing any new business until the amount of such dividend has been restored to such company. The directors of any such company who vote in favor of the declaration and distribution of any dividend in violation of this section shall, in addition to all other liabilities or penalties prescribed by law, be jointly and severally liable to the creditors, including policyholder creditors, of such company to the extent of the dividend so declared and paid, and every shareholder receiving any such dividend shall be liable to such creditors of such company to the extent of the dividend received by such shareholder.

(3) Any domestic stock accident and health insurance company may declare and distribute a stock dividend to its shareholders whenever it shall have a surplus as defined in paragraph one hereof, in an amount at least equal to the sum of such dividend and thirty percent of its unearned premium liability as shown by its last statement on file in the office of the superintendent and, for such purpose, such company may increase its capital stock from such surplus in the manner prescribed in section one thousand two hundred six of this chapter, and it shall distribute such additional or increased stock to its shareholders in proportion to the stock held by each, respectively.

(c) Any stock accident and health insurance company authorized to do business in this state may include in its charter a provision authorizing the board of directors to permit its policyholders from time to time to participate in the profits of its operations through the payment of dividends to policyholders. For the purpose of carrying into effect any such provision, the board of directors may from time to time make reasonable classifications of policies. Every such classification of risks shall be filed with the superintendent and shall not be effective as to policies issued or delivered in this state unless approved by the superintendent as fair and equitable and not unfairly discriminatory. Any such classification approved by the superintendent shall remain in effect in this state until disapproved by him or until withdrawn or modified with his approval by the company filing the same. No dividends to policyholders shall be declared or paid by any such company except out of its earned surplus, as defined in subsection (a) of section four thousand one hundred five of this chapter.

§ 4208. Financial and additional requirements for the organization of mutual life, accident and health, and legal services insurance companies. (a) (1) A mutual insurance company may be incorporated and licensed exclusively to do one or more of the kinds of insurance business specified in paragraphs one, two, three, twenty-nine and thirty-one of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter, upon compliance with the applicable requirements of section one thousand two hundred one and subsection (e) of section one thousand one hundred two of this chapter and subsection (b) of this section.

(2) In this section:

(A) "Initial surplus" means the paid-in initial surplus required pursuant to paragraph nine of subsection (a) of section one thousand two hundred one and paragraph one of subsection (e) of section one thousand one hundred two of this chapter.

(B) "Minimum surplus" means the amount of surplus which such company shall, after being licensed to do business, at all times maintain unimpaired.

(C) "Applications" means individual applications for policies of life insurance, except that in the case of volunteer firefighters, it shall also mean applications for enrollment for coverage to be issued under group life insurance policies applied for by not less than twenty-five associations or organizations of volunteer firefighters in accordance with the provisions of paragraph seven of subsection (b) of section four thousand two hundred sixteen of this article.

(b) (1) If organized to do only the kind of insurance business specified in paragraph one of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter, such company shall:

(A) have not less than one thousand bona fide applications for life insurance in an amount not less than one thousand dollars each;

(B) have received from each such applicant in cash the full amount of one annual premium on the policy applied for, which premiums in the aggregate at least equal twenty-five thousand dollars;

(C) have an initial surplus of one hundred fifty thousand dollars in cash; and

(D) have a minimum surplus of one hundred thousand dollars.

(2) If organized to do only the kind of business specified in item (i) of paragraph three of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter, such company shall:

(A) have not less than five hundred bona fide applications for such insurance;

(B) have received from each such applicant in cash the full amount of one annual premium on the policy applied for, which premiums in the aggregate at least equal twenty thousand dollars;

(C) have an initial surplus of one hundred fifty thousand dollars in cash; and

(D) have a minimum surplus of one hundred thousand dollars, except that every such company initially licensed on or after July first, nineteen hundred eighty-two shall have an initial surplus and a minimum surplus in an amount which is at least equal to two hundred percent of that required of a like company licensed prior to July first, nineteen hundred eighty-two.

(3) If organized to do the kinds of insurance business specified in paragraph one and in item (i) of paragraph three of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter, such company shall comply with both paragraph one and paragraph two of this subsection.

(4) To be organized to do the kind of insurance business specified in paragraph two of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter, such company shall meet the organizational requirements of paragraph one hereof and shall have an initial surplus and a minimum surplus, each in an amount at least fifty thousand dollars in excess of the respective amounts otherwise required by paragraph one hereof.

(5) To be organized to do the kind of insurance business specified in item (ii) of paragraph three or paragraph twenty-nine of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter, such company shall meet the organizational requirements of one or more of paragraphs one through four hereof and shall have an initial surplus and a minimum surplus, each in an amount at least fifty thousand dollars in excess of the highest applicable respective amount required by such paragraph or paragraphs, except that any such company initially licensed on or after July first, nineteen hundred eighty-two shall have an initial surplus and a minimum surplus, each in an amount at least one hundred thousand dollars in excess of the highest applicable respective amount required by such paragraph or paragraphs.

§ 4209. Mutual life insurance companies, mutual accident and health insurance companies; assessments. (a) (1) No domestic mutual life insurance company shall issue any policy of life or accident and health insurance or any annuity contract providing for the payment of any assessment by any policyholder or member in addition to the regular premium or consideration charged therefor; nor shall any such company have power to levy or collect any such assessment.

(2) No foreign or alien life insurance company shall do business in this state if it does business anywhere on any assessment plan.

(b) (1) Except as provided in subsection (c) hereof, every domestic mutual accident and health insurance company shall provide in its policies that every member shall be liable for an assessment, in addition to the amount of premiums paid or payable, in an amount not exceeding the maximum named therein, which shall be not less than one annual premium on the policy; if the assessment liability is unlimited the policy shall so provide.

(2) If any domestic mutual accident and health insurance company does not have admitted assets at least equal to the aggregate of its liabilities, reserves and its minimum surplus as required by this chapter, and if such impairment is not otherwise rectified, the board of directors of such company may, with the approval of the superintendent and within such time as he prescribes, order an assessment as specified in its by-laws for an amount which will provide sufficient funds to rectify such impairment, except that no member of such company shall be liable for an assessment exceeding the limit specified in his policy.

(3) All such orders of assessment shall be filed with the superintendent and shall not take effect unless and until approved by him. The superintendent may refuse any such approval if, in his judgment, such refusal will best promote the interests of the policyholders and creditors of such company, and of the insuring public. Such assessment shall be made upon all members liable to assessment therefor in proportion to their several liabilities.

(4) Every person who was a member of such company at any time during two years prior to the making of an order of assessment by the board of directors shall pay his proportionate part of any such assessment if he is notified of such assessment within one year after the making of an order of assessment. A member's proportionate part of any assessment shall be determined by applying to the premium earned on the member's policy or policies during the period to be covered by the assessment the ratio of the total assessment to the total premiums earned during such period on all policies subject to assessment.

(c) Every mutual accident and health insurance company licensed to do business in this state, if its charter or by-laws permit or are amended to permit the issuance of policies without contingent mutual liability of the policyholders for assessment, may with the permission of the superintendent issue non-assessable policies in this state. Every such company shall submit a copy of its proposed non-assessable policy or policies for approval of the superintendent, and shall have obtained his approval thereof. Every policy issued by any such company shall clearly state whether or not the holder of such policy is subject to a liability for assessment.

(d) (1) Any foreign mutual accident and health insurance company which complies with the requirements of subsection (c) hereof for the issuance of non-assessable policies may do an insurance business in this state without complying with the requirements of subsection (b) hereof.

(2) No such company which does not comply with the requirements of subsection (c) hereof shall do an insurance business in this state unless its by-laws and its policies issued in this state contain provisions for the levying and collection of assessments upon members, at least for the payment of losses and expenses, which conform in substance to the requirements of subsection (b) hereof.

§ 4210. Election of directors of domestic mutual life insurance companies. (a) (1) The directors of every domestic mutual life insurance company shall be elected in the manner and subject to the regulations prescribed in this section.

(2) Every such company shall, in accordance with its charter, either elect its entire board of directors biennially, or divide its board of directors into not more than three classes, as nearly equal as may be, in which case the members of one class only shall be elected annually.

(3) In this section:

(A) "Policyholder" means the person insured under an individual policy of life insurance or of accident and health insurance issued upon the application of such person, the person who effectuates any such policy upon the person of another pursuant to subsection (c) of section three thousand two hundred five of this chapter, the person to whom any annuity or pure endowment is presently or prospectively payable by the terms of an individual annuity or a pure endowment contract, except where the policy or contract declares some other person to be the owner or holder thereof, in which case such owner or policyholder shall be deemed the policyholder, and except in cases of assignment as hereinafter provided. In the case of any such individual policy or contract insuring two or more persons jointly the persons insured, or, if any such policy be issued upon the application of some third person or persons, the person or persons who effectuated any such policy pursuant to subsection (c) of section three thousand two hundred five of this chapter shall be deemed one policyholder within the meaning of this section. In case any such policy or contract shall have been assigned by an assignment absolute on its face, to an assignee other than the company which shall have issued such policy, and in case the signature of such assignee, either attested by the assignor or acknowledged by the assignee, shall have been more than six months prior to any election hereinafter referred to, filed at the principal office of such company, then such assignee shall be deemed a policyholder within the meaning of this section. In the case of every policy or contract of group insurance or group annuity contract, issued by such company, the employer, or other person, firm, corporation or association to whom or in whose name the master policy shall have been issued and held, shall be deemed one policyholder within the meaning of this section. Whenever in this section reference is made to a policy of life insurance for one thousand dollars or more, such reference shall be deemed to include, as equivalent thereto, an annuity contract which at normal date of maturity requires the payment of one hundred dollars or more annually, and a pure endowment contract for the principal sum of one thousand dollars or more.

(B) "Acknowledged", when used in reference to any instrument or signature, shall have the same meaning which it has in reference to conveyances of real property eligible for recording under section two hundred ninety-one of the real property law.

(b) (1) Every participating policyholder of such company and every policyholder of such company whose policy or contract is a non-participating policy or contract described in the first sentence of paragraph one of subsection (e) of section four thousand two hundred thirty-one of this article, or a variable annuity contract subject to paragraph one of subsection (d) of section four thousand two hundred forty of this article and whose policy or contract shall be in force and shall have been in force for at least one year prior to any such election shall be entitled, without further qualification, to vote thereat, either in person or by mail or by proxy, as hereinafter provided, except that any company may adopt a resolution amending its charter or by-laws so as to provide that all voting by policyholders for directors shall be by ballot alone and not by proxy. In the event any company adopts such an amendment, all mention of proxy or proxies or of persons to receive proxies in this section, shall not apply to such company and such company shall conduct its elections only by means of ballots as long as such amendment is in effect. Any such company may, upon the approval of the superintendent, confer, upon all or any class of its non-participating policyholders holding a policy or contract issued pursuant to the special permit granted by the superintendent in accordance with paragraph one of subsection (e) of section four thousand two hundred thirty-one of this article, the same rights to vote for directors possessed by its participating policyholders. The superintendent may give such approval if he finds that the proposed change is in conformity with the requirements of law and that the representation of the policyholders therein conferred is equitable and reasonable.

(2) Every other person having a right to vote in any such election by virtue of any contract which was made prior to April twenty-seventh, nineteen hundred six, and which shall be in force at the time of such election, shall be entitled to vote thereat in similar manner.

(3) In any election of directors of a domestic mutual life insurance company pursuant to the provisions of this section, every policyholder shall be entitled to one vote only, irrespective of the number of policies or contracts held by him and of the amount thereof.

(c) (1) Not less than five months nor more than eight months prior to any such election, on request of not less than twenty-five policyholders entitled to vote at the last prior election, which request must be subscribed and affirmed as true under the penalties of perjury by each of such policyholders and must be filed in duplicate with such company at least five days before any hearing thereon, the superintendent, after notice of not less than five days to such company and a hearing thereon, may in his discretion order such company within a period of not more than forty-five days and not less than thirty days thereafter, to file in his office, or in some suitable place designated by him and under his custody, a full and correct copy of its list or card catalogue of the names and last known postoffice addresses of all policyholders who have been such for at least six months under a policy of life insurance for one thousand dollars or more, or to file any part of such list or card catalogue as the superintendent specifies.

(2) A list or any part thereof which may be so ordered filed pursuant to paragraph one hereof shall be arranged, classified and corrected as directed by the superintendent; and if one or more independent nominations are made, as specified in subsection (h) hereof, then such election shall be deemed a contested election and a complete list or card catalogue of names of all policyholders who are eligible to vote, as defined in this section, under a policy of life insurance for one thousand dollars or more shall be so filed within forty-five days after the copy of the certificate of such nominations, certified by the superintendent shall have been filed at the home office of such company, and such list or card catalogue shall be corrected from the records of such home office so that a list or card catalogue, as nearly correct as may be, shall be on file as aforesaid down to within three months of such election.

(d) (1) Such list or card catalogue or any part thereof so filed, while in the custody of the superintendent, shall be subject to inspection, under regulations prescribed by him, at any time during business hours by any policyholder of such company or by his authorized representative, and in case of a contested election, under regulations to be prescribed by the superintendent, may be used in the canvass of the policyholders of the company.

(2) After such election, or, if no independent nomination has been made, then after the time for such independent nominations has expired, such list or card catalogue shall be returned to the company filing the same.

(e) If all or any class of the policyholders of any domestic stock life insurance company shall be entitled to vote at any election of the directors of such company, such policyholders, subject to the provisions of the company's charter, shall be entitled to vote in person, by proxy or by mail, as herein provided, and under the conditions stated in subsection (c) hereof, a similar list or card catalogue of policyholders, qualified to vote, in accordance with the charter or by-laws of such corporation, except the holders of industrial policies, shall be filed and maintained in the office of the superintendent, or in some suitable place designated by him and under his custody, and at the home office of such company, respectively, similarly arranged and similarly subject to inspection and copy and withdrawal as in the case of mutual life insurance companies as above provided.

(f) Where policyholders in any company shall have made nominations as hereinafter prescribed, they or a committee representing them, shall upon demand, and with the approval of the superintendent and the payment to the company of the actual cost of making such copies, be furnished by such company with a copy of such list of policyholders or with a copy therefrom of the policyholders residing in a designated territory. A copy of a list so taken, or of any part thereof, shall be held by persons receiving the same inviolate and solely for the purposes of said nominators in a pending election and shall not be transmitted to other persons for any other use whatever. At the close of the canvass of the votes all copies of such lists shall be returned to the company.

(g) At least seven months prior to the date of any election of directors in any such company, the board of directors shall nominate candidates for every vacancy to be filled at such election and shall also appoint three persons, jointly or severally, to receive proxies to be voted for said nominees, and shall also file in duplicate with the superintendent and at its home office a certificate of the names of the candidates so nominated and of the persons so designated to receive said proxies, which shall be described as the "administration ticket."

(h) (1) (A) In every such company which had over one hundred thousand policies or contracts of the kind or kinds specified in subsection (a) hereof, in force at its last preceding election, each in the amount of one thousand dollars or more, of life insurance or an equivalent thereto as hereinbefore provided, any policyholders, prospectively qualified as voters at the next ensuing election of directors, equal in number to one-tenth of one per centum of such total policies in force or five hundred, whichever number is greater, and in every other such company, any five hundred or more of such prospectively qualified voters, may make other nominations for one or more vacancies in the board of directors to be filled at any such election by filing with the superintendent, at least five months before the election, a certificate, subscribed and affirmed as true under the penalties of perjury by each of such policyholders, giving the names and addresses of the candidates nominated, the names and addresses of three persons jointly or severally, designated to receive proxies to be voted for said nominees, and an appropriate name or title designated by the superintendent to distinguish such ticket from the administration ticket and other nominations.

(B) If the superintendent finds after investigation or hearing that such other nominations have been made as specified in this subsection, he may certify to such certificate.

(C) Such nominators shall also file a copy of said certificate, certified by the superintendent, at the home office of the company at least five months before such election.

(D) Any policyholder who will be qualified to vote at such ensuing election if he continues his policy or contract in force at the time of such election, shall be deemed prospectively qualified to vote thereat.

(2) (A) All certificates of nomination shall be accompanied by a written acceptance of such nomination by each nominee thereon.

(B) The supreme court in the judicial district in which such company has its home office may for cause shown direct the name of any candidate to be stricken from a ticket on file.

(C) The provisions of subsection (k) hereof shall apply to any vacancy so created.

(3) If no independent nomination shall have been made as provided in subsection (h) hereof, then the provisions of subsections (i) to (k), hereof inclusive, of this section, shall not be applicable, and such election of directors shall be conducted in accordance with such reasonable rules and regulations as the superintendent may prescribe; but no votes shall be cast or counted except by ballot signed by the policyholder and for candidates nominated by the board of directors, in accordance with subsection (g) of this section or for such candidate as the board of directors may have nominated to fill vacancies among said candidates caused by the death, disability or refusal to stand as candidates of any one or more of those so nominated.

(i) (1) (A) At least three months prior to any such contested election the company shall cause to be mailed, in a sealed envelope with postage prepaid, to each policyholder whose name shall be upon said complete list or card catalogue and whose policy shall still be in force, at his last known post-office address, a serially numbered official ballot in a form approved by the superintendent and containing the respective tickets nominated as hereinbefore provided and the names and addresses of the persons so appointed to receive proxies. A corresponding serially numbered stub or card containing the name and address of the policyholder to whom each ballot is sent shall be retained at the home office of the company for the purpose of identifying said ballot when returned.

(B) Such official ballot shall be conveniently arranged under the names or titles by which the nominations have been designated and shall have printed upon it the name of the company, the post-office address of its home office, the number of directors to be elected and the names of those whose terms expire, the date of the election and instructions as herein provided for executing such official ballot or for the use of a proxy as herein provided and a designated space for the signature of the policyholder, the number of one of his policies and the signature of a subscribing witness.

(C) No other or different ballot shall be used, except that a duplicate ballot or ballots may be supplied to any policyholder and voter or to the holder of his proxy, for his own use, pursuant to rules and regulations prescribed by the superintendent.

(D) There shall be inclosed in such sealed envelope with such official ballot a suitable return gummed envelope having inscribed thereon the name and post-office address of the home office of the company, the corresponding serial number, and the words "ballot for directors". There shall also be inclosed in such sealed envelope or printed on the back of such ballot, a suitable blank proxy together with a statement of the right of the policyholder to vote either by mail or by proxy as herein provided or in person.

(E) No other papers or written or printed matter shall be inclosed in such sealed envelope. Specimen copies of such sealed envelope, ballot and proxy shall be submitted to the superintendent for his approval, and no such envelope and inclosures shall be mailed unless the same shall have been approved by him.

(2) A policyholder desiring to vote directly by mail must indicate the name of the nominee or nominees for whom he desires to vote or strike out the name or names of those for whom he does not desire to vote upon the official ballot so provided or must otherwise suitably indicate in the blank spaces thereon the nominee or nominees for whom he desires to vote, and must sign the said official ballot in his own handwriting in the presence of a subscribing witness, and place or cause to be placed thereon the number of at least one policy held by him. Failure to state or to correctly state such policy number shall not render a ballot void or subject the policyholder to any penalty.

(3) Such policyholder desiring to vote directly by mail must inclose the official ballot so marked in such return envelope or in a similarly inscribed envelope. Such envelope containing the ballot sealed and postpaid shall be mailed by the policyholder to the home office of the company. No policyholder may vote for more than the number of directors so to be elected and all ballots upon which the intent of the policyholder does not fairly appear shall be void.

(j) (1) A policyholder may vote by proxy executed to one or more of the persons designated in the certificates filed as provided in subsections (g) and (h) of this section. The execution of a proxy shall be attested by a subscribing witness and the proxy shall set forth the number of at least one policy held by the person giving it. A proxy shall not be valid unless executed within three months prior to the election and shall be used only at such election or any adjournment thereof and may not be revoked by the policyholder giving the same unless it appears that the policyholder was induced by fraud or misrepresentation to execute the proxy.

(2) In exercising such proxy the holder or holders thereof shall vote only upon the official ballot, or the duplicate thereof, furnished to such policyholder as hereinbefore provided, to which such proxy shall be attached. In so voting the proxy holder shall sign said ballot in the name of the policyholder, and shall also sign his own name as proxy.

(3) Ballots voted by proxy holders shall be mailed to the home office, or voted in person by said proxy holder, in the same manner as herein prescribed for ballots voted directly by policyholders.

(k) (1) The votes at such contested election shall be limited to the candidates nominated as aforesaid and to substituted nominees chosen as follows:

(A) In case any vacancy occurs more than five months prior to the day set for such election, the board of directors, if such vacancy occurs on the administration ticket, or a majority of the nominators, if such vacancy occurs on any independent ticket, shall nominate another candidate to fill such vacancy by filing at least one month prior to the date of such election a certificate of said nomination with the superintendent and a certified copy thereof at the home office of the company, and the name of the candidate so selected shall be set forth in the official ballot sent out by the company.

(B) If such vacancy occurs within five months of such election then the board of directors, including those elected at such election, shall have power to fill such vacancy.

(2) All ballots by mail shall be received, at the home office of the company holding such contested election, by two or more persons, one-half of whom shall be appointed for that purpose by the superintendent and one-half by the directors of the company. The compensation of the custodians so appointed shall be paid by the company. Such custodians shall keep a daily record of the envelopes marked as containing ballots for directors which are received at the home office, and shall securely retain them in their joint custody in safety vaults or compartments accessible only to such custodians and not to either of them separately, under regulations prescribed by the superintendent. Prior to the closing of the polls on election day said custodians shall deliver all ballots so received by them to the inspectors of election.

(3) The election shall be held at the home office of the company. The polls shall be opened at ten o'clock in the forenoon and remain open until four o'clock in the afternoon of the day of the election, at which time they shall be closed. All votes cast at such election shall be by ballot as hereinbefore provided.

(4) The superintendent shall appoint an adequate number of competent and disinterested inspectors of election and may appoint if necessary, expert accountants and other assistants and may authorize the procurement of stationery and supplies necessary for conducting the election and canvassing the votes. The reasonable compensation of such inspectors, expert accountants and other assistants prescribed by the superintendent, and other necessary disbursements approved by him, shall be paid by the company. Such inspectors shall have power to determine all questions concerning the verification of the ballots, the ascertainment of the validity thereof, the qualifications of the voters and the canvass of the vote, and with respect thereto shall act under such rules and regulations as are prescribed by the superintendent.

(5) All envelopes marked substantially as hereinbefore prescribed received by mail at the office of the company at any time prior to the day of election or on that day before the polls are closed shall be forthwith delivered intact without opening to the custodians appointed as hereinbefore provided and before the polls are closed shall be delivered to the inspectors of election.

(6) No person shall conceal or withhold or aid or abet any other person in concealing or withholding from the custodians or inspectors any such envelope; nor shall any person, other than an inspector, or an authorized assistant, open or aid or abet any person to open any such envelope.

(7) No ballots received by mail at the office of the company or offered personally or by proxy after the polls are closed shall be counted. All ballots offered personally or under proxies and all ballots received by mail at the office of the company as aforesaid before the polls are closed shall be received by the inspectors subject to verification and ascertainment of the validity thereof and of the qualifications of the voters.

(8) Immediately upon the closing of the polls the inspectors shall proceed to the examination of the ballots and shall canvass the votes lawfully cast. The canvass shall proceed from day to day and the inspectors, or a majority thereof, shall certify the result to the company and to the superintendent as soon as it is completed. Such certificate shall be subscribed and affirmed by such inspectors as true under the penalties of perjury. Unless contested by the superintendent or other qualified person pursuant to paragraph twelve hereof, the results so certified shall be decisive. The superintendent may require the inspectors to report for determination by him any questions upon which they may disagree.

(9) Representatives designated by a majority of each three persons who shall have been appointed as aforesaid to receive proxies to be voted for tickets nominated for such contested election, in such number as shall be approved by the superintendent, may be present during the casting, verification and canvass of the votes. The compensation of such representatives shall not be a charge upon or paid from the funds of the company.

(10) All ballots and proxies received by the inspectors of election shall immediately upon the completion of the canvass be placed in sealed packages and shall be preserved by the said inspectors for a period of four months, subject to the order of any court having jurisdiction of any proceedings relating thereto. The necessary expenses of preserving such ballots and proxies shall be paid by the company as a part of the expenses of such election.

(11) The superintendent shall have power to supervise and direct the methods and procedure of any such contested election and to make all further needful rules and regulations concerning the same. The superintendent shall prescribe the method of distribution of ballots and proxies to policyholders, qualified to vote at such election, who are not included in such list or card catalogue, and shall prescribe reasonable rules and regulations for the casting of such ballots and the exercise of such proxies. All bills for or on account of the custodians of ballots and inspectors of election, their employees, assistants and other necessary expenses or disbursements, during the conduct of such contested election, and the canvass of the votes, shall be approved by the superintendent before payment by the company.

(12) Any such contested election and the conduct thereof shall at all times, on petition of the superintendent or of any person or persons qualified with respect to any procedure or right therein which is in question, be subject to the supervision and control of the supreme court in the judicial district in which such company has its home office, in like manner as elections for state, county and municipal officers, so far as analogous thereto.

(l) The inclusion by any such company of the name of any person in any list of policyholders required by this section shall not be construed as an admission by the company of the validity of any policy or contract and no such list shall be competent evidence against the corporation in any action or proceeding in which the question of the validity of any policy or contract or of any claim under it is involved.

(m) (1) No insurance company, and no officer, agent or employee thereof shall knowingly omit, from any list or card catalogue herein required to be filed, the name of any policyholder required to be included therein, or shall knowingly omit to give the correct name and address of such policyholder, or shall knowingly give a wrong address, or shall expend, advance or lend any money of the company contrary to the provisions of this section.

(2) Except where such expenditure is otherwise authorized or required by this section, no money of the company shall be expended in connection with any such election or in canvassing therefor, and no officer or agent of the company shall directly or indirectly make any advance or loan of such moneys to any person in connection with or for the purpose of such election or canvass unless the expenditure or loan is in a contested election and shall be limited to reasonable amounts authorized by the board of directors of the company and approved in advance by the superintendent.

(3) No officer, salaried agent or employee of any such company shall, within the period between the filing of the nominations and the election, during business hours, devote any of his time to soliciting votes in support of or in opposition to any candidate or list of candidates in connection with any such election of directors. No officer, agent or employee of any such company shall compel or coerce any other such officer, agent or employee to support, work for, or oppose any candidate or any list of candidates. Neither the stationery or supplies of any such company nor office space devoted to the conduct of its business shall be used for furthering the interest of any ticket or candidate at any election of directors. Notwithstanding the above, the company may utilize the time of officers, employees and agents, office space, stationery and supplies in circumstances where money of the company may be expended pursuant to paragraph two of this subsection, but no officer, employee or agent shall in connection with any election be coerced to undertake activity outside the scope of the duties of the position of such officer, employee or agent.

(4) No person, firm or corporation, whether connected with such company or otherwise, shall issue or cause to be issued any circular or other written or printed communication, either in behalf of or in opposition to any ticket or any candidate for election as director of such company which contains any false statement.

(5) No policyholder shall sell or offer to sell any vote or proxy for any sum of money or anything of value. No agent shall be paid or receive any sum of money or anything of value in connection with the voting of a ballot or obtaining of a proxy.

(n) In addition to the procedures described in this section, a domestic mutual life insurance company may, upon approval of the superintendent, offer policyholders alternate methods of voting in an uncontested election and receiving materials related thereto, including via electronic means. The superintendent may approve such methods if he or she finds that they are consistent with the requirements of law and equitable and reasonable for the company's policyholders. The superintendent may issue such rules and regulations as he or she deems necessary to implement the provisions of this subsection.

§ 4211. Election of directors of domestic stock life insurance companies. (a) No election of directors of a domestic stock life insurance company shall be valid unless a copy of the notice of election shall have been filed in the office of the superintendent at least ten days before the day of such election in addition to the service thereof, as required by section six hundred five of the business corporation law.

(b) Whenever any directors of such a company shall have resigned and successors shall have been chosen pursuant to the provisions of the by-laws, such successors shall not take office nor exercise their duties until ten days after written notice of their election shall have been filed in the office of the superintendent.

(c) Policyholders of such an insurance company shall be eligible for election as directors or officers, whether or not they are shareholders.

§ 4212. Stock life insurance companies; voting power of policyholders. (a) (1) Any domestic stock life insurance company may, by amendment to its charter, confer upon its policyholders, or upon such of its policyholders as shall have a specified amount of insurance on their lives, the right to vote for all or any less number of directors of such company in a manner not inconsistent with this chapter.

(2) Such amendment shall take effect upon approval by the superintendent. The superintendent may give such approval if he finds that the proposed change is in conformity with the requirements of law and that the representation of policyholders therein conferred is equitable and reasonable.

(3) If the right to vote for all of the directors of such company is conferred upon such policyholders, then the election of directors shall thereafter be governed by the provisions of subsection (e) of section four thousand two hundred ten of this article.

(b) This section shall not apply to any such company which has conferred voting power upon policyholders pursuant to any previous law effective before January first, nineteen hundred forty, but the voting rights of such policyholders shall continue to be governed by such previous law.

§ 4213. Industrial life insurance. (a) In this chapter "industrial life insurance" means that form of life insurance, either:

(1) under which the premiums are payable weekly, or

(2) under which the premiums are payable monthly or oftener, but less often than weekly, if the face amount of insurance provided in any such policy is less than one thousand dollars and if the words "industrial policy" are printed upon the policy as a part of the descriptive matter.

(b) (1) No insurer or fraternal benefit society doing in this state the business of industrial life insurance shall deliver or issue for delivery in this state, and no agent or representative of any such company or society shall aid in so issuing or delivering, any policy of weekly premium industrial life insurance on the life of a person of the age, as determined by next birthday, of ten years or more, with knowledge that the amount of such policy, together with the amount of all other policies of weekly premium industrial life insurance then in force as premium paying insurance on the life of such person, exceeds one thousand dollars but nothing contained in this section shall affect the validity or enforceability, in accordance with its terms, of any such policy.

(2) The amounts of weekly premium industrial life insurance referred to in this subsection shall not include dividend additions nor additional amounts payable under provisions for accidental death benefits.

(3) Any rules or regulations of any such insurer or fraternal benefit society, which are designed to limit the amount of insurance, as herein provided, shall be filed with the superintendent.

(c) No authorized life insurance company, including a cooperative life and accident insurance company and no authorized fraternal benefit society, shall deliver or issue for delivery in this state any policy or contract of industrial life insurance in the form of endowment insurance.

(d) Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (c) hereof, any domestic life insurance company or fraternal benefit society may issue in this state for delivery outside of this state through its agent or like representative in another state or foreign country any policy of industrial life insurance, in the form of endowment insurance, which insures the life of a non-resident of this state and which is not prohibited by the laws of such other state or foreign country.

(e) Notwithstanding the foregoing provisions, on and after June first, nineteen hundred eighty, no policy of industrial life insurance shall be delivered or issued for delivery in this state.

§ 4214. Industrial accident and industrial health insurance. (a) In this chapter:

(1) "Industrial accident insurance" means that form of accident insurance wherein the premium is payable in the manner prescribed in subsection (a) of section four thousand two hundred thirteen of this article, covering such risks as death, dismemberment, loss of eyesight, or loss of time, as a result of accidental means.

(2) "Industrial health insurance" means that form of health insurance wherein the premium is payable in the manner prescribed in subsection (a) of section four thousand two hundred thirteen of this article, covering such risk as loss of time caused by illness or sickness.

(b) Notwithstanding the foregoing provisions, on and after June first, nineteen hundred eighty, no policy designated or sold as an industrial accident insurance or industrial health insurance policy shall be delivered or issued for delivery in this state; provided, however, that this prohibition shall not prevent the delivery or issuance for delivery of a policy approved by the superintendent where the premium is payable weekly or monthly and such policy is approvable under other provisions of this chapter.

§ 4215. Contracts with industrial life insurance agents; prohibitions. (a) No life insurance company licensed to do business in this state shall make any contract with any agent, superintendent or other representative employed in this state which provides:

(1) That the company shall charge against the past, present or future compensation of the agent, superintendent or other representative, either salary or commission, any sum of money as a result of the surrender for cash of any industrial policy by any policyholder;

(2) That the company shall charge against the past, present or future compensation of the agent, superintendent or other representative, either salary or commission, any sum of money as a result of the lapse of any industrial policy that has been in force for three years or longer.

(b) The provisions of subsection (a) hereof shall not prohibit the company from contracting with its agents, superintendents or other representatives, to charge any agent, superintendent or other representative, a sum not exceeding the commission on any policy written by the agent, superintendent or other representative on the life of any person, or any relative sharing the home with the person, who has terminated a policy of the company not more than three months before or who terminates such a policy within three months after the policy was written.

§ 4216. Group life insurance; premium requirements; notice of conversion; filing of compensation. (a) (1) In this chapter:

(A) "Group life insurance" means that form of life insurance covering any one of the groups specified in subsection (b) hereof, which is written under a policy issued to the policyholder as hereinafter defined, and which in all other respects conforms to the requirements of subsection (b) hereof.

(B) "Certificate holder," as used in relation to a group life insurance policy, means the person to whom a certificate evidencing such insurance is issued under any such policy, as hereinafter provided.

(2) In this section, for the purposes of insurance hereunder: "employees" may be deemed to include (i) the officers, managers, employees and retired employees of the employer and of subsidiary or affiliated corporations of a corporate employer, and the individual proprietors, partners, employees and retired employees of affiliated individuals and firms controlled by the employer through stock ownership, contract or otherwise; (ii) the individual proprietor or partner if the employer is an individual proprietor or a partnership; (iii) as used in paragraph one of subsection (b) hereof, the directors of the employer and of subsidiary or affiliated corporations of a corporate employer; and (iv) as used in paragraphs four and five of subsection (b) hereof, the trustees or their employees, or both, if their duties are principally connected with such trusteeship.

(b) Any life insurance company authorized to do business in this state may deliver in this state policies of group life insurance only as follows:

(1) A policy issued to an employer or to a trustee or trustees of a fund established by an employer, which employer or trustees shall be deemed the policyholder, insuring with or without evidence of individual insurability satisfactory to the insurer, employees of such employer, and insuring, except as hereinafter provided, all of such employees or all of any class or classes thereof determined by conditions pertaining to the employment, or by a combination of such conditions and conditions pertaining to the family status of the employee, for amounts of insurance on each person insured based upon some plan which will preclude individual selection. However, such a plan may permit a limited number of selections by employees if the selections offered utilize a consistent pattern of grading the amounts of insurance for individual group members so that the resulting pattern of coverage is reasonable. The premium for the policy shall be paid by the policyholder, either wholly from the employer's funds or from funds contributed by the insured employees, or from funds contributed jointly by the employer and employees. If all or part of the premium is to be derived from funds contributed by the insured employees, such policy must insure a minimum of fifty percent or five of such eligible employees whichever is fewer. Except as provided in subsection (b) of section four thousand two hundred thirty-one of this article and in paragraph five of subsection (a) of section three thousand two hundred twenty of this chapter, such policy shall provide for payment of all benefits thereunder, to the person insured or to some beneficiary or beneficiaries other than the employer, and shall provide for the issuance of a certificate to the policyholder for delivery to the person insured or to such beneficiary, as evidence of such insurance.

(2) A policy issued to a labor union, which shall be deemed the policyholder insuring, with or without evidence of individual insurability satisfactory to the insurer, not less than twenty-five members of such union, and insuring, except as hereinafter provided all of the members of such union or all of any class or classes thereof determined by conditions pertaining to their employment or membership in the union, or both, and who are actively engaged in their occupations, for amounts of insurance on each person insured based upon some plan which will preclude individual selection. However, such a plan may permit a limited number of selections by members if the selections offered utilize a consistent pattern of grading the amounts of insurance for individual group members so that the resulting pattern of coverage is reasonable. The premium on such policy may be paid by the union, by the members, or by the union and its members jointly. If the premium is paid by the members or by the union and its members jointly such policy must insure not less than fifty percent of such eligible members or, if less, fifty or more of such members. Except as provided in paragraph five of subsection (a) of section three thousand two hundred twenty of this chapter, such policy shall provide for the payment of benefits to the person insured or to some beneficiary or beneficiaries, other than the union or any of its officials, representatives or agents, and shall provide for the issuance of a certificate to the union for delivery to the person insured or to such beneficiary, as evidence of such insurance. Any such policy may vary from the foregoing requirements, as follows:

(A) if the policy is cancellable at the option of the insurer at the end of any policy year and if the basis of premium rates may be changed by the insurer at the beginning of any policy year, all members of such labor union may be insured thereunder;

(B) if and when members of such union apply for and pay for additional amounts of insurance, a smaller percentage of such members than fifty percent may, with evidence of individual insurability satisfactory to the insurer, be insured thereunder for such additional amounts.

(3) (A) A policy issued to a creditor or vendor, or to a trustee or agent designated by two or more creditors or vendors, which creditor, vendor, trustee, or agent shall be deemed the policyholder, except as hereinafter provided.

(B) The policy shall insure all of the members, but may exclude any as to whom evidence of individual insurability is not satisfactory to the insurer, of a group of debtors or vendees, defined as follows:

(i) all of the borrowers, or borrowers and guarantors of borrowers, or intended borrowers (under a program for defraying the cost of attendance of a student at a college or university or at an elementary or secondary school providing education required for minors, which program includes provision for immediate periodic payments by the parent or guardian of such student and a loan commitment to such parent and guardian by a financial institution, or by or on behalf of a college or university or such an elementary or secondary school to defray the cost of attendance at such college or university or elementary or secondary school in excess of the accumulated periodic payments by the parent or guardian) from one financial institution and its subsidiary or affiliated companies, or from two or more creditors or vendors so designating such trustee, trustees or agent, or

(ii) all of the purchasers of securities, merchandise or other property from one vendor, or from two or more vendors so designating such trustee or agent, or

(iii) all of any class or classes of such debtors or purchasers determined by conditions pertaining to the type of indebtedness or purchase.

(C) The policy may specify the ages to which the insurance provided shall be limited, provided however that if the insurance terminates at a particular age, the age at which it terminates shall be prominently displayed on the application for insurance.

(D) If the agreement provides for repayment in instalments, the insurance may be continued for the duration of the debt over a period of not more than thirty-five years from the date the debt is first incurred; otherwise the insurance may be continued for a period not in excess of eighteen months except that such insurance may be continued for an additional period not exceeding six months in the case of default, extension or recasting of the loan.

(E) Notwithstanding anything in this paragraph to the contrary,

(i) the insurance of borrowers, who incur indebtedness arising from the granting of policy loans pursuant to policy provisions therefor, provided under a policy issued to the insurance company granting the policy loan, may be continued for the duration of the indebtedness,

(ii) under a plan approved by the superintendent the insurance of debtors with respect to an agreement which does not provide for repayment in instalments may be continued for the duration of the indebtedness but not more than seven years from the date the indebtedness is incurred, and

(iii) the insurance of persons who are tenants or shareholders of a mutual or other housing corporation (organized pursuant to the provisions of the private housing finance law and regulated by such statute as to rent, dividends and profits) under a policy issued with identifiable charges or fixed amounts of premiums to such corporation or to a trustee or trustees or agent designated by one or more such corporations may be continued for the term of the tenant's lease with such corporation or thirty-six months or whichever is the greater period, and the amount of insurance with respect to any person insured under such policy may be a fixed amount not greater than the lesser of fifty-five thousand dollars or an amount equal to thirty-six times the monthly instalments due under such lease.

(F) The benefits of any policy authorized under this paragraph shall be payable to the policyholder; but the amount of any benefit received by the policyholder thereunder not in excess of the actual indebtedness shall be applied by the policyholder to the discharge of any obligation of the person insured, or his personal representative, to the policyholder, creditor or his assignee and the amount of any benefit received by the policyholder thereunder in excess of the actual indebtedness shall be payable to a beneficiary named by the debtor or, if none, then either to the estate of the debtor or under the provision of a facility of payment clause.

(G) No such group shall be eligible for insurance hereunder unless the new entrants to such group number at least twenty-five persons yearly.

(H) The premium for the policy shall be paid by the policyholder, either from the creditor's or vendor's funds, or from charges collected from the insured debtors or purchasers, or from both. A policy on which all or part of the premium to be derived from the collection from the insured debtors or purchasers of identifiable charges not required of uninsured debtors or purchasers may be issued only if the policy reserves to the insurer the right to require evidence of individual insurability if less than seventy-five percent of the new entrants in any year become insured and provided that such policy shall not include, in the class or classes of debtors or purchasers eligible for insurance, debtors or purchasers under obligations outstanding at its date of issue without evidence of individual insurability unless at least seventy-five percent of the then eligible debtors or purchasers elect to pay the required charges.

(I) The policy may be issued to an assignee to whom such creditor or vendor has transferred all of its right, title and interest to the unpaid indebtedness, or to the unpaid purchase price, under all such agreements made by it.

(J) The amount of insurance on any person insured under a policy shall not at any time exceed:

(i) in all cases except as hereinafter provided the lesser of fifty-five thousand dollars and the amount of unpaid indebtedness or the amount of the purchase price unpaid by such person;

(ii) in the case of a loan commitment pursuant to the hereinabove program for defraying the cost of attendance of a student at a college or university or at such an elementary or secondary school, the lesser of fifty-five thousand dollars and the total of the unpaid balance of the scheduled periodic payments whether due or not due and the amount of any outstanding loan commitment pursuant to such a program; or

(iii) in the case of a transaction secured by a real estate mortgage, the lesser of the sum of two hundred twenty thousand dollars and the amount of the indebtedness so secured.

(iv) in the case of indebtedness arising from a credit card account where there is no specific charge for insurance, the lesser of the sum of one hundred thousand dollars or the amount of unpaid indebtedness.

(K) (i) With respect to loans made by production credit associations organized pursuant to the federal Farm Credit Act of 1933, 12 U.S.C. §§ 1131c - 1138c, and with respect to loans made by a bank, trust company or industrial bank to a borrower engaged in the business of farming, crop production or the raising, breeding, fattening or marketing of livestock for the purposes of such business and other requirements of the borrower, the amount of insurance may exceed the unpaid indebtedness and shall not be limited as to amount except that the insurance shall not exceed the greater of the loan commitment or the outstanding balance of the loan at the inception of the period for which the borrower is insured.

(ii) With respect to loans made by Federal Land Banks established pursuant to an Act of Congress of the United States entitled the "Federal Farm Loan Act", approved July seventeenth, nineteen hundred sixteen, as amended, the amount of insurance on any person insured under the policy shall not at any time exceed the amount of the unpaid indebtedness at the inception of the period for which premiums are paid, but shall not otherwise be limited as to amount.

(L) The superintendent shall prescribe from time to time regulations determining the procedures, terms and conditions applicable to a policy issued pursuant to this paragraph to the trustee or agent designated by two or more creditors or vendors.

(M) Each insurer shall file with the superintendent its forms of policies, certificate statements and applications pertaining to credit insurance together with its premium rates for such insurance and the same shall be subject to his approval. The superintendent shall not approve any such forms if the premium charged is unreasonable in relation to the benefits provided.

(N) For the purposes of this paragraph: (i) "creditor" includes a lessor of real or personal property, (ii) "borrower" includes a lessee of real or personal property, and (iii) "indebtedness" includes rentals payable under the lease of real or personal property.

(4) A policy issued to a trustee or trustees of a fund established or participated in by two or more employers or by one or more labor unions, or by one or more employers and one or more labor unions, which trustee or trustees shall be deemed the policyholder, to insure employees of the employers or members of the unions for the benefit of persons other than the employers or the unions, subject to the following requirements:

(A) The persons eligible for insurance shall be all of the employees of the employers or all of the members of the unions, or all of any class or classes thereof determined by conditions pertaining to their employment, or to membership in the unions, or to both.

(B) The premium for the policy shall be paid by the trustees either wholly from funds contributed by the employer or employers of the insured persons or by the union or unions, or by both, or from funds contributed by the insured persons, or jointly from such funds and funds contributed by the insured persons specifically for their insurance. A policy on which no part of the premium is to be derived from funds contributed by the insured persons specifically for their insurance must insure all eligible persons, excluding any as to whom evidence of individual insurability is not satisfactory to the insurer.

(C) The policy shall insure at least fifty persons at date of issue.

(D) The amounts of insurance under the policy shall be based upon some plan precluding individual selection either by the insured persons or by the policyholder, employers, or unions. However, such a plan may permit a limited number of selections by employees or members if the selections offered utilize a consistent pattern of grading the amounts of insurance for individual group members so that the resulting pattern of coverage is reasonable.

(E) With respect to a policy issued to a trustee or trustees of a fund established by one or more labor unions, or by one or more employers and one or more labor unions the proposed insured must submit, and the insurer must obtain, a written certification that a reasonable number of comparative bids have been obtained from different insurers and that such bids have been considered by the trustees before making a decision concerning which bid to accept. Such decision must be made at a trustees' meeting held on a date certain, and a copy of the minutes of such meeting must be attached to such certification.

(5) A policy issued to a trustee or trustees of a fund established or participated in by the employer members of a trade association, which trustee or trustees shall be deemed the policyholder, to insure employees of such employers for the benefit of persons other than the association or the employers, subject to the following requirements:

(A) The policy may be issued only if:

(i) the association has been in existence for at least two years and was formed for purposes principally other than obtaining insurance, and

(ii) the participating employers, meaning such employer members whose employees are to be insured, constitute at date of issue at least fifty percent of the total employers eligible to participate, unless the total number of persons covered at date of issue exceeds six hundred, in which event such participating employers must constitute at least twenty-five percent of such total employers, in either case omitting from consideration any employer whose employees are already covered for group life insurance;

(B) The persons eligible for insurance under the policy shall be all of the employees of the participating employers, or all of any class or classes thereof determined by conditions pertaining to their employment.

(C) The premium for the policy shall be paid by the trustee or trustees either wholly from funds contributed by the employers or by the employees or funds contributed jointly by the employers and the employees. A policy on which no part of the premium so payable is to be derived from funds contributed by the insured employees must insure all eligible employees, excluding any as to whom evidence of individual insurability is not satisfactory to the insurer;

(D) The policy must cover at least fifty employees at date of issue;

(E) The amounts of insurance under the policy must be based upon some plan precluding individual selection either by the employees or by the policyholder or the employer. However, such a plan may permit a limited number of selections by employees if the selections offered utilize a consistent pattern of grading the amount of insurance for individual group members so that the resulting pattern of coverage is reasonable.

(6) A policy issued to a duly organized association of civil service employees which shall include in its membership not less than five thousand civil service employees having a common employer, or to a duly organized association of teachers having a membership of not less than five thousand, which association, in either event, shall be deemed the policyholder, and which shall have been formed and is maintained for purposes other than to effect group life insurance on its members. Such policy shall insure only members of such association, with or without evidence of individual insurability satisfactory to the insurer, based upon a plan which will preclude individual selection. However, such a plan may permit a limited number of selections by members if the selections offered utilize a consistent pattern of grading the amounts of insurance for individual group members so that the resulting pattern of coverage is reasonable. The premium on such policy may be paid by the association or by the association and the insured members jointly or by the insured members alone. Every member of such association in good standing shall have opportunity to apply for such insurance and not less than sixty percent of the eligible members in good standing may be so insured. Such policy shall provide for the payment of benefits, except policy dividends, to the person insured or to some beneficiary or beneficiaries, other than the association or any of its officers or directors, as such, and shall also provide for the issuance of a certificate to the association for delivery to the person insured or to such beneficiary, as evidence of such insurance.

(7) A policy insuring the members of one or more troops or units of the state troopers or state police of any state, issued to the commanding officer of the state troopers or state police, who shall be deemed the policyholder, the premium on which is to be paid by the members insured; or a policy covering the members of one or more duly incorporated police officers' benevolent associations or of one or more associations or organizations of uniformed firefighters or volunteer firefighters or volunteer ambulance workers which association or organization shall have been in existence for at least two years prior to the issuance of such policy and which shall have twenty-five members at the time of the issuance of such policy, which shall be issued to such association or to a trustee or trustees of a fund established, or participated in, by one or more of such associations or organizations as the policyholder. If the opportunity to take such insurance is offered to all eligible members of a unit of such state troopers or state police, or to all eligible members of such incorporated police officers' benevolent association or of an association or organization of uniformed firefighters, volunteer firefighters, then not less than fifty percent of such members or, if less, fifty or more of such members may be so insured. If the insurance is limited to those eligible members who are employed as state troopers, police officers, firefighters or volunteer ambulance workers, then not less than sixty percent or five hundred of such members, whichever is less, may be so insured. Such policy shall provide for the payment of benefits, except policy dividends, to the person insured or to some beneficiary or beneficiaries, other than such commanding officer or such association or any of its officials, as such, and shall also provide for the issuance of a certificate to the policyholder for delivery to the person insured or to such beneficiary, as evidence of such insurance. For the purposes of this paragraph any association currently holding premium dividends as a result of policies issued under this section shall be permitted to maintain said dividends for the general purposes of the entire membership. For the purposes of this paragraph the term "eligible members of an association of volunteer firefighters or volunteer ambulance workers" means members who perform services in fire-fighting duties or members of a volunteer exempt fire benevolent association who are entitled to benefits from the expenditures of foreign fire insurance tax moneys, including, inactive exempt volunteer firefighters as defined by section two hundred of the general municipal law or in ambulance-related duties, respectively. The amounts of insurance may be based upon a plan which permits a limited number of selections by the members if the selections offered utilize a consistent pattern of grading the amounts of insurance for individual group members so that the resulting pattern of coverage is reasonable.

(8) (A) A policy issued to a municipal corporation or a public housing authority, which corporation or authority shall be deemed the policyholder, insuring, with or without evidence of individual insurability satisfactory to the insurer, not less than twenty-five employees of such corporation or authority, except that in each of the villages of Croton-on-Hudson and Lloyd Harbor not less than ten such employees, and insuring all of such employees or all of any class or classes thereof determined by conditions pertaining to the employment, for amounts of insurance on each person insured based upon some plan which will preclude individual selection. However, such a plan may permit a limited number of selections by employees if the selections offered utilize a consistent pattern of grading the amounts of insurance for individual group members so that the resulting pattern of coverage is reasonable.

(B) The premium for the policy may be paid either by the policyholder or by the insured employees, or both, in the manner provided in section ninety-three of the general municipal law. If a part of the premium is to be derived from funds contributed by insured employees, the policy must insure not less than seventy-five percent of all eligible employees. Such policy shall provide for the payment of benefits to the person insured or to some beneficiary or beneficiaries other than the municipal corporation or the public housing authority, and shall also provide for the issuance of a certificate to the policyholder for delivery to the person insured or to such beneficiary, as evidence of such insurance. A policy on which no part of the premium is to be derived from funds contributed by the insured employees specifically for their insurance must insure all eligible employees, or all except any as to whom evidence of individual insurability is not satisfactory to the insurer.

(C) Subject to the constitution and general laws of this state, every municipal corporation or public housing authority is empowered to contract by its fiscal or disbursing officer with an authorized life insurance company for group life insurance on the lives of its employees.

(9) A policy issued to the state covering, with or without evidence of individual insurability satisfactory to the insurer, persons who are managerial or confidential employees, or retired managerial or confidential employees, of governments or public employers for the purposes of article fourteen of the civil service law. The state shall be deemed to be the policyholder. With respect to its employees, the state and each other participating government or public employer shall be deemed to be the employer. The premiums or subscription charges may be derived from funds contributed entirely by insured employees and retired employees or by insured employees and retired employees and the employer jointly or entirely by the employer. If the premiums or subscription charges are derived from funds contributed wholly by the employer, all eligible employees are to be covered. If all or part of the premiums or subscription charges are to be derived from funds contributed by insured employees and if the opportunity to take such insurance is offered to all eligible employees of an employer, then such policy must cover not less than forty percent of such employees, the calculation being with respect to each employer individually. The amounts of insurance may be based upon a plan which permits a limited number of selections by the employees if the selections offered utilize a consistent pattern of grading the amounts of insurance for individual group members so that the resulting pattern of coverage is reasonable.

(10) A policy issued to an association, or to a trustee or trustees of a fund established, created or maintained for the benefit of members of one or more associations, all of whose eligible members have the same profession, trade or occupation, which association or associations have been organized and maintained in good faith for purposes principally other than that of obtaining insurance and have been in active existence for at least two years. The policy shall insure members, or employees of members, of such association or associations, and except as provided in paragraph five of subsection (a) of section three thousand two hundred twenty of this chapter, such policy shall provide for the payment of benefits to the person insured or some beneficiary or beneficiaries other than employers and the association or associations, or any officials, representatives, trustees or agents thereof and shall provide for the issuance of a certificate to the persons insured or such beneficiary as evidence of such insurance. The members or employees eligible for the insurance under the policy shall be all the members who have not attained any limiting age specified in the policy, or all such members and their employees, or all of any class or classes thereof determined by conditions pertaining to their employment or to association membership or both. The premium for the policy shall be paid by the association or trustee or trustees either from funds contributed by the association or by the insured individuals, or from funds contributed jointly by the association and insured individuals specifically for their insurance. A policy on which all or part of the premium is to be derived from funds contributed by the insured individuals specifically for their insurance must insure at least fifty percent of the then eligible individuals or a minimum of two hundred individuals, whichever is less, excluding any as to whom evidence of individual insurability is not satisfactory to the insurer. A policy on which no part of the premium is to be derived from funds contributed by the insured individuals specifically for their insurance must insure all eligible individuals, excluding any as to whom evidence of individual insurability is not satisfactory to the insurer. The policy must insure at least one hundred individuals at date of issue. The amounts of insurance on employees or members insured under the policy shall be based upon some plan precluding individual selection. However, such a plan may permit a limited number of selections by employees or members if the selections offered utilize a consistent pattern of grading the amounts of insurance for individual group members so that the resulting pattern of coverage is reasonable. If a policy dividend is declared or a reduction in rate is made under such a policy, the excess, if any, of the aggregate dividends or rate reductions under the policy over the aggregate expenditure for insurance under such policy made from association or employer funds, including expenditures made in connection with administration of such policy, shall be applied by the policyholder for the sole benefit of the insured individuals.

(11) A policy, covering persons employed pursuant to 32 U.S.C. § 709, members of the national guard on full-time training duty under provisions of such title 32, or on active duty or active duty for training under provisions of title 10 of the United States Code, under the full-time manning program, issued to the adjutant general, who shall be deemed the policyholder, or to a trustee or trustees of a fund established, created, or maintained for the benefit of such individuals insured, which trustee or trustees shall be deemed the policyholder, the premium of which is to be paid by the individuals insured either directly or by deduction from wages or salary. The policy must insure at least fifty percent or four hundred of the individuals eligible for such insurance, whichever is less. Such policy shall provide for the payment of benefits to the individual insured or to some beneficiary or beneficiaries other than to the aforesaid trustee or trustees or the adjutant general. The policy shall also provide for the issuance of a certificate to the policyholder for delivery to the individual insured or to such beneficiary, as evidence of such insurance. The amounts of insurance may be based upon a plan which permits a limited number of selections by the members provided the selections offered utilize a consistent pattern of grading the amounts of insurance for individual group members so that the resulting pattern of coverage is reasonable.

(12) A policy issued to an association, or the trustee or trustees of a trust established, or participated in, by one or more associations, to insure association members subject to the following:

(A) Each association shall have (i) A minimum of two hundred insured members at the policy's date of issue;

(ii) Been organized and maintained in good faith for purposes principally other than that of obtaining insurance;

(iii) Been in active existence for at least two years; and

(iv) A constitution and by-laws which provide that:

(I) The association holds regular meetings not less than annually to further purposes of the association;

(II) The association collects dues or solicits contributions from members; and

(III) The members have voting privileges and representation on the governing board and committees.

(B) The premium for the policy shall be paid by the association or trustees either wholly from funds contributed by the association or by the insured individuals, or from funds contributed jointly by the association and insured individuals. A policy on which no part of the premium is to be derived from funds contributed by the insured individuals specifically for their insurance must insure all eligible individuals excluding any as to whom evidence of individual insurability is not satisfactory to the insurer.

(C) The amounts of insurance under the policy shall be based upon some plan precluding individual selection either by the insured persons or by an association. However, such a plan may permit a number of selections by the association, if the selections offered utilize a consistent pattern of grading the amounts of insurance so that the resulting pattern of coverage is reasonable. Furthermore, such plan may permit a limited number of selections by members if the selections offered utilize a consistent pattern of grading the amounts of insurance for individual group members so that the resulting pattern of coverage is reasonable.

(D) Except as provided in paragraph five of subsection (a) of section three thousand two hundred twenty of this chapter, such policy shall provide for the payment of benefits to the person insured or to some beneficiary or beneficiaries, other than the association or any officials, representatives, trustees or agents thereof and shall provide for the issuance of a certificate to the persons insured or such beneficiary, as evidence of such insurance.

(E) The premiums charged must be reasonable in relation to the benefits provided.

(13) A policy issued to any organization, or the trustee or trustees of a trust established, or participated in, by one or more of such organizations to insure certain persons subject to the following:

(A) The organization must be:

(i) A bank, retailer or other issuer of a credit card, charge card or payment card which can be used to buy goods or services, and the policy must insure holders of that card;

(ii) A bank, savings and loan association, credit union, mutual fund, money market fund, stockbroker or other similar financial institution regulated by state or federal law, and the policy must insure the depositors, account holders or members of that institution.

(B) Except for a credit union where the premium shall be paid entirely from funds contributed by the credit union, the organization or organizations shall have a minimum of two hundred insured persons at the policy's date of issue.

(C) The premium for the policy shall be paid by the organization or trustees either wholly from funds contributed by the organization or by the insured individuals, or from funds contributed jointly by the organization and insured individuals. A policy on which no part of the premium is to be derived from funds contributed by the insured individuals specifically for their insurance must cover all eligible individuals excluding any as to whom evidence of individual insurability is not satisfactory to the insurer.

(D) The amounts of insurance under the policy shall be based upon some plan precluding individual selection either by the insured persons or by the organization. However, such plan may permit a number of selections by the organization if the selections offered utilize a consistent pattern of grading the amounts of insurance so that the resulting pattern of coverage is reasonable. Furthermore, such a plan may permit a limited number of selections by members if the selections offered utilize a consistent pattern of grading the amounts of insurance for individual group members so that the resulting pattern of coverage is reasonable.

(E) Except as provided in paragraph five of subsection (a) of section three thousand two hundred twenty of this chapter, such policy shall provide for the payment of benefits to the persons insured or to some beneficiary or beneficiaries other than the organization, or any official, representatives, trustees or agents thereof, and shall provide for the issuance of a certificate to the persons insured or such beneficiary, as evidence of such insurance.

(F) The premiums charged must be reasonable in relation to the benefits provided.

(14) A policy issued to insure any other group approved by the superintendent upon a finding that:

(A) There is a common enterprise or economic or social affinity or relationship;

(B) The premiums charged are reasonable in relation to the benefits provided; and

(C) The issuance of the policy would result in economies of acquisition or administration, would be actuarially sound, and would not be contrary to the best interest of the public. The superintendent shall promulgate regulations setting forth any such groups that have been accepted as qualifying pursuant to this paragraph.

(c) (1) No domestic, foreign or alien life insurance company shall be permitted to do business in this state if it hereafter issues, within or without this state, any policy of group life insurance which on its issuance does not appear to be self-supporting on reasonable assumptions as to interest, mortality and expense.

(2) Anything in this chapter to the contrary notwithstanding, any group life insurance policy issued or delivered in this state may provide for readjustment of the rate of premium based on the experience thereunder, at the end of the first year or of any subsequent year of insurance thereunder, and such readjustment may be made retroactive only for such policy year. Any such rate readjustment shall be computed on a basis which is equitable to all group life insurance policies.

(d) In the event a group life insurance policy hereafter issued for delivery in this state permits a certificate holder to convert to another type of life insurance within a specified time after the happening of an event, such certificate holder shall be notified of such privilege and its duration within fifteen days before or after the happening of the event, provided that if such notice be given more than fifteen days, but less than ninety days after the happening of such event, the time allowed for the exercise of such privilege of conversion shall be extended for forty-five days after the giving of such notice. If such notice be not given within ninety days after the happening of the event, the time allowed for the exercise of such conversion privilege shall expire at the end of such ninety days. Written notice by the policyholder given to the certificate holder or mailed to the certificate holder at his last known address, or written notice by the insurer mailed to the certificate holder at the last address furnished to the insurer by the policyholder, shall be deemed full compliance with the provisions of this subsection for the giving of notice.

(e) Each domestic insurer and each foreign or alien insurer doing business in this state shall file with the superintendent its schedule of rates of commissions, compensation and other fees or allowances to agents and brokers pertaining to the solicitation or sale of group life insurance and of fees or allowances, exclusive of amounts payable to persons who are in the regular employ of the insurer other than as agent, to any individuals, firms or corporations pertaining to the service or administration of group life insurance, whether transacted within or without this state. An insurer may revise such schedules from time to time, and shall file such revised schedules with the superintendent. No insurer shall pay to an agent, agents, broker or brokers or any combination of licensees for the solicitation or sale of a policy of group life insurance or for any other purpose related to such group insurance any commission, compensation or other fees or allowances in excess of that determined on the basis of the schedules of such insurer as then on file with the superintendent; nor shall such insurer pay for services pertaining to the service or administration thereof to any individual, firm or corporation any fees, commissions or allowances in excess of that determined on the basis of the schedules of such insurer as then on file with the superintendent or for such services except such as are rendered in behalf of such insurer, provided, however, nothing contained herein shall apply to or affect the computation of dividends or experience rating credits.

(f) Any policy of group life insurance may include provisions for the payment by the insurer of life insurance benefits upon the death of the spouse of the insured employee or member or his or her child dependent upon him or her for support and maintenance or any other person dependent upon the insured employee or member, provided that insurance upon the life of the spouse or other person shall not exceed the amount of insurance for which the employee or member is eligible, nor shall the insurance upon the life of each dependent child so insured exceed twenty-five thousand dollars. A policy of insurance issued in accordance with paragraph three of subsection (b) of this section, while it may provide coverage for a spouse of the insured employee or member, it shall not, however, provide coverage for a dependent child of the insured employee or member. An insurer providing group life insurance for a spouse or dependent children shall require evidence of insurability sufficient to protect against substantial adverse selection.

(g) An insurer authorized or licensed to do business in this state may solicit or make available credit life insurance coverage in this state as provided for in paragraph three of subsection (b) of this section under a policy of group life insurance only if the policy is delivered to policyholders described in and conforming to the definition in paragraph three of subsection (b) of this section, and with respect to all credit transactions entered into in this state, the policy fully complies with the requirements of paragraph twelve of subsection (a) of section three thousand two hundred twenty of this chapter.

(h)(1) Any dividend hereafter apportioned on any participating group insurance policy, or any rate reduction hereafter made or continued on any non-participating group policy for the first or any subsequent year of insurance under any such policy heretofore or hereafter issued under paragraph twelve, thirteen or fourteen of subsection (b) of this section, may be applied to reduce the policyholder's part of the cost of such policy, except that the excess, if any, of the insured's aggregate contribution under the policy over the net cost (gross premium less dividends or rate reductions) of the insurance shall be applied at the discretion of the insurer either as a cash payment to the insured or to reduce the insured's premium, unless the insured assigns the dividend or rate reduction to the policyholder. If a dividend or rate reduction is payable upon termination of the policy the insurer shall either make payment to the insured or to the policyholder upon receipt of a certification from the policyholder that the dividend or rate reduction will be distributed by the policyholder to the insureds or applied to reduce the insured's premium.

(2) The provisions of paragraph one of this subsection shall apply to New York residents insured under a policy issued in any other jurisdiction to a group which is not of the type described in paragraphs one through eleven of subsection (b) of this section.

(i) (1) The provisions of subsections (d), (f) and (h) of this section shall not apply to policies issued under the authority of subsection (d) of section three thousand two hundred five of this chapter, provided such policies are issued in compliance with the requirements of subsection (d) and subsection (e) of section three thousand two hundred five of this chapter.

(2) Any life insurance company authorized to do business in this state may deliver in this state policies of group insurance issued to an employer or to the trustee of a fund established by one or more employers, or one or more employers and one or more labor unions without complying with the provisions of paragraphs one and four of subsection (b) of this section where group insurance is issued under the authority of subsection (d) or subparagraph (B) of paragraph (1) of subsection (a) of section three thousand two hundred five of this chapter, provided that, prior to or at the commencement of coverage on any person under a policy issued under the authority of such subparagraph:

(A) the employer providing such insurance coverage or causing such coverage to be issued notifies the prospective insured in writing: (i) of the intent to insure the employee's life, specifying in such notice the maximum face amount for which the employee could be insured at the time the contract is issued; and (ii) that the employer or policyholder will be a beneficiary of any proceeds payable upon the death of the employee; and

(B) the prospective insured employee consents in writing to such coverage.

§ 4217. Valuation of insurance policies and contracts. (a) (1) The superintendent shall annually value, or cause to be valued, the reserve liabilities (hereinafter called reserves) for all outstanding insurance policies and contracts of every life insurance company doing business in this state, except that, in the case of an alien company, such valuation shall be limited to its United States business, and may certify the amount of any such reserves, specifying the mortality table or tables, rate or rates of interest and methods (net level premium method or other) used in the calculation of such reserves. In calculating such reserves, the superintendent may use group methods and approximate averages for fractions of a year or otherwise.

(2) In lieu of the valuation of the reserves herein required of any foreign or alien company, the superintendent may accept any valuation made, or caused to be made, by the insurance supervisory official of any state or other jurisdiction when such valuation complies with the minimum standard herein provided and if the official of such state or jurisdiction accepts as sufficient and valid for all legal purposes the certificate of valuation of the superintendent when such certificate states the valuation to have been made in a specified manner according to which the aggregate reserves would be at least as large as if they had been computed in the manner prescribed by the law of that state or jurisdiction.

(3) (A) The superintendent may, in his discretion, vary the standards of mortality applicable to policies of insurance on substandard lives and other extra-hazardous lives issued by any life insurance company doing business in this state.

(B) He may also, in his discretion, vary the standards of interest and mortality applicable to contracts issued by an alien insurer in countries other than the United States, if such alien insurer maintains the trusteed surplus prescribed by section one thousand three hundred twelve of this chapter.

(4) (A) Any life insurance company doing business in this state which has adopted as a basis for the valuation of its insurance policies and contracts standards producing greater reserves in the aggregate than the minimum standards herein prescribed may continue to use such higher standards as a basis of valuation.

(B) After January first, nineteen hundred forty, any life insurance company doing business in this state may, subject to the provisions of paragraph eight of subsection (c) of this section, adopt as the basis for the valuation of its insurance policies and contracts standards producing greater reserves in the aggregate than the minimum standards herein prescribed; and any such company which shall have at any time adopted such higher standards of valuation may, with the approval of the superintendent, adopt lower standards of valuation, but in no case lower than the minimum standards herein prescribed, provided, however, that, for the purposes of this paragraph, the holding of additional reserves determined by a qualified actuary to be necessary to render the opinion required by subsection (e) of this section shall not be deemed to be the adoption of a higher standard of valuation.

(C) The superintendent may approve any such change if he finds that the proposed standards are for the best interests of the holders of the policies and contracts and annuitants of such company.

(D) Nothing contained herein shall be deemed to affect the contractual rights or obligations of the holder of any such policy or contract.

(b) (1) This subsection shall apply only to those policies and contracts issued prior to the operative date of section four thousand two hundred twenty-one of this article.

(2) Except as provided in paragraph six hereof the legal minimum standards for the valuation of life insurance contracts shall be as follows:

(A) For the valuation of all such contracts issued before the first day of January, nineteen hundred one, it shall be the Actuaries' or Combined Experience Table of Mortality with interest at four percent per annum.

(B) For the valuation of such contracts issued on or after said day, except as provided in subparagraphs (C) and (D) hereof, it shall be the American Experience Table of Mortality with Craig's extension for ages under ten years and with interest at three and one-half percent per annum.

(C) For the valuation of group term insurance policies under which premium rates are not guaranteed for a period in excess of five years, it shall be the American Men Ultimate Table of Mortality with interest at three and one-half percent per annum.

(D) Any life insurance company may, at its option, value its life insurance contracts issued on or after the first day of January, nineteen hundred thirty, in accordance with their terms on the basis of the American Men Ultimate Table of Mortality, supplemented by such extension and modification for ages under twenty years, as may be approved by the superintendent, with interest at three and one-half percent per annum by the level net premium method or by the modified preliminary term method prescribed in paragraph four hereof.

(3) Life insurance policies issued on or after the first day of January, nineteen hundred seven, may, at the option of the insurer, be valued in accordance with their terms by the modified preliminary term method prescribed in paragraph four hereof, or in accordance with the select and ultimate method on the basis that the rate of mortality during the first five years after the issuance of said contracts respectively shall be calculated according to the following percentages of the rates shown by the American Experience Table of Mortality:

For the first insurance year, fifty percent thereof; for the second insurance year, sixty-five percent thereof; for the third insurance year, seventy-five percent thereof; for the fourth insurance year, eighty-five percent thereof; and for the fifth insurance year, ninety-five percent thereof.

(4) (A) Life insurance policies may provide for not more than one year of preliminary term insurance by incorporating in the provisions thereof specifying the premium consideration to be received by the insurer, a clause plainly showing that the first year's insurance under such policies is term insurance, purchased by the whole or a part of the premium to be received during the first policy year.

(B) Such policies may, in accordance with their terms, be valued on the basis of the mortality tables and interest rates prescribed in paragraph two hereof, by the modified preliminary term plan described as follows: If the premium charged for term insurance under a limited payment life preliminary term policy providing for the payment of all premiums thereon in less than twenty years from the date of the policy, or under an endowment preliminary term policy, exceeds that charged for like insurance under twenty payment life preliminary term policies of the same company, the reserve thereon at the end of any year, including the first, shall be not less than the reserve on a twenty payment life preliminary term policy issued in the same year and at the same age, together with an amount which shall be equivalent to the accumulation of a level net premium sufficient to provide for a pure endowment at the end of the premium paying period equal to the difference between items (i) and (ii) hereof as follows: (i) the value at the end of such period of such a twenty payment life preliminary term policy and (ii) the full level net premium reserve at such time of such a limited payment life or endowment policy.

(C) The premium paying period referred to above is the period during which premiums are concurrently payable under such twenty payment life preliminary term policy and such limited payment life or endowment policy.

(5) (A) The legal minimum standard for the valuation of all individual annuity contracts issued on or after January first, nineteen hundred forty (including life annuities provided or available under optional modes of settlement in insurance contracts issued on or after such date) shall be the Combined Annuity Tables with age set back one year, with interest at three and one-half percent per annum.

(B) The legal minimum standard for the valuation of all individual annuity contracts issued prior to January first, nineteen hundred forty (including annuities provided or available under optional modes of settlement in insurance contracts issued prior to such date) shall be in accordance with the provisions of law applicable thereto as of the date of issuance.

(C) Except as otherwise provided in paragraphs three and four of subsection (c) hereof for group annuity and pure endowment contracts, the legal minimum standard for the valuation of all group annuity contracts shall be the 1971 Group Annuity Mortality Table, or any modification of this table approved by the superintendent, and five percent interest.

(D) Annuities, annuity benefits and guaranteed interest contracts to which this subsection applies shall be subject to item (vi) of subparagraph (B) of paragraph four of subsection (c) of this section.

(6) (A) The legal minimum standard for the valuation of all industrial life insurance policies issued on or after January first, nineteen hundred forty shall, at the option of the company, be either (i) the 1941 Standard Industrial Mortality Table or the 1941 Substandard Industrial Mortality Table, with interest at three and one-half percent per annum by the net level premium method, or (ii) either of the tables specified in item (i) hereof, by the modified preliminary term method prescribed in paragraph four hereof, in accordance with the terms of the policy, or (iii) in the case of policies issued on the monthly premium plan, the New York Standard Intermediate Table of Mortality (1907 Table) with interest at three and one-half percent per annum. In lieu of such tables, at the option of the company, the Standard Industrial Mortality Table (1907) or the Substandard Industrial Mortality Table (1907) may be used with respect to such policies issued prior to January first, nineteen hundred forty-two.

(B) The legal minimum standard for the valuation of all industrial life insurance policies issued prior to January first, nineteen hundred forty shall be the minimum standard required by the law of this state in force at the date of issuance.

(7) The legal minimum standard for the valuation of all accidental death benefits and disability benefits, provided in connection with or supplemental to life insurance policies or annuity contracts shall be such tables as the superintendent may prescribe.

(c) (1) This subsection shall apply only to policies and contracts issued on or after the operative date of section four thousand two hundred twenty-one of this article, except as otherwise provided in paragraphs three and four of this subsection for group annuity and pure endowment contracts issued prior to such operative date.

(2) Except as otherwise provided in paragraphs three, four and ten of this subsection, the minimum standard for the valuation of all such policies and contracts shall be the commissioners reserve valuation method defined in paragraph six of this subsection and in section four thousand two hundred eighteen of this article, three percent interest for all life insurance policies issued prior to January first, nineteen hundred sixty-six and for all individual annuity and pure endowment contracts issued prior to January first, nineteen hundred sixty, or three and one-half percent interest for all life insurance policies issued on or after January first, nineteen hundred sixty-six and prior to June thirteenth, nineteen hundred seventy-four and for all individual annuity and pure endowment contracts issued on or after January first, nineteen hundred sixty, and prior to the operative date of paragraph three of this subsection, or four percent interest for all life insurance policies issued on or after June thirteenth, nineteen hundred seventy-four and prior to January first, nineteen hundred seventy-nine, or four and one-half percent interest for all life insurance policies, issued on or after January first, nineteen hundred seventy-nine, or five percent interest for all annuities purchased or to be purchased under group annuity contracts, and the following tables:

(A) For all ordinary policies of life insurance issued on the standard basis, excluding any disability and accidental death benefits in such policies, the Commissioners 1941 Standard Ordinary Mortality Table for such policies issued prior to the operative date of subsection (h) of section four thousand two hundred twenty-one of this article, the Commissioners 1958 Standard Ordinary Mortality Table for such policies issued on or after such operative date and prior to the operative date of subsection (k) of such section; provided that for any category of such policies issued on female risks all modified net premiums and present values may be calculated according to an age not more than six years younger than the actual age of the insured, and for such policies issued on or after the operative date of such subsection, and, at the option of the company, for such policies not providing for nonforfeiture benefits which are issued on or after nineteen hundred eighty-one and prior to the operative date of such subsection, (i) the Commissioners 1980 Standard Ordinary Mortality Table, or (ii) at the election of the company for any one or more specified plans of life insurance, the Commissioners 1980 Standard Ordinary Mortality Table with Ten-Year Select Mortality Factors, or (iii) any ordinary mortality table, adopted after nineteen hundred eighty by the National Association of Insurance

Commissioners, that is approved by the superintendent for use in determining the minimum standard of valuation for such policies, or (iv) any other ordinary mortality table, or any modification of any of the foregoing tables, approved by the superintendent for any specified class or classes of risks.

(B) For all industrial life insurance policies issued on the standard basis, excluding any disability and accidental death benefits in such policies, the 1941 Standard Industrial Mortality Table for such policies issued prior to the operative date of subsection (i) of section four thousand two hundred twenty-one of this article, and for such policies issued on or after such operative date (i) the Commissioners 1961 Standard Industrial Mortality Table, or (ii) any industrial mortality table, adopted after nineteen hundred eighty by the National Association of Insurance Commissioners, that is approved by the superintendent for use in determining the minimum standard of valuation for such policies, or (iii) any other industrial mortality table, or any modification of any of the foregoing tables, approved by the superintendent for any specified class or classes of risks.

(C) For individual annuity and pure endowment contracts, excluding any disability and accidental death benefits in such contracts,--the 1937 Standard Annuity Mortality Table or, at the option of the company, the Annuity Mortality Table for 1949, Ultimate, or any modification of either of these tables approved by the superintendent.

(D) For group annuity and pure endowment contracts, excluding any disability and accidental death benefits in such contracts,--the 1971 Group Annuity Mortality Table or any modification of this table approved by the superintendent.

(E) For total and permanent disability benefits in or supplementary to ordinary policies or contracts--for policies or contracts issued on or after January first, nineteen hundred sixty-six, the tables of Period 2 disablement rates and the 1930 to 1950 termination rates of the 1952 Disability Study of the Society of Actuaries, with due regard to the type of benefits or any tables of disablement rates and termination rates, adopted after nineteen hundred eighty by the National Association of Insurance Commissioners, that are approved by the superintendent for use in determining the minimum standard of valuation for such policies or any other tables of disablement rates and termination rates, or any modification of any of the foregoing tables, approved by the superintendent for any specified class or classes of risks; for policies or contracts issued prior to January first, nineteen hundred sixty-six, either such tables or, at the option of the company, the Class (3) Disability Table (1926). Any such table shall, for active lives, be combined with a mortality table permitted for calculating the reserves for life insurance policies.

(F) For accidental death benefits in or supplementary to policies--for policies issued on or after January first, nineteen hundred sixty-six, the 1959 Accidental Death Benefits Table or any accidental death benefits table, adopted after nineteen hundred eighty by the National Association of Insurance Commissioners, that is approved by the superintendent for use in determining the minimum standard of valuation for such policies or any other accidental death benefits table, or any modification of any of the foregoing tables, approved by the superintendent for any specified class or classes of risks; for policies issued prior to January first, nineteen hundred sixty-six, either such table or, at the option of the company, the Inter-Company Double Indemnity Mortality Table. Any such table shall be combined with a mortality table permitted for calculating the reserves for life insurance policies.

(G) For group life insurance, life insurance issued on the substandard basis, annuities involving life contingencies provided or available under optional modes of settlement in life insurance policies or annuity contracts and other special benefits--such tables as may be approved by the superintendent.

(3) Except as provided in paragraph four hereof, the minimum standard for the valuation of all individual annuity and pure endowment contracts issued on or after the operative date of this paragraph, as defined herein, and for all annuities and pure endowments purchased or to be purchased on or after the operative date under group annuity and pure endowment contracts, shall be the commissioners reserve valuation method defined in paragraph six hereof and the following tables and interest rates:

(A) For individual annuity and pure endowment contracts issued prior to January first, nineteen hundred seventy-nine, excluding any disability and accidental death benefits in such contracts and excluding any annuities, purchased under individual deferred annuity contracts, to which the company has elected to have subparagraph (B) hereof apply--the 1971 Individual Annuity Mortality Table, or any modification of this table approved by the superintendent, and six percent interest for single premium immediate annuity contracts, and four percent interest for all other individual annuity and pure endowment contracts, or such higher rate or rates of interest for any of such contracts as may be approved from time to time by the superintendent.

(B) For individual annuity and pure endowment contracts issued on or after January first, nineteen hundred seventy-nine, excluding any disability and accidental death benefits in such contracts, and, at the election of the company, for annuities purchased on or after such date under individual deferred annuity contracts--the 1971 Individual Annuity Mortality Table, or any individual annuity mortality table, adopted after nineteen hundred eighty by the National Association of Insurance Commissioners, that is approved by the superintendent for use in determining the minimum standard of valuation for such contracts, or any other individual annuity mortality table, or any modification of any of the foregoing tables, approved by the superintendent, and seven and one-half percent interest for all single premium individual immediate annuity contracts and all annuities, purchased under individual deferred annuity contracts, to which the company has elected to have this subparagraph apply and five and one-half percent interest for all other individual annuity and pure endowment contracts, excluding any annuities, purchased under deferred annuity contracts, for which the interest rate is seven and one-half percent or such higher rate or rates of interest for any of such contracts or annuities purchased under deferred annuity contracts as may be approved from time to time by the superintendent.

(C) For all annuities and pure endowments purchased or to be purchased prior to January first, nineteen hundred seventy-seven under group annuity and pure endowment contracts, excluding any disability and accidental death benefits purchased under such contracts,--the 1971 Group Annuity Mortality Table, or any modification of this table approved by the superintendent, and six percent interest, or such higher rate or rates of interest for any of such annuities and pure endowments as may be approved from time to time by the superintendent.

(D) For all annuities and pure endowments purchased or to be purchased on or after January first, nineteen hundred seventy-seven under group annuity and pure endowment contracts, excluding any disability and accidental death benefits purchased under such contracts--the 1971 Group Annuity Mortality Table, or any group annuity mortality table, adopted after nineteen hundred eighty by the National Association of Insurance Commissioners, that is approved by the superintendent for use in determining the minimum standard of valuation for such annuities and pure endowments, or any other group annuity mortality table, or any modification of any of the foregoing tables, approved by the superintendent, and seven and one-half percent interest, or such higher rate or rates of interest for any such annuities and pure endowments as may be approved from time to time by the superintendent.

(E) After June thirteenth, nineteen hundred seventy-four, any company may file with the superintendent a written notice of its election to comply with the provisions of this paragraph after a specified date before January first, nineteen hundred seventy-nine, which shall be the operative date of this paragraph for such company, provided that an insurer may elect a different operative date for individual annuity and pure endowment contracts from that elected for group annuity and pure endowment contracts. If a company makes no such election, the operative date of this paragraph for such company shall be January first, nineteen hundred seventy-nine.

(F) Annuities, annuity benefits and guaranteed interest contracts to which this subsection applies shall be subject to item (vi) of subparagraph (B) of paragraph four of this subsection.

(4) (A) The interest rates used in determining the minimum standard for the valuation of:

(i) all life insurance policies issued in a particular calendar year, on or after January first, nineteen hundred eighty-two,

(ii) all individual annuity and pure endowment contracts issued in a particular calendar year on or after January first, nineteen hundred eighty-two, and, at the option of the company, all annuities purchased in a particular calendar year on or after such date under individual deferred annuity contracts issued prior thereto,

(iii) all annuities and pure endowments purchased in a particular calendar year on or after January first, nineteen hundred eighty-two under group annuity and pure endowment contracts, and

(iv) the net increase, if any, in a particular calendar year after January first, nineteen hundred eighty-two, in amounts held under guaranteed interest contracts, shall be the calendar year statutory valuation interest rates as defined in this subsection, or such higher rate or rates of interest for any of such policies, contracts or annuities as may be approved from time to time by the superintendent.

(B) The calendar year statutory valuation interest rates ("I") shall be determined in accordance with the following formulae (where R is the reference interest rate, and W is the weighting factor, defined in this paragraph) and the results rounded to the nearer one-quarter of one percent:

(i) For life insurance, except as otherwise provided in this subparagraph,

$$I = .03 + W(R1 - .03) + W/2 (R2 - .09);$$

where R1 is the lesser of R and .09,

R2 is the greater of R and .09,

(ii) For single premium immediate annuities and for annuity benefits arising from life insurance policies and annuity and guaranteed interest contracts with cash settlement options,

$$I = .03 + W(R - .03)$$

(iii) For other annuities with cash settlement options and guaranteed interest contracts with cash settlement options, valued on an issue year basis, except as stated in item (ii), the formula for life insurance stated in item (i) shall apply to annuities and guaranteed interest contracts with guarantee durations in excess of ten years and the formula for single premium immediate annuities stated in item (ii) shall apply to annuities and guaranteed interest contracts with guarantee durations of ten years or less, and to single premium life insurance policies of the kind referred to in item (vi) valued on a year of issue basis with guarantee durations of ten years or less,

(iv) For other annuities with no cash settlement options and for guaranteed interest contracts with no cash settlement options, the formula for single premium immediate annuities stated in item (ii) shall apply,

(v) For other annuities with cash settlement options and guaranteed interest contracts with cash settlement options, and for single premium life insurance policies of the kind referred to in item (vi), valued on a change in fund basis, the formula for single premium immediate annuities stated in item (ii) shall apply,

(vi) Single premium life insurance policies of the kind referred to in this item are all single premium life insurance policies, issued on or after January first, nineteen hundred eighty-two, which provide for the crediting of additional amounts pursuant to subsection (b) of section four thousand two hundred thirty-two of this article and under which interest rates provided in, or declared pursuant to, the policy are, for some period, guaranteed to exceed the greater of (I) six percent per annum and (II) the calendar year statutory valuation interest rate for other life insurance policies with guarantee durations in excess of twenty years.

(C) If the calendar year statutory valuation interest rate for any life insurance policies, other than single premium life insurance policies of the kind referred to in item (vi) of subparagraph (B) of this paragraph, issued in any calendar year determined without reference to this sentence differs from the corresponding actual rate for similar policies issued in the immediately preceding calendar year by less than one-half of one percent the calendar year statutory valuation interest rate for such life insurance policies shall be equal to the corresponding actual rate for the immediately preceding calendar year. For purposes of applying the immediately preceding sentence, the calendar year statutory valuation interest rate for life insurance policies issued in a calendar year shall be determined for nineteen hundred eighty, (using the reference interest rate defined for nineteen hundred seventy-nine) and shall be determined for each subsequent calendar year regardless of when subsection (k) of section four thousand two hundred twenty-one of this article becomes operative.

(D) The weighting factors referred to in the formulas stated above are given in the following tables:

(i) Weighting factors for life insurance:

Guarantee Duration (Years)	Weighting Factors
10 or less	.50
More than 10, but not more than 20	.45
More than 20	.35

except that the factors shown above shall be increased for single premium policies of the kind referred to in item (vi) of subparagraph (B) of this paragraph valued on an issue year basis by .05 and for single premium policies of such kind valued on a change in fund basis by ..10.

For life insurance, other than single premium policies of the kind referred to in item (vi) of subparagraph (B) of this paragraph, the guarantee duration is the maximum number of years the life insurance can remain in force on a basis guaranteed in the policy or under options to convert to plans of life insurance with premium rates or nonforfeiture values or both which are guaranteed in the original policy; for such single premium policies of the kind referred to in item (vi) of subparagraph (B) of this paragraph, the guarantee duration is the number of years for which interest rates provided in, or declared pursuant to, the policy are guaranteed to exceed the greater of (I) six percent per annum and (II) the calendar year statutory valuation interest rate for life insurance policies, other than such single premium policies, with guarantee durations in excess of twenty years;

(ii) Weighting factor for single premium immediate annuities, and for annuity benefits arising from life insurance policies and annuity and guaranteed interest contracts with cash settlement options: .80

(iii) Weighting factors for other annuities and for guaranteed interest contracts, except as stated in item (ii), shall be as specified in tables (I), (II), (III), according to the rules and definitions in tables (IV) and (V):

	Weighting Factor for Plan Type
Guarantee Duration (Years)	A	B	C
(I) For annuities and guaranteed interest contracts valued on an issue year basis:
5 or less:	.80	.60	.50
More than 5, but not more than 10:	.75	.60	.50
More than 10, but not more than 20:	.65	.50	.45
More than 20:	.45	.35	.35
(II) For annuities and guaranteed interest contracts valued on a change in fund basis, the factor shown in table (I) above increased by: .15 .25 .05

(III) For annuities and guaranteed interest contracts valued on an issue year basis (other than those with no cash settlement options) which do not guarantee interest on considerations received more than one year after issue or purchase and for annuities and guaranteed interest contracts valued on a change in fund basis which do not guarantee interest rates on considerations received more than twelve months beyond the valuation date, the factors shown in table (I) or derived in table (II) increased by: .05 .05 .05

(IV) For other annuities with cash settlement options and guaranteed interest contracts with cash settlement options, the guarantee duration is the number of years for which the interest rates provided in, or declared pursuant to, the contract are guaranteed to exceed the calendar year statutory valuation interest rate for life insurance policies other than single premium policies of the kind referred to in item (vi) of subparagraph (B) of this paragraph, with guarantee durations in excess of twenty years.

For other annuities with no cash settlement options and for guaranteed interest contracts with no cash settlement options, the guarantee duration is the number of years from the date of issue or date of purchase to the date annuity benefits are scheduled to commence.

(V) Plan type as used in the above tables is defined as follows:

Plan Type A: The policyholder may withdraw funds only (i) with an adjustment to reflect changes in interest rates or asset values since receipt of the funds by the insurance company, or (ii) without such adjustment but in installments over five years or more, or (iii) as an immediate life annuity.

Plan Type B: The policyholder may not withdraw funds before the expiration of the interest rate guarantee or, if withdrawals are permitted before the expiration of such guarantee, may withdraw funds only (i) with an adjustment to reflect changes in interest rates or asset values since receipt of the funds by the insurance company, or (ii) without such adjustment but in installments over five years or more. At the end of the interest rate guarantee, funds may be withdrawn without such adjustment in a single sum or installments over less than five years.

Plan Type C: The policyholder may withdraw funds before the expiration of the interest rate guarantee in a single sum or installments over less than five years either (i) without adjustment to reflect changes in interest rates or asset values since receipt of the funds by the insurance company, or (ii) subject only to a fixed surrender charge stipulated in the contract as a percentage of the fund.

(E) A company may elect to value single premium life insurance policies of the kind referred to in item (vi) of subparagraph (B) of this paragraph, guaranteed interest contracts with cash settlement options or other annuities with cash settlement options on either an issue year basis or on a change in fund basis. Guaranteed interest contracts with no cash settlement options and other annuities with no cash settlement options must be valued on an issue year basis. As used in this paragraph, and except as otherwise permitted by the superintendent, an issue year basis of valuation refers to a valuation basis under which the interest rate used to determine the minimum valuation standard for the entire duration of the life insurance policy, annuity contract or guaranteed interest contract is the calendar year valuation interest rate for the year of issue or year of purchase of the policy or contract, and the change in fund basis of valuation refers to a valuation basis under which the interest rate used to determine the minimum valuation standard applicable to each change in the fund held under the policy or contract is the calendar year valuation interest rate for the year of the change in the fund.

(F) The reference interest rate referred to above shall be defined as follows:

(i) For all life insurance, except single premium policies of the kind referred to in item (vi) of subparagraph (B) of this paragraph, the lesser of the average over a period of thirty-six months and the average over a period of twelve months, ending on June thirtieth of the calendar year next preceding the year of issue, of Moody's Corporate Bond Yield Average - Monthly Average Corporates, as published by Moody's Investors Service, Inc.

(ii) For single premium immediate annuities and for annuity benefits arising from life insurance policies and annuity and guaranteed interest contracts with cash settlement options, the average over a period of twelve months, ending on June thirtieth of the calendar year of issue or year of purchase, of Moody's Corporate Bond Yield Average - Monthly Average Corporates, as published by Moody's Investors Service, Inc.

(iii) For other annuities with cash settlement options and guaranteed interest contracts with cash settlement options, and for single premium life insurance policies of the kind referred to in item (vi) of subparagraph (B) of this paragraph, valued on a year of issue basis, except as stated in item (ii) hereof, with guarantee durations in excess of ten years, the lesser of the average over a period of thirty-six months and the average over a period of twelve months ending on June thirtieth of the calendar year of issue or purchase, of Moody's Corporate Bond Yield Average - Monthly Corporates, as published by Moody's Investors Service, Inc.

(iv) For other annuities with cash settlement options and guaranteed interest contracts with cash settlement options, and for single premium life insurance policies of the kind referred to in item (vi) of subparagraph (B) of this paragraph, valued on a year of issue basis, except as stated in item (ii) hereof, with guarantee durations of ten years or less, the average over a period of twelve months, ending on June thirtieth of the calendar year of issue or purchase, of Moody's Corporate Bond Yield Average - Monthly Average Corporates, as published by Moody's Investors Service, Inc.

(vi) For other annuities with cash settlement options and guaranteed interest contracts with cash settlement options, and for single premium life insurance policies of the kind referred to in item (vi) of subparagraph (B) of this paragraph, valued on a change in fund basis, except as stated in item (ii) hereof, the average over a period of twelve months, ending on June thirtieth of the calendar year of the change in the fund, of Moody's Corporate Bond Yield Average - Monthly Average Corporates, as published by Moody's Investors Service, Inc.

(G) In the event that Moody's Corporate Bond Yield Average - Monthly Average Corporates is no longer published by Moody's Investors Service, Inc., or in the event that the National Association of Insurance Commissioners determines that Moody's Corporate Bond Yield Average - Monthly Average Corporates as published by Moody's Investors Service, Inc., is no longer appropriate for the determination of the reference interest rate, then an alternative method for determination of the reference interest rate, which is adopted by the National Association of Insurance Commissioners and approved by the superintendent, may be substituted.

(H) The provisions of this subparagraph shall apply to any life insurance company which has life insurance policies or annuity or pure endowment contracts in effect which were issued in a foreign country and under which premiums and benefits, and the assets supporting reserves in respect thereof, are denominated in the currency of a foreign country which is rated in one of the two highest rating categories by an independent, nationally recognized United States rating agency. For the purpose of determining the reference interest rate to be used in valuing such policies and contracts, the superintendent may permit any such company, or may by regulation require all such companies (except as exempted pursuant to such regulation), to adjust the yield average of the applicable index published by Moody's Investors Service, Inc. (or the yield average determined on the basis of any substitute method applicable to such policies or contracts and approved by the superintendent in accordance with subparagraph (G) of this paragraph) in accordance with a method approved by the superintendent, or to substitute an alternative method approved by the superintendent in place of the applicable index published by Moody's Investors Service, provided that any such substitute or alternative method shall produce year-to-year consistency in reserving methods and shall appropriately reflect the difference between the yield average on corporate bonds issued in the United States and the yield average on corporate bonds issued in such foreign country. Any company which adjusts yield averages in accordance with a method approved by the superintendent pursuant to this subparagraph shall continue to use such method with respect to the valuation of such policies and contracts until the superintendent permits or requires such company to cease using such method.

(6) (A) Except as otherwise provided in section four thousand two hundred eighteen of this article, reserves according to the commissioners reserve valuation method for the life insurance and endowment benefits of policies providing for a uniform amount of insurance and requiring the payment of uniform premiums shall be the excess, if any, of the present value, at the date of valuation, of such future guaranteed benefits provided for by such policies, over the then present value of any future modified net premiums therefor. The modified net premiums for any such policy shall be such uniform percentage of the respective contract premiums for such benefits that the present value, at the date of issue of the policy, of all such modified net premiums shall be equal to the sum of the then present value of such benefits provided for by the policy and the excess of item (i) over item (ii), as follows:

(i) A net level annual premium equal to the present value, at the date of issue, of such benefits provided for after the first policy year, divided by the present value, at the date of issue, of an annuity of one per annum payable on the first and each subsequent anniversary of such policy on which a premium falls due; provided, however, that such net level annual premium shall not exceed the net level annual premium on the nineteen year premium whole life plan for insurance of the same amount at an age one year higher than the age at issue of such policy.

(ii) A net one year term premium for such benefits provided for in the first policy year.

(B) Provided that for any life insurance policy issued on or after January first, nineteen hundred eighty-six for which the contract premium in the first policy year exceeds that of the second year and for which no comparable additional benefit is provided in the first year for such excess and which provides an endowment benefit or a cash surrender value or a combination thereof in an amount greater than such excess premium, the reserve according to the commissioners reserve valuation method as of any policy anniversary occurring on or before the assumed ending date defined herein as the first policy anniversary on which the sum of any endowment benefit and any cash surrender value then available is greater than such excess premium shall, except as otherwise provided in section four thousand two hundred eighteen of this article, be the greater of the reserve as of such policy anniversary calculated as described in the preceding paragraph and the reserve as of such policy anniversary calculated as described in that paragraph, but with (i) the value defined in item (i) of subparagraph (A) hereof being reduced by fifteen percent of the amount of such excess first year premium, (ii) all present values of benefits and premiums being determined without reference to premiums or benefits provided for by the policy after the assumed ending date, (iii) the policy being assumed to mature on such date as an endowment, and (iv) the cash surrender value provided on such date being considered as an endowment benefit. In making the above comparison, the mortality and interest bases stated in paragraphs two and four shall be used.

(C) Reserves according to the commissioners reserve valuation method for (i) life insurance policies providing for a varying amount of insurance or requiring the payment of varying premiums, (ii) disability and accidental death benefits in all policies and contracts, and (iii) all other benefits, except life insurance and endowment benefits in life insurance policies and benefits in annuity, pure endowment and guaranteed interest contracts, shall be calculated by a method consistent with the principles of this paragraph, except that any extra premiums charged because of impairments or special hazards shall be disregarded in the determination of modified net premiums.

(D) The superintendent may, by regulation, issue guidelines for the application of the reserve valuation provisions of this section to such policies and contracts as the superintendent deems appropriate. Such guidelines may provide that the minimum standard for the valuation of single premium life insurance policies of the kind referred to in item (vi) of subparagraph (B) of paragraph four of this subsection may be based on interest rates determined in accordance with paragraph four of subsection (c) of this section for the first ten years following the date of valuation and thereafter on interest rates determined in accordance with the formula stated in item (i) of subparagraph (B) of paragraph four of this subsection. Such guidelines may permit recognition of surrender charges in determining reserves to the extent and under the conditions specified in the regulation. With respect to annuity, pure endowment, or guaranteed interest contracts providing allocation of assets to a separate account which qualifies under item (iii) of paragraph five of subsection (a) of section four thousand two hundred forty of this article and in which the assets are valued at their market value in accordance with the terms of such contracts, such guidelines may provide for the valuation of the reserves for such contracts in a consistent manner.

(7) In no event shall a company's aggregate reserves for all life insurance policies, excluding disability and accidental death benefits, be less than the aggregate reserves calculated in accordance with the methods set forth in paragraphs six and nine hereof and the mortality table or tables and rate or rates of interest used in calculating nonforfeiture benefits for such policies, nor less than the aggregate reserves calculated in accordance with section four thousand two hundred eighteen of this article. This paragraph shall not apply to single premium life insurance policies of the kind referred to in item (vi) of subparagraph (B) of paragraph four of this subsection nor to life insurance policies that provide for the crediting of additional amounts pursuant to subsection (b) of section four thousand two hundred thirty-two of this article if the aggregate reserves for all such policies are at least equal to the greatest of present values, at the date of valuation, of the future guaranteed cash surrender values at any time under all such policies, assuming no future premiums and the mortality tables and interest rates prescribed under paragraphs two and four of this subsection.

(8) Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (a) hereof and notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (g) of section four thousand two hundred twenty-one of this article, after a life insurance company has established reserves for participating life insurance policies in accordance with a method consistent with the provisions of this chapter, it may calculate such reserves according to a rate of interest lower than the rate of interest previously used in calculating reserves for the same policies only with the consent of the superintendent, subject to such conditions, if any, as he may impose.

(9) In the case of any plan of life insurance which provides for future premium determination, the amounts of which are to be determined by the insurance company based on then estimates of future experience, or in the case of any plan of life insurance or annuity which is of such a nature that the minimum reserves cannot be determined by the methods described in paragraph six hereof and section four thousand two hundred eighteen of this article, the reserves which are held under any such plan must:

(A) be appropriate in relation to the benefits and the pattern of premiums for that plan, and

(B) be computed by a method which is consistent with the principles of such paragraph and such section as determined by the superintendent.

(10) (A) The superintendent shall, by regulation, issue guidelines for the determination of the minimum reserve value required by this section for any plan or plans of life insurance policies under which cash surrender values and policy loan values are adjusted in accordance with a market-value adjustment formula.

(B) The regulation may require any company issuing or delivering such policies in this state to submit to the superintendent with each annual report an opinion, in form and substance satisfactory to the superintendent, of a qualified actuary that the reserves for all such policies in force at the end of the year, and the assets held by the company in support of such reserves, make adequate provision for the liabilities of the company with respect thereto, such opinion to be accompanied by a memorandum, also in form and substance satisfactory to the superintendent, of the qualified actuary describing the calculations made in support of such opinion and the assumptions used in the calculations. The regulation may prescribe the calculations required to support such opinions and may provide that if the company has designated particular assets primarily to support reserves for a class or classes of policies, including reserves for policies determined in accordance with the regulation, the opinion of the company's qualified actuary may apply to the policies whose reserves are supported by such assets. For purposes hereof, "qualified actuary" has the meaning ascribed to it by subparagraph (E) of paragraph four of subsection (e) of this section.

(C) With respect to any policies covered by the regulation that provide for the allocation of assets to a separate account which qualifies under item (iii) of paragraph five of subsection (a) of section four thousand two hundred forty of this article and in which assets are valued at their market value in accordance with the terms of such policies, the regulation may provide for the valuation of the reserves for such policies in a consistent manner.

(d) The company shall maintain reserves for all individual and group accident and health insurance policies which reserves shall reflect a sound value placed on its liabilities under such policies and shall be not less than the reserves required by regulations which the superintendent shall promulgate.

(e) Actuarial opinion of reserves.

(1) General. Every life insurance company doing business in this state shall annually submit the opinion of a qualified actuary as to whether the reserves and related actuarial items held in support of the policies and contracts specified by the superintendent by regulation are computed appropriately, are based on assumptions which satisfy contractual provisions, are consistent with prior reported amounts and comply with applicable laws of this state. The superintendent by regulation shall define the specifics of this opinion and add any other items deemed to be necessary to its scope.

(2) (A) Actuarial analysis of reserves and assets supporting such reserves. Every life insurance company, except as exempted by or pursuant to regulation, shall also annually include in the opinion required by paragraph one of this subsection, an opinion of the same qualified actuary as to whether the reserves and related actuarial items held in support of the policies and contracts specified by the superintendent by regulation, when considered in light of the assets held by the company with respect to the reserves and related actuarial items, including but not limited to the investment earnings on the assets and the considerations anticipated to be received and retained under the policies and contracts, make adequate provision for the company's obligations under the policies and contracts, including but not limited to the benefits under and expenses associated with the policies and contracts.

(B) The superintendent may provide by regulation for a transition period for establishing any additional reserves which the qualified actuary may deem necessary in order to render the opinion required by this paragraph.

(3) Requirement for actuarial memorandum. (A) Except as exempted by or pursuant to regulation, a memorandum, in form and substance acceptable to the superintendent as specified by regulation, shall be prepared to support each actuarial opinion submitted pursuant to subparagraph (A) of paragraph two of this subsection. Each company required to prepare such memorandum shall submit such memorandum to the superintendent as part of its submission of the opinion of the qualified actuary pursuant to such subparagraph (A), except as otherwise provided in subparagraph (B) of this paragraph and except that if a foreign or alien company has submitted a memorandum in support of an opinion of a qualified actuary for the prior year to the commissioner of a state accredited by the National Association of Insurance Commissioners and if that memorandum was in form and substance acceptable to the commissioner and was in support of an opinion of a qualified actuary that was required by laws or regulations of that state to meet standards adopted from time to time by the Actuarial Standards Board and such additional standards as the superintendent has prescribed, the foreign or alien company need submit the memorandum required by this subparagraph only at the request of the superintendent or as the superintendent may by regulation require.

(B) In lieu of preparing a memorandum as required by subparagraph (A) of this paragraph, a company may increase its reserves in the manner provided by the superintendent by regulation. If a company that has not so increased its reserves fails to file a supporting memorandum as required by subparagraph (A) of this paragraph or fails to provide a supporting memorandum at the request of the superintendent within a period specified by regulation or the superintendent determines that the supporting memorandum provided by the company fails to meet the standards prescribed by the regulations or is otherwise unacceptable to the superintendent, the superintendent may engage a qualified actuary at the expense of the company to review the opinion and the basis for the opinion and prepare such supporting memorandum as is required by the superintendent.

(4) Requirement for all opinions. Every opinion shall be governed by the following provisions:

(A) The opinion shall be submitted with the annual statement reflecting the valuation of such reserve liabilities for each year ending on or after December thirty-first, nineteen hundred ninety-four.

(B) The opinion shall apply to all business in force including individual and group health insurance plans, in form and substance acceptable to the superintendent as specified by regulation.

(C) The opinion shall be based on standards adopted from time to time by the Actuarial Standards Board and on such additional standards as the superintendent may by regulation prescribe.

(D) In the case of an opinion required to be submitted by a foreign or alien company, the superintendent may accept the opinion submitted by that company to the commissioner of a state accredited by the National Association of Insurance Commissioners if the superintendent determines that the opinion reasonably meets the requirements applicable to a company domiciled in this state.

(E) For the purposes of this subsection, "qualified actuary" means a member in good standing of the American Academy of Actuaries who meets the requirements prescribed by the superintendent by regulation.

(F) Except in cases of fraud, willful misconduct or gross negligence, the qualified actuary shall not be liable for damages to any person (other than the insurance company or the superintendent) for any act, error, omission, decision or conduct with respect to the actuary's opinion and memorandum. The provisions of this subparagraph shall not operate to remove, condition or limit any rights, remedies or actions at law or equity which the insurance company or the superintendent may have or take against or with respect to the qualified actuary.

(G) Disciplinary action by the superintendent against the company or the qualified actuary shall be defined in regulations by the superintendent.

(H) Non-public information (meaning information not otherwise available from public documents or records) contained in any memorandum in support of the opinion, or in any other material provided by the company to the superintendent in connection therewith, shall at the written request of the company be kept confidential by the superintendent and shall not be made public, other than for the purpose of enabling any person to defend against an action seeking damages from such person by reason of any action required by this section or by regulations promulgated hereunder; provided, however, that such non-public information may otherwise be released by the superintendent (i) with the written consent of the company or (ii) for the purpose of professional disciplinary proceedings conducted by the superintendent or by any professional body, provided that steps deemed appropriate by the superintendent are taken to preserve the confidentiality of such non-public information. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the superintendent shall release the non-public information to persons making demand therefor in a criminal proceeding pursuant to lawful subpoena, warrant or court order or in response to a subpoena from a grand jury served upon the superintendent. Any such request by the company for confidentiality shall designate with reasonable specificity the portion of such memorandum or other material with respect to which confidentiality is requested pursuant to this subparagraph. Once such memorandum or other material, or any portion thereof containing matters with respect to which confidentiality has been requested, is cited by the company in its marketing or is cited before any governmental agency (other than a state insurance department) or is released by the company to the news media, all portions of such memorandum or other material shall be no longer confidential.

(f) (1) An insurer shall be deemed to meet the minimum standard for the valuation of life insurance, if the amount of its aggregate reserves for group life insurance, for ordinary life insurance and for industrial life insurance, whether or not held in separate accounts pursuant to section four thousand two hundred forty of this article, is in each case at least equal to the aggregate minimum standard required by this section for the respective valuation thereof.

(2) An insurer shall be deemed to meet the minimum standard for the valuation of annuities and guaranteed interest contracts if the amount of its aggregate reserves therefor, whether or not held in separate accounts pursuant to such section forty-two hundred forty of this article, is at least equal to the aggregate minimum standard required by this section for the valuation thereof.

(3) An insurer shall be deemed to meet the minimum standard for the valuation of individual and group accident and health insurance policies if the amount of its aggregate reserves therefor is at least equal to the aggregate minimum standard required by this section for the valuation thereof.

(4) Without the specific approval of the superintendent subject to such conditions as he may prescribe and as provided by regulation, an insurer shall not aggregate the reserves referred to in two or more of paragraph one, two or three of this subsection. Such regulation may prescribe the conditions under which the valuation of two or more classes of business of insurance or the valuation of all of its insurance business to which this section applies may be combined.

(5) For purposes of this subsection, the aggregate minimum standard required by this section for the valuation of any insurance policies or contracts shall be deemed to include such additional reserves as the qualified actuary deems necessary, taking into account any transition rules provided by regulation pursuant to subparagraph (B) of paragraph two of subsection (e) of this section, in order to render the opinion required by subsection (e) of this section and such additional reserves as may be necessary to comply with regulations promulgated by the superintendent pursuant to this section.

* (g)(1) This subsection shall apply only to individual and group life insurance policies and annuity contracts issued on or after the operative date of the valuation manual as prescribed by the superintendent by regulation, provided that the operative date shall be no sooner than January first, two thousand nineteen.

(2) For the purposes of this subsection, "NAIC" shall mean the National Association of Insurance Commissioners.

(3) For purposes of this subsection, "principle-based valuation" shall mean a reserve valuation that uses methods and assumptions required by paragraph eleven of this subsection as specified in the valuation manual.

(4) For purposes of this subsection, "qualified actuary" shall mean a member in good standing of the American Academy of Actuaries who meets the requirements prescribed by the superintendent by regulation.

(5) For purposes of this subsection, "valuation manual" shall mean the valuation manual adopted by the NAIC on December second, two thousand twelve, as subsequently amended, and as approved by the superintendent upon a finding that such manual is for the best interests of the holders of policies and contracts and annuitants of this state and which meets the requirements as set forth in this subsection.

(6) Notwithstanding subsection (c) of this section and section four thousand two hundred eighteen of this article, the minimum standard for the valuation of all such policies and contracts shall be the standard prescribed in the valuation manual.

(7) The valuation manual shall not become operative in this state unless and until the superintendent has approved of such manual and has adopted all necessary regulations to effectuate this subsection.

(8) (A) No amendment to the valuation manual shall take effect in this state unless the superintendent finds that such amendment is for the best interests of the holders of policies and contracts and annuitants of this state.

(B) The superintendent may deviate, through regulations, from the reserve standards, valuation methods, assumptions, and related requirements in the valuation manual, including for individual companies, provided, however, that such deviation shall not result in reserve valuations that are lower than the minimum standards prescribed in the valuation manual and may be based on a percentage of the reserves being held for the policies and contracts subject to this subsection prior to the operative date of such manual.

(9) The valuation manual shall specify all of the following:

(A) Minimum valuation standards for and definitions of the policies and contracts subject to this subsection as determined by the superintendent. Such minimum valuation standards shall be:

(i) The commissioners reserve valuation method for life insurance policies subject to this subsection; and

(ii) The commissioners annuity reserve valuation method for annuity contracts subject to this subsection.

(B) Requirements for the format of reports to the superintendent under item (iii) of subparagraph (B) of paragraph eleven of this subsection and which shall include information necessary to determine if the valuation is appropriate and in compliance with this subsection;

(C) Assumptions for risks over which a company does not have significant control or influence;

(D) Procedures for corporate governance and oversight of the actuarial function, and a process for appropriate waiver or modification of such procedures;

(E) Other requirements, including, but not limited to, those relating to reserve methods, models for measuring risk, generation of economic scenarios, assumptions, margins, use of company experience, risk measurement, disclosure, certifications, reports, actuarial opinions and memorandums, transition rules and internal controls; and

(F) The data and form of the data required under paragraph twelve of this subsection, with whom the data shall be submitted, and other requirements including data analyses and reporting of analyses.

(10) The superintendent may engage a qualified actuary, at the expense of a company, to perform an actuarial examination of such company and opine on the appropriateness of any reserve assumption or method used by such company, or to review and opine on such company's compliance with any requirement set forth in this subsection.

(11) (A) A company that issues policies and contracts subject to this subsection shall establish reserves using a principle-based valuation that meets the following conditions for such policies and contracts as specified in the valuation manual:

(i) Quantify the benefits and guarantees, and the funding, associated with the policies or contracts and their risks at a level of conservatism that reflects conditions that include unfavorable events that have a reasonable probability of occurring during the lifetime of the policies and contracts. For policies and contracts with significant tail risk, reflect conditions appropriately adverse to quantify the tail risk.

(ii) Incorporate assumptions, risk analysis methods and financial models and management techniques that are consistent with, but not necessarily identical to, those utilized within the company's overall risk assessment process, while recognizing potential differences in financial reporting structures and any prescribed assumptions or methods.

(iii) Incorporate assumptions that are derived in one of the following manners:

(I) The assumption is prescribed in the valuation manual.

(II) For assumptions that are not prescribed, the assumptions shall:

a. be established utilizing the company's available experience, to the extent it is relevant and statistically credible; or

b. to the extent that company experience is not available, relevant, or statistically credible, be established utilizing other relevant, statistically credible experience.

(iv) Provide margins for uncertainty including adverse deviation and estimation error, such that the greater the uncertainty the larger the margin and resulting reserve.

(B) A company that issues policies and contracts subject to this subsection shall:

(i) Establish procedures for corporate governance and oversight of the actuarial valuation function consistent with those described in the valuation manual.

(ii) Provide to the superintendent, annually on or before a date as determined by the superintendent, and the board of directors of the company an annual certification of the effectiveness of the internal controls with respect to the principle-based valuation. Such controls shall be designed to assure that all material risks inherent in the liabilities and associated assets subject to such valuation are included in the valuation, and that valuations are made in accordance with the valuation manual. The certification shall be based on the controls in place as of the end of the preceding calendar year.

(iii) Develop, and file with the superintendent upon request, a principle-based valuation report that complies with standards prescribed in the valuation manual.

(C) A principle-based valuation shall include a prescribed formulaic reserve component.

(12) A company that issues policies and contracts subject to this subsection shall submit mortality, morbidity, policyholder behavior, or expense experience and other data as prescribed in the valuation manual to the superintendent annually on or before a date as determined by the superintendent.

(13) (A) The superintendent may exempt specific product forms or product lines of a domestic company that is licensed and doing business only in this state from the requirements of this subsection provided:

(i) The superintendent has issued an exemption in writing to the company and has not subsequently revoked the exemption in writing; and

(ii) The company computes reserves using assumptions and methods used prior to the operative date of the valuation manual in addition to any requirements established by the superintendent and promulgated by regulation.

(B) For any company granted an exemption under this paragraph, subsections (c), (d), (e) and (f) of this section and section four thousand two hundred eighteen of this article shall be applicable. With respect to any company applying for this exemption, any reference to subsection (g) found in subsections (c), (d), (e) and (f) of this section and section four thousand two hundred eighteen of this article shall not be applicable.

§ 4218. When actual premium is less than net premium; minimum reserve. (a) (1) When the actual premium or consideration charged for life insurance under any life insurance policy, issued by any life insurance company doing business in this state, is less than the modified net premium calculated on the basis of the commissioners reserve valuation method as defined in paragraph six of subsection (c) of section four thousand two hundred seventeen of this article and using the rate of interest and mortality tables contained in the minimum valuation standards in paragraphs two and four of such subsection, or in the case of future renewals under a renewable term insurance policy issued prior to the operative date of subsection (k) of section four thousand two hundred twenty-one of this article, the Modern CSO Mortality Table published in the Transactions of the Society of Actuaries, Vol. XXVII (1975), the minimum reserve required for such policy shall be the greater of either the reserve calculated according to the mortality table, rate of interest, and method actually used for such policy, or the reserve calculated by the commissioners reserve valuation method as defined in paragraph six of subsection (c) of section four thousand two hundred seventeen of this article and using the mortality table and rate of interest prescribed in this section for calculating the commissioners reserve valuation method modified net premium and replacing such modified net premium by the actual premium charged for the policy in each contract year for which such modified net premium exceeds the actual premium.

(2) This section shall not authorize any such company to issue any policy or contract in violation of any other provision of this chapter.

(b) (1) In the case of any life insurance policy issued on or after January first, nineteen hundred eighty-six, for which the actual premium in the first policy year exceeds that of the second year and for which no comparable additional benefit is provided in the first year for such excess and which provides an endowment benefit or a cash surrender value or a combination thereof in an amount greater than such excess premium, the foregoing provisions of subsection (a) hereof shall be applied as if the method actually used in calculating the reserve for such policy were the method described in paragraph six of subsection (c) of section four thousand two hundred seventeen of this article, ignoring the proviso of such paragraph.

(2) The minimum reserve at each policy anniversary of such a policy shall be the greater of the minimum reserve calculated in accordance with paragraph six of subsection (c) of section four thousand two hundred seventeen of this article, including the proviso of that paragraph, and the minimum reserve calculated in accordance with this section.

§ 4219. Limitation on accumulation of surplus of life insurance companies. (a) (1) Any domestic mutual life insurance company may maintain a surplus, above all of its reserves and liabilities required or specifically permitted by this chapter, not exceeding the greatest of (A) eight hundred fifty thousand dollars, or (B) ten percent of its policy reserves and policy liabilities, or (C) ten percent of its policy reserves and policy liabilities plus (i) the product of three and its authorized control level RBC as determined in accordance with section one thousand three hundred twenty-two of this chapter minus (ii) the asset valuation reserve as reported in its annual statement, or (D) the minimum amount of capital and surplus required by law of another state in which the company is authorized to do business.

(2) Any domestic stock life insurance company issuing participating policies only or both participating and non-participating policies or contracts in accordance with subsection (f) of section four thousand two hundred thirty-one of this article, may maintain a participating policyholders' surplus, above all of its reserves and liabilities arising out of participating policies, required or specifically permitted by the provisions of this chapter, not exceeding the greatest of (A) two hundred fifty thousand dollars, or (B) ten percent of such policy reserves and such policy liabilities, or (C) ten percent of such policy reserves and policy liabilities plus the amount derived by prorating, based upon the ratio of participating assets to admitted assets, (i) the product of three and its authorized control level RBC as determined in accordance with section one thousand three hundred twenty-two of this chapter minus (ii) the asset valuation reserve as reported in its annual statement.

(3) In this section, "policy reserves and policy liabilities" includes reserves and liabilities on outstanding life insurance policies, accident and health insurance policies and annuity contracts, contracts supplemental thereto or in connection therewith or provisions included therein insuring against disability or against death by accident and including liabilities required under optional modes of settlement and for dividends left on deposit, after deducting the net value of its risks reinsured by other solvent assuming insurers. Policy reserves and liabilities shall also include the reserves and liabilities of the domestic life insurance company and the policy reserves and liabilities of any and all wholly-owned subsidiary life insurance companies of the domestic life insurance company, to the extent that the surpluses of such subsidiary life insurance companies are included in the surplus of the domestic life insurance company for purposes of determining the limit pursuant to this section.

(4) In the case of a mutual life insurance company that is reorganized into a stock life insurance company under section seven thousand three hundred twelve of this chapter, the limitation contained in paragraph one of this subsection shall not affect that part of the existing surplus of such reorganized company that is allocated to participating policies and contracts of the mutual life insurance company which is in excess of such limitation on the effective date of the reorganization, provided such excess, in addition to any further accretions occurring in the normal course of business, shall be equitably distributed to these participating policyholders and contractholders over a period not to exceed ten years.

(b) The superintendent may, for good cause shown, by order, permit any such company to maintain a surplus in excess of the maximum prescribed by subsection (a) hereof, for a specified period, not exceeding one year under any one order. The superintendent shall state in such order his reasons therefor and shall cause a statement of such order and such reasons to be published in his next annual report to the legislature.

(c) This section shall not apply to any stock life insurance company doing exclusively a non-participating business.

§ 4220. Life insurance and annuities; nonforfeiture benefits under defaulted contracts. (a) (1) This section shall apply only to those policies and contracts issued prior to the operative date specified in section four thousand two hundred twenty-one of this article.

(2) Except as otherwise provided in this chapter, in the event of default in payment of a premium or a note therefor or any interest on such note, after three full years' premiums have been paid on a policy of life insurance issued by a domestic insurance company on or after January first, nineteen hundred forty, such company, upon surrender of such policy within the period of three months from the due date of the payment in default, shall pay to the person entitled thereto a cash surrender value not less than the excess, if any, of subparagraph (A) over subparagraph (B) as follows:

(A) The reserve on the policy at the due date of the premium in default (including the reserve for any paid-up additions thereto and excluding the reserve for any additional benefits in the event of death by accident or for benefits in the event of total and permanent disability or for any continuous instalment payments to the beneficiary or to the insured and the beneficiary incidental to the life insurance benefit), determined on the basis, in accordance with section four thousand two hundred seventeen of this article, specified in the policy, and in addition to such reserve, the amount of any dividends standing to the credit of the policy;

(B) the sum of any indebtedness to the company on the policy, including interest due or accrued, and a surrender charge equal to two and one-half per centum of the face amount of such policy and of any paid-up additions thereto, and if the policy be surrendered within the period above specified and after the expiration of the grace period, if any, following the due date of the payment in default, then there may be added to the sum to be deducted the value of any extended term insurance granted (determined as hereinafter specified) during the period between the expiration of the grace period and the date of surrender of the policy.

(3) The person entitled to such cash surrender value may, upon demand therefor within three months after the due date of the payment in default, elect to receive in lieu of such cash surrender value either extended term insurance (including pure endowment benefits, if any) or reduced paid-up insurance under the policy, for a term, in the case of extended term insurance, and for an amount, in the case of reduced paid-up insurance, which, in either case, shall be not less than that provided by applying such cash surrender value at the date of default to provide such extended term or paid-up insurance, computed at net rates at the attained insurance age of the insured and on the same basis used for the computation of such cash surrender value, except that in the case of policies issued on a substandard basis or policies for which the reserves are computed upon the American Men Ultimate Table of Mortality, the term of such extended insurance may be computed upon rates of mortality not greater than one hundred thirty per centum of those shown by the table specified in the policy for the computation of the reserve. The period of extended term insurance shall date from the due date of the premium in default. Reduced paid-up insurance shall be participating if the policy be participating.

(4) The amount of the extended term insurance shall be not less than the amount of life insurance under the policy as expressed in the policy with the approval of the superintendent (including any paid-up additions thereto and excluding any additional benefits on account of death by accident or any continuous instalment payments to the beneficiary or to the insured and the beneficiary incidental to the life insurance benefit), decreased by the amount of any indebtedness to the company on the policy, including interest due or accrued. In the case of any endowment life insurance policy, if the sum used to provide extended term insurance shall be more than sufficient to continue the insurance to the end of the endowment period, the excess shall be used to provide a pure endowment benefit at the end of the endowment period.

(5) Extended term insurance and reduced paid-up insurance may exclude additional benefits in the event of death by accident and benefits in the event of total and permanent disability, and extended term insurance may be without participation in surplus and without the right to loans.

(6) If no other option expressed in the policy be so selected by such person within three months after the due date of the premium in default, the amount of such nonforfeiture value shall be applied to continue the insurance in force from the due date of the premium in default as extended term insurance as hereinbefore provided.

(7) The policy shall specify the reserve basis used in determining nonforfeiture benefits and cash surrender values.

(8) This subsection shall not apply to any pure endowment, annuity, or reversionary annuity contract, nor to any term insurance of thirty years or less.

(9) In the case of ordinary or industrial life insurance policies issued on a substandard basis the company shall not be required to provide extended term insurance as a nonforfeiture benefit.

(10) That the company must provide, to any policyowner who so requests in writing, within twenty business days from the date the written request is received by the company, a statement of the cash surrender value of the policy.

(b) (1) Every contract issued after January first, nineteen hundred forty, by any domestic life insurance company which provides for a deferred annuity on the life of the insured or of the annuitant, or for a pure endowment contract, except a contract paid for by a single premium, shall provide that if the contract after having been in force for three full years, shall by its terms lapse or become defaulted because any stipulated payment to the company shall not have been made, the reserve on such contract, computed according to the standard adopted by such company pursuant to section four thousand two hundred seventeen of this article, shall, after deducting a surrender charge not to exceed the limits hereinafter specified, and after deducting the amount of the unpaid balance, including interest due or accrued, on any loans on such contract by the company, be applied as a net single premium according to such standard, for the purchase of a paid-up annuity or pure endowment contract, which shall be payable by the company under the same terms and conditions, except as to amount, as the original contract.

(2) The surrender charge to be deducted pursuant to paragraph one hereof shall not exceed the greater of the following amounts:

(A) thirty-five percent of the gross annual stipulated payment required by the holder of such contract by the terms thereof; or

(B) twenty-five dollars per one hundred dollars a year income provided by the contract at the normal retirement age.

(3) If such contract provides for a cash surrender value at the option of the holder of such contract and in lieu of such paid-up annuity or pure endowment contract, such cash surrender value shall be an amount at least equal to such net single premium and shall be payable to the holder of such contract upon demand therefor and the surrender of such contract within ninety days after the date of lapse or default.

(4) The paid-up annuity or pure endowment contract prescribed by this section shall not include additional benefits in the event of accidental death or benefits in the event of total and permanent disability and, at the option of the insurer, may be without future participation in surplus and without the right to loans.

(c) The company may provide in any policy or contract that the payment of any cash surrender value may be deferred for not exceeding six months after demand therefor with surrender of the policy or contract as provided above, and the amount payable shall bear interest during any such deferred period of thirty days or more at the rate specified in the policy for the computation of the reserve.

(d) The surrender value and other nonforfeiture benefits of any lapsed or defaulted policy of life insurance or annuity contract issued by any domestic life insurance company before January first, nineteen hundred forty shall be determined in accordance with the law applicable at the date of issuance of such policy or contract.

(e) No foreign or alien life insurance company shall deliver or issue for delivery in this state any policy of life insurance or any annuity or pure endowment contract which does not contain the provisions required by subsection (a) or (b) hereof, as the case may be, or provisions which, in the opinion of the superintendent, are at least equally favorable to policyholders.

§ 4221. Standard nonforfeiture law. (a) In the case of policies issued on or after the operative date of this section as defined in subsection

(p) hereof, no policy of life insurance, except as stated in subsection (o) hereof, shall be delivered or issued for delivery in this state unless it shall contain in substance the following provisions, or corresponding provisions which in the opinion of the superintendent are at least as favorable to the defaulting or surrendering policyholder as are minimum requirements hereinafter specified and are essentially in compliance with subsection (n) hereof:

(1) That, in the event of default in any premium payment, the company will grant, upon proper request not later than sixty days after the due date of the premium in default, a paid-up nonforfeiture benefit on a plan stipulated in the policy, effective as of such due date, of such value as may be hereinafter specified. In lieu of such stipulated paid-up nonforfeiture benefit, the company may substitute, upon proper request not later than sixty days after the due date of the premium in default, a more favorable alternative paid-up nonforfeiture benefit which provides a greater amount or longer period of death benefits or, if applicable, a greater amount or earlier payment of endowment benefits.

(2) That, upon surrender of the policy within sixty days after the due date of any premium payment in default after premiums have been paid for at least three full years, the company will pay, in lieu of any paid-up nonforfeiture benefit, a cash surrender value of such amount as may be hereinafter specified.

(3) That a specified paid-up nonforfeiture benefit shall become effective as specified in the policy unless the person entitled to make such election elects another available option not later than sixty days after the due date of the premium in default.

(4) That, if the policy shall have become paid up by completion of all premium payments or if it is continued under any paid-up nonforfeiture benefit which became effective on or after the third policy anniversary, the company will pay, upon surrender of the policy within thirty days after any policy anniversary, a cash surrender value of such amount as may be hereinafter specified.

(5) In the case of policies which provide for the crediting of additional amounts pursuant to subsection (b) of section four thousand two hundred thirty-two of this article, under which cash surrender values are adjusted in accordance with a market-value adjustment formula, which cause on a basis guaranteed in the policy unscheduled changes in benefits or premiums, or which provide an option for changes in benefits or premiums other than a change to a new policy, a statement of the mortality table, interest rate, and method used in calculating cash surrender values and any paid-up nonforfeiture benefits available under the policy. In the case of all other policies, a statement of the mortality table and interest rate used in calculating the cash surrender values and any paid-up nonforfeiture benefits available under the policy, together with a table showing the cash surrender value, if any, and paid-up nonforfeiture benefit, if any, available under the policy on each policy anniversary either during the first twenty policy years or during the term of the policy, whichever is shorter, such values and benefits to be calculated upon the assumption that there are no dividends or paid-up additions credited to the policy and that there is no indebtedness to the company on the policy.

(5-a) In the case of policies which provide for the crediting of additional amounts pursuant to subsection (b) of section four thousand two hundred thirty-two of this article and which provide for surrender charges in accordance with subsection (n-1) of this section, a statement as to any charges that will be imposed upon surrender of the policy.

(5-b) In the case of policies that provide for the adjustment of any cash surrender values in accordance with a market-value adjustment formula, a statement as to the times (which shall not be less frequently than once every ten years after issuance of the policy) on which cash surrender values will be determined without the use of such a formula.

(6) A statement that the cash surrender values and the paid-up nonforfeiture benefits available under the policy are not less than the minimum values and benefits required by any statute of the state in which the policy is delivered; an explanation of the manner in which the cash surrender values and the paid-up nonforfeiture benefits are altered by the existence of any paid-up additions credited to the policy or any indebtedness to the company on the policy; if a detailed statement of the method of computation of the values and benefits shown in the policy is not stated therein, a statement that such method of computation has been filed with the insurance supervisory official of the state in which the policy is delivered; and a statement of the method to be used in calculating the cash surrender value and paid-up nonforfeiture benefit available under the policy on any policy anniversary beyond the last anniversary for which such values and benefits are consecutively shown in the policy.

(7) That the company shall deliver at issue to each holder of a policy under which additional amounts may be credited pursuant to subsection (b) of section four thousand two hundred thirty-two of this article, or under which cash surrender values and policy loan values are adjusted in accordance with a market-value adjustment formula, a statement containing such information as the superintendent prescribes, and shall mail to each such holder at least once each policy year or within sixty days after the end of a policy year a statement as of a date during such year as to the death benefit, cash surrender value and loan value under the policy (and any amount by which such cash surrender value and loan value were adjusted in accordance with a market-value adjustment formula) on such date as well as such further information as the superintendent requires. The statement shall be addressed to the last post-office address of the policyholder known to the company.

(8) Any of the foregoing provisions or portions of this subsection not applicable by reason of the plan of insurance may, to the extent inapplicable, be omitted from the policy.

The company shall reserve the right to defer the payment of any cash surrender value for a period of six months after demand therefor with surrender of the policy.

(b) (1) In the case of contracts issued on or after the operative date of this section as defined in subsection (p) hereof and prior to the operative date of section four thousand two hundred twenty-three of this article, no contract of annuity or pure endowment, except as stated in subsection (o) hereof, shall be delivered or issued for delivery in this state unless it contains in substance the following provisions, or corresponding provisions which in the opinion of the superintendent are at least as favorable to the defaulting or surrendering contract holder:

(A) That in the event of default in any stipulated payment the company will grant a paid-up nonforfeiture benefit on a plan stipulated in the contract, effective as of such due date, of such value as may be hereinafter specified.

(B) A statement of the mortality table, if any, and interest rate used in calculating the paid-up nonforfeiture benefits available under the contract, together with a table showing either the cash surrender value or the paid-up nonforfeiture benefit, if any, available on each anniversary of the contract either during the first twenty contract years or during the term of stipulated payments, whichever is shorter, such benefits to be calculated upon the assumption that there are no dividends or paid-up additions credited to the contract and that there is no indebtedness to the company on the contract.

(C) A statement that the paid-up nonforfeiture benefits available under the contract are not less than the minimum benefits required by any statute of the state in which the contract is delivered; an explanation of the manner in which the paid-up nonforfeiture benefits are altered by the existence of any paid-up additions credited to the contract or any indebtedness to the company on the contract; if a detailed statement of the method of computation of the benefits shown in the contract is not stated therein, a statement that such method of computation has been filed with the insurance supervisory official of the state in which the contract is delivered; and a statement of the method to be used in calculating the paid-up nonforfeiture benefit available under the contract on any contract anniversary beyond the last anniversary for which such benefits are consecutively shown in the contract.

If a company shall provide for the payment of a cash surrender value, it shall reserve the right to defer the payment of such value for a period of six months after demand therefor with surrender of the contract.

(2) Notwithstanding the requirements of this subsection, any deferred annuity contract may provide that if the annuity allowed under any paid-up nonforfeiture benefit would be less than sixty dollars annually, the company may at its option grant a cash surrender value in lieu of such paid-up nonforfeiture benefit of such amount as may be required by subsection (f) hereof.

(c) (1) Any cash surrender value available under any policy referred to in subsection (a) hereof, in the event of default in a premium payment due on any policy anniversary, whether or not required by such subsection, shall be an amount not less than the excess, if any, of the present value, on such anniversary, of the future guaranteed benefits which would have been provided for by the policy, including any existing paid-up additions, if there had been no default, over the sum of (i) the then present value of the adjusted premiums as defined in subsections (g), (h), (i) and (k) hereof, corresponding to premiums which would have fallen due on and after such anniversary, and (ii) the amount of any indebtedness to the company on the policy, including interest due or accrued.

(2) In the case of any policy issued on or after the operative date of subsection (k) hereof, which provides supplemental life insurance or annuity benefits at the option of the insured and for an identifiable additional premium by rider or supplemental policy provision, the cash surrender value referred to in paragraph one of this subsection shall be in an amount not less than the sum of the cash surrender value as defined in such paragraph for an otherwise similar policy issued at the same age without such rider or supplemental policy provision, the cash surrender value as defined in such paragraph for a policy which provides only the supplemental life insurance benefits otherwise provided by such rider or supplemental policy provision, and the cash surrender value as defined in section four thousand two hundred twenty-three of this article for a contract which provides only the supplemental annuity benefits otherwise provided by such rider or supplemental policy provision.

(3) In the case of any family policy issued on or after the operative date of subsection (k) hereof as defined therein, which defines a primary insured and provides term insurance on the life of the spouse of the primary insured expiring before the spouse's age seventy-one, the cash surrender value referred to in paragraph one of this subsection shall be an amount not less than the sum of the cash surrender value as defined in such paragraph for an otherwise similar policy issued at the same age without such term insurance on the life of the spouse and the cash surrender value as defined in such paragraph for a policy which provides only the benefits otherwise provided by such term insurance on the life of the spouse.

(4) Any cash surrender value available within thirty days after any policy anniversary under any such policy paid up by completion of all premium payments or any such policy continued under any paid-up nonforfeiture benefit, whether or not required by subsection (a) hereof, shall be an amount not less than the present value, on such anniversary, of the future guaranteed benefits provided for by the policy, including any existing paid-up additions, decreased by any indebtedness to the company on the policy, including interest due or accrued.

(5) Every company must provide, to any policyowner who so requests in writing, within twenty business days from the date the written request is received by the company, a statement of the cash surrender value of the policy.

(d) Any paid-up nonforfeiture benefit available under any policy referred to in subsection (a) hereof, in the event of default in a premium payment due on any policy anniversary shall be such that its present value as of such anniversary shall be at least equal to the cash surrender value then provided for by the policy or, if none is provided for, that cash surrender value which would have been required by this section in the absence of the condition that premiums shall have been paid for at least a specified period.

(e) (1) Any paid-up nonforfeiture benefit available under any annuity or pure endowment contract referred to in subsection (b) hereof, in the event of default in a stipulated payment due on any contract anniversary shall be such that its present value as of such anniversary shall be not less than the excess, if any, of the present value, on such anniversary, of the future guaranteed benefits which would have been provided for by the contract, including any existing paid-up additions, if there had been no default, over the sum of (i) the then present value of the adjusted stipulated payments defined in subsection (g) hereof corresponding to stipulated payments which would have fallen due on and after such anniversary, and (ii) the amount of any indebtedness to the company on the contract, including interest due or accrued.

(2) In determining the benefits referred to in paragraph one hereof and in calculating the adjusted stipulated payments referred to in subsection (g) hereof, in the case of annuity contracts under which an election may be made to have annuity payments commence at optional dates, the annuity payments shall be deemed to commence at a date which shall be the latest permitted by the contract for the commencement of such payments but not later than the contract anniversary nearest the annuitant's seventieth birthday or the tenth anniversary of the contract, whichever is later; and the stipulated payments shall be deemed to be payable for the longest period during which they would be payable if election were made to have the annuity payments commence at such date.

(f) Any cash surrender value allowed by any annuity or pure endowment contract referred to in subsection (b) hereof and the present value, under any optional provision, of future benefits commencing on the due date of the stipulated payment in default shall each be at least equal to the then present value of the minimum paid-up nonforfeiture benefit required by subsection (e) hereof.

(g) (1) This subsection shall not apply to policies issued on or after the operative date of subsection (k) as defined herein.

(2) Except as provided in paragraph four hereof, the adjusted premiums for any policy referred to in subsection (a) hereof shall be calculated on an annual basis and shall be such uniform percentage of the respective premiums specified in the policy for each policy year, excluding amounts stated in the policy as extra premiums to cover impairments or special hazards, that the present value, at the date of issue of the policy, of all such adjusted premiums shall be equal to the sum of (i) the then present value of the future guaranteed benefits provided for by the policy; (ii) two percent of the amount of insurance, if the insurance be uniform in amount, or of the equivalent uniform amount, as hereinafter defined, if the amount of insurance varies with duration of the policy; (iii) forty percent of the adjusted premium for the first policy year; (iv) twenty-five percent of either the adjusted premium for the first policy year or the adjusted premium for a whole life policy of the same uniform or equivalent uniform amount with uniform premiums for the whole of life issued at the same age for the same amount of insurance, whichever is less. Provided, however, that in applying the percentages specified in items (iii) and (iv) hereof, no adjusted premium shall be deemed to exceed four percent of the amount of insurance or uniform amount equivalent thereto. The date of issue of a policy for the purpose of this subsection shall be the date as of which the rated age of the insured is determined.

(3) In the case of a policy providing an amount of insurance varying with duration of the policy, the equivalent uniform amount thereof for the purpose of this subsection shall be deemed to be the uniform amount of insurance provided by an otherwise similar policy, containing the same endowment benefit or benefits, if any, issued at the same age and for the same term, the amount of which does not vary with duration and the benefits under which have the same present value at the date of issue as the benefits under the policy, provided, however, that in the case of a policy providing a varying amount of insurance (including policies in which the death benefit prior to a date specified in the policy does not exceed the premiums paid with interest, or the cash value of the policy if greater) issued on the life of a child under age ten, the equivalent uniform amount of insurance shall be calculated as though the amount of insurance provided by the policy prior to the attainment of age ten were the amount provided by such policy at age ten.

(4) The adjusted premiums for any policy providing term insurance benefits by rider or supplemental policy provision shall be equal to (i) the adjusted premiums for an otherwise similar policy issued at the same age without such term insurance benefits, increased, during the period for which premiums for such term insurance benefits are payable, by (ii) the adjusted premiums for such term insurance, the foregoing items (i) and (ii) being calculated separately and as specified in paragraphs two and three hereof except that, for the purposes of items (ii), (iii) and (iv) of paragraph two hereof, the amount of insurance or equivalent uniform amount of insurance used in the calculation of the adjusted premiums referred to in item (ii) of this paragraph shall be equal to the excess of the corresponding amount determined for the entire policy over the amount used in the calculation of the adjusted premiums in item (i) of this paragraph.

(5) The adjusted stipulated payments for any annuity or pure endowment contract referred to in subsection (b) hereof shall be calculated on an annual basis and shall be such uniform percentage of the respective stipulated payments specified in the contract for each contract year that the present value, at the date of issue of the contract, of all such adjusted stipulated payments shall be equal to the sum of (i) the then present value of the future guaranteed benefits provided for by the contract; (ii) twenty percent of the adjusted stipulated payment for the first contract year; and (iii) two percent of the adjusted stipulated payment for the first contract year for each year not exceeding twenty during which stipulated payments are payable.

(6) Except as otherwise provided in subsections (h), (i) and (j) hereof, all adjusted premiums, adjusted stipulated payments, and present values referred to in this section shall be calculated on the basis of (i) the rate of interest, not exceeding three and one-half percent per annum, specified in the policy or contract for calculating cash surrender values, if any, and paid-up nonforfeiture benefits; and (ii) a mortality table which shall be: for ordinary insurance, the Commissioners' 1941 Standard Ordinary Mortality Table, provided that for any category of ordinary insurance issued on female risks, adjusted premiums and present values may be calculated according to an age not more than three years younger than the actual age of the insured; for industrial insurance, the 1941 Standard Industrial Mortality Table; for annuity and pure endowment contracts, either the 1937 Standard Annuity Mortality Table, the Annuity Mortality Table for 1949 Ultimate, any modification of either of these tables approved by the superintendent or any other table approved by the superintendent. Provided, however, that in calculating the present value of any paid-up term insurance with accompanying pure endowment, if any, offered as a nonforfeiture benefit, the rates of mortality assumed may be not more than one hundred and thirty percent of the rates of mortality according to such applicable table. Provided, further, that for insurance issued on a substandard basis, the calculation of any such adjusted premiums and present values may be based on such other table of mortality as may be specified by the company and approved by the superintendent.

(h) (1) This subsection shall not apply to ordinary policies issued on or after the operative date of subsection (k) hereof.

(2) In the case of ordinary policies issued on or after the operative date of this subsection, all adjusted premiums and present values shall be calculated on the basis of the Commissioners 1958 Standard Ordinary Mortality Table and the rate of interest specified in the policy for calculating cash surrender values and paid-up nonforfeiture benefits not exceeding three and one-half percent per annum except that four percent per annum may be used for policies issued on or after June thirteenth, nineteen hundred seventy-four and prior to January first, nineteen hundred seventy-nine, and a rate of interest not exceeding five and one-half percent per annum may be used for policies issued on or after

January first, nineteen hundred seventy-nine, provided that for any category of ordinary insurance issued on female risks, adjusted premiums and present values may be calculated according to an age not more than six years younger than the actual age of the insured; provided, however, that in calculating the present value of any paid-up term insurance with accompanying pure endowment, if any, offered as a nonforfeiture benefit, the rates of mortality assumed may be not more than those shown in the Commissioners 1958 Extended Term Insurance Table. Provided, further, that for insurance issued on a substandard basis, the calculation of any such adjusted premiums and present values may be based on such other table of mortality as may be specified by the company and approved by the superintendent.

(3) Any company may file with the superintendent a written notice of its election to comply with the provisions of this subsection after a specified date before January first, nineteen hundred sixty-six. After the filing of such notice, then upon such specified date (which shall be the operative date of this subsection for such company), this subsection shall become operative with respect to the ordinary policies thereafter issued by such company. If a company makes no such election, the operative date of this subsection for such company shall be January first, nineteen hundred sixty-six.

(i) (1) In the case of industrial policies issued on or after the operative date of this subsection, all adjusted premiums and present values shall be calculated on the basis of the Commissioners 1961 Standard Industrial Mortality Table and the rate of interest specified in the policy for calculating cash surrender values and paid-up nonforfeiture benefits not exceeding three and one-half percent per annum except that four percent per annum may be used for policies issued on or after June thirteenth, nineteen hundred seventy-four and prior to January first, nineteen hundred seventy-nine and a rate of interest not exceeding five and one-half percent per annum may be used for policies issued on or after January first, nineteen hundred seventy-nine; provided, however, that in calculating the present value of any paid-up term insurance with accompanying pure endowment, if any, offered as a nonforfeiture benefit, the rates of mortality assumed may be not more than those shown in the Commissioners 1961 Industrial Extended Term Insurance Table. Provided, further, that for insurance issued on a substandard basis, the calculation of any such adjusted premiums and present values may be based on such other table of mortality as may be specified by the company and approved by the superintendent.

(2) Any company may file with the superintendent a written notice of its election to comply with the provisions of this subsection after a specified date before January first, nineteen hundred and sixty-eight. After the filing of such notice, then upon such specified date (which shall be the operative date of this subsection for such company), this subsection shall become operative with respect to the industrial policies thereafter issued by such company. If a company makes no such election, the operative date of this subsection for such company shall be January first, nineteen hundred and sixty-eight.

(j) In the case of individual annuity and pure endowment contracts issued on or after the operative date of paragraph three of subsection (c) of section four thousand two hundred seventeen of this article, and prior to the operative date of section four thousand two hundred twenty-three of this article, all adjusted stipulated payments and present values referred to in this section shall be calculated on the basis of the Annuity Mortality Table for 1949, Ultimate, or any modification of this table approved by the superintendent, and the rate of interest not exceeding four percent per annum, specified in the contract for calculating cash surrender values, if any, and paid-up nonforfeiture benefits, except that, if such rate of interest exceeds three and one-half percent per annum, there shall be substituted for such mortality table the 1971 Individual Annuity Mortality Table, or any modification of this table approved by the superintendent.

(k) (1) This subsection shall apply to all policies issued on or after the operative date as defined in this subsection.

(2) Except as provided in paragraph eight of this subsection, the adjusted premiums for any policy shall be calculated on an annual basis and shall be such uniform percentage of the respective premiums specified in the policy for each policy year, excluding amounts payable as extra premiums to cover impairments or special hazards and also excluding any uniform annual contract charge or policy fee specified in the policy in a statement of the method to be used in calculating the cash surrender values and paid-up nonforfeiture benefits, that the present value, at the date of issue of the policy, of all adjusted premiums shall be equal to the sum of (i) the then present value of the future guaranteed benefits provided for by the policy; (ii) one percent of either the amount of insurance, if the insurance be uniform in amount, or the average amount of insurance at the beginning of each of the first ten policy years; and (iii) one hundred twenty-five percent of the nonforfeiture net level premium as hereinafter defined. Provided, however, that in applying the percentage specified in (iii) above no nonforfeiture net level premium shall be deemed to exceed four percent of either the amount of insurance, if the insurance be uniform in amount, or the average amount of insurance at the beginning of each of the first ten policy years. The date of issue of a policy for the purpose of this subsection shall be the date as of which the rated age of the insured is determined.

(3) The nonforfeiture net level premium shall be equal to the present value, at the date of issue of the policy, of the guaranteed benefits provided for by the policy divided by the present value, at the date of issue of the policy, of an annuity of one per annum payable on the date of issue of the policy and on each anniversary of such policy on which a premium falls due.

(4) In the case of policies which cause on a basis guaranteed in the policy unscheduled changes in benefits or premiums, or which provide an option for changes in benefits or premiums other than a change to a new policy, the adjusted premiums and present values shall initially be calculated on the assumption that future benefits and premiums do not change from those stipulated at the date of issue of the policy. At the time of any such change in the benefits or premiums the future adjusted premiums, nonforfeiture net level premiums and present values shall be recalculated on the assumption that future benefits and premiums do not change from those stipulated by the policy immediately after the change.

(5) Except as otherwise provided in paragraph eight of this subsection, the recalculated future adjusted premiums for any such policy shall be such uniform percentage of the respective future premiums specified in the policy for each policy year, excluding amounts payable as extra premiums to cover impairments and special hazards, and also excluding any uniform annual contract charge or policy fee specified in the policy in a statement of the method to be used in calculating the cash surrender values and paid-up nonforfeiture benefits, that the present value, at the time of change to the newly defined benefits or premiums, of all such future adjusted premiums shall be equal to the excess of

(A) the sum of

(i) the then present value of the then future guaranteed benefits provided for by the policy and

(ii) the additional expense allowance, if any, over

(B) the then cash surrender value, if any, or present value of any paid-up nonforfeiture benefit under the policy.

(6) The additional expense allowance, at the time of the change to the newly defined benefits or premiums, shall be the sum of (i) one percent of the excess, if positive, of the average amount of insurance at the beginning of each of the first ten policy years subsequent to the change over the average amount of insurance prior to the change at the beginning of each of the first ten policy years subsequent to the time of the most recent previous change, or, if there has been no previous change, the date of issue of the policy; and (ii) one hundred twenty-five percent of the increase, if positive, in the nonforfeiture net level premium.

(7) The recalculated nonforfeiture net level premium shall be equal to the result obtained by dividing subparagraph (A) by subparagraph (B) hereof where:

(A) equals the sum of

(i) the nonforfeiture net level premium applicable prior to the change times the present value of an annuity of one per annum payable on each anniversary of the policy on or subsequent to the date of the change on which a premium would have fallen due had the change not occurred, and

(ii) the present value of the increase in future guaranteed benefits provided for by the policy, and

(B) equals the present value of an annuity of one per annum payable on each anniversary of the policy on or subsequent to the date of change on which a premium falls due.

(8) Notwithstanding any other provision of this subsection to the contrary, in the case of a policy issued on a substandard basis which provides reduced graded amounts of insurance so that, in each policy year, such policy has the same tabular mortality cost as an otherwise similar policy issued on the standard basis which provides higher uniform amounts of insurance, adjusted premiums and present values for such substandard policy may be calculated as if it were issued to provide such higher uniform amounts of insurance on the standard basis.

(9) All adjusted premiums and present values referred to in this section shall for all policies of ordinary insurance be calculated on the basis of

(A) the Commissioners 1980 Standard Ordinary Mortality Table, or

(B) at the election of the company for any one or more specified plans of life insurance, the Commissioners 1980 Standard Ordinary Mortality Table with Ten-Year Select Mortality Factors; and shall for all policies issued in a particular calendar year be calculated on the basis of a rate of interest not exceeding the nonforfeiture interest rate as defined in this subsection for policies issued in that calendar year. Provided, however, that:

(i) At the option of the company, calculations for all policies issued in a particular calendar year may be made on the basis of a rate of interest not exceeding the nonforfeiture interest rate, as defined in this subsection, for policies issued in the immediately preceding calendar year.

(ii) Under any paid-up nonforfeiture benefit, including any paid-up dividend additions, any cash surrender value available, whether or not required by subsection (a) hereof, shall be calculated on the basis of the mortality table and rate of interest used in determining the amount of such paid-up nonforfeiture benefit and paid-up dividend additions, if any.

(iii) A company may calculate the amount of any guaranteed paid-up nonforfeiture benefit including any paid-up additions under the policy on the basis of an interest rate no lower than that specified in the policy for calculating cash surrender values.

(iv) In calculating the present value of any paid-up term insurance with accompanying pure endowment, if any, offered as a nonforfeiture benefit, the rates of mortality assumed may be not more than those shown in the Commissioners 1980 Extended Term Insurance Table.

(v) For insurance issued on a substandard basis, the calculation of any such adjusted premiums and present values may be based on appropriate modifications of the aforementioned tables.

(vi) Any ordinary mortality tables, adopted after nineteen hundred eighty by the National Association of Insurance Commissioners (or any modifications thereof for any specified class or classes of risks), that are approved by the superintendent for use in determining the minimum nonforfeiture standard may be substituted for the Commissioners 1980 Standard Ordinary Mortality Table with or without Ten-Year Select Mortality Factors or for the Commissioners 1980 Extended Term Insurance Table.

(10) The nonforfeiture interest rate per annum for any policy issued in a particular calendar year shall be equal to one hundred and twenty-five percent of the calendar year statutory valuation interest rate for such policy as defined in section four thousand two hundred seventeen of this article rounded to the nearer one quarter of one percent, computed, with respect to a single premium life insurance policy of the kind referred to in item (vi) of subparagraph (B) of paragraph four of subsection (c) of such section, on a year of issue basis by using a reference interest rate defined for such policy in subparagraph (F) of such paragraph for the year immediately preceding the year of issue on the assumption that the company has submitted an opinion and memorandum, in form and substance satisfactory to the superintendent, of a qualified actuary with respect to such single premium life insurance policies in accordance with item (vi) of subparagraph (B) of such paragraph.

(11) Notwithstanding any other provision in this chapter to the contrary, any refiling of nonforfeiture values or their methods of computation for any previously approved policy form which involves only a change in the interest rate or mortality table used to compute nonforfeiture values shall not require refiling of any other provisions of that policy form.

(12) After May twenty-fourth, nineteen hundred eighty-two, any company may file with the superintendent a written notice of its election to comply, with respect to any plan of insurance, with the provisions of this subsection after a specified date before January first, nineteen hundred eighty-nine, which shall be the operative date of this subsection for that plan of insurance for such company; the operative dates of this subsection for other plans of insurance for such company shall be any dates not later than January first of the third subsequent calendar year, but in no event later than January first, nineteen hundred eighty-nine. If a company makes no such election with respect to any plan of insurance, the operative date of this subsection for such company shall be January first, nineteen hundred eighty-nine.

(l) In the case of any plan of life insurance which provides for future premium determination, the amounts of which are to be determined by the insurance company based on then estimates of future experience, or in the case of any plan of life insurance which is of such a nature that minimum values cannot be determined by the methods described in subsection (a), (c), (d), (g), (h), (i) or (k) of this section, then:

(1) the superintendent must be satisfied that the benefits provided under the plan are substantially as favorable to policyholders and insureds as the minimum benefits otherwise required by subsection (a), (c), (d), (g), (h), (i) or (k) hereof;

(2) the superintendent must be satisfied that the benefits and the pattern of premiums of that plan are not such as to mislead prospective policyholders or insureds;

(3) the cash surrender values and paid-up nonforfeiture benefits provided by such plan must not be less than the minimum values and benefits required for the plan computed by a method consistent with the principles of this section, as determined by the superintendent.

(m) (1) Any cash surrender value and any paid-up nonforfeiture benefit, available under any such policy or contract in the event of default in the payment of any premium or stipulated payment due at any time other than on the policy or contract anniversary, shall be calculated with allowance for the lapse of time and the payment of fractional premiums or stipulated payments beyond the beginning of the policy or contract year in which the default occurs.

(2) All values referred to in subsections (c) through (k) hereof, may be calculated upon the assumption that any death benefit is payable at the end of the policy or contract year of death.

(3) Notwithstanding the provisions of subsections (c) and (e) hereof, additional benefits payable (i) in the event of death or dismemberment by accident, (ii) in the event of total and permanent disability, (iii) as reversionary annuity or deferred reversionary annuity benefits, (iv) as term insurance benefits provided by a rider or supplemental policy provision to which, if issued as a separate policy, this section would not apply, (v) as term insurance on the life of a child or on the lives of children provided in a policy on the life of a parent of the child, if such term insurance expires before the child's age is twenty-six, is uniform in amount after the child's age is one, and has not become paid-up by reason of the death of a parent of the child and (vi) as other policy benefits additional to life insurance, endowment, and annuity benefits, and premiums for all such additional benefits, shall be disregarded in ascertaining cash surrender values and nonforfeiture benefits required by this section, and no such additional benefits shall be required to be included in any paid-up nonforfeiture benefits.

(n) (1) This subsection, in addition to all other applicable provisions of this section, shall apply to all policies issued on or after January first, nineteen hundred eighty-six.

(2) Any cash surrender value available under the policy in the event of default in a premium payment due on any policy anniversary shall be in an amount which does not differ by more than two-tenths of one percent of either the amount of insurance, if the insurance be uniform in amount, or the average amount of insurance at the beginning of each of the first ten policy years, from the sum of (i) the greater of zero and the basic cash value hereinafter specified and (ii) the present value of any existing paid-up additions less the amount of any indebtedness to the company under the policy.

(3) The basic cash value shall be equal to the present value, on such anniversary, of the future guaranteed benefits which would have been provided for by the policy, excluding any existing paid-up additions and before deduction of any indebtedness to the company, if there had been no default, less the then present value of the nonforfeiture factors, as hereinafter defined, corresponding to premiums which would have fallen due on and after such anniversary. Provided, however, that the effects on the basic cash value of supplemental life insurance or annuity benefits or of family coverage, as described in subsection (c) or (g) hereof, whichever is applicable, shall be the same as are the effects specified in such subsection, whichever is applicable, on the cash surrender values defined in that subsection.

(4) The nonforfeiture factor for each policy year shall be an amount equal to a percentage of the adjusted premium for the policy year, as defined in subsection (g) or (k) hereof, whichever is applicable. Except as is required by the next succeeding sentence of this paragraph, such percentage:

(A) must be the same percentage for each policy year between the second policy anniversary and the later of (i) the fifth policy anniversary and (ii) the first policy anniversary at which there is available under the policy a cash surrender value in an amount, before including any paid-up additions and before deducting any indebtedness, of at least two-tenths of one percent of either the amount of insurance, if the insurance be uniform in amount, or the average amount of insurance at the beginning of each of the first ten policy years; and

(B) must be such that no percentage after the later of the two policy anniversaries specified in subparagraph (A) hereof may apply to fewer than five consecutive policy years.

Provided, that no basic cash value may be less than the value which would be obtained if the adjusted premiums for the policy, as defined in subsection (g) or (k) hereof, whichever is applicable, were substituted for the nonforfeiture factors in the calculation of the basic cash value.

(5) All adjusted premiums and present values referred to in this subsection shall for a particular policy be calculated on the same mortality and interest bases as are used in demonstrating the policy's compliance with the other subsections of this section.

(6) (A) The cash surrender values referred to in this subsection shall include any endowment benefits provided for by the policy.

(B) Any cash surrender value available other than in the event of default in a premium payment due on a policy anniversary, and the amount of any paid-up nonforfeiture benefit available under the policy in the event of default in a premium payment shall be determined in manners consistent with the manners specified for determining the analogous minimum amounts in subsections (a), (c), (d), (k) and (m) hereof.

(C) The amounts of any cash surrender values and of any paid-up nonforfeiture benefits granted in connection with additional benefits such as those listed as items (i) through (vi) in paragraph three of subsection (m) hereof shall conform with the principles of this subsection.

(n-1) (1) Notwithstanding any other provision in this section, any policy that meets the requirements of this subsection shall be deemed to provide the minimum nonforfeiture benefits and cash surrender values required by this section. Any policy which is issued by a company after the operative date of this subsection for the company and under which additional amounts may be credited pursuant to subsection (b) of section four thousand two hundred thirty-two of this article must meet the requirements of this subsection.

(2) In this subsection,

(A) "Policy value" means an amount equal to gross premiums paid under a policy (excluding separately identified premiums for riders or supplementary benefits that are not credited to the policy value) plus interest credited less the amount of any partial withdrawals and the following charges as specified in the policy: (i) expense charges, (ii) benefits charges, (iii) service charges, and (iv) partial surrender charges.

(B) "Benefit charges" means mortality charges made for life insurance on the insured person or persons and any charges made for riders or supplementary benefits.

(C) "Service charges" means charges for the cost of transactions requested by the policyowner such as partial withdrawals and benefit illustrations. Transactional charges made under mandatory policy provisions shall not be assessed unless specifically permitted by law or regulation for such transactions.

(D) "Expense charges" means charges (other than service charges) deducted from gross premiums before premiums are credited to the policy value or otherwise deducted from the policy value.

(E) "Excess first year expense charges" means the greatest amount by which (x) can exceed (y) based, for stipulated premium policies, on the premiums set forth in the policy and, for other policies, on the assumption that any premium (other than a single premium) payable in the first policy year is also payable during the entire premium paying period, where

(x) is the amount of the expense charges made in the first policy year and

(y) is the arithmetic average of the corresponding charges which the policy states would be imposed in policy years two through twenty or the premium paying period, if shorter.

(F) "Excess expense charges for a face amount increase" means the greatest amount by which (x) can exceed (y) based, for stipulated premium policies, on the premiums set forth in the policy and, for other policies, on the assumption that the net level whole life annual premium for the increase applies throughout the remaining premium paying period, where

(x) is the amount of the expense charges attributable to an increase in face amount of insurance in the first policy year of the increase, and

(y) is the arithmetic average of the corresponding charges attributable to the increase which the policy states would be imposed in the nineteen policy years following the increase or the premium paying period, if shorter.

(G) "Interest credited" means the amount of interest credited to the policy value but, with respect to policies meeting the requirements of subparagraph (A) of paragraph three of this subsection, not less than three percent in any year.

(H) "Net level whole life annual premium at issue" means an annual premium based on face amounts of insurance set forth in the policy and on the assumption of level annual premiums for life, the mortality table rate used to calculate the maximum mortality charges (but not greater than that permitted under item (iv) of subparagraph (A) of paragraph three of this subsection) and an interest rate based on the rate specified in the policy but not less than the lesser of four percent and the nonforfeiture interest rate per annum pursuant to paragraph ten of subsection (k) of this section.

(I) "Net level whole life annual premium for an increase in the face amount of insurance" means an additional annual premium for an increase in the face amount of insurance determined as of the date of the increase in accordance with subparagraph (H) of this paragraph as though such increase were a separate policy.

(J) "Increase in face amount of insurance" means an increase in the schedule of face amounts of insurance provided for in the policy and made at the request of the policyholder and shall not include increases in face amount resulting from a change in the death benefit option or changes in death benefit pursuant to policy terms that do not affect the face amount.

(K) "Surrender charge" means a deferred charge made to the policy value in the event of a full or partial surrender of the policy, reduction in the face amount of insurance or premium, or a default in a premium payment.

(L) "Cash surrender value" means an amount equal to the policy value less any surrender charge, before reduction for outstanding loans or other amounts due under the policy.

(M) "Deferred first year expense charge", at issue or for an increase in the face amount of insurance, means any portion of the allowable first year expense charge that is not deducted from premiums or charged to the policy value in the year of issue, or in the policy year of a face amount increase, but deferred and charged to the policy value in subsequent years.

(N) "Consumer price ratio" means the ratio (not to exceed two) of (x) the consumer price index (for all urban households) for the September preceding the policy year in which the ratio is being applied to (y) the consumer price index for September, nineteen hundred eighty-five.

(3) A policy that meets the requirements of this subsection must provide for cash surrender values that meet the requirements of either subparagraph (A) or subparagraph (B) and comply with the provisions of subparagraphs (C) and (D) of this paragraph.

(A) Cash surrender values shall be deemed to meet the requirements of this subparagraph, if the following conditions are met:

(i) Expense charges for any policy year shall not exceed the following:

(I) ninety percent of premiums received up to the net level whole life annual premium at issue (regardless of when received),

(II) ten percent of all other premiums received,

(III) ninety percent of any net level whole life annual premium for increases in the face amount of insurance (including increases offsetting previous decreases),

(IV) ten dollars per one thousand dollars of initial face amount in the first policy year,

(V) one dollar per one thousand dollars of the first one hundred thousand dollars of face amount in subsequent policy years,

(VI) ten dollars per one thousand dollars of any increase in the face amount of insurance in the year of increase (including increases offsetting previous decreases),

(VII) a charge per policy in the first policy year equal to the product of one hundred fifty dollars and the consumer price ratio, and

(VIII) in policy years after the first, a charge per policy per month equal to the product of five dollars and the consumer price ratio.

(ii) Any surrender charge provided in the policy shall be such that the initial surrender charge together with the expense charges made in the first policy year (and on premiums up to the net level whole life annual premium if received after the first year) do not exceed the sum of the amounts determined in accordance with clauses (I) and (II) (for premiums received in the first year) and clauses (IV) and (VII) of item (i) of this subparagraph. The surrender charge at any time shall not be greater than the difference between the maximum initial surrender charge permitted under this subparagraph and the sum of all the deferred expense charges made up to that time. Any additional surrender charges that are imposed in connection with an increase in face amount of the policy shall be such that such additional charges together with any expense charges made in connection with such increase do not exceed the sum of the amounts determined in accordance with clauses (III) and (VI) of item (i) of this subparagraph.

(iii) Deferred first year expense charges shall be such that: (I) the charge for any one year shall not exceed the maximum allowable surrender charge for that year, and (II) the total of all such charges at any time plus the surrender charge at that time shall not exceed the maximum initial surrender charge. Any deferred first year expense charge imposed with respect to an increase in the face amount of insurance shall be subject to comparable limitations.

(iv) A policy meeting the requirements of this subparagraph if issued before the operative date of subsection (k) of this section may not impose mortality charges in excess of those based on the commissioners 1958 standard ordinary mortality table in the case of a standard medically underwritten insured or the commissioners 1958 extended term insurance table in the case of any other standard insured, and if issued on or after such operative date may not impose mortality charges in excess of those based on the commissioners 1980 standard ordinary mortality table in the case of a standard medically underwritten insured or the commissioners 1980 extended term insurance table in the case of any other standard insured. At the option of the company, maximum charges based on the commissioners 1980 standard ordinary mortality table may be computed using ten-year select mortality factors. Maximum charges may also be based on any other table (or modification thereof for the specified class of risk) approved by the superintendent pursuant to item (vi) of subparagraph (B) of paragraph nine of subsection (k) of this section. For insurance issued on a substandard basis, such charges may be based on appropriate modifications of such tables.

(B) Cash surrender values shall be deemed to meet the requirements of this subparagraph, if the following conditions are met:

(i) Policy values shall not be less than a minimum policy value which reflects the same transactions, the same interest credited and the same benefit charges that are reflected in the actual policy value, except that the excess first year expense charges shall not be greater than the initial expense allowance, and any excess expense charges for a face amount increase after issue shall not be greater than the increase expense allowance. For purposes of this item, the initial expense allowance shall be (I) the lesser of (aa) one hundred twenty-five percent of the net level whole life annual premium at issue and (bb) four percent of the average face amount of insurance provided under the policy during the first ten policy years plus (II) one percent of such average face amount, and the increase expense allowance shall be (I) the lesser of (aa) one hundred twenty-five percent of the net level whole life annual premium for an increase in the face amount of insurance and (bb) four percent of the average increase in face amount of insurance over a period of ten policy years (excluding any increases previously taken into account in determining an expense allowance under this item) plus (II) one percent of any such average increase.

(ii) Any surrender charge provided in the policy shall be such that the initial surrender charge together with any excess first year expense charges do not exceed the initial expense allowance. Any additional surrender charges that are imposed in connection with an increase in face amount shall be such that any such additional charge together with any excess expense charges made in connection with such increase do not exceed the increase expense allowance.

(iii) The policy shall provide that at least once each policy year the policyholder has the option to apply the portion of the cash surrender value necessary to provide an amount of guaranteed paid-up life insurance at least as great as the lesser of (I) and (II), where (I) is the amount of paid-up life insurance provided by applying the cash surrender value to provide such paid-up insurance, computed on the basis of an interest rate (not less than the lesser of (aa) four percent and (bb) the nonforfeiture interest rate per annum pursuant to paragraph ten of subsection (k) of this section minus one percent) guaranteed in the policy for this purpose, and a mortality basis (not less favorable to the policyholder than the mortality basis specified for an insured not medically underwritten in item (iv) of subparagraph (A) of this paragraph) guaranteed in the policy for this purpose, and (II) is the amount of paid-up life insurance such that the amount at risk on the paid-up insurance is the same as the amount at risk under the policy. If the option is elected, the portion of the cash surrender value not applied to provide the paid-up life insurance shall be paid to the policyholder. The guaranteed paid-up life insurance benefit may be provided under the policy or by means of a separate single premium life insurance policy issued by the company or an affiliate or subsidiary thereof. For purposes of this item, the term "cash surrender value" is after reduction for outstanding loans or other amounts due under the policy.

(C) The surrender charge in policy years after the first shall not exceed the maximum initial surrender charge permitted under this subsection multiplied by the ratio of (i) the value of a life annuity due of one dollar per year for the balance of the amortization period to (ii) the corresponding annuity value at issue, based on the mortality table and interest rate used in calculating the net level whole life annual premiums. For all policies the maximum amortization period is twenty years.

(D) Any surrender charge that is imposed on an increase in premium payments under a policy meeting the requirements of this subsection that does not result in any increase in face amount of the policy shall not exceed the difference between (I) the maximum initial surrender charge computed on the assumption that premiums were paid at the increased rate from the date of issuance of the policy and (II) the maximum initial surrender charge permitted under this subsection.

(4) The superintendent may issue regulations to implement this subsection.

(5) The operative date of this subsection for a company shall be January first, nineteen hundred eighty-eight, or the operative date of this act for the company, whichever is earlier.

(n-2) Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, any policy that provides for the crediting of additional amounts pursuant to subsection (b) of section four thousand two hundred thirty-two of this article may provide for cash surrender benefits determined in accordance with a market-value adjustment formula, provided, however, that such policy provides for cash surrender benefits determined without adjustment in accordance with such a formula at specified times (which shall not be less frequent than once every ten years after issuance of the policy). For purposes hereof, "market-value adjustment formula" means a formula which is described in the policy for increasing and decreasing cash surrender values that would otherwise meet the minimum requirements of subsection (n-1) of this section and which takes into account (1) changes in interest rates on publicly-traded obligations or other investments or in interest rates provided in, or declared pursuant to, policies of the same class as the policy being surrendered and (2) the length of time between the date on which the policy is surrendered and the next date on which the policy would have provided cash surrender benefits determined without the use of any market-value adjustment formula. The superintendent may promulgate reasonable regulations to define permissible forms or market-value adjustment formulae.

(o) (1) This section shall not apply to any of the following:

(A) Reinsurance.

(B) Group insurance.

(C) Group annuity contract.

(D) A single premium pure endowment or annuity contract.

(E) A reversionary annuity contract.

(F) A term policy of uniform amount, which provides no guaranteed nonforfeiture or endowment benefits, or renewal thereof, of thirty years or less expiring before age eighty-one, for which uniform premiums are payable during the entire term of the policy.

(G) A term policy of decreasing amount, which provides no guaranteed nonforfeiture or endowment benefits, on which each adjusted premium, calculated as specified in subsections (g), (h), (i) and (k) hereof, is less than the adjusted premium so calculated, on a term policy of uniform amount, or renewal thereof, which provides no guaranteed nonforfeiture or endowment benefits, issued at the same age and for the same initial amount of insurance, and for a term of twenty years or less expiring before age seventy-one, for which uniform premiums are payable during the entire term of the policy.

(H) A policy, which provides no guaranteed nonforfeiture or endowment benefits, for which no cash surrender value, if any, or present value of any paid-up nonforfeiture benefit, at the beginning of any policy year, calculated as specified in subsections (c), (d), (g), (h), (i) and (k) hereof, exceeds two and one-half percent of the amount of insurance at the beginning of the same policy year.

(I) A policy or contract delivered outside this state through an agent or other representative of the company issuing the policy or through a broker.

(2) For purposes of determining the applicability of this section, the age at expiry for a joint term life insurance policy shall be the age at expiry of the oldest life.

(p) (1) Any company may file with the superintendent a written notice of its election to comply with the provisions of this section after a specified date before January first, nineteen hundred forty-eight.

(2) After the filing of such notice, then upon such specified date (which shall be the operative date for such company), this section shall become operative with respect to the policies and contracts thereafter issued by such company. If a company makes no such election, the operative date of this section for such company shall be January first, nineteen hundred forty-eight.

(q) The provisions of this section shall not apply to any policy qualified for special tax treatment under subsection (b) of section four hundred three of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended, to the extent such application would prevent such qualification.

§ 4222. Policy loans. The policy loan value referred to in paragraph eight of subsection (a) of section three thousand two hundred three of this chapter shall be the cash surrender value at the end of the current policy year calculated in accordance with the provisions of:

(a) Subsection (a) of section four thousand two hundred twenty of this article, for policies issued before the operative date of section four thousand two hundred twenty-one of this article, except that any dividends credited to the policy need not be included and such policies may provide that the company may defer any such loan for not exceeding six months after receipt of the loan application;

(b) Section four thousand two hundred twenty-one of this article, for policies issued on or after the operative date of such section, except that the policy loan value for a policy under which any cash surrender value is adjusted in accordance with a market-value adjustment formula shall be a percentage (not less than seventy-five percent) of the sum of (1) the amount of any loan outstanding and (2) the remaining portion of the cash surrender value as so adjusted at the time the loan is applied for, but, if the policy so provides, not in excess of such cash surrender value before adjustment. The company shall reserve the right to defer any such loan, except when made to pay premiums, for six months after receipt of the loan application.

§ 4223. Standard nonforfeiture law for annuities. (a) (1) In the case of contracts issued on or after the operative date of this section, no contract of annuity, except as provided in subsection (b) of this section, shall be delivered or issued for delivery in this state unless it contains in substance the following provisions, or corresponding provisions that in the opinion of the superintendent are at least as favorable to the contract holder, upon cessation of payment of considerations under the contract.

(A) That upon cessation of payment of considerations under a contract, the company will grant a paid-up annuity benefit on a plan stipulated in the contract of such value as is specified in subsections (d), (f), (g) and (i) of this section.

(B) If a contract provides for a full or partial lump sum settlement at maturity, or at any other time, that upon full or partial surrender of the contract at the commencement of any annuity payments or prior thereto at times specified in the contract (which shall not be less frequently than once every ten years after the issuance of the contract), the company will pay in lieu of any paid-up annuity benefit a cash surrender benefit (for the portion of the contract surrendered, if the contract permits partial surrenders) in an amount meeting the requirements of paragraph one of subsection (e) of this section. The contract may provide for a cash surrender benefit on any other date or dates meeting the requirements of paragraph one or two of subsection (e) of this section. The company shall reserve the right to defer the payment of such cash surrender benefit for a period of six months after demand therefor with surrender of the contract. This subparagraph shall not apply to any contract qualified for special tax treatment under subsection (b) of section four hundred three of the Internal Revenue Code to the extent such application would prevent such qualification.

(C) A statement of the mortality table, if any, and interest rates used in calculating any minimum paid-up annuity during the period it is guaranteed, and any cash surrender or death benefits that are guaranteed under the contract, and any times at which such guaranteed benefits are payable, together with sufficient information to determine the amounts of such benefits and, if the contract provides for the determination of any cash surrender value in accordance with a market-value adjustment formula authorized by paragraph two of subsection (e) of this section, a brief description of the formula and the circumstances in which it is applied, together with a statement that a detailed description has been filed with the superintendent.

(D) A statement that any paid-up annuity, cash surrender or death benefits that may be available under the contract are not less than the minimum benefits required by any statute of the state in which the contract is delivered and an explanation of the manner in which such benefits are altered by the existence of any additional amounts credited by the company to the contract, any indebtedness to the company on the contract or any prior withdrawals from or partial surrenders of the contract.

(E) (i) Except as provided in item (ii) of this subparagraph, a statement that the annuity benefits at the time of their commencement will not be less than those that would be provided by the application of an amount, hereinafter defined, to purchase any single consideration immediate annuity contract offered by the company at the time to the same class of annuitants. For contracts that provide cash surrender benefits, such amount shall be the greater of the cash surrender benefit or ninety-five percent of what the cash surrender benefit would be if there were no withdrawal charge. For contracts that do not provide cash surrender benefits, such amount shall be the present value of the paid-up annuity benefit provided under the contract in accordance with subsection (d) of this section.

(ii) For paid-up deferred annuity contracts in which each consideration paid into the contract purchases guaranteed paid-up annuity benefits determined at the time the consideration is paid, a statement that the annuity benefits at the time each consideration is paid will not be less than those that would be provided by the application of the consideration to current purchase rates for new sales of such contract or any comparable paid-up deferred annuity contract offered by the company at that time to the same class of annuitants. For purposes of this item, dividends applied to purchase paid-up additions to the contract shall be treated as considerations paid into the contract.

(iii) The statements set forth in items (i) and (ii) of this subparagraph shall not affect the amount of any benefits required to be provided under any other provision of this section.

(2) Notwithstanding the requirements of this subsection, any deferred annuity contract may provide that if no considerations have been received under a contract for a period of three full years and either (A) the actual accumulation amount as hereinafter defined would be less than five thousand dollars or the dollar limit established pursuant to subparagraph A of paragraph 11 of subsection (a) of section four hundred eleven of the internal revenue code of 1986, as amended, or (B) the portion of the paid-up annuity benefit at maturity on the plan stipulated in the contract arising from considerations paid prior to such period would be less than twenty dollars monthly, calculated on the basis of the mortality table, if any, and the interest rate, if any, specified in the contract for determining the paid-up annuity benefits, the company may at its option terminate such contract by payment of the actual accumulation amount and by such payment shall be relieved of any further obligation under such contract.

(b) (1) This section shall not apply to any:

(A) Reinsurance.

(B) Group annuity contract purchased in connection with one or more retirement plans or plans of deferred compensation established or maintained by or for one or more employers (including partnerships or sole proprietorships), employee organizations, or any combination thereof, except as otherwise provided in this subsection.

(C) Premium deposit fund.

(D) Variable annuity.

(E) Immediate annuity.

(F) Deferred annuity contract or group annuity certificate after annuity payments have commenced.

(G) Reversionary annuity.

(H) Contract delivered outside this state through an agent or other representative of the company issuing the contract or through a broker, except as otherwise provided in this subsection.

(2) This section shall apply to any certificate issued, or issued for delivery, under a group annuity contract (other than a group annuity contract issued to an employee benefit plan within the meaning of the federal employee retirement income security act of 1974, 29 U.S.C. §1001 et seq.) to a person solicited for the sale of such certificate in this state if:

(A) such certificate provides benefits under an individual retirement account or is issued as an individual retirement annuity, both as defined in section four hundred eight of the Internal Revenue Code, except for a simplified employee pension as defined in subsection (k) of section four hundred eight of such code; or

(B) such certificate is issued as an annuity contract in accordance with subsection (b) of section four hundred three of such code under a program for the purchase of such annuity contract where the payments are derived wholly from a salary reduction agreement or an agreement to forego an increase in salary; or

(C) the benefits provided under such group annuity contract are derived wholly from funds contributed by the persons covered thereunder.

(c) (1) Except as provided in paragraph four of this subsection, the minimum values as specified in subsections (d), (e), (f), (g) and (i) of this section of any paid-up annuity, cash surrender or death benefits attributable to any account subject to this section under an annuity contract shall be based (except as provided in subsection (e) of this section with respect to the use of a market-value adjustment formula) upon the actual accumulation amount computed as provided in this subsection. For contracts that provide a cash surrender benefit prior to the commencement of annuity payments, the death benefit attributable to any account, other than an equity index account, shall not be less than the actual accumulation amount, as defined in paragraph two of this subsection, and the death benefit attributable to an equity index account shall not be less than the value of the equity index account, as defined in paragraph four of this subsection.

(2) The "actual accumulation amount" with respect to an account other than an equity index account at any time at or prior to the commencement of any annuity payments is:

(A) the net considerations credited to such account; minus

(B) premium taxes and premium charges attributable to the account; plus

(C) interest (which shall not be less in any year than the minimum annual effective rate of interest as specified in subparagraph (F) of this paragraph applied to the sum of the actual accumulation amount and the amount of any indebtedness to the company on the contract attributable to the account), additional amounts and dividends, credited by the company to the account; minus

(D) administrative charges (which shall not exceed fifty dollars per year per contract); minus

(E) the sum of (i) the amount appropriate according to the terms of the contract to reflect transfers to other accounts, any prior withdrawals from or partial surrenders of the account and (ii) the amount of any indebtedness to the company attributable to such account, including interest due and accrued.

(F) the minimum annual effective rate of interest shall be the lesser of three percent and the following:

(i) the five-year constant maturity treasury rate reported by the federal reserve as of a date, or average over a period, within the fifteen months prior to the contract issue or redetermination date rounded to the nearest one-twentieth of one percent;

(ii) reduced by one hundred twenty-five basis points; and

(iii) where the resulting minimum guaranteed interest rate is not less than one percent. The minimum annual effective rate of interest at issue shall be specified in the contract. The basis and calculation for setting the minimum annual effective rate of interest at issue of a contract shall be filed with the superintendent. If the contract provides that the minimum annual effective rate of interest may be redetermined, the redetermination date, basis, calculation and period shall be stated in the contract. The basis is the date or average over a specified period that produces the values of the five-year constant maturity treasury rate to be used at each redetermination date or at issue.

(3)(A) "Net considerations" means the gross considerations credited to the account (including transfers from other accounts under the contract) less contract charges allocated to the account, but net considerations shall not, for any contract year for any account, be less than zero.

(B) "Contract charges" means the fixed dollar charges provided for in the contract (subject to any maximum limit based on the amount of annual considerations credited to the contract) but shall not exceed fifty dollars in any year.

(C) "Premium charge percentage" means a charge provided for in the contract based on a percentage of net considerations credited to the contract but shall not exceed (i) ten percent of any net consideration so credited if the contract does not contain a market-value adjustment formula or (ii) seven percent of any net consideration so credited if the contract contains a market-value adjustment formula.

(D) "Premium specific" when applied to a contract means that each net consideration credited to the contract is associated with a portion of the actual accumulation amount under the contract and of the amount of any indebtedness under the contract to the company and that a separate withdrawal charge percentage is applicable to each such portion.

(4)(A) The minimum values as specified in subsections (d), (e), (f), (g) and (i) of this section of any paid-up annuity, cash surrender or death benefits available under an equity index account in an annuity contract shall be based upon the greater of the minimum accumulation value and the equity index value, as defined in this paragraph, provided that:

(i) at least once every ten years the minimum accumulation value and the equity index value will be reset to equal the greater of the two values; and

(ii) the value of an equity index account during any contract year may not be less than the value of the equity index account at the start of the contract year plus net considerations credited to the equity index account during the contract year less transfers, withdrawals and surrenders from the equity index account during the contract year.

(iii) if an amount is withdrawn from the equity index account, the greater of the minimum accumulation value and the equity index value shall not be reduced by more than the amount withdrawn. The lesser of the two values shall not be reduced by more than the amount withdrawn multiplied by the ratio of the lesser of the two values to the greater of the two values.

(B) The minimum accumulation value for an equity index account shall equal the actual accumulation amount, as defined in paragraph two of this subsection, with the following adjustments:

(i) the amounts added pursuant to subparagraph (C) of paragraph two of this subsection shall not include any additional amounts, but shall include the amounts, if any, credited to the minimum accumulation value when values are reset in accordance with item (i) of subparagraph (A) of this paragraph; and

(ii) the reduction described in item (ii) of subparagraph (F) of paragraph two of this subsection may be increased by not more than one percent upon demonstration satisfactory to the superintendent that the present value of the additional reduction does not exceed the market value of the benefit at the contract issue date, and, if applicable, at each date thereafter that the guaranteed interest rate, or equity index formula, can be changed.

(C) The equity index value shall equal the actual accumulation amount as defined in paragraph two of this subsection, with the following adjustments:

(i) the amounts added pursuant to subparagraph (C) of paragraph two of this subsection shall not include any interest; but shall include the amounts, if any, credited based on an equity index formula and the amounts, if any, credited to the equity index value when values are reset in accordance with item (i) of subparagraph (A) of this paragraph;

(ii) the amounts credited to the equity index value shall be based upon an equity index formula specified in the contract meeting the requirements of subparagraph (D) of this paragraph; and

(iii) the equity index value at the end of any contract year may not be less than the equity index value at the start of the contract year plus net considerations credited to the equity index account during the contract year less transfers, withdrawals and surrenders from the equity index account during the contract year.

(D) The equity index formula shall be based on:

(i) a percentage change in an equity index;

(ii) guaranteed factors, such as participation rates, margins, caps and floors that adjust the percentage change in the equity index or where such factors are not guaranteed but subject to change after contract issue and:

(I) such changes occur not more frequently than annually;

(II) such changes are limited by guaranteed factors stated in the contract; and

(III) the use of factors other than the guaranteed factors stated in the contract are considered additional amounts within the meaning of subsection (a) of section four thousand two hundred thirty-two of this article.

(iii) be applied not more frequently than monthly nor less frequently than annually; and

(iv) use the equity index value as the base to which the percentage change in the equity index as modified by factors in the formula is applied.

(v) in the absence of withdrawals and net considerations, not result in a percentage change in the equity index value over a contract year of less than the percentage change in the equity index as adjusted and applied by the terms of the contract.

(E) The contract shall describe:

(i) the equity index used in the formula, including any alternative index should the equity index no longer be publicly available;

(ii) the period of time over which the percentage change in the index is calculated;

(iii) any initial participation rate, margin, cap, floor or other factor used to adjust the percentage change in the equity index, the period or periods of time for which such factor is applicable and if the factor is subject to change after the contract is issued, the maximum or minimum as applicable for such factor over the contract's lifetime and the procedures for determining and disclosing any change in such factor; and

(iv) the application of the equity index formula.

(d) Any paid-up annuity benefit available under a contract shall be such that its present value on the date annuity payments are to commence is at least equal to the actual accumulation amount on that date. Such present value shall be computed using the mortality table, if any, and the interest rate, if any, specified in the contract for determining any minimum paid-up annuity benefits guaranteed in the contract.

(e) (1) A cash surrender benefit that meets the requirements of this paragraph shall not be less than the excess of (i) the actual accumulation amount over (ii) the withdrawal charge percentage times the sum of (I) the actual accumulation amount and (II) the amount of any indebtedness under the contract to the company. Subject to the foregoing sentence and section four thousand two hundred thirty-two of this article, such benefit may be determined in any manner established pursuant to authority granted by the board of directors of the company or a committee thereof (including any formula that takes into account changes in interest rates of publicly-traded obligations or other investments).

(2) A cash surrender benefit that meets the requirements of this paragraph shall not be less than the excess of (i) the actual accumulation amount, as adjusted by a market-value adjustment formula, over, if the contract is not premium specific, (ii) the withdrawal charge percentage times the sum of (I) the actual accumulation amount, as adjusted by such market-value adjustment formula and (II) the amount of any indebtedness under the contract to the company or, if the contract is premium specific, (iii) the aggregate of such withdrawal charge percentage under the contract times the sum of (I) the corresponding portion of the actual accumulation amount, as adjusted by such market-value adjustment formula, and (II) the corresponding portion of the amount of any indebtedness under the contract to the company.

(3) (A) If the cash surrender benefit is computed on the basis of the actual accumulation amount without adjustment by a market-value adjustment formula and the contract does not include an equity index account, "withdrawal charge percentage" means a percentage not greater than ten percent less the premium charge percentage, if any, provided for under the contract.

(B) If the contract has an equity index account, "withdrawal charge percentage" for such account means the percentage provided in subparagraph (A) of this paragraph reduced by one percent for each year beginning after the third year the contract has been in force and further reduced to zero after the tenth year the contract has been in force.

(4) If the cash surrender benefit is computed on the basis of the actual accumulation amount adjusted by a market value adjustment formula, "withdrawal charge percentage" means a percentage not greater than seven percent reduced by one percent for each year the contract has been in force or, if the contract is premium specific, for each year after the net consideration associated with such withdrawal charge percentage was credited to the contract and less the premium charge percentage, if any, provided in the contract (but not less than zero). After any period during which interest was credited to the contract at a specified rate and the company, pursuant to the contract, set a new specified rate and a new period during which such rate is to be so credited, the withdrawal charge percentage for such new period shall be a percentage not in excess of the greater of (A) any remaining withdrawal charge percentage at the beginning of the new period and (B) the lesser of (i) five percent and (ii) one percent times the number of years in such new period, reduced (but not below zero) by one percent for each year the contract remains in force during such period, provided, however, that the withdrawal charge percentage for such new period shall be zero unless the contract provides for a date, within thirty days of the last day of such new period, on which the contract may be surrendered for a cash surrender benefit determined without the use of a market-value adjustment formula.

(5) "Market-value adjustment formula" means a formula which is described in the contract for increasing and decreasing the actual accumulation amount in order to determine cash surrender values payable in accordance with subparagraph (B) of paragraph one of subsection (a) of this section and which takes into account (i) changes in interest rates on publicly-traded obligations or other investments or in interest rates provided in, or declared pursuant to, contracts of the same class as the contract being surrendered and (ii) the length of time between the date on which the contract is surrendered and the next date on which the contract would have provided cash surrender benefits determined without the use of any market-value adjustment formula. The superintendent may promulgate reasonable regulations to define permissible forms of market-value adjustment formulae.

(f) For contracts which do not provide cash surrender benefits, the present value of any paid-up annuity benefit available as a nonforfeiture option at any time prior to maturity shall not be less than the greater of (1) the sum for each account other than an equity index account of the actual accumulation amount as defined in paragraph two of subsection (c) of this section plus the sum for each equity index account of the value of the equity index account as defined in paragraph four of subsection (c) of this section and (2) the present value of that portion of the maturity value of the annuity benefit provided at maturity under the contract arising from considerations paid prior to the time the contract is surrendered in exchange for, or changed to, a deferred paid-up annuity, such present value being calculated for the period prior to the maturity date on the basis of the guaranteed interest rate specified in the contract for determining the maturity value of the annuity benefit provided at maturity, but not less than the accumulation interest rate as defined in subsection (c) of this section, and increased by any existing additional amounts and dividends credited by the company to the contract. For contracts which do not provide any death benefits prior to the commencement of any annuity payments, such present values shall be calculated on the basis of such interest rate and the mortality table specified in the contract for determining the maturity value of the paid-up annuity benefit, increased by any additional amounts and dividends credited by the company to the contract.

(g) For the purpose of determining the benefits calculated under subsections (e) and (f) of this section, in the case of annuity contracts under which an election may be made to have annuity payments commence at optional maturity dates, the maturity date shall be deemed to be the latest date for which election shall be permitted by the contract, but shall not be deemed to be later than the anniversary of the contract next following the annuitant's seventieth birthday or the tenth anniversary of the contract, whichever is later.

(h) If the contract fails at any time prior to the commencement of annuity payments to provide cash surrender benefits or to provide death benefits at least equal to the actual accumulation amount, it shall contain a statement in a prominent place that such benefits are not provided.

(i) Any paid-up annuity, cash surrender or death benefits available at any time other than on the contract anniversary under any contract with fixed scheduled considerations shall be calculated with allowance for the lapse of time and the payment of any scheduled considerations beyond the beginning of the contract year in which cessation of payment of considerations under the contract occurs.

(j) For any contract which provides, within the same contract by rider or supplemental contract provision, both annuity benefits and life insurance benefits that are in excess of the greater of cash surrender benefits or a return of the gross considerations with interest, the minimum nonforfeiture benefits shall be equal to the sum of the minimum nonforfeiture benefits for the annuity portion and the minimum nonforfeiture benefits, if any, for the life insurance portion computed as if each portion were a separate contract. Notwithstanding the provisions of subsections (d), (e), (f), (g) and (i) of this section, additional benefits payable in the event of total and permanent disability, as reversionary annuity or deferred reversionary annuity benefits, or as other policy benefits additional to life insurance, endowment and annuity benefits, and considerations for all such additional benefits, shall be disregarded in ascertaining the accumulation amounts, and the paid-up annuity, cash surrender and death benefits, that may be required by this section. The inclusion of such additional benefits shall not be required in any paid-up benefits, unless such additional benefits separately would require minimum paid-up annuity, cash surrender or death benefits.

(k) (1) At least once in each contract year, the company shall mail to each holder of a contract subject to this section under which benefit payments have not yet commenced a statement as of a date during such year as to any paid-up annuity benefit or the amount available under each account to provide a paid-up annuity benefit, any cash surrender benefit and any death benefit, under the contract. If the minimum annual effective rate of interest is subject to redetermination, then the statement shall include the current minimum annual effective rate of interest and the next redetermination date. For contracts containing an equity index account, the statement shall identify the minimum accumulation value, the equity index value, any changes in the participation rate, margin, cap, floor or other factor used in the equity index formula. The statement shall be addressed to the last post-office address of the contractholder known to the company.

(2) This subsection shall not apply to any contract providing for a single consideration if the paid-up annuity benefits, any cash surrender benefits and any death benefits under the contract are identical in amount to those specified at issue.

(l) The operative date of this section shall be:

(1) as to a company which filed with the superintendent a written notice of its election to comply with this section after a specified date before January first, nineteen hundred eighty-one, such specified date; and

(2) as to a company which made no such election, January first, nineteen hundred eighty-one.

§ 4224. Life, accident and health insurance; discrimination and rebating; prohibited inducements and interdependent sales. (a) No life insurance company doing business in this state and no savings and insurance bank shall:

(1) make or permit any unfair discrimination between individuals of the same class and of equal expectation of life, in the amount or payment or return of premiums, or rates charged for policies of life insurance or annuity contracts, or in the dividends or other benefits payable thereon, or in any of the terms and conditions thereof;

(2) refuse to insure, refuse to continue to insure or limit the amount, extent or kind of coverage available to an individual, or charge a different rate for the same coverage solely because of the physical or mental disability, impairment or disease, or prior history thereof, of the insured or potential insured, except where the refusal, limitation or rate differential is permitted by law or regulation and is based on sound actuarial principles or is related to actual or reasonably anticipated experience, in which case the insurer, subject to the limitations contained in section twenty-six hundred eleven of this chapter, shall notify the insured or potential insured of the right to receive, or to designate a medical professional to receive, the specific reason or reasons for such refusal, limitation or rate differential;

(3) refuse to insure, refuse to continue to insure or limit the amount, extent or kind of coverage available to an individual, or charge a different rate for the same coverage solely because the insured or potential insured was prescribed pre-exposure prophylaxis (PrEP) medication for the prevention of HIV infection;

(4) knowingly permit, and no agent thereof and no licensed insurance broker shall offer to make or make, any policy of life insurance or annuity contract or agreement as to such policy or contract other than as plainly expressed in the policy or contract.

(b) No insurer doing in this state the business of accident and health insurance, as specified in paragraph three of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter, and no officer or agent of such insurer and no licensed insurance broker, and no employee or other representative of such insurer, agent or broker shall:

(1) make or permit any unfair discrimination between individuals of the same class in the amount of premiums, policy fees, or rates charged for any policy of accident and health insurance, or in the benefits payable thereon, or in any of the terms or conditions of such policies, or in any other manner whatsoever;

(2) refuse to insure, refuse to continue to insure or limit the amount, extent or kind of coverage available to an individual, or charge a different rate for the same coverage solely because of the physical or mental disability, impairment or disease, or prior history thereof, of the insured or potential insured, except where the refusal, limitation or rate differential is permitted by law or regulation and is based on sound actuarial principles or is related to actual or reasonably anticipated experience, in which case the insurer, subject to the limitations contained in section twenty-six hundred eleven of this chapter shall notify the insured or potential insured of the right to receive, or to designate a medical professional to receive, the specific reason or reasons for such refusal, limitation or rate differential;

(3) refuse to insure, refuse to continue to insure or limit the amount, extent or kind of coverage available to an individual, or charge a different rate for the same coverage solely because the insured or potential insured was prescribed pre-exposure prophylaxis (PrEP)

medication for the prevention of HIV infection;

(4) knowingly permit or offer to make or make, any policy of accident and health insurance, other than as plainly expressed in the policy.

(c) Except as permitted by section three thousand two hundred thirty-nine of this chapter or subsection (f) of this section, no such life insurance company and no such savings and insurance bank and no officer, agent, solicitor or representative thereof and no such insurer doing in this state the business of accident and health insurance and no officer, agent, solicitor or representative thereof, and no licensed insurance broker and no employee or other representative of any such insurer, agent or broker, shall pay, allow or give, or offer to pay, allow or give, directly or indirectly, as an inducement to any person to insure, or shall give, sell or purchase, or offer to give, sell or purchase, as such inducement, or interdependent with any policy of life insurance or annuity contract or policy of accident and health insurance, any stocks, bonds, or other securities, or any dividends or profits accruing or to accrue thereon, or any valuable consideration or inducement whatever not specified in such policy or contract other than any valuable consideration, including but not limited to merchandise or periodical subscriptions, not exceeding twenty-five dollars in value; nor shall any person in this state knowingly receive as such inducement, any rebate of premium or policy fee or any special favor or advantage in the dividends or other benefits to accrue on any such policy or contract, or knowingly receive any paid employment or contract for services of any kind, or any valuable consideration or inducement whatever which is not specified in such policy or contract.

(d) (1) No insurer authorized to do one or more of the kinds of insurance business specified in paragraph one, two or three of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter or authorized to do the kind of insurance business specified in section three thousand two hundred twenty-two of this chapter shall directly or indirectly, or by any of its agents or representatives, or by any broker or brokers, participate in any plan to offer or effect any kind or kinds of such insurance business in this state as an inducement to, or interdependent with, the purchase by the public of any goods, securities, commodities, housing, services or subscriptions to periodicals, except as provided by subsection (e) of section three thousand four hundred thirty-six, paragraph three of subsection (b) of section four thousand two hundred sixteen of this article, by subparagraph (E) of paragraph one of subsection (c) of section four thousand two hundred thirty-five of this article or by article forty-six of the public health law.

(2) This subsection shall not prohibit payment plans which are otherwise in compliance with this subsection and this chapter.

(e) This section shall not prohibit the giving by any company, in its discretion, of medical examinations and diagnoses and of nursing services to all or any part of its policyholders, under reasonable rules and regulations.

(f) (1) This subsection shall apply only with respect to a group or blanket accident and health insurance policy issued by an insurer licensed to write accident and health insurance in this state or a group contract issued by a corporation organized pursuant to article forty-three of this chapter, or a health maintenance organization certified pursuant to article forty-four of the public health law.

(2) Notwithstanding subsection (c) of this section, a licensed agent or insurance broker may develop, implement, and administer wellness programs established in accordance with section three thousand two hundred thirty-nine of this chapter without charging a service fee or, in the case of a licensed insurance broker, for a reduced service fee pursuant to a written memorandum made in accordance with subsection (c) of section two thousand one hundred nineteen of this chapter, if such programs are provided in a fair and nondiscriminatory manner and incidental to a group or blanket policy or contract sold by the insurance agent or insurance broker.

§ 4225. Domestic life insurance companies; discrimination as to brokers. No officer, trustee or director of a domestic life insurance company shall direct or require a borrower from the life insurance company on mortgage to negotiate any policy of insurance on the mortgaged property through any particular insurance broker, or attempt to divert to any particular insurance broker the patronage of borrowers from the life insurance company, or refuse to accept any such insurance policy because it was not negotiated through a particular insurance broker.

§ 4226. Misrepresentations, misleading statements and incomplete comparisons by insurers. (a) No insurer authorized to do in this state the business of life, or accident and health insurance, or to make annuity contracts shall:

(1) issue or circulate, or cause or permit to be issued or circulated on its behalf, any illustration, circular, statement or memorandum misrepresenting the terms, benefits or advantages of any of its policies or contracts;

(2) make any estimate of the dividends or share of surplus or additional amounts to be received on such policies or contracts;

(3) make any false or misleading statement of the dividends or share of surplus or additional amounts paid by any such insurer on similar policies or contracts;

(4) make any misleading representation, or any misrepresentation of the financial condition of any such insurer or of the legal reserve system upon which it operates; or

(5) make or deliver to any person or persons any incomplete comparison of any such policies or contracts for the purpose of inducing, or tending to induce, such person or persons to lapse, forfeit or surrender any insurance policy or contract.

(6) replace the individual life insurance policies or individual annuity contracts of an insurer by the same or different insurer without conforming to the standards promulgated by regulation by the superintendent. Such regulation shall:

(A) specify what constitutes the replacement of a life insurance policy or annuity contract and the proper disclosure and notification procedures to replace a policy or contract;

(B) require notification of the proposed replacement to the insurer whose policies or contracts are intended to be replaced;

(C) require the timely exchange of illustrative and cost information required by section three thousand two hundred nine of this chapter and necessary for completion of a comparison of the proposed and replaced coverage; and

(D) provide for a sixty-day period following issuance of the replacement policies or contracts during which the policy or contract owner may return the policies or contracts and reinstate the replaced policies or contracts.

(b) Any comparison of the policies or contracts of any such insurer or insurers shall be deemed to be an incomplete comparison if it does not conform to all the requirements for comparisons established by the superintendent by regulation.

(c) In any determination, judicial or otherwise, of the incompleteness or misleading character of any such comparison or of representation, it shall not be presumed that the insured knew or knows of any of the provisions or benefits contained in any insurance policy or contract.

(d) Any such insurer that knowingly violates any provision of this section, or knowingly receives any premium or other compensation in consequence of such violation shall, in addition to any other penalty provided in this chapter, be liable to a penalty in the amount of such premium or compensation, which penalty may be sued for and recovered by any person aggrieved for his own use and benefit, in accordance with the provisions of the civil practice law and rules.

§ 4228. Life insurance and annuity business; limitations of expenses. (a) The provisions of this section shall apply to all domestic life insurance companies and to all foreign and alien life insurance companies doing business in this state, but not the alien branches of such companies or such companies' subsidiaries not licensed in this state to do an insurance business, except as provided in subsection (h) of this section, engaged in the direct sale of individual life insurance policies or individual annuity contracts, hereinafter referred to as "companies". Except as provided in subsection (h) of this section, the provisions hereof shall apply only to individual life insurance policies and riders and individual annuity contracts and riders and shall not apply to fraternal benefit societies nor to the following categories of insurance: (1) accident and health insurance having the meaning ascribed in section one thousand one hundred thirteen of this chapter, group life insurance having the meaning ascribed in section four thousand two hundred sixteen of this article, group annuity contracts having the meaning ascribed in section four thousand two hundred thirty-eight of this article, and credit insurance having the meaning ascribed in section four thousand two hundred sixteen and four thousand two hundred thirty-five of this article; (2) debit life insurance, except as otherwise expressly provided herein; or (3) policies and contracts issued for delivery outside the United States and its possessions. Neither these categories of insurance nor reinsurance either assumed or ceded will be included in any calculations or tests conducted for any purpose in connection with this section or any regulations or schedules promulgated hereunder.

(b) For purposes of this section:

(1) "Advance" and "loan" shall have the following meanings: "advance" means any amount paid to an agent, up to an amount not exceeding the value of three months' expected compensation payments, that is expected to be repaid within the next twelve months through reductions in future compensation. "Loan" means any payment to an agent, other than an advance, that is expected to be repaid from future compensation. An amount paid to an agent in an annualization as defined in this subsection is not an advance or loan.

(2) "Agent" shall have the meaning ascribed in section two thousand one hundred one of this chapter and "broker" shall have the meaning ascribed in section two thousand one hundred four of this chapter.

(3) "Annualization" means: with respect to any amounts paid to an agent or broker, the paying or crediting to an agent or broker at the beginning of a policy year compensation or other payments based on all or a portion of the amount of premiums scheduled to be received by the company with respect to such policy year; with respect to the calculation of any limits of payment or expense prescribed in this section, the calculation of such limit is based on the assumption that a company receives, at the beginning of a policy year, all or a portion of the amount of premiums scheduled to be received by the company with respect to such policy year.

(4) "Benchmark gross level premium", is calculated as of the issue date of a policy, or as of any subsequent date on which the face amount of the policy, or the types or amounts of supplemental benefits provided under the policy, are increased, whether by addition of a rider or otherwise, at the request of the policy owner. The benchmark gross level premium is calculated as one hundred twenty-five percent of the net level premium for a whole life insurance policy with level premiums payable during the life of the insured, with payments starting on the same date and for the same face amount as the policy for which the benchmark gross level premium is being computed, based on three and one-half percent interest and male aggregate (smoker and non-smoker combined), Commissioners 1980 Standard Ordinary Mortality Table, ultimate mortality, age last birthday and immediate payment of death claims, further adjusted as follows:

(A) An amount of one hundred dollars shall be added to the benchmark gross level premium for a policy; however, this amount shall not be added to the benchmark gross level premium for a rider.

(B) The benchmark gross level premium for a policy providing supplemental insurance benefits, whether by rider or otherwise, shall be increased (i) if the company makes an additional premium charge for such benefits, by the amount of such premium charge, and (ii) if the company does not make an additional premium charge for such benefits, by one hundred twenty-five percent of the amount of the levelized annual cost of insurance charge for such benefits; such levelized charge is to be based on the actual schedule of charges applicable to the policy at the time with respect to which the calculation is made, levelized using the mortality table and interest rate defined in this section.

(C) The benchmark gross level premium for a policy in which the guaranteed table of mortality charges exceeds the Commissioners 1980 Standard Ordinary Mortality Table for male smokers for age last birthday may be appropriately adjusted to reflect any excess of the amount of the benchmark gross level premium computed based on the actual mortality guarantees of the policy over the benchmark gross level premium computed based on the Commissioners 1980 Standard Ordinary Mortality Table for male smokers for age last birthday; however, if the company makes an additional premium charge because the insured is a substandard risk, the company may, instead, increase the amount of the benchmark gross level premium by the amount of such charge.

(D) The benchmark gross level premium for a policy providing life insurance benefits, other than supplemental benefits, for more than one person shall be adjusted to reflect the joint mortality status of the insured lives, consistent with the nature of the life insurance coverage provided by the policy, using the mortality table and interest rates defined in this section.

(E) The benchmark gross level premium for a policy, including all of its riders and benefits, is the sum of the benchmark gross level premium for the policy and the benchmark gross level premium for each rider, each adjusted as provided in subparagraphs (A), (B), (C) and (D) of this paragraph.

(F) The benchmark gross level premium for a policy with premiums payable more frequently than annually shall be the benchmark gross level premium based on annual premium payments, adjusted by the company's actual adjustment factors for the actual mode of premium payment.

(5) "Commission" means a payment to an agent or broker, as compensation for the sale or service of a specific policy or contract, based upon a percentage of the premium or consideration for that policy or contract.

(6) A "compensation arrangement" means any arrangement by a company for compensating its agents or brokers on business that includes any of the following:

(A) A commission that, for any policy or contract in policy or contract years two through four, exceeds the limit set forth in paragraph two, three or four, whichever is applicable, of subsection (d) of this section for that year or, with respect to any year after the fourth policy or contract year that exceeds the limit set forth in paragraph two, three or four of subsection (d) of this section for the fourth policy or contract year;

(B) A fund-based compensation arrangement that, for any policy or contract year, exceeds two percent of the fund annually in any of the policy's or contract's first four years;

(C) Any plan providing for a training allowance subsidy pursuant to the provisions of subparagraphs (A) through (F) of paragraph three of subsection (e) of this section;

(D) Any plan of agent or broker compensation other than commission-based and fund-based compensation pursuant to paragraph two of subsection (e) of this section; and

(E) Any plan involving the payment of an expense allowance, other than plans under which the company provides no goods and services to the recipient of the expense allowance payments and the expense allowance payments are described as percentages of qualifying first year premium, excess premium, single consideration, or periodic consideration, or any of them, and none of the percentages exceeds the corresponding percentages set forth in paragraph five of subsection (d) of this section.

(7) "Contract" means an individual annuity contract. A rider to a contract will be treated as a separate policy or contract for all purposes hereunder, unless otherwise specified. The determination of a policy or contract type is done separately for each policy, contract and rider.

(8) "Debit life insurance" means all life insurance with premiums payable monthly or more frequently, normally collectible by an agency force organized to make systematic house to house collections of premiums.

(9) "Effective date" means the first day of January next succeeding the date on which this section shall have become a law.

(10) "Excess premiums" are premiums in the first policy year that exceed the benchmark gross level premium.

(11) "Expense allowance" is a payment to an agent or broker in lieu of reimbursement for expenses incurred in connection with the sale or servicing of the company's policies or contracts.

(12) "Filing" shall mean the delivery of information by a company to the superintendent or his designee concerning plans under which a company makes payments to its agents and to brokers.

(13) "Fund" is a policy or contract accumulation account or any other similar policy or contract value at a particular time, before application of any surrender charges and market value adjustments, if any, whether or not it is immediately available to the owner of a policy or contract. At the option of the company "fund" may mean the company's statutory reserve for the policy or contract.

(14) "General agent" is an agent who is appointed directly by a company, other than a local salaried representative of such company, who recruits, trains or supervises other agents or who has the right to appoint agents.

(15) "Goods and services" as used in this section shall refer to (A) reimbursements to an agent or broker for vouchered expenses made or incurred in connection with the production or servicing of policies or contracts on behalf of the company and (B) similar expenses assumed directly by the company. These expenses do not include those that the company incurs for the recruitment, training, supervision or management of such agent, nor the cost of security benefits provided to such agent, nor those expenses described in item (iv) of subparagraph (D) of paragraph two of subsection (c) of this section.

(16) A "periodic premium policy" or "periodic consideration contract" is any policy or contract, respectively, other than a single premium policy or single consideration contract. The determination of a policy or contract type is done separately for each policy or contract.

(17) "Periodic premiums" and "periodic considerations" are premiums and considerations, respectively, recorded by a company for a policy or contract other than single premiums and single considerations.

(18) "Policy" means an individual life insurance policy. A rider to a policy will be treated as a separate policy or contract for all purposes hereunder, unless otherwise specified. The determination of a policy or contract type is done separately for each policy, contract and rider.

(19) "Premiums" and "considerations" include all amounts (including amounts for supplementary benefits) recorded for a policy or contract, except dividends applied to purchase additional insurance under the same policy, as well as amounts meeting the requirements of subparagraphs (B) and (C) of paragraph twenty-five of this subsection. Premiums and considerations include all amounts so recorded that arise from the application of values inherent in a policy or contract, such as dividend deposits, any excess of actual policy or contract cash values over guaranteed cash values, dividend additions, premiums paid in advance, and policy loans.

(20) A "qualified annuity contract" is an annuity defined by the Internal Revenue Code sections 401, 403 or 457, and any other similar annuities defined by the superintendent.

(21) "Qualifying first year premiums" are premiums under each policy, including all of its riders and benefits, which are:

(A) in the first policy year, premiums recorded, including the entire amount of a premium recorded in the first policy year of a conversion of a term policy or rider to a permanent policy up to the benchmark gross level premium for the policy, including all of its riders and benefits; or

(B) in any year after the first, premiums recorded up to the benchmark gross level premium for the current face amount of the policy, including all of its riders and benefits, less the total previous qualifying first year premiums, but not less than zero; or

(C) all premiums recorded up to the benchmark gross level premium to renew a policy on more favorable terms than those guaranteed in the policy when such renewal is subject to new underwriting and a new contestable period.

(22) "Recorded" shall mean the crediting of an amount to the company's premium or consideration accounts for purposes of the company's statutory annual statement.

(23) "Renewal premiums" are all periodic premiums other than qualifying first year premiums or excess premiums.

(24) A "security benefit" is any benefit provided to an agent that is both (A) provided under an employee benefit plan, as defined in the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, 29 U.S.C. §§ 1001, et seq. and (B) either (i) a benefit under an employee benefit plan that qualifies as such under the relevant sections of the Internal Revenue Code and regulations thereunder that require compliance with standards of non-discrimination in benefit coverage and eligibility, or (ii) a benefit that does not permit an agent to obtain a cash payment other than at the time of death, permanent and total disability, or retirement. "Permanent and total disability" as used herein shall mean any condition caused by injury or disease that prevents the agent from performing substantially all of the work normally performed by the agent. If the definition of "employee benefit plan" under the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 is repealed, replaced or significantly amended, the superintendent shall promulgate a regulation establishing a definition for the purposes of this section. Benefits that would meet the requirements of subparagraph (A) or (B) of this paragraph but for the fact that the agent covered under such benefits is an independent contractor rather than an employee are security benefits.

(25) "Single considerations" are:

(A) all amounts (including amounts for supplementary benefits) recorded as single considerations or single deposits for contracts; or

(B) contract values that are applied under the same contract at the later of (i) the end of a surrender charge period or (ii) five years after issuance of the contract or, if a previous such application of contract values has occurred, five years after such application, when such application results in new sales loads or surrender charges; or

(C) settlement option proceeds generated from the death of an individual or maturity of a policy or contract that are applied to purchase a new contract or that are applied to the purchase of annuity benefits under the existing contract.

(26) "Single premiums" are:

(A) all amounts (including amounts for supplementary benefits) recorded as single premiums for policies, except dividends applied to purchase additional insurance under the same policy; or

(B) policy values that are applied under the same policy at the later of (i) the end of a surrender charge period or (ii) five years after issuance of the policy or, if a previous such application of policy values has occurred, five years after such application, when such application results in new sales loads or surrender charges.

(27) A "single premium policy" or "single consideration contract" is a policy or contract that, according to its terms, provides for the payment of a single premium or consideration at time of purchase and no subsequent premiums or considerations during the life of the policy or contract. The determination of a policy or contract type is done separately for each policy, contract and rider.

(28) "Supplemental benefits" are any benefits provided as part of a policy or contract, whether by rider or otherwise, excluding life insurance coverage on named insureds under the policy.

(29) "Training allowance subsidy" is the excess of the amount that is paid to an agent under a training allowance plan over the amount that would be paid in commissions and expense allowance to an experienced agent, in the same sales force, producing the same sales of policies and contracts.

(c)(1) No company shall pay or incur in any calendar year total selling expenses as calculated hereunder in excess of its total selling expense limit referred to in paragraph four of this subsection, except that the total selling expense limit shall not apply to a company in any calendar year in which the company does not sell any policies or contracts subject to this section.

(2) Total selling expenses shall include the following expenses incurred directly or indirectly by the company, without regard to whether they are incurred in the company's home office or in a field or regional office:

(A) commissions;

(B) the increase during the year in the amount of outstanding advances and loans to agents, including any accrued and unpaid interest thereon, and including amounts charged off by the company, however, if such amount is negative, it shall be treated as a reduction of the amount of total selling expenses;

(C) the expense of direct solicitation advertising that either includes an application or solicits a response to obtain an application for a policy or contract regulated under this section;

(D) distribution, marketing and sales support expenses directly related to the procurement of new business, which includes but is not limited to:

(i) recruiting and training of agents, including related recordkeeping;

(ii) sales management and supervision; and

(iii) clerical functions in sales offices;

(E) any expense allowance paid to the agent or broker by the company or any expenses of the agent, agency or broker, assumed or reimbursed by the company;

(F) the travel expenses, meals and entertainment paid for by the company; and

(G) all other compensation paid to or expense incurred on behalf of active and retired agents and brokers, including the cost of any security benefits.

(3) Total selling expenses shall not include expenses related to the following activities and the compensation of individuals working full-time on the following activities and other activities not included within paragraph two of this subsection, even if they are working in a sales office:

(A) development and maintenance of products, systems and software;

(B) medical examinations and inspections of proposed risks;

(C) underwriting;

(D) policy issue;

(E) policy conservation;

(F) premium billing and collection;

(G) policy administration;

(H) claim administration and management;

(I) investment management;

(J) statutory and regulatory filing and compliance;

(K) overall company management and direction;

(L) taxes, licenses and fees; and

(M) all other activities not related to selling.

(4) The total selling expense limit shall be the sum of the amounts determined pursuant to subparagraphs (A), (B), (C), (D), (E), (F), (G), (H), (I) and (J) of this paragraph, except as any of those subparagraphs may be adjusted pursuant to the provisions of subparagraph (K) of this paragraph.

(A) For each life insurance policy, fifty-five percent of the qualifying first year premium.

(B) Five percent of excess premiums, single premiums and all considerations.

(C) One hundred ten percent of the sum of the amount determined pursuant to subparagraphs (A) and (B) of this paragraph.

(D) For all new life insurance paid for during the year, other than term insurance for less than one year, for which any premium is paid during the year, one dollar for each one thousand dollars of such insurance. New life insurance paid for shall include:

(i) life insurance on new policies paid for during the calendar year;

(ii) life insurance on term conversions during the calendar year to permanent life insurance;

(iii) life insurance on policies which were renewed under more favorable terms than those guaranteed in the policy, subject to new underwriting requirements and new contestable period; and

(iv) increases in the death benefit of life insurance during the calendar year, other than those provided for in the policy, on policies in force.

(E) Seventy dollars for each new policy, other than policies for term insurance for less than one year, and for each new contract paid for during such year. For purposes of this subparagraph, riders will not be considered as separate policies or contracts. New policies paid for during the year shall include policies referred to in items (i), (ii) and (iii) of subparagraph (D) of this paragraph.

(F) Twelve percent of renewal premiums.

(G) Fifteen cents for each one thousand dollars of face amount of policies in force at the end of such year.

(H) The sum of the amounts below:

(i) one dollar for each one thousand dollars of the first one billion dollars of life insurance in force;

(ii) fifty cents for each one thousand dollars of the next one billion dollars of life insurance in force;

(iii) five one-hundredths of one percent of the first one billion dollars of annuity reserves; and

(iv) two and one-half of one hundredths of one percent of the next one billion dollars of annuity reserves.

(I) For each agent who qualifies under paragraph three of subsection (e) of this section, thirty thousand dollars for each such agent appointed to represent the company during the year, twenty thousand dollars for each such agent who was initially appointed during the immediately preceding year and is still contracted with the company on January first of the current year, and ten thousand dollars for each such agent who was initially appointed during the second preceding year and is still contracted with the company on January first of the current year.

(J) The excess, if any, of the total selling expense limit over the total selling expenses for the immediately preceding calendar year; however, such excess shall not exceed five percent of the total selling expense limit for such preceding calendar year, calculated without regard to the effect of this subparagraph.

(K) For a company that makes commitments to pay compensation to agents or brokers or to incur other agent-related or broker-related expense with respect to policies or contracts in their renewal years:

(i) with respect to policies, if such commitment includes compensation or other agent-related or broker-related expense expressed as a percentage of premium and if it exceeds twelve percent of premium with respect to any policy year after the first, the company may, at its option reduce the amount of the limit calculated pursuant to subparagraph (A) of this paragraph in the calendar year in which such policies are sold and increase the amount of the limit calculated pursuant to subparagraph (F) of this paragraph in subsequent calendar years;

(ii) with respect to policies, if such commitment includes compensation or other agent-related or broker-related expense expressed as a percentage of the policy fund with respect to the second or any later policy year, the company may, at its option reduce the amount of the limit calculated pursuant to subparagraph (F) of this paragraph in subsequent calendar years and add, in such subsequent calendar years, an amount based on the reserves of such policies;

(iii) with respect to contracts, if such commitment includes compensation or other agent-related or broker-related expense expressed as a percentage of the contract fund with respect to any contract year, the company may, at its option, reduce the amount of the limit calculated pursuant to subparagraph (B) of this paragraph in the calendar year in which such contracts are sold and add, in such calendar year and subsequent calendar years, an amount based on the reserves of such contracts.

(L) Such adjustment shall:

(i) in the case of item (i) of subparagraph (K) of this paragraph, be based on the relationship that a reduction of three percent of premiums in the amount of the limit calculated pursuant to subparagraph (A) of this paragraph in the year of sale is equivalent to an increase of one percent of premiums in the amount of the limit calculated pursuant to subparagraph (F) of this paragraph if the commitment applies to all later policy years;

(ii) in the case of item (ii) of subparagraph (K) of this paragraph, be based on the relationship that a reduction of one percent of premiums in the amount of the limit calculated pursuant to subparagraph (F) of this paragraph in all later policy years is equivalent to an increase in the limit of fifteen one-hundredths of one percent of policy reserves if the commitment applies to all later policy years;

(iii) in the case of item (iii) of subparagraph (K) of this paragraph, be based on the relationship that a reduction of one-half of one percent of considerations in the amount of the limit calculated pursuant to subparagraph (B) of this paragraph in the year of sale is equivalent to an increase in the limit of fifteen one-hundredths of one percent of contract reserves if the commitment applies to all contract years.

The superintendent shall by regulation describe the bases for adjustments in other situations, consistent with these relationships. Reasonable use of averaging methods shall be allowed. In particular, the regulation shall provide that a company shall approximate the percentage of its policies, contracts, premiums, and reserves with respect to which it has opted to make such adjustments, and shall derive adjustment factors such that, when such factors are applied to all of its business issued or in force, they will approximate the results that would be obtained if more precise calculations were made.

(5) A company may make arrangements, such as entering into agent contracts, incurring expenses, and generally organizing its activities, in such a manner that some or all of its expenses are applicable partially to policies and contracts subject to this section and partially to other business or to other companies with which it has business arrangements and, in such cases, the company shall determine the portion of such expenses subject to this subsection by using an equitable basis of allocation, consistent with the company's allocation methodology for annual statement reporting.

(d) A company may pay agents and brokers as it sees fit for the sale and service of policies and contracts. However:

(1) No company shall pay or permit to be paid to an agent or broker a commission in excess of the sum of (A) fifty-five percent of any qualifying first year premium and (B) seven percent of any excess premium; or to a general agent with respect to business not personally produced by such general agent, a commission in excess of the sum of (C) sixty-three percent of any qualifying first year premium and (D) eight percent of any excess premium.

(2) Except as provided in paragraph four of this subsection, no company shall pay or permit to be paid to an agent or broker commission in excess of seven percent of any single consideration or any periodic consideration received in the first four contract years; or to a general agent, on business not personally produced by such general agent, a commission in excess of eight percent of any single consideration or any periodic consideration.

(3) No company shall pay or permit to be paid to an agent or broker a commission in excess of twenty-two percent of renewal premiums for the second policy year, twenty percent of renewal premiums for the third policy year, or eighteen percent of renewal premiums for the fourth policy year; or to a general agent on business not personally produced by such general agent, a commission in excess of twenty-seven percent of renewal premiums in the second policy year, twenty-three percent of renewal premiums in the third policy and twenty percent of renewal premiums in the fourth policy year.

(4) Notwithstanding the limitations set forth in paragraph two of this subsection, with respect to a qualified annuity contract, no company shall pay or permit to be paid to an agent or broker a commission in excess of fourteen and one-half percent of periodic considerations incurred in the first contract year and four and one-half percent of periodic considerations incurred respectively in each of three contract years following the first, or to a general agent on business not personally produced by the general agent, a commission in excess of sixteen percent of periodic considerations incurred in the first contract year and six percent of periodic considerations incurred respectively in each of the three contract years following the first.

(5) With respect to premiums and considerations recorded within a period of twelve consecutive months on business written by any agent or broker, no company shall pay or permit to be paid to an agent or broker expense allowance greater than the excess, if any, of the sum of:

(A) ninety-one percent of all qualifying first year premiums; and

(B) with respect to qualified annuity contracts, fourteen and one-half percent of periodic considerations incurred in the first contract year; and

(C) seven percent of any excess premiums, single considerations and periodic considerations, other than those addressed in subparagraph (B) of this paragraph, incurred in the first four contract years, over the sum of commissions paid pursuant to paragraphs one, two and four of this subsection, and the value of any goods and services provided to such agent or broker by the company. With respect to premiums and considerations recorded within a period of twelve consecutive months on business written under the supervision of any general agent, no company shall pay or permit to be paid to a general agent, on business not personally produced by such general agent, expense allowances greater than the excess, if any of the sum of

(D) ninety-nine percent of all qualifying first year premiums; and

(E) with respect to qualified annuity contracts, sixteen percent of periodic considerations incurred in the first contract year; and

(F) eight and one-half percent of any excess premiums, single considerations and periodic considerations, other than those addressed in subparagraph (E) of this paragraph, incurred in the first four contract years, over the sum of commissions paid pursuant to paragraphs one, two and four of this subsection, and any goods and services provided to such general agent by the company. The company may, in implementing this subsection, use reasonable estimation techniques in arriving at the amount of goods and services, including but not limited to the estimation of the average value of goods and services provided to a group of agents or brokers to whom similar goods and services are provided.

(e) Notwithstanding any limitations set forth in subsection (d) of this section:

(1) (A) A company may compensate an agent or broker wholly or in part upon a plan that bases compensation on the fund underlying the policy or contract. For policies other than single premium policies, a company may pay up to three-tenths of one percent of the fund in each of policy years two through four for each one percent of premium by which the commission paid to the agent or broker in such policy years is less than the percentages set forth in paragraph three of subsection (d) of this section. For single premium policies and all contracts, a company may pay up to three-tenths of one percent of the fund in each of policy or contract years one through four for each one percent by which the sum of commissions and expense allowance paid to the agent or broker in policy or contract years one through four is less than the percentages set forth in subparagraph (C) or (D) of paragraph five of subsection (d) of this section, whichever is applicable.

(B) Any company may compensate an agent or broker on a plan of fund-based compensation using translations other than those set forth in subparagraph (A) of this paragraph, provided that the translation factors are equivalent to those set forth therein, based on reasonable and consistent assumptions as to mortality, policy or contract persistency and interest.

(2) (A) A company may compensate an agent or broker pursuant to a plan of agent compensation that consists wholly or partly of elements other than commission-based compensation and fund-based compensation.

(B) When a company implements such a plan, it must be able to demonstrate, after the plan has been in operation for two years, that an agent or broker being compensated under the plan and meeting its requirements for continuation in the plan will receive no more compensation under the plan, over the period of a projected career, than could have been earned under a plan consisting entirely of commissions and expense allowance, each limited as described in subsection (d) of this section. In making this demonstration, the company may take into account commission compensation that would have been paid, under its renewal commission plans, with respect to policies and contracts in their fifth and later policy and contract years.

(C) To the extent that an agent being compensated under such plan is eligible to receive a training allowance under the provisions of paragraph three of this subsection, the comparison in subparagraph (B) of this paragraph shall take into account, as well, the amount of training allowance subsidy that could have been paid to such agent.

(D) To the extent that an agent or broker being compensated under such plan is assigned servicing responsibilities for policies or contracts that have been in force for more than four years, the comparison in subparagraph (B) of this paragraph shall take into account, as well, the renewal commissions that the company pays with respect to such policies and contracts.

(E) The comparison in subparagraph (B) of this paragraph shall be based on reasonable assumptions as to mortality, policy or contract persistency, and interest and agent or broker sales.

(F) If a company employs one or more salaried employees whose principal function is not the sale of new policies or contracts and not the supervision of agents or agencies, and if no more than twenty-five percent of the total compensation of such employees is related to business personally produced by such employees, the provisions of this subsection or subsection (d) of this section shall not apply to such employees' total compensation, notwithstanding that they may be licensed as life insurance agents.

(G) If a company compensates an agent or broker within the limits in subsection (d) of this section, and that agent or broker retains as assistants other agents or brokers who are compensated by the agent or broker on the basis of a plan of compensation other than commissions, such arrangement between such agent or broker and that agent's or broker's assistant is not subject to the provisions of this subsection and subsection (d) of this section.

(3)(A) A company may pay reasonable training allowance subsidies to agents pursuant to a plan of agent compensation, provided that such agents are full-time agents of the company and the principal business activity of such agents is the solicitation of policies and contracts primarily but not necessarily exclusively for the company, and its affiliates, and such agents are not simultaneously receiving training allowance from any other life insurance company.

(B) Agents receiving training allowance subsidies may also receive expense allowance payments.

(C) An agent is eligible to receive such a training allowance subsidy, provided (i) such agent has earned less than forty thousand dollars from the sale of policies and contracts cumulatively during the three years prior to such agent's appointment, (ii) less than twenty-five percent of such agent's earned income has been received from the sale of policies and contracts during each of the three years prior to appointment, or (iii) less than twenty-five percent of such agent's worktime during each of the three years prior to appointment was allocated to individual life and annuity sales. The company may establish that an agent is eligible to receive a training allowance subsidy by requiring the agent to attest that such agent meets one of the criteria set forth in this subparagraph prior to appointment. Such attestation shall be sufficient to establish eligibility, provided the company does not have actual knowledge to reject the attestation based on the agent's credentials and background.

(D) An agent receiving such training allowance subsidies may not receive, on a cumulative basis, for an agent in the first year of such subsidies, the greater of fifty-four thousand dollars and sixty percent of the first year commission limit, and for an agent in the second year of such subsidies, the greater of eighty-five thousand dollars and sixty percent of the first year commission limit in the first year and forty percent of the first year commission limit in the second year, and for an agent in the third year of such subsidies, the greater of one hundred five thousand dollars and sixty percent of the first year commission limit in the first year and forty percent of the first year commission limit in the second year, and twenty percent of the first year commission limit for the third year, and for an agent in the fourth year of such subsidies, the greater of one hundred sixteen thousand dollars and sixty percent of the first year commission limit in the first year and forty percent of the first year commission limit in the second year, twenty percent of the first year commission limit in the third year, and ten percent of the first year commission limit in the fourth year.

(E) With respect to any agent eligible to receive training allowance subsidy who has earned at least one hundred twenty-seven thousand dollars of income during either of the two calendar years immediately preceding commencement of receipt of training allowance subsidies, a company may pay additional training allowance subsidies of two thousand dollars to such agent during each of the first two years of his receipt of training allowance subsidies for every four thousand dollars of such earned income in excess of one hundred twenty-seven thousand dollars, provided that the cumulative training allowance subsidy does not exceed eighty-seven thousand dollars in such agent's first year of receipt of training allowance subsidy and provided further that the agent receives not greater than one hundred sixteen thousand dollars in total training allowance subsidies.

(F) For purposes of this paragraph, the period of time that a person worked for a company under a company-sponsored training program and was not acting as an agent for that company shall not be counted as time spent receiving training allowance subsidies, and any salary paid by the company to that person during that time shall not count toward the cumulative maximum training allowance subsidy.

(G) The superintendent shall periodically adjust the cumulative maximum training allowance subsidy limits set forth in this paragraph. The superintendent may also, at any time, approve training allowance subsidies with cumulative maximum amounts that exceed the limits set forth in this paragraph.

(H) A company may, upon approval of the superintendent, establish a plan for training allowance subsidies for which the conditions of eligibility or the amounts or periods of subsidy, of any of these, differ from those set forth in this subsection. The superintendent shall approve such a plan, subject to such conditions as he may prescribe, if he finds that it is likely to meet the objective of developing new agents for the sale of policies or contracts or both in a cost-effective manner.

(4) A company may pay additional compensation to a general agent pursuant to a plan of agent compensation for a period not exceeding ten years; provided, however, that if such general agent has had prior service as a general agent or agency manager, with any life insurance company or companies, whether as an individual, partner or officer of a corporation, and such prior service was for a period of less than five years, additional compensation may be paid only during the balance of such five years, but if such prior service was of five years duration or more, then no additional compensation may be paid; provided, further, that the company shall not permit to be paid expense allowances to agents under his supervision on business written while such additional compensation is paid in excess of those permitted to agents pursuant to paragraph five of subsection (d) of this section. For the purposes of this paragraph only, service as a general agent or agency manager shall not include service as an assistant general manager, assistant agency manager, agency supervisor, or service in a similar position regardless of its title. The additional compensation in the sixth year of the period shall not be in excess of twenty percent of the first year commission limit of the business of the agency, sixteen percent in the seventh year of the period, twelve percent in the eighth year of the period, eight percent in the ninth year of the period and four percent in the tenth year of the period, and shall not be payable pursuant to a plan of agent compensation on any business personally obtained by such general agent.

(5) The cost of all security benefits provided to agents shall not be included in applying the limits established in subsection (d) of this section.

(6) A company, including any person, firm or corporation on its behalf or under any agreement with it, may pay or award, or permit to be paid or awarded, prizes and awards to agents and brokers pursuant to a plan of agent or broker compensation, provided that no single prize or award may exceed a value of five hundred dollars, and that the total value of such prizes and awards paid or awarded to any agent or broker within a calendar year may not exceed two thousand dollars. Notwithstanding the foregoing, a company may also pay or award not more frequently than monthly a prize or award valued at not more than fifty dollars. The costs of all such prizes and awards shall not be included in applying the limits established in subsection (d) of this section. The superintendent may authorize higher limits on the value of prizes and awards than those set forth herein.

(7) A company may conduct agent conventions, conferences and business meetings, and no portion of the expenses associated with agent conventions, conferences or business meetings, nor the value thereof, will be considered to be a prize or award, or additional commissions or compensation, or a payment pursuant to an expense allowance plan, a direct payment of an expense or an assumption of any expense for purposes of paragraph five of subsection (d) of this section, or any other type of compensation or payment described in this subsection or subsection (d) of this section, if, for conventions, conferences or business meetings held in the United States, a company's expenses for same meet the Internal Revenue Code's current standard for ordinary and necessary business expenses and

(A) are not includable in the recipient's gross income for federal income tax purposes, and

(B) represent reasonable allowances for agents' incidental ordinary and necessary business expenses associated with the convention, conference or business meeting, such as meals, local transportation and similar items, and for conventions, conferences and business meetings held outside the United States, a company's expenses for same would have met those current standards if the convention, conference or business meeting was held within the United States. The expenses paid by a company shall be included in the limit established in subsection (c) of this section. Any portion of such expenses paid by a company that do not comply with this paragraph must be considered to be compensation hereunder and, if not recovered from the recipient, charged against the limits of subsection (d) of this section in the year the expense is incurred.

(8) A company that, with respect to any policy or contract year, pays an agent or broker with respect to the business of that agent or broker a commission based on a percentage lower than the percentage set forth in paragraph one, two, three or four of subsection (d) of this section, whichever is appropriate, for such policy or contract year may, with respect to any later policy or contract year of the same policy or contract, pay the agent or broker (or a successor agent or broker to whom the policy or contract has been assigned) a commission based on a higher percentage than the percentage set forth in paragraph two, three or four of subsection (d) of this section, whichever is appropriate, for such later policy or contract year, to the extent that the total of the percentages on which actual commissions were calculated in the preceding policy or contract years was lower than the total of the percentages set forth in paragraph one, two, three or four of subsection (d) of this section, whichever is appropriate, for such preceding policy or contract years.

(9) (A) A company may make an advance to any of its agents pursuant to a plan of agent compensation. A company may, but is not required to, charge interest on outstanding advances.

(B) A company may make a loan to any of its agents pursuant to a plan of agent compensation. The maximum amount of any loan shall not exceed the expected compensation of the agent over the next twelve months. A company shall charge interest on loans at a rate not less than a rate consistent with current short-term borrowing rates. If the interest rate charged on a loan is less than a rate consistent with current short-term borrowing rates, the amount by which the interest actually charged is lower than the interest that would have been charged based on a rate consistent with current short-term borrowing rates, the difference will be subject to the limits of either paragraph one, two, four or five of subsection (d) of this section.

(C) A company shall secure adequate collateral for any advance or loan to an agent; such collateral shall, as a minimum, consist of any compensation earned by the agent from sales of new policies or contracts.

(10) (A) If a broker or an agent who is not a general agent performs services for a company other than those related to the sale or servicing of a policy or contract, or if a general agent performs services for a company other than those related to the sale or servicing of a policy or contract, or the recruiting, training or supervision of agents, the company may compensate the broker or agent for the performance of such services. Such payments are not subject to the limits in subsection (d) of this section. No company shall pay or cause to be paid to any broker or agent for the services described herein, any amounts that exceed the reasonable value of the services performed.

(B) If an agent of a company also performs the duties of a local salaried representative of such company, the company may compensate the agent within the limits of this section with respect to policies or contracts sold or serviced by such agent for which agent compensation is subject to the limits of this section, and may also compensate such agent for services performed as a local salaried representative of the company; however, such compensation as a local salaried representative shall not include any compensation with respect to policies or contracts sold or serviced by such agent.

(11) If a company pays an agent or a general agent for the production of policies or contracts issued by the company, the company shall not be required to monitor for compliance with this section the payments and allowances paid by such agent or general agent to any agent or general agent with respect to such policies or contracts if the agent or general agent receiving such payments:

(A) receives no company-provided security benefits;

(B) does not receive additional compensation as permitted by paragraph four of this subsection, compensation or expense allowance from a paying entity that itself is receiving additional compensation from the company as permitted by paragraph four of this subsection;

(C) receives no prizes or awards from the company; and

(D) is not eligible to qualify for attendance at company-sponsored agent conventions, conferences, or business meetings based on the amount of business produced by such agent or general agent.

(12) A company that, with respect to premiums and considerations recorded within a period of twelve consecutive months on policies or contracts written by any agent or broker pursuant to a plan of agent or broker compensation, pays an agent, general agent or broker an amount of expense allowance smaller than the limiting amount defined in paragraph five of subsection (d) of this section, may pay the agent, general agent or broker, in any later twelve month period or periods, the amount by which the amount of expense allowance paid in the prior period was less than the limiting amount, provided such agent, general agent or broker still is engaged in selling or servicing the company's policies or contracts pursuant to one of the company's compensation or expense allowance plans. Such subsequent payments may be made in addition to any expense allowance payments for which the agent, general agent or broker is otherwise eligible within the limits of paragraph five of subsection (d) of this section for such subsequent period.

(13) Notwithstanding any limitation or restriction imposed by this section, the superintendent may approve compensation arrangements for any company to permit it to compensate its agents or brokers, or any of them, in whole or in part, upon any plan other than those described in this section, provided that the aggregate limits imposed in subsection (c) of this section are not exceeded and that the limits in subsection (d) of this section are generally observed over policy years and agent careers.

(14) A company may, but is not required to, use annualization in calculating any of the limits set forth in this section.

(f) (1) Filing requirements for agent and broker compensation plans are as follows:

(A) A company shall make annual information filings with respect to any newly-introduced plans or changes under which the company makes payments to agents or brokers if such plans are commission plans for which the commission percentages are, in all policy or contract years, no greater than the commission percentages set forth in paragraphs one, two, three and four of subsection (d) of this section, expense allowance plans other than those meeting the definition of a compensation arrangement, plans subject to the provisions of paragraph one of subsection (e) of this section under which compensation is not in excess of two percent of the fund annually in any of the first four policy or contract years, or plans subject to the provisions of paragraph four of subsection (e) of this section. These filings shall consist of a summary of information in enough detail to generally describe the filing content, and shall be made not later than the last day of February next following the year in which such plans were placed in use or changed. The first such filing shall be due not later than the last day of February following the end of the year which includes the effective date of this section.

(B) Filings are required on or before the effective date of any changes to compensation arrangements as defined in this section, or to plans described in paragraphs one and two of subsection (g) of this section. These filings shall consist of a summary of information in enough detail to generally describe the filing's contents. A company may implement such compensation arrangements immediately upon filing same. If the superintendent notifies the company within ninety days of the receipt of the filing, that in his opinion the compensation arrangement described in such filing is not permitted under the law, and if the company within sixty days of the superintendent's notice, is not able to satisfy the superintendent's concern, with or without modifying the plan, the superintendent may order the company to cease using the plan. The company may request a formal hearing, but the plan that is the subject of the hearing may not be used unless and until permitted as a result of the hearing.

(C) Filings for prior approval of the superintendent are required before plans described in subparagraph (B) of paragraph one, subparagraph (H) of paragraph three and paragraphs twelve and thirteen of subsection (e) of this section can be used. The filings will consist of descriptive information, including assumptions and techniques when applicable, in enough detail for the superintendent's review. Plans not approved or disapproved by the superintendent within ninety days following their filing will be deemed approved.

(D) For plans described under subparagraphs (A), (B), (C) and (D) of paragraph two of subsection (e) of this section, if the plan is still to be used six months after the end of the two year period described in subparagraph (B) of paragraph two of subsection (e) of this section, the company must, within six months after the end of the two year period, make a filing with the superintendent and obtain his approval for the continued use of the plan.

(E) All filings and related correspondence shall be proprietary and confidential, and not disclosed by the superintendent.

Changes whose effect is to reduce or not increase the compensation payable to every individual covered by the arrangement in each and every year, need not be filed with the superintendent, but must be maintained in the company's records for at least six years.

(2) The annual statement schedule for reporting compliance on an aggregate basis with subsection (c) of this section shall be signed by a knowledgeable officer of the company. The signing of the schedule shall be deemed confirmation by the officer that the officer has performed a personal review of the information included and responses provided to the interrogatories. The signature is to be preceded by the following statement: "I have reviewed the sources of total selling expenses and, to the best of my knowledge and belief, on the basis of the projected experience over the next three years based on reasonable assumptions, including changes currently being contemplated, the company's expenses will not exceed the limit imposed thereon by New York Insurance Law Section 4228." If the officer cannot attest to the final clause of this statement, the officer must disclose the year or years in which expenses are expected to exceed the limit and the amount by which the limit is expected to be exceeded.

(3) Any company that exceeds the limit in subsection (c) of this section in any year shall:

(A) File a plan of action with the superintendent by June thirtieth of the following year, which shall:

(i) describe actions the company will take promptly to bring expenses into compliance; and

(ii) demonstrate how the company will meet the limit in the second year following the year the company first exceeded the limit and will remain under the limit in the next subsequent year;

(B) Monitor the company's progress under such plan of action and immediately notify the superintendent if at any time it appears that compliance will not be accomplished as planned; and

(C) Report the company's interim progress during the period described in item (ii) of subparagraph (A) of this paragraph as frequently as the superintendent may request.

(4) (A) If the superintendent finds that any plan of action filed pursuant to paragraph three of this subsection will not cause the company to comply with the limit in subsection (c) of this section, or that the company is not itself complying with the provisions of such a plan of action, the superintendent may impose controls on the company's activities, such as limitations on recruiting or production incentives, or a requirement that projections of experience anticipated for compensation arrangements be submitted to the superintendent prior to the introduction of new, or changes to existing, compensation arrangements, until such company meets that limit.

(B) In addition to the actions set forth in subparagraph (A) of this paragraph, and upon finding that a company's actions constitute a willful violation of the provisions of subsection (c) of this section, the superintendent is authorized to impose a fine on the company in an amount not to exceed the lesser of one million dollars or one-half of one percent of the company's total selling expense limit for the most recent calendar year, and the superintendent may impose controls as described in subparagraph (A) of this paragraph until the completion of a year in which the company meets the limit in subsection (c) of this section. For purposes of determining the amount of the fine in any one proceeding, each day or each act of a continuing willful violation shall not be deemed a separate and distinct violation.

(C) Any action under subparagraph (A) of this paragraph or any fine or penalty under subparagraph (B) of this paragraph shall be ordered by the superintendent only after notice and hearing.

(5) Any company making one or more payments that exceed any limit in subsection (d) of this section that is unable to recover such excess payments shall notify the superintendent within ninety days of the date that it learns or realizes that it exceeded the limit; however, if the company recovers such excess payments prior to the required notification date, or, for agents or brokers who are no longer appointed with the company, the company has made reasonable efforts to recover such excess payments, it need not make such notification. At that time, the company shall report the reason the company exceeded the limit, the number of agents and brokers to whom payments in excess of the limit were made, and the amount of money paid in excess of the limit, and shall describe the actions the company will take promptly to prevent any further instances of it exceeding this limit.

(A) If the superintendent finds that the company is not taking the actions it described to prevent any further instances of exceeding a limit in subsection (d) of this section, the superintendent may require that the company file for prior approval future changes to compensation arrangements and plans, for a period not to exceed one year.

(B) In addition to the actions set forth in the preceding subparagraph, and upon finding that a company's actions constitute a willful violation of the provisions of subsection (d) of this section, the superintendent is authorized to impose a fine on the company in an amount not to exceed the lesser of one thousand dollars per violation or three times the amount of any overpayments that are found to constitute a willful violation.

(C) Any action under subparagraph (A) of this paragraph or any fine or penalty under subparagraph (B) of this paragraph shall be ordered by the superintendent only after notice and hearing.

(g) The following rules shall apply, beginning on the effective date of this section, for the periods of time indicated in this subsection:

(1) With respect to commissions paid by the company to an agent subsequent to the fourth policy or contract year on business in force on the effective date of this subsection, any increase in such commission within four years of the effective date of this subsection, provided the increase is contingent upon the volume of new business written by such agent, in excess of one percent of periodic premiums and considerations incurred in each such year with respect to such business in force on the effective date of this subsection, shall be treated as expense allowance payments in determining the maximum amount of expense allowance that can be paid to such an agent in that year.

(2) With respect to fund-based compensation paid by the company to an agent subsequent to the fourth policy or contract year on business in force on the effective date of this subsection, any increase in such fund-based compensation within four years of the effective date of this subsection, provided the increase is contingent upon the volume of new business written by such agent, in excess of three-tenths of one percent annually of the funds of such policies or contracts, shall be treated as expense allowance payments in determining the maximum amount of expense allowance that can be paid to such agent in that year.

(3) Any company that, as of any part of the year before the effective date of this subsection, was using a plan approved by the superintendent for any plan of renewal commissions, including such plan that, in whole or in part, conditions the payment of such commissions upon the efficiency of service of the agent receiving the commissions or upon the amount and quality of the business renewed under his supervision, may, notwithstanding the limits of paragraph three of subsection (d) of this section, continue to employ such plan, consistent with the terms of its approval, for a period of four years after the effective date of this subsection.

(4) A company may, for a period of one year after the effective date of this subsection, continue to employ any plan of compensation, including any expense allowance plan, that it was using as of the effective date, unless the superintendent shall determine that such plan was not approvable at the time it was placed in effect.

(5) For the first year after the effective date, the total selling expense limit described in subsection (c) of this section shall be increased by five percent of the sum of the amounts determined pursuant to subparagraphs (A), (B), (C), (D), (E), (F), (G), (H), and (I) of paragraph four of subsection (c) of this section.

(h) No company shall offer for sale any life insurance policy form or annuity contract form covered by this section or any debit life insurance policy form which shall not appear to be self-supporting on reasonable assumptions as to interest, mortality, persistency, taxes, agents' and brokers' survival and expenses resulting from the sale of the policy or contract form. For all such forms offered for sale in this state, and for all forms filed for use outside this state by domestic life insurance companies, a statement that the requirements of this subsection have been met, signed by an actuary who is a member in good standing of the American Academy of Actuaries and meets the requirements prescribed by the superintendent by regulation shall be submitted with each such life insurance policy or annuity contract form filed pursuant to paragraph one or six of subsection (b) of section three thousand two hundred one of this chapter. A demonstration supporting each such statement, signed by an actuary meeting such qualifications, shall be retained in the company's home office, while such form is being offered in this state and for a period of six years thereafter and be available for inspection. The superintendent shall promulgate a regulation establishing the guidelines applicable to such demonstration.

§ 4230. Salaries and pensions to officers and employees. (a) No domestic life insurance company shall pay any salary, compensation or emolument in any amount to any officer, deemed by a committee or committees of the board to be a principal officer pursuant to subsection (b) of section one thousand two hundred two of this chapter, or to any salaried employee of the company if the level of compensation to be paid to such employee is equal to, or greater than, the compensation received by any of its principal officers, or to any trustee or director thereof, unless such payment be first authorized by a vote of the board of directors of such company.

(b) (1) No such company shall make any agreement with any of its officers or salaried employees whereby it agrees that for any services rendered or to be rendered he or she shall receive any salary, compensation or emolument that will extend beyond a period of sixty months from the date of such agreement, except that payment of the salary or other compensation of any of its officers or employees, other than a mechanic, worker or laborer, may by written contract be deferred beyond such period of sixty months, which contract may include conditions to be met by such officer or employee before payment will be made.

(2) Paragraph one of this subsection shall not apply to contracts by the company with its agents for the payment of first year or renewal commissions and additional compensation as provided in section four thousand two hundred twenty-eight of this article.

(3) Paragraph one of this subsection shall not apply to any long-term incentive compensation plan offered to any officer or employee of such company which has been approved by the board of directors, is based in whole or in part upon the financial performance of the company and is submitted for informational purposes to the superintendent prior to its implementation.

(c) No principal officer or employee of the class described in subsection (a) hereof who is paid a salary for his services shall receive any other compensation, bonus or emolument from such company, directly or indirectly, except in accordance with a plan recommended by a committee of the board pursuant to subsection (b) of section one thousand two hundred two of this chapter and approved by the board of directors.

(d) No such company shall grant any pension to any officer, trustee or director thereof or to any member of his family after his death, except that such company may pursuant to the terms of a retirement plan adopted by the board of directors of such company, provide for any person who is or has been a salaried officer or employee of such company, a pension payable at the time of his retirement by reason of age or disability, and also life insurance benefits payable at his death.

§ 4231. Policyholder's participation in surplus of life insurance companies. (a) (1) Except as herein otherwise provided, every domestic life insurance company shall ascertain and distribute annually, and not otherwise, the proportion of any surplus accruing upon every participating insurance policy and annuity or pure endowment contract entitled as hereinafter provided to share therein, issued on or after the first day of January, nineteen hundred seven.

(2) Upon the thirty-first day of December of each year, or as soon thereafter as practicable, every such company shall ascertain the surplus earned by it during such year.

(3) After setting aside from such surplus such sums as may be required for the payment of authorized dividends upon the capital stock, if any, such sums as may properly be held for account of outstanding deferred dividend policies, if any, and such sums as may be deemed advisable for the accumulation of a surplus not in excess of the maximum prescribed in this chapter, every such company shall thereupon apportion the remainder of such earnings, if any, derived from participating policies and contracts, equitably to all policies or contracts entitled to share therein during the full dividend year adopted by the company for such purpose. Such apportionment shall not after the first policy year be made contingent upon the payment of the whole or any part of the premium for any subsequent policy year.

(4) No dividend shall be apportioned or distributed for the first policy or contract year unless, upon reasonable assumptions as to expenses, mortality, policy and contract claims, investment income and lapses, it was actually earned for such year; nor shall any such company defer the apportionment and distribution of dividends beyond the calendar year following that in which they were earned, except that any such company which in good faith apportions and distributes its divisible surplus (except on policies issued on a deferred dividend basis prior to the first day of January, nineteen hundred seven, and continued as such thereafter) on an annual basis as dividends to all classes of policies and contracts entitled to share therein, may apportion and distribute all or any part of its accumulated surplus, in excess of its required minimum surplus, as a part of its dividends apportioned and distributed on an annual basis, or, with the approval of the superintendent, at reasonable intervals with respect to any policy or contract or on its termination by death, maturity or surrender, as additional or extra dividends in an amount deemed by him not inequitable in proportion to the annual dividends paid in preceding years on such policies or contracts. When this apportionment and distribution at reasonable intervals, for a class of industrial life insurance policies, takes the form of an equitable addition to the death benefit, the superintendent need not require any addition to the cash surrender values of the policies, anything in this chapter to the contrary notwithstanding.

(5) Dividends apportioned as aforesaid in the case of a policy or contract, other than an industrial life insurance policy, issued on or after the first day of January, nineteen hundred seven, shall, unless otherwise provided in the policy or contract, be payable at the option of the company, either upon the anniversary of the policy or contract next after each thirty-first day of December, or upon the anniversary of the policy or contract next following each thirtieth day of April; and in every case after the first policy or contract year shall be payable upon the sole condition that premium or stipulated payments of the policy or contract year current upon said respective dates shall have been completed.

(b) (1) Except as hereinafter provided, the dividend so apportioned in the case of any participating policy or contract issued on or after the first day of January, nineteen hundred seven, shall, at the option of the person entitled to elect such option, be either:

(A) payable in cash except that cash payment will not be required for a policy or contract qualified for special tax treatment under subsection (b) of section four hundred three of the Internal Revenue Code to the extent that such payment would prevent such qualification or for a policy or contract with respect to which the superintendent has determined that cash payment of dividends would be inappropriate, or

(B) applicable to the payment of any premium or premiums upon said policy or contract, or

(C) applicable to the purchase of a paid-up addition thereto, or

(D) permitted to accumulate to the credit of the policy or contract, at such rate of interest as shall be allowed by the company, and, with such interest shall be payable upon the maturity of the policy or contract, or shall be withdrawable in cash on any anniversary of the date of issue thereof.

(2) Where subparagraph (A) of paragraph one hereof has been selected and payment cannot be effected by the company, the funds shall be applied under option subparagraph (C) or (D) of such paragraph, as determined by the company.

(3) Such company shall, unless an election has previously been made, require such person to elect the manner in which such dividends shall be applied, as above provided, by mailing a written notice of the amount of the said dividends and the options available as aforesaid in a sealed envelope in the manner required by paragraph one of subsection (b) of section three thousand two hundred eleven of this chapter.

(4) In case the person entitled to elect such option shall fail to notify the company in writing of his election within three months after the date of the mailing of said notice, the dividends shall, except as otherwise herein provided, be applied by the company pursuant to the option specified in subparagraph (C) of paragraph one hereof.

(5) In the case of any extended term or reduced paid-up insurance, the dividends so apportioned shall be applicable as provided in the policy with the approval of the superintendent.

(6) In the case of any individual term policy and of every individual participating annuity, other than an annuity described in paragraph eight of this subsection, or pure endowment contract, the dividends so apportioned shall be applicable, at the election of the holder of such policy or contract, in accordance with the options specified in subparagraph (A) or (B) of paragraph one of this subsection or if the policy or contract so provides, subparagraph (D) of paragraph one of this subsection. In the case of any such term policy or annuity or pure endowment contract, the requirement as to notice of election hereinbefore specified shall be applicable, but the option which shall be applied in case the holder of such contract fails to make such election shall be determined by the company with the approval of the superintendent.

(7) In the case of any participating group policy of life insurance or any participating group or blanket policy of accident and health insurance, or of any participating group annuity contract, other than an annuity described in paragraph eight of this subsection, the dividend so apportioned shall, at the option of the policyholder or holder of the master contract, be applied pursuant to subparagraph (A) or (B) of paragraph one of this subsection. Any dividend so apportioned on any such participating group insurance policy, or any rate reduction made or continued on any non-participating group insurance policy for the first or any subsequent year of insurance under any such policy issued to an employer, may be applied to reduce the employer's part of the cost of such policy, except that the excess, if any, of the employees' aggregate contribution under the policy over the net cost of the insurance shall be applied by the employer for the sole benefit of the employees.

(8) In the case of any individual or group participating immediate annuity and of any individual or group participating deferred annuity in which each consideration paid into the annuity purchases guaranteed paid-up annuity benefits determined at the time the consideration is paid, the dividend so apportioned shall be applicable, at the election of the holder of the individual contract or group certificate, in accordance with the options specified in subparagraph (A), (B) or (C) of paragraph one of this subsection or if the contract or certificate so provides, subparagraph (D) of paragraph one of this subsection.

(c) (1) In the case of participating industrial life insurance policies, the provisions of subsection (b) hereof specifying the options available to the policyholder with respect to the mode of application or payment of such dividends, and requiring notice of such options, and specifying the option effective in the absence of election, shall not be applicable.

(2) The dividends apportioned on such policies pursuant to this section shall be distributed annually except as provided in subsection (a) hereof in such manner as may be determined by the company, with the approval of the superintendent. Such dividends shall be paid or applied upon the first day of January of each year upon the sole condition that the premium payments for the next preceding calendar year have been completed, except that the company may, at its option, exclude the premium payments within the period of grace as a condition for payment or application of such dividends.

(3) Participating endowment policies which, by their terms, mature in twenty or more years and which are for amounts of less than one thousand dollars and which are subject to the provisions of section three thousand two hundred three of this chapter, may be issued without including the provisions of subsection (b) hereof specifying the option available to the policyholder with respect to the mode of application or payment of such dividend, and requiring notice of such option and specifying the option effective in the absence of application, and if so issued the dividend shall be paid in cash.

(d) In addition to all other grounds provided in or pursuant to this chapter for the refusal to issue or renew a license to do business in this state and for the revocation of an existing license to do business in this state, no foreign or alien life insurance company shall be or continue to be authorized to do business in this state, unless it shall provide in every participating life insurance policy and in every participating annuity or pure endowment contract issued or delivered by it in this state that the proportion of the divisible surplus accruing upon such policy or contract shall be ascertained and distributed annually and not otherwise, except as otherwise provided in this section for domestic life insurance companies.

(e) (1) Any domestic mutual life insurance company may issue on a non-participating basis, subject to the other requirements of this chapter, any policies and contracts described in paragraph two of subsection (g) of this section and deferred annuity contracts providing a period of deferment of annuity payments not in excess of one year. No domestic mutual life insurance company shall issue non-participating policies or contracts, other than those specified in the preceding sentence, unless it has a special revocable permit from the superintendent to do so. Any such company may apply to the superintendent for such a permit. Such application shall be in the form prescribed by the superintendent and contain or be accompanied by a statement showing the manner in which any general outlays of the company are to be apportioned to participating and non-participating business and such other information as the superintendent may require for the purpose of determining whether its methods of operation are fair and equitable to its participating and non-participating policyholders. Such company shall keep separate books and records of its participating and non-participating business. The superintendent may prescribe the form in which such books and records shall be kept.

(2) Within the meaning of this subsection any domestic stock life insurance company shall be deemed to be a domestic mutual life insurance company if and after ninety-five percent or more of its outstanding capital stock is, pursuant to section seven thousand three hundred two of this chapter or any former insurance law, held in trust for the exclusive benefit of the holders of the policies and contracts of such insurance company.

(3) Foreign or alien mutual life insurance companies authorized to do business in this state may deliver or issue for delivery in this state non-participating policies and contracts of the same kinds and subject to the same requirements provided for domestic mutual life insurers in paragraph one of this subsection.

(f) (1) No domestic stock life insurance company shall deliver or issue for delivery in this state both participating and non-participating policies or contracts and no foreign or alien stock life insurance company shall deliver or issue for delivery in this state any participating policy or contract unless it has a special permit from the superintendent to do so.

(2) Any such company authorized to do business in this state may apply to the superintendent for such a permit. Such application shall be in the form prescribed by and contain information the superintendent requires. Such application shall contain or be accompanied by:

(A) If such applicant has done any participating business prior to the making of such application, a statement showing the profits and losses, expense limits and expenses with reference to its participating and its non-participating business, if any, and the manner in which any general outlays of the company have been and are being apportioned to each of such kinds of business, and such other information as the superintendent may require for the purpose of determining whether its method of operation is fair and equitable to its participating policyholders.

(B) An agreement by such company, evidenced by a resolution of its board of directors or other appropriate body having power to bind such corporation and its shareholders, to the effect that, so long as any outstanding participating policies or contracts of such company are held by persons resident in the state of New York, no profits on participating policies and contracts in excess of the larger of ten percent of such profits, or fifty cents per year per thousand dollars of participating life insurance other than group term insurance in force at the end of the year, shall inure to the benefit of the stockholders; and that the profits on its participating policies and annuity contracts shall be ascertained by allocating to such policies and annuity contracts specific items of gain, expense or loss attributable to such policies and contracts and an equitable proportion of the general gains or outlays of the company.

(3) (A) Upon the filing of such application and accompanying documents, the superintendent may, in his discretion, issue a revocable permit to such company authorizing it to issue participating policies and contracts in this state.

(B) If the superintendent finds, after notice and hearing, that any such company has failed to comply with the agreement specified in subparagraph (B) of paragraph two hereof, he may, in his discretion, revoke the permit of such company to do a participating business in this state, and he may, in addition thereto, in the case of a domestic stock life insurance company, order such company to cease issuing any new participating policies elsewhere in the continental United States, and in the case of a foreign or alien company, order such company to cease issuing any new policies in this state.

(C) Any violation of such an order shall constitute a violation of this chapter.

(4) (A) In every annual statement made by any such company to the superintendent after the issuance of such permit, and so long as its agreement pursuant to subparagraph (B) of paragraph two hereof is in force, such company shall exhibit the amount of participating policyholders' surplus.

(B) Such participating policyholders' surplus shall be used only for the payment or apportionment of dividends to participating policyholders at least to the extent hereinbefore required, or for the purpose of making up any loss on the participating policies of such company.

(C) Nothing herein contained shall be deemed to give any class of policyholders priority with respect to the assets of any such company in liquidation.

(5) This subsection shall not apply to any foreign or alien stock life insurance company if and after ninety-five percent or more of its outstanding capital stock is wholly owned by a non-profit corporation, or by any other person or persons, who or which holds such stock in trust for the exclusive benefit of the holders of the policies and contracts of such insurance company; but no such insurance company shall be authorized to do business in this state if it thereafter issues any new non-participating policies or contracts, except as provided in subsection (g) hereof.

(g) (1) The inclusion in any life or accident and health insurance policy, or in any annuity or pure endowment contract, or in any funding agreement, of any provision to the effect that the owner thereof shall participate in the surplus of the company issuing such policy or contract, shall be deemed to make such policy or contract a participating one, with the following exceptions:

(A) Both participating and non-participating policies or contracts or agreements may provide that in addition to any rate of interest guaranteed by the issuing company to be paid on deferred payments of the proceeds thereof, additional interest may be paid thereon at such rate as the company may annually declare.

(B) Any policy or contract subject to section four thousand two hundred twenty-one or section four thousand two hundred twenty-three of this article may provide that, in addition to any minimum benefits guaranteed in the contract, additional amounts may be credited to the policy or contract in accordance with section four thousand two hundred thirty-two of this article or section four thousand five hundred eighteen of this chapter. The inclusion of any such provision in any non-participating policy or contract shall not be deemed to make the policy or contract participating and the crediting of such additional amounts in accordance with the preceding provisions to any participating policy or contract shall not be deemed to be a distribution of surplus under subsections (a) and (b) of this section.

(C) Any policy of insurance or contract of annuity providing for readjustment of the rate of premium, consideration, or deposit under the provisions of paragraph two of subsection (c) of section four thousand two hundred sixteen, or of paragraphs one and two of subsection (j) of section four thousand two hundred thirty-five, or of subsection (d) of section four thousand two hundred thirty-eight of this article shall not, solely because of such rate readjustment provision, be deemed participating.

(D) Any individual life policy issued or delivered in this state may provide for prospective readjustment of the rate of premium, but the readjustment may not cause the readjusted premium to exceed the maximum guaranteed premium rate stated in the policy. The readjustment shall be determined upon reasonable assumptions as to expenses, mortality, policy and contract claims, taxes, investment income and lapses. The readjustment shall be on a basis equitable to all policy and contract holders and shall be based on written criteria approved by the board of directors of the company or a committee thereof. The rate readjustment provision shall not be deemed to make the policy participating.

(E) Readjustments in the rate of premium or stipulated contribution or consideration or deposit for any insurance policy or annuity or pure endowment contract or funding agreement, issued or delivered by a domestic life insurer within or without this state, shall be determined on the basis which is equitable to all policy or contract holders and shall be based on written criteria approved by the board of directors of the company or a committee thereof. The readjustment shall be determined upon reasonable assumptions as to expenses, mortality, policy and contract claims, taxes, investment income and lapses. Such a readjustment shall not be deemed to be a distribution of surplus under subsections (a) and (b) of this section.

(2) This section shall not require the apportionment or distribution of dividends on any deferred annuity contract for the period following the period of deferment of annuity payments, in accordance with the provisions of such contract, nor on extended term insurance, or pure endowment, which takes effect in the case of default in the payment of a premium or payment on any policy or contract, nor on any dividend additions nor on any contract or agreement of reinsurance, nor on any group annuity contract providing deferred annuities for a class or classes of participants in a pension or profit sharing plan qualified under subsection (a) of section four hundred one of the United States internal revenue code (or comparable law of any other jurisdiction) who have terminated their participation under such plan, or with respect to which class or classes further contributions have been discontinued under the plan and notice of such discontinuance has been given to the commissioner of internal revenue (or regulatory authority of such other jurisdiction).

§ 4232. Amounts credited on certain contracts or life insurance policies. (a) (1) If any contract subject to section four thousand two hundred twenty-three of this article, provides for additional amounts to be credited to the contract during any period in accordance with the provisions of paragraph one of subsection (g) of section four thousand two hundred thirty-one of this article, then any additional amounts to be so credited must be determined for each year during such period. Except as otherwise provided in the contract in accordance with section four thousand two hundred twenty-three of this article, the total amount so credited shall be available to the contract holder upon surrender of the contract for its cash surrender benefits.

(2) No such additional amounts shall be guaranteed or credited except upon: (i) reasonable assumptions as to investment income, mortality, and expenses; (ii) a basis equitable to all contract holders of a given class; and (iii) written criteria approved by the board of directors of the company or a committee thereof.

(3) Any such additional amounts credited under a group annuity contract for which certificates are subject to section four thousand two hundred twenty-three of this article shall be credited to such certificates.

(b) (1) Any individual life insurance policy may provide that in addition to any minimum benefits guaranteed in the policy, additional amounts may be credited to the policy.

(2) No such additional amounts shall be guaranteed or credited except upon reasonable assumptions as to investment income, mortality, persistency, and expenses. The declaration of such additional amounts by an insurer must be made prospectively; no such additional amounts shall be credited retroactively to apply to any period prior to such declaration.

(3) Such additional amounts are required to be credited to any policy, providing for the crediting of additional amounts, while continued under a reduced paid-up insurance option, with respect to the period after the termination or lapse of such policy by reason of default in payment of any premium, installment or interest on any policy loan and before the reinstatement of such policy, if it is reinstated. However, an insurer may use reasonable assumptions as to investment income, mortality, persistency, and expenses which differ from the assumptions used for policies in force on a premium paying basis.

(4) Any such additional amounts shall be credited on a basis equitable to all policyholders of a given class and shall be based on written criteria approved by the board of directors of the company or a committee thereof.

§ 4233. Annual statements of life insurance companies. (a) In addition to any other matter which may be required to be stated therein, either by law or by the superintendent pursuant to law, every annual statement of every life insurance company doing business in this state shall conform substantially to the form of statement adopted from time to time for such purpose by, or by the authority of, the National Association of Insurance Commissioners, together with such additions, omissions or modifications, similarly adopted from time to time, as may be approved by the superintendent.

(b) The annual statement required by subsection (a) hereof shall include an accurate, concise and complete statement of the following matters:

(1) All moneys expended in connection with any matter pending before any legislative body or any officer or department of government, giving particulars with respect to all items of one hundred dollars or more as to dates, amounts, names and addresses of payees, the measure or proceeding in connection with which the payment was made, and the interest of the company therein.

(2) The names of the officers and directors of the company and the proceedings at the last annual election of directors, giving the names of candidates and the number of votes cast for each and whether in person, by proxy or by mail.

(3) The compensation and names of the chief executive officer, the four most highly paid other executive officers, regardless of the amount of the compensation, the next five highly compensated employees whose individual total compensation exceeds one hundred thousand dollars and all directors, other than those officers or employees who may otherwise have been disclosed pursuant to this paragraph and who also serve as directors. A list of the job titles and compensation for any officer or employee not otherwise disclosed pursuant to this paragraph where the individual's total compensation is in excess of seven hundred fifty thousand dollars. Compensation shall consist of any and all remuneration paid to or on behalf of an officer, employee or director provided for in this paragraph during the year, including wages, salaries, bonuses, commissions, stock grants, gains from the exercise of stock options and any other emolument. Amounts disclosed for directors must include all compensation paid for services on the board and committees, as well as any other compensation for any other activity or service, such as consulting agreements.

(4) All banks and trust companies in which an account was maintained at any time during the year, and the balance at the end of the year, if any, carried by such company in each such bank or trust company and the largest balances carried by such company during each month of the year in each bank or trust company in which the largest balance during the year exceeded one-fortieth of one percent of admitted assets at the beginning of the year or five hundred thousand dollars, whichever is smaller.

(5) All death claims resisted or compromised by such company during the year, and, for each such case the sums insured, the sums paid and the reasons for resisting or compromising the claim.

(6) A complete statement of the gains and losses upon all of its business transacted during the year and the sources of such gains and losses. Any life insurance company which is authorized or permitted to issue in this state participating policies or contracts, and which issues in the United States both participating and non-participating policies or contracts, shall make a separate statement showing gains and losses, with respect to each of such classes of business, and also showing the manner in which any general gains and outlays of the company have been apportioned to each of such classes of business, in conformity with section four thousand two hundred thirty-one of this article. Any life insurance company issuing industrial life insurance policies shall make a similar separate statement showing gains and losses with respect to such industrial business and with respect to the company's other business and also showing the manner in which any general gains and outlays of the company have been apportioned to each of such classes of business.

(7) A statement showing separately the first year and total expense limits and the first year and total expenses, determined in accordance with section four thousand two hundred twenty-eight of this article. Any life insurance company which is authorized or permitted to issue in this state both participating and non-participating policies or contracts shall make a separate statement showing these expense limits and expenses, with respect to each of such classes of business.

(8) The rates of annual dividends declared during the year for all plans of insurance for policies issued during each of the last five years and during each fifth year of the preceding seventy years and for ages at entry, twenty-five, thirty-five, forty-five and fifty-five, and the precise method by which such dividends have been calculated.

(9) All income, disbursements and reserves relative to noncancellable disability insurance issued in connection with or supplementary to policies of life insurance or annuity contracts shall be reported in such annual statement.

(10) With respect to participating policies subject to the provisions of section four thousand two hundred twenty or four thousand two hundred twenty-one of this article upon which the reserves determined in accordance with section four thousand two hundred seventeen of this article were calculated at an interest rate lower than that used in calculating the cash surrender values permanently guaranteed for such policies:

(A) The approximate amount by which such reserves for policies issued prior to January first, nineteen hundred forty-eight, are greater than they would have been had they been computed at the interest rate used in computing the reserves for such policies as of December thirty-first, nineteen hundred forty-seven.

(B) The approximate amount by which such reserves for policies issued on and after January first, nineteen hundred forty-eight, are greater than they would have been had they been computed at the interest rate used in computing the cash surrender values permanently guaranteed for such policies.

(C) A schedule supporting the amounts shown in subparagraphs (A) and (B) hereof, in accordance with the same paragraphs as are used in reporting the reserve in the annual statement.

(D) A statement of the nature of increase, if any, in the cash surrender values and nonforfeiture benefits allowed on policies on which a default in payment of a premium occurred during the year over those permanently guaranteed for such policies and the aggregate amount in excess of guaranteed values paid out during the year on policies surrendered for cash.

(11) A statement setting forth a description of the investments, activities or other contributions of the company relating to New York state, its residents, municipalities, businesses and institutions shall be considered to fulfill the requirements of this paragraph. Investments, activities or contributions shall include, but need not be limited to: obligations of state government, its agencies, municipalities or other instrumentalities; real estate and mortgages, including financing of housing, the construction or rehabilitation of which is undertaken in conjunction with federal, state or local housing assistance programs, including the federal low-income housing tax credit program; common stock and other securities of business and industry, including existing and new small business, and commercial enterprise in state empire zones or in federal empowerment zones or enterprise communities; charitable and philanthropic contributions; activities conducted by the company to make its customers aware of the investments, activities, or other contributions described in the statement; and such other investment, activities or contributions within the intent of the requirements of this paragraph as the superintendent may deem appropriate pursuant to rules or regulations of the department.

§ 4235. Group accident and health insurance. (a) (1) Any policy of insurance against death or injury resulting from an accident which covers more than one person, except blanket accident insurance policies as defined in section four thousand two hundred thirty-seven of this article and accident and health insurance policies conforming to subsections (a), (b) and (c) of section three thousand two hundred sixteen of this chapter, shall be deemed a group accident insurance policy.

(2) Any policy which insures against disablement, disease or sickness

(excluding disablement which results from accident), and which covers more than one person, except blanket health insurance policies as defined in section four thousand two hundred thirty-seven of this article and accident and health insurance policies conforming to subsections (a), (b) and (c) of section three thousand two hundred sixteen of this chapter, shall be deemed a group health insurance policy.

(3) Any policy of insurance which combines the coverage of group accident insurance and of group health insurance shall be deemed a group accident and health insurance policy.

(b) No policy of group accident, group health or group accident and health insurance, and no certificate thereunder, shall be delivered or issued for delivery in this state unless it conforms to the requirements of section three thousand two hundred twenty-one of this chapter and with the exception of a group policy or contract of insurance issued pursuant to article nine of the workers' compensation law, unless it conforms to the requirements of subsection (c) of this section.

(c) (1) No policy of group accident, group health or group accident and health insurance shall be delivered or issued for delivery in this state unless it conforms to one of the following descriptions:

(A) A policy issued to an employer or to a trustee or trustees of a fund established by an employer, which employer or trustee or trustees shall be deemed the policyholder, insuring with or without evidence of insurability satisfactory to the insurer, employees of such employer, and insuring, except as hereinafter provided, all of such employees or all of any class or classes thereof determined by conditions pertaining to the employment or a combination of such conditions and conditions pertaining to the family status of the employee, for insurance coverage on each person insured based upon some plan which will preclude individual selection. However, such a plan may permit a limited number of selections by employees if the selections offered utilize consistent plans of coverage for individual group members so that the resulting plans of coverage are reasonable. The premium for the policy shall be paid by the policyholder, either from the employer's funds, or from funds contributed by the insured employees, or from funds contributed jointly by the employer and employees. If all or part of the premium is to be derived from funds contributed by the insured employees, then such policy must insure not less than fifty percent of such eligible employees or, if less, fifty or more of such employees when such policy is providing coverage for group hospital, medical, major medical or similar comprehensive types of expense reimbursed insurance and, for all other types of group accident and health insurance, must insure a minimum of fifty percent or five of such eligible employees, whichever is fewer.

(B) A policy issued to a trustee or trustees of a fund established by, or participated in, by the employer members of a trade association, which trustees shall be deemed the policyholder, for the sole benefit of the employees of such employers, the policy must conform subject to the following requirements:

(i) The policy may be issued only if:

(I) the association has been in existence for at least two years and was formed for purposes principally other than obtaining insurance, and

(II) the participating employers, meaning such employer members whose employees are to be insured, constitute at date of issue at least fifty percent of the total employers eligible to participate, unless the total number of persons covered at date of issue exceeds six hundred, in which event such participating employers must constitute at least twenty-five percent of such total employers, in either case omitting from consideration any employer whose employees are already insured under a similar group accident and health insurance policy.

(ii) The persons eligible for insurance under the policy shall be all of the employees of the participating employers, or all of any class or classes thereof determined by conditions pertaining to their employment.

(iii) The premium for the policy shall be paid by the trustee or trustees either from funds contributed by the employers or by the employees; or funds contributed jointly by the employers and the employees. A policy on which no part of the premium so payable is to be derived from funds contributed by the insured employees must insure all eligible employees.

(iv) The policy must cover at least fifty employees at date of issue.

(v) The insurance coverage under the policy must be based upon some plan precluding individual selection either by the employees or by the policyholder or the employer. However, such a plan may permit a number of selections by the employer if the selections offered utilize consistent plans of coverage so the resulting plans of coverage are reasonable. Furthermore, such a plan may permit a limited number of selections by employees if the selections offered utilize consistent plans of coverage for individual group members so that the resulting plans of coverage are reasonable.

(C) A policy issued to a labor union, which shall be deemed the policyholder, insuring, with or without evidence of insurability satisfactory to the insurer, members of such union and insuring, except as hereinafter provided all of such members or of any class or classes thereof determined by conditions pertaining to their employment or membership in the union or both for amounts of insurance on each person insured based on a plan precluding individual selection, provided however, such a plan may permit a limited number of selections by members if the selections offered utilize consistent plans of coverage for individual group members so that the resulting plans of coverage are reasonable, and not less than fifty percent of all eligible union or, if less, fifty or more of such eligible members are insured.

(D) A policy issued to a trustee or trustees of a fund established, or participated in, by two or more employers or by one or more labor unions, or by one or more employers and one or more labor unions, which trustee or trustees shall be deemed the policyholder, to insure employees of the employers or members of the unions for the benefit of persons other than the employers or the unions, subject to the following requirements:

(i) The persons eligible for insurance shall be all of the employees of the employers or all of the members of the unions, or all of any class or classes thereof determined by conditions pertaining to their employment, or to membership in the unions, or to both.

(ii) The premium for the policy shall be paid by the trustee or trustees either wholly from funds contributed by the employer or employers of the insured person or by the union or unions, or by both, or jointly from such funds and funds contributed by the insured persons specifically for their insurance or from contributions by the insured persons. A policy on which all or part of the premium is to be derived from funds contributed by the insured persons specifically for their insurance may be placed in force only if it insures not less than fifty percent of the then eligible persons, or, if less, fifty or more of such eligible persons excluding any as to whom evidence of individual insurability is not satisfactory to the insurer. A policy on which no part of the premium is to be derived from funds contributed by the insured persons specifically for their insurance must insure all eligible persons, excluding any as to whom evidence of individual insurability is not satisfactory to the insurer.

(iii) The policy shall insure at least fifty persons at date of issue, except that if part of the premium is to be derived from funds to be contributed by the insured persons specifically for their insurance the policy shall insure at least one hundred employees or members at date of issue.

(iv) The insurance coverage under the policy shall be based upon some plan precluding individual selection either by the insured persons or by the policyholders, employers, or unions. However, with respect to a policyholder, employer or union, such plan may permit a number of selections by the policyholder, employer or union, if the selections offered utilize consistent plans of coverage so that the resulting plans of coverage are reasonable. Furthermore, such a plan may permit a limited number of selections by insured persons if the selections offered utilize consistent plans of coverage for individual group members so that the resulting plans of coverage are reasonable.

(v) With respect to a policy issued to a trustee or trustees of a fund established by one or more labor unions, or by one or more employers and one or more labor unions the proposed insured must submit, and the insurer must obtain, a written certification that a reasonable number of comparative bids have been obtained from different insurers and that such bids have been considered by the trustees before making a decision concerning which bid to accept. Such decision must be made at a trustees' meeting held on a date certain, and a copy of the minutes of such meeting must be attached to such certification.

(E) A policy issued to a creditor, vendor, (including the parent holding company of such creditor or vendor), trustee, trustees or agent insuring a group of debtors or vendees, (including coverage on the spouse of a debtor or vendee), all as defined and set forth in paragraph three of subsection (b) of section four thousand two hundred sixteen of this article and under the same conditions and limitations and subject to the definitions as specified therein; provided, however, that the amount of indemnity payable with respect to any person insured thereunder shall not at any time exceed:

(i) in all cases except as hereinafter provided the lesser of thirty thousand dollars and the amount of unpaid indebtedness due from or the amount of the purchase price unpaid by such person;

(ii) in the case of a loan commitment pursuant to a program for defraying the cost of attendance of a student at a college or university or at an elementary or secondary school providing education required for minors as described in said paragraph, the lesser of thirty thousand dollars and the total of the unpaid balance of the scheduled periodic payments whether due or not due and the amount of any outstanding loan commitment pursuant to such a program; or

(iii) in the case of a transaction secured by a real estate mortgage, the lesser of the sum of seventy-five thousand dollars and the amount of the indebtedness so secured.

(F) A policy issued to a social services district pursuant to section three hundred sixty-seven-a of the social services law.

(G) A policy issued to the state of New York insuring, with or without evidence of individual insurability satisfactory to the insurer, persons who are managerial or confidential employees, or retired managerial or confidential employees, of governments or public employers for the purposes of article fourteen of the civil service law. The state shall be deemed to be the policyholder. With respect to its employees, the state and each other participating government or public employer shall be deemed to be the employer. The premiums on such policy may be paid by the employer, by the employees, or by the employer and employees jointly. If the premiums are derived from funds contributed wholly by the employer, the policy must insure all eligible employees. If all or part of the premium is to be derived from funds contributed by insured employees, then such policy must insure not less than forty percent of such employees, the calculation being with respect to each employer individually. The insurance coverage may be based upon a plan which permits a limited number of selections by the employees. The provisions of subsections (d), (h), (i) and (j) hereof shall not apply to a policy issued pursuant to this subparagraph.

(H) A policy issued to an association, or to a trustee or trustees of a fund established, created or maintained for the benefit of members of one or more associations, all of whose eligible members have the same profession, trade or occupation, which association or associations have been organized and maintained in good faith for purposes principally other than that of obtaining insurance and have been in active existence for at least two years. The policy shall insure members, or employees of members, of such association or associations for the benefit of persons other than employers and the association or associations, or any officials, representatives, trustees or agents thereof and shall provide for the issuance of a certificate to the persons insured or such beneficiary as evidence of such insurance. The members or employees eligible for the insurance under the policy shall be all the members, or all the members and their employees, or all of any class or classes thereof determined by conditions pertaining to their employment or to association membership or both. The premiums for the policy shall be paid from association or members' funds, or partly from such funds and partly from funds contributed by the insured individuals, or from funds wholly contributed by the insured individuals. A policy on which all or part of the premium is to be derived from funds contributed by the insured individuals specifically for their insurance must insure at least fifty percent of the then eligible individuals or a minimum of two hundred individuals, whichever is less, excluding any as to whom evidence of individual insurability is not satisfactory to the insurer. A policy on which no part of the premium is to be derived from funds contributed by the insured individuals specifically for their insurance must cover all eligible individuals, excluding any as to whom evidence of individual insurability is not satisfactory to the insurer. In every case the policy must cover at least one hundred individuals at date of issue. The insurance coverage on employees insured under the policy shall be based upon some plan precluding individual selection. However, with respect to such fund, or association or associations, such a plan may permit a number of selections by the fund, association or associations if the selections offered utilize consistent plans of coverage so that the resulting plans of coverage are reasonable. Furthermore, such a plan may permit a limited number of selections offered by employees or members if the selections offered utilize consistent plans of coverage for individual group members so that the resulting plans of coverage are reasonable. If a policy dividend is declared or a reduction in rate is made under such a policy, the excess, if any, of the aggregate dividends or rate reductions under the policy over the aggregate expenditure for insurance under such policy made from association or employer funds, including expenditures made in connection with administration of such policy, shall be applied by the policyholder for the sole benefit of the insured individuals. A policy issued pursuant to this subparagraph shall provide a conversion privilege no less favorable than that provided for in subsection (e) of section three thousand two hundred twenty-one of this chapter.

(I) A policy insuring persons employed under 32 U.S.C. § 709, members of the national guard on full-time training duty under title 32 of the United States Code, or on active duty or active duty for training under title 10 of the United States Code, under the full-time manning program, issued to the adjutant general, who shall be deemed the policyholder, or to a trustee or trustees of a fund established, created, or maintained for the benefit of such individuals insured, which trustee or trustees shall be deemed the policyholder, the premium of which is to be paid by the individuals insured either directly or by deduction from wages or salary. The policy must insure at least fifty percent or four hundred of the individuals eligible for such insurance, whichever is less. Such policy shall provide for the payment of benefits, to the individual insured or to some beneficiary or beneficiaries other than to the aforesaid trustees or the adjutant general. The policy shall also provide for the issuance of a certificate of insurance to the individual insured or to such beneficiary, as evidence of such insurance. The insurance coverage may be based upon a plan which permits a limited number of selections by the insured member, if the selections offered utilize consistent plans of coverage so that the resulting plans of coverage are reasonable.

(J) Under a policy issued by an insurer to a trustee or to the trustees of a trust, established or adopted by two or more individuals who are entitled to a right of conversion, pursuant to subsection (e) of section three thousand two hundred twenty-one of this chapter or under the terms of a contract covering residents of New York, which trustee or trustees shall be deemed to be the policyholder, to insure such individuals, subject to the following requirements:

(i) The policy must cover at least twenty-five individuals during the first policy year.

(ii) The benefits provided under the policy shall be those required by subsection (f), (g) or (h) of section three thousand two hundred twenty-one of this chapter.

(iii) In lieu of the coverage requirements of subsections (k) and (l) of section three thousand two hundred twenty-one of this chapter and subparagraphs (B), (C), (D), (E) and (F) of paragraph four of subsection (f) of this section, the coverage requirements of paragraphs one through ten of subsection (i) and the requirements of subsection (j) of section three thousand two hundred sixteen of this chapter shall be applicable to such policy.

(iv) If a policy dividend is declared or a reduction in rate is made under such a policy, it shall be applied by the policyholder for the sole benefit of the insured individuals.

(K) A policy issued to an association or the trustee or trustees of a trust established, or participated in, by one or more associations, to insure association members, subject to the following:

(i) Each association shall have:

(I) A minimum of two hundred insured members at the policy's date of issue;

(II) Been organized and maintained in good faith for purposes principally other than that of obtaining insurance;

(III) Been in active existence for at least two years; and

(IV) A constitution and by-laws which provide that:

(aa) The association hold regular meetings not less than annually to further the purposes of the association;

(bb) The association collect dues or solicit contributions from members; and

(cc) The members have voting privileges and representation on the governing board and committees.

(ii) The premium for the policy shall be paid by the association or the trustees either wholly from funds contributed by the association or by the insured individuals, or from funds contributed jointly by the association and insured individuals. A policy on which no part of the premium is to be derived from funds contributed by the insured individuals specifically for their insurance must insure all eligible individuals excluding any as to whom evidence of individual insurability is not satisfactory to the insurer.

(iii) The amount of insurance under the policy shall be based upon some plan precluding individual selection either by the insured members or by the association. However, with respect to an association, such a plan may permit a number of selections by the association if the selections offered utilize consistent plans of insurance so that the resulting plans of coverage are reasonable. Furthermore, such a plan may permit a limited number of selections by insured members if the selections offered utilize consistent plans of insurance for individual group members so that the resulting plans of coverage are reasonable.

(iv) Except as provided in subsection (e) of this section, such policy shall provide for the payment of benefits to the person insured or to some beneficiary or beneficiaries other than the association or any officials, representatives, trustees or agents thereof and shall provide for the issuance of a certificate to the association for delivery to the member or such beneficiary, as evidence of such insurance.

(v) The premiums charged must be reasonable in relation to the benefits provided.

(L) A policy issued to any organization, or the trustee or trustees of a trust established, or participated in, by one or more of such organizations, to insure certain persons subject to the following:

(i) The organization must be:

(I) A bank, retailer or other issuer of a credit card, charge card or payment card which can be used to buy goods or services, and the policy must insure holders of that card;

(II) A bank, savings and loan association, credit union, mutual fund, money market fund, stockbroker or other similar financial institution regulated by state or federal law, and the policy must insure the depositors, account holders or members of that institution.

(ii) Except for a credit union where the premium shall be paid entirely from funds contributed by the credit union, the organization or organizations shall have a minimum of two hundred insured persons at the policy's date of issue.

(iii) The premium for the policy shall be paid by the organization or trustees either wholly from funds contributed by the organization or by the insured individuals, or from funds contributed jointly by the organization and insured individuals. A policy on which no part of the premium is to be derived from funds contributed by the insured individuals specifically for their insurance must cover all eligible individuals excluding any as to whom evidence of individual insurability is not satisfactory to the insurer.

(iv) The amounts of insurance under the policy shall be based upon some plan precluding individual selection either by the insured persons or by the organization. However, with respect to an organization, such a plan may permit a number of selections by the organization if the selections offered utilize consistent plans of insurance so that the resulting plans of coverage are reasonable. Furthermore, such a plan may permit a limited number of selections by members if the selections offered utilize consistent plans of grading the amounts of insurance for individual group members so that the resulting plans of coverage are reasonable.

(v) Except as provided in subsection (e) of this section, such policy shall provide for the payment of benefits to the person insured or to some beneficiary or beneficiaries other than the organization, or any officials, representatives, trustees or agents thereof, and shall provide for the issuance of a certificate to the persons insured or such beneficiary, as evidence of such insurance.

(vi) The premium charged must be reasonable in relation to the benefits provided.

(M) A policy issued to insure any other group approved by the superintendent upon a finding that: (i) there is a common enterprise or economic or social affinity or relationship; (ii) the premiums charged are reasonable in relation to the benefits provided; and (iii) the issuance of the policy would result in economies of acquisition or administration, would be actuarially sound, and would not be contrary to the best interest of the public. The superintendent shall promulgate regulations setting forth any such groups that have been accepted as qualifying pursuant to this subparagraph.

(N) A policy issued to a continuing care retirement community covering at least fifty percent of the residents of the community, in conjunction with a continuing care retirement contract described in section four thousand six hundred one of the public health law.

(2) For the purpose of complying with the participation requirements prescribed in subparagraphs (A), (B), (C), (D) and (G) of paragraph one of this subsection, the provisions of this subsection are to be construed as permitting the issuance of more than one policy or contract when offered as alternatives to the eligible employees or members.

(3) (A) Any dividend hereafter apportioned on any participating group insurance policy, or any rate reduction hereafter made or continued on any non-participating group policy for the first or any subsequent year of insurance under any such policy heretofore or hereafter issued under subparagraph (K), (L) or (M) of paragraph one of this subsection, may be applied to reduce the policyholder's part of the cost of such policy, except that the excess, if any, of the insured's aggregate contribution under the policy over the net cost (gross premium less dividends or rate reductions) of the insurance shall be applied at the discretion of the insurer either as a cash payment to the insured or to reduce the insured's premium, unless the insured assigns the dividend or rate reduction to the policyholder. If a dividend or rate reduction is payable upon termination of the policy the insurer shall either make payment to the insured or to the policyholder upon receipt of a certification from the policyholder that the dividend or rate reduction will be distributed by the policyholder to the insureds or applied to reduce the insured's premium.

(B) The provisions of subparagraph (A) of this paragraph shall apply to New York residents insured under a policy issued in any other jurisdiction to a group which is not of the type described in subparagraphs (A) through (J) of paragraph one of this subsection.

(d) (1) In this section, for the purpose of insurance other than for group hospital, medical, major medical or similar comprehensive-types of expense reimbursed insurance hereunder: "employees" includes the officers, managers, employees and retired employees of the employer and of subsidiary or affiliated corporations of a corporate employer, and the individual proprietors, partners, employees and retired employees of affiliated individuals and firms controlled by the insured employer through stock ownership, contract or otherwise; "employees" may be deemed to include the individual proprietor or partners if the employer is an individual proprietor or a partnership; and "employees" as used in subparagraph (A) of paragraph one of subsection (c) hereof may also include the directors of the employer and of subsidiary or affiliated corporations of a corporate employer.

(2) In this section "employer" may include any municipal corporation, or the proper officers, as such, of any unincorporated municipality, or any department of such corporation or municipality determined by conditions pertaining to the employment.

(3) In this section, for the purpose of group hospital, medical, major medical or similar comprehensive-types of expense reimbursed insurance hereunder:

(A) "employee" shall have the meaning set forth in the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, 29 U.S.C. § 1002(6); and

(B) "full-time employee" means with respect to any month, an employee who is employed on average for at least thirty hours of service per week as set forth in section 4980H(c)(4) of the internal revenue code, 26 U.S.C. § 4980H(c)(4), or any regulations promulgated thereunder.

(e) The benefits payable under the policy shall be payable to the employee or other insured member of the group or to some beneficiary or beneficiaries designated by him, other than the employer or the association or any officer thereof as such; but if there is no designated beneficiary as to all or any part of the insurance benefits at the death of the employee or member, then the benefits payable for which there is no designated beneficiary shall be payable to the estate of the employee or member, except that the insurer may in such case, at its option, pay such insurance to any one or more of the following surviving relatives of the employee or member: wife, husband, mother, father, child or children, brothers or sisters; and except that payment of benefits for expenses incurred on account of hospitalization or medical or surgical aid, may be made by the insurer to the hospital or other person or persons furnishing such aid, and the payment of benefits for expenses incurred on account of hospitalization or medical or surgical aid after the death of an employee or other member of the insured group for such person's spouse, child or children, or other person chiefly dependent upon him for support or maintenance, may be made by the insurer to the surviving spouse or otherwise as the policy may provide. Payment so made shall discharge the insurer's obligation with respect to the amount of insurance so paid.

(f) (1) (A) Any policy of group accident, group health or group accident and health insurance may include provisions for the payment by the insurer of benefits for expenses incurred on account of hospital, medical or surgical care or physical and occupational therapy by licensed physical and occupational therapists upon the prescription or referral of a physician for the employee or other member of the insured group, the employee's or member's spouse, the employee's or member's child or children, or other persons chiefly dependent upon the employee or member for support and maintenance; provided that:

(i) a policy of hospital, medical, surgical, or prescription drug expense insurance that provides coverage for children shall provide such coverage to a married or unmarried child until attainment of age twenty-six, without regard to financial dependence, residency with the employee or member, student status, or employment, except a policy that is a grandfathered health plan may, for plan years beginning before January first, two thousand fourteen, exclude coverage of an adult child under age twenty-six who is eligible to enroll in an employer-sponsored health plan other than a group health plan of a parent. For purposes of this item, "grandfathered health plan" means coverage provided by an insurer in which an individual was enrolled on March twenty-third, two thousand ten for as long as the coverage maintains grandfathered status in accordance with section 1251(e) of the Affordable Care Act, 42 U.S.C. § 18011(e); and

(ii) a policy under which coverage terminates at a specified age shall not so terminate with respect to an unmarried child who is incapable of self-sustaining employment by reason of mental illness, developmental disability, as defined in the mental hygiene law, or physical handicap and who became so incapable prior to attainment of the age at which coverage would otherwise terminate and who is chiefly dependent upon such employee or member for support and maintenance, while the insurance of the employee or member remains in force and the child remains in such condition, if the insured employee or member has within thirty-one days of such child's attainment of the termination age submitted proof of such child's incapacity as described herein.

(B) In addition to the requirements of subparagraph (A) of this paragraph, every insurer issuing a group policy of hospital, medical or surgical expense insurance pursuant to this section that provides coverage for children, must make available and if requested by the policyholder, extend coverage under the policy to an unmarried child through age twenty-nine, without regard to financial dependence who is not insured by or eligible for coverage under any employer health benefit plan as an employee or member, whether insured or self-insured, and who lives, works or resides in New York state or the service area of the insurer. Such coverage shall be made available at the inception of all new policies and with respect to all other policies at any anniversary date. Written notice of the availability of such coverage shall be delivered to the policyholder prior to the inception of such group policy and annually thereafter.

(2) Notwithstanding any rule, regulation or law to the contrary, any family coverage available under this article shall provide that coverage of newborn infants, including newly born infants adopted by the insured or subscriber if such insured or subscriber takes physical custody of the infant upon such infant's release from the hospital and files a petition pursuant to section one hundred fifteen-c of the domestic relations law within thirty days of birth; and provided further that no notice of revocation to the adoption has been filed pursuant to section one hundred fifteen-b of the domestic relations law and consent to the adoption has not been revoked, shall be effective from the moment of birth for injury or sickness including the necessary care and treatment of medically diagnosed congenital defects and birth abnormalities including premature birth, except that in cases of adoption, coverage of the initial hospital stay shall not be required where a birth parent has insurance coverage available for the infant's care. In the case of individual coverage the insurer must also permit the person to whom the certificate is issued to elect such coverage of newborn infants from the moment of birth. If notification and/or payment of an additional premium or contribution is required to make coverage effective for a newborn infant, the coverage may provide that such notice and/or payment be made within no less than thirty days of the day of birth to make coverage effective from the moment of birth. This election shall not be required in the case of student insurance or where the group's plan does not provide coverage for children.

(3) A policy under which coverage of a dependent spouse or named insured would terminate upon such spouse or named insured attaining the age prescribed in subchapter XVIII of the federal Social Security Act, 42 U.S.C. §§ 1395 et seq. ("Medicare"), as the age of first eligibility for the benefits provided by such law shall not so terminate, if such dependent spouse is not then eligible for all of such benefits for as long as the policy remains in force and such dependent spouse remains ineligible to receive any of such "Medicare" benefits, provided proof of such ineligibility is submitted to the insurer within thirty-one days of the date notice of termination of coverage be sent by first class mail by the insurer to the last known address of the policyholder. Any such policy may provide for the continuation of such benefit provisions, or any part or parts thereof, after the exhaustion of the benefit rights with respect to the employee or other member of the insured group, or after the death of an active or retired employee or other member of the insured group.

(4) Notwithstanding any provisions of a policy of group accident, group health or group accident and health insurance, whenever such policy provides for reimbursement for:

(A) any physical and occupational therapy service which is within the lawful scope of practice of a licensed physical and occupational therapist, a subscriber to such policy shall be entitled to reimbursement for such service, whether the said service is performed by a physician or licensed physical and occupational therapist pursuant to prescription or referral by a physician;

(B) any podiatrical service which is within the lawful scope of practice of a licensed podiatrist, a subscriber to such policy shall be entitled to reimbursement for such service, whether the said service is performed by a physician or licensed podiatrist and when such policy or any certificate issued thereunder is delivered or issued for delivery without this state by an authorized insurer, covered persons residing in this state shall be entitled to reimbursement for podiatric services as herein provided;

(C) any optometric service which is within the lawful scope of practice of a licensed optometrist, a subscriber to such policy shall be entitled to reimbursement for such service, whether the said service is performed by a physician or licensed optometrist and when such policy or any certificate issued thereunder or delivered or issued for delivery without the state by an authorized insurer so provides, covered persons residing in this state shall be entitled to reimbursement for that service which may be rendered by an optometrist as herein provided. Unless such policy shall otherwise provide, there shall be no reimbursement for ophthalmic materials, lenses, spectacles, eyeglasses, and/or appurtenances thereto;

(D) any dental service which is within the lawful scope of practice of a licensed dentist, a subscriber to such policy shall be entitled to reimbursement for such service whether the said service is performed by a physician or licensed dentist and when such policy or any certificate issued thereunder or delivered or issued for delivery without the state by an authorized insurer so provides, covered persons residing in this state shall be entitled to reimbursement for dental services as herein provided;

(E) The services of licensed health professionals who can bill for services, a subscriber to such policy shall be entitled to reimbursement for such service provided pursuant to a clinical practice plan established pursuant to subdivision fourteen of section two hundred six of the public health law;

(F) any speech-language pathology or audiology service which is within the lawful scope of practice of a duly licensed speech-language pathologist or audiologist, a subscriber to such policy shall be entitled to reimbursement for such service whether the said service is performed by a physician or duly licensed speech-language pathologist or audiologist, provided however, that nothing contained herein shall be construed to impair any terms of such policy which may require said service to be performed pursuant to a medical order, or a similar or related service of a physician, in which case coverage need not be provided for any tests, evaluations or diagnoses if such tests, evaluations or diagnoses have already been provided by or through a physician within twelve months of the referral or order from the physician. However, nothing herein shall be construed as preventing an insurer from covering more than one test or evaluation provided by a speech-language pathologist or audiologist within a twelve-month period where such test or evaluation is ordered by a physician as medically necessary. Nor shall anything herein be construed as prohibiting the limitation of such services, where covered, to specified settings other than offices, such as hospitals or to services provided by such professionals as part of a home care agency's services; and when such policy or any certificate issued thereunder is delivered or issued for delivery without the state by an authorized insurer, covered persons residing in this state shall be entitled to reimbursement for speech-language pathology or audiology service as herein provided.

(G) psychiatric or psychological services or for the diagnosis and treatment of mental, nervous, or emotional disorders or ailments, however defined in such policy, a subscriber to such policy shall be entitled to reimbursement for such psychiatric or psychological services or diagnosis or treatment whether performed by a physician, psychiatrist or a certified and registered psychologist when the services rendered are within the lawful scope of their practice, and when such policy or any certificate issued thereunder is delivered or issued for delivery without this state by an authorized insurer, covered persons residing in this state shall be entitled to reimbursement for such diagnosis and treatment by a physician, psychiatrist or a certified and registered psychologist as hereinabove provided; and

(H) any service which is within the lawful scope of practice of a licensed chiropractor, a subscriber to such policy shall be entitled to reimbursement for such service when such service is performed by a licensed chiropractor.

(g) (1) No domestic insurer and no foreign or alien insurer doing business in this state shall hereafter issue, within or without this state, any policy of group accident, group health or group accident and health insurance, other than a policy issued pursuant to subparagraph (J) of paragraph one of subsection (c) hereof, which shall not appear to be self-supporting on reasonable assumptions as to morbidity or other appropriate claim rate, interest and expense.

(2) The superintendent may require all such insurers to file with him, either directly or through such agency as he may approve, at such times and in such manner and for such forms of insurance as he prescribes, their experience under such forms and such other information as the superintendent may deem necessary or expedient for the administration of this section and such experience and other information shall be compiled and analyzed as the superintendent prescribes.

(h) (1) Each domestic insurer and each foreign or alien insurer doing business in this state shall file with the superintendent its schedules of premium rates, rules and classification of risks for use in connection with the issuance of its policies of group accident, group health or group accident and health insurance, and of its rates of commissions, compensation or other fees or allowances to agents and brokers pertaining to the solicitation or sale of such insurance and of such fees or allowances, exclusive of amounts payable to persons who are in the regular employ of the insurer, other than as agent or broker to any individuals, firms or corporations pertaining to such class of business, whether transacted within or without the state. A group accident and health insurance policy providing disability and family leave benefits pursuant to article nine of the workers' compensation law shall be subject to the requirements of subsection (n) of this section.

(2) An insurer may revise such schedules from time to time, and shall file such revised schedules with the superintendent.

(3) No insurer shall issue any policy of group accident, group health or group accident and health insurance the premium rate under which for the first policy year is less than that determined by the schedules of such insurer as then on file with the superintendent; nor shall it pay to the agent or agents or to a broker or brokers for the solicitation or sale of such policy or for any other purpose related to such policy any commission, compensation or other fees or allowances in excess of that determined on the basis of the schedules of such insurer as then on file with the superintendent; nor shall such insurer pay for services pertaining to the service or administration thereof to any individual, firm or corporation any fees, commissions or allowances in excess of that determined on the basis of the schedules of such insurer as then on file with the superintendent or for such services not rendered in behalf of such insurer; provided, however, that nothing contained herein shall apply to or affect the computation of dividends or experience rating credits.

(4) Nothing herein shall prohibit the state insurance fund from taking into account peculiar hazards of individual risks in establishing higher premium rates to be charged for insurance providing for the payment of disability and family leave benefits in accordance with article nine of the workers' compensation law.

(i) (1) Whenever the superintendent determines, after notice to all insurers doing the business of group accident, group health or group accident and health insurance in this state and a hearing at which such insurers may present pertinent statistics and other available data, that it is advisable in the administration of this section to adopt a schedule of minimum premium rates for any type of benefit provided under policies of group accident, group health or group accident and health insurance, the superintendent shall thereupon file in his office such a schedule which shall include a description of the benefit or benefits for which minimum premium rates are being prescribed and of the minimum premium rates applicable thereto.

(2) Such schedule may be revised by the superintendent from time to time or withdrawn, after a similar notice and hearing.

(3) The effective date of such schedule, or of any such revision or withdrawal thereof, shall be specified by the superintendent. After the effective date of the first schedule no domestic insurer and no foreign or alien insurer doing business in this state shall issue, within or without this state, any policy of group accident, group health or group accident and health insurance providing any benefit to which the schedule of minimum premium rates then in effect applies, unless the premium for such benefit for the first policy year shall be at least equal to that determined on the basis of such schedule.

(4) If an insurer desires to provide a benefit of the same general type as, but not identical with, one described in said schedule, it shall before issuing any policy providing for such different benefit obtain the superintendent's approval of the premium proposed to be charged therefor. The superintendent shall grant such approval if he is satisfied that the proposed premium is not less than that which would have to be charged consistent with the schedule of minimum premium rates then in effect.

(j) (1) Anything in this chapter to the contrary notwithstanding, any policy of group accident, group health or group accident and health insurance may provide for readjustment of the rate of premium based on the experience thereunder at the end of the first year or of any subsequent year of insurance thereunder, and such readjustment may be made retroactive only for such policy year.

(2) Any such rate readjustment shall be computed on a basis which is equitable to all group accident, group health or group accident and health insurance policies.

(3) Any refund under any plan for readjustment of the rate of premium based on the experience under group policies and any dividend paid under such policies may be used to reduce the employer's contribution to group insurance for the employees of the employer, and the excess over such contribution by the employer shall be applied by the employer for the sole benefit of the employees.

(k) Whenever an insurer elects to terminate any policy as described in this section, such insurer shall include in his notification of intent to terminate such policy reference to the policyholder's responsibilities under section two hundred seventeen of the labor law. Whenever any policy as described in this section terminates as a result of a default in payment of premiums, the insurer shall notify the policyholder that termination has occurred or will occur and shall include in his notification reference to the policyholder's responsibilities under section two hundred seventeen of the labor law.

(l) The superintendent shall promulgate rules and regulations concerning the method, manner and time for a policyholder to provide written notice of termination to the certificate holders as required by subdivision three of section two hundred seventeen of the labor law.

(m) This section shall not apply to any contract issued by any article forty-three corporation except as provided in section four thousand three hundred five of this chapter.

(n)(1) On or before June first, two thousand seventeen, the superintendent of financial services by regulation, in consultation with the chair of the workers' compensation board of this state, shall determine whether the family leave benefit coverage of a group accident and health insurance policy providing disability and family leave benefits pursuant to article nine of the workers' compensation law, including policies issued by the state insurance fund, shall be experience rated or community rated, which may include subjecting the family leave benefit coverage of the policy to a risk adjustment mechanism. Notwithstanding any law to the contrary, the superintendent shall establish the rates for any community rated family leave benefit coverage and shall apply commonly accepted actuarial principles to establish community rated family leave benefit coverage rates that are not excessive, inadequate or unfairly discriminatory. On June first, two thousand seventeen and on September first of each year thereafter the superintendent shall publish all community rated family leave benefit rates for the policy period beginning on the following January first.

(2) If the policy is subjected to a risk adjustment mechanism, the superintendent of financial services shall promulgate regulations necessary for the implementation of this subsection in consultation with the chair of the workers' compensation board of this state. Any such risk adjustment mechanism shall be administered directly by the superintendent of financial services of this state, in consultation with the chair of the workers' compensation board of this state, or by a third party vendor selected by the superintendent of financial services in consultation with the chair of the workers' compensation board.

(3) "Risk adjustment mechanism" as used in this subsection means the process used to equalize the per member per month claim amounts among insurers in order to protect insurers from disproportionate adverse risks.

(o) (1) No contract or agreement between a health plan subject to this article and a health care provider, other than a residential health care facility as defined by section twenty-eight hundred one of the public health law, shall include a provision that:

(A) contains a most-favored-nation provision; or

(B) restricts the ability of a corporation, an entity that contracts with a corporation for a provider network, or a health care provider to disclose: (i) actual claims costs; or (ii) price or quality information required to be disclosed under federal law, including the allowed amount, negotiated rates or discounts, or any other claim-related financial obligations, including, but not limited to, patient cost-sharing covered by the provider contract to any subscriber, enrollee, group, or other entity receiving health care services pursuant to the contract, or to any public compilation of reimbursement data such as the New York all payer database required by law or regulation, provided that no disclosure shall include protected health information or other information covered by statutory or other privilege.

(2) For purposes of this subsection, the term "health plan" shall include: (A) an insurer licensed pursuant to this chapter or a health maintenance organization certified pursuant to article forty-four of the public health law; and

(B) a third-party administrator, affiliated with an insurer or health maintenance organization, who administers a health benefit plan.

§ 4236. Joint underwriting of group health insurance for persons aged sixty-five and over. (a) It is the concern of the legislature that many residents of this state of advanced years do not have readily available to them health insurance adequate to their needs. It is the legislature's intent to encourage and facilitate the writing of such insurance by private insurers on a non-profit group basis in order to make available to such persons broader coverage at lower rates than is possible on a regular commercial basis. It is, therefore, the purpose of the legislature to authorize and regulate, in the public interest, cooperative action among such insurers in the preparation and issuance of policies of health insurance, the making of rates to be charged therefor and other matters within the scope of this section.

(b) In this section, unless the context otherwise requires,

(1) "Association" means a voluntary unincorporated non-profit association formed for the sole purpose of enabling cooperative action to provide health insurance in accordance with this section.

(2) "Health insurance" means hospital, surgical and medical expense insurance, provided by a group health insurance policy or contract issued in accordance with this section.

(3) "Insurer" means any insurance company authorized to do the business of accident and health insurance in this state.

(4) "Insured" means a person covered under a group policy or contract issued pursuant to this section.

(c) (1) Notwithstanding any other provision of this chapter or of any other law which may be inconsistent herewith, any insurer may join with one or more other insurers, on a uniform basis with respect to premium rates, policy provisions, commissions and other matters within the scope of this section, to offer, sell and issue to a policyholder group health insurance covering residents of this state who are sixty-five years of age or older and the spouses of such residents.

(2) Such insurance may also cover an employer's non-resident employees and non-resident retired employees sixty-five years of age or older and their spouses, provided such employees are regularly employed within this state or were so employed at the time of their retirement.

(3) Such insurance may be offered, issued and administered jointly by two or more such insurers through an association formed by such insurers solely for the purpose of offering, selling, issuing and administering such insurance in accordance with this section. Membership in such association shall be open to any insurer.

(d) (1) Such association shall offer health insurance coverage to all residents of this state who are sixty-five years of age or over and their spouses, subject to reasonable underwriting restrictions to be set forth in the plan of the association.

(2) Such coverage may consist of one or more of the following types: (i) basic hospital and surgical coverage, (ii) basic medical coverage, (iii) major medical coverage, and any combination of those types; provided, however, that if coverage of the first or second type is offered, it shall not be required as a condition of obtaining same that coverage of the third type also be obtained.

(e) (1) Such association shall file with the superintendent its plan for offering, selling, issuing and administering health insurance which plan shall be subject to his approval as conforming to the purpose and requirements of this section, and any policy, contract, certificate or other evidence of insurance, application or other forms pertaining to such insurance together with the premium rates to be charged therefor.

(2) No such policy, contract, certificate or other evidence of insurance, application or other form shall be sold, issued or used and no endorsement shall be attached to or printed or stamped thereon unless the form thereof and the premium rates to be charged therefor shall have been approved by the superintendent.

(3) The superintendent shall, within a reasonable time after the filing of any such premium rates, policies, contracts, endorsements, applications or other forms, notify the association filing the same of his approval or disapproval thereof.

(4) The superintendent may disapprove such premium rates if he finds them to be unfairly discriminatory or unreasonable in relation to the benefits provided and he may disapprove such policies, contracts, certificates, applications, endorsements or other forms if in his judgment they contain provisions which he finds to be unjust, unfair, inequitable, misleading, deceptive, prejudicial to the insured or otherwise contrary to law or to the public policy of this state.

(5) The superintendent may, after notice and hearing, withdraw an approval previously given, if the use thereof is contrary to the legal requirements applicable thereto at the time of such withdrawal, or the premiums are unfairly discriminatory or unreasonable in relation to the benefits provided, or in his judgment they contain provisions which are, or the continued use thereof would be, unjust, unfair, inequitable, misleading, deceptive, prejudicial to the insured or otherwise contrary to law or to the public policy of this state. Any such withdrawal of approval shall be effective at the expiration of such period, not less than ninety days after the giving of notice of withdrawal, as the superintendent shall in such notice prescribe.

(6) In exercising the powers conferred upon him by this subsection the superintendent shall not be bound by any other requirement of this chapter with respect to standard provisions to be included in accident and health policies or forms.

(7) The name of such association or any advertising and other promotional and solicitation material used in connection with health insurance offered, sold or delivered pursuant to this section shall not be such as to mislead or deceive the public.

(f) Such association may solicit the sale of such health insurance through any insurance agent licensed pursuant to section two thousand one hundred three of this chapter and any insurance broker licensed pursuant to section two thousand one hundred four of this chapter. It shall not pay to such agent or broker or any other person any commission, compensation or other fee or allowance not in accordance with a schedule thereof which shall have been filed by it with and approved by the superintendent. Except as aforesaid, it shall not pay any commission, compensation, fee or allowance to any person but it may pay a salary or compensation to persons regularly employed by it.

(g) Such association shall file annually with the superintendent, on such date and in such form as he may prescribe, a statement with respect to its operations.

(h) Notwithstanding any other provision of this chapter, an association may offer, sell, issue or administer such a group policy or contract of health insurance on a non-participating basis, provided, however, that the excess, if any, of premiums received by it from insureds over the cost of providing such insurance benefits shall be used solely for the benefit of the insureds.

(i) Premiums for policies issued pursuant to this section shall not be included in "premiums" for purposes of section five hundred fifty-two of the former insurance law in effect immediately preceding the effective date of this chapter and former section one hundred eighty-seven of the tax law, nor shall section one thousand one hundred twelve of this chapter be construed as subjecting the premiums for such policies to taxation; nor shall such premiums be subject to any other tax imposed by any other governmental subdivision.

§ 4237. Blanket accident and health insurance. (a) (1) Any policy or contract of insurance against death or injury resulting from accident which insures a group of persons conforming to the requirements of one of the subparagraphs (A) through (F) of paragraph three hereof shall be deemed a blanket accident policy.

(2) Any policy or contract which insures a group of persons conforming to the requirements of subparagraph (C), (E) or (F) of paragraph three hereof against total or partial disability, excluding such disability from accident, shall be deemed a blanket health insurance policy.

(3) Any policy or contract of insurance which combines the coverage of blanket accident insurance and of blanket health insurance on such a group of persons shall be deemed a blanket accident and health insurance policy:

(A) Under a policy or contract issued to any railroad, steamship, motorbus or airplane carrier of passengers, which shall be deemed the policyholder, a group defined as all persons who may become such passengers may be insured against death or bodily injury either while, or as a result of, being such passengers.

(B) Under a policy or contract issued to an employer, who shall be deemed the policyholder, covering any group of employees defined by reference to exceptional hazards incident to such employment, insuring such employee against death or bodily injury resulting while, or from, being exposed to such exceptional hazards.

(C) Under a policy or contract issued to an institution of higher education, as defined in the higher education act of 1965, 20 U.S.C. § 1001, other school, or other institution of learning or to the head or principal thereof, who or which shall be deemed the policyholder, provided, with respect to a policy or contract issued to an institution of higher education, the policy or contract shall be a policy or contract:

(i) of hospital, medical, or surgical expense insurance that meets the requirements of section three thousand two hundred forty of this chapter;

(ii) that provides limited scope dental or vision benefits meeting the definition of "excepted benefits" set forth in section 2791 of the public health service act, 42 U.S.C. § 300gg-91(c); or

(iii) as described in item (ii), (iii) or (iv) of subparagraph (B) of paragraph one of subsection (a) of section three thousand two hundred forty of this chapter.

(D) Under a policy or contract issued in the name of

(i) any county, city, town, village or fire district,

(ii) any duly organized fire department, or fire company, of any such municipal corporation or fire district, whether or not any such corporation has been incorporated under any general or special law,

(iii) any fire corporation incorporated under or subject to the provisions of section one thousand four hundred two of the not-for-profit corporation law, or any general or special law, if such corporation is by law under the general control of, or recognized as a fire corporation by, the governing board of a city, town, village or fire district, which municipal corporation, fire district, fire department, fire company or fire corporation, as the case may be, shall be deemed the policyholder, covering all, but not less than twenty-five, volunteer members of such department, company or corporation. A district corporation which has the general powers of and operates as a fire district shall be considered a fire district for the purposes of this paragraph. A volunteer firefighter whose services are offered and accepted pursuant to the provisions of section two hundred nine-i of the general municipal law shall be deemed a volunteer member of any such fire department, fire company or fire corporation except for the purpose of determining the minimum number of twenty-five volunteer members for which any such policy or contract must provide coverage. Any such policy or contract issued to a municipal corporation or a fire district shall be subject to any limitations on the amount, coverage or benefits as are set forth in any applicable general, special or local law or city or village charter.

(E) Under a policy or contract issued to and in the name of an incorporated or unincorporated association of persons having a common interest or calling, which association shall be deemed the policyholder, having not less than fifty members, covering all the members of such association or if part or all of the premium is to be derived from funds contributed by the insured members and if the opportunity to take such insurance is offered to all eligible members, then such policy must cover not less than seventy-five percent of any class or classes of members determined by conditions pertaining to membership in the association.

(F) Under a policy or contract issued to insure; (i) any other substantially similar group approved by the superintendent as eligible for insurance under a blanket accident and health insurance policy or contract; or (ii) any other group approved by the superintendent upon a finding that: (I) there is a common enterprise or economic or social affinity or relationship; (II) the premiums charged are reasonable in relation to the benefits provided; and (III) the issuance of the policy would result in economies of acquisition or administration, would be actuarially sound, and would not be contrary to the best interest of the public. The superintendent shall promulgate regulations setting forth any such groups that have been accepted as qualifying pursuant to this subparagraph.

(b) All benefits under any blanket accident, blanket health or blanket accident and health insurance policy shall be payable to the person insured, or to his designated beneficiary or beneficiaries, or to his estate, except that if the person insured be a minor, such benefits may be made payable to his parent, guardian, or other person actually supporting him, or to a person or persons chiefly dependent upon him for support and maintenance.

(c) This section shall not affect the legal liability of policyholders for the death of or injury to, any such member of such group.

(d) (1) Any dividend hereafter apportioned on any participating blanket insurance policy, or any rate reduction hereafter made or continued on any non-participating blanket policy for the first or any subsequent year of insurance under any such policy heretofore or hereafter issued under item (ii) of subparagraph (F) of paragraph three of subsection (a) of this section may be applied to reduce the policyholder's part of the cost of such policy, except that the excess, if any, of the insured's aggregate contribution under the policy over the net cost (gross premium less dividends or rate reductions) of the insurance shall be applied at the discretion of the insurer either as a cash payment to the insured or to reduce the insured's premium, unless the insured assigns the dividend or rate reduction to the policyholder. If a dividend or rate reduction is payable upon termination of the policy the insurer shall either make payment to the insured or to the policyholder upon receipt of a certification from the policyholder that the dividend or rate reduction will be distributed by the policyholder to the insureds or applied to reduce the insured's premium.

(2) The provisions of paragraph one of this subsection shall apply to New York residents insured under a policy issued in any other jurisdiction to a group which is not of the type described in subparagraphs (A) through (E) and item (i) of subparagraph (F) of paragraph three of subsection (a) of this section.

(e)(1) For the purposes of any policy or contract of insurance issued pursuant to this section, the term "employees" may include officers, managers, employees and retired employees of the employer, and of subsidiary or affiliated corporations of a corporate employer; and the individual proprietors, partners, employees and retired employees of affiliated individuals and firms controlled by the insured employer through stock ownership, contract or otherwise; and the individual proprietor or partners if the employer is an individual proprietorship or partnership.

(2) For purposes of subparagraph (B) of paragraph three of subsection (a) of this section, the term "employees" may also include the directors of the employer, and of subsidiary or affiliated corporations of a corporate employer.

§ 4237-a. Stop-loss insurance. (a) An insurer authorized to do the business of accident and health insurance in this state and a health service corporation organized under article forty-three of this chapter shall be authorized to issue stop-loss insurance as provided in this section.

(b) "Stop-loss insurance" means an insurance policy whereby the insurer agrees to pay claims or indemnify an employer for losses incurred under a self-insured employee benefit plan or a student health plan as authorized by section one thousand one hundred twenty-four of this chapter in excess of specified loss limits for individual claims and/or for all claims combined, or any similar arrangement.

(c) A stop-loss insurance policy delivered, issued for delivery, or entered into in this state shall clearly describe:

(1) the entire money or other consideration for the policy;

(2) the time at which the insurance takes effect and terminates;

(3) the specified per-claim, per-employee or, in the case of a student health plan under section one thousand one hundred twenty-four of this chapter, per student, or aggregate amount of claims above which payment or reimbursement is to be made by the insurer; and

(4) the payments to be made by the insurer once the specified stop-loss thresholds have been exceeded.

(d) No stop-loss insurance contract shall be issued or renewed if issuance of the policy would be prohibited by section two thousand six hundred thirteen, three thousand two hundred thirty-one, four thousand three hundred seventeen or four thousand three hundred twenty of this chapter.

(e) The superintendent may promulgate such rules and regulations he deems necessary or desirable to establish financial requirements and standards for the form and content of stop-loss insurance policies authorized by this section.

§ 4238. Group annuity contracts. (a) Any policy or contract, except a joint, reversionary or survivorship annuity contract, whereby annuities are payable dependent upon the continuance of the lives of more than one person, shall be deemed a group annuity contract. The party or parties to whom or to which such contract is issued, as herein provided, shall be deemed the holder of such contract. The term "annuitant", as used herein, refers to any person upon whose continued life such annuity is dependent.

(b) No authorized insurer shall deliver or issue for delivery in this state any group annuity contract except the following:

(1) A contract issued to an employer, which permits all of the employees of such employer or of any specified class or classes thereof to become annuitants.

(2) A contract issued to an employers' association which permits all of the employees of such employers or of any specified class or classes thereof to become annuitants. Such employers' association may provide for the representation of annuitants on its board of directors.

(3) A contract issued to a labor union which permits all of the members of such union or of any specified class or classes thereof to become annuitants.

(4) A contract issued to the trustees of a trust established by an employer, or by an employers' association, or by one or more labor unions, or by one or more employers and one or more labor unions, which permits all of the employees of the employers or all of the members of the unions, or all of any class or classes thereof, to become annuitants.

(5) A contract issued to an association of persons having a common interest, calling or profession who constitute a homogeneous group, which association has a constitution and by-laws and is organized and maintained in good faith for purposes other than obtaining annuities or to trustees of a trust established by such an association which permits all members of the association and their employees or of any specified class or classes thereof to become annuitants.

(6) A contract issued to a bank or trust company or trustees of one or more trusts which permit individuals for whom contributions are made to individual retirement accounts or for individual retirement annuities described in section four hundred eight of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 to become annuitants.

(7) A contract issued to the trustees of one or more trusts (other than trusts described in paragraph four hereof) for employees of more than one employer which permits all of the employees of each such employer or of any specified class or classes thereof to become annuitants, provided that if payments made to the insurer are derived wholly from funds contributed by such employees, the insurer shall issue a certificate complying with the requirements of this chapter applicable to individual annuities for delivery to each employee who contributes to the contract.

(8) A contract issued to the trustees of a foundation or endowment fund which permits any specified class or classes of professional persons to become annuitants.

(9) A contract issued to an association, or the trustee or trustees of a trust established, or participated in, by one or more associations, which permits all of the members of the associations, or all of any specified class or classes thereof, to become annuitants subject to the following:

each association shall have:

(A) a minimum of two hundred covered members at the contract's date of issue;

(B) been organized and maintained in good faith for purposes principally other than that of obtaining annuities;

(C) been in active existence for at least two years; and

(D) a constitution and by-laws which provide that:

(i) the association holds regular meetings not less than annually to further purposes of the association;

(ii) the association collects dues or solicits contributions from members; and

(iii) the members have voting privileges and representation on the governing board and committees.

(10) A contract issued to any organization, or the trustee or trustees of a trust established, or participated in, by one or more of such organizations which permits certain persons to become annuitants subject to the following:

(A) the organization must be:

(i) a bank, retailer, or other issuer of a credit card, charge card, or payment card which can be used to buy goods or services, and the contract must cover holders of that card; or

(ii) a bank, savings and loan association, credit union, mutual fund, money market fund, stockbroker, or other similar financial institution regulated by state or federal law, and the contract must cover the depositors, account holders, or members of that institution; and

(B) the organization or organizations shall have a minimum of two hundred covered persons at the contract's date of issue.

(11) A contract issued to the trustees of one or more trusts which permits any specified class or classes of plaintiffs or claimants to become annuitants with respect to amounts paid or payable on their behalf by way of settlement, judgment or other award. Any such contract or any certificate issued in connection with such contract shall not be subject to section four thousand two hundred twenty-three of this article.

(c) Payments made to the insurer under a group annuity contract may be derived in whole or in part from funds contributed by the persons covered thereunder. A group of employees covered under a contract may include retired employees, employees of affiliates and subsidiaries of the employer, individual proprietors affiliated with the employer, and partners and employees of individuals affiliated with the employer and of firms controlled by the employer.

(d) Anything in this chapter to the contrary notwithstanding, any group annuity contract may provide for readjustment of the rate of premium consideration or deposit based on the experience thereunder at the end of the first contract year or of any subsequent contract year, and such readjustment may be made retroactive only for such contract year. Any such rate readjustment shall be computed on a basis which is equitable to all group annuity contracts.

(e) No domestic, foreign or alien life insurance company shall be permitted to do business in this state if it hereafter issues, within or without this state, any group annuity contract which on its issuance does not appear to be self-supporting on reasonable assumptions as to interest, mortality and expense.

§ 4239. Allocation and reporting of income and expenses of life insurers. (a) In order to enable the superintendent to determine compliance with this chapter, he may issue reasonable regulations prescribing standards for the equitable allocation of income and expenses as among lines of business and as between investment expenses and insurance expenses. No such regulation or amendment thereto shall be promulgated except upon notice to all insurers affected thereby, and after hearing. Such regulation or amendment shall not preclude the use of other reasonable and equitable standards previously approved by the superintendent. He may also promulgate regulations defining the items of income and expenses to be reported in each line of the annual statement. Any regulation or amendment thereto shall be promulgated at least six months before the beginning of the calendar year in which the same shall take effect.

(b) The restrictions in subsection (a) hereof as to notice, hearing, and effective period shall not apply to such regulations or amendments as may be approved by the superintendent for calendar years as to which similar regulations or amendments have been adopted by the National Association of Insurance Commissioners.

(c) If the superintendent finds, after notice and hearing, that any such insurer has failed to comply with the requirements of this section, he may order such insurer to change its methods of reporting or to modify its basis of allocation so as to produce reasonable and equitable results.

§ 4240. Separate accounts; fixed and variable life insurance and annuities and funding agreements. (a) In accordance with paragraphs one, two and three of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen and section three thousand two hundred twenty-two of this chapter, a domestic life insurance company may establish one or more separate accounts and allocate thereto, pursuant to agreements for separate accounts, amounts paid to it (i) to provide for annuities which are payable in fixed amounts guaranteed by it, or variable amounts, or both, including any amounts paid to it which are subject to annuity options; or (ii) to provide life insurance with benefits, premiums or both payable on a variable basis and the reserves for which vary according to the investment experience of such separate account; or (iii) to accumulate in such separate account funds to be applied to provide life insurance, whether fixed or variable, or both; or (iv) to accumulate or hold in such separate account funds to be applied to provide health insurance; or (v) to accumulate or hold in such separate account proceeds applied under settlement or dividend options; or (vi) to accumulate or hold in such separate account funds credited under funding agreements delivered pursuant to section three thousand two hundred twenty-two of this chapter; provided that any such separate account shall be maintained in accordance with the following:

(1) Income, gains and losses, whether or not realized, from assets allocated to a separate account shall, in accordance with the applicable agreement or agreements, be credited to or charged against such account without regard to other income, gains or losses of the insurer.

(2) With respect to investments allocated to a separate account:

(A) except as provided in paragraphs three and five of this subsection, the insurer may invest in any investments contractually permitted for such separate account, the restrictions, limitations and other provisions relating to investments specified in this chapter shall not apply to such investments, and such investments shall be disregarded, and shall be excluded from admitted assets, in applying the quantitative investment limitations contained in this chapter to other investments;

(B) no stock, bond, note or other security of a subsidiary or affiliate of the insurer, or of any company controlling or under common control with the insurer, shall be allocated to any separate account if, after giving effect to such allocation, any security of a different class issued by such subsidiary or affiliate would be held in any other account of the insurer, or by any company controlling or under common control with the insurer or by any other subsidiary or affiliate of the insurer; and

(C) The insurer shall invest and reinvest for such separate account in good faith and with that degree of care that an ordinarily prudent person in a like position would use under similar circumstances.

(3) The insurer may allocate amounts to a separate account to facilitate its initial operations and amounts so allocated shall be deemed to be invested under section one thousand four hundred four (in the case of insurers making investments under the authority of section one thousand four hundred four) of this chapter or under section one thousand four hundred five (in the case of insurers making investments under the authority of section one thousand four hundred five) of this chapter and shall be subject to the qualitative standards and quantitative limitations provided in section one thousand four hundred four or one thousand four hundred five of this chapter, as the case may be.

(4) Amounts received by the insurer pursuant to one or more such agreements may be maintained in one or more separate accounts.

(5) No guarantee of the value of the assets allocated to a separate account, or any interest therein, or the investment results thereof, or the income thereon, shall be made to a contractholder by the insurer, without limitation of liability under all such guarantees to the extent of the interest of the contractholder in assets allocated to said separate account (i) unless the investments allocated to such separate account are deemed part of the general assets of the insurer and are subject to the qualitative standards and quantitative limitations contained in section one thousand four hundred four or section one thousand four hundred five of this chapter or (ii) if the applicable agreements provide that the assets in such separate account shall not be chargeable with liabilities arising out of any other business of the insurer, unless such investments are subject to the requirements and limitations on investments imposed by articles thirteen and fourteen (except section one thousand four hundred two) of this chapter applied as though the aggregate assets allocated to such separate account were the insurer's total admitted assets or (iii) unless the insurer shall submit annually to the superintendent an opinion, in form and substance satisfactory to the superintendent, of a qualified actuary (as defined in item (vi) of subparagraph (B) of paragraph four of subsection (c) of section four thousand two hundred seventeen of this article) that, after taking into account any risk charge payable from the assets of such separate account with respect to such guarantee, the assets in such separate account make good and sufficient provision for the liabilities of the insurer with respect thereto, such opinion to be accompanied by a memorandum, also in form and substance satisfactory to the superintendent, of the qualified actuary describing the calculations made in support of such opinion and the assumptions used in the calculations, provided that, notwithstanding any other provision of this paragraph, reserve liabilities for guaranteed minimum death benefits and fixed incidental insurance benefits with respect to variable life insurance policies shall be maintained in the general account of the insurer.

(6) The insurer shall not, in connection with the allocation of investments or expenses, or in any other respect, discriminate unfairly between separate accounts or between separate and other accounts, but this provision shall not require the insurer to follow uniform investment policies for its accounts.

(7) Except as otherwise provided in paragraph ten hereof, assets allocated to separate accounts shall, for the purpose of any valuation required by this chapter, be valued at their market value at the date as of which valued in accordance with the terms of the applicable agreements, or if there is no readily available market, then in accordance with the terms of such agreements, and no special reserve under subsection (b) of section one thousand four hundred fourteen of this chapter shall be required in respect thereof.

(8) Unless otherwise provided in approvals given by the superintendent and under such conditions as he may prescribe, the insurer shall maintain in each separate account assets with a value at least equal to the amounts accumulated in accordance with the terms of the applicable agreements with respect to such separate account and the reserves for annuities in the course of payment that vary with the investment experience of such separate account.

(9) Except as may be required by subsection (b) hereof, the insurer shall not transfer any investment, or asset held for investment, between separate accounts or between separate and other accounts, provided that the superintendent may authorize transfers in circumstances where such transfers would not be inequitable.

(10) Except with respect to separate accounts qualifying under item (iii) of paragraph five of this subsection, assets supporting reserves which do not vary with the investment experience of the separate account shall be maintained in the separate account at their value determined in accordance with section one thousand four hundred fourteen of this chapter.

(11) Any contract providing for benefits, premiums or both, payable on a variable basis, delivered or issued for delivery in this state, and any certificate or other writing furnished by the insurer to the employee under such a group contract in evidence of either benefits or contributions, or both, payable on a variable basis, shall

(A) contain a statement of the essential features of the procedure to be followed by the insurer in determining the dollar amount of such variable elements thereunder,

(B) state in clear terms that such amount may decrease or increase according to such procedure, and

(C) contain on its first page a statement that such elements thereunder are on a variable basis.

(12) Amounts allocated by the insurer to separate accounts shall be owned by the insurer, the assets therein shall be the property of the insurer, and no insurer by reason of such accounts shall be or hold itself out to be a trustee. If and to the extent so provided in the applicable agreements, the assets in a separate account shall not be chargeable with liabilities arising out of any other business of the insurer.

(13) Every individual variable annuity contract and every certificate subject to this section and subsection (a) of section three thousand two hundred nineteen of this chapter shall contain a provision, or a notice attached to the contract or certificate, to the effect that during a period, specified in such provision or notice, it may be surrendered to the insurer together with a written request for cancellation of the contract or certificate, and in such event, the insurer will pay an amount equal to the sum of (i) and (ii), where (i) is the difference between the premiums paid, including any fees or other charges, and the amounts, if any, allocated to any separate accounts under the contract or certificate, and (ii) is the cash value of the contract or certificate, or, if the contract or certificate does not have a cash value, the reserve for the contract or certificate, on the date of surrender attributable to the amounts so allocated. The period specified in such provision or notice for a contract or certificate sold other than by mail order shall not be less than ten nor more than thirty days, and for a contract or certificate sold by mail order shall be thirty days, from the date the contract or certificate is received by the owner.

(14) The superintendent may, from time to time, promulgate reasonable regulations setting forth:

(A) standards to be followed in the approval of forms for use in connection with separate accounts; such standards may relate to, but need not be limited to, any one or more of the following: guaranteed face amounts, termination of contract, withdrawal of funds by the contract holder, commitments with respect to future price of guaranteed annuities, valuation of assets, and other elements required to effect compliance with section three thousand two hundred one of this chapter;

(B) rules with respect to accounting and reporting of funds allocated to separate accounts, identification of assets allocated to any separate accounts, and the application of expenses to agreements relating to separate accounts;

(C) rules with respect to adequate disclosure of information relating to separate accounts; and

(D) rules with respect to required and prohibited contract provisions for variable life insurance and variable annuity contracts delivered or issued for delivery in this state by an authorized fraternal benefit society.

(c) This section shall have no application to a charitable annuity society.

(d) Except as otherwise provided in this section, all pertinent provisions of this chapter shall apply to separate accounts and agreements relating thereto.

(1) The following provisions of this chapter shall not apply to annuity contracts or to certificates subject to this section and subsection (a) of section three thousand two hundred nineteen of this chapter: paragraphs one, seven, eight, and nine of subsection (a) of section three thousand two hundred nineteen of this chapter, subsections (a) and (d) of section three thousand two hundred twenty-three of this chapter, sections four thousand two hundred seventeen, four thousand two hundred twenty-one and four thousand two hundred twenty-three and subsection (e) of section four thousand two hundred thirty-one of this article, provided, however, that this paragraph shall not apply to any contract or certificate providing benefits with respect to amounts allocated to a separate account, if such benefits are guaranteed at any time to be not less than an amount equal to or greater than such allocated amounts accumulated to such time at three percent per annum.

(2) Individual variable annuity contracts and group variable annuity certificates delivered or issued for delivery in this state shall contain grace, reinstatement, and nonforfeiture provisions appropriate to such variable contracts and certificates. Payment of death benefits under such contracts and certificates shall be made within seven calendar days following receipt of the beneficiary's completed election form with all information required by such form for the payment of proceeds. If such death benefits are not paid within seven calendar days following receipt of such completed election form, interest shall be computed daily from the end of such seven day period at the rate of interest currently paid by the insurer on proceeds left under the interest settlement option and such contracts or certificates shall not be subject to the payment of interest under subsection (c) of section three thousand two hundred fourteen of this chapter. For amounts received under actions commenced to recover proceeds pursuant to subsections (a) and (b) of section three thousand two hundred fourteen of this chapter, interest shall be computed daily at the rate of interest currently paid by the insurer on proceeds left under the interest settlement option from the earlier of the date the action is commenced or the insurer's receipt of the beneficiary's completed election form to: (A) the date the verdict is rendered or the report or decision is made and thereafter in accordance with the provisions of sections five thousand two and five thousand three of the civil practice law and rules, for amounts received under subsection (a) of section three thousand two hundred fourteen of this chapter; or (B) the date the settlement is reached, for amounts received under subsection (b) of such section.

(3) The following provisions of this chapter shall not apply to life insurance policies to the extent that they provide for allocation of amounts to separate accounts: paragraphs one, seven, eight, nine and ten of subsection (a) of section three thousand two hundred three of this chapter, section four thousand two hundred twenty-one and subsection (b) of section four thousand two hundred thirty-two of this article, provided, however, that this paragraph shall not apply to any policy providing benefits with respect to the amounts so allocated, if such benefits are guaranteed at any time to be not less than an amount equal to or greater than such allocated amounts accumulated to such time at three percent per annum.

(4) Contracts delivered or issued for delivery in this state for individual variable life insurance policies shall contain loan, grace, reinstatement and nonforfeiture provisions, and may provide for settlement options, under conditions acceptable to the superintendent.

(5) Individual variable contracts shall be included in determining the aggregate limits prescribed in section four thousand two hundred twenty-eight of this article, with appropriate modification of expense limits for such contracts, as required by the superintendent, to recognize the variable nature of the contracts.

(6) The reserve liability for variable contracts shall be established in accordance with actuarial procedures that recognize the variable nature of the benefits provided and any mortality guarantees provided in the contract.

(7) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the superintendent shall have the sole authority to regulate the issuance and sale of such agreements; and, in addition to the powers expressly given by this section, the superintendent shall have the power to promulgate, from time to time, such regulations, not inconsistent with the provisions of this chapter, as may be appropriate to carry out the provisions of this section and, insofar as applicable to this section, other provisions of this chapter.

(e) No authorized insurer shall make any such agreement in this state providing for the allocation of amounts to a separate account until such insurer has filed with the superintendent a statement as to its methods of operation of such separate account and the superintendent has approved such statement. Subject to the approval of the superintendent, any such statement may apply to one or more groups of separate accounts classified by investment policy, number or kinds of separate account participants, methods of distribution of such agreements or otherwise. In determining whether or not to approve any such statement, the superintendent shall consider, among other things, the history, reputation and financial stability of the insurer and the character, experience, responsibility, competence and general fitness of the officers and directors of the insurer. If the insurer files an amendment of any such statement with the superintendent that does not change the investment policy of a separate account and the superintendent does not approve or disapprove such amendment within a period of thirty days after such filing, such amendment shall be deemed to be approved as of the end of such thirty day period, except that if the superintendent requests further information on the statement during such period from the insurer, such period shall be extended until thirty days after the day on which the superintendent receives such information. An amendment of any such statement that changes the investment policy of a separate account shall be treated as an original filing.

(f) Notwithstanding the restrictions and limitations herein or otherwise imposed by law, the insurer may with respect to any separate account, (i) exercise any voting rights of any securities allocated thereto in accordance with instructions from persons having interests in such account ratably as determined by the insurer, or (ii) establish a committee for such account, the members of which may be directors or officers or other employees of the insurer or persons having no such relationship to the insurer, or any combination thereof, who may be elected to such membership by vote of the persons having interests in such account ratably as determined by the insurer. Such committee may have the power, which may be exercisable alone or in conjunction with others, or which may be delegated to the insurer or any other person, as investment manager or investment adviser, to authorize, approve or review the acquisition and disposition of investments for such account. In addition, the insurer may make such other provisions in respect to the separate account, including but not limited to voting, investments, audits and otherwise regarding management and administration, as the insurer may deem appropriate to facilitate compliance with any requirements of or pursuant to any federal or state law now or hereafter in effect; provided that the superintendent approve such provisions as not hazardous to the public or its policyholders in this state.

§ 4241. Penalty for violation of filing requirements. (a) Any authorized insurer, representative of such insurer, licensed insurance agent or licensed insurance broker wilfully violating any of the provisions of this article or of articles thirty-one or thirty-two of this chapter relating to filings of life, accident and health and annuity contract forms, premium rates, rules, classification of risks, and commissions, compensation or other fees or allowances to agents and brokers pertaining to the solicitation or sale of such insurance and of fees or allowances to any individuals, firms or corporations for services pertaining to the service or administration of such group insurance and annuity contracts, shall, in addition to any other penalty provided by law, be liable for a penalty as provided in subsection (b) hereof.

(b) If the superintendent finds after notice and hearing, that any authorized insurer, representative of such insurer, licensed insurance agent or licensed insurance broker has wilfully violated the provisions of subsection (d) hereof or this article relating to such filings, he may, in lieu of any other penalty provided by law, order such insurer, or person to pay to the people of this state a penalty not exceeding one thousand dollars for each such offense.

(c) Failure of any such insurer or person to pay such penalty within thirty days after the making of such order, unless suspended by an order of a court of competent jurisdiction, shall constitute a violation of this chapter.

(d) In this section, the issuance, procurement or negotiation of each policy of insurance, by such insurer or person in wilful violation of the provisions of this subsection or this article shall be deemed a separate offense.

§ 4301. Organization of corporation; purposes; board of directors. (a) A corporation may be organized under the not-for-profit corporation law, and a consumers' cooperative stock corporation may be organized under article two of the cooperative corporations law, for the purpose of furnishing medical expense indemnity, dental expense indemnity, hospital service, or health service or, upon compliance with the applicable provisions of subsection (h) of this section, both medical expense indemnity and hospital service, to persons who become covered under contracts with such corporations.

(b) (1) Medical expense indemnity shall consist of reimbursement for:

(A) medical care provided through licensed physicians,

(B) dental care provided through licensed dentists,

(C) optometric care provided through licensed optometrists,

(D) podiatrical care provided through licensed podiatrists,

(E) chiropractic care provided through licensed chiropractors,

(F) psychiatric or psychological services provided through physicians, psychiatrists or certified and registered psychologists,

(G) physical and occupational therapy care provided through licensed physical and occupational therapists upon the prescription of a physician,

(H) nursing service,

(I) speech-language pathology or audiology services provided through licensed speech-language pathologists or audiologists, provided however, that nothing contained herein shall be construed to prohibit a contract from requiring said service from being performed pursuant to a medical order or similar or related service of a physician, in which case coverage need not be provided for any tests, evaluations or diagnoses if such tests, evaluations or diagnoses have already been provided by or through a physician within twelve months of the referral or order from the physician. However, nothing herein shall be construed as preventing a corporation from covering more than one test or evaluation provided by a speech-language pathologist or audiologist within a twelve-month period where such tests or evaluations is ordered by a physician as medically necessary. Nor shall anything herein be construed as prohibiting the limitation of such services, where covered, to specified settings other than offices, such as hospitals or to services provided by such professionals as part of a home care agency's services,

(J) necessary appliances, drugs, medicines and supplies, and

(K) bio-analytical or clinical laboratory examinations and reports thereof reported to a physician, osteopath, dentist, optometrist, podiatrist, chiropractor or physical therapist made by any privately operated bioanalytical or clinical laboratory.

(2) It is not mandatory that a contract issued by a medical expense indemnity corporation provide for and offer all of the services hereinabove described, but when any service is provided which can be performed by more than one of the practitioners hereinbefore referred to, benefits under the contract shall be provided regardless of which practitioner performed the service, provided that the performance of such service was within the scope of the license of such practitioner. Unless such contract shall otherwise provide there shall be no reimbursement for ophthalmic materials, lenses, spectacles, eyeglasses, and/or appurtenances thereto.

(3) Every medical expense indemnity corporation shall be open to the participation of licensed physicians, podiatrists, chiropractors, optometrists, physical and occupational therapists, speech-language pathologists, audiologists, and dentists, certified and registered psychologists without discrimination against schools of medical practice, podiatry practice, chiropractic practice, optometric practice, physical and occupational therapy practice, dental practice, speech-language pathology practice (subject to the permitted limitations of paragraph one of this subsection), audiology practice (subject to the permitted limitations of paragraph one of this subsection), and psychological training as defined in the education law.

(c) Dental expense indemnity shall consist of reimbursement for dental care provided through licensed dentists and of furnishing necessary appliances, drugs, medicines, and supplies, prosthetic appliances, orthodontic appliances, precious metal and ceramic restorations.

(d) (1) Hospital service shall consist of in-patient hospital care and out-patient hospital care when such hospital care is provided through a hospital which is maintained by the state or any of its political subdivisions, or maintained by a corporation organized for hospital purposes under the laws of this state, or such other hospitals as shall be designated by the state department of health, and hospitals of other states subject to the supervision of such other state, convalescent care provided by any convalescent institution, or nursing care provided by any nursing home.

(2) A hospital service corporation may also provide reimbursement for expenses incurred outside of the hospital, convalescent institution or nursing home, for nursing service, necessary appliances, drugs, medicines, supplies, and any other services which would have been available in the hospital, convalescent institution or nursing home (excluding physicians' services), whether or not provided through a hospital, convalescent institution or nursing home.

(3) A hospital service corporation may also furnish reimbursement for ambulance service expenses.

(e) (1) Health service, as used in this article, shall consist of the types of services referred to in this section.

(2) A health service corporation, in any hospital, facility or center directly operated by it may provide hospital or medical care to persons other than persons covered under contracts issued by such corporation.

(3) A health service corporation may:

(A) exercise all of the powers of a medical expense indemnity, dental expense indemnity and hospital service corporation;

(B) organize, manage and promote a health maintenance organization as such term is defined in article forty-four of the public health law;

(C) contract or otherwise act jointly with a hospital corporation organized under article twenty-eight of the public health law, a hospital service corporation organized pursuant to this article, a health maintenance organization possessing a certificate of authority pursuant to article forty-four of the public health law, a professional service corporation organized under article fifteen of the business corporation law, a university faculty practice corporation organized under section fourteen hundred twelve of the not-for-profit corporation law or a partnership for the purpose of organizing, managing and promoting such prepaid comprehensive health services plan;

(D) contract or otherwise act jointly with an insurance company, authorized to do an accident and health insurance business in this state, for the purpose of organizing, managing and promoting such a health maintenance organization.

(4) A health service corporation engaged in providing medical care through medical groups, hospital services and dental care, may include as a component of its rate a sum of five per centum of such rate to be used for the purchase or construction of facilities for the conduct of its business, and for the implementation of its program, or for making loans for the purposes of implementing the program of such corporation.

(5) To encourage the development in this state of health maintenance organizations as such term is defined in article forty-four of the public health law, the superintendent may modify any requirement applicable to health service corporations and other corporations organized under this article to permit such corporations to make fuller use of their resources in the development of such plans, including the acquisition and construction of hospitals, medical service centers and other health facilities and the equipment therefor, subject to such limitations as the superintendent shall deem necessary or proper to ensure the performance of contracts issued by such corporations and to protect the interests of persons covered under such contracts.

(6) Any other corporation subject to the provisions of this article may by appropriate amendment to its certificate of incorporation become a health service corporation.

(f) No foreign or alien medical expense indemnity corporation, dental expense indemnity corporation, health service corporation, or hospital service corporation shall be authorized to do business in this state. No person, firm, association or corporation shall in this state furnish or contract to furnish medical expense indemnity, dental expense indemnity, hospital service or health service under any insurance plan unless authorized so to do under the provisions of this chapter.

(g) Two or more corporations organized pursuant to the provisions of this article may, upon compliance with the applicable provisions of article seventy-one of this chapter, consolidate, if the superintendent finds that such consolidation will promote the public interest. No corporation resulting from any such consolidation shall operate in any county in which none of the corporations so consolidated was empowered to operate immediately prior to such consolidation.

(h) A medical expense indemnity corporation or a hospital service corporation may, pursuant to a plan submitted to and approved by the superintendent, furnish both medical expense indemnity and hospital service benefits, as these are defined in subsections (b) and (d) of this section, by amending its certificate or act of incorporation in the manner provided in the applicable provisions of the not-for-profit corporation law and the cooperative corporations law. Except as the context otherwise requires, a corporation writing both medical expense indemnity and hospital service benefits shall be subject to all of the provisions of this article applicable to medical expense indemnity and hospital service corporations.

(i) Subject to the provisions of the preceding subsections, a hospital service corporation and a medical expense indemnity corporation and a dental expense indemnity corporation or any two of such corporations may issue a combined contract providing for hospital service, medical expense indemnity or dental expense indemnity, but no one of such corporations shall issue any such combined contract unless it complies with the applicable provisions of subsection (h) hereof. A hospital service corporation and a medical expense indemnity corporation and a dental expense indemnity corporation or any two of such corporations may underwrite jointly in such a combined contract such benefits as each might otherwise individually provide under this article. Any one of such corporations may act as agent for the other without being required to obtain a license as an agent under article twenty-one of this chapter.

(j) (1) Except as provided in this subsection, no medical expense indemnity corporation, dental expense indemnity corporation, health service corporation, or hospital service corporation shall be converted into a corporation organized for pecuniary profit. Every such corporation shall be maintained and operated for the benefit of its members and subscribers as a co-operative corporation.

(2) An article forty-three corporation which was the subject of an initial opinion and decision issued by the superintendent on or before December thirty-first, nineteen hundred ninety-nine, as the same may be amended or one or more article forty-three corporations whose main offices on January first, two thousand seven were located in one of the counties listed in section one thousand two hundred sixty-two of the public authorities law and its or their not-for-profit subsidiaries (including, without limitation, any such subsidiary licensed as a health service corporation pursuant to this chapter or as a health maintenance organization organized pursuant to article forty-four of the public health law), hereinafter referred to in the singular, may be converted into one or more corporations or other entities organized for pecuniary profit, or into one or more for-profit organizations, in any such case, in accordance with the provisions of section seven thousand three hundred seventeen of this chapter.

(3) For the purposes of this subsection and section seven thousand three hundred seventeen of this chapter, "public asset" shall mean assets representing ninety-five percent of the fair market value of the corporation seeking to convert into a corporation or other entity organized for pecuniary profit pursuant to paragraph two of this subsection; provided, however, that for the purposes of the conversion of a corporation or corporations after the effective date of the chapter of the laws of two thousand seven which amended this paragraph, "public asset" shall mean assets representing ninety percent of the fair market value of the corporation or corporations. Fair market value, as defined in subsection (l) of section seven thousand three hundred seventeen of this chapter, shall be determined as of the date the superintendent approves the conversion transaction pursuant to subsection (f) of section seven thousand three hundred seventeen of this chapter.

(4) In addition to any other requirements of law, rule or regulation, the following requirements shall be applicable to the public asset:

(A) The public asset shall be transferred to the fund established pursuant to subsection (e) of section seven thousand three hundred seventeen of this chapter and the public asset shall be irrevocably dedicated to the purpose as set forth in such section;

(B) There is hereby established a board for the purpose of advising and making decisions with respect to the investment of assets and moneys in the fund created pursuant to subsection (e) of section seven thousand three hundred seventeen of this chapter. Such board shall be composed of five members appointed as follows: three members shall be appointed by the governor; one member appointed by the temporary president of the senate; and one member appointed by the speaker of the assembly. Each member of the board shall be appointed for a term of three years and may be reappointed at the end of said term by the same person that made the original appointment. A vacancy in the membership of the board shall be filled for the unexpired portion of the term provided for by the original appointment by the same person that made the original appointment. Each member may be removed, other than upon the expiration of his or her term, only for neglect of duty, misconduct or other good cause. Each member of the board shall be a member of the public with knowledge and expertise in capital markets and a demonstrated commitment to ensuring continued access to, and availability of, health care services and may not be an officer or employee of the state or any municipal subdivision thereof;

(C) The members shall serve without compensation for their services as members, but shall be entitled to reimbursement for actual and necessary expenses incurred in the performance of their official duties. Such members, except as otherwise provided by law, may engage in private employment, or in a profession or business;

(D) The board and its corporate existence shall continue until there are no longer any assets or moneys in the fund created pursuant to subsection (e) of section seven thousand three hundred seventeen of this chapter available for distribution;

(E) The affirmative vote of three of the members shall be necessary for the transaction of any business or the exercise of any power or function of the board. The board may delegate to one or more of its members, or its agents, such powers and duties as it may deem proper;

(F) The board shall have the power to:

(i) direct, in consultation with the director of the division of the budget regarding the anticipated schedule of payments to the state, the manner in which moneys in the fund created pursuant to subsection (e) of section seven thousand three hundred seventeen of this chapter are invested so as to maximize the value of the assets in such fund consistent with the board's statutory obligation to direct disbursements as described below and in subsection (e) of section seven thousand three hundred seventeen of this chapter;

(ii) direct that disbursements be made from such fund in accordance with the direction of the director of the division of the budget and as described in subsection (e) of section seven thousand three hundred seventeen of this chapter; and

(iii) make and execute contracts and all other instruments, and to exercise such other powers, necessary or convenient for the exercise of its powers and functions.

In directing investments pursuant to this subparagraph, the board shall not be limited by any restrictions on investments contained in any other section of law, subject only to the board's obligations and the considerations set forth above;

(G) (i) Neither the members of the board nor any agent or other person or persons acting on its behalf, while acting within the scope of their authority as members or agents of the board, shall be subject to any personal liability resulting from the carrying out of the powers conferred hereunder, and (ii) the provisions of section seventeen of the public officers law shall apply to members of the board and agents or other persons acting on its behalf, in connection with any and all claims, demands, suits, actions or proceedings which may be made or brought against any of them arising out of any determination made or actions taken or omitted to be taken in compliance with any obligations under or pursuant to the terms of this section or section seven thousand three hundred seventeen of this chapter. The provisions of this subparagraph shall be severable from and shall survive any legal challenge to the legality, validity, or constitutionality of this section;

(H) Any action or proceeding in which any question arises as to the validity of any provision in this subsection or in section seven thousand three hundred seventeen of this chapter, shall be preferred over all other civil causes except election causes in all courts of the state of New York and shall be heard and determined in preference to all other civil business pending therein except election causes, irrespective of position on the calendar. The same preference shall be granted upon application of counsel to the board in any action or proceeding questioning the validity of any provision herein in which he or she may be allowed to intervene;

(I) To assist in carrying out its functions, the board shall be authorized to hire independent financial, legal and other experts and consultants;

(J) Inconsistent provisions of other laws are superseded. Insofar as any provision in this section is inconsistent with the provisions of any other law, general, special or local, the provisions in this section shall be controlling;

(K) This section, being necessary for the welfare of the state and its inhabitants, shall be liberally construed so as to effectuate its purposes;

(L) Each member of the board shall be and shall remain independent of any control or influence by the surviving corporation or other surviving entity organized for pecuniary profit and its affiliates and successors. Such requirement shall not prevent the board from voting its equity shares in the for-profit organization in accordance with the voting and shareholders rights agreement. No person who is an officer, director or employee of the corporation seeking conversion at the time such corporation applies to the superintendent for permission to convert shall be a member of the board;

(M) The board shall establish formal mechanisms to avoid conflicts of interest;

(N) The board shall enter into an asset preservation agreement with the converted corporation; and

(O) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the board shall direct that such proceeds of the public asset are disbursed in accordance with direction from the director of the division of the budget and transferred to the credit of the tobacco control and insurance initiatives pool, or its successor to be used for the exclusive purposes provided therein.

(P) Section one hundred twelve of the state finance law shall apply to the fund established pursuant to subsection (e) of section seven thousand three hundred seventeen of this chapter and its board solely and exclusively with respect to procurement contracts for consulting and professional services recommended for award by the fund after June twenty-third, two thousand five; provided that all such contracts recommended for award by the fund on or before June twenty-third, two thousand five shall be valid and effective in accordance with their terms.

(Q) Section one hundred twelve of the state finance law shall not otherwise apply to the fund established pursuant to subsection (e) of section seven thousand three hundred seventeen of this chapter and its board except as provided in subparagraph (P) of this paragraph. Without in any way limiting the foregoing, section one hundred twelve of the state finance law specifically shall not apply to any and all agreements such fund, its board, or any medical expense indemnity corporation, dental expense indemnity corporation, health service corporation or hospital service corporation that has converted to for-profit status pursuant to this section and section seven thousand three hundred seventeen of this chapter, may enter into, or has entered into, in connection with, or in anticipation of, sales of stock including, but not limited to, any and all underwriting agreements, pricing agreements and other documents related to such sales of stock or stock offerings, whether such agreements are entered into in connection with initial public offerings or subsequent public or private sales of stock.

(R) All disbursements from the fund established pursuant to subsection (e) of section seven thousand three hundred seventeen of this chapter shall be made pursuant to the provisions of this section and section seven thousand three hundred seventeen of this chapter without an appropriation. The provisions of this section and section seven thousand three hundred seventeen of this chapter shall be controlling, any other general, special or local law inconsistent therewith notwithstanding.

(5) For the purpose of this subsection and section seven thousand three hundred seventeen of this chapter, "charitable asset" shall mean assets representing five percent of the fair market value of the corporation seeking to convert into a corporation or other entity organized for pecuniary profit pursuant to paragraph two of this subsection; provided, however, that for the purposes of the conversion of a corporation or corporations after the effective date of the chapter of the laws of two thousand seven which amended this paragraph, "charitable asset" shall mean assets representing ten percent of the fair market value of the corporation or corporations. Fair market value, as defined in subsection (l) of section seven thousand three hundred seventeen of this chapter, shall be determined as of the date the superintendent approves the conversion transaction pursuant to subsection (f) of section seven thousand three hundred seventeen of this chapter. If one hundred percent of the stock is not transferred in connection with the conversion transaction, the proportion of stock to cash that is distributed as the charitable asset shall be the same as the proportion of stock to cash that is distributed as the public asset.

(k) (1) The board of directors of each health service, hospital service or medical expense indemnity corporation subject to this article shall be composed of persons who are representative of the member hospitals or licensed medical professionals of such corporation, persons covered under its contracts and the general public. The board of directors of such corporations may also include persons who are employees of such corporations and who also serve as officers of such corporations. Not more than one-fifth of the directors of any such corporation shall be persons who are licensed to practice medicine in this state (other than physicians employed on a full-time basis in the fields of public health, public welfare, medical research or medical education) or who are trustees, directors or employees of a corporation organized for hospital purposes, or any combination thereof. Not more than one-eighth of the directors of any such corporation shall be persons who are employees of such corporation and who also serve as officers of such corporation. Any person who is an officer of such corporation but not an employee of such corporation shall be considered under one of the other classifications of directors set forth in this section, as appropriate. Whenever the maximum number of directors in either of the classifications set forth in the preceding sentences includes a fractional number equal to or greater than one-half, the number shall be rounded to the next greater whole number. Whenever the maximum number of directors in either of the classifications set forth in the preceding sentences includes a fractional number less than one-half, the number shall be rounded to the next lesser whole number. Of the directors not included in the classifications set forth in the preceding sentences,

(A) one-half in number, as nearly as possible, shall be persons covered under a contract or contracts issued by such health service, hospital service or medical expense indemnity corporation, and who are generally representative of broad segments of such covered persons, and

(B) one-half in number, as nearly as possible, shall be persons whose background and experience indicate that they are qualified to act in the broad public interest, whether or not they are persons covered under a contract or contracts issued by such health service, hospital service or medical expense indemnity corporation.

(C) A person who, or whose spouse or minor child, is an officer, director, or owner of more than ten per centum of the stock of a corporation whose aggregate sales to hospitals and licensed medical professionals and to facilities of a health service, hospital service or medical expense indemnity corporation exceed five per centum of its total sales may not serve as a director under subparagraph (A) or (B) hereof.

(D) Each such health service, hospital service or medical expense indemnity corporation shall have an executive committee the members of which shall be composed, as nearly as possible, of representatives of any member hospitals or licensed medical professionals of such corporation, employee-officers of such corporation, persons covered under its contracts and the general public in the same proportions as the membership of the board of directors.

(E) The board of directors of a health service, hospital service or medical expense indemnity corporation with a combined premium volume exceeding two billion dollars annually as of December thirty-first, nineteen hundred ninety-six shall, in addition to its other responsibilities, have responsibility for ensuring that the corporation implements and maintains effective standards and procedures for operating efficiency and for quality of consumer service and claims payment, including but not limited to coordination of benefits and fraud prevention and shall establish one or more committees comprised solely of directors who are not officers or employees of the corporation. Such committee or committees shall have responsibility for recommending the selection of independent certified public accountants, reviewing the corporation's financial condition, the scope and results of the independent audit and any internal audit, nominating candidates for director for election by members, and evaluating the performance of officers deemed by such committee or committees to be principal officers of the company and recommending to the board of directors the selection and compensation of such principal officers.

(2) (A) Compliance with the provisions of paragraph one hereof shall be under the supervision of the superintendent.

(B) Within ten days after a vacancy in the board of directors of a health service, hospital service or medical expense indemnity corporation shall occur, such corporation shall notify the superintendent in writing that such vacancy exists. Not more than ten days after the election of a person as a director of a health service, hospital service or medical expense indemnity corporation, such corporation shall furnish, in writing, the following information to the superintendent: the name and address of the person so elected; whether such person is representative of any member hospital or licensed medical professional of such corporation or persons covered under its contracts or the general public and qualified to serve pursuant to the provisions of paragraph one hereof or is an employee-officer of such corporation; and a biographical statement concerning such person. If the superintendent finds, after a hearing, that the composition of the board of directors of a health service, hospital service or medical expense indemnity corporation is not in compliance with the provisions of paragraph one hereof, he may direct that such board of directors be reconstituted in accordance with his finding.

(3) No person who has served as a director of any corporation subject to this article for ten consecutive years shall thereafter be elected for an additional term of office as such until at least one year has elapsed since the expiration of his prior term of office. The preceding sentence shall not apply to a director of any corporation subject to this article who is an employee of the corporation and who also serves as an officer of the corporation. The superintendent, upon application by a corporation subject to the provisions of this article, may waive the ten year limit in this paragraph for a non-employee serving as chairman of its board of directors.

(4) A director of a corporation subject to this article shall automatically forfeit his office if (i) he fails to attend at least one of the regular meetings of the board of directors held during any period of eighteen consecutive months, or (ii) unless excused by the board of directors of which he is a member, which action shall be entered on the minutes of such board, it shall appear at the end of any calendar year that he failed to attend at least one-half of the regular meetings of such board held in such calendar year. A director whose office becomes vacant pursuant to the provisions of this paragraph shall not be eligible for election to such office for a period of one year from the date the vacancy occurred.

§ 4302. Permit and license to do business. (a) Corporations subject to this article shall not solicit the purchase of, or enter into, any contract with any individual or group until it has obtained from the superintendent a permit so to do. Such permit shall be issued by the superintendent upon receipt of an application in a form to be prescribed by the superintendent and upon payment of a fee of ten dollars. Such application shall include a statement of the territory in which the corporation will operate, which, in the case of hospital service corporations, shall not exceed eighteen counties of this state, the services to be rendered by the corporation and the rates to be charged therefor, and shall be accompanied by two copies of each type of contract for service which the corporation proposes to render and by a bond in the sum of one thousand dollars conditioned upon return to applicants for contracts of any advance payments made if within one year from the date of the issuance of such permit a license to do business as hereafter provided has not been issued.

(b) No such corporation shall furnish medical expense indemnity, dental expense indemnity, hospital service or health service as set forth in section four thousand three hundred one of this article until it has obtained from the superintendent a license to do business. Such license may be issued by the superintendent upon the filing of an application, subscribed by two officers of such corporation and affirmed by such officers as true under the penalties of perjury, and in a form prescribed by the superintendent and upon payment of a fee of ten dollars. Such application shall include (i) a statement of the number of individuals and groups from whom the corporation has received applications for medical expense indemnity, dental expense indemnity, hospital service or health service, as the case may be, to be rendered during one year, and from each of whom it has received payment of not less than one-sixth of the full payment required from such individuals and groups; and (ii) a statement of the total amount so collected, which shall be not less than eighteen hundred dollars. Before issuing any such license the superintendent may make such examination or investigation as he deems expedient, including an investigation of the sponsors of such proposed corporation and if after such examination or investigation he determines the issuance of such license is contrary to the interest of the people, he shall refuse to issue. Upon the issuance of such license, the corporation may begin to furnish medical expense indemnity, dental expense indemnity, hospital service or health service, as the case may be.

(c) Notwithstanding the other provisions of this article, the superintendent may issue a permit to organize and a license to do business to a not-for-profit corporation organized and operated under the supervision of the New York State Public High School Athletic Association, unrestricted as to its territorial operations in this state, for the sole purpose, however, of furnishing medical, dental and hospital expense indemnity to bona fide students in elementary and high schools injured (i) in intramural and interscholastic athletic games and sports activities, (ii) while engaged in preparation for such games, sports or contests, (iii) in physical education classes, and (iv) in any other accidents which in the judgment of the superintendent should be included. The dental indemnity is to apply, however, only in case of dental expense caused by injury occurring as above set forth.

§ 4303. Benefits. (a) Every contract issued by a hospital service corporation or health service corporation which provides coverage for in-patient hospital care shall also provide coverage:

(1) For preadmission testing performed in hospital facilities prior to scheduled surgery. A patient who uses the out-patient facilities of a hospital shall be entitled to benefits for tests ordered by a physician which are performed as a planned preliminary to admission of the patient as an in-patient for surgery in the same hospital, provided that:

(A) tests are necessary for and consistent with the diagnosis and treatment of the condition for which surgery is to be performed,

(B) reservations for a hospital bed and for an operating room shall have been made prior to the performance of the tests,

(C) surgery actually takes place within seven days of such presurgical tests, and

(D) the patient is physically present at the hospital for the tests.

(2) (A) For services to treat an emergency condition in hospital facilities:

(i) without the need for any prior authorization determination;

(ii) regardless of whether the health care provider furnishing such services is a participating provider with respect to such services;

(iii) if the emergency services are provided by a non-participating provider, without imposing any administrative requirement or limitation on coverage that is more restrictive than the requirements or limitations that apply to emergency services received from participating providers; and

(iv) if the emergency services are provided by a non-participating provider, the cost-sharing requirement (expressed as a copayment or coinsurance) shall be the same requirement that would apply if such services were provided by a participating provider.

(B) Any requirements of section 2719A(b) of the Public Health Service Act, 42 U.S.C. § 300gg19a(b) and regulations thereunder that exceed the requirements of this paragraph with respect to coverage of emergency services shall be applicable to every contract subject to this paragraph.

(C) For the purpose of this provision, "emergency condition" means a medical or behavioral condition that manifests itself by acute symptoms of sufficient severity, including severe pain, such that a prudent layperson, possessing an average knowledge of medicine and health, could reasonably expect the absence of immediate medical attention to result in (i) placing the health of the person afflicted with such condition in serious jeopardy, or in the case of a behavioral condition placing the health of such person or others in serious jeopardy; (ii) serious impairment to such person's bodily functions; (iii) serious dysfunction of any bodily organ or part of such person; (iv) serious disfigurement of such person; or (v) a condition described in clause (i), (ii) or (iii) of section 1867(e)(1)(A) of the Social Security Act.

(D) For the purpose of this provision, "emergency services" means, with respect to an emergency condition: (i) a medical screening examination as required under section 1867 of the Social Security Act, 42 U.S.C. § 1395dd, which is within the capability of the emergency department of a hospital, including ancillary services routinely available to the emergency department to evaluate such emergency medical condition; and (ii) within the capabilities of the staff and facilities available at the hospital, such further medical examination and treatment as are required under section 1867 of the Social Security Act, 42 U.S.C. § 1395dd, to stabilize the patient.

(E) For the purpose of this provision, "to stabilize" means, with respect to an emergency condition, to provide such medical treatment of the condition as may be necessary to assure, within reasonable medical probability, that no material deterioration of the condition is likely to result from or occur during the transfer of the subscriber from a facility or to deliver a newborn child (including the placenta).

(3) For home care to residents in this state. Such home care coverage shall be included at the inception of all new contracts and, with respect to all other contracts, added at any anniversary date of the contract subject to evidence of insurability. Such coverage may be subject to an annual deductible of not more than fifty dollars for each covered person and may be subject to a coinsurance provision which provides for coverage of not less than seventy-five percent of the reasonable cost of services for which payment may be made. No such corporation need provide such coverage to persons eligible for medicare.

(A) Home care shall mean the care and treatment of a covered person who is under the care of a physician but only if:

(i) hospitalization or confinement in a nursing facility as defined in subchapter XVIII of the Social Security Act, 42 U.S.C. § 1395 et seq, would otherwise have been required if home care was not provided, and

(ii) the plan covering the home health service is established and approved in writing by such physician.

(B) Home care shall be provided by an agency possessing a valid certificate of approval or license issued pursuant to article thirty-six of the public health law.

(C) Home care shall consist of one or more of the following:

(i) part-time or intermittent home nursing care by or under the supervision of a registered professional nurse (R.N.),

(ii) part-time or intermittent home health aide services which consist primarily of caring for the patient,

(iii) physical, occupational or speech therapy if provided by the home health service or agency, and

(iv) medical supplies, drugs and medications prescribed by a physician, and laboratory services by or on behalf of a certified home health agency or licensed home care services agency to the extent such items would have been covered or provided under the contract if the covered person had been hospitalized or confined in a skilled nursing facility as defined in subchapter XVIII of the Social Security Act, 42

U.S.C. § 1395 et seq.

(D) For the purpose of determining the benefits for home care available to a covered person, each visit by a member of a home care team shall be considered as one home care visit. The contract may contain a limitation on the number of home care visits, but not less than forty such visits in any calendar year or in any continuous period of twelve months, for each covered person. Four hours of home health aide service shall be considered as one home care visit. Every contract issued by a hospital service corporation or health service corporation which provides coverage supplementing part A and part B of subchapter XVIII of the Social Security Act, 42 U.S.C. § 1395 et seq, must make available and, if requested by a subscriber holding a direct payment contract or by all subscribers in a group remittance group or by the contract holder in the case of group contracts issued pursuant to section four thousand three hundred five of this article, provide coverage of supplemental home care visits beyond those provided by part A and part B, sufficient to produce an aggregate coverage of three hundred sixty-five home care visits per contract year. Such coverage shall be provided pursuant to regulations prescribed by the superintendent. Written notice of the availability of such coverage shall be delivered to the group remitting agent or group contract holder prior to inception of such contract and annually thereafter, except that this notice shall not be required where a policy covers two hundred or more employees or where the benefit structure was the subject of collective bargaining affecting persons who are employed in more than one state.

The provisions of this subsection shall not apply to a contract issued pursuant to section four thousand three hundred five of this article which covers persons employed in more than one state or the benefit structure of which was the subject of collective bargaining affecting persons who are employed in more than one state.

(b) Every contract issued by a medical expense indemnity corporation or a health service corporation which provides coverage for in-patient surgical care shall include coverage for a second surgical opinion by a qualified physician on the need for surgery, except that this provision shall not apply to a contract issued pursuant to section four thousand three hundred five of this article which covers persons employed in more than one state or the benefit structure of which was the subject of collective bargaining affecting persons who are employed in more than one state.

(c) (1) (A) Every contract issued by a corporation subject to the provisions of this article which provides hospital service, medical expense indemnity or both shall provide coverage for maternity care including hospital, surgical or medical care to the same extent that hospital service, medical expense indemnity or both are provided for illness or disease under the contract. Such maternity care coverage, other than coverage for perinatal complications, shall include inpatient hospital coverage for mother and for newborn for at least forty-eight hours after childbirth for any delivery other than a caesarean section, and for at least ninety-six hours following a caesarean section. Such coverage for maternity care shall include the services of a midwife licensed pursuant to article one hundred forty of the education law, practicing consistent with section sixty-nine hundred fifty-one of the education law and affiliated or practicing in conjunction with a facility licensed pursuant to article twenty-eight of the public health law, but no insurer shall be required to pay for duplicative routine services actually provided by both a licensed midwife and a physician.

(B) Maternity care coverage also shall include, at minimum, parent education, assistance and training in breast or bottle feeding, and the performance of any necessary maternal and newborn clinical assessments.

(C) The mother shall have the option to be discharged earlier than the time periods established in subparagraph (A) of this paragraph. In such case, the inpatient hospital coverage must include at least one home care visit, which shall be in addition to, rather than in lieu of, any home health care coverage available under the contract. The contract must cover the home care visit which may be requested at any time within forty-eight hours of the time of delivery (ninety-six hours in the case of caesarean section), and shall be delivered within twenty-four hours, (i) after discharge, or (ii) of the time of the mother's request, whichever is later. Such home care coverage shall be pursuant to the contract and subject to the provisions of this paragraph, and not subject to deductibles, coinsurance or copayments.

* (D) Coverage provided under this paragraph for care and treatment during pregnancy shall include medically necessary transvaginal ultrasounds when recommended by nationally recognized clinical practice guidelines. For the purposes of this subparagraph, "nationally recognized clinical practice guidelines" means evidence-based clinical practice guidelines informed by a systematic review of evidence and an assessment of the benefits, and risks of alternative care options intended to optimize patient care developed by independent organizations or medical professional societies utilizing a transparent methodology and reporting structure and with a conflict of interest policy.

* NB Effective January 1, 2027

(2) Coverage provided under this subsection for care and treatment during pregnancy shall include provision for not less than two payments, at reasonable intervals and for services rendered, for prenatal care and a separate payment for the delivery and postnatal care provided.

(c-1) Any contract issued by a medical expense indemnity corporation, a hospital service corporation or a health services corporation that provides medical, major medical, or similar comprehensive-type coverage shall provide coverage for prenatal vitamins when prescribed by a health care practitioner licensed, certified, or authorized under title eight of the education law, and acting within their lawful scope of practice.

(d) (1) A hospital service corporation or a health service corporation which provides coverage for in-patient hospital care must make available and, if requested by a person holding a direct payment individual contract or by all persons holding individual contracts in a group whose premiums are paid by a remitting agent or by the contract holder in the case of a group contract issued pursuant to section four thousand three hundred five of this article, provide coverage for care in nursing homes. Such coverage shall be made available at the inception of all new contracts and, with respect to all other contracts, at any anniversary date subject to evidence of insurability. Written notice of the availability of such coverage shall be delivered to the group remitting agent or group contract holder prior to inception of such contract and annually thereafter, except that this notice shall not be required where a policy covers two hundred or more employees or where the benefit structure was the subject of collective bargaining affecting persons who are employed in more than one state.

(2) For the purpose of this subsection, care in nursing homes shall mean the continued care and treatment of a covered person who is under the care of a physician but only if (i) the care is provided in a nursing home as defined in section two thousand eight hundred one of the public health law or a skilled nursing facility as defined in subchapter XVIII of the federal Social Security Act, 42 U.S.C. § 1395 et seq, (ii) the covered person has been in a hospital for at least three days immediately preceding admittance to the nursing home or the skilled nursing facility, and (iii) further hospitalization would otherwise be necessary. The aggregate of the number of covered days of care in a hospital and the number of covered days of care in a nursing home, with two days of care in a nursing home equivalent to one day of care in a hospital, need not exceed the number of covered days of hospital care provided under the contract in a benefit period. The level of benefits to be provided for nursing home care must be reasonably related to the benefits provided for hospital care.

(e) (1) A hospital service corporation or a health service corporation which provides coverage for in-patient hospital care must make available and, if requested by a person holding a direct payment individual contract or by all persons holding individual contracts in a group whose premiums are paid by a remitting agent or by the contract holder in the case of a group contract issued pursuant to section four thousand three hundred five of this article, provide coverage for ambulatory care in hospital out-patient facilities, as a hospital is defined in section two thousand eight hundred one of the public health law, or subchapter XVIII of the Social Security Act, 42 U.S.C. § 1395 et seq. Written notice of the availability of such coverage shall be delivered to the group remitting agent or group contract holder prior to inception of such contract and annually thereafter, except that this notice shall not be required where a policy covers two hundred or more employees or where the benefit structure was the subject of collective bargaining affecting persons who are employed in more than one state.

(2) For the purpose of this subsection, ambulatory care in hospital out-patient facilities shall mean services for diagnostic x-rays, laboratory and pathological examinations, physical and occupational therapy and radiation therapy, and services and medications used for nonexperimental cancer chemotherapy and cancer hormone therapy, provided that such services and medications are (i) related to and necessary for the treatment or diagnosis of the patient's illness or injury, (ii) ordered by a physician and (iii) in the case of physical therapy, services are to be furnished in connection with the same illness for which the patient had been hospitalized or in connection with surgical care, but in no event need benefits for physical therapy be provided which commences more than six months after discharge from a hospital or the date surgical care was rendered, and in no event need benefits for physical therapy be provided after three hundred sixty-five days from the date of discharge from a hospital or the date surgical care was rendered. Such coverage shall be made available at the inception of all new contracts and, with respect to all other contracts, at any anniversary date subject to evidence of insurability.

(f) (1) A medical expense indemnity corporation or a health service corporation which provides coverage for physicians' services must make available and, if requested by a person holding an individual direct payment contract or by all persons holding individual contracts in a group whose premiums are paid by a remitting agent or by the contract holder in the case of a group contract issued pursuant to section four thousand three hundred five of this article, provide coverage for ambulatory care in physicians' offices. Written notice of the availability of such coverage shall be delivered to the group remitting agent or group contract holder prior to inception of such contract and annually thereafter, except that this notice shall not be required where a policy covers two hundred or more employees or where the benefit structure was the subject of collective bargaining affecting persons who are employed in more than one state.

(2) For the purpose of this subsection, ambulatory care in physicians' offices shall mean services for diagnostic x-rays, radiation therapy, laboratory and pathological examinations, and services and medications used for nonexperimental cancer chemotherapy and cancer hormone therapy, provided that such services and medications are (i) related to and necessary for the treatment or diagnosis of the patient's illness or injury, and (ii) ordered by a physician. Such coverage shall be made available at the inception of all new contracts and, with respect to all other contracts at any anniversary date subject to evidence of insurability.

(g) A medical expense indemnity corporation, hospital service corporation or a health service corporation, that provides group, group remittance or school blanket coverage for inpatient hospital care or coverage for physician services shall provide as part of its contract coverage for the diagnosis and treatment of mental health conditions and:

* (1) where the contract provides coverage for inpatient hospital care, benefits for in-patient care in a hospital as defined by subdivision ten of section 1.03 of the mental hygiene law or for inpatient care provided in other states, to similarly licensed hospitals, and benefits for out-patient care provided in a facility issued an operating certificate by the commissioner of mental health pursuant to the provisions of article thirty-one of the mental hygiene law or in a facility operated by the office of mental health or in a crisis stabilization center licensed pursuant to section 36.01 of the mental hygiene law or for out-patient care provided in other states, to similarly certified facilities; and

* NB Effective until after the superintendent of financial services and the commissioner of health have promulgated regulations

* (1) where the contract provides coverage for inpatient hospital care, benefits for: in-patient care in a hospital as defined by subdivision ten of section 1.03 of the mental hygiene law; sub-acute care in a residential facility licensed or operated by the office of mental health; outpatient care provided by a facility issued an operating certificate by the commissioner of mental health pursuant to the provisions of article thirty-one of the mental hygiene law or by a facility operated by the office of mental health; outpatient care provided by a crisis stabilization center licensed pursuant to section 36.01 of the mental hygiene law; outpatient care provided by a mobile crisis intervention services provider licensed, certified, or designated by the office of mental health or the office of addiction services and supports; outpatient and inpatient care for critical time intervention services and outpatient care for assertive community treatment services provided by facilities issued an operating certificate by the commissioner of mental health pursuant to the provisions of article thirty-one of the mental hygiene law, beginning no later than thirty days following discharge from a hospital as defined by subdivision ten of section 1.03 of the mental hygiene law or the emergency department of a hospital licensed pursuant to article twenty-eight of the public health law; or for care provided in other states, to similarly licensed or certified hospitals, facilities, or licensed, certified or designated providers; and

* NB Effective after the superintendent of financial services and the commissioner of health have promulgated regulations

(2) where the contract provides coverage for physician services such contract shall provide benefits for outpatient care provided by a psychiatrist or psychologist licensed to practice in this state, or a mental health counselor, marriage and family therapist, or psychoanalyst licensed pursuant to article one hundred sixty-three of the education law, or a licensed clinical social worker within the lawful scope of his or her practice, who is licensed pursuant to article one hundred fifty-four of the education law, a nurse practitioner licensed to practice in this state, or professional corporation or university faculty practice corporation thereof. Nothing herein shall be construed to modify or expand the scope of practice of a mental health counselor, marriage and family therapist, or psychoanalyst licensed pursuant to article one hundred sixty-three of the education law. Further, nothing herein shall be construed to create a new mandated health benefit.

(3) Such coverage may be subject to annual deductibles, co-pays and coinsurance as may be deemed appropriate by the superintendent and shall be consistent with those imposed on other benefits under the contract. Provided that no copayment or coinsurance imposed for outpatient mental health services provided in a facility licensed, certified or otherwise authorized by the office of mental health shall exceed the copayments or coinsurance imposed for a primary care office visit under the contract.

(4) Coverage under this subsection shall not apply financial requirements or treatment limitations to mental health benefits that are more restrictive than the predominant financial requirements and treatment limitations applied to substantially all medical and surgical benefits covered by the contract.

(5) The criteria for medical necessity determinations under the contract with respect to mental health benefits shall be made available by the corporation to any insured, prospective insured, or in-network provider upon request.

(6) For purposes of this subsection:

(A) "financial requirement" means deductible, copayments, coinsurance and out-of-pocket expenses;

(B) "predominant" means that a financial requirement or treatment limitation is the most common or frequent of such type of limit or requirement;

* (C) "treatment limitation" means limits on the frequency of treatment, number of visits, days of coverage, or other similar limits on the scope or duration of treatment and includes nonquantitative treatment limitations such as: medical management standards limiting or excluding benefits based on medical necessity, or based on whether the treatment is experimental or investigational; formulary design for prescription drugs; network tier design; standards for provider admission to participate in a network, including reimbursement rates; methods for determining usual, customary, and reasonable charges; fail-first or step therapy protocols; exclusions based on failure to complete a course of treatment; and restrictions based on geographic location, facility type, provider specialty, and other criteria that limit the scope or duration of benefits for services provided under the contract; and

* NB Effective until after the superintendent of financial services and the commissioner of health have promulgated regulations

* (C) "treatment limitation" means limits on the frequency of treatment, number of visits, days of coverage, or other similar limits on the scope or duration of treatment and includes nonquantitative treatment limitations such as: medical management standards limiting or excluding benefits based on medical necessity, or based on whether the treatment is experimental or investigational; formulary design for prescription drugs; network tier design; standards for provider admission to participate in a network, including reimbursement rates; methods for determining usual, customary, and reasonable charges; fail-first or step therapy protocols; exclusions based on failure to complete a course of treatment; and restrictions based on geographic location, facility type, provider specialty, and other criteria that limit the scope or duration of benefits for services provided under the contract;

* NB Effective after the superintendent of financial services and the commissioner of health have promulgated regulations

* (D) "mental health condition" means any mental health disorder as defined in the most recent edition of the diagnostic and statistical manual of mental disorders or the most recent edition of another generally recognized independent standard of current medical practice such as the international classification of diseases.

* NB Effective until after the superintendent of financial services and the commissioner of health have promulgated regulations

* (D) "mental health condition" means any mental health disorder as defined in the most recent edition of the diagnostic and statistical manual of mental disorders or the most recent edition of another generally recognized independent standard of current medical practice such as the international classification of diseases;

* NB Effective after the superintendent of financial services and the commissioner of health have promulgated regulations

* (E) "assertive community treatment services" means a comprehensive and integrated combination of treatment, rehabilitation, case management, and support services primarily provided in an insured's residence or other community locations by a mobile multidisciplinary mental health treatment team licensed pursuant to article thirty-one of the mental hygiene law;

* NB Effective after the superintendent of financial services and the commissioner of health have promulgated regulations

* (F) "critical time intervention services" means services rendered by a provider licensed under article thirty-one of the mental hygiene law that provides evidence-based, therapeutic interventions that include intensive outreach, engagement, and care coordination services that are provided to an insured before the insured is discharged from inpatient care in a hospital as defined by subdivision ten of section 1.03 of the mental hygiene law or the emergency department of a hospital licensed pursuant to article twenty-eight of the public health law and continue after discharge until the insured is stabilized; and

* NB Effective after the superintendent of financial services and the commissioner of health have promulgated regulations

* (G) "residential facility" means crisis residence facilities and community residences for eating disorder integrated treatment programs licensed pursuant to article thirty-one of the mental hygiene law.

* NB Effective after the superintendent of financial services and the commissioner of health have promulgated regulations

(7) A corporation shall provide coverage under this subsection, at a minimum, consistent with the federal Paul Wellstone and Pete Domenici Mental Health Parity and Addiction Equity Act of 2008 (29 U.S.C. § 1185a).

(8) This paragraph shall apply to hospitals and crisis residence facilities in this state that are licensed or operated by the office of mental health that are participating in the corporation's provider network. Where the contract provides coverage for inpatient hospital care, benefits for inpatient hospital care in a hospital as defined by subdivision ten of section 1.03 of the mental hygiene law and benefits for sub-acute care in a crisis residence facility licensed or operated by the office of mental health shall not be subject to preauthorization. Coverage provided under this paragraph shall also not be subject to concurrent utilization review for individuals who have not attained the age of eighteen during the first fourteen days of the inpatient admission, provided the facility notifies the corporation of both the admission and the initial treatment plan within two business days of the admission, performs daily clinical review of the insured, and participates in periodic consultation with the corporation to ensure that the facility is using the evidence-based and peer reviewed clinical review criteria utilized by the corporation which is approved by the office of mental health and appropriate to the age of the insured, to ensure that the inpatient care is medically necessary for the insured. For individuals who have attained age eighteen, coverage provided under this paragraph shall also not be subject to concurrent review during the first thirty days of the inpatient or residential admission, provided the facility notifies the corporation of both the admission and the initial treatment plan within two business days of the admission, performs daily clinical review of the insured, and participates in periodic consultation with the corporation to ensure that the facility is using the evidence-based and peer reviewed clinical review criteria utilized by the corporation which is approved by the office of mental health and appropriate to the age of the insured, to ensure that the inpatient or residential care is medically necessary for the insured. However, concurrent review may be performed during the first thirty days if an insured meets clinical criteria designated by the office of mental health or where the insured is admitted to a hospital or facility which has been designated by the office of mental health for concurrent review, in consultation with the commissioner of health and the superintendent. All treatment provided under this paragraph may be reviewed retrospectively. Where care is denied retrospectively, an insured shall not have any financial obligation to the facility for any treatment under this paragraph other than any copayment, coinsurance, or deductible otherwise required under the contract.

(9) This paragraph shall apply to crisis stabilization centers in this state that are licensed pursuant to section 36.01 of the mental hygiene law and participate in the corporation's provider network. Benefits for care by a crisis stabilization center shall not be subject to preauthorization. All treatment provided under this paragraph may be reviewed retrospectively. Where care is denied retrospectively, an insured shall not have any financial obligation to the facility for any treatment under this paragraph other than any copayment, coinsurance, or deductible otherwise required under the contract.

* (10) This paragraph shall apply to mobile crisis intervention services providers licensed, certified, or designated by the office of mental health or the office of addiction services and supports. For purposes of this paragraph, "mobile crisis intervention services" means mental health and substance use disorder services, consisting of: (1) telephonic crisis triage and response; (2) mobile crisis response to provide intervention and facilitate access to other behavioral health services; and (3) mobile and telephonic follow-up services after the initial crisis response until the insured is stabilized, provided to an insured who is experiencing, or is at imminent risk of experiencing, a behavioral health crisis, which includes instances in which an insured cannot manage their primarily psychiatric or substance use related symptoms without de-escalation or intervention. Mobile crisis intervention services do not include services provided to an insured after the insured has been stabilized.

(A) Benefits for covered services provided by a mobile crisis intervention services provider shall not be subject to preauthorization. Except where otherwise required by law, nothing in this paragraph shall prevent services provided subsequent to the provision of mobile crisis intervention services from being subject to preauthorization.

(B) Benefits for covered services provided by a mobile crisis intervention services provider shall be covered regardless of whether the mobile crisis intervention services provider is a participating provider.

(C) If the covered services are provided by a non-participating mobile crisis intervention services provider, a corporation shall not impose any administrative requirement or limitation on coverage that is more restrictive than the requirements or limitations that apply to covered services received from a participating mobile crisis intervention services provider.

(D) If the covered services are provided by a non-participating mobile crisis intervention services provider, the insured's copayment, coinsurance, and deductible shall be the same as would apply if such covered services were provided by a participating mobile crisis intervention services provider.

(E) A mobile crisis intervention services provider reimbursed pursuant to this section shall not charge or seek any reimbursement from, or have any recourse against, an insured for the services provided pursuant to this subparagraph, except for the collection of in-network copayments, coinsurance, or deductibles for which the insured is responsible for under the terms of the contract.

* NB Effective after the superintendent of financial services and the commissioner of health have promulgated regulations

(11) This paragraph shall apply to school-based mental health clinics that are licensed pursuant to article thirty-one of the mental hygiene law and provide outpatient care in pre-school, elementary, or secondary schools. A corporation shall provide reimbursement for covered outpatient care when provided by such school-based mental health clinics at a pre-school, elementary, or secondary school, regardless of whether the school-based mental health clinic furnishing such services is a participating provider with respect to such services. Reimbursement for such covered services shall be at the rate negotiated between the corporation and school-based mental health clinic or, in the absence of a negotiated rate, an amount no less than the rate that would be paid for such services pursuant to the medical assistance program under title eleven of article five of the social services law. Payment by a corporation pursuant to this section shall be payment in full for the services provided. The school-based mental health clinic reimbursed pursuant to this section shall not charge or seek any reimbursement from, or have any recourse against, a corporation for the services provided pursuant to this paragraph, except for the collection of in-network copayments, coinsurance, or deductibles for which the insured is responsible for under the terms of the contract.

(12) (A) This subparagraph shall apply to outpatient treatment provided in a facility issued an operating certificate by the commissioner of mental health pursuant to the provisions of article thirty-one of the mental hygiene law, or in a facility operated by the office of mental health, or in a crisis stabilization center licensed pursuant to section 36.01 of the mental hygiene law, that is participating in the corporation's provider network. Reimbursement for covered outpatient treatment provided by such facility shall be at rates negotiated between the corporation and the participating facility, provided that such rates are not less than the rates that would be paid for such treatment pursuant to the medical assistance program under title eleven of article five of the social services law. For the purposes of this subparagraph, the rates that would be paid for such treatment pursuant to the medical assistance program under title eleven of article five of the social services law shall be the rates with an effective date of April first of the preceding year, which shall be established prior to October first of the preceding calendar year.

(B) The office of mental health shall publish information adequate to calculate the rates that would be paid for such treatment pursuant to the medical assistance program under title eleven of article five of the social services law. Such information shall be provided in a form and manner to be determined by the commissioner of mental health. Nothing in this subparagraph shall be construed to relieve an insurer of the obligation to reimburse at no less than the applicable minimum rate set forth in subparagraph (A) of this paragraph. Prior to the submission of premium rate filings and applications, the superintendent shall provide corporations with guidance on factors to consider in calculating the impact of rate changes for the purposes of submitting premium rate filings and applications to the superintendent for the subsequent policy year. To the extent that the rates with an effective date of April first differ from the estimated rates incorporated in premium rate filings and applications, corporations may account for such differences in future premium rate filings and applications submitted to the superintendent for approval.

(j)(1) A health service corporation or medical expense indemnity corporation that provides medical, major-medical or similar comprehensive-type coverage shall provide coverage for the provision of preventive and primary care services.

(2) For purposes of this paragraph and paragraph one of this subsection, preventive and primary care services shall mean the following services rendered to a covered child of a subscriber from the date of birth through the attainment of nineteen years of age:

(A) an initial hospital check-up and well-child visits scheduled in accordance with the prevailing clinical standards of a national association of pediatric physicians designated by the commissioner of health (except for any standard that would limit the specialty or forum of licensure of the practitioner providing the service other than the limits under state law). Coverage for such services rendered shall be provided only to the extent that such services are provided by or under the supervision of a physician, or other professional licensed under article one hundred thirty-nine of the education law whose scope of practice pursuant to such law includes the authority to provide the specified services. Coverage shall be provided for such services rendered in a hospital, as defined in section twenty-eight hundred one of the public health law, or in an office of a physician or other professional licensed under article one hundred thirty-nine of the education law whose scope of practice pursuant to such law includes the authority to provide the specified services,

(B) at each visit, services in accordance with the prevailing clinical standards of such designated association, including a medical history, a complete physical examination, developmental assessment, anticipatory guidance, appropriate immunizations and laboratory tests which tests are ordered at the time of the visit and performed in the practitioner's office, as authorized by law, or in a clinical laboratory, and

(C) necessary immunizations, as determined by the superintendent in consultation with the commissioner of health, consisting of at least adequate dosages of vaccine against diphtheria, pertussis, tetanus, polio, measles, rubella, mumps, haemophilus influenzae type b and hepatitis b, which meet the standards approved by the United States public health service for such biological products.

(D) Such coverage required pursuant to this paragraph and paragraph one of this subsection shall not be subject to annual deductibles or coinsurance.

(E) Such coverage required pursuant to this paragraph and paragraph one of this subsection shall not restrict or eliminate existing coverage provided by the contract.

(3) In addition to paragraph one or two of this subsection, every contract that provides hospital, surgical or medical care coverage, except for a grandfathered health plan under paragraph four of this subsection, shall provide coverage for the following preventive care and screenings for subscribers, and such coverage shall not be subject to annual deductibles or coinsurance:

(A) evidence-based items or services for preventive care and screenings that have in effect a rating of 'A' or 'B' in the current recommendations of the United States preventive services task force;

(B) immunizations that have in effect a recommendation from the advisory committee on immunization practices of the centers for disease control and prevention with respect to the individual involved, or that are recommended by the commissioner of health to the superintendent utilizing generally accepted medical standards and taking into consideration recommendations of the American Academy of Pediatrics, the American Academy of Family Physicians, the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, and the American College of Physicians and/or other similar nationally or internationally recognized scientific organizations;

(C) with respect to children, including infants and adolescents, evidence-informed preventive care and screenings provided for in comprehensive guidelines supported by the health resources and services administration; and

(D) with respect to women, such additional preventive care and screenings not described in subparagraph (A) of this paragraph and as provided for in comprehensive guidelines supported by the health resources and services administration.

(4) For purposes of this subsection, "grandfathered health plan" means coverage provided by a corporation in which an individual was enrolled on March twenty-third, two thousand ten for as long as the coverage maintains grandfathered status in accordance with section 1251(e) of the Affordable Care Act, 42 U.S.C. § 18011(e).

* (k)(1) Every contract that provides hospital, major medical or similar comprehensive coverage shall provide inpatient coverage for the diagnosis and treatment of substance use disorder, including detoxification and rehabilitation services. Such inpatient coverage shall include unlimited medically necessary treatment for substance use disorder treatment services provided in residential settings. Further, such inpatient coverage shall not apply financial requirements or treatment limitations, including utilization review requirements, to inpatient substance use disorder benefits that are more restrictive than the predominant financial requirements and treatment limitations applied to substantially all medical and surgical benefits covered by the contract.

(2) Coverage provided under this subsection may be limited to facilities in New York state that are licensed, certified or otherwise authorized by the office of alcoholism and substance abuse services and, in other states, to those which are accredited by the joint commission as alcoholism, substance abuse, or chemical dependence treatment programs and are similarly licensed, certified or otherwise authorized in the state in which the facility is located.

(3) Coverage provided under this subsection may be subject to annual deductibles and co-insurance as deemed appropriate by the superintendent and that are consistent with those imposed on other benefits within a given contract.

(4) This paragraph shall apply to facilities in this state that are licensed, certified or otherwise authorized by the office of alcoholism and substance abuse services that are participating in the corporation's provider network. Coverage provided under this subsection shall not be subject to preauthorization. Coverage provided under this subsection shall also not be subject to concurrent utilization review during the first twenty-eight days of the inpatient admission provided that the facility notifies the corporation of both the admission and the initial treatment plan within two business days of the admission. The facility shall perform daily clinical review of the patient, including periodic consultation with the corporation at or just prior to the fourteenth day of treatment to ensure that the facility is using the evidence-based and peer reviewed clinical review tool utilized by the corporation which is designated by the office of alcoholism and substance abuse services and appropriate to the age of the patient, to ensure that the inpatient treatment is medically necessary for the patient. Prior to discharge, the facility shall provide the patient and the corporation with a written discharge plan which shall describe arrangements for additional services needed following discharge from the inpatient facility as determined using the evidence-based and peer-reviewed clinical review tool utilized by the corporation which is designated by the office of alcoholism and substance abuse services. Prior to discharge, the facility shall indicate to the corporation whether services included in the discharge plan are secured or determined to be reasonably available. Any utilization review of treatment provided under this paragraph may include a review of all services provided during such inpatient treatment, including all services provided during the first twenty-eight days of such inpatient treatment. Provided, however, the corporation shall only deny coverage for any portion of the initial twenty-eight day inpatient treatment on the basis that such treatment was not medically necessary if such inpatient treatment was contrary to the evidence-based and peer reviewed clinical review tool utilized by the corporation which is designated by the office of alcoholism and substance abuse services. An insured shall not have any financial obligation to the facility for any treatment under this paragraph other than any copayment, coinsurance, or deductible otherwise required under the contract.

(5) The criteria for medical necessity determinations under the contract with respect to inpatient substance use disorder benefits shall be made available by the corporation to any insured, prospective insured or in-network provider upon request.

(6) For purposes of this subsection:

(A) "financial requirement" means deductible, copayments, coinsurance and out-of-pocket expenses;

(B) "predominant" means that a financial requirement or treatment limitation is the most common or frequent of such type of limit or requirement;

(C) "treatment limitation" means limits on the frequency of treatment, number of visits, days of coverage, or other similar limits on the scope

or duration of treatment and includes nonquantitative treatment limitations such as: medical management standards limiting or excluding benefits based on medical necessity, or based on whether the treatment is experimental or investigational; formulary design for prescription drugs; network tier design; standards for provider admission to participate in a network, including reimbursement rates; methods for determining usual, customary, and reasonable charges; fail-first or step therapy protocols; exclusions based on failure to complete a course of treatment; and restrictions based on geographic location, facility type, provider specialty, and other criteria that limit the scope or duration of benefits for services provided under the contract; and

(D) "substance use disorder" shall have the meaning set forth in the most recent edition of the diagnostic and statistical manual of mental disorders or the most recent edition of another generally recognized independent standard of current medical practice such as the international classification of diseases.

(7) A corporation shall provide coverage under this subsection, at a minimum, consistent with the federal Paul Wellstone and Pete Domenici Mental Health Parity and Addiction Equity Act of 2008 (29 U.S.C. § 1185a).

* NB Effective until January 1, 2027

* (k)(1) Every contract that provides hospital, major medical or similar comprehensive coverage shall provide inpatient coverage for the diagnosis and treatment of substance-related and addictive disorder, including detoxification and rehabilitation services. Such inpatient coverage shall include unlimited medically necessary treatment for substance-related and addictive disorder treatment services provided in residential settings. Further, such inpatient coverage shall not apply financial requirements or treatment limitations, including utilization review requirements, to inpatient substance-related and addictive disorder benefits that are more restrictive than the predominant financial requirements and treatment limitations applied to substantially all medical and surgical benefits covered by the contract.

(2) Coverage provided under this subsection may be limited to facilities in New York state that are licensed, certified or otherwise authorized by the office of addiction services and supports and, in other states, to those which are accredited by the joint commission as alcoholism, addiction, substance abuse, or chemical dependence treatment programs and are similarly licensed, certified or otherwise authorized in the state in which the facility is located.

(3) Coverage provided under this subsection may be subject to annual deductibles and co-insurance as deemed appropriate by the superintendent and that are consistent with those imposed on other benefits within a given contract.

(4) This paragraph shall apply to facilities in this state that are licensed, certified or otherwise authorized by the office of addiction services and supports that are participating in the corporation's provider network. Coverage provided under this subsection shall not be subject to preauthorization. Coverage provided under this subsection shall also not be subject to concurrent utilization review during the first twenty-eight days of the inpatient admission provided that the facility notifies the corporation of both the admission and the initial treatment plan within two business days of the admission. The facility shall perform daily clinical review of the patient, including periodic consultation with the corporation at or just prior to the fourteenth day of treatment to ensure that the facility is using the evidence-based and peer reviewed clinical review tool utilized by the corporation which is designated by the office of addiction services and supports and appropriate to the age of the patient, to ensure that the inpatient treatment is medically necessary for the patient. Prior to discharge, the facility shall provide the patient and the corporation with a written discharge plan which shall describe arrangements for additional services needed following discharge from the inpatient facility as determined using the evidence-based and peer-reviewed clinical review tool utilized by the corporation which is designated by the office of addiction services and supports. Prior to discharge, the facility shall indicate to the corporation whether services included in the discharge plan are secured or determined to be reasonably available. Any utilization review of treatment provided under this paragraph may include a review of all services provided during such inpatient treatment, including all services provided during the first twenty-eight days of such inpatient treatment. Provided, however, the corporation shall only deny coverage for any portion of the initial twenty-eight day inpatient treatment on the basis that such treatment was not medically necessary if such inpatient treatment was contrary to the evidence-based and peer reviewed clinical review tool utilized by the corporation which is designated by the office of addiction services and supports. An insured shall not have any financial obligation to the facility for any treatment under this paragraph other than any copayment, coinsurance, or deductible otherwise required under the contract.

(5) The criteria for medical necessity determinations under the contract with respect to inpatient substance-related and addictive disorder benefits shall be made available by the corporation to any insured, prospective insured or in-network provider upon request.

(6) For purposes of this subsection:

(A) "financial requirement" means deductible, copayments, coinsurance and out-of-pocket expenses;

(B) "predominant" means that a financial requirement or treatment limitation is the most common or frequent of such type of limit or requirement;

(C) "treatment limitation" means limits on the frequency of treatment, number of visits, days of coverage, or other similar limits on the scope or duration of treatment and includes nonquantitative treatment limitations such as: medical management standards limiting or excluding benefits based on medical necessity, or based on whether the treatment is experimental or investigational; formulary design for prescription drugs; network tier design; standards for provider admission to participate in a network, including reimbursement rates; methods for determining usual, customary, and reasonable charges; fail-first or step therapy protocols; exclusions based on failure to complete a course of treatment; and restrictions based on geographic location, facility type, provider specialty, and other criteria that limit the scope or duration of benefits for services provided under the contract; and

(D) "substance-related and addictive disorder" shall have the meaning set forth in the most recent edition of the diagnostic and statistical manual of mental disorders or the most recent edition of another generally recognized independent standard of current medical practice such as the international classification of diseases.

(7) A corporation shall provide coverage under this subsection, at a minimum, consistent with the federal Paul Wellstone and Pete Domenici Mental Health Parity and Addiction Equity Act of 2008 (29 U.S.C. §

* NB Effective January 1, 2027

* (l) (1) Every contract that provides medical, major medical or similar comprehensive-type coverage shall provide outpatient coverage for the diagnosis and treatment of substance use disorder, including detoxification and rehabilitation services. Such coverage shall not apply financial requirements or treatment limitations to outpatient substance use disorder benefits that are more restrictive than the predominant financial requirements and treatment limitations applied to substantially all medical and surgical benefits covered by the contract.

(2) Coverage under this subsection may be limited to facilities in this state that are licensed, certified or otherwise authorized by the office of addiction services and supports to provide outpatient substance use disorder services and crisis stabilization centers licensed pursuant to section 36.01 of the mental hygiene law, and, in other states, to those which are accredited by the joint commission as alcoholism or chemical dependence substance abuse treatment programs and are similarly licensed, certified or otherwise authorized in the state in which the facility is located.

(3) Coverage provided under this subsection may be subject to annual deductibles and co-insurance as deemed appropriate by the superintendent and that are consistent with those imposed on other benefits within a given contract.

(3-a) A contract that provides large group coverage under this subsection shall not impose copayments or coinsurance for outpatient substance use disorder services that exceed the copayment or coinsurance imposed for a primary care office visit. Provided that no greater than one such copayment may be imposed for all services provided in a single day by a facility licensed, certified or otherwise authorized by the office of alcoholism and substance abuse services to provide outpatient substance use disorder services.

(4) A contract providing coverage for substance use disorder services pursuant to this subsection shall provide up to twenty outpatient visits per contract or calendar year to an individual who identifies him or herself as a family member of a person suffering from substance use disorder and who seeks treatment as a family member who is otherwise covered by the applicable contract pursuant to this subsection. The coverage required by this subsection shall include treatment as a family member pursuant to such family member's own contract provided such family member:

(A) does not exceed the allowable number of family visits provided by the applicable contract pursuant to this subsection; and

(B) is otherwise entitled to coverage pursuant to this subsection and such family member's applicable contract.

(5) This paragraph shall apply to facilities in this state that are licensed, certified or otherwise authorized by the office of alcoholism and substance abuse services for the provision of outpatient, intensive outpatient, outpatient rehabilitation and opioid treatment that are participating in the corporation's provider network. Coverage provided under this subsection shall not be subject to preauthorization. Coverage provided under this subsection shall not be subject to concurrent review for the first four weeks of continuous treatment, not to exceed twenty-eight visits, provided the facility notifies the corporation of both the start of treatment and the initial treatment plan within two business days. The facility shall perform clinical assessment of the patient at each visit, including periodic consultation with the corporation at or just prior to the fourteenth day of treatment to ensure that the facility is using the evidence-based and peer reviewed clinical review tool utilized by the corporation which is designated by the office of alcoholism and substance abuse services and appropriate to the age of the patient, to ensure that the outpatient treatment is medically necessary for the patient. Any utilization review of the treatment provided under this paragraph may include a review of all services provided during such outpatient treatment, including all services provided during the first four weeks of continuous treatment, not to exceed twenty-eight visits, of such outpatient treatment. Provided, however, the corporation shall only deny coverage for any portion of the initial four weeks of continuous treatment, not to exceed twenty-eight visits, for outpatient treatment on the basis that such treatment was not medically necessary if such outpatient treatment was contrary to the evidence-based and peer reviewed clinical review tool utilized by the corporation which is designated by the office of alcoholism and substance abuse services. A subscriber shall not have any financial obligation to the facility for any treatment under this paragraph other than any copayment, coinsurance, or deductible otherwise required under the contract.

(6) The criteria for medical necessity determinations under the contract with respect to outpatient substance use disorder benefits shall be made available by the corporation to any insured, prospective insured, or in-network provider upon request.

(7) For purposes of this subsection:

(A) "financial requirement" means deductible, copayments, coinsurance and out-of-pocket expenses;

(B) "predominant" means that a financial requirement or treatment limitation is the most common or frequent of such type of limit or requirement.

(C) "treatment limitation" means limits on the frequency of treatment, number of visits, days of coverage, or other similar limits on the scope or duration of treatment and includes nonquantitative treatment limitations such as: medical management standards limiting or excluding benefits based on medical necessity, or based on whether the treatment is experimental or investigational; formulary design for prescription drugs; network tier design; standards for provider admission to participate in a network, including reimbursement rates; methods for determining usual, customary, and reasonable charges; fail-first or step therapy protocols; exclusions based on failure to complete a course of treatment; and restrictions based on geographic location, facility type, provider specialty, and other criteria that limit the scope or duration of benefits for services provided under the contract; and

(D) "substance use disorder" shall have the meaning set forth in the most recent edition of the diagnostic and statistical manual of mental disorders or the most recent edition of another generally recognized independent standard of current medical practice such as the international classification of diseases.

(8) A corporation shall provide coverage under this subsection, at a minimum, consistent with the federal Paul Wellstone and Pete Domenici Mental Health Parity and Addiction Equity Act of 2008 (29 U.S.C. § 1185a).

(9) This paragraph shall apply to crisis stabilization centers in this state that are licensed pursuant to section 36.01 of the mental hygiene law and participate in the corporation's provider network. Benefits for care in a crisis stabilization center shall not be subject to preauthorization. All treatment provided under this paragraph may be reviewed retrospectively. Where care is denied retrospectively, an insured shall not have any financial obligation to the facility for any treatment under this paragraph other than any copayment, coinsurance, or deductible otherwise required under the contract.

(10) (A) This subparagraph shall apply to facilities in this state that are licensed, certified, or otherwise authorized by the office of addiction services and supports for the provision of outpatient, intensive outpatient, outpatient rehabilitation and opioid treatment that are participating in the corporation's provider network. Reimbursement for covered outpatient treatment provided by such facilities shall be at rates negotiated between the corporation and the participating facility, provided that such rates are not less than the rates that would be paid for such treatment pursuant to the medical assistance program under title eleven of article five of the social services law. For the purposes of this subparagraph, the rates that would be paid for such treatment pursuant to the medical assistance program under title eleven of article five of the social services law shall be the rates with an effective date of April first of the preceding year, which shall be established prior to October first of the preceding calendar year.

(B) The office of addiction services and supports shall publish information adequate to calculate the rates that would be paid for such treatment pursuant to the medical assistance program under title eleven of article five of the social services law. Such information shall be provided in a form and manner to be determined by the commissioner of addiction services and supports. Nothing in this subparagraph shall be construed to relieve an insurer of the obligation to reimburse at no less than the applicable minimum rate set forth in subparagraph (A) of this paragraph. Prior to the submission of premium rate filings and applications, the superintendent shall provide corporations with guidance on factors to consider in calculating the impact of rate changes for the purposes of submitting premium rate filings and applications to the superintendent for the subsequent policy year. To the extent that the rates with an effective date of April first differ from the estimated rates incorporated in premium rate filings and applications, corporations may account for such differences in future premium rate filings and applications submitted to the superintendent for approval.

* NB Effective until January 1, 2027

* (l) (1) Every contract that provides medical, major medical or similar comprehensive-type coverage shall provide outpatient coverage for the diagnosis and treatment of substance-related and addictive disorder, including detoxification and rehabilitation services. Such coverage shall not apply financial requirements or treatment limitations to outpatient substance-related and addictive disorder benefits that are more restrictive than the predominant financial requirements and treatment limitations applied to substantially all medical and surgical benefits covered by the contract.

(2) Coverage under this subsection may be limited to facilities in this state that are licensed, certified or otherwise authorized by the office of addiction services and supports to provide outpatient substance-related and addictive disorder services and crisis stabilization centers licensed pursuant to section 36.01 of the mental hygiene law, and, in other states, to those which are accredited by the joint commission as alcoholism, addiction or chemical dependence substance abuse treatment programs and are similarly licensed, certified or otherwise authorized in the state in which the facility is located.

(3) Coverage provided under this subsection may be subject to annual deductibles and co-insurance as deemed appropriate by the superintendent and that are consistent with those imposed on other benefits within a given contract.

(3-a) A contract that provides large group coverage under this subsection shall not impose copayments or coinsurance for outpatient substance-related and addictive disorder services that exceed the copayment or coinsurance imposed for a primary care office visit. Provided that no greater than one such copayment may be imposed for all services provided in a single day by a facility licensed, certified or otherwise authorized by the office of addiction services and supports to provide outpatient substance-related and addictive disorder services.

(4) A contract providing coverage for substance-related and addictive disorder services pursuant to this subsection shall provide up to twenty outpatient visits per contract or calendar year to an individual who identifies themselves as a family member of a person suffering from substance-related and addictive disorder and who seeks treatment as a family member who is otherwise covered by the applicable contract pursuant to this subsection. The coverage required by this subsection shall include treatment as a family member pursuant to such family member's own contract provided such family member:

(A) does not exceed the allowable number of family visits provided by the applicable contract pursuant to this subsection; and

(B) is otherwise entitled to coverage pursuant to this subsection and such family member's applicable contract.

(5) This paragraph shall apply to facilities in this state that are licensed, certified or otherwise authorized by the office of addiction services and supports for the provision of outpatient, intensive outpatient, outpatient rehabilitation and opioid treatment that are participating in the corporation's provider network. Coverage provided under this subsection shall not be subject to preauthorization. Coverage provided under this subsection shall not be subject to concurrent review for the first four weeks of continuous treatment, not to exceed twenty-eight visits, provided the facility notifies the corporation of both the start of treatment and the initial treatment plan within two business days. The facility shall perform clinical assessment of the patient at each visit, including periodic consultation with the corporation at or just prior to the fourteenth day of treatment to ensure that the facility is using the evidence-based and peer reviewed clinical review tool utilized by the corporation which is designated by the office of addiction services and supports and appropriate to the age of the patient, to ensure that the outpatient treatment is medically necessary for the patient. Any utilization review of the treatment provided under this paragraph may include a review of all services provided during such outpatient treatment, including all services provided during the first four weeks of continuous treatment, not to exceed twenty-eight visits, of such outpatient treatment. Provided, however, the corporation shall only deny coverage for any portion of the initial four weeks of continuous treatment, not to exceed twenty-eight visits, for outpatient treatment on the basis that such treatment was not medically necessary if such outpatient treatment was contrary to the evidence-based and peer reviewed clinical review tool utilized by the corporation which is designated by the office of addiction services and supports. A subscriber shall not have any financial obligation to the facility for any treatment under this paragraph other than any copayment, coinsurance, or deductible otherwise required under the contract.

(6) The criteria for medical necessity determinations under the contract with respect to outpatient substance-related and addictive disorder benefits shall be made available by the corporation to any insured, prospective insured, or in-network provider upon request.

(7) For purposes of this subsection:

(A) "financial requirement" means deductible, copayments, coinsurance and out-of-pocket expenses;

(B) "predominant" means that a financial requirement or treatment limitation is the most common or frequent of such type of limit or requirement.

(C) "treatment limitation" means limits on the frequency of treatment, number of visits, days of coverage, or other similar limits on the scope or duration of treatment and includes nonquantitative treatment limitations such as: medical management standards limiting or excluding benefits based on medical necessity, or based on whether the treatment is experimental or investigational; formulary design for prescription drugs; network tier design; standards for provider admission to participate in a network, including reimbursement rates; methods for determining usual, customary, and reasonable charges; fail-first or step therapy protocols; exclusions based on failure to complete a course of treatment; and restrictions based on geographic location, facility type, provider specialty, and other criteria that limit the scope or duration of benefits for services provided under the contract; and

(D) "substance-related and addictive disorder" shall have the meaning set forth in the most recent edition of the diagnostic and statistical manual of mental disorders or the most recent edition of another generally recognized independent standard of current medical practice such as the international classification of diseases.

(8) A corporation shall provide coverage under this subsection, at a minimum, consistent with the federal Paul Wellstone and Pete Domenici Mental Health Parity and Addiction Equity Act of 2008 (29 U.S.C. § 1185a).

(9) This paragraph shall apply to crisis stabilization centers in this state that are licensed pursuant to section 36.01 of the mental hygiene law and participate in the corporation's provider network. * NB Effective January 1, 2027

(B) Coverage provided under this paragraph may be subject to copayments, coinsurance, and annual deductibles that are consistent with those imposed on other benefits within the policy.

(l-2) Every policy that provides coverage for treatment at an opioid treatment program shall not impose a co-payment fee during the course of treatment on any insured for such treatment. For the purposes of this section "opioid treatment program" means a program or practitioner engaged in opioid treatment of individuals with an opioid agonist treatment medication.

(m) A medical expense indemnity corporation or a health service corporation which provides coverage for any service within the lawful scope of practice of a duly licensed registered professional nurse must make available, and if requested by all subscribers in a group remittance group, or by a contract holder in the case of a group contract issued pursuant to section four thousand three hundred five of this chapter, provide reimbursement for such services when performed by a duly licensed registered professional nurse provided, however, that reimbursement shall not be made for nursing services provided to a subscriber in a general hospital, nursing home, or a facility providing health related services, as such terms are defined in section twenty-eight hundred one of the public health law, or in a facility, as such term is defined in subdivision six of section 1.03 of the mental hygiene law, or in a physician's office. Such coverage may be subject to annual deductibles and co-insurance as may be deemed appropriate by the superintendent and are consistent with those imposed on other benefits within a given policy. Such coverage shall not replace, restrict or eliminate existing coverage provided by the policy. Coverage for the services of a duly licensed registered professional nurse need be provided only if the nature of the patient's illness or condition requires nursing care which can appropriately be provided by a person with the education and professional skill of a registered professional nurse and the nursing care is necessary in the treatment of the patient's illness or condition. Written notice of the availability of such coverage shall be delivered to the group remitting agent or group contract holder prior to inception of such contract and annually thereafter, except that this notice shall not be required where a policy covers two hundred or more employees or where the benefit structure was the subject of collective bargaining affecting persons who are employed in more than one state.

(n) Every health service or medical expense indemnity corporation issuing a group contract pursuant to this section or a group remittance contract for delivery in this state which contract provides reimbursement to subscribers or physicians, psychiatrists or psychologists for psychiatric or psychological services or for the diagnosis and treatment of mental health conditions, however defined in such contract, must provide the same coverage to persons covered under the group contract for such services when performed by a licensed clinical social worker, within the lawful scope of his or her practice, who is licensed pursuant to article one hundred fifty-four of the education law and a mental health counselor, marriage and family therapist, or psychoanalyst licensed pursuant to article one hundred sixty-three of the education law. Nothing herein shall be construed to modify or expand the scope of practice of a mental health counselor, marriage and family therapist, or psychoanalyst licensed pursuant to article one hundred sixty-three of the education law. Further, nothing herein shall be construed to create a new mandated health benefit. The state board for social work shall maintain a list of all licensed clinical social workers qualified for reimbursement under this subsection. The state board for mental health practitioners shall maintain a list of all licensed mental health counselors, marriage and family therapists, or psychoanalysts qualified for reimbursement under this subsection.

(o) A hospital service corporation or a health service corporation which provides coverage for inpatient hospital care must make available and, if requested by all persons holding individual contracts in a group whose premiums are paid by a remitting agent or by the contractholder in the case of a group contract issued pursuant to section four thousand three hundred five of this article, provide coverage for hospice care. For the purposes of this subsection, hospice care shall mean the care and treatment of a covered person who has been certified by such person's primary attending physician as having a life expectancy of six months or less and which is provided by a hospice organization certified pursuant to article forty of the public health law or under a similar certification process required by the state in which the hospice organization is located. Hospice care coverage shall be at least equal to: (1) a total of two hundred ten days of coverage beginning with the first day on which care is provided, for inpatient hospice care in a hospice or in a hospital and home care and outpatient services provided by the hospice, including drugs and medical supplies, and (2) five visits for bereavement counseling services, either before or after the insured's death, provided to the family of the terminally ill insured. Such coverage shall be made available at the inception of all new contracts and, with respect to contracts issued before the effective date of this provision, at the first annual anniversary date thereafter, without evidence of insurability and at any subsequent annual anniversary date subject to evidence of insurability. Such coverage may be subject to annual deductibles and coinsurance as may be deemed appropriate by the superintendent and are consistent with those imposed on other benefits within a given contract period. Written notice of the availability of such coverage shall be delivered to the group remitting agent or group contract holder prior to inception of such contract and annually thereafter, except that this notice shall not be required where a policy covers two hundred or more employees or where the benefit structure was the subject of collective bargaining affecting persons who are employed in more than one state.

(p) (1) A medical expense indemnity corporation, a hospital service corporation or a health service corporation that provides coverage for hospital, surgical or medical care shall provide the following coverage for mammography screening for occult breast cancer:

(A) upon the recommendation of a physician, a mammogram, which may be provided by breast tomosynthesis, at any age for covered persons having a prior history of breast cancer or who have a first degree relative with a prior history of breast cancer;

(B) a single baseline mammogram, which may be provided by breast tomosynthesis, for covered persons aged thirty-five through thirty-nine, inclusive;

(C) an annual mammogram, which may be provided by breast tomosythesis, for covered persons aged forty and older;

(D) for large group contracts offered by a medical expense indemnity corporation, a hospital service corporation or a health service corporation that provide coverage for hospital, surgical or medical care, an annual mammogram for covered persons aged thirty-five through thirty-nine, inclusive, upon the recommendation of a physician, subject to the corporation's determination that the mammogram is medically necessary;

(E) upon the recommendation of a physician, screening and diagnostic imaging, including diagnostic mammograms, breast ultrasounds, or magnetic resonance imaging, recommended by nationally recognized clinical practice guidelines for the detection of breast cancer. For the purposes of this subparagraph, "nationally recognized clinical practice guidelines" means evidence-based clinical practice guidelines informed by a systematic review of evidence and an assessment of the benefits, and risks of alternative care options intended to optimize patient care developed by independent organizations or medical professional societies utilizing a transparent methodology and reporting structure and with a conflict of interest policy; and

* (F) The coverage required in this paragraph or paragraph two of this subsection shall not be subject to annual deductibles or coinsurance. If under federal law, application of this requirement would result in health savings account ineligibility under 26 USC 223, this requirement shall apply for health savings account-qualified high deductible health plans with respect to the deductible of such a plan after the enrollee has satisfied the minimum deductible under 26 USC 223, except for with respect to items or services that are preventive care pursuant to 26 USC 223(c)(2)(C), in which case the requirements of this paragraph shall apply regardless of whether the minimum deductible under 26 USC 223 has been satisfied.

* NB Effective until January 1, 2027

* (F) The coverage required in this paragraph or paragraph two of this subsection shall not be subject to annual deductibles or coinsurance. If under federal law, application of this requirement would result in health savings account ineligibility under 26 USC 223, this requirement shall apply for health savings account-qualified high deductible health plans with respect to the deductible of such a plan after the enrollee has satisfied the plan deductible, except for with respect to items or services that are preventive care pursuant to 26 USC 223(c)(2)(C), in which case the requirements of this paragraph shall apply regardless of whether the plan deductible has been satisfied.

* NB Effective January 1, 2027

(2) For purposes of paragraph one of this subsection, mammography screening means an X-ray examination of the breast using dedicated equipment, including X-ray tube, filter, compression device, screens, films and cassettes, with an average glandular radiation dose less than 0.5 rem per view per breast; provided, however, that mammography screening shall also include breast tomosythesis.

(3) In addition to paragraph one or two of this subsection, every contract that provides coverage for hospital, surgical or medical care, except for a grandfathered health plan under paragraph four of this subsection, shall provide coverage for the following mammography screening services, and such coverage shall not be subject to annual deductibles or coinsurance:

(A) evidence-based items or services for mammography that have in effect a rating of 'A' or 'B' in the current recommendations of the United States preventive services task force; and

(B) with respect to women, such additional preventive care and screenings for mammography not described in subparagraph (A) of this paragraph and as provided for in comprehensive guidelines supported by the health resources and services administration.

(4) For purposes of this subsection, "grandfathered health plan" means coverage provided by a corporation in which an individual was enrolled on March twenty-third, two thousand ten for as long as the coverage maintains grandfathered status in accordance with section 1251(e) of the Affordable Care Act, 42 U.S.C. § 18011(e).

(p-1) (1) A medical expense indemnity corporation, a hospital service corporation or a health service corporation that provides coverage for medical, major medical, or similar comprehensive-type coverage shall provide coverage for biomarker precision medical testing for the purposes of diagnosis, treatment, or appropriate management of, or ongoing monitoring to guide treatment decisions for, an insured's disease or condition when one or more of the following recognizes the efficacy and appropriateness of biomarker precision medical testing for diagnosis, treatment, appropriate management, or guiding treatment decisions for an insured's disease or condition:

(A) labeled indications for a test approved or cleared by the federal food and drug administration or indicated tests for a food and drug administration approved drug;

(B) centers for medicare and medicaid services national coverage determinations or medicare administrative contractor local coverage determinations;

(C) nationally recognized clinical practice guidelines; or

(D) peer-reviewed literature and peer-reviewed scientific studies published in or accepted for publication by medical journals that meet nationally recognized requirements for scientific manuscripts and that submit most of their published articles for review by experts who are not part of the editorial staff.

(2) Such coverage shall be provided in a manner that shall limit disruptions in care including the need for multiple biopsies or biospecimen samples.

(3) As used in this subsection, the following terms shall have the following meanings:

(A) "Biomarker" means a characteristic that is measured as an indicator of normal biological processes, pathogenic processes, or responses to an exposure or intervention, including therapeutic interventions.

(B) "Biomarker precision medical testing" means the analysis of a patient's tissue, blood, or other biospecimen for the presence of a biomarker. Biomarker testing includes but is not limited to single-analyte tests and multi-plex panel tests performed at a participating in-network laboratory facility that is either CLIA certified or CLIA waived by the federal food and drug administration.

(C) "Nationally recognized clinical practice guidelines" means evidence-based clinical practice guidelines informed by a systematic review of evidence and an assessment of the benefits, and risks of alternative care options intended to optimize patient care developed by independent organizations or medical professional societies utilizing a transparent methodology and reporting structure and with a conflict of interest policy.

(q) (1) Every policy issued by a medical expense indemnity corporation, a hospital service corporation or a health service corporation which provides coverage for prescribed drugs approved by the food and drug administration of the United States government for the treatment of certain types of cancer shall not exclude coverage of any such drug on the basis that such drug has been prescribed for the treatment of a type of cancer for which the drug has not been approved by the food and drug administration. Provided, however, that such drug must be recognized for treatment of the specific type of cancer for which the drug has been prescribed in one of the following established reference compendia:

(i) the American Hospital Formulary Service-Drug Information (AHFS-DI);

(ii) National Comprehensive Cancer Networks Drugs and Biologics Compendium;

(iii) Thomson Micromedex DrugDex;

(iv) Elsevier Gold Standard's Clinical Pharmacology; or other authoritative compendia as identified by the Federal Secretary of Health and Human Services or the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS); or recommended by review article or editorial comment in a major peer reviewed professional journal.

(2) Notwithstanding the provisions of this subsection, coverage shall not be required for any experimental or investigational drugs or any drug which the food and drug administration has determined to be contraindicated for treatment of the specific type of cancer for which the drug has been prescribed. The provisions of this subsection shall apply to cancer drugs only and nothing herein shall be construed to create, impair, alter, limit, modify, enlarge, abrogate or prohibit reimbursement for drugs used in the treatment of any other disease or condition.

(q-1) (1) Every contract issued by a medical expense indemnity corporation, a hospital service corporation or a health service corporation for delivery in this state that provides medical, major medical or similar comprehensive-type coverage and provides coverage for prescription drugs and for cancer chemotherapy treatment shall provide coverage for prescribed, orally administered anticancer medications used to kill or slow the growth of cancerous cells. Such coverage may be subject to co-pays, coinsurance or deductibles, provided that the co-pays, coinsurance or deductibles are at least as favorable to an insured as the co-pays, coinsurance or deductibles that apply to coverage for intravenous or injected anticancer medications.

(2) An insurer providing coverage under this paragraph and any participating entity through which the insurer offers health services shall not:

(A) vary the terms of the contract for the purpose or with the effect of avoiding compliance with this paragraph;

(B) provide incentives (monetary or otherwise) to encourage a covered person to accept less than the minimum protections available under this paragraph;

(C) penalize in any way or reduce or limit the compensation of a health care practitioner for recommending or providing care to a covered person in accordance with this paragraph;

(D) provide incentives (monetary or otherwise) to a health care practitioner relating to the services provided pursuant to this paragraph intended to induce or have the effect of inducing such practitioner to provide care to a covered person in a manner inconsistent with this paragraph; or

(E) achieve compliance with this paragraph by imposing an increase in cost sharing for an intravenous or injected anticancer medication.

(q-2) (1) Every large group contract delivered or issued for delivery in this state that provides medical, major medical, or similar comprehensive-type coverage and provides coverage for cancer chemotherapy treatment shall provide coverage for scalp cooling systems used in connection with cancer chemotherapy treatment. Coverage provided under this subsection may be subject to annual deductibles and coinsurance, including copayments, as may be deemed appropriate by the superintendent and as are consistent with those established for other benefits within a given contract.

(2) For the purposes of this subsection, "scalp cooling system" means any device used to cool the human scalp to prevent or reduce hair loss during cancer chemotherapy treatment, provided that such device is designed and intended for repeated use and is primarily and customarily used to serve a medical purpose.

(r) Consistent with federal law, a hospital service corporation or a health service corporation which provides coverage supplementing part A and part B of subchapter XVIII of the federal Social Security Act, 42 USC §§ 1395 et seq., shall make available and, if requested by a person holding a direct payment individual contract or by all persons holding individual contracts in a group whose premiums are paid by a remitting agent or by a contract holder in the case of a group contract issued pursuant to section four thousand three hundred five of this article, provide coverage for at least ninety days of care in a nursing home as defined in section twenty-eight hundred one of the public health law, except when such coverage would duplicate coverage that is available under the aforementioned subchapter XVIII. Such coverage shall be made available at the inception of all new contracts and, with respect to all other contracts at each anniversary date of the contract.

(1) Coverage shall be subject to a copayment of twenty-five dollars per day.

(2) Brochures describing such coverage must be provided at the time of application for all new contracts and thereafter on each anniversary date of the contract, and with respect to all other contracts annually at each anniversary date of the contract. Such brochures must be approved by the superintendent in consultation with the commissioner of health.

Such insurers shall report to the superintendent each year the number of contract holders to whom such insurers have issued such policies for nursing home coverage and the approximate number of persons covered by such policies.

(3) The commensurate rate for the coverage must be approved by the superintendent.

* (s) (1) A hospital service corporation or health service corporation which provides coverage for hospital care shall not exclude coverage for hospital care for diagnosis and treatment of correctable medical conditions otherwise covered by the policy solely because the medical condition results in infertility; provided, however that:

(A) subject to the provisions of paragraph three of this subsection, in no case shall such coverage exclude surgical or medical procedures provided as part of such hospital care which would correct malformation, disease or dysfunction resulting in infertility; and

(B) provided, further however, that subject to the provisions of paragraph three of this subsection, in no case shall such coverage exclude diagnostic tests and procedures provided as part of such hospital care that are necessary to determine infertility or that are necessary in connection with any surgical or medical treatments or prescription drug coverage provided pursuant to this subsection, including such diagnostic tests and procedures as hysterosalpingogram, hysteroscopy, endometrial biopsy, laparoscopy, sono-hysterogram, post coital tests, testis biopsy, semen analysis, blood tests and ultrasound; and

(C) provided, further however, every such policy which provides coverage for prescription drugs shall include, within such coverage, coverage for prescription drugs approved by the federal Food and Drug Administration for use in the diagnosis and treatment of infertility in accordance with paragraph three of this subsection.

(2) A medical expense indemnity or health service corporation which provides coverage for surgical and medical care shall not exclude coverage for surgical and medical care for diagnosis and treatment of correctable medical conditions otherwise covered by the policy solely because the medical condition results in infertility; provided, however that:

(A) subject to the provisions of paragraph three of this subsection, in no case shall such coverage exclude surgical or medical procedures which would correct malformation, disease or dysfunction resulting in infertility; and

(B) provided, further however, that subject to the provisions of paragraph three of this subsection, in no case shall such coverage exclude diagnostic tests and procedures that are necessary to determine infertility or that are necessary in connection with any surgical or medical treatments or prescription drug coverage provided pursuant to this subsection, including such diagnostic tests and procedures as hysterosalpingogram, hysteroscopy, endometrial biopsy, laparoscopy, sono-hysterogram, post coital tests, testis biopsy, semen analysis, blood tests and ultrasound; and

(C) provided, further however, every such policy which provides coverage for prescription drugs shall include, within such coverage, coverage for prescription drugs approved by the federal Food and Drug Administration for use in the diagnosis and treatment of infertility in accordance with paragraph three of this subsection.

(3) Coverage of diagnostic and treatment procedures, including prescription drugs used in the diagnosis and treatment of infertility as required by paragraphs one and two of this subsection shall be provided in accordance with this paragraph.

(A) Diagnosis and treatment of infertility shall be prescribed as part of a physician's overall plan of care and consistent with the guidelines for coverage as referenced in this paragraph.

(B) Coverage may be subject to co-payments, coinsurance and deductibles as may be deemed appropriate by the superintendent and as are consistent with those established for other benefits within a given policy.

(C) Except as provided in subparagraphs (F) and (G) of this paragraph, coverage shall not be required to include the diagnosis and treatment of infertility in connection with: (i) in vitro fertilization, gamete intrafallopian tube transfers or zygote intrafallopian tube transfers; (ii) the reversal of elective sterilizations; (iii) sex change procedures; (iv) cloning; or (v) medical or surgical services or procedures that are deemed to be experimental in accordance with clinical guidelines referenced in subparagraph (D) of this paragraph.

(D) The superintendent, in consultation with the commissioner of health, shall promulgate regulations which shall stipulate the guidelines and standards which shall be used in carrying out the provisions of this paragraph, which shall include:

(i) The identification of experimental procedures and treatments not covered for the diagnosis and treatment of infertility determined in accordance with the standards and guidelines established and adopted by the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists and the American Society for Reproductive Medicine;

(ii) The identification of the required training, experience and other standards for health care providers for the provision of procedures and treatments for the diagnosis and treatment of infertility determined in accordance with the standards and guidelines established and adopted by the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists and the American Society for Reproductive Medicine; and

(iii) The determination of appropriate medical candidates by the treating physician in accordance with the standards and guidelines established and adopted by the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists and/or the American Society for Reproductive Medicine.

(E)(i) For the purposes of this subsection, "infertility" means a disease or condition characterized by the incapacity to impregnate another person or to conceive, defined by the failure to establish a clinical pregnancy after twelve months of regular, unprotected sexual intercourse or therapeutic donor insemination, or after six months of regular, unprotected sexual intercourse or therapeutic donor insemination for a female thirty-five years of age or older. Earlier evaluation and treatment may be warranted based on an individual's medical history or physical findings.

(ii) For purposes of this subsection, "iatrogenic infertility" means an impairment of fertility by surgery, radiation, chemotherapy or other medical treatment affecting reproductive organs or processes.

(F) Coverage shall also include standard fertility preservation services when a medical treatment may directly or indirectly cause iatrogenic infertility to an insured. Coverage may be subject to annual deductibles and coinsurance, including copayments, as may be deemed appropriate by the superintendent and as are consistent with those established for other benefits within a given contract.

(G) Every large group contract that provides medical, major medical or similar comprehensive-type coverage shall provide coverage for three cycles of in-vitro fertilization used in the treatment of infertility. Coverage may be subject to annual deductibles and coinsurance, including copayments, as may be deemed appropriate by the superintendent and as are consistent with those established for other benefits within a given contract. For purposes of this subparagraph, a "cycle" is defined as either all treatment that starts when: preparatory medications are administered for ovarian stimulation for oocyte retrieval with the intent of undergoing in-vitro fertilization using a fresh embryo transfer; or medications are administered for endometrial preparation with the intent of undergoing in-vitro fertilization using a frozen embryo transfer.

(H) No corporation providing coverage under this subsection shall discriminate based on an insured's expected length of life, present or predicted disability, degree of medical dependency, perceived quality of life, or other health conditions, nor based on personal characteristics, including age, sex, sexual orientation, marital status or gender identity.

(4) Every contract issued by a medical expense indemnity corporation, a hospital service corporation or a health services corporation that provides coverage for prescription fertility drugs and requires or permits prescription drugs to be purchased through a network participating mail order or other non-retail pharmacy shall provide the same coverage for prescription fertility drugs when such drugs are purchased from a network participating non-mail order retail pharmacy provided that the network participating non-mail order retail pharmacy agrees in advance, through a contractual network agreement, to the same reimbursement amount, as well as the same applicable terms and conditions, that the corporation has established for the network participating mail order or other non-retail pharmacy. In such case, the contract shall not impose any fee, co-payment, co-insurance, deductible or other condition on any covered person who does not elect to purchase prescription fertility drugs through a network participating mail order or other non-retail pharmacy; provided, however, that the provisions of this section shall not supersede the terms of a collective bargaining agreement or apply to a contract that is the result of a collective bargaining agreement between an employer and a recognized or certified employee organization.

* NB There are 2 sb (s)'s

* (s) Notwithstanding any provision of a contract issued by a medical expense indemnity corporation, a dental expense indemnity corporation or health service corporation, every contract which provides coverage for care provided through licensed health professionals who can bill for services shall provide the same coverage and reimbursement for such service provided pursuant to a clinical practice plan established pursuant to subdivision fourteen of section two hundred six of the public health law.

* NB There are 2 sb (s)'s

(t) (1) A medical expense indemnity corporation, a hospital service corporation or a health service corporation that provides coverage for hospital, surgical, or medical care shall provide coverage for an annual cervical cytology screening for cervical cancer and its precursor states for women aged eighteen and older. Such coverage required by this paragraph may be subject to annual deductibles and coinsurance as may be deemed appropriate by the superintendent and as are consistent with those established for other benefits within a given contract.

(2) For purposes of paragraph one of this subsection, cervical cytology screening shall include an annual pelvic examination, collection and preparation of a Pap smear, and laboratory and diagnostic services provided in connection with examining and evaluating the Pap smear.

(3) In addition to paragraph one or two of this subsection, every contract that provides coverage for hospital, surgical or medical care, except for a grandfathered health plan under paragraph four of this subsection, shall provide coverage for the following cervical cytology screening services, and such coverage shall not be subject to annual deductibles or coinsurance:

(A) evidence-based items or services for cervical cytology that have in effect a rating of 'A' or 'B' in the current recommendations of the United States preventive services task force; and

(B) with respect to women, such additional preventive care and screenings for cervical cytology not described in subparagraph (A) of this paragraph and as provided for in comprehensive guidelines supported by the health resources and services administration.

(4) For purposes of this subsection, "grandfathered health plan" means coverage provided by a corporation in which an individual was enrolled on March twenty-third, two thousand ten for as long as the coverage maintains grandfathered status in accordance with section 1251(e) of the Affordable Care Act, 42 U.S.C. § 18011(e).

(u) (1) A medical expense indemnity corporation or a health service corporation which provides medical coverage that includes coverage for physician services in a physician's office and every policy which provides major medical or similar comprehensive-type coverage shall include coverage for the following equipment and supplies for the treatment of diabetes, if recommended or prescribed by a physician or other licensed health care provider legally authorized to prescribe under title eight of the education law: blood glucose monitors and blood glucose monitors for the visually impaired, data management systems, test strips for glucose monitors and visual reading and urine testing strips, insulin, injection aids, cartridges for the visually impaired, syringes, insulin pumps and appurtenances thereto, insulin infusion devices, and oral agents for controlling blood sugar. In addition, the commissioner of the department of health shall provide and periodically update by rule or regulation a list of additional diabetes equipment and related supplies such as are medically necessary for the treatment of diabetes, for which there shall also be coverage. Such policies shall also include coverage for diabetes self-management education to ensure that persons with diabetes are educated as to the proper self-management and treatment of their diabetic condition, including information on proper diets. Such coverage for self-management education and education relating to diet shall be limited to visits medically necessary upon the diagnosis of diabetes, where a physician diagnoses a significant change in the patient's symptoms or conditions which necessitate changes in a patient's self-management, or where reeducation or refresher education is necessary. Such education may be provided by the physician or other licensed health care provider legally authorized to prescribe under title eight of the education law, or their staff, as part of an office visit for diabetes diagnosis or treatment, or by a certified diabetes nurse educator, certified nutritionist, certified dietitian or registered dietitian upon the referral of a physician or other licensed health care provider legally authorized to prescribe under title eight of the education law. Education provided by the certified diabetes nurse educator, certified nutritionist, certified dietitian or registered dietitian may be limited to group settings wherever practicable. Coverage for self-management education and education relating to diet shall also include home visits when medically necessary.

(2) Such coverage may be subject to annual deductibles and coinsurance as may be deemed appropriate by the superintendent and as are consistent with those established for other benefits within a given policy; provided, however, that covered prescription insulin drugs shall not be subject to a deductible, copayment, coinsurance or any other cost sharing requirement.

(3) This subsection shall not apply to a policy which covers persons employed in more than one state or the benefit structure of which was the subject of collective bargaining affecting persons employed in more than one state unless such policy is issued under the New York state health insurance plan established under article eleven of the civil service law or issued to or through a local government.

(u-1) A medical expense indemnity corporation or a health service corporation which provides medical coverage that includes coverage for physician services in a physician's office and every policy which provides major medical or similar comprehensive-type coverage shall include coverage for equipment and supplies used for the treatment of ostomies, if prescribed by a physician or other licensed health care provider legally authorized to prescribe under title eight of the education law. Such coverage shall be subject to annual deductibles and coinsurance as deemed appropriate by the superintendent. The coverage required by this subsection shall be identical to, and shall not enhance or increase the coverage required as part of essential health benefits as defined in subsection (a) of section four thousand three hundred six-h of this article.

(v) (1) Every contract issued by a medical expense indemnity corporation, hospital service corporation or health service corporation which provides coverage for inpatient hospital care shall provide such coverage for such period as is determined by the attending physician in consultation with the patient to be medically appropriate after such covered person has undergone a lymph node dissection or a lumpectomy for the treatment of breast cancer or a mastectomy covered by the contract. Such coverage may be subject to annual deductibles and coinsurance as may be deemed appropriate by the superintendent and as are consistent with those established for other benefits within a given policy. Written notice of the availability of such coverage shall be delivered to the group remitting agent or group contract holder prior to the inception of such contract and annually thereafter.

(2) A medical expense indemnity corporation, hospital service corporation or health service corporation which provides coverage under this subsection and any participating entity through which the insurer offers health services shall not:

(A) deny to a covered person eligibility, or continued eligibility, to enroll or to renew coverage under the terms of the contract or vary the terms of the contract for the purpose or with the effect of avoiding compliance with this subsection;

(B) provide incentives (monetary or otherwise) to encourage a covered person to accept less than the minimum protections available under this subsection;

(C) penalize in any way or reduce or limit the compensation of a health care practitioner for recommending or providing care to a covered person in accordance with this subsection;

(D) provide incentives (monetary or otherwise) to a health care practitioner relating to the services provided pursuant to this subsection intended to induce or have the effect of inducing such practitioner to provide care to a covered person in a manner inconsistent with this subsection; or

(E) restrict coverage for any portion of a period within a hospital length of stay required under this subsection in a manner which is inconsistent with the coverage provided for any preceding portion of such stay.

(3) The prohibitions in paragraph two of this subsection shall be in addition to the provisions of sections four thousand three hundred seventeen and four thousand three hundred eighteen of this article and nothing in this paragraph shall be construed to suspend, supersede, amend or otherwise modify such sections.

(w)(1) Every contract issued by a medical expense indemnity corporation or health service corporation which provides medical, major medical, or similar comprehensive-type coverage must provide coverage for a second medical opinion by an appropriate specialist, including but not limited to a specialist affiliated with a specialty care center for the treatment of cancer, in the event of a positive or negative diagnosis of cancer or a recurrence of cancer or a recommendation of a course of treatment for cancer, subject to the following:

(i) In the case of a contract that requires, or provides financial incentives for, the covered person to receive covered services from health care providers participating in a provider network maintained by or under contract with the corporation, the contract shall include coverage for a second medical opinion from a non-participating specialist, including but not limited to a specialist affiliated with a specialty care center for the treatment of cancer, when the attending physician provides a written referral to a non-participating specialist, at no additional cost to the covered person beyond what such covered person would have paid for services from a participating appropriate specialist. Provided however that nothing herein shall impair the covered person's rights (if any) under the contract to obtain the second medical opinion from a non-participating specialist without a written referral, subject to the payment of additional coinsurance (if any) required by the contract for services provided by non-participating providers. The corporation shall compensate the non-participating specialist at the usual, customary and reasonable rate, or at a rate listed on a fee schedule filed and approved by the superintendent which provides a comparable level of reimbursement.

(ii) In the case of a contract that does not provide financial incentives for, and does not require, the covered person to receive covered services from health care providers participating in a provider network maintained by or under contract with the corporation, the contract shall include coverage for a second medical opinion from a specialist at no additional cost to the covered person beyond what the covered person would have paid for comparable services covered under the contract.

(iii) Such coverage may be subject to annual deductibles and coinsurance as may be deemed appropriate by the superintendent and as are consistent with those established for other benefits within a given contract and, where applicable, consistent with the provisions of subparagraphs (i) and (ii) of this paragraph.

Nothing in this subsection shall eliminate or diminish the corporation's obligation to comply with the provisions of section four thousand eight hundred four of this chapter and section forty-four hundred three of the public health law where applicable. Written notice of the availability of such coverage shall be delivered to the group remitting agent or group contract holder prior to the inception of such contract and annually thereafter.

(2) A medical expense indemnity corporation or health service corporation which provides coverage under this subsection and any participating entity through which the insurer offers health services shall not:

(A) deny to a covered person eligibility, or continued eligibility, to enroll or to renew coverage under the terms of the contract or vary the terms of the contract for the purpose or with the effect of avoiding compliance with this subsection;

(B) provide incentives (monetary or otherwise) to encourage a covered person to accept less than the minimum protections available under this subsection;

(C) penalize in any way or reduce or limit the compensation of a health care practitioner for recommending or providing care to a covered person in accordance with this subsection; or

(D) provide incentives (monetary or otherwise) to a health care practitioner relating to the services provided pursuant to this subsection intended to induce or have the effect of inducing such practitioner to provide care to a covered person in a manner inconsistent with this subsection.

(3) The prohibitions in paragraph two of this subsection shall be in addition to the provisions of sections four thousand three hundred seventeen and four thousand three hundred eighteen of this article and nothing in this paragraph shall be construed to suspend, supersede, amend or otherwise modify such sections.

(x) (1) Every contract issued by a medical expense indemnity corporation, hospital service corporation or health service corporation which provides coverage for surgical or medical care shall provide the following coverage for breast or chest wall reconstruction surgery after a mastectomy or partial mastectomy:

(A) all stages of reconstruction of the breast or chest wall on which the mastectomy or partial mastectomy has been performed; and in the manner determined by the attending physician and the patient to be appropriate. Chest wall reconstruction surgery shall include aesthetic flat closure as such term is defined by the National Cancer institute. Such coverage may be subject to annual deductibles or coinsurance provisions as may be deemed appropriate by the superintendent and as are consistent with those established for other benefits within a given policy. Written notice of the availability of such coverage shall be delivered to the group remitting agent or group contract holder prior to the inception of such contract and annually thereafter.

(B) surgery and reconstruction of the other breast or chest wall to produce a symmetrical appearance;

(1-A) Every contract providing coverage as required by paragraph one of this subsection shall also provide coverage for the tattooing of the nipple-areolar complex pursuant to or as part of such reconstruction if such tattooing is performed by a licensed physician or other health care practitioner licensed, certified, or authorized pursuant to title eight of the education law and acting within their scope of practice.

(2) A medical expense indemnity corporation, hospital service corporation or health service corporation which provides coverage under this subsection and any participating entity through which the insurer offers health services shall not:

(A) deny to a covered person eligibility, or continued eligibility, to enroll or to renew coverage under the terms of the policy or vary the terms of the policy for the purpose or with the effect of avoiding compliance with this subsection;

(B) provide incentives (monetary or otherwise) to encourage a covered person to accept less than the minimum protections available under this subsection;

(C) penalize in any way or reduce or limit the compensation of a health care practitioner for recommending or providing care to a covered person in accordance with this subsection;

(D) provide incentives (monetary or otherwise) to a health care practitioner relating to the services provided pursuant to this subsection intended to induce or have the affect of inducing such practitioner to provide care to a covered person in a manner inconsistent with this subsection;

(E) restrict coverage for any portion of a period within a hospital length of stay required under this subsection in a manner which is inconsistent with the coverage provided for any preceding portion of such stay; or

(F) the prohibitions in this paragraph shall be in addition to the provisions of sections four thousand three hundred seventeen and four thousand three hundred eighteen of this article and nothing in this paragraph shall be construed to suspend, supersede, amend or otherwise modify such sections.

* (y) Every contract that provides coverage for prescription drugs shall include coverage for the cost of enteral formulas for home use, whether administered orally or via tube feeding, for which a physician or other licensed health care provider legally authorized to prescribe under title eight of the education law has issued a written order. Such written order shall state that the enteral formula is clearly medically necessary and has been proven effective as a disease-specific treatment regimen. Specific diseases and disorders for which enteral formulas have been proven effective shall include, but are not limited to, inherited diseases of amino-acid or organic acid metabolism; Crohn's Disease; gastroesophageal reflux; disorders of gastrointestinal motility such as chronic intestinal pseudo-obstruction; and multiple, severe food allergies including, but not limited to immunoglobulin E and nonimmunoglobulin E-mediated allergies to multiple food proteins; severe food protein induced enterocolitis syndrome; eosinophilic disorders; and impaired absorption of nutrients caused by disorders affecting the absorptive surface, function, length, and motility of the gastrointestinal tract. Enteral formulas that are medically necessary and taken under written order from a physician for the treatment of specific diseases shall be distinguished from nutritional supplements taken electively. Coverage for certain inherited diseases of amino acid and organic acid metabolism as well as severe protein allergic conditions shall include modified solid food products that are low protein, contain modified protein, or are amino acid based that are medically necessary.

* (y)(1) Every contract issued by a health service corporation or a medical expense indemnity corporation which is a "managed care product" as defined in paragraph four of this subsection that includes coverage for physician services in a physician's office, and every "managed care product" that provides major medical or similar comprehensive-type coverage, shall include coverage for chiropractic care, as defined in section six thousand five hundred fifty-one of the education law, provided by a doctor of chiropractic licensed pursuant to article one hundred thirty-two of the education law, in connection with the detection or correction by manual or mechanical means of structural imbalance, distortion or subluxation in the human body for the purpose of removing nerve interference, and the effects thereof, where such interference is the result of or related to distortion, misalignment or subluxation of or in the vertebral column. However, chiropractic care and services may be subject to reasonable deductible, co-payment and co-insurance amounts, reasonable fee or benefit limits, and reasonable utilization review, provided that any such amounts, limits and review: (a) shall not function to direct treatment in a manner discriminative against chiropractic care, and (b) individually and collectively shall be no more restrictive than those applicable under the same policy to care or services provided by other health professionals in the diagnosis, treatment and management of the same or similar conditions, injuries, complaints, disorders or ailments, even if differing nomenclature is used to describe the condition, injury, complaint, disorder or ailment. Nothing herein contained shall be construed as impeding or preventing either the provision or coverage of chiropractic care and services by duly licensed doctors of chiropractic, within the lawful scope of chiropractic practice, in hospital facilities on a staff or employee basis.

(3) Every contract issued by a health service corporation or a medical expense indemnity corporation which includes coverage for physician services in a physician's office, and every contract which provides major medical or similar comprehensive-type coverage, other than a "managed care product" as defined in paragraph four of this subsection, shall provide coverage for chiropractic care, as defined in section six thousand five hundred fifty-one of the education law, provided by a doctor of chiropractic licensed pursuant to article one hundred thirty-two of the education law, in connection with the detection or correction by manual or mechanical means of structural imbalance, distortion or subluxation in the human body for the purpose of removing nerve interference, and the effects thereof, where such interference is the result of or related to distortion, misalignment or subluxation of or in the vertebral column. However, chiropractic care and services may be subject to reasonable deductible, co-payment and co-insurance amounts, reasonable fee or benefit limits, and reasonable utilization review, provided that any such amounts, limits and review: (a) shall not function to direct treatment in a manner discriminative against chiropractic care, and (b) individually and collectively shall be no more restrictive than those applicable under the same contract to care or services provided by other health professionals in the diagnosis, treatment and management of the same or similar conditions, injuries, complaints, disorders or ailments even if differing nomenclature is used to describe the condition, injury, complaint, disorder or ailment. Nothing herein contained shall be construed as impeding or preventing either the provision or coverage of chiropractic care and services by duly licensed doctors of chiropractic, within the lawful scope of chiropractic practice, in hospital facilities on a staff or employee basis.

(4) For purposes of this subsection, a "managed care product" shall mean a contract which requires that medical or other health care services covered under the contract, other than emergency care services, be provided by, or pursuant to a referral from, a primary care provider, and that services provided pursuant to such a referral be rendered by a health care provider participating in the corporation's managed care provider network. In addition, a managed care product shall also mean the in-network portion of a contract which requires that medical or other health care services covered under the contract, other than emergency care services, be provided by, or pursuant to a referral from, a primary care provider, and that services provided pursuant to such a referral be rendered by a health care provider participating in the corporation's managed care provider network, in order for the insured to be entitled to the maximum reimbursement under the contract.

(5) The coverage required by this subsection shall not be abridged by any regulation promulgated by the superintendent.

* NB There are 2 sb§ (y)'s

(z) No contract issued by a medical expense indemnity corporation, a hospital service corporation or a health service corporation shall exclude coverage of a health care service, as defined in paragraph two of subsection (e) of section four thousand nine hundred of this chapter, rendered or proposed to be rendered to an insured on the basis that such service is experimental or investigational, is rendered as part of a clinical trial as defined in subsection (b-2) of section forty-nine hundred of this chapter, or a prescribed pharmaceutical product referenced in subparagraph (B) of paragraph two of subsection (e) of section forty-nine hundred of this chapter provided that coverage of the patient costs of such service has been recommended for the insured by an external appeal agent upon an appeal conducted pursuant to subparagraph (B) of paragraph four of subsection (b) of section four thousand nine hundred fourteen of this chapter. The determination of the external appeal agent shall be binding on the parties. For purposes of this paragraph, patient costs shall have the same meaning as such term has for purposes of subparagraph (B) of paragraph four of subsection (b) of section four thousand nine hundred fourteen of this chapter; provided, however, that coverage for the services required under this subsection shall be provided subject to the terms and conditions generally applicable to other benefits provided under the policy.

(z-1) (1) Every policy delivered or issued for delivery in this state which provides medical coverage that includes coverage for physician services in a physician's office and every policy which provides major medical or similar comprehensive-type coverage shall provide, upon the prescription of a health care provider legally authorized to prescribe under title eight of the education law, the following coverage for diagnostic screening for prostatic cancer:

(A) standard diagnostic testing including, but not limited to, a digital rectal examination and a prostate-specific antigen test at any age for men having a prior history of prostate cancer; and

(B) an annual standard diagnostic examination including, but not limited to, a digital rectal examination and a prostate-specific antigen test for men age fifty and over who are asymptomatic and for men age forty and over with a family history of prostate cancer or other prostate cancer risk factors.

(2) Such coverage shall not be subject to annual deductibles or coinsurance.

(aa)(1) Every contract issued by a hospital service company or health service corporation which provides major medical or similar comprehensive-type coverage shall include coverage for prehospital emergency medical services for the treatment of an emergency condition when such services are provided by an ambulance service issued a certificate to operate pursuant to section three thousand five of the public health law.

(2) Payment by an insurer pursuant to this section shall be payment in full for the services provided. An ambulance service reimbursed pursuant to this section shall not charge or seek any reimbursement from, or have any recourse against an insured for the services provided pursuant to this subsection, except for the collection of copayments, coinsurance or deductibles for which the insured is responsible for under the terms of the policy.

(3) An insurer shall provide reimbursement for those services prescribed by this section at rates negotiated between the insurer and the provider of such services. In the absence of agreed upon rates, an insurer shall pay for such services at the usual and customary charge, which shall not be excessive or unreasonable. The insurer shall send such payments directly to the provider of such ambulance services, if the ambulance service has on file an executed assignment of benefits form with the claim.

(4) The provisions of this subsection shall have no application to transfers of patients between hospitals or health care facilities by an ambulance service as described in paragraph one of this subsection unless such services are covered under the policy.

(5) As used in this subsection:

(A) "Prehospital emergency medical services" means the prompt evaluation and treatment of an emergency medical condition, and/or non-air-borne transportation of the patient to a hospital; provided however, where the patient utilizes non-air-borne emergency transportation pursuant to this subsection, reimbursement shall be based on whether a prudent layperson, possessing an average knowledge of medicine and health, could reasonably expect the absence of such transportation to result in (i) placing the health of the person afflicted with such condition in serious jeopardy, or in the case of a behavioral condition placing the health of such person or others in serious jeopardy; (ii) serious impairment to such person's bodily functions; (iii) serious dysfunction of any bodily organ or part of such person; (iv) serious disfigurement of such person; or (v) a condition described in clause (i), (ii) or (iii) of section 1867(e)(1)(A) of the Social Security Act.

(B) "Emergency condition" means a medical or behavioral condition that manifests itself by acute symptoms of sufficient severity, including severe pain, such that a prudent layperson, possessing an average knowledge of medicine and health, could reasonably expect the absence of immediate medical attention to result in (i) placing the health of the person afflicted with such condition in serious jeopardy, or in the case of a behavioral condition, placing the health of such person or others in serious jeopardy; (ii) serious impairment to such person's bodily functions; (iii) serious dysfunction of any bodily organ or part of such person; (iv) serious disfigurement of such person; or (v) a condition described in clause (i), (ii) or (iii) of section 1867(e)(1)(A) of the Social Security Act.

(bb) A health service corporation or a medical service expense indemnity corporation that provides major medical or similar comprehensive-type coverage shall provide such coverage for bone mineral density measurements or tests, and if such contract otherwise includes coverage for prescription drugs, drugs and devices approved by the federal food and drug administration or generic equivalents as approved substitutes. In determining appropriate coverage provided by paragraphs one, two and three of this subsection, the insurer or health maintenance organization shall adopt standards that include the criteria of the federal Medicare program and the criteria of the national institutes of health for the detection of osteoporosis, provided that such coverage shall be further determined as follows:

(1) For purposes of paragraphs two and three of this subsection, bone mineral density measurements or tests, drugs and devices shall include those covered under the criteria of the federal Medicare program as well as those in accordance with the criteria of the national institutes of health, including, as consistent with such criteria, dual-energy x-ray absorptiometry.

(2) For purposes of paragraphs one and three of this subsection, bone mineral density measurements or tests, drugs and devices shall be covered for individuals meeting the criteria for coverage, consistent with the criteria under the federal Medicare program or the criteria of the national institutes of health; provided that, to the extent consistent with such criteria, individuals qualifying for coverage shall, at a minimum, include individuals:

(i) previously diagnosed as having osteoporosis or having a family history of osteoporosis; or

(ii) with symptoms or conditions indicative of the presence, or the significant risk, of osteoporosis; or

(iii) on a prescribed drug regimen posing a significant risk of osteoporosis; or

(iv) with lifestyle factors to such a degree as posing a significant risk of osteoporosis; or

(v) with such age, gender and/or other physiological characteristics which pose a significant risk for osteoporosis.

(3) Such coverage required pursuant to paragraph one or two of this subsection may be subject to annual deductibles and coinsurance as may be deemed appropriate by the superintendent and as are consistent with those established for other benefits within a given policy.

(4) In addition to paragraph one, two or three of this subsection, every contract that provides hospital, surgical or medical care coverage, except for a grandfathered health plan under paragraph five of this subsection, shall provide coverage for the following items or services for bone mineral density, and such coverage shall not be subject to annual deductibles or coinsurance:

(A) evidence-based items or services for bone mineral density that have in effect a rating of 'A' or 'B' in the current recommendations of the United States preventive services task force; and

(B) with respect to women, such additional preventive care and screenings for bone mineral density not described in subparagraph (A) of this paragraph and as provided for in comprehensive guidelines supported by the health resources and services administration.

(5) For purposes of this subsection, "grandfathered health plan" means coverage provided by a corporation in which an individual was enrolled on March twenty-third, two thousand ten for as long as the coverage maintains grandfathered status in accordance with section 1251(e) of the Affordable Care Act, 42 U.S.C. § 18011(e).

(cc) (1) Every contract that provides medical, major medical, or similar comprehensive type coverage that is issued, amended, renewed, effective or delivered on or after January first, two thousand twenty, shall provide coverage for all of the following services and contraceptive methods:

(A) All FDA-approved contraceptive drugs, devices, and other products. This includes all FDA-approved over-the-counter contraceptive drugs, devices, and products as prescribed or as otherwise authorized under state or federal law. The following applies to this coverage:

(i) where the FDA has approved one or more therapeutic and pharmaceutical equivalent, as defined by the FDA, versions of a contraceptive drug, device, or product, a contract is not required to include all such therapeutic and pharmaceutical equivalent versions in its formulary, so long as at least one is included and covered without cost-sharing and in accordance with this subsection;

(ii) if the covered therapeutic and pharmaceutical equivalent versions of a drug, device, or product are not available or are deemed medically inadvisable a contract shall provide coverage for an alternate therapeutic and pharmaceutical equivalent version of the contraceptive drug, device, or product without cost-sharing. If the attending health care provider, in his or her reasonable professional judgment, determines that the use of a non-covered therapeutic or pharmaceutical equivalent of a drug, device, or product is warranted, the health care provider's determination shall be final. The superintendent shall promulgate regulations establishing a process, including timeframes, for an insured, an insured's designee or an insured's health care provider to request coverage of a non-covered contraceptive drug, device, or product. Such regulations shall include a requirement that insurers use an exception form that shall meet criteria established by the superintendent;

(iii) this coverage shall include emergency contraception without cost-sharing when provided pursuant to a prescription or order under section sixty-eight hundred thirty-one of the education law or when lawfully provided over the counter; and

(iv) this coverage must allow for the dispensing of up to twelve months worth of a contraceptive at one time;

(B) Voluntary sterilization procedures pursuant to 42 U.S.C. 18022 and identified in the comprehensive guidelines supported by the health resources and services administration and thereby incorporated in the essential health benefits benchmark plan;

(C) Patient education and counseling on contraception; and

(D) Follow-up services related to the drugs, devices, products, and procedures covered under this subsection, including, but not limited to, management of side effects, counseling for continued adherence, and device insertion and removal.

(2) A contract subject to this subsection shall not impose a deductible, coinsurance, copayment, or any other cost-sharing requirement on the coverage provided pursuant to this subsection.

(3) Except as otherwise authorized under this subsection, a contract shall not impose any restrictions or delays on the coverage required under this subsection.

(4) Benefits for an enrollee under this subsection shall be the same for an enrollee's covered spouse or domestic partner and covered nonspouse dependents.

(5) Notwithstanding any other provision of this subsection, a religious employer may request a contract without coverage for federal food and drug administration approved contraceptive methods that are contrary to the religious employer's religious tenets. If so requested, such contract shall be provided without coverage for contraceptive methods. This paragraph shall not be construed to deny an enrollee coverage of, and timely access to, contraceptive methods.

(A) For purposes of this subsection, a "religious employer" is an entity for which each of the following is true:

(i) The inculcation of religious values is the purpose of the entity.

(ii) The entity primarily employs persons who share the religious tenets of the entity.

(iii) The entity serves primarily persons who share the religious tenets of the entity.

(iv) The entity is a nonprofit organization as described in Section 6033(a)(2)(A)i or iii, of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended.

(B) Every religious employer that invokes the exemption provided under this paragraph shall provide written notice to prospective enrollees prior to enrollment with the plan, listing the contraceptive health care services the employer refuses to cover for religious reasons.

(6) (A) Where a group contractholder makes an election not to purchase coverage for contraceptive drugs or devices in accordance with paragraph five of this subsection, each enrollee covered under the contract issued to that group contractholder shall have the right to directly purchase the rider required by this subsection from the insurer or health maintenance organization which issued the group contract at the prevailing small group community rate for such rider whether or not the employee is part of a small group.

(B) Where a group contractholder makes an election not to purchase coverage for contraceptive drugs or devices in accordance with paragraph five of this subsection, the insurer or health maintenance organization that provides such coverage shall provide written notice to enrollees upon enrollment with the insurer or health maintenance organization of their right to directly purchase a rider for coverage for the cost of contraceptive drugs or devices. The notice shall also advise the enrollees of the additional premium for such coverage.

(7) Nothing in this subsection shall be construed as authorizing a contract which provides coverage for prescription drugs to exclude coverage for prescription drugs prescribed for reasons other than contraceptive purposes.

(8) For the purposes of this paragraph, "over-the-counter contraceptive products" shall mean those products provided for in comprehensive guidelines supported by the health resources and services administration as of January twenty-first, two thousand nineteen.

(dd) No health service corporation or medical service expense indemnity corporation which provides medical, major medical or similar comprehensive-type coverage shall exclude coverage for services covered under such policy when provided by a comprehensive care center for eating disorders pursuant to article thirty of the mental hygiene law; provided, however, that reimbursement by such corporation for services provided through such comprehensive care centers shall, to the extent possible and practicable, be structured in a manner to facilitate the individualized, comprehensive and integrated plans of care which such centers' network of practitioners and providers are required to provide.

(ee) (1) A medical expense indemnity corporation, a hospital service corporation or a health service corporation which provides coverage for hospital or surgical care coverage shall not exclude coverage for screening, diagnosis and treatment of medical conditions otherwise covered by the contract solely because the treatment is provided to diagnose or treat autism spectrum disorder.

(2) Every contract that provides physician services, medical, major medical or similar comprehensive-type coverage shall provide coverage for the screening, diagnosis and treatment of autism spectrum disorder in accordance with this paragraph and shall not exclude coverage for the screening, diagnosis or treatment of medical conditions otherwise covered by the contract because the individual is diagnosed with autism spectrum disorder. Such coverage may be subject to annual deductibles, copayments and coinsurance as may be deemed appropriate by the superintendent and shall be consistent with those imposed on other benefits under the contract. This paragraph shall not be construed as limiting the benefits that are otherwise available to an individual under the contract, provided however that such contract shall not contain any limitations on visits that are solely applied to the treatment of autism spectrum disorder. No insurer shall terminate coverage or refuse to deliver, execute, issue, amend, adjust, or renew coverage to an individual solely because the individual is diagnosed with autism spectrum disorder or has received treatment for autism spectrum disorder. Coverage shall be subject to utilization review and external appeals of health care services pursuant to article forty-nine of this chapter as well as case management and other managed care provisions.

(3) For purposes of this subsection:

(A) "autism spectrum disorder" means any pervasive developmental disorder as defined in the most recent edition of the diagnostic and statistical manual of mental disorders.

(B) "applied behavior analysis" means the design, implementation, and evaluation of environmental modifications, using behavioral stimuli and consequences, to produce socially significant improvement in human behavior, including the use of direct observation, measurement, and functional analysis of the relationship between environment and behavior.

(C) "behavioral health treatment" means counseling and treatment programs, when provided by a licensed provider, and applied behavior analysis, when provided by a person that is licensed, certified or otherwise authorized to provide applied behavior analysis, that are necessary to develop, maintain, or restore, to the maximum extent practicable, the functioning of an individual.

(D) "diagnosis of autism spectrum disorder" means assessments, evaluations, or tests to diagnose whether an individual has autism spectrum disorder.

(E) "pharmacy care" means medications prescribed by a licensed health care provider legally authorized to prescribe under title eight of the education law.

(F) "psychiatric care" means direct or consultative services provided by a psychiatrist licensed in the state in which the psychiatrist practices.

(G) "psychological care" means direct or consultative services provided by a psychologist licensed in the state in which the psychologist practices.

(H) "therapeutic care" means services provided by licensed or certified speech therapists, occupational therapists, social workers, or physical therapists.

(I) "treatment of autism spectrum disorder" shall include the following care and assistive communication devices prescribed or ordered for an individual diagnosed with autism spectrum disorder by a licensed physician or a licensed psychologist:

(i) behavioral health treatment;

(ii) psychiatric care;

(iii) psychological care;

(iv) medical care provided by a licensed health care provider;

(v) therapeutic care, including therapeutic care which is deemed habilitative or nonrestorative, in the event that the policy provides coverage for therapeutic care; and

(vi) pharmacy care in the event that the contract provides coverage for prescription drugs.

(4) Coverage may be denied on the basis that such treatment is being provided to the covered person pursuant to an individualized education plan under article eighty-nine of the education law. The provision of services pursuant to an individualized family service plan under section twenty-five hundred forty-five of the public health law, an individualized education plan under article eighty-nine of the education law, or an individualized service plan pursuant to regulations of the office for persons with developmental disabilities shall not affect coverage under the policy for services provided on a supplemental basis outside of an educational setting if such services are prescribed by a licensed physician or licensed psychologist.

(5) Nothing in this subsection shall be construed to affect any obligation to provide services to an individual under an individualized family service plan under section twenty-five hundred forty-five of the public health law, an individualized education plan under article eighty-nine of the education law, or an individualized service plan pursuant to regulations of the office for persons with developmental disabilities.

(7) Nothing in this subsection shall be construed to prevent a contract from providing services through a network of participating providers who shall meet certain requirements for participation, including provider credentialing.

(8) Coverage under this subsection shall not apply financial requirements or treatment limitations to autism spectrum disorder benefits that are more restrictive than the predominant financial requirements and treatment limitations applied to substantially all medical and surgical benefits covered by the policy.

(9) The criteria for medical necessity determinations under the contract with respect to autism spectrum disorder benefits shall be made available by the corporation to any insured, prospective insured, or in-network provider upon request.

(10) For purposes of this subsection:

(A) "financial requirement" means deductible, copayments, coinsurance and out-of-pocket expenses;

(B) "predominant" means that a financial requirement or treatment limitation is the most common or frequent of such type of limit or requirement; and

limitations such as: medical management standards limiting or excluding benefits based on medical necessity, or based on whether the treatment is experimental or investigational; formulary design for prescription drugs; network tier design; standards for provider admission to participate in a network, including reimbursement rates; methods for determining usual, customary, and reasonable charges; fail-first or step therapy protocols; exclusions based on failure to complete a course of treatment; and restrictions based on geographic location, facility type, provider specialty, and other criteria that limit the scope or duration of benefits for services provided under the contract.

(11) A corporation shall provide coverage under this subsection, at a minimum, consistent with the federal Paul Wellstone and Pete Domenici Mental Health Parity and Addiction Equity Act of 2008 (29 U.S.C. § 1185a).

(ff) (1) No managed care contract issued by a health service corporation, hospital service corporation or medical expense indemnity corporation that provides coverage for hospital, medical or surgical care shall provide that services of a participating hospital will be covered as out-of-network services solely on the basis that the health care provider admitting or rendering services to the insured is not a participating provider.

(2) No managed care contract issued by a health service corporation, hospital service corporation or medical expense indemnity corporation that provides coverage for hospital, medical or surgical care shall provide that services of a participating health care provider will be covered as out-of-network services solely on the basis that the services are rendered in a non-participating hospital.

(3) For purposes of this subsection, a "health care provider" is a health care professional licensed, registered or certified pursuant to title eight of the education law or a health care professional comparably licensed, registered or certified by another state.

(4) For purposes of this subsection, a "managed care contract" is a contract that requires that services be provided by a provider participating in the corporation's network in order for the subscriber to receive the maximum level of reimbursement under the contract.

(gg) (1) Every contract issued by a hospital service corporation, health service corporation or medical expense indemnity corporation that includes coverage for dialysis treatment that requires such services to be provided by an in-network provider and that does not provide coverage for out-of-network dialysis treatment shall not deny coverage of such services because the services are provided by an out-of-network provider, provided that each of the following conditions are met:

(A) The out-of-network provider is duly licensed to practice and authorized to provide such treatment;

(B) The out-of-network provider is located outside the service area of the insurer;

(C) The in-network healthcare provider treating the covered person for the condition issues a written order for dialysis treatment stating that in his or her opinion such treatment is necessary;

(D) The covered person has notified, in writing, the corporation at least thirty days in advance of the proposed date or dates of such out-of-network dialysis treatment. The notice shall include the authorization required by subparagraph (C) of this paragraph. In the event the covered person must travel on sudden notice due to family or other emergency, shorter notice may be permitted, provided that the corporation has reasonable opportunity to review the travel and treatment plans of the covered person;

(E) The corporation shall have the right to pre-approve the dialysis treatment and schedule; and

(F) Such coverage is limited to no greater than ten out-of-network treatments in a calendar year.

(2) Where coverage for out-of-network dialysis treatment is provided pursuant to paragraph one of this subsection, no corporation shall be obligated to reimburse the out-of-network provider at an amount greater than it would have paid for the same treatment within a network, including all drugs and ancillary services tied to dialysis treatment, and any amount charged by a provider in excess of the amount reimbursed by the corporation shall be the responsibility of the covered person receiving the out-of-network services.

(3) Such coverage of out-of-network dialysis services required by paragraph one of this subsection shall otherwise be subject to the limitations, exclusions and terms of the policy, including, but not limited to, utilization review, annual deductibles, copayments, and coinsurance, consistent with those required for other similar benefits under the policy.

(hh) Notwithstanding title eleven of article five of the social services law or any other law to the contrary, every policy which provides coverage for prescription drugs shall, with regard to eye drop medication requiring a prescription that has been approved by the insurer for coverage, allow for the limited refilling of the prescription prior to the last day of the approved dosage period without regard to any coverage restrictions on early refill of renewals. Provided, however, that any refill dispensed prior to the expiration of the prescribed and approved coverage period pursuant to this subsection, shall, to the extent practicable, be limited in quantity so as not to exceed the remaining dosage initially approved for coverage. Provided, further, that such limited refilling shall not limit or restrict coverage with regard to any previously or subsequently approved prescription for eye drop medication and shall be subject to the terms and conditions of the policy otherwise applicable to this coverage. Provided, further, that a pharmacist may contact the prescribing physician or health care provider to verity the prescription.

(ii) Every contract issued by a corporation subject to the provisions of this article which provides medical, major medical or similar comprehensive-type coverage that includes coverage for a physical or well care visit once in every three hundred sixty-five days shall be interpreted to mean that such physical or well care visit can be had once every calendar year, regardless of whether or not a period of three hundred sixty-five days has passed since the previous physical or well care visit.

(jj) No medical expense indemnity corporation, a hospital service corporation or a health service corporation which provides coverage for prescription drugs and for which cost-sharing, deductibles or co-insurance obligations are determined by category of prescription drugs shall impose cost-sharing, deductibles or co-insurance obligations for any prescription drug that exceeds the dollar amount of cost-sharing, deductibles or co-insurance obligations for non-preferred brand drugs or its equivalent (or brand drugs if there is no non-preferred brand drug category).

(kk) (1) Definitions. For the purpose of this subsection:

(A) "Same reimbursement amount" shall mean that any coverage described under paragraph two of this subsection shall provide the same benchmark index, including the same average wholesale price, maximum allowable cost and national prescription drug codes to reimburse all pharmacies participating in the health benefit plan regardless of whether a pharmacy is a mail order pharmacy or a non-mail order pharmacy.

(B) "Mail order pharmacy" means a pharmacy whose primary business is to receive prescriptions by mail, telefax or through electronic submissions and to dispense medication to patients through the use of the United States mail or other common or contract carrier services and provides any consultation with patients electronically rather than face-to-face.

(2) Any contract issued by a medical expense indemnity corporation, a hospital service corporation or a health services corporation that provides coverage for prescription drugs shall permit each covered person to fill any covered prescription that may be obtained at a network participating mail order or other non-retail pharmacy, at the covered person's option, at a network participating non-mail order retail pharmacy provided that the network participating non-mail order retail pharmacy agrees to the same reimbursement amount that the corporation has established for the network participating mail order or other non-retail pharmacy. In such a case, the contract shall not impose a copayment fee or other condition on any covered person who elects to purchase drugs from a network participating non-mail order retail pharmacy which is not also imposed on covered persons electing to purchase drugs from a network participating mail order or other non-retail pharmacy; provided, however, that the provisions of this section shall not supersede the terms of a collective bargaining agreement or apply to a contract that is the result of a collective bargaining agreement between an employer and a recognized or certified employee organization.

(ll) Every small group contract or association group contract issued by a corporation subject to the provisions of this article that provides coverage for hospital, medical or surgical expense insurance and is not a grandfathered health plan shall provide coverage for the essential health benefits package. For purposes of this subsection:

(1) "essential health benefits package" shall have the meaning set forth in paragraph three of subsection (e) of section four thousand three hundred six-h of this article;

(2) "grandfathered health plan" means coverage provided by a corporation in which an individual was enrolled on March twenty-third, two thousand ten for as long as the coverage maintains grandfathered status in accordance with section 1251(e) of the affordable care act, 42 U.S.C. § 18011(e); and

(3) "small group" means a group of one hundred or fewer employees or members exclusive of spouses and dependents; and

(4) "association group" means a group defined in subparagraphs (B), (D), (H), (K), (L) or (M) of paragraph one of subsection (c) of section four thousand two hundred thirty-five of this chapter, provided that:

(A) the group includes one or more individual members; or

(B) the group includes one or more member employers or other member groups that are small groups.

(mm) A corporation shall not be required to offer the contract holder any benefits that must be made available pursuant to this section if such benefits must be covered pursuant to subsection (kk) of this section. For any contract issued within the health benefit exchange established by this state, a corporation shall not be required to offer the contract holder any benefits that must be made available pursuant to this section.

(nn) A corporation subject to the provisions of this article or an insurance producer subject to this chapter shall not permit the renewal of a small group policy which provides hospital, surgical or medical expense coverage that renews on or after January first, two thousand fourteen, but before July first, two thousand fourteen, so as to renew the same policy prior to the policy's annual renewal date for the sole purpose of evading the requirements of the affordable care act and regulations promulgated thereunder with respect to such policy. An isolated, inadvertent renewal date change which was not made for the sole purpose of evading the requirements of the affordable care act shall not be deemed a violation of this subsection.

(oo) A medical expense indemnity corporation, a hospital service corporation or a health service corporation that provides coverage for hospital, surgical or medical care shall provide the following coverage for pasteurized donor human milk (PDHM), which may include fortifiers as medically indicated, for which a licensed medical practitioner has issued an order for an infant who is medically or physically unable to receive maternal breast milk or participate in breast feeding or whose mother is medically or physically unable to produce maternal breast milk at all or in sufficient quantities or participate in breast feeding despite optimal lactation support. Such infant shall: (i) have a documented birth weight of less than one thousand five hundred grams; or (ii) have a congenital or acquired condition that places the infant at a high risk for development of necrotizing enterocolitis.

(pp) No contract issued by a medical expense indemnity corporation, hospital service corporation, or health service corporation that provides reimbursement for non-physician surgical first assistant services when the services are provided by a non-physician surgical first assistant shall exclude such coverage on the basis that the non-physician surgical first assistant services were performed by a registered nurse first assistant provided that: (1) the registered nurse first assistant is certified in operating room nursing; (2) the services are within the scope of practice of a non-physician surgical first assistant; and (3) the terms and conditions of the contract otherwise provide for the coverage of the services. Nothing in this subsection shall be construed to prevent the medical management or utilization review of the services or prevent a policy from requiring that services are to be provided through a network of participating providers who meet certain requirements for participation, including provider credentialing.

* (qq) Every medical expense indemnity corporation, hospital service corporation or health service corporation that provides coverage for prescription drugs subject to a copayment shall charge a copayment for a limited initial prescription of an opioid drug, which is prescribed in accordance with paragraph (b) of subdivision five of section thirty-three hundred one of the public health law, that is either (i) proportional between the copayment for a thirty-day supply and the amount of drugs the patient was prescribed; or (ii) equivalent to the copayment for a full thirty-day supply of the opioid drug, provided that no additional copayments may be charged for any additional prescriptions for the remainder of the thirty-day supply.

* NB There are 2 sb§ (qq)'s

* (qq) Whenever in this section a corporation is required to provide benefits with no coinsurance or deductible, the requirement only applies with respect to participating providers in the corporation's network, or with respect to non-participating providers, if the corporation does not have a participating provider in the in-network benefits portion of its network with the appropriate training and experience to meet the particular health care needs of the covered person pursuant to subsection (d) of section four thousand three hundred six-c of this article, or as applicable, pursuant to paragraph (a) of subdivision six of section forty-four hundred three of the public health law.

* NB There are 2 sb§ (qq)'s

(rr) Health care forensic examinations performed pursuant to section twenty-eight hundred five-i of the public health law covered under the contract shall not be subject to annual deductibles or coinsurance.

(ss)(1) Every policy which provides hospital, surgical, or medical coverage and which offers maternity care coverage pursuant to subsection (c) of this section shall also provide coverage for abortion services for an enrollee.

(2) Coverage for abortion shall not be subject to annual deductibles or coinsurance, including co-payments, unless the policy is a high deductible health plan as defined in section 223(c)(2) of the internal revenue code of 1986, in which case coverage for abortion may be subject to the plan's annual deductible.

(3) coverage for abortion shall include coverage of any drug prescribed for the purpose of an abortion, including both generic and brand name drugs, even if such drug has not been approved by the food and drug administration for abortion, provided, however, that such drug shall be a recognized medication for abortion in one of the following established reference compendia:

(A) The WHO Model Lists of Essential Medicines;

(B) The WHO Abortion Care Guidance; or

(C) The National Academies of Science, Engineering, and Medicine Consensus Study Report.

(4) Notwithstanding any other provision, a group policy that provides hospital, surgical, or medical expense coverage delivered or issued for delivery in this state to a religious employer, as defined in paragraph five of subsection (cc) of this section, may exclude coverage for abortion only if the insurer:

(A) obtains an annual certification from the group policy holder that the policy holder is a religious employer and that the religious employer requests a contract without coverage for abortion;

(B) issues a rider to each certificate holder at no premium to be charged to the certificate holder or religious employer for the rider, that provides coverage for abortions subject to the same rules as would have been applied to the same category of treatment in the policy issued to the religious employer. The rider shall clearly and conspicuously specify that the religious employer does not administer abortion benefits, but that the insurer is issuing a rider for coverage of abortion, and shall provide the insurer's contact information for questions; and

(C) provides notice of the issuance of the policy and rider to the superintendent in a form and manner acceptable to the superintendent.

* (tt) Every contract issued by a medical expense indemnity corporation, hospital service corporation, or health service corporation that provides coverage for a prescription drug shall apply any third-party payments, financial assistance, discount, voucher or other price reduction instrument for out-of-pocket expenses made on behalf of an insured individual for the cost of prescription drugs to the insured's deductible, copayment, coinsurance, out-of-pocket maximum, or any other cost-sharing requirement when calculating such insured individual's overall contribution to any out-of-pocket maximum or any cost-sharing requirement. If under federal law, application of this requirement would result in health savings account ineligibility under 26 USC 223, this requirement shall apply for health savings account-qualified high deductible health plans with respect to the deductible of such a plan after the enrollee has satisfied the minimum deductible under 26 USC 223, except for with respect to items or services that are preventive care pursuant to 26 USC 223(c)(2)(C), in which case the requirements of this paragraph shall apply regardless of whether the minimum deductible under 26 USC 223 has been satisfied. This subsection only applies to a prescription drug that is either (A) a brand-name drug without an AB rated generic equivalent, as determined by the United States Food and Drug Administration; or (B) a brand-name drug with an AB rated generic equivalent, as determined by the United States Food and Drug Administration, and the insured has access to the brand-name drug through prior authorization by the insurer or through the insurer's appeal process, including any step-therapy process; or (C) a generic drug the insurer will cover, with or without prior authorization or an appeal process.

* NB Effective until January 1, 2027

* (tt) Every contract issued by a medical expense indemnity corporation, hospital service corporation, or health service corporation that provides coverage for a prescription drug shall apply any third-party payments, financial assistance, discount, voucher or other price reduction instrument for out-of-pocket expenses made on behalf of an insured individual for the cost of prescription drugs to the insured's deductible, copayment, coinsurance, out-of-pocket maximum, or any other cost-sharing requirement when calculating such insured individual's overall contribution to any out-of-pocket maximum or any cost-sharing requirement. If under federal law, application of this requirement would result in health savings account ineligibility under 26 USC 223, this requirement shall apply for health savings account-qualified high deductible health plans with respect to the deductible of such a plan after the enrollee has satisfied the plan deductible, except for with respect to items or services that are preventive care pursuant to 26 USC 223(c)(2)(C), in which case the requirements of this paragraph shall apply regardless of whether the plan deductible has been satisfied. This subsection only applies to a prescription drug that is either (A) a brand-name drug without an AB rated generic equivalent, as determined by the United States Food and Drug Administration; or (B) a brand-name drug with an AB rated generic equivalent, as determined by the United States Food and Drug Administration, and the insured has access to the brand-name drug through prior authorization by the insurer or through the insurer's appeal process, including any step-therapy process; or (C) a generic drug the insurer will cover, with or without prior authorization or an appeal process.

* NB Effective January 1, 2027

* NB There are 2 sb (tt)'s

* (tt) Every large group contract issued by a hospital services corporation or a health services corporation which provides medical, major medical, or comprehensive-type coverage shall include coverage for the cost of pre-exposure prophylaxis (PrEP) for the prevention of HIV and post-exposure prophylaxis to prevent HIV infection. Such coverage may be subject to annual deductibles, coinsurance, and copayments as may be deemed appropriate by the superintendent and as are consistent with those established for other benefits within a given contract, unless the pre-exposure prophylaxis (PrEP) or post-exposure prophylaxis has in effect a rating of 'A' or 'B' in the current recommendations of the United States preventive services task force.

* NB There are 2 sb (tt)'s

(uu) (1) Every large group contract delivered or issued for delivery in this state which provides medical coverage that includes coverage for physician services in a physician's office and every large group contract which provides major medical or similar comprehensive-type coverage shall provide, upon the prescription of a health care provider acting within the provider's scope of practice pursuant to title eight of the education law, coverage for colorectal cancer preventive screenings in accordance with the American Cancer Society Guidelines for colorectal cancer screening of average risk individuals. The coverage required by this subsection shall also include coverage for all additional colorectal cancer examinations and laboratory tests recommended in accordance with the American Cancer Society Guidelines for colorectal cancer screening of average risk individuals, including an initial colonoscopy or other medical test or procedure for colorectal cancer screening and a follow-up colonoscopy performed as a result of a positive result on a non-colonoscopy preventive screening test. A large group contract shall cover colorectal cancer screenings, examinations, and laboratory tests described in this subsection upon any contract issuance or renewal that occurs six months after the date the guideline described in this subsection is issued.

(2) An enrollee shall not be subject to a deductible, coinsurance, or any other cost-sharing requirements for services consistent with paragraph one of this subsection received from participating providers.

* (vv) Any contract issued by a medical expense indemnity corporation, a hospital service corporation or a health services corporation that provides coverage for antiretroviral prescription drugs for the treatment or prevention of the human immunodeficiency virus (HIV) or acquired immunodeficiency syndrome (AIDS) shall not subject such drug to a prior authorization requirement.

* NB There are 3 sb§ (vv)'s

* (vv) (1) Every contract that provides coverage for physician services, medical, major medical or similar comprehensive-type coverage shall, upon the referral of a physician, provide coverage for comprehensive neuropsychological examinations for dyslexia when performed by a health care professional licensed, certified, or authorized pursuant to title eight of the education law and acting within their scope of practice and in accordance with this subsection and shall not exclude coverage for the screening, diagnosis or treatment of medical conditions otherwise covered by the contract.

(2) Nothing in this subsection shall be construed to prevent the medical management or utilization review of the services or prevent a contract from requiring that services be provided through a network of participating providers.

* NB There are 3 sb§ (vv)'s

* (vv) (1) Every medical expense indemnity corporation, hospital service corporation and health service corporation which provides major medical or similar comprehensive-type coverage and provides coverage for prescription drugs shall provide coverage for medically necessary epinephrine devices for the emergency treatment of life-threatening allergic reactions. Such coverage may be subject to annual deductibles and coinsurance as may be deemed appropriate by the superintendent; provided however, the total amount that an insured is required to pay out-of-pocket for such devices shall be capped at an amount not to exceed one hundred dollars annually regardless of the insured's deductible, copayment, coinsurance or any other cost-sharing requirement. If under federal law, application of the annual cap would result in health savings account ineligibility under 26 USC 223, such coverage may be subject to the plan's annual deductible, except for with respect to items or services that are preventive care pursuant to 26 USC 223(c)(2)(C), in which case the requirements of this paragraph shall apply regardless of whether the minimum deductible under 26 USC 223 has been satisfied.

(2) For the purposes of this subsection, "epinephrine device" shall have the same meaning as provided in paragraph (b) of subdivision one of section three thousand-c of the public health law.

* NB There are 3 sb§ (vv)'s

* (ww) (1) A medical expense indemnity corporation or a health service corporation which provides medical, major medical or similar comprehensive-type coverage and provides coverage for prescription drugs shall include coverage for inhalers for the treatment of asthma if prescribed by a physician or other licensed health care provider legally authorized to prescribe under title eight of the education law.

(2) Coverage shall be provided for one form of rescue and one form of maintenance inhaler that shall not be subject to a deductible, copayment, coinsurance or any other cost-sharing requirement.

(3) If the policy is a high deductible health plan as defined in section 223(c)(2) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, such coverage may be subject to the plan's annual deductible if application of this requirement would result in ineligibility for a health savings account.

* NB Effective January 1, 2027

* NB There are 2 sb§s (ww)'s

* (ww) (1) Every policy which provides medical, major medical, or similar comprehensive-type coverage shall provide coverage for follow-up screening or diagnostic services for lung cancer upon the recommendation of a health care provider acting within the provider's scope of practice pursuant to title eight of the education law, and as recommended by nationally recognized clinical practice guidelines for the detection of lung cancer.

(2) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, any policy that provides coverage required by this subsection shall not impose patient cost sharing for follow-up screening or diagnostic services for lung cancer.

(3) For the purposes of this paragraph, "nationally recognized clinical practice guidelines" means evidence-based, peer reviewed clinical practice guidelines informed by a systematic review of evidence and an assessment of the benefits, and risks of alternative care options intended to optimize patient care developed by independent organizations or medical professional societies utilizing a transparent methodology and reporting structure and with a conflict of interest policy.

(4) Nothing in this paragraph shall be construed to prevent medical management or utilization review of the services, including preauthorization, to ensure that such services are consistent with nationally recognized clinical practice guidelines for the detection of lung cancer.

(5) If the policy is a high deductible health plan as defined in section 223(c)(2) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, such coverage may be subject to the plan's annual deductible if application of this requirement would result in ineligibility for a health savings account.

* NB Effective January 1, 2027

* NB There are 2 sb§s (ww)'s

* (xx) With respect to high deductible health plans offered in conjunction with a health savings account, if application of any cost sharing requirements would result in health savings account ineligibility under section two hundred twenty-three of the internal revenue code, such coverage may be subject to the plan's annual deductible.

* NB Effective January 1, 2027

§ 4303-a. Prescription synchronization. (a) Every hospital service corporation and health service corporation providing prescription drug coverage when applicable to permit synchronization shall permit and apply a daily pro-rated cost-sharing rate to prescriptions that are dispensed by a network pharmacy for less than a thirty day supply, when it is agreed among the covered individual, a health care practitioner, and a pharmacist that synchronization of multiple prescriptions for the treatment of a chronic illness is in the best interest of the covered individual for the management or treatment of that chronic illness provided that all of the following apply:

(i) The medications are covered by the policy or plan.

(ii) The medications are used for treatment and management of chronic conditions that are subject to refills.

(iii) The medications are not a Schedule II controlled substance or a Schedule III controlled substance containing hydrocodone.

(iv) The medications meet all prior authorization criteria specific to medications at the time of the synchronization request.

(v) The medications are of a formulation that can be effectively split over required short fill periods to achieve synchronization.

(vi) The medications do not have quantity limits or dose optimization criteria or requirements that would be violated in fulfilling synchronization.

(b) No hospital service corporation or health service corporation providing prescription drug coverage shall deny coverage for the dispensing of a medication for partial fill when it is for purposes of synchronizing the patient's medications. When applicable to permit synchronization, every hospital service corporation or health service corporation providing prescription drug coverage must allow a pharmacy to override any denial codes indicating that a prescription is being refilled too soon for the purposes of medication synchronization.

(c) Dispensing fees for partially filled or refilled prescriptions shall be paid in full for each prescription dispensed, regardless of any pro-rated copay for the beneficiary or fee paid for alignment services.

(d) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to require health care practitioners and pharmacists to synchronize the refilling of multiple prescriptions for a covered individual.

(e) The requirements of this paragraph shall apply only once for each prescription drug subject to medication synchronization except when either of the following occurs:

(i) The prescriber changes the dosage or frequency of administration of the prescription drug subject to a medication synchronization; or

(ii) The prescriber prescribes a different drug.

§ 4304. Individual contracts. (a) Every corporation subject to the provisions of this article may issue a contract to an individual the premiums for which may be paid to the corporation directly by the individual or by a remitting agent for the group to which the individual belongs. If the premiums for a contract issued pursuant to this section are paid to the corporation by a remitting agent, such contract shall be subject to subsections (k) and (l) of section four thousand two hundred thirty-five of this chapter, and for the purposes of these subsections, the remitting agent shall be treated as the policyholder.

(b)(1) Any such contract shall be for a period not in excess of twelve months, but no contract shall be made providing for the inception of benefits at a date later than one year from the date of the contract.

(2) Any such contract shall provide that it will be automatically renewed from year to year unless there shall have been one month's prior written notice of termination by the subscriber.

(3) No corporation shall refuse to renew any such contract because of the physical or mental condition or the health of any person covered thereunder. The provisions of this subsection shall in no way diminish the rights of individuals pursuant to section four thousand three hundred seventeen of this article.

(c) Any such contract may be terminated in the following manner:

(1) At the option of the individual to whom the contract is issued, upon not less than one month's prior written notice.

(2) At the option of the corporation, for one or more of the following reasons:

(A) The individual has failed to pay premiums or contributions in accordance with the terms of the contract or the corporation has not received timely premium payments.

(B) The individual has performed an act or practice that constitutes fraud or made an intentional misrepresentation of material fact under the terms of the contract, upon not less than one month's prior written notice.

(C) (i) Discontinuance of a class of contract upon not less than ninety days' prior written notice. In exercising the option to discontinue coverage pursuant to this item, the corporation must act uniformly without regard to any health status-related factor of enrolled individuals or individuals who may become eligible for such coverage and must offer to subscribers or group remitting agents, as may be appropriate, the option to purchase all other individual health insurance coverage currently being offered by the corporation to applicants in that market. Provided, however, the superintendent may, after giving due consideration to the public interest, approve a request made by a corporation for the corporation to satisfy the requirements of this item through the offering of contracts at each level of coverage as defined in subsection (b) of section four thousand three hundred six-h of this article that contains the essential health benefits package described in paragraph three of subsection (e) of section four thousand three hundred six-h of this article by another corporation, insurer or health maintenance organization within the corporation's same holding company system, as defined in article fifteen of this chapter.

(ii) Discontinuance of all hospital, surgical or medical expense coverage in the individual direct payment market in this state upon written notice to the superintendent and to each subscriber not less than one hundred eighty days prior to the date of the expiration of such coverage. In the event of such a withdrawal from the individual direct payment market, the corporation must also provide the superintendent with a written plan to minimize potential disruption in the marketplace occasioned by such withdrawal. In addition, the corporation may not provide for the issuance of any hospital, surgical or medical expense coverage in the individual direct payment market in this state during the five-year period beginning on the date of the discontinuance of the last health insurance coverage not so renewed.

(iii) Discontinuance of all individual hospital, surgical or medical expense insurance contracts for which the premiums are paid by a remitting agent of a group, in the small group market, or the large group market, or both markets, in this state, in conjunction with a withdrawal from the small group market, or the large group market, or both markets, in this state. Withdrawal from the small group market, or the large group market, or both markets, shall be governed by the requirements of subparagraphs (E) and (F) of paragraph three of subsection (j) of section four thousand three hundred five of this article. For purposes of this item, "withdrawal" from a market means that no coverage is offered or maintained in such market under contracts issued pursuant to this section or contracts issued pursuant to section four thousand three hundred five of this article.

(D) In the case of a corporation that offers health insurance in the market through a network plan, the individual no longer resides, lives or works in the service area (or in an area for which the corporation is authorized to do business) but only if such coverage is terminated under this paragraph uniformly without regard to any health status-related factor of covered individuals. For the purposes of this subparagraph, the term "network plan" means health insurance coverage of a corporation organized under this article under which the financing and delivery of health care (including items and services paid for as such care) are provided, in whole or in part, through a defined set of providers under contract either with the corporation or another entity that has contracted with the corporation.

(E) In case of a contract for which the premiums are paid by a remitting agent of a group, discontinuance of the individual's membership in such group.

(F) Such other reasons as the superintendent may approve and authorized by the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act of 1996, Public Law 104-191, and any later amendments or successor provisions, or by any federal regulations or rules that implement the provisions of the Act, upon not less than one month's prior written notice.

(3) Every notice of termination shall be in a form satisfactory to the superintendent and shall include a statement of the conversion privileges, if any, upon such termination.

(4) In the event of termination of a contract, the corporation shall return the unearned portion of the premium.

(d) (1) (A) No contract issued pursuant to this section shall entitle more than one person to benefits except that a contract issued and marked as a "family contract" may provide that benefits will be furnished to the contract holder, spouse, dependent child or children, or other person chiefly dependent upon the contract holder provided that:

(i) A "family contract" may provide coverage to any child or children not over nineteen years of age, provided that an unmarried student at an accredited institution of learning may be considered a dependent until the child becomes twenty-three years of age, and provided also that the coverage of any such "family contract" may include, at the option of the corporation, any unmarried child until attaining age twenty-five. However, a "family contract" of hospital, medical, surgical, or prescription drug expense insurance that provides coverage for dependent children shall provide such coverage to a married or unmarried child until attainment of age twenty-six without regard to financial dependence, residency with the contract holder, student status, or employment.

(ii) The coverage of any such "family contract" shall include any other unmarried child, regardless of age, who is incapable of self-sustaining employment by reason of mental illness, developmental disability, as defined in the mental hygiene law, or physical handicap and who became so incapable prior to attainment of the age at which coverage would otherwise terminate.

(B) In addition to the requirements of subparagraph (A) of this paragraph, every corporation issuing a contract of hospital, medical or surgical expense insurance that provides coverage for children must make available and if requested by the contractholder, extend coverage under the contract to an unmarried child through age twenty-nine, without regard to financial dependence who is not insured by or eligible for coverage under any employer health benefit plan as an employee or member, whether insured or self-insured, and who lives, works or resides in New York state or the service area of the corporation. Such coverage shall be made available at the inception of all new contracts, and for group remittance contracts at any anniversary date. Written notice of the availability of such coverage shall be delivered to the contractholder prior to the inception of such contract, and for group remittance contracts annually thereafter.

(C) Notwithstanding any rule, regulation or law to the contrary, any "family contract" shall provide that coverage of newborn infants, including newly born infants adopted by the subscriber if such subscriber takes physical custody of the infant upon such infant's release from the hospital and files a petition pursuant to section one hundred fifteen-c of the domestic relations law within thirty days of birth; and provided further that no notice of revocation to the adoption has been filed pursuant to section one hundred fifteen-b of the domestic relations law and consent to the adoption has not been revoked, shall be effective from the moment of birth for injury or sickness including the necessary care and treatment of medically diagnosed congenital defects and birth abnormalities including premature birth, except that in cases of adoption, coverage of the initial hospital stay shall not be required where a birth parent has insurance coverage available for the infant's care. This provision regarding coverage of newborn infants shall not apply to two person coverage. In the case of individual or two person coverages the corporation must also permit the person to whom the contract is issued to elect such coverage of newborn infants from the moment of birth. If notification and/or payment of an additional premium or contribution is required to make coverage effective for a newborn infant, the coverage may provide that such notice and/or payment be made within no less than thirty days of the day of birth to make coverage effective from the moment of birth. This election shall not be required in the case of student insurance or where the group remitting agent's plan does not provide coverage for children.

(2) Every "family contract" under which coverage of a dependent spouse or contract holder would terminate upon such spouse or contract holder attaining the age prescribed in subchapter XVIII of the Social Security Act, 42 U.S.C. § 1395 et seq ("Medicare"), as the age of first eligibility for the benefits provided by such law shall not so terminate, if such dependent spouse is not eligible for all of such benefits, for as long as the contract remains in force and such dependent spouse remains ineligible to receive any of such "medicare" benefits, provided proof of such ineligibility is submitted to the corporation within thirty-one days of the date notice of termination of coverage is mailed by the corporation to the last known address of the such spouse or contract holder.

(3) Coverage of an unmarried dependent child who is incapable of self-sustaining employment by reason of mental illness, developmental disability, as defined in the mental hygiene law, or physical handicap and who became so incapable prior to attainment of the age at which coverage would otherwise terminate and who is chiefly dependent upon the contract holder for support and maintenance, shall not terminate while the contract remains in force and the child remains in such condition, if the contract holder has within thirty-one days of such child's attainment of the limiting age submitted proof of such child's incapacity as described herein.

(e) (1) (A) If any such contract is terminated in accordance with the provisions of paragraph one of subsection (c) of this section, or any such contract is terminated because of a default by the remitting agent in the payment of premiums not cured within the grace period and the remitting agent has not replaced the contract with similar and continuous coverage for the same group whether insured or self-insured, or any such contract is terminated in accordance with the provisions of subparagraph (E) of paragraph two of subsection (c) of this section, or if an individual other than the contract holder is no longer covered under a "family contract" because the individual is no longer within the definition set forth in the contract, or a spouse is no longer covered under the contract because of divorce from the contract holder or annulment of the marriage, or any such contract is terminated because of the death of the contract holder, then such individual, former spouse, or in the case of the death of the contract holder the surviving spouse or other dependents of the deceased contract holder covered under the contract, as the case may be, shall be entitled to convert, without evidence of insurability, upon application therefor and the making of the first payment thereunder within sixty days after the date of termination of such contract, to a contract that contains the essential health benefits package described in paragraph three of subsection (e) of section four thousand three hundred six-h of this article.

(B) The corporation shall offer one contract at each level of coverage as defined in subsection (b) of section four thousand three hundred six-h of this article. The individual may choose any such contract offered by the corporation. Provided, however, the superintendent may, after giving due consideration to the public interest, approve a request made by a corporation for the corporation to satisfy the requirements of this paragraph through the offering of contracts that comply with this paragraph by another corporation, insurer or health maintenance organization within the corporation's same holding company system, as defined in article fifteen of this chapter.

(C) The effective date of the coverage provided by the converted direct payment contract shall be the date of the termination of coverage under the contract from which conversion was made.

(2) The corporation shall not be required to issue any such converted individual direct payment contract if its issuance would result in overinsurance or duplication of benefits according to standards on file with the superintendent and approved by the superintendent with regard to such contracts.

(3) In addition to the right of conversion herein, the employee or member insured under a contract for which the premiums are paid by a remitting agent of a group shall at his option, as an alternative to conversion, be entitled to have his coverage continued under the group remittance contract in accordance with the conditions and limitations contained in subsection (k) of this section, and have issued at the end of the period of continuation an individual direct payment conversion contract subject to the terms of this subsection. The effective date for the conversion contract shall be the day following the termination of insurance under the group remittance contract, or if there is a continuation of coverage, on the day following the end of the period of continuation.

(4) For purposes of this subsection, the term "dependent" shall include a child as described in subsection (d) of this section.

(f) No such corporation shall require as a condition for renewal or for failure to cancel any individual contract any rider, endorsement or other attachment which shall limit the nature or extent of the benefits thereunder, except that a corporation may at any time upon at least thirty days' prior written notice amend such contract to provide a different level of benefits thereunder if approved by the superintendent on finding, upon application by the corporation at least four months before the proposed effective date, that such level would exceed, in the aggregate, the level of benefits theretofore provided and would be in the best interests of the corporation and the persons covered under such contracts.

(g) The provisions of this section with respect to limitations on the termination of an individual contract shall not apply to a contract or an endorsement or rider thereto which is issued by a corporation subject to the provisions of this article pursuant to a plan providing for experimentation in new forms of benefits in the field of health insurance protection, which plan shall be submitted in writing to the superintendent. The superintendent shall approve such plan if he finds that the benefits are of the type heretofore described and that the issuance of such contract, endorsement or rider is in the public interest. Approval of such contract, rider or endorsement shall be subject to any conditions which may be prescribed by the superintendent, including, but not limited to, the maximum period during which the exemption from the provisions of this section with respect to termination shall continue. The superintendent may, for good cause shown, extend such period of exemption. Any termination of such contract, rider or endorsement during the period of exemption, other than for non-payment of premium and fraud in applying for the contract, shall be subject to the approval of the superintendent. Upon termination of such contract, or termination of a rider or endorsement providing experimental benefits, as aforesaid, the contract holder thereunder who has at the time of such termination been covered continuously immediately preceding such termination for a period of two years or more under one or more contracts of the corporation shall be entitled to have issued to him by the corporation, without evidence of insurability, upon application therefor and the making of the first payment thereunder within thirty-one days after the date of termination, an individual direct payment contract of the type and class which the superintendent shall determine provides benefits most nearly comparable to those currently provided other individuals. If the corporation does not terminate such contract or a rider or endorsement thereto providing experimental benefits as aforesaid during the period of exemption, or any extended period provided herein, such contract shall thereafter be subject to the provisions of this section with respect to termination as of the original effective date of such contract.

(h) Any contract, other than one issued in fulfillment of the continuing care responsibilities of an operator of a continuing care retirement community in accordance with article forty-six of the public health law, made available because of residence in a particular facility, housing development, or community shall contain the following notice in twelve point type in bold face on the first page:

"NOTICE - THIS CONTRACT DOES NOT MEET THE REQUIREMENTS OF A CONTINUING CARE RETIREMENT CONTRACT. AVAILABILITY OF THIS COVERAGE WILL NOT QUALIFY A RESIDENTIAL FACILITY AS A CONTINUING CARE RETIREMENT COMMUNITY."

(i) Any persons covered by the contract who are also members of a reserve component of the armed forces of the United States, including the National Guard, shall be entitled, upon written request, to have their coverage suspended during a period of active duty as described herein. The contract shall provide that the insurer will refund any unearned premiums for the period of such suspension. Persons covered by the contract shall be entitled to resumption of coverage, upon written application and payment of the required premium within sixty days after the date of termination of the period of active duty, with no limitations or conditions imposed as a result of such period of active duty except as set forth in paragraphs one and two herein. Coverage shall be retroactive to the date of termination of the period of active duty. Such right of resumption provided for herein shall be in addition to other existing rights granted pursuant to state and federal laws and regulations and shall not be deemed to qualify or limit such rights in any way. No exclusion or waiting period may be imposed in connection with coverage of a health or physical condition of a person entitled to such right of resumption, or a health or physical condition of any other person who is covered by the contract unless:

(1) the condition arose during the period of active duty and the condition has been determined by the secretary of veterans affairs to be a condition incurred in the line of duty; or

(2) a waiting period was imposed and had not been completed prior to the period of suspension; in no event, however, shall the sum of the waiting periods imposed prior to and subsequent to the period of suspension exceed the length of the waiting period originally imposed.

(j) To be entitled to the right defined in subsection (i) of this section a person must be a member of a reserve component of the armed forces of the United States, including the National Guard, who either:

(1) voluntarily or involuntarily enters upon active duty (other than for the purpose of determining his or her physical fitness and other than for training), or

(2) has his or her active duty voluntarily or involuntarily extended during a period when the president is authorized to order units of the ready reserve or members of a reserve component to active duty, provided that such additional active duty is at the request and for the convenience of the federal government, and

(3) serves no more than four years of active duty.

(k) A contract for which the premiums are paid by a remitting agent of a group issued by a hospital service, health service or medical expense indemnity corporation shall provide that if all or any portion of the insurance on an employee or member insured under the contract ceases because of termination of employment or membership in the class or classes eligible for coverage under the contract, such employee or member shall be entitled without evidence of insurability upon application to continue his or her insurance for himself or herself and his or her eligible dependents, subject to all of the group remittance contract's terms and conditions applicable to those forms of benefits and to the following conditions:

(1) Continuation shall not be available for: (A) any person who is covered, becomes covered or could be covered by title XVIII of the United States Social Security Act (Medicare) as amended or superseded; or (B) an employee, member or dependent who is covered, becomes covered or could become covered as an employee, member or dependent by any other insured or uninsured arrangement which provides hospital, surgical or medical coverage for individuals in a group which does not contain any exclusion or limitation with respect to any pre-existing condition of such employee, member or dependent, except the group insurance or group remittance contract conversion option of this section shall not be considered as such an arrangement under which an employee, member or dependent could become covered.

(2) (A) An employee or member who wishes continuation of coverage must request such continuation in writing within the sixty day period following the later of: (i) the date of such termination; or (ii) the date the employee is given notice of the right of continuation by either his employer or the group remitting agent.

(B) An employee or member who wishes continuation of coverage under subparagraph (D) of paragraph four of this subsection must give notice to the employer or group remitting agent within sixty days of the determination under title II or title XVI of the United States Social Security Act that such employee or member was disabled at the time of termination of employment or membership or at any time during the first sixty days of continuation of coverage.

(3) An employee or member electing continuation must pay to the group remitting agent or his employer, but not more frequently than on a monthly basis in advance, the amount of the required premium payment, but not more than one hundred two percent of the group rate for the benefits being continued under the group remittance contract on the due date of each payment. The employee's or member's written election of continuation, together with the first premium payment required to establish premium payment on a monthly basis in advance, must be given to the group remitting agent or employer within sixty days of the date the employee's or member's benefits would otherwise terminate.

(4) Subject to paragraph one of this subsection, continuation of benefits under the group remittance contract for any person shall terminate at the first to occur of the following:

(A) The date thirty-six months after the date the employee's or member's benefits under the contract would otherwise have terminated because of termination of employment or membership; or

(B) The end of the period for which premium payments were made, if the employee or member fails to make timely payment of a required premium payment; or

(C) In the case of an eligible dependent of an employee or member, the date thirty-six months after the date such person's benefits under the contract would otherwise have terminated by reason of:

(i) the death of the employee or member;

(ii) the divorce or legal separation of the employee or member from his or her spouse;

(iii) the employee or member becoming entitled to benefits under title XVIII of the United States Social Security Act (Medicare); or

(iv) a dependent child ceasing to be a dependent child under the generally applicable requirements of the contract; or

(D) The date on which the group remittance contract with that remitting agent is terminated or, in the case of an employee, the date his employer terminates participation under the group remittance contract. However, if this clause applies and the coverage ceasing by reason of such termination is replaced by similar coverage under another group or group remittance contract, the following shall apply:

(i) The employee or member shall have the right to become covered under that other group or group remittance contract, for the balance of the period that he would have remained covered under the prior group remittance contract in accordance with this subparagraph had a termination described in this subparagraph not occurred, and

(ii) The minimum level of benefits to be provided by the other group or group remittance contract shall be the applicable level of benefits of the prior group remittance contract reduced by any benefits payable under that prior group remittance contract, and

(iii) The prior group remittance contract shall continue to provide benefits to the extent of its accrued liabilities and extension of benefits as if the replacement had not occurred.

(5)(A) Special enrollment period. An individual who does not have an election of continuation coverage as described in this subsection in effect on the effective date of the American Recovery and Reinvestment act of 2009, but who would be an assistance eligible individual under Title III of such act if such election were in effect, may elect continuation coverage pursuant to this subsection. Such election must be made no later than sixty days after the date the administrator of the group health plan (or other entity involved) provides the notice required by section 3001(a)(7) of the American Recovery and Reinvestment act of 2009. The administrator of the group health plan (or other entity involved) shall provide such individuals with additional notice of the right to elect coverage pursuant to this paragraph within sixty days of the date of enactment of the American Recovery and Reinvestment act of 2009.

(B) Continuation coverage elected pursuant to subparagraph (A) of this paragraph shall commence with the first period of coverage beginning on or after the date of the enactment of the American Recovery and Reinvestment act of 2009 and shall not extend beyond the period of continuation coverage that would have been required if the coverage had instead been elected pursuant to paragraph two of this subsection.

(C) With respect to an individual who elects continuation coverage pursuant to subparagraph (A) of this paragraph, the period beginning on the date of the qualifying event and ending on the date of the first period of coverage on or after the enactment of the American Recovery and Reinvestment act of 2009 shall be disregarded for purposes of determining the sixty-three day period referred to in section four thousand three hundred eighteen of this article.

(6) A contract for which premiums are paid by a remitting agent for a group issued by a hospital service, health service or medical expense indemnity corporation shall offer an employee or member who has exhausted continuation coverage pursuant to Chapter 18 of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act, 29 U.S.C. § 1161 et seq. or Chapter 6A of the Public Health Service Act, 42 U.S.C. § 300 bb - 1 et seq. the opportunity to continue coverage for up to thirty-six months from the date the employee's or member's continuation coverage began if the employee or member is entitled to less than thirty-six months of continuation benefits.

(7) For purposes of this subsection, the term "dependent" shall include a child as described in subsection (d) of this section.

(l) A corporation shall not offer individual hospital, medical, or surgical expense insurance contracts unless the contracts meet the requirements of subsection (b) of section four thousand three hundred twenty-eight of this article. Such contracts that are offered within the health benefit exchange established by this state also shall meet any requirements established by the health benefit exchange. To the extent that a holder of a special purpose certificate of authority issued pursuant to section four thousand four hundred three-a of the public health law offers individual hospital, medical, or surgical expense insurance contracts, the contracts shall meet the requirements of subsection (b) of section four thousand three hundred twenty-eight of this article.

(m) (1) As used in this subsection, "child" means an unmarried child through age twenty-nine of an employee or member insured under a group remittance contract of hospital, medical or surgical expense insurance, regardless of financial dependence, who is not insured by or eligible for coverage under any employer health benefit plan as an employee or member, whether insured or self-insured, and who lives, works or resides in New York state or the service area of the corporation and who is not covered under title XVIII of the United States Social Security Act (Medicare).

(2) In addition to the conversion privilege afforded by subsection (e) of this section and the continuation privilege afforded by subsections (e) and (k) of this section, a hospital service, health service or medical expense corporation or health maintenance organization that provides hospital, medical or surgical expense insurance coverage for which the premiums are paid by the remitting agent of a group that provides coverage of a child that terminates at a specified age shall, upon application of the employee, member or child, as set forth in subparagraph (B) of this paragraph, provide coverage to the child after that specified age and through age twenty-nine without evidence of insurability, subject to all of the terms and conditions of the group remittance contract and the following:

(A) An employer shall not be required to pay all or part of the cost of coverage for a child provided pursuant to this subsection;

(B) An employee, member or child who wishes to elect continuation of coverage pursuant to this subsection shall request the continuation in writing:

(i) within sixty days following the date coverage would otherwise terminate due to reaching the specified age set forth in the group contract;

(ii) within sixty days after meeting the requirements for child status set forth in paragraph one of this subsection when coverage for the child previously terminated; or

(iii) during an annual thirty-day open enrollment period as described in the contract.

(C) An employee, member or child electing continuation as described in this subsection shall pay to the group remitting agent or employer, but not more frequently than on a monthly basis in advance, the amount of the required premium payment on the due date of each payment. The written election of continuation, together with the first premium payment required to establish premium payment on a monthly basis in advance, shall be given to the group remitting agent or employer within the time periods set forth in subparagraph (B) of this paragraph. Any premium received within the thirty-day period after the due date shall be considered timely;

(D) For any child electing coverage within sixty days of the date the child would otherwise lose coverage due to reaching a specified age, the effective date of the continuation coverage shall be the date coverage would have otherwise terminated. For any child electing to resume coverage during an annual open enrollment period, the effective date of the continuation coverage shall be prospective no later than thirty days after the election and payment of first premium;

(E) Coverage for a child pursuant to this subsection shall consist of coverage that is identical to the coverage provided to the employee or member parent. If coverage is modified under the contract for any group of similarly situated employees or members, then the coverage shall also be modified in the same manner for any child;

(F) Coverage shall terminate on the first to occur of the following:

(i) the date the child no longer meets the requirements of paragraph one of this subsection;

(ii) the end of the period for which premium payments were made, if there is a failure to make payment of a required premium payment within the period of grace described in subparagraph (C) of this paragraph; or

(iii) the date on which the group remittance contract is terminated and not replaced by coverage under another group or group remittance contract; and

(G) The corporation or health maintenance organization shall provide written notification of the continuation privilege described in this subsection and the time period in which to request continuation to the employee or member:

(i) in each certificate of coverage; and

(ii) at least sixty days prior to termination at the specified age as provided in the contract.

(3)(A) Corporations and health maintenance organizations shall submit such reports as may be requested by the superintendent to evaluate the effectiveness of coverage pursuant to this subsection including, but not limited to, quarterly enrollment reports.

(B) The superintendent may promulgate regulations to ensure the orderly implementation and operation of the continuation coverage provided pursuant to this subsection, including premium rate adjustments.

§ 4305. Group contracts. (a) A corporation subject to the provisions of this article may issue a group contract, provided the group of persons thereby covered conforms to the requirements of subsections (c) and (d) of section four thousand two hundred thirty-five or of subparagraph (C) of paragraph three of subsection (a) of section four thousand two hundred thirty-seven of this chapter, and provided such contract and the individual certificates issued to members of the group shall comply in substance with this article. A corporation subject to the provisions of this article shall issue to the group contractholder, for delivery to each member of the insured group, a copy of the contract, or a certificate which can be in the form of a booklet setting forth in summary form a statement of the essential features of the insurance coverage. A group contract issued pursuant to this section shall be subject to subsections (k) and (l) of section four thousand two hundred thirty-five of this chapter.

(b) Any such contract which provides for the adjustment of the rate of premium based upon the experience thereunder shall specify the duration of the period of insurance thereunder; such period shall not exceed three years, provided, however, that such contract may provide that, in the absence of one month's prior written notice by either party to the other, it shall be automatically renewed at the termination of any period thereunder for a succeeding period of not less than one nor more than three years' duration. In any case where such contract is for a period of more than one year, an appropriate additional rate of premium shall be charged therefor. Any such contract may provide for the adjustment of the rate of premium based upon the experience thereunder at the end of the first period of insurance thereunder or at the end of any subsequent period of insurance thereunder and any such adjustment may be made retroactive only for the period of insurance immediately preceding such adjustment.

(c) (1)(A) Any such contract may provide that benefits will be furnished to a member of a covered group, for the member, the member's spouse, child or children, or other persons chiefly dependent upon the member for support and maintenance; provided that:

(i) a contract of hospital, medical, surgical, or prescription drug expense insurance that provides coverage for children shall provide such coverage to a married or unmarried child until attainment of age twenty-six, without regard to financial dependence, residency with the member, student status, or employment, except a contract that is a grandfathered health plan may, for plan years beginning before January first, two thousand fourteen, exclude coverage of an adult child under age twenty-six who is eligible to enroll in an employer-sponsored health plan other than a group health plan of a parent. For purposes of this item, "grandfathered health plan" means coverage provided by a corporation in which an individual was enrolled on March twenty-third, two thousand ten for as long as the coverage maintains grandfathered status in accordance with section 1251(e) of the Affordable Care Act, 42 U.S.C. § 18011(e); and

(ii) a contract under which coverage terminates at a specified age shall, with respect to an unmarried child who is incapable of self-sustaining employment by reason of mental illness, developmental disability, as defined in the mental hygiene law, or physical handicap and who became so incapable prior to attainment of the age at which coverage would otherwise terminate and who is chiefly dependent upon such member for support and maintenance, not so terminate while the contract remains in force and the child remains in such condition, if the member has within thirty-one days of such child's attainment of the termination age submitted proof of such child's incapacity as described herein.

(B) In addition to the requirements of subparagraph (A) of this paragraph, every corporation issuing a group contract of hospital, medical or surgical expense insurance pursuant to this section that provides coverage for children, must make available and if requested by the contractholder, extend coverage under that contract to an unmarried child through age twenty-nine, without regard to financial dependence who is not insured by or eligible for coverage under any employer health benefit plan as an employee or member, whether insured or self-insured, and who lives, works or resides in New York state or the service area of the corporation. Such coverage shall be made available at the inception of all new contracts and with respect to all other contracts at any anniversary date. Written notice of the availability of such coverage shall be delivered to the contractholder prior to the inception of such group contract and annually thereafter.

(C) Notwithstanding any rule, regulation or law to the contrary, any contract under which a member elects coverage for the member, the member's spouse, children or other persons chiefly dependent upon the member for support and maintenance shall provide that coverage of newborn infants, including newly born infants adopted by the member if such member takes physical custody of the infant upon such infant's release from the hospital and files a petition pursuant to section one hundred fifteen-c of the domestic relations law within thirty days of birth; and provided further that no notice of revocation to the adoption has been filed pursuant to section one hundred fifteen-b of the domestic relations law and consent to the adoption has not been revoked, shall be effective from the moment of birth for injury or sickness including the necessary care and treatment of medically diagnosed congenital defects and birth abnormalities including premature birth, except that in cases of adoption, coverage of the initial hospital stay shall not be required where a birth parent has insurance coverage available for the infant's care. This provision regarding coverage of newborn infants shall not apply to two person coverage. In the case of individual or two person coverages the corporation must also permit the person to whom the certificate is issued to elect such coverage of newborn infants from the moment of birth. If notification and/or payment of an additional premium or contribution is required to make coverage effective for a newborn infant, the coverage may provide that such notice and/or payment be made within no less than thirty days of the day of birth to make coverage effective from the moment of birth. This election shall not be required in the case of student insurance or where the group's plan does not provide coverage for children.

(2) Any such contract under which coverage of a dependent spouse or group member would terminate upon such spouse or group member attaining the age prescribed in subchapter XVIII of the Social Security Act, 42 U.S.C. § 1395 et seq. ("Medicare"), as the age of first eligibility for the benefits provided by such law shall not so terminate, if such dependent spouse is not then eligible for all of such benefits, for as long as the contract remains in force and such dependent spouse remains ineligible to receive any of such "Medicare" benefits, provided proof of such ineligibility is submitted to the corporation within thirty-one days of the date notice of termination of coverage is sent by first class mail by the corporation to the last known address of the policyholder.

(d) (1) (A) A group contract issued pursuant to this section shall contain a provision to the effect that in case of a termination of coverage under such contract of any member of the group because of (i) termination for any reason whatsoever of the member's employment or membership, or (ii) termination for any reason whatsoever of the group contract itself unless the group contract holder has replaced the group contract with similar and continuous coverage for the same group whether insured or self-insured, the member shall be entitled to have issued to the member by the corporation, without evidence of insurability, upon application therefor and payment of the first premium made to the corporation within sixty days after termination of the coverage, an individual direct payment contract, covering such member and the member's eligible dependents who were covered by the group contract, which provides coverage that contains the essential health benefits package described in paragraph three of subsection (e) of section four thousand three hundred six-h of this article. The corporation shall offer one contract at each level of coverage as defined in subsection (b) of section four thousand three hundred six-h of this article. The member may choose any such contract offered by the corporation. Provided, however, the superintendent may, after giving due consideration to the public interest, approve a request made by a corporation for the corporation to satisfy the requirements of this subparagraph through the offering of contracts that comply with this subparagraph by another corporation, insurer or health maintenance organization within the corporation's same holding company system, as defined in article fifteen of this chapter.

(B) The conversion privilege afforded in this paragraph shall also be available: (i) upon the divorce or annulment of the marriage of a member, to the divorced spouse or former spouse of such member; (ii) upon the death of the member, to the surviving spouse and other dependents covered under the contract; and (iii) to a dependent if no longer within the definition in the contract.

(2) The effective date of the coverage provided by the individual direct payment contract shall be the date of the termination of the individual's coverage under the group contract. The corporation shall not be required to issue such individual direct payment converted contract covering any person if it appears that such person shall then be covered by another individual contract providing similar coverage or if it shall appear that such person is covered by or eligible to be covered by a group contract or policy providing similar benefits or is provided with similar benefits required by any statute or provided by any welfare plan or program, which together with the individual direct payment converted contract would result in over-insurance or duplication of benefits according to standards on file with the superintendent of financial services relating to individual contracts.

(3) (A) Each member in the insured group, but not his dependents, shall be given written notice of such conversion privilege provided in paragraph one hereof and its duration within fifteen days after the date of termination of coverage under the group contract, provided that if such notice be given more than fifteen days but less than ninety days after the date of termination of coverage under the group contract the time allowed for the exercise of such conversion privilege shall be extended for forty-five days after the giving of such notice. If such notice is not given within ninety days after the date of termination of coverage under the group contract the time allowed for the exercise of such conversion privilege shall expire at the end of such ninety days.

(B) Written notice by the contract holder given to the member or sent by first class mail to the member at his last known address, or written notice by the corporation which issued the group contract sent by first class mail to the member at the last address furnished to the corporation by the contract holder, shall be deemed full compliance with the provisions of this paragraph for the giving of notice.

(C) A group contract issued pursuant to this section may contain a provision to the effect that notice of such conversion privilege and its duration shall be given by the contract holder to each certificate holder upon termination of his group coverage.

(4) A group contract to be issued to a social services district pursuant to section three hundred sixty-five of the social services law by a corporation subject to the provisions of this article need not, subject to the approval of the superintendent, provide for the issuance of individual certificates and may omit or modify any of the other provisions required to be contained in such contract, provided that the superintendent deems such omission or modification suitable for the character of the coverage provided.

(5) For purposes of this subsection, the term "dependent" shall include a child as described in subsection (c) of this section.

(e) In addition to the conversion privilege afforded by subsection (d) of this section, a group contract issued by a hospital service, health service or medical expense indemnity corporation shall provide that if all or any portion of the insurance on an employee or member insured under the policy ceases because of termination of employment or membership in the class or classes eligible for coverage under the policy, such employee or member shall be entitled without evidence of insurability upon application to continue his insurance for himself or herself and his or her eligible dependents, subject to all of the group contract's terms and conditions applicable to those forms of benefits and to the following conditions:

(1) Continuation shall cease on the date which the employee, member or dependant first becomes, after the date of election: (A) entitled to coverage under title XVIII of the United States Social Security Act (Medicare) as amended or superseded; or (B) covered as an employee, member or dependent by any other insured or uninsured arrangement which provides hospital, surgical or medical coverage for individuals in a group which does not contain any exclusion or limitation with respect to any pre-existing condition of such employee, member or dependent.

(2) (A) An employee or member who wishes continuation of coverage must request such continuation in writing within the sixty day period following the later of: (i) the date of such termination; or (ii) the date the employee is sent notice by first class mail of the right of continuation by the group policyholder.

(B) An employee or member who wishes continuation of coverage under subparagraph (D) of paragraph four of this subsection must give notice to the employer or group policyholder within sixty days of the determination under title II or title XVI of the United States Social Security Act that such employee or member was disabled at the time of termination of employment or membership or at any time during the first sixty days of continuation of coverage.

(3) An employee or member electing continuation must pay to the group policyholder or his employer, but not more frequently than on a monthly basis in advance, the amount of the required premium payment, but not more than one hundred two percent of the group rate for the benefits being continued under the group contract on the due date of each payment. The employee's or member's written election of continuation, together with the first premium payment required to establish premium payment on a monthly basis in advance, must be given to the policyholder or employer within sixty days of the date the employee's or member's benefits would otherwise terminate.

(4) Subject to paragraph one of this subsection, continuation of benefits under the group contract for any person shall terminate at the first to occur of the following:

(A) The date thirty-six months after the date the employee's or member's benefits under the contract would otherwise have terminated because of termination of employment or membership; or

(B) The end of the period for which premium payments were made, if the employee or member fails to make timely payment of a required premium payment; or

(C) In the case of an eligible dependent of an employee or member, the date thirty-six months after the date such person's benefits under the contract would otherwise have terminated by reason of:

(i) the death of the employee or member;

(ii) the divorce or legal separation of the employee or member from his or her spouse;

(iii) the employee or member becoming entitled to benefits under title XVIII of the United States Social Security Act (Medicare); or

(iv) a dependent child ceasing to be a dependent child under the generally applicable requirements of the contract; or

(D) The date on which the group contract is terminated or, in the case of an employee, the date his employer terminated participation under the group contract. However, if this clause applies and the coverage ceasing by reason of such termination is replaced by similar coverage under another group contract, the following shall apply:

(i) The employee or member shall have the right to become covered under that other group contract, for the balance of the period that he would have remained covered under the prior group contract in accordance with this subparagraph had a termination described in this subparagraph not occurred, and

(ii) The minimum level of benefits to be provided by the other group contract shall be the applicable level of benefits of the prior group contract reduced by any benefits payable under the prior group contract, and

(iii) The prior group contract shall continue to provide benefits to the extent of its accrued liabilities and extensions of benefits as if the replacement had not occurred.

(5) A notification of the continuation privilege and the time period in which to request continuation shall be included in each certificate of coverage.

(6) The conversion privilege afforded by subsection (d) of this section shall be available upon termination of the continuation of benefits described herein.

(7) This subsection shall not be applicable where a continuation benefit is available to the employee or member pursuant to Chapter 18 of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act, 29 U.S.C. § 1161 et seq or Chapter 6A of the Public Health Service Act, 42 U.S.C. § 300 bb - 1 et seq. However, a group contract shall offer an employee or member who has exhausted continuation coverage pursuant to Chapter 18 of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act, 29 U.S.C. § 1161 et seq. or Chapter 6A of the Public Health Service Act, 42 U.S.C. § 300 bb - 1 et seq. the opportunity to continue coverage for up to thirty-six months from the date the employee's or member's continuation coverage began if the employee or member is entitled to less than thirty-six months of continuation benefits.

(8)(A) Special enrollment period. An individual who does not have an election of continuation coverage as described in this subsection in effect on the effective date of the American Recovery and Reinvestment act of 2009, but who would be an assistance eligible individual under Title III of such act if such election were in effect, may elect continuation coverage pursuant to this subsection. Such election must be made no later than sixty days after the date the administrator of the group health plan (or other entity involved) provides the notice required by section 3001(a)(7) of the American Recovery and Reinvestment act of 2009. The administrator of the group health plan (or other entity involved) shall provide such individuals with additional notice of the right to elect coverage pursuant to this paragraph within sixty days of the date of enactment of the American Recovery and Reinvestment act of 2009.

(B) Continuation coverage elected pursuant to subparagraph (A) of this paragraph shall commence with the first period of coverage beginning on or after the date of the enactment of the American Recovery and Reinvestment act of 2009 and shall not extend beyond the period of continuation coverage that would have been required if the coverage had instead been elected pursuant to paragraph two of this subsection.

(C) With respect to an individual who elects continuation coverage pursuant to subparagraph (A) of this paragraph, the period beginning on the date of the qualifying event and ending on the date of the first period of coverage on or after the enactment of the American Recovery and Reinvestment act of 2009 shall be disregarded for purposes of determining the sixty-three day period referred to in section four thousand three hundred eighteen of this article.

(9) For purposes of this subsection, the term "dependent" shall include a child as described in subsection (c) of this section.

(f) Any contract and certificate, other than one issued in fulfillment of the continuing care responsibilities of an operator of a continuing care retirement community in accordance with article forty-six of the public health law, made available because of residence in a particular facility, housing development, or community shall contain the following notice in twelve point type in bold face on the first page:

"NOTICE - THIS CONTRACT (CERTIFICATE) DOES NOT MEET THE REQUIREMENTS OF A CONTINUING CARE RETIREMENT CONTRACT. AVAILABILITY OF THIS COVERAGE WILL NOT QUALIFY A RESIDENTIAL FACILITY AS A CONTINUING CARE RETIREMENT COMMUNITY."

(g) In addition to all the rights of conversion and continuation otherwise provided for herein, employees or members insured under the contract who are also members of a reserve component of the armed forces of the United States, including the National Guard, shall be entitled to have supplementary conversion and continuation rights in certain circumstances as follows:

(1) if the employee or member insured enters upon active duty as defined in subsection (h) of this section, and the employer or group contract holder does not voluntarily maintain coverage for such employee or member insured, the employee or member insured shall be entitled to have his or her coverage continued under the group contract in accordance with the conditions and limitations contained in paragraph seven of this subsection and have issued at the end of the period of continuation an individual conversion policy subject to the terms of this subsection. The effective date for the conversion policy shall be the day following the termination of insurance under the group policy, or if there is a continuation of coverage, on the day following the end of the period of continuation.

(2) if the employer or group contract holder does not voluntarily maintain coverage for the employee or member insured during the period of active duty, and such employee or member insured does not elect the supplementary conversion and continuation rights provided for herein, coverage for such employee or member insured shall be suspended during the period of active duty.

(3) if the employee or member insured elects the supplementary continuation right provided for herein or coverage under the group plan is suspended, and such employee or member insured dies during the period of active duty, the conversion right provided by this section shall be available to the surviving spouse and children, and shall be available to a child solely with respect to himself or herself upon his or her attaining the limiting age of coverage under the group contract while covered as a dependent thereunder. It shall also be available upon the divorce or annulment of the marriage of the employee or member insured, to the former spouse of such employee or member insured, if such divorce or annulment occurs during the period of active duty.

(4) if the employee or member insured elects the supplementary conversion and continuation right provided for herein or coverage under the group plan is suspended, and such employee or member insured is either reemployed or restored to participation in the group upon return to civilian status, he or she shall be entitled to resume participation in insurance offered by the group pursuant to this section, with no limitations or conditions imposed as a result of such period of active duty except as set forth in subparagraphs (A) and (B) herein. The right of resumption provided for herein shall extend to coverage for the spouse and dependents of the employee or member insured and shall be in addition to other existing rights granted pursuant to state and federal laws and regulations and shall not be deemed to qualify or limit such rights in any way. No exclusion or waiting period may be imposed in connection with coverage of a health or physical condition of a person entitled to such right of resumption, or a health or physical condition of any other person who is covered by the policy unless:

(A) the condition arose during the period of active duty and the condition has been determined by the secretary of veterans affairs to be a condition incurred in the line of duty; or

(B) a waiting period was imposed and had not been completed prior to the period of suspension; in no event, however, shall the sum of the waiting periods imposed prior to and subsequent to the period of suspension exceed the length of the waiting period originally imposed.

(5) if the employee or member insured elects the supplementary conversion and continuation coverage provided for herein:

(A) when such employee or member insured is either reemployed or restored to participation in the group, coverage under the supplementary rights provided for herein shall terminate on the date that coverage is effective due to resumption of participation in the group.

(B) when such employee or member insured is not reemployed or restored to participation in the group upon return to civilian status, he or she shall be entitled to the conversion and continuation rights provided by subsections (d) and (e) of this section.

(i) To elect an individual conversion contract pursuant to subsection

(d) of this section, the employee or member insured must apply to the insurer within thirty-one days of the termination of active duty or discharge from hospitalization incident to such active duty, which hospitalization continues for a period of not more than one year. Upon commencement of coverage under the conversion right provided pursuant to subsection (d) of this section, coverage under the supplementary continuation right provided for herein shall terminate.

(ii) To elect continuation of coverage pursuant to subsection (e) of this section, the employee or member insured must request such continuation of the employer within thirty-one days of the termination of active duty or discharge from hospitalization incident to such active duty, which hospitalization continues for a period of not more than one year. Upon commencement of coverage under the continuation right provided pursuant to subsection (e) of this section, coverage under the supplementary continuation right provided for herein shall terminate. The employee or member insured shall be entitled to have issued at the end of the period of continuation an individual conversion contract.

(6) if coverage under the group plan is suspended during the period of active duty:

(A) when the employee or member insured returns to participation in the group plan, coverage under the group plan shall be retroactive to the date of termination of the period of active duty.

(B) when such employee or member insured is not reemployed or restored to participation in the group upon return to civilian status, he or she shall be entitled to the conversion and continuation rights provided by subsections (d) and (e) of this section.

(i) To elect an individual conversion contract pursuant to subsection (d) of this section, the employee or member insured must apply to the insurer within thirty-one days of the termination of active duty or discharge from hospitalization incident to such active duty, which hospitalization continues for a period of not more than one year.

(ii) To elect continuation of coverage pursuant to subsection (e) of this section, the employee or member insured must request such continuation of the employer within thirty-one days of the termination of active duty or discharge from hospitalization incident to such active duty, which hospitalization continues for a period of not more than one year. The employee or member insured shall be entitled to have issued at the end of the period of continuation an individual conversion contract.

(7) A group contract providing hospital, surgical or medical expense insurance for other than accident only shall provide that if all or any portion of the insurance on an employee or member insured under the contract ceases because the employee or member insured is ordered to active duty as defined in subsection (h) of this section, such employee or member insured shall be entitled, without evidence of insurability, upon application to continue his or her hospital, surgical or medical expense insurance for himself or herself and his or her eligible dependents, under the supplementary conversion and continuation rights provided for herein, subject to all of the group policy's terms and conditions applicable to those forms of benefits and to the following conditions:

(A) continuation shall cease on the date which the employee, member or dependant first becomes, after the date of election: (i) entitled to coverage under title XVIII of the United States Social Security Act (Medicare) as amended or superseded or (ii) covered as an employee, member or dependent by any other insured or uninsured arrangement which provides hospital, surgical or medical coverage for individuals in a group, except that the coverage available to active duty members of the uniformed services and their family members shall not be considered a group under the terms of this subsection and except that the group insurance contract conversion option of this section shall not be considered as such an arrangement under which an employee, member or dependent could become covered.

(B) an employee or member insured who wishes continuation of coverage pursuant to this subsection must request such continuation in writing within sixty days of being ordered to active duty.

(C) an employee or member insured electing continuation pursuant to this subsection must pay to the group contract holder or his or her employer, but not more frequently than on a monthly basis in advance, the amount of the required premium payment, but not more than the group rate for the benefits being continued under the group contract on the due date of each payment.

(8) The supplementary conversion and continuation rights provided for herein shall apply to:

(A) contracts not covered by Chapter 18 of the Employee Retirement

Income Security Act, 29 U.S.C. section 1161 et seq or Chapter 6A of the Public Health Service Act, 42 U.S.C. section 300bb-1 et seq;

(B) contracts covered by Chapter 18 of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act, 29 U.S.C. section 1161 et seq or Chapter 6A of the Public Health Service Act, 42 U.S.C. section 300bb-1 et seq, when active duty for reservists and the refusal of an employer to voluntarily maintain coverage for such period of active duty is not considered a qualifying event.

(h) To be entitled to the right defined in subsection (g) of this section a person must be a member of a reserve component of the armed forces of the United States, including the National Guard, who either:

(1) voluntarily or involuntarily enters upon active duty (other than for the purpose of determining his or her physical fitness and other than for training), or

(2) has his or her active duty voluntarily or involuntarily extended during a period when the president is authorized to order units of the ready reserve or members of a reserve component to active duty, provided that such additional active duty is at the request and for the convenience of the federal government, and

(3) serves no more than four years of active duty.

(j)(1) Except as provided in this section, if a corporation delivers or issues for delivery in this state a group or blanket contract which provides hospital, surgical or medical expense coverage for other than accident only, the corporation must renew or continue in force such coverage at the option of the contract holder.

(2) A corporation may nonrenew or discontinue coverage under such a group or blanket contract based only on one or more of the following:

(A) The contract holder or a participating entity has failed to pay premiums or contributions in accordance with the terms of the contract or the corporation has not received timely premium payments.

(B) The contract holder or a participating entity has performed an act or practice that constitutes fraud or made an intentional misrepresentation of material fact under the terms of the contract.

(C) The contract holder has failed to comply with a material plan provision relating to employer contribution or group participation rules, as permitted under section four thousand two hundred thirty-five of this chapter.

(D) The corporation is ceasing to offer group or blanket contracts in a market in accordance with paragraph three or paragraph six of this subsection.

(E) The contract holder ceases to meet the requirements for a group under section four thousand two hundred thirty-five of this chapter or a participating employer, labor union, association or other entity ceases membership or participation in the group to which the contract is issued. Coverage terminated pursuant to this paragraph shall be done uniformly without regard to any health status-related factor relating to any covered individual.

(F) In the case of a corporation that offers a group or blanket contract in a market through a network plan, there is no longer any enrollee in connection with such plan who lives, resides or works in the operating area of the corporation (or in the area for which the corporation is authorized to do business).

(G) Such other reasons as are acceptable to the superintendent and authorized by the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act of 1996, Public Law 104-191, and any later amendments or successor provisions, or by any federal regulations or rules that implement the provisions of the Act.

(3) (A) In any case in which a corporation decides to discontinue offering a particular class of group or blanket contract of hospital, surgical or medical expense insurance offered in the small or large group market, the contract of such class may be discontinued by the corporation in accordance with this chapter in such market only if:

(i) the corporation provides written notice to each contract holder provided coverage of this class in such market (and to all employees and member insureds covered under such coverage) of such discontinuance at least ninety days prior to the date of discontinuance of such coverage. In addition to any other information required of notices by the superintendent, this written notice shall conspicuously include an explanation, in plain language, of the contract holder's and covered employee's or member insured's rights under this subparagraph and subparagraph (B) of this paragraph, including:

(I) a statement that if the superintendent determines that the covered employee, member insured, or a dependent has a serious medical condition, and the covered employee, member insured or dependent within the previous twelve months utilized a benefit under; the contrary related to the serious medical condition that is not covered by the replacement coverage offered to the contract holder as a result of the discontinuance, then the superintendent shall require the corporation to offer the contract holder replacement coverage that includes a benefit that is the same as or substantially similar to the benefit set forth in the contract that the corporation discontinued; and

(II) an explanation as to how to contact the superintendent, and the date by which the superintendent shall be contacted, if the contract holder, covered employee or member insured believes that the covered employee, member insured or a dependent has a serious medical condition, and the covered employee, member insured or dependent within the previous twelve months utilized a benefit related to the serious medical condition that may not be covered by the replacement coverage offered to the contract holder as a result of the discontinuance;

(ii) the corporation offers to each contract holder provided coverage of this class in such market, the option to purchase all (or, in the case of the large group market, any) other hospital, surgical and medical expense coverage currently being offered by the corporation to a group in such market;

(iii) in exercising the option to discontinue coverage of this class and in offering the option of coverage under item (ii) of this subparagraph, the corporation acts uniformly without regard to the claims experience of those contract holders or any health status-related factor relating to any particular covered employee, member insured or dependent who may become eligible for such coverage, and the corporation is not discontinuing the coverage of this class with the intent or as a pretext to discontinuing the coverage of any such employee, member insured or dependent; and

(iv) at least ninety days prior to the date of discontinuance of such coverage, the corporation provides written notice to the superintendent of such discontinuance, including the reason for the discontinuance, and an officer or director of the corporation certifies to the superintendent that the corporation has complied with items (i), (ii) and (iii) of this paragraph. If such notice does not include the date or dates that the corporation mailed or delivered the notice to all contract holders, covered employers and member insureds, the corporation shall notify the superintendent of such date within seven days of the completion of the mailing or delivery.

(B) If the superintendent determines that the corporation has not complied with item (iii) of subparagraph (A) of this paragraph, then the superintendent may prohibit the corporation from discontinuing the class of contracts and require the corporation to promptly notify every contract holder, covered employee and member insured that the corporation is not discontinuing the contracts. If the superintendent determines that the corporation wrongfully discontinued the class of contracts pursuant to item (iii) of subparagraph (A), then the superintendent shall require that the corporation take remedial action, including offering to group contract holders the option of reinstating the discontinued contract forms. If the superintendent determines that the corporation discontinued the class of contracts without compliance with items (i), (ii), or (iv) of subparagraph (A), and an employee, member insured or dependent covered under the discontinued contract would have been entitled to relief under this paragraph, then the superintendent may require that the corporation offer replacement coverage to an affected contract holder consistent with item (ii) of subparagraph (C) of this paragraph.

(C) (i) If, within forty-five days after the corporation mails or delivers the written notice of discontinuance required by item (i) of subparagraph (A) of this paragraph, the superintendent is notified by a contract holder or covered employee or member insured that a covered employee, member insured or dependent has a serious medical condition and that a benefit utilized by the covered employee, member insured or dependent within the previous twelve months related to the serious medical condition may not be covered by the replacement coverage offered to the contract holder as a result of the discontinuance, then the superintendent shall, within twenty days of the notification, ask the corporation to confirm that the covered employee, member insured or dependent utilized a benefit within the previous twelve months to treat the medical condition that the covered employee, member insured or dependent asserts is a serious medical condition, and that the benefit is not covered by the replacement coverage. The superintendent may request such additional information as the superintendent may require. The corporation shall provide all requested information to the superintendent within five days of receipt of the request.

(ii) If, within twenty days of the superintendent's receipt of all additional information requested from the corporation, the superintendent determines that (I) the covered employee, member insured or dependent has a serious medical condition; and (II) the benefit utilized by the covered employee, member insured or dependent within the previous twelve months related to the serious medical condition is not covered by the replacement coverage offered to the contract holder as a result of the discontinuance, then the superintendent shall require the corporation to offer to the contract holder replacement coverage that includes a benefit that is the same as or substantially similar to the benefit set forth in the contract that the corporation discontinued. If the replacement coverage is not available, at the time that the contract would otherwise be discontinued, then the corporation shall keep the existing policy in force for the affected contract holder until the replacement coverage with the substantially similar benefit is available.

(D) The remedies as provided in this paragraph shall be in addition to and not in lieu of any other authority or power of the superintendent to impose monetary or other penalties for violations of this paragraph.

(E) In any case in which a corporation elects to discontinue offering all hospital, surgical and medical expense coverage in the small group market or the large group market, or both markets, in this state, health insurance coverage may be discontinued by the corporation only if:

(i) the corporation provides written notice to the superintendent and to each contract holder (and all employees and member insureds covered under such coverage) of such discontinuance at least one hundred eighty days prior to the date of the discontinuance of such coverage;

(ii) all hospital, surgical and medical expense coverage issued or delivered for issuance in this state in such market or markets is discontinued and coverage under such contracts in such market or markets is not renewed; and

(iii) in addition to the notice to the superintendent referred to in item (i) of this subparagraph, the corporation shall provide the superintendent with a written plan to minimize potential disruption in the marketplace occasioned by the corporation's withdrawal from the market.

(F) In the case of a discontinuance under subparagraph (E) of this paragraph in a market, the corporation may not provide for the issuance of any group or blanket contract of hospital, surgical or medical expense insurance in that market in this state during the five-year period beginning on the date of the discontinuance of the last health insurance contract not so renewed.

(4) At the time of coverage renewal, an insurer may modify the health insurance coverage for a group or blanket contract offered to a large or small group contract holder so long as such modification is consistent with this chapter and effective on a uniform basis among all small group contract holders with that contract.

(5) For purposes of this subsection the term "network plan" shall mean a health insurance contract under which the financing and delivery of health care (including items and services paid for as such care) are provided, in whole or in part, through a defined set of providers under contract either with the corporation or another entity that has contracted with the corporation.

(6) Notwithstanding paragraph three of this subsection, a corporation may discontinue offering a particular class of group or blanket contract of hospital, surgical or medical expense insurance offered in the small or large group market, and instead offer a group or blanket contract of hospital, surgical or medical expense insurance that complies with the requirements of section 2707 of the public health service act, 42 U.S.C. § 300gg-6 that become applicable to such contract as of January first, two thousand fourteen, provided that the corporation:

(A) discontinues the existing class of contract in such market as of either December thirty-first, two thousand thirteen or the contract renewal date occurring in two thousand fourteen in accordance with this chapter;

(B) provides written notice to each contract holder provided coverage of the class in the market (and to all employees and member insureds covered under such coverage) of the discontinuance at least ninety days prior to the date of discontinuance of such coverage. The written notice shall be in a form satisfactory to the superintendent;

(C) offers to each contract holder provided coverage of the class in the market, the option to purchase all (or, in the case of the large group market, any) other hospital, surgical and medical expense coverage that complies with the requirements of section 2707 of the public health service act, 42 U.S.C. § 300gg-6 that become applicable to such coverage as of January first, two thousand fourteen, currently being offered by the corporation to a group in that market;

(D) in exercising the option to discontinue coverage of the class and in offering the option of coverage under subparagraph (C) of this paragraph, acts uniformly without regard to the claims experience of those contract holders or any health status-related factor relating to any particular covered employee, member insured or dependent, or particular new employee, member insured, or dependent who may become eligible for such coverage, and does not discontinue the coverage of the class with the intent or as a pretext to discontinuing the coverage of any such employee, member insured, or dependent; and

(E) at least one hundred twenty days prior to the date of the discontinuance of such coverage, provides written notice to the superintendent of the discontinuance, including certification by an officer or director of the corporation that the reason for the discontinuance is to replace the coverage with new coverage that complies with the requirements of section 2707 of the public health service act, 42 U.S.C. § 300gg-6 that become effective January first, two thousand fourteen. The written notice shall be in such form and contain such information the superintendent requires.

(k)(1) No corporation delivering or issuing for delivery in this state a group or blanket contract which provides hospital, surgical or medical expense coverage shall establish rules for eligibility (including continued eligibility) of any individual or dependent of the individual to enroll under the contract based on any of the following health status-related factors:

(A) Health status.

(B) Medical condition (including both physical and mental illnesses).

(C) Claims experience.

(D) Receipt of health care.

(E) Medical history.

(F) Genetic information.

(G) Evidence of insurability (including conditions arising out of acts of domestic violence).

(H) Disability.

(2) For purposes of paragraph one of this subsection, rules for eligibility include rules defining any applicable waiting periods for such enrollment.

(3) No corporation may, on the basis of any health status-related factor in relation to the subscriber or dependent of the subscriber, require any subscriber (as a condition of enrollment or continued enrollment under the contract) to pay a premium or contribution which is greater than such premium for a similarly situated subscriber enrolled in the plan.

(4) Nothing in this subsection shall require a corporation to issue a group or blanket contract to a group comprised of fifty-one or more lives exclusive of spouses and dependents.

(5) Where an eligible subscriber or dependent of a subscriber rejects initial enrollment in a group or blanket contract that provides hospital, surgical or medical expense insurance, a corporation shall permit a subscriber or dependent of a subscriber to enroll for coverage under the terms of the contract if each of the following conditions are met:

(A) The subscriber or dependent was covered under another plan or contract at the time coverage was initially offered.

(B)(i) Coverage was provided in accordance with continuation required by federal or state law and was exhausted; or

(ii) Coverage under the other plan or contract was subsequently terminated as a result of loss of eligibility for one or more of the following reasons:

(I) termination of employment;

(II) termination of the other plan or contract;

(III) death of the spouse;

(IV) legal separation, divorce or annulment;

(V) reduction in the number of hours of employment; or

(iii) Contract holder contributions toward the payment of premium for the other plan or contract were terminated.

(C) Coverage must be applied for within thirty days of termination for one of the reasons set forth in subparagraph (B) of this paragraph.

(6) With respect to group or blanket contracts delivered or issued for delivery in this state covering between two and fifty employees or members, the provisions of this subsection shall in no way diminish the rights of such groups pursuant to section four thousand three hundred seventeen of this article.

(7) For purposes of this subsection, the term "dependent" shall include a child as described in subsection (c) of this section.

(l)(1) As used in this subsection, "child" means an unmarried child through age twenty-nine of an employee or member insured under a group contract of hospital, medical or surgical expense insurance, regardless of financial dependence, who is not insured by or eligible for coverage under any employer health benefit plan as an employee or member, whether insured or self-insured, and who lives, works or resides in New York state or the service area of the corporation and who is not covered under title XVIII of the United States Social Security Act (Medicare).

(2) In addition to the conversion privilege afforded by subsection (d) of this section and the continuation privilege afforded by subsection (e) of this section, a hospital service, health service or medical expense corporation or health maintenance organization that provides group hospital, medical or surgical coverage under which coverage of a child terminates at a specified age shall, upon application of the employee, member or child, as set forth in subparagraph (B) of this paragraph, provide coverage to the child after that specified age and through age twenty-nine without evidence of insurability, subject to all of the terms and conditions of the group contract and the following:

(A) An employer shall not be required to pay all or part of the cost of coverage for a child provided pursuant to this subsection;

(B) An employee, member or child who wishes to elect continuation of coverage pursuant to this subsection shall request the continuation in writing:

(i) within sixty days following the date coverage would otherwise terminate due to reaching the specified age set forth in the group contract;

(ii) within sixty days after meeting the requirements for child status set forth in paragraph one of this subsection when coverage for the child previously terminated; or

(iii) during an annual thirty-day open enrollment period, as described in the contract;

(C) An employee, member or child electing continuation as described in this subsection shall pay to the group contractholder or employer, but not more frequently than on a monthly basis in advance, the amount of the required premium payment on the due date of each payment. The written election of continuation, together with the first premium payment required to establish premium payment on a monthly basis in advance, shall be given to the group contractholder or employer within the time periods set forth in subparagraph (B) of this paragraph. Any premium received within the thirty-day period after the due date shall be considered timely;

(D) For any child electing coverage within sixty days of the date the child would otherwise lose coverage due to reaching a specified age, the effective date of the continuation coverage shall be the date coverage would have otherwise terminated. For any child electing to resume coverage during an annual open enrollment period, the effective date of the continuation coverage shall be prospective no later than thirty days after the election and payment of first premium;

(E) Coverage for a child pursuant to this subsection shall consist of coverage that is identical to the coverage provided to the employee or member parent. If coverage is modified under the contract for any group of similarly situated employees or members, then the coverage shall also be modified in the same manner for any child;

(F) Coverage shall terminate on the first to occur of the following:

(i) the date the child no longer meets the requirements of paragraph one of this subsection;

(ii) the end of the period for which premium payments were made, if there is a failure to make payment of a required premium payment within the period of grace described in subparagraph (C) of this paragraph; or

(iii) the date on which the group contract is terminated and not replaced by coverage under another group contract; and

(G) The corporation or health maintenance organization shall provide written notification of the continuation privilege described in this subsection and the time period in which to request continuation to the employee or member:

(i) in each certificate of coverage; and

(ii) at least sixty days prior to termination at the specified age as provided in the contract.

(3)(A) Corporations and health maintenance organizations shall submit such reports as may be requested by the superintendent to evaluate the effectiveness of coverage pursuant to this subsection including, but not limited to, quarterly enrollment reports.

(B) The superintendent may promulgate regulations to ensure the orderly implementation and operation of the continuation coverage provided pursuant to this subsection, including premium rate adjustments.

(m) A health care claim from a subscriber covered under a contract issued pursuant to this section shall be submitted within one hundred twenty days from the date of service; provided, however, that if it was not reasonably possible for the subscriber to submit the claim within that timeframe, then the claim shall be submitted as soon as reasonably possible.

(n) (1) Any corporation subject to the provisions of this article that issues hospital, surgical or medical expense contracts in the small group or large group market in this state shall offer to any employer in this state all such contracts in the applicable market, and shall accept at all times throughout the year any employer that applies for any of those contracts.

(2) The requirements of paragraph one of this subsection shall apply with respect to an employer that applies for coverage either directly from the corporation or through an association or trust to which the corporation has issued coverage and in which the employer participates.

§ 4306. Required contract provisions. Every contract issued by any corporation pursuant to the provisions of section four thousand three hundred four of this article, shall be in writing and shall state the terms and conditions thereof. No such contract shall be made, issued or delivered in this state unless it contains the following provisions:

(a) a statement of the amount payable to the corporation by the individual to whom the contract is issued and the times at which and manner in which such amount is to be paid;

(b) a statement of the nature of the benefits to be furnished and the period during which they will be furnished; and if there are any benefits to be excepted, a detailed statement of such exceptions printed as hereinafter specified;

(c) a statement of the terms and conditions, if any, upon which the contract may be terminated at the option of the individual, or otherwise terminated at the option of either party as permitted by subsection (b) or (c) of section four thousand three hundred four of this article;

(d) a statement that the contract includes the endorsements thereon and attached papers, if any;

(e) a statement that no statement by the individual in his application for a contract shall avoid the contract or be used in any legal proceeding thereunder, unless such application or an exact copy thereof is included in or attached to such contract, and that no agent or representative of such corporation and no broker, other than an officer or officers designated therein, is authorized to change the contract or waive any of its provisions;

(f) a statement that if the individual defaults in making any payment under the contract, the subsequent acceptance of a payment by the corporation or by one of its duly authorized agents or by a duly authorized broker shall reinstate the contract, but with respect to sickness and injury, only to cover such sickness as may be first manifested more than ten days after the date of such acceptance;

(g) a statement of the period of grace which will be allowed the individual for making any payment due under the contract which period shall not be less than ten days;

(h) a statement on the first page of the contract or in a notice attached to the contract that during a specified period of time, which shall not be less than ten days nor more than twenty days from the date the contract is delivered to the individual, it may be surrendered to the corporation together with a written request for cancellation of the contract and that in such event the corporation will refund any premium paid therefor including any contract fees or other charges; provided, however, that a contract sold by mail order and a contract providing medicare supplemental insurance or long-term care insurance must contain a provision permitting the individual a thirty day period for such surrender;

(i) the age limit or date or period, if any, after which the coverage provided by the contract will not be effective, or renewed, is stated in a renewal provision set forth on the first page of the contract or as a separate provision bearing an appropriate caption on the first page on the contract or in a brief description in not less than fourteen point bold face type set forth on the first page of the contract; nothing herein contained shall limit or restrict the right of the corporation to continue the contract after the age or period so stated;

(j) a statement under the caption "CONVERSION PRIVILEGE" which shall set forth in substance the conversion privileges and related provisions required by subsections (d) and (e) of section four thousand three hundred four of this article;

(k) the exceptions of the contract shall appear with the same prominence as the benefits to which they apply;

(l) if the contract contains any provision purporting to make any portion of the articles, constitution or by-laws of the corporation a part of the contract, such portion shall be set forth in full; and

(m) in every such contract made, issued or delivered in this state there shall be a brief description of the contract on its first page and on its filing back.

(n) a statement that a health care claim from a subscriber shall be submitted within one hundred twenty days from the date of service; provided, however, that if it was not reasonably possible for the subscriber to submit the claim within that timeframe, then the claim shall be submitted as soon as reasonably possible.

(o) Every contract delivered or issued for delivery in this state which provides major medical or similar comprehensive-type coverage shall provide space on any enrollment, renewal or initial online portal process setup forms required of a subscriber or applicant for coverage, except forms issued by the NY State of Health, the official Health Plan Marketplace, other than those specifically referenced in subparagraph (iv) of paragraph (a) of subdivision five of section forty-three hundred ten and paragraph (v) of subdivision one of section two hundred six of the public health law, so that the subscriber or applicant for coverage shall register or decline registration in the donate life registry for organ, eye and tissue donations under this section of the enrollment, renewal or initial online portal process setup forms and that the following is stated on the form in clear and conspicuous type:

"You must fill out the following section: Would you like to be added to the Donate Life Registry? Check box for 'yes' or 'skip this question'."

§ 4306-a. Health insurance coverage for full-time students on medical leaves of absence. (a) Every contract issued by a medical expense indemnity corporation, hospital service corporation or health service corporation that provides coverage for dependent children who are full-time students to a higher age than other dependent children shall continue the coverage of a dependent student who takes a leave of absence from school due to illness for a period of twelve months from the last day of attendance at school, provided, however, that nothing in this section shall require coverage of a dependent student beyond the age at which coverage would otherwise terminate.

(b) In order to qualify under this section, the medical necessity of a leave of absence from school must be certified to by the student's attending physician who is licensed to practice in the state of New York. Written documentation of the illness must be submitted to the medical expense indemnity corporation, hospital service corporation or health service corporation.

(c) The rate charged for such extended coverage shall be the same as that charged while the dependent is enrolled as a full-time student.

§ 4306-b. Primary and preventive obstetric and gynecologic care. (a) No corporation subject to the provisions of this article shall by contract, written policy or procedure limit a female subscriber's direct access to primary and preventive obstetric and gynecologic services, including annual examinations, care resulting from such annual examinations, and treatment of acute gynecologic conditions, from a qualified provider of such services of her choice from within the plan or for any care related to a pregnancy, provided that: (1) such qualified provider discusses such services and treatment plan with the subscriber's primary care practitioner in accordance with the requirements of the corporation; and (2) such qualified provider agrees to adhere to the corporation's policies and procedures, including any applicable procedures regarding referrals and obtaining prior authorization for services other than obstetric and gynecologic services rendered by such qualified provider, and agrees to provide services pursuant to a treatment plan (if any) approved by the corporation.

(b) A corporation shall treat the provision of obstetric and gynecologic care, and the ordering of related obstetric and gynecologic items and services, pursuant to the direct access described in subsection (a) of this section by a participating qualified provider of such services, as the authorization of the primary care provider.

(c) It shall be the duty of the administrative officer or other person in charge of each corporation subject to the provisions of this article to advise each female subscriber, in writing, of the provisions of this section.

§ 4306-c. Grievance procedure and access to specialty care. (a) A corporation, including a municipal cooperative health benefits plan certified pursuant to article forty-seven of this chapter, that issues a comprehensive contract that utilizes a network of providers and is not a managed care health insurance contract as defined in subsection (c) of section four thousand eight hundred one of this chapter shall establish and maintain a grievance procedure consistent with the requirements of section four thousand eight hundred two of this chapter.

(b) A corporation, including a municipal cooperative health benefits plan certified pursuant to article forty-seven of this chapter, that issues a comprehensive contract that utilizes a network of providers and is not a managed care health insurance contract as defined in subsection (c) of section four thousand eight hundred one of this chapter and requires that specialty care be provided pursuant to a referral from a primary care provider shall provide access to such specialty care consistent with the requirements of subsections (b), (c) and (d) of section four thousand eight hundred four of this chapter; provided however, that nothing in this section shall be construed to require that a corporation, or a primary care provider on behalf of the corporation, make a referral to a provider that is not in the corporation's network.

(c) A corporation, including a municipal cooperative health benefits plan certified pursuant to article forty-seven of this chapter, that issues a comprehensive contract that utilizes a network of providers and is not a managed care health insurance contract as defined in subsection (c) of section four thousand eight hundred one of this chapter shall provide access to transitional care consistent with the requirements of subsections (e) and (f) of section four thousand eight hundred four of this chapter.

(d) A corporation, including a municipal cooperative health benefit plan certified pursuant to article forty-seven of this chapter and a student health plan established or maintained pursuant to section one thousand one hundred twenty-four of this chapter, that issues a comprehensive policy that utilizes a network of providers and is not a managed care health insurance contract as defined in subsection (c) of section four thousand eight hundred one of this chapter, shall provide access to out-of-network services consistent with the requirements of subsection (a) of section four thousand eight hundred four of this chapter, subsections (g-6) and (g-7) of section four thousand nine hundred of this chapter, subsections (a-1) and (a-2) of section four thousand nine hundred four of this chapter, paragraphs three and four of subsection (b) of section four thousand nine hundred ten of this chapter, and subparagraphs (C) and (D) of paragraph four of subsection (b) of section four thousand nine hundred fourteen of this chapter.

(e) A corporation, including a municipal cooperative health benefit plan certified pursuant to article forty-seven of this chapter and a student health plan established or maintained pursuant to section one thousand one hundred twenty-four of this chapter as added by chapter 246 of the laws of 2012, that issues a comprehensive policy that uses a network of providers and is not a managed care health insurance contract, as defined in subsection (c) of section four thousand eight hundred one of this chapter, shall establish and maintain procedures for health care professional applications and terminations consistent with the requirements of section four thousand eight hundred three of this chapter and procedures for health care facility applications consistent with section four thousand eight hundred six of this chapter.

§ 4306-d. Choice of health care provider. A corporation that is subject to the provisions of this article and requires or provides for designation by a subscriber of a participating primary care provider shall permit the subscriber to designate any participating primary care provider who is available to accept such individual, and in the case of a child, shall permit the subscriber to designate a physician (allopathic or osteopathic) who specializes in pediatrics as the child's primary care provider if such provider participates in the network of the corporation.

§ 4306-e. Prohibition on lifetime and annual limits. (a) A corporation shall not establish a lifetime limit on the dollar amount of essential health benefits in an individual, group or blanket contract of hospital, medical, surgical or prescription drug expense insurance.

(b) A corporation shall not establish an annual limit on the dollar amount of essential health benefits in an individual, group or blanket contract of hospital, medical, surgical or prescription drug expense insurance for contract years beginning on and after January one, two thousand fourteen.

(c) For contract years beginning prior to January one, two thousand fourteen, a corporation may establish restricted annual limits on the dollar amount of essential health benefits in an individual, group or blanket contract of hospital, medical, surgical or prescription drug expense insurance consistent with section 2711 of the Public Health Service Act, 42 U.S.C. § 300gg-11 or any regulations thereunder.

(d) The requirements of subsections (b) and (c) of this section shall not be applicable to any individual contract that is a grandfathered health plan. For purposes of this section, "grandfathered health plan" means coverage provided by a corporation in which an individual was enrolled on March twenty-third, two thousand ten for as long as the coverage maintains grandfathered status in accordance with section 1251(e) of the Affordable Care Act, 42 U.S.C. § 18011(e).

(e) For purposes of this section, "essential health benefits" shall have the meaning ascribed by section 1302(b) of the Affordable Care Act, 42 U.S.C. § 18022(b).

§ 4306-f. Maternal depression screenings. To the extent a contract provides coverage for maternal depression screening, no corporation subject to this article shall by contract, written policy or procedure limit a patient insured's direct access to screening and referral for maternal depression, as defined in subdivision one of section twenty-five hundred-k of the public health law, from a provider of obstetrical, gynecologic, or pediatric services of her choice; provided that the patient insured's access to such services, coverage and choice of provider is otherwise subject to the terms and conditions of the contract under which the patient insured is covered.

§ 4306-g. Telehealth delivery of services. * (a) (1) A corporation shall not exclude from coverage a service that is otherwise covered under a contract that provides comprehensive coverage for hospital, medical or surgical care because the service is delivered via telehealth, as that term is defined in subsection (b) of this section; provided, however, that a corporation may exclude from coverage a service by a health care provider where the provider is not otherwise covered under the contract. A corporation may subject the coverage of a service delivered via telehealth to co-payments, coinsurance or deductibles provided that they are at least as favorable to the insured as those established for the same service when not delivered via telehealth. A corporation may subject the coverage of a service delivered via telehealth to reasonable utilization management and quality assurance requirements that are consistent with those established for the same service when not delivered via telehealth.

(2) A corporation that provides comprehensive coverage for hospital, medical or surgical care shall reimburse covered services delivered by means of telehealth on the same basis, at the same rate, and to the same extent that such services are reimbursed when delivered in person; provided that reimbursement of covered services delivered via telehealth shall not require reimbursement of costs not actually incurred in the provision of the telehealth services, including charges related to the use of a clinic or other facility when neither the originating site nor the distant site occur within the clinic or other facility. The superintendent may promulgate regulations to implement the provisions of this section.

(3) A corporation that provides comprehensive coverage for hospital, medical, or surgical care with a network of health care providers shall ensure that such network is adequate to meet the telehealth needs of insured individuals for services covered under the policy when medically appropriate.

* NB Effective until April 1, 2028

* (a) A corporation shall not exclude from coverage a service that is otherwise covered under a contract that provides comprehensive coverage for hospital, medical or surgical care because the service is delivered via telehealth, as that term is defined in subsection (b) of this section; provided, however, that a corporation may exclude from coverage a service by a health care provider where the provider is not otherwise covered under the contract. A corporation may subject the coverage of a service delivered via telehealth to co-payments, coinsurance or deductibles provided that they are at least as favorable to the insured as those established for the same service when not delivered via telehealth. A corporation may subject the coverage of a service delivered via telehealth to reasonable utilization management and quality assurance requirements that are consistent with those established for the same service when not delivered via telehealth.

* NB Effective April 1, 2028

(b) For purposes of this section, "telehealth" means the use of electronic information and communication technologies by a health care provider to deliver health care services to an insured individual while such individual is located at a site that is different from the site where the health care provider is located.

§ 4306-h. Essential health benefits package and limit on cost-sharing. (a) (1) For purposes of this article, "essential health benefits" shall mean the following categories of benefits:

(A) ambulatory patient services;

(B) emergency services;

(C) hospitalization;

(D) maternity and newborn care;

* (E) mental health and substance use disorder services, including behavioral health treatment;

* NB Effective until January 1, 2027

* (E) mental health and substance-related and addictive disorder services, including behavioral health treatment;

* NB Effective January 1, 2027

(F) prescription drugs;

(G) rehabilitative and habilitative services and devices;

(H) laboratory services;

(I) preventive and wellness services and chronic disease management; and

(J) pediatric services, including oral and vision care.

(2) A corporation shall not be required to provide coverage for pediatric oral services as an essential health benefit if:

(A) for coverage offered through the exchange established by this state, the exchange has determined sufficient coverage of the pediatric oral benefit is available through stand-alone dental plans certified by the exchange; or

(B) for coverage offered outside the exchange, the corporation obtains reasonable written assurance that the individual or group has obtained a stand-alone dental plan that has been approved by the superintendent as meeting exchange certification standards.

(b) (1) Every individual and small group contract that provides hospital, surgical, or medical expense coverage and is not a grandfathered health plan shall provide coverage that meets the actuarial requirements of one of the following levels of coverage:

(A) Bronze Level. A plan in the bronze level shall provide a level of coverage that is designed to provide benefits that are actuarially equivalent to sixty percent of the full actuarial value of the benefits provided under the plan;

(B) Silver Level. A plan in the silver level shall provide a level of coverage that is designed to provide benefits that are actuarially equivalent to seventy percent of the full actuarial value of the benefits provided under the plan;

(C) Gold Level. A plan in the gold level shall provide a level of coverage that is designed to provide benefits that are actuarially equivalent to eighty percent of the full actuarial value of the benefits provided under the plan; or

(D) Platinum Level. A plan in the platinum level shall provide a level of coverage that is designed to provide benefits that are actuarially equivalent to ninety percent of the full actuarial value of the benefits provided under the plan.

(2) The superintendent may provide for a variation in the actuarial values used in determining the level of coverage of a plan to account for the differences in actuarial estimates.

(3) Every student accident and health insurance contract shall provide coverage that meets at least sixty percent of the full actuarial value of the benefits provided under the contract. The contract's schedule of benefits shall include the level as described in paragraph one of this subsection nearest to, but below the actual actuarial value.

(c) Every individual or group contract that provides hospital, surgical, or medical expense coverage and is not a grandfathered health plan, and every student accident and health insurance contract shall limit the insured's cost-sharing for in-network services in a contract year to not more than the maximum out-of-pocket amount determined by the superintendent for all contracts subject to this section. Such amount shall not exceed any annual out-of-pocket limit on cost-sharing set by the United States secretary of health and human services, if available.

(d) The superintendent may require the use of model language describing the coverage requirements for any form that is subject to the approval of the superintendent pursuant to section four thousand three hundred eight of this article.

(e) For purposes of this section:

(1) "actuarial value" means the percentage of the total expected payments by the corporation for benefits provided to a standard population, without regard to the population to whom the corporation actually provides benefits;

(2) "cost-sharing" means annual deductibles, coinsurance, copayments, or similar charges, for covered services;

(3) "essential health benefits package" means coverage that:

(A) provides for essential health benefits;

(B) limits cost-sharing for such coverage in accordance with subsection (c) of this section; and

(C) provides one of the levels of coverage described in subsection (b) of this section;

(4) "grandfathered health plan" means coverage provided by a corporation in which an individual was enrolled on March twenty-third, two thousand ten for as long as the coverage maintains grandfathered status in accordance with section 1251(e) of the Affordable Care Act, 42 U.S.C. § 18011(e);

(5) "small group" means a group of one hundred or fewer employees or members exclusive of spouses and dependents; and

(6) "student accident and health insurance" shall have the meaning set forth in subsection (a) of section three thousand two hundred forty of this chapter.

§ 4306-i. Coverage for medically fragile children. A corporation that is subject to the provisions of this article shall have procedures for coverage of medically fragile children consistent with section three thousand two hundred seventeen-j of this chapter.

§ 4307. Providers of services. (a) Any hospital service corporation or health service corporation may provide benefits for the rendering of hospital service to persons covered under its contracts (i) by hospitals maintained by the state or any of its political subdivisions, or maintained by a corporation organized for hospital purposes under the not-for-profit corporation law, (ii) by such other hospitals, convalescent institutions and nursing homes as shall have been approved by the commissioner of health for such purpose, (iii) with such private or public instrumentalities providing home nursing services as shall have been approved by the commissioner of health for such purpose, and/or (iv) subject to the approval of the superintendent, with similar corporations of other states and hospitals of other states subject to the supervision of such other states.

* (d) In the event a health maintenance organization which is either licensed as a health service corporation under this article or is operating pursuant to a certificate of authority granted in accordance with the provisions of article forty-four of the public health law, or any other health service corporation is deemed insolvent, as provided in subsection (c) of section four thousand three hundred ten of this article, then no individual subscriber or enrollee of, or served by, the health maintenance organization or health service corporation shall be liable to any provider of health care services for any covered services of the insolvent health maintenance organization or health service corporation. No provider of health care services or any representative of such provider shall collect or attempt to collect from the individual subscriber or enrollee sums owed by a health maintenance organization or health service corporation deemed insolvent, and no provider or representative of such provider may maintain any action at law against an individual subscriber or enrollee to collect sums owed to such provider by such health maintenance organization or health service corporation.

* NB Amended by § 112-a and Repealed by § 143 of 639/96

* § 4307. Providers of services. (a) Any hospital service corporation or health service corporation may provide benefits for the rendering of hospital service to persons covered under its contracts (i) by hospitals maintained by the state or any of its political subdivisions, or maintained by a corporation organized for hospital purposes under the not-for-profit corporation law, (ii) by such other hospitals, convalescent institutions and nursing homes as shall have been approved by the commissioner of health for such purpose, (iii) with such private or public instrumentalities providing home nursing services as shall have been approved by the commissioner of health for such purpose, and/or (iv) subject to the approval of the superintendent, with similar corporations of other states and hospitals of other states subject to the supervision of such other states.

(b) All rates of payments to hospitals, nursing homes, convalescent institutions and instrumentalities providing home nursing services made by such corporation pursuant to the contracts provided for in subsection (a) hereof shall prior to payment, (i) in the case of institutions subject to article twenty-eight of the public health law, be certified by the commissioner of health pursuant to the provisions of such article twenty-eight of the public health law and approved by the superintendent, and, (ii) in the case of other institutions, approved as to reasonableness by the superintendent.

(c) Notwithstanding subsections (a) and (b) of this section, approval by the superintendent shall not be required for rates of payment by article forty-three corporations for in-patient hospital services provided after December thirty-first, nineteen hundred eighty-three by general hospitals subject to article twenty-eight of the public health law.

(d) After approval by the superintendent each corporation organized under this article shall notify each hospital and health related service of its approved rates of payment for out-patient services, in instances where such rates are determined on the basis of a cost based formula, at least thirty days prior to the beginning of each rate year.

* NB Expired January 1, 1986. Remains effective prior to such date. See ch 906/85 § 3

§ 4308. Supervision of superintendent. (a) No corporation subject to the provisions of this article shall enter into any contract unless and until it shall have filed with the superintendent a copy of the contract or certificate and of all applications, riders and endorsements for use in connection with the issuance or renewal thereof, to be formally approved by him as conforming to the applicable provisions of this article and not inconsistent with any other provision of law applicable thereto. The superintendent shall, within a reasonable time after the filing of any such form, notify the corporation filing the same either of his approval or of his disapproval of such form.

(b) No corporation subject to the provisions of this article shall enter into any contract unless and until it shall have filed with the superintendent a schedule of the premiums or, if appropriate, rating formula from which premiums are determined, to be paid under the contracts and shall have obtained the superintendent's approval thereof. The superintendent may refuse such approval if he finds that such premiums, or the premiums derived from the rating formula, are excessive, inadequate or unfairly discriminatory, provided, however, the superintendent may also consider the financial condition of such corporation in approving or disapproving any premium or rating formula. Any adjustments to an approved schedule of premiums or to the approved rating formula for non-community rated contracts shall also be subject to the approval of the superintendent provided, however, such adjustments shall not be subject to the requirements of subsection (c) of this section. Any premium or formula approved by the superintendent shall make provision for such increase as may be necessary to meet the requirements of a plan approved by the superintendent in the manner prescribed in section four thousand three hundred ten of this article for restoration of the statutory reserve fund required by such section.

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the superintendent, as part of the rate increase approval process, may defer, reduce or reject a rate increase if, in the judgment of the superintendent, the salary increases for senior level management executives employed at corporations subject to the provisions of this article are excessive or unwarranted given the financial condition or overall performance of such corporation. The superintendent is authorized to promulgate rules and regulations which the superintendent deems necessary to carry out such deferral, reduction or rejection.

(c) (1) An increase or decrease in premiums with respect to community rated contracts shall not be approved by the superintendent unless it is in compliance with the provisions of this subsection as well as other applicable provisions of law.

(2) A corporation desiring to increase or decrease premiums for any contract subject to this subsection shall submit a rate filing or application to the superintendent. A corporation shall send written notice of the proposed rate adjustment, including the specific change requested, to each contract holder and subscriber affected by the adjustment on or before the date the rate filing or application is submitted to the superintendent. The notice shall prominently include mailing and website addresses for both the department of financial services and the corporation through which a person may, within thirty days from the date the rate filing or application is submitted to the superintendent, contact the department of financial services or corporation to receive additional information or to submit written comments to the department of financial services on the rate filing or application. The superintendent shall establish a process to post on the department's website, in a timely manner, all relevant written comments received pertaining to rate filings or applications. The corporation shall provide a copy of the notice to the superintendent with the rate filing or application. The superintendent shall immediately cause the notice to be posted on the department of financial services' website. The superintendent shall determine whether the filing or application shall become effective as filed, shall become effective as modified, or shall be disapproved. The superintendent may modify or disapprove the rate filing or application if the superintendent finds that the premiums are unreasonable, excessive, inadequate, or unfairly discriminatory, and may consider the financial condition of the corporation in approving, modifying or disapproving any premium adjustment. The determination of the superintendent shall be supported by sound actuarial assumptions and methods, and shall be rendered in writing between thirty and sixty days from the date the rate filing or application is submitted to the superintendent. Should the superintendent require additional information from the corporation in order to make a determination, the superintendent shall require the corporation to furnish such information, and in such event, the sixty days shall be tolled and shall resume as of the date the corporation furnishes the information to the superintendent. If the superintendent requests additional information less than ten days from the expiration of the sixty days (exclusive of tolling), the superintendent may extend the sixty day period an additional twenty days, to make a determination. The application or rate filing will be deemed approved if a determination is not rendered within the time allotted under this section. A corporation shall not implement a rate adjustment unless the corporation provides at least sixty days advance written notice of the premium rate adjustment approved by the superintendent to each contract holder and subscriber affected by the rate adjustment.

(3) (A) The expected minimum loss ratio for a contract form subject to this subsection for which a rate filing or application is made pursuant to this paragraph, other than a medicare supplemental insurance contract, or, with the approval of the superintendent, an aggregation of contract forms that are combined into one community rating experience pool and rated consistent with community rating requirements, shall not be less than eighty-two percent. In reviewing a rate filing or application, the superintendent may modify the eighty-two percent expected minimum loss ratio requirement if the superintendent determines the modification to be in the interests of the people of this state or if the superintendent determines that a modification is necessary to maintain insurer solvency. No later than July thirty-first of each year, every corporation subject to this subparagraph shall annually report the actual loss ratio for the previous calendar year in a format acceptable to the superintendent. If an expected loss ratio is not met, the superintendent may direct the corporation to take corrective action, which may include the submission of a rate filing to reduce future premiums, or to issue dividends, premium refunds or credits, or any combination of these.

(B) The expected minimum loss ratio for a medicare supplemental insurance contract form shall not be less than eighty percent. No later than May first of each year, every corporation subject to this subparagraph shall annually report the actual loss ratio for each contract form subject to this section for the previous calendar year in a format acceptable to the superintendent. In each case where the loss ratio for the contract form fails to comply with the eighty percent loss ratio requirement, the corporation shall submit a corrective action plan to the superintendent for assuring compliance with the applicable minimum loss ratio standard. The corrective action plan shall be submitted to the superintendent within sixty days of the corporation's submission of the annual report required by this subparagraph. The corporation's plan may utilize premium refunds or credits, subject to the approval of the superintendent.

(4) In case of conflict between this subsection and any other provision of law, this subsection shall prevail.

(d) The superintendent shall order an independent management and financial audit of corporations subject to the provisions of this article with a combined premium volume exceeding two billion dollars annually in order to develop a detailed understanding of such corporation's financial status and to determine the viability of such corporation's products. Such audit shall be performed by an organization upon submission of a program plan in response to a request for proposal approved by the superintendent in consultation with the commissioner of health and the state comptroller. Such audit shall not be performed by any organization that has in any way performed or furnished services of any kind to the corporation within the past five years, unless it is adequately demonstrated that such services would not compromise that organization's performance and objectivity. The audit shall be completed and a report submitted by May first, nineteen hundred ninety-three to the superintendent, the commissioner of health, and the chairs of the senate and assembly committees on health and insurance. The scope of the audit shall include, but not be limited to, financial and competitive position, corporate structure and governance, organization and management, strategic direction, rate adequacy, and the regulatory and competitive environment in the state of New York. Specifically, the audit shall include, but not be limited to:

(i) determining the corporation's financial and market position, including its reserves, trends in membership, market share, and profitability by market segment;

(ii) evaluating the corporation's product offerings with respect to market requirements and trends, the corporation's responses to the New York health care market, and its management of medical claims costs;

(iii) assessing the effectiveness of the organizational and management structure and performance, including, but not limited to, possible improvement in the size, structure, composition and operation of the board of directors, productivity improvement, information systems, management development, personnel practices, mix and level of skills, personnel turnover, investment practices and rate of return upon investment activities;

(iv) analyzing the corporation's strategic directions, its adequacy to meet competitive, market, and existing regulatory trends, including an evaluation of the use of brokers in marketing products, and the impact of those strategies on the corporation's future financial performance and on the health care system of New York;

(v) evaluating the adequacy of rates for existing products, particularly (but not limited to) small group, medicare supplemental, and direct payment to identify areas that may need immediate remedial attention;

(vi) identifying any changes to the regulatory and legislative environment that may need to be made to ensure that the corporation can continue to be financially viable and competitive;

(vii) identifying and assessing specific transactions such as the procurement of reinsurance, sale of real property and the sale of future investment income to improve the financial condition of the corporation; and

(viii) evaluating and identifying possible improvements in the corporation's managed care strategies, operations and claims handling.

(e) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the superintendent shall have the power to require independent management and financial audits of corporations subject to the provisions of this article whenever in the judgment of the superintendent, losses sustained by a corporation jeopardize its ability to provide meaningful coverage at affordable rates or when such audit would be necessary to protect the interests of subscribers. The audit shall include, but not be limited to, an investigation of the corporation's provision of benefits to senior citizens, individual and family, and small group and small business subscribers in relation to the needs of those subscribers. The audit shall also include an evaluation of the efficiency of the corporation's management, particularly with respect to lines of business that are experiencing losses. In every case in which the superintendent chooses to require an audit provided for in this subsection, the superintendent shall have the authority to select the auditor. Any costs incurred as a result of the operation of this subsection shall be assessed on all domestic insurers in the same manner as provided for in section two hundred six of the financial services law.

(f) The results of any audit conducted pursuant to subsections (d) and (e) of this section shall be provided to the corporation and each member of its board of directors. The superintendent shall have the authority to direct the corporation in writing to implement any recommendations resulting from the audit that the superintendent finds to be necessary and reasonable; provided, however, that the superintendent shall first consider any written response submitted by the corporation or the board of directors prior to making such finding. Upon any application for a rate adjustment by the corporation, the superintendent shall review the corporation's compliance with the directions and recommendations made previously by the superintendent, as a result of the most recently completed management or financial audit and shall include such findings in any written decision concerning such application.

(g)(1) Until September thirtieth, two thousand ten, as an alternate procedure to the requirements of subsection (c) of this section, a corporation subject to the provisions of this article desiring to increase or decrease premiums for any contract subject to this section may instead submit a rate filing or application to the superintendent and such application or filing shall be deemed approved, provided that (A) the anticipated incurred loss ratio for a contract form shall not be less than eighty-two percent for individual direct payment contracts or eighty-two percent for small group and small group remittance contracts, nor, except in the case of individual direct payment contracts with a loss ratio of greater than one hundred five percent during nineteen hundred ninety-four, shall the loss ratio for any direct payment, group or group remittance contract be more than one hundred five percent of the anticipated earned premium, and (B) the corporation submits, as part of such filing, a certification by a member of the American Academy of Actuaries or other individual acceptable to the superintendent that that corporation is in compliance with the provisions of this subsection, based upon that person's examination, including a review of the appropriate records and of the actuarial assumptions and methods used by the corporation in establishing premium rates for contracts subject to this section. A corporation shall not utilize the alternate procedure pursuant to this subsection to implement a change in rates to be effective on or after October first, two thousand ten. For purposes of this section, a small group is any group whose contract is subject to the requirements of section forty-three hundred seventeen of this article.

(2) Prior to January first, two thousand, no rate increase or decrease may be deemed approved under this subsection if that increase or decrease, together with any other rate increases or decreases imposed on the same contract form, would cause the aggregate rate increase or decrease for that contract form to exceed ten percent during any continuous twelve month period. No rate increase may be imposed pursuant to this subsection unless at least thirty days advance written notice of such increase has been provided to each contract holder and subscriber.

(h)(1) Each calendar year, a corporation subject to the provisions of this article shall return, in the form of aggregate benefits incurred for each contract form filed pursuant to the alternate procedure set forth in subsection (g) of this section, at least eighty-two percent for individual direct payment contracts or eighty-two percent for small group and small group remittance contracts, but, except in the case of individual direct payment contracts with a loss ratio of greater than one hundred five percent in nineteen hundred ninety-four, for any direct payment, group or group remittance contract, not in excess of one hundred five percent of the aggregate premiums earned for the contract form during that calendar year. Corporations subject to the provisions of this article shall annually report, no later than June thirtieth of each year, the loss ratio calculated pursuant to this subsection for each such contract form for the previous calendar year.

(2) In each case where the loss ratio for a contract form fails to comply with the eighty-two percent minimum loss ratio requirement for individual direct payment contracts, or the eighty-two percent minimum loss ratio requirement for small group and small group remittance contracts, as set forth in paragraph one of this subsection, the corporation shall issue a dividend or credit against future premiums for all contract holders with that contract form in an amount sufficient to assure that the aggregate benefits incurred in the previous calendar year plus the amount of the dividends and credits shall equal no less than eighty-two percent for individual direct payment contracts, or eighty-two percent for small group and small group remittance contracts, of the aggregate premiums earned for the contract form in the previous calendar year. The dividend or credit shall be issued to each contract holder or subscriber who had a contract that was in effect at any time during the applicable year. The dividend or credit shall be prorated based on the direct premiums earned for the applicable year among all contract holders or subscribers eligible to receive such dividend or credit. A corporation shall make a reasonable effort to identify the current address of, and issue dividends or credits to, former contract holders or subscribers entitled to the dividend or credit. A corporation shall, with respect to dividends or credits to which former contract holders that the corporation is unable to identify after a reasonable effort would otherwise be entitled, have the option, as deemed acceptable by the superintendent, of prospectively adjusting premium rates by the amount of such dividends or credits, issuing the amount of such dividends or credits to existing contract holders, depositing the amount of such dividends or credits in the fund established pursuant to section four thousand three hundred twenty-two-a of this article, or utilizing any other method which offsets the amount of such dividends or credits. All dividends and credits must be distributed by September thirtieth of the year following the calendar year in which the loss ratio requirements were not satisfied. The annual report required by paragraph one of this subsection shall include a corporation's calculation of the dividends and credits, as well as an explanation of the corporation's plan to issue dividends or credits. The instructions and format for calculating and reporting loss ratios and issuing dividends or credits shall be specified by the superintendent by regulation. Such regulations shall include provisions for the distribution of a dividend or credit in the event of cancellation or termination by a contract holder or subscriber.

(3) In each case where the loss ratio for a contract form fails to comply with the one hundred five percent maximum loss ratio requirement of paragraph one of this subsection, the corporation shall institute a premium rate increase in an amount sufficient to assure that the aggregate benefits incurred in the previous calendar year shall equal no more than one hundred five percent of the sum of the aggregate premiums earned for the contract form in the previous calendar year and the aggregate premium rate increase. The rate increase shall be applied to each contract that was in effect as of December thirty-first of the applicable year and remains in effect as of the date the rate increase is imposed. All rate increases must be imposed by September thirtieth of the year following the calendar year in which the loss ratio requirements were not satisfied. The annual report required by paragraph one of this subsection shall include a corporation's calculation of the premium rate increase, as well as an explanation of the corporation's plan to implement the rate increase. The instructions and format for calculating and reporting loss ratios and implementing rate increases shall be specified by the superintendent by regulation.

(i) The alternate procedure described in subsections (g) and (h) of this section shall apply to individual direct payment contracts issued pursuant to sections four thousand three hundred twenty-one and four thousand three hundred twenty-two of this article on and after January first, nineteen hundred ninety-seven. Such alternate procedure shall not be utilized to implement a change in rates to be effective on or after October first, two thousand ten.

(j) All community rated contracts, other than medicare supplemental insurance contracts, issued or in effect during calendar year two thousand ten shall be subject to a minimum loss ratio requirement of eighty-two percent. Corporations may use the alternate procedure set forth in subsection (g) of this section to adjust premium rates in order to meet the required minimum loss ratio for calendar year two thousand ten. The rate filing or application shall be submitted no later than September thirtieth, two thousand ten.

§ 4309. Limitation on expenses. (a) No corporation subject to the provisions of this article shall, during any one year, disburse more than the percentages hereafter prescribed of the aggregate amount of the premiums received during such year as expenditures for expenses, which, for the purposes of this article, shall include all expenses paid or incurred by the corporation which do not constitute benefit payments made to or on behalf of persons covered under contracts issued by such corporations:

(1) For hospital service corporations: fifteen per centum reduced by one per centum for each five million dollars or fraction thereof above one million dollars of premiums received to ten per centum.

(2) All other corporations: twenty per centum reduced by one per centum for each five million dollars or fraction thereof above one million dollars of premiums received to fifteen per centum except that for any corporation which derives more than fifty per centum of its premiums received from the sale of contracts which provide hospital service benefits: seventeen and one-half per centum reduced by one per centum for each five million dollars or fraction thereof above one million dollars of premiums received to twelve and one-half per centum.

(3) Upon written application, the superintendent may waive the limitations in paragraph one or two of this subsection for any corporation which has not attained the level of enrollment which it needs to attain a break-even position. The break-even position is attained when the amount of annual losses and expenses incurred by the corporation is equal to the amount of premiums earned during this period. Such corporation shall be subject to such limitations in the calendar year following the year in which it attains a break-even position.

(b) If any such corporation shall in any calendar year make or incur expenses as hereinabove defined in excess of its expense limit the superintendent may, upon written application of such corporation and a showing that such corporation has taken steps in accordance with a plan submitted by the corporation and approved by the superintendent which will enable it to comply with the provisions of this section during the next calendar year, suspend the expense limit for such corporation for the calendar year in which the excess was incurred but the superintendent shall not suspend the expense limit for any such corporation for more than two calendar years in succession.

§ 4310. Investments; financial conditions; reserves. (a) Every corporation subject to the provisions of this article shall annually on or before the first day of March file in the office of the superintendent a statement, verified by at least two of the principal officers of such corporation, showing its condition on the thirty-first day of December then next preceding which shall be in such form and shall contain such matters as the superintendent shall prescribe.

(b) No such corporation shall invest in any securities other than those permitted by the provisions of paragraph two of subsection (a) of section one thousand four hundred three of this chapter, except as provided in paragraphs one and two of this subsection.

(1) A corporation (or two or more such corporations under common management) with admitted assets of greater than eighty million dollars and maintaining cash and reserve investments under subsection (a) of section one thousand four hundred four of this chapter (except paragraphs eight and ten of subsection (a) of such section) free from any lien or pledge, which, when valued in accordance with the provisions of this chapter, seven percent or more of net premium income for the most recent twelve month period, as shown by its last sworn statement, annual or quarterly, on file with the superintendent, may also invest its funds or otherwise acquire or loan upon investments permitted under paragraphs eight and ten of subsection (a) of section one thousand four hundred four of this chapter without having to meet the otherwise applicable qualitative standards and the otherwise applicable aggregate limitation for such investments, provided that the aggregate amount of all such investments shall not exceed the lesser of surplus to policyholders or fifteen percent of its admitted assets as shown by its last statement on file with the superintendent. Any corporation subject to the provisions of this article may jointly exercise control of a subsidiary by acting together with one or more other corporations, provided that such other corporations are either corporations subject to this article, foreign corporations which perform similar functions in other states or which belong to a national association comprised of similar corporations to which one or more corporations organized under this article also belong, or an institution controlled by any such foreign corporation. No such corporation shall hold a direct or indirect ownership interest in a risk retention group, as defined in article fifty-nine of this chapter, other than in a risk retention group all of whose members are insurance companies. Notwithstanding any other provision of this chapter, including, but not limited to, section one thousand four hundred seven of this chapter, any corporation subject to the provisions of this article may also invest, in the aggregate, not more than three percent of its admitted assets in obligations, shares or other securities (including certificates of deposit) issued by a parent corporation which is organized as a not for profit entity or a corporation which is an affiliate or will be an affiliate after direct or indirect acquisition by the parent corporation; provided, however, that the board of directors of the parent organization is constituted in accordance with the requirements of subsection (k) of section four thousand three hundred one of this article and, provided further however, that the investments of the corporation organized under this article in its own subsidiaries shall not be included in that limitation.

(2) A corporation maintaining cash and reserve investments under subsection (a) of section one thousand four hundred four of this chapter (except paragraphs eight and ten of subsection (a) of such section), free from any lien or pledge, which, when valued in accordance with the provisions of this chapter, equal ten percent or more of net premium income for the most recent twelve month period, as shown by such corporation's last sworn statement, annual or quarterly, on file with the superintendent, may, in addition to the investments permitted by paragraph one of this subsection, invest up to fifteen percent of its admitted assets in investments permitted under paragraph two of subsection (a) of section one thousand four hundred four of this chapter, provided however that such investments need not meet the otherwise applicable qualitative standards of such paragraph two so long as all such investments are rated at BBB or higher (or the equivalent thereto) by a security rating agency recognized by the superintendent.

(c) Any such corporation shall be deemed insolvent whenever it is presently or prospectively unable to fulfill its outstanding contracts and other liabilities and reserves.

(d) Every such corporation shall maintain a reserve, to be designated as the statutory reserve fund, which shall from time to time during each calendar year be increased in an amount equal to at least one per centum of the net premium income of such corporation during such whole calendar year, provided however, that:

(1) if such corporation reinsures part of its risk under any or all of its contracts by means of reinsurance approved by the superintendent as an appropriate substitute for the statutory reserve fund, then the required increase to the statutory reserve fund at the end of any calendar year shall be reduced by the amount of the premium paid by such corporation for such reinsurance during such calendar year or by one per centum of the net premium income received by such corporation during such calendar year on its contracts so reinsured for the period during which they are so reinsured, whichever amount is the lesser;

(2) the statutory reserve fund at the end of any calendar year shall not exceed twelve and one-half per centum of the net premium income of such calendar year;

(3) every such corporation shall, after the first full calendar year of doing business, accumulate and maintain a statutory reserve fund which shall from time to time during each calendar year be increased in an amount equal to at least five per centum of the net premium income of such corporation during such whole calendar year until such reserve shall be at least equal to fifty thousand dollars and thereafter such reserve shall be accumulated and maintained in the manner prescribed.

(e) (1) Such statutory reserve fund may, after application therefor by the corporation and approval thereof by the superintendent, be reduced below the amount required to be maintained by subsection (d) hereof, provided that no such reduction, except in the event of an epidemic or other catastrophe resulting in extraordinary hospital or medical utilization, shall, in the case of a corporation having a net premium income for the preceding calendar year of (i) less than ten million dollars or (ii) ten million dollars or more, reduce the statutory reserve below an amount equal to seventy-five per centum and fifty per centum, respectively, of the amount required to be maintained by subsection (d) hereof. Any reduction so authorized by the superintendent shall be restored within a period of not more than three years, or six years in the case of a corporation with a combined premium volume exceeding two billion dollars annually as of December thirty-first, nineteen hundred ninety-six, in accordance with a plan submitted by the corporation and approved by the superintendent which shall provide that such restoration shall be in addition to, and not in lieu of, the increase in the statutory reserve fund hereinabove required, which increase must be made in every year except the year in which a reduction in the statutory reserve fund is authorized by the superintendent.

(2) Any six year plan submitted by a corporation with a combined premium volume exceeding two billion dollars annually as of December thirty-first, nineteen hundred ninety-six shall also be submitted to the special advisory review panel created pursuant to section four thousand three hundred nineteen of this chapter. Within sixty days of its receipt of the six year plan, such panel shall issue a report to the superintendent analyzing the six year plan and recommending any changes it deems appropriate. The superintendent shall hold public hearings regarding any such proposed six year plan and the recommendations of the panel. The superintendent shall consider the findings of the panel and the public hearings held on the six year plan during his approval process for the six year plan.

(f) No such corporation shall invest in any real property, except that any such corporation may, with the approval of the superintendent, invest in such real property as it may reasonably expect will be required for its principal office and the principal office or offices of any other corporation organized under this article which is affiliated with and which shares such principal office or offices with such corporation, or for such purposes as shall be requisite for the convenient accommodation in the transaction of the business of such corporations, but in no event in excess of the aggregate of eight per centum of the net premium income of such corporations and five per centum of the receipts from any governmental agency for which either of such corporations acts as fiscal intermediary during the twelve full months immediately preceding the granting of such approval.

(g) A health service corporation, in addition to the investment in real estate provided in subsection (f) of this section, may, with the approval of the superintendent, purchase an interest in real estate for the purpose of constructing a hospital or other health facility or center thereon (in accordance with the requirements of chapter seven hundred ninety-five of the laws of nineteen hundred sixty-five), or may purchase an existing hospital or facility for the purpose of providing health services or may make loans to a corporation or corporations under its control for the purposes heretofore described, or for the purpose of organizing, managing or promoting a health maintenance organization, as such term is defined in article forty-four of the public health law primarily for the benefit of persons covered under contracts issued by such corporations, but in no event in excess of an amount equal to ten per centum of its annual net premium income during the twelve full months immediately preceding the granting of such approval. A health service corporation may make expenditures and incur liabilities for the purchase of real estate or for loans in excess of sums provided for in subsection (f) hereof and this subsection as permitted by the superintendent pursuant to paragraph five of subsection (e) of section four thousand three hundred one of this article. A health service corporation, with the approval of the superintendent of financial services, also may enter into agreements for the leasing of hospital facilities.

(h) Notwithstanding any other provisions of this chapter, and in addition to the provisions for the investment of funds and for the purchase of real estate as provided for in this article with the approval of the superintendent, a health service corporation may, with the approval of the superintendent, expend sums including loans to a corporation or corporations under its control to implement the program described herein for the amortization of capital costs for the purchase or construction of facilities in its operations, including a hospital or medical service center, and for the implementation of its program, but not in excess of an amount equal to five percentum of its net premium income during the twelve full months immediately preceding the granting of such approval.

(i) If a loan is made with the approval of the superintendent, to a corporation under the control of a health service corporation, it shall be made on condition that the superintendent may conduct an examination pursuant to sections three hundred nine and three hundred ten of this chapter into the affairs of such corporation.

(j) Every corporation subject to the provisions of this article, including a health service corporation or any of its instrumentalities or any hospital, facility or center directly operated by any such health service corporation, shall be exempt from every state, county, municipal and school tax.

(k) Notwithstanding the provisions of any other law, a corporation subject to the provisions of this article which has admitted assets greater than five hundred million dollars on its last annual report filed with the superintendent may enter into a transaction for an interest rate swap in an amount not to exceed the amount of debt on the books of the corporation on the effective date of this subsection that was incurred within twelve months of the construction of the corporation's home office, provided that such interest rate swap shall provide an initial new interest rate that is at least two hundred basis points lower than the interest rate on the existing debt. The counterparty to this transaction shall meet the qualifications of a qualified counterparty as provided in subparagraph (A) of paragraph three of subsection (f) of section fourteen hundred ten of this chapter except that, notwithstanding clause (iv) of subparagraph (C) of such paragraph, in the event that such counterparty is a qualified bank, such bank shall be rated A or better (or the equivalent thereto) by two independent nationally recognized rating organizations. Any such transaction shall be approved by the corporation's board of directors prior to its implementation.

(l) Notwithstanding any other provisions of this chapter to the contrary, in determining the financial condition of corporations subject to the provisions of this article and not-for-profit corporations authorized pursuant to article forty-four of the public health law, the department shall include real estate, including buildings, property, capital improvements and appurtenances owned and held that are utilized in the ordinary course of the business of such entities, provided that such real estate may be valued by the corporation at either its current amortized book value or at ninety percent of its current market value, as determined by an independent appraisal undertaken annually and in accordance with regulations promulgated by the superintendent.

§ 4312. Employment of solicitors; pension plans. (a) 1. Every corporation subject to the provisions of this article may employ solicitors or accept business from agents and brokers on a commission basis, but all solicitors shall be paid on a salary basis only. It is expressly provided such solicitors are exempt from obtaining a license. Commissions shall be included in the corporation's rate manual and rate filings and commissions payable by health maintenance organizations organized under this article or health maintenance organizations operating as a line of business of corporations organized under this article shall continue to be subject to existing regulations governing commissions payable by health maintenance organizations.

2. Any corporation exercising the authority granted in paragraph one of this subsection shall provide to the superintendent at the time a corporation commences the use of agents and brokers on a commission basis, a detailed plan explaining the purpose for which agents and brokers are to be utilized, the lines of business or products where agents and brokers are to be utilized, the commission scales to be employed in compensating such agents and brokers, and such other information as required by the superintendent.

(b) No corporation subject to the provisions of this article shall hereafter enter into any agreement, directly or indirectly, with an officer, director or salaried employee of such corporation whereby it agrees that for any services rendered or to be rendered he shall receive any salary, compensation or emolument that will extend beyond a period of thirty-six months from the date of such agreement, except that payment of an amount not in excess of twenty percent for the years nineteen hundred eighty-five and nineteen hundred eighty-six and thirty-three and one-third percent for the year nineteen hundred eighty-seven and thereafter of the salary or other compensation of any of its officers or employees, other than a mechanic, workingman or laborer, may by written contract be deferred beyond such period of thirty-six months, which contract may include conditions to be met by such officer or employee before payment will be made. No such corporation shall grant any pension to any officer, director or trustee thereof or to any member of his family after death, except that such corporation may, in pursuance of the terms of a retirement plan adopted by the board of directors of such corporation and approved by the superintendent, provide for any person who is a salaried officer or employee of such corporation, a pension payable at the time of his retirement by reason of age or disability, and also life insurance benefits payable at his death.

§ 4313. Applicability of other provisions of this chapter. (a) Except as otherwise provided and except as the context otherwise requires, every medical expense indemnity corporation, dental expense indemnity corporation, health service corporation, and hospital service corporation shall be subject to all requirements of this chapter made applicable to insurance companies generally, and to the rules and regulations of the superintendent except in so far as said laws, rules and regulations may be inconsistent with other provisions of this article.

(b) Every such corporation shall be subject to liquidation, dissolution or rehabilitation pursuant to the provisions of article seventy-four of this chapter, and such proceedings shall be under the supervision of the superintendent, who shall have such of the powers granted to him pursuant to the provisions of such article as are applicable to domestic insurance companies.

(c) Every such corporation shall be subject to the provisions of section two thousand six hundred sixteen of this chapter, relating to living organ and tissue donors.

§ 4314. Not to affect provisions of workers' compensation law. No provisions of this article or any contract issued by a corporation subject to the provisions of this article shall in any way affect the operation of the workers' compensation law.

§ 4315. Arbitration; judicial review. (a) Any dispute arising between a hospital service corporation or health service corporation subject to the provisions of this article and any hospital with which such corporation has a contract for hospitalization may, pursuant to an agreement to that effect in the contract or by subsequent mutual agreement of the parties, be submitted to the commissioner of health for his decision with respect thereto. Any such decision, pursuant to the terms of such submission, shall have the effect of an arbitration award under the provisions of the civil practice law and rules.

(b) Except as provided in subsection (a) of this section, all orders of the superintendent and all final orders or decisions of the commissioner of health made under the provisions of this article shall be subject to judicial review as provided in section three hundred eight of the financial services law.

§ 4316. Individual contracts; premium refund at death of insured. Under individual contracts for which premiums are paid directly to the corporation by the individual, if the death of the insured or a covered dependent occurs during a period for which the premium has been paid, the corporation shall refund the premium or the portion of the premium actually paid by the insured for that person for any period beyond the end of the policy month in which such death occurred.

§ 4317. Rating of individual and small group health insurance contracts. (a) (1) No individual health insurance contract and no group health insurance contract covering between one and fifty employees or members of the group, or between one and one hundred employees or members of the group for policies issued or renewed on or after January first, two thousand sixteen exclusive of spouses and dependents, including contracts for which the premiums are paid by a remitting agent for a group, hereinafter referred to as a small group, providing hospital and/or medical benefits, including Medicare supplemental insurance, shall be issued in this state unless such contract is community rated and, notwithstanding any other provisions of law, the underwriting of such contract involves no more than the imposition of a pre-existing condition limitation if otherwise permitted by this article. (2) Any individual, and dependents of such individual, and any small group, including all employees or group members and dependents of employees or members, applying for individual or small group health insurance coverage including Medicare supplemental insurance, but not including coverage issued on or after January first, two thousand fourteen specified in subsection (l) of section four thousand three hundred four, and section four thousand three hundred twenty-eight of this chapter, must be accepted at all times throughout the year for any hospital and/or medical coverage offered by the corporation to individuals or small groups in this state. (3) Once accepted for coverage, an individual or small group cannot be terminated by the insurer due to claims experience. Termination of coverage for individuals or small groups may be based only on one or more of the reasons set forth in subsection (c) of section four thousand three hundred four or subsection (j) of section four thousand three hundred five of this article. (4) For the purposes of this section, "community rated" means a rating methodology in which the premium for all persons covered by a policy or contract form is the same, based on the experience of the entire pool of risks of all individuals or small groups covered by the corporation without regard to age, sex, health status, tobacco usage or occupation excluding those individuals of small groups covered by Medicare supplemental insurance. For medicare supplemental insurance coverage, "community rated" means a rating methodology in which the premiums for all persons covered by a policy or contract form is the same based on the experience of the entire pool of risks covered by that policy or contract form without regard to age, sex, health status, tobacco usage or occupation.

(b) (1) The superintendent may set standard premium tiers and standard rating relativities between tiers applicable to all contracts subject to this section. The superintendent may also set a standard relativity applicable to child-only contracts issued pursuant to section 1302(f) of the affordable care act, 42 U.S.C. § 18022(f). The relativity for child-only contracts must be actuarially justifiable using the aggregate experience of corporations to prevent the charging of unjustified premiums. The superintendent may adjust such premium tiers and relativities periodically based upon the aggregate experience of corporations issuing contract forms subject to this section. (2) A corporation shall establish separate community rates for individuals as opposed to small groups. (3) If a corporation is required to issue a contract to individual proprietors pursuant to subsection (f) of this section, such contract shall be subject to the requirements of subsection (a) of this section.

(c) (1) The superintendent shall permit the use of separate community rates for reasonable geographic regions, which may, in a given case, include a single county. The regions shall be approved by the superintendent as part of the rate filing. The superintendent shall not require the inclusion of any specific geographic regions within the proposed community rated regions selected by the corporation in its rate filing so long as the corporation's proposed regions do not contain configurations designed to avoid or segregate particular areas within a county covered by the corporation's community rates. (2) Beginning on January first, two thousand fourteen, for every contract subject to this section that provides physician services, medical, major medical or similar comprehensive-type coverage, except for Medicare supplemental insurance, corporations shall use standardized regions established by the superintendent.

(d) * (1) (A) This section shall also apply to a contract issued to a group defined in subsection (c) of section four thousand two hundred thirty-five of this chapter, including but not limited to an association or trust of employers, if the group includes one or more member employers or other member groups having one hundred or fewer employees or members exclusive of spouses and dependents. For a contract issued or renewed on or after January first, two thousand fourteen, if the group includes one or more member small group employers eligible for coverage subject to this section, then such member employers shall be classified as small groups for rating purposes and the remaining members shall be rated consistent with the rating rules applicable to such remaining members pursuant to paragraph two of this subsection. (B) Subparagraph A of this paragraph shall not apply to either the renewal of a contract issued to a group or the issuance, between January first, two thousand sixteen and December thirty-first, two thousand sixteen, of a contract, and any renewal thereof, to a group, provided that the following three requirements are met: (I) the group had been issued a contract that was in effect on July first, two thousand fifteen; (II) the group had member employers, who, on or after July first, two thousand fifteen, have between fifty-one and one hundred employees, exclusive of spouses and dependents; and (III) the group is either: (i) comprised entirely of one or more municipal corporations or districts (as such terms are defined in section one hundred nineteen-n of the general municipal law); or (ii) comprised entirely of nonpublic schools providing education in any grade from pre-kindergarten through twelfth grade.

* NB Effective until December 28, 2028

* (1) This section shall also apply to a contract issued to a group defined in subsection (c) of section four thousand two hundred thirty-five of this chapter, including but not limited to an association or trust of employers, if the group includes one or more member employers or other member groups which have one hundred or fewer employees or members exclusive of spouses and dependents. For contracts issued or renewed on or after January first, two thousand fourteen, if the group includes one or more member small group employers eligible for coverage subject to this section, then such member employers shall be classified as small groups for rating purposes and the remaining members shall be rated consistent with the rating rules applicable to such remaining members pursuant to paragraph two of this subsection.

* NB Effective December 28, 2028

(2) If a contract is issued to a group defined in subsection (c) of section four thousand two hundred thirty-five of this chapter including association groups, that includes one or more individual or individual proprietor members, then for rating purposes the corporation shall include such members in its individual pool of risks in establishing premium rates for such members.

(3) A corporation shall provide specific claims experience to a municipal corporation, as defined in subsection (f) of section four thousand seven hundred two of this chapter, covered by the corporation under a community rated contract when the municipal corporation requests its claims experience for purposes of forming or joining a municipal cooperative health benefit plan certified pursuant to article forty-seven of this chapter. Notwithstanding the foregoing provisions, no corporation shall be required to provide more than three years' claims experience to a municipal corporation making this request.

(e) * (1) Notwithstanding any other provision of this chapter, no insurer, subsidiary of an insurer, or controlled person of a holding company system may act as an administrator or claims paying agent, as opposed to an insurer, on behalf of small groups which, if they purchased insurance, would be subject to this section. No insurer may provide stop loss, catastrophic or reinsurance coverage to small groups which, if they purchased insurance, would be subject to this section. Provided, however, the provisions of this paragraph shall not apply to: (A) the renewal of stop loss, catastrophic or reinsurance coverage issued and in effect on January first, two thousand fifteen to small groups covering between fifty-one and one hundred employees or members of the group; and (B) the issuance between January first, two thousand sixteen, and December thirty-first, two thousand sixteen, of stop loss, catastrophic or reinsurance coverage, and any renewal thereof, to a small group covering between fifty-one and one hundred employees or members of the group, provided that such group had stop loss, catastrophic or reinsurance coverage issued and in effect on January first, two thousand fifteen.

* NB Effective until December 28, 2028

* (1) Notwithstanding any other provision of this chapter, no insurer, subsidiary of an insurer, or controlled person of a holding company system may act as an administrator or claims paying agent, as opposed to an insurer, on behalf of small groups which, if they purchased insurance, would be subject to this section. No insurer, subsidiary of an insurer, or controlled person of a holding company may provide stop loss, catastrophic or reinsurance coverage to small groups which, if they purchased insurance, would be subject to this section.

* NB Effective December 28, 2028

(2) This subsection shall not apply to coverage insuring a plan that was in effect on or before December thirty-first, nineteen hundred ninety-one and was issued to a group that includes member small employers or other member small groups, including but not limited to association groups, provided that (A) acceptance of additional small member employers (or other member groups comprised of fifty or fewer employees or members, exclusive of spouses and dependents) into the group on or after June first, nineteen hundred ninety-two and before April first, nineteen hundred ninety-four does not exceed an amount equal to ten percent per year of the total number of persons covered under the group as of June first, nineteen hundred ninety-two, but nothing in this subparagraph shall limit the addition of larger member employers; (B) (i) after April first, nineteen hundred ninety-four, the group thereafter accepts member small employers and member small groups without underwriting by any more than the imposition of a pre-existing condition limitation as permitted by this article and the cost for participation in the group for all persons covered shall be the same based on the experience of the entire pool of risks covered under the entire group, without regard to age, sex, health status or occupation; and; (ii) once accepted for coverage, an individual or small group cannot be terminated due to claims experience; (C) the corporation has registered the names of such groups, including the total number of persons covered as of June first, nineteen hundred ninety-two, with the superintendent, in a form prescribed by the superintendent, on or before April first, nineteen hundred ninety-three and shall report annually thereafter until such groups comply with the provisions of subparagraph (B) of this paragraph; and (D) the types or categories of employers or groups eligible to join the association are not altered or expanded after June first, nineteen hundred ninety-two.

(3) A corporation may apply to the superintendent for an extension or extensions of time beyond April first, nineteen hundred ninety-four in which to implement the provisions of this subsection as they relate to groups registered with the superintendent pursuant to subparagraph (C) of paragraph two of this subsection; any such extension or extensions may not exceed two years in aggregate duration, and the ten percent per year limitation of subparagraph (A) of paragraph two of this subsection shall be reduced to five percent per year during the period of any such extension or extensions. Any application for an extension shall demonstrate that a significant financial hardship to such group would result from such implementation.

(f)(1) If the corporation issues coverage to an association group (including chambers of commerce), as defined in subparagraph (K) of paragraph one of subsection (c) of section four thousand two hundred thirty-five of this chapter, then the corporation shall issue the same coverage to individual proprietors who purchase coverage through the association group as the corporation issues to groups that purchase coverage through the association group; provided, however, that a corporation that, on the effective date of this subsection, is issuing coverage to individual proprietors not connected with an association group, may continue to issue such coverage provided that the coverage is otherwise in accordance with this subsection and all other applicable provisions of law.

(2) For coverage purchased pursuant to this subsection through December thirty-first, two thousand thirteen, individual proprietors shall be classified in their own community rating category, provided however, up to and including December thirty-first, two thousand thirteen, the premium rate established for individual proprietors purchased pursuant to paragraph one of this subsection shall not be greater than one hundred fifteen percent of the rate established for the same coverage issued to groups. Coverage purchased or renewed pursuant to this subsection on or after January first, two thousand fourteen shall be classified in the individual rating category.

(3) The corporation may require members of the association purchasing health insurance to verify that all employees electing health insurance are legitimate employees of the employers, as documented on New York state tax form NYS-45-ATT-MN or comparable documentation. In order to be eligible to purchase health insurance pursuant to this subsection and obtain the same group insurance products as are offered to groups, a sole employee of a corporation or a sole proprietor of an unincorporated business or entity must (A) work at least twenty hours per week, (B) if purchasing the coverage through an association group, be a member of the association for at least sixty days prior to the effective date of the insurance contract, and (C) present a copy of the following documentation to the corporation or health plan administrator on an annual basis:

(i) NYS tax form 45-ATT, or comparable documentation of active employee status;

(ii) for an unincorporated business, the prior year's federal income tax Schedule C for an incorporated business subject to Subchapter S with a sole employee, federal income tax Schedule E for other incorporated businesses with a sole employee, a W-2 annual wage statement, or federal tax form 1099 with federal income tax Schedule F; or

(iii) for a business in business for less than one year, a cancelled business check, a certificate of doing business, or appropriate tax documentation; and

individual to purchase health insurance pursuant to this subsection.

(4) Notwithstanding the provisions of item (I) of clause (i) of subparagraph (K) of paragraph one of subsection (c) of section four thousand two hundred thirty-five of this chapter, for purposes of this section, an association group shall include chambers of commerce with less than two hundred members and which are 501C3 or 501C6 organizations.

§ 4318. Pre-existing condition provisions. Every individual health insurance contract and every group or blanket accident and health insurance contract issued or issued for delivery in this state which includes a pre-existing condition provision shall contain in substance the following provision or provisions which in the opinion of the superintendent are more favorable to individuals, members of the group and their eligible dependents:

(a) In determining whether a pre-existing condition provision applies to a covered person, the contract shall credit the time the covered person was previously covered under creditable coverage, if the previous creditable coverage was continuous to a date not more than sixty-three days prior to the enrollment date of the new coverage. In the case of previous health maintenance organization coverage, any affiliation period prior to that previous coverage becoming effective shall also be credited pursuant to this subsection.

(b) No pre-existing condition provision shall exclude coverage for a period in excess of twelve months following the enrollment date for the covered person and may only relate to a condition (whether physical or mental), regardless of the cause of the condition for which medical advice, diagnosis, care or treatment was recommended or received within the six month period ending on the enrollment date. For purposes of this section "enrollment date" means the first day of coverage of the individual under the contract or, if earlier, the first day of the waiting period that must pass with respect to an individual before the individual is eligible to be covered for benefits. If an individual seeks and obtains coverage in the individual market, any period after the date the individual files a substantially complete application for coverage and before the first day of coverage is a waiting period. For purposes of this section, genetic information shall not be treated as a pre-existing condition in the absence of a diagnosis of the condition related to such information. No pre-existing condition provision shall exclude coverage in the case of:

(1) an individual who, as of the last day of the thirty-day period beginning with the date of birth, is covered under creditable coverage as defined in subsection (c) of this section;

(2) a child who is adopted or placed for adoption before attaining eighteen years of age and who, as of the last day of the thirty-day period beginning on the date of the adoption or placement for adoption, is covered under creditable coverage as defined in subsection (c) of this section;

(3) pregnancy (except in an individual direct payment contract or a student blanket accident and health insurance contract in which a corporation may exclude coverage, subject to a credit for previous creditable coverage, for a period not to exceed ten months for a pregnancy existing on the enrollment date); or

(4) an individual, and any dependent of such individual, who is eligible for a federal tax credit under the federal Trade Adjustment Assistance Reform Act of 2002 and who has three months or more of creditable coverage.

Paragraphs one and two of this subsection shall no longer apply to an individual after the end of the first sixty-three day period during all of which the individual was not covered under any creditable coverage.

(c) For purposes of this section, "creditable coverage" means, with respect to an individual, coverage of the individual under any of the following:

(1) A group health plan;

(2) Health insurance coverage;

(3) Part A or B of title XVIII of the Social Security Act;

(4) Title XIX of the Social Security Act, other than coverage consisting solely of benefits under section 1928;

(5) Chapter 55 of title 10, United States Code;

(6) A medical care program of the Indian Health Service or of a tribal organization;

(7) A state health benefits risk pool;

(8) A health plan offered under chapter 89 of title 5, United States Code;

(9) A public health plan (as defined in regulations);

(10) A health benefit plan under section 5(e) of the Peace Corps Act (22 U.S.C. 2504(e)).

(d)(1) For purposes of applying the credit of such creditable coverage, a corporation shall count a period of creditable coverage without regard to the specific benefits covered during the period.

(2) Alternatively, a corporation may elect to count the period of coverage based on coverage of benefits within each of several classes or categories of benefits as specified in regulations. Such election shall be made on a uniform basis for all subscribers, participants and beneficiaries. Pursuant to such election a corporation shall count a period of creditable coverage with respect to any class or category of benefits if any level of benefits is covered within such class or category. A corporation making such election shall prominently state in any disclosure statement, and shall set forth in any contract or certificate issued in connection with the coverage, that the corporation has made such election. Such disclosure statement shall include a description of the effect of the election with regard to the application of creditable coverage.

(3) Notwithstanding the foregoing paragraph, for purposes of determining the extent to which a pre-existing condition limitation has been satisfied in a contract issued pursuant to section four thousand three hundred twenty-one or four thousand three hundred twenty-two of this article within thirty days of discontinuance of a class of health maintenance organization direct payment contract for enrollees whose contract was discontinued, a corporation shall credit the coverage of an enrollee under a health maintenance organization direct payment contract issued prior to January first, nineteen hundred ninety-six, without regard to the specific benefits covered under the health maintenance organization contract.

(4) With respect to an "eligible individual", as defined in section 2741(b) of the federal Public Health Service Act, 42 U.S.C. § 300gg-41(b), a corporation may not impose any pre-existing condition exclusion in an individual health insurance contract. For all other covered persons, the pre-existing condition crediting requirement of subsection (a) of this section shall be applicable.

(e) For the purposes of this section the term "group health plan" means an employee welfare benefit plan (as defined in section 3(1) of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974) to the extent that the plan provides medical care (including items and services paid for as medical care) to employees or their dependents (as defined under the terms of the plan) directly or through insurance, reimbursement or otherwise.

(f) A corporation shall not impose any pre-existing condition exclusion in an individual or group contract of hospital, medical, surgical or prescription drug expense insurance.

§ 4318-a. Certification of creditable coverage by corporations organized under this article. (a) Every corporation subject to the provisions of this article that issues individual health insurance contracts or group or blanket accident and health insurance contracts shall provide covered individuals with written certification, in a form as the superintendent may approve, of:

(1) the period of creditable coverage, as defined in section four thousand three hundred eighteen of this article, of the individual under such contract and under any continuation coverage pursuant to state or federal law; and

(2) any waiting period or affiliation period (if applicable) imposed with respect to the individual for coverage under any such contract.

(b) The corporation shall provide such certification:

(1) at the time an individual ceases to be covered under the contract, including any period of time the individual was covered pursuant to any right of continuation under the contract; and

(2) on the request on behalf of an individual made not later than twenty-four months after the date of cessation of the coverage described in paragraph one of this subsection.

(c) In the event of an election by an insurer or a group health plan to count the period of creditable coverage based on coverage of benefits within classes or categories of benefits as provided in state or federal law, if that insurer or group health plan enrolls an individual for coverage under its contract or plan and the individual provides a certification of coverage of the individual under subsection (a) of this section, then upon request of such insurer or group health plan, any corporation subject to the provisions of this article that issued the certification of coverage provided by the individual shall promptly disclose to such requesting insurer or group health plan information on coverage of classes and categories of health benefits available under the corporation's contract. The corporation may charge the requesting plan or insurer for the reasonable cost of disclosing such information.

(d) A corporation that issues group or blanket accident and health insurance contracts is deemed to have satisfied the requirements of subsection (a) of this section if the contract holder by written agreement with the corporation actually provides the written certification in accordance with this section.

§ 4320. Limitations on administrative services and stop-loss coverage. No insurer, subsidiary of an insurer, or controlled person of a holding company system may act as an administrator or claims paying agent, as opposed to an insurer, on behalf of a group which denies or limits benefits for a specific disease or condition or for a procedure or treatment unique to a specific disease or condition in a manner which would be inconsistent with this chapter or regulations promulgated by the superintendent had the group purchased insurance. No insurer, subsidiary of an insurer, or controlled person of a holding company may provide stop loss, catastrophic or reinsurance coverage to groups which deny or limit benefits for a specific disease or condition or for a procedure or treatment unique to a specific disease or condition in a manner which would be inconsistent with this chapter or regulations promulgated by the superintendent had the group purchased insurance. A limit, maximum, or other mechanism that controls total coverage without regard to a specific disease or condition shall not be deemed one that denies or limits benefits for a specific disease or condition, or for a procedure or treatment unique to a specific disease or condition. Nothing herein shall be construed to mandate the inclusion of specified benefits in an employer group plan, if such plan is not subject to the provisions of this chapter.

§ 4321. Standardization of individual enrollee direct payment contracts offered by health maintenance organizations prior to October first, two thousand thirteen. (a) On and after January first, nineteen hundred ninety-six, and until September thirtieth, two thousand thirteen all health maintenance organizations issued a certificate of authority under article forty-four of the public health law or licensed under this article shall offer a standardized individual enrollee contract on an open enrollment basis as prescribed by section forty-three hundred seventeen of this article and section forty-four hundred six of the public health law, and regulations promulgated thereunder, provided, however, that such requirements shall not apply to a health maintenance organization exclusively serving individuals enrolled pursuant to title eleven of article five of the social services law, title eleven-D of article five of the social services law, title one-A of article twenty-five of the public health law or title eighteen of the federal Social Security Act. On and after January first, nineteen hundred ninety-six, and until September thirtieth, two thousand thirteen, the enrollee contracts issued pursuant to this section and section four thousand three hundred twenty-two of this article shall be the only contracts offered by health maintenance organizations to individuals. The enrollee contracts issued by a health maintenance organization under this section and section four thousand three hundred twenty-two of this article shall also be the only contracts issued by health maintenance organizations for purposes of conversion pursuant to sections four thousand three hundred four and four thousand three hundred five of this article. However, nothing in this section shall be deemed to require health maintenance organizations to terminate individual direct payment contracts issued prior to January first, nineteen hundred ninety-six or prevent health maintenance organizations from terminating individual direct payment contracts issued prior to January first, nineteen hundred ninety-six.

(b) The standardized individual enrollee direct payment contract shall provide coverage for all health services which an enrolled population in a health maintenance organization might require in order to be maintained in good health, rendered without limitation as to time and cost, except to the extent permitted by this chapter; provided however that no individual enrollee and no family unit enrolled in such organization shall incur out-of-pocket costs in excess of fifteen hundred dollars and three thousand dollars, respectively, in any calendar year. Such covered services shall be identical to the in-plan covered benefits of the standardized individual direct payment enrollee contract described in section four thousand three hundred twenty-two of this article, except as otherwise provided in subsections (c), (d) and (e) of this section.

(c) The health maintenance organization shall impose a fifteen dollar copayment on all visits to a physician or other provider with the exception of visits for pre-natal and post-natal care, well child visits provided pursuant to paragraph two of subsection (j) of section four thousand three hundred three of this article, preventive health services provided pursuant to subparagraph (F) of paragraph four of subsection (b) of section four thousand three hundred twenty-two of this article, or items or services for bone mineral density provided pursuant to subparagraph (D) of paragraph twenty-six of subsection (b) of section four thousand three hundred twenty-two of this article for which no copayment shall apply. A copayment of fifteen dollars shall be imposed on equipment, supplies and self-management education for the treatment of diabetes. A fifty dollar copayment shall be imposed on emergency services rendered in the emergency room of a hospital; however, this copayment must be waived if hospital admission results. Surgical services shall be subject to a copayment of the lesser of twenty percent of the cost of such services or two hundred dollars per occurrence. A five hundred dollar copayment shall be imposed on inpatient hospital services per continuous hospital confinement. Ambulatory surgical services shall be subject to a facility copayment charge of seventy-five dollars. Coinsurance of ten percent shall apply to visits for the diagnosis and treatment of mental, nervous or emotional disorders or ailments.

(d) The provisions of each health maintenance organization contract describing administrative procedures and other provisions not affecting the scope of, or conditions for obtaining, covered benefits, such as, but not limited to, eligibility and termination provisions, may be of the type generally used by the health maintenance organization, as long as the superintendent determines that the terms and description of those administrative and other provisions are unlikely to affect consumers' determinations of which health maintenance organization's contract to purchase and are not contrary to law. Each contract may also include limitations and conditions on coverage of benefits described in this section provided the superintendent determines the limitations and conditions on coverage were commonly included in health maintenance organization and/or health insurance products covering individuals on a direct payment basis prior to January first, nineteen hundred ninety-six, and are not contrary to law.

(e) The superintendent shall be authorized to modify, by regulation, the copayments, deductibles and coinsurance amounts described in this section, if the superintendent determines such amendments are necessary to moderate potential premiums. On or after January first, nineteen hundred ninety-eight, the superintendent shall be authorized to establish one or more additional standardized individual enrollee direct payment contracts if the superintendent determines, after one or more public hearings, additional contracts with different levels of benefits are necessary to meet the needs of the public.

(f) No contract issued pursuant to this section or section four thousand three hundred twenty-two of this article shall exclude coverage of a health care service, as defined in paragraph two of subsection (e) of section four thousand nine hundred of this chapter, rendered or proposed to be rendered to an insured on the basis that such service is experimental or investigational, is rendered as part of a clinical trial as defined in subsection (b-2) of section forty-nine hundred of this chapter, or a prescribed pharmaceutical product referenced in subparagraph (B) of paragraph two of subsection (e) of section forty-nine hundred of this chapter provided that coverage of the patient costs of such service has been recommended for the insured by an external appeal agent upon an appeal conducted pursuant to subparagraph (B) of paragraph four of subsection (b) of section four thousand nine hundred fourteen of this chapter. The determination of the external appeal agent shall be binding on the parties. For purposes of this subsection, patient costs shall have the same meaning as such term has for purposes of subparagraph (B) of paragraph four of subsection (b) of section four thousand nine hundred fourteen of this chapter; provided, however, that coverage for the services required under this subsection shall be provided subject to the terms and conditions generally applicable to other benefits provided under the policy.

§ 4321-a. Fund for standardized individual enrollee direct payment contracts. (a) The superintendent shall establish a fund from which health maintenance organizations may receive reimbursement, to the extent of funds available therefor, for claims paid by such health maintenance organizations for members covered under standardized individual enrollee direct payment contracts issued pursuant to section four thousand three hundred twenty-one of this article. The fund established by the superintendent pursuant to this section shall be known as the direct payment stop loss fund. Commencing in calendar year two thousand, health maintenance organizations shall be eligible to receive reimbursement from the direct payment stop loss fund for ninety percent of claims paid between twenty thousand and one hundred thousand dollars in a calendar year for any member covered under a contract issued pursuant to section four thousand three hundred twenty-one of this article. For the purposes of this section, claims shall include health care claims paid by a health maintenance organization on behalf of a covered member pursuant to such standardized direct payment contracts.

(b) The superintendent shall promulgate regulations setting forth procedures for the operation of the direct payment stop loss fund and the distribution of monies therefrom.

(c) Claims shall be reported and funds shall be distributed on a calendar year basis. Claims shall be eligible for reimbursement only for the calendar year in which the claims are paid. Once claims paid on behalf of a member reach or exceed one hundred thousand dollars in a given calendar year, no further claims paid on behalf of such member in such calendar year shall be eligible for reimbursement.

(d) Each health maintenance organization shall submit a request for reimbursement from the stop loss fund on a form prescribed by the superintendent. Such request for reimbursement shall be submitted no later than April first following the end of the calendar year for which the reimbursement request is being made. The superintendent may require health maintenance organizations to submit such claims data in connection with the reimbursement request as he deems necessary to enable him to distribute monies and oversee the operation of the direct payment stop loss fund. The superintendent may require that such data be submitted on a per member, aggregate and/or categorical basis.

(e) The superintendent shall calculate the total claims reimbursement amount for all health maintenance organizations for the calendar year for which claims are being reported.

(1) In the event that the total amount requested for reimbursement by all health maintenance organizations for a calendar year exceeds funds available for distribution for claims paid by all health maintenance organizations during that same calendar year, the superintendent shall provide for the pro-rata distribution of the available funds. Each health maintenance organization shall be eligible to receive only such proportionate amount of the available funds as the individual health maintenance organization's total eligible claims paid bears to the total eligible claims paid by all health maintenance organizations.

(2) In the event that (A) funds available for distribution for claims paid by all health maintenance organizations during a calendar year exceeds the total amount requested for reimbursement by all health maintenance organizations during that same calendar year, and (B) the total amount requested for reimbursement by all health maintenance organizations from the direct payment out-of-plan stop loss fund exceeds the amount available for distribution from such fund, then any excess funds shall be reallocated for distribution to the direct payment out-of-plan stop loss fund. Otherwise, such excess funds shall be carried forward and will not affect monies appropriated for the direct payment stop loss fund in the next calendar year.

(f) Upon the request of the superintendent, each health maintenance organization shall be required to furnish such data as the superintendent deems necessary to oversee the operation of the direct payment stop loss fund. Such data shall be furnished in a form prescribed by the superintendent.

(g) The superintendent may obtain the services of an organization to administer the direct payment stop loss fund. The superintendent shall establish guidelines for the submission of proposals by organizations for the purposes of administering the fund. The superintendent shall make a determination whether to approve, disapprove or recommend modification to the proposal of an applicant to administer the fund. An organization approved to administer the fund shall submit reports to the superintendent in such form and at times as may be required by the superintendent in order to facilitate evaluation and ensure orderly operation of the fund, including, but not limited to an annual report of the affairs and operations of the fund, such report to be delivered to the superintendent and to the chairs of the senate finance committee and assembly ways and means committee. An organization approved to administer the fund shall maintain records in a form prescribed by the superintendent and which shall be available for inspection by or at the request of the superintendent. The superintendent shall determine the amount of compensation to be allocated to an approved organization as payment for fund administration. Compensation shall be payable from the direct payment stop loss fund. An organization approved to administer the fund may be removed by the superintendent and must cooperate in the orderly transition of services to another approved organization or to the superintendent.

(h) If the superintendent deems it appropriate for the proper administration of the direct payment stop loss fund, the administrator of the fund, on behalf of and with the prior approval of the superintendent, shall be authorized to purchase stop loss insurance and/or reinsurance from an insurance company licensed to write such type of insurance in this state. Such stop loss insurance and/or reinsurance may be purchased to the extent of funds available therefor within such funds which are available for purposes of the stop loss fund.

§ 4322. Standardization of individual enrollee direct payment contracts offered by health maintenance organizations which provide out-of-plan benefits prior to October first, two thousand thirteen. (a) On and after January first, nineteen hundred ninety-six, and until September thirtieth, two thousand thirteen, all health maintenance organizations issued a certificate of authority under article forty-four of the public health law or licensed under this article shall offer to individuals, in addition to the standardized contract required by section four thousand three hundred twenty-one of this article, a standardized individual enrollee direct payment contract on an open enrollment basis as prescribed by section four thousand three hundred seventeen of this article and section four thousand four hundred six of the public health law, and regulations promulgated thereunder, with an out-of-plan benefit system, provided, however, that such requirements shall not apply to a health maintenance organization exclusively serving individuals enrolled pursuant to title eleven of article five of the social services law, title eleven-D of article five of the social services law, title one-A of article twenty-five of the public health law or title eighteen of the federal Social Security Act. The out-of-plan benefit system shall either be provided by the health maintenance organization pursuant to subdivision two of section four thousand four hundred six of the public health law or through an accompanying insurance contract providing out-of-plan benefits offered by a company appropriately licensed pursuant to this chapter. On and after January first, nineteen hundred ninety-six, and until September thirtieth, two thousand thirteen, the contracts issued pursuant to this section and section four thousand three hundred twenty-one of this article shall be the only contracts offered by health maintenance organizations to individuals. The enrollee contracts issued by a health maintenance organization under this section and section four thousand three hundred twenty-one of this article shall also be the only contracts issued by the health maintenance organization for purposes of conversion pursuant to sections four thousand three hundred four and four thousand three hundred five of this article. However, nothing in this section shall be deemed to require health maintenance organizations to terminate individual direct payment contracts issued prior to January first, nineteen hundred ninety-six or prohibit health maintenance organizations from terminating individual direct payment contracts issued prior to January first, nineteen hundred ninety-six.

(i) On and after January first, two thousand fourteen, each contract that is not a grandfathered health plan shall provide coverage for the essential health benefit package. For purposes of this subsection:

(1) "essential health benefits package" shall have the meaning set forth in section 1302(a) of the affordable care act, 42 U.S.C. § 18022(a); and

(2) "grandfathered health plan" means coverage provided by a corporation in which an individual was enrolled on March twenty-third, two thousand ten for as long as the coverage maintains grandfathered status in accordance with section 1251(e) of the affordable care act, 42 U.S.C. § 18011(e).

(b) The in-plan and out-of-plan covered benefits for the standardized individual enrollee direct payment contract shall include coverage for all health services which an enrolled population in a health maintenance organization might require in order to be maintained in good health, rendered without limitation as to time and cost, except to the extent permitted by this chapter.

The in-plan and out-of-plan covered services include the following:

(1) Inpatient hospital services, including:

(A) daily room and board;

(B) general nursing care;

(C) special diets; and

(D) miscellaneous hospital services.

(2) Outpatient hospital services including:

(A) diagnostic and treatment services;

(B) x-rays; and

(C) laboratory tests.

(3) Physician services including:

(A) consultant and referral services;

(B) primary and preventive care services;

(C) in-hospital medical services;

(D) surgical services;

(E) anesthetic services; and

(F) second surgical opinion.

(4) Preventive health services including:

(A) periodic physical examinations, including eye and ear examinations to determine the need for vision and hearing correction;

(B) well child care from birth;

(C) pediatric and adult immunizations;

(D) mammography screening, as provided in subsection (p) of section four thousand three hundred three of this article;

(E) cervical cytology screening as provided in subsection (t) of section four thousand three hundred three of this article; and

(F) for a contract that is not a grandfathered health plan, the following additional preventive health services:

(i) evidence-based items or services that have in effect a rating of 'A' or 'B' in the current recommendations of the United States preventive services task force;

(ii) immunizations that have in effect a recommendation from the advisory committee on immunization practices of the centers for disease control and prevention with respect to the individual involved;

(iii) with respect to children, including infants and adolescents, evidence-informed preventive care and screenings provided for in the comprehensive guidelines supported by the health resources and services administration; and

(iv) with respect to women, such additional preventive care and screenings not described in item (i) of this subparagraph and as provided for in comprehensive guidelines supported by the health resources and services administration.

(v) For purposes of this subparagraph, "grandfathered health plan" means coverage provided by a corporation in which an individual was enrolled on March twenty-third, two thousand ten for as long as the coverage maintains grandfathered status in accordance with section 1251(e) of the Affordable Care Act, 42 U.S.C. § 18011(e).

(5) Emergency services.

(6) Diagnostic laboratory services.

(7) Therapeutic and diagnostic radiologic services.

(8) Preadmission testing.

(9) Home health services up to two hundred visits per member per calendar year.

(10) Maternity care.

(11) Chemotherapy services.

(12) Hemodialysis services consistent with the provisions of subsection (gg) of section four thousand three hundred three of this article.

(13) Outpatient physical therapy up to ninety visits per condition per calendar year.

(14) Hospice care up to two hundred ten days.

(15) Skilled nursing facility care when preceded by a hospital stay of at least three days and further hospitalization would otherwise be necessary.

(16) Equipment, supplies and self-management education for the treatment of diabetes.

(17) Inpatient diagnosis and treatment of mental, nervous or emotional disorders or ailments up to thirty days per calendar year combined with inpatient treatment of alcoholism and substance abuse.

(18) Inpatient diagnosis and treatment of alcoholism and alcohol abuse and substance abuse and substance dependence up to thirty days per calendar year for detoxification combined with inpatient treatment of mental, nervous or emotional disorders or ailments.

(19) Outpatient diagnosis and treatment of mental, nervous or emotional disorders or ailments up to thirty non-emergency and three emergency visits per calendar year.

(20) Ambulance services.

(21) Private duty nursing up to five thousand dollars per individual per calendar year up to a ten thousand dollar individual lifetime maximum.

(22) Prosthetics, orthotics, durable medical equipment and medical supplies.

(23) Inpatient physical rehabilitation services.

(24) Blood and blood products.

(25) Prescription drugs, including contraceptive drugs or devices approved by the federal food and drug administration or generic equivalents approved as substitutes by such food and drug administration and nutritional supplements (formulas), whether administered orally or via a feeding tube for the therapeutic treatment of phenylketonuria, branched-chain ketonuria, galactosemia and homocystinuria, obtained at a participating pharmacy under a prescription written by an in-plan or out-of-plan provider. Health maintenance organizations, in addition to providing coverage for prescription drugs at a participating pharmacy, may utilize a mail order prescription drug program. Health maintenance organizations may provide prescription drugs pursuant to a drug formulary; however, health maintenance organizations must implement an appeals process so that the use of non-formulary prescription drugs may be requested by a physician or other provider.

Health maintenance organizations shall impose a one hundred dollar individual deductible and a three hundred dollar family deductible per calendar year for prescription drugs obtained at a participating pharmacy. Health maintenance organizations may not impose a deductible on prescriptions obtained through the mail order drug program.

In addition to the deductible, a ten dollar copayment shall be imposed on up to a thirty-four day supply of brand name prescription drugs obtained at a participating pharmacy. A five dollar copayment shall be imposed on up to a thirty-four day supply of generic prescription drugs or brand name drugs for which there is no generic equivalent obtained at a participating pharmacy.

If a mail order drug program is utilized, a twenty dollar copayment shall be imposed on a ninety day supply of brand name prescription drugs. A ten dollar copayment shall be imposed on a ninety day supply of generic prescription drugs or brand name drugs for which there is no generic equivalent obtained through the mail order drug program.

In no event shall the copayment exceed the cost of the prescribed drug.

(26) Bone mineral density measurements or tests and, if such contract otherwise includes coverage for prescription drugs, drugs and devices approved by the federal food and drug administration or generic equivalents as approved substitutes.

In determining appropriate coverage provided by subparagraphs (A), (B) and (C) of this paragraph, the insurer or health maintenance organization shall adopt standards that include the criteria of the federal Medicare program and the criteria of the national institutes of health for the detection of osteoporosis, provided that such coverage shall be further determined as follows:

(A) For purposes of subparagraphs (B) and (C) of this paragraph, bone mineral density measurements or tests, drugs and devices shall include those covered under the criteria of the federal Medicare program as well as those in accordance with the criteria, of the national institutes of health, including, as consistent with such criteria dual-energy x-ray absorptiometry.

(B) For purposes of subparagraphs (A) and (C) of this paragraph, bone mineral density measurements or tests, drugs and devices shall be covered for individuals meeting the criteria for coverage consistent with the criteria under the federal Medicare program or the criteria of the national institutes of health; provided that, to the extent consistent with such criteria, individuals qualifying for coverage shall at a minimum, include individuals:

(i) previously diagnosed as having osteoporosis or having a family history of osteoporosis; or

(ii) with symptoms or conditions indicative of the presence, or the significant risk, of osteoporosis; or

(iii) on a prescribed drug regimen posing a significant risk of osteoporosis; or

(iv) with lifestyle factors to such a degree as posing a significant risk of osteoporosis; or

(v) with such age, gender and/or other physiological characteristics which pose a significant risk for osteoporosis.

(C) Such coverage required pursuant to subparagraph (A) or (B) of this paragraph may be subject to annual deductibles and coinsurance as may be deemed appropriate by the superintendent and as are consistent with those established for other benefits within a given policy.

(D) In addition to subparagraph (A), (B) or (C) of this paragraph, except for a grandfathered health plan under subparagraph (E) of this paragraph, coverage shall be provided for the following items or services for bone mineral density, and such coverage shall not be subject to annual deductibles or coinsurance:

(i) evidence-based items or services for bone mineral density that have in effect a rating of 'A' or 'B' in the current recommendations of the United States preventive services task force; and

(ii) with respect to women, such additional preventive care and screenings for bone mineral density not described in item (i) of this subparagraph and as provided for in comprehensive guidelines supported by the health resources and services administration.

(E) For purposes of this paragraph, "grandfathered health plan" means coverage provided by a corporation in which an individual was enrolled on March twenty-third, two thousand ten for as long as the coverage maintains grandfathered status in accordance with section 1251(e) of the Affordable Care Act, 42 U.S.C. § 18011(e).

(27) Services covered under such policy when provided by a comprehensive care center for eating disorders pursuant to article thirty of the mental hygiene law; provided, however, that reimbursement under such policy for services provided through such comprehensive care centers shall, to the extent possible and practicable, be structured in a manner to facilitate the individualized, comprehensive and integrated plans of care which such centers' network of practitioners and providers are required to provide.

(b-1) The in-plan and out-of-plan covered benefits for the standardized individual enrollee direct payment contracts established by this section and section four thousand three hundred twenty-one of this article shall not include drugs, procedures and supplies for the treatment of erectile dysfunction when provided to, or prescribed for use by, a person who is required to register as a sex offender pursuant to article six-C of the correction law, provided that: (1) any denial of coverage pursuant to this subsection shall provide the enrollee with the means of obtaining additional information concerning both the denial and the means of challenging such denial; (2) all drugs, procedures and supplies for the treatment of erectile dysfunction may be subject to prior authorization by health maintenance organizations or insurers for the purposes of implementing this subsection; and (3) the superintendent shall promulgate regulations to implement the denial of coverage pursuant to this subsection giving health maintenance organizations and insurers at least sixty days following promulgation of the regulations to implement their denial procedures pursuant to this subsection.

(b-2) No person or entity authorized to provide coverage under this section shall be subject to any civil or criminal liability for damages for any decision or action pursuant to subsection (b-1) of this section, made in the ordinary course of business if that authorized person or entity acted reasonably and in good faith with respect to such information.

(b-3) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, if the commissioner of health makes a finding pursuant to subdivision twenty-three of section two hundred six of the public health law, the superintendent is authorized to remove a drug, procedure or supply from the services covered by the contracts established by this section and section four thousand three hundred twenty-one of this article for those persons required to register as sex offenders pursuant to article six-C of the correction law.

(c) The in-plan benefit system shall impose a ten dollar copayment on all visits to a physician or other provider with the exception of visits for pre-natal and post-natal care, well child visits provided pursuant to paragraph two of subsection (j) of section four thousand three hundred three of this article, preventive health services provided pursuant to subparagraph (F) of paragraph four of subsection (b) of this section or items or services for bone mineral density provided pursuant to subparagraph (D) of paragraph twenty-six of subsection (b) of this section for which no copayment shall apply. A copayment of ten dollars shall be imposed on equipment, supplies and self-management education for the treatment of diabetes. Coinsurance of ten percent shall apply to visits for the diagnosis and treatment of mental, nervous or emotional disorders or ailments. A thirty-five dollar copayment shall be imposed on emergency services rendered in the emergency room of a hospital; however, this copayment must be waived if hospital admission results.

(d) The out-of-plan benefit system shall have an annual deductible established at one thousand dollars per calendar year for an individual and two thousand dollars per year for a family. Coinsurance shall be established at twenty percent with the health maintenance organization or insurer paying eighty percent of the usual, customary and reasonable charges, or eighty percent of the amounts listed on a fee schedule filed with and approved by the superintendent which provides a comparable level of reimbursement. Coinsurance of ten percent shall apply to outpatient visits for the diagnosis and treatment of mental, nervous or emotional disorders or ailments. The benefits described in subparagraph (F) of paragraph three and paragraphs seventeen and eighteen of subsection (b) of this section shall not be subject to the deductible or coinsurance. The benefits described in paragraph nine of subsection (b) of this section shall not be subject to the deductible. The out-of-plan out-of-pocket maximum deductible and coinsurance shall be established at three thousand dollars per calendar year for an individual and five thousand dollars per calendar year for a family. The out-of-plan lifetime benefit maximum shall be established at five hundred thousand dollars for benefits that are not essential health benefits. A lifetime limit on the dollar amount of essential health benefits for any individual shall not be established. For purposes of this subsection, "essential health benefits" shall have the meaning ascribed by section 1302(b) of the Affordable Care Act, 42 U.S.C. § 18022(b).

(e) The provisions of each contract describing administrative procedures and other provisions not affecting the scope of, or conditions for obtaining, covered benefits, such as, but not limited to, eligibility and termination provisions, may be of the type generally issued by the health maintenance organization and/or insurer, as long as the superintendent determines that the terms and description of those administrative and other provisions are unlikely to affect consumers' determinations of which health maintenance organization's contract to purchase and are not contrary to law. Each contract may also include limitations and conditions on coverage of benefits described in this section provided the superintendent determines the limitations and conditions on coverage were commonly included in the health maintenance organization and/or health insurance products covering individuals on a direct payment basis prior to January first, nineteen hundred ninety-six and are not contrary to law.

(f) A health maintenance organization may offer the required out-of-plan benefits by means of a rider to a contract offering in-plan benefits only.

(g) Day and visit limitations on benefits included in this section are aggregate limitations regardless of whether services are received in-plan or out-of-plan. The five thousand dollar per individual per calendar year limitation and ten thousand dollar lifetime limitation on private duty nursing is also an aggregate limitation for in-plan and out-of-plan benefits combined.

(h) The superintendent shall be authorized to modify, by regulation, the copayments, deductibles and coinsurance amounts described in this section, if the superintendent determines such amendments are necessary to moderate potential premiums. On or after January first, nineteen hundred ninety-eight, the superintendent shall be authorized to establish one or more additional standardized individual enrollee direct payment contracts if the superintendent determines, after one or more public hearings, additional contracts with different levels of benefits are necessary to meet the needs of the public.

(i) On and after January first, two thousand fourteen, each contract that is not a grandfathered health plan shall provide coverage for the essential health benefit package. For purposes of this subsection:

(1) "essential health benefits package" shall have the meaning set forth in section 1302(a) of the affordable care act, 42 U.S.C. § 18022(a); and

(2) "grandfathered health plan" means coverage provided by a corporation in which an individual was enrolled on March twenty-third, two thousand ten for as long as the coverage maintains grandfathered status in accordance with section 1251(e) of the affordable care act, 42 U.S.C. § 18011(e).

§ 4322-a. Fund for standardized individual enrollee direct payment contracts which provide out-of-plan benefits. (a) The superintendent shall establish a fund from which health maintenance organizations may receive reimbursement, to the extent of funds available therefor, for claims paid by such health maintenance organizations for members covered under standardized individual enrollee direct payment contracts which provide out-of-plan benefits issued pursuant to section four thousand three hundred twenty-two of this article. The fund established by the superintendent pursuant to this section shall be known as "the direct payment out-of-plan stop loss fund". Commencing in calendar year two thousand, health maintenance organizations shall be eligible to receive reimbursement from the direct payment out-of-plan stop loss fund for ninety percent of claims paid between twenty thousand and one hundred thousand dollars in a calendar year for any member covered under a contract issued pursuant to section four thousand three hundred twenty-two of this article. For the purposes of this section, claims shall include health care claims paid by a health maintenance organization on behalf of a covered member pursuant to contracts issued pursuant to section four thousand three hundred twenty-two of this article.

(b) The superintendent shall promulgate regulations that set forth procedures for the operation of the direct payment out-of-plan stop loss fund and the distribution of monies therefrom.

(c) Claims shall be reported and funds shall be distributed on a calendar year basis. Claims shall be eligible for reimbursement only for the calendar year in which the claims are paid. Once claims paid on behalf of a member reach or exceed one hundred thousand dollars in a given calendar year, no further claims paid on behalf of such member in that calendar year shall be eligible for reimbursement.

(d) Each health maintenance organization shall submit a request for reimbursement from the stop loss fund on a form prescribed by the superintendent. Such request for reimbursement shall be submitted no later than April first following the end of the calendar year for which the reimbursement request is being made. The superintendent may require health maintenance organizations to submit such claims data in connection with the reimbursement request as he deems necessary to enable him to distribute monies and oversee the operation of the direct payment out-of-plan stop loss fund. The superintendent may require that such data be submitted on a per member, aggregate and/or categorical basis.

(e) The superintendent shall calculate the total claims reimbursement amount for all health maintenance organizations for the calendar year for which claims are being reported.

(1) In the event that the total amount requested for reimbursement by all health maintenance organizations for a calendar year exceeds funds available for distribution for claims paid by all health maintenance organizations during that same calendar year, the superintendent shall provide for the pro-rata distribution of the available funds. Each health maintenance organization shall be eligible to receive only such proportionate amount of the available funds as the individual health maintenance organization's total eligible claims bears to the total eligible claims paid by all health maintenance organizations.

(2) In the event that (A) funds available for distribution for claims paid by all health maintenance organizations during a calendar year exceeds the total amount requested for reimbursement by all health maintenance organizations during that same calendar year, and (B) the total amount requested for reimbursement by all health maintenance organizations from the direct payment stop loss fund exceeds the amount available for distribution from such fund, then any excess funds shall be reallocated for distribution to the direct payment stop loss fund. Otherwise, such excess funds shall be carried forward and shall not affect the monies appropriated for the direct payment out-of-plan stop loss fund in the next calendar year.

(f) Upon the request of the superintendent, each health maintenance organization shall be required to furnish such data as the superintendent deems necessary to oversee the operation of the direct payment out-of-plan stop loss fund. Such data shall be furnished in a form prescribed by the superintendent.

(g) The superintendent may obtain the services of an organization to administer the direct payment out-of-plan stop loss fund. The superintendent shall establish guidelines for the submission of proposals by organizations for the purposes of administering the fund. The superintendent shall make a determination whether to approve, disapprove or recommend modification to the proposal of an applicant to administer the fund. An organization approved to administer the fund shall submit reports to the superintendent in such form and at times as may be required by the superintendent in order to facilitate evaluation and ensure orderly operation of the fund, including, but not limited to, an annual report of the affairs and operations of the fund, such report to be delivered to the superintendent and to the chairs of the senate finance committee and assembly ways and means committee. An organization approved to administer the fund shall maintain records in a form prescribed by the superintendent and which shall be available for inspection by or at the request of the superintendent. The superintendent shall determine the amount of compensation to be allocated to an approved organization as payment for fund administration. Compensation shall be payable from the direct payment out-of-plan stop loss fund. An organization approved to administer the fund may be removed by the superintendent and must cooperate in the orderly transition of services to another approved organization or to the superintendent.

(h) If the superintendent deems it appropriate for the proper administration of the direct payment out-of-plan stop loss fund, the administrator of the fund, on behalf of and with the prior approval of the superintendent, shall be authorized to purchase stop loss insurance and/or reinsurance from an insurance company licensed to write such type of insurance in this state. Such stop loss insurance and/or reinsurance may be purchased to the extent of funds available therefor within such funds which are available for purposes of the stop loss fund.

§ 4323. Marketing materials. (a) All health maintenance organizations issued a certificate of authority under article forty-four of the public health law or licensed under this article shall prepare, in conjunction with the superintendent, and shall participate in and share the cost of the publication and dissemination of a consumer's shopping guide for standardized individual health plans issued pursuant to sections four thousand three hundred twenty-one and four thousand three hundred twenty-two of this article and a separate consumer shopping guide for standardized qualifying individual health insurance contracts and standardized qualifying group health insurance contracts issued pursuant to section four thousand three hundred twenty-six of this article. The consumer's shopping guides shall be published annually and shall include the names, addresses and telephone numbers of all health maintenance organizations offering such coverage as well as a description of the plan design and premiums in such a manner that facilitates consumer comparison.

(b) Health maintenance organizations may distribute additional sales or marketing brochures describing the standardized coverage offered subject to review by the superintendent.

(c) All health maintenance organization marketing materials must be sufficiently clear to avoid deception or the capacity or tendency to mislead or deceive and may not disparage competitors.

§ 4324. Disclosure of information. The requirements of this section shall apply to all comprehensive, expense-reimbursed contracts; managed care products; or any other contract or product for which the superintendent deems such disclosure appropriate.

(a) Each health service, hospital service, or medical expense indemnity corporation subject to this article shall supply each subscriber, and upon request each prospective subscriber prior to enrollment, written disclosure information, which may be incorporated into the subscriber contract or certificate, containing at least the information set forth below. In the event of any inconsistency between any separate written disclosure statement and the subscriber contract or certificate, the terms of the subscriber contract or certificate shall be controlling. The information to be disclosed shall include at least the following:

(1) a description of coverage provisions; health care benefits; benefit maximums, including benefit limitations; and exclusions of coverage, including the definition of medical necessity used in determining whether benefits will be covered;

(2) a description of all prior authorization or other requirements for treatments and services;

(3) a description of utilization review policies and procedures, used by the corporation, including:

(A) the circumstances under which utilization review will be undertaken;

(B) the toll-free telephone number of the utilization review agent;

(C) the time frames under which utilization review decisions must be made for prospective, retrospective and concurrent decisions;

(D) the right to reconsideration;

(E) the right to an appeal, including the expedited and standard appeals processes and the time frames for such appeals;

(F) the right to designate a representative;

(G) a notice that all denials of claims will be made by qualified clinical personnel and that all notices of denials will include information about the basis of the decision;

(H) a notice of the right to an external appeal together with a description, jointly promulgated by the superintendent and the commissioner of health as required pursuant to subsection (e) of section four thousand nine hundred fourteen of this chapter, of the external appeal process established pursuant to title two of article forty-nine of this chapter and the time frames for such appeals; and

(I) further appeal rights, if any;

(4) a description prepared annually of the types of methodologies the corporation uses to reimburse providers, specifying the type of methodology that is used to reimburse particular types of providers or reimburse for the provision of particular types of services; provided, however, that nothing in this paragraph should be construed to require disclosure of individual contracts or the specific details of any financial arrangement between a corporation and a health care provider;

(5) an explanation of a subscriber's financial responsibility for payment of premiums, coinsurance, co-payments, deductibles and any other charges, annual limits on a subscriber's financial responsibility, caps on payments for covered services and financial responsibility for non-covered health care procedures, treatments or services;

(6) an explanation, where applicable, of a subscriber's financial responsibility for payment when services are provided by a health care provider who is not part of the corporation's network of providers or by any provider without required authorization;

(7) a description of the grievance procedures to be used to resolve disputes between the corporation and a subscriber, including: the right to file a grievance regarding any dispute between the corporation and a subscriber; the right to file a grievance orally when the dispute is about referrals or covered benefits; the toll-free telephone number which subscribers may use to file an oral grievance; the timeframes and circumstances for expedited and standard grievances; the right to appeal a grievance determination and the procedures for filing such an appeal; the timeframes and circumstances for expedited and standard appeals; the right to designate a representative; a notice that all disputes involving clinical decisions will be made by qualified clinical personnel and that all notices of determination will include information about the basis of the decision and further appeal rights, if any;

(8) a description of the procedure for obtaining emergency services. Such description shall include a definition of emergency services, notice that emergency services are not subject to prior approval, and shall describe the subscriber's financial and other responsibilities regarding obtaining such services including when such services are received outside the corporation's service area, if any;

(9) where applicable, a description of procedures for subscribers to select and access the corporation's primary and specialty care providers, including notice of how to determine whether a participating provider is accepting new patients;

(10) where applicable, a description of the procedures for changing primary and specialty care providers within the corporation's network of providers;

(11) where applicable, notice that a subscriber enrolled in a managed care product or in a comprehensive contract that utilizes a network of providers offered by the corporation may obtain a referral or preauthorization for a health care provider outside of the corporation's network or panel when the corporation does not have a health care provider who is geographically accessible to the insured and who has the appropriate training and experience in the network or panel to meet the particular health care needs of the subscriber and the procedure by which the subscriber can obtain such referral or preauthorization;

(12) where applicable, notice that a subscriber enrolled in a managed care product or a comprehensive contract that utilizes a network of providers offered by the corporation with a condition which requires ongoing care from a specialist may request a standing referral to such a specialist and the procedure for requesting and obtaining such a standing referral;

(13) where applicable, notice that a subscriber enrolled in a managed care product or a comprehensive contract that utilizes a network of providers offered by the corporation with (i) a life-threatening condition or disease, or (ii) a degenerative and disabling condition or disease, either of which requires specialized medical care over a prolonged period of time may request a specialist responsible for providing or coordinating the subscriber's medical care and the procedure for requesting and obtaining such a specialist;

(14) where applicable, notice that a subscriber enrolled in a managed care product or a comprehensive contract that utilizes a network of providers offered by the corporation with (A) a life-threatening condition or disease, or (B) a degenerative and disabling condition or disease, either of which requires specialized medical care over a prolonged period of time may request access to a specialty care center and the procedure by which such access may be obtained;

(15) a description of how the corporation addresses the needs of non-English speaking subscribers;

(16) notice of all appropriate mailing addresses and telephone numbers to be utilized by subscribers seeking information or authorization;

(16-a) where applicable, notice that an enrollee shall have direct access to primary and preventive obstetric and gynecologic services, including annual examinations, care resulting from such annual examinations, and treatment of acute gynecologic conditions, from a qualified provider of such services of her choice from within the plan or for any care related to a pregnancy;

* (17) where applicable, a listing by specialty, which may be in a separate document that is updated annually, of the name, address, telephone number, and digital contact information of all participating providers, including facilities, and: (A) whether the provider is accepting new patients; (B) in the case of mental health or substance use disorder services providers, any affiliations with participating facilities certified or authorized by the office of mental health or the office of addiction services and supports, and any restrictions regarding the availability of the individual provider's services; (C) in the case of physicians, board certification, languages spoken and any affiliations with participating hospitals. The listing shall also be posted on the corporation's website and the corporation shall update the website within fifteen days of the addition or termination of a provider from the corporation's network or a change in a physician's hospital affiliation;

* NB Effective until January 1, 2027

* (17) where applicable, a listing by specialty, which may be in a separate document that is updated annually, of the name, address, telephone number, and digital contact information of all participating providers, including facilities, and: (A) whether the provider is accepting new patients; (B) in the case of mental health or substance-related and addictive disorder services providers, any affiliations with participating facilities certified or authorized by the office of mental health or the office of addiction services and supports, and any restrictions regarding the availability of the individual provider's services; (C) in the case of physicians, board certification, languages spoken and any affiliations with participating hospitals. The listing shall also be posted on the corporation's website and the corporation shall update the website within fifteen days of the addition or termination of a provider from the corporation's network or a change in a physician's hospital affiliation;

* NB Effective January 1, 2027

(18) a description of the mechanisms by which subscribers may participate in the development of the policies of the corporation;

(19) the method by which a subscriber may submit a claim for health care services;

(20) with respect to out-of-network coverage:

(A) a clear description of the methodology used by the corporation to determine reimbursement for out-of-network health care services;

(B) a description of the amount that the corporation will reimburse under the methodology for out-of-network health care services set forth as a percentage of the usual and customary cost for out-of-network health care services; and

(C) examples of anticipated out-of-pocket costs for frequently billed out-of-network health care services;

(21) information in writing and through an internet website that reasonably permits a subscriber or prospective subscriber to estimate the anticipated out-of-pocket cost for out-of-network health care services in a geographical area or zip code based upon the difference between what the corporation will reimburse for out-of-network health care services and the usual and customary cost for out-of-network health care services; and

(22) the most recent comparative analysis performed by the corporation to assess the provision of its covered services in accordance with the Paul Wellstone and Pete Domenici Mental Health Parity and Addiction Equity Act of 2008, 42 U.S.C. 18031 (j), and any amendments to, and federal guidance or regulations issued under, those Acts.

(b) Each health service, hospital service, or medical expense indemnity corporation subject to this article, upon request of a subscriber or prospective subscriber shall:

(1) provide a list of the names, business addresses and official positions of the membership of the board of directors, officers, and members of the corporation;

(2) provide a copy of the most recent annual certified financial statement of the corporation, including a balance sheet and summary of receipts and disbursements prepared by a certified public accountant;

(3) provide a copy of the most recent individual, direct pay subscriber contracts;

(4) provide information relating to consumer complaints compiled pursuant to section two hundred ten of this chapter;

(5) provide the procedures for protecting the confidentiality of medical records and other subscriber information;

(6) where applicable, to allow subscribers and prospective subscribers to inspect drug formularies used by such corporation; and provided further, that the corporation shall also disclose whether individual drugs are included or excluded from coverage to a subscriber or prospective subscriber who requests this information;

(7) provide a written description of the organizational arrangements and ongoing procedures of the corporation's quality assurance program, if any;

(8) provide a description of the procedures followed by the corporation in making decisions about the experimental or investigational nature of individual drugs, medical devices or treatments in clinical trials;

(9) provide individual health practitioner affiliations with participating hospitals, if any;

(10) upon written request, provide specific written clinical review criteria relating to a particular condition or disease including clinical review criteria relating to a step therapy protocol override determination pursuant to subsection (c-1), subsection (c-2) and subsection (c-3) of section forty-nine hundred three of this chapter, and, where appropriate, other clinical information which the corporation might consider in its utilization review and the corporation may include with the information a description of how it will be used in the utilization review process; provided, however, that to the extent such information is proprietary to the corporation, the subscriber or prospective subscriber shall only use the information for the purposes of assisting the subscriber or prospective subscriber in evaluating the covered services provided by the organization. Such clinical review criteria, and other clinical information shall also be made available to a health care professional as defined in subsection (f) of section forty-nine hundred of this chapter, on behalf of an insured and upon written request;

(11) where applicable, provide the written application procedures and minimum qualification requirements for health care providers to be considered by the corporation for participation in the corporation's network for a managed care product;

(12) disclose such other information as required by the superintendent, provided that such requirements are promulgated pursuant to the state administrative procedure act;

(13) disclose whether a health care provider scheduled to provide a health care service is an in-network provider; and

(14) with respect to out-of-network coverage, disclose the approximate dollar amount that the corporation will pay for a specific out-of-network health care service. The corporation shall also inform the insured through such disclosure that such approximation is not binding on the corporation and that the approximate dollar amount that the corporation will pay for a specific out-of-network health care service may change.

(c) Nothing in this section shall prevent a corporation from changing or updating the materials that are made available to subscribers.

(d) As to any program where the subscriber must select a primary care provider, if a participating primary care provider becomes unavailable to provide services to a subscriber, the corporation shall provide written notice within fifteen days from the time the corporation becomes aware of such unavailability to each subscriber who has chosen the provider as their primary care provider. If a subscriber is enrolled in a managed care product and is in an ongoing course of treatment with any other participating provider who becomes unavailable to continue to provide services to such subscriber, and the corporation is aware of such ongoing course of treatment, the corporation shall provide written notice within fifteen days from the time the corporation becomes aware of such unavailability to such subscriber. Each notice shall also describe the procedures for continuing care pursuant to subsections (e) and (f) of section forty-eight hundred four of this chapter and for choosing an alternative provider.

(e) For purposes of this section, a "managed care product" shall mean a contract which requires that all medical or other health care services covered under the contract, other than emergency care services, be provided by, or pursuant to a referral from, a designated health care provider chosen by the subscriber (i.e. a primary care gatekeeper), and that services provided pursuant to such a referral be rendered by a health care provider participating in the corporation's managed care provider network. In addition, in the case of (i) an individual health insurance contract, or (ii) a group health insurance contract covering no more than three hundred lives, imposing a coinsurance obligation of more than twenty-five percent upon services received outside of the corporation's managed care provider network, and which has been sold to five or more groups, a managed care product shall also mean a contract which requires that all medical or other health care services covered under the contract, other than emergency care services, be provided by, or pursuant to a referral from, a designated health care provider chosen by the subscriber (i.e. a primary care gatekeeper), and that services provided pursuant to such a referral be rendered by a health care provider participating in the corporation's managed care provider network, in order for the subscriber to be entitled to the maximum reimbursement under the contract.

(f) For purposes of this section, "usual and customary cost" shall mean the eightieth percentile of all charges for the particular health care service performed by a provider in the same or similar specialty and provided in the same geographical area as reported in a benchmarking database maintained by a nonprofit organization specified by the superintendent. The nonprofit organization shall not be affiliated with an insurer, a corporation subject to this article, a municipal cooperative health benefit plan certified pursuant to article forty-seven of this chapter, or a health maintenance organization certified pursuant to article forty-four of the public health law.

(g) (1) As used in this subsection:

(A) "Pharmacy benefit manager" shall have the meaning set forth in section two hundred eighty-a of the public health law.

(B) "Cost-sharing information" means the amount a subscriber is required to pay to receive a drug that is covered under the subscriber's insurance contract.

(C) "Covered/coverage" means those health care services to which a subscriber is entitled under the terms of the insurance contract.

(D) "Electronic health record" means a digital version of a patient's paper chart and medical history that makes information available instantly and securely to authorized users.

(E) "Electronic prescribing system" means a system that enables prescribers to enter prescription information into a computer prescription device and securely transmit the prescription to pharmacies using a special software program and connectivity to a transmission network.

(F) "Electronic prescription" shall have the meaning set forth in section thirty-three hundred two of the public health law.

(G) "Prescriber" means a health care provider licensed to prescribe medication or medical devices in this state.

(H) "Real-time benefit tool" or "RTBT" means an electronic prescription decision support tool that: (i) is capable of integrating with prescribers' electronic prescribing system and, if feasible, electronic health record systems; and (ii) complies with the technical standards adopted by an American National Standards Institute (ANSI) accredited standards development organization.

(I) "Authorized third party" shall include a third party legally authorized under state or federal law subject to a Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act (HIPAA) business associate agreement.

(2) The provisions of this section shall not apply to any health plan that exclusively serves individuals enrolled pursuant to a federal or state insurance affordability program, including the medical assistance program under title eleven of article five of the social services law, child health plus under section twenty-five hundred eleven of the public health law, the basic health program under section three hundred sixty-nine-gg of the social services law, or a plan providing services under title XVIII of the federal social security act.

(3) A health service, hospital service, or medical expense indemnity corporation subject to this article or pharmacy benefit manager shall, upon request of the subscriber, the subscriber's health care provider, or an authorized third party on the subscriber's behalf, made to the health service, hospital service, or medical expense indemnity corporation or pharmacy benefit manager, furnish the cost, benefit, and coverage data required by this subsection to the subscriber, the subscriber's health care provider, or the authorized third party and shall ensure that such data is: (A) current no later than one business day after any change to the cost, benefit, or coverage data is made; (B) provided through a RTBT when the request is made by the subscriber's health care provider; and (C) in a format that is easily accessible to the requestor.

(4) When providing the data required by paragraph three of this subsection, the health service, hospital service, or medical expense indemnity corporation or pharmacy benefit manager shall use established industry content and transport standards published by:

(A) a standards developing organization accredited by the American National Standards Institute (ANSI), including, the National Council for Prescription Drug Programs (NCPDP), ASC X12, Health Level 7; or

(B) a relevant federal or state governing body, including the Center for Medicare & Medicaid Services or the Office of the National Coordinator for Health Information Technology.

(C) another format deemed acceptable to the department which provides the data prescribed in paragraph three of this subsection and in the same timeliness as required by this section.

(5) A facsimile shall not be considered an acceptable electronic format pursuant to this subsection.

(6) Upon a request made pursuant to paragraph three of this subsection, the health service, hospital service, or medical expense indemnity corporation or pharmacy benefit manager shall provide the following data for any drug covered under the subscriber's insurance contract:

(A) subscriber-specific eligibility information;

(B) subscriber-specific prescription cost and benefit data, such as applicable formulary, benefit, coverage, and cost-sharing data for the prescribed drug and clinically-appropriate alternatives, when appropriate;

(C) subscriber-specific cost-sharing information that describes variance in cost-sharing based on the pharmacy dispensing the prescribed drug or its alternatives, and in relation to the insured's benefit; and

(D) applicable utilization management requirements.

(7) A health service, hospital service, or medical expense indemnity corporation or pharmacy benefit manager shall furnish the data as required whether the request is made using the drug's unique billing code, such as a National Drug Code or Healthcare Common Procedure Coding System code or descriptive term. A health service, hospital service, or medical expense indemnity corporation or pharmacy benefit manager shall not deny or unreasonably delay processing a request.

(8) A health service, hospital service, or medical expense indemnity corporation and pharmacy benefit manager shall not, except as may be required or authorized by law, interfere with, prevent, or materially discourage access, exchange, or use of the data as required; nor shall a health service, hospital service, or medical expense indemnity corporation or pharmacy benefit manager penalize a health care provider for disclosing such information to a subscriber or legally prescribing, administering, or ordering a lower cost, clinically appropriate alternative.

(9) Nothing in this subsection shall be construed to limit access to the most up-to-date subscriber-specific eligibility or subscriber-specific prescription cost and benefit data by the health service, hospital service, or medical expense indemnity corporation or pharmacy benefit manager.

(10) Nothing in this subsection shall interfere with subscriber choice and a health care provider's ability to convey the full range of prescription drug cost options to a subscriber. Health service, hospital service, or medical expense indemnity corporations and pharmacy benefit managers shall not restrict a health care provider from communicating to the subscriber prescription cost options.

§ 4325. Prohibitions. (a) No corporation organized under this article shall by contract, written policy or written procedure prohibit or restrict any health care provider from disclosing to any subscriber, designated representative or, where appropriate, prospective subscriber, (hereinafter collectively referred to as subscriber) any information that such provider deems appropriate regarding:

(1) a condition or a course of treatment with a subscriber including the availability of other therapies, consultations, or tests; or

(2) the provisions, terms, or requirements of the corporation's products as they relate to the subscriber.

(b) No corporation organized under this article shall by contract, written policy, written procedure or practice prohibit or restrict any health care provider from filing a complaint, making a report or commenting to an appropriate governmental body regarding the policies or practices of such corporation which the provider believes may negatively impact upon the quality of or access to patient care. Nor shall a corporation organized under this article take any adverse action, including but not limited to refusing to renew or execute a contract or agreement with a health care provider as retaliation against a health care provider for filing a complaint, making a report or commenting to an appropriate governmental body regarding policies or practices of such corporation which may violate this chapter including subsection (g), (k), (1), (1-1) or (1-2) of section forty-three hundred three of this article.

(c) No corporation organized under this article shall by contract, written policy or written procedure prohibit or restrict any health care provider from advocating to the corporation on behalf of the subscriber for approval or coverage of a particular course of treatment.

(d) No contract or agreement between a corporation organized under this article and a health care provider shall contain any clause purporting to transfer to the health care provider by indemnification or otherwise any liability relating to activities, actions or omissions of the corporation as opposed to the health care provider.

(e) Contracts entered into between an insurer and a health care provider shall include terms which prescribe:

(1) the method by which payments to a provider, including any prospective or retrospective adjustments thereto, shall be calculated;

(2) the time periods within which such calculations will be completed, the dates upon which any such payments and adjustments shall be determined to be due, and the rates upon which any such payments and adjustments will be made;

(3) a description of the records or information relied upon to calculate any such payments and adjustments, and a description of how the provider can access a summary of such calculations and adjustments;

(4) the process to be employed to resolve disputed incorrect or incomplete records or information and to adjust any such payments and adjustments which have been calculated by relying on any such incorrect or incomplete records or information so disputed; provided, however, that nothing herein shall be deemed to authorize or require the disclosure of personally identifiable patient information or information related to other individual health care providers or the plan's proprietary data collection systems, software or quality assurance or utilization review methodologies; and

(5) the right of either party to the contract to seek resolution of a dispute arising pursuant to the payment terms of such contract through a proceeding under article seventy-five of the civil practice law and rules.

(f) No contract entered into between an insurer and a health care provider shall be enforceable if it includes terms which transfer financial risk to providers, in a manner inconsistent with the provisions of paragraph (c) of subdivision one of section forty-four hundred three of the public health law, or penalize providers for unfavorable case mix so as to jeopardize the quality of or insureds' appropriate access to medically necessary services; provided, however, that payment at less than prevailing fee for service rates or capitation shall not be deemed or presumed prima facie to jeopardize quality or access.

(g)(1) No insurer shall implement an adverse reimbursement change to a contract with a health care professional that is otherwise permitted by the contract, unless, prior to the effective date of the change, the insurer gives the health care professional with whom the insurer has directly contracted and who is impacted by the adverse reimbursement change, at least ninety days written notice of the change. If the contracting health care professional objects to the change that is the subject of the notice by the insurer, the health care professional may, within thirty days of the date of the notice, give written notice to the insurer to terminate his or her contract with the insurer effective upon the implementation date of the adverse reimbursement change. For the purposes of this subsection, the term "adverse reimbursement change" shall mean a proposed change that could reasonably be expected to have a material adverse impact on the aggregate level of payment to a health care professional, and the term "health care professional" shall mean a health care professional licensed, registered or certified pursuant to title eight of the education law. The notice provisions required by this subsection shall not apply where: (A) such change is otherwise required by law, regulation or applicable regulatory authority, or is required as a result of changes in fee schedules, reimbursement methodology or payment policies established by a government agency or by the American Medical Association's current procedural terminology (CPT) codes, reporting guidelines and conventions; or (B) such change is expressly provided for under the terms of the contract by the inclusion of or reference to a specific fee or fee schedule, reimbursement methodology or payment policy indexing mechanism.

(2) Nothing in this subsection shall create a private right of action on behalf of a health care professional against an insurer for violations of this subsection.

(h) No corporation or insurer organized or licensed under this chapter which provides coverage for prescription drugs shall require, or enter into a contract which permits, a copayment which exceeds the usual and customary cost of such prescribed drug.

(i) Any contract provision, written policy or written procedure in violation of this section shall be deemed to be void and unenforceable.

* (j) If a contract between a corporation and a hospital is not renewed or is terminated by either party, the parties shall continue to abide by the terms of such contract, including reimbursement terms, for a period of two months from the effective date of termination or, in the case of a non-renewal, from the end of the contract period. Notice shall be provided to all subscribers potentially affected by such termination or non-renewal within fifteen days after commencement of the two-month period. The commissioner of health shall have the authority to waive the two-month period upon the request of either party to a contract that is being terminated for cause. This subsection shall not apply where both parties mutually agree in writing to the termination or non-renewal and the corporation provides notice to the subscriber at least thirty days in advance of the date of contract termination.

* NB Repealed June 30, 2027

(k) (1) No corporation organized under this article shall by written contract, written policy or procedure, or by any other means, deny payment to a general hospital certified pursuant to article twenty-eight of the public health law for a claim for medically necessary inpatient services, observation services, or emergency department services provided by a general hospital solely on the basis that the general hospital did not comply with certain administrative requirements of such corporation with respect to those services.

(2) Nothing in this subsection shall preclude a general hospital and a corporation from agreeing to certain administrative requirements relating to payment for inpatient services, observation services, or emergency department services, including, but not limited to timely notification that medically necessary inpatient services have been provided and to reductions in payment for failure to comply with certain administrative requirements including timely notification; provided, however that: (A) any requirement for timely notification must provide for a reasonable extension of timeframes for notification for services provided on weekends or federal holidays, (B) any agreed to reduction in payment for failure to meet administrative requirements including timely notification shall not exceed seven and one-half percent of the payment amount otherwise due for the services provided, and (C) any agreed to reduction in payment for failure to meet administrative requirements including timely notification shall not be imposed if the patient's insurance coverage could not be determined by the hospital after reasonable efforts at the time the services were provided.

(3) The provisions of this subsection shall not apply to the denial of a claim: (A) based on a reasonable belief of a corporation of fraud or intentional misconduct resulting in misrepresentation of patient diagnosis or the services provided, or abusive billing by a corporation; (B) when required by a state or federal government program or coverage that is provided by this state or a municipality thereof to its respective employees, retirees or members; (C) that is a duplicate claim, is a claim submitted late pursuant to subsection (g) of section thirty-two hundred twenty-four-a of this article, or is for services for a benefit that is not covered under the insured's contract or for a patient determined to be ineligible for coverage; (D) except in the case of medically necessary inpatient services resulting from an emergency admission, where there is not an existing participating provider agreement between such corporation and a general hospital; or (E) where the hospital has repeatedly and systematically, over the previous twelve month period, failed to seek prior authorization for services for which prior authorization was required.

(4) For purposes of this subsection, an "administrative requirement" shall not include requirements: (A) imposed on a corporation or provider pursuant to federal or state laws, regulations or guidance; (B) established by the state or federal government applicable to corporations offering benefits under a state or federal government program.

(5) The prohibition on denials set forth in this subsection shall not apply to claims for services for which a request for preauthorization was denied by the corporation prior to delivery of the service.

(l) A corporation organized under this article shall not require a prior authorization determination for services provided in a neonatal intensive care unit of a general hospital certified pursuant to article twenty-eight of the public health law. Nothing in this subsection shall prohibit a corporation organized under this article from denying a claim for such services if the services are subsequently determined not medically necessary.

(m) At least sixty days prior to the termination of a contract between a hospital and an organization, the parties shall utilize a mutually agreed upon mediator to assist in resolving any outstanding contractual issues. The results of the mediation shall not be binding on the parties.

* (n) A contract between a corporation and a health care provider shall include a provision that requires the health care provider to have in place business processes to ensure the timely provision of provider directory information to the corporation. A health care provider shall submit such provider directory information to a corporation, at a minimum, when a provider begins or terminates a network agreement with a corporation, when there are material changes to the content of the provider directory information of the health care provider, and at any other time, including upon the corporation's request, as the health care provider determines to be appropriate. For purposes of this subsection, "provider directory information" shall include the name, address, specialty, telephone number, and digital contact information of such health care provider; whether the provider is accepting new patients; for mental health and substance use disorder services providers, any affiliations with participating facilities certified or authorized by the office of mental health or the office of addiction services and supports, and any restrictions regarding the availability of the individual provider's services; and in the case of physicians, board certification, languages spoken, and any affiliations with participating hospitals.

* NB Effective until January 1, 2027

* (n) A contract between a corporation and a health care provider shall include a provision that requires the health care provider to have in place business processes to ensure the timely provision of provider directory information to the corporation. A health care provider shall submit such provider directory information to a corporation, at a

(o) A contract between a corporation and a health care provider shall include a provision that states that the provider shall reimburse the insured for the full amount paid by the insured in excess of the in-network cost-sharing amount, plus interest at an interest rate determined by the superintendent in accordance with 42 U.S.C. § 300gg-139(b), for the services involved when the insured is provided with inaccurate network status information by the corporation in a provider directory or in response to a request that stated that the provider was a participating provider when the provider was not a participating provider. In the event the corporation provides inaccurate network status information to the insured indicating the provider was a participating provider when such provider was not a participating provider, the corporation shall reimburse the provider for the out-of-network services regardless of whether the insured's coverage includes out-of-network services. Nothing in this subsection shall prohibit a health care provider from requiring in the terms of a contract with a corporation that the corporation remove, at the time of termination of such contract, the provider from the corporation's provider directory or that the corporation bear financial responsibility for providing inaccurate network status information to an insured.

(p) (1) A corporation organized under this article may pay a claim for reimbursement made by a provider using a credit card, virtual credit card, or electronic funds transfer payment method that imposes on the provider a specifically identified fee or similar charge dedicated to process the payment if in advance of using such reimbursement method:

(A) The corporation notifies the provider of the potential fees or other charges associated with the use of the credit card, virtual credit card, or electronic funds transfer payment;

(B) The corporation offers the provider an alternative payment method that does not impose fees or similar charges on the provider; and

(C) The provider or a designee of the provider elects to accept payment of the claim using the credit card, virtual credit card, or electronic funds transfer payment method. Such payment type election shall be made by the provider within thirty days of receipt of the notice from the insurer. If the provider fails to make any payment type election within thirty days, the insurer shall pay the provider using the alternative payment method offered in the notice unless the insurer is unable to pay the provider using that alternative method due to the insurer lacking information necessary to make the alternative payment. In that instance, the insurer may use another fee-free method of payment in order to meet the timeframes established in section three thousand two hundred twenty-four-a of this chapter.

(2) A decision pursuant to paragraph one of this subsection shall remain in effect until the provider notifies the corporation, in writing, of a change to the designated payment type.

(3) If a corporation contracts with a vendor to process payments of providers' claims, the insurer shall require the vendor to comply with the provisions of paragraph one of this subsection. This paragraph shall not apply to a vendor used by the provider in order to receive payments from an insurer.

(4) No contract between a corporation organized under this article and provider issued, renewed, modified, altered or amended after the effective date of this subsection shall contain provisions allowing for waiver of the notice requirements contained in this subsection.

(5) For any contract that is in effect on or before the effective date of this subsection or that is entered into, amended or renewed on or after the effective date of this subsection, a corporation that initiates a payment to a provider using, or changes the payment method to, a health care electronic funds transfers and remittance advice transaction shall not charge a fee solely to transmit the payment to the provider unless the provider elects to accept payment in accordance with subparagraph (C) of paragraph one of this subsection.

(6) For purposes of this subsection, the following terms shall have the following meanings:

(A) "Provider" shall mean a health care professional or a group of health care professionals licensed pursuant to title eight of the education law that has a participating provider contract with a corporation to provide health care services to an insured.

(B) "Virtual credit card" shall mean a single-use series of numbers linked to a fixed dollar amount and provided by a corporation organized under this article to a provider for the purpose of paying a claim for health care services performed by the provider.

§ 4326. Standardized health insurance contracts for qualifying small employers and individuals. (a) A program is hereby established for the purpose of making standardized health insurance contracts available to qualifying small employers as defined in this section. Such program is designed to encourage small employers to offer health insurance coverage to their employees.

(b) Participation in the program established by this section and section four thousand three hundred twenty-seven of this article is limited to corporations or insurers organized or licensed under this article or article forty-two of this chapter and health maintenance organizations issued a certificate of authority under article forty-four of the public health law or licensed under this article. Participation by all health maintenance organizations is mandatory, provided, however, that such requirements shall not apply to a holder of a special purpose certificate of authority issued pursuant to section four thousand four hundred three-a of the public health law or a health maintenance organization exclusively serving individuals enrolled pursuant to title eleven of article five of the social services law, title eleven-D of article five of the social services law, title one-A of article twenty-five of the public health law or title eighteen of the federal Social Security Act. On and after January first, two thousand one, all health maintenance organizations shall offer qualifying group health insurance contracts as defined in this section. For the purposes of this section and section four thousand three hundred twenty-seven of this article, article forty-three corporations or article forty-two insurers which voluntarily participate in compliance with the requirements of this program shall be eligible for reimbursement from the stop loss funds created pursuant to section four thousand three hundred twenty-seven of this article under the same terms and conditions as health maintenance organizations.

(c) The following definitions shall be applicable to the insurance contracts offered under the program established by this section:

(1) (A) A qualifying small employer is an employer with:

(i) not more than fifty employees;

(ii) no group health insurance that provides benefits on an expense reimbursed or prepaid basis covering employees in effect during the twelve month period prior to application for a qualifying group health insurance contract under the program established by this section; and

(iii) at least thirty percent of its employees receiving annual wages from the employer at a level equal to or less than thirty thousand dollars. The thirty thousand dollar figure shall be adjusted periodically pursuant to subparagraph (D) of this paragraph.

(B) The twelve month period set forth in item (ii) of subparagraph (A) of this paragraph may be adjusted by the superintendent from twelve months to eighteen months if he determines that the twelve month period is insufficient to prevent inappropriate substitution of qualifying group health insurance contracts for other health insurance contracts.

(C) An employer shall cease to be a qualifying small employer if any health insurance that provides benefits on an expense reimbursed or prepaid basis covering an employer's employees, other than qualifying group health insurance purchased pursuant to this section, is purchased or otherwise takes effect subsequent to purchase of qualifying group health insurance under the program established by this section.

(D) The wage levels utilized in subparagraph (A) of this paragraph shall be adjusted annually, beginning in two thousand two. The adjustment shall take effect on July first of each year. For July first, two thousand two, the adjustment shall be a percentage of the annual wage figure specified in subparagraph (A) of this paragraph. For subsequent years, the adjustment shall be a percentage of the annual wage figure that took effect on July first of the prior year. The percentage adjustment shall be the same percentage by which the current year's non-farm federal poverty level, as defined and updated by the federal department of health and human services, for a family unit of four persons for the forty-eight contiguous states and Washington, D.C., changed from the same level established for the prior year.

(2) A qualifying group health insurance contract is a group contract purchased from a health maintenance organization, corporation or insurer by a qualifying small employer that provides the benefits set forth in subsection (d) of this section. The contract must insure not less than fifty percent of the employees.

(d) A qualifying group health insurance contract shall provide coverage for the essential health benefits package as defined in paragraph three of subsection (e) of section four thousand three hundred six-h of this article.

(d-1) Covered services shall not include drugs, procedures and supplies for the treatment of erectile dysfunction when provided to, or prescribed for use by, a person who is required to register as a sex offender pursuant to article six-C of the correction law, provided that: (1) any denial of coverage pursuant to this subsection shall provide the enrollee with the means of obtaining additional information concerning both the denial and the means of challenging such denial; (2) all drugs, procedures and supplies for the treatment of erectile dysfunction may be subject to prior authorization by corporations, insurers or health maintenance organizations for the purposes of implementing this subsection; and (3) the superintendent shall promulgate regulations to implement the denial of coverage pursuant to this subsection giving health maintenance organizations, corporations and insurers at least sixty days following promulgation of the regulations to implement their denial procedures pursuant to this subsection.

(d-2) No person or entity authorized to provide coverage under this section shall be subject to any civil or criminal liability for damages for any decision or action pursuant to subsection (d-1) of this section, made in the ordinary course of business if that authorized person or entity acted reasonably and in good faith with respect to such information.

(d-3) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, if the commissioner of health makes a finding pursuant to subdivision twenty-three of section two hundred six of the public health law, the superintendent is authorized to remove a drug, procedure or supply from the services covered by the standardized health insurance contract established by this section for those persons required to register as sex offenders pursuant to article six-C of the correction law.

(e) A qualifying group health insurance contract shall provide a level of coverage that is designed to provide benefits that are actuarially equivalent to eighty percent of the full actuarial value of the benefits provided under the plan. The superintendent shall standardize the benefit package and cost sharing requirements of qualified group health insurance contracts consistent with coverage offered through the health benefit exchange established by this state.

(f) The mandated and make-available benefits set forth in sections three thousand two hundred twenty-one of this chapter and four thousand three hundred three of this article shall not be applicable to the contracts issued pursuant to this section.

(g) A health maintenance organization, corporation or insurer must offer the benefit package without change or additional benefits. A qualifying small employer shall be issued the benefit package in a qualifying group health insurance contract.

(h) A health maintenance organization, corporation or insurer shall obtain from the employer written certification at the time of initial application and annually thereafter ninety days prior to the contract renewal date that such employer meets the requirements of a qualifying small employer pursuant to this section. A health maintenance organization, corporation or insurer may require the submission of appropriate documentation in support of the certification.

(i) Applications for qualifying group health insurance contracts must be accepted from any qualifying small employer at all times throughout the year. The superintendent, by regulation, may require health maintenance organizations, corporations or insurers to give preference to qualifying small employers whose employees have the lowest average salaries.

(j) A corporation shall not impose any pre-existing condition limitation in a qualifying group health insurance contract.

(k) A qualifying small employer shall elect whether to make coverage under the qualifying group health insurance contract available to dependents of employees. Any employee or dependent who is enrolled in Medicare is ineligible for coverage, unless required by federal law. Dependents of an employee who is enrolled in Medicare will be eligible for dependent coverage provided the dependent is not also enrolled in Medicare.

(l) A qualifying small employer must pay at least fifty percent of the premium for employees covered under a qualifying group health insurance contract and must offer coverage to all employees receiving annual wages at a level of thirty thousand dollars or less, and at least one such employee shall accept such coverage. The thirty thousand dollar wage level shall be adjusted periodically in accordance with subparagraph (D) of paragraph one of subsection (c) of this section. The employer premium contribution must be the same percentage for all covered employees.

(m) Premium rate calculations for qualifying group health insurance contracts shall be subject to the following:

(1) coverage must be community rated and the superintendent shall set standard rating tiers for family units and standard rating relativities between tiers applicable to all contracts subject to this section; and

(2) beginning January first, two thousand fourteen, every policy subject to this section shall use standardized regions established by the superintendent; and

(3) claims experience under contracts issued to qualifying small employers must be pooled with the health maintenance organization, corporation or insurer's small group business for rate setting purposes.

(n) A health maintenance organization, corporation or insurer shall submit reports to the superintendent in such form and at times as may be reasonably required in order to evaluate the operations and results of the standardized health insurance program established by this section.

§ 4327. Stop loss funds for standardized health insurance contracts issued to qualifying small employers and qualifying individuals. (a) The superintendent shall establish a fund from which health maintenance organizations, corporations or insurers may receive reimbursement, to the extent of funds available therefor, for claims paid by such health maintenance organizations, corporations or insurers for members covered under qualifying group health insurance contracts issued pursuant to section four thousand three hundred twenty-six of this article. This fund shall be known as the "small employer stop loss fund".

(b) Health maintenance organizations, corporations or insurers shall be eligible to receive reimbursement for ninety percent of claims paid between five thousand and seventy-five thousand dollars in a calendar year for any member covered under a standardized contract issued pursuant to section four thousand three hundred twenty-six of this article. Claims paid for members covered under qualifying group health insurance contracts shall be reimbursable from the small employer stop loss fund. For the purposes of this section, claims shall include health care claims paid by a health maintenance organization on behalf of a covered member pursuant to such standardized contracts.

(c) The superintendent shall promulgate regulations that set forth procedures for the operation of the small employer stop loss fund and distribution of monies therefrom.

(d) The superintendent may adjust the level of stop loss coverage specified in subsection (b) of this section.

(e) Claims shall be reported and funds shall be distributed from the small employer stop loss fund on a calendar year basis. Claims shall be eligible for reimbursement only for the calendar year in which the claims are paid. Once claims paid on behalf of a covered member reach or exceed one hundred thousand dollars in a given calendar year, no further claims paid on behalf of such member in that calendar year shall be eligible for reimbursement.

(f) Each health maintenance organization, corporation or insurer shall submit a request for reimbursement from the stop loss fund on forms prescribed by the superintendent. The requests for reimbursement shall be submitted no later than April first following the end of the calendar year for which the reimbursement requests are being made. The superintendent may require health maintenance organizations, corporations or insurers to submit such claims data in connection with the reimbursement requests as he deems necessary to enable him to distribute monies and oversee the operation of the small employer stop loss fund. The superintendent may require that such data be submitted on a per member, aggregate and/or categorical basis.

(g) For the stop loss fund, the superintendent shall calculate the total claims reimbursement amount for all health maintenance organizations, corporations or insurers for the calendar year for which claims are being reported.

(1) In the event that the total amount requested for reimbursement for a calendar year exceeds funds available for distribution for claims paid during that same calendar year, the superintendent shall provide for the pro-rata distribution of the available funds. Each health maintenance organization, corporation or insurer shall be eligible to receive only such proportionate amount of the available funds as the individual health maintenance organization's, corporation's or insurer's total eligible claims paid bears to the total eligible claims paid by all health maintenance organizations, corporations or insurers.

(2) In the event that funds available for distribution for claims paid by all health maintenance organizations, corporations or insurers during a calendar year exceeds the total amount requested for reimbursement by all health maintenance organizations, corporations or insurers during that same calendar year, any excess funds shall be carried forward and made available for distribution in the next calendar year. Such excess funds shall be in addition to the monies appropriated for the stop loss fund in the next calendar year.

(h) Upon the request of the superintendent, each health maintenance organization shall be required to furnish such data as the superintendent deems necessary to oversee the operation of the small employer stop loss fund. Such data shall be furnished in a form prescribed by the superintendent. Each health maintenance organization, corporation or insurer shall provide the superintendent with monthly reports of the total enrollment under the qualifying group health insurance contracts issued pursuant to section four thousand three hundred twenty-six of this article. The reports shall be in a form prescribed by the superintendent.

(i) The superintendent shall separately estimate the per member annual cost of total claims reimbursement from each stop loss fund for qualifying group health insurance contracts based upon available data and appropriate actuarial assumptions. Upon request, each health maintenance organization, corporation or insurer shall furnish to the superintendent claims experience data for use in such estimations.

(j) The superintendent shall determine total eligible enrollment under qualifying group health insurance contracts. The total eligible enrollment shall be determined by dividing the total funds available for distribution from the small employer stop loss fund by the estimated per member annual cost of total claims reimbursement from the small employer stop loss fund.

(k) The superintendent shall suspend the enrollment of new employers under qualifying group health insurance contracts if the superintendent determines that the total enrollment reported by all health maintenance organizations, corporations or insurers under such contracts exceeds the total eligible enrollment, thereby resulting in anticipated annual expenditures from the small employer stop loss fund in excess of the total funds available for distribution from such stop loss fund.

(l) The superintendent shall provide the health maintenance organizations, corporations or insurers with notification of any enrollment suspensions as soon as practicable after receipt of all enrollment data.

(m) If at any point during a suspension of enrollment of new qualifying small employers, the superintendent determines that funds are sufficient to provide for the addition of new enrollments, the superintendent shall be authorized to reactivate new enrollments and to notify all health maintenance organizations, corporations or insurers that enrollment of new employers may again commence.

(m-1) In the event that the superintendent suspends the enrollment of new individuals for qualifying group health insurance contracts, the superintendent shall ensure that small employers seeking to enroll in a qualified group health insurance contract pursuant to section forty-three hundred twenty-six of this article are provided information on and directed to coverage options available through the health benefit exchange established by this state.

(n) The suspension of issuance of qualifying group health insurance contracts to new qualifying small employers shall not preclude the addition of new employees of an employer already covered under such a contract or new dependents of employees already covered under such contracts.

(o) The premiums for qualifying group health insurance contracts must factor in the availability of reimbursement from the small employer stop loss fund.

(p) The superintendent may obtain the services of an organization to administer the stop loss funds established by this section. The superintendent shall establish guidelines for the submission of proposals by organizations for the purposes of administering the funds. The superintendent shall make a determination whether to approve, disapprove or recommend modification to the proposal of an applicant to administer the funds. An organization approved to administer the funds shall submit reports to the superintendent in such form and at times as may be required by the superintendent in order to facilitate evaluation and ensure orderly operation of the funds, including an annual report of the affairs and operations of the fund, such report to be delivered to the superintendent and to the chairs of the senate finance committee and the assembly ways and means committee. An organization approved to administer the funds shall maintain records in a form prescribed by the superintendent and which shall be available for inspection by or at the request of the superintendent. The superintendent shall determine the amount of compensation to be allocated to an approved organization as payment for fund administration. Compensation shall be payable from the stop loss coverage funds. An organization approved to administer the funds may be removed by the superintendent and must cooperate in the orderly transition of services to another approved organization or to the superintendent.

(q) If the superintendent deems it appropriate for the proper administration of the small employer stop loss fund, the administrator of the fund, on behalf of and with the prior approval of the superintendent, shall be authorized to purchase stop loss insurance and/or reinsurance from an insurance company licensed to write such type of insurance in this state. Such stop loss insurance and/or reinsurance may be purchased to the extent of funds available therefor within such funds which are available for purposes of the stop loss funds established by this section.

(r) The superintendent may access funding from the small employer stop loss fund for the purposes of developing and implementing public education, outreach and facilitated enrollment strategies targeted to small employers without health insurance. The superintendent may contract with marketing organizations to perform or provide assistance with such education, outreach, and enrollment strategies. The superintendent shall determine the amount of funding available for the purposes of this subsection which in no event shall exceed eight percent of the annual funding amounts for the small employer stop loss fund.

(s) Brooklyn healthworks pilot program and upstate healthworks pilot program. Commencing on July first, two thousand six, the superintendent shall access funding from the small employer stop loss fund for the purpose of support and expansion of the existing pilot program Brooklyn healthworks approved by the superintendent and for the establishment and operation of a pilot program to be located in upstate New York. For the purpose of this subsection, in no event shall the amount of funding available exceed two percent of the annual funding amount for the small employer stop loss fund.

§ 4328. Individual enrollee direct payment contracts offered by health maintenance organization on and after October first, two thousand thirteen. (a) On and after October first, two thousand thirteen, every health maintenance organization issued a certificate of authority under article forty-four of the public health law or licensed under this article shall offer an individual enrollee direct payment contract in accordance with the requirements of this section; provided, however, that this requirement shall not apply to a holder of a special purpose certificate of authority issued pursuant to section four thousand four hundred three-a of the public health law, except as otherwise required under subsection (l) of section four thousand three hundred four of this article, or a health maintenance organization exclusively serving individuals enrolled pursuant to title eleven of article five of the social services law, title eleven-D of article five of the social services law, title one-A of article twenty-five of the public health law or title eighteen of the federal social security act. The superintendent may, after giving consideration to the public interest, exempt a health maintenance organization from the requirements of this section provided that another health insurer or health maintenance organization within the health maintenance organization's same holding company system, as defined in article fifteen of this chapter, including a health maintenance organization operated as a line of business of a health service corporation licensed under this article, offers an individual enrollee direct payment contract that, at a minimum, complies with this section and provides all of the consumer protections required to be provided by a health maintenance organization pursuant to the public health law and regulations, including those consumer protections contained in sections four thousand four hundred three and four thousand four hundred eight-a of the public health law. The enrollee contracts issued by a health maintenance organization under this section also shall be the only contracts issued by the health maintenance organization for purposes of conversion pursuant to sections four thousand three hundred four and four thousand three hundred five of this article.

(b) (1) The individual enrollee direct payment contract offered pursuant to this section shall provide coverage for the essential health benefits package as defined in paragraph three of subsection (e) of section four thousand three hundred six-h of this article.

(2) A health maintenance organization shall offer at least one individual enrollee direct payment contract at each level of coverage as defined in subsection (b) of section four thousand three hundred six-h of this article. A health maintenance organization also shall offer one child-only plan, as required by section 1302(f) of the affordable care act, 42 U.S.C. § 18022(f), at each level of coverage.

(3) Within the health benefit exchange established by this state, a health maintenance organization may offer an individual enrollee direct payment contract that is a catastrophic health plan as defined in section 1302(e) of the affordable care act, 42 U.S.C. § 18022(e), or any regulations promulgated thereunder.

(4) (A) The individual enrollee direct payment contract offered pursuant to this section shall have the same enrollment periods, including special enrollment periods, as required for an individual direct payment contract offered within the health benefit exchange established by this state.

(B) In addition to the enrollment periods required in subparagraph (A) of this paragraph, an individual enrollee direct payment contract offered pursuant to this section shall allow for the enrollment of a pregnant individual. Such individual may enroll at any time after a health care professional licensed pursuant to title eight of the education law and acting within the scope of his or her practice certifies that the individual is pregnant. Such health insurance policy or contract shall not impose a fee or other penalty for special enrollment of the pregnant individual. Upon enrollment, coverage shall be effective as of the first day of the month in which the health care professional certifies that the individual is pregnant, unless the individual elects to have coverage effective on the first day of the month following the date that the individual received certification of the pregnancy.

(5) The individual enrollee direct payment contract offered pursuant to this section shall be issued without regard to evidence of insurability and without an exclusion for pre-existing conditions.

(6) A health maintenance organization offering an individual enrollee direct payment contract pursuant to this section shall not establish rules for eligibility, including continued eligibility, of any individual or dependent of the individual to enroll under the contract based on any of the following health status-related factors:

(A) health status;

(B) medical condition, including both physical and mental illnesses;

(C) claims experience;

(D) receipt of health care;

(E) medical history;

(F) genetic information;

(G) evidence of insurability, including conditions arising out of acts of domestic violence; or

(H) disability.

(7) The individual enrollee direct payment contract offered pursuant to this section shall be community rated. For purposes of this paragraph, "community rated" means a rating methodology in which the premium for all persons covered by a contract form is the same, based on the experience of the entire pool of risks, without regard to age, sex, health status, tobacco usage, or occupation.

(c) In addition to or in lieu of the individual enrollee direct payment contracts required under this section, all health maintenance organizations issued a certificate of authority under article forty-four of the public health law or licensed under this article may offer individual enrollee direct payment contracts within the health benefit exchange established by this state, subject to any requirements established by the health benefit exchange. If a health maintenance organization satisfies the requirements of subsection (a) of this section by offering individual enrollee direct payment contracts, only within the health benefit exchange, the health maintenance organization, not including a holder of a special purpose certificate of authority issued pursuant to section four thousand four hundred three-a of the public health law, shall also offer at least one individual enrollee direct payment contract at each level of coverage as defined in subsection (b) section four thousand three hundred six-h of this article, outside the health benefit exchange.

(d)(1) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to require health maintenance organizations to discontinue individual direct payment contracts issued prior to October first, two thousand thirteen or prevent health maintenance organizations from discontinuing individual direct payment contracts issued prior to October first, two thousand thirteen. If a health maintenance organization discontinues individual direct payment contracts issued prior to October first, two thousand thirteen, regardless of whether it is a grandfathered health plan, then the health maintenance organization shall comply with the requirements of subsection (c) of section four thousand three hundred four of this article.

(2) For purposes of this subsection, "grandfathered health plan" means coverage provided by a corporation in which an individual was enrolled on March twenty-third, two thousand ten for as long as the coverage maintains grandfathered status in accordance with section 1251(e) of the affordable care act, 42 U.S.C. § 18011(e).

(e) The superintendent may promulgate regulations implementing the requirements of this section, including regulations that modify or add additional standardized individual enrollee direct payment contracts if the superintendent determines additional contracts with different levels of coverage are necessary to meet the needs of the public.

§ 4329. Prescription drug coverage. * (a) Every corporation subject to the provisions of this article that issues a contract that provides coverage for prescription drugs shall, with respect to the prescription drug coverage, publish an up-to-date, accurate, and complete list of all covered prescription drugs on its formulary drug list, including any tiering structure that it has adopted and any restrictions on the manner in which a prescription drug may be obtained, in a manner that is easily accessible to insureds and prospective insureds. The formulary drug list shall clearly identify the preventive prescription drugs that are available without annual deductibles or coinsurance, including co-payments.

* NB Effective until January 1, 2027

* (a) Every corporation subject to the provisions of this article that issues a contract that provides coverage for prescription drugs shall, with respect to the prescription drug coverage, publish an up-to-date, accurate, and complete list of all covered prescription drugs on its formulary drug list, including any tiering structure that it has adopted and any restrictions on the manner in which a prescription drug may be obtained, in a manner that is easily accessible to insureds, prospective insureds, health care providers, and other interested parties. The formulary drug list shall clearly identify the preventive prescription drugs that are available without annual deductibles or coinsurance, including co-payments. A formulary drug list shall only be considered easily accessible if:

(1) it can be viewed on the corporation's public website without requiring an individual to create or access an account or enter a password or to be covered under an insurance policy issued by the corporation; and

(2) an individual can easily discern which formulary drug list applies to which plan, if a corporation offers more than one plan.

* NB Effective January 1, 2027

(b) (1) Every contract issued by a corporation subject to the provisions of this article that provides coverage for prescription drugs shall include in the contract a process that allows an insured, the insured's designee, or the insured's prescribing health care provider to request a formulary exception. With respect to the process for such a formulary exception, a corporation shall follow the process and procedures specified in article forty-nine of this chapter and article forty-nine of the public health law, except as otherwise provided in paragraphs two, three, four and five of this subsection.

(2) (A) A corporation shall have a process for an insured, the insured's designee, or the insured's prescribing health care provider to request a standard review that is not based on exigent circumstances of a formulary exception for a prescription drug that is not covered by the contract.

(B) A corporation shall make a determination on a standard exception request that is not based on exigent circumstances and notify the insured or the insured's designee and the insured's prescribing health care provider by telephone of its coverage determination no later than seventy-two hours following receipt of the request.

(C) A corporation that grants a standard exception request that is not based on exigent circumstances shall provide coverage of the non-formulary prescription drug for the duration of the prescription, including refills.

(D) For the purpose of this subsection, "exigent circumstances" means when an insured is suffering from a health condition that may seriously jeopardize the insured's life, health, or ability to regain maximum function or when an insured is undergoing a current course of treatment using a non-formulary prescription drug.

(3) (A) A corporation shall have a process for an insured, the insured's designee, or the insured's prescribing health care provider to request an expedited review based on exigent circumstances of a formulary exception for a prescription drug is not covered by the contract.

(B) A corporation shall make a determination on an expedited review request based on exigent circumstances and notify the insured or the insured's designee and the insured's prescribing health care provider by telephone of its coverage determination no later than twenty-four hours following receipt of the request.

(C) A corporation that grants an exception based on exigent circumstances shall provide coverage of the non-formulary prescription drug for the duration of the exigent circumstances.

(4) A corporation that denies an exception request under paragraph two or three of this subsection shall provide written notice of its determination to the insured or the insured's designee and the insured's prescribing health care provider within three business days of receipt of the exception request. The written notice shall be considered a final adverse determination under section four thousand nine hundred four of this chapter or section four thousand nine hundred four of the public health law. Written notice shall also include the name or names of clinically appropriate prescription drugs covered by the corporation to treat the insured.

(5) (A) If a corporation denies a request for an exception under paragraph two or three of this subsection, the insured, the insured's designee, or the insured's prescribing health care provider shall have the right to request that such denial be reviewed by an external appeal agent certified by the superintendent pursuant to section four thousand nine hundred eleven of this chapter in accordance with article forty-nine of this chapter and article forty-nine of the public health law.

(B) An external appeal agent shall make a determination on the external appeal and notify the corporation, the insured or the insured's designee, and the insured's prescribing health care provider by telephone of its determination no later than seventy-two hours following the external appeal agent's receipt of the request, if the original request was a standard exception request under paragraph two of this subsection. The external appeal agent shall notify the corporation, the insured or the insured's designee and the insured's prescribing health care provider in writing of the external appeal determination within two business days of rendering such determination.

(C) An external appeal agent shall make a determination on the external appeal and notify the corporation, the insured or the insured's designee, and the insured's prescribing health care provider by telephone of its determination no later than twenty-four hours following the external appeal agent's receipt of the request, if the original request was an expedited exception request under paragraph three of this subsection and the insured's prescribing health care provider attests that exigent circumstances exist. The external appeal agent shall notify the corporation, the insured or the insured's designee and the insured's prescribing health care provider in writing of the external appeal determination within seventy-two hours of the external appeal agent's receipt of the external appeal.

(D) An external appeal agent shall make a determination in accordance with subparagraph (A) of paragraph four of subsection (b) of section four thousand nine hundred fourteen of this chapter and subparagraph (A) of paragraph (d) of subdivision two of section four thousand nine hundred fourteen of the public health law. When making a determination, the external appeal agent shall consider whether the formulary prescription drug covered by the corporation will be or has been ineffective, would not be as effective as the non-formulary prescription drug, or would have adverse effects.

(E) If an external appeal agent overturns the corporation's denial of a standard exception request under paragraph two of this subsection, then the corporation shall provide coverage of the non-formulary prescription drug for the duration of the prescription, including refills. If an external appeal agent overturns the corporation's denial of an expedited exception request under paragraph three of this subsection, then the corporation shall provide coverage of the non-formulary prescription drug for the duration of the exigent circumstances.

* (c) (1) Except as otherwise provided in paragraph three of this subsection, a corporation shall not:

(A) remove a prescription drug from a formulary;

(B) move a prescription drug to a tier with a larger deductible, copayment, or coinsurance if the formulary includes two or more tiers of benefits providing for different deductibles, copayments or coinsurance applicable to the prescription drugs in each tier; or

(C) add utilization management restrictions to a prescription drug on a formulary, unless such changes occur at the time of enrollment, issuance or renewal of coverage.

(2) Prohibitions provided in paragraph one of this subsection shall apply beginning on the date on which a plan year begins and through the end of such plan year.

(3) (A) A corporation with a formulary that includes two or more tiers of benefits providing for different deductibles, copayments or coinsurance applicable to prescription drugs in each tier may move a prescription drug to a tier with a larger deductible, copayment or coinsurance if an AB-rated generic equivalent or interchangeable biological product for such prescription drug is added to the formulary at the same time.

(B) A corporation may remove a prescription drug from a formulary if the federal Food and Drug Administration determines that such prescription drug should be removed from the market, including new utilization management restrictions issued pursuant to federal Food and Drug Administration safety concerns.

(C) A corporation with a formulary that includes two or more tiers of benefits providing for different copayments applicable to prescription drugs may move a prescription drug to a tier with a larger copayment during the plan year, provided the change is not applicable to an insured who is already receiving such prescription drug or has been diagnosed with or presented with a condition on or prior to the start of the plan year that is treated by such prescription drug or is a prescription drug that is or would be part of the insured's treatment regimen for such condition.

(4) A corporation shall provide notice to insureds of the intent to remove a prescription drug from a formulary or alter deductible, copayment or coinsurance requirements in the upcoming plan year, ninety days prior to the start of the plan year. Such notice of impending formulary and deductible, copayment or coinsurance changes shall also be posted on the corporation's online formulary and in any prescription drug finder system that the corporation provides to the public.

(5) The provisions of this subsection shall not supersede the terms of a collective bargaining agreement, or the rights of labor representation groups to collectively bargain changes to the formularies.

* NB There are 2 sb (c)'s

* (c) Every contract issued by a corporation subject to the provisions of this article that provides coverage for prescription drugs shall include in the contract a process that allows an insured, the insured's designee, or the insured's prescribing health care provider to immediately obtain, on the insured's behalf, an additional thirty-day supply of any current prescription of the insured, except as provided in section two hundred seventy-eight-a of the public health law, at the same level of coverage as a normal refill of such prescription drug upon the declaration of a state disaster emergency pursuant to section twenty-eight of the executive law.

§ 4330. Discrimination because of sex or marital status in hospital, surgical or medical expense insurance. (a) With regard to a contract issued by a corporation subject to the provisions of this article that provides hospital, surgical, or medical expense coverage or a contract of student accident and health insurance, as defined in subsection (a) of section three thousand two hundred forty of this chapter, no corporation shall because of sex, marital status or based on pregnancy, false pregnancy, termination of pregnancy, or recovery therefrom, childbirth or related medical conditions:

(1) make any distinction or discrimination between persons as to the premiums or rates charged for the contract or in any other manner whatever;

(2) demand or require a greater premium from any person than it requires at that time from others in similar cases;

(3) make or require any rebate, discrimination or discount upon the amount to be paid or the service to be rendered on any contract;

(4) insert in the contract any condition, or make any stipulation, whereby the insured binds his or herself, or his or her heirs, executors, administrators or assigns, to accept any sum or service less than the full value or amount of such contract in case of a claim thereon except such conditions and stipulations as are imposed upon others in similar cases; and any such stipulation or condition so made or inserted shall be void;

(5) reject any application for a contract issued or sold by it;

(6) cancel or refuse to issue, renew or sell such contract after appropriate application therefor;

(7) fix any lower rate or discriminate in the fees or commissions of insurance agents or insurance brokers for writing or renewing such a contract; or

(8) engage in sexual stereotyping.

(b) For purposes of this section, "sex" shall include sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, and transgender status.

4414. Supplementary regulations; extensions of time; service of process; records; loans; compliance.

§ 4401. Declaration of policy. (a) It is declared to be the policy of the state that employee welfare funds are of great benefit to employees and their families and that their growth should be encouraged; that the establishment and management of such funds vitally affect the well-being of millions of people and are in the public interest.

(b) It is further declared that such funds should be supervised by the state to the extent necessary to protect the rights of employees and their families, without imposing burdens on the funds which might discourage their orderly growth and without duplicating the supervisory responsibilities of any state agency.

§ 4402. Definitions. In this article: (a) "Employee welfare fund" or "fund" means any trust fund or other fund established or maintained jointly by one or more employers together with one or more labor organizations, whether directly or through trustees, to provide employee benefits by the purchase of insurance or annuity contracts or otherwise, and to which is paid or contracted to be paid anything, other than income from investments of such fund for the benefit of employees employed in this state, and, if the principal office of the employer is located outside of the state, for at least twenty such employees; provided, however, that such term shall not include any such fund where its over-all management is vested, alone or jointly with other trustees, in a corporate trustee which is subject to supervision by the supervisor of banks of any state or the comptroller of the currency.

(b) "Employee benefits" means one or more benefits or services for employees or their families or dependents, or for both, including, but not limited to, medical, surgical or hospital care or benefits, benefits in the event of sickness, accident, disability or death, benefits in the event of unemployment, or retirement benefits.

(c) "Trustee" means the person or group of persons who or which is charged with or has the general power of administration over an employee welfare fund and may include a pension board or committee, a board of individual trustees, a board of administration or the like; provided, however, such term shall not include a corporate trustee which is subject to supervision by the supervisor of banks of any state or the comptroller of the currency; nor shall such term include any insurer licensed under the laws of this state or authorized to do business herein.

(d) "Employed in this state" means employed at a place of business maintained by the employer in the state.

(e) "Employer" means all persons part or all of whose employees or members are covered by an employee welfare fund.

(f) "Person" means all individuals (acting alone or in representative capacities), partnerships, associations, corporations, labor unions and other entities.

(g) "Labor organization" means any labor union or any organization of any kind, or any agency or employee representation committee, association, group or plan, in which employees participate and which exists for the purpose, in whole or in part, of dealing with employers concerning grievances, labor disputes, wages, rates of pay, hours of employment or conditions of work.

§ 4403. Registration. (a) The trustees of every employee welfare fund shall register such fund with the superintendent within three months of commencing to do business in this state. Such registration shall be in such form and shall contain such information relating to the organization, operations and affairs of such fund as may be prescribed by the superintendent.

(b) If it is found that the conditions that originally required registration with the superintendent have ceased to exist and that new conditions exist that would not require the registration of an employee welfare fund with the superintendent, then the superintendent may, on application of the trustees or on the superintendent's own motion, cancel the registration of such fund.

§ 4404. Examinations; requirement. (a) The superintendent may examine into the affairs of any employee welfare fund as often as he deems it necessary, and he shall do so at least once in every five years.

(b) The trustees of every fund shall be responsible for the maintenance of accurate records and books of account in conformance with generally accepted accounting principles and applicable regulations.

§ 4405. Examinations; conduct. (a) Whenever, pursuant to this article, the superintendent shall determine to examine the affairs of any employee welfare fund he shall make an order indicating the scope of the examination and may appoint as examiners one or more competent persons not employed by the trustees of such fund or interested in such fund. A copy of such order shall, upon demand and before the examination begins, be exhibited to the trustees of such fund.

(b) Any examiner authorized by the superintendent shall have convenient access at all reasonable hours to the books, records, files, assets, securities, and other documents of such fund, including those of any affiliated or subsidiary fund thereof, which are relevant to the examination, and shall have power to administer oaths and to examine under oath the trustees of such fund and their officers, agents and employees and any other persons having custody or control of such books, records, files, assets, securities or other documents, regarding any matter relevant to the examination.

(c) The examiner in charge of such examination shall make a report of every examination made by him, verified under oath, which shall comprise only facts appearing upon the books, records or other documents of the trustees of such fund or as ascertained from the sworn testimony of its trustees, or their officers, agents or employees, or other persons examined concerning its affairs, and such conclusions and recommendations as may reasonably be warranted from such facts.

(d) The superintendent may appoint one or more competent persons as appraisers to appraise any interest in real property which may constitute assets of any such fund. The report of such appraiser shall be a supplement to the report of the examiner in charge.

§ 4406. Examinations; publication. (a) All reports and copies of reports of examinations and investigations of any employee welfare fund, shall be confidential communications, shall not be subject to subpoena and shall not be made public unless, in the judgment of the superintendent, the ends of justice and the public advantage will be served by the publication thereof, in which event he may publish a copy of any such report or any part thereof in such manner as he may deem proper.

(b) In any action or proceeding against the trustees of any fund, or against its other officers, agents, or employees, such report, or any part thereof, if published by the superintendent, shall be admissible in evidence and shall be presumptive evidence of the facts stated therein.

(c) The superintendent may assemble and file for public inspection such information covering:

(1) forms of trust indentures in use;

(2) commission and fee schedules adopted by insurers;

(3) compensation paid to trustees of employee welfare funds; and

(4) such other matters affecting the establishment and administration of such funds as, in his opinion, are in the public interest.

§ 4407. Examinations; expenses. (a) The expenses of every examination of the affairs of any employee welfare fund, including any appraisal of an interest in real property, made pursuant to any provision of this chapter, shall be paid by the employee welfare fund examined.

(b) For any such examination by the superintendent or a deputy superintendent personally, the charge shall be only for necessary travelling expenses and other actual expenses. In all other cases the expenses of examination shall also include reimbursement for the compensation paid for the services of persons employed by the superintendent or by his authority to make such examination or appraisal.

(c) Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (a) or (b) hereof:

(1) funds with contributions of less than thirty thousand dollars, as reported in the annual statement filed with the superintendent for the latest fiscal year covered by the examination, the charge shall not exceed three hundred dollars;

(2) funds with contributions between thirty thousand dollars and one hundred fifty thousand dollars the charge shall not exceed one percent of such contributions;

(3) the superintendent, with the approval of the comptroller, may in his discretion for good cause shown remit or reduce such charges.

(d) All charges, including necessary travelling and other actual expenses, as audited and paid by the comptroller to the persons making the examination or appraisal, shall be presented to the trustees of the employee welfare fund in the form of a copy of the itemized bill as certified and approved by the superintendent or by any deputy superintendent or authorized employee of the department. Upon receiving such certified copy, such trustees shall pay the amount thereof to the superintendent, to be paid by him into the state treasury.

§ 4408. Annual statement. (a) The trustees of every employee welfare fund shall file in the office of the superintendent, annually within five months after the close of the fiscal year used in maintaining the records of such fund, a statement, to be known as the annual statement of such fund.

(b) Such statement shall be executed in duplicate, subscribed by its trustee or, if there is more than one trustee, then by at least two of such trustees, and affirmed as true under the penalties of perjury, showing its condition and affairs during such fiscal year. Such fiscal year shall not be changed without the consent of the superintendent.

(c) Such statement shall be in such form and contain such substantiation by vouchers and otherwise and such other information as the superintendent requires.

(d) The superintendent shall furnish to the trustees of every employee welfare fund required by law to report to him printed forms of the statements and schedules required by him.

§ 4409. Special statements. (a) In addition to any other statements or reports required by this article, the superintendent may make any inquiry to the trustees of any employee welfare fund or to any of its other officers, agents or employees or to any employer or labor organization representing any employees eligible for employee benefits under the fund relating to the transactions or condition of the fund or any related matter.

(b) Every such person shall reply in writing to such inquiry promptly and truthfully, and such reply shall be, if required by the superintendent, subscribed and affirmed as true under the penalties of perjury by such individual or individuals as he shall designate.

§ 4410. Annual report. (a) The trustees of every employee welfare fund shall within five months after the close of the fiscal year used in maintaining the records of such fund, annually file a report with the superintendent to be known as the annual report.

(b) Such report shall be subscribed by the trustee of the fund, or if there is more than one trustee it shall be subscribed by at least two trustees, and affirmed by them as true under the penalties of perjury, showing the condition and affairs of the fund during such fiscal year. Such report shall be in such form and contain such matters as the superintendent requires.

(c) Such annual report shall be kept on file with the superintendent and at the principal office of the trustees. The report, or such portion thereof as the superintendent deems appropriate, shall be made available by the superintendent or by the trustees, or both, for inspection by any employer contributing to such fund, by any labor organization which is a party to an agreement establishing such fund, or by any employee covered by such fund. In addition and to such extent that he deems it to be in the public interest, the superintendent may require the trustees to mail such report or such portions of it to any or all of such parties.

§ 4411. Account statements by insurance companies, service plans and corporate trustees and agents. Every insurance company, hospital, surgical or medical service plan providing benefits under an employee welfare fund, and any corporate trustee or agent holding or administering all or any part of such fund shall, within four months after the end of each policy or fiscal year, furnish to the trustees of the fund a statement of account containing the information relating to the fund as the trustees may need to comply with this article.

§ 4412. Regulation under other laws. (a) Where the trustees of any employee welfare fund are subject to and comply with any law of this state other than this article or the law of any other state or of the United States with respect to registration, filing, examination, statements or reports, such requirements of this article or any of them may be waived by the superintendent with respect to any such fund or trustees to the extent that they are included in such other laws.

(b) Application for such a waiver shall be made in writing to the superintendent on such forms as he may require and any waiver issued by him shall be in writing and filed in his office.

(c) The superintendent may, at any time, revoke any such waiver if, in his opinion, such other laws fail to accomplish adequately the purposes of this article.

§ 4413. Prohibitions. (a) The trustees of every employee welfare fund shall be responsible in a fiduciary capacity for all assets received, managed or disbursed by them, or under their authority, on behalf of such fund.

(b) (1) No such fund and no employer or labor organization representing any employees eligible for employee benefits thereunder, and no trustee or other officer or employee of any such fund, employer or labor organization shall receive, directly or indirectly, any thing of value from any insurance company, insurance agent, insurance broker or any hospital, surgical, dental or medical service plan, in connection with the solicitation, sale, service or administration of a contract providing employee benefits for such fund. No such employer, labor organization, trustee, officer or employee shall receive any thing of value from such fund, or which is charged against such fund or would otherwise be payable to such fund, either directly or indirectly, except that any such person may receive any employee benefits to which he is otherwise entitled, and any such trustee or other officer or employee of a fund, may receive from such fund reasonable compensation for necessary services and expenses rendered or incurred by him in connection with his official duties as such. Nothing in this subsection shall affect the payment of any dividend or rate credit or other adjustment due under the terms of any insurance or annuity contract.

(2) No insurance company, insurance agent or insurance broker, hospital, surgical, dental or medical service plan, shall directly or indirectly, pay any commission, make any loan or give any thing of value to any employee welfare fund or to any employer or labor organization representing any employees eligible for employee benefits thereunder or to any trustee or other officer or employee of any such fund, employer or labor organization, in connection with the solicitation, sale, service or administration of a contract providing employee benefits for such fund.

(3) The superintendent may, after notice and a hearing, prohibit the trustees of an employee welfare fund from employing or retaining or continuing to employ or retain any person upon finding that such employment or retention involves a conflict of interest which is not in the best interests of the fund or adversely affects the interests of covered employees.

(4) The superintendent may, by regulation or order, and upon such terms and conditions as he requires, authorize or approve any transaction or transactions otherwise prohibited by this subsection upon his finding that the transaction or transactions promote or will promote the best interests of the relevant employee welfare funds, and do not or will not adversely affect the interests of the covered employees.

(c) (1) No person who has been convicted by a court of the United States or by a court of any state or territory thereof of a felony, or of any crime or offense involving fraudulent or dishonest practices, shall serve, be appointed, designated or employed as a trustee, administrator, officer, agent or employee of any employee welfare fund (other than an employee performing non-discretionary clerical or building maintenance duties exclusively) during or for five years after such conviction or the suspension of sentence therefor or from the date of his unrevoked release from custody by parole, commutation or termination of sentence, whichever event occurs later, unless prior to the expiration of said five year period the conviction is finally reversed by a court of competent jurisdiction or he has been pardoned therefor by the governor or other appropriate authority of the state or jurisdiction in which he was convicted or he has received a certificate of relief from disabilities or a certificate of good conduct pursuant to the provisions of article twenty-three of the correction law which specifically removes the disability herein provided.

(2) If the superintendent, after notice and a hearing, finds that a person has been or is currently serving, appointed, designated or employed in violation of the provisions of this subsection, he shall enter an order removing such person from his position and directing that such person shall be disabled from service, appointment, designation or employment in any of the capacities hereinabove described for a period of five years following the entry of such order. The superintendent may, in addition, impose the penalties provided in subsection (e) of this section for the wilful violation hereof.

(d) (1) No insurance company shall pay any dividend or retrospective rate credit on any covering policy except by check payable to the affected employee welfare fund or by credit memo forwarded to such fund.

(2) No employee welfare fund shall pay any premium on a covering policy except by check payable to the insurance company directly.

(3) No political contributions shall be made directly or indirectly by or from any employee welfare fund.

(e) The superintendent may impose a penalty of not to exceed twenty-five hundred dollars upon any trustee or other officer, agent or employee of any employee welfare fund subject to this article or may remove such trustee, officer, agent or employee from office or employment, or both such penalty and removal, if after notice and a hearing he shall find that he has wilfully failed to comply with the requirements of this article.

(f) In any case where, after notice and a hearing, the superintendent finds that any employee welfare fund has been depleted by reason of any wrongful or negligent act or omission of a trustee or of any other person, he may transmit a copy of his findings to the attorney general. The attorney general may bring an action in the name of the people of the state, or intervene in an action brought by or on behalf of an employee, to recover the monies of the fund for the benefit of the employees and other persons as may have an interest in the fund.

(g) (1) Any person who wilfully violates or causes or induces the violation of any provision of this article or any regulation issued under it shall be in violation of the provisions of this chapter.

(2) Any person who makes a false statement or representation of a material fact, knowing it to be false, or who knowingly fails to disclose a material fact in any registration, examination, statement or report required under this article or the regulations thereunder shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

(3) Any person who makes a false entry in any book, record, report, or statement required by this article or any regulation thereunder, to be kept by him for any employee welfare fund, with intent to injure or defraud such fund or any beneficiary thereunder, or to deceive any one authorized or entitled to examine the affairs of such fund, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

(4) Nothing in paragraph two or three of this subsection shall be construed in any manner to limit the effect of paragraph one hereof.

§ 4414. Supplementary regulations; extensions of time; service of process; records; loans; compliance. (a) The superintendent may from time to time promulgate appropriate supplementary rules and regulations to carry out the express provisions and purposes of this article.

(b) For good cause shown, the superintendent may grant reasonable extensions of time for doing any act required by this article.

(c) (1) The trustees of any employee welfare fund which has its principal place of business without the state shall, within ten days after registering a fund with the superintendent, file with the secretary of state a designation, subscribed by them and affirmed as true under the penalties of perjury, irrevocably appointing the secretary of state as their agent upon whom may be served any process directed to such trustees, in any action or proceeding brought pursuant to the provisions of this article arising out of or in connection with any transaction, matter or thing relating to such fund. If the trustees fail to make such designation in the prescribed time and manner they shall be deemed to have irrevocably appointed the secretary of state as such agent.

(2) Service shall be made by serving the secretary of state with a copy of the process and shall be sufficient provided that notice of the service and a copy of the process are sent by the moving party within ten days of the service to the trustees at the office address of the fund, by registered mail with return receipt requested.

(3) In any examination or hearing instituted by the superintendent, service of such process shall be complete ten days after the receipt by the superintendent of a return receipt purporting to be signed by the trustees or their agent or agents in accordance with the rules and customs of the United States postal service, or if acceptance was refused by the trustees or their agents, the original envelope bearing a notation by the postal authorities that receipt was refused.

(4) In any action or proceeding instituted in any court in this state, the moving party shall file with the court in which such action or proceeding is pending an affidavit of compliance herewith, a copy of the process, and either the return receipt or the original envelope bearing a notation of refusal, within thirty days after the return receipt or original envelope is received by the moving party, at which time service of process shall be complete.

(5) Service of any process made in accordance with this subsection shall be deemed to have been made personally within the state and, in the case of a court action or proceeding, within the territorial jurisdiction of the court from which such process issued.

(d) The trustees of every employee welfare fund shall preserve all its records of final entry and all reports and statements required by this article and the regulations issued under it for a period of at least six years from the date of making the same. Preservation of photographic reproduction of records or records in photographic form shall constitute compliance with this subsection.

(e) Subject to the restrictions of this article, any employee welfare fund may lend money to any employees covered by such fund or their children, who are attending or planning to attend college, to assist them in meeting their expenses of higher education and where the loans are guaranteed by the New York higher education services corporation in accordance with the provisions of article fourteen of the education law. In such cases no further security for the repayment of such loans shall be required of the borrowers by such fund.

(f) Nothing in this article shall be construed to relieve the trustees of any employee welfare fund from compliance with any other provision of this chapter or any other applicable laws of this state.

§ 4501. Definitions. In this article:

(a) "Fraternal benefit society" means, except as used in section four thousand five hundred twenty-three of this article, an incorporated society, order or supreme lodge, without capital stock, formed, organized and carried on solely for the benefit of its members and of their beneficiaries and not for profit, operating on a lodge system and having a representative form of government, which obligates itself for the payment of insurance or annuity benefits or both in accordance with this article.

(b) "Society" means any fraternal benefit society.

(c) "Authorized fraternal benefit society" or "authorized society" means any society authorized to do business in this state.

(d) "Lodge system" means a system of organization of a society providing for a supreme governing body and subordinate lodges, by whatever names known, into which members are elected, initiated or admitted in accordance with the society's constitution, by-laws, rules and regulations, which subordinate lodges shall be required by such constitution or by-laws to hold regular or stated meetings at least once in each month, and either to conduct prescribed ritualistic ceremonies for the initiation of new members or to carry on other altruistic, educational, fraternal or recreational activities.

(e) "Representative form of government" means a form of government providing by its constitution and by-laws, for:

(1) a supreme governing body composed of representatives elected either by the members or by delegates chosen directly or indirectly by the members, together with such other members as may be prescribed by its constitution or by-laws;

(2) the representatives, other than officers, directors and salaried employees, elected directly or indirectly by the members to be a majority of the supreme governing body and to have not less than two-thirds of the votes therein nor less than the votes required to amend its articles of incorporation, constitution and by-laws;

(3) the meetings of the supreme governing body and the election of officers, representatives or delegates to be held as often as once in every four calendar years;

(4) each insurance member to be eligible for election to the supreme governing body;

(5) a board of directors or other executive body, charged with the responsibility for managing the society's affairs between meetings of its supreme governing body, subject to control by its supreme governing body, having powers and duties delegated to it in the constitution and by-laws and required to hold regular meetings at least twice in each calendar year; and

(6) no voting by proxy at any meeting of the supreme governing body.

(f) "Supreme governing body" means a body by whatever name known, organized and functioning as provided in paragraphs one, two, three, four and six of subsection (e) hereof to exercise supreme direction of a society pursuant to the provisions of law and the society's constitution and by-laws. Such name may include, "supreme legislative body" and "supreme legislative convention", and "board of directors" by a society having an executive body with a different name.

(g) "Board of directors" means an executive body by whatever name known, charged as provided in paragraph five of subsection (e) hereof.

(h) "Life insurance benefits" means those payable under any form of life insurance including endowment insurance.

(i) "Accidental death benefits" means those payable on death caused by accident or accidental means.

(j) "Accidental injury benefits" means those payable as a result of bodily injury caused by accident or accidental means.

(k) "Sickness benefits" means those payable as a result of temporary, total or partial disability due to sickness or bodily infirmity.

(l) "Annuity benefits" means periodical payments either immediate or deferred and continuing during the life or lives of an annuitant or annuitants or during the life or lives of an annuitant or annuitants and for a term of years certain, in an amount which shall not exceed fifteen thousand dollars annually.

(m) "Total and permanent disability benefits" means those payable by the society in the case of total and permanent disability as the result of either disease or accident and which are contained in or supplemental to any life insurance or annuity obligation of the society in amounts which do not exceed the greater of five hundred dollars a month or the amounts permitted by subsection (e) of section three thousand two hundred fifteen of this chapter.

(n) "Monument or tombstone expense benefits" means those payable to reimburse the cost of monuments or tombstones to the memory of deceased members.

(o) "Hospital expense and surgical and medical expense benefits" means those payable for such expenses due to sickness, bodily infirmity or accidental injury.

(p) "Disability income insurance benefits" means periodic payments, weekly or monthly, for a specified period during the continuance of disability resulting from sickness or injury, in amounts which do not exceed one thousand two hundred fifty dollars a month.

(q) "Long term care benefits" means those payable to members, or upon application of a member for a member's family and dependents as authorized in section one thousand one hundred seventeen of this chapter.

§ 4502. Incorporation and licensing of domestic societies; meeting of supreme governing body. An authorized domestic society may be organized and licensed in the manner prescribed in this section, and subject to the other requirements of this chapter applicable thereto. The successive steps shall be as follows:

(a) The proposed incorporators, who shall be natural persons, citizens of the United States and a majority of whom shall be citizens of this state, and who shall be not less than fifteen in number, shall submit to the superintendent in writing the proposed name of the society and the county in which its principal office will be located. Such name shall contain a word or words indicating the fraternal character of such society, and shall not contain any of the following words: "insurance", "assurance", "life", "accident", "health", "annuity", "guaranty", "company", "corporation", "indemnity", "endowment", "guarantee", "casualty", "surety", "fidelity", or "underwriters", or any other word or words which in the judgment of the superintendent would be likely to be deceptive or misleading as to the character and purposes of such society. Such proposal shall be subscribed with the name and address of each such incorporator.

(b) If the superintendent approves the proposed name of the society as conforming to the requirements of subsection (g) of section one thousand one hundred two of this chapter and not inconsistent with other requirements of law, he shall so notify the proposed incorporators, or their representative, in writing. Such approval shall become void if within six months from the date thereof the declaration and charter of such society have not been filed pursuant to this section.

(c) The proposed incorporators shall make and subscribe (giving their addresses) and affirm as true under the penalties of perjury, a declaration and charter, both in the English language, and shall file the same with the superintendent, together with duly certified copies of the proposed constitution, by-laws, rules and regulations, all proposed forms of certificates or other evidences of insurance or annuity contracts, or both, all applications therefor and riders or endorsements to be used in connection therewith, all circulars to be issued by the society, and a table or schedule showing the rates of premium or other periodical contribution to be charged by such society for any insurance or annuity benefits to be provided by it. Such declaration shall state the intention of the proposed incorporators to form a society for the purpose of providing insurance benefits permissible under the provisions of this article, and for other purposes not inconsistent with the provisions of this chapter. The proposed charter shall contain the following:

(1) the name of the proposed society, approved as aforesaid;

(2) the place where such society will have its principal office, which shall be in this state;

(3) the general, fraternal, altruistic, educational, patriotic, recreational and other purposes of such society, and the kinds of insurance benefits to be provided by it, specified in accordance with section four thousand five hundred five of this article;

(4) the mode and manner in which its corporate powers are to be exercised;

(5) the number of directors shall not be less than nine of which at least four must not be officers or employees of the society. The charter of such society shall provide that the number of directors shall be increased to not less than thirteen within one year following the end of the calendar year in which the society exceeded five hundred million dollars in admitted assets. "Number of directors" herein means the total number of directors which the society would have if there were no vacancies;

(6) the times and manner of electing its directors and officers, the manner of filling vacancies in such offices, and a provision that at all times a majority of the directors shall be citizens and residents of this state or of adjoining states, and not less than five thereof shall be residents of this state;

(7) the names and postoffice residence addresses of the directors who shall serve until the first election in accordance with the charter and by-laws;

(8) the duration of its corporate existence which shall be not less than thirty years;

(9) such other particulars as may be necessary to explain the objects, purposes, management and control of such society; and

(10) such additional information as the superintendent may by regulation require.

(d) The superintendent shall transmit such declaration, charter and accompanying documents to the attorney general. If the same be approved by the attorney general, as conforming to the requirements of law, the superintendent shall thereupon file the declaration and charter in his office, and shall issue a certified copy of each to the proposed incorporators. Such incorporators shall thereupon become a body corporate which shall not be authorized to do an insurance business until it shall have obtained a license therefor as provided in subsection (f) hereof, but it may solicit members for the purpose of completing its organization, collecting from each applicant for insurance an amount not less than one regular monthly premium, in accordance with its table or schedule of rates, issuing to each such applicant a receipt for the amount so collected and providing for the examination of each applicant for life insurance by legally qualified practicing physicians with certificates of such examinations to be duly filed and approved by the chief medical examiner of such society. Before soliciting or receiving any premium or other contribution for insurance benefits of any kind or character, the society shall file with the superintendent a bond in the sum of five thousand dollars, with sureties approved by the superintendent, conditioned upon the return to applicants of the advanced payments, as provided in this section, if the society does not complete its organization and obtain a license to do business within one year from the date of incorporation or within such further time as the superintendent may permit pursuant to subsection (g) hereof. The society shall incur no liability except for the repayment of such advanced payments, nor issue any certificate or other evidence of an insurance or annuity contract, or both, unless and until it shall have obtained a license to do business as hereinafter provided.

(e) Before obtaining a license to do business in this state, such society shall have established not less than ten subordinate lodges or branches, into which not less than five hundred applicants have been initiated and shall have actual bona fide applications for life insurance benefits upon at least five hundred lives each eligible for such insurance, in accordance with the provisions of this article, for at least one thousand dollars on each life and shall have received payments thereunder in the aggregate amount of at least two thousand five hundred dollars. Before obtaining such license such society shall submit to the superintendent, under oath of the president and secretary, or corresponding officers, a complete list of such applicants, giving their names, addresses, dates of examination, approval and initiation, the name and number of the subordinate lodge or branch of which each applicant is a member, the amount and kinds of insurance benefits to be granted, the rate of periodical insurance contributions of each, which shall conform to the requirements of this article, and the bank or banking institution in which all sums collected from such applicants have been deposited. Such advanced payments or other insurance contributions by applicants shall, during the period of organization and until the issuance of a license to do business, be held in trust on account of such applicants, and no part thereof may be used for expenses; and if a license is not issued within one year from date of incorporation, such advanced payments shall be returned to the applicants who originally made the same.

(f) If the superintendent finds, from the statements of the principal officers of such society, subscribed and affirmed by such officers as true under the penalties of perjury, or from such investigation or examination as he may deem expedient, that such society has complied with the requirements of this section and that the purposes and plan of operation of such society are in accordance with the requirements of law, he may issue to such society a license to do business in this state. Such license shall set forth the name of the society, the location of its principal office, and the kind of insurance or annuity benefits, or both, specified in section four thousand five hundred five of this article, which it is authorized to provide in this state. Thereupon the society shall have such powers as are necessary or properly incidental to carry into effect the lawful objects and purposes of the society.

(g) If any such society shall fail to obtain such license within one year from the date of its incorporation or within such further period, not to exceed one additional year, as the superintendent may in his discretion permit, the superintendent may commence proceedings for the dissolution of such society in accordance with article seventy-four of this chapter.

(h) A domestic society may provide for the meeting of its supreme governing body in any other state, province or territory wherein such society has not less than five subordinate lodges or branches. In all meetings of the supreme governing body, no member, representative or delegate shall cast more than one vote on any question submitted.

§ 4503. Licensing of foreign and alien societies. (a) The superintendent may issue a license to do business in this state to any foreign or alien society which conforms to the requirements for foreign or alien insurers pursuant to section one thousand one hundred six of this chapter, other than subsection (e) thereof, and which conforms in substance to all other requirements imposed on domestic authorized societies under this chapter. Every such license shall contain the name of the licensee, its home office address, the state or country under whose laws it was incorporated and the term of such license. The superintendent may refuse to issue or renew any such license if in his judgment such refusal will best promote the interests of the people of this state. The superintendent may refuse to renew any such license in addition to, or in lieu of, a proceeding under article seventy-four of this chapter in the circumstances specified in section four thousand five hundred nineteen of this article.

(b) Every license, including every renewal license, issued to a foreign or alien society shall be for a term expiring on April thirtieth following the date of issuance, but such license shall continue in full force until a renewal license shall have been issued or shall have been specifically refused by the superintendent.

(c) No alien society shall be authorized to do business in this state unless it shall at all times maintain trusteed assets, a trusteed surplus and a deposit in the United States pursuant to the provisions of sections one thousand three hundred twelve, one thousand three hundred fifteen, and one thousand three hundred twenty of this chapter, respectively. Such trusteed surplus shall be in an amount not less than four hundred fifty thousand dollars and shall be held in trust for the security of members in the United States admitted to the society on or after January first, nineteen hundred forty. The term "policyholders in the United States" as used in sections one thousand three hundred twelve, one thousand three hundred fifteen and one thousand three hundred twenty of this chapter shall be deemed, in the case of authorized alien societies, to refer to members in the United States admitted to the society on and after January first, nineteen hundred forty.

§ 4504. Amendments to charter, constitution and by-laws; waiver of provisions. (a) A domestic society may amend its charter and by-laws by a majority vote at any regular meeting or special meeting (called for that purpose) of its supreme governing body, but no such amendment shall take effect unless and until filed with the superintendent and approved by him. The superintendent may approve any such amendment if he finds that it has been duly adopted and is not inconsistent with any requirement of the law or with the character, objects and purposes of such society.

(b) A domestic society may amend its constitution and by-laws, in accordance with the provisions of its constitution, by the action of its supreme governing body at any regular meeting or special meeting thereof, or, if its constitution so provides, by referendum. Such referendum may be held, in accordance with the provisions of the constitution, by the vote of the voting members or by the vote of delegates or representatives of voting members or by the vote of local lodges or branches; but no such amendment shall take effect unless, within six months from the date of submission thereof, a majority of all of the members of such society entitled to vote shall have signified their consent to such amendment. Such amendment to the constitution or by-laws shall be filed with the superintendent within not more than ninety days after the adoption thereof or, in an appropriate case, after such consent of the members. Amendments to the constitution and by-laws may be adopted by the board of directors whenever such amendments, in the opinion of the board, are necessary to meet the requirements of the this chapter, but such amendments shall be submitted for ratification by the supreme governing body of the society at its next regular meeting, or at any special meeting thereof, or if its constitution so provides by referendum and shall be filed with the superintendent within ninety days after such ratification.

(c) Within ninety days from the approval by the superintendent required by subsection (a) hereof, and within ninety days from the filing with the superintendent required by subsection (b) hereof, all such amendments, or a synopsis thereof, shall be furnished to all members of the society either by mail or by publication in full in the official organ of the society.

(d) Every authorized foreign or alien society shall file a certified copy of every amendment to its charter, constitution, and by-laws with the superintendent within not more than ninety days after the same takes effect; and every such society shall, within ninety days from the filing thereof, furnish to all members of the society in this state, a copy of all amendments, or a synopsis thereof, either by mail or by publication in full in the official organ of the society.

(e) If the superintendent finds after notice and hearing, that any authorized society has wilfully violated any of the foregoing provisions of this section relating to the filing of amendments to its charter, constitution, and by-laws, he may, in lieu of any other penalty provided by law, order such society to pay to the people of this state a penalty in a sum not exceeding five hundred dollars for each such offense, and failure of any such society to pay such penalty within thirty days after the making of such order, unless such order is suspended by an order of a court of competent jurisdiction, shall constitute a violation of the provisions of this chapter.

(f) Unless authorized by express provisions in the constitution and by-laws of the society, no subordinate lodge or branch and no officer or member of any authorized society shall have power or authority on behalf of the society to waive or modify any of the provisions of the constitution or by-laws of the society or of any certificate or other evidence of insurance contract issued by such society, nor to waive any violation, forfeiture or default thereof.

(g) Every authorized society shall provide in its constitution or by-laws and in its certificates that if its reserves as to any class of certificates, other than those portions of any certificate that provide variable benefits based on the experience of a separate account, become impaired, its board of directors may require that there shall be paid by the member to the society the amount of the member's equitable proportion of such deficiency as ascertained by its board and that if the payment be not made it shall stand as an indebtedness against the certificate and draw interest not to exceed five percent per annum compounded annually, or the equivalent effective rate of interest if payable in advance, or in lieu thereof, or in combination therewith, the member may consent to a reduction of the corresponding insurance benefit proportionate to the value of the additional contributions.

§ 4505. Insurance benefits authorized. (a) Any authorized society may obligate itself for the payment of only insurance benefits defined in subsections (h) through (p) of section four thousand five hundred one of this article, except that no benefits may be provided through group insurance. Any benefit defined in subsections (h) through (q) of section four thousand five hundred one or paragraphs one and three of subsection (a) of section four thousand five hundred twenty-seven of this article, or any one or more of such benefits, may be provided in the same or separate certificates, or by rider, subject to the limitations provided for in section four thousand five hundred seven of this article.

(b) An authorized society shall specify in its laws or rules those persons who may receive benefits or be covered by benefits through the society, consistent with providing benefits to members and their dependents. Nothing herein shall alter the insurable interest requirements of section three thousand two hundred five of this chapter.

(c) No authorized society shall undertake to pay a total and permanent disability benefit on any life in excess of two hundred fifty dollars per month exclusive of waived premiums, nor for disability occurring after age sixty except that a society may undertake to pay benefits for disability occurring at any age, in an amount not exceeding the reserve under the life insurance certificate or one-half the amount of such certificate, whichever is greater, if the payment of such benefits is conditioned upon the surrender of, or a proportionate reduction of the amount of, such certificate.

(d) Notwithstanding the foregoing provisions, no policy of industrial life insurance shall be delivered or issued for delivery in this state.

§ 4506. Classes of membership. An authorized society may admit to membership two classes of members: insurance members and social members by whatever name known. Social members shall not be entitled to any of the benefits prescribed by section four thousand five hundred five of this article, and shall have no voice or vote in the management of the insurance affairs of the society, except that they shall be eligible to be elected as officers and as representatives of insurance members unless such eligibility is prohibited by the society's by-laws. Insurance members may be either adult members or juvenile members.

§ 4507. Juvenile members. (a) An authorized society may admit to adult insurance membership any person not less than fifteen years of age at nearest birthday. Any person so admitted prior to attaining the full age of eighteen years shall be deemed competent to contract for life insurance benefits, and to exercise and enjoy every right, privilege and benefit provided by any life insurance certificate on the life of such minor subject to the limitations contained in section four thousand five hundred eight of this article as to the designation of beneficiary.

(b) Any such society may provide in its constitution or by-laws for the admission, as juvenile insurance members, of children less than eighteen years of age at nearest birthday. They shall have no voice or vote in the management of the insurance affairs of the society. Life insurance benefits may be made payable upon the lives of juvenile members, upon the application of some adult person, in accordance with the by-laws, rules or regulations of such society, and in amounts which shall not exceed the limits specified in section three thousand two hundred seven of this chapter.

(c) Juvenile members insured under certificates issued pursuant to this section, if eligible for adult membership, shall be transferred to and become members of the adult branch of the society upon attaining the minimum age for adult membership under the laws of the society. Upon such transfers made pursuant hereto, the mortuary reserve funds accruing against such certificates and an equitable share of any surplus funds pertaining thereto shall likewise be transferred to the adult mortuary fund.

(d) Any such society may provide in its by-laws that mortuary payments, meaning that portion of contributions allocated to the mortuary fund and to reserves on outstanding contracts, received under new certificates issued on or after January first, nineteen hundred thirty-nine, covering the lives of juvenile members, may be mingled with the mortuary or reserve funds held on classes of adult certificates on which adequate reserves are maintained not lower than those required by the minimum standards of valuation prescribed by this article for adult certificates issued on or after January first, nineteen hundred thirty-nine. Except as hereinbefore provided, every such society shall maintain the mortuary and reserve funds on insurance on the lives of juvenile members and the accretions thereto, separate and distinct from all other funds of the society, and the same shall be held as a trust fund available exclusively for the payment of benefits under such contracts.

(e) Any such society insuring the lives of juvenile members may provide in its by-laws, rules and regulations for payment on account of the society's juvenile expense fund, and that such payments may be mingled with the general expense funds of the society.

§ 4508. Beneficiaries. (a) The adult owner of a benefit contract shall have the right at all times to change the beneficiary or beneficiaries in accordance with the laws or rules of the authorized society unless the owner waives this right by specifically requesting in writing that the beneficiary designations be irrevocable. Subject to the requirements and limitations of section three thousand two hundred five of this chapter, an authorized society may, through its laws or rules, limit the scope of beneficiary designations and shall provide that no revocable beneficiary shall have or obtain any vested interest in the proceeds of any certificate until the certificate has become due and payable in conformity with the provisions of the benefit contract. Nothing herein shall prohibit the owner of a certificate from making an absolute assignment of the certificate.

(b) The beneficiaries under contracts of insurance on the lives of children may be designated by the adult person authorized to make application for such insurance. Unless otherwise provided by the constitution or by-laws or the insurance certificate, any such member may, on or after attaining the age of sixteen years, change any such designation.

(c) An authorized society may make provision in its contract for the payment of life insurance or accidental death benefits to such person or persons as may be equitably entitled thereto by reason of having incurred reasonable expense occasioned by the maintenance, medical attention or burial of the member, provided the amount so paid shall not exceed five thousand dollars.

(d) If at the death of any person insured under a benefit contract, there is no lawful beneficiary to whom the proceeds shall be payable, the amount of such proceeds, except to the extent that funeral benefits may be paid as hereinbefore provided, shall be payable to the personal representative of the deceased insured, provided that if the owner of the certificate is other than the insured, such proceeds shall be payable to such owner. Notwithstanding any other provision of this chapter to the contrary, any insured member of an authorized society may voluntarily designate the authorized society as the beneficiary of any insurance contract for the purpose of any lawful activity of the authorized society.

§ 4509. Certificates; applications; effect of changes in corporate documents. Every authorized society shall issue to each insured member, except a spouse or children under the age of twenty-one years insured as members pursuant to subsection (b) of section four thousand five hundred five of this article, a certificate specifying the amount or amounts of insurance benefits provided thereby. The application for insurance, and the declaration of insurability, if used in lieu of a medical examination as herein provided, shall be signed by the applicant, and, unless society does not make the application a part of the contract or agreement with the member or applicant, a copy thereof shall be attached thereto, and all statements made by the applicant therein shall be deemed representations and not warranties. Every adult insurance member entitled to life insurance benefits shall, as to each application for life insurance, have furnished evidence of insurability acceptable to the society. The certificate, together with any riders or endorsements attached thereto, the articles of incorporation, constitution and by-laws of the society, and the application and declaration of insurability, if any, attached as aforesaid, shall constitute the entire contract, as of the date of issuance, between the society and the insured member; and copies of the same, certified by the secretary or corresponding officer of such society, shall be received in evidence to show the terms and conditions of such contract. In the case of certificates that provide that the death benefit or other certificate provisions may be changed by written application or by the written notice of exercise of one or more options provided in the certificate, or automatically by the terms of the certificate, the certificate may also contain a provision that when such written application or notice of exercise of an option is accepted by the society or a notice of any change is issued by the society and, in each case, a copy of such application or notice is returned by mail or delivered to the certificate holder at the certificate holder's last post office address known to the society, such application or notice shall become part of the entire contract between the parties. Any changes, additions or amendments to said articles of incorporation, constitution or by-laws duly made or enacted subsequent to the issuance of any certificate, other than a certificate or contract providing variable benefits pursuant to a separate account, shall bind the member and his beneficiaries, and shall thereafter govern and control the agreement in all respects, except that no change, addition, or amendment shall destroy or diminish benefits which the society contracted to give the members as of the date of issuance.

§ 4510. Life insurance certificates; required and prohibited provisions. (a) No certificate or other evidence of a life insurance contract shall be delivered or issued for delivery in this state by any authorized society unless it contains in substance the following provisions, or provisions which in the opinion of the superintendent are more favorable to the insured members, except that such provisions as are not applicable to single premium or term life insurance shall to that extent not be incorporated in such certificate or contract:

(1) For certificates in which the amount and frequency of premiums may vary, a provision that, after payment of the first premium, the insured is entitled to a grace period of not less than sixty-one days, beginning on the day when the fraternal benefit society determines that the certificate's net cash surrender value is insufficient to pay the total charges necessary to keep the certificate in force for one month from that day within which to pay sufficient premium to keep the policy in force for three months from the date the insufficiency was determined. During such grace period the certificate shall continue in full force, but in case the certificate becomes a claim, on account of death, maturity or other benefit accrued during such grace period before an amount of premium sufficient to keep the certificate in force is paid, an amount of premium sufficient to keep the policy in force until the day the certificate became a claim may be deducted from any amount payable in any settlement under the certificate. For all other certificates, a provision that the insured is entitled to a grace period of not less than one month or thirty days within which the payment of any premium after the first may be made, and that during such grace period the certificate shall continue in full force, but in case the certificate becomes a claim, on account of death, maturity or other benefit accrued during such grace period before the overdue premiums are paid, the amount of such premium or premiums may be deducted from any amount payable in any settlement under the certificate.

(2) A provision that the certificate shall be incontestable after it has been in force during the lifetime of the insured member for a period of two years from its date of issue, and, if a certificate provides that the death benefit provided by the certificate may be increased, or other certificate provisions changed, upon the application of the certificate holder and the production of evidence of insurability, a provision that the certificate with respect to each such increase or change shall be incontestable after two years from the effective date of such increase or change, except in each case for (i) non-payment of premiums, and (ii) violation of the provisions of the certificate relating to military or naval service, and, at the option of the society, (iii) provisions relating to benefits in the event of total and permanent disability, and (iv) provisions which grant additional insurance against death by accident or accidental means.

(3) A provision that if it shall be found at any time before final settlement under the certificate that the age of the insured (or the age of the beneficiary, if considered in determining the premium) has been misstated, and the discrepancy and the premium payment involved have not been adjusted, the amount payable under the certificate shall be such as the premium would have purchased at the correct age, except that if the correct age was not an insurable age under the society's charter, constitution or by-laws, and such charter, constitution or by-laws so provide, only the net mortuary payments made thereunder shall be returned or, at the option of the society, the amount payable under the certificate shall be such as the premium would have purchased at the correct age according to the society's promulgated rates and any extension thereof based on actuarial principles.

(4) A provision that the holder of a certificate shall be entitled to have the certificate reinstated at any time within three years from the due date of the premium in default, unless the cash value has been duly paid or the period of extended insurance has expired, upon the production of evidence of insurability and good health satisfactory to the society and the payment of all overdue premiums and any other indebtedness to the society upon such certificate together with interest on such premiums, at a rate not exceeding six percent per annum payable annually and interest on such indebtedness at a rate or rates not exceeding the applicable loan rate or rates determined in accordance with the certificate's provisions. Such provision shall be required only if the certificate provides for termination or lapse in the event of a default in making a regularly scheduled premium. Such provision may give the society the right to contest the reinstated certificate, as to statements made to procure reinstatement, within a period after date of reinstatement not exceeding the period of contestability prescribed in the original certificate with the same exceptions permitted by paragraph two hereof.

(5) In the case of certificates which cause on a basis guaranteed in the certificate unscheduled changes in benefits or premiums, or which provide an option for changes in benefits or premiums other than a change to a new certificate, a provision specifying the mortality table, interest rate and method used in calculating cash surrender values and the paid-up nonforfeiture benefits available under the certificate. In the case of all other certificates, a provision specifying the nonforfeiture options available under the certificate in the event of default in a premium payment after premiums have been paid for a specified period, together with a table showing, in figures, the options so available, and also the loan values, if any, available during each of the first twenty years after the issuance of the certificate. Such options shall conform with the requirements of section four thousand five hundred eleven of this article.

(6) A provision for certificates issued on and after January first, nineteen hundred seventy-five, that after three full years' premiums have been paid or, in the case of certificates that provide that the certificate holder may vary the amount and frequency of premiums to be paid to the society, after three years from the issue of the certificate, if the certificate is in force and not in default, the society will, at any time while the certificate is in force, advance, on proper assignment or pledge of the certificate and on the sole security thereof, a sum equal to, or at the option of the person entitled thereto, less than, the amount of the cash surrender value calculated in accordance with the provisions of section four thousand five hundred eleven of this article; and that the society may deduct from such loan value (in addition to the indebtedness deducted in determining such value) any unpaid balance of the premium for the current certificate year; and that if the loan is made or repaid on a date other than the anniversary of the certificate the society may collect interest for the portion of the current certificate year on a pro rata basis. The certificate shall provide, at the option of the society, either that (i) any such loan shall bear interest at a maximum rate of not more than seven and four-tenths per centum per annum if payable in advance or the equivalent effective rate of interest if otherwise payable, or (ii) any such loan shall bear interest at a rate not in excess of an adjustable maximum rate established from time to time by the society as permitted by law. If the certificate provides for an adjustable rate, the certificate shall specify the regular intervals at which the interest rate is to be determined which shall be at least once every twelve months, but not more frequently than once in any three month period. The certificate may further provide that if the interest on the loan is not paid when due, it shall be added to the existing loan, and shall bear interest at the applicable rate or rates payable on the loan determined in accordance with the provisions of the certificate; and subject to subsection (e) of section three thousand two hundred six of this chapter may further provide that if and when the total indebtedness on the certificate, including interest due or accrued, equals or exceeds the amount of the loan value thereof at such time, and if at least thirty days' prior notice shall have been given in the manner provided in section three thousand two hundred eleven of this chapter, then the certificate shall terminate and become void. This provision shall not apply to term insurance.

Any certificate which provides for the crediting of additional amounts pursuant to section four thousand five hundred eighteen of this article may also provide that if any indebtedness is owed to the society on any part of the loan value which would otherwise be credited with additional amounts, such additional amounts may be reduced so that the total amounts credited on such part are so credited at a rate that is up to two percent per annum less than the applicable loan interest rate charged or at such other rate as the superintendent, upon the society's demonstrating justification therefor, may allow.

(7) If in the judgment of the superintendent, the charter, constitution or by-laws of the society provide that the violation of any section or sections thereof shall result in the reduction or termination of any benefit payable under the certificate, then a provision which either:

(A) recites fully all such sections,

(B) sets forth the substance of all such sections, or

(C) states in substance that no section of the charter, constitution or by-laws shall be relied upon or be used to reduce or terminate any benefit payable under the certificate unless such section is specifically set forth or referred to in the certificate.

(8) The provision in the constitution or by-laws required by subsection (g) of section four thousand five hundred four of this article.

(9) A provision that in case the by-laws of the society provide for expulsion or suspension of a member, any member so expelled or suspended except for non-payment of a premium or contribution, or within the contestable period for material misrepresentations in his application for membership, shall have the privilege of maintaining his insurance in force by continuing payment of the required premium or contribution payable under the certificates and of such other assessments as may be required of members holding certificates of the same class.

(10) If issued for delivery in this state by any authorized foreign or alien society, a provision that the rights or obligations of the insured member under such certificate or other evidence of such life insurance contract or of any person rightfully claiming thereunder shall be governed by the laws of this state.

(11) A provision that the society shall annually ascertain and apportion any divisible surplus accruing on the certificate.

(12) In any certificate under which additional amounts may be credited pursuant to section four thousand five hundred eighteen of this article, provisions stating

(A) the guaranteed factors of mortality, expense and interest, and the method used by the society in calculating actual certificate values;

(B) that such additional amount shall be nonforfeitable after the effective date of their crediting except for any charges imposed under the certificate which are not greater than those allowed under subsection (n-1) or any market value adjustment made pursuant to subsection (n-2) of section four thousand two hundred twenty-one of this chapter; and

(C) that the society shall credit any such amounts no less frequently than annually during such period.

(13) Operative on January first, nineteen hundred eighty-five or with respect to certificates issued by any particular society operative on such earlier date as the society may have specified in a written notice filed with the superintendent as the date the society elects to begin compliance with the provisions of this paragraph, a provision that (i) if the death of the insured shall occur within a period for which the premium has been paid, the society shall add to the certificate proceeds a refund of the pro rata portion of premium paid for any period beyond the end of the certificate month in which death occurred, provided such premium was not waived under any waiver of premiums benefit included in the certificate or attached thereto, and (ii) if the death of the insured shall occur within a period for which the premium has not been paid, but within the grace period provided in the certificate, the society may deduct from the certificate proceeds that portion of overdue premium as applies to the period ending with the last day of the certificate month in which death occurred; provided however, that the provisions of this paragraph shall not be applicable to single premium certificates and paid-up certificates.

(b) (1) No such certificate or other evidence of a life insurance contract delivered or issued for delivery in this state shall contain any exclusory or restrictive provisions relating to liability in the event of death caused in a certain specified manner except the following provisions, or provisions which in the opinion of the superintendent are substantially the same or more favorable to holders of such certificate or contracts, excluding or restricting coverage in the event of death:

(A) as a result of war or an act of war, if the cause of death occurs while the insured is serving in the military, naval or air forces of any country, international organization or combination of countries or in any civilian noncombatant unit serving with such forces, provided such death occurs while in such forces or units or within six months after termination of service in such forces or units;

(B) as a result of the special hazards incident to service in the military, naval or air forces of any country, international organization or combination of countries or in any civilian non-combatant unit serving with such forces, if the cause of death occurs while the insured is serving in such forces or units and is outside the home area, provided such death occurs outside the home area or within six months after the insured's return to the home area while in such forces or units or within six months after the termination of service in such forces or units, whichever is earlier;

(C) as the result of war or an act of war, within two years from the date of issue of the certificate, while the insured is not in such forces or units, if the cause of death occurs while the insured is outside the home area; provided such death occurs outside the home area or within six months after the insured's return to the home area;

(D) as a result of suicide within two years from the date of issue of the certificate;

(E) as a result of aviation under conditions specified in the certificate; or

(F) within two years from the date of issue of the certificate as a result of specified hazardous occupations, or while the insured is a resident of a specified foreign country or countries.

(2) The provisions of this paragraph shall apply only to subparagraphs (A), (B) and (C) of paragraph one hereof.

(A) As used in such subparagraphs, "home area" means the states of the United States, the District of Columbia and Canada; "war" includes, but is not limited to, any war declared or undeclared, and armed aggression resisted by the military, naval or air forces of any country, international organization or combination of countries; "act of war" means any act peculiar to military, naval, or air operations in time of war; and "special hazards incident to service" includes, but is not limited to, those hazards resulting in the insured's death being presumed by reason of being missing or missing in action, and those hazards resulting in death from disease or injury, accidental or otherwise, to which a person serving in, or with, such forces or units is exposed in the line of duty.

(B) In permitting such war exclusions it is the legislative intent that such exclusions are not to be construed or interpreted as exclusions because of the status of the insured as a member of such forces or units or because of the presence of the insured as a civilian in a combat area or area adjacent thereto. Such permissible exclusions shall be construed and interpreted according to the fair import of their terms so as not to exclude deaths due to diseases or accidents which are common to the civilian population and are not attributable to special hazards to which a person serving in such forces or units is exposed in the line of duty.

(C) The superintendent may, by regulation, prescribe reasonable conditions relative to the use of such war exclusion provisions.

(3) In the event of death as to which there is such an exclusion or restriction, the society shall pay the reserve on the face amount of the certificate, computed according to the mortality table and interest rate specified in the certificate, together with the reserve for any paid-up additions thereto, and any dividends standing to the credit of the certificate, less any indebtedness to the society on the certificate, including interest due or accrued; provided that if the certificate shall have been in force for not more than two years the society shall pay the amount of the gross premiums charged on the certificate less dividends paid in cash or used in the payment of premiums thereon and less any indebtedness to the society on the certificate; including interest due or accrued.

(4) Nothing contained in this subsection shall apply to any provision in a life insurance certificate for additional benefits in the event of death by accident or by accidental means.

(5) If a certificate provides that the death benefit may be increased, or other certificate provisions changed, upon the application of the certificate holder and the production of evidence of insurability, the certificate may also provide that the two year exclusions permitted under subparagraph (C), (D) or (F) of paragraph one of this subsection shall run from the date of issue of the certificate except that it shall run from the effective date of each subsequent increase or change with respect to each such increase or change.

(c) No such certificate or other evidence of a life insurance contract shall be issued or delivered in this state by any society if, in substance, any of the following provisions are in any way made a part of the contract:

(1) any provision limiting the time within which any action at law or in equity may be commenced to less than eighteen months after the cause of action shall accrue;

(2) any provision for forfeiture, lapse or termination of any certificate because of failure to repay any loan on the certificate or to pay interest on such loan, while the total unpaid amount of any loan or loans under such certificate, including interest, is less than the loan value thereof; or

(3) any provision whereby the suspension or expulsion of the insured member, or change of occupation, or any other violation of the terms and conditions of the insurance contract shall result in the loss or reduction of the cash surrender value or other withdrawal equity, if any, available by the terms of such certificate.

§ 4511. Life insurance certificates and annuity contracts; nonforfeiture benefits and values; requirements and exceptions. (a) Every certificate of life insurance except certificates for which reserves are computed on the Commissioners 1941 Standard Ordinary Mortality Table, the Commissioners 1958 Standard Ordinary Mortality Table or the Commissioners 1941 Standard Industrial Mortality Table, delivered or issued for delivery in this state prior to January first, nineteen hundred seventy-five by every authorized society shall be subject to the requirements and exceptions of section four thousand two hundred twenty of this chapter, except that:

(1) the reserve on the certificate shall be determined on the basis of section four thousand five hundred seventeen of this article,

(2) a cash surrender value shall not be required on certificates delivered or issued for delivery prior to January first, nineteen hundred sixty-two, and

(3) the paid-up nonforfeiture benefit shall be on a plan as stipulated in the certificate.

(b) Every certificate of life insurance delivered or issued for delivery in this state prior to January first, nineteen hundred seventy-five, by every authorized society, for which reserves are computed on the Commissioners 1941 Standard Ordinary Mortality Table, the Commissioners 1958 Standard Ordinary Mortality Table or the Commissioners 1941 Standard Industrial Mortality Table shall be subject to the requirements and exceptions of section four thousand two hundred twenty-one of this chapter, and if for any category of ordinary insurance issued on female risks, reserves are calculated according to an age not more than three years younger than the actual age of the insured, adjusted premiums and present values shall be calculated in like manner.

(c) Every certificate of life insurance delivered or issued for delivery in this state on or after January first, nineteen hundred seventy-five, by every authorized society shall be subject to the requirements and exceptions of section four thousand two hundred twenty-one of this chapter provided that with respect to subsection (h) thereof, the society may also elect to calculate adjusted premiums and present values according to the Commissioners 1941 Standard Ordinary Mortality Table or the Commissioners 1961 Standard Industrial Mortality Table provided, that in calculating the present value of any paid-up term insurance with accompanying pure endowment, if any, offered as a nonforfeiture benefit, the rates of mortality assumed may be not greater than one hundred thirty percent of the rates of mortality of the Commissioners 1941 Standard Ordinary Mortality Table, if applicable, nor greater than the rates of mortality of the 1961 Industrial Extended Term Insurance Table, if applicable.

(d) Every annuity contract delivered or issued for delivery in this state prior to January first, nineteen hundred eighty-two, by every authorized society shall be subject to the requirements and exceptions of section four thousand two hundred twenty-one of this chapter.

(e) Every annuity contract delivered or issued for delivery in this state on or after January first, nineteen hundred eighty-two, by every authorized society shall be subject to the requirements and exceptions of section four thousand two hundred twenty-three of this chapter.

§ 4512. Accident and health and disability insurance certificates; compliance with rules and regulations. (a) No certificate or other evidence of any contract of accident insurance, disability income insurance, or health insurance or of any total and permanent disability insurance and no application or rider or endorsement for use in connection therewith shall be delivered or issued for delivery in this state unless it conforms with reasonable rules and regulations prescribed by the superintendent and contains a provision that the rights or obligations of the insured member under any such certificate or other evidence of such contract, or of any person rightfully claiming thereunder, shall be governed by the laws of this state. Pursuant to the foregoing provisions the superintendent shall have power, from time to time to make, alter and supersede reasonable rules and regulations prescribing the required, optional and prohibited provisions in such contracts, and such rules and regulations shall conform, as far as practicable, to the provisions of section three thousand two hundred fifteen of this chapter or of section three thousand two hundred sixteen of this chapter, whichever shall be applicable. Where the superintendent deems inapplicable, either in part or in their entirety, the provisions of the aforesaid sections, he may prescribe the portions, or a summary thereof, of the contract to be printed in the certificate issued to the member.

(b) Anything in this article to the contrary notwithstanding, each certificate of hospitalization expense benefits or surgical or medical expense benefits delivered or issued for delivery in this state to any member individually or as the head of a family shall:

(1) stipulate a premium determined on the basis of the age of the member, which premium shall be subject to change only if the premiums on all outstanding certificates in the same class are changed in accordance with the standards which shall have been established prior to the issuance of the certificate for the determination of the increase or decrease in the premiums and are on file with and approved by the superintendent,

(2) contain the following provisions under the caption "Incontestable and Guaranteed Renewable":

"After this certificate has been in force for a period of one year from the date of issue, it shall become incontestable as to the statements contained in the application and the member shall have the right to continue the same in force, subject to the timely payment of premiums and the conditions of the certificate relating to military service;" and

(3) in the case of such certificates written at issue age above sixty-five years, contain the following provision:

"No claim for benefits provided in this certificate shall be reduced or denied on the ground that a disease or physical condition had existed prior to the effective date of coverage of this certificate, except only such disease or physical condition which is specifically eliminated by rider, attached to this certificate, a copy which shall have been furnished to the member and its receipt evidenced by a signed amendment to the application for such certificate."

§ 4513. Annuity certificates; compliance with rules and regulations. No certificate or other evidence of any annuity contract and no application or rider or endorsement for use in connection therewith, shall be delivered or issued for delivery in this state unless it conforms with reasonable rules and regulations prescribed by the superintendent. Pursuant to the foregoing the superintendent shall have power, from time to time to make, alter and supersede reasonable rules and regulations prescribing the required, optional and prohibited provisions in such contracts, and such rules and regulations shall conform, as far as practicable with the provisions of section three thousand two hundred nineteen of this chapter.

§ 4514. Creation and maintenance of separate funds; premiums; assessments and other contributions of members. (a) Every authorized society shall create a separate fund or funds for the payment of all insurance benefits as defined in section four thousand five hundred one of this article, under all certificates or other contracts issued by it or under any provisions of its constitution or by-laws which require payment of premiums or other contributions as consideration for such benefits. All such funds shall be known as the insurance funds of such society. In addition to such insurance funds, any such society may create, maintain, invest, disburse and apply, separate and independent from such insurance funds, any general, expense, emergency, patriotic, relief or other similar funds in accordance with its constitution and by-laws. Except as provided in subsection (g) hereof, all such funds of any such society may be invested only as permitted by paragraph two of subsection (a) of section one thousand four hundred three of this chapter. All such funds shall be held, invested and disbursed for the use and benefit of the society, and no member or beneficiary shall have or acquire individual rights therein, or become entitled to any apportionment or the surrender of any part thereof, except in accordance with the terms and provisions of an insurance or annuity contract made by such society.

(b) In a provision of its by-laws relating to the payment of premiums or other required periodical contributions by insured members, every such society shall distinctly indicate the amount or portion of such premium or contribution which is to be used for insurance benefits, to be known as the insurance contribution, and the amount or portion which may be used for expenses and other purposes. The amount of such insurance contributions shall be not less than that required by the standard of valuation applicable to such certificate or contract in accordance with the provisions of this chapter. Every such insurance contribution shall without any deduction be paid into the insurance funds of such society.

(c) No authorized society shall issue or deliver in this state or elsewhere any certificate which does not require stated periodical premiums or contributions at least equal to those required according to the minimum valuation standards set forth in subsection (c) of section four thousand five hundred seventeen of this article; nor shall such society insure in this state or elsewhere members for temporary or permanent disability benefits or for hospital expense or surgical and medical expense unless the rates thereof are adequate upon the basis of tables based upon reliable experience with an interest assumption not higher than three percent per annum.

(d) The insurance funds of every such society shall consist of the insurance contributions and of all interest or other income on investments in such funds and all other accretions to such funds. Such insurance funds may be used for the payment of benefits under any insurance or annuity contract and for the payment of expenses of investment of such funds. No part of such insurance funds shall be used for any other expenses or other purposes, except that any such society having admitted assets, as shown by its last annual statement filed with the superintendent, in excess of one hundred five percent of its entire liabilities, including its required reserves computed on a net tabular basis, may transfer or allocate such excess insurance funds to the expense or other funds of the society, in accordance with its constitution and by-laws; but the amount so transferred in any calendar year shall not exceed whichever is the smaller of (i) five percent of the total contributions to the mortuary fund or funds of such society during the next preceding calendar year or (ii) seventy-five per centum of the sum of

(1) the savings in mortality during the preceding calendar year under certificates issued on rates creating and maintaining reserves in accordance with the table of mortality used, and

(2) the excess interest earnings over and above the interest requirements to maintain reserves, after deducting from such sum the dividends, if any, paid to members, as determined by the valuation report and annual statement required by this chapter, but no society shall make any such transfer or allocation within the limits herein described which pays or agrees to pay a first year commission in excess of fifty-five percent of the year's premium on any life insurance certificate or annuity contract issued by such society. In addition to any transfer or allocation made within the limits herein described, a society may transfer or allocate from the mortuary fund or funds to the general or expense fund, surrender charges, if any, provided for under terminated life insurance contracts on a legal reserve basis.

(e) Any such society may ascertain and distribute any divisible surplus accruing under its certificates on an equitable basis, provided that any apportionment of such surplus shall be only on an annual basis.

(f) Whenever any authorized society heretofore organized in or licensed to do business in this state has substantially separate groups or classes of certificates in force on which premiums or assessments are payable according to substantially different tables of rates, the superintendent may require such society to file a separate accounting in its annual report of such major classifications of certificates.

(g) Any such society, for the accomplishment of any lawful purpose provided for in its charter or constitution, may own, hold or lease personal and real property located within or without this state, with necessary buildings thereon; but no such personal or real property shall be deemed an admitted asset of such society, within the meaning of this chapter, except the home office building of such society to an amount not exceeding that permitted by paragraph seven of subsection (a) of section one thousand four hundred four of this chapter. Any such real or personal property may be acquired and maintained only out of the general or expense fund of such society, any voluntary contributions which it may receive therefor, and such reasonable charges as may be made for the facilities or services furnished thereby.

(h) Every authorized society shall at all times maintain a surplus not less than the minimum amount established by rule of the superintendent.

§ 4515. Conditions for avoiding separate funds. (a) Any authorized society which maintains reserves, including deficient premium reserves, at least equal to those required by the minimum standards of valuation hereinafter specified and which does not exceed the expense limits hereinafter specified shall not be required, if its constitution or by-laws so permit, to create or maintain a separate fund or funds, for the payment of insurance benefits as required by subsection (a) of section four thousand five hundred fourteen of this article nor to comply with the provisions of subsections (b) and (d) of such section and subsection (d) of section four thousand five hundred seven of this article.

(b) (1) Such minimum standards of valuation shall be:

(A) as to all contracts for life insurance benefits issued prior to

January first, nineteen hundred forty-eight, the American Experience Table of Mortality or the American Men Ultimate Table of Mortality with interest at three and one-half per centum,

(B) as to all contracts for life insurance benefits issued on and after January first, nineteen hundred forty-eight, and prior to January first, nineteen hundred fifty-six, the American Experience Table of Mortality or the American Men Ultimate Table of Mortality with interest at three per centum, and

(C) as to all contracts for life insurance benefits issued on and after January first, nineteen hundred fifty-six, the applicable mortality tables as specified in subsection (c) of section four thousand five hundred seventeen of this article.

(2) The deficient premium reserve as to all such contracts issued prior to January first, nineteen hundred forty-eight, shall be determined in the manner prescribed in subsection (b) of section four thousand five hundred seventeen of this article and as to all such contracts issued on and after January first, nineteen hundred forty-eight, shall be determined in the manner prescribed in section four thousand two hundred eighteen of this chapter.

(3) Such minimum standard of valuation as to all contracts for annuity benefits issued on and after January first, nineteen hundred forty-eight, shall be the 1937 Standard Annuity Mortality Table with interest at three per centum.

(c) No such society shall, except as provided for in subsection (f) hereof, make or incur in any calendar year, or permit to be made or incurred on its behalf or under any agreement with it, total life insurance expenses as defined in subsection (d) hereof in excess of the total life insurance expense limit as defined in subsection (e) hereof.

(d) The total life insurance expenses of any such society within the meaning of this section, shall include all expenses, made or incurred on its behalf with its permission or under any agreement with it, in the business of fraternal life insurance, except:

(1) taxes, licenses and fees,

(2) disbursements for altruistic, educational, fraternal or recreational activities which are made from funds collected solely for such purposes and in addition thereto disbursements for like purposes in an amount not exceeding one and one-half per centum of the premiums received for life insurance contracts during such calendar year,

(3) that portion of its total investment expenses not exceeding one-fourth of one per centum of the mean amount of its total invested assets during such calendar year,

(4) taxes and other outlays exclusively in connection with real estate and commissions, or salaries and expenses in lieu of commissions, on mortgage loans, and

(5) outlays representing the accrued liability for services rendered by the society's employees prior to coverage under employees pension plans.

(e) The total life insurance expense limit, within the meaning of this section, shall be the sum of the following items:

(1) seven per centum of all life insurance premiums received by such society during such calendar year,

(2) thirty-five per centum of all first year life insurance premiums received by such society during such calendar year,

(3) one hundred seventy-five one thousandths of one per centum of the aggregate amount of life insurance of such society in force at the beginning of such calendar year and of the aggregate amount of such insurance issued during, and in force at the end of, such calendar year,

(4) three-tenths of one per centum of the aggregate amount of life insurance of such society in force at the beginning of such calendar year and of the aggregate amount of such insurance issued during, and in force at the end of, such calendar year, and

(5) thirty-five one hundredths of one per centum of the aggregate amount of life insurance of such society issued during, and is in force at the end of, such calendar year, exclusive of additional insurance purchased by the application of certificate dividends.

(f) The total life insurance expense limit of any such society which has in force at the end of the next preceding calendar year less than one million dollars of life insurance shall be increased by one hundred per centum; and for any other such society, such limits shall be increased by one hundred per centum less two-tenths of one per centum for each one million dollars of life insurance in excess of one million dollars of life insurance until the extra margin is sixty per centum of said limit, and thereafter said extra margin shall decrease by one-third of one per centum for each ten million dollars of life insurance in force at the end of the next preceding calendar year until the extra margin is fifty per centum; and thereafter said extra margin shall decrease by one-half of one per centum for each ten million dollars of life insurance in force at the end of the next preceding calendar year until such extra margin is reduced to zero.

(g) The amounts of life insurance referred to in this section shall not include additional benefits payable for accidental death or for total and permanent disability.

(h) No such society, and no person, firm or corporation, on its behalf or under any agreement with it, shall pay or allow to any agent, broker, employee or other person, for services in procuring an application for life insurance, for collecting any premium thereon or for any other service performed in connection therewith, any compensation greater than that which has been determined by agreement made in advance of the rendering of such service.

(i) The superintendent may, in his discretion, accept satisfactory approximations of the figures required in this section. If any such society shall in any calendar year make or incur total life insurance expenses in excess of the total life insurance expense limit, the superintendent may, upon written application of such society, suspend such limit for such society for the calendar year in which such excess was incurred.

(j) Notice of intention to comply with the provisions of this section shall be given in writing to the superintendent by any such society, accompanied by a certified copy of the authorizing resolution of the board of directors.

§ 4516. Annual statement; valuation report; power of superintendent. (a) Every authorized society shall make special reports in compliance with section three hundred eight of this chapter, shall file its annual statement in conformity with the requirements of section three hundred seven of this chapter, and on or before the first day of March of each year, shall file with the superintendent a valuation report of its insurance certificates or other insurance obligations in force at last year-end in form and content prescribed by the superintendent. Every authorized alien society shall also make and file the trusteed surplus statement required by section one thousand three hundred twelve of this chapter.

(b) The superintendent shall annually make or cause to be made valuations of all outstanding certificates and other insurance obligations of every domestic society, in accordance with the provisions of this article. The superintendent may make such valuation, or cause the same to be made, by groups of certificates using approximate averages for fractions of a year and otherwise. The superintendent may, in his discretion, make or cause to be made a similar valuation of the outstanding certificates and other insurance obligations of any authorized foreign or alien society, or he may accept in lieu thereof the valuation made or accepted by the insurance department or insurance supervisory official of the state, province or country in which such society is domiciled.

(c) Every domestic society, if it has an official publication or newspaper, shall publish therein a synopsis of its annual statement and valuation report within sixty days after the same have been filed with the superintendent.

(d) Every authorized society shall submit such reports as may be required by the superintendent to demonstrate the activity of its lodge system, its expenditures for altruistic, educational, fraternal, patriotic or recreational purposes and other expenses of maintaining fraternal character.

(e) The superintendent is authorized to engage outside resources and take such other actions he or she deems necessary and appropriate to ensure compliance with the requirements of this article and to provide assistance to and oversight of authorized societies.

§ 4517. Standard of valuation reserves. (a) The legal minimum standard of valuation for all life insurance certificates issued by an authorized society prior to January first, nineteen hundred fifty-seven shall be in accordance with provisions of law applicable thereto as of December thirty-first, nineteen hundred fifty-six, including the setting aside and maintenance of the required statutory contingency reserve on such of its certificates as are valued on an interest assumption in excess of three and one-half percent per annum. The legal minimum standard of valuation for all annuity contracts, and disability benefits and accident and sickness benefits in all certificates and contracts shall be in accordance with the provisions of law applicable thereto as of December thirty-first, nineteen hundred fifty-six.

(b) In every valuation report of every authorized society and in every valuation of reserves made or caused to be made by the superintendent or accepted by him in lieu of such valuation, the reserve liability on all certificates issued on and after January first, nineteen hundred fifty-seven shall be determined on a basis of the net tabular value of the reserves on such certificates, not including any value for the right to make extra payments or to require additional insurance contributions. Such tabular values shall not be less than the reserve determined according to the commissioners reserve valuation method as defined in this subsection. If the premium charged is less than the tabular net premium according to the basis of valuation used, an additional reserve equal to the present value of the deficiency in such premiums, as determined in the manner prescribed in section four thousand two hundred eighteen of this chapter, shall be set up and maintained as a liability; provided that, in the case of any society which is not qualifying with the provisions of section four thousand five hundred fifteen of this article, the deficiency reserve shall be determined on the basis of the difference between the net insurance contribution, as in practice actually collected for life insurance benefits, and the tabular net premium. The reserve liability shall be properly adjusted in the event that the mid-year or tabular values are not appropriate.

(1) Reserves according to the commissioners reserve valuation method, for the life insurance and endowment benefits of certificates providing for a uniform amount of insurance and requiring the payment of uniform premiums shall be the excess, if any, of the present value, at the date of valuation, of such future guaranteed benefits provided for by such certificates, over the then present value of any future modified net premiums therefor. The modified net premiums for any such certificate shall be such uniform percentage of the respective contract premiums for such benefits that the present value, at the date of issue of the certificate, of all such modified net premiums shall be equal to the sum of the then present value of such benefits provided for by the certificate and the excess of:

(A) a net level premium equal to the present value, at the date of issue, of such benefits provided for after the first certificate year, divided by the present value, at the date of issue, of an annuity of one dollar per annum payable on the first and each subsequent anniversary of such certificate on which a premium falls due; provided however, that such net level annual premium shall not exceed the net level annual premium on the nineteen year premium whole life plan for insurance of the same amount at an age one year higher than the age at issue of such certificate, over

(B) a net one-year term premium for such benefits provided for in the first certificate year.

(2) Reserves according to the commissioners reserve valuation method for (i) life insurance certificates providing for varying amounts of benefits or requiring the payment of varying premiums, (ii) annuity and pure endowment benefits, (iii) disability and accidental death benefits in all certificates and contracts, and (iv) all other benefits, except life insurance and endowment benefits, shall be calculated by a method consistent with the principles of this subsection (b), except that any extra premiums charged because of impairments or special hazards shall be disregarded in the determination of modified net premiums.

(c) (1) The minimum standard for the valuation of life insurance and annuity certificates issued on and after January first, nineteen hundred fifty-seven, but prior to July first, nineteen hundred seventy-two, shall be three percent interest and for life insurance and annuity certificates issued on and after July first, nineteen hundred seventy-two, but prior to January first, nineteen hundred eighty, shall be three and one-half percent interest, and the following tables:

(A) for certificates of life insurance issued prior to January first, nineteen hundred seventy-five -- American Men Ultimate Table of Mortality, with Bowerman's or Davis' Extension thereof or, with the consent of the superintendent, the Commissioners 1941 Standard Ordinary Mortality Table, the Commissioners 1958 Standard Ordinary Mortality Table or the Commissioners 1941 Standard Industrial Table of Mortality; provided that for any category of ordinary insurance issued on female risks, all modified net premiums and present values may be calculated according to an age not more than three years younger than the actual age of the insured; and for certificates issued on and after January first, nineteen hundred seventy-five, -- the Commissioners 1941 Standard Ordinary Mortality Table, the Commissioners 1958 Standard Ordinary Mortality Table or the Commissioners 1961 Standard Industrial Table of Mortality;

(B) for annuity certificates, including life annuities provided or available under optional modes of settlement in such certificates -- the 1937 Standard Annuity Table or, at the option of the society, the Annuity Mortality Table for 1949, Ultimate, or any modification of either table approved by the superintendent;

(C) for disability benefits issued in connection with life benefit certificates -- Hunter's Disability Table, which, for active lives, shall be combined with a mortality table permitted for calculating the reserves on life insurance certificates, except that the table known as Class III Disability Table (1926) modified to conform to the contractual waiting period, or, at the option of the society, the tables of Period 2 disablement rates and the 1930 to 1950 termination rates of the 1952 Disability Study of the Society of Actuaries, with due regard to the type of benefits, shall be used in computing reserves for disability benefits under a contract which presumes that total disability shall be considered to be permanent after a specified period; and

(D) for accidental death benefits issued in connection with life benefit certificate -- the Inter-Company Double Indemnity Mortality Table or, at the option of the society, the 1959 Accidental Death Benefits Table. Either such table shall be combined with a mortality table permitted for calculating the reserves for life insurance certificates.

(2) The minimum standard for the valuation of life insurance and annuity certificates issued on and after January first, nineteen hundred eighty, shall be subject to the requirements and exceptions of section four thousand two hundred seventeen of this chapter, provided that a society may also elect to use the Commissioners 1941 Standard Ordinary Mortality Table or the Commissioners 1961 Standard Industrial Table.

(3) The superintendent may, in his discretion, accept other standards for valuation if he finds that the reserves produced thereby will not be less in the aggregate than reserves computed in accordance with the minimum valuation standard herein prescribed. The superintendent may, in his discretion, vary the standards of mortality applicable to all certificates of insurance on substandard lives or other extrahazardous lives by any society authorized to do business in this state. Whenever the mortality experience under all certificates valued on the same mortality table is in excess of the expected mortality according to such table for a period of three consecutive years, the superintendent may require additional reserves when deemed necessary in his judgment on account of such certificates.

(4) Any society, with the consent of the superintendent and under any conditions he may impose, may establish and maintain reserves on its certificates in excess of the reserves required thereunder, but the contractual rights of any insured member shall not be affected thereby.

(d) Every society shall maintain reserves for all individual accident and health insurance certificates which shall place a sound value on its liabilities under such certificates and which shall not be less than the reserves according to the standards set forth in regulations issued by the superintendent and, in no event, less than the pro rata gross unearned premium reserve for such certificates. Prior to the issuance of any regulation provided for in this subsection the superintendent shall give at least ten days notice thereof to each society licensed to write accident and health insurance in this state, by ordinary mail addressed to its principal place of business, and provide an opportunity for hearing on such proposed action.

(e) All of the foregoing valuations, in any valuation report filed by a society as required by the provisions of this article, shall either be certified by a competent actuary, or, at the request and expense of the society be verified by an actuary of the insurance department of the state, province or country in which the society is domiciled.

(f) Any authorized society which issues certificates or other obligations providing for benefits in case of death or disability resulting solely from accident, or in case of temporary disability resulting from sickness, or hospital expense or surgical and medical expense benefits shall maintain reserves for unearned premiums and for disabled lives in accordance with standards prescribed from time to time by the superintendent, which standards shall conform as nearly as practicable to those required for similar reserves of accident and health insurance companies under the laws of this state.

§ 4518. Amounts credited on life insurance certificates. Any individual life insurance certificate may provide that in addition to any minimum benefits guaranteed in the certificate, additional amounts may be credited to the certificate. No such additional amounts shall be guaranteed or credited except upon reasonable assumptions as to investment income, mortality, persistency and expenses. The declaration of such additional amounts by a society must be made prospectively; no such additional amounts shall be credited retroactively to apply to any period prior to such declaration. No such additional amounts are required to be credited to any certificate with respect to the period after the termination or lapse of such certificate by reason of default in payment of any premium, installment or interest on any certificate loan and before the reinstatement of such certificate, if it is reinstated. Any such additional amounts shall be credited on a basis equitable to all certificate holders of a given class and shall be based on written criteria approved by the board of directors of the society or a committee thereof.

§ 4519. Impairment of reserves and surplus; order to make good deficiency. (a) Whenever the superintendent determines that the admitted assets of an authorized society will be less than the sum of its required reserves, accrued liabilities, and minimum surplus within a period of five years or less, the superintendent may, in his or her discretion, require submission of reports, business plans or other information demonstrating the steps the society is taking to address the deficiency and require that such society take such actions as the superintendent deems necessary and appropriate to maintain the minimum surplus amount, including, but not limited to, prohibiting such society from issuing any new contracts of insurance in this state, and in the case of a domestic society, from issuing any new contracts in this state or elsewhere.

(b)(1) Whenever the superintendent determines that the admitted assets of an authorized society are less than the sum of its required reserves, accrued liabilities, and minimum surplus, he or she shall determine the amount of such deficiency and issue a written requisition to such society to remove, repair or make good such deficiency within such period as he or she shall designate, not less than thirty days nor more than six months from the service of such requisition, except that if he or she believes the interests of the certificate holders of such society will best be served by extending such period of time, he or she may do so for such period or periods of time as he or she, in his or her discretion deems best. He or she may also prohibit such society, while such deficiency exists, from issuing any new contracts of insurance in this state, and in the case of a domestic society, from issuing any new contracts in this state or elsewhere. If such society shall fail or be unable to make good such deficiency within such period as so extended, the superintendent shall proceed against such society under the provisions of article seventy-four of this chapter on the ground that its further transaction of business will be hazardous to its policyholders, its creditors or the public.

(2) In the event that the superintendent determines that the admitted assets of a domestic society are less than the sum of its required reserves, accrued liabilities, and minimum surplus, the superintendent shall have the power and authority to require that the society merge or otherwise consolidate with another willing authorized society or that the society cede any individual risk or risks, in whole or in part, to a willing society or life insurer.

(c) An authorized society may assess members as described in subsection (g) of section four thousand five hundred four of this article only after such assessment is filed with the superintendent and approved by him or her, or, in the case of a foreign or alien society, after approval of the insurance department of the state of domicile and upon notice to the superintendent. The superintendent shall have the authority to prohibit any foreign or alien society that has assessed its members from issuing any new contracts of insurance in this state.

§ 4520. Non-liability of officers and members. Officers and members of the supreme or any subordinate body of any authorized society shall not be individually liable for the payment of any benefits provided for in the laws and agreements of such society, but the same shall be payable only out of the funds of such society and in the manner provided by its laws.

§ 4521. Grounds for revocation or suspension of license. The superintendent may revoke or suspend the license to do business in this state of any domestic, foreign or alien society, if, after notice to and hearing of such society in accordance with sections three hundred four, three hundred five and three hundred six of the financial services law, the superintendent finds any one or more of the following grounds therefor:

(a) that such society has exceeded its powers under its charter or under its license to do business;

(b) that such society has failed to comply with any requirement of this chapter applicable thereto;

(c) that such society is conducting its insurance business fraudulently or in a way hazardous to its members, its creditors or the public;

(d) that such society is not carrying out its contracts in good faith; and

(e) in the case of a foreign or alien society, that the society is not conforming in substance to all of the requirements imposed on domestic societies, and in such a case, the revocation may be in addition to, or in lieu of, a proceeding under article seventy-four of this chapter in the circumstances specified in section four thousand five hundred nineteen of this article.

§ 4522. Exemptions of certain organizations. (a) Except as provided in subsection (b) hereof the following societies, corporations, unincorporated associations, and other organizations shall be exempt from the provisions of this chapter requiring the obtaining of a license to do an insurance business and from all other requirements of this chapter except those provided in subsections (c) and (d) hereof and except section three thousand two hundred nine and the provisions of article seventy-four of this chapter:

(1) Organizations of workmen of the same trade or of several allied trades maintained for the purpose of securing by united action the most favorable conditions as regards wages, hours and conditions of labor, and the protection of their individual rights in the prosecution of their trade or trades.

(2) Organizations which limit their membership to the employees of a particular city or town, or of a designated business corporation or firm, or of one or more business corporations or firms having business interests in common, except as otherwise provided in subsection (f) of section one thousand one hundred eight of this chapter. Any such organization which limits its membership to the employees of a corporation having more than five thousand employees may provide for hospital, surgical and medical benefits for the employee, his or her spouse, and his or her child or children not over eighteen years of age.

(3) Organizations of a religious, charitable, benevolent or fraternal character, which are not organized or maintained primarily for the purpose of providing insurance benefits, and which have not more than fifteen hundred members who are or may be entitled to any insurance benefits unless the organization obligates itself to pay a death benefit of more than five hundred dollars on the death of any one member, or disability benefits of more than three hundred fifty dollars to any one person in any one year, or both.

(4) Organizations which limit their membership to persons engaged in one or more occupations in the same or similar lines of business and which, together with their legal predecessors or affiliated bodies continuously paid or provided for the payment of death or disability benefits to their members for a period of not less than fifteen years prior to January first, nineteen hundred forty.

(5) Any organization of a religious, charitable, benevolent or fraternal character, which is not organized or maintained primarily for the purpose of providing insurance benefits, which have furnished hospital benefits to its members under a plan where the maximum charge for such benefits is not in excess of two dollars per annum and which was in operation for ten years prior to March first, nineteen hundred forty-one, or which obligates itself to pay a death benefit of not more than one hundred dollars on the death of any one member, and has been in operation for more than twenty-five years prior to March first, nineteen hundred fifty.

(6) Organizations which limit their membership to members of a fraternal benefit society organized under the provisions of this chapter and which provide either cemetery benefits, or funeral benefits not in excess of seventy-five dollars for any one interment, or both, for such member, his or her spouse or his or her child or children not over twenty-one years of age.

(b) The foregoing exemptions shall not apply to:

(1) any organization which is incorporated or organized under the laws of, or has its principal office or headquarters in, any province or country outside of the United States,

(2) any organization, except one specified in paragraph two of subsection (a) hereof, which makes or issues annuity contracts,

(3) any organization of any of the kinds specified in paragraph two, three or five of subsection (a) hereof if it gives or allows, or promises to give or allow, to any person any compensation for procuring new members, or

(4) any subordinate lodge of any society providing insurance benefits to its members.

(c) The superintendent may require from any organization claiming exemption under subsection (a) hereof, by examination in accordance with section three hundred ten of this chapter, or otherwise, such information as will enable him to determine whether such organization is exempt under this section.

(d) No organization of the kinds hereinbefore specified which obligates itself to pay life insurance or accident or health or disability insurance benefits to its members shall make, issue or deliver in this state any certificate or other written evidence of such obligation unless the same shall have conspicuously printed on the first page thereof in bold-faced type not smaller than ten point the following statement: "This organization does not operate under the supervision of the New York State Department of Financial Services."

§ 4523. Soliciting membership in unauthorized societies; penalties. (a) Any person, firm, association or corporation who or which shall solicit a member or members for, or in any way assist in procuring a member or members for, or collect payments or dues for or in connection with the membership of, any fraternal benefit society that is not licensed to do business in this state and that is not exempted under the provisions of section four thousand five hundred twenty-two of this article shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and in addition, such person, firm, association or corporation shall be liable to a penalty of one hundred dollars for each person so solicited or so procured to become a member in such unauthorized society, and may in addition to either of the foregoing, be enjoined from doing any such unlawful acts, in the manner specified in section three hundred nine of the financial services law.

(b) The provisions of subsection (a) hereof shall not apply to the conduct of a designated representative acting under the authority of an unlicensed fraternal benefit society which was heretofore licensed to do business in this state and has obtained a certificate from the superintendent authorizing designated representatives to act for such society in the collection of payments or dues from members or perform any act incident to existing membership but not to solicit members or assist in procuring members. The application for such certificate shall be on such form or forms and supplements thereto, and shall contain such information, as the superintendent may prescribe. There shall be attached to such forms a statement by such society stating that such society has satisfied itself that the proposed designated representative is trustworthy and competent to act as such designated representative and that the society will appoint him to act as its designated representative. Such statement shall be subscribed by an officer of such society and affirmed by such officer as true under the penalties of perjury. The superintendent may revoke the superintendent's authorization of any designated representative after notice and hearing and on the grounds enumerated in subsection (a) of section two thousand one hundred ten of this chapter.

§ 4524. Exemption from taxation. Every society organized or licensed under this article is hereby declared to be a charitable and benevolent institution, and all of its funds shall be exempt from all and every state, county, district, municipal and school tax, other than taxes on real estate and office equipment.

§ 4525. Application of other provisions of this chapter. Every authorized society shall be subject to the provisions of this article but shall not be subject to other provisions of this chapter except:

(a) those specified in this article as applicable to such societies;

(b) articles one, two, three, thirteen, fourteen, twenty-four, seventy-one and seventy-four;

(c) section one thousand one hundred one, subsections (a) and (g) of section one thousand one hundred two, sections one thousand one hundred three, one thousand one hundred five, one thousand one hundred six, one thousand one hundred eight, one thousand one hundred twelve, paragraphs one, two and three of subsection (a) of section one thousand one hundred thirteen, sections one thousand two hundred five, one thousand two hundred twelve, one thousand two hundred seventeen, and one thousand three hundred twenty-two, subsections (a), (b), (d) and (e) of section two thousand one hundred one, subsection (a) of section two thousand one hundred two, subsection (a) and subsections (c) through (m) of section two thousand one hundred three, subsections (a) through (e) of section two thousand one hundred nine, subsections (a), (b) and (d) through (f) of section two thousand one hundred ten, sections two thousand one hundred twelve, two thousand one hundred fourteen and two thousand one hundred sixteen, subsections (a), (b), (c) and (e) through (h) of section two thousand one hundred seventeen, subsections (a) and (c) of section two thousand one hundred twenty, sections two thousand one hundred twenty-two, two thousand one hundred twenty-three, and two thousand one hundred twenty-four, subsection (b) of section two thousand three hundred seven, sections three thousand one hundred three, three thousand one hundred five, three thousand one hundred six, three thousand one hundred ten, three thousand two hundred one, three thousand two hundred two, three thousand two hundred five, three thousand two hundred seven, three thousand two hundred nine through three thousand two hundred twelve, three thousand two hundred fourteen, four thousand two hundred thirteen, four thousand two hundred twenty-six, four thousand two hundred forty-one, seven thousand three hundred one, seven thousand three hundred three and seven thousand three hundred four; and

(d) any other section which specifically applies to fraternal benefit societies.

§ 4526. Investments of fraternal benefit societies. (a) For purposes of investments made pursuant to the provisions of section one thousand four hundred four of this chapter, the term "institution" shall only include a corporation, a joint-stock association, and a business trust and the term "obligations" shall only include bonds, debentures, notes, or other evidences of indebtedness. Notwithstanding the provisions set forth in items (ii) and (iv) of subparagraph (A) of paragraph two of subsection (a) of such section, a society is authorized to invest, in an amount not to exceed thirty-three percent of its admitted assets as shown by its last statement on file with the superintendent, in obligations of American institutions which:

(1) are rated BBB or higher (or the equivalent thereto) by a securities rating agency recognized by the superintendent, or if not so rated, are similar in structure and in all material respects to other obligations of the same institution which are so rated, or

(2) have been given at least the second highest quality designation by the Securities Valuation Office of the National Association of Insurance Commissioners.

(b) Investments in loans secured by real property and investments in real property made pursuant to the provisions of paragraphs four and five of subsection (a) of such section shall be permitted only to the extent that such investments are acquired or held directly by such society.

(c) Foreign investments made pursuant to the provisions of paragraph six of such subsection shall only consist of the following:

(1) Investments in Canada which are substantially of the same kinds, classes and investment grades as those eligible for investment under other provisions of such subsection. The aggregate amount of such investments held at any time shall not exceed the greater of ten percent of the society's admitted assets as shown by its last statement on file with the superintendent or the amount, if any, permitted pursuant to paragraph two hereof.

(2) Investments in a foreign country or in a possession of the United States if the society is authorized to do business therein, or if the society has outstanding insurance, annuity or reinsurance contracts on lives or risks resident or located therein; provided such investments are substantially of the same kinds, classes and investment grades as those eligible for investment under other provisions of such subsection. The aggregate amount of such investments and of cash in the currency of such country or possession at any time held shall not, except as permitted by paragraph one hereof, exceed the amount which such society is required by law to invest in such country or possession or one and one-half times the amount of its reserves and other obligations under such contracts, whichever is greater.

(3) Investments in any foreign country, in addition to investments permitted under paragraphs one and two hereof, which are substantially of the same kinds, classes and investment grades, and in the same proportions, as those eligible for investment under other provisions of such subsection and subsection (a) of this section. The aggregate amount of such investments made pursuant to this paragraph shall not exceed four percent of the society's admitted assets as shown by its last statement on file with the superintendent and provided that a society shall not make any investment in any foreign country pursuant to this paragraph, if such investment, together with all other investments in the same foreign country so made and then held by such insurer, would exceed one percent of the society's admitted assets as shown by its last statement on file with the superintendent.

(d) Investments in equity interests made pursuant to paragraph eight of such subsection shall be limited to investments in common shares and shall not include investments in partnership interests or other equity interests.

§ 4527. Optional authority and regulation. (a) An authorized fraternal benefit society subject to this article and meeting the requirements of this section may obligate itself for the payment of the following benefits in addition to those authorized in section four thousand five hundred five of this article;

(1) Long term care benefits as defined in subsection (q) of section four thousand five hundred one of this article.

(2) Variable life insurance benefits and variable annuity benefits issued pursuant to separate accounts that are approved by the superintendent and established in compliance with section four thousand two hundred forty of this chapter, except that item (vi) of subsection (a) of section four thousand two hundred forty of this chapter shall not apply to accounts established under this section.

(3) Annuity benefits as defined in subsection (l) of section four thousand five hundred one of this chapter in amounts exceeding fifteen thousand dollars annually.

(4) Disability income insurance benefits as defined in subsection (p) of section four thousand five hundred one of this article in amounts exceeding one thousand two hundred fifty dollars a month.

(b) In addition to other requirements of this article, an authorized fraternal benefit society obligating itself for the payment of benefits described in this section shall, notwithstanding section four thousand five hundred twenty-five of this article or subsection (g) of section two thousand one hundred three and subsection (b) of section two thousand one hundred thirty-two of this chapter, only retain as agents persons who are licensed pursuant to section two thousand one hundred three of this chapter and who:

(1) take the personal written examination required by subsection (f) of section two thousand one hundred three of this chapter if seeking the original issuance of a license under section two thousand one hundred three of this chapter on or after January first, nineteen hundred ninety-seven; and

(2) comply with the provisions of section two thousand one hundred thirty-two of this chapter regarding agents continuing education for the biennial licensing period beginning on or after January first, nineteen hundred ninety-eight.

§ 4528. New business limitations. Every authorized society shall limit the issuance of new life insurance certificates and new annuity contracts in accordance with requirements for new life insurance policies and new annuity contracts under section four thousand two hundred twenty-seven of this chapter, except that:

(a) No such limitations shall apply to new life insurance certificates or new annuity contracts issued by the society before January first, nineteen hundred ninety-eight; and

(b) Limitations equal to one hundred fifty percent of the limitations established in section four thousand two hundred twenty-seven of this chapter shall apply to new life insurance certificates and new annuity contracts issued by the society after January first, nineteen hundred ninety-eight but before January first, two thousand; and

(c) The limitations established in section four thousand two hundred twenty-seven of this chapter shall fully apply to all new life insurance certificates and all new annuity contracts issued by the society on or after January first, two thousand.

§ 4529. Subsidiaries authorized. (a) A domestic fraternal benefit society may invest in subsidiaries as authorized in article seventeen of this chapter for domestic life insurance companies, provided such society meets the requirements of subsection (b) of section forty-five hundred twenty-seven or section four thousand five hundred thirty of this article.

(b) A domestic fraternal benefit society may create, maintain and operate, or may establish organizations to operate, not-for-profit institutions to provide one or more social, intellectual, educational, charitable, benevolent, moral, fraternal, patriotic or religious benefits to members. Such institutions may furnish services free or at a reasonable charge. Any real or personal property owned, held or leased by the society for this purpose shall be reported in the society's annual statement.

§ 4530. Optional Investment Authority. (a) An authorized society meeting the requirements set forth in this section is authorized to invest its funds in, or otherwise acquire, or loan upon, the types of investments specified in sections one thousand four hundred two, one thousand four hundred three, one thousand four hundred five, one thousand four hundred six, one thousand four hundred ten, and four thousand two hundred forty of this chapter, subject to the limitations contained therein. The provisions of section one thousand four hundred four of this chapter shall not have any application to investments of such societies, except to the extent provided in paragraph four of subsection (b) of section one thousand four hundred two of this chapter.

(b) In addition to other requirements of this article, an authorized society investing pursuant to this section shall meet the following requirements:

(1) Prior to investing pursuant to this section, the society shall submit notice to the superintendent that the board of directors of the society has approved investment pursuant to this section and that the society meets the requirements of this section and intends to invest hereunder;

(2) The society shall: (A) have been in continuous operation for a minimum of five years; and (B) have total admitted assets of at least two billion dollars for a period of five continuous years as of the immediately preceding calendar year; and

(3) For each calendar year during which this section applies to the society, the society shall have, as of the end of the immediately preceding calendar year:

(A) had a risk based capital level of at least six times authorized control level RBC as defined by the provisions of section one thousand three hundred twenty-two of this chapter; and

(B) maintained a minimum claims-paying, financial strength or equivalent rating from at least one nationally recognized statistical rating organization in one of the organization's three highest rating categories for the time period during which this section applies to the society provided that the rating shall not depend on a guarantee or other credit enhancement from another entity; and shall not be modified or otherwise qualified to show dependence of the rating on the performance or a contractual obligation of, or the society's affiliation with, another society.

(c) Whenever a society fails to meet the requirements set forth in this section, the superintendent may, in his or her discretion, prohibit or limit the society from engaging in new investments under this section.

RETIREMENT SYSTEMS

Section 4601. Definitions.

4602. Creation of retirement systems.
4603. Benefits.
4604. Contributions.
4605. Reinsurance.
4606. Reserves.
4607. Exemption from taxation; trusts; higher education loans.
4608. Application.

§ 4601. Definitions. In this article:

(a) "Employees" means the employees, officers, and agents of any person, firm or corporation or of one or more corporations having business interests in common.

(b) "Employer" means the person, firm, corporation or one or more corporations having business interests in common, and includes any organization of such employers.

(c) "Retirement system" or "system" means a non-profit corporation or trust formed for the purpose of providing pension benefits.

(d) "Pension benefits" means benefits provided by a retirement system for members retiring by reason of age or length of service, or both, and benefits permitted by section four thousand six hundred three of this article.

§ 4602. Creation of retirement systems. (a) The employees, an employer, or the employees and employer jointly, may create a retirement system by filing in the office of the superintendent a declaration of their intention to do so, in a form approved by the superintendent, subscribed and affirmed as true under the penalties of perjury by two provisional trustees or officers of such system, and an authenticated copy of the constitution, by-laws or declaration of trust adopted to regulate the affairs of the system.

(b) Upon such filing the superintendent may, if satisfied that the rates of contribution are adequate and that the plan of operation is sound and equitable, issue a license, subject to the provisions of section one thousand one hundred two of this chapter, authorizing the retirement system to do the business described in the plan.

(c) A system shall have trustees who shall choose officers or agents to carry on the business of the system. The by-laws or declaration of trust of such a system shall prescribe the manner in which and the officers or agents by whom the system may be conducted and the manner in which its funds shall be collected and disbursed.

(d) The funds and investments of a system shall be held independently of the funds and investments of the employer and of any other person. The manner of investment of the funds of a system shall be limited in every respect as in the case of the funds of a domestic life insurance company, except that investments shall be made under section one thousand four hundred four not section one thousand four hundred five of this chapter and shall be subject to the provisions of section one thousand four hundred four of this chapter that relate specially to retirement systems.

(e) A system shall not issue or deliver any certificate or contract providing for or promising to pay any benefit until a copy of its form has been filed with the superintendent and approved by him. Such certificate or contract shall conform to the provisions of this article and, insofar as practicable, to the other provisions of this chapter applicable to similar policies or contracts.

§ 4603. Benefits. (a) A system providing retirement benefits by agreement with an employer may also provide in the same agreement for withdrawal equities and benefits on account of disability or death.

(b) A system may provide pension benefits by entering into agreements with an employer or group of employers having a common retirement plan which has been approved by the superintendent to receive funds which are to be accumulated at interest and, subject to the conditions agreed upon, to apply the accumulated funds to provide pension benefits for the employees of the employer or group of employers as each employee retires.

(c) No agreement shall be entered into with an employer or group of employers having less than twenty-five employees who are eligible for retirement benefits under the agreement.

(d) The accumulation of any funds contributed by an employee shall be used for his exclusive benefit.

§ 4604. Contributions. (a) The participating employees, or the employer, or both may contribute to the funds of the system and the rates of contribution shall be fixed by the trustees upon the basis of actuarial recommendations and shall be adequate to support the benefits granted.

(b) The trustees may, with the approval of the superintendent, increase or decrease the rates of contribution whenever such action is deemed by them necessary to preserve the solvency and equity of the system.

§ 4605. Reinsurance. (a) All or any part of the pension benefits of a system may be reinsured in an insurance company authorized to insure such risks in this state, as may be provided for in the by-laws or declaration of trust of the retirement system.

(b) The reinsurance contract may be terminated by agreement between the reinsurer and the ceding retirement system or a successor and the assets supporting such agreement may be transferred to such system or its successor in one sum or over a period of years in accordance with terms and conditions approved by the superintendent. In such event, the funds transferred in one sum or the present value of sums to be transferred over a period of years shall become an admitted asset of such system or its successor.

§ 4606. Reserves. (a) A system shall, except to the extent that its benefits are reinsured by an insurance company authorized to transact such business in this state, create and maintain reserves, calculated to be adequate to cover the liabilities on account of benefits payable under its contracts, by-laws, or declaration of trust.

(b) The calculation shall be made on the basis of mortality, disability, and other experience tables based on reliable experience for such or a similar group of employees and approved by the superintendent, and of interest at a rate which is approved by the superintendent and is not in excess of the maximum rate permitted to domestic life insurance companies under section four thousand two hundred seventeen of this chapter for the valuation of group annuities, for all participating employees in the system upon application by the system and a showing that such rate can be supported by the income from the investments of the system.

(c) The reserves required in respect of service rendered or benefits granted prior to the date of organization or creation of such system under this chapter may be accumulated on a basis calculated to produce a balance between the actuarial present value of the assets and of the liabilities of the system within a period of not exceeding thirty years from the date of the incorporation or creation thereunder.

§ 4607. Exemption from taxation; trusts; higher education loans. (a) The property of a system, the portion of wages or salary of an employee deducted or to be deducted, the right of an employee to a pension benefit, and all his rights in the funds of the system, shall be exempt from taxation and from the operation of any law relating to bankruptcy or insolvency, except as provided in section four thousand six hundred eight of this article and subject to the provisions of section three thousand two hundred twelve of this chapter.

(b) No trust created pursuant to this article shall be deemed invalid as violating any existing laws against perpetuities or suspension of the power of alienation of title to property; and the income arising from any property, real or personal, held in such trust may be permitted to accumulate until the fund shall be sufficient in the opinion of its trustee or trustees to accomplish the purposes of such trust.

(c) Any system may lend money to any of its participating employees or their children, who are attending or planning to attend college, to assist them in meeting their expenses of higher education, where such loans are guaranteed by the New York higher education services corporation in accordance with the provisions of article fourteen of the education law. In such cases no further security for the repayment of such loans shall be required of the borrowers by such system.

§ 4608. Application. (a) Every system organized or created under this chapter shall be subject to the provisions of this article, to subsection (g) of section one thousand one hundred two of this chapter, to the appropriate provisions of articles one, three and seventy-four of this chapter, and to articles thirteen and fourteen of this chapter, insofar as applicable to the assets and investments of a domestic life insurance company, except that the provisions of section one thousand four hundred four (and the provisions therein that relate specially to retirement systems) shall be applicable instead of the provisions of section one thousand four hundred five of this chapter.

(b) Article seventeen of this chapter is applicable to any such system for the purpose of investing in the stock of a domestic life insurance company organized on a restricted plan pursuant to the provisions of subsection (b) of section four thousand two hundred two of this chapter and for investing in or otherwise acquiring subsidiaries of the types described in section one thousand seven hundred four of this chapter.

(c) Section four thousand two hundred forty of this chapter shall be applicable to any such system in which the total present value of benefits provided by the employer for members in active service exceeds fifty million dollars, subject to such modifications in the application of the provisions of such section as the superintendent may prescribe by rules and regulations not inconsistent with the provisions of this chapter, as may be appropriate to carry out the purposes of this article.

MUNICIPAL COOPERATIVE HEALTH BENEFIT PLANS

Section 4701. Legislative findings.
4702. Definitions.
4703. Application for certificate of authority.
4704. Conditions for issuance of certificate of authority.
4705. Municipal cooperation agreements.
4706. Reserve and surplus requirements.
4707. Stop-loss requirements.
4708. Contingent liability.
4709. Plan benefits and disclosure.
4710. Additional filing requirements and annual report.

4711. Examinations.
4712. Suspension or revocation of certificate of authority.
4713. Plan dissolution.
4714. Transition.

§ 4701. Legislative findings. (a) Cooperative health risk-sharing agreements allow public entities to: share, in whole or part, the costs of self-funding employee health benefit plans; provide municipal corporations, school districts and other public employers with an alternative approach to stabilize health claim costs; lower per unit administration costs; and enhance negotiating power with health providers by spreading such costs among a larger pool of risks.

(b) Appropriate safeguards are necessary to help keep self-funded municipal cooperative health benefits plans from exposing municipalities and their taxpayers to unpredictable and potentially catastrophic liabilities. Minimum standards regarding benefits and participation can better assure that self-funded municipal cooperative health benefit plans will continue to act responsibly and provide coverage for high-cost conditions and high-cost individuals.

(c) It is the policy of this state to expand the alternatives available to public employers by permitting the development of municipal cooperative health benefit plans while, at the same time, establishing appropriate standards designed to promote fair competition and sound operation of such plans on an ongoing basis.

(d) It is the legislative intent that the superintendent implement a workable system of authorization and regulation of municipal cooperative health benefit plans in this state, in order to assure that such plans are:

(1) operated on an actuarially sound basis with appropriate financial and other standards to protect plan participants and their beneficiaries as well as local taxpayers; and

(2) not unduly disruptive of the regulated insurance market and public health programs.

§ 4702. Definitions. As used in this article: (a) "Community rating" means a rating methodology in which the premium equivalent rate for all persons covered under a municipal cooperative health benefit plan is the same, based upon the experience of the entire pool of risks covered under the plan, without regard to age, sex, health status or occupation and such that refunds, rebates, credits or dividends based upon age, sex, health status or occupation are not permitted.

(b) "Fully-insured" means that all benefits payable pursuant to a municipal cooperative health benefit plan are guaranteed under a contract or policy of insurance delivered in this state and issued by an insurance company authorized to do accident and health insurance business in this state, an article forty-three corporation, or a health maintenance organization.

(c) "Governing board" means the group of persons, designated in the municipal cooperation agreement establishing the municipal cooperative health benefit plan, to be responsible for administering the plan.

(d) "Municipal cooperation agreement" means an appropriate cooperative agreement authorized by article five-G of the general municipal law.

(e) "Municipal cooperative health benefit plan" or "plan" means any plan established or maintained by two or more municipal corporations pursuant to a municipal cooperation agreement for the purpose of providing medical, surgical or hospital services to employees or retirees of such municipal corporations and to the dependents of such employees or retirees.

(f) "Municipal corporation" means within the state of New York, a city with a population of less than one million or a county outside the city of New York, town, village, board of cooperative educational services, school district, a public library, as defined in section two hundred fifty-three of the education law, or district, as defined in section one hundred nineteen-n of the general municipal law.

(g) "Plan document" means the group contract issued by the municipal cooperative health benefit plan to participating municipal corporations describing the terms and conditions of coverage.

(h) "Premium equivalent" or "contribution" means the amount contributed by participating municipal corporations to cover expected claims and expenses thereon, required reserves, surplus, stop-loss insurance, and other expenses associated with the operations of the municipal cooperative health benefit plan.

(i) "Qualified actuary" means an actuary who is a member in good standing of the American Academy of Actuaries or Society of Actuaries, with experience in establishing rates for self-insured trusts providing health benefits or other similar experience.

(j) "Summary plan description" means the certificate of coverage or booklet delivered to employees or retirees enrolled in the plan, summarizing the essential terms and conditions of coverage for employees or retirees and their dependents.

§ 4703. Application for certificate of authority. (a) No municipal corporation shall establish, maintain or otherwise participate in a municipal cooperative health benefit plan in this state which provides benefits, in whole or part, on a shared-funding basis, unless the municipal cooperative health benefit plan:

(1) obtains and maintains a certificate of authority from the superintendent pursuant to the provisions of this article; or

(2) is an employee welfare fund, as defined in article forty-four of this chapter that is administered by equal representation of employees and employers; or

(3) is exempt from the requirement of obtaining a license; or

(4) is, and continues to be, a fully-insured municipal cooperative health benefit plan.

(b) The governing board shall file an application for a certificate of authority on such form as the superintendent may prescribe, and shall provide to the satisfaction of the superintendent the following:

(1) a list of every participating municipal corporation, the names, addresses and official titles of the members of the plan's governing board, and name and principal address of the plan's attorney-in-fact designated pursuant to the municipal cooperation agreement;

(2) evidence that the plan's chief fiscal officer is adequately bonded in a manner acceptable to the superintendent, who may accept or consider for this purpose any bond required under the applicable provisions of the education law, general municipal law or public officers law;

(3) a copy of the municipal cooperation agreement and all other documents describing the rights and obligations of the municipal corporations participating in the municipal cooperative health benefit plan;

(4) a copy of all documents, including the summary plan description, furnished to the participating municipal corporations and their employees or retirees describing plan benefits;

(5) a copy of all agreements between the plan and each service provider, including any contract administrator;

(6) a qualified actuary's opinion, in form and substance satisfactory to the superintendent, accompanied by a memorandum, also in form and substance satisfactory to the superintendent, describing the calculations, assumptions and methodology made in support of such opinion, that the municipal cooperative health benefit plan is actuarially sound and that premium equivalent rates have been established at a level sufficient to maintain reserves as required by section four thousand seven hundred six of this article;

(7) a statement, certified by the governing board, that aggregate and specific stop-loss coverage shall be obtained and maintained, to the extent required by section four thousand seven hundred seven of this article, and a copy of the written commitment, binder or stop-loss policy or policies;

(8) a proposed plan of operation and funding for the municipal cooperative health benefit plan, setting forth:

(A) the current or proposed premium equivalent rates to provide for the payment of all expected obligations, including surplus requirements, under the municipal cooperative health benefit plan for a twelve-month period, taking into account the plan's expected coverage and experience;

(B) a statement of the costs incorporated in such premium equivalent rates, including an itemization of the amounts for claims, administration, stop-loss insurance, reserves, surplus adjustments, and other expenses associated with the operation of the municipal cooperative health benefit plan for the same twelve-month period;

(C) the expected number of employees, retirees, and dependents covered under the municipal cooperative health benefit plan;

(D) claims handling and dispute resolution procedures and timeframes, including the manner in which claim denials can be appealed;

(E) method of selecting service providers, including any contract administrator; and

(F) current and projected financial statements, including statement of assets, liabilities and surplus, statement of operations (income and expenses), and cash flow statement; and

(9) such other information as may be required by the superintendent.

(c) The superintendent shall have the powers to conduct such investigation as the superintendent may deem necessary and to examine under oath any person interested in or connected with the municipal cooperative health benefit plan.

§ 4704. Conditions for issuance of certificate of authority. (a) The superintendent shall issue a certificate of authority to a municipal cooperative health benefit plan if all of the following conditions, after examination and investigation, have been met to the superintendent's satisfaction:

(1) a complete application has been filed with the superintendent in accordance with section four thousand seven hundred three of this article;

(2) except for any plan that provided medical, surgical and hospital services on or before January first, nineteen hundred ninety-three pursuant to a municipal cooperation agreement, the number of municipal corporations participating in the municipal cooperative health benefit plan shall be at least three;

(3) except for any plan that provided medical, surgical and hospital services to at least three hundred fifty covered employees (including retirees and not including dependents) on or before January first, nineteen hundred ninety-three pursuant to a municipal cooperation agreement, the number of covered employees (including retirees and not including dependents) of municipal corporations participating in the municipal cooperative health benefit plan shall be at least two thousand;

(4) the municipal cooperative health benefit plan is or shall be operated pursuant to a municipal cooperation agreement satisfying the requirements set forth in section four thousand seven hundred five of this article;

(5) the municipal cooperative health benefit plan has within its own organization adequate facilities and competent personnel to service the plan or, in order to provide such services, in whole or part, has contracted with a contract administrator or other service provider, determined by the governing board to be qualified based upon written documentation furnished to the governing board, provided that such documentation shall be made available to the superintendent upon request;

(6) the municipal cooperative health benefit plan possesses a written commitment, binder or policy for stop-loss insurance issued by an insurance company authorized to do business in this state, to the extent required by section four thousand seven hundred seven of this article;

(7) the municipal cooperative health benefit plan establishes premium equivalent rates sufficient to meet its contractual obligations and to satisfy the reserve and surplus requirements set forth in section four thousand seven hundred six of this article;

(8) the municipal cooperative health benefit plan has established a fair and equitable process for claims review, dispute resolution and appeal procedures including arbitration of rejected claims, and procedures for handling claims for benefits in the event of plan dissolution, which are satisfactory to the superintendent;

(9) the municipal cooperative health benefit plan has delivered to the superintendent such bond, deposit or security for protection of the employees and retirees and their dependents covered by the plan as the superintendent shall require in the event that the plan's chief fiscal officer is not otherwise adequately bonded under the provisions of the education law, general municipal law or public officers law;

(10) the municipal cooperative health benefit plan provides to covered employees and retirees of participating municipal corporations written notice disclosing the information required by section four thousand seven hundred nine of this article; and

(11) all plan documents, including the summary plan description, and amendments thereto, have been filed with and approved by the superintendent in accordance with section four thousand seven hundred nine of this article.

(b) The superintendent shall refuse to grant a certificate of authority to an applicant that fails to meet the requirements of this section. Notice of refusal shall be in writing and shall set forth the basis for the refusal. If the applicant submits a written request within thirty days after receipt of the notice of refusal, the superintendent shall promptly conduct a hearing to give the applicant the opportunity to show cause why the refusal should not be made final.

(c) After any municipal cooperative health benefit plan receives a certificate of authority, it may be joined by additional municipal corporations that execute a municipal cooperation agreement identical with the instruments in effect at that time and which the other participating municipal corporations have executed.

§ 4705. Municipal cooperation agreements. (a) The municipal cooperation agreement, under which the municipal cooperative health benefit plan is established and maintained, and any amendment thereto, shall be approved by each participating municipal corporation by majority vote of each such corporation's governing body, and shall:

(1) specify all municipal corporations participating in the municipal cooperative health benefit plan and describe the form or type of municipal corporations eligible for participation;

(2) state that all participating municipal corporations agree to share the costs of and assume the liabilities for medical, surgical and hospital benefits provided under the municipal cooperative health benefit plan to the covered employees (including retirees) and their dependents of all participating municipal corporations;

(3) state that each participating municipal corporation agrees to pay on demand such municipal corporation's share of any assessment ordered by the governing board of the municipal cooperative health benefit plan or by the superintendent under this article or article seventy-four of this chapter;

(4) specify the eligibility requirements for membership in and coverage by the municipal cooperative health benefit plan, including reasonable geographic boundaries (if any) of such plan, provided that no municipal cooperation agreement shall include any provision restricting or otherwise limiting the right to participate in the plan of a municipal corporation of the same type which provides satisfactory proof of its financial responsibility and which is located within the geographic region in which the municipal cooperative health benefit plan operates;

(5) not include any provision restricting or otherwise limiting the right of eligible employees (including retirees and dependents) of a participating municipal corporation to enroll for coverage in the plan;

(6) designate the fiscal officer of a participating municipal corporation to be the chief fiscal officer of the municipal cooperative health benefit plan;

(7) designate the plan's attorney-in-fact to receive service of summons or other legal process in any action, suit or proceeding arising out of any contract, agreement or transaction involving such municipal cooperative health benefit plan; and

(8) establish a governing board to be responsible for the management, control and administration of the municipal cooperative health benefit plan, provided any municipal cooperative agreement to establish such a plan which is entered into after the effective date of this article shall provide that unions which are the exclusive collective bargaining representatives of employees who are covered by such health benefit plan shall be entitled to representation on such governing board.

(b) The municipal cooperation agreement shall provide that the plan's chief fiscal officer:

(1) shall have custody of all moneys received by the municipal cooperative health benefit plan or made available for expenditure under the plan;

(2) shall, notwithstanding any provision of the general municipal law, make payment in accordance with procedures developed by the plan's governing board and acceptable to the superintendent;

(3) may invest moneys not required for immediate expenditure in the types of investment specified in the general municipal law or the education law (as applicable) for temporary investments or as otherwise expressly permitted by the superintendent; and

(4) shall receive no remuneration, except that the participating municipal corporation employing the chief fiscal officer may be reimbursed for reasonable expenses incurred in connection with the duties of such fiscal officer in connection with the plan.

(c) A municipal cooperation agreement shall include a provision:

(1) describing the composition, number and procedures under which governing board members are chosen, provided that, for those agreements entered into after the effective date of this article, the governing board shall include representation by unions which are the exclusive collective bargaining representatives of employees covered by the plan, and that such unions shall establish and agree to the procedures by which the member or members of the governing board which represent unions are selected;

(2) designating one governing board member to have custody of all reports, statements and other documents of the plan; and

(3) that the governing board shall meet at least annually at a time and place in this state designated in accordance with the agreement.

(d) The municipal cooperation agreement shall provide that the governing board:

(1) shall design the plan of benefits provided by the municipal cooperative health benefit plan and prepare the plan document and summary plan description in accordance with section four thousand seven hundred nine of this article;

(2) may enter into an agreement with a contract administrator or other service provider, determined by the governing board to be qualified, to receive, investigate, recommend, audit, approve or make payment of claims under the municipal cooperative health benefit plan, provided that:

(A) the charges, fees and other compensation for any contracted services shall be clearly stated in written administrative services contracts as required in subdivision six of section ninety-two-a of the general municipal law;

(B) payment for contracted services shall be made only after such services are rendered;

(C) no member of the plan's governing board or any member of such member's immediate family shall be an owner, officer, director, partner, or employee of any contract administrator retained by the plan; and

(D) all such agreements shall comply with the requirements of subdivision six of section ninety-two-a of the general municipal law.

(3) shall be authorized to purchase stop-loss insurance, to the extent required by section four thousand seven hundred seven of this article, on behalf of the municipal cooperative health benefit plan;

(4) shall be authorized to establish a joint fund or funds to finance all plan expenditures, including claims, reserves, surplus, administration, stop-loss insurance and other expenses;

(5) shall prepare an annual budget for the municipal cooperative health benefit plan to determine the premium equivalent rates for participating municipal corporations to be deposited in the plan's joint fund or funds during the fiscal year, provided that:

(A) the governing board shall designate the bank or trust company in which joint funds, including reserve funds, are to be deposited and which shall be located in this state, duly chartered under federal law or the laws of this state; and

(B) the governing board shall establish premium equivalent rates for participating municipal corporations on the bases of a community rating methodology filed with and approved by the superintendent and, in determining the annual premium equivalent rates, the governing board:

(i) may contract for necessary actuarial services to estimate expected plan expenditures during the fiscal year;

(ii) shall maintain reserves in amounts equal to or exceeding the minimum amounts required by section four thousand seven hundred six of this article; and

(iii) shall maintain a stop-loss policy or policies, to the extent required by section four thousand seven hundred seven of this article;

(6) shall be authorized to assess participating municipal corporations for additional contributions, if actual losses due to benefits paid out, administrative expenses and reserve and surplus requirements exceed amounts held in the plan's joint funds; and

(7) shall be authorized to refund amounts in excess of reserves and surplus required by section four thousand seven hundred six of this article and anticipated expenses in the plan's joint funds to participating municipal corporations, or to retain such excess amounts or a portion thereof and apply such amounts in preparing the plan's budget for the following year.

(e) The municipal cooperation agreement shall provide for the following to be prepared and furnished to the governing board, to participating municipal corporations, to unions which are the exclusive bargaining representatives of employees covered by the plan and to the superintendent:

(1) an annual audit, and opinions thereon, by an independent certified public accountant, of the financial condition, accounting procedures and internal control systems of the municipal cooperative health benefit plan;

(2) an annual report and quarterly reports describing the plan's current financial status; and

(3) an annual independent actuarial opinion on the financial soundness of the plan, including the actuarial soundness of contribution or premium equivalent rates and reserves, both as paid in the current year and projected for the next fiscal year.

(f) The municipal cooperation agreement shall specify the rights and obligations of a municipal corporation withdrawing from a municipal cooperative health benefit plan to any contribution (or premium equivalent) refund or reserve fund or for any contingent assessment liability or other obligation.

(g) Every municipal cooperation agreement shall contain a provision stating that nothing contained in such agreement shall be construed to waive any right a covered person possesses with respect to the confidentiality of medical records and that such right may only be waived upon the written consent of such covered person.

§ 4706. Reserve and surplus requirements. (a) Notwithstanding any provision of law, the governing board of a municipal cooperative health benefit plan shall establish a reserve fund, and the plan's chief fiscal officer shall cause to be paid into the reserve fund the amounts necessary to satisfy all contractual obligations and liabilities of the plan, including:

(1) a reserve for payment of claims and expenses thereon reported but not yet paid, and claims and expenses thereon incurred but not yet reported which shall not be less than an amount equal to twenty-five percent of expected incurred claims and expenses thereon for the current plan year, unless a qualified actuary has demonstrated to the superintendent's satisfaction that a lesser amount will be adequate;

(2) a reserve for unearned premium equivalents;

(3) a claim stabilization reserve;

(4) a reserve for other obligations of the municipal cooperative health benefit plan; and

(5) a surplus account, established and maintained for the sole purpose of satisfying unexpected obligations of the municipal cooperative health benefit plan in the event of termination or abandonment of the plan, which shall not be less than:

(A) five percent of the annualized earned premium equivalents during the current fiscal year of a municipal cooperative health benefit plan which consists of five or more participating municipal corporations and covers two thousand or more employees and retirees; or

(B) seven percent of the annualized earned premium equivalents during the current fiscal year of the municipal cooperative health benefit plan which consists of four or fewer participating municipal corporations or covers fewer than two thousand employees and retirees.

(b) The moneys in the plan's reserve funds and surplus account shall be deposited in one or more banks or trust companies designated by the governing board in accordance with the municipal cooperation agreement, in one or more separate segregated accounts, subject to investment in obligations specified in the general municipal law or education law (as applicable) for investment of moneys in reserve funds or as otherwise expressly permitted by the superintendent. Any such bank or trust company shall be located in this state and shall be duly chartered pursuant to federal law or the laws of this state. Any interest earned or capital gain realized on the money so deposited or invested shall accrue to and become part of the plan's reserve funds or surplus account, as applicable.

(c) The plan's chief fiscal officer shall account for the plan's reserve funds separate and apart from all other funds of the municipal cooperative health benefit plan, and such accounting shall show:

(1) the purpose, source, date and amount of each sum paid into the fund;

(2) the interest earned by such funds;

(3) capital gains or losses resulting from the sale of investments of the plan's reserve funds;

(4) the order, purpose, date and amount of each payment from the reserve fund; and

(5) the assets of the fund, indicating cash balance and schedule of investments.

(d) The plan's chief fiscal officer, within ninety days of the end of each fiscal year, shall furnish a detailed report of the operations and condition of the plan's reserve funds to the governing board.

(e) An expenditure from the plan's reserve funds shall be made only for the payment of benefits and other obligations of the municipal cooperative health benefit plan or expenses incurred in administering such plan.

(f) If the municipal cooperative health benefit plan ceases to provide plan benefits on a shared-funding basis, the moneys remaining in the plan's reserve funds not needed to satisfy plan liabilities incurred prior to such cessation shall be disposed of in the manner provided in the municipal cooperation agreement.

(g) If a municipal corporation withdraws from a municipal cooperative health benefit plan operating under a certificate of authority, the governing board shall, in accordance with the municipal cooperation agreement, determine the amount, if any, of the plan's reserve funds attributable to such municipal corporation, after considering all plan liabilities, and dispose of such amount in the manner provided in the municipal cooperation agreement.

§ 4707. Stop-loss requirements. (a) The governing board of a municipal cooperative health benefit plan shall obtain and maintain on behalf of the plan a stop-loss insurance policy or policies delivered in this state and issued by a licensed insurer, providing:

(1) aggregate stop-loss coverage with an annual aggregate retention amount or attachment point not greater than one hundred twenty-five percent of the amount certified by a qualified actuary to represent the expected claims of the plan for the current fiscal year; and

(2) specific stop-loss coverage with a specific retention amount or attachment point not greater than four percent of the amount certified by a qualified actuary to represent the plan's expected claims for the current fiscal year.

(b) Upon application of the governing board, the superintendent may waive the requirement for the stop-loss insurance, in whole or part, or modify the maximum retention amounts or attachment points for stop-loss insurance, provided that:

(1) the plan maintains reserves and surplus equal to or greater than one hundred fifty percent of the amounts specified in paragraphs one and five of subsection (a) of section four thousand seven hundred six of this article; or

(2) the superintendent is satisfied that such waiver or modification of retention amounts or attachment points would not be detrimental to the plan's solvency and stability, after considering such factors as availability and affordability of stop-loss insurance, the plan's past and expected experience, plan size, reserves, surplus, and premium equivalent rates, and the contingent liability of participating municipal corporations.

(c) As an alternative to suspension or revocation pursuant to section four thousand seven hundred twelve of this article, the superintendent may reduce the aggregate or specific stop-loss retention amounts or attachment points specified in subsection (a) of this section for any municipal cooperative health benefit plan that fails to maintain required reserves and surplus.

§ 4708. Contingent liability. (a) The municipal cooperation agreement and the plan document delivered to each participating municipal corporation shall provide that every municipal corporation participating in the municipal cooperative health benefit plan shall be liable in the event of an order issued pursuant to subsection (b) of this section for an assessment, in addition to the amount of premium equivalent paid or payable.

(b) If the municipal cooperative health benefit plan does not have admitted assets, as defined in section one hundred seven of this chapter, at least equal to the aggregate of its liabilities, reserves and minimum surplus required by this article, the governing board of such plan shall, within thirty days thereafter, order an assessment for the amount that will provide sufficient funds to remove such impairment and collect from each municipal corporation a pro rata share of such assessed amount.

(c) Every municipal corporation that participated in the municipal cooperative health benefit plan at any time during the two-year period prior to the issuing of an assessment order by the plan's governing board shall, if notified of such assessment, pay its pro rata share of such assessment within ninety days after the issuance of that assessment order.

(d) A municipal corporation's pro rata share of any assessment shall be determined by applying the ratio of the total assessment to the total contributions or premium equivalents earned during the period covered by the assessment on all municipal corporations subject to assessment to the contribution or premium equivalent earned during such period attributable to such municipal corporation.

(e) The contingent liability of municipal corporations for additional premium equivalents or assessments shall not be included as an asset in the financial statements of the municipal cooperative health benefit plan.

§ 4709. Plan benefits and disclosure. (a) The governing board of the municipal cooperative health benefit plan shall deliver or cause to be delivered the plan document to all participating municipal corporations and to unions which are the exclusive collective bargaining representatives of employees covered by the plan and the summary plan description to every employee or retiree of participating municipal corporations covered by the plan.

(b) The summary plan description shall be subject to regulation as if it were a health insurance subscriber certificate, provided that the superintendent may modify or suspend any provision of this chapter or regulation promulgated thereunder pertaining to scope or type of coverage, if the superintendent determines:

(1) such provision of this chapter or regulation to be inappropriate for municipal cooperative health benefit plans;

(2) such modification or suspension not to be prejudicial to the interests of covered employees, retirees or dependents; and

(3) such modification or suspension not to be destructive of competition.

(c) Conspicuously printed on the first page of the plan document and summary plan description, in at least ten point bold-face type, shall be the following statement:

"This municipal cooperative health benefit plan is not a licensed insurer. It operates under a more limited certificate of authority granted by the superintendent of financial services. Municipal corporations participating in the municipal cooperative health benefit plan are subject to contingent assessment liability."

§ 4710. Additional filing requirements and annual report. (a) The governing board of the municipal cooperative health benefit plan shall:

(1) file for approval with the superintendent a description of material changes in any information provided in the application for certificate of authority in the form and manner prescribed by the superintendent;

(2) annually, not later than one hundred twenty days after the close of the plan year, file a report with the superintendent showing the financial condition and affairs of the plan (including an annual independent financial audit statement and independent actuarial opinion) as of the end of the preceding plan year, in such form and providing such other information as the superintendent may prescribe and in compliance with section three hundred seven of this chapter; and

(3) file a report each quarter with the superintendent describing the plan's current financial status and providing such information as the superintendent may prescribe.

(b) The plan's annual report shall be furnished to all municipal corporations and to unions which are the exclusive collective bargaining representatives of employees covered by the municipal cooperative health benefit plan and shall be made available for inspection by any employee or retiree covered under the plan.

§ 4711. Examinations. (a) The superintendent may examine the affairs of a municipal cooperative health benefit plan as often as deemed necessary, but not less than once in every three years, except that the superintendent may extend the three-year interval to no more than five years upon determining that the three-year requirement is not necessary to safeguard the interests of the public or covered persons.

(b) In connection with such examinations, the superintendent may exercise the powers set forth in sections three hundred six, three hundred eight, three hundred ten, three hundred eleven, and three hundred twelve of this chapter and subsection (f) of section two hundred six and sections three hundred five and three hundred six of the financial services law, and may also require special reports from a municipal cooperative health benefit plan as specified in section three hundred eight of this chapter.

(c) The governing board of every municipal cooperative health benefit plan shall be responsible for the maintenance of accurate records and books of account in regard to the plan.

§ 4712. Suspension or revocation of certificate of authority. (a) The superintendent may suspend or revoke a certificate of authority issued to a municipal cooperative health benefit plan under the following circumstances:

(1) for any cause that would be a basis for denial of an initial application for such a certificate, provided that the superintendent shall not suspend or revoke such certificate solely due to the size or composition of the plan unless the plan ceases to cover a minimum of three hundred fifty employees and retirees; or

(2) failure to maintain the reserves and surplus required by section four thousand seven hundred six of this article, provided that the superintendent shall not suspend or revoke such certificate if the plan has implemented a remediation plan acceptable to the superintendent; or

(3) the superintendent finds that the municipal cooperative health benefit plan has refused to produce its accounts, records, and files for examination or any member of the governing board of the municipal cooperative health benefit plan has refused to cooperate or give information with respect to the affairs of the plan or to perform any other legal obligation relating to such an examination when required by the superintendent.

(b) In the case of suspension or revocation of a certificate of authority, the superintendent shall send a copy of such decision to the governing board of the municipal cooperative health benefit plan by certified mail at the plan's address. Upon the request of the governing board, or any party that would be prejudiced by the suspension or revocation, filed within sixty days of the mailing of the superintendent's decision, the superintendent shall schedule a hearing on such decision by written notice, sent by certified mail to the governing board or party requesting the hearing. Such notice shall set forth a specific date, time and place for the hearing, which shall commence within sixty days of the mailing of the notice.

(c) Any certificate of authority suspended or revoked under this section shall be surrendered to the superintendent, and the plan's governing board shall notify all participating municipal corporations of that decision in such form and manner as the superintendent may prescribe, not later than ten days after receipt of notice of the superintendent's decision requiring suspension or revocation.

(d) The superintendent shall publish all final decisions to suspend or revoke the certificate of authority in regard to a municipal cooperative health benefit plan.

§ 4713. Plan dissolution. (a) In any case in which the governing board of a municipal cooperative health benefit plan determines that there is reason to believe that the plan will terminate, the governing board shall so inform the superintendent and submit a plan for the superintendent's approval for winding up the plan's affairs in an orderly manner designed to result in timely payment of all benefits, in such form and manner as the superintendent may prescribe.

(b) No part of any funds of the municipal cooperative health benefit plan shall be subject to the claims of general creditors of any participating municipal corporation until all plan benefits and other plan obligations have been satisfied.

(c) The superintendent may maintain a proceeding under article seventy-four of this chapter to rehabilitate or liquidate the business of a municipal cooperative health benefit plan, which shall be considered an insurer for such purpose under section seven thousand four hundred one of this chapter.

§ 4714. Transition. For municipal cooperative health benefit plans that provided medical, surgical or hospital services on or before January first, nineteen hundred ninety-three pursuant to a municipal cooperation agreement authorized under article five-G of the general municipal law, the reserve and surplus requirements in section four thousand seven hundred six of this article may be phased in over a period of up to five plan years, provided that:

(a) the amount for the reserve described in paragraph one of subsection (a) of section four thousand seven hundred six of this article:

(1) at the end of the first plan year on or after the effective date of this article shall not be less than twelve percent of expected incurred claims and expenses thereon for such plan year; and

(2) at the end of each subsequent plan year during the phase-in period shall not be less than the actual percentage amount in the previous year, plus an amount equal to the difference between such actual percentage amount and the percentage amount otherwise required under section four thousand seven hundred six of this article, divided by the number of years remaining in the phase-in period;

(b) the amount of surplus:

(1) at the end of the first plan year on or after the effective date of this article shall not be less than two percent of the annualized earned premium equivalents during such plan year; and

(2) at the end of each subsequent plan year shall not be less than the actual percentage amount in the previous plan year, plus an amount equal to the difference between such actual percentage amount and the percentage otherwise required under section four thousand seven hundred six of this article, divided by the number of years remaining in the phase-in period; and

(c) the superintendent may reduce the aggregate or specific stop-loss retention amounts or attachment points, referred to in section four thousand seven hundred seven of this article, during the phase-in period for any municipal cooperative health benefit plan which consists of fewer than five municipal corporations or which covers less than two thousand employees and retirees.

ARTICLE 48

MANAGED CARE HEALTH INSURANCE CONTRACTS

Section 4801. Application.
4802. Grievance procedure.
4803. Health care professional applications and terminations.
4804. Access to specialty care.
4805. Access to end of life care.

4806. Health care facility applications.

§ 4801. Application. The provisions of this article shall apply to all managed care products, as defined in subsection (c) of this section, which are delivered or issued for delivery in this state by insurers licensed under this chapter; provided, however, that none of the provisions of this article shall apply to any health maintenance organization lines of business of such insurers or to health maintenance organizations certified under article forty-four of the public health law or licensed under article forty-three of this chapter, which are subject to the provisions of article forty-four of the public health law. For purposes of this article:

(a) an "insured" shall mean a person covered under a managed care health insurance contract.

(b) an "insurer" shall mean an insurance company subject to article thirty-two of this chapter, or a corporation subject to article forty-three of this chapter.

(c) a "managed care health insurance contract" or "managed care product" shall mean a contract which requires that all medical or other health care services covered under the contract, other than emergency care services, be provided by, or pursuant to a referral from, a designated health care provider chosen by the insured (i.e. a primary care gatekeeper), and that services provided pursuant to such a referral be rendered by a health care provider participating in the insurer's managed care provider network. In addition, in the case of (i) an individual health insurance contract, or (ii) a group health insurance contract covering no more than three hundred lives, imposing a coinsurance obligation of more than twenty-five percent upon services received outside of the insurer's provider network, and which has been sold to five or more groups, a managed care product shall also mean a contract which requires that all medical or other health care services covered under the contract, other than emergency care services, be provided by, or pursuant to a referral from, a designated health care provider chosen by the insured (i.e. a primary care gatekeeper), and that services provided pursuant to such a referral be rendered by a health care provider participating in the insurer's managed care provider network, in order for the insured to be entitled to the maximum reimbursement under the contract.

(d) "in-network benefits" shall mean benefits covered and received under a managed care product from a health care provider participating in the insurer's managed care provider network pursuant to a referral from the insured's participating primary care gatekeeper.

§ 4802. Grievance procedure. (a) An insurer which offers a managed care product shall establish and maintain a grievance procedure with regard to such managed care product. Pursuant to such procedure, insureds shall be entitled to seek a review of determinations by the insurer with regard to such managed care product, other than determinations subject to the provisions of article forty-nine of this chapter.

(b) (1) An insurer shall provide to all insureds written notice of the grievance procedure in the contract and at any time that the insurer denies access to a referral or determines that a requested benefit is not covered pursuant to the terms of the contract; provided, however, that nothing herein shall be deemed to require a health care provider to provide such notice. In the event that an insurer denies a service as an adverse determination as defined in article forty-nine of this chapter, the insurer shall inform the insured or the insured's designee of the appeal rights provided for in article forty-nine of this chapter.

(2) The notice to an insured describing the grievance process shall explain:

(i) the process for filing a grievance with the insurer;

(ii) the timeframes within which a grievance determination must be made; and

(iii) the right of an insured to designate a representative to file a grievance on behalf of the insured.

(3) The insurer shall assure that the grievance procedure is reasonably accessible to those who do not speak English.

(c) (1) The insurer may require an insured to file a grievance in writing, by letter or by a grievance form which shall be made available by the insurer, and which shall conform to applicable standards for readability.

(2) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph (1) of this subsection, an insured may submit an oral grievance in connection with (i) a denial of, or failure to pay for, a referral; or (ii) a determination as to whether a benefit is covered pursuant to the terms of the insured's contract. In connection with the submission of an oral grievance, an insurer may require that the insured sign a written acknowledgment of the grievance, prepared by the insurer summarizing the nature of the grievance. Such acknowledgment shall be mailed promptly to the insured, who shall sign and return the acknowledgment, with any amendments, in order to initiate the grievance. The grievance acknowledgment shall prominently state that the insured must sign and return the acknowledgment to initiate the grievance. If an insurer does not require such a signed acknowledgment, an oral grievance shall be initiated at the time of the telephone call.

(3) Upon receipt of a grievance, the insurer shall provide notice specifying what information must be provided to the insurer in order to render a decision on the grievance.

(4) (i) An insurer shall designate personnel to accept the filing of an insured's grievance by toll-free telephone no less than forty hours per week during normal business hours and, shall have a telephone system available to take calls during other than normal business hours and shall respond to all such calls no less than one business day after the call was recorded.

(ii) Notwithstanding the provisions of subparagraph (i) of this paragraph, an insurer may, in the alternative, designate personnel to accept the filing of an insured's grievance by toll-free telephone no less than forty hours per week during normal business hours and, in the case of grievances subject to subparagraph (1) of subsection (d) of this section, on a twenty-four hour a day, seven day a week basis.

(d) Within fifteen business days of receipt of the grievance, the insurer shall provide written acknowledgment of the grievance, including the name, address and telephone number of the individual or department designated by the insurer to respond to the grievance. All grievances shall be resolved in an expeditious manner, and in any event, no more than:

(1) forty-eight hours after the receipt of all necessary information when a delay would significantly increase the risk to an insured's health;

(2) thirty days after the receipt of all necessary information in the case of requests for referrals or determinations concerning whether a requested benefit is covered pursuant to the contract; and

(3) forty-five days after the receipt of all necessary information in all other instances.

(e) The insurer shall designate one or more qualified personnel to review the grievance; provided further, that when the grievance pertains to clinical matters, the personnel shall include, but not be limited to, one or more licensed, certified or registered health care professionals.

(f) The notice of a determination of the grievance shall be made in writing to the insured or to the insured's designee. In the case of a determination made in conformance with subparagraph (1) of subsection (d) of this section, notice shall be made by telephone directly to the insured with written notice to follow within three business days.

(g) The notice of a determination shall include:

(1) the detailed reasons for the determination;

(2) in cases where the determination has a clinical basis, the clinical rationale for the determination; and

(3) the procedures for the filing of an appeal of the determination, including a form for the filing of such an appeal.

(h) An insured or an insured's designee shall have not less than sixty business days after receipt of notice of the grievance determination to file a written appeal, which may be submitted by letter or by a form supplied by the insurer.

(i) Within fifteen business days of receipt of the appeal, the insurer shall provide written acknowledgment of the appeal, including the name, address and telephone number of the individual designated by the insurer to respond to the appeal and what additional information, if any, must be provided in order for the insurer to render a decision.

(j) The determination of an appeal on a clinical matter must be made by personnel qualified to review the appeal, including licensed, certified or registered health care professionals who did not make the initial determination, at least one of whom must be a clinical peer reviewer as defined in article forty-nine of this chapter. The determination of an appeal on a matter which is not clinical shall be made by qualified personnel at a higher level than the personnel who made the grievance determination.

(k) The insurer shall seek to resolve all appeals in the most expeditious manner and shall make a determination and provide notice no more than:

(1) two business days after the receipt of all necessary information when a delay would significantly increase the risk to an insured's health; and

(2) thirty business days after the receipt of all necessary information in all other instances.

(l) The notice of a determination on an appeal shall include:

(1) the detailed reasons for the determination; and

(2) in cases where the determination has a clinical basis, the clinical rationale for the determination.

(m) An insurer shall not retaliate or take any discriminatory action against an insured because an insured has filed a grievance or appeal.

(n) An insurer shall maintain a file on each grievance and associated appeal, if any, that shall include the date the grievance was filed; a copy of the grievance, if any; the date of receipt of and a copy of the insured's acknowledgment of the grievance, if any; the determination made by the insurer including the date of the determination, and the titles and, in the case of a clinical determination, the credentials of the insurer's personnel who reviewed the grievance. If an insured files an appeal of the grievance, the file shall include the date and a copy of the insured's appeal, the determination made by the insurer including the date of the determination and the titles and, in the case of clinical determinations, the credentials of the insurer's personnel who reviewed the appeal.

(o) An insurer shall have procedures for obtaining an insured's, or insured's designee's, preference for receiving notifications, which shall be in accordance with applicable federal law and with guidance developed by the superintendent. Written and telephone notification to an insured or the insured's designee under this section may be provided by electronic means where the insured or the insured's designee has informed the insurer in advance of a preference to receive such notifications by electronic means. An insurer shall permit the insured and the insured's designee to change the preference at any time. The insurer shall retain documentation of preferred notification methods and present such records to the superintendent upon request.

(p) The rights and remedies conferred in this article upon insureds shall be cumulative and in addition to and not in lieu of any other rights or remedies available under law.

§ 4803. Health care professional applications and terminations. (a) (1) An insurer which offers a managed care product shall, upon request, make available and disclose to health care professionals written application procedures and minimum qualification requirements which a health care professional must meet in order to be considered by the insurer for participation in the in-network benefits portion of the insurer's network for the managed care product. The insurer shall consult with appropriately qualified health care professionals in developing its qualification requirements for participation in the in-network benefits portion of the insurer's network for the managed care product. An insurer shall complete review of the health care professional's application to participate in the in-network portion of the insurer's network and, within sixty days of receiving a health care professional's completed application to participate in the insurer's network, will notify the health care professional as to: (A) whether he or she is credentialed; or (B) whether additional time is necessary to make a determination because of a failure of a third party to provide necessary documentation. In such instances where additional time is necessary because of a lack of necessary documentation, an insurer shall make every effort to obtain such information as soon as possible and shall make a final determination within twenty-one days of receiving the necessary documentation.

(2) If the completed application of a newly-licensed health care professional or a health care professional who has recently relocated to this state from another state and has not previously practiced in this state, who joins a group practice of health care professionals each of whom participates in the in-network portion of an insurer's network, is neither approved nor declined within sixty days of submission of a completed application pursuant to paragraph one of this subsection, such health care professional shall be deemed "provisionally credentialed" and may participate in the in-network portion of an insurer's network; provided, however, that a provisionally credentialed physician may not be designated as an insured's primary care physician until such time as the physician has been fully credentialed. The network participation for a provisionally credentialed health care professional shall begin on the day following the sixtieth day of receipt of the completed application and shall last until the final credentialing determination is made by the insurer. A health care professional shall only be eligible for provisional credentialing if the group practice of health care professionals notifies the insurer in writing that, should the application ultimately be denied, the health care professional or the group practice: (A) shall refund any payments made by the insurer for in-network services provided by the provisionally credentialed health care professional that exceed any out-of-network benefits payable under the insured's contract with the insurer; and (B) shall not pursue reimbursement from the insured, except to collect the copayment or coinsurance that otherwise would have been payable had the insured received services from a health care professional participating in the in-network portion of an insurer's network. Interest and penalties pursuant to section three thousand two hundred twenty-four-a of this chapter shall not be assessed based on the denial of a claim submitted during the period when the health care professional was provisionally credentialed; provided, however, that nothing herein shall prevent an insurer from paying a claim from a health care professional who is provisionally credentialed upon submission of such claim. An insurer shall not deny, after appeal, a claim for services provided by a provisionally credentialed health care professional solely on the ground that the claim was not timely filed.

(3) A newly-licensed physician, a physician who has recently relocated to this state from another state and has not previously practiced in this state, or a physician who has changed his or her corporate relationship such that it results in the issuance of a new tax identification number under which such physician's services are billed for and who previously had a participation contract with the insurer immediately prior to the event that changed his or her corporate relationship, who becomes employed by a general hospital or diagnostic and treatment center licensed pursuant to article twenty-eight of the public health law, or a facility licensed under article sixteen, article thirty-one or article thirty-two of the mental hygiene law which has a participating provider contract with an insurer, and whose other employed physicians participate in the in-network portion of an insurer's network, shall be deemed "provisionally credentialed" and may participate in the in-network portion of an insurer's network during this time period upon: (A) the insurer's receipt of the hospital and physician's completed sections of the insurer's credentialing application; and (B) the insurer being notified in writing that the health care professional has been granted hospital privileges pursuant to the requirements of section twenty-eight hundred five-k of the public health law. However, a provisionally credentialed physician shall not be designated as an insured's primary care physician until such time as the physician has been fully credentialed by the insurer. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, an insurer shall not be required to make any payments to the licensed general hospital, the licensed diagnostic and treatment center or a facility licensed under article sixteen, article thirty-one or article thirty-two of the mental hygiene law for the service provided by a provisionally credentialed physician, until and unless the physician is fully credentialed by the insurer, provided, however, that upon being fully credentialed, the licensed general hospital, the licensed diagnostic and treatment center or a facility licensed under article sixteen, article thirty-one or article thirty-two of the mental hygiene law shall be paid for all services provided by the physician for up to sixty days after submission of the completed application that the credentialed physician provided to the insurer's subscribers or members from the date the physician fully met the requirements to be provisionally credentialed pursuant to this paragraph. Should the application ultimately be denied by the insurer, the insurer shall not be liable for any payment to the licensed general hospital, the licensed diagnostic and treatment center or a facility licensed under article sixteen, article thirty-one or article thirty-two of the mental hygiene law for the services provided by the provisionally credentialed health care professional that exceeds any out-of-network benefits payable under the insured's contract with the insurer; and the licensed general hospital, the licensed diagnostic and treatment center or a facility licensed under article sixteen, article thirty-one or article thirty-two of the mental hygiene law shall not pursue reimbursement from the insured, except to collect the copayment or coinsurance or deductible amount that otherwise would have been payable had the insured received services from a health care professional participating in the in-network portion of an insurer's network.

(b) (1) An insurer shall not terminate a contract with a health care professional for participation in the in-network benefits portion of the insurer's network for a managed care product unless the insurer provides to the health care professional a written explanation of the reasons for the proposed contract termination and an opportunity for a review or hearing as hereinafter provided. This section shall not apply in cases involving imminent harm to patient care, a determination of fraud, or a final disciplinary action by a state licensing board or other governmental agency that impairs the health care professional's ability to practice.

(2) The notice of the proposed contract termination provided by the insurer to the health care professional shall include:

(i) the reasons for the proposed action;

(ii) notice that the health care professional has the right to request a hearing or review, at the professional's discretion, before a panel appointed by the insurer;

(iii) a time limit of not less than thirty days within which a health care professional may request a hearing or review; and

(iv) a time limit for a hearing date which must be held within not less than thirty days after the date of receipt of a request for a hearing.

(3) The hearing panel shall be comprised of three persons appointed by the insurer. At least one person on such panel shall be a clinical peer in the same discipline and the same or similar specialty as the health care professional under review. The hearing panel may consist of more than three persons, provided however that the number of clinical peers on such panel shall constitute one-third or more of the total membership of the panel.

(4) The hearing panel shall render a decision on the proposed action in a timely manner. Such decision shall include reinstatement of the health care professional by the insurer, provisional reinstatement subject to conditions set forth by the insurer or termination of the health care professional. Such decision shall be provided in writing to the health care professional.

(5) A decision by the hearing panel to terminate a health care professional shall be effective not less than thirty days after the receipt by the health care professional of the hearing panel's decision; provided, however, that the provisions of subsection (e) of section four thousand eight hundred four shall apply to such termination.

(6) In no event shall termination be effective earlier than sixty days from the receipt of the notice of termination.

(c) Either party to a contract for participation in the in-network benefits portion of an insurer's network for a managed care product may exercise a right of non-renewal at the expiration of the contract period set forth therein or, for a contract without a specific expiration date, on each January first occurring after the contract has been in effect for at least one year, upon sixty days notice to the other party; provided, however, that any non-renewal shall not constitute a termination for purposes of this section.

(d) An insurer shall develop and implement policies and procedures to ensure that health care providers participating in the the in-network benefits portion of an insurer's network for a managed care product are regularly informed of information maintained by the insurer to evaluate the performance or practice of the health care professional. The insurer shall consult with health care professionals in developing methodologies to collect and analyze provider profiling data. Insurers shall provide any such information and profiling data and analysis to these health care professionals. Such information, data or analysis shall be provided on a periodic basis appropriate to the nature and amount of data and the volume and scope of services provided. Any profiling data used to evaluate the performance or practice of such a health care professional shall be measured against stated criteria and an appropriate group of health care professionals using similar treatment modalities serving a comparable patient population. Upon presentation of such information or data, each such health care professional shall be given the opportunity to discuss the unique nature of the health care professional's patient population which may have a bearing on the professional's profile and to work cooperatively with the insurer to improve performance.

(e) No insurer shall terminate or refuse to renew a contract for participation in the in-network benefits portion of an insurer's network for a managed care product solely because the health care professional has (1) advocated on behalf of an insured; (2) has filed a complaint against the insurer; (3) has appealed a decision of the insurer; (4) provided information or filed a report pursuant to section forty-four hundred six-c of the public health law; or (5) requested a hearing or review pursuant to this section.

(f) Except as provided herein, no contract or agreement between an insurer and a health care professional for participation in the in-network benefits portion of an insurer's network for a managed care product shall contain any provision which shall supersede or impair a health care professional's right to notice of reasons for termination and the opportunity for a hearing concerning such termination.

(g) Any contract provision in violation of this section shall be deemed to be void and unenforceable.

(h) For purposes of this section, "health care professional" shall mean a health care professional licensed, registered or certified pursuant to title eight of the education law.

§ 4804. Access to specialty care. (a) If an insurer offering a managed care product determines that it does not have a health care provider in the in-network benefits portion of its network with appropriate training and experience to meet the particular health care needs of an insured, the insurer shall make a referral to an appropriate provider, pursuant to a treatment plan approved by the insurer in consultation with the primary care provider, the non-participating provider and the insured or the insured's designee, at no additional cost to the insured beyond what the insured would otherwise pay for services received within the network.

(b) An insurer offering a managed care product shall have a procedure by which an insured enrolled in such managed care product who needs ongoing care from a specialist may receive a standing referral to such specialist. If the insurer, or the primary care provider in consultation with the insurer and the specialist, determines that such a standing referral is appropriate, the insurer shall make such a referral to a specialist. In no event shall an insurer be required to permit an insured to elect to have a non-participating specialist, except pursuant to the provisions of subsection (a) of this section. Such referral shall be pursuant to a treatment plan approved by the insurer in consultation with the primary care provider, the specialist, and the insured or the insured's designee. Such treatment plan may limit the number of visits or the period during which such visits are authorized and may require the specialist to provide the primary care provider with regular updates on the specialty care provided, as well as all necessary medical information.

(c) An insurer shall have a procedure by which a new insured upon enrollment in a managed care product, or an insured in a managed care product upon diagnosis, with (1) a life-threatening condition or disease or (2) a degenerative and disabling condition or disease, either of which requires specialized medical care over a prolonged period of time, may receive a referral to a specialist with expertise in treating the life-threatening or degenerative and disabling disease or condition who shall be responsible for and capable of providing and coordinating the insured's primary and specialty care. If the insurer, or primary care provider in consultation with the insurer and the specialist, if any, determines that the insured's care would most appropriately be coordinated by such a specialist, the insurer shall refer the insured to such specialist. In no event shall an insurer be required to permit an insured to elect to have a non-participating specialist, except pursuant to the provisions of subsection (a) of this section. Such referral shall be pursuant to a treatment plan approved by the insurer, in consultation with the primary care provider if appropriate, the specialist, and the insured or the insured's designee. Such specialist shall be permitted to treat the insured without a referral from the insured's primary care provider and may authorize such referrals, procedures, tests and other medical services as the insured's primary care provider would otherwise be permitted to provide or authorize, subject to the terms of the treatment plan. If an insurer refers an insured to a non-participating provider, services provided pursuant to the approved treatment plan shall be provided at no additional cost to the insured beyond what the insured would otherwise pay for services received within the network.

(d) An insurer offering a managed care product shall have a procedure by which an insured enrolled in such managed care product with (1) a life-threatening condition or disease or (2) a degenerative and disabling condition or disease, either of which requires specialized medical care over a prolonged period of time, may receive a referral to a specialty care center with expertise in treating the life-threatening or degenerative and disabling disease or condition. If the insurer, or the primary care provider or the specialist designated pursuant to subsection (c) of this section, in consultation with the insurer, determines that the insured's care would most appropriately be provided by such a specialty care center, the insurer shall refer the insured to such center. In no event shall an insurer be required to permit an insured to elect to have a non-participating speciality care center, unless the insurer does not have an appropriate specialty care center to treat the insured's disease or condition within its network. Such referral shall be pursuant to a treatment plan developed by the specialty care center and approved by the insurer, in consultation with the primary care provider, if any, or a specialist designated pursuant to subsection (c) of this section, and the insured or the insured's designee. If an insurer refers an insured to a specialty care center that does not participate in the insurer's managed care provider network, services provided pursuant to the approved treatment plan shall be provided at no additional cost to the insured beyond what the insured would otherwise pay for services received within the network. For purposes of this subsection, a specialty care center shall mean only such centers as are accredited or designated by an agency of the state or federal government or by a voluntary national health organization as having special expertise in treating the life-threatening disease or condition or degenerative and disabling disease or condition for which it is accredited or designated.

(e) (1) If an insured's health care provider leaves the insurer's in-network benefits portion of its network of providers for a managed care product for reasons other than those for which the provider would not be eligible to receive a hearing pursuant to paragraph one of subsection (b) of section forty-eight hundred three of this chapter, the insurer shall provide written notice to the insured of the provider's disaffiliation and permit the insured to continue an ongoing course of treatment with the insured's current health care provider during a transitional period of: (A) ninety days from the later of the date of the notice to the insured of the provider's disaffiliation from the insurer's network or the effective date of the provider's disaffiliation from the insurer's network; or (B) if the insured is pregnant at the time of the provider's disaffiliation, the duration of the pregnancy and post-partum care directly related to the delivery.

(2) During the transitional period the health care provider shall: (A) continue to accept reimbursement from the insurer at the rates applicable prior to the start of the transitional period, and continue to accept the in-network cost-sharing from the insured, if any, as payment in full; (B) adhere to the insurer's quality assurance requirements and provide to the insurer necessary medical information related to such care; and (C) otherwise adhere to the insurer's policies and procedures including, but not limited to, procedures regarding referrals and obtaining pre-authorization and a treatment plan approved by the insurer.

* (f) If a new insured whose health care provider is not a member of the insurer's in-network benefits portion of the provider network enrolls in the managed care product, the insurer shall permit the insured to continue an ongoing course of treatment with the insured's current health care provider during a transitional period of up to sixty days from the effective date of enrollment, if (1) the insured has a life-threatening disease or condition or a degenerative and disabling disease or condition or (2) the insured has entered the second trimester of pregnancy at the time of enrollment, in which case the transitional period shall include the provision of post-partum care directly related to the delivery. If an insured elects to continue to receive care from such health care provider pursuant to this paragraph, such care shall be authorized by the insurer for the transitional period only if the health care provider agrees (A) to accept reimbursement from the insurer at rates established by the insurer as payment in full, which rates shall be no more than the level of reimbursement applicable to similar providers within the in-network benefits portion of the insurer's network for such services; (B) to adhere to the insurer's quality assurance requirements and agrees to provide to the insurer necessary medical information related to such care; and (C) to otherwise adhere to the insurer's policies and procedures including, but not limited to procedures regarding referrals and obtaining pre-authorization and a treatment plan approved by the insurer. In no event shall this subsection be construed to require an insurer to provide coverage for benefits not otherwise covered or to diminish or impair pre-existing condition limitations contained within the insured's contract.

* NB Effective until January 1, 2027

* (f) If a new insured whose health care provider is not a member of the insurer's in-network benefits portion of the provider network enrolls in the managed care product, the insurer shall permit the insured to continue an ongoing course of treatment with the insured's current health care provider during a transitional period of up to ninety days from the effective date of enrollment. If the insured is pregnant at the time of enrollment, the transitional period shall include the provision of care for the duration of the pregnancy and postpartum care directly related to the delivery. If an insured elects to continue to receive care from such health care provider pursuant to this paragraph, such care shall be authorized by the insurer for the transitional period only if the health care provider agrees: (A) to accept reimbursement from the insurer at rates established by the insurer as payment in full, which rates shall be no more than the level of reimbursement applicable to similar providers within the in-network benefits portion of the insurer's network for such services; (B) to adhere to the insurer's quality assurance requirements and agrees to provide to the insurer necessary medical information related to such care; and (C) to otherwise adhere to the insurer's policies and procedures including, but not limited to, procedures regarding referrals and obtaining pre-authorization and a treatment plan approved by the insurer. In no event shall this subsection be construed to require an insurer to provide coverage for benefits not otherwise covered or to diminish or impair pre-existing condition limitations contained within the insured's contract.

* NB Effective January 1, 2027

§ 4805. Access to end of life care. (a) Every contract issued by an insurer that provides coverage for hospital, surgical or medical care that includes coverage for acute care services shall provide coverage for an insured diagnosed with advanced cancer (with no hope of reversal of primary disease and fewer than sixty days to live, as certified by the patient's attending health care practitioner) for acute care services at an acute care facility licensed pursuant to article twenty-eight of the public health law specializing in the treatment of terminally ill patients if the patient's attending health care practitioner, in consultation with the medical director of the facility determines that the insured's care would appropriately be provided by such a facility.

(b) Notwithstanding the provisions of article forty-nine of this chapter, if the insurer disagrees with the admission of or provision or continuation of care for the insured by the facility, the insurer shall initiate an expedited external appeal in accordance with the provisions of paragraph three of subsection (b) of section four thousand nine hundred fourteen of this chapter, provided further, that until such decision is rendered, the admission of or provision or continuation of the care by the facility shall not be denied by the insurer and the insurer shall provide coverage and reimburse the facility for services provided subject to the provisions of this section and other limitations otherwise applicable under the insured's contract. The decision of the external appeal agent shall be binding on all parties. If the insurer does not initiate an expedited external appeal the insurer shall reimburse the facility for services provided subject to the provisions of this section and other limitations otherwise applicable under the insured's contract.

(c) An insurer shall provide reimbursement for those services prescribed by this section at rates negotiated between the insurer and the facility. In the absence of agreed upon rates, an insurer shall pay for acute care at the facility's acute care rate under the Medicare program (Title XVIII of the federal Social Security Act), including the Part A rate for Part A services and the Part B rate for Part B services, and shall pay for alternate level care days at seventy-five percent of the acute care rate, including the Part A rate for Part A services and the Part B rate for Part B services.

(d) Payment by an insurer pursuant to this section shall be payment in full for the services provided to the insured. An acute care facility reimbursed pursuant to this section shall not charge or seek any reimbursement from, or have any recourse against an insured for the services provided by the acute care facility pursuant to this section, except for the collection of copayments, coinsurance or visit fees, or deductibles for which the insured is responsible under the terms of the applicable contract.

(e) No provision of this section shall be construed to require an insurer to provide coverage for benefits not otherwise covered under the insured's contract.

§ 4806. Health care facility applications. (a) An insurer that offers a managed care product shall, upon request, make available and disclose to facilities written application procedures and minimum qualification requirements that a facility must meet in order to be considered by the insurer for participation in the in-network benefits portion of the insurer's network for the managed care product. The insurer shall consult with appropriately qualified facilities in developing its qualification requirements for participation in the in-network benefits portion of the insurer's network for the managed care product. An insurer shall complete review of the facility's application to participate in the in-network portion of the insurer's network and, within sixty days of receiving a facility's completed application to participate in the insurer's network, shall notify the facility as to: (1) whether the facility is credentialed; or (2) whether additional time is necessary to make a determination because of a failure of a third party to provide necessary documentation. In such instances where additional time is necessary because of a lack of necessary documentation, an insurer shall make every effort to obtain such information as soon as possible and shall make a final determination within twenty-one days of receiving the necessary documentation.

(b) For the purposes of this section, "facility" shall mean a health care provider that is licensed or certified pursuant to article five, twenty-eight, thirty-six, forty, forty-four, or forty-seven of the public health law or article sixteen, nineteen, thirty-one, thirty-two, or thirty-six of the mental hygiene law.

(v) for purposes of a determination involving treatment for a mental health condition, specializes in behavioral health and has experience in the delivery of mental health courses of treatment and, where applicable, possesses a current and valid non-restricted license, certificate, or registration or, where no provision for a license, certificate or registration exists, is credentialed by the national accrediting body appropriate to the profession;

(vi) is knowledgeable about the health care service or treatment under appeal; and

(vii) where applicable to such health care professional's scope of practice, is clinically supported by a physician who possesses a current and valid non-restricted license to practice medicine.

(3) Nothing in this subsection shall be construed to change any statutorily-defined scope of practice.

(b-1) "Clinical standards" means those guidelines and standards set forth in the utilization review plan by the utilization review agent whose adverse determination is under appeal or, in the case of medically fragile children those guidelines and standards as required by section three thousand two hundred seventeen-j and four thousand three hundred six-i of this chapter.

(b-2) "Clinical trial" means a peer-reviewed study plan which has been:

(1) reviewed and approved by a qualified institutional review board, and

(2) approved by one of the National Institutes of Health (NIH), or an NIH cooperative group or an NIH center, or the Food and Drug Administration in the form of an investigational new drug exemption, or the federal Department of Veteran Affairs, or a qualified nongovernmental research entity as identified in guidelines issued by individual NIH Institutes for center support grants, or an institutional review board of a facility which has a multiple project assurance approved by the Office of Protection from Research Risks of the National Institutes of Health.

As used in this subsection, the term "cooperative groups" means formal networks of facilities that collaborate on research projects and have established NIH-approved peer review programs operating within their groups; and that include, but are not limited to, the National Cancer Institute (NCI) Clinical Cooperative Groups, the NCI Community Clinical Oncology Program (CCOP), the AIDS Clinical Trials Groups (ACTG), and the Community Programs for Clinical Research in AIDS (CPCRA).

* (b-3) "Disabling condition or disease" means a condition or disease which, according to the current diagnosis of the enrollee's attending physician, is consistent with the definition of "disabled person" pursuant to subdivision five of section two hundred eight of the social services law.

* NB Effective until January 1, 2027

* (b-3) "Chronic health condition" means a condition that is expected to last for at least one year and requires ongoing treatment to effectively manage the condition or prevent an adverse health event.

* NB Effective January 1, 2027

* (b-4) "Disabling condition or disease" means a condition or disease which, according to the current diagnosis of the enrollee's attending physician, is consistent with the definition of "disabled person" pursuant to subdivision five of section two hundred eight of the social services law.

* NB Effective January 1, 2027

(c) "Emergency condition" means a medical or behavioral condition, that manifests itself by acute symptoms of sufficient severity, including severe pain, such that a prudent layperson, possessing an average knowledge of medicine and health, could reasonably expect the absence of immediate medical attention to result in (1) placing the health of the person afflicted with such condition in serious jeopardy, or in the case of a behavioral condition placing the health of such person or others in serious jeopardy; (2) serious impairment to such person's bodily functions; (3) serious dysfunction of any bodily organ or part of such person; (4) serious disfigurement of such person; or (5) a condition described in clause (i), (ii) or (iii) of section 1867(e)(1)(A) of the Social Security Act.

(d) "Insured" means a person subject to utilization review.

(d-1) "Experimental and investigational treatment review plan" means:

(1) a description of the process for developing the written clinical review criteria used in rendering an experimental and investigational treatment review determination; and

(2) a description of the qualifications and experience of the clinical peers who developed the criteria, who are responsible for periodic evaluation of the criteria, and who use the written clinical review criteria in the process of reviewing proposed experimental and investigational health services and procedures.

(d-2) "External appeal" means an appeal conducted by an external appeal agent, pursuant to section four thousand nine hundred fourteen of this article.

(d-3) "External appeal agent" means an entity certified by the superintendent pursuant to section four thousand nine hundred eleven of this article.

(d-4) "Final adverse determination" means an adverse determination which has been upheld by a utilization review agent with respect to a proposed health care service following a standard appeal, or an expedited appeal where applicable, pursuant to section four thousand nine hundred four of this title.

(d-5) "Health care plan" means an insurer subject to article thirty-two or forty-three of this chapter, or any organization licensed under article forty-three of this chapter.

(e) (1) For purposes of this title and for appeals requested pursuant to paragraph one of subsection (b) of section four thousand nine hundred ten of title two of this article, "health care service" means:

(A) health care procedures, treatments or services

(i) provided by a facility licensed pursuant to article twenty-eight, thirty-six, forty-four or forty-seven of the public health law or pursuant to article nineteen, twenty-three, thirty-one or thirty-two of the mental hygiene law; or

(ii) provided by a health care professional; and

(B) the provision of pharmaceutical products or services or durable medical equipment.

(2) For purposes of appeals requested pursuant to paragraph two of subsection (b) of section four thousand nine hundred ten of title two of this article, "health care services" shall mean experimental or investigational procedures, treatments or services, including:

(A) services provided within a clinical trial, and

(B) the provision of a pharmaceutical product pursuant to prescription by the enrollee's attending physician for a use other than those uses for which such pharmaceutical product has been approved for marketing by the federal Food and Drug Administration; to the extent that coverage for such services are prohibited by law from being excluded under the plan.

Provided that nothing in this subsection shall be construed to define what are covered services pursuant to a subscriber contract or governmental health benefit program.

(f) "Health care professional" means an appropriately licensed, registered or certified health care professional pursuant to title eight of the education law or a health care professional comparably licensed, registered or certified by another state.

(g) "Health care provider" means a health care professional or a facility licensed pursuant to article twenty-eight, thirty-six, forty-four or forty-seven of the public health law or a facility licensed pursuant to article nineteen, twenty-three, thirty-one or thirty-two of the mental hygiene law.

(g-1) "Life-threatening condition or disease" means a condition or disease which, according to the current diagnosis of the enrollee's attending physician, has a high probability of causing the enrollee's death.

(g-2) "Material familial affiliation" means any relationship as a spouse, child, parent, sibling, spouse's parent, spouse's child, child's parent, child's spouse, or sibling's spouse.

(g-3) "Material financial affiliation" means any financial interest of more than five percent of total annual revenue or total annual income of an external appeal agent or officer, director, or management employee thereof; or clinical peer reviewer employed or engaged thereby to conduct any external appeal. The term "material financial affiliation" shall not include revenue received from a health care plan by (1) an external appeal agent to conduct an external appeal pursuant to section four thousand nine hundred fourteen of title two of this article, or (2) a clinical peer reviewer for health services rendered to enrollees.

(g-4) "Material professional affiliation" means any physician-patient relationship, any partnership or employment relationship, a shareholder or similar ownership interest in a professional corporation, or any independent contractor arrangement that constitutes a material financial affiliation with any expert or any officer or director of the independent organization.

(g-5) "Medical and scientific evidence" means the following sources:

(1) peer-reviewed scientific studies published in, or accepted for publication by, medical journals that meet nationally recognized requirements for scientific manuscripts and that submit most of their published articles for review by experts who are not part of the editorial staff;

(2) peer-reviewed medical literature, including literature relating to therapies reviewed and approved by a qualified institutional review board, biomedical compendia and other medical literature that meet the criteria of the National Institute of Health's National Library of Medicine for indexing in Index Medicus, Excerpta Medicus, Medline and

MEDLARS database Health Services Technology Assessment Research;

(3) peer-reviewed abstracts accepted for presentation at major medical association meetings;

(4) peer-reviewed literature shall not include publications or supplements to publications sponsored to a significant extent by a pharmaceutical manufacturing company or medical device manufacturer;

(5) medical journals recognized by the secretary of Health and Human Services, under section 1861 (t)(2) of the federal Social Security Act;

(6) the following standard reference compendia:

(A) the American Hospital Formulary Service - Drug Information;

(B) the National Comprehensive Cancer Network's Drugs and Biologics Compendium;

(C) the American Dental Association Accepted Dental Therapeutics;

(D) Thomson Micromedex DrugDex;

(E) Elsevier Gold Standard's Clinical Pharmacology; or other authoritative compendia as identified by the Federal Secretary of Health and Human Services or the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS); or recommended by review article or editorial comment in a major peer reviewed professional journal;

(7) findings, studies, or research conducted by or under the auspices of federal government agencies and nationally recognized federal research institutes including the federal Agency for Health Care Policy and Research, National Institutes of Health, National Cancer Institute, National Academy of Sciences, Health Care Financing Administration, Congressional Office of Technology Assessment, and any national board recognized by the National Institutes of Health for the purpose of evaluating the medical value of health services.

(g-6) "Out-of-network denial" means a denial under a managed care product as defined in subsection (c) of section four thousand eight hundred one of this chapter of a request for pre-authorization to receive a particular health service from an out-of-network provider on the basis that such out-of-network health service is not materially different than the health service available in-network. The notice of an out-of-network denial provided to an insured shall include information explaining what information the insured must submit in order to appeal the out-of-network denial pursuant to subsection (a-1) of section four thousand nine hundred four of this article. An out-of-network denial under this subsection does not constitute an adverse determination as defined in this article. Notwithstanding any other provision of this subsection, an out-of-network denial shall not be construed to include a denial for a referral to an out-of-network provider on the basis that a health care provider is available in-network to provide the particular health service requested by the insured.

(g-6-a) "Out-of-network referral denial" means a denial under a managed care product as defined in subsection (c) of section four thousand eight hundred one of this chapter of a request for an authorization or referral to an out-of-network provider on the basis that the health care plan has a health care provider in the in-network benefits portion of its network with appropriate training and experience to meet the particular health care needs of an insured, and who is able to provide the requested health service. The notice of an out-of-network referral denial provided to an insured shall include information explaining what information the insured must submit in order to appeal the out-of-network referral denial pursuant to subsection (a-2) of section four thousand nine hundred four of this article. An out-of-network referral denial under this subsection does not constitute an adverse determination as defined in this article. An out-of-network referral denial shall not be construed to include an out-of-network denial as defined in subsection (g-6) of this section.

(g-7) "Rare disease" means a condition or disease that (1)(A) is currently or has been subject to a research study by the National Institutes of Health Rare Diseases Clinical Research Network; or (B) affects fewer than two hundred thousand United States residents per year; and (2) for which there does not exist a standard health service or procedure covered by the health care plan that is more clinically beneficial than the requested health service or treatment. A physician, other than the insured's treating physician, shall certify in writing that the condition is a rare disease as defined in this subsection. The certifying physician shall be a licensed, board-certified or board-eligible physician who specializes in the area of practice appropriate to treat the insured's rare disease. The certification shall provide either: (1) that the insured's rare disease is currently or has been subject to a research study by the National Institutes of Health Rare Diseases Clinical Research Network; or (2) that the insured's rare disease affects fewer than two hundred thousand United States residents per year. The certification shall rely on medical and scientific evidence to support the requested health service or procedure, if such evidence exists, and shall include a statement that, based on the physician's credible experience, there is no standard treatment that is likely to be more clinically beneficial to the insured than the requested health service or procedure and the requested health service or procedure is likely to benefit the insured in the treatment of the insured's rare disease and that such benefit to the insured outweighs the risks of such health service or procedure. The certifying physician shall disclose any material financial or professional relationship with the provider of the requested health service or procedure as part of the application for external appeal of denial of a rare disease treatment. If the provision of the requested health service or procedure at a health care facility requires prior approval of an institutional review board, an insured or insured's designee shall also submit such approval as part of the external appeal application.

(g-8) "Step therapy protocol override determination" means a determination made by a utilization review agent as defined in subsection (i) of this section to override a step therapy protocol pursuant to subsections (c-1), (c-2) and (c-3) of section forty-nine hundred three of this title granting coverage for the health care professional's selected prescription drug or drugs. Any step therapy override determination as defined by this subsection shall be eligible for appeal by an insured pursuant to this article.

(g-9) "Step therapy protocol" means a policy, protocol or program established by a utilization review agent as defined in subsection (i) of this section that establishes the specific sequence in which prescription drugs for a specified medical condition are approved for a particular insured. Nothing in this chapter shall impair or prevent an insured from having the right to appeal pursuant to this article relating to the imposition of a step therapy protocol.

(h) "Utilization review" means the review to determine whether health care services that have been provided, are being provided or are proposed to be provided to a patient, whether undertaken prior to, concurrent with or subsequent to the delivery of such services are medically necessary. For the purposes of this article none of the following shall be considered utilization review:

(1) Denials based on failure to obtain health care services from a designated or approved health care provider as required under a contract;

(2) Where any determination is rendered pursuant to subdivision three-a of section twenty-eight hundred seven-c of the public health law;

(3) The review of the appropriateness of the application of a particular coding to a patient, including the assignment of diagnosis and procedure;

(4) Any issues relating to the determination of the amount or extent of payment other than determinations to deny payment based on an adverse determination; and

(5) Any determination of any coverage issues other than whether health care services are or were medically necessary.

(i) "Utilization review agent" means any insurer subject to article thirty-two or forty-three of this chapter and any municipal cooperative health benefit plan certified pursuant to article forty-seven of this chapter performing utilization review and any independent utilization review agent performing utilization review under contract with such insurer or municipal cooperative health benefit plan.

(j) "Utilization review plan" means: (1) a description of the process for developing the written clinical review criteria; (2) a description of the types of written clinical information which the plan might consider in its clinical review, including a set of specific written clinical review criteria; (3) a description of practice guidelines and standards used by a utilization review agent in carrying out a determination of medical necessity, which, in the case of medically fragile children, shall incorporate the standards required by sections three thousand two hundred seventeen-j and four thousand three hundred six-i of this chapter; (4) the procedures for scheduled review and evaluation of the written clinical review criteria; and (5) a description of the qualifications and experience of the health care professionals who developed the criteria, who are responsible for periodic evaluation of the criteria and of the health care professionals or others who use the written clinical review criteria in the process of utilization review.

§ 4901. Reporting requirements for utilization review agents. (a) Every utilization review agent shall biennially report to the superintendent of financial services, in a statement subscribed and affirmed as true under the penalties of perjury, the information required pursuant to subsection (b) of this section.

(b) Such report shall contain a description of the following:

(1) The utilization review plan;

(2) Those circumstances, if any, under which utilization review may be delegated to a utilization review program conducted by a facility licensed pursuant to article twenty-eight of the public health law or pursuant to article thirty-one of the mental hygiene law;

(3) The provisions by which an insured, the insured's designee, or a health care provider may seek reconsideration of or appeal from adverse determinations by the utilization review agent, in accordance with the provisions of this title, including provisions to ensure a timely appeal and that an insured, the insured's designee, and, in the case of an adverse determination involving a retrospective determination, the insured's health care provider is informed of their right to appeal adverse determinations;

(4) Procedures by which a decision on a request for utilization review for services requiring preauthorization shall comply with timeframes established pursuant to this title;

(5) A description of an emergency care policy, which shall include the procedures under which an emergency admission shall be made or emergency treatment shall be given;

(6) A description of the personnel utilized to conduct utilization review including a description of the circumstances under which utilization review may be conducted by:

(i) administrative personnel;

(ii) health care professionals who are not clinical peer reviewers; and

(iii) clinical peer reviewers;

(7) A description of the mechanisms employed to assure that administrative personnel are trained in the principles and procedures of intake screening and data collection and are appropriately monitored by a licensed health care professional while performing an administrative review;

(8) A description of the mechanisms employed to assure that health care professionals conducting utilization review are:

(i) appropriately licensed, registered or certified; and

(ii) trained in the principles, procedures and standards of such utilization review agent.

(9) A description of the mechanisms employed to assure that only a clinical peer reviewer shall render an adverse determination;

(10) Provisions to ensure that appropriate personnel of the utilization review agent are reasonably accessible by toll-free telephone:

(i) not less than forty hours per week during normal business hours, to discuss patient care and allow response to telephone requests, and to ensure that such utilization review agent has a telephone system capable of accepting, recording or providing instruction to incoming telephone calls during other than normal business hours and to ensure response to accepted or recorded messages not less than one business day after the date on which the call was received; or

(ii) notwithstanding the provisions of subparagraph (i) of this paragraph, not less than forty hours per week during normal business hours, to discuss patient care and allow response to telephone requests, and to ensure that, in the case of a request submitted pursuant to subsection (a) of section four thousand nine hundred three of this title or an expedited appeal filed pursuant to subsection (b) of section four thousand nine hundred four of this title, on a twenty-four hour a day, seven day a week basis;

(11) The policies and procedures to ensure that all applicable state and federal laws to protect the confidentiality of individual medical and treatment records are followed;

(12) A copy of the materials to be disclosed to an insured or prospective insured pursuant to sections three thousand two hundred seventeen-a or four thousand three hundred twenty-four of this chapter, whichever is applicable, and this title;

(13) A description of the mechanisms employed by the utilization review agent to assure that all subcontractors, subvendors, agents or employees affiliated by contract or otherwise with such utilization review agent will adhere to the standards and requirements of this title; and

(c) The clinical review criteria and standards contained within the utilization review plan shall not be subject to disclosure pursuant to the provisions of article six of the public officers law.

§ 4902. Utilization review program standards. (a) Each utilization review agent shall adhere to utilization review program standards consistent with the provisions of this title which shall, at a minimum, include:

(1) Appointment of a medical director, who is a licensed physician; provided, however, that the utilization review agent may appoint a clinical director when the utilization review performed is for a discrete category of health care service and provided further that the clinical director is a licensed health care professional who typically manages the category of service. Responsibilities of the medical director, or, where appropriate, the clinical director, shall include, but not be limited to, the supervision and oversight of the utilization review process;

(2) Development of written policies and procedures that govern all aspects of the utilization review process and a requirement that a utilization review agent shall maintain and make available to insureds and health care providers a written description of such procedures including procedures to appeal an adverse determination together with a description, jointly promulgated by the superintendent and the commissioner of health as required pursuant to subsection (e) of section four thousand nine hundred fourteen of this article, of the external appeal process established pursuant to title two of this article and the time frames for such appeals;

(3) Utilization of written clinical review criteria developed pursuant to a utilization review plan;

(4) Establishment of a process for rendering utilization review determinations which shall, at a minimum, include: written procedures to assure that utilization reviews and determinations are conducted within the timeframes established herein; procedures to notify an insured, an insured's designee and/or an insured's health care provider of adverse determinations; and procedures for appeal of adverse determinations including the establishment of an expedited appeals process for denials of continued inpatient care or where there is imminent or serious threat to the health of the insured;

(5) (i) Establishment of a written procedure to assure that the notice of an adverse determination includes:

(A) the reasons for the determination including the clinical rationale, if any;

(B) instructions on how to initiate standard and expedited appeals pursuant to section four thousand nine hundred four of this article and an external appeal pursuant to section four thousand nine hundred fourteen of this article; (C) notice of the availability, upon request of the insured or the insured's designee, of the clinical review criteria relied upon to make such determination;

(D) what, if any, additional necessary information must be provided to, or obtained by, the utilization review agent in order to render a decision on appeal; and

(E) for an adverse determination related to a step therapy protocol override determination, information that includes the clinical review criteria relied upon to make such determination and any applicable alternative prescription drugs subject to the step therapy protocol of the utilization review agent.

(ii) A utilization review agent may provide a notice of an adverse determination related to a step therapy protocol override determination electronically pursuant to subsection (i) of section four thousand nine hundred three of this title, including by electronic mail or through the health care plan's member portal and provider portal. An electronic notice of such an adverse determination may meet the requirements of clause (E) of subparagraph (i) of this paragraph by linking to information posted on the website of the health care plan;

(6) Establishment of a requirement that appropriate personnel of the utilization review agent are reasonably accessible by toll-free telephone:

(i) not less than forty hours per week during normal business hours to discuss patient care and allow response to telephone requests, and to ensure that such utilization review agent has a telephone system capable of accepting, recording or providing instruction to incoming telephone calls during other than normal business hours and to ensure response to accepted or recorded messages not less than one business day after the date on which the call was received; or

(ii) notwithstanding the provisions of subparagraph (i) of this paragraph, not less than forty hours per week during normal business hours, to discuss patient care and allow response to telephone requests, and to ensure that, in the case of a request submitted pursuant to subsection (a) of section four thousand nine hundred three of this title or an expedited appeal filed pursuant to subsection (b) of section four thousand nine hundred four of this title, on a twenty-four hour a day, seven day a week basis;

(7) Establishment of appropriate policies and procedures to ensure that all applicable state and federal laws to protect the confidentiality of individual medical records are followed;

(8) Establishment of a requirement that emergency services rendered to an insured shall not be subject to prior authorization nor shall reimbursement for such services be denied on retrospective review; provided, however, that such services are medically necessary to stabilize or treat an emergency condition.

* (9) When conducting utilization review for purposes of determining health care coverage for substance use disorder treatment, a utilization review agent shall utilize an evidence-based and peer reviewed clinical review tool that is appropriate to the age of the patient. When conducting such utilization review for treatment provided in this state, a utilization review agent shall utilize an evidence-based and peer reviewed clinical tool designated by the office of alcoholism and substance abuse services that is consistent with the treatment service levels within the office of alcoholism and substance abuse services system. All approved tools shall have inter rater reliability testing completed by December thirty-first, two thousand sixteen.

* NB Effective until January 1, 2027

* (9) When conducting utilization review for purposes of determining health care coverage for substance-related and addictive disorder treatment, a utilization review agent shall utilize an evidence-based and peer reviewed clinical review tool that is appropriate to the age of the patient. When conducting such utilization review for treatment provided in this state, a utilization review agent shall utilize an evidence-based and peer reviewed clinical tool designated by the office of addiction services and supports that is consistent with the treatment service levels within the office of addiction services and supports system. All approved tools shall have inter rater reliability testing completed by December thirty-first, two thousand sixteen.

* NB Effective January 1, 2027

10. When establishing a step therapy protocol, a utilization review agent shall utilize recognized evidence-based and peer reviewed clinical review criteria that also takes into account the needs of atypical patient populations and diagnoses when establishing the clinical review criteria.

11. When conducting utilization review for a step therapy protocol override determination, a utilization review agent shall utilize, in addition to any other requirements of this article, recognized evidence-based and peer reviewed clinical review criteria that is appropriate for the insured and the insured's medical condition.

(12) When conducting utilization review for purposes of determining health care coverage for a mental health condition, a utilization review agent shall utilize evidence-based and peer reviewed clinical review criteria that is appropriate to the age of the patient. The utilization review agent shall use clinical review criteria deemed appropriate and approved for such use by the commissioner of the office of mental health, in consultation with the commissioner of health and the superintendent. Approved clinical review criteria shall have inter rater reliability testing completed by December thirty-first, two thousand nineteen.

(13) Establishment of a requirement that emergency department and inpatient hospital services rendered by a general hospital certified pursuant to article twenty-eight of the public health law to an insured to treat COVID-19 during a declared state disaster emergency related to COVID-19 shall not be denied on retrospective review on the basis that such services were not medically necessary.

(14) The superintendent, in consultation with the commissioner of health, may, as necessary, promulgate by regulation special considerations and processes for utilization review related to medically fragile children. Such regulations may include, at a minimum, considerations and processes related to:

(i) medically necessary covered services to medically fragile children;

(ii) determinations specific to the needs of medically fragile children;

(iii) stabilization and discharge plans; and

(iv) payment for the care of medically fragile children.

(15) When establishing a step therapy protocol, a utilization review agent shall ensure that the protocol cannot:

(i) require a prescription drug that has not been approved by the United States Food and Drug Administration for the medical condition being treated or is not supported by current evidence-based guidelines for the medical condition being treated;

(ii) require an insured to try and fail on more than two drugs used to treat the same medical condition or disease before providing coverage to the insured for the prescribed drug;

(iii) require the use of a step therapy-required drug for longer than thirty days or a duration of treatment supported by current evidence-based treatment guidelines appropriate to the specific disease state being treated;

(iv) be imposed on an insured if a therapeutic equivalent to the prescribed drug is not available, or if the health care plan has documentation that it has covered the drug for the insured within the past three hundred sixty-five days;

(v) require a newly enrolled insured to repeat a step therapy protocol for a prescribed drug where that insured already completed a step therapy protocol for that drug under a prior health care plan, so long as the enrollee or provider submits information demonstrating completion of a step therapy protocol of the prior health care plan within the past three hundred sixty-five days; and

(vi) be imposed on an insured for a prescribed drug that was previously approved for coverage by the insured's current health care plan for a specific medical condition after the insured's current health care plan implements a formulary change or utilization management that impacts the coverage criteria for the prescribed drug until the approved override expires, unless a specifically identified and current evidence-based safety concern exists and a different therapeutic alternative drug exists.

(16) When establishing a step therapy protocol, a utilization review agent shall ensure that the protocol accepts any written or electronic attestation submitted by the insured's health care professional, as defined in section four thousand nine hundred of this title, who prescribed the drug and stating that a required drug has failed, as evidence that the required drug has failed.

(b) Each utilization review agent shall assure adherence to the requirements stated in subsection (a) of this section by all contractors, subcontractors, subvendors, agents and employees affiliated by contract or otherwise with such utilization review agent.

§ 4903. Utilization review determinations. (a) Utilization review shall be conducted by:

(1) Administrative personnel trained in the principles and procedures of intake screening and data collection, provided however, that administrative personnel shall only perform intake screening, data collection and non-clinical review functions and shall be supervised by a licensed health care professional;

(2) A health care professional who is appropriately trained in the principles, procedures and standards of such utilization review agent; provided, however, that a health care professional who is not a clinical peer reviewer may not render an adverse determination; and

(3) A clinical peer reviewer where the review involves an adverse determination.

(b) (1) A utilization review agent shall make a utilization review determination involving health care services which require pre-authorization and provide notice of a determination to the insured or insured's designee and the insured's health care provider by telephone and in writing within three business days of receipt of the necessary information, or for inpatient rehabilitation services following an inpatient hospital admission provided by a hospital or skilled nursing facility, within one business day of receipt of the necessary information. The notification shall identify: (i) whether the services are considered in-network or out-of-network; (ii) whether the insured will be held harmless for the services and not be responsible for any payment, other than any applicable co-payment, co-insurance or deductible; (iii) as applicable, the dollar amount the health care plan will pay if the service is out-of-network; and (iv) as applicable, information explaining how an insured may determine the anticipated out-of-pocket cost for out-of-network health care services in a geographical area or zip code based upon the difference between what the health care plan will reimburse for out-of-network health care services and the usual and customary cost for out-of-network health care services.

* (2) With regard to individual or group contracts authorized pursuant to article thirty-two, forty-three or forty-seven of this chapter or article forty-four of the public health law, for utilization and review determinations involving proposed mental health and/or substance use disorder services where the insured or the insured's designee has, in a format prescribed by the superintendent, certified in the request that the proposed services are for an individual who will be appearing, or has appeared, before a court of competent jurisdiction and may be subject to a court order requiring such services, the utilization review agent shall make a determination and provide notice of such determination to the insured or the insured's designee by telephone within seventy-two hours of receipt of the request. Written notice of the determination to the insured or insured's designee shall follow within three business days. Where feasible, such telephonic and written notice shall also be provided to the court.

* NB Effective until January 1, 2027

* (2) With regard to individual or group contracts authorized pursuant to article thirty-two, forty-three or forty-seven of this chapter or article forty-four of the public health law, for utilization and review determinations involving proposed mental health and/or substance-related and addictive disorder services where the insured or the insured's designee has, in a format prescribed by the superintendent, certified in the request that the proposed services are for an individual who will be appearing, or has appeared, before a court of competent jurisdiction and may be subject to a court order requiring such services, the utilization review agent shall make a determination and provide notice of such determination to the insured or the insured's designee by telephone within seventy-two hours of receipt of the request. Written notice of the determination to the insured or insured's designee shall follow within three business days. Where feasible, such telephonic and written notice shall also be provided to the court.

* NB Effective January 1, 2027

* (c) (1) A utilization review agent shall make a determination involving continued or extended health care services, additional services for an insured undergoing a course of continued treatment prescribed by a health care provider, or requests for inpatient substance use disorder treatment, or home health care services following an inpatient hospital admission, and shall provide notice of such determination to the insured or the insured's designee, which may be satisfied by notice to the insured's health care provider, by telephone and in writing within one business day of receipt of the necessary information except, with respect to home health care services following an inpatient hospital admission, within seventy-two hours of receipt of the necessary information when the day subsequent to the request falls on a weekend or holiday and except, with respect to inpatient substance use disorder treatment, within twenty-four hours of receipt of the request for services when the request is submitted at least twenty-four hours prior to discharge from an inpatient admission. Notification of continued or extended services shall include the number of extended services approved, the new total of approved services, the date of onset of services and the next review date.

(2) Provided that a request for home health care services and all necessary information is submitted to the utilization review agent prior to discharge from an inpatient hospital admission pursuant to this subsection, a utilization review agent shall not deny, on the basis of medical necessity or lack of prior authorization, coverage for home health care services while a determination by the utilization review agent is pending.

(3) Provided that a request for inpatient treatment for substance use disorder is submitted to the utilization review agent at least twenty-four hours prior to discharge from an inpatient admission pursuant to this subsection, a utilization review agent shall not deny, on the basis of medical necessity or lack of prior authorization, coverage for the inpatient substance use disorder treatment while a determination by the utilization review agent is pending.

* NB Effective until January 1, 2027

* (c) (1) A utilization review agent shall make a determination involving continued or extended health care services, additional services for an insured undergoing a course of continued treatment prescribed by a health care provider, or requests for inpatient substance-related and addictive disorder treatment, or home health care services following an inpatient hospital admission, and shall provide notice of such determination to the insured or the insured's designee, which may be satisfied by notice to the insured's health care provider, by telephone and in writing within one business day of receipt of the necessary information except, with respect to home health care services following an inpatient hospital admission, within seventy-two hours of receipt of the necessary information when the day subsequent to the request falls on a weekend or holiday and except, with respect to inpatient substance-related and addictive disorder treatment, within twenty-four hours of receipt of the request for services when the request is submitted at least twenty-four hours prior to discharge from an inpatient admission. Notification of continued or extended services shall include the number of extended services approved, the new total of approved services, the date of onset of services and the next review date.

(2) Provided that a request for home health care services and all necessary information is submitted to the utilization review agent prior to discharge from an inpatient hospital admission pursuant to this subsection, a utilization review agent shall not deny, on the basis of medical necessity or lack of prior authorization, coverage for home health care services while a determination by the utilization review agent is pending.

(3) Provided that a request for inpatient treatment for substance-related and addictive disorder is submitted to the utilization review agent at least twenty-four hours prior to discharge from an inpatient admission pursuant to this subsection, a utilization review agent shall not deny, on the basis of medical necessity or lack of prior authorization, coverage for the inpatient substance-related and addictive disorder treatment while a determination by the utilization review agent is pending.

* NB Effective January 1, 2027

(c-1) A utilization review agent shall grant a step therapy protocol override determination within seventy-two hours of the receipt of information that includes supporting rationale and documentation from a health care professional which demonstrates that:

(1) The required prescription drug or drugs is contraindicated or will likely cause an adverse reaction by or physical or mental harm to the insured;

(2) The required prescription drug or drugs is expected to be ineffective based on the known clinical history and conditions of the insured and the insured's prescription drug regimen;

(3) The insured has tried the required prescription drug or drugs while under their current or a previous health insurance or health benefit plan, or another prescription drug or drugs in the same pharmacologic class or with the same mechanism of action and such prescription drug or drugs was discontinued due to lack of efficacy or effectiveness, diminished effect, or an adverse event;

(4) The insured is stable on a prescription drug or drugs selected by their health care professional for the medical condition under consideration, provided that this shall not prevent a utilization review agent from requiring an insured to try an AB-rated generic equivalent prior to providing coverage for the equivalent brand name prescription drug or drugs; or

(5) The required prescription drug or drugs is not in the best interest of the insured because it will likely cause a significant barrier to the insured's adherence to or compliance with the insured's plan of care, will likely worsen a comorbid condition of the insured, or will likely decrease the covered individual's ability to achieve or maintain reasonable functional ability in performing daily activities.

(c-2) For an insured with a medical condition that places the health of the insured in serious jeopardy without the prescription drug or drugs prescribed by the insured's health care professional, the step therapy protocol override determination shall be granted within twenty-four hours of the receipt of information that includes supporting rationale and documentation from a health care professional demonstrating one or more of the standards provided for in subsection (c-1) of this section.

(c-3) Upon a determination that the step therapy protocol should be overridden, the health care plan shall authorize immediate coverage for the prescription drug prescribed by the insured's treating health care professional. Any approval of a step therapy protocol override determination request shall be honored until the lesser of either treatment duration based on current evidence-based treatment guidelines or twelve months following the date of the approval of the request or renewal of the insured's coverage.

(d) A utilization review agent shall make a utilization review determination involving health care services which have been delivered within thirty days of receipt of the necessary information.

(e) (1) Notice of an adverse determination made by a utilization review agent shall be in writing and must include:

(i) the reasons for the determination including the clinical rationale, if any;

(ii) instructions on how to initiate standard appeals and expedited appeals pursuant to section four thousand nine hundred four and an external appeal pursuant to section four thousand nine hundred fourteen of this article;

(iii) notice of the availability, upon request of the insured, or the insured's designee, of the clinical review criteria relied upon to make such determination. Such notice shall also specify what, if any, additional necessary information must be provided to, or obtained by, the utilization review agent in order to render a decision on the appeal; and

(iv) for an adverse determination related to a step therapy protocol override request, information that includes the clinical review criteria relied upon to make such determination and any applicable alternative prescription drugs subject to the step therapy protocol of the utilization review agent.

(2) A utilization review agent may provide notice of an adverse determination related to a step therapy protocol override determination electronically pursuant to subsection (i) of this section, including by electronic mail or through the health care plan's member portal and provider portal. An electronic notice of such an adverse determination may meet the requirements of subparagraph (iv) of paragraph one of this subsection by linking to information posted on the website of the health care plan.

(f) In the event that a utilization review agent renders an adverse determination without attempting to discuss such matter with the insured's health care provider who specifically recommended the health care service, procedure or treatment under review, such health care provider shall have the opportunity to request a reconsideration of the adverse determination. Except in cases of retrospective reviews, such reconsideration shall occur within one business day of receipt of the request and shall be conducted by the insured's health care provider and the clinical peer reviewer making the initial determination or a designated clinical peer reviewer if the original clinical peer reviewer cannot be available. In the event that the adverse determination is upheld after reconsideration, the utilization review agent shall provide notice as required pursuant to subsection (e) of this section. Nothing in this section shall preclude the insured from initiating an appeal from an adverse determination.

(g) Failure by the utilization review agent to make a determination within the time periods prescribed in this section shall be deemed to be an adverse determination subject to appeal pursuant to section four thousand nine hundred four of this title, provided, however, that failure to meet such time periods for a step therapy protocol as defined in subsection (g-9) of section forty-nine hundred of this title or a step therapy protocol override determination pursuant to subsections (c-1), (c-2) and (c-3) of this section shall be deemed to be an override of the step therapy protocol. A utilization review agent's failure to comply with any of the step therapy protocol requirements required in paragraphs fifteen and sixteen of subsection (a) of section four thousand nine hundred two of this title shall be considered a basis for granting an override of the step therapy protocol, absent fraud.

(h) The superintendent, in conjunction with the commissioner of health, shall develop standards for prior authorization requests to be utilized by all health care plans for the purposes of submitting a request for a utilization review determination for coverage of prescription drug benefits under this article. The department and the department of health, in development of the standards, shall take into consideration existing electronic prior authorization standards including National Council for Prescription Drug Programs (NCPDP) electronic prior authorization standard transactions.

(i) A utilization review agent shall have procedures for obtaining an insured's, or insured's designee's, preference for receiving notifications, which shall be in accordance with applicable federal law and with guidance developed by the superintendent. Written and telephone notification to an insured or the insured's designee under this section may be provided by electronic means where the insured or the insured's designee has informed the utilization review agent in advance of a preference to receive such notifications by electronic means. A utilization review agent shall permit the insured and the insured's designee to change the preference at any time. To the extent practicable, such written and telephone notification to the insured's health care provider shall be transmitted electronically, in a manner and in a form agreed upon by the parties. The utilization review agent shall retain documentation of preferred notification methods and present such records to the superintendent upon request.

§ 4904. Appeal of adverse determinations by utilization review agents. (a) An insured, the insured's designee and, in connection with retrospective adverse determinations, an insured's health care provider, may appeal an adverse determination rendered by a utilization review agent.

(a-1) An insured or the insured's designee may appeal an out-of-network denial by a health care plan by submitting: (1) a written statement from the insured's attending physician, who must be a licensed, board certified or board eligible physician qualified to practice in the specialty area of practice appropriate to treat the insured for the health services sought, that the requested out-of-network health service is materially different from the health service the health care plan approved to treat the insured's health care needs; and (2) two documents from the available medical and scientific evidence, that the out-of-network health service is likely to be more clinically beneficial to the insured than the alternate recommended in-network health service and for which the adverse risk of the requested health service would likely not be substantially increased over the in-network health service.

(a-2) An insured or the insured's designee may appeal an out-of-network referral denial by a health care plan by submitting a written statement from the insured's attending physician, who must be a licensed, board certified or board eligible physician qualified to practice in the specialty area of practice appropriate to treat the insured for the health service sought, provided that: (1) the in-network health care provider or providers recommended by the health care plan do not have the appropriate training and experience to meet the particular health care needs of the insured for the health service; and (2) recommends an out-of-network provider with the appropriate training and experience to meet the particular health care needs of the insured, and who is able to provide the requested health service.

* (b) A utilization review agent shall establish an expedited appeal process for appeal of an adverse determination involving (1) continued or extended health care services, procedures or treatments or additional services for an insured undergoing a course of continued treatment prescribed by a health care provider or home health care services following discharge from an inpatient hospital admission pursuant to subsection (c) of section four thousand nine hundred three of this title; (2) an adverse determination in which the health care provider believes an immediate appeal is warranted except any retrospective determination; or (3) potential court-ordered mental health and/or substance use disorder services pursuant to paragraph two of subsection (b) of section four thousand nine hundred three of this title. Such process shall include mechanisms which facilitate resolution of the appeal including but not limited to the sharing of information from the insured's health care provider and the utilization review agent by telephonic means or by facsimile. The utilization review agent shall provide reasonable access to its clinical peer reviewer within one business day of receiving notice of the taking of an expedited appeal. Expedited appeals shall be determined within two business days of receipt of necessary information to conduct such appeal except, with respect to inpatient substance use disorder treatment provided pursuant to paragraph three of subsection (c) of section four thousand nine hundred three of this title, expedited appeals shall be determined within twenty-four hours of receipt of such appeal. Expedited appeals which do not result in a resolution satisfactory to the appealing party may be further appealed through the standard appeal process, or through the external appeal process pursuant to section four thousand nine hundred fourteen of this article as applicable. Provided that the insured or the insured's health care provider files an expedited internal and external appeal within twenty-four hours from receipt of an adverse determination for inpatient substance use disorder treatment for which coverage was provided while the initial utilization review determination was pending pursuant to paragraph three of subsection (c) of section four thousand nine hundred three of this title, a utilization review agent shall not deny on the basis of medical necessity or lack of prior authorization such substance use disorder treatment while a determination by the utilization review agent or external appeal agent is pending.

* NB Effective until January 1, 2027

* (b) A utilization review agent shall establish an expedited appeal process for appeal of an adverse determination involving (1) continued or extended health care services, procedures or treatments or additional services for an insured undergoing a course of continued treatment prescribed by a health care provider or home health care services following discharge from an inpatient hospital admission pursuant to subsection (c) of section four thousand nine hundred three of this title; (2) an adverse determination in which the health care provider believes an immediate appeal is warranted except any retrospective determination; or (3) potential court-ordered mental health and/or substance-related and addictive disorder services pursuant to paragraph two of subsection (b) of section four thousand nine hundred three of this title. Such process shall include mechanisms which facilitate resolution of the appeal including but not limited to the sharing of information from the insured's health care provider and the utilization review agent by telephonic means or by facsimile. The utilization review agent shall provide reasonable access to its clinical peer reviewer within one business day of receiving notice of the taking of an expedited appeal. Expedited appeals shall be determined within two business days of receipt of necessary information to conduct such appeal except, with respect to inpatient substance-related and addictive disorder treatment provided pursuant to paragraph three of subsection (c) of section four thousand nine hundred three of this title, expedited appeals shall be determined within twenty-four hours of receipt of such appeal. Expedited appeals which do not result in a resolution satisfactory to the appealing party may be further appealed through the standard appeal process, or through the external appeal process pursuant to section four thousand nine hundred fourteen of this article as applicable. Provided that the insured or the insured's health care provider files an expedited internal and external appeal within twenty-four hours from receipt of an adverse determination for inpatient substance-related and addictive disorder treatment for which coverage was provided while the initial utilization review determination was pending pursuant to paragraph three of subsection (c) of section four thousand nine hundred three of this title, a utilization review agent shall not deny on the basis of medical necessity or lack of prior authorization such substance-related and addictive disorder treatment while a determination by the utilization review agent or external appeal agent is pending.

* NB Effective January 1, 2027

(c) A utilization review agent shall establish a standard appeal process which includes procedures for appeals to be filed in writing or by telephone. A utilization review agent must establish a period of no less than forty-five days after receipt of notification by the insured of the initial utilization review determination and receipt of all necessary information to file the appeal from said determination. The utilization review agent must provide written acknowledgment of the filing of the appeal to the appealing party within fifteen days of such filing and shall make a determination with regard to the appeal within thirty days of the receipt of necessary information to conduct the appeal and, upon overturning the adverse decision, shall comply with subsection (a) of section three thousand two hundred twenty-four-a of this chapter as applicable. The utilization review agent shall notify the insured, the insured's designee and, where appropriate, the insured's health care provider, in writing of the appeal determination within two business days of the rendering of such determination.

The notice of the appeal determination shall include:

(1) the reasons for the determination; provided, however, that where the adverse determination is upheld on appeal, the notice shall include the clinical rationale for such determination; and

(2) a notice of the insured's right to an external appeal together with a description, jointly promulgated by the superintendent and the commissioner of health as required pursuant to subsection (e) of section four thousand nine hundred fourteen of this article, of the external appeal process established pursuant to title two of this article and the time frames for such external appeals. A utilization review agent shall have procedures for obtaining an insured's, or insured's designee's, preference for receiving notifications, which shall be in accordance with applicable federal law and with guidance developed by the superintendent. Written and telephone notification to an insured or the insured's designee under this section may be provided by electronic means where the insured or the insured's designee has informed the insurer in advance of a preference to receive such notifications by electronic means. A utilization review agent shall permit the insured and the insured's designee to change the preference at any time. To the extent practicable, written and telephone notification to the insured's health care provider shall be transmitted electronically, in a manner and in a form agreed upon by the parties. The utilization review agent shall retain documentation of preferred notification methods and present such records to the superintendent upon request.

(d) Both expedited and standard appeals shall only be conducted by clinical peer reviewers, provided that any such appeal shall be reviewed by a clinical peer reviewer other than the clinical peer reviewer who rendered the adverse determination.

(e) Failure by the utilization review agent to make a determination within the applicable time periods in this section shall be deemed to be a reversal of the utilization review agent's adverse determination.

§ 4905. Required and prohibited practices. (a) Each utilization review agent shall have written procedures for assuring that patient-specific information obtained during the process of utilization review will be:

(1) kept confidential in accordance with applicable state and federal laws; and

(2) shared only with the insured, the insured's designee, the insured's health care provider and those who are authorized by law to receive such information.

(b) Summary data shall not be considered confidential if it does not provide information to allow identification of individual patients.

(c) Any health care professional who makes determinations regarding the medical necessity of health care services during the course of utilization review shall be appropriately licensed, registered or certified.

(d) A utilization review agent shall not, with respect to utilization review activities, permit or provide compensation or anything of value to its employees, agents, or contractors based on:

(1) either a percentage of the amount by which a claim is reduced for payment or the number of claims or the cost of services for which the person has denied authorization or payment; or

(2) any other method that encourages the rendering of an adverse determination.

(e) If a health care service has been specifically preauthorized or approved for an insured by a utilization review agent, a utilization review agent shall not pursuant to retrospective review revise or modify the specific standards, criteria or procedures used for the utilization review for procedures, treatment and services delivered to the insured, during the same course of treatment.

* (f) Utilization review shall not be conducted more frequently than is reasonably required to assess whether the health care services under review are medically necessary.

* NB Effective until January 1, 2027

* (f) Utilization review shall not be conducted more frequently than is reasonably required to assess whether the health care services under review are medically necessary provided, however, that utilization review shall not be conducted more than once per year for an outpatient course of treatment for a chronic health condition starting from the date of a pre-authorization approval for the course of treatment unless the insured's attending provider recommends a change to the course of treatment, then utilization review may be conducted for the new course of treatment. Any new treatment, testing or procedures related to the specific medical problem, condition, or illness being managed but not already included in the approved course of treatment may be subject to a separate pre-authorization.

* NB Effective January 1, 2027

(g) When making prospective, concurrent and retrospective determinations, utilization review agents shall collect only such information as is necessary to make such determination and shall not routinely require health care providers to numerically code diagnoses or procedures to be considered for certification or routinely request copies of medical records of all patients reviewed. During prospective or concurrent review, copies of medical records shall only be required when necessary to verify that the health care services subject to such review are medically necessary. In such cases, only the necessary or relevant sections of the medical record shall be required. A utilization review agent may request copies of partial or complete medical records retrospectively.

(h) In no event shall information be obtained from the health care providers for the use of the utilization review agent by persons other than health care professionals, medical record technologists or administrative personnel who have received appropriate training.

(i) The utilization review agent shall not undertake utilization review at the site of the provision of health care services unless the utilization review agent:

(1) Identifies himself or herself by name and the name of his or her organization, including displaying photographic identification which includes the name of the utilization review agent and clearly identifies the individual as representative of the utilization review agent;

(2) Whenever possible, schedules review at least one business day in advance with the appropriate health care provider;

(3) If requested by a health care provider, assures that the on-site review staff register with the appropriate contact person, if available, prior to requesting any clinical information or assistance from the health care provider; and

(4) Obtains consent from the insured or the insured's designee before interviewing the patient's family, or observing any health care service being provided to the insured.

(5) This subsection shall not apply to health care professionals engaged in providing care or case management or making on-site discharge decisions.

(j) A utilization review agent shall not base an adverse determination on a refusal to consent to observing any health care service.

(k) A utilization review agent shall not base an adverse determination on lack of reasonable access to a health care provider's medical or treatment records unless the utilization review agent has provided reasonable notice to the insured, the insured's designee or the insured's health care provider, in which case the insured must be notified, and has complied with all provisions of subsection (i) of this section.

(l) Neither the utilization review agent nor the entity for which the agent provides utilization review shall take any action with respect to a patient or a health care provider that is intended to penalize such insured, the insured's designee, or the insured's health care provider for, or to discourage such insured, the insured's designee, or the insured's health care provider from undertaking an appeal, dispute resolution or judicial review of an adverse determination.

(m) In no event shall an insured, an insured's designee, an insured's health care provider, any other health care provider, or any other person or entity be required to inform or contact the utilization review agent prior to the provision of emergency care, including emergency treatment or emergency admission.

(n) No contract or agreement between a utilization review agent and a health care provider shall contain any clause purporting to transfer to the health care provider by indemnification or otherwise any liability relating to activities, actions or omissions of the utilization review agent as opposed to the health care provider.

(o) A health care professional providing health care services to an insured shall be prohibited from serving as the clinical peer reviewer for such insured in connection with the health care services being provided to the insured.

§ 4906. Waiver. (a) Any agreement which purports to waive, limit, disclaim, or in any way diminish the rights set forth in this article, except as provided pursuant to section four thousand nine hundred ten of this article shall be void as contrary to public policy.

(b) Notwithstanding subsection (a) of this section, in lieu of the external appeal process as set forth in this article, a health care plan and a facility licensed pursuant to article twenty-eight of the public health law may agree to an alternative dispute resolution mechanism to resolve disputes otherwise subject to this article.

§ 4907. Rights and remedies. The rights and remedies conferred in this article upon insureds and health care providers shall be cumulative and in addition to and not in lieu of any other rights or remedies available under law.

§ 4908. Applicability to ERISA Plans. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the provisions of this article shall not apply to any utilization review conducted by, or on behalf of, a self-insured employee welfare benefit plan, as defined in the employee retirement income security act of 1974, as amended.

§ 4909. Site of service clinical review. (a) For purposes of this section:

(1) "Free-standing ambulatory surgical center" shall mean a diagnostic and treatment center authorized pursuant to article twenty-eight of the public health law and operated independently from a hospital.

(2) "Health care plan" shall mean an insurer, a corporation organized pursuant to article forty-three of this chapter, a health maintenance organization certified pursuant to article forty-four of the public health law, a municipal cooperative health benefit plan certified pursuant to article forty-seven of this chapter, and a student health plan established or maintained pursuant to section one thousand one hundred twenty-four of this chapter, that issues a health insurance policy or contract or that arranges for care and services for members under a contract with the department of health with a network of health care providers and utilizes site of service clinical review to determine coverage for services delivered by network participating providers.

(3) "Hospital-based outpatient clinic" shall mean a clinic authorized pursuant to article twenty-eight of the public health law and listed on a hospital's operating certificate.

(4) "Site of service clinical review" shall mean clinical criteria applied by a health care plan for the purpose of determining whether non-urgent outpatient medical procedures and surgeries will be covered for a given insured or enrollee when rendered by a network participating provider at a hospital-based outpatient clinic rather than a free-standing ambulatory surgical center.

(b) Site of service clinical review shall be deemed utilization review in accordance with and subject to the requirements and protections of this article and article forty-nine of the public health law, including the right to internal and external appeal of denials related to site of service clinical review.

(c) Site of service clinical review shall consider the insured's health and safety, choice of health care provider, and timely access to care and shall not be based solely on cost.

(d) A health care plan that utilizes site of service clinical review that is intended to direct insureds and enrollees to free-standing ambulatory surgical centers shall be able to demonstrate to the department or, as applicable, to the department of health, that it has an adequate network of free-standing ambulatory surgical center providers to meet the health needs of insureds and enrollees and to provide an appropriate choice of providers sufficient to render the services covered under the policy or contract. Such network shall be in compliance with network adequacy standards established by the superintendent and section three thousand two hundred forty-one of this chapter.

(e) Except as provided in subsection (g) of this section, starting January first, two thousand twenty-four, a health care plan that utilizes a site of service clinical review shall deliver a notice disclosing and clearly explaining the site of service clinical review to:

(1) policyholders, contract holders, insureds, and enrollees and prospective policyholders, contract holders, insureds, and enrollees at the time of plan and policy or contract selection and at least ninety days prior to the implementation of new site of service clinical review or modification of existing site of service clinical review. Such notice shall include the specific services under the site of service review policy, a statement that site of service clinical review may limit the settings in which services covered under the policy or contract may be provided and render a network participating provider unable to perform a service; shall disclose to insureds or enrollees any quality or cost differential, including differences in out-of-pocket costs, between the hospital-based outpatient clinic and the free-standing ambulatory surgical center when services at a hospital-based outpatient clinic are requested; and shall set forth any rights the insured or enrollee may have to obtain the service at a hospital-based outpatient clinic through a utilization review appeal. Notifications shall also be made at any other time upon the insured's or enrollee's request;

(2) network participating providers at least ninety days prior to implementation. A health care plan shall also inform providers of the process for requesting coverage of a service in a hospital-based outpatient clinic setting, including the right to request a real time clinical peer to peer discussion as part of the authorization process; and

(3) the superintendent and, as applicable, to the commissioner of health, at least forty-five days prior to notifying policyholders, contract holders, insureds and enrollees and prospective policyholders, contract holders, insureds and enrollees and network participating providers in accordance with this subsection. Such notice to the superintendent and, as applicable, to the commissioner of health, shall include (A) draft communications to the foregoing persons for purposes of complying with this subsection and (B) an explanation of how the site of service clinical review selected by the health care plan complies with this article and article forty-nine of the public health law.

(f) A health care plan's provider directory shall explain that even though a provider is participating in the network, a site of service clinical review may affect where services will need to be obtained and whether the provider will be available to provide such service, as applicable.

(g) A health care plan that has implemented site of service clinical review prior to January first, two thousand twenty-four that is not in compliance with this section shall revise such site of service clinical review to comply with this section and deliver the notices required under subsection (e) of this section at the beginning of the open enrollment period for individual health insurance policies and contracts, and for group health insurance policies and contracts, prior to January first, two thousand twenty-four.

(h) Starting January first, two thousand twenty-four, at a minimum, a health care plan shall approve a request for authorization for a service covered under the policy or contract and requested to be performed by a network participating provider at a hospital-based outpatient clinic in the following situations:

(1) the procedure cannot be safely performed in a free-standing ambulatory surgical center due to the insured's or enrollee's health condition;

(2) there is no free-standing ambulatory surgical center capacity in the insured's or enrollee's geographic area; or

(3) the provision of health care services at a free-standing ambulatory surgical center would result in undue delay.

(i) Starting January first, two thousand twenty-four, site of service clinical review criteria developed by health care plans shall also take into consideration whether:

(1) the insured's or enrollee's treating network participating provider recommends, based on a written clinical justification submitted to the health care plan, that the service be provided at a hospital-based outpatient clinic; or

(2) the insured or enrollee has requested a particular network participating provider who performs the requested service in a hospital-based outpatient clinic because the insured or enrollee is undergoing a continuing course of treatment with the participating provider or because the insured has previously obtained the requested service from the participating provider, and the provider is not credentialed at any free-standing ambulatory surgical center in the service area and is not able to be credentialed within ninety days following the submission of the authorization request to the health care plan.

TITLE II

RIGHT TO EXTERNAL APPEAL

Section 4910. Right to external appeal established.
4911. Powers of the superintendent.

4912. Standards for certification.
4913. Conflict of interest.
4914. Procedures for external appeals of adverse determinations.
4915. Prohibited practices.
4916. Oversight and surveillance of the external appeal process.
4917. Hold harmless.

§ 4910. Right to external appeal established. (a) There is hereby established an insured's right to an external appeal of a final adverse determination by a health plan.

(b) An insured, the insured's designee and, in connection with concurrent and retrospective adverse determinations, an insured's health care provider, shall have the right to request an external appeal when:

(1) (A) the insured has had coverage of the health care service, which would otherwise be a covered benefit under a subscriber contract or governmental health benefit program, denied on appeal, in whole or in part, pursuant to title one of this article on the grounds that such health care service does not meet the health care plan's requirements for medical necessity, appropriateness, health care setting, level of care, effectiveness of a covered benefit, or other ground consistent with 42 U.S.C. § 300gg-19 as determined by the superintendent, and

(B) the health care plan has rendered a final adverse determination with respect to such health care service or both the plan and the insured have jointly agreed to waive any internal appeal, or the insured is deemed to have exhausted or is not required to complete any internal appeal pursuant to section 2719 of the Public Health Service Act, 42 U.S.C. § 300gg-19; or

(2) (A) the insured has had coverage of a health care service denied on the basis that such service is experimental or investigational, and such denial has been upheld on appeal under title one of this article, or both the plan and the insured have jointly agreed to waive any internal appeal, or the insured is deemed to have exhausted or is not required to complete any internal appeal pursuant to section 2719 of the Public Health Service Act, 42 U.S.C. § 300gg-19, and

(B) the insured's attending physician has certified that the insured has a condition or disease (a) for which standard health services or procedures have been ineffective or would be medically inappropriate, or (b) for which there does not exist a more beneficial standard health service or procedure covered by the health care plan, or (c) for which there exists a clinical trial or rare disease treatment, and

(C) the insured's attending physician, who must be a licensed, board-certified or board-eligible physician qualified to practice in the area of practice appropriate to treat the insured's condition or disease, must have recommended either (a) a health service or procedure (including a pharmaceutical product within the meaning of subparagraph (B) of paragraph two of subsection (e) of section four thousand nine hundred of this article) that, based on two documents from the available medical and scientific evidence, is likely to be more beneficial to the insured than any covered standard health service or procedure or, in the case of a rare disease, based on the physician's certification required by subsection (g-7) of section four thousand nine hundred of this article and such other evidence as the insured, the insured's designee or the insured's attending physician may present, that the requested health service or procedure is likely to benefit the insured in the treatment of the insured's rare disease and that such benefit to the insured outweighs the risks of such health service or procedure; or (b) a clinical trial for which the insured is eligible. Any physician certification provided under this section shall include a statement of the evidence relied upon by the physician in certifying his or her recommendation, and

(D) the specific health service or procedure recommended by the attending physician would otherwise be covered under the policy except for the health care plan's determination that the health service or procedure is experimental or investigational; or

(3)(A) the insured has had coverage of the health service (other than a clinical trial to which paragraph two of this subsection shall apply), which would otherwise be a covered benefit under a subscriber contract or governmental health benefit program, denied on appeal, in whole or in part, pursuant to title one of this article on the grounds that such health service is out-of-network and an alternate recommended treatment is available in-network, and the health plan has rendered a final adverse determination with respect to an out-of-network denial or both the health plan and the insured have jointly agreed to waive any internal appeal; and

(B) the insured's attending physician, who shall be a licensed, board certified or board eligible physician qualified to practice in the specialty area of practice appropriate to treat the insured for the health service sought, certifies that the out-of-network health service is materially different than the alternate recommended in-network health service, and recommends a health service that, based on two documents from the available medical and scientific evidence, is likely to be more clinically beneficial than the alternate recommended in-network treatment and the adverse risk of the requested health service would likely not be substantially increased over the alternate recommended in-network health service.

(4)(A) The insured has had an out-of-network referral denied on the grounds that the health care plan has a health care provider in the in-network benefits portion of its network with appropriate training and experience to meet the particular health care needs of an insured, and who is able to provide the requested health service.

(B) The insured's attending physician, who shall be a licensed, board certified or board eligible physician qualified to practice in the specialty area of practice appropriate to treat the insured for the health service sought, certifies that the in-network health care provider or providers recommended by the health care plan do not have the appropriate training and experience to meet the particular health care needs of an insured, and recommends an out-of-network provider with the appropriate training and experience to meet the particular health care needs of an insured, and who is able to provide the requested health service.
