and prosecuted in this state, would constitute a similar crime under this chapter, within the preceding five years, or an employee of such applicant was, in his capacity as a person under a duty to file a return under or pursuant to the authority of this article or pay the taxes imposed by or pursuant to the authority of this article on behalf of any person, convicted of a crime provided for in this chapter or has been convicted under the tax laws or penal laws of any other state, or a political subdivision of this state or such other state, or of the United States of a criminal offense which, if committed and prosecuted in this state, would constitute a similar crime under this chapter, within the preceding five years, (e) such applicant, or an officer, director or partner of such applicant, shareholder directly or indirectly owning more than ten percent of the number of shares of stock of such applicant (where such applicant is a corporation) entitling the holder thereof to vote for the election of directors or trustees, or employee or shareholder of such applicant under a duty to file a return under or pursuant to the authority of this article or to pay the taxes imposed by or pursuant to the authority of this article on behalf of such applicant, who was an officer, director or partner of another person, or who directly or indirectly owned more than ten percent of the number of shares of stock of another person (where such other person is a corporation) entitling the holder thereof to vote for the election of directors or trustees, or who was an employee or shareholder of another person under a duty to file a return under or pursuant to the authority of this article or pay the taxes imposed by or pursuant to the authority of this article on behalf of such other person at the time any tax imposed under this chapter or any related statute as defined in section eighteen hundred of this chapter was finally determined to be due from such other person and where such tax has not been paid in full, or at the time such other person was convicted of a crime provided for in this chapter or has been convicted under the tax laws or penal laws of any other state, or a political subdivision of this state or such other state, or of the United State of a criminal offense which, if committed and prosecuted in this state, would constitute a similar crime under this chapter, within the preceding five years or at the time the license of such other person was cancelled or suspended pursuant to subdivision four of this section within the preceding five years, or at the time such other person committed any of the acts or omissions which are, or was convicted as, specified in subdivision four of this section within the preceding five years, provided, however, where an applicant or such officer, director, partner, shareholder or employee of such applicant was only an employee of another person, the applicable examination of tax payment history of such other person shall be limited to the taxes imposed by this article or by or pursuant to article twenty-eight or twenty-nine of this chapter with respect to motor fuel and the applicable examination of prior criminal convictions shall be limited to those which relate to motor fuel, (f) the license of such applicant or of an officer, director or partner of such applicant, shareholder directly or indirectly owning more than ten percent of the number of shares of stock of such applicant (where such applicant is a corporation) entitling the holder thereof to vote for the election of directors or trustees, or employee or shareholder of such applicant under a duty to file a return under or pursuant to the authority of this article or to pay the taxes imposed by or pursuant to the authority of this article on behalf of such applicant has been cancelled or suspended pursuant to subdivision four of this section within the preceding five years, or (g) the applicant, an officer, director or partner of the applicant, a shareholder directly or indirectly owning more than ten percent of the number of shares of stock of such applicant (where such applicant is a corporation) entitling the holder thereof to vote for the election of directors or trustees, or an employee or shareholder of such applicant under a duty to file a return under or pursuant to the authority of this article or to pay the taxes imposed by or pursuant to the authority of this article on behalf of the applicant, has committed any of the acts or omissions which are, or was convicted as, specified in subdivision four of this section within the preceding five years, the commissioner may refuse to register such applicant.

3. The commissioner may require a transporter seeking licensing to file with the department a bond issued by a surety company approved by the superintendent of financial services as to solvency and responsibility and authorized to transact business in this state or other security acceptable to the commissioner, in such amount as the commissioner may fix, in an amount determined in accordance with rules and regulations prescribed by the commissioner, to secure the performance by such transporter of the duties and responsibilities required (i) pursuant to this article and (ii) pursuant to articles twenty-eight and twenty-nine of this chapter with respect to motor fuel. The commissioner may require that such a bond or other security be filed before a transporter is licensed, and the amount thereof may be increased at any time when in the commissioner's judgment the same is necessary. If securities are deposited as security under this subdivision, such securities shall be kept in the joint custody of the comptroller and the commissioner and may be sold by the commissioner if it becomes necessary so to do in order to recover against such transporter but no such sale shall be had until after such transporter shall have had opportunity to litigate the validity of the liability if it elects so to do. Upon any such sale the surplus, if any, above the sums due shall be returned to such transporter. The department, when authorized by the transporter, shall furnish information regarding the transporter's license and any other information which the transporter authorizes it to disclose.

4. The license of any importing or exporting transporter may be cancelled or suspended by the commissioner where a licensee, or an officer, director, shareholder, employee or partner of the licensee who as such officer, director, shareholder, employee or partner is under a duty to act for such licensee or any shareholder directly or indirectly owning more than ten percent of the number of shares of stock of the licensee (where such licensee is a corporation) entitling the holder thereof to vote for the election of directors or trustees of such licensee, fails to file a bond or other security when required or when the amount thereof is increased, or fails to comply with any of the provisions of this article or article twenty-eight of this chapter with respect to motor fuel or any rule or regulation with respect to motor fuel adopted pursuant to such articles by the department or by the commissioner, or knowingly aids and abets another person in violating any of the provisions of such articles or of any such rule or regulation with respect to motor fuel, or transfers its license as an importing transporter or exporting transporter. A license may also be cancelled or suspended if the commissioner determines that a licensee or an officer, director, shareholder, employee or partner of the licensee who as such officer, director, shareholder, employee or partner is under a duty to act for such licensee or any shareholder directly or indirectly owning more than ten percent of the number of shares of stock of the licensee (where such licensee is a corporation) entitling the holder thereof to vote for the election of directors or trustees of such licensee:

(i) commits fraud or deceit in his operations as a transporter or has committed fraud or deceit in procuring his license;

(ii) has been convicted in a court of competent jurisdiction, either within or without the state, of a felony, as defined under subdivision eight of section two hundred eighty-three of this article, bearing on such transporter's duties and obligations under this chapter;

(iii) has knowingly aided and abetted a person who is not registered as a distributor in the importation, production, refining, manufacture or compounding of motor fuel; or

(iv) has knowingly aided and abetted the distribution of motor fuel imported, caused to be imported, produced, refined, manufactured or compounded by a distributor who is not registered by the department.

A license may also be cancelled or suspended if the commissioner determines that a licensee or an officer, director, shareholder, employee or partner of the licensee who as such officer, director, shareholder, employee or partner is under a duty to act for such licensee or any shareholder directly or indirectly owning more than ten percent of the number of shares of stock of the licensee (where such licensee is a corporation) entitling the holder thereof to vote for the election of directors or trustees of such licensee, was an officer, director, shareholder, employee or partner of another person who as such officer, director, shareholder, employee or partner was under a duty to act for such other person or was a shareholder directly or indirectly owning more than ten percent of the number of shares of stock of such other person (where such other person is a corporation) entitling the holder thereof to vote for the election of directors or trustees of such other person at the time such other person committed any of the acts or omissions which are, or was convicted as, specified in this subdivision within the preceding five years.

5. A license shall not be cancelled or suspended nor shall an application for a license be refused unless the licensee or applicant for a license has had an opportunity for a hearing, provided, however, that an application for a license may be denied without a prior hearing. Provided, further, a license may be cancelled or suspended without a prior hearing, for failure to file a return or report within ten days of the date prescribed for filing under this article or for nonpayment of any sums due pursuant to this article or article twenty-eight or twenty-nine of this chapter with respect to motor fuel if the licensee shall have failed to file such return or report or pay such sums within ten days after the date the demand therefor is sent by registered or certified mail to the address of the transporter given in his application for a license, or an address substituted therefor as in this subdivision. A license may also be cancelled or suspended prior to a hearing for the failure to continue to maintain in full force and effect at all times the bond or other security filed with the commissioner. Provided, however, if a surety bond is cancelled prior to expiration, the commissioner, after considering all the relevant circumstances, may make such other arrangements and require the filing of such other bond or other security as the commissioner deems appropriate. Provided, further, a license may be cancelled or suspended prior to a hearing for the transfer of such license. A transporter shall immediately inform the department, in writing, of any change in its address and, if the transporter is a corporation or partnership, the transporter shall immediately inform the department, in writing, of any change in its officers, directors or partners or their residence addresses as shown in its application for a license.

6. The provisions of subdivisions six, eight, nine and ten of section two hundred eighty-three of this article shall apply to the provisions of this section in the same manner and with the same force and effect as if the language of these subdivisions had been incorporated in full into this section and had expressly referred to the importing transporter's license or the exporting transporter's license under this section, except to the extent that any such provision is either inconsistent with a provision of this section or is not relevant to this section.

§ 283-b. Licensing of terminal operators. 1. The department of taxation and finance, upon the application of a person who operates a facility where motor fuel is deposited, shall license such person as a terminal operator under this article except as otherwise provided in this section. The application shall be in a form and contain such information as the department of taxation and finance shall prescribe. No person, unless so licensed, shall operate a terminal, except that a person may operate a terminal without a license if all of the motor fuel stored in such facility is solely for such person's own use and consumption.

2. Where a person files an application for a license under this section and in considering such application the commissioner ascertains that (a) any tax imposed under this chapter or any related statute as defined in section eighteen hundred of this chapter has been finally determined to be due from such applicant or from any officer, director or partner of such applicant, shareholder directly or indirectly owning more than ten percent of the number of shares of stock of such applicant (where such applicant is a corporation) entitling the holder thereof to vote for the election of directors or trustees, or any shareholder or employee of such applicant under a duty to act for such applicant in complying with any requirement of this article, and has not been paid in full, (b) a liability for the penalty provided for under subdivision two of section two hundred eighty-nine-b of this article has been finally determined to be due from an officer, director, shareholder directly or indirectly owning more than ten percent of the number of shares of stock of such applicant (where such applicant is a corporation) entitling the holder thereof to vote for the election of directors or trustees, employee or partner of such applicant or a shareholder of such applicant under a duty to act for such applicant in complying with any requirement of this article, and has not been paid in full, (c) such applicant has been convicted of a crime provided for in this chapter or has been convicted under the tax laws or penal laws of any other state, or a political subdivision of this state or such other state, or of the United States of a criminal offense which, if committed and prosecuted in this state, would constitute a similar crime under this chapter, within the preceding five years, (d) an officer, director or partner of such applicant, a shareholder directly or indirectly owning more than ten percent of the number of shares of stock of such applicant (where such applicant is a corporation) entitling the holder thereof to vote for the election of directors or trustees, or an employee or shareholder of such applicant who, as such employee or shareholder, is under a duty to act for such applicant in complying with any requirement of this article, has been convicted of a crime provided for in this chapter or has been convicted under the tax laws or penal laws of any other state, or a political subdivision of this state or such other state, or of the United States of a criminal offense which, if committed and prosecuted in this state, would constitute a similar crime under this chapter, within the preceding five years, (e) such applicant, or an officer, director or partner of such applicant, shareholder directly or indirectly owning more than ten percent of the number of shares of stock of such applicant (where such applicant is a corporation) entitling the holder thereof to vote for the election of directors or trustees, or employee or shareholder of such applicant under a duty to act for such applicant in complying with any requirement of this article, who was an officer, director or partner of another person, or who directly or indirectly owned more than ten percent of the number of shares of stock of another person (where such other person is a corporation) entitling the holder thereof to vote for the election of directors or trustees, or who was an employee or shareholder of another person under a duty to act for such other person in complying with any requirement of this article at the time any tax imposed under this chapter or any related statute as defined in section eighteen hundred of this chapter was finally determined to be due with respect from such other person and where such tax has not been paid in full, or at the time such other person was convicted of a crime provided for in this chapter or has been convicted under the tax laws or penal laws of any other state, or a political subdivision of this state or such other state, or of the United States of a criminal offense which, if committed and prosecuted in this state, would constitute a similar crime under this chapter, within the preceding five years, or at the time the registration of such other person was cancelled or suspended pursuant to subdivision four of this section within the preceding five years, or at the time such other person committed any of the acts or omissions which are, or was convicted as, specified in subdivision four of this section within the preceding five years, provided, however, where an applicant or such officer, director, partner, shareholder or employee of such applicant was only an employee of another person, the applicable examination of tax payment history of such other person shall be limited to the taxes imposed by this article or by or pursuant to article twenty-eight or twenty-nine of this chapter with respect to motor fuel and the applicable examination of prior criminal convictions shall be limited to those which relate to motor fuel, (f) the license of such applicant or of an officer, director or partner of such applicant, shareholder directly or indirectly owning more than ten percent of the number of shares of stock of such applicant (where such applicant is a corporation) entitling the holder thereof to vote for the election of directors or trustees, or employee or shareholder of such applicant under a duty to act for such applicant in complying with any requirement of this article has been cancelled or suspended pursuant to subdivision four of this section within the preceding five years, or (g) the applicant, an officer, director or partner of the applicant, a shareholder directly or indirectly owning more than ten percent of the number of shares of stock of such applicant (where such applicant is a corporation) entitling the holder thereof to vote for the election of directors or trustees, or an employee or shareholder of such applicant under a duty to act for such applicant in complying with any requirement of this article, has committed any of the acts or omissions which are, or was convicted as, specified in subdivision four of this section within the preceding five years, the commissioner may refuse to grant such applicant a license.

3. The tax commission may require a terminal operator to file with the department of taxation and finance a bond issued by a surety company approved by the superintendent of financial services as to solvency and responsibility and authorized to transact business in this state or other security acceptable to the tax commission, in such amount as the tax commission may fix, in an amount determined in accordance with rules and regulations prescribed by it, to secure the performance by such terminal operator of the duties and responsibilities required (i) pursuant to this article and (ii) pursuant to articles twenty-eight and twenty-nine of this chapter with respect to motor fuel. The tax commission may require that such a bond or other security be filed before a terminal operator is licensed, and the amount thereof may be increased at any time when in its judgment the same is necessary. If securities are deposited as security under this subdivision, such securities shall be kept in the joint custody of the comptroller and the commissioner of taxation and finance and may be sold by the tax commission if it becomes necessary so to do in order to recover against such terminal operator but no such sale shall be had until after such terminal operator shall have had opportunity to litigate the validity of the liability if it elects so to do. Upon any such sale the surplus, if any, above the sums due shall be returned to such terminal operator. The department, when authorized by the terminal operator, shall furnish information regarding the terminal operator's license and any other information which the terminal operator authorizes it to disclose.

4. The license of any terminal operator may be cancelled or suspended by the commissioner where a licensee, or an officer, director, shareholder, employee or partner of the registrant who as such officer, director, shareholder, employee or partner is under a duty to act for such licensee or any shareholder directly or indirectly owning more than ten percent of the number of shares of stock of the licensee (where such licensee is a corporation) entitling the holder thereof to vote for the election of directors or trustees of such licensee, fails to file a bond or other security when required or when the amount thereof is increased, or fails to comply with any of the provisions of this article or article twenty-eight of this chapter with respect to motor fuel or any rule or regulation with respect to motor fuel adopted pursuant to such articles by the department of taxation and finance or by the commissioner or, knowingly aids and abets another person in violating any of the provisions of such articles or of any such rule or regulation with respect to motor fuel, or transfers its license as a terminal operator. A license may also be cancelled or suspended if the commissioner determines that a licensee or an officer, director, shareholder, employee or partner of the licensee who as such officer, director, shareholder, employee or partner is under a duty to act for such licensee or any shareholder directly or indirectly owning more than ten percent of the number of shares of stock of the licensee (where such licensee is a corporation) entitling the holder thereof to vote for the election of directors or trustees of such licensee:

(i) commits fraud or deceit in his operations as a terminal operator or has committed fraud or deceit in procuring his license;

(ii) has been convicted in a court of competent jurisdiction, either within or without the state, of a felony, within the meaning of subdivision eight of section two hundred eighty-three of this article, bearing on such terminal operator's duties and obligations under this chapter;

(iii) has knowingly aided and abetted a person who is not registered as a distributor in the importation, production, refining, manufacture or compounding of motor fuel; or

(iv) has knowingly aided and abetted the distribution of motor fuel which he has knowledge of as being imported, caused to be imported, produced, refined, manufactured or compounded by a distributor who is not registered by the department of taxation and finance.

A license may also be cancelled or suspended if the commissioner determines that a licensee or an officer, director, shareholder, employee or partner of the licensee who as such officer, director, shareholder, employee or partner is under a duty to act for such licensee or any shareholder directly or indirectly owning more than ten percent of the number of shares of stock of the licensee (where such licensee is a corporation) entitling the holder thereof to vote for the election of directors or trustees of such licensee, was an officer, director, shareholder, employee or partner of another person who as such officer, director, shareholder, employee or partner was under a duty to act for such other person or was a shareholder directly or indirectly owning more than ten percent of the number of shares of stock of such other person (where such other person is a corporation) entitling the holder thereof to vote for the election of directors or trustees of such other person at the time such other person committed any of the acts or omissions which are, or was convicted as, specified in this subdivision within the preceding five years.

5. A license shall not be cancelled or suspended nor shall an application for a license be refused unless the licensee or applicant for a license has had an opportunity for a hearing, provided, however, that an application for a license may be denied without a prior hearing. Provided, further, a license may be cancelled or suspended without a prior hearing, for failure to file a return or report within ten days of the date prescribed for filing under this article or nonpayment of any sums due pursuant to this article or article twenty-eight or twenty-nine of this chapter with respect to motor fuel if the licensee shall have failed to file such return or report or pay taxes within ten days after the date the demand therefor is sent by registered or certified mail to the address of the terminal operator given in his application for a license, or an address substituted therefor as in this subdivision. A license may be cancelled or suspended prior to a hearing for the failure to continue to maintain in full force and effect at all times the required bond or other security filed with the tax commission. Provided, however, if a surety bond is cancelled prior to expiration, the tax commission, after considering all the relevant circumstances, may make such other arrangements and require the filing of such other bond or other security as it deems appropriate. Provided, further, a license may be cancelled or suspended prior to a hearing for the transfer of such license. A terminal operator shall immediately inform the department, in writing, of any change in its address and, if the terminal operator is a corporation or partnership, the terminal operator shall immediately inform the department, in writing, of any change in its officers, directors or partners or their residence addresses as shown in its application for a license.

6. The provisions of subdivisions six, eight, nine and ten of section two hundred eighty-three of this article shall apply to the provisions of this section in the same manner and with the same force and effect as if the language of these subdivisions had been incorporated in full into this section and had expressly referred to the terminal operator's license under this section, except to the extent that any such provision is either inconsistent with a provision of this section or is not relevant to this section.

§ 283-c. Liquefied petroleum gas fuel permit. The department of taxation and finance, upon the application of a person importing, manufacturing or selling liquefied petroleum gas identified as a fuel for use in the operation of a motor vehicle or for use in the operation of a pleasure or recreational motor boat or using or consuming liquefied petroleum gas for such purpose, may issue such person a liquefied petroleum gas fuel permit in lieu of registration as a distributor of motor fuel pursuant to section two hundred eighty-three of this article, provided such person does not import motor fuel other than liquefied petroleum gas fuel or cause motor fuel other than liquefied petroleum gas fuel to be imported into the state for use, distribution, storage or sale in the state or produce, refine, manufacture or compound motor fuel other than liquefied petroleum gas fuel in the state. All the provisions of section two hundred eighty-three of this article shall apply to applicants for liquefied petroleum gas fuel permits under this section and to holders of liquefied petroleum gas fuel permits, provided that the commissioner of taxation and finance may waive the requirement that holders of liquefied petroleum gas fuel permits file a bond or other security. Holders of liquefied petroleum gas fuel permits shall be subject to all other provisions of this article and article twenty-eight of this chapter relating to distributors of motor fuel, including but not limited to, the keeping of records, the fixing, determination and payment of tax and filing of returns. A liquefied petroleum gas fuel permit applies only to the importation, manufacture, sale, use or consumption of liquefied petroleum gas fuel and shall not be considered a distributor registration under this chapter with respect to any motor fuel product other than liquefied petroleum gas. No holder of a liquefied petroleum gas fuel permit shall import or cause any motor fuel other than liquefied petroleum gas fuel to be imported into the state, for use, distribution, storage or sale within the state or shall produce, refine, manufacture or compound motor fuel other than liquefied petroleum gas fuel within the state.

§ 283-d. Registration of wholesalers of motor fuel. (a) Registration required. Each wholesaler of motor fuel must be registered with the department under this section. No wholesaler of motor fuel shall make a sale of motor fuel in this state other than a retail sale not in bulk unless such wholesaler is so registered. The department, upon the application of a person, shall register such person as a wholesaler of motor fuel except that the commissioner may refuse to register an applicant for any of the grounds specified in subdivision two or five of section two hundred eighty-three of this article or in subdivision (c) of this section. The application shall be in such form and contain such information as the commissioner shall prescribe. All of the provisions of subdivisions two, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine and ten of section two hundred eighty-three of this article relating to registration of distributors shall be applicable to the registration of wholesalers of motor fuel under this section with the same force and effect as if the language of such subdivisions had been incorporated in full in this section and had expressly referred to the registration of wholesalers of motor fuel, with such modification as may be necessary in order to adapt the language of such provisions to the provisions of this section, provided, specifically, that the term "distributor" shall be read as "wholesaler of motor fuel." Provided, however, that if the commissioner is satisfied that the requirements of such provisions for registration are not necessary in order to protect tax revenues, the commissioner may limit or modify such requirements with respect to any person not required to be registered as a distributor of motor fuel.

(b) Bond or other security. The commissioner may require a wholesaler of motor fuel seeking a registration to file with the department a bond issued by a surety company approved by the superintendent of financial services as to solvency and responsibility and authorized to transact business in this state or other security acceptable to the commissioner, in such amount as the commissioner may fix to secure the performance by such wholesaler of motor fuel of the duties and responsibilities required (i) pursuant to this article and (ii) pursuant to articles twenty-eight and twenty-nine of this chapter with respect to motor fuel. The commissioner may require that such a bond or other security be filed before a wholesaler of motor fuel is registered, and the amount thereof may be increased at any time when in the commissioner's judgment the same is necessary. If securities are deposited as security under this subdivision, such securities shall be kept in the joint custody of the comptroller and the commissioner and may be sold by the commissioner if it becomes necessary so to do in order to recover against such wholesaler of motor fuel but no such sale shall be had until after such wholesaler of motor fuel shall have had opportunity to litigate the validity of the liability if it elects to do so. Upon any such sale the surplus, if any, above the sums due shall be returned to such wholesaler of motor fuel. The department, when authorized by the wholesaler of motor fuel, shall furnish information regarding the registration of the wholesaler of motor fuel and any other information which the wholesaler of motor fuel authorizes it to disclose.

(c) Refusal to register. For the purposes of determining whether to refuse an application for registration under this section, the references in subdivision two of section two hundred eighty-three of this article to employees or shareholders under a duty to file a return under or pursuant to the authority of this article or pay the taxes imposed by or pursuant to the authority of this article on behalf of the applicant or another person shall be deemed to also include an employee under a duty to file a return or pay taxes under or pursuant to the authority of this article on behalf of such applicant or other person. In addition to the grounds specified in section two hundred eighty-three of this article, the commissioner may refuse to register an applicant where the commissioner ascertains that the applicant, an officer, director or partner of the applicant, a shareholder directly or indirectly owning more than ten percent of the number of shares of stock of such applicant (where such applicant is a corporation) entitling the holder thereof to vote for the election of directors or trustees, or an employee or shareholder of such applicant who, as such employee or shareholder is under a duty to file a return under or pursuant to the authority of this article or to pay the taxes imposed by or pursuant to the authority of this article on behalf of the applicant; (1) has committed any of the acts or omissions which are, or was convicted as, specified in subdivision (d) of this section within the preceding five years; or (2) was an officer, director or partner of another person, or who directly or indirectly owned more than ten percent of the shares of stock of another person (where such other person is a corporation) entitling the holder thereof to vote for the election of directors or trustees, or who was an employee or shareholder of another person under a duty to file a return under or pursuant to the authority of this article or pay the taxes imposed by or pursuant to the authority of this article on behalf of such other person at the time such other person committed any of the acts or omissions which are, or was convicted as, specified in subdivision (d) of this section within the preceding five years.

(d) Cancellation or suspension of registration. The grounds for a cancellation or suspension of a registration under this section as a wholesaler of motor fuel are the same as those grounds specified in section two hundred eighty-three of this article and, in addition to such grounds, the following grounds relating to this article shall apply:

(1) A registration as a wholesaler of motor fuel may be cancelled or suspended if the commissioner determines that a registrant or an officer, director or partner of the registrant, a shareholder directly or indirectly owning more than ten percent of the number of shares of stock of such registrant (where such registrant is a corporation) entitling the holder thereof to vote for the election of directors or trustees, or an employee or shareholder of such registrant under a duty to file a return under or pursuant to the authority of this article or to pay the taxes imposed by or pursuant to the authority of this article on behalf of the registrant

(A) fails to file or maintain in full force and effect a bond or other security when required pursuant to subdivision (b) of this section or when the amount thereof is increased,

(B) fails to comply with any of the provisions of this article or any rule or regulation adopted pursuant to this article by the commissioner,

(C) knowingly aids and abets another person in violating any of the provisions of this article or any rule or regulation adopted pursuant to this article by the commissioner,

(D) transfers its registration as a wholesaler of motor fuel without the prior written approval of the commissioner,

(E) with respect to a wholesaler of motor fuel which is a corporation, has been dissolved pursuant to section two hundred three-a and subdivision (d) of section three hundred ten of this chapter,

(F) commits fraud or deceit in his, her or its operations as a wholesaler of motor fuel or has committed fraud or deceit in procuring his, her or its registration,

(G) has impersonated any person represented to be a wholesaler of motor fuel under this article but not in fact registered as a wholesaler of motor fuel, or

(H) has knowingly aided and abetted the distribution of motor fuel, by any person which such registrant or such other person knows has not been registered by the commissioner as required under this article.

(2) A registration as a wholesaler of motor fuel may be cancelled or suspended if the commissioner determines that a registrant or an officer, director or partner of the registrant, a shareholder directly or indirectly owning more than ten percent of the number of shares of stock of such registrant (where such registrant is a corporation) entitling the holder thereof to vote for the election of directors or trustees, or an employee or shareholder of such registrant under a duty to file a return under or pursuant to the authority of this article or to pay the taxes imposed by or pursuant to the authority of this article on behalf of the registrant, was an officer, director or partner of another person or was a shareholder directly or indirectly owning more than ten percent of the number of shares of stock of another person (where such other person is a corporation) entitling the holder thereof to vote for the election of directors or trustees, or was an employee or shareholder of another person under a duty to file a return under or pursuant to the authority of this article or to pay the taxes imposed by or pursuant to the authority of this article on behalf of such other person at the time such other person committed any of the acts specified in paragraph one of this subdivision within the preceding five years.

(e) Cancellation or suspension of registration prior to a hearing. The grounds for cancelling or suspending a registration as a wholesaler of motor fuel prior to a hearing shall be the same as those specified in subdivision five of section two hundred eighty-three of this article and, in addition to such grounds, the following grounds relating to this article shall apply:

(1) the failure to file a return within ten days of the date prescribed for filing a return under this article if the registrant shall have failed to file such return within ten days after the date the demand therefor is sent by registered or certified mail to the address of the wholesaler of motor fuel given in its application, or an address substituted therefor as provided in subdivision five of section two hundred eighty-three of this article,

(2) the failure to continue to maintain in full force and effect at all times the bond or other security required to be filed pursuant to subdivision (b) of this section, provided, however, that if a surety bond is cancelled prior to expiration, the commissioner may after considering all the relevant circumstances make such other arrangements, and may require the filing of such other bond or other security as it deems appropriate,

(3) the transfer of a registration as a wholesaler of motor fuel without the prior written approval of the commissioner, or

(4) with respect to a wholesaler of motor fuel which is a corporation, the dissolution or annulment of such corporation pursuant to section three hundred ten of this chapter.

§ 284. Tax imposed. 1. There is hereby levied and imposed an excise tax of four cents per gallon upon motor fuel (a) imported into or caused to be imported into the state by a distributor for use, distribution, storage or sale in the state or upon motor fuel which is produced, refined, manufactured or compounded by a distributor in the state (which acts shall hereinafter in this subdivision be encompassed by the phrase "imported or manufactured") or (b) if the tax has not been imposed prior to its sale in this state, which is sold by a distributor (which act, in conjunction with the acts described in paragraph (a) of this subdivision, shall hereinafter in this article be encompassed by the phrase "imported, manufactured or sold"), except when imported, manufactured or sold under circumstances which preclude the collection of such tax by reason of the United States constitution and of laws of the United States enacted pursuant thereto or when imported or manufactured by an organization described in paragraph one or two of subdivision (a) of section eleven hundred sixteen of this chapter or a hospital included in the organizations described in paragraph four of such subdivision for its own use or consumption and except kero-jet fuel when imported or manufactured by an airline for use in its airplanes. Provided, further, no motor fuel shall be included in the measure of the tax unless it shall have previously come to rest within the meaning of federal decisional law interpreting the United States constitution. All tax for the period for which a return is required to be filed shall be due on the date limited for the filing of the return for such period, regardless of whether a return is filed by such distributor as required by this article or whether the return which is filed correctly shows the amount of tax due.

2. On and after the first day of October, nineteen hundred seventy-two, twenty-five per centum of the monies received by the department pursuant to the provisions of this section shall be deposited to the credit of the emergency highway reconditioning and preservation fund established pursuant to the provisions of section eighty-nine of the state finance law. § 284-d. Petroleum testing fee. 1. In addition to the taxes imposed by or pursuant to this article, there is hereby imposed a regulatory fee at the rate of one-half of one mill per gallon upon motor fuel imported, manufactured or sold within this state by a distributor. The fee imposed by this section shall be administered and collected by the commissioner of taxation and finance in the same manner as the tax imposed by section two hundred eighty-four of this article. Except for the requirement of subdivision one of section two hundred eighty-five-a of this article that the tax be passed through to purchasers and the provisions of subdivisions one through five and nine of section two hundred eighty-nine-c and section two hundred eighty-nine-e of this article, all the provisions of this article applicable to the tax imposed by section two hundred eighty-four of this article shall apply with respect to the fee imposed by this section to the same extent as if it were imposed by such section two hundred eighty-four, insofar as such provisions can be made applicable to the fee imposed by this section, with such modification as may be necessary in order to adapt such provisions to the fee imposed by this section. The commissioner of taxation and finance may make such provisions as the commissioner deems necessary for the joint administration of the fee imposed by this section and the taxes imposed by or pursuant to this article.

2. All fees imposed by this section, together with penalties and interest thereon, which are collected or received by the commissioner of taxation and finance, shall be deposited daily with such responsible banks, banking houses or trust companies, as may be designated by the state comptroller, to the credit of the comptroller. The comptroller shall require adequate security from all such depositories of such revenue collected by the commissioner of taxation and finance. The comptroller shall retain such amount as the commissioner of taxation and finance may determine to be necessary for refunds in respect to the fees imposed by this section, out of which the comptroller shall pay any refunds of such fees to which taxpayers shall be entitled under the provisions of this section. The commissioner of taxation and finance and the comptroller shall maintain a system of accounts showing the amount of revenue collected or received from the fee imposed by this section. The comptroller, after reserving such refunds shall, on or before the tenth day of each month, deposit to the credit of the motor fuel quality account, which is hereby established within the miscellaneous state special revenue fund, the fees imposed by this section, together with penalties and interest thereon, collected or received by such commissioner pursuant to this section during the preceding calendar month. The amount so payable shall be certified to the comptroller by the commissioner of taxation and finance or his delegate, who shall not be held liable for any inaccuracy in such certificate. Where the amount so paid over to such fund in any such distribution is more or less than the amount due to such fund, the amount of the overpayment or underpayment shall be certified to the comptroller by the commissioner of taxation and finance or his delegate, who shall not be held liable for any inaccuracy in such certificate. The amount of the overpayment or underpayment shall be so certified to the comptroller as soon after the discovery of the overpayment or underpayment as reasonably possible and subsequent payments and distributions by the comptroller to such fund shall be adjusted by subtracting the amount of any such underpayment from such number of subsequent payments and distributions as the comptroller and the commissioner of taxation and finance shall consider reasonable in view of the amount of the overpayment or underpayment and all other facts or circumstances.

§ 284-e. Taxes imposed on qualified reservations. 1. General. (a) Notwithstanding any other provision of this article to the contrary qualified Indians may purchase motor fuel or Diesel motor fuel for such qualified Indians' own use or consumption exempt from the motor fuel tax or Diesel motor fuel tax on their nations' or tribes' qualified reservations. However, such qualified Indians purchasing motor fuel or Diesel motor fuel off their reservations or on another nation's or tribe's reservation, and non-Indians making motor fuel or Diesel motor fuel purchases on an Indian reservation shall not be exempt from paying the motor fuel tax or Diesel motor fuel tax when purchasing motor fuel or Diesel motor fuel within this state. Accordingly, all motor fuel and Diesel motor fuel sold on an Indian reservation to non-members of the nation or tribe or to non-Indians shall be taxed.

(b) In order to ensure an adequate quantity of motor fuel and Diesel motor fuel on Indian reservations which may be purchased by qualified Indians exempt from the motor fuel tax and Diesel motor fuel tax, the department shall provide Indian nations and tribes within this state with Indian tax exemption coupons as set forth in this section. A reservation motor fuel seller shall be able to present such Indian tax exemption coupons to a distributor licensed pursuant to this article in order to purchase motor fuel or Diesel motor fuel exempt from the imposition of the motor fuel tax or Diesel motor fuel tax. Qualified Indians may purchase motor fuel or Diesel motor fuel from a reservation motor fuel seller exempt from the motor fuel tax or Diesel motor fuel tax even though the motor fuel tax or Diesel motor fuel tax on such motor fuel or Diesel motor fuel will have been previously paid or assumed by, or passed through to such distributor.

2. Indian tax exemption coupons. (a) Indian tax exemption coupons shall be provided to the recognized governing body of each Indian nation or tribe to ensure that each Indian nation or tribe can obtain motor fuel and Diesel motor fuel upon which the tax shall not be collected that is for the use or consumption by the nation or tribe or by the members of such nation or tribe. The Indian tax exemption coupons shall be provided to the Indian nations or tribes on a quarterly basis for each of the four quarters beginning with the first day of December, March, June, and September. It is intended that the Indian nations or tribes will retain the amount of Indian tax exemption coupons they will need each quarter to purchase motor fuel and Diesel motor fuel for official nation or tribal use, and will distribute the remaining Indian tax exemption coupons to reservation motor fuel sellers on such nations' or tribes' qualified reservations. Only Indian nations or tribes or reservation motor fuel sellers on their qualified reservations may redeem such Indian tax exemption coupons pursuant to this section.

(b) The amount of Indian tax exemption coupons to be given to the recognized governing body of each Indian nation or tribe shall be based upon the probable demand of the qualified Indians on such nation's or tribe's qualified reservation plus the amount needed for official nation or tribal use.

(i) Probable demand shall be determined by reference to, among other data, the United States average motor fuel and Diesel motor fuel consumption per capita, as compiled for the most recently completed calendar or fiscal year, multiplied by the number of qualified Indians for each such affected Indian nation or tribe.

(ii) In making a determination of probable demand, the department shall take into consideration any evidence submitted by such recognized governing body relating to such probable demand (e.g., a verified record of previous sales to qualified Indians or other statistical evidence) and/or relating to the amount needed for such nation's or tribe's official use.

(c) Each Indian tax exemption coupon shall consist of a retention portion for a distributor's recordkeeping purposes and a redemption portion for a distributor's submission to the department when claiming a refund as set forth in paragraph (a) of subdivision four of this section, and shall contain the following information:

- (i) the identity of the Indian nation or tribe to which it is issued;
- (ii) the identity and the quantity of the product for which it is issued;
- (iii) the date of issuance and the date of expiration; and
- (iv) any other information as the commissioner may deem appropriate.

3. Tax exempt purchases. (a) An Indian nation or tribe may purchase motor fuel and Diesel motor fuel for its own official use or consumption from a distributor registered pursuant to this article without payment of the motor fuel tax or Diesel motor fuel tax to the extent that the Indian nation or tribe provides such distributor with Indian tax exemption coupons entitling the Indian nation or tribe to purchase such quantities of motor fuel and Diesel motor fuel as allowed for on each Indian tax exemption coupon without paying the motor fuel tax or Diesel motor fuel tax.

(b) A qualified Indian may purchase motor fuel and Diesel motor fuel for his or her own use or consumption without payment of the motor fuel tax or Diesel motor fuel tax, provided that the qualified Indian makes such purchase at a qualified reservation.

(c) A reservation motor fuel seller may purchase motor fuel and Diesel motor fuel for resale without payment of the motor fuel tax or Diesel motor fuel tax from a distributor registered pursuant to this article:

- (i) provided that such reservation motor fuel seller brings such motor fuel or Diesel motor fuel or causes it to be delivered onto a qualified reservation for resale on such reservation; and
- (ii) to the extent that such reservation motor fuel seller provides such distributor with Indian tax exemption coupons entitling the reservation motor fuel seller to purchase such quantities of motor fuel and Diesel motor fuel as allowed for on each Indian tax exemption coupon without paying the motor fuel tax or Diesel motor fuel tax.

(d) A distributor shall not collect or pass through, as the case may be, the motor fuel tax or Diesel motor fuel tax from any purchaser to the extent the purchaser gives such distributor Indian tax exemption coupons entitling the purchaser to purchase such quantities of motor fuel or Diesel motor fuel as allowed for on each such Indian tax exemption coupon without paying the motor fuel tax or Diesel motor fuel tax.

4. Refunds and credits. (a) A distributor registered pursuant to this article who has one or more Indian tax exemption coupons may file a claim for refund or credit as provided for in section two hundred eighty-nine-c of this article with respect to any motor fuel tax or Diesel motor fuel tax it previously paid, assumed, or has had passed through to it on motor fuel or Diesel motor fuel it sold without passing through the tax because it accepted an Indian tax exemption coupon from its purchaser.

(b) A distributor of motor fuel or Diesel motor fuel shall report motor fuel or Diesel motor fuel sold to an Indian nation or tribe or a reservation motor fuel seller in its monthly return of tax on motor fuel or Diesel motor fuel and may deduct the quantity so sold in arriving at the net taxable gallonage to the extent such fuel was sold without passing through to such purchasers the motor fuel tax or Diesel motor fuel tax.

5. Tax agreements with Indian nations or tribes. If an Indian nation or tribe enters into an agreement with the state and the legislature approves such agreement regarding the sale and distribution of motor fuel or Diesel motor fuel on the nation's or tribe's qualified reservation, the terms of such agreement shall take precedence over the provisions of this article and exempt such nation from such taxes to the extent that such taxes are specifically referred to in the agreement, and the sale or distribution, including transportation, of any motor fuel or Diesel motor fuel to the nation's or tribe's qualified reservation shall be in accordance with the provisions of such agreement.

§ 285. Special provision as to imposition of tax on certain motor fuel. If a person, firm, association or corporation shall receive any motor fuel in such form and under such circumstances as shall preclude the collection of such tax from a distributor by reason of the constitution and laws of the United States, and shall thereafter sell any such fuel in such manner and under such circumstances as may subject the fuel sold to the taxing power of this state, such person, firm, association or corporation shall be considered a distributor, with respect to such sale, and shall make the same reports, pay the same taxes and be subject to all other provisions of this article relating to distributors.

§ 285-a. Presumption of taxability. 1. No person shall purchase motor fuel in this state, excluding a purchase at retail, unless the taxes imposed by this article have been assumed by a distributor registered under this article in accordance with a certification under subdivision three of this section or paid by such distributor, and, in each of such instances, are passed through to such purchaser. In addition to any other civil and criminal penalties which may apply, any person who purchases motor fuel without having received a certification from the seller in accordance with subdivision three of this section shall be jointly and severally liable to pay the taxes imposed by this article with respect to such motor fuel.

2. For the purpose of the proper administration of this article and to prevent evasion of the tax on motor fuel imposed by and pursuant to this article, it shall be presumed that all motor fuel imported, manufactured or sold, received or possessed in the state is intended for use, distribution, storage or sale in the state and subject to the taxes imposed by this article until the contrary is established. It shall be further presumed that all motor fuel so imported, manufactured or sold, received or possessed in the state by any person, other than motor fuel delivered into the ordinary fuel tank connected with the engine of a means of conveyance in order to propel it, or in small drums or similar containers, which such person cannot otherwise account for, is subject to the taxes imposed by this article and such person is responsible for payment of such taxes. Provided, however, a distributor of motor fuel who imports, manufactures or sells and stores in the state or who purchases and stores motor fuel in the state on which he has paid the taxes imposed by this article shall be allowed an adjustment in arriving at the gallons subject to the taxes imposed by such section on account of the gallons the distributor establishes were lost due to shrinkage, evaporation and handling; provided, however, such allowance shall not exceed two percent of the fuel stored. Provided, further, that in arriving at the gallons of motor fuel subject to the taxes imposed by this article, there shall be allowed an adjustment on account of gallons lost or destroyed due to an accident, such as fire, and at the time of such loss or destruction were being held or transported for sale other than at retail. The burden of proving that any motor fuel is not so subject shall be upon the person so responsible for such payment with respect to such fuel.

3. (a) Upon each sale of motor fuel, other than a sale at retail, the seller must give to the purchaser and the purchaser shall receive at the time of delivery of such motor fuel, a certification containing such information as the tax commission shall require which shall include a statement to the effect: (i) if such seller is a distributor registered under this article, that he assumed the payment of or paid the taxes imposed by this article and, in each case, is passing through such taxes; or (ii) that such seller is passing through such taxes which were so previously assumed or paid by an identified distributor registered under this article, and passed through to him.

(b) If the certification required by this subdivision has been furnished to the purchaser at delivery and accepted in good faith, the burden of proving that the taxes imposed by this article were assumed or paid by a distributor registered as such under this article and passed through shall be solely on the seller.

(c) Where the certification required under this paragraph is not furnished by the seller at delivery of motor fuel, it shall be presumed that the taxes imposed by this article have not been assumed or paid by a distributor registered as such under this article and that the purchaser in such case is jointly and severally liable for such taxes.

(d) If, due to the circumstances of delivery, it is not possible to issue a certification required under this subdivision at the time of delivery of motor fuel, the tax commission may authorize the delivery of the certification required under this paragraph at a time after the delivery of the motor fuel which is the subject of the sale under the limited circumstances it shall prescribe and upon such terms and conditions it shall deem necessary to ensure collection of the taxes imposed by this article and the tax imposed by section eleven hundred two of this chapter.

* 4. Upon each sale of motor fuel, other than a sale that is otherwise exempt under this article, the distributor must charge the tax imposed by this article to the purchaser on each gallon sold. If the taxes imposed by this article have not already been assumed or paid by a distributor on any quantity of such fuel for any reason, including, but not limited to, the expansion of such fuel as a result of temperature fluctuation, the distributor must remit such taxes to the commissioner on the return for the period in which such sale was made.

* NB Effective September 1, 2023

§ 285-b. Presumption of taxability--Diesel motor fuel. 1. Except with respect to the exemptions from the excise tax on Diesel motor fuel set forth in subdivision three of section two hundred eighty-two-a of this article, no person shall purchase Diesel motor fuel in this state unless the taxes imposed by this article have been assumed by a registered distributor of Diesel motor fuel in accordance with a certification under subdivision four of this section or paid by such distributor and, in each of such instances, except in the case of an exemption from the pass through of such tax authorized in subdivision four of such section two hundred eighty-two-a, are passed through to such purchaser. In addition to any other civil and criminal penalties which may apply, any person who purchases Diesel motor fuel without having received a certification from the seller in accordance with subdivision four of this section shall be jointly and severally liable to pay the taxes imposed by this article with respect to such Diesel motor fuel.

2. For purposes of the proper administration of this article and to prevent evasion of the taxes imposed on Diesel motor fuel by this article, it shall be presumed that all Diesel motor fuel sold, received or possessed in the state is subject to the taxes imposed by this article until the contrary is established. It shall be further presumed that any person so selling, receiving or possessing such Diesel motor fuel is responsible for payment of the excise taxes on such fuel.

3. (a) The claim for or exemption from tax provided for in subparagraphs (i), (ii), (iii), (iv), and (vi) of paragraph (b) of subdivision three of section two hundred eighty-two-a of this article shall be established by means of an exempt transaction certificate. If any such exemption is applicable, such certificate shall be provided by the purchaser to the seller at the time of or prior to delivery of the Diesel motor fuel. Such exempt transaction certificate shall set forth the name and address of the purchaser and the basis of the exemption and shall be signed by such purchaser and by the seller. Such certificate shall be in such form and contain such other information as the commissioner shall require. Where a proper and complete exempt transaction certificate has been furnished and accepted by the seller in good faith, such certificate under such circumstance shall relieve the seller of the burden of proving that the Diesel motor fuel covered by such certificate is exempt from tax by reason of subparagraph (i), (ii), (iii), (iv), or (vi) of paragraph (b) of subdivision three of such section two hundred eighty-two-a. Any purchaser who furnishes to his seller a false or fraudulent exempt transaction certificate for the purpose of establishing an exemption from the tax imposed by section two hundred eighty-two-a of this article shall be jointly and severally liable for the tax imposed by such section. In lieu of an exempt transaction certificate, the commissioner may provide for the establishment of such exemption by means of a procedure or other document which he or she deems appropriate so as to secure the revenues from the excise tax on Diesel motor fuel. Provided, further, in the case of the exemption provided by subparagraph (i) of paragraph (b) of subdivision three of section two hundred eighty-two-a of this article, the commissioner shall provide for an alternative procedure or other document signed only by the seller, such as a metered delivery ticket, for the establishment of such exemption in those cases where such commissioner is satisfied that the use of such alternative procedure or other document will not jeopardize the revenues from the excise tax on Diesel motor fuel.

(b) A claim for the exemption from tax provided for in subparagraph (v) of paragraph (b) of subdivision three of section two hundred eighty-two-a of this article shall be established by means of an interdistributor sale certificate. If such exemption is applicable, such certificate shall be provided by the purchaser to the seller at the time of or prior to delivery of the Diesel motor fuel. Such certificate shall set forth the name and address of the purchaser, the purchaser's registration number, an affirmation by such purchaser that the purchaser is registered as a distributor and that such registration has not been suspended or cancelled and shall be signed by such purchaser and by the seller. Such certificate shall be in such form and contain such other information as the commissioner shall require. Where a proper and complete interdistributor sale certificate has been furnished and accepted by the seller in good faith, such certificate under such circumstance shall relieve the seller of the burden of proving that the Diesel motor fuel covered by such certificate is exempt from tax by reason of subparagraph (v) of paragraph (b) of subdivision three of such section two hundred eighty-two-a. For purposes of this paragraph, a seller shall not have accepted such certificate in good faith if the purchaser's registration is invalid because it has been suspended or cancelled, or if the purchaser is not registered, and the commissioner has furnished registered distributors with information identifying all those persons then validly registered as distributors of Diesel motor fuel and those persons whose registrations have been suspended or cancelled. Any purchaser who furnishes to his seller a false or fraudulent interdistributor sale certificate for the purpose of establishing an exemption from the tax imposed by section two hundred eighty-two-a of this article shall be jointly and severally liable for the tax imposed by such section.

4. (a) Upon each sale, other than a retail sale not in bulk, the seller must give to the purchaser and the purchaser shall receive at the time of delivery of such Diesel motor fuel, a certification containing such information as the commissioner of taxation and finance shall require which, unless otherwise provided in this paragraph, shall include a statement to the effect: (i) if such seller is a distributor registered under this article, that he has assumed the payment of or paid the taxes imposed by this article and, in each case, is passing through such taxes; or (ii) that such seller is passing through such taxes which were so previously assumed or paid by an identified distributor registered under this article, and passed through to him. In the case of a transaction described in paragraph (a) or (b) of subdivision three of section two hundred eighty-two-a of this article which is exempt from the imposition of the taxes imposed on Diesel motor fuel or where the seller, pursuant to and in accordance with subdivision four of such section, has not passed through such taxes to the purchaser, the certificate, in lieu of either of the foregoing statements, shall state that, based upon good faith reliance on an exempt transaction certificate (or such other similar document or procedure prescribed by the commissioner of taxation and finance), an interdistributor sales certificate or the exemption document provided by an organization described in paragraph one or two of subdivision (a) of section eleven hundred sixteen of this chapter, as the case may be, such motor fuel is being sold under the circumstances described in such paragraph (a) or (b) of subdivision three of section two hundred eighty-two-a or, in the case of the exemption from the pass through, is being sold under the circumstances specified in subdivision four of such section and that the taxes imposed by this article are not applicable or are not being passed through, as the case may be.

(b) In the case of a sale of Diesel motor fuel subject to the excise taxes and in all cases where the excise taxes are required to be passed through, if the certification required by this subdivision has been furnished to the purchaser at the time of delivery of such fuel and accepted in good faith, the burden of proving that the taxes imposed by this article were assumed or paid by a distributor registered as such under this article and passed through shall be solely on the seller.

(c) Where the certification required under this subdivision is not furnished by the seller at the time of delivery of the Diesel motor fuel, it shall be presumed that the taxes imposed by this article are due and owing and have not been assumed or paid by a distributor registered as such under this article and that the purchaser in such case is jointly and severally liable for such taxes.

(d) If, due to the circumstances of delivery, it is not possible to issue a certification required under this subdivision at the time of delivery of Diesel motor fuel, the commissioner of taxation and finance may authorize the delivery of the certification required under this subdivision at a time after the delivery of the Diesel motor fuel which is the subject of the sale under the limited circumstances it shall prescribe and upon such terms and conditions it shall deem necessary to ensure collection of the taxes imposed by this article and the tax imposed by section eleven hundred three of this chapter.

* 5. Upon each sale of Diesel motor fuel, other than a sale that is otherwise exempt under this article, the distributor must charge the tax imposed by this article to the purchaser on each gallon sold. If the taxes imposed by this article have not already been assumed or paid by a distributor on any quantity of such fuel for any reason, including, but not limited to, the expansion of such fuel as a result of temperature fluctuation, the distributor must remit such taxes to the commissioner on the return for the period in which such sale was made.

§ 286. Records to be kept by distributors and others. 1. Every person who imports or causes to be imported into this state, or who produces, refines, manufactures or compounds within this state, or who purchases or sells in this state motor fuel or diesel motor fuel or ingredients which may be manufactured or compounded into motor fuel or diesel motor fuel, shall keep a complete and accurate record of all purchases and sales, uses or other dispositions thereof and a complete and accurate record of the number of gallons of motor fuel or diesel motor fuel or such ingredients so imported, produced, refined, manufactured or compounded. Every person who stores motor fuel or diesel motor fuel shall keep a complete and accurate record of the identity of the person for whom such fuel is stored, the quantity and type of fuel so stored, the identity of the person to whom such fuel is released from storage and the quantity and type of fuel so released. Such records shall be in such form and contain such other information as the commissioner shall prescribe. Said commissioner, by rule or regulation, also may require the delivery of statements to purchasers with consignments of motor fuel or diesel motor fuel or such ingredients, and prescribe the matters to be contained therein. Such records and statements, unless required by the commissioner to be preserved for a longer period, shall be preserved for a period of three years and shall be offered for inspection at any time upon oral or written demand by such commissioner or the commissioner's duly authorized agents. The commissioner is hereby further authorized to examine the equipment of any such person pertaining to the storage, sale or delivery of such fuels, as well as the stock of such fuels in the possession or control of such person. To verify the amount of tax due under this article, each such person is hereby directed and required to give to the commissioner or the commissioner's duly authorized representatives, the means, facilities and opportunity for such examinations as are herein provided for and required. Nothing contained in this section shall be construed to require the keeping for purposes of this article of a record of purchases or sales of motor fuel or diesel motor fuel or such ingredients at retail in small quantities (less than thirty gallons) or of motor fuel or diesel motor fuel imported into this state in the tank of a motor vehicle which supplies the fuel for its operation.

2. The commissioner of taxation and finance may, by regulation, provide for the filing of monthly information returns by every person required to maintain such records, as prescribed in subdivision one of this section, which shall in all material respects reflect the information required to be contained in such records. Such returns shall be in such form and contain such other information as the commissioner shall require. In addition, such commissioner shall be authorized to require by regulation the keeping of records and the filing of information returns or reports by any person registered as the owner under the vehicle and traffic law of a motor vehicle using diesel motor fuel which is operated on the public highways of this state and the person having a registration issued pursuant to section four hundred fifteen of the vehicle and traffic law in the case of a motor vehicle operated under such registration.

3. The commissioner shall provide for the filing of monthly information returns by every distributor and every person registered as a "retail seller of aviation gasoline" required to maintain such records, as prescribed in subdivision one of this section, which shall in all material respects reflect the information required to be contained in such records. Such returns shall be in such form and contain such other information as the commissioner shall require, provided, the commissioner shall permit the filing of such return on a quarterly basis by distributors whose only sales of diesel motor fuel are sales to consumers solely for the purposes described in subparagraph (i) of paragraph (b) of subdivision three of section two hundred eighty-two-a of this article and by persons registered under this article as distributors of kero-jet fuel only.

§ 286-a. Records and reports of transportation of motor fuel and diesel motor fuel. Every person transporting motor fuel or diesel motor fuel within this state, whether such transportation originates within or without this state, when required by the commissioner, shall keep a true and accurate record of all motor fuel and diesel motor fuel so transported, including ingredients which may be manufactured or compounded into motor fuel or diesel motor fuel, showing such facts with relation to such fuel and ingredients and their transportation as the commissioner may require. Such record shall be open to inspection by the representatives of the department at any time and the commissioner may require from any such person sworn returns of all or any part of the information shown by such records.

§ 286-b. Transportation of motor fuel or diesel motor fuel; manifest required. 1. The master or other person in charge of any barge, tanker or other vessel in which motor fuel or diesel motor fuel is being transported over any of the navigable waters of this state, the operator of a motor vehicle in which motor fuel or diesel motor fuel is being transported in this state, or the operator of a pipeline through which motor fuel or diesel motor fuel is being transported in this state, other than motor fuel or diesel motor fuel being transported for use in operating the engine which propels such vessel or motor vehicle, as the case may be, must have in his or her possession a manifest which shows the name and address of the person from whom such fuel was received by him or her and the place of receipt of such fuel and the name and address of every person to whom he or she is to make delivery of the same and the place of delivery, together with the number of gallons to be delivered to each such person, and, if such fuel is being imported into the state in such vessel, motor vehicle or pipeline for use, storage, distribution or sale in the state, the name of the distributor importing or causing such fuel to be imported into the state and such other information as the commissioner may require pursuant to rule or regulation, and shall at the request of a peace officer, acting pursuant to his or her special duties, a police officer, any representative of the department or any other person authorized by law to inquire into or investigate the transportation of such fuel, produce such manifest for inspection. The person causing the operation of such vessel, motor vehicle or pipeline shall be responsible to cause the operator of such vessel, motor vehicle or pipeline to keep in his or her possession on such vessel, in such motor vehicle or in the main control building of such pipeline in this state the manifest required by this section. The absence of the manifest required by this section shall give rise to a presumption that the motor fuel or diesel motor fuel being transported is intended for sale, use, distribution or storage in this state and is being imported or caused to be imported by other than a registered distributor. Moreover, the absence of (1) the place of delivery of motor fuel or diesel motor fuel on the manifest with respect to motor fuel or diesel motor fuel being imported into the state shall give rise to a presumption that such fuel is being imported into the state for use, distribution, storage or sale in the state and (2) the name of a registered distributor on the manifest with respect to motor fuel or diesel motor fuel being imported into the state for use, distribution, storage or sale in the state shall give rise to a presumption that such fuel is being so imported or caused to be imported by other than a registered distributor. Every barge, tanker or other vessel so used for the transportation of motor fuel must be plainly and visibly marked on both sides thereof and above the water line with the word "Gasoline," or other name of the motor fuel being transported, in letters at least eight inches high and of corresponding appropriate width, or must be identified as prescribed by the commissioner pursuant to rule or regulation. The master or person in charge of such barge, tanker or other vessel, as well as the owners thereof, shall be guilty of a violation of this section if such barge, tanker or other vessel is not so marked.

2. The commissioner may, by regulation provide for the form and content of the manifest required for motor and diesel motor fuel and for the filing of monthly information returns by every person required to maintain records, described in subdivision one of this section, which shall in all material respects reflect the information required to be contained in such records. Such returns shall be in such form and contain such other information as the commissioner shall require.

§ 287. Payment of tax; returns. 1. Every distributor shall, on or before the twentieth day of each month, file with the department a return, on forms to be prescribed by the commissioner and furnished by such department, stating the number of gallons of motor fuel imported, manufactured or sold by such distributor in the state during the preceding calendar month and in the case of Diesel motor fuel, the number of gallons of Diesel motor fuel imported and the number of gallons which have been sold or used. Provided, however, the commissioner may, if he or she deems it necessary in order to ensure the payment of the taxes imposed by this article, require returns to be made at such times and covering such periods as he or she may deem necessary, and, by regulation, may permit the filing of returns by distributors of Diesel motor fuel on a quarterly, semi-annual or annual basis, or may waive the filing of returns by a distributor of Diesel motor fuel for such time and upon such terms as he or she may deem proper if satisfied that no tax imposed by this article with respect to Diesel motor fuel is or will be payable by him or her during the time for which returns are waived. Such returns shall contain such further information as the commissioner shall require. The fact that a distributor's name is signed to a filed return shall be prima facie evidence for all purposes that the return was actually signed by such distributor. Each such distributor shall, with respect to motor fuel, pay to the department with the filing of such return, the taxes imposed by this article on each gallon of motor fuel imported, manufactured or sold by such distributor in the state, and so reported, during the period covered by such return. Each distributor shall, with respect to Diesel motor fuel, pay to the department with the filing of the return the taxes imposed by this article on the number of gallons of Diesel motor fuel sold or used or delivered to a filling station or delivered into the fuel tank of a motor vehicle during the period covered by the return. Provided, however, that where a distributor has purchased motor fuel or diesel motor fuel upon which the taxes imposed by this article have been paid or paid over and in each instance the tax is included in the price, a credit shall be allowed for the amount of such taxes upon the subsequent sale of such fuel to the extent that such taxes are so paid and included in the price.

2. A distributor entitled to a refund under the provisions of section two hundred eighty-nine-c of this chapter, in lieu of such refund, may take credit therefor on a return filed pursuant to this section, unless the commissioner shall withdraw such privilege.

3. Every wholesaler of motor fuel shall, on or before the twentieth day of each month, file with the department a return, on forms prescribed by the commissioner stating the number of gallons of motor fuel purchased and sold by such wholesaler in the state during the preceding calendar month. For each purchase and sale, the date, number of gallons of motor fuel purchased or sold, and the name of the seller or purchaser shall be set forth on the return. Such returns shall contain such further information as the commissioner shall require. The fact that a wholesaler's name is signed to a filed return shall be prima facie evidence for all purposes that the return was actually signed by such wholesaler of motor fuel.

§ 288. Determination of tax. 1. (a) Except as otherwise provided in this section, if a distributor files a return under this article, but such return is incorrect or insufficient, the state tax commission shall determine the amount of tax due at any time within three years after the return was filed (whether or not such return was filed on or after the due date), and give written notice of such determination to the distributor. For the purposes of this section the term distributor shall also include any other person liable for the taxes imposed by this article.

(b) The tax commission shall determine the liability for the penalty imposed by subdivision two of section two hundred eighty-nine-b of any officer, director, shareholder or employee of a corporation or of a dissolved corporation, member or employee of a partnership or employee of an individual proprietorship. The tax commission shall also determine the amount of such penalty. All of the provisions of this section shall apply to any determination made pursuant to this paragraph and for such purpose the term distributor, as used in subdivisions four, five and six of this section, shall also mean and include such officer, director, shareholder, employee or member as the case may be.

(c) The tax commission shall determine the liability for the penalty imposed by paragraph (e) of subdivision one of section two hundred eighty-nine-b of any person as an owner of a filling station. The tax commission shall also determine the amount of such penalty. All of the provisions of this section shall apply to any determination made pursuant to this paragraph and for such purpose the term distributor, as used in subdivisions four, five and six of this section, shall also mean and include such person.

(d) The provisions of paragraphs (b) and (c) of this subdivision shall not be construed to limit in any manner the powers of the attorney general under subdivision one of section two hundred eighty-nine of this chapter or the powers of the tax commission to issue a warrant under subdivision two of such section against any person whose liability has become finally and irrevocably fixed.

2. The state tax commission may determine the amount of tax due at any time if such distributor (i) has not registered as required by this article, (ii) fails to file a return, (iii) files a willfully false or fraudulent return with intent to evade the tax, or (iv) fails to comply with section two hundred eighty-three of this article in not informing the department, in writing, of any change in its address and, if a corporation or partnership, in not informing the department, in writing, of any change in its officers, directors or partners or their residence addresses as shown in its application for registration.

3. If a distributor shall inform the department, in writing, of any change in its address and, if a corporation or partnership shall inform the department, in writing, of any change in its officers, directors or partners or their residence addresses as shown in its application for registration, the determination of the amount of tax due may be made at any time within three years after such information is received.

4. Notwithstanding any of the foregoing provisions of this section, where, before the expiration of the time prescribed in this section for the determination of tax, both the tax commission and the distributor have consented in writing to its determination after such time, the tax may be determined at any time prior to the expiration of the period agreed upon. The period so agreed upon may be extended by subsequent agreements in writing made before the expiration of the period previously agreed upon.

5. Any determination made pursuant to this section shall finally and irrevocably fix the tax unless the distributor against whom it is assessed shall, within ninety days after the giving of notice of such determination, petition the division of tax appeals for a hearing, or unless the commissioner of taxation and finance of his own motion, shall redetermine the same. After such hearing, the division of tax appeals shall give notice of the determination of the administrative law judge to the distributor liable for the tax and to the commissioner of taxation and finance. Such determination may be reviewed by the tax appeals tribunal as provided in article forty of this chapter. The decision of the tax appeals tribunal may be reviewed as provided in section two thousand sixteen of this chapter, but the proceeding may not be commenced unless the amount of tax stated or referred to in the decision, with penalties and interest thereon, if any, and the amount of any other penalty stated or referred to in the decision shall have been first deposited with the commissioner of taxation and finance, and an undertaking filed with him, in such amount and with such sureties as a justice of the supreme court shall approve, to the effect that if such proceeding be dismissed or the decision confirmed, the petitioner will pay all costs and charges which may accrue against him in the prosecution of the proceeding, or at the option of the petitioner such undertaking may be in a sum sufficient to cover the tax, penalties, interest, costs and charges aforesaid, in which event the petitioner shall not be required to pay such tax, penalties and interest as a condition precedent to the commencement of the proceeding.

6. The remedy provided by this section for review of a decision of the tax appeals tribunal shall be the exclusive remedy available to any taxpayer to judicially determine the liability of such taxpayer for taxes under this article.

§ 288-a. Jeopardy assessments. If the tax commission believes that the collection of any tax will be jeopardized by delay it may determine the amount of such tax and assess the same, together with all interest and penalties provided by law, against any person liable therefor prior to the filing of his return and prior to the date when his return is required to be filed. The amount so determined shall become due and payable to the tax commission by the person against whom such a jeopardy assessment is made, as soon as notice thereof is given to him personally or by registered or certified mail. The provisions of section two hundred eighty-eight of this article shall apply to any such determination except to the extent that they may be inconsistent with the provisions of this section. The tax commission shall abate any jeopardy assessment if it finds that jeopardy does not exist. The collection of any jeopardy assessment may be stayed by filing with the tax commission a bond issued by a surety company authorized to transact business in this state and approved by the superintendent of financial services as to solvency and responsibility, or such other security acceptable to the tax commission, conditioned upon payment of the amount assessed and interest thereon, or any lesser amount to which such assessment may be reduced by the tax commission or by a proceeding under article seventy-eight of the civil practice law and rules as provided in section two hundred eighty-eight of this article, such payment to be made when the assessment or any such reduction thereof shall have become final and not subject to further review. If such a bond is filed and thereafter a proceeding under article seventy-eight is commenced as provided in subdivision five of section two hundred eighty-eight of this article, deposit of the taxes, penalties and interest assessed shall not be required as a condition precedent to the commencement of such proceeding. Where a jeopardy assessment is made, any property seized for the collection of the tax shall not be sold (1) until expiration of the time to apply for a hearing as provided in section two hundred eighty-eight of this article, and (2) if such application is timely filed, until the expiration of four months after the tax commission has given notice of its determination to the person against whom the assessment is made; provided, however, such property may be sold at any time if such person has failed to attend a hearing of which he has been duly notified, or if he consents to the sale, or if the tax commission determines that the expenses of conservation and maintenance will greatly reduce the net proceeds, or if the property is perishable.

§ 289. Proceedings to recover tax. Whenever any distributor shall fail to pay, within the time limited herein, any tax which he is required to pay under the provisions of this article, the attorney-general shall, upon the request of the department of taxation and finance, enforce payment of such tax by civil action in the supreme court, in the name of the people of the state, against such distributor for the amount of such tax, with interest. The proceeds of the judgment, if any, shall be paid to the department of taxation and finance.

Whenever any distributor shall fail to pay, within the time limited herein, any tax which he is required to pay under the provisions of this article, the tax commission may issue a warrant under its official seal, directed to the sheriff of any county of the state, commanding him to levy upon and sell the real and personal property of such distributor, found within his county, for the payment of the amount thereof, with the added penalties, interest and the cost of executing the warrant, and to return such warrant to the department of taxation and finance and to pay to it the money collected by virtue thereof within sixty days after the receipt of such warrant. The sheriff shall within five days after the receipt of the warrant, file with the clerk of his county a copy thereof, and thereupon the clerk shall enter in the judgment docket the name of the distributor mentioned in the warrant, and the amount of the tax, penalties and interest for which the warrant is issued and the date when such copy is filed, and thereupon the amount of such warrant so docketed shall become a lien upon the title to and interest in real and personal property of the distributor against whom the warrant is issued. Such lien shall not apply to personal property unless such warrant is also filed in the department of state. The said sheriff shall thereupon proceed upon the warrant in all respects, with like effect, and in the same manner prescribed by law in respect to executions issued against property upon judgments of a court of record, and shall be entitled to the same fees for his services in executing the warrant, to be collected in the same manner. In the discretion of the tax commission a warrant of like terms, force and effect may be issued and directed to any officer or employee of the department of taxation and finance, and in the execution thereof such officer or employee shall have all the powers conferred by law upon sheriffs, but shall be entitled to no fee or compensation in excess of actual expenses paid in the performance of such duty. Upon such filing of a copy of a warrant, the tax commission shall have the same remedies to enforce the claim for taxes, penalties and interest against the distributor as if the people of the state had recovered judgment against such distributor for the amount of the tax.

§ 289-a. Tax to be paid but once; foreign and interstate commerce; injunction. Nothing in this article shall be construed to require the payment to the department of taxation and finance of such tax more than once on any quantity of motor fuel sold within the state. No provision of this article shall apply or be construed to apply to foreign or interstate commerce, except in so far as the same may be effective pursuant to the United States constitution and to laws of the United States enacted pursuant thereto. The supreme court shall have jurisdiction to restrain the department, by injunction, from collecting a tax under this article upon any sale as to which, by reason of the United States constitution and the laws of the United States enacted pursuant thereto, such a tax cannot be imposed.

§ 289-b. Penalties and interest. 1. (a) A distributor or other person who or which fails to file a return or to pay any tax within the time required by or pursuant to this article (determined with regard to any extension of time for filing or paying) shall be subject to a penalty of ten per centum of the amount of tax determined to be due as provided in this article plus one per centum of such amount for each month or fraction thereof during which such failure continues after the expiration of the first month after such return was required to be filed or such tax became due, not exceeding thirty per centum in the aggregate. Provided, however, in the case of a failure to file such return within sixty days of the date prescribed for filing of such return by or pursuant to this article (determined with regard to any extension of time for filing), the penalty imposed by this paragraph shall not be less than the lesser of one hundred dollars or one hundred per centum of the amount required to be shown as tax on such return. For the purpose of the preceding sentence, the amount of tax required to be shown on the return shall be reduced by the amount of any part of the tax which is paid on or before the date prescribed for payment of the tax and by the amount of any credit against the tax which may be claimed upon the return.

(b) If any amount of tax is not paid on or before the last date prescribed in this article for payment, interest on such amount at the underpayment rate set by the commissioner of taxation and finance pursuant to subdivision twenty-sixth of section one hundred seventy-one of this chapter shall be paid for the period from such last date to the date paid, whether or not any extension of time for payment was granted. Interest under this paragraph shall not be paid if the amount thereof is less than one dollar.

(c) If the tax commission determines that such failure or delay was due to reasonable cause and not due to willful neglect, it shall remit all or part of such penalty. The tax commission shall promulgate rules and regulations as to what constitutes reasonable cause.

(d) If the failure to pay any tax within the time required by or pursuant to this article is due to fraud, in lieu of the penalties and interest provided for in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this subdivision, there shall be added to the tax (i) a penalty of two times the amount of tax due, plus (ii) interest on such unpaid tax at the underpayment rate set by the commissioner of taxation and finance pursuant to subdivision twenty-sixth of section one hundred seventy-one of this chapter for the period beginning on the last day prescribed by this article for the payment of such tax (determined without regard to any extension of time for paying) and ending on the day on which such tax is paid.

(e) Any owner of a filling station who shall willfully and knowingly have in his custody, possession or under his control any motor fuel or Diesel motor fuel on which (i) the taxes imposed by or pursuant to the authority of this article have not been assumed or paid by a distributor registered as such under this article or (ii) the taxes imposed by or pursuant to the authority of this article, which taxes were required to have been passed through to him and included in the cost to him of such fuel, have not been included in the cost to him of such fuel shall be liable for a penalty equal to twice the amount of tax so not assumed or paid, or included. Such penalty shall be determined, assessed, collected and paid in the same manner as taxes imposed by this article and all the provisions of this article relating to determination of tax, proceedings to recover tax, refunds (but only of monies paid in error), mailing rules and disposition of revenue shall be deemed also to refer to the penalty imposed by this paragraph and, for this purpose, the term "owner of a filling station" shall be substituted for the term "distributor" wherever appearing in such provisions. Such penalty may be determined at any time within three years after such motor fuel or Diesel motor fuel shall have come into the custody, possession or control of such owner of a filling station. For purposes of this paragraph, such owner shall willfully and knowingly have in his custody, possession or under his control any motor fuel or Diesel motor fuel (1) on which such taxes have not been assumed or paid by a distributor registered as such or (2) on which such taxes are required to have been passed through to him and have not been included in his cost when such owner has known of the requirement that such taxes be so included and where to his knowledge such taxes have not been so included. For purposes of this paragraph, it shall be presumptive evidence that such owner shall willfully and knowingly have in his custody, possession or under his control any motor fuel or Diesel motor fuel (1) on which such taxes have not been assumed or paid by a distributor registered as such or (2) on which such taxes are required to have been passed through to him and have not been included in his cost where such owner has not received the certification required by subdivision three of section two hundred eighty-five-a or, in the case of Diesel motor fuel, by subdivision four of section two hundred eighty-five-b of this article at the time of delivery of such motor fuel or Diesel motor fuel, or, in those circumstances where the commissioner has authorized the delivery of the certification at a time after delivery of the motor fuel or Diesel motor fuel, at the time prescribed by the commissioner.

(e-1) In addition to any other penalties that may be imposed by law, any of the following penalties may be imposed.

(i) Any person who fails to file an informational return under this article on or before the prescribed date, must pay a penalty of fifteen hundred dollars for the first violation and a penalty of three thousand dollars for each subsequent violation, unless it can be shown that such failure is due to reasonable cause and not willful neglect.

(ii) Any person who fails to file an informational return within sixty days of the date prescribed for filing must pay a penalty of two thousand dollars for the first violation and a penalty of four thousand dollars for each subsequent violation, unless it can be shown that such failure is due to reasonable cause and not willful neglect.

(iii) Any person who fails to file a complete informational return must pay a penalty of fifteen hundred dollars for the first violation and a penalty of three thousand dollars for each subsequent violation, unless it can be shown that such failure is due to reasonable cause and not willful neglect.

(iv) If any person makes a statement on an informational return and, as of the time of the statement, there was no reasonable basis for that statement, that person must pay a penalty of two thousand dollars for the first violation and a penalty of four thousand dollars for each subsequent violation.

(f) The penalties and interest provided for in this section shall be determined, assessed, collected and paid in the same manner as the taxes imposed by this article and shall be disposed of as hereinafter provided with respect to moneys derived from the tax. Unpaid penalties and interest under this subdivision may be recovered by the attorney-general by action in the name of the people, and all penalties and interest due from the same distributor may be sued for in one action. Interest under this subdivision shall be compounded daily.

2. Any officer, director, shareholder or employee of a corporation or of a dissolved corporation, any employee of a partnership or any employee of an individual proprietorship, who as such officer, director, shareholder or employee is under a duty to act for such corporation, partnership or proprietorship in complying with any requirement of this article, and any member of a partnership, which fails to pay the taxes imposed by or pursuant to this article, shall, in addition to other penalties provided by law, be liable to a penalty equal to the total amount of the tax not paid, plus penalties and interest computed pursuant to subdivision one of this section as if such person were a distributor. If the tax commission determines that such failure was due to reasonable cause and not due to willful neglect, it shall remit all or part of such penalty imposed under this subdivision. Such penalty shall be determined, assessed, collected and paid in the same manner as the taxes imposed by this article and shall be disposed of as hereinafter provided with respect to moneys derived from the tax.

3. For purposes of this chapter, the failure to do any act required by or under the provisions of this article shall be deemed an act committed in part at the office of the department of taxation and finance in Albany. For purposes of this chapter, the certificate of the tax commission to the effect that a tax has not been paid, that a return has not been filed, or that information has not been supplied, as required by or under the provisions of this article, or that a claim for refund has been filed, shall be prima facie evidence that such tax has not been paid, that such return has not been filed, that such information has not been supplied, or that such claim has been filed.

4. Cross-reference: For criminal penalties, see article thirty-seven of this chapter.

5. (a) Any purchaser of Diesel motor fuel who knowingly issues a false or fraudulent exempt transaction certificate (or a similar document which has been prescribed by the commissioner of taxation and finance) or interdistributor sale certificate in order to claim an exemption from the taxes imposed on Diesel motor fuel by this article by reason of an exemption from tax provided for in paragraph (b) of subdivision three of section two hundred eighty-two-a of this article, shall, in addition to liability for tax or any other penalty imposed by this chapter, be subject to a penalty of one hundred percent of the tax liability which would have resulted if there had not been a misuse of such certificate.

(b) Any seller of Diesel motor fuel who knowingly accepts from a purchaser a false or fraudulent exempt transaction certificate (or a similar document which has been prescribed by the commissioner of taxation and finance) or interdistributor sale certificate which claims an exemption from the taxes imposed on Diesel motor fuel by this article by reason of the exemption from tax provided for in such paragraph (b) of subdivision three of section two hundred eighty-two-a of this article shall, in addition to liability for tax or any other penalty imposed by this chapter, be subject to a penalty of one hundred percent of the tax liability which would have resulted if such certificate had not been so accepted.

§ 289-c. Refunds. 1. The tax imposed by this article though payable by the distributor, shall be borne by the purchaser and when paid by the distributor shall be deemed to have been so paid for the account of the purchaser. No person shall sell, advertise, or offer for sale motor fuel, separate from the tax herein imposed; and the price paid by the purchaser for motor fuel on which the tax has been paid, if such price be not less than the amount of the tax thereon, shall be presumed for the purposes of this section to have included the tax.

1-a. (a) Any person selling motor fuel to an organization described in paragraph one or two of subdivision (a) of section eleven hundred sixteen of this chapter or a hospital included in the organizations described in paragraph four of such subdivision for its own use or consumption or selling kero-jet fuel to an airline for use in its airplanes may exclude the amount of the tax or taxes imposed by this article from the selling price thereof.

(b) (i) Any person registered as a distributor of motor fuel selling aviation gasoline to a fixed base operator registered under this article as a "retail seller of aviation gasoline" may exclude the amount of the tax or taxes imposed by this article from the selling price thereof where such aviation gasoline is delivered to the fixed base operator's premises and placed in a storage facility used exclusively for the purpose of fueling airplanes. The commissioner may register as a "retail seller of aviation gasoline" a fixed base operator who makes no sales of aviation gasoline other than retail sales not in bulk delivered directly into the fuel tank of an airplane and who makes no sales of motor fuel other than the foregoing described retail sales of aviation gasoline delivered directly into the fuel tank of airplanes (provided, in no event, shall kero-jet fuel be construed to constitute motor fuel). Such registration shall apply only to the wholesale purchase of only aviation gasoline by such "retail seller of aviation gasoline" and the retail sale by such person of aviation gasoline not in bulk for delivery directly into the fuel tank of an airplane for use in the operation thereof. In no event shall the registration as a "retail seller of aviation gasoline" be deemed to be an authorization to import, or cause to be imported, motor fuel including aviation gasoline, into this state. All the provisions of section two hundred eighty-three-a (except subdivision one) of this article shall be applicable to the registration of "retail sellers of aviation gasoline" with the same force and effect as if the language of such section had been incorporated in full herein and had expressly referred to the registration of "retail sellers of aviation gasoline", with such modification as may be necessary in order to adapt the language so as to apply to the registration of applicants for and persons registered as "retail sellers of aviation gasoline". Provided, however, that if the commissioner is satisfied that certain requirements of such foregoing provisions with respect to registration are not necessary in order to protect tax revenues, the commissioner may waive, limit or modify such requirements with respect to the registration of "retail sellers of aviation gasoline". The department, where applicable, shall coordinate the registration process with respect to a fixed base operator applying for registration as a "retail seller of aviation gasoline" and as a distributor of kero-jet fuel only with the purpose of eliminating any duplicative information or procedures required of the applicant. Every person registered as a "retail seller of aviation gasoline" shall keep complete and accurate records of purchases and sales of aviation gasoline (including individual invoices identifying each purchase or sale of aviation gasoline) to and from such "retail seller of aviation gasoline". The commissioner shall, if it is determined to be appropriate, establish a requirement that a certificate be given by a "retail seller of aviation gasoline" prior to the sale of aviation gasoline pursuant to this paragraph.

(ii) Any person registered as a distributor of motor fuel and also registered as a "retail seller of aviation gasoline" may exclude the amount of the tax or taxes imposed by this article from the selling price thereof on such retail sale of aviation gasoline.

(c) (i) Any person making a sale of motor fuel under the circumstances described in paragraph (a), or subparagraph (i) of paragraph (b) of this subdivision or making a sale of Diesel motor fuel under the circumstances described in subdivision four of section two hundred eighty-two-a of this article whereby the tax or taxes imposed by this article have not been passed through to the purchaser, shall be allowed a refund or credit of the tax or taxes imposed by this article in the amount of such tax or taxes paid by such person on such motor fuel or Diesel motor fuel being sold or included in the price paid by such person for such fuel. Claims for refunds or credits shall be presented, and refunds or credits shall be made, only as authorized by the commissioner under such rules and regulations as he may prescribe.

(ii) Any airline registered as a distributor of motor fuel who imports aviation gasoline into this state for use in its airplanes and a distributor described in subparagraph (ii) of paragraph (b) of this subdivision shall be allowed a refund or credit of the tax or taxes imposed by this article in the amount of such tax or taxes paid by such person on such aviation gasoline so imported and used exclusively in the operation of its airplanes. The refund or credit shall accrue at the time the aviation gasoline is delivered and stored as prescribed in subparagraph (i) of paragraph (b) of this subdivision. Claims for refunds or credits shall be presented and refunds or credits shall be made only as authorized by the commissioner, including documentary proof required to substantiate refund claims.

* (d)(i) Any person may exclude the amount of the tax or taxes imposed by this article on E85 from the selling price thereof where E85 is delivered to a filling station and placed in a storage tank of such filling station for such E85 to be dispensed directly into a motor vehicle for use in the operation of such vehicle. Any person making a sale of E85 under the circumstances described herein, whereby the tax or taxes otherwise imposed by this article have not been passed through to the purchaser, shall be allowed a refund or credit of the taxes imposed by this article in the amount of such tax or taxes paid by such person on such E85 being sold or included in the price paid by such person for such fuel. Claims for refunds or credits shall be presented, and refunds or credits shall be made, only as authorized by the commissioner under such rules and regulations as the commissioner may prescribe.

(ii) Any person may exclude twenty percent of the amount of the tax or taxes imposed by this article from the selling price with respect to any sale of B20. Any person making a sale of B20 upon which such person does not pass on more than eighty percent of the taxes otherwise imposed by this article, where such person has purchased such B20 with the entire amount of the taxes imposed by this article included in such person's purchase price, shall be entitled to a refund or credit equal to the amount of the tax or taxes paid under this article on such B20 in excess of eighty percent of the tax or taxes imposed by this article on diesel motor fuel. Claims for refunds or credits shall be presented, and refunds or credits shall be made, only as authorized by the commissioner under such rules and regulations as the commissioner may prescribe.

(iii) Any person may exclude the amount of the tax or taxes imposed by this article on CNG or hydrogen from the selling price thereof. Any person making a sale of CNG or hydrogen, whereby the tax or taxes otherwise imposed by this article have not been passed through to the purchaser, shall be allowed a refund or credit of any taxes imposed by this article in the amount of such tax or taxes paid by such person on such CNG or hydrogen being sold or included in the price paid by such person for such CNG or hydrogen. Claims for refunds or credits shall be presented, and refunds or credits shall be made, only as authorized by the commissioner under such rules and regulations as the commissioner

2. However, the intention of this article is to place the ultimate burden resulting from such tax, so far as possible, on persons who use the public highways of the state for operating motor vehicles thereon, or who use the waterways of the state including any other waterways bordering on the state for operating pleasure or recreational motor boats thereon, and the following refunds are provided to that end, subject to the provisions of subdivision five of this section.

3. (a) Except as otherwise provided in paragraph (b) of this section, any person who shall buy any motor fuel or diesel motor fuel, on which the tax imposed by this article shall have been paid, and shall consume the same in any manner except in the operation of a motor vehicle upon or over the public highways of this state, or in the operation of a pleasure or recreational motor boat upon or over the waterways of the state including waterways bordering on the state, shall be reimbursed the amount of such tax in the manner and subject to the conditions herein provided except that there shall be no reimbursement of tax paid on motor fuel or diesel motor fuel taken out of this state in a fuel tank connected with the engine of a motor vehicle and consumed outside of this state.

(b) Any omnibus carrier which shall buy any motor fuel on which the aggregate tax imposed by section two hundred eighty-four and section two hundred eighty-four-a of this chapter, or any diesel motor fuel on which the aggregate tax imposed by section two hundred eighty-two-a and section two hundred eighty-two-b of this chapter, shall have been paid, shall be reimbursed, in the case of such motor fuel, the amount paid pursuant to such sections two hundred eighty-four and two hundred eighty-four-a in excess of four cents per gallon, and in the case of diesel motor fuel, the amount paid pursuant to such sections two hundred eighty-two-a and two hundred eighty-two-b in excess of six cents per gallon, provided such motor fuel or diesel motor fuel has been consumed by such carrier in the operation of an omnibus in this state. Any taxicab licensee, as defined by subdivision ten of section two hundred eighty-two of this chapter, who or which shall buy any motor fuel on which the aggregate tax imposed by section two hundred eighty-four and section two hundred eighty-four-a of this chapter or any diesel motor fuel on which the aggregate tax imposed by section two hundred eighty-two-a and section two hundred eighty-two-b of this chapter, shall have been paid, shall be reimbursed, in the case of such motor fuel, the amount paid pursuant to such sections two hundred eighty-four and two hundred eighty-four-a in excess of four cents per gallon, and in the case of diesel motor fuel, the amount paid pursuant to such sections two hundred eighty-two-a and two hundred eighty-two-b in excess of six cents per gallon, provided such motor fuel or diesel fuel has been consumed by such licensee in the operation of a taxicab in this state.

(c) All claims for reimbursement shall be in such form and contain such information as the commissioner shall prescribe and shall be filed within three years from (i) the date of the purchase, in the case of the purchaser; or (ii) the date of the sale, in the case of the seller, of the motor fuel so subject to reimbursement. Every such claim shall include a certificate by or on behalf of the party presenting the same to the effect that it is just, true and correct, that no part thereof has been paid, except as stated therein, and that the balance therein stated is actually due and owing. The claimant shall satisfy the department that the claimant has borne the tax and that the motor fuel has been consumed by the claimant in a manner other than the operation of a motor vehicle upon or over the public highways of this state, the operation of a pleasure or recreational motorboat upon or over the waterways of the state including waterways bordering on the state or, in the case of an omnibus carrier, taxicab licensee, nonpublic school operator or volunteer ambulance service, that the claimant has borne the tax and that the amount claimed is the amount of such tax reimbursable under paragraph (b), (d), (e) or (f) of this subdivision. The department may require such further information or proof as it shall deem necessary for the administration of such claim. Claims for reimbursement approved by the department shall be paid from revenues collected under this article and deposited to the credit of the comptroller as hereinafter provided; but no such claims shall be paid unless the department is satisfied that the amount of the tax for which the reimbursement is claimed has actually been collected by the state. The amount of any erroneous or excessive payment to a claimant for reimbursement may be determined by the department and may be recovered from such claimant in the same manner as a tax imposed by this article, provided, however, that any such determination shall be made within three years after the date of such erroneous or excessive payment.

(d) Any omnibus carrier which shall buy motor fuel on which the aggregate tax imposed by section two hundred eighty-four, section two hundred eighty-four-a and section two hundred eighty-four-c of this chapter or any diesel motor fuel on which the aggregate tax imposed by section two hundred eighty-two-a, section two hundred eighty-two-b and section two hundred eighty-two-c of this chapter shall have been paid, shall be reimbursed the amount paid provided such motor fuel or diesel motor fuel has been consumed by such carrier in the operation of an omnibus in local transit service in this state pursuant to a certificate of convenience and necessity issued by the commissioner of transportation of this state or by the interstate commerce commission of the United States or pursuant to a contract, franchise or consent between such carrier and a city having a population of more than one million inhabitants, or any agency of such city.

(e) Any nonpublic school operator which shall buy motor fuel on which the aggregate tax imposed by section two hundred eighty-four, section two hundred eighty-four-a and section two hundred eighty-four-c of this chapter or any diesel motor fuel on which the aggregate tax imposed by section two hundred eighty-two-a, section two hundred eighty-two-b and section two hundred eighty-two-c of this chapter shall have been paid, shall be reimbursed the amount paid provided such motor fuel or diesel motor fuel has been consumed by such nonpublic school operator exclusively in educational related activities.

(f) Any voluntary ambulance service, as defined in section thirty hundred one of the public health law, which shall buy motor fuel on which the tax or taxes imposed by this article shall have been paid shall be reimbursed the amount of such tax in the manner and subject to the conditions herein set forth, provided such motor fuel has been consumed by such volunteer ambulance service vehicle in the course of operating within the state.

(g) An organization described in paragraph one or two of subdivision (a) of section eleven hundred sixteen of this chapter or a hospital included in the organizations described in paragraph four of such subdivision, or a fire company or fire department, as defined in section three of the volunteer firefighters' benefit law, or a volunteer rescue squad supported in whole or in part by tax money where any such entity is the purchaser, user or consumer of motor fuel or diesel motor fuel in a vehicle owned and operated by it and used exclusively for its purposes, or an airline where it has purchased kero-jet fuel for use in its airplanes shall be reimbursed the amount of the taxes on motor fuel and diesel motor fuel imposed by or pursuant to the authority of this article included in the price paid for such motor fuel or diesel motor fuel.

(h) Notwithstanding any provision of the law to the contrary, tax paid pursuant to this article in respect to motor fuel or diesel motor fuel purchased by a government entity and paid for by such government entity with a credit card shall be reimbursed or credited to the issuer of the credit card used for such purchase or the fuel distributor designated in accordance with and subject to the provisions of sections eleven hundred thirty-eight, eleven hundred thirty-nine, eleven hundred forty-two, and eleven hundred forty-five of this chapter concerning such credit card issuers, fuel distributors and government entities. Such provisions shall apply with respect to the administration of and procedure with respect to the taxes imposed under this article in the same manner and with the same force and effect as if the language of such provisions had been incorporated in full into this article and had expressly referred to the tax under this article, with such modifications as may be necessary in order to adapt the language of such provisions to the taxes imposed by this article, except to the extent that any such provision is not relevant to this article.

5. If the provisions of this section providing for reimbursement of the amount of the tax paid be held unconstitutional by a court of competent jurisdiction, the other constitutional provisions of this article nevertheless shall stand, it being the express intention of the legislature that even though such provision for reimbursement be held unconstitutional the tax provided for by this article shall be imposed, collected and distributed as provided in this article, regardless in that event of the manner in which the motor fuel is consumed.

6. Moneys paid in error under this article may be refunded. Where motor fuel, upon which the tax imposed by this article has been paid, is sold, under such circumstances that, if the tax had not been paid, the sale would not have been taxable under this article, the tax may be refunded. Refunds shall be made only as authorized by the commissioner under such rules and regulations as the commissioner may prescribe provided an application therefor is filed with the commissioner within three years from the time the erroneous payment was made, or tax paid motor fuel was so sold. Refunds authorized by the commissioner shall be paid from revenues collected under this article and deposited to the credit of the comptroller as hereinafter provided.

7. If an agreement under the provisions of section two hundred eighty-eight (extending the period for determination of tax imposed by this article) is made within the three-year period for the filing of an application for refund under subdivision six of this section or, in the case of a claim for reimbursement under subdivision three of this section, if such agreement is made within three years from the date of purchase or sale (as the case may be) of the motor fuel, the period for filing an application for refund or a claim for reimbursement shall not expire prior to six months after the expiration of the period within which determination may be made pursuant to the agreement or any extension thereof.

8. With respect to motor fuel imported, manufactured or sold or purchased in this state, and with respect to the sale or use of Diesel motor fuel, a refund or credit shall be allowed a distributor or a purchaser of the tax required to be paid pursuant to this article upon such motor fuel or Diesel motor fuel in the amount of such tax paid by or included in the price paid by a distributor or such purchaser to the seller thereof if such fuel was exported from this state for sale or use outside this state, such distributor or such purchaser, as the case may be, exporting such fuel is duly registered with or licensed by the taxing authorities of the state to which such fuel is exported as a distributor or a dealer in the fuel being so exported, and in connection with such exportation such fuel was immediately shipped to an identified facility in the state to which such fuel is exported, and the applicant complies with all requirements and rules and regulations of the commissioner, including evidentiary requirements, relating thereto; and provided further that upon receipt of a claim for refund in processible form, interest shall be allowed and paid at the overpayment rate set by the commissioner pursuant to subdivision twenty-sixth of section one hundred seventy-one of this chapter from the due date of the return to the date immediately preceding the date of the refund check except no such interest shall be allowed or paid if the refund check is mailed within thirty days of such receipt and except no interest shall be allowed or paid if the amount thereof would be less than one dollar. For the purpose of this article, "export" from this state shall in no event be construed to include motor fuel or diesel motor fuel taken out of this state in the fuel tank connected with the engine of a motor vehicle or any conveyance and consumed in the operation thereof outside of this state.

9. With respect to any organization described in paragraph four of subdivision (a) of section eleven hundred sixteen of this chapter which is eligible pursuant to this section for reimbursement of the tax required to be paid pursuant to this article, upon receipt of a claim for reimbursement in processible form, interest shall be allowed and paid at the overpayment rate set by the commissioner of taxation and finance pursuant to subdivision twenty-sixth of section one hundred seventy-one of this chapter from the date of the application for reimbursement to the date immediately preceding the date of the reimbursement check except no such interest shall be allowed or paid if the reimbursement check is mailed within forty-five days of such receipt and except no interest shall be allowed or paid if the amount thereof would be less than one dollar. Provided, however, the department shall process applications for reimbursement as expeditiously as possible.

§ 289-d. Mailing rules; holidays. 1. Except as otherwise provided in this subdivision, if any return, claim, statement, notice, application or other document required to be filed, or any payment required to be made, within a prescribed period or on or before a prescribed date under authority of any provision of this article is, after such period or such date, delivered by United States mail to the tax commission, bureau, office, officer or person with which or with whom such document is required to be filed, or to which or to whom such payment is required to be made, the date of the United States postmark stamped on the envelope shall be deemed to be the date of delivery. This subdivision shall apply only if the postmark date falls within the prescribed period or on or before the prescribed date for the filing of such document, or for making the payment, including any extension granted for such filing or payment, and only if such document or payment was deposited in the mail, postage prepaid, properly addressed to the tax commission, bureau, office, officer or person with which or with whom the document is required to be filed or to which or to whom such payment is required to be made. If any document is sent by United States registered mail, such registration shall be prima facie evidence that such document was delivered to the tax commission, bureau, office, officer or person to which or to whom addressed. To the extent that the tax commission shall prescribe by regulation, certified mail may be used in lieu of registered mail under this section. This subdivision shall apply in the case of postmarks not made by the United States Post Office only if and to the extent provided by regulations of the tax commission.

2. Any notice authorized or required under this article may be given by mailing it to the person for whom it is intended, in a postpaid envelope addressed to such person at the address given by him in his application for registration as a distributor or in the last return filed by him under this article or, if no application or return has been filed, then to such address as may be obtainable. The mailing of such notice shall be presumptive evidence of its receipt by the person to whom addressed. Any period of time, which is determined according to the provisions of this article, for the giving of notice shall commence to run from the date of mailing of such notice.

3. When the last day prescribed under authority of this article (including any extension of time) for performing any act falls on Saturday, Sunday or a legal holiday in the state of New York, the performance of such act shall be considered timely if it is performed on the next succeeding day which is not a Saturday, Sunday or a legal holiday.

4. (a) Any reference in subdivision one of this section to the United States mail shall be treated as including a reference to any delivery service designated by the secretary of the treasury of the United States pursuant to section seventy-five hundred two of the internal revenue code and any reference in subdivision one of this section to a postmark by the United States mail shall be treated as including a reference to any date recorded or marked in the manner described in section seventy-five hundred two of the internal revenue code by a designated delivery service. If the commissioner finds that any delivery service designated by such secretary is inadequate for the needs of the state, the commissioner may withdraw such designation for purposes of this article. The commissioner may also designate additional delivery services meeting the criteria of section seventy-five hundred two of the internal revenue code for purposes of this article, or may withdraw any such designation if the commissioner finds that a delivery service so designated is inadequate for the needs of the state. Any reference in subdivision one of this section to the United States mail shall be treated as including a reference to any delivery service designated by the commissioner and any reference in subdivision one of this section to a postmark by the United States mail shall be treated as including a reference to any date recorded or marked in the manner described in section seventy-five hundred two of the internal revenue code by a delivery service designated by the commissioner.

(b) Any equivalent of registered or certified mail designated by the United States secretary of the treasury, or as may be designated by the commissioner pursuant to the same criteria used by such secretary for such designations pursuant to section seventy-five hundred two of the internal revenue code, shall be included within the meaning of registered or certified mail as used in subdivision one of this section. If the commissioner finds that any equivalent of registered or certified mail designated by such secretary or the commissioner is inadequate for the needs of the state, the commissioner may withdraw such designation for purposes of this article.

§ 289-e. Deposit and disposition of revenue. 1. All taxes, interest, penalties and fees collected or received by the commissioner under the taxes imposed by this article, except as provided otherwise in subdivision two and subdivision three of this section and sections two hundred eighty-two-b, two hundred eighty-two-c, two hundred eighty-four-a and two hundred eighty-four-c, other than the fee imposed by section two hundred eighty-four-d and penalties and interest on such fee, shall be deposited and disposed of pursuant to the provisions of section one hundred seventy-one-a of this chapter; provided that an amount equal to thirty-seven and one-half per centum of the moneys collected under section two hundred eighty-four of this chapter shall be appropriated and used for the acquisition of property necessary for the construction and reconstruction of highways and bridges or culverts on the state highway system, and for the construction, maintenance and repair of such highways and bridges or culverts, all under the direction of the commissioner of transportation.

2. All taxes, interest, penalties and fees collected or received by the commissioner of taxation and finance after March thirty-first, nineteen hundred ninety-three under the taxes imposed by section two hundred eighty-four of this article shall be deposited in the dedicated highway and bridge trust fund and disposed of pursuant to section eighty-nine-b of the state finance law.

3. § 290-A. Tax surcharge. 1. In addition to the tax imposed under section two hundred ninety of this article, there is hereby imposed, for taxable years ending after June thirtieth, nineteen hundred ninety and before July first, nineteen hundred ninety-seven, a tax surcharge at the rate of fifteen percent in the case of taxable years ending after June thirtieth, nineteen hundred ninety and before July first, nineteen hundred ninety-four, and until such rate is superseded; at the rate of ten percent in the case of taxable years ending after June thirtieth, nineteen hundred ninety-four and before July first, nineteen hundred ninety-five, and until such rate is superseded; at the rate of five percent in the case of taxable years ending after June thirtieth, nineteen hundred ninety-five and before July first, nineteen hundred ninety-six, and until such rate is superseded; and at the rate of zero percent in the case of taxable years ending after June thirtieth, nineteen hundred ninety-six and before July first, nineteen hundred ninety-seven, of the tax imposed under section two hundred ninety of this article. However, the tax surcharge imposed by this section at the rate of fifteen percent shall not be imposed upon any taxpayer for more than forty-eight months, and the tax surcharge imposed by this section at the rates of ten percent, five percent and zero percent shall not, respectively, be imposed upon any taxpayer for more than twelve months, and the commissioner shall prescribe by regulation or instructions a method of proration designed to effectuate such result.

1-a. Insofar as subdivision one of this section establishes a rate of fifteen percent in the case of taxable years ending after June thirtieth, nineteen hundred ninety and before July first, nineteen hundred ninety-four and until such rate is superseded, a rate of ten percent in the case of taxable years ending after June thirtieth, nineteen hundred ninety-four and before July first, nineteen hundred ninety-five and until such rate is superseded, a rate of five percent in the case of taxable years ending after June thirtieth, nineteen hundred ninety-five and before July first, nineteen hundred ninety-six and until such rate is superseded, and a rate of zero percent in the case of taxable years ending after June thirtieth, nineteen hundred ninety-six and before July first, nineteen hundred ninety-seven, the transition from such rate of fifteen percent to such rate of ten percent, from such rate of ten percent to such rate of five percent, and from such rate of five percent to such rate of zero percent, shall be deemed to occur, respectively, on the first day of the seventh month of each of such taxable years, with the result that for purposes of implementation of such changes in rates, and notwithstanding such subdivision one, there is hereby imposed with respect to all taxable years ending after June thirtieth, nineteen hundred ninety-four and before July first, nineteen hundred ninety-five, including taxable years of fewer than twelve months, a tax surcharge at the rate of twelve and one-half percent; there is hereby imposed with respect to all taxable years ending after June thirtieth, nineteen hundred ninety-five and before July first, nineteen hundred ninety-six, including taxable years of fewer than twelve months, a tax surcharge at the rate of seven and one-half percent; and there is hereby imposed with respect to all taxable years ending after June thirtieth, nineteen hundred ninety-six and before July first, nineteen hundred ninety-seven, including taxable years of fewer than twelve months, a tax surcharge at the rate of two and one-half percent. In addition, for purposes of implementation of all the provisions of this section references to ten percent shall be read as references to twelve and one-half percent, references to five percent shall be read as references to seven and one-half percent and references to zero percent shall be read as references to two and one-half percent.

2. The provisions concerning returns under section two hundred ninety-four of this article shall be applicable to this section, except that for purposes of an automatic extension for six months for filing a return covering the taxes imposed by this article, such automatic extension shall be allowed, for taxable years to which the tax surcharge imposed by this section applies, only if a taxpayer files with the commissioner an application for extension in such form as the commissioner may prescribe, and pays on or before the date of such filing, in addition to any other amounts required under this article, fifteen percent in the case of taxable years ending after June thirtieth, nineteen hundred ninety and before July first, nineteen hundred ninety-four, ten percent in the case of taxable years ending after June thirtieth, nineteen hundred ninety-four and before July first, nineteen hundred ninety-five, five percent in the case of taxable years ending after June thirtieth, nineteen hundred ninety-five and before July first, nineteen hundred ninety-six, and zero percent in the case of taxable years ending after June thirtieth, nineteen hundred ninety-six and before July first, nineteen hundred ninety-seven, of the amount properly estimated as provided in section two hundred ninety-four of this article as its tax payable under section two hundred ninety of this article. The tax surcharge imposed by this section shall be payable to the commissioner in full at the time the return is required to be filed.

3. Except as otherwise provided in this section, all of the provisions of this article shall apply to the tax surcharge imposed by this section with such modifications as may be necessary to adapt such language to the tax surcharge imposed by this section. Such provisions shall apply with the same force and effect as if those provisions had been set forth in full in this section except to the extent that any provision is either inconsistent with a provision of this section or not relevant to the tax surcharge imposed by this section, and to that end a reference in this article to the tax surcharge imposed by section two hundred ninety shall be read as a reference to the tax surcharge imposed by this section, and to the sum of such tax and such tax surcharge in the case of those provisions requiring such reading in order to effectuate the purposes of this provision, unless a different meaning is clearly required.

§ 291. Meaning of terms. (a) Any terms used in this article shall have the same meaning as when used in a comparable context in the laws of the United States relating to federal income taxes, unless a different meaning is clearly required. Any reference in this article to the laws of the United States shall mean the provisions of the internal revenue code of nineteen hundred fifty-four, and amendments thereto, and other provisions of the laws of the United States relating to federal income taxes, as the same may be or become effective at any time or from time to time for the taxable year.

(b) The term "taxpayer" means an organization or trust described in section two hundred ninety.

(c) The term "tangible personal property" means corporeal personal property, such as machinery, tools, implements, goods, wares and merchandise, and does not mean money, deposits in banks, shares of stock, bonds, notes, credits or evidences of an interest in property and evidences of debt.

§ 292. Unrelated business taxable income. (a) The unrelated business taxable income of a taxpayer subject to the tax imposed by section two hundred ninety shall be such taxpayer's federal unrelated business taxable income, as defined in the laws of the United States for the taxable year, with the following modifications:

(1) There shall be added to federal unrelated business taxable income the amount of any tax imposed under this article.

(2) There shall be subtracted from federal unrelated business taxable income the amount of any refund or credit for overpayment of a tax imposed under this article or article twenty-three of this chapter.

(3) The net operating loss deduction which shall be allowed shall be the same as the net operating loss deduction allowed under paragraph six of subsection (b) of section five hundred twelve of the internal revenue code of nineteen hundred fifty-four, except that

(A) any net operating loss included in determining such deduction shall be adjusted to reflect the addition and subtraction from unrelated business taxable income required by paragraphs one and two of this subdivision,

(B) such deduction shall not include any net operating loss sustained during any taxable year beginning prior to January first, nineteen hundred seventy, or during any taxable year in which the taxpayer was not subject to the tax imposed by this article, and

(C) such deduction shall not exceed the deduction for the taxable year allowable under paragraph six of subsection (b) of section five hundred twelve of the internal revenue code of nineteen hundred fifty-four.

(4) There shall be subtracted from federal unrelated business taxable income any amount which is included therein solely by reason of the application of section 501(m)(2)(A) or 512(a)(7) of the internal revenue code.

(5) Shareholders of S corporations. (A) In the case of a shareholder of an S corporation,

(i) where the election provided for in subsection (a) of section six hundred sixty of this chapter is in effect with respect to such corporation, there shall be added to federal unrelated business taxable income an amount equal to the shareholder's pro rata share of the corporation's reductions for taxes described in paragraphs two and three of subsection (f) of section thirteen hundred sixty-six of the internal revenue code, and

(ii) where such election has not been made with respect to such corporation, there shall be subtracted from federal unrelated business taxable income any items of income of the corporation included therein, and there shall be added to federal unrelated business taxable income any items of loss or deduction included therein, and

(iii) in the case of a New York S termination year, the amount of any such items of S corporation income, loss, deduction and reductions for taxes shall be adjusted in the manner provided in paragraph two or three of subsection (s) of section six hundred twelve of this chapter.

(B) In the case of a shareholder of a corporation which was, for any of its taxable years beginning after nineteen hundred ninety-seven, a federal S corporation but a New York C corporation:

(i) There shall be added to federal unrelated business taxable income S corporation distributions to the extent not included therein because of the application of section thirteen hundred sixty-eight or subsection (e) of section thirteen hundred seventy-one of the internal revenue code, which represent income not previously subject to tax under this article because the election provided for in subsection (a) of section six hundred sixty of this chapter had not been made. Any such distribution treated in the manner described in paragraph two of subsection (b) of such section thirteen hundred sixty-eight shall be treated as ordinary income for purposes of this article.

(ii) Where gain or loss is included in unrelated business taxable income upon the disposition of stock or indebtedness of such corporation,

(I) there shall be added to unrelated business taxable income the amount of increase in basis of such stock or indebtedness with respect to such New York C years of the corporation, pursuant to subparagraphs (A) and (B) of paragraph one of subsection (a) of section thirteen hundred sixty-seven of such code, and

(II) there shall be subtracted from unrelated business taxable income the amount of decrease in such basis with respect to such New York C years of the corporation, pursuant to subparagraphs (B) and (C) of paragraph two of subsection (a) of such section thirteen hundred sixty-seven, and

(III) there shall be subtracted from unrelated business taxable income the amount of modifications to unrelated business taxable income with respect to such stock pursuant to clause (i) of subparagraph (B) of this paragraph.

(C) Cross reference. For definitions relating to S corporations, see subdivision one-A of section two hundred eight of this chapter.

(6) Related members expense add back. (A) Definitions. (i) Related member. "Related member" means a related person as defined in subparagraph (c) of paragraph three of subsection (b) of section four hundred sixty-five of the internal revenue code, except that "fifty percent" shall be substituted for "ten percent".

(ii) Effective rate of tax. "Effective rate of tax" means, as to any state or U.S. possession, the maximum statutory rate of tax imposed by the state or possession on or measured by a related member's net income multiplied by the apportionment percentage, if any, applicable to the related member under the laws of said jurisdiction. For purposes of this definition, the effective rate of tax as to any state or U.S. possession is zero where the related member's net income tax liability in said jurisdiction is reported on a combined or consolidated return including both the taxpayer and the related member where the reported transactions between the taxpayer and the related member are eliminated or offset. Also, for purposes of this definition, when computing the effective rate of tax for a jurisdiction in which a related member's net income is eliminated or offset by a credit or similar adjustment that is dependent upon the related member either maintaining or managing intangible property or collecting interest income in that jurisdiction, the maximum statutory rate of tax imposed by said jurisdiction shall be decreased to reflect the statutory rate of tax that applies to the related member as effectively reduced by such credit or similar adjustment.

(iii) Royalty payments. Royalty payments are payments directly connected to the acquisition, use, maintenance or management, ownership, sale, exchange, or any other disposition of licenses, trademarks, copyrights, trade names, trade dress, service marks, mask works, trade secrets, patents and any other similar types of intangible assets as determined by the commissioner, and include amounts allowable as interest deductions under section one hundred sixty-three of the internal revenue code to the extent such amounts are directly or indirectly for, related to or in connection with the acquisition, use, maintenance or management, ownership, sale, exchange or disposition of such intangible assets.

(iv) Valid business purpose. A valid business purpose is one or more business purposes other than the avoidance or reduction of taxation which alone or in combination constitute the primary motivation for some business activity or transaction, which activity or transaction changes in a meaningful way, apart from tax effects, the economic position of the taxpayer. The economic position of the taxpayer includes an increase in the market share of the taxpayer, or the entry by the taxpayer into new business markets.

(B) Royalty expense add backs. (i) For the purpose of computing New York unrelated business taxable income, a taxpayer must add back royalty payments directly or indirectly paid, accrued, or incurred in connection with one or more direct or indirect transactions with one or more related members during the taxable year to the extent deductible in calculating federal unrelated business taxable income;

(ii) Exceptions. (I) The adjustment required in this paragraph shall not apply to the portion of the royalty payment that the taxpayer establishes, by clear and convincing evidence of the type and in the form specified by the commissioner, meets all of the following requirements: (a) the related member was subject to tax in this state or another state or possession of the United States or a foreign nation or some combination thereof on a tax base that included the royalty payment paid, accrued or incurred by the taxpayer; (b) the related member during the same taxable year directly or indirectly paid, accrued or incurred such portion to a person that is not a related member; and (c) the transaction giving rise to the royalty payment between the taxpayer and the related member was undertaken for a valid business purpose.

(II) The adjustment required in this paragraph shall not apply if the taxpayer establishes, by clear and convincing evidence of the type and in the form specified by the commissioner, that: (a) the related member was subject to tax on or measured by its net income in this state or another state or possession of the United States or some combination thereof; (b) the tax base for said tax included the royalty payment paid, accrued or incurred by the taxpayer; and (c) the aggregate effective rate of tax applied to the related member in those jurisdictions is no less than eighty percent of the statutory rate of tax that applied to the taxpayer under section two hundred ninety of this article for the taxable year.

(III) The adjustment required in this paragraph shall not apply if the taxpayer establishes, by clear and convincing evidence of the type and in the form specified by the commissioner, that: (a) the royalty payment was paid, accrued or incurred to a related member organized under the laws of a country other than the United States; (b) the related member's income from the transaction was subject to a comprehensive income tax treaty between such country and the United States; (c) the related member was subject to tax in a foreign nation on a tax base that included the royalty payment paid, accrued or incurred by the taxpayer; (d) the related member's income from the transaction was taxed in such country at an effective rate of tax at least equal to that imposed by this state; and (e) the royalty payment was paid, accrued or incurred pursuant to a transaction that was undertaken for a valid business purpose and using terms that reflect an arm's length relationship.

(IV) The adjustment required in this paragraph shall not apply if the taxpayer and the commissioner agree in writing to the application or use of alternative adjustments or computations. The commissioner may, in his or her discretion, agree to the application or use of alternative adjustments or computations when he or she concludes that in the absence of such agreement the income of the taxpayer would not be properly reflected.

(7) The amount of any deduction allowed pursuant to section one hundred ninety-nine of the internal revenue code must be added to federal unrelated business taxable income.

(8) There must be added to federal unrelated business taxable income the amount of any federal deduction for taxes imposed under article twenty-three of this chapter.

(b) If the period covered by a return under this article is other than the period covered by the return to the United States treasury department, unrelated business taxable income shall be determined by multiplying the unrelated business taxable income reported to such department (as modified pursuant to the provisions of this article) by the number of calendar months or major parts thereof covered by the return under this article and dividing by the number of calendar months or major part thereof covered by the return to such department. If it shall appear that such method of determining unrelated business taxable income does not properly reflect the taxpayer's income during the period covered by the return under this article, the tax commission shall be authorized, in its discretion, to determine such income solely on the basis of the taxpayer's income during the period covered by its return under this article.

§ 293. Allocation of unrelated business taxable income. (a) The portion of the unrelated business taxable income of a taxpayer to be allocated within this state shall be determined by multiplying its unrelated business taxable income by an allocation percentage to be determined by:

(1) ascertaining the percentage which the average value of the taxpayer's real and tangible personal property in its unrelated trade or business within the state during the period covered by the taxpayer's return bears to the average value of all the taxpayer's real and tangible personal property wherever situated during such period which is used in its unrelated trade or business (For purposes of this paragraph, the taxpayer's real property shall include not only such property owned by the taxpayer but also such property rented to it.);

(2) ascertaining the percentage which the receipts of the taxpayer's unrelated trade or business, computed on the cash or accrual basis according to the method of accounting used in the computation of the taxpayer's unrelated business taxable income, arising during such period from

(A) sales of tangible personal property by the unrelated trade or business where shipments are made to points within this state,

(B) services performed within the state by the unrelated trade or business,

(C) rentals from property of the unrelated trade or business situated within the state, and

(D) all other receipts earned by the unrelated trade or business within the state, bear to the total amount of the receipts of the unrelated trade or business, similarly computed, arising during such period from all sales of its tangible personal property, services, rentals and all other transactions, whether within or without the state;

(3) ascertaining the percentage of the total wages, salaries and other personal service compensation, similarly computed, during such period of employees of the taxpayer's unrelated trade or business within the state, except general executive officers, to the total wages, salaries and other personal service compensation, similarly computed, during such period of all employees of the unrelated trade or business within and without the state, except general executive officers; and

result by the number of percentages; provided, however, that if the taxpayer does not have a regular place of business outside the state in which its unrelated trade or business is conducted, the business allocation percentage shall be one hundred percent.

(b) If it shall appear to the tax commission that the allocation percentage determined in subdivision (a) of this section does not properly reflect the activity, business or income of a taxpayer's unrelated trade or business within the state, the tax commission shall be authorized, in its discretion, to adjust it by (1) excluding one or more of the factors therein, (2) including one or more other factors, such as expenses, purchases, contract values (minus subcontract values), (3) excluding one or more assets in computing such allocation percentage, provided the income therefrom is also excluded in determining unrelated business taxable income or (4) any other similar or different method calculated to effect a fair and proper allocation of the income reasonably attributable to this state. The tax commission from time to time shall publish all rulings of general interest with respect to any application of the provisions of this subdivision.

§ 294. Returns and payment of tax. (a) Every taxpayer and every other organization or trust, other than an employee's trust described in section four hundred one (a) of the internal revenue code of nineteen hundred fifty-four, which is subject to the federal tax on unrelated business income having an officer, agent, trustee or representative within the state shall, on or before the fifteenth day of the fifth month following the close of each of its taxable years, make and file a return with the tax commission setting forth such information as the tax commission may prescribe. Every employee's trust described in section four hundred one (a) of such code shall make and file a return with the tax commission on or before the fifteenth day of the fourth month following the close of the trust's taxable year. Every taxpayer which ceases to be subject to the tax imposed by this article shall make and file a return with the tax commission on the date of such cessation, or at such other time which the tax commission may require, covering each taxable year or period for which no return was theretofore filed, setting forth such information as the tax commission may require. Every taxpayer shall also file such other returns and furnish such other facts and information as the tax commission may require in the administration of this article.

(b) (1) An automatic extension of six months for the filing of its annual return shall be allowed any taxpayer, if, within the time prescribed by the preceding paragraph, such taxpayer files with the tax commission an application for extension, in such form as said tax commission may prescribe by regulation, and pays, on or before the date of such filing, the amount properly estimated as its tax, as provided in paragraph two of this subdivision.

(2) If a taxpayer, within the time prescribed by subdivision (a) of this section, shall have applied for an automatic extension of time to file its annual return and shall have paid to the commissioner of taxation and finance on or before the date such application is filed an amount properly estimated as hereinafter provided in this subdivision, the only amount payable in addition to the tax shall be interest, at the underpayment rate set by the commissioner pursuant to section one thousand ninety-six of this chapter, or if no rate is set, at the rate of six per cent per year, upon the amount by which the tax, or the portion thereof payable on or before the date the return was required to be filed (determined without regard to any extension of time for filing such return), exceeds the amount so paid. For purposes of this subdivision an amount so paid shall be deemed properly estimated if it is either not less than ninety per cent of the tax as finally determined, or not less than the tax shown on the taxpayer's return for the preceding taxable year, if such preceding year was a taxable year of twelve months.

(c) The tax imposed by section two hundred ninety shall be payable to the tax commission in full at the time the return is required to be filed. Such tax imposed on any taxpayer which ceases to be subject to the tax imposed by this article shall be payable to the tax commission at the time the return is required to be filed and all other taxes of any such taxpayer, which pursuant to the provisions of this section would otherwise be payable subsequent to the time such return is required to be filed, shall nevertheless be payable at such time.

(d) The tax commission may grant a reasonable extension of time for filing a return or for payment of a tax imposed by this article under such conditions as it deems just and proper.

§ 295. Procedural provisions. The provisions of section two hundred eleven, except subdivisions one, four and nine thereof, the provisions of subdivision three of section two hundred sixteen, and the provisions of section two hundred nineteen of this chapter and the provisions of article twenty-seven of this chapter, shall apply to the provisions of this article in the same manner and with the same force and effect as if the language of those sections had been incorporated in full into this article and had expressly referred to the tax under this article, except to the extent that any such provision is either inconsistent with a provision of this article or is not relevant to this article, and except that the term "report" shall be read as "return", the term "taxable income" shall be read as "unrelated business taxable income" and the terms "corporation" and "foreign corporation" shall be read as "taxpayer".

(a) The term "corporation" includes a corporation, joint-stock company or association and any business conducted by a trustee or trustees wherein interest or ownership is evidenced by certificate or other written instrument. "Corporation" shall also include any corporation whose business is being conducted by any receiver, referee, trustee, assignee or other fiduciary, or any officer or agent appointed by any court and any dissolved corporation which continues to conduct business.

(b) The term "petroleum business" means: (1) With respect to motor fuel, every corporation and unincorporated business (i) importing motor fuel or causing motor fuel to be imported into the state for use, distribution, storage or sale in the state, or (ii) producing, refining, manufacturing or compounding motor fuel in the state. Provided, however, a corporation or unincorporated business which has been issued a liquefied petroleum gas fuel permit under section two hundred eighty-three-c of this chapter and which does not import motor fuel other than liquefied petroleum gas fuel or cause motor fuel other than liquefied petroleum gas fuel to be imported into the state for use, distribution, storage or sale in the state or produce, refine, manufacture or compound motor fuel other than liquefied petroleum gas fuel in the state shall not be considered a petroleum business with respect to motor fuel within the meaning of this paragraph. Motor fuel brought into this state in the ordinary fuel tank connecting with the engine of a motor vehicle, airplane, or other conveyance, but not a vessel (other than a recreational motor boat or a commercial fishing vessel, as defined in subdivision (j) of this section, if the motor fuel imported into and consumed in this state is used to operate such vessel while it is engaged in the harvesting of fish for sale), propelled by the use of such motor fuel and to be used only in the operation thereof, shall not be deemed imported within the meaning of this article, if not removed from such tank except as used in the propulsion of such engine.

(2) With respect to diesel motor fuel, every corporation and unincorporated business (i) importing diesel motor fuel or causing diesel motor fuel to be imported into the state for use, distribution, storage or sale in the state, (ii) producing, refining, manufacturing or compounding diesel motor fuel within the state, (iii) making a sale or use of diesel motor fuel in the state, other than a retail sale not in bulk or self-use of diesel motor fuel which has been the subject of a retail sale to such corporation or unincorporated business, or (iv) registered by the department as a "distributor of kero-jet fuel only" pursuant to the provisions of subdivision two of section two hundred eighty-two-a of this chapter. Diesel motor fuel brought into this state in the ordinary fuel tank connecting with the engine of a motor vehicle, airplane or other conveyance, but not a vessel (other than a recreational motor boat or a commercial fishing vessel as defined in subdivision (j) of this section if the diesel motor fuel imported into and consumed in this state is used to operate such vessel while it is engaged in the harvesting of fish for sale), propelled by the use of such diesel motor fuel and to be used only in the operation thereof, shall not be deemed imported within the meaning of this article, if not removed from such tank except as used in the propulsion of such engine.

(3) With respect to residual petroleum product, every corporation and unincorporated business (i) importing residual petroleum product or causing residual petroleum product to be imported into the state for use, distribution, storage or sale in the state, (ii) producing, refining, manufacturing or compounding residual petroleum product in the state, or (iii) making a sale or use of residual petroleum product in the state other than a self-use of residual petroleum product which has been the subject of a retail sale to such corporation or unincorporated business.

(c) The terms (1) "diesel motor fuel" means such term as defined in subdivision fourteen of section two hundred eighty-two of this chapter, and

(2) "highway diesel motor fuel" means such term as defined in subdivision sixteen-a of section two hundred eighty-two of this chapter, and

(3) "non-highway diesel motor fuel" means such term as defined in subdivision sixteen of section two hundred eighty-two of this chapter.

(4) As used in this article, references to persons or petroleum businesses registered under article twelve-A of this chapter as distributors of diesel motor fuel shall include all such persons or petroleum businesses registered under such article as distributors of diesel motor fuel and persons or petroleum businesses operating under valid limited registrations relating to persons or petroleum businesses making retail sales of diesel motor fuel to consumers solely for the purposes described in subparagraph (i) of paragraph (b) of subdivision three of section two hundred eighty-two-a of this chapter, but such references shall not include persons and petroleum businesses registered as "distributors of kero-jet fuel only" pursuant to the provisions of subdivision two of section two hundred eighty-two-a of this chapter.

(d) The term "motor fuel" means such term as defined in subdivision two of section two hundred eighty-two of this chapter.

(e) The term "residual petroleum product" means the topped crude of refinery operations which includes products commonly designated by the petroleum refining industry as "No. 5 Fuel oil", "No. 6 Fuel oil" and "bunker C". It shall also include the special grade of diesel product specifically designated "No. 4 diesel fuel" and not suitable as a fuel used in the operation of a motor vehicle engine.

(f) The term "taxable month" means a calendar month or any part thereof during which a petroleum business is subject to tax under this article.

(g) The term "use" as applied to motor fuel and diesel motor fuel shall have the same meaning as set forth in subdivision (e) of section eleven hundred two of this chapter and such meaning shall also apply to residual petroleum product as if such subdivision specifically referred to the use of such residual product in addition to motor fuel and diesel motor fuel.

(h) The term "unincorporated business" means any trade, business or occupation conducted, engaged in or being liquidated by an individual or unincorporated entity, including a partnership, joint venture, sole proprietorship, unincorporated association, fiduciary, or a corporation in liquidation. The performance of services by an individual as an employee or as an officer or director of a corporation or unincorporated entity, or as a fiduciary, shall not be deemed an unincorporated business, unless such services constitute part of a business, trade or occupation regularly carried on by such individual.

(i) "commercial fisherman" means a person licensed by an appropriate federal or state agency for the purpose of engaging in the commercial harvesting of fish and who is engaged in the business of harvesting fish for sale. In determining whether or not a business is being conducted, consideration shall be given to the amount of time, capital and effort that is consumed by, as well as the percent of total gross income from all sources derived from the harvesting of fish for sale.

(j) "commercial fishing vessel" means a vessel which is used directly and predominantly in the harvesting of fish for sale and, if such vessel is required to be documented with the United States Coast Guard, it is currently documented with the United States Coast Guard and has a current fisheries endorsement on such documentation.

(k) "Commercial gallonage" means gallonage (1) which is non-highway diesel motor fuel or residual petroleum product, (2) which is included in the full measure of the non-highway diesel motor fuel component or the residual petroleum product component of the tax imposed under section three hundred one-a of this article, (3) which does not (and will not) qualify (A) for the utility credit or reimbursement provided for in section three hundred one-d of this article, (B) as "manufacturing gallonage", as such term is defined in subdivision (m) of this section, (C) for the not-for-profit organization exemption provided for in subdivision (h) of section three hundred one-b of this article, or (D) for the heating exemption provided for in paragraph two of subdivision (d) of section three hundred one-b of this article or the heating reimbursement provided for in paragraph two of subdivision (a) of section three hundred one-c of this article, and (4) which will not be used nor has been used in the fuel tank connecting with the engine of a vessel. No gallonage shall qualify as "commercial gallonage" where such gallonage is eligible for the (i) utility credit or reimbursement under such section three hundred one-d of this article, (ii) "manufacturing exemption" under paragraph three of subdivision (f) of section three hundred one-a of this article, (iii) not-for-profit organization exemption under subdivision (h) of section three hundred one-b of this article, or (iv) heating exemption provided for in paragraph two of subdivision (d) of section three hundred one-b of this article or the heating reimbursement provided for in paragraph two of subdivision (a) of section three hundred one-c of this article. The commissioner shall require such documentary proof to substantiate the classification of product as "commercial gallonage" as the commissioner deems appropriate.

(l) "Railroad diesel" means non-highway diesel motor fuel for use and consumption directly and exclusively in the operation of a locomotive or a self-propelled vehicle run only on rails or tracks, but only if either (1) all such fuel is delivered into a storage facility which is not equipped with a hose or other apparatus by which such fuel can be dispensed into the fuel tank of a motor vehicle and such facility is used only to fuel such locomotives or such self-propelled vehicles, or (2) in accordance with the terms of sale, all such fuel is delivered directly into the tank of a locomotive or self-propelled vehicle. Provided, however, that a sale to a purchaser who will use such non-highway diesel motor fuel as "railroad diesel" shall be evidenced by a certificate signed by the purchaser stating that such diesel motor fuel will be used and consumed as prescribed in this subdivision and the commissioner may require such other information as the commissioner deems appropriate.

(m) "Manufacturing gallonage" means residual petroleum product or non-highway diesel motor fuel used and consumed directly and exclusively in the production of tangible personal property for sale by manufacturing, processing or assembly, but only if (i) all of such fuel or product is delivered on the manufacturing site, or (ii) the purchaser causes such fuel or product to be delivered to its manufacturing site. "Manufacturing gallonage" shall in no event be consumed on the public highways of this state or delivered at a filling station or into a repository which is equipped with a hose or other apparatus by which such fuel can be dispensed into the fuel tank of a motor vehicle. The commissioner shall require such documentary proof to substantiate the classification of product as "manufacturing gallonage" as the commissioner deems appropriate.

(n) The term "passenger commuter ferry" means a vessel providing mass transportation service. A vessel shall be providing mass transportation service (1) if it is recognized, as such, by an organization described in paragraph one or two of subdivision (a) of section eleven hundred sixteen of this chapter, or (2) the commissioner designates such vessel as performing such service based on industry or regulatory practice.

* (o) The term "E85" shall have the same meaning as in subdivision twenty-two of section two hundred eighty-two of this chapter.

* NB Repealed September 1, 2031

* (p) The term "B20" shall have the same meaning as in subdivision twenty-three of section two hundred eighty-two of this chapter.

* NB Repealed September 1, 2031

* (q) The term "CNG" shall have the same meaning as in subdivision twenty-four of section two hundred eighty-two of this chapter.

* NB Repealed September 1, 2031

* (r) The term "hydrogen" shall have the same meaning as in subdivision twenty-five of section two hundred eighty-two of this chapter.

* NB Repealed September 1, 2031

(s) The term "terminal" shall have the same meaning as in subdivision thirteen of section two hundred eighty-two of this chapter.

§ 301-a. Imposition of tax. (a) General. Notwithstanding any other provision of this chapter, or of any other law, there is hereby imposed upon every petroleum business for the privilege of engaging in business, doing business, employing capital, owning or leasing property, or maintaining an office in this state, a monthly tax for each or any part of a taxable month equal to the sum of the motor fuel component determined pursuant to subdivision (b) of this section, the highway diesel motor fuel component determined pursuant to paragraph one of subdivision (c) of this section, the non-highway diesel motor fuel component determined pursuant to paragraph two of subdivision (c) of this section and the residual petroleum product component determined pursuant to subdivision (d) of this section.

(b) Motor fuel component. (1) The motor fuel component shall be determined by multiplying the motor fuel and highway diesel motor fuel rate times the number of gallons of (1) motor fuel imported or caused to be imported into this state by the petroleum business for use, distribution, storage or sale in the state or (2) produced, refined, manufactured or compounded in the state by the petroleum business during the month covered by the return under this article. Provided, however, that no motor fuel shall be included in the measure of the tax unless it shall have previously come to rest within the meaning of federal decisional law interpreting the United States constitution, nor shall any motor fuel be included in the measure of the tax imposed by this article more than once.

(2) Motor fuel brought into this state in the fuel tank connecting with the engine of a vessel propelled by the use of such motor fuel shall be deemed to constitute a taxable use of motor fuel for the purposes of this subdivision to the extent that the fuel is consumed in the operation of the vessel in this state. Provided, however, that this paragraph shall not apply to (i) a recreational motor boat or (ii) subsequent to August thirty-first, nineteen hundred ninety-four, a commercial fishing vessel (as defined in subdivision (j) of section three hundred of this article) if the motor fuel imported and consumed in this state is used to operate such vessel while it is engaged in the harvesting of fish for sale. Provided, further, that tax liability for gallonage that a vessel consumes shall be the tax liability with respect to the positive difference between the gallonage consumed in this state during the reporting period and the gallonage purchased in this state (upon which the tax imposed by this section has been paid) during such period. A credit or refund shall be available for any excess of tax liability for gallonage purchased in this state during the period over tax liability on gallonage so consumed in this state during such period, which excess shall be presumed to have been used outside this state.

(c) (1) Highway Diesel motor fuel component. (A) The highway diesel motor fuel component shall be determined by multiplying the motor fuel and highway diesel motor fuel rate times (1) the number of gallons of highway diesel motor fuel sold or used by a petroleum business in this state during the month covered by the return under this article and (2) with respect to any gallonage which prior thereto has not been included in the measure of the tax imposed by this article, times the number of gallons of highway diesel motor fuel (i) removed from a terminal, other than by pipeline, barge, tanker or other vessel, (ii) delivered to a filling station or, (iii) delivered into the fuel tank connecting with the engine of a motor vehicle for use in the operation thereof, whichever of the latter three events shall be the first to occur. Provided, however, that no highway diesel motor fuel shall be included in the measure of the tax unless it shall have previously come to rest within the meaning of federal decisional law interpreting the United States constitution, nor decisional law, nor shall any highway diesel motor fuel be included in the measure of the tax imposed by this article more than once.

(B) Highway diesel motor fuel brought into this state in the fuel tank connecting with the engine of a vessel propelled by the use of such diesel motor fuel shall be deemed to constitute a taxable use of diesel motor fuel for the purpose of this paragraph to the extent of the fuel that is consumed in the operation of the vessel in this state. Provided, however, this paragraph shall not apply to (i) a recreational motor boat or (ii) a commercial fishing vessel (as defined in subdivision (j) of section three hundred of this article) if the highway diesel motor fuel imported into and consumed in this state is used to operate such commercial fishing vessel while it is engaged in the harvesting of fish for sale. Provided, further, that tax liability for gallonage that a vessel consumes in this state shall be the tax liability with respect to the positive difference between the gallonage consumed in this state during the reporting period and the gallonage purchased in this state (upon which the tax imposed by this section has been paid) during such period. A credit or refund shall be available for any excess of tax liability for gallonage purchased in this state during the period over tax liability on gallonage so consumed in this state during such period, which excess shall be presumed to have been used outside this state.

(2) Non-highway diesel motor fuel component. The non-highway diesel fuel component shall be determined by multiplying the non-highway diesel motor fuel rate times the number of gallons of non-highway diesel motor fuel sold or used by a petroleum business in this state during the month covered by the return under this section. Provided, however, that no non-highway diesel motor fuel shall be included in the measure of the tax unless it shall have previously come to rest within the meaning of federal decisional law interpreting the United States constitution, nor shall any non-highway diesel motor fuel be included in the measure of the tax imposed by this article more than once.

(d) Residual petroleum product component. The residual petroleum product component shall be determined by multiplying the residual petroleum product rate times the number of gallons of residual petroleum product sold or used in this state by a petroleum business during the month covered by the return under this article. Provided, however, that no residual petroleum product shall be included in the measure of the tax unless it shall have previously come to rest within the meaning of federal decisional law interpreting the United States constitution, nor shall any residual petroleum product be included in the measure of the tax imposed by this article more than once.

(e) Motor fuel and highway diesel motor fuel rate. (1) The basic motor fuel and highway diesel motor fuel rate shall be ten and two-tenths cents per gallon.

(2) Every year as of January first, the motor fuel and highway diesel motor fuel rate then in effect on the immediately preceding December thirty-first shall be adjusted as follows: such rate shall be multiplied by a fraction the numerator of which is the sum of the monthly producer price index (unadjusted) published by the bureau of labor statistics of the United States department of labor for the category of commodities designated "refined petroleum products" for the twelve consecutive months ending with the month of August of the immediately preceding year and the denominator of which is the sum of the monthly producer price index (unadjusted) published by the bureau of labor statistics of the United States department of labor for the category of commodities designated "refined petroleum products" for the twelve consecutive months ending with the month of August in the year prior to such immediately preceding year, provided, however, that the adjusted rate shall not increase above or decrease below the rate in effect on the immediately preceding December thirty-first by more than five percent.

(3) Notwithstanding any other provision of this article, the per gallon rate with respect to "railroad diesel" shall be the adjusted motor fuel and highway diesel motor fuel rate under paragraphs one and two of this subdivision minus one and three tenths cents per gallon.

(f) Non-highway diesel motor fuel rate.

(1) The basic non-highway diesel motor fuel rate shall be nine and three-tenths cents per gallon.

(2) Every year as of January first the non-highway diesel motor fuel rate then in effect on the immediately preceding December thirty-first shall be adjusted as follows: Such rate shall be multiplied by a fraction the numerator of which is the sum of the monthly producer price index (unadjusted) published by the bureau of labor statistics of the United States department of labor for the category of commodities designated "refined petroleum products" for the twelve consecutive months ending with the month of August of the immediately preceding year and the denominator of which is the sum of the monthly producer price index (unadjusted) published by the bureau of labor statistics of the United States department of labor for the category of commodities designated "refined petroleum products" for the twelve consecutive months ending with the month of August in the year prior to such immediately preceding year, provided, however, that the adjusted rate shall not increase above or decrease below the rate in effect on the immediately preceding December thirty-first by more than five percent.

(3) Notwithstanding any other provision of this article, non-highway diesel motor fuel which is "manufacturing gallonage," as such term is defined in subdivision (m) of section three hundred of this article, shall be exempt from the measure of the non-highway diesel motor fuel component of the tax imposed under this section.

(g) Residual petroleum product rate. (1) The basic residual petroleum product rate shall be four cents per gallon.

(2) Commencing April first, nineteen hundred ninety-one, the residual petroleum product rate shall be the product of the basic rate set forth in paragraph one of this subdivision multiplied by a fraction the numerator of which is the sum of the monthly producer price index (unadjusted) published by the bureau of labor statistics of the United States department of labor for the category of commodities designated "refined petroleum products" for the twelve consecutive months ending with the month of November, nineteen hundred ninety, and the denominator of which is the sum of the monthly producer price index (unadjusted) published by the bureau of the labor statistics of the United States department of labor for the category of commodities designated "refined petroleum products" for the twelve consecutive months ending with the month of November, nineteen hundred eighty-nine.

(3) Commencing on the first day of January, nineteen hundred ninety-two, the residual petroleum product rate then in effect on the immediately preceding December thirty-first shall be adjusted as follows: Such rate shall be multiplied by a fraction the numerator of which is the sum of the monthly producer price index (unadjusted) published by the bureau of labor statistics of the United States department of labor for the category of commodities designated "refined petroleum products" for the twelve consecutive months ending with the month of August, nineteen hundred ninety-one and the denominator of which is the sum of the monthly producer price index (unadjusted) published by the bureau of labor statistics of the United States department of labor for the category of commodities designated "refined petroleum products" for the twelve consecutive months ending with the month of August, nineteen hundred ninety. Commencing on the first day of January of nineteen hundred ninety-six and every year thereafter, the residual petroleum product rate then in effect on the immediately preceding December thirty-first shall be adjusted as follows: Such rate shall be multiplied by a fraction the numerator of which is the sum of the monthly producer price index (unadjusted) published by the bureau of labor statistics of the United States department of labor for the category of commodities designated "refined petroleum products" for the twelve consecutive months ending with the month of August of the immediately preceding year and the denominator of which is the sum of the monthly producer price index (unadjusted) published by the bureau of labor statistics of the United States department of labor for the category of commodities designated "refined petroleum products" for the twelve consecutive months ending with the month of August in the year prior to such immediately preceding year, provided, however, that the adjusted rate to take effect on January first, nineteen hundred ninety-six and each January first thereafter shall not increase above or decrease below the rate in effect on the immediately preceding December thirty-first by more than five percent.

(4) Notwithstanding any other provision of this article, commencing January first, nineteen hundred ninety-eight, residual petroleum product which is "manufacturing gallonage," as such term is defined in subdivision (m) of section three hundred of this article, shall be exempt from the measure of the residual petroleum product component of the tax imposed under this section.

(h) Publication and rounding of rate. (1) The commissioner shall cause to be published in the section for miscellaneous notices in the state register, and give other appropriate general notice of, the rate adjustment calculation and the resulting motor fuel and highway diesel motor fuel rate, non-highway diesel motor fuel rate and residual petroleum product rate fixed by this section for the period commencing on January first, two thousand twelve, and for each calendar year thereafter, no later than the immediately preceding first day of December. The calculation and publication of the rates of tax so fixed by provisions of this section shall not be included within paragraph (a) of subdivision two of section one hundred two of the state administrative procedure act relating to the definition of a rule.

(2) The rates determined pursuant to this section shall be rounded to the nearest one-tenth of one cent.

(2) The amount of the reimbursement with respect to such product shall be equal to the difference between (i) the tax actually paid under this article by a petroleum business with respect to such product and subsequently passed through to and absorbed by such purchaser, and (ii) the tax under this article that would have been paid with respect to such product had an importing distributor sold such product directly to a purchaser as "railroad diesel". Provided that the commissioner shall require such documentary proof as the commissioner deems necessary to substantiate a reimbursement claim under this subdivision. Any reimbursement of tax may be applied for not more often than monthly.

(l) Reimbursement for mining and extraction. A purchaser shall be eligible for reimbursement of the tax imposed by section three hundred one-a of this article with respect to gallonage of residual petroleum product and non-highway diesel motor fuel, purchased for use and consumption directly and exclusively in the production of tangible personal property for sale by mining or extracting, but only if all of such fuel or product is delivered at the mining or extracting site and is consumed other than on the public highways of this state; provided, however, this reimbursement shall in no event apply to a sale of non-highway diesel motor fuel which involves a delivery at a filling station. This reimbursement may be claimed only where (i) the tax imposed pursuant to this article has been paid with respect to such non-highway diesel motor fuel or residual petroleum product and the entire amount of such tax has been absorbed by such purchaser, and (ii) such purchaser possesses documentary proof satisfactory to the commissioner evidencing the absorption by it of the entire amount of the tax imposed pursuant to this article. E85 purchased in this state and sold by such purchaser in this state where (1) such E85 is delivered to a filling station and placed in a storage tank of such filling station for such E85 to be dispensed directly into a motor vehicle for use in the operation of such vehicle, (2) the tax imposed pursuant to this article has been paid with respect to such E85 and the entire amount of such tax has been absorbed by such purchaser, and (3) such purchaser possesses documentary proof satisfactory to the commissioner evidencing the absorption by it of the entire amount of the tax imposed pursuant to this article. Provided, that the commissioner shall require such documentary proof to qualify for any reimbursement provided hereunder as the commissioner deems appropriate.

* NB Repealed September 1, 2031

* (o) (1) Partial reimbursement for B20. B20 purchased in this state and sold by such purchaser in this state where (i) the tax imposed pursuant to this article has been paid with respect to such B20 and the entire amount of such tax has been absorbed by such purchaser, and (ii) such purchaser possesses documentary proof satisfactory to the commissioner evidencing the absorption by it of the entire amount of the tax imposed pursuant to this article. Provided, that the commissioner shall require such documentary proof to qualify for any reimbursement provided hereunder as the commissioner deems appropriate.

(2) Calculation of partial reimbursement. The amount of the reimbursement under this subdivision shall be determined by multiplying the quantity of B20 times twenty percent of the applicable taxes otherwise imposed by this article on such fuel.

* NB Repealed September 1, 2031

(p) Reimbursement for motor fuel and diesel motor fuel used by a voluntary ambulance service, as defined in section three thousand one of the public health law, a fire company or a fire department, as defined in section three of the volunteer firefighters' benefit law, or a volunteer rescue squad supported in whole or in part by tax monies, where any such entity is the purchaser, user or consumer of motor fuel or diesel motor fuel in a vehicle owned and operated by such entity and used exclusively for such entity's purposes. A purchaser shall be eligible for reimbursement of the tax imposed pursuant to this article if (1) any tax imposed pursuant to this article has been paid with respect to such gallonage and the entire amount of such tax has been absorbed by such purchaser, and (2) such purchaser possesses documentary proof satisfactory to the commissioner evidencing the absorption by such purchaser of the entire amount of such tax. Provided, that the commissioner shall require such documentary proof to qualify for any reimbursement provided hereunder as the commissioner deems appropriate.

(q) Reimbursement for tugboats and towboats. A use by a tugboat or towboat of motor fuel, diesel motor fuel, or residual petroleum product. This reimbursement may be claimed only where (1) any tax imposed pursuant to this article has been paid with respect to such gallonage and the entire amount of such tax has been absorbed by such purchaser, and (2) such tugboat or towboat possesses documentary proof satisfactory to the commissioner evidencing the absorption by it of the entire amount of such tax. Provided, that the commissioner shall require such documentary proof to qualify for any reimbursement provided hereunder as the commissioner deems appropriate.

§ 301-d. Utility credit or reimbursement. (a) Gallonage eligible for credit or reimbursement. An electric corporation, as defined in subdivision thirteen of section two of the public service law, subject to the supervision of the department of public service, shall be entitled to a credit against the tax imposed by section three hundred one-a of this article or a reimbursement of such tax with respect to the following gallonage:

(1) Credit. Residual petroleum product and non-highway diesel motor fuel (i) imported into this state by such electric corporation which is a petroleum business where the tax liability under section three hundred one-a of this article is imposed on such electric corporation and where the residual petroleum or non-highway diesel product so imported is used by such electric corporation to fuel generators for the purpose of manufacturing or producing electricity or (ii) purchased in this state by such electric corporation by the use of a valid direct payment permit whereby such electric corporation assumed full liability for tax with respect to such product where such product so purchased is used by such electric corporation to fuel generators for the purpose of manufacturing or producing electricity.

(2) Reimbursement. Residual petroleum product and non-highway diesel motor fuel purchased in this state by such electric corporation where the tax imposed by section three hundred one-a of this article with respect to such residual petroleum or diesel product was paid and the utility absorbed such tax in the purchase price of such fuel and where such product is used by such electric corporation to fuel generators for the purpose of manufacturing or producing electricity.

(b) Calculation. The amount of the credit or reimbursement shall be determined by multiplying the gallonage of the residual petroleum product eligible for the credit or reimbursement times the basic credit or reimbursement per gallon of two and ninety-eight hundredths cents and by multiplying the gallonage of all diesel product eligible for credit or reimbursement times the basic credit or reimbursement per gallon of three cents. The basic credit or reimbursement per gallon for residual petroleum product and diesel product shall be adjusted at the same time and in the same manner as set forth in subdivisions (f) and (g) of section three hundred one-a of this article for the motor fuel and diesel motor fuel rate and the residual petroleum product rate. All the provisions of subdivision (h) of such section shall apply to such adjusted credit or reimbursement and such adjusted credit or reimbursement shall be published at the same time and in the same manner as such rates are published. The credit or reimbursement determined pursuant to this section shall be rounded to the nearest one-hundredth of a cent. Provided, however, that on April first, nineteen hundred ninety-nine, there shall be added to the basic credit or reimbursement amount, with respect to both residual petroleum product and diesel product, as then adjusted and in effect, the amount of one-half cent. On the immediately following first day of January and each January thereafter, there shall be added to the basic credit or reimbursement amount, with respect to both residual petroleum product and diesel product, as then adjusted and in effect on such date (determined with respect to the basic credit or reimbursement amount only, without reference to such one-half cent), the amount of one-half cent.

(c) Application of the credit or reimbursement. The credit shall be applied against liability for tax under this article for the same period during which the credit arose. Any excess may then be applied to tax liability under this article for subsequent periods.

(d) Any reimbursement of tax may be applied for not more often than monthly. An electric corporation entitled to reimbursement under this section, in lieu of such reimbursement, may take credit therefor on a return filed under this article.

§ 301-e. Aviation fuel business. (a) Notwithstanding any other provision of this chapter, for taxable months commencing on and after the first day of September, nineteen hundred ninety, there is hereby imposed upon every aviation fuel business for the privilege of engaging in business, doing business, employing capital, owning or leasing property, or maintaining an office in this state, for all or any part of each of its taxable months a monthly tax equal to the sum of (1) the aviation gasoline component determined pursuant to subdivision (b) of this section and (2) the kero-jet component determined pursuant to subdivision (c) of this section. Provided, however, the commissioner may permit the tax imposed under this subdivision and returns related to such tax to be paid and filed for a period covering twelve consecutive taxable months by aviation fuel businesses which are not airlines.

(b) Aviation gasoline component. (1) The aviation gasoline component shall be determined by multiplying the aviation gasoline rate times the number of gallons of aviation gasoline imported or caused to be imported into this state by an aviation fuel business for use, distribution, storage or sale in the state or produced, refined, manufactured or compounded in the state by an aviation fuel business. Provided that importation of aviation gasoline into the state in the fuel tanks of aircraft shall be importation for use for the purposes of this section. The basic aviation gasoline rate shall be five and one-half cents per gallon. The rate shall be adjusted at the same time as the rates of the components of the petroleum business tax imposed by section three hundred one-a of this article, and the method of making adjustments to the aviation gasoline rate shall be the same as the method used for such rates.

(2) Partial credit or refund with respect to aviation gasoline. A distributor of motor fuel shall be entitled to a partial credit or refund of the tax paid under this section on aviation gasoline sold to a fixed base operator registered under article twelve-a of this chapter as a "retail seller of aviation gasoline" under the circumstances described in subparagraph (i) of paragraph (b) of subdivision one-a of section two hundred eighty-nine-c of this chapter. Provided, that in order to qualify for the credit or refund the amount of tax claimed as a credit or refund shall have been paid or assumed on such sale by such distributor and shall have not been passed on to such "retail seller of aviation gasoline". A distributor of motor fuel, also registered as a "retail seller of aviation gasoline", shall be entitled to a partial credit or refund for aviation gasoline delivered and stored at its fixed base operations premises in such subparagraph (i), and such credit or refund shall accrue at the time the fuel is so delivered and placed in such storage facility. An airline which is registered as a distributor of motor fuel and which imports aviation gasoline into this state for use in its airplanes, where delivery and storage take place as described in such subparagraph (i), shall also be allowed such partial credit or refund of tax on such fuel so imported and used exclusively in the operation of its airplanes. An aviation fuel business, taxed as such, by reason of importation in the fuel tank of an airplane shall also be allowed such partial credit or refund for aviation gasoline consumed in this state. The amount of the partial credit or refund allowable under this subparagraph shall be the excess of tax which exceeds five and two-tenths cents per gallon. Provided, that such five and two-tenths cents rate used to compute this partial credit and refund shall be adjusted at the same time as the rate of the aviation gasoline component imposed by paragraph one of this subdivision, and the methods of making such adjustments to this partial credit and refund shall be the same as the method used for such rates.

(c) Kero-jet fuel component. The kero-jet fuel component shall be determined by multiplying the kero-jet fuel rate times the number of gallons of (1) kero-jet fuel imported or caused to be imported into this state by an aviation fuel business and consumed in this state by such business in the operation of its aircraft; and (2) kero-jet fuel, which has not been previously included in the measure of the tax imposed by this section, (i) which is sold in this state by an aviation fuel business to persons other than those registered under this article as aviation fuel businesses or (ii) which is consumed in this state by an aviation fuel business in the operation of its aircraft. Provided that importation of kero-jet fuel in the fuel tanks of aircraft shall be importation for the purposes of this section. The basic kero-jet fuel rate shall be six and eight-tenths cents per gallon. The rate shall be adjusted at the same time as the rates of the components of the petroleum business tax imposed by section three hundred one-a of this article, and the method of making adjustments to the kero-jet fuel rate shall be the same as the method used for such rates.

(d) (1) An aviation fuel business shall be entitled to reimbursement of the tax imposed by this section, less any credit allowed or refund granted, with respect to aviation gasoline purchased in this state and consumed by such business exclusively as aviation fuel in the operation of its aircraft where such aviation gasoline is not consumed in this state, provided that the amount of such tax, less any credit or refund, has been absorbed by such aviation fuel business. Provided, further, an aviation fuel business which has imported aviation gasoline into this state and consumed such aviation gasoline in the operation of its aircraft where a portion of such aviation gasoline is not consumed in this state shall be allowed a credit for such gallonage not consumed in this state in computing the tax imposed by such section.

(2) An aviation fuel business shall be entitled to reimbursement of the tax imposed by this section with respect to kero-jet fuel purchased in this state and consumed by such business exclusively as aviation fuel in the operation of its aircraft where such kero-jet fuel is not consumed in this state, provided that the entire amount of such tax has been absorbed by such aviation fuel business.

(3) Any purchaser of aviation gasoline in this state who consumes such aviation gasoline exclusively as aviation fuel in the operation of its aircraft shall be entitled to a partial reimbursement of the tax imposed by this section with respect to aviation gasoline which was purchased by such purchaser and upon which such purchaser paid or absorbed the full amount of the tax imposed by this section (where no partial credit or refund under paragraph two of subdivision (b) of this section was provided with respect to such aviation gasoline) where: (i) such purchaser purchases the aviation gasoline from a fixed base operator which qualifies as a retail seller of aviation gasoline but is not so registered under article twelve-A of this chapter, or (ii) such purchaser purchases the aviation gasoline in bulk from a distributor of motor fuel registered under article twelve-A of this chapter where such distributor delivers such aviation gasoline directly into a bulk storage facility of the purchaser which is at a fixed and permanent place at an airport within this state and is used solely to fill the fuel tanks of its aircraft for use in the operations thereof. The amount of the reimbursement allowable under this paragraph shall be equal to the amount of the partial credit or refund allowable under paragraph two of subdivision (b) of this section.

(4) The commissioner shall require such documentary proof to qualify for any credit, refund or reimbursement of tax provided under this subdivision as the commissioner deems appropriate.

(e) All the provisions of this article relating to the administration, collection and disposition of the tax imposed on petroleum businesses, including the registration provisions of section three hundred two of this article applicable to residual petroleum product businesses, shall apply to the tax imposed by this section and the registration under this article of aviation fuel businesses with such modification as may be necessary in order to adapt the language of such provisions to the tax imposed by this section. When reference in this article is made to "the tax imposed under this article" or where words of similar import are used, unless the context indicates otherwise, such reference shall be to the tax imposed under section three hundred one-a of this article and this section. The tax imposed by this section shall be administered jointly in conjunction with, and as a part of, the tax imposed on petroleum businesses as if the provisions of subdivision (a) of this section, imposing the tax under this section, were made a part of the imposition provisions of section three hundred one-a, except where contrary or not applicable to or inconsistent with the provisions of this section. Provided, further, for the purpose of this section:

(1) the term "aviation fuel business" shall mean a "petroleum business" as described in paragraph one or paragraph two of subdivision (b) of section three hundred of this article except that the activities described therein shall separately relate to aviation gasoline (such paragraph one) and kero-jet fuel (such paragraph two) and such term shall also include every corporation or unincorporated business importing or causing to be imported aviation fuel into this state for consumption by it in this state by bringing such aviation fuel into this state in aircraft fuel tanks which connect to the engines propelling such aircraft.

(2) kero-jet fuel and aviation gasoline consumed in this state shall be presumed to mean all such fuel consumed during takeoffs from points in this state;

(3) where the commissioner of taxation and finance decides that with respect to a certain petroleum business any of the methods prescribed in paragraph two of this subdivision do not fairly and equitably reflect fuel consumed in this state, the commissioner shall prescribe methods of attribution which fairly and equitably reflect fuel consumed in this state.

(4) "aviation fuel" means kero-jet fuel and aviation gasoline (as described in paragraph three of subdivision (a) of section three hundred one-b of this article). Provided, further the term kero-jet shall not include naphtha based aviation fuel refined and used solely for propelling military jet airplanes of the United States Armed Forces.

(f) An aviation fuel business, which services four or more cities in the state with non-stop flights between such cities, shall be exempt from the tax imposed by this section and any surcharge imposed on such tax.

§ 301-h. Tax relating to carriers. (a)(1) Notwithstanding any other provision of this chapter, there is hereby imposed a monthly tax measured by the rate of the tax hereunder times the number of gallons of motor fuel and diesel motor fuel imported into this state in the fuel tanks of qualified motor vehicles which (i) previously thereto, have not been included in the measure of the tax imposed by section three hundred one-a of this article and (ii) are consumed in this state in the operation of such qualified motor vehicles. Such number of gallons so imported shall be the positive difference between the gallonage consumed by the carrier in this state in its operations during the reporting period and the gallonage purchased by the carrier in this state during the reporting period, which gallonage has been included in the measure of the tax imposed by such section three hundred one-a of this article. Each carrier shall be entitled to a credit, equal to the tax under this article absorbed by such carrier with respect to any excess of gallonage purchased in the state during the reporting period over gallonage so consumed in this state during such period, against the tax for which such carrier would otherwise be liable for the eight succeeding calendar quarters following the end of the reporting period for which such excess was derived, or, if a claim for refund is filed on or before the last day of the month immediately following the four-year period commencing with the end of the reporting period for which such excess was derived, the amount of such credit shall be refunded.

(2) The rate of the tax imposed by this section shall be equal to the motor fuel and highway diesel motor fuel rate set by subdivision (e) of section three hundred one-a plus the rate of the supplemental tax imposed by section three hundred one-j of this article as such rates are specified therein and as they may be adjusted as provided in such provisions.

(3) The tax and tax surcharge shall be upon the carrier, as defined for purposes of the tax imposed by article twenty-one-A of this chapter, except that where the carrier is not the owner of such qualified motor vehicle, the tax shall be a joint and several liability upon both the carrier and the owner. The term "qualified motor vehicle" shall mean such term as defined for the purposes of the tax imposed by such article twenty-one-A. The exemptions provided by section five hundred twenty-five of such article twenty-one-A shall apply to the tax imposed by this section.

(b) Procedures. Any provision of section three hundred fifteen or any other provision of this article to the contrary notwithstanding, the provisions of sections five hundred twenty-six through five hundred twenty-eight of this chapter, including those provisions of article twenty-one-A of this chapter relating to penalty and interest, shall apply to the administration of and procedures with respect to the tax imposed by this section in the same manner and with the same force and effect as if the language of such sections had been incorporated in full into this section and had expressly referred to the tax under this section, except to the extent that any such provision is either inconsistent with a provision of this section or is not relevant to this section.

(c) Joint administration. The commissioner shall jointly administer the taxes imposed by article twenty-one-A of this chapter and the tax imposed by this section, including the joint reporting and payment, assessment, collection, determination and refund or credit of such taxes. For purposes of the joint administration of taxes, the commissioner's functions under such article twenty-one-A and any returns, forms, statements, documents or information to be submitted to the commissioner under such article, any books and records to be kept for purposes of the taxes imposed by such article, any schedules of amounts to be collected under such article, and the payment of taxes under such article, shall apply to the tax imposed by this section and shall be on a joint basis with respect to such tax imposed by this section and the taxes imposed by such article.

(d) Disposition. Any provision of this article to the contrary notwithstanding, the full amount of tax, as well as interest and penalties relating thereto, collected or received by the commissioner under this section shall be deposited and disposed of pursuant to the provisions of section one hundred seventy-one-a of this chapter. Beginning on April first, two thousand one, all the moneys received by the commissioner pursuant to the provisions of this section shall be deposited in the dedicated fund accounts pursuant to subdivision (d) of section three hundred one-j of this article.

§ 301-j. Supplemental petroleum business tax and supplemental tax on aviation gasoline component of aviation fuel business tax. (a)

Imposition of tax. (1) In addition to the taxes imposed by sections three hundred one-a and three hundred one-e of this article, there is hereby imposed upon every petroleum business subject to tax imposed under section three hundred one-a of this article and every aviation fuel business subject to the aviation gasoline component of the tax imposed under section three hundred one-e of this article, a supplemental monthly tax for each or any part of a taxable month at a rate of six and eight-tenths cents per gallon with respect to the products included in each component of the taxes imposed by such section three hundred one-a and the aviation gasoline component of the tax imposed by such section three hundred one-e of this article.

(2) Provided, however, "commercial gallonage," as such term is defined in subdivision (k) of section three hundred of this article, shall be exempt from the measure of the tax imposed under this section.

(3) Provided, further, "railroad diesel," as such term is defined in subdivision (l) of section three hundred of this article, shall be exempt from the measure of the tax imposed under this section.

(4) Provided, further, a separate per gallon rate shall apply with respect to highway diesel motor fuel. Such rate shall be determined by taking the adjusted rate per gallon of tax imposed under paragraph one of this subdivision as adjusted in accordance with paragraph five of this subdivision and subtracting therefrom one and three-quarters cents. Commencing January first, two thousand twelve, and each January thereafter, the per gallon rate applicable to highway diesel motor fuel shall be the adjusted rate under paragraph one of this subdivision as adjusted in accordance with paragraph five of this subdivision which commences on such date minus one and three-quarters cents. The resulting rate under this paragraph shall be expressed in hundredths of a cent.

(5) Except as herein provided, the tax imposed under this section shall be calculated in the same respective manner as the taxes imposed by section three hundred one-a and section three hundred one-e of this article. Except for section three hundred one-d and except as otherwise provided in this section, all the provisions of this article applicable to the taxes imposed by sections three hundred one-a and three hundred one-e of this article, shall apply with respect to the supplemental tax imposed by this section to the same extent as if it were respectively imposed by such sections.

(b) Credit, refund or reimbursement with respect to aviation gasoline.

(i) A credit or refund of the tax paid under this section relative to the tax imposed on aviation gasoline under section three hundred one-e of this article shall be available with respect to aviation gasoline which qualifies for the partial credit or refund under paragraph two of subdivision (b) of section three hundred one-e of this article.

(ii) A reimbursement of the tax paid under this section relative to the tax imposed on aviation gasoline under section three hundred one-e of this article shall be available with respect to aviation gasoline which qualifies for the partial reimbursement under paragraph three of subdivision (d) of section three hundred one-e of this article and for which no credit or refund under subparagraph (i) of this paragraph was provided.

(iii) The commissioner shall require such documentary proof to qualify for any credit, refund or reimbursement of tax provided by this paragraph as the commissioner deems appropriate.

(c) Rate adjustment. The rate of the supplemental tax shall be adjusted at the same time as the rates of the components of the taxes imposed by sections three hundred one-a and three hundred one-e of this article, and the method of making adjustments to the rate of the supplemental tax shall be the same as the method used for such rates.

(d) Deposit and disposition of revenue. All taxes, and any interest and penalties relating thereto, collected or received with respect to the supplemental petroleum and aviation fuel business tax imposed by this section up to and including March thirty-first, nineteen hundred ninety-three shall be deposited and disposed of pursuant to the provisions of section one hundred seventy-one-a of this chapter. Except as otherwise provided, on and after April first, nineteen hundred ninety-three, all taxes, and any interest and penalties relating thereto, collected or received in any month with respect to such supplemental petroleum and aviation fuel business tax imposed by this section, together with any other moneys specified in this chapter to be deposited under this subdivision, shall be deposited, on or before the fifteenth day of each succeeding month, proportionately into the following dedicated fund accounts without priority; sixty-three percent in the dedicated highway and bridge trust fund established pursuant to section eighty-nine-b of the state finance law, thirty-four percent in the dedicated mass transportation trust fund established pursuant to section eighty-nine-c of the state finance law to be distributed as follows: eighty-five percent of such amount shall be allocated to the New York city transit authority and its subsidiaries and the Staten Island rapid transit operating authority and fifteen percent of such amount shall be allocated to the Long Island Rail Road Company and metro north commuter railroad company in accordance with the procedures for payment and distribution specified in section one thousand two hundred seventy-c of the public authorities law, for payment, subject to appropriation, to the metropolitan transportation authority dedicated tax fund established pursuant to section twelve hundred seventy-c of the public authorities law, and three percent in such dedicated mass transportation trust fund to be distributed, subject to appropriation, for purposes authorized by section eighty-nine-c of the state finance law, to entities other than the mass transit operating agencies which receive money from the metropolitan transportation authority dedicated tax fund. Notwithstanding any general or special law to the contrary, other than a law which makes specific reference to this sentence of this section, so long as such metropolitan transportation authority dedicated tax fund shall exist, any appropriation from the dedicated mass transportation trust fund to the metropolitan transportation authority, its affiliates or its subsidiaries shall be deemed to be an appropriation to the metropolitan transportation authority and the total amount paid pursuant to such appropriation or appropriations or section thirty-one of chapter fifty-six of the laws of nineteen hundred ninety-three including the second clause of the first sentence of subdivisions a and b thereof, shall be deposited to such metropolitan transportation authority dedicated tax fund and distributed in accordance with the provisions of section twelve hundred seventy-c of the public authorities law.

Prior to making deposits as provided in this subdivision, the comptroller shall retain such amount as the commissioner may determine to be necessary, subject to the approval of the director of the budget, for reasonable costs of the department in administering and collecting the taxes deposited pursuant to this subdivision and for refunds and reimbursements with respect to such taxes, out of which the comptroller shall pay any refunds or reimbursements of such taxes to which taxpayers shall be entitled. Provided, further, however, that, prior to such deposit, from the amounts so collected or received during the period commencing on January first, nineteen hundred ninety-four and ending on March thirty-first, nineteen hundred ninety-four, an amount equal to the portion of the taxes, interest and penalties so received or collected resulting from the amendments made by sections forty-two, forty-three and forty-four of chapter fifty-seven of the laws of nineteen hundred ninety-three shall be deposited and disposed of pursuant to the

§ 301-1. Refund for tax with respect to in-bulk consumer bad debt.

There shall be allowed to a registered petroleum business or aviation fuel business a refund under this section for the taxes imposed by sections three hundred one-a, three hundred one-e, and three hundred one-j of this article for the tax paid under such sections with respect to gallonage which is represented by a worthless debt as follows:

(a) The refund shall be allowed to a registered petroleum business or aviation fuel business for gallonage with respect to which tax liability for the taxes under this article is imposed on such petroleum business or aviation fuel business where (i) such gallonage has been included in the reports filed by such petroleum business or aviation fuel business and all the taxes under this article with respect to such gallonage have been paid by such business, (ii) such gallonage was sold in-bulk by such petroleum or aviation fuel business to a purchaser for such purchaser's own use and consumption and (iii) such sale gave rise to a debt which became worthless, as that term is used for federal income tax purposes, and where such debt is deducted as a worthless debt for federal income tax purposes for the taxable year covering the month in which such refund claim relating to such debt is filed. Provided, however, for the purposes of this section, a sale of motor fuel and highway diesel motor fuel to a filling station shall be deemed to be a sale in-bulk for such filling station's own use and consumption and, provided, further, in no event shall a worthless debt qualify with respect to the refund hereunder where such debt arises from a retail sale at a filling station or sale wherein product is delivered directly into the fuel tank of a motor vehicle, airplane or other conveyance.

(b) Partial payment. Where a debt became worthless only in part due to partial payment, the amount of the refund under this section shall be determined by apportioning the amount of any partial payment among the components of the total purchase price, including tax under this article, and the amount of tax remaining unpaid after application of the partial payment shall be the amount of the refund.

(c) Upon receipt of a claim for refund in processible form, interest shall be allowed and paid at the overpayment rate set by the commissioner pursuant to subdivision twenty-sixth of section one hundred seventy-one of this chapter from the date of the receipt of the refund claim to the date immediately preceding the date of the refund check except no such interest shall be allowed or paid if the refund check is mailed within ninety days of such receipt and except no interest shall be allowed or paid if the amount thereof would be less than one dollar. Provided, further, the refund shall be granted pro rata against sections three hundred one-a, three hundred one-e, and three hundred one-j of this article, as the case may be, to the same extent as represented by the remittance of the petroleum business or aviation fuel business with respect to the gallonage represented by the worthless debt.

(d) In addition to the applicable report and evidence of tax payment, the commissioner may require such other evidentiary proof as the commissioner deems appropriate to demonstrate qualification for the refund under this section. Provided, further, that the refund of tax allowed under this section, for purposes of the income and franchise taxes imposed by this chapter, shall be reported in such detail as the commissioner may direct. Moreover, notwithstanding any provision to the contrary, all state agencies shall cooperate with the commissioner in administering the refund authorized by this section and shall share with such commissioner such information as the commissioner may deem appropriate in administering the refund under this section.

(e) If there is a disallowance of a bad debt with respect to which a refund under this section has been paid, such disallowance shall have the effect of and be treated as a report of federal change, correction or disallowance (as such effect and treatment is described in section six hundred fifty-nine and subdivision three of section two hundred eleven of this chapter) and the time to assess under this article with respect to such disallowance shall be determined as set forth in such sections.

§ 301-m. Credit or reimbursement for certain governmental purchases by credit card. Notwithstanding any provision of the law to the contrary, tax paid pursuant to this article in respect to motor fuel or diesel motor fuel purchased by a government entity and paid for by such government entity with a credit card shall be reimbursed or credited to the issuer of the credit card used for such purchase or the fuel distributor designated in accordance with and subject to the provisions of sections eleven hundred thirty-eight, eleven hundred thirty-nine, eleven hundred forty-two, and eleven hundred forty-five of this chapter concerning such credit card issuers, fuel distributors and government entities. Such provisions shall apply with respect to the administration of and procedure with respect to the taxes imposed under this article in the same manner and with the same force and effect as if the language of such provisions had been incorporated in full into this article and had expressly referred to the tax under this article, with such modifications as may be necessary in order to adapt the language of such provisions to the taxes imposed by this article, except to the extent that any such provision is not relevant to this article.

§ 302. Registration of petroleum businesses. (a) Registration required. Each petroleum business with respect to motor fuel must be registered with the department of taxation and finance as a distributor of motor fuel under article twelve-A of this chapter. Each petroleum business with respect to diesel motor fuel must be registered with the department of taxation and finance as a distributor of diesel motor fuel under article twelve-A of this chapter or, where applicable, as a "distributor of kero-jet fuel only" under such article. Each petroleum business with respect to residual petroleum product must be registered as a residual petroleum product business under subdivision (b) of this section. No petroleum business unless so registered, shall make any sale, transfer, use or other disposition of motor fuel, diesel motor fuel or residual petroleum product within the state, except a sale, transfer, use or other disposition, if any, as to which the state cannot impose such condition by reason of the United States constitution and of laws of the United States enacted pursuant thereto. No person, unless registered as a residual petroleum product business under this section, shall (i) import or cause residual petroleum product to be imported into this state, (ii) produce, refine, manufacture or compound residual petroleum product within the state, or (iii) make a sale or use of residual petroleum product in the state other than a self-use of residual petroleum product which has been the subject of a retail sale to such person.

(b) Residual petroleum product business. The department, upon the application of a corporation or unincorporated business, shall register such corporation or unincorporated business as a residual petroleum product business except that the commissioner may refuse to register an applicant for any of the grounds specified in subdivision two or five of section two hundred eighty-three of this chapter or in subdivision (d) of this section. The application shall be in such form and contain such information as the commissioner shall prescribe. All of the provisions of subdivisions two, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine and ten of section two hundred eighty-three of this chapter relating to registration of distributors shall be applicable to the registration of residual petroleum product businesses under this section with the same force and effect as if the language of those subdivisions had been incorporated in full in this section and had expressly referred to the registration of residual petroleum product businesses and the tax imposed by this article, with such modification as may be necessary in order to adapt the language of such provisions to the provisions of this article, provided, specifically, that the term "distributor" shall be read as "residual petroleum product business" and the term "motor fuel" shall be read as "residual petroleum product". Provided, however, that if the commissioner is satisfied that the requirements of such provisions for registration are not necessary in order to protect tax revenues, the commissioner may limit or modify such requirements with respect to corporations or unincorporated businesses not required to be registered as distributors of motor fuel or diesel motor fuel.

(c) Bond or other security. The commissioner may require a petroleum business to file with it a bond issued by a surety company approved by the superintendent of financial services as to solvency and responsibility and authorized to transact business in this state or other security acceptable to the commissioner, in such amount as the commissioner may fix in an amount determined in accordance with rules and regulations prescribed by the commissioner, to secure the payment of any sums due from such petroleum business pursuant to this article. The commissioner may require that such a bond or other security be filed before a petroleum business is registered, and the amount thereof may be increased at any time when in the commissioner's judgment the same is necessary as a protection to the revenues under this article. If securities are deposited as security under this subdivision, such securities shall be kept in the joint custody of the comptroller and the commissioner of taxation and finance. Such securities may be sold by the commissioner if it becomes necessary so to do in order to recover any sums due from such petroleum business pursuant to this article, but no such sale shall be had until after such petroleum business shall have had opportunity to litigate the validity of any tax if it elects so to do. Upon any such sale the surplus, if any, above the sums due under this article shall be returned to such petroleum business. All of the provisions of paragraph (b) of subdivision six of section two hundred eighty-three of this chapter relating to increasing the amount of the bond or other security required to be filed pursuant to article twelve-A of this chapter shall be applicable to bonds or other security required to be filed pursuant to this subdivision.

(d) Refusal to register. For the purposes of determining whether to refuse an application for registration under article twelve-A of this chapter as a distributor of motor fuel, diesel motor fuel or kero-jet fuel only or under this section as a residual petroleum product business, the references in subdivision two of section two hundred eighty-three of this chapter to employees or shareholders under a duty to file a return under or pursuant to the authority of article twelve-A of this chapter or pay the taxes imposed by or pursuant to the authority of such article on behalf of the applicant or another person shall be deemed to also include an employee under a duty to file a return or pay taxes under or pursuant to the authority of this article on behalf of such applicant or other person. In addition to the grounds specified in section two hundred eighty-three of this chapter, the commissioner may refuse to register an applicant as a distributor of motor fuel, diesel motor fuel or kero-jet fuel only or as a residual petroleum product business where the commissioner ascertains that the applicant, an officer, director or partner of the applicant, a shareholder directly or indirectly owning more than ten percent of the number of shares of stock of such applicant (where such applicant is a corporation) entitling the holder thereof to vote for the election of directors or trustees, or an employee or shareholder of such applicant under a duty to file a return under or pursuant to the authority of this article or article twelve-A of this chapter or to pay the taxes imposed by or pursuant to the authority of this article or article twelve-A of this chapter on behalf of the applicant, (1) has committed any of the acts or omissions which are, or was convicted as, specified in subdivision (e) of this section within the preceding five years, or (2) was an officer, director or partner of another person, or who directly or indirectly owned more than ten percent of the shares of stock of another person (where such other person is a corporation) entitling the holder thereof to vote for the election of directors or trustees, or who was an employee or shareholder of another person under a duty to file a return under or pursuant to the authority of this article or article twelve-A of this chapter or pay the taxes imposed by or pursuant to the authority of this article or article twelve-A of this chapter on behalf of such other person at the time such other person committed any of the acts or omissions which are, or was convicted as, specified in subdivision (e) of this section within the preceding five years.

(e) Cancellation or suspension of registration. The grounds for a cancellation or suspension of a registration under article twelve-A of this chapter as a distributor of motor fuel, diesel motor fuel or kero-jet fuel only or under this section as a residual petroleum product business are those grounds specified in section two hundred eighty-three of this chapter and, in addition to such grounds, the following grounds relating to this article shall apply:

(1) A registration as a distributor of motor fuel, diesel motor fuel or kero-jet fuel only or as a residual petroleum product business may be cancelled or suspended if the commissioner determines that a registrant or an officer, director or partner of the registrant, a shareholder directly or indirectly owning more than ten percent of the number of shares of stock of such registrant (where such registrant is a corporation) entitling the holder thereof to vote for the election of directors or trustees, or an employee or shareholder of such registrant under a duty to file a return under or pursuant to the authority of this article or article twelve-A of this chapter or to pay the taxes imposed by or pursuant to the authority of this article or article twelve-A of this chapter on behalf of the registrant (A) fails to file or maintain in full force and effect a bond or other security when required pursuant to subdivision (c) of this section or when the amount thereof is increased,

(B) fails to comply with any of the provisions of this article or any rule or regulation adopted pursuant to this article by the commissioner,

(C) knowingly aids and abets another person in violating any of the provisions of this article or any rule or regulation adopted pursuant to this article by the commissioner,

(D) transfers its registration as a petroleum business without the prior written approval of the commissioner,

(E) with respect to a petroleum business which is a corporation, has been dissolved pursuant to section two hundred three-a of this chapter and subdivision (d) of section three hundred ten of this article,

(F) commits fraud or deceit in his or its operations as a petroleum business or has committed fraud or deceit in procuring his or its registration,

(G) has impersonated any person represented to be a petroleum business under this article but not in fact registered as a distributor of motor fuel, diesel motor fuel or kero-jet fuel only or a residual petroleum product business, or

(H) has knowingly aided and abetted the distribution of motor fuel, diesel motor fuel or residual petroleum product by corporation or unincorporated business which such registrant or such other person knows (i) has not been registered by the commissioner as a distributor of motor fuel, diesel motor fuel or kero-jet fuel only or as a residual petroleum product business and (ii) is a petroleum business pursuant to the terms of subdivision (b) of section three hundred of this article.

(2) A registration as a distributor of motor fuel, diesel motor fuel or kero-jet fuel only or as a residual petroleum product business may be cancelled or suspended if the commissioner determines that a registrant or an officer, director or partner of the registrant, a shareholder directly or indirectly owning more than ten percent of the number of shares of stock of such registrant (where such registrant is a corporation) entitling the holder thereof to vote for the election of directors or trustees, or an employee or shareholder of such registrant under a duty to file a return under or pursuant to the authority of this article or article twelve-A of this chapter on behalf of the registrant, was an officer, director or partner of another person or was a shareholder directly or indirectly owning more than ten percent of the number of shares of stock of another person (where such other person is a corporation) entitling the holder thereof to vote for the election of directors or trustees, or was an employee or shareholder of another person under a duty to file a return under or pursuant to the authority of this article or article twelve-A of this chapter or to pay the taxes imposed by or pursuant to the authority of this article or article twelve-A of this chapter on behalf of such other person at the time such other person committed any of the acts specified in paragraph one of this subdivision within the preceding five years.

(f) Cancellation or suspension of registration prior to a hearing. The grounds for cancelling or suspending a registration under article twelve-A of this chapter as a distributor of motor fuel, diesel motor fuel or kero-jet fuel only or under this section as a residual petroleum product business prior to a hearing are those specified in subdivision five of section two hundred eighty-three of this chapter and, in addition to such grounds, the following grounds relating to this article shall apply:

(1) the failure to file a return within ten days of the date prescribed for filing a return under this article or nonpayment of any tax due pursuant to this article if the registrant shall have failed to file such return or pay such taxes within ten days after the date the demand therefor is sent by registered or certified mail to the address of the distributor or residual petroleum business given in its application, or an address substituted therefor as provided in subdivision five of section two hundred eighty-three of this chapter,

(2) the failure to continue to maintain in full force and effect at all times the bond or other security required to be filed pursuant to subdivision (c) of this section, provided, however, that if a surety bond is cancelled prior to expiration, the commissioner may after considering all the relevant circumstances make such other arrangements, and may require the filing of such other bond or other security as it deems appropriate,

(3) the transfer of a registration as a residual petroleum business without the prior written approval of the commissioner, or

(4) with respect to a petroleum business which is a corporation, the dissolution or annulment of such corporation pursuant to section three hundred ten of this article.

§ 305. Exempt entities.--No corporation or unincorporated business shall be a petroleum business subject to tax under this article because it imported or caused motor fuel, diesel motor fuel or residual petroleum product to be imported into this state or produced, refined, manufactured or compounded such products in this state where such motor fuel, diesel motor fuel or residual petroleum product is exclusively for the use and consumption of such corporation or unincorporated business and such corporation or incorporated business is an organization described in subdivision (a) of section eleven hundred sixteen of this chapter.

§ 308. Returns and payment of tax.-- (a) General.--Every petroleum business subject to tax under this article shall monthly, on or before the twentieth day following the close of its taxable month, file a return which shall state (i) the number of gallons of motor fuel imported or caused to be imported into this state for use, distribution, storage or sale in the state or produced, refined, manufactured or compounded in the state during the preceding calendar month, (ii) the number of gallons of diesel motor fuel sold or used or, with respect to gallonage which prior thereto has not been included in the measure of the tax imposed by this article, delivered by the petroleum business to a filling station or into the fuel tank connecting with the engine of a motor vehicle for use in the operation thereof during the preceding calendar month, (iii) the number of gallons of, and the resultant product produced, manufactured or blended, using diesel motor fuel as a component of such resultant product and the sales of such resultant product, and (iv) the number of gallons of residual petroleum product sold or used in this state and the sales of such residual petroleum product, for the period covered by such return. A residual petroleum business shall include in its reports the number of gallons of residual petroleum product imported into the state or purchased in this state, the number of gallons of diesel motor fuel purchased in this state and the number of gallons of, and the resultant product produced, manufactured or blended by such petroleum business, using diesel motor fuel as a component of such resultant product. The commissioner of taxation and finance may permit the filing of a return on a quarterly basis in the case of a petroleum business which only makes sales of diesel motor fuel solely for residential heating purposes and which is registered under article twelve-A of this chapter as a diesel motor fuel distributor under a limited registration applicable only to the importation, sale and distribution of diesel motor fuel for the purposes described in subparagraph (i) of paragraph (b) of subdivision three of section two hundred eighty-two-a of this chapter or in the case of a petroleum business registered as a "distributor of kero-jet fuel only" pursuant to the provisions of subdivision two of section two hundred eighty-two-a of this chapter. In the case of such returns permitted to be filed on a quarterly basis, the adjustments to the rates of tax then in effect, as provided for in sections three hundred one-a and three hundred one-e of this article, which take effect on the first day of January of each year shall, with respect to such quarterly return, take effect on the first day of the next succeeding March. Returns shall be filed with the commissioner on a form prescribed by the commissioner, setting forth such other information as the commissioner may prescribe. Every petroleum business shall also transmit such other returns and such facts and information as the commissioner may require in the administration of this article. Every petroleum business which is a corporation subject to tax under this article and which ceases to exercise its franchise or to be subject to the tax imposed by this article shall transmit to the commissioner a return on the date of such cessation, or at such other time as the commissioner may require, covering each month or period for which no return was theretofore filed. The commissioner may, if the commissioner deems it necessary in order to insure the payment of the tax imposed by this article, require returns to be made at such times and covering such periods as the commissioner may deem necessary. Notwithstanding the foregoing provisions of this subdivision, the commissioner may require any corporation or unincorporated business that engages in transactions involving petroleum or similar products, including aviation fuels, to file a monthly return, which shall contain such information as the commissioner prescribes, regardless of whether such corporation or unincorporated business is subject to tax under this article. Notwithstanding the provisions of this subdivision, every petroleum business that operates a "commercial vessel", as defined in subdivision (b) of section eleven hundred one of this chapter, shall annually file the returns required under this section, on a form and containing such information as the commissioner prescribes. Such "commercial vessel" returns shall be filed annually on or before March twentieth and shall cover the four sales tax quarterly periods described in subdivision (b) of section eleven hundred thirty-six of this chapter immediately preceding such date.

(b) Payment of tax. Each petroleum business shall pay to the commissioner of taxation and finance with the filing of the return or returns the tax imposed by this article during the period covered by the return. Such tax imposed on any petroleum business which is a corporation and which ceases to exercise its franchise or to be subject to the tax imposed by this article shall be payable to the commissioner at the time the return is required to be filed, provided such tax of a petroleum business which is a domestic corporation and which continues to possess its franchise shall be subject to adjustment as the circumstances may require; all other taxes of any such petroleum business, which pursuant to the foregoing provisions of this section would otherwise be payable subsequent to the time such return is required to be filed, shall nevertheless be payable at such time.

(c) Special provisions regarding sole proprietorships.--With respect to any petroleum business which is a sole proprietorship:

(1) the return for such petroleum business where the proprietor has died shall be made and filed by his executor, administrator, or other person charged with his property, and

(2) the return for such petroleum business where the proprietor is unable to make a return by reason of a disability shall be made and filed by his conservator, committee, fiduciary or other person charged with the care of his person or property (other than a receiver in possession of only a part of his property), or by his duly authorized agent.

(d) Estates and trusts.--The return for a petroleum business which is an estate or trust shall be made and filed by the fiduciary.

(e) Joint fiduciaries.--If two or more fiduciaries are acting jointly on behalf of a petroleum business, the return may be made by any one of them.

(f) Notice of qualification as receiver, etc.--Every receiver, trustee in bankruptcy, assignee for benefit of creditors of, or other fiduciary for a petroleum business shall give notice of his qualification as such to the commissioner of taxation and finance, as may be required by regulation.

(g) Certification.--Every return shall have annexed thereto a certification by the president, vice-president, treasurer, assistant treasurer, chief accounting officer or any other officer of the petroleum business duly authorized so to act where such petroleum business is a corporation, or of the individual or one of the individuals, or members of the partnership making the same where the petroleum business is an unincorporated business, to the effect that the statements contained therein are true. The fact that an individual's name is signed on a certification of the return shall be prima facie evidence that such individual is authorized to sign and certify the return on behalf of the petroleum business. Blank forms of returns shall be furnished by the commissioner of taxation and finance, on application, but failure to secure such a blank shall not release any petroleum business from the obligation of making any return required by this article.

(h) Action by attorney general.--An action may be brought at any time by the attorney general at the instance of the commissioner of taxation and finance, in the name of the state, to compel the filing of returns due under this article.

(i) Returns and records.--Returns shall be preserved for five years, and thereafter until the commissioner of taxation and finance orders them to be destroyed. Every petroleum business subject to tax under this article shall keep the records and documents referred to in subdivision one of section two hundred eighty-six of this chapter and such other records of its business in such form as the commissioner may require; moreover, the records required of transporters and storers under such subdivision shall apply with the same force and effect to transporters and storers of any product included in the measure of the tax imposed by this article. All such records shall be preserved for a period of three years, except that the commissioner may consent to their destruction within that period or may require that they be kept longer.

(j) Every petroleum business subject to tax under this article that is also a distributor, as defined in section two hundred eighty-two of this chapter, must charge the tax imposed by this article to the purchaser on each gallon sold, unless otherwise exempt. If the taxes imposed by this article have not already been assumed or paid by such petroleum business on any quantity of such fuel for any reason, including, but not limited to, the expansion of such fuel as a result of temperature fluctuation, such petroleum business must remit such taxes to the commissioner on the return for the period in which such sale was made.

§ 310. Corporate petroleum businesses; collection of taxes and penalties.--(a) Designation for service of process.--Every petroleum business which is a corporation, except such a petroleum business having a certificate of authority under section two hundred twelve of the general corporation law or having authority to do business by virtue of section thirteen hundred five of the business corporation law, shall file in the department of state a certificate of designation in its corporate name, signed and acknowledged by its president or vice-president or its secretary or treasurer, under its corporate seal, designating the secretary of state as its agent upon whom process in any action provided for by this article may be served within this state, and setting forth an address to which the secretary of state shall mail a copy of any such process against such petroleum business which may be served upon him. In case any such petroleum business shall have failed to file such certificate of designation, it shall be deemed to have designated the secretary of state as its agent upon whom such process against it may be served; and until a certificate of designation shall have been filed such a petroleum business shall be deemed to have directed the secretary of state to mail copies of process served upon him to such petroleum business at its last known office address within or without the state. When a certificate of designation has been filed by such a petroleum business the secretary of state shall mail copies of process thereafter served upon him to the address set forth in such certificate. Any such petroleum business, from time to time, may change the address to which the secretary of state is directed to mail copies of process, by filing a certificate to that effect executed, signed and acknowledged in like manner as a certificate of designation as herein provided.

(b) Service of process.--Service of process upon any petroleum business which is a corporation (including any such petroleum business having a certificate of authority under section two hundred twelve of the general corporation law or having authority to do business by virtue of section thirteen hundred five of the business corporation law), in any action commenced at any time pursuant to the provisions of this article, may be made by either (1) personally delivering to and leaving with the secretary of state, a deputy secretary of state or with any person authorized by the secretary of state to receive such service duplicate copies thereof at the office of the department of state in the city of Albany, in which event the secretary of state shall forthwith send by registered mail, return receipt requested, one of such copies to such petroleum business at the address designated by it or at its last known office address within or without the state, or (2) personally delivering to and leaving with the secretary of state, a deputy secretary of state or with any person authorized by the secretary of state to receive such service, a copy thereof at the office of the department of state in the city of Albany and by delivering a copy thereof to, and leaving such copy with, the president, vice-president, secretary, assistant secretary, treasurer, assistant treasurer, or cashier of such petroleum business, or the officer performing corresponding functions under another name, or a director or managing agent of such petroleum business, personally without the state. Proof of such personal service without the state shall be filed with the clerk of the court in which the action is pending within thirty days after such service, and such service shall be complete ten days after proof thereof is filed.

(c) Forfeiture penalty.--If any taxes, penalties or interest due under this article are not paid by a petroleum business which is a corporation, or any return required is not filed by such a petroleum business, and the tax commission is satisfied that the failure to make such payment or file such return is intentional, it may so report to the attorney general, who shall immediately bring an action in the name of the people of the state, for the forfeiture of the charter or franchise of any such petroleum business failing to make such payment, or file such return, and if it be found that such failure was intentional, judgment shall be rendered in such action for the forfeiture of such charter and for its dissolution if such petroleum business is a domestic corporation and, if such petroleum business is a foreign corporation, for the annulment of its franchise to do business in this state.

(d) Dissolution penalty.--Whenever any petroleum business which is a corporation (excepting those covered by subdivision (e) of this section) has failed to file a return for a period of six consecutive months or has been delinquent in the payment of taxes for any six taxable months duly assessed pursuant to this article, all the authority and powers conferred on the commissioner of taxation and finance and the secretary of state by section two hundred three-a of this chapter and all of the provisions of such section shall have full force and effect in respect of and shall be applicable to such a petroleum business.

(e) Annulment penalty.--Whenever any petroleum business which is a foreign corporation has failed to file a return or has been delinquent in the payment of taxes duly assessed pursuant to this article for the periods of time specified in subdivision (d) of this section, all the authority and powers conferred on the commissioner of taxation and finance and the secretary of state by section two hundred three-b of this chapter and all of the provisions of such section shall have full force and effect in respect of and shall be applicable to such a petroleum business.

§ 312. Deposit and disposition of revenue.-- (a) Except as otherwise provided, of all taxes, interest and penalties collected or received on or after April first, two thousand one, from the taxes imposed by section three hundred one-a of this article, (i) initially eighty and three-tenths percent shall be deposited, as prescribed by subdivision (d) of section three hundred one-j of this article and (ii) nineteen and seven-tenths percent shall be deposited in such mass transportation operating assistance fund to the credit of the metropolitan mass transportation operating assistance account and the public transportation systems operating assistance account thereof in the manner provided by subdivision eleven of section one hundred eighty-two-a of this chapter. Provided, further that on or before the twenty-fifth day of each month commencing with April, two thousand one, the comptroller shall deduct the amount of six hundred twenty-five thousand dollars prior to any deposit or disposition of the taxes, interest, and penalties collected or received pursuant to such section three hundred one-a and shall deposit such amount in the dedicated fund accounts pursuant to subdivision (d) of section three hundred one-j of this article. Provided, further, that commencing January fifteenth, nineteen hundred ninety-one, and on or before the tenth day of March and the fifteenth day of June and September of such year, the commissioner shall, based on information supplied by taxpayers and other appropriate sources, estimate the amount of the utility credit authorized by section three hundred one-d of this article which has been accrued to reduce tax liability under section one hundred eighty-six-a of this chapter during the period covered by such estimate and certify to the state comptroller such estimated amount. The comptroller shall forthwith, after receiving such certificate, deduct the amount of such credit so certified by the commissioner prior to any deposit or disposition of the taxes, interest and penalties collected or received pursuant to such section three hundred one-a and shall pay such amount so certified and deducted into the state treasury to the credit of the general fund. Also, subsequently, during the fiscal year when the commissioner becomes aware of changes or modifications with respect to actual credit usage, the commissioner shall, as soon as practicable, issue a certification setting forth the amount of any required adjustment to the amount of actual credit usage previously certified. After receiving the certificate of the commissioner with respect to actual credit usage or modification of the same, the comptroller shall forthwith adjust general fund receipts and the revenues to be deposited or disposed of under this article to reflect the difference so certified by the commissioner. The commissioner shall not be liable for any overestimate or underestimate of the amount of the utility credit which has been accrued to reduce tax liability under such section one hundred eighty-six-a. Nor shall the commissioner be liable for any inaccuracy in any certificate with respect to the amount of such credit actually used or any required adjustment with respect to actual credit usage, but the commissioner shall as soon as practicable after discovery of any error adjust the next certification under this section to reflect any such error.

Prior to making deposits as provided in this section, the comptroller shall retain such amount as the commissioner may determine to be necessary, subject to the approval of the director of the budget, for reasonable costs of the department in administering and collecting the taxes deposited pursuant to this section and for refunds and reimbursements with respect to such taxes, out of which the comptroller shall pay any refunds or reimbursements of such taxes to which taxpayers shall be entitled.

(b) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, all taxes, interest, and penalties collected or received on or after December first, two thousand seventeen from the taxes imposed by section three hundred one-e of this article shall be deposited in the aviation purpose account of the dedicated highway and bridge trust fund established by section eighty-nine-b of the state finance law.

§ 313. Limitation of time.--The provisions of the civil practice law and rules relative to the limitation of time of enforcing a civil remedy shall not apply to any proceeding or action taken to levy, appraise, assess, determine or enforce the collection of any tax or penalty prescribed by this article; provided, however, that as to real estate in the hands of persons who are owners thereof who would be purchasers in good faith but for such tax or penalty and as to the lien on real estate of mortgages held by persons who would be holders thereof in good faith but for such tax or penalty, all such taxes and penalties shall cease to be a lien on such real estate as against such purchasers or holders after the expiration of ten years from the date such taxes became due and payable. The limitations herein provided for shall not apply to any transfer from a petroleum business to a person with intent to avoid payment of any taxes, or where with like intent the transfer is made to a grantee, or any subsequent grantee controlled by such petroleum business or which has any community of interest with it, either through stock ownership or otherwise.

§ 314. Secrecy.--(a) General. Except in accordance with proper judicial order or as otherwise provided by law, it shall be unlawful for any tax commissioner, any officer or employee of the department of taxation and finance, or any person who, pursuant to this section, is permitted to inspect any return, or to whom any information contained in any return is furnished, or any person engaged or retained by such department on an independent contract basis, or any person who in any manner may acquire knowledge of the contents of a return filed pursuant to this article, to divulge or make known in any manner the amount of income or gross receipts or any particulars set forth or disclosed in any return under this article. The officers charged with the custody of such returns shall not be required to produce any of them or evidence of anything contained in them in any action or proceeding in any court, except on behalf of the state or the commissioner of taxation and finance in an action or proceeding under the provisions of this chapter or in any other action or proceeding involving the collection of a tax due under this chapter to which the state or the commissioner is a party or a claimant, or on behalf of any party to any action or proceeding under the provisions of this article when the returns or facts shown thereby are directly involved in such action or proceeding, in any of which events the court may require the production of, and may admit in evidence, so much of said returns or of the facts shown thereby as are pertinent to the action or proceeding and no more. The commissioner may, nevertheless, publish a copy or a summary of any determination or decision rendered after the formal hearing provided for in this chapter. Nothing herein shall be construed to prohibit the delivery to a petroleum business or its duly authorized representative of a copy of any return filed by it, nor to prohibit the publication of statistics so classified as to prevent the identification of particular returns and the items thereof, or the disclosure of data other than taxpayer identity information from a return or returns of one or more petroleum or fossil fuel businesses to the department of environmental conservation or the New York state energy research and development authority for the purpose of implementing the New York state climate change superfund act, the climate leadership and community protection act, chapter one hundred six of the laws of two thousand nineteen, promulgation of regulations thereunder, and achievement of the statewide greenhouse gas emission limits, as defined and established in article seventy-five of the environmental conservation law, or the publication of delinquent lists showing the names of petroleum businesses who have failed to pay their taxes at the time and in the manner provided by section three hundred eight of this article together with any relevant information which in the opinion of the commissioner may assist in the collection of such delinquent taxes; or the inspection by the attorney general or other legal representatives of the state of the return of any petroleum business which shall bring action to set aside or review the tax based thereon, or against whom an action or proceeding under this chapter has been recommended by the commissioner or the attorney general or has been instituted; or the inspection of the returns of any petroleum business by the comptroller or duly designated officer or employee of the state department of audit and control, for purposes of the audit of a refund of any tax paid by such petroleum business under this article. Provided, further, nothing herein shall be construed to prohibit the disclosure of taxpayer identity information, including name, mailing address and taxpayer identifying number (social security account number, or such other number as has been assigned by the secretary of the United States treasury or such secretary's delegate, or by the commissioner of taxation and finance), with respect to persons who are registered as residual petroleum product or aviation fuel businesses under this article or as distributors of motor fuel or diesel motor fuel or kero-jet fuel only for the purpose of article twelve-A of this chapter or this article, whose registration as a residual petroleum product business or as such distributor has been cancelled or suspended pursuant to this article or such article twelve-A or whose application for registration as a residual petroleum product business or as such distributor has been refused pursuant to this article or such article twelve-A. In addition, the commissioner may disclose the fact that a person is not registered as a residual petroleum business under this article or as a distributor of motor fuel, diesel motor fuel or kero-jet fuel only under article twelve-A of this chapter. Information disclosed pursuant to this subdivision shall not, by itself, be construed as proof of compliance or noncompliance with the provisions of this chapter.

(b) Penalty for violation.--(1) Any officer or employee of the state who willfully violates the provisions of subdivision (a) of this section shall be dismissed from office and be incapable of holding any public office in this state for a period of five years thereafter.

(2) Cross-reference: For criminal penalties, see article thirty-seven of this chapter.

(c) Exceptions regarding the United States, other states and certain municipal proceedings.--Notwithstanding the provisions of subdivision (a) of this section, the tax commission may permit the secretary of the treasury of the United States or his delegates, or the proper officer of any other state charged with tax administration, or the authorized representative of either such officer, to inspect the returns filed under this article, or may furnish to such officer or his authorized representative an abstract of any such return or supply information concerning an item contained in any such return, or disclosed by an investigation of tax liability under this article, but such permission shall be granted or such information furnished to such officer or his representative only if the laws of the United States or of such other state, as the case may be, grant substantially similar privileges to the commission or officer of this state charged with the administration of the tax imposed by this article and such information is to be used for tax purposes only; and provided further the commissioner of taxation and finance may furnish to the secretary of the treasury of the United States or his delegates such returns filed under this article and other tax information, as he may consider proper, for use in court actions or proceedings under the internal revenue code whether civil or criminal, where a written request therefor has been made to the commissioner of taxation and finance by the secretary of the treasury or his delegates provided the laws of the United States grant substantially similar powers to the secretary of the treasury or his delegates. Where the commissioner of taxation and finance has so authorized use of returns or other tax information in such actions or proceedings, officers and employees of the department of taxation and finance may testify in such actions or proceedings in respect to such returns or other tax information; and provided further that such commission may furnish any municipality with such information contained in the returns filed under this article as it may consider proper for use in any certiorari or condemnation proceeding.

(d) Exceptions regarding city income taxes.--Notwithstanding the provisions of subdivision (a) of this section, the tax commission may permit the officer charged with the administration of an income tax imposed by any city of the state of New York, or the authorized representative of such officer, to inspect the returns filed under this article, or may furnish to such officer or his authorized representative an abstract of any such return or supply information concerning an item contained in any such return, or disclosed by any investigation of tax liability under this article, but such permission shall be granted or such information furnished to such officer or his representative only if the local laws of such city grant substantially similar privileges to the commission or officer of this state charged with the administration of the tax imposed by this article and such information is to be used for tax purposes only; and provided further the commissioner of taxation and finance may furnish to such city officer or his delegates and the legal representative of such city such returns filed under this article and other tax information, as he may consider proper, for use in court actions or proceedings under such local law, whether civil or criminal, where a written request therefor has been made to the commissioner of taxation and finance by such city officer or his delegates or by such legal representative of such city, provided the local law of such city grants substantially similar powers to the city officer charged with the administration of the city income tax or his delegates. Where the commissioner of taxation and finance has so authorized use of returns or other tax information in such actions or proceedings, officers and employees of the department of taxation and finance may testify in such actions or proceedings in respect to such returns or other tax information.

(e) Exceptions regarding depositories.--Notwithstanding the provisions of subdivision (a) of this section, the commissioner of taxation and finance, in such commissioner's discretion, may require or permit any or all petroleum businesses liable for any tax imposed by this article to make payment of any tax, penalty or interest imposed by this article to banks, banking houses or trust companies designated by the commissioner and to file returns with such banks, banking houses or trust companies as agents of the commissioner, in lieu of making any such payment directly to the commissioner. However, the commissioner shall designate only such banks, banking houses or trust companies as are or shall be designated by the comptroller as depositories pursuant to section three hundred twelve of this article.

(f) Disclosure of certain information where more than one person is subject to penalty. If the commissioner determines that a person is liable for a penalty under subdivision two of section two hundred eighty-nine-b of this chapter (as applicable to this article under section three hundred fifteen of this article) with respect to any failure, upon request in writing of such person, the commissioner shall disclose in writing to such person (1) the name of any other person whom the commissioner has determined to be liable for such penalty with respect to such failure, and (2) whether the commissioner has attempted to collect such penalty from such other person, the general nature of such collection activities, and the amount collected.

(g) Cooperation with investigations by certain committees of the United States Congress.--(1) Notwithstanding the provisions of subdivision (a) of this section, upon written request from the chairperson of the committee on ways and means of the United States House of Representatives, the chairperson of the committee on finance of the United States Senate, or the chairperson of the joint committee on taxation of the United States Congress, the commissioner shall furnish such committee with any current or prior year returns specified in such request that were filed under this article by the president of the United States, vice-president of the United States, member of the United States Congress representing New York state, or any person who served in or was employed by the executive branch of the government of the United States on the executive staff of the president, in the executive office of the president, or in an acting or confirmed capacity in a position subject to confirmation by the United States senate; or, in New York state: a statewide elected official, as defined in paragraph (a) of subdivision one of section seventy-three-a of the public officers law; a state officer or employee, as defined in subparagraph (i) of paragraph (c) of subdivision one of such section seventy-three-a; a political party chairperson, as defined in paragraph (h) of subdivision one of such section seventy-three-a; a local elected official, as defined in subdivisions one and two of section eight hundred ten of the general municipal law; a person appointed, pursuant to law, to serve due to vacancy or otherwise in the position of a local elected official, as defined in subdivisions one and two of section eight hundred ten of the general municipal law; a member of the state legislature; or a judge or justice of the unified court system, or filed by a partnership, firm, association, corporation, joint-stock company, trust or similar entity directly or indirectly controlled by any individual listed in this paragraph, whether by contract, through ownership or control of a majority interest in such entity, or otherwise, or filed by a partnership, firm, association, corporation, joint-stock company, trust or similar entity of which any individual listed in this paragraph holds ten percent or more of the voting securities of such entity; provided however that, prior to furnishing any return, the commissioner shall redact any copy of a federal return (or portion thereof) attached to, or any information on a federal return that is reflected on, such return, and any social security numbers, account numbers and residential address information.

(2) No returns shall be furnished pursuant to this subdivision unless the chairperson of the requesting committee certifies in writing that such returns have been requested related to, and in furtherance of, a legitimate task of the Congress, that the requesting committee has made a written request to the United States secretary of the treasury for related federal returns or return information, pursuant to 26 U.S.C. Section 6103(f), and that if such requested returns are inspected by and/or submitted to another committee, to the United States House of Representatives, or to the United States Senate, then such inspection and/or submission shall occur in a manner consistent with federal law as informed by the requirements and procedures established in 26 U.S.C. Section 6103(f).

§ 315. Practice and procedure.--(a) The provisions of subsections (g) and (j) of section one thousand ninety-two, section one thousand ninety-three and article twelve-A of this chapter, including those provisions of such article twelve-A relating to penalty and interest, shall apply to the administration of and procedure with respect to the tax imposed under this article in the same manner and with the same force and effect as if the language of such subsections (g) and (j), section one thousand ninety-three and article twelve-A had been incorporated in full into this article and had expressly referred to the tax under this article, except to the extent that any such provision is either inconsistent with a provision of this article or is not relevant to this article or that the provisions of such article twelve-A are inconsistent with the provisions of such subsections (g) and (j) or with such section one thousand ninety-three.

(b) Joint administration of taxes. In addition to the powers granted to the commissioner in this chapter, the commissioner is hereby authorized to make provisions for the joint administration, in whole or in part, of the taxes imposed by articles twelve-A and twenty-eight and pursuant to the authority of article twenty-nine of this chapter upon motor fuel and diesel motor fuel and the taxes imposed by this article, including the joint reporting, assessment, collection, determination and refund of such taxes, and for that purpose to prescribe that any of the commissioner's functions under such articles, and any returns, forms, statements, documents or information to be submitted to the commissioner under such articles, any books and records to be kept for purposes of the taxes imposed or authorized to be imposed by such articles, any schedules of amounts to be collected under such articles, any registration required under such articles, and the payment of taxes under such articles, shall be on a joint basis with respect to the taxes imposed by or pursuant to such articles. Provided, notwithstanding any provision of this article to the contrary, in the furtherance of joint administration, the provisions of subdivision one of section two hundred eighty-five-a and subdivision one of section two hundred eighty-nine-c of this chapter shall apply to the taxes imposed under this article with the same force and effect as if those provisions specifically referred to the taxes imposed hereunder and all the products with respect to which the taxes are imposed under this article. Provided, further, a reimbursement (or credit) of taxes imposed under this article shall be available to subsequent purchasers of motor fuel, diesel motor fuel or residual petroleum product under the circumstances specified in subdivision eight of section two hundred eighty-nine-c of this chapter with respect to the export of such products. In addition, all the provisions of subdivision one of section two hundred eighty-six of this chapter shall be applicable to all of the products included in the measure of the tax imposed by this article and the powers of the commissioner in administering the tax imposed by this article shall include these set forth in such subdivision. Moreover, the commissioner, in order to preserve the revenue from the tax imposed by this article, shall, by regulation, require that the movement of residual petroleum product into or in this state be accompanied by a tracking document. Also, the commissioner may require (i) that any returns, forms, statements or other document with respect to motor fuel or diesel motor fuel required of transporters or terminal operators under such article twelve-A of this chapter apply with the same force and effect to persons transporting or storing residual petroleum product, (ii) a certification that particular gallonage of motor fuel, diesel motor fuel or residual petroleum product has been included in the measure of the tax imposed by this article and such tax has been paid, and (iii) that the certification required pursuant to section two hundred eighty-five-a or two hundred eighty-five-b of this chapter be expanded to include the tax imposed by this article.

§ 421. Registration of distributors. 1. General. The commissioner, upon the application of a distributor, shall register such distributor in suitable books to be kept by the department for that purpose, conditioned upon the obtaining of appropriate licenses pursuant to the alcoholic beverage control law, and the continuance of such license shall be a continuing condition of registration as a distributor under this article. The application shall be in a form and contain such data as the commissioner shall prescribe. No distributor, unless so registered, shall make any sale of alcoholic beverages within this state, except a sale, if any, as to which this state is without power to impose such condition. No person, unless so registered, shall (i) import or cause any liquors to be imported in this state for sale or use within this state, (ii) purchase a warehouse receipt and pursuant to such purchase then cause liquors covered by such receipt to be removed from a warehouse in this state or (iii) except in accordance with clause (i) or (ii) of paragraph (b) of subdivision four of section four hundred twenty of this article, produce, distill, manufacture, compound, mix or ferment any such liquors within this state for sale. Provided, however, that the commissioner may exclude from registration requirements any person who is a distributor of liquors solely by reason of the importation into this state of no more than ninety liters of liquors during a one-year period for such person's personal use and consumption to register as a distributor with respect to liquor. Provided, further, that an abbreviated registration in the form of a permit, without a bond, may be instituted by the commissioner for the purpose of authorizing the importation of up to three hundred sixty liters of liquors per year into this state by an individual for such individual's personal use and consumption in this state.

2. Temporary restraining order and permanent injunction against unlawful importation and a forfeiture of unlawfully imported or produced liquors. (a) In an action commenced pursuant to this subdivision whenever evidence is furnished by the commissioner showing a substantial likelihood that a person not registered as a distributor as required by this article has imported or may import liquors into this state or caused or may cause liquors to be imported into this state for sale or use in this state or has produced, distilled, manufactured, compounded, mixed or fermented or may produce, distill, manufacture, compound, mix or ferment liquors within the state or, pursuant to a purchase of a warehouse receipt, has caused or may cause liquors covered by such receipt to be removed from a warehouse in this state, the court, taking into consideration the fungible nature of such liquors, may make a temporary order without notice prohibiting such person and his agents from selling, transferring or otherwise disposing of any liquors or any liquors and also prohibiting all other persons in possession of or having control over the same from selling, releasing, transferring or otherwise disposing of any liquors imported or caused to be imported, produced, distilled, manufactured, compounded, mixed or fermented, sold or transferred or removed by such person not so registered pending a hearing for a preliminary injunction.

(b) Upon granting a temporary order, the court shall direct that a hearing be held at the earliest possible time upon such notice and service as the court shall direct. Where, after such opportunity for a hearing, the court determines that there is a likelihood that the commissioner will prevail in such action, the court may grant a preliminary injunction restraining the sale, release, transfer or other disposition of liquors subject to the temporary order.

(c) (1) Whenever the commissioner shall discover that any person not registered as a distributor as required by this article has imported liquors into this state or caused liquors to be imported into this state for sale or use in this state or has produced, distilled, manufactured, compounded, mixed or fermented liquors within the state or, pursuant to a purchase of a warehouse receipt, has caused liquors covered by such receipt to be removed from a warehouse in this state, the commissioner may commence an action in supreme court for a permanent injunction and forfeiture of liquors. If it is established by a preponderance of the evidence that liquors were imported or caused to be imported into this state for sale or use in this state, were produced, distilled, manufactured, compounded, mixed or fermented, or were caused to be removed from a warehouse in this state by the purchaser of a warehouse receipt with respect to such liquors, by any person not registered as a distributor, as required by this article, the court shall grant a judgment (i) permanently enjoining such person and his agents from selling, transferring or otherwise disposing of any such liquors or any liquors within this state and (ii) declaring the forfeiture of any liquors that were so imported, caused to be imported, produced, distilled, manufactured, compounded, mixed, fermented or removed by such person.

(2) With respect to liquors that were imported, caused to be imported, produced, distilled, manufactured, compounded, mixed, fermented or removed by a person not registered as a distributor as required by this article or that were unlawfully sold or transferred by such person, if it is established by a preponderance of the evidence that any other person in possession of or having control over such liquors was not a purchaser or transferee in good faith of such liquors with respect to the fact that such liquors were so imported, caused to be imported, produced, distilled, manufactured, compounded, mixed, fermented or removed by a person not registered as a distributor as required by this article or that such liquors were so unlawfully sold or transferred by such person, the court shall grant a judgment (i) permanently enjoining such other person and such person's agents from selling, releasing, transferring or otherwise disposing of any such liquors and (ii) declaring the forfeiture of such liquors in the possession or under the control of such other person.

(d) The commissioner may, at any time subsequent to the granting of the temporary order pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subdivision, with the approval of the court, consent to a sale of liquors subject to such temporary order which is in the possession or under the control of a person other than the person or the agent of the person who imported, caused to be imported, produced, distilled, manufactured, compounded, mixed, fermented, removed or unlawfully sold or transferred such liquors. As a condition of granting permission to a sale of liquors pursuant to this subdivision, the commissioner shall require the payment of all taxes, penalties and interest imposed by and pursuant to the authority of this chapter with respect to such liquors.

(e) (1) At any time during the pendency of an action under this section, the liquors subject to a temporary, preliminary or permanent order hereunder may be released from the scope of such order if there is given an undertaking, in an amount equal to the market value of such liquors plus any excise, state and local sales and use and federal excise taxes, to the effect that there will be paid to the commissioner the amount of the market value of such liquors and such taxes in the event that such liquors are adjudged forfeited.

(2) Any person enjoined by a temporary order or a preliminary injunction issued pursuant to this subdivision or other person interested in any such liquors may move at any time, on notice to all parties, to vacate or modify it.

(f) The procedures of the civil practice law and rules applicable to temporary restraining orders, preliminary injunctions and permanent injunctions not inconsistent with this subdivision shall apply to temporary orders, preliminary injunctions and permanent injunctions issued under this subdivision. The procedural provisions set forth in paragraph three of subdivision (d) and in subdivision (j) of section eighteen hundred forty-five of this chapter shall apply to the forfeiture proceedings under this subdivision and, in respect to a declaration of forfeiture under this subdivision, the court may direct the commissioner to sell or otherwise dispose of such forfeited liquors on such conditions the commissioner deems most advantageous and just under the circumstances. The commissioner shall not be required to file any undertaking in connection with an action pursuant to this subdivision.

§ 422. Bonds of distributors. The tax commission may require any distributor to file with the department of taxation and finance a bond issued by a surety company approved by the superintendent of financial services as to solvency and responsibility and authorized to transact business in the state or other security acceptable to the tax commission, in such amount as the tax commission may fix, to secure the payment of any sums due from such distributor pursuant to this article. The tax commission may require that such a bond or other security be filed before a distributor is registered, or at any time when in its judgment the same is necessary as a protection to the revenues under this article. If securities are deposited as security under this subdivision, such securities shall be kept in the joint custody of the comptroller and the commissioner of taxation and finance and may be sold by the tax commission if it becomes necessary so to do in order to recover any sums due from such distributor pursuant to this article; but no such sale shall be had until after such distributor shall have had opportunity to litigate the validity of any tax if it elects so to do. Upon any such sale, the surplus, if any, above the sums due under this article, shall be returned to such distributor.

§ 423. Cancellation of registration of distributors. The registration of any distributor may be cancelled by the commissioner upon its failure to file a bond or other security when required, and the registration of a distributor may be cancelled by the commissioner upon its failure to comply with any of the provisions of this article or any reasonable requirement, rule or regulation adopted pursuant to this article by the department of taxation and finance or by the commissioner. All the provisions of subdivisions four through six and eight through ten of section two hundred eighty-three of this chapter relating to registration of distributors of motor fuel shall be applicable to the registration of distributors under this article with the same force and effect as if the language of those subdivisions had been incorporated in full in this section and had expressly referred to the registration of distributors under this article and the tax imposed by this article, with such modification as may be necessary in order to adapt the language of such provisions to the provisions of this article, provided, specifically, that the term "motor fuel" shall be read as "alcoholic beverages". Provided, however, a registration shall be cancelled immediately, upon cancellation or revocation for cause of a license under the alcoholic beverage control law. A distributor shall immediately inform the department in writing of any change in its name or address, and a corporate distributor shall immediately inform the department, in writing, of any change in its name, or in its officers or directors, or their residence addresses.

§ 424. Taxes imposed. 1. There are hereby levied and imposed on a distributor and a noncommercial importer excise taxes at the following rates:

- (a) Fourteen cents per gallon upon beers;
- (b) Thirty cents per gallon upon still wines, except cider containing more than three and two-tenths per centum of alcohol by volume, upon which the tax shall be three and seventy-nine hundredths cents per gallon;
- (c) Thirty cents per gallon upon artificially carbonated sparkling wines, except artificially carbonated sparkling cider containing more than three and two-tenths per centum of alcohol by volume, upon which the tax shall be three and seventy-nine hundredths cents per gallon;

(d) Thirty cents per gallon upon natural sparkling wines, except natural sparkling cider containing more than three and two-tenths per centum of alcohol by volume, upon which the tax shall be three and seventy-nine hundredths cents per gallon;

(e) Sixty-seven cents per liter upon liquors containing not more than twenty-four per centum of alcohol by volume except liquors containing not more than two per centum of alcohol by volume, upon which the tax shall be zero; and

(f) One dollar and seventy cents per liter upon all other liquors; when sold or used within this state, except when sold or used under such circumstances that this state is without power to impose such tax or when sold to the United States and except beers when sold to or by a voluntary unincorporated organization of the armed forces of the United States operating a place for the sale of goods pursuant to regulations promulgated by the appropriate executive agency of the United States, to the extent provided in such regulations, directives and policy statements of such an agency applicable to such sales, and except when sold to professional foreign consuls-general, consuls and vice-consuls who are nationals of the state appointing them and who are assigned to foreign consulates in this state, provided that American consular officers of equal rank who are citizens of the United States and who exercise their official functions at American consulates in such foreign country are granted reciprocal exemptions; provided, however, that the commissioner may permit the sale of alcohol without tax to a holder of any industrial alcohol permit, alcohol permit or alcohol distributor's permit, issued by the state liquor authority, and by the holder of an alcohol distributor's permit, class A, issued by such authority to a holder of a distiller's license, class B, or a winery license, issued by such authority and may also permit the use of alcohol for any purpose other than the production of alcoholic beverages by such holders without tax; provided also that the commissioner may permit the sale of cider without tax by a holder of a cider producer's license issued by the state liquor authority to a holder of a cider producer's license or a cider wholesaler's license issued by such authority.

(g) For purposes of this chapter, it is presumed that liquors are possessed for the purpose of sale in this state if the quantity of liquors possessed in this state, imported or caused to be imported into this state or produced, distilled, manufactured, compounded, mixed or fermented in this state exceeds ninety liters. Such presumption may be rebutted by the introduction of substantial evidence to the contrary. In any case where the quantity of alcoholic beverages taxable pursuant to this article is a fractional part of one liter (or one gallon in the case of beers) or an amount greater than a whole multiple of liters (or gallons in the case of beers), the amount of tax levied and imposed on such fractional part of one liter (or one gallon in the case of beers), or fractional part of a liter (or gallon) in excess of a whole multiple of liters or gallons shall be such fractional part of the rate imposed by paragraphs (a) through (f).

Notwithstanding any other provision of this article, the commissioner may permit the purchase of alcoholic beverages without tax by a person registered as a distributor under section four hundred twenty-one of this article from another person so registered, in which event the alcoholic beverage so purchased shall be subject to the taxes imposed by this article in the hands of the purchaser in the same manner and to the same extent as if such purchaser had imported or caused the same to be imported into this state or had produced, distilled, manufactured, brewed, compounded, mixed or fermented the same within this state.

2. Such taxes shall be due on the twentieth day of the month following the month in which such alcoholic beverages are sold or used by such distributor or noncommercial importer, regardless of whether or not a return is filed as required by this article.

3. Beers within this state when chapter one hundred forty-two of the laws of nineteen hundred thirty-three took effect, wines within this state when chapter two hundred twenty-three of the laws of nineteen hundred thirty-three took effect and liquors within this state when chapter eight hundred eighteen of the laws of nineteen hundred thirty-three took effect shall also be subject to such taxes when sold within this state or used for commercial purposes within this state, except as provided for in subdivision one of this section, unless the taxes imposed by said chapters shall have been paid with respect to such alcoholic beverages prior to April second, nineteen hundred thirty-four, and the person selling or commercially using such alcoholic beverages shall be deemed a distributor for the purposes of this article; and such alcoholic beverages shall be subject to all of the provisions of this article to the same extent as if the same had been imported into this state or produced, distilled, manufactured, brewed, compounded, mixed or fermented within this state after such chapters became effective. If, prior to the taking effect of such chapters, a contract of sale of alcoholic beverages was made, and delivery thereof pursuant to such contract is made within this state on or after April second, nineteen hundred thirty-four, from a stock of alcoholic beverages which is then subject to the taxing power of this state, the vendor shall be deemed a distributor for the purposes of this article, and such alcoholic beverages shall be deemed to be sold, and shall be subject to such taxes, at the time of such delivery, unless such taxes shall have been paid with respect to such alcoholic beverages prior to April second, nineteen hundred thirty-four.

4. (a) Notwithstanding any other provision of this article, there shall be exempt from the taxes imposed under this article, per month, one-quart of alcoholic beverages (or one gallon of such beverages in the case of a person arriving directly or indirectly from American Samoa, Guam or the Virgin Islands of the United States not more than one-quart of which shall have been acquired elsewhere than in such insular possessions):

(i) purchased outside this state as an incident to a journey from which the purchaser is returning and

(ii) not to be offered for sale or used for any commercial purpose, provided such alcoholic beverages accompany such person on his return to this state and provided, further, that in the case of a person arriving in this state from other than a state of the United States (including the district of Columbia), the Virgin Islands of the United States or a contiguous country maintaining a free zone or free port, such person shall have remained beyond the territorial limits of the United States for a period of not less than forty-eight hours.

(b) Provided, however, where the amounts purchased outside this state or brought in exceed the amounts specified in paragraph (a) of this subdivision but are not in excess of one liter in the case of the references to one-quart or four liters in the case of the reference to one gallon, and where no duty is required by the laws of the United States to be paid on such amounts, such metric standards of fill shall be substituted for one-quart and one gallon, respectively, and such amounts shall be exempt from tax under the conditions provided for in paragraph (a) of this subdivision.

5. Notwithstanding any other provision of this article, there shall be exempt from the taxes imposed under this article, the sale of wine at retail in sealed containers to a regularly organized church, synagogue or religious organization for sacramental purposes, provided such wine shall have been purchased in this state from a distributor, and the purchaser shall have given the distributor a written statement signed by such purchaser setting forth its name and address, its declaration that it is a regularly organized church, synagogue or religious organization and that the wine purchased shall be used solely for sacramental purposes and any other information or proof that the tax commission may require. Where such a statement shall have been furnished to the distributor by a purchaser which shall not have been a regularly organized church, synagogue or religious organization or the wine shall be for other than sacramental purposes, and in reliance upon such statement the wine shall not have been included as taxable in a return made by a distributor, the purchaser shall file a return and pay the tax in the manner provided for in section four hundred twenty-nine.

§ 425. Special provision as to imposition of taxes on certain alcoholic beverages. If a person shall receive any alcoholic beverages from the distributor with respect thereto, under such circumstances so as to preclude the collection of the taxes under this article, because this state was without power to impose such taxes under this article against such distributor by reason of the constitution or the law of the United States enacted pursuant thereto or the constitution or laws of this state, and such person shall thereafter sell or use any such alcoholic beverages in such manner and under such circumstances as may subject the same to the taxing power of this state with respect to any sale or use thereof, such person shall be liable for the tax imposed by section four hundred twenty-four with respect to such sale or use, and shall make the same reports and returns, pay the same taxes and be subject to the other applicable provisions of this article relating to distributors, except that with respect to beers and wines such a person shall not be subject to the provisions of sections four hundred twenty-one and four hundred twenty-two of this article if such person does not offer such alcoholic beverages for sale or use such alcoholic beverages for any commercial purpose. Provided, further, that if the taxing power of this state does not extend to the imposition of such taxes on, and the requirement of payment of such taxes by, such person selling or using such beverages, then such person shall be required to collect such taxes from its purchaser on the sale of such beverages and to pay over such taxes to the commissioner. In such event, the same reports and returns relating to distributors, along with remittance, shall be required by such person and all the other provisions of this article relating to distributors shall apply. If such taxes are not so collected, then such purchaser shall, along with such person, be liable for such taxes.

§ 425-a. Presumption of taxability. For the purpose of the proper administration of the taxes imposed by this article and to prevent evasion thereof, it shall be presumed with respect to this chapter that all alcoholic beverages possessed or found in this state are subject to the taxes imposed by this article until the contrary is established by substantial evidence. Except with respect to a purchase at retail of beers or wines and a purchase at retail of ninety liters or less of liquors, no person shall purchase alcoholic beverages in this state unless the taxes imposed by this article with respect to such beverages have been assumed by a distributor registered under this article or paid by such distributor pursuant to and in accordance with the manner provided herein and evidenced in accordance with the manner provided herein. In the case of liquors, such taxes shall be assumed by a distributor in accordance with the invoice required, and the certification of tax payment included therein, under section four hundred twenty-seven of this article; in the case of other alcoholic beverages, the taxes shall be assumed by such distributor pursuant to and in accordance with the rules or regulations of the department.

§ 426. Records to be kept by brand owners, distributors, owners and others. Every brand owner, distributor, owner or other person shall keep a complete and accurate record of all purchases and sales or other dispositions of alcoholic beverages, and a complete and accurate record of the number of gallons of beers produced, manufactured, brewed or fermented and liters of all other alcoholic beverages produced, distilled, manufactured, brewed, compounded, mixed or fermented. Such records shall be in such form and contain such other information as the tax commission shall prescribe. Said commission, by rule or regulation, also may require the delivery of statements to purchasers of alcoholic beverages, and prescribe the matters to be contained therein. Such records and statements, unless required by the tax commission to be preserved for a longer period, shall be preserved for a period of one year and shall be offered for inspection at any time upon oral or written demand by the commissioner of taxation and finance or his duly authorized agents, and every such distributor, brand owner, owner or other person shall make such reports to the department of taxation and finance as may be required by the tax commission. Nothing in this section contained shall be construed to require the keeping of a record of the purchase or disposition of alcoholic beverages by a consumer thereof, except by a person who uses the same for commercial purposes, or of the sale of alcoholic beverages at retail.

Every sale of liquors, except a sale at retail of ninety liters or less, shall be evidenced by and recorded on an individual, serially numbered invoice, and, with respect to each such sale, the seller therein shall make and complete such invoice which shall contain the information required by this section and give the same to the purchaser at the time of delivery. The seller shall sign and date the invoice required by this section and certify the entire content of such invoice.

2. Each invoice required by subdivision one of this section shall state separately thereon:

(a) the identifying number of such invoice;

(b) the name of the seller;

(c) the current state liquor authority number of the seller and, if registered as a distributor, the registration number (certificate number) assigned to such seller by the department must also be set forth;

(d) the address of the licensed premises of the seller and, if different from such premises, the address of the premises from which the liquors listed on such invoice were removed for delivery to the purchaser;

(e) the name of the purchaser;

(f) the current state liquor authority number of the purchaser;

(g) the date of the delivery of the liquors;

(h) the address of the licensed premises of the purchaser and, if different from such premises, the address of the premises to which the liquors listed on such invoice are to be delivered by the seller;

(i) the size (in liters) and number of bottles of liquors sold, and its description, by brand name and price; and

(j) a certification with respect to tax payment to the effect that:

(i) in the case of a transaction with respect to which a city tax imposed pursuant to section four hundred forty-five of this article applies, that is, where the sale is made to a purchaser whose licensed premises are within such city or is completed by delivery to a purchaser in such city:

(A) if the seller is a distributor of liquors registered under this article, that the seller has assumed payment of or has paid all New York state and city alcoholic beverage taxes with respect to the liquors which are the subject of such transaction; or

(B) if such seller is not a registered distributor under this article, that such taxes have been assumed by or paid by an identified distributor registered under this article as evidenced by an invoice received by the seller pursuant to this section with respect to the liquors being sold and accepted in good faith by such seller; or

(C) where either or both New York state and city alcoholic beverage taxes have not been paid, the seller shall set forth this fact and, if applicable, a statement of the exemption from tax which applies to such sale; and

(ii) with respect to a transaction to which subparagraph (i) of this paragraph does not apply:

(A) if the seller is a distributor of liquors registered under this article, that such seller has assumed payment of or has paid all New York state alcoholic beverage taxes imposed under this article with respect to the liquors which are the subject of such transaction; or

(B) if such seller is not a registered distributor, that the taxes have been assumed by or paid by an identified distributor registered under this article as evidenced by an invoice given to the seller pursuant to this section with respect to the liquors being sold and accepted in good faith by such seller; or

(C) where the state alcoholic beverage taxes imposed under this article have not been paid with respect to such liquors, the seller shall set forth this fact and, if applicable, a statement of the exemption from tax which applies to such sale; or

(iii) in the case of a transaction which is the first sale of liquors in this state where the seller is a distiller or the exclusive agent of a distiller and both such seller and the purchaser are distributors of liquor registered under this article, the commissioner may provide that such distiller or exclusive agent need not set forth the certification required by this paragraph on the invoice required by this section.

3. Notwithstanding any provision to the contrary, every seller shall keep a duplicate original of the invoice required to be made and given to the purchaser for the period returns are required to be retained pursuant to this article.

4. Notwithstanding any provision to the contrary, every purchaser shall keep the invoice given by the seller pursuant to this section for the period returns are required to be retained pursuant to this article.

5. For purposes of this chapter, where the invoice required under this section is not furnished by the seller at the time of delivery, or where a person in possession of liquors does not possess such invoice with respect to such liquors, it shall be presumed that the taxes imposed by or pursuant to this article have not been assumed or paid by a distributor registered as such under this article. Such presumption may be rebutted by the introduction of substantial evidence to the contrary. In addition to any other civil and criminal penalties which may apply, any person who purchases alcoholic beverages without receiving an invoice from the seller as required by this section shall be jointly and severally liable to pay the taxes imposed by or pursuant to this article with respect to such beverages.

§ 428. Records and reports of transportation. 1. Every person transporting alcoholic beverages within this state, whether such transportation originates within or without this state, when required by the commissioner, shall keep a true and accurate record of all alcoholic beverages so transported, showing such facts with relation to such alcoholic beverages and their transportation as the commissioner may require. Such record shall be open to inspection by the representatives of the department at any time and the commissioner may require from any such person returns of all or any part of the information shown by such records.

2. The operator of a motor vehicle, as such term is defined in subdivision three of section two hundred eighty-two of this chapter, or any other means of transport of liquors in which more than ninety liters of liquors is being transported in this state must have in his or her possession a manifest, invoice or other document which shows the name and address of the person from whom such liquors were received and the date and place of receipt of such liquor and the name and address of every person to whom such operator is to make delivery of the same and the place of delivery, together with the number of liters to be delivered to each person, and, if such liquor is being imported into the state in such motor vehicle or such other means of transport, the name of the distributor importing or causing such liquors to be imported into the state and such other information as the commissioner may require pursuant to rule or regulation. Every operator of such motor vehicle or such other means of transport shall at the request of a peace officer, acting pursuant to his special duties, a police officer, any representative of the department or any other person authorized by law to inquire into or investigate the transportation of such liquors, produce such manifest, invoice or other document for inspection. The person causing the operation of such motor vehicle or such other means of transport shall be responsible to cause the operator to keep in such operator's possession in such motor vehicle or such other means of transport the manifest, invoice or other document required by this section. The absence of the manifest, invoice or other document required by this section shall give rise to a presumption that the liquors being transported are being imported or caused to be imported into this state for sale or use therein by other than a registered distributor. Moreover, the absence of (1) the place of delivery of liquors on the manifest, invoice or other document with respect to liquors being imported into the state shall give rise to a presumption that such liquors are being imported into the state for sale or use in the state and (2) the name of a registered distributor on the manifest, invoice or other document with respect to liquors being imported into the state shall give rise to a presumption that such liquors are being so imported or caused to be imported into this state, for sale or use therein, by other than a registered distributor. Such presumptions may be rebutted by the introduction of substantial evidence to the contrary.

§ 429. Payment of tax; returns. 1. Every distributor, noncommercial importer or other person shall, on or before the twentieth day of each month, file with the department of taxation and finance a return, on forms to be prescribed by the commissioner and furnished by such department, stating separately the number of gallons, or lesser quantity, of beers, and the number of liters, or lesser quantity, of wines and liquors sold or used by such distributor, noncommercial importer or other person in this state during the preceding calendar month, except that the commissioner may, if he or she deems it necessary to facilitate the efficient reporting and payment of the tax imposed by this article, require returns to be made at such times and covering such periods as he or she may deem necessary. Such return shall contain such further information as the commissioner shall require. The fact that the name of the distributor, noncommercial importer or other person is signed to a filed return shall be prima facie evidence for all purposes that the return was actually signed by such distributor, noncommercial importer or other person.

2. Each such distributor, noncommercial importer or other person shall pay to such department with the filing of such return, the tax imposed by this article, on each gallon, or lesser quantity, of beers and on each liter, or lesser quantity of all other alcoholic beverages sold or used by such distributor, noncommercial importer or other person in this state, as so reported, during the period covered by such return, except that, where a distributor has purchased alcoholic beverages prior to the expiration of the period covered by the return, upon which the taxes imposed by this article have been or are required to be paid by another distributor, a credit shall be allowed for the amount of such taxes.

3. All alcoholic beverages which have come into the possession of a distributor shall be deemed to have been sold or used by such distributor unless it shall be proved to the satisfaction of the tax commission that such alcoholic beverages have not been sold or used.

4. A distributor entitled to a refund under the provisions of section four hundred thirty-four of this chapter, in lieu of such refund, may take credit therefor on a return filed pursuant to this section, unless the tax commission shall withdraw such privilege.

5. The commissioner shall provide any brewer, as such term is defined in subdivision five of section three of the alcoholic beverage control law, or any distiller, as such term is defined in subdivision ten of section three of the alcoholic beverage control law, with the option to file their tax returns electronically.

§ 430. Determination of tax. If a distributor, noncommercial importer or other person files a return under this article, but such return is incorrect or insufficient, the commissioner of taxation and finance shall determine the amount of tax due at any time within three years after the return was filed (whether or not such return was filed on or after the due date), and give written notice of such determination to the distributor, noncommercial importer or other person, except that if such distributor has not registered as required by this article, or fails to file a return or files a willfully false or fraudulent return with intent to evade the tax, such determination may be made at any time. Notwithstanding any of the foregoing provisions of this section, where, before the expiration of the time prescribed in this section for the determination of tax, both the commissioner of taxation and finance and the taxpayer have consented in writing to its determination after such time, the tax may be determined at any time prior to the expiration of the period agreed upon. The period so agreed upon may be extended by subsequent agreements in writing made before the expiration of the period previously agreed upon. Any determination made pursuant to this section shall finally and irrevocably fix the tax unless the distributor, noncommercial importer or other person against whom it is assessed shall, within ninety days after the giving of notice of such determination, petition the division of tax appeals for a hearing, or unless the commissioner of taxation and finance of his own motion, shall redetermine the same. After such hearing, the division of tax appeals shall give notice of the determination of the administrative law judge to the distributor, noncommercial importer or other person liable for the tax and to the commissioner of taxation and finance. Such determination may be reviewed by the tax appeals tribunal as provided in article forty of this chapter. The decision of the tax appeals tribunal may be reviewed as provided in section two thousand sixteen of this chapter, but the proceeding may not be commenced unless the amount of tax stated or referred to in the decision, with penalties and interest thereon, if any, shall have been first deposited with the commissioner of taxation and finance, and an undertaking filed with him, in such amount and with such sureties as a justice of the supreme court shall approve, to the effect that if such proceeding be dismissed or the decision confirmed, the petitioner will pay all costs and charges which may accrue against him in the prosecution of the proceeding, or at the option of the petitioner such undertaking may be in a sum sufficient to cover the tax, penalties, interest, costs and charges aforesaid, in which event the petitioner shall not be required to pay such tax, penalties and interest as a condition precedent to commencing the proceeding.

The remedy provided by this section for review of a decision of the tax appeals tribunal shall be the exclusive remedy available to any taxpayer to judicially determine the liability of such taxpayer for taxes under this article.

§ 431. Proceedings to recover tax. 1. Whenever any distributor, noncommercial importer or other person shall fail to pay, within the time limited herein, any tax which he is required to pay under the provisions of this article, the attorney-general shall, upon the request of the department of taxation and finance, enforce payment of such tax by civil action in the supreme court, in the name of the people of the state, against such distributor, noncommercial importer or other person for the amount of such tax, with interest. The proceeds of the judgment, if any, shall be paid to the department of taxation and finance.

2. Whenever any distributor, noncommercial importer or other person shall fail to pay, within the time limited herein, any tax which he is required to pay under the provisions of this article, the tax commission may issue a warrant under its official seal, directed to the sheriff of any county of the state, commanding him to levy upon and sell the real and personal property of such distributor, noncommercial importer or other person, found within his county, for the payment of the amount thereof, with the added penalties, interest and the cost of executing the warrant, and to return such warrant to the department of taxation and finance and to pay to it the money collected by virtue thereof within sixty days after the receipt of such warrant. The sheriff shall within five days after the receipt of the warrant, file with the clerk of his county a copy thereof, and thereupon the clerk shall enter in the judgment docket the name of the distributor, noncommercial importer or other person mentioned in the warrant, and the amount of the tax, penalties and interest for which the warrant is issued and the date when such copy is filed, and thereupon the amount of such warrant so docketed shall become a lien upon the title to and interest in real and personal property of the distributor, noncommercial importer or other person against whom the warrant is issued. Such lien shall not apply to personal property unless such warrant is also filed in the department of state. The said sheriff shall thereupon proceed upon the warrant in all respects, with like effect, and in the same manner prescribed by law in respect to executions issued against property upon judgments of a court of record, and shall be entitled to the same fees for his services in executing the warrant, to be collected in the same manner. In the discretion of the tax commission a warrant of like terms, force and effect may be issued and directed to any officer or employee of the department of taxation and finance, and in the execution thereof such officer or employee shall have all the powers conferred by law upon sheriffs, but shall be entitled to no fee or compensation in excess of actual expenses paid in the performance of such duty. Upon such filing of a copy of a warrant, the tax commission shall have the same remedies to enforce the claim for taxes, penalties and interest against the distributor, noncommercial importer or other person as if the people of the state had recovered judgment against such distributor, noncommercial importer or other person for the amount of the tax.

3. In addition to the foregoing proceedings, in case of default of any distributor to pay, within the time limited herein, any tax, penalty or interest which he is required to pay under the provisions of this article or to file a bond, other security or a return as required by this article or by the tax commission, the tax commission may forward a written statement of the facts showing such default in payment of any tax, penalty or interest to the state liquor authority and may request the revocation or suspension of the license or licenses of such distributor on account of such default.

§ 432. Tax to be paid but once; foreign and interstate commerce; injunction. Nothing in this article shall be construed to require the payment to the department of taxation and finance of the taxes imposed by this article more than once on any quantity of alcoholic beverages sold or used within this state. No provision of this article shall apply or be construed to apply to foreign or interstate commerce, except in so far as the same may be effective pursuant to the United States constitution and to the laws of the United States enacted pursuant thereto. The supreme court shall have jurisdiction to restrain the department, by injunction, from collecting a tax under this article upon any sale as to which, by reason of the United States constitution and the laws of the United States enacted pursuant thereto, such a tax cannot be imposed.

§ 433. Penalties and interest. 1. (a)(i) A distributor who or which fails to file a return or to pay any tax within the time required by or pursuant to this article (determined with regard to any extension of time for filing or paying) shall be subject to a penalty of ten per centum of the amount of tax determined to be due as provided in this article plus one per centum of such amount for each month or fraction thereof during which such failure continues after the expiration of the first month after such return was required to be filed or such tax became due, not exceeding thirty per centum in the aggregate.

(ii) Any other person who fails to file a return or to pay any tax within the time required by or pursuant to this article, if such person does not offer alcoholic beverages for sale or use alcoholic beverages for any commercial purpose, shall be subject to a penalty of fifty per centum of the amount of tax determined to be due as provided in this article plus one per centum of such amount for each month or fraction thereof during which such failure continues after the expiration of the first month after such return was required to be filed or such tax become due.

(iii) In the case of a failure by a distributor or other person to file such return within sixty days of the date prescribed for filing of such return by or pursuant to this article (determined with regard to any extension of time for filing), the penalties imposed by this subdivision shall not be less than the lesser of one hundred dollars or one hundred per centum of the amount required to be shown as tax on such return. For the purpose of the preceding sentence, the amount of tax required to be shown on the return shall be reduced by the amount of any part of the tax which is paid on or before the date prescribed for payment of the tax and by the amount of any credit against the tax which may be claimed upon the return.

(b) If any amount of tax is not paid on or before the last date prescribed in this article for payment, interest on such amount at the underpayment rate set by the commissioner of taxation and finance pursuant to subdivision twenty-sixth of section one hundred seventy-one of this chapter shall be paid for the period from such last date to the date paid, whether or not any extension of time for payment was granted. Interest under this paragraph shall not be paid if the amount thereof is less than one dollar.

(c) If the tax commission determines that such failure was due to reasonable cause and not due to willful neglect, it shall remit all or part of such penalties. The tax commission shall promulgate rules and regulations as to what constitutes reasonable cause.

(d) If the failure to pay any tax within the time required by or pursuant to this article is due to fraud, in lieu of the penalties and interest provided for in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this subdivision, there shall be added to the tax (i) a penalty of two times the amount of tax due, plus (ii) interest on such unpaid tax at the underpayment rate set by the commissioner of taxation and finance pursuant to subdivision twenty-sixth of section one hundred seventy-one of this chapter for the period beginning on the last day prescribed by this article for the payment of such tax (determined without regard to any extension of time for paying) and ending on the day on which such tax is paid.

(e) The penalties and interest provided for in this subdivision shall be determined, assessed, collected and paid in the same manner as the taxes imposed by this article and shall be disposed of as hereinafter provided with respect to moneys derived from the tax. Unpaid penalties and interest under this subdivision may be recovered by the attorney-general in an action brought pursuant to section four hundred thirty-one of this article. Interest under this subdivision shall be compounded daily.

2. For purposes of this chapter, the failure to do any act required by or under the provisions of this article shall be deemed an act committed in part at the office of the department of taxation and finance, in Albany. For the purposes of this chapter, the certificate of the tax commission to the effect that a tax has not been paid, that a return has not been filed, or that information has not been supplied, as required by or under the provisions of this article, shall be prima facie evidence that such tax has not been paid, that such return has not been filed, or that such information has not been supplied.

3. Cross-reference: For criminal penalties, see article thirty-seven of this chapter.

§ 434. Refunds. 1. Whenever the commissioner of taxation and finance shall determine that any moneys received under the provisions of this article were paid in error, he may cause the same to be refunded, with interest, in accordance with such rules and regulations as he may prescribe, except that no interest shall be allowed or paid if the amount thereof would be less than one dollar. Such interest shall be at the overpayment rate set by the commissioner pursuant to subdivision twenty-sixth of section one hundred seventy-one of this chapter, or if no rate is set, at the rate of six percent per annum, from the date when the tax, penalty or interest to be refunded was paid to a date preceding the date of the refund check by not more than thirty days. Provided, however, that for the purposes of this subdivision, any tax paid before the last day prescribed for its payment shall be deemed to have been paid on such last day. Such moneys received under the provisions of this article which the commissioner shall determine were paid in error, may be refunded out of funds in the custody of the comptroller to the credit of such taxes provided an application therefor is filed with the commissioner within two years from the time the erroneous payment was made.

2. (a) Whenever (A) any person, other than a distributor hereinafter in this paragraph referred to, shall use for non-beverage purposes any alcoholic beverages on which taxes are imposed by this article or (B) a regularly organized church, synagogue or religious organization shall use for sacramental purposes wine purchased by it in sealed containers at retail, and such alcoholic beverages referred to in clause (A) or wine referred to in clause (B) were not sold to such person or religious organization pursuant to a retailer's license and have been, to the satisfaction of the tax commission, included as taxable in a return made by a distributor, such person or religious organization shall be reimbursed the amount of the taxes thereon in the manner and subject to the conditions hereinafter specified. Whenever any distributor shall use for non-beverage purposes any alcoholic beverages on which he is required to pay the taxes imposed by this article, the tax commission may permit such distributor to report such alcoholic beverages as nontaxable.

(b) Any person holding a license issued by the state liquor authority, who, pursuant to such license, shall sell any alcoholic beverages, upon which taxes imposed by this article have been paid, under such circumstances that the state would be without power to impose the tax under this article, or for resale under like circumstances, may secure reimbursement for the amount of the taxes so paid in the manner and subject to the conditions specified in this subdivision, but in a case specified in this paragraph no refund shall be made under paragraph (a) of this subdivision.

(c) All claims for reimbursement under this subdivision must be filed within two years from the time of the nontaxable sale or use. Claims shall be made, in such form and containing such information as the tax commission shall prescribe. Claims for reimbursement under this subdivision, approved by the tax commission, shall be paid out of the funds deposited to the credit of the comptroller on account of the taxes imposed by this article.

3. If an agreement under the provisions of section four hundred thirty (extending the period for determination of tax imposed by this article) is made within the two-year period for the filing of a claim for reimbursement or an application for refund provided for in this section, the period for filing a claim for reimbursement or an application for refund shall not expire prior to six months after the expiration of the period within which a determination may be made pursuant to the agreement or any extension thereof.

§ 434-a. Mailing rules; holidays. 1. If any return, claim, statement, notice, application, or other document required to be filed, or any payment required to be made, within a prescribed period or on or before a prescribed date under authority of any provision of this article is, after such period or such date, delivered by United States mail to the tax commission, bureau, office, officer or person with which or with whom such document is required to be filed, or to which or to whom such payment is required to be made, the date of the United States postmark stamped on the envelope shall be deemed to be the date of delivery. This subdivision shall apply only if the postmark date falls within the prescribed period or on or before the prescribed date for the filing of such document, or for making the payment, including any extension granted for such filing or payment, and only if such document or payment was deposited in the mail, postage prepaid, properly addressed to the tax commission, bureau, office, officer or person with which or with whom the document is required to be filed or to which or to whom such payment is required to be made. If any document is sent by United States registered mail, such registration shall be prima facie evidence that such document was delivered to the tax commission, bureau, office, officer or person to which or to whom addressed. To the extent that the tax commission shall prescribe by regulation, certified mail may be used in lieu of registered mail under this section. This subdivision shall apply in the case of postmarks not made by the United States Post Office only if and to the extent provided by regulations of the tax commission.

2. Any notice authorized or required under this article may be given by mailing it to the person for whom it is intended, in a postpaid envelope addressed to such person at the address given by him in his application for registration as a distributor or in the last return filed by him under this article or, if no application or return has been filed, then to such address as may be obtainable. The mailing of such notice shall be presumptive evidence of its receipt by the person to whom addressed. Any period of time, which is determined according to the provisions of this article, for the giving of notice shall commence to run from the date of mailing of such notice.

3. When the last day prescribed under authority of this article (including any extension of time) for performing any act falls on Saturday, Sunday or a legal holiday in the state of New York, the performance of such act shall be considered timely if it is performed on the next succeeding day which is not a Saturday, Sunday or a legal holiday.

4.(a) Any reference in subdivision one of this section to the United States mail shall be treated as including a reference to any delivery service designated by the secretary of the treasury of the United States pursuant to section seventy-five hundred two of the internal revenue code and any reference in subdivision one of this section to a postmark by the United States mail shall be treated as including a reference to any date recorded or marked in the manner described in section seventy-five hundred two of the internal revenue code by a designated delivery service. If the commissioner finds that any delivery service designated by such secretary is inadequate for the needs of the state, the commissioner may withdraw such designation for purposes of this article. The commissioner may also designate additional delivery services meeting the criteria of section seventy-five hundred two of the internal revenue code for purposes of this article, or may withdraw any such designation if the commissioner finds that a delivery service so designated is inadequate for the needs of the state. Any reference in subdivision one of this section to the United States mail shall be treated as including a reference to any delivery service designated by the commissioner and any reference in subdivision one of this section to a postmark by the United States mail shall be treated as including a reference to any date recorded or marked in the manner described in section seventy-five hundred two of the internal revenue code by a delivery service designated by the commissioner.

(b) Any equivalent of registered or certified mail designated by the United States secretary of the treasury, or as may be designated by the commissioner pursuant to the same criteria used by such secretary for such designations pursuant to section seventy-five hundred two of the internal revenue code, shall be included within the meaning of registered or certified mail as used in subdivision one of this section. If the commissioner finds that any equivalent of registered or certified mail is inadequate for the needs of the state, the commissioner may withdraw such designation for purposes of this article.

§ 435. Deposit and disposition of revenue. All taxes, interest and penalties collected or received by the tax commission under the taxes imposed by this article shall be deposited and disposed of pursuant to the provisions of section one hundred seventy-one-a of this chapter.

§ 436. General powers of the tax commission. The powers conferred upon the tax commission by sections one hundred seventy-one and one hundred seventy-one-b of this chapter shall, so far as applicable, be exercisable with respect to the provisions of this article.

§ 437. Returns to be secret. 1. Except in accordance with proper judicial order or as in this section or otherwise provided by law, it shall be unlawful for the tax commission, any tax commissioner, any officer or employee of the department of taxation and finance, or any officer or person who, pursuant to this section, is permitted to inspect any return or report or to whom a copy, an abstract or a portion of any return or report is furnished, or to whom any information contained in any return or report is furnished, or any person engaged or retained by such department on an independent contract basis, or any person who in any manner may acquire knowledge of the contents of a return or report filed pursuant to this article to divulge or make known in any manner the contents or any other information relating to the business of a distributor, owner or other person contained in any return or report required under this article. The officers charged with the custody of such returns or reports shall not be required to produce any of them or evidence of anything contained in them in any action or proceeding in any court, except on behalf of the state, the state liquor authority, any county alcoholic beverage control board, the New York city alcoholic beverage control board or the tax commission in an action or proceeding under the provisions of this chapter or chapter three-b of the consolidated laws, or on behalf of the state or the tax commission in any other action or proceeding involving the collection of a tax due under this chapter to which the state or the tax commission is a party or a claimant or on behalf of any party to any action or proceeding under the provisions of this article or chapter three-b of the consolidated laws, when the returns or the reports or the facts shown thereby are directly involved in such action or proceeding, or in an action or proceeding relating to the regulation or taxation of alcoholic beverages on behalf of officers to whom information shall have been supplied as provided in subdivision two of this section, in any of which events the court may require the production of, and may admit in evidence so much of said returns or reports or of the facts shown thereby as are pertinent to the action or proceeding and no more. The tax commission may, nevertheless, publish a copy or a summary of any decision rendered after the formal hearing provided for in section four hundred thirty of this chapter. Nothing herein shall be construed to prohibit the tax commission, in its discretion, from allowing the inspection or delivery of a certified copy of any return or report filed under this article or of any information contained in any such return or report by or to a duly authorized officer or employee of the state liquor authority or of the New York city alcoholic beverage control board or of any county alcoholic beverage control board; or by or to the attorney-general or other legal representatives of the state when an action shall have been recommended or commenced pursuant to this chapter or chapter three-b of the consolidated laws in which such returns or reports or the facts shown thereby are directly involved; or the inspection of the returns or reports required under this article by the comptroller or duly designated officer or employee of the state department of audit and control, for purposes of the audit of a refund of any tax paid by a distributor or other person under this article; nor to prohibit the delivery to a distributor, owner or other person, or a duly authorized representative of such distributor, owner or other person of a certified copy of any return or report filed by such distributor, owner or other person pursuant to this article, nor to prohibit the publication of statistics so classified as to prevent the identification of particular returns or reports and the items thereof. Returns and reports shall be preserved for three years and thereafter until the tax commission orders them to be destroyed.

2. The tax commission, in its discretion and pursuant to such rules and regulations as it may adopt, may permit the commissioner of internal revenue of the United States, or the appropriate officers of any other state which regulates or taxes alcoholic beverages, or the duly authorized representatives of such commissioner or of any such officers, to inspect returns or reports made pursuant to this article, or may furnish to such commissioner or other officers, or duly authorized representatives, a copy of any such return or report or an abstract of the information therein contained, or any portion thereof, or may supply such commissioner or any such officers or such representatives with information relating to the business of a distributor, owner or other person making returns or reports hereunder. The tax commission may refuse to supply information pursuant to this subdivision to the commissioner of internal revenue of the United States or to the officers of any other state if the statutes of the United States, or of the state represented by such officers, do not grant substantially similar privileges to the tax commission of this state, but such refusal shall not be mandatory. Information shall not be supplied to the commissioner of internal revenue of the United States or the appropriate officers of any other state which regulates or taxes alcoholic beverages, or the duly authorized representatives of such commissioner or of any of such officers, unless such commissioner, officer or other representatives shall agree not to divulge or make known in any manner the information so supplied, but such officers may transmit such information to their employees or legal representatives when necessary, who in turn shall be subject to the same restrictions as those hereby imposed upon such commissioner, officer or other representatives.

3. (a) Any officer or employee of the state who willfully violates the provisions of subdivision one or two of this section shall be dismissed from office and be incapable of holding any public office in this state for a period of five years thereafter.

(b) Cross-reference: For criminal penalties, see article thirty-seven of this chapter.

4. Notwithstanding the provisions of subdivision one of this section, the tax commission, in its discretion, may require or permit any or all persons, distributors or owners liable for any tax imposed by this article to make payment of any tax, penalty or interest to banks, banking houses or trust companies designated by the tax commission and to file returns and reports with such banks, banking houses or trust companies as agents of the tax commission, in lieu of making any such payment directly to the tax commission. However, the tax commission shall designate only such banks, banking houses or trust companies as are or shall be designated by the comptroller as depositories pursuant to section four hundred thirty-five.

5. (a) Notwithstanding the provisions of subdivision one of this section, upon written request from the chairperson of the committee on ways and means of the United States House of Representatives, the chairperson of the committee on finance of the United States Senate, or the chairperson of the joint committee on taxation of the United States Congress, the commissioner shall furnish such committee with any current or prior year returns or reports specified in such request that were filed under this article by the president of the United States, vice-president of the United States, member of the United States Congress representing New York state, or any person who served in or was employed by the executive branch of the government of the United States on the executive staff of the president, in the executive office of the president, or in an acting or confirmed capacity in a position subject to confirmation by the United States senate; or, in New York state: a statewide elected official, as defined in paragraph (a) of subdivision one of section seventy-three-a of the public officers law; a state officer or employee, as defined in subparagraph (i) of paragraph (c) of subdivision one of such section seventy-three-a; a political party chairperson, as defined in paragraph (h) of subdivision one of such section seventy-three-a; a local elected official, as defined in subdivisions one and two of section eight hundred ten of the general municipal law; a person appointed, pursuant to law, to serve due to vacancy or otherwise in the position of a local elected official, as defined in subdivisions one and two of section eight hundred ten of the general municipal law; a member of the state legislature; or a judge or justice of the unified court system, or filed by a partnership, firm, association, corporation, joint-stock company, trust or similar entity directly or indirectly controlled by any individual listed in this paragraph, whether by contract, through ownership or control of a majority interest in such entity, or otherwise, or filed by a partnership, firm, association, corporation, joint-stock company, trust or similar entity of which any individual listed in this paragraph holds ten percent or more of the voting securities of such entity; provided however that, prior to furnishing any return or report, the commissioner shall redact any copy of a federal return (or portion thereof) attached to, or any information on a federal return that is reflected on, such return or report, and any social security numbers, account numbers and residential address information.

(b) No returns or reports shall be furnished pursuant to this subdivision unless the chairperson of the requesting committee certifies in writing that such returns or reports have been requested related to, and in furtherance of, a legitimate task of the Congress, that the requesting committee has made a written request to the United States secretary of the treasury for related federal returns or reports or return or report information, pursuant to 26 U.S.C. Section 6103(f), and that if such requested returns or reports are inspected by and/or submitted to another committee, to the United States House of Representatives, or to the United States Senate, then such inspection and/or submission shall occur in a manner consistent with federal law as informed by the requirements and procedures established in 26 U.S.C. Section 6103(f).

§ 438. Sale of stamps authorized. 1. Notwithstanding any other provision of this article, the tax commission may by regulation provide that the taxes on alcoholic beverages shall be collected through the sale of stamps, to be prepared and sold by it. The tax commission shall have power to determine the form and denominations of such stamps and to prescribe by regulation the manner and time of affixation of such stamps to containers of alcoholic beverages. It may provide for the sale of such stamps by duly authorized agents, but such stamps shall not be sold by any person not so authorized. The penalties and interest for failure to affix stamps, in case the same are prescribed by the tax commission, shall be the same as the penalties and interest in this article provided for failure to pay taxes. If stamps are so prescribed, any alcoholic beverages in containers to which stamps are required to be affixed shall be subject to confiscation by any duly authorized representative of the tax commission, any peace officer, acting pursuant to his special duties, or any police officer in case the stamps are not so affixed. Alcoholic beverages so confiscated may be sold by the tax commission to any person holding a proper license granted by the state liquor authority, and the proceeds of any such sale shall be paid into the treasury of the state.

2. In the event that stamps are prescribed all of the provisions of this article shall apply, so far as they may be or can be made applicable.

§ 445. Local taxes on beer and liquor by a city of one million or more. 1. Any city in this state having a population of one million or more, acting through its local legislative body, is hereby authorized and empowered to adopt and amend local laws imposing in any such city excise taxes on a distributor and a noncommercial importer at the following rates:

(a) Twelve cents per gallon upon beers and

(b) Twenty-six and four-tenths cents per liter on the liquors described in paragraph (f) of subdivision one of section four hundred twenty-four, when sold or used in such city.

Such local law shall provide that if prior to the date upon which the taxes go into effect, a contract of sale of any beer or other alcoholic beverages described above was made, and delivery thereof pursuant to such contract is made within the city imposing such taxes on or after the effective date thereof, the vendor shall be deemed a distributor, and such beer and other alcoholic beverages shall be deemed to be sold, and shall be subject to the tax at the time of such delivery.

2. Every local law imposing taxes pursuant to the authority of subdivision one shall also impose upon each person, other than a distributor within the meaning of such local law, who, on the date the taxes imposed pursuant to the authority of such subdivision become effective, owns and possesses for the purposes of sale beer, or other alcoholic beverages described in subdivision one, a floor tax at the rates applicable under subdivision one upon such beer in excess of one hundred gallons and upon such other alcoholic beverages in excess of four hundred liters. Such floor tax shall be due and payable on the twentieth day of the month succeeding the month in which the taxes become effective.

3. All the provisions of this article shall apply to the taxes authorized by subdivision one of this section and the provisions of section four hundred twenty, four hundred twenty-six, four hundred twenty-nine through four hundred thirty-four, four hundred thirty-six and four hundred thirty-seven shall apply to the tax authorized by subdivision two thereof, so far as such article or sections can be made applicable to the taxes authorized by this section with such limitations as set forth in this section and such modifications as may be necessary in order to adapt such language to the local taxes authorized by this section. Provided, however, in every case where the words "this state" appear in subdivision four of section four hundred twenty-four exempting quantities of liquor from tax, and in the definition of "Distributor" or "Noncommercial importer" in section four hundred twenty and in the provisions relating to the registration of distributors in section four hundred twenty-one of this article and in the provisions relating to presumption of taxability in section four hundred twenty-five-a of this article, such words "this state" shall be read as "this city" for purposes of the taxes authorized by this section. Where the word "state" is used in a phrase referring to the sale or use of alcoholic beverages in this state, such word "state" shall be read as "city" for purposes of the taxes authorized by this section, unless the word "city" clearly is not applicable.

4. Any taxes imposed pursuant to the authority of this section shall be administered and collected by the tax commission in the same manner as the taxes imposed under sections four hundred twenty-four and four hundred twenty-five subject to all provisions of this article as may be applicable. The state tax commission is hereby empowered to make such provisions as it deems necessary for the joint administration and collection of the state and local taxes imposed and authorized by this article. Nothing in this article which requires payment of both state and local taxes to the tax commission shall be construed as the payment of either tax more than once.

5. A local law imposing taxes pursuant to the authority of this section or repealing or suspending such taxes must go into effect only on the first day of a calendar month. No such local law shall be effective unless a certified copy of such law is mailed by registered mail to the state tax commission at its office in Albany at least sixty days prior to the date it is to become effective. However, the tax commission, by resolution, may waive and reduce such sixty day minimum notice requirement to a mailing of such certified copy by registered mail within a period of not less than thirty days prior to such effective date if it deems such action to be consistent with its duties under this section.

6. Certified copies of any local law described in this section shall also be filed with the city clerk, the secretary of state and the state comptroller within five days after the date it is enacted.

7. All taxes, penalties and interest imposed by a city under the authority of this section, which are collected by the state tax commission, shall be deposited daily with such responsible banks, banking houses or trust companies, as may be designated by the state comptroller, to the credit of the comptroller, in trust for such city imposing the tax. Such deposits shall be kept in trust and separate and apart from all other monies in the possession of the comptroller. The comptroller shall require adequate security from all such depositories of such revenue collected by the tax commission. The comptroller shall retain in his hands such amount as the commissioner of taxation and finance may determine to be necessary for refunds in respect of the taxes imposed under the authority of this section, and for reasonable costs of the state tax commission in administering, collecting and distributing such taxes, out of which the comptroller shall pay any refunds of such taxes to which taxpayers shall be entitled under the provisions of this article. The comptroller, after reserving such refund fund and such costs shall, on or before the twelfth day of each month, pay to the appropriate fiscal officer of such city, the taxes, penalties and interest imposed by such city under the authority of this section, collected by the state tax commission pursuant to this article during the next preceding calendar month. The amount so payable shall be certified to the comptroller by the president of the state tax commission or his delegate, who shall not be held liable for any inaccuracy in such certificate. Where the amount so paid over to such city in any such distribution is more or less than the amount then due to such city, the amount of the overpayment or underpayment shall be certified to the comptroller by the president of the state tax commission or his delegate, who shall not be held liable for any inaccuracy in such certificate. The amount of the overpayment or underpayment shall be so certified to the comptroller as soon after the discovery of the overpayment or underpayment as reasonably possible and subsequent payments and distributions by the comptroller to such city shall be adjusted by subtracting the amount of any such overpayment from or by adding the amount of any such underpayment to such number of subsequent payments and distributions as the comptroller and the president of the state tax commission shall consider reasonable in view of the amount of the overpayment or underpayment and all other facts or circumstances.

§ 471. Imposition of cigarette tax. 1. There is hereby imposed and shall be paid a tax on all cigarettes possessed in the state by any person for sale, except that no tax shall be imposed on cigarettes sold under such circumstances that this state is without power to impose such tax, including sales to qualified Indians for their own use and consumption on their nations' or tribes' qualified reservation, or sold to the United States or sold to or by a voluntary unincorporated organization of the armed forces of the United States operating a place for the sale of goods pursuant to regulations promulgated by the appropriate executive agency of the United States, to the extent provided in such regulations and policy statements of such an agency applicable to such sales. The tax imposed by this section is imposed on all cigarettes sold on an Indian reservation to non-members of the Indian nation or tribe and to non-Indians and evidence of such tax shall be by means of an affixed cigarette tax stamp. Indian nations or tribes may elect to participate in the Indian tax exemption coupon system established in section four hundred seventy-one-e of this article which provides a mechanism for the collection of the tax imposed by this section on cigarette sales on qualified reservations to such non-members and non-Indians and for the delivery of quantities of tax-exempt cigarettes to Indian nations or tribes for the personal use and consumption of qualified members of the Indian nation or tribe. If an Indian nation or tribe does not elect to participate in the Indian tax exemption coupon system, the prior approval system shall be the mechanism for the delivery of quantities of tax-exempt cigarettes to Indian nations or tribes for the personal use and consumption of qualified members of the Indian nation or tribe as provided for in paragraph (b) of subdivision five of this section. Such tax on cigarettes shall be at the rate of five dollars and thirty-five cents for each twenty cigarettes or fraction thereof, provided, however, that if a package of cigarettes contains more than twenty cigarettes, the rate of tax on the cigarettes in such package in excess of twenty shall be one dollar and thirty-three and three-quarters cents for each five cigarettes or fraction thereof. Such tax is intended to be imposed upon only one sale of the same package of cigarettes. It shall be presumed that all cigarettes within the state are subject to tax until the contrary is established, and the burden of proof that any cigarettes are not taxable hereunder shall be upon the person in possession thereof.

2. It is intended that the ultimate incidence of and liability for the tax shall be upon the consumer, and that any agent or dealer who shall pay the tax to the commissioner shall collect the tax from the purchaser or consumer. Except as hereinafter provided, the tax shall be advanced and paid by the agent. The agent shall be liable for the collection and payment of the tax on cigarettes imposed by this article and shall pay the tax to the commissioner by purchasing, under such regulations as he or she shall prescribe, adhesive stamps of such designs and denominations as he or she shall prescribe. The tax on cigarettes may also be paid by or through the use of metering machines if the commissioner so prescribes. Agents, located within or without the state, shall purchase stamps and affix such stamps in the manner prescribed to packages of cigarettes to be sold within the state, in which case any dealer subsequently receiving such stamped packages of cigarettes will not be required to purchase and affix stamps on such packages of cigarettes. All cigarettes sold by agents and wholesalers to Indian nations or tribes or reservation cigarette sellers located on an Indian reservation must bear a tax stamp.

3. The amount of taxes advanced and paid by the agent as hereinabove provided shall be added to and collected as part of the sales price of the cigarettes.

4. (a) Notwithstanding any provision of law to the contrary, no person, including but not limited to a tobacco product manufacturer, shall sell unstamped packages of cigarettes to any agent, if such person has not been provided with a certification by the agent as required in paragraph (b) of this subdivision.

(b) Any agent who purchases unstamped packages of cigarettes from any person, which are intended for resale in or into the state, shall provide such person and the department with a certification under penalty of perjury that such cigarettes will not be resold by the agent in violation of the terms of this article. Such certification shall be provided to such person and the department prior to the first sale of such cigarettes by such person to the agent following the effective date of this subdivision, and annually thereafter, on such form as shall be prescribed by the commissioner.

5. Prior approval system. (a) For any year that the recognized governing body of an Indian nation or tribe has not elected to participate in the Indian tax exemption coupon system established in section four hundred seventy-one-e of this article, paragraph (b) of this subdivision provides for the prior approval system to be the mechanism as to how Indian nations or tribes or reservation cigarette sellers can purchase adequate quantities of tax-exempt cigarettes for the personal use and consumption of qualified members of the Indian nation or tribe on their nations' or tribes' qualified reservation.

(b) If an Indian nation or tribe does not elect to participate in the Indian tax exemption coupon system, Indian nations or tribes or reservation cigarette sellers may purchase from New York state licensed cigarette stamping agents and wholesalers an adequate quantity of tax-exempt cigarettes based on probable demand on their nations' or tribes' qualified reservation for official nation or tribal or qualified Indian use or consumption from agents and wholesalers who have received prior approval from the department. All such pre-approved tax exempt cigarettes shall nonetheless bear a tax stamp. The department shall grant agents and wholesalers prior approval in a manner and form to be determined by the department and as may be prescribed by regulation. The department shall issue expedited refunds or credits to agents whenever the department grants such prior approvals. Probable demand shall be determined as provided by subdivision two of section four hundred seventy-one-e of this article and as may be prescribed by regulation.

6. Tax agreements with Indian nations or tribes. If an Indian nation or tribe enters into an agreement with the state and the legislature approves such agreement or if an Indian nation or tribe enters into an agreement with the state that is part of a stipulation and order approved by a federal court of competent jurisdiction regarding the sale and distribution of cigarettes on the nation's or tribe's qualified reservation, the terms of such agreement shall take precedence over the provisions of this article and exempt sales to non-members of the tribe or nation and non-Indians by such nation from such taxes to the extent that such taxes are specifically referred to in the agreement, and the sale or distribution, including transportation, of any cigarettes to the nation's or tribe's qualified reservation shall be in accordance with the provisions of such agreement.

7. The taxes imposed under this section shall not apply to adult-use cannabis products subject to tax under article twenty-C of this chapter.

§ 471-a. Use tax on cigarettes. There is hereby imposed and shall be paid a tax on all cigarettes used in the state by any person, except that no tax shall be imposed (1) if the tax provided in section four hundred seventy-one of this article is paid, (2) on the use of cigarettes which are exempt from the tax imposed by said section, or (3) on the use of four hundred or less cigarettes, brought into the state on, or in the possession of, any person. Such tax on cigarettes shall be at the rate of five dollars and thirty-five cents for each twenty cigarettes or fraction thereof, provided, however, that if a package of cigarettes contains more than twenty cigarettes, the rate of tax on the cigarettes in such package in excess of twenty shall be one dollar and thirty-three and three-quarters cents for each five cigarettes or fraction thereof. Within twenty-four hours after liability for the tax accrues, each such person shall file with the commissioner a return in such form as the commissioner may prescribe together with a remittance of the tax shown to be due thereon. For purposes of this article, the word "use" means the exercise of any right or power actual or constructive and shall include but is not limited to the receipt, storage or any keeping or retention for any length of time, but shall not include possession for sale. All other provisions of this article if not inconsistent shall apply to the administration and enforcement of the tax imposed by this section in the same manner as if the language of said provisions had been incorporated in full into this section.

§ 471-b. Imposition of tobacco products tax. 1. There is hereby imposed and shall be paid a tax on all tobacco products possessed in this state by any person for sale, except that no tax shall be imposed on tobacco products sold under such circumstances that this state is without power to impose such tax, or sold to the United States, or sold to or by a voluntary unincorporated organization of the armed forces of the United States operating a place for the sale of goods pursuant to regulations promulgated by the appropriate executive agency of the United States, to the extent provided in such regulations and policy statements of such an agency applicable to such sales.

(a) Such tax on tobacco products other than snuff and little cigars shall be at the rate of seventy-five percent of the wholesale price, and is intended to be imposed only once upon the sale of any tobacco products other than snuff and little cigars.

(b) Such tax on snuff shall be at the rate of two dollars per ounce and a proportionate rate on any fractional parts of an ounce, provided that cans or packages of snuff with a net weight of less than one ounce shall be taxed at the equivalent rate of cans or packages weighing one ounce. Such tax shall be computed based on the net weight as listed by the manufacturer, and is intended to be imposed only once upon the sale of any snuff.

(c) The tax on each little cigar shall be at the rate of twenty-six and three-quarters cents and is intended to be imposed only once upon the sale of any little cigar.

It shall be presumed that all tobacco products within the state are subject to tax until the contrary is established, and the burden of proof that any tobacco products are not taxable hereunder shall be upon the person in possession thereof.

2. The distributor shall be liable for the payment of the tax on tobacco products which he imports or causes to be imported into the state, or which he manufactures in the state, and every distributor authorized by the commissioner of taxation and finance to make returns and pay the tax on tobacco products sold, shipped or delivered by him to any person in the state shall be liable for the payment of the tax on all tobacco products so sold, shipped or delivered.

3. Every dealer shall be liable for the tax on all tobacco products in his possession at any time, upon which tax has not been paid or assumed by a distributor appointed by the commissioner of taxation and finance, and the failure of any dealer to produce and exhibit to the commissioner of taxation and finance or his authorized representative upon demand, an invoice by a distributor or licensed wholesale dealer for any tobacco products in his possession shall be presumptive evidence that the tax thereon has not been paid, and that such dealer is liable for the tax thereon unless evidence of such invoice, payment or assumption shall later be produced.

§ 471-c. Use tax on tobacco products. (a) There is hereby imposed and shall be paid a tax on all tobacco products used in the state by any person, except that no such tax shall be imposed (1) if the tax provided in section four hundred seventy-one-b of this article is paid, or (2) on the use of tobacco products which are exempt from the tax imposed by said section, or (3) on the use of two hundred fifty cigars or less, or five pounds or less of tobacco other than roll-your-own tobacco, or thirty-six ounces or less of roll-your-own tobacco, or seventy-five units or less of alternative nicotine products, brought into the state on, or in the possession of, any person.

(i) Such tax on tobacco products other than snuff and little cigars shall be at the rate of seventy-five percent of the wholesale price.

(ii) Such tax on snuff shall be at the rate of two dollars per ounce and a proportionate rate on any fractional parts of an ounce, provided that cans or packages of snuff with a net weight of less than one ounce shall be taxed at the equivalent rate of cans or packages weighing one ounce. Such tax shall be computed based on the net weight as listed by the manufacturer.

(iii) The tax on each little cigar shall be at the rate of twenty-six and three-quarters cents and is intended to be imposed only once upon the sale of any little cigar.

(b) Within twenty-four hours after liability for the tax accrues, each such person shall file with the commissioner a return in such form as the commissioner may prescribe together with a remittance of the tax shown to be due thereon. For purposes of this article, the word "use" means the exercise of any right or power actual or constructive and shall include but is not limited to the receipt, storage or any keeping or retention for any length of time, but shall not include possession for sale. All the other provisions of this article, if not inconsistent, shall apply to the administration and enforcement of the tax imposed by this section in the same manner as if the language of said provisions had been incorporated in full into this section.

§ 471-d. Special provision as to imposition of taxes on certain tobacco products. If a person shall receive any tobacco products, upon which tobacco products this state was without power to impose the taxes under this article, and such person shall thereafter possess such tobacco products for sale or use any such tobacco products in such manner and under such circumstances as may subject the same to the taxing power of this state with respect to such possession for sale or use, such person shall be liable for the tax imposed by section four hundred seventy-one-b or four hundred seventy-one-c of this article, as the case may be with respect to such sale or use, and shall make the same reports and returns, pay the same taxes and be subject to all other provisions of this article relating to distributors, except that such a person shall not be subject to the provisions of sections four hundred seventy-two and four hundred eighty of this article if such person does not offer tobacco products for sale.

§ 471-e. Taxes imposed on qualified reservations. 1. Indian tax exemption coupon system. (a) Notwithstanding any provision of this article to the contrary qualified Indians may purchase cigarettes for such qualified Indians' own use or consumption exempt from cigarette tax on their nations' or tribes' qualified reservations. However, such qualified Indians purchasing cigarettes off their reservations or on another nation's or tribe's reservation, and non-Indians making cigarette purchases on an Indian reservation shall not be exempt from paying the cigarette tax when purchasing cigarettes within this state. Accordingly, all cigarettes sold on an Indian reservation to non-members of the nation or tribe or to non-Indians shall be taxed, and evidence of such tax will be by means of an affixed cigarette tax stamp.

(b) In order to ensure an adequate quantity of cigarettes on Indian reservations which may be purchased by qualified Indians exempt from the cigarette tax, the recognized governing body of an Indian nation or tribe may annually elect to participate in the Indian tax exemption coupon system for that year. If the recognized governing body of an Indian nation or tribe elects within the time specified by the department to participate in the Indian tax exemption coupon system for that year, the department shall provide the Indian nation or tribe with Indian tax exemption coupons as set forth in this section. If the recognized governing body of an Indian nation or tribe does not elect to participate in the Indian tax exemption coupon system for that year or does not make this election for that year within the time specified by the department, no Indian tax exemption coupons will be provided to that Indian nation or tribe for that year. Instead, for that year, the prior approval system set forth in paragraph (b) of subdivision five of section four hundred seventy-one of this article shall be used. When the recognized governing body of an Indian nation or tribe elects to use the Indian tax exemption coupon system for a year, an Indian nation or tribe and a reservation cigarette seller shall be able to present such Indian tax exemption coupons to a wholesale dealer licensed pursuant to this article in order to purchase stamped cigarettes exempt from the imposition of the cigarette tax. Qualified Indians may purchase cigarettes from a reservation cigarette seller exempt from the cigarette tax even though such cigarettes will have an affixed cigarette tax stamp.

2. Indian tax exemption coupons. (a) If the recognized governing body of an Indian nation or tribe timely elects to participate in the Indian tax exemption coupon system for that year, Indian tax exemption coupons shall be provided to the recognized governing body of such Indian nation or tribe to ensure that such Indian nation or tribe can obtain cigarettes upon which the tax will not be collected that are for the use or consumption by the nation or tribe or by the members of such nation or tribe. The Indian tax exemption coupons shall be provided to such Indian nations or tribes on a quarterly basis for each of the four quarters beginning with the first day of December, March, June, and September of that year. It is intended that the Indian nations or tribes will retain the amount of Indian tax exemption coupons they will need each quarter to purchase cigarettes for official nation or tribal use, and will distribute the remaining Indian tax exemption coupons to reservation cigarette sellers on such nations' or tribes' qualified reservations. Only Indian nations or tribes or reservation cigarette sellers on their qualified reservations may redeem such Indian tax exemption coupons pursuant to this section.

(b) The amount of Indian tax exemption coupons to be given to the recognized governing body of each Indian nation or tribe shall be based upon the probable demand of the qualified Indians on such nation's or tribe's qualified reservation plus the amount needed for official nation or tribal use.

(i) Probable demand shall be determined by reference to, among other data, the United States average cigarette consumption per capita, as compiled for the most recently completed calendar or fiscal year, multiplied by the number of qualified Indians for each such affected Indian nation or tribe.

(ii) In making a determination of probable demand, the department shall take into consideration any evidence submitted by such recognized governing body relating to such probable demand (e.g., a verifiable record of previous sales to qualified Indians or other statistical evidence) and/or relating to the amount needed for such nation's or tribe's official use.

(c) Each Indian tax exemption coupon shall consist of a retention portion for a wholesale dealer's recordkeeping purposes and a redemption portion for a wholesale dealer's submission to the department when claiming a refund as set forth in subdivision four of this section, and shall contain the following information:

- (i) the identity of the Indian nation or tribe to which it is issued;
- (ii) the identity and the quantity of the product for which it is issued;
- (iii) the date of issuance and the date of expiration; and
- (iv) any other information as the commissioner may deem appropriate.

3. Tax exempt purchaser. (a) An Indian nation or tribe may purchase cigarettes for its own official use or consumption from a wholesale dealer licensed pursuant to this article without payment of the cigarette tax to the extent that the Indian nation or tribe provides such wholesale dealer with Indian tax exemption coupons entitling the Indian nation or tribe to purchase such quantities of cigarettes as allowed for on each Indian tax exemption coupon without paying the cigarette tax.

(b) A qualified Indian may purchase cigarettes for his or her own use or consumption without payment of the cigarette tax, provided that the qualified Indian makes such purchase on a qualified reservation.

(c) A reservation cigarette seller may purchase cigarettes for resale without payment of the cigarette tax from a wholesale dealer licensed pursuant to this article:

(i) provided that such reservation cigarette seller brings such cigarettes or causes them to be delivered onto a qualified reservation for resale on such reservation;

(ii) to the extent that such reservation cigarette seller provides such wholesale dealer with Indian tax exemption coupons entitling the reservation cigarette seller to purchase such quantities of cigarettes as allowed for on each Indian tax exemption coupon without paying the cigarette tax; and

(iii) provided that such cigarettes are affixed with a cigarette tax stamp.

(d) Wholesale dealers shall sell only tax-stamped cigarettes to Indian nations and tribes, reservation cigarette sellers and all other purchasers, but shall not collect the cigarette tax from any purchaser to the extent the purchaser gives such wholesale dealer Indian tax exemption coupons entitling the purchaser to purchase such quantities of cigarettes as allowed for on each such Indian tax exemption coupon without paying the cigarette tax.

4. Refunds. A wholesale dealer licensed pursuant to this article who has one or more Indian tax exemption coupons may file a claim for refund as provided for in section four hundred seventy-six of this article with respect to any cigarette tax previously paid on cigarettes it sold without collecting the tax because it accepted an Indian tax exemption coupon from its purchaser pursuant to this section.

5. Tax agreements with Indian nations or tribes. If an Indian nation or tribe enters into an agreement with the state and the legislature approves such agreement regarding the sale and distribution of cigarettes on the nation's or tribe's qualified reservation, the terms of such agreement shall take precedence over the provisions of this article and exempt such nation from such taxes to the extent that such taxes are specifically referred to in the agreement, and the sale or distribution, including transportation, of any cigarettes to the nation's or tribe's qualified reservation shall be in accordance with the provisions of such agreement.

6. The failure of the department to establish, issue and provide

Indian tax exemption coupons, pursuant to subdivisions one and two of this section, or to promulgate any rules, regulations or directives necessary to implement the provisions of this section, shall not relieve wholesale dealers of the obligation to sell only tax-stamped cigarettes to Indian nations and tribes, and to reservation cigarette sellers.

The commissioner shall prescribe, prepare and furnish stamps of such denominations and quantities as may be necessary for the payment of the tax on cigarettes imposed by this article, and may from time to time and as often as he deems advisable provide for the issuance and exclusive use of stamps of a new design and forbid the use of stamps of any other design, in the manner and with the effect provided in section two hundred seventy-four of this chapter. The commissioner shall make provisions for the sale of such stamps at such places and at such times as he may deem necessary and may license agents for such purpose. The commissioner may license dealers in cigarettes, who maintain separate warehousing facilities for the purpose of receiving and distributing cigarettes and conducting their business, who have received commitments from at least two cigarette manufacturers whose aggregate market share is at least forty percent of the New York state cigarette market, and importers, exporters and manufacturers of cigarettes, and other persons within or without the state as agents to buy or affix stamps to be used in paying the tax herein imposed, but an agent shall at all times have the right to appoint the person in his employ who is to affix the stamps to any cigarettes under the agent's control. The fee for filing such application for an agent's license shall be one thousand five hundred dollars, unless such fee has been paid during the preceding twelve months, in which case, the fee for a new license shall be one thousand dollars. All of the provisions of section four hundred eighty relating to wholesale dealers' licenses, including the procedure for suspension, revocation, refusal to license and for hearings, except for paragraphs (c) and (g) of subdivision one of such section, shall be applicable to agents' licenses applied for or granted pursuant to this section, as if such provisions had been set forth in full in this subdivision and had expressly referred to the applicant for, or the holder of, an agent's license. Whenever the commissioner shall sell and deliver to any such agent any such stamps, such agent shall be entitled to receive as compensation for his services and expenses as such agent in selling or affixing such stamps, and to retain out of the moneys to be paid by him for such stamps, a commission on the par value thereof. The commissioner is hereby authorized to prescribe a schedule of commissions, not exceeding five per centum, allowable to such agent for buying and affixing such stamps. Such schedule shall be uniform with respect to the different types of stamps used, and may be on a graduated scale with respect to the number of stamps purchased. The commissioner may, in his discretion, permit an agent to pay for such stamps within thirty days after the date of purchase and may require any such agent to file with the department of taxation and finance a bond issued by a surety company approved by the superintendent of financial services as to solvency and responsibility and authorized to transact business in the state or other security acceptable to the commissioner, in such amount as the commissioner may fix, to secure the payment of any sums due from such agent pursuant to this article. If securities are deposited as security under this subdivision, such securities shall be kept in the custody of the commissioner and may be sold by the commissioner if it becomes necessary so to do in order to recover any sums due from such agent pursuant to this article, but no such sale shall be had until after such agent shall have had opportunity to litigate the validity of any tax if it elects so to do. Upon any such sale, the surplus, if any, above the sums due under this article shall be returned to such agent.

2. A manufacturer or agent who intends to sell within the state packages of cigarettes containing more than twenty cigarettes must notify the tax commission, in writing, of such intention one hundred twenty days prior to the time such packages will be sold within the state, except that such tax commission shall waive such requirement if it has already prescribed, prepared and furnished, or is in a position to prescribe, prepare and furnish in a timely manner, stamps of such denomination and quantities as may be necessary for the payment of the tax imposed by this article on cigarettes in such package; provided, however, that a notice provided pursuant to this subdivision within fifteen days of the effective date of this subdivision shall be deemed to have been provided on the effective date of this subdivision.

3. The commissioner of taxation and finance may appoint dealers in tobacco products, manufacturers of tobacco products and other persons within or without the state as distributors and may authorize them to make returns and to pay the tax on tobacco products sold, shipped or delivered by them to any person in the state. The commissioner may, in his discretion, require the deposit of a bond issued by a surety company approved by the superintendent of financial services as to solvency and responsibility and authorized to transact business in this state, or other security acceptable to the commissioner in an amount and form satisfactory to him as a condition of appointing any such person as a distributor. If securities are deposited as security under this subdivision, such securities shall be kept in the custody of the commissioner of taxation and finance and may be sold by the commissioner if it becomes necessary so to do in order to recover any sums due from such distributor pursuant to this article, but no such sale shall be had until after such distributor shall have had an opportunity to litigate the validity of any tax if it elects so to do. Upon any such sale, the surplus, if any, above the sums due under this article shall be returned to such distributor.

§ 473. Affixation and cancellation of stamps; presumption. Each agent shall affix within the time hereinafter prescribed, to each package of cigarettes, stamps evidencing the payment of the tax imposed by this article and shall cancel such stamps before such cigarettes are offered for sale or before they are otherwise disposed of, unless stamps have been affixed to such packages of cigarettes and cancelled before such agent received them. Each dealer, other than an agent, shall immediately upon the receipt of any cigarettes at his place of business mark in ink on each unopened box, carton or other container of such cigarettes the word "received" and the year, month, day and hour of such receipt, and shall affix his signature thereto, or in any other manner prescribed.

Each retail dealer shall open such box, carton or other container within twenty-four hours after such receipt and prior to exposing for sale or selling such cigarettes and examine the packages contained therein for the purpose of ascertaining whether or not the said packages have affixed thereto the proper tax stamp; if unstamped or improperly stamped packages of cigarettes are discovered, the retail dealer shall immediately notify the dealer from whom said cigarettes were purchased. Upon such notification, the dealer from whom said cigarettes were purchased will replace such unstamped or improperly stamped packages of cigarettes with those upon which stamps have been properly affixed.

Whenever any cigarettes are found in the place of business of such dealer, other than an agent, without the stamps affixed and cancelled, or not marked as having been received within the preceding twenty-four hours, the presumption shall be that such cigarettes are kept therein in violation of the provisions of this article. Stamps shall be affixed to each package of cigarettes of an aggregate denomination not less than the amount of the tax upon the contents therein, and shall be affixed in such manner as to be visible to the purchaser.

§ 473-a. Returns and payment of tobacco products tax by distributors.

1. Every distributor shall, on or before the twentieth day of each month, file with the commissioner of taxation and finance a return on forms to be prescribed and furnished by the commissioner, showing the quantity and wholesale price of all tobacco products imported or caused to be imported into the state by him or manufactured in the state by him, during the preceding calendar month. Every distributor authorized by the commissioner to make returns and pay the tax on tobacco products sold, shipped or delivered by him to any person in the state shall file a return showing the quantity and wholesale price of all tobacco products so sold, shipped or delivered during the preceding calendar month. Provided, however, the commissioner may, if he deems it necessary in order to insure the payment of the taxes imposed by this article, require returns to be made at such times and covering such periods as he may deem necessary, and, by regulation, may permit the filing of returns on a quarterly, semi-annual or annual basis, or may waive the filing of returns by a distributor for such time and upon such terms as he may deem proper if satisfied that no tax imposed by this article is or will be payable by him during the time for which returns are waived. Such returns shall contain such further information as the commissioner may require.

2. Every distributor shall pay to the commissioner with the filing of such return the tax on tobacco products for such month imposed under this article.

§ 473-b. Cigarettes marked for export outside the United States; importation and affixation of stamps prohibited. 1. A person may not import into this state any cigarettes that have been marked for export outside the United States with a label or notice in compliance with 27 CFR § 290.185 or that violates a federal requirement for the placement of labels, warnings, or any other information, including health hazards, on the individual package.

2. A person may not affix a stamp on a package of cigarettes, cigarette papers, wrappers or tubes unless that individual complies with all federal tax laws, federal trademark and copyright laws, and all federal laws regarding the placement of labels, warnings or any other information upon a package of cigarettes, cigarette papers, wrappers, or tubes.

3. A person may not affix a stamp on a package of cigarettes, cigarette papers, wrappers, or tubes if that individual package has been marked for export outside the United States with a label or notice in compliance with 27 CFR § 290.185.

§ 474. Records to be kept; examination. 1. Every person who shall possess or transport any unstamped cigarettes upon the public highways, roads or streets of the state, shall be required to have in his actual possession invoices or delivery tickets for such cigarettes. Such invoices or delivery tickets shall show the name and address of the consignor or seller, the name and address of the consignee or purchaser, the quantity and brands of the cigarettes transported, and the name and address of the person who has or shall assume the payment of the tax. The absence of such invoices or delivery tickets shall be prima facie evidence that such person is a dealer in cigarettes in this state and subject to the provisions of this article.

2. Every person who shall possess or transport more than two hundred fifty cigars, or more than five pounds of tobacco other than roll-your-own tobacco, or more than thirty-six ounces of roll-your-own tobacco, or more than seventy-five units of alternative nicotine products, upon the public highways, roads or streets of the state, shall be required to have in their actual possession invoices or delivery tickets for such tobacco products. Such invoices or delivery tickets shall show the name and address of the consignor or seller, the name and address of the consignee or purchaser, the quantity and brands of the tobacco products transported, and the name and address of the person who has or shall assume the payment of the tax and the wholesale price or the tax paid or payable. The absence of such invoices or delivery tickets shall be prima facie evidence that such person is a dealer in tobacco products in this state and subject to the requirements of this article.

3. Every dealer or distributor or employee thereof, or other person acting on behalf of a dealer or distributor, who shall possess or transport more than fifty cigars, more than one pound of tobacco, or more than fifteen units of alternative nicotine products, upon the public highways, roads or streets of the state, shall be required to have in their actual possession invoices or delivery tickets for such tobacco products. Such invoices or delivery tickets shall show the name and address of the consignor or seller, the name and address of the consignee or purchaser, the quantity and brands of the tobacco products transported, and the name and address of the person who has or shall assume the payment of the tax and the wholesale price or the tax paid or payable. The absence of such invoices or delivery tickets shall be prima facie evidence that the tax imposed by this article on tobacco products has not been paid and is due and owing.

4. At the time of delivering cigarettes to any person each agent or wholesale dealer, and at the time of delivering tobacco products to any person each distributor or wholesale dealer of tobacco products, shall make a true duplicate invoice showing the date of delivery, the number of packages and number of cigarettes contained therein, in each shipment of cigarettes delivered, and the items and quantity and wholesale price of each item in each shipment of tobacco products delivered, and the name of the purchaser to whom delivery is made, and shall retain the same for a period of three years subject to the use and inspection of the commissioner. Each dealer shall procure and retain invoices showing the number of packages and number of cigarettes contained therein, in each shipment of cigarettes received by him or her, and the items and quantity and wholesale price of each item in each shipment of tobacco products received by him or her, the date thereof, and the name of the shipper, and shall retain the same for a period of three years subject to the use and inspection of the commissioner. The commissioner by regulation may provide that whenever cigarettes or tobacco products are shipped into the state, the railroad company, express company, trucking company or other public carrier transporting any shipment thereof shall file with the commissioner a copy of the freight bill within ten days after the delivery in the state of each shipment. All dealers shall maintain and keep for a period of three years such other records of cigarettes or tobacco products received, sold or delivered within the state as may be required by the commissioner. The commissioner is hereby authorized to examine the books, papers, invoices and other records of any person in possession, control or occupancy of any premises where cigarettes or tobacco products are placed, stored, sold or offered for sale, and the equipment of any such person pertaining to the stamping of cigarettes or the sale and delivery of cigarettes or tobacco products taxable under this article, as well as the stock of cigarettes or tobacco products in any such premises or vehicle. To verify the accuracy of the tax imposed and assessed by this article, each such person is hereby directed and required to give to the commissioner or his or her duly authorized representatives, the means, facilities and opportunity for such examinations as are herein provided for and required.

5. Every accredited college, university or hospital that receives research tobacco products as defined in subdivision twenty of section four hundred seventy of this article shall, in good faith, file an annual information return on or before the last day of January reporting all research tobacco products received by such college, university or hospital or its affiliated researcher within the preceding calendar year. Such return shall be in the form and shall include such information as the commissioner prescribes by regulation. Any person required to file an information return by this subdivision who willfully fails to timely file such return or willfully fails to provide any material information required to be reported on such return may be subject to a penalty of up to one thousand dollars.

§ 475. General powers of the tax commission. The powers conferred upon the tax commission by sections one hundred seventy-one and one hundred seventy-one-b of this chapter shall, so far as applicable, be exercisable with respect to the provisions of this article. Such commission may require returns to be filed with it at such times and containing such information as it may prescribe and in such event the fact that a person's name is signed to the return shall be prima facie evidence for all purposes that the return was actually signed by such person. Notwithstanding any other provision of this article, the tax commission may enter into an agreement with any city of this state which is authorized to impose a tax similar to that imposed by this article to provide for the joint administration, in whole or in part, of such taxes.

§ 476. Refunds; sales of stamps. Whenever any cigarettes upon which stamps have been placed or tobacco products upon which the tax has been paid have been sold and shipped into another state for sale or use there or have become unfit for use and consumption or unsalable, or have been destroyed, or whenever the commissioner of taxation and finance shall have determined that any tax imposed by this article shall have been paid in error, the agent, dealer or tobacco products distributor, as the case may be, shall be entitled to a refund of the actual amount of tax so paid, provided application therefor is filed with the commissioner of taxation and finance within two years after the stamps were affixed to such cigarettes or the tax was paid upon such tobacco products, except if an agreement under the provisions of section four hundred seventy-eight (extending the period for determination of tax imposed by this article) is made within the two-year period for the filing of an application for refund provided for in this section, the period for filing an application for refund shall not expire prior to six months after the expiration of the period within which a determination may be made pursuant to the agreement or any extension thereof. If the commissioner of taxation and finance is satisfied that any dealer is entitled to a refund he shall issue to such dealer stamps of sufficient value to cover the refund of the tax on cigarettes or may, subject to audit by the comptroller, make a refund of the tax on cigarettes or on tobacco products. No person shall sell or offer for sale any stamp or stamps issued under this article except by written permission of the commissioner of taxation and finance. The commissioner of taxation and finance may redeem unused stamps lawfully in possession of any person. The commissioner of taxation and finance may prescribe necessary rules and regulations concerning refunds, sales of stamps, and redemptions under the provisions of this article.

§ 478. Determination of tax. If any person files any return under this article, but such return is incorrect or insufficient, the commissioner of taxation and finance shall determine the amount of tax due at any time within three years after the return was filed (whether or not such return was filed on or after the due date), and give written notice of such determination to such person, except that if such person fails to file a return or files a willfully false or fraudulent return with intent to evade the tax, such determination may be made at any time. Notwithstanding any of the foregoing provisions of this section, where, before the expiration of the time prescribed in this section for the determination of tax, both the commissioner of taxation and finance and the taxpayer have consented in writing to its determination after such time, the tax may be determined at any time prior to the expiration of the period agreed upon. The period so agreed upon may be extended by subsequent agreements in writing made before the expiration of the period previously agreed upon. Any determination made pursuant to this section shall finally and irrevocably fix the tax unless the person against whom it is assessed shall, within ninety days after the giving of notice of such determination, petition the division of tax appeals for a hearing. After such hearing, the division of tax appeals shall give notice of the determination of the administrative law judge to the person liable for the tax and to the commissioner of taxation and finance. Such determination may be reviewed by the tax appeals tribunal as provided in article forty of this chapter. The decision of the tax appeals tribunal may be reviewed as provided in section two thousand sixteen of this chapter, but the proceeding may not be commenced unless the amount of tax stated or referred to in the decision, with penalties and interest thereon, if any, shall have been first deposited with the commissioner of taxation and finance, and an undertaking filed with him, in such amount and with such sureties as a justice of the supreme court shall approve, to the effect that if the proceeding be dismissed or the decision confirmed, the petitioner will pay all costs and charges which may accrue against him in the prosecution of the proceeding, or at the option of the petitioner such undertaking may be in a sum sufficient to cover the tax, penalties, interest, costs and charges aforesaid, in which event the petitioner shall not be required to pay such tax, penalties and interest as a condition precedent to the commencement of the proceeding.

The remedy provided by this section for review of a decision of the tax appeals tribunal shall be the exclusive remedy available to any taxpayer to judicially determine the liability of such taxpayer for taxes under this article.

§ 479. Warrant for the collection of taxes. In addition to all other remedies for the collection of any taxes due under the provisions of this article, the tax commission may issue a warrant directed to the sheriff of any county commanding said sheriff to levy upon and sell the real and personal property of a specified delinquent dealer or other person found within his jurisdiction, for the payment of the amount of such delinquency with the added penalties and interest and the cost of executing the warrant, and to return such warrant to the tax commission and to pay it the money collected by virtue thereof within sixty days after receipt of such warrant. The sheriff shall, within five days after receipt of the warrant, file with the clerk of his county a copy thereof and thereupon such clerk shall enter in the judgment docket the name of the person mentioned in the warrant and the amount of the tax, penalties and interest for which the warrant is issued and the date when such copy is filed. Thereupon the amount of such warrant so docketed shall become a lien upon the title to and interest in real and personal property of the person against whom the warrant is issued. Such lien shall not apply to personal property unless such warrant is also filed in the department of state. The sheriff to whom any such warrant shall be directed shall proceed upon the same in all respects and with like effect and in the same manner as prescribed by law in respect to executions issued against property upon judgments by a court of record, and shall be entitled to the same fees for his services in executing the warrant to be collected in the same manner. In the discretion of the tax commission a warrant of like terms, force and effect may be issued and directed to any officer or employee of the department of taxation and finance, and in the execution thereof such officer or employee shall have all the power conferred by law upon sheriffs, but he shall be entitled to no fee or compensation in excess of the actual expenses paid in the performance of such duty. Upon such filing of a warrant, the tax commission shall have the same remedies to enforce the amount due thereunder as if the state had recovered judgment therefor.

§ 480. License. 1. General. (a) On and after July first, nineteen hundred thirty-nine no person shall be a wholesale dealer unless he has been granted and publicly displays in his place of business a license from the department. Applications for licenses shall be made on forms prescribed by the commissioner.

(b) Applications shall be accompanied by proof of the applicant's financial responsibility, including, but not limited to, satisfactory proof of a minimum net worth of twenty-five thousand dollars if the applicant is an individual, or net worth in the capitalization of the business if the applicant is not an individual equal to a minimum of twenty-five thousand dollars.

(c) Each applicant shall file with the department a bond issued by a surety company approved by the superintendent of financial services as to solvency and responsibility and authorized to transact business in the state, in the face amount of ten thousand dollars, to secure payment of any sums due for any violation of article twenty or article twenty-A of this chapter, or the regulations of the commissioner thereunder.

(d) Each applicant shall file satisfactory proof that it will maintain a secure separate warehousing facility for the purpose of receiving and distributing cigarettes or tobacco products and conducting its wholesale business. Such proof shall consist of a copy of a deed, or a copy of an executed lease for a minimum period of two years, to a separate, secure warehouse. If the applicant carries on another business in conjunction with the warehouse facility, the other business shall also be identified.

(e) Each applicant shall file satisfactory proof that it will provide disability and workers' compensation insurance for its employees.

(f) Each applicant shall submit proof of United States citizenship or eligibility to obtain employment within the United States if not a citizen. If the applicant is not an individual, such proof shall be submitted with respect to each controlling person of the applicant.

(g) The fee for the filing of an application for a license shall be fifteen hundred dollars, unless such fee has been paid during the preceding twelve months, in which case, the fee for a new license shall be one thousand dollars. Each application shall be accompanied by a certified check for the required application fee.

(h) Except as provided in subdivision four of this section, a license shall continue in effect until revoked or suspended for cause or surrendered.

(i) A license shall not be assignable but an applicant who is purchasing the business of a licensee shall file a copy of the contract of sale and any related documents with its application.

(j) The commissioner may for cause refuse to issue, or may suspend or revoke a wholesaler's license, or may forbid a retail dealer to continue selling cigarettes or tobacco products or may forbid a person required to be appointed as a distributor of tobacco products who has not been so appointed from selling cigarettes or tobacco products, after an opportunity for hearing has been afforded. A violation of any provision of this article or of any regulation issued under it shall be cause to forbid a retail dealer to continue selling cigarettes or tobacco products.

(k) No agent shall sell cigarettes and no distributor shall sell tobacco products to an unlicensed wholesale dealer, or to a wholesale dealer whose license has been suspended or revoked, or to a retail dealer who is not registered under section four hundred eighty-a of this article, or whose registration has been suspended or revoked, and no wholesale dealer shall sell cigarettes or tobacco products to a retail dealer who is not registered under section four hundred eighty-a of this article, or whose registration has been suspended or revoked, and no retail dealer shall sell cigarettes or tobacco products unless such dealer is registered under section four hundred eighty-a of this article.

(l) Paragraphs (b), (c) and (g) of this subdivision shall not apply to the filing of an application for a license as a wholesale dealer that is based solely upon the ownership, operation or maintenance of one or more cigarette or tobacco products vending machines in, at or upon premises owned or occupied by another person, or that is based solely upon the sale of tobacco products for resale, or that is based upon both the ownership, operation or maintenance of one or more cigarette or tobacco products vending machines in, at or upon premises owned or occupied by another person and the sale of tobacco products for resale.

2. Refusal to license. The commissioner of taxation and finance may refuse to license an applicant where such applicant files an application under this section and in considering such application the commissioner ascertains that:

(a) Any tax imposed under this chapter or under any related statute as defined in section eighteen hundred of this chapter has been finally determined to be due from such applicant or controlling person and such tax has not been paid in full,

(b) Such applicant or any controlling person has been convicted of a crime provided for in this chapter within the preceding five years,

(c) Such applicant or any controlling person was the controlling person in another wholesale dealer at the time that:

(i) Any tax imposed under this chapter or any related statute as defined in section eighteen hundred of this chapter was finally determined to be due from such other wholesale dealer and such tax has not been paid in full,

(ii) Such other wholesale dealer was convicted of a crime provided for in this chapter within the preceding five years, or

(iii) The license of such other wholesale dealer was cancelled or suspended pursuant to this section within the preceding five years,

(d) The license of such applicant has been cancelled or suspended pursuant to this section within the preceding five years,

(e) Any controlling person of such applicant has committed any of the acts specified in subdivision three of this section within the preceding five years, or

(f) Such applicant or any controlling person has been finally determined to have violated any of the provisions of this article or article twenty-A of this chapter, or any rule or regulation adopted pursuant to this article or article twenty-A of this chapter.

3. Cancellation or suspension of license.

(a) Acts of licensee. The license of any wholesale dealer may be cancelled or suspended by the tax commission upon:

(i) Its failure to file or maintain in full force and effect a bond or other security when required or when the amount thereof is increased,

(ii) Its failure to comply with any of the provisions of this article or article twenty-A of this chapter or any rule or regulation adopted pursuant to this article or article twenty-A of this chapter by the department or the commissioner, provided, however, that any violation of section four hundred seventy-three-b of this article shall result in license cancellation,

(iii) Its knowingly aiding and abetting another person in violating any of the provisions of this article or article twenty-A of this chapter or any rule or regulation adopted pursuant to this article or article twenty-A of this chapter by the department or the commissioner, provided, however, that any violation of section four hundred seventy-three-b of this article shall result in license cancellation.

(b) Acts of licensee or controlling person. A license may be cancelled or suspended if the tax commission determines that a licensee or any controlling person:

(i) Commits fraud or deceit in his or its operations as a wholesale dealer or has committed fraud or deceit in procuring his or its license,
(ii) Has been convicted in a court of competent jurisdiction, either within or without the state, of a felony, bearing on the licensee's duties and obligations under this chapter,
(iii) Has impersonated any person represented to be a wholesale dealer under this article but not in fact licensed under this section, or
(iv) Has knowingly aided and abetted the sale of cigarettes or tobacco products by a person which such licensee or controlling person knows (A) has not been licensed by the commissioner of taxation and finance and (B) is a wholesale dealer pursuant to the terms of subdivision eight of section four hundred seventy of this chapter.

4. If the commissioner of taxation and finance considers it necessary for the proper administration of the cigarette tax or tobacco products tax imposed by this article or the cigarette marketing standards contained in article twenty-A of this chapter he may require every person under this article who holds a license to file a new application for a license in such form and at such time as the commissioner may prescribe and to surrender such license. The commissioner may require such filing and such surrender not more often than once every three years. Upon the filing of such application with the proper fee and the surrender of such license, the commissioner shall issue, within such time as he may prescribe, a new license to each applicant.

5. Hearing procedure. (a) General. A notice of proposed cancellation or suspension of a license or refusal to issue a license shall be given to the wholesale dealer licensed pursuant to this article or to an applicant applying for such license in the manner prescribed for a notice of deficiency of tax and all the provisions applicable to a notice of deficiency under article twenty-seven of this chapter, including, but not limited to, those provisions authorizing the tax commission to abate on its own motion, shall apply to a notice issued pursuant to this subdivision, insofar as such provisions can be made applicable to a notice authorized by this subdivision, with such modifications as may be necessary in order to adapt the language of such provisions to the notice authorized by this subdivision. Such notice of proposed cancellation or suspension or of proposed refusal to license must be given to such person within five years from the date of the act or omission referred to in subdivision two or three of this section, except that in the case of acts involving falsity or fraud, such notice may be issued at any time. All of such notices shall contain a statement advising the person to whom it is issued that the cancellation, suspension or refusal to license may be challenged through a hearing process and that the petition for such challenge must be filed with the tax commission within ninety days after the giving of such notice. Where a license is cancelled or suspended prior to a hearing, the cancellation or suspension may be challenged through the hearing process provided the petition for such challenge is filed within ninety days after the giving of notice of such cancellation or suspension.

(b) Refusal to license. In the case of a person applying to be licensed as a wholesale dealer, a notice of proposed refusal to license shall be issued promptly after application for license is received by the tax commission. Upon timely application therefor, a hearing shall be scheduled, and within three months from such application for hearing (determined with regard to any postponements of any scheduled hearing or conference or other delay made at the request of the applicant) the tax commission shall issue a notice of refusal to license or shall license the applicant. If the tax commission fails to issue a notice of refusal to license within such three month period (or such period as extended pursuant to this paragraph), the tax commission shall license the applicant immediately upon the conclusion of such period so long as the applicant has filed a bond or other security as required by the tax commission.

6. For purposes of this section, the term "controlling person" means any person who is:

(a) An officer, director or partner or, in the case of a limited liability company, a member or a person having with respect to such limited liability company authority analogous to that of an officer or director with respect to a corporation of an applicant for a wholesale dealer's license or of a licensee under this article, or

(b) A shareholder, directly or indirectly owning more than ten percent of the number of shares of stock of such applicant or licensee (where such applicant or licensee is a corporation) entitling the holder thereof to vote for the election of directors or trustees. For purposes of this paragraph, where reference is made to ownership, directly or indirectly, of more than ten percent of the shares of stock of the applicant or another person entitling the holder thereof to vote for the election of directors or trustees, in the case of an applicant or another person which at the relevant time has four or fewer shareholders holding shares entitling the holders thereof to vote for the election of directors or trustees, twenty-five percent or more shall be substituted as the applicable percentage in such references to ownership, directly or indirectly, of voting stock.

§ 480-a. Retail dealer and vending machine registration. 1. (a) On and after January first, nineteen hundred ninety-one, every retail dealer shall publicly display a certificate of registration from the department in each place of business in this state through which it sells cigarettes or tobacco products at retail. A retail dealer who has no regular place of business shall publicly display such certificate on each of its carts, stands, trucks or other merchandising devices through which it sells cigarettes or tobacco products in this state.

(b) Every person who owns or, if the owner is not the operator, then any person who operates one or more vending machines through which cigarettes or tobacco products are sold in this state, regardless of whether located on the premises of the vending machine owner or, if the owner is not the operator, then the premises of the operator or the premises of any other person, must register each such vending machine with the department. On and after January first, nineteen hundred ninety-one, a vending machine registration certificate, in such form as may be prescribed by the commissioner of taxation and finance, shall be affixed to each vending machine through which cigarettes or tobacco products are sold in this state.

(c) Registrations of retail dealers and vending machines shall be valid for a calendar year period upon payment of the fee prescribed in subdivision two of this section and must be renewed each year upon payment of such fee. A registration shall not be assignable or transferable. In the case of retail dealers a registration certificate shall be surrendered to the department immediately upon the retail dealer's ceasing to do business as specified in the registration certificate, or in the event that such business never commenced.

(d) (i) The commissioner shall not register retail dealers or such registration may be cancelled or suspended by the commissioner upon notification that the applicant or retail dealer has been convicted in a criminal proceeding of a violation of subdivision five of section 260.20 of the penal law or as directed by an enforcement officer pursuant to article thirteen-F of the public health law. The clerk of the court shall promptly report all criminal convictions under subdivision five of section 260.20 of the penal law to the commissioner, together with a direction to the commissioner to cancel such registration or to suspend it for a specified period of time. Anything to the contrary in any law notwithstanding, retail dealers shall have no right to a hearing under this chapter and shall have no right to commence a court action or proceeding or to any other legal recourse against the commissioner with respect to any action taken by the commissioner under this paragraph, provided nothing herein shall be construed to deny retail dealers a hearing under article thirteen-F of the public health law or to prohibit retail dealers from commencing a court action or proceeding against an enforcement officer as defined in section thirteen hundred ninety-nine-aa of the public health law.

(ii) Anything to the contrary in any law notwithstanding, the commissioner shall provide upon request to an enforcement officer as defined in section thirteen hundred ninety-nine-aa of the public health law such registration information as is relevant and necessary for the implementation of article thirteen-F of the public health law.

(e) The commissioner may refuse to register as a retail dealer or may revoke the registration of a retail dealer where the applicant's or retail dealer's place of business is at the same premises as that of a retail dealer whose retail dealer registration has been revoked and where such revocation is still in effect, unless the applicant or retail dealer provides the commissioner with adequate documentation demonstrating that such applicant or retail dealer acquired the premises or business through an arm's length transaction as defined in this paragraph and that the sale or lease was not conducted, in whole or in part, for the purpose of permitting the original registrant to avoid the effect of the previous revocation for the same premises. For purposes of this paragraph, "arm's length transaction" means a sale of a fee or all undivided interests in real property, or lease of any part thereof, or a sale of a business, in good faith and for valuable consideration, that reflects the fair market value of such real property or lease, or business, in the open market, between two informed and willing parties, where neither is under any compulsion to participate in the transaction, unaffected by any unusual conditions indicating a reasonable possibility that the sale or lease was made for the purpose of permitting the original registrant to avoid the effect of the previous revocation for the same premises. The following sales or leases shall be presumed not to be arm's length transactions unless adequate documentation is provided demonstrating that the sale or lease was not conducted, in whole or in part, for the purpose of permitting the original registrant to avoid the effect of the previous revocation for the same premises:

- (i) a sale between relatives; or
- (ii) a sale between related companies or partners in a business; or
- (iii) a sale or lease affected by other facts or circumstances that would indicate that the sale or lease is entered into for the primary purpose of permitting the original registrant to avoid the effect of the previous revocation for the same premises.

(f) In addition to the grounds for refusal of a registration specified in section eleven hundred thirty-four of this chapter, the commissioner may refuse to register any person as a retail dealer where any tax under this chapter, or a tax or fee administered by the commissioner under any other law, has been finally determined to be due from such person, or from a person required to collect tax with respect to such person or another person, and has not been paid.

2. (a) (i) Every retail dealer and every person owning or, if the owner is not the operator, then any person operating one or more vending machines through which cigarettes or tobacco products are sold in this state, who is required under section eleven hundred thirty-six of this chapter to file a return for the quarterly period ending on the last day of August, nineteen hundred ninety or for the quarterly period ending on the last day of August in any year thereafter, must file an application for registration under this section with that quarterly return, in such form as shall be prescribed by the commissioner.

(ii) Each retail dealer must pay an application fee with the quarterly return of three hundred dollars for each retail place of business in this state through which it sells cigarettes or tobacco products.

(iii) Every person who owns or, if the owner is not the operator, then any person who operates one or more vending machines through which cigarettes or tobacco products are sold in this state, regardless of whether located on the premises of the vending machine owner or, if the owner is not the operator, then the premises of the operator or the premises of any other person, must pay an application fee with the quarterly return of one hundred dollars for each vending machine. The department will issue a registration certificate, as prescribed by the commissioner, after receipt of a registration application and the appropriate registration fee, prior to the next succeeding January first.

(b) Every retail dealer and every person who owns or, if the owner is not the operator, then any person who operates one or more vending machines through which cigarettes or tobacco products are sold in this state who commences business after the last day of August, nineteen hundred ninety, or who commences selling cigarettes or tobacco products at retail through a new or different place of business in this state after such date, or who commences selling cigarettes or tobacco products through new or different vending machines after such date, must file with the commissioner an application for registration, in a form prescribed by him or her, at least thirty days prior to commencing business or commencing sales. Each application must be accompanied by an application fee of three hundred dollars for each retail place of business and one hundred dollars for each vending machine to be registered. The department, within ten days after receipt of an application for registration under this paragraph and payment of the proper fee for application for registration, will issue a registration certificate, as prescribed by the commissioner, for each retail place of business or cigarette or tobacco products vending machine registered.

(c) In addition to the powers granted to the commissioner of taxation and finance in this chapter, the commissioner is hereby authorized to make provisions for the joint administration, in whole or in part, of the state and local taxes imposed by article twenty-eight and authorized to be imposed by article twenty-nine of this chapter and the registrations and fees for application for registration required by this section, including the joint reporting, assessment, collection and determination of such taxes and the registration and fees provided for in this section, and for that purpose, to prescribe that any of the commissioner's functions under such articles or this section, and any returns, forms, statements, documents or information to be submitted to the commissioner under such articles or this section, any books and records to be kept for purposes of the taxes imposed or authorized to be imposed by such articles or for purposes of this section, any schedules of amounts to be collected under such articles or this section, any registration required under such articles or this section, and the payment of taxes under such articles, or of fees under this section shall be on a joint basis.

(d) Except as otherwise provided in this section, all the provisions of article twenty-eight of this chapter relating to the personal liability for the tax, administration, collection and determination of tax, and deposit and disposition of revenue, including section eleven hundred thirty-eight of this chapter relating to determination of tax and section eleven hundred forty-five of this chapter (but only paragraphs one and two of subdivision (a) of such section) relating to penalties and interest for failure to file a return or pay tax within the time required, shall apply to the applications for registration and the fees for filing such applications required by this section and the penalty imposed pursuant to subdivision three of this section, as if such applications were returns required under section eleven hundred thirty-six of this chapter and such filing fees, penalties and interest were taxes required to be paid pursuant to such article twenty-eight, in the same manner and with the same force and effect as if the language of such provisions of such article twenty-eight had been incorporated in full into this article, except to the extent that any such provision is either inconsistent with a provision of this section or is not relevant thereto and with such other modifications as may be necessary to adapt the language of such provisions to the provisions of this section. Provided, however, that the commissioner of taxation and finance shall refund or credit an application fee paid with respect to the registration of a vending machine or a retail place of business in this state through which cigarettes or tobacco products were to be sold if, prior to the beginning of the calendar year with respect to which such registration relates, the certificate of registration described in paragraph (a) of this subdivision is returned to the department of taxation and finance, or if such certificate has been destroyed, the retail dealer or vending machine operator satisfactorily accounts to the commissioner for the missing certificate, but such vending machine or retail place of business may not be used to sell cigarettes or tobacco products in this state during such calendar year, unless it is re-registered. The provisions of section eleven hundred thirty-nine of this chapter shall apply to the refund or credit authorized by the preceding sentence and for such purposes, such refund or credit shall be deemed a refund of tax paid in error provided, however, no interest shall be allowed or paid on any such refund.

3. In addition to any other penalty imposed by this chapter: (a) Any retail dealer who violates the provisions of this section, after due notice and an opportunity for a hearing, for a first violation is liable for a civil fine not less than five thousand dollars but not to exceed twenty-five thousand dollars and for a second or subsequent violation within three years following a prior finding of violation is liable for a civil fine not less than ten thousand dollars but not to exceed thirty-five thousand dollars; or

(b) Any person who owns or, if the owner is not the operator, then any person who operates one or more vending machines through which cigarettes or tobacco products are sold in this state and who violates the provisions of this section, after due notice and an opportunity for a hearing, for a first violation is liable for a civil fine not less than seven hundred fifty dollars but not to exceed two thousand dollars and for a second or subsequent violation within three years following a prior finding of violation be liable for a civil fine not less than two thousand dollars but not to exceed six thousand dollars.

(c) If a retail dealer does not possess a valid registration, either because it failed to obtain a registration or its registration is suspended or revoked and the commissioner or their designee, pursuant to their authority under this article, attempts to inspect such premises for a violation of this section and such retail dealer, including an agent thereof, is found, after notice and opportunity to be heard, to have refused such inspection, such retail dealer shall be subject to a penalty of up to four thousand dollars for a first refusal and up to eight thousand dollars for a second or subsequent refusal within three years of a prior refusal.

4. (a) If a retail dealer possesses or sells unstamped or unlawfully stamped packages of cigarettes, or if a retail dealer is also licensed as an agent pursuant to section four hundred seventy-two and it possesses unlawfully stamped packages of cigarettes or sells unstamped or unlawfully stamped packages of cigarettes at retail, (i) its registration shall be revoked for a period of one year, or (ii) for a second such possession or sale within a period of five years by a retail dealer or any affiliated person of such retail dealer, the registration of such retail dealer and the registration of any retail dealer that is an affiliated person of such retail dealer shall be revoked for a period of three years, or (iii) for a third such possession or sale within a period of five years by a retail dealer or any affiliated person of such retail dealer, the registration of such retail dealer and the registration of any retail dealer that is an affiliated person of such retail dealer shall be revoked for a period of five years. A retail dealer registration shall be revoked pursuant to this subdivision immediately upon such dealer's receipt of written notice of revocation from the commissioner. If unstamped or unlawfully stamped cigarettes are found in a retail dealer's warehouse or a warehouse of any affiliated person of such retail dealer, the revocation of the retail dealer's registration pursuant to this subdivision shall be applicable to each retail place of business in this state through which such retail dealer and any affiliated person of such retail dealer sells cigarettes.

(a-1) If a retail dealer, including an agent thereof, refuses to comply with the requirements of subdivision four of section four hundred seventy-four of this article its registration may be revoked (i) for a period of one year, or (ii) for a second such violation within a period of five years for up to three years, or (iii) for a third or subsequent violation within a period of seven years for a period up to ten years. A retail dealer registration shall be considered to be revoked pursuant to this subdivision immediately upon such dealer's receipt of written notice of revocation from the commissioner.

(b) A retail dealer who is notified of a revocation of its registration pursuant to this subdivision shall have the right to have the revocation reviewed by the commissioner or his or her designee by contacting the department at a telephone number or an address to be disclosed in the notice of revocation within ten days of such dealer's receipt of such notification. The retail dealer may present written evidence or argument in support of its defense to the revocation, or may appear at a scheduled conference with the commissioner or his or her designee to present oral arguments and written and oral evidence in support of such defense. The commissioner or his or her designee is authorized to delay the effective date of the revocation to enable the retail dealer to present further evidence or arguments in connection with the revocation. The commissioner or his or her designee shall cancel the revocation of registration if the commissioner or his or her designee is not satisfied by a preponderance of the evidence that the retail dealer violated paragraph (a) or (a-1) of this subdivision, as may be applicable.

(c) An order of revocation of a retail dealer registration shall not be reviewable by the division of tax appeals, but may be reviewed pursuant to article seventy-eight of the civil practice law and rules by a proceeding commenced in the supreme court within four months of the revocation of registration petitioning that the order of revocation be enjoined or set aside. Such proceeding shall be instituted in the county where the commissioner has his or her principal office. Upon the filing of such petition the court shall have jurisdiction to set aside such order of revocation, in whole or in part, or to dismiss the petition. The jurisdiction of the supreme court shall be exclusive and its order dismissing the petition or enjoining or setting aside such order, in whole or in part, shall be final, subject to review by the appellate division of the supreme court and the court of appeals in the same manner and form and with the same effect as provided by law for appeals from a judgment in a special proceeding. All such proceedings shall be heard and determined by the court and by any appellate court as expeditiously as possible and with lawful precedence over other civil matters. All such proceedings for review shall be heard on the petition, transcript and other papers, and on appeal shall be heard on the record, without requirement of printing.

(d) After review of the revocation of registration by the commissioner or his or her designee is complete, or the time within which a retail dealer may request such review has expired without such a request having been made, notice of the revocation of a retail dealer registration pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subdivision shall be given by the commissioner to the head of the division of the lottery for the purpose of enforcement of section sixteen hundred seven of this chapter and such division may suspend or revoke any license issued with respect to a lottery agent's specific location pursuant to article thirty-four of this chapter if such lottery agent is a retail dealer of cigarettes whose registration for such location is suspended or revoked pursuant to this section. In addition, notice of such revocation shall also be given to the state liquor authority and such revocation shall constitute cause, for purposes of section one hundred eighteen of the alcoholic beverage control law, for revocation, cancellation or suspension of any license or permit issued pursuant to such law.

5. Except for subdivision (i) of section eighteen hundred fourteen of this chapter, the criminal penalties set forth in article thirty-seven of this chapter shall not apply to a violation of this section.

6. (a) No retail dealer who has its retail dealer registration cancelled, suspended or revoked pursuant to this section or has been forbidden from selling cigarettes or tobacco products pursuant to paragraph (j) of subdivision one of section four hundred eighty of this article shall possess cigarettes or tobacco products in any place of business, cart, stand, truck or other merchandising device in this state beginning on the tenth day after such cancellation, suspension, revocation, or forbiddance and continuing for the duration of the same; provided however, such retail dealer shall not be prohibited before the tenth day after such cancellation, suspension, revocation, or forbiddance from selling or transferring its inventory of lawfully stamped cigarettes or tobacco products on which the taxes imposed by this article have been assumed or paid to a properly registered retail dealer whose registration is not cancelled, suspended, or revoked or who has not been forbidden from selling cigarettes or tobacco products.

(b) No retail dealer shall possess cigarettes or tobacco products in any place of business, cart, stand, truck or other merchandising device in this state unless it has obtained a valid retail dealer registration from the commissioner.

(c) The possession of cigarettes or tobacco products by an unlicensed retail dealer in violation of paragraph (a) or (b) of this subdivision shall be subject to the penalties authorized by subdivision three of this section.

§ 480-b. Prohibition against the stamping of certain cigarettes. 1. Every tobacco product manufacturer as defined by section thirteen hundred ninety-nine-oo of the public health law whose cigarettes are sold for consumption in this state shall annually certify under penalty of perjury that, as of the date of such certification, such tobacco product manufacturer: (a) is a participating manufacturer as defined in subdivision one of section thirteen hundred ninety-nine-pp of the public health law; or (b) is in full compliance with subdivision two of section thirteen hundred ninety-nine-pp of the public health law. Such certification shall be executed and delivered to the commissioner, the attorney general and any agent who affixes New York state cigarette tax stamps to cigarettes of such tobacco product manufacturer, no earlier than the sixteenth day of April and no later than the thirtieth day of April of each year, and shall be accompanied by a list setting forth each of the cigarette brands of such tobacco product manufacturer sold for consumption in New York state. Agents shall retain such certifications for a period of five years.

2. An agent may not affix, or cause to be affixed, a New York state cigarette tax stamp to a package of cigarettes if either: (a) the tobacco product manufacturer of such cigarettes has not provided such agent with the certification required by subdivision one of this section; or (b) the commissioner has notified such agent that such tobacco product manufacturer is in violation of section thirteen hundred ninety-nine-pp of the public health law, or has filed a false certification under subdivision one of this section, and such agent has not been notified by the commissioner that such violation has ceased.

2-a. An agent may not affix, or cause to be affixed, a New York state cigarette tax stamp to a package of cigarettes unless: (a) the cigarettes have been certified by the manufacturer if certification is required under subdivision three of section one hundred fifty-six-c of the executive law; and (b) the package has been marked in such manner as may be required by subdivision six of section one hundred fifty-six-c of the executive law.

3. The commissioner shall prescribe the form of the certification required to be filed pursuant to subdivision one of this section, and is authorized to collect and retain any information he or she may require to assure compliance with this section by agents and tobacco product manufacturers.

§ 480-c. Prohibition against the sale of certain tobacco products. 1. Every tobacco product manufacturer, as defined by section thirteen hundred ninety-nine-oo of the public health law, whose roll-your-own tobacco is sold for consumption in this state, must annually certify under penalty of perjury that, as of the date of that certification, the tobacco product manufacturer: (a) is a participating manufacturer as defined in subdivision one of section thirteen hundred ninety-nine-pp of the public health law; or (b) is in full compliance with subdivision two of section thirteen hundred ninety-nine-pp of the public health law. The certification must be executed and delivered to the commissioner, the attorney general, and any distributor of roll-your-own tobacco of such tobacco product manufacturer, no earlier than the sixteenth day of April and no later than the thirtieth day of April of each year, and must be accompanied by a list setting forth each of the brands of roll-your-own tobacco of the tobacco product manufacturer sold for consumption in New York state. Distributors must retain the certifications for a period of five years.

2. A distributor must not offer for sale or cause to be sold in this state roll-your-own tobacco of a tobacco product manufacturer if either: (a) the tobacco product manufacturer of the roll-your-own tobacco has not provided the distributor with the certification required by subdivision one of this section; or (b) the commissioner has notified the distributor that the tobacco product manufacturer is in violation of section thirteen hundred ninety-nine-pp of the public health law, or has filed a false certification under subdivision one of this section, and the distributor has not been notified by the commissioner that the violation has ceased.

3. The commissioner must prescribe the form of the certification required to be filed pursuant to subdivision one of this section, and is authorized to collect and retain any information he or she may require to assure compliance with this section by distributors and tobacco product manufacturers.

§ 481. Penalties and interest. 1. (a)(i)(A) An agent or distributor or other person treated as a distributor pursuant to section four hundred seventy-one-d who or which fails to file a return or to pay any tax within the time required by or pursuant to this article (determined with regard to any extension of time for filing or paying) shall be subject to a penalty of ten per centum of the amount of tax determined to be due as provided in this article plus one per centum of such amount for each month or fraction thereof during which such failure continues after the expiration of the first month after such return was required to be filed or such tax became due, not exceeding thirty per centum in the aggregate.

(B) If a tax on cigarettes or on tobacco products under this article is not paid when due by any other person, the person liable for the payment of such tax shall be subject to a penalty of fifty per centum of the amount of such tax determined to be due as provided in this article plus one per centum of such amount for each month or fraction thereof during which such failure to pay continues after the expiration of the first month after such tax became due.

(C) In the case of a failure to file such return within sixty days of the date prescribed for filing of such return by or pursuant to this article (determined with regard to any extension of time for filing), the penalty imposed by this paragraph shall not be less than the lesser of one hundred dollars or one hundred per centum of the amount required to be shown as tax on such return. For the purpose of the preceding sentence, the amount of tax required to be shown on the return shall be reduced by the amount of any part of the tax which is paid on or before the date prescribed for payment of the tax and by the amount of any credit against the tax which may be claimed upon the return.

(ii) If any amount of tax is not paid on or before the last date prescribed in this article for payment, interest on such amount at the underpayment rate set by the commissioner of taxation and finance pursuant to subdivision twenty-sixth of section one hundred seventy-one of this chapter shall be paid for the period from such last date to the date paid, whether or not any extension of time for payment was granted. Interest under this subparagraph shall not be paid if the amount thereof is less than one dollar.

(iii) If the tax commission determines that such failure or delay was due to reasonable cause and not due to willful neglect, it shall remit all or part of such penalty. The tax commission shall promulgate rules and regulations as to what constitutes reasonable cause.

(iv) If the failure to pay any tax within the time required by or pursuant to this article is due to fraud, in lieu of the penalties and interest provided for in subparagraphs (i) and (ii) of this paragraph, there shall be added to the tax (A) a penalty of two times the amount of tax due, plus (B) interest on such unpaid tax at the underpayment rate set by the commissioner of taxation and finance pursuant to subdivision twenty-sixth of section one hundred seventy-one of this chapter for the period beginning on the last day prescribed by this article for the payment of such tax (determined without regard to any extension of time for paying) and ending on the day on which such tax is paid.

(v) The penalties and interest provided for in this paragraph shall be determined, assessed, collected and paid in the same manner as the taxes imposed by this article and shall be disposed of as hereinafter provided with respect to moneys derived from the tax. Interest under this paragraph shall be compounded daily.

(b) (i) In addition to any other penalty imposed by this article, the commissioner may (A) impose a penalty of not more than six hundred dollars for each two hundred cigarettes, or fraction thereof, in excess of one thousand cigarettes in unstamped or unlawfully stamped packages in the possession or under the control of any person or (B) impose a penalty of not more than two hundred dollars for each ten unaffixed false, altered or counterfeit cigarette tax stamps, imprints or impressions, or fraction thereof, in the possession or under the control of any person. In order to qualify as a "cooperative member" for the purposes of this article, a dealer must share in the profits and losses of the cooperative and must have purchased at least twenty-five percent of the merchandise it purchased for resale during the preceding three months from such cooperative, excluding cigarettes and petroleum products. Such volume of purchases shall be measured by the amount paid for such merchandise, prior to any patronage dividends or refunds based on patronage.

The registrations of those cooperative members registered as chain stores prior to the effective date of the chapter of the laws of nineteen hundred ninety which added this paragraph shall not be revoked by reason of their failure to meet the twenty-five percent purchase requirement, the requirement that a cooperative member belongs to a cooperative which operates a distribution center or the sharing in the profits and losses requirement of this paragraph five, and upon each successive reregistration pursuant to section four hundred eighty-nine of this chapter, such cooperative members shall not be subject to such requirements, but shall be subject to all other requirements of this article.

Any fractional part of a cent in the cost to the agent per carton of cigarettes shall be rounded off to the next higher cent. In the case of sales at retail by an agent, the "cost of the agent" shall be the same as the "cost of the retail dealer". In the case of sales of cigarettes to a chain store having fifteen or more retail outlets, excluding vending machine operators, which are delivered to a central warehouse owned and operated by such chain store and which are delivered to its retail outlets by the chain store, the "cost of the agent" shall be presumed to be the basic cost of cigarettes. There shall be determined a separate cost of the agent for sales to wholesale dealers and for sales to retail dealers.

(B) In the absence of the filing with the commissioner of satisfactory proof of a lesser cost of doing business of the agent making the sale, the cost of doing business by the agent shall be presumed to be seven-eighths of one percent of the basic cost of cigarettes for sales to wholesale dealers plus one cent per package of ten cigarettes, two cents per package of twenty cigarettes and in the case of a package containing more than twenty cigarettes, two cents and one-half of a cent for each five cigarettes in excess of twenty cigarettes, one and one-half percent of the basic cost of cigarettes for sales to chain stores plus one cent per package of ten cigarettes, two cents per package of twenty cigarettes and in the case of a package containing more than twenty cigarettes, two cents and one-half of a cent for each five cigarettes in excess of twenty cigarettes and three and seven-eighths percent of the basic cost of cigarettes with respect to sales to retail dealers plus one cent per package of ten cigarettes, two cents per package of twenty cigarettes and in the case of a package containing more than twenty cigarettes, two cents and one-half of a cent for each five cigarettes in excess of twenty cigarettes and the

Any fractional part of a cent in the cost to the wholesale dealer per carton of cigarettes shall be rounded off to the next higher cent. In the case of sales at retail by a wholesale dealer, the "cost of the wholesale dealer" shall be the same as the "cost of the retail dealer". There shall be determined a separate cost of the wholesale dealer for sales to chain stores and for sales to retail dealers.

(B) In the absence of the filing with the tax commission of satisfactory proof of a lesser cost of doing business of the wholesale dealer making the sale, the cost of doing business by the wholesale dealer with respect to sales to retail dealers shall be presumed to be three per centum of the basic cost of cigarettes, and with respect to sales to chain stores, five-eighths of one percent of the basic cost of cigarettes.

(B) In the absence of the filing with the commissioner of taxation and finance of satisfactory proof of a lesser cost of doing business by the retail dealer making the sale, the cost of doing business by the retail dealer shall be presumed to be seven per centum of the sum of the basic cost of cigarettes plus the cost of doing business by the agent with respect to cigarettes sold to retail dealers.

§ 484. Unlawful acts; violations of article. (a) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, it shall be unlawful and a violation of this article:

1. For any agent, wholesale dealer or retail dealer, with intent to injure competitors or destroy or substantially lessen competition, or with intent to avoid the collection or paying over of such taxes as may be required by law, to advertise, offer to sell, or sell cigarettes at less than cost of such agent wholesale dealer or retail dealer, as the case may be.

2. For any wholesale dealer:

(A) to induce or attempt to induce or to procure or attempt to procure the purchase of cigarettes at a price less than the cost of the agent with respect to sales to wholesale dealers; or

(B) to induce or attempt to induce or to procure or attempt to procure any rebate or concession of any kind or nature whatsoever in connection with the purchase of cigarettes.

3. For any chain store:

(A) to induce or attempt to induce or to procure or attempt to procure the purchase of cigarettes at a price less than the cost of the agent with respect to sales to chain stores; or

(B) to induce or attempt to induce or to procure or attempt to procure any rebate or concession of any kind or nature whatsoever in connection with the purchase of cigarettes.

4. For any retail dealer:

(A) to induce or attempt to induce or to procure or attempt to procure the purchase of cigarettes at a price less than the cost of the agent for sales to retail dealers, if purchased from an agent, or at a price less than the cost of the wholesale dealer; or

(B) to induce or attempt to induce or to procure or attempt to procure any rebate or concession of any kind or nature whatsoever in connection with the purchase of cigarettes.

5. (A) Upon a first violation of any of the provisions of this article, after due notice and opportunity for a hearing, the commissioner may suspend the license of any agent or wholesale dealer for a period of not more than thirty days or impose a civil fine not to exceed twenty thousand dollars or both such suspension and fine.

(B) Upon a second or subsequent violation committed within three years following a prior finding of violation, after due notice and opportunity for a hearing, the commissioner shall revoke the license of any agent or wholesale dealer unless (i) the penalty imposed for the first violation was a fine only; or (ii) the commissioner determines, on a showing by the agent or wholesale dealer, that the second or subsequent violation is due to reasonable cause or that such agent or wholesale dealer acted in good faith, in which case the commissioner may suspend such license for a period of not more than sixty days or impose a civil fine not to exceed fifty thousand dollars or both such suspension and fine.

(C) In determining whether to suspend or revoke or in assessing the amount of any fine under this paragraph the commissioner shall give due consideration to the gravity of the violation, the size of the agent's or wholesale dealer's business, the amount of the sale in violation of this article below the minimum markup and the history of previous violations. The penalties provided for in this paragraph shall be determined, assessed, collected and paid in the manner provided in section four hundred seventy-eight of this chapter, as if such penalties were taxes imposed pursuant to this article.

6. (b) 1. An action may be maintained in the supreme court to prevent, restrain or enjoin a violation, or threatened violation, of any of the provisions of this article. Such an action may be instituted by any person injured by any violation or threatened violation of this article, or by the tax commission. If in such action a violation or threatened violation of this article shall be established, the court shall enjoin and restrain, or otherwise prohibit, such violation or threatened violation. In such action it shall not be necessary that actual damages to the plaintiff be alleged or proved, but where alleged and proved, the plaintiff in said action, in addition to such injunctive relief and costs of suit, including reasonable attorney's fees, shall be entitled to recover from the defendant the actual damages sustained by such plaintiff.

2. In the event that no injunctive relief is sought or required, any person injured by a violation of this article may maintain an action for damages and costs of suit in the supreme court as provided for in the civil practice law and rules.

(c) Any contract, expressed or implied, made by any person in violation of any of the provisions of this article is declared to be an illegal and void contract, and no recovery thereon shall be had.

(d) The provisions of this article shall not be applicable to any sale as to which the tax imposed by section four hundred seventy-one of this chapter is not applicable or to a sale to the department of corrections and community supervision of this state for sale to or use by incarcerated individuals in institutions under the jurisdiction of such department.

§ 485. Determination of cost of agent, retail dealer or wholesale dealer. (a) 1. In determining "cost of the retail dealer", "cost of the agent" and "cost of the wholesale dealer" the tax commission or a court shall receive and consider as bearing on the bona fides of such cost, evidence tending to show that any such person complained against under any of the provisions of this article purchased cigarettes, with respect to the sale of which complaint is made, at a fictitious price, or upon terms, or in such a manner, or under such invoices, as to conceal the true costs, discounts or terms of purchase, and shall also receive and consider as bearing on the bona fides of such cost, evidence of the normal, customary and prevailing terms and discounts in connection with other sales of a similar nature in the trade area or state.

2. Merchandise given gratis or payment made to an agent, retail dealer or wholesale dealer by the manufacturer thereof for display, or advertising, or promotion purposes, or otherwise, shall not be considered in determining the cost of cigarettes to the agent, retail dealer or wholesale dealer.

(b) In all advertisements, offers for sale or sales involving two or more items, at least one of which items is cigarettes, at a combined price, and in all advertisements, offers for sale, or sales involving the giving of any gift or concession of any kind whatsoever (whether it be coupons or otherwise), the agent's, retail dealer's or wholesale dealer's combined selling price shall not be below the cost of the agent, the cost of the retail dealer or the cost of the wholesale dealer, respectively, of the total costs of all articles, products, commodities, gifts and concessions included in such transactions.

(c) When one wholesale dealer sells cigarettes to any other wholesale dealer, the former shall not be required to include in his selling price to the latter, the cost of the wholesale dealer, as defined by paragraph two of subdivision (b) of section four hundred eighty-three of this article, except that no such sale shall be made at a price less than the cost of the agent for sales to wholesale dealers as defined by paragraph one of subdivision (b) of section four hundred eighty-three of this article, but the latter wholesale dealer, upon resale to a retail dealer, shall be deemed to be the wholesale dealer governed by the provisions of paragraph two of subdivision (b) of section four hundred eighty-three of this article.

(d) When one agent sells cigarettes to any other agent, the former shall not be required to include in his selling price to the latter, the cost of the agent, as defined by paragraph one of subdivision (b) of section four hundred eighty-three of this article, except that no such sale shall be made at a price less than the basic cost of cigarettes, as defined by paragraph one of subdivision (a) of section four hundred eighty-three, but the latter agent, upon resale of such cigarettes, shall be deemed to be the agent governed by paragraph one of subdivision (b) of section four hundred eighty-three of this article. Cigarettes sold by an agent to an agent must be picked up at the warehouse of the selling agent, or delivered to the warehouse of the purchasing agent.

§ 486. Exceptions. (a) The provisions of this article shall not apply to sales made:

1. As an isolated transaction and not the usual course of business; or
2. Where cigarettes are advertised, offered for sale, or sold by any fiduciary or other officer acting under the order or direction of any court.

(b) 1. Any retail dealer may advertise, offer to sell, or sell cigarettes at a price made in good faith to meet the price of a competitor who is selling the same article at cost to him as a retail dealer. Any agent or wholesale dealer may advertise, offer to sell or sell cigarettes at a price made in good faith to meet the price of a competitor who is rendering the same type of services and is selling the same article at cost to him as an agent or as a wholesale dealer, as the case may be. The price of cigarettes advertised, offered for sale, or sold under the exceptions specified in subdivision (a) of this section shall not be considered the price of a competitor and shall not be used as a basis for establishing prices below cost, nor shall the price established at a bankruptcy sale be considered the price of a competitor within the purview of this section.

2. In the absence of proof of the price of a competitor, the cost of the retail dealer or the cost of the agent or wholesale dealer, as the case may be, which is established pursuant to section four hundred eighty-three of this article, may be deemed the price of a competitor within the meaning of this section.

(c) In establishing the cost of cigarettes of the retail dealer, agent or wholesale dealer, the invoice cost of said cigarettes purchase at a forced bankruptcy, or closeout sale, or other sale outside of the ordinary channels of trade, may not be used as a basis for justifying a price lower than one based upon the replacement cost of the cigarettes to the retail dealer, agent or wholesale dealer in the quantity last purchased through the ordinary channels of trade.

§ 487. Secrecy requirement. (a) Except in accordance with proper judicial order or as otherwise provided by law, it shall be unlawful for the tax commission, any tax commissioner, any officer or employee of the department of taxation and finance, any person engaged or retained by such department on an independent contract basis, or any person, who, pursuant to this section, is permitted to inspect any costs or to whom a copy, an abstract or a portion thereof is furnished, or to whom any such information is furnished or any person who in any manner may acquire knowledge of such costs, to divulge or make known in any manner any of the costs of doing business of a retail dealer, or of an agent or wholesale dealer which have been filed with the tax commission pursuant to paragraph one, two or three of subdivision (b) of section four hundred eighty-three of this article, or to divulge the name of any person who has provided information to the tax commission concerning any alleged violation of this article.

(b) The officers and employees charged with the custody of such information shall not be required to divulge any of such information in any action or proceeding in any court, except on behalf of the tax commission in an action or proceeding under the provisions of this chapter or in any other action or proceeding involving the collection of a tax due under this chapter to which the state or the tax commission is a party or a claimant, or on behalf of any party to any action or proceeding under the provisions of this article when such information is directly involved in such action or proceeding, in any of which events the court may require the production of, and may admit in evidence, so much of such information as is pertinent to the action or proceeding, and no more.

(c) This provision shall not be construed to prohibit the disclosure of such information to a retail dealer or to an agent or wholesale dealer, or to its duly authorized representative, in connection with its establishment of a cost of doing business, or to prohibit the publication of statistics so classified as to prevent the identification of particular information concerning the cost of doing business of any retail dealer, agent or wholesale dealer, or the disclosure of the identity of persons licensed as agents or wholesale dealers or registered as chain stores, franchisees, cooperative members or large volume outlets, or the disclosure to the attorney general or other legal representatives of the state in connection with any action or proceeding under this article brought by or against the retail dealer, agent or wholesale dealer, or against whom an action or proceeding under this chapter has been recommended by the commissioner of taxation and finance or by the attorney general.

(d) Any officer or employee of the state who willfully violates the provisions of this section shall be dismissed from office and be incapable of holding any public office in this state for a period of five years thereafter.

(e) Cross-reference: For criminal penalties, see article thirty-seven of this chapter.

§ 488. Joint administration. In addition to the powers granted to the tax commission in this chapter, the commission is hereby authorized to make provisions pursuant to rules and regulations for the joint administration, in whole or in part, of the tax imposed by article twenty and article twenty-A of this chapter, including the joint reporting of information, and for that purpose to prescribe that any of the commission's functions under such articles, and any returns, forms, statements, documents or information to be submitted to the commission under such articles, any books and records to be kept for purposes of such articles, or any license under such articles shall be on a joint basis.

§ 489. Registration of chain stores. Every chain store, including vending machine operators, cooperative members, franchisees and large volume outlet operators, must register with the commissioner of taxation and finance. The fee for such registration shall be three hundred dollars, unless such fee has been paid during the preceding twelve months, in which case, the fee for such registration shall be two hundred dollars. The fee for registration of a chain store which is a vending machine operator which sells cigarettes at not less than fifteen separate outlets shall be two hundred fifty dollars, regardless of the number of vending machines owned or operated, or the number of separate outlets maintained, unless such fee has been paid during the preceding twelve months, in which case, the fee for such registration shall be two hundred dollars. The commissioner may require all chain stores to file a new registration statement not more often than once every three years. Registration statements shall contain such information as the commissioner may require by regulation or instruction. The provisions of section four hundred eighty of this chapter relating to licensing of wholesale dealers shall be applicable to the registration of chain stores, to the extent that such provisions can be made applicable to such registrations, as if such provisions expressly referred to registration of chain stores.

* § 490. Excise tax on medical cannabis. 1. (a) For purposes of this article, the terms "medical cannabis," "registered organization," "certified patient," and "designated caregiver" shall have the same definitions as in section three of the cannabis law.

(b) As used in this section, where not otherwise specifically defined and unless a different meaning is clearly required "gross receipt" means the amount received in or by reason of any sale, conditional or otherwise, of medical cannabis or in or by reason of the furnishing of medical cannabis from the sale of medical cannabis provided by a registered organization to a certified patient or designated caregiver. Gross receipt is expressed in money, whether paid in cash, credit or property of any kind or nature, and shall be determined without any deduction therefrom on account of the cost of the service sold or the cost of materials, labor or services used or other costs, interest or discount paid, or any other expenses whatsoever. "Amount received" for the purpose of the definition of gross receipt, as the term gross receipt is used throughout this article, means the amount charged for the provision of medical cannabis.

2. There is hereby imposed an excise tax on the gross receipts from the sale of medical cannabis by a registered organization to a certified patient or designated caregiver, to be paid by the registered organization, at the rate of three and fifteen-hundredths percent. The tax imposed by this article shall be charged against and be paid by the registered organization and shall not be added as a separate charge or line item on any sales slip, invoice, receipt or other statement or memorandum of the price given to the retail customer.

3. The commissioner may make, adopt and amend rules, regulations, procedures and forms necessary for the proper administration of this article.

4. Every registered organization that makes sales of medical cannabis subject to the tax imposed by this article shall, on or before the twentieth date of each month, file with the commissioner a return on forms to be prescribed by the commissioner, showing its receipts from the retail sale of medical cannabis during the preceding calendar month and the amount of tax due thereon. Such returns shall contain such further information as the commissioner may require. Every registered organization required to file a return under this section shall, at the time of filing such return, pay to the commissioner the total amount of tax due on its retail sales of medical cannabis for the period covered by such return. If a return is not filed when due, the tax shall be due on the day on which the return is required to be filed.

5. Whenever the commissioner shall determine that any moneys received under the provisions of this article were paid in error, he may cause the same to be refunded, with interest, in accordance with such rules and regulations as he may prescribe, except that no interest shall be allowed or paid if the amount thereof would be less than one dollar. Such interest shall be at the overpayment rate set by the commissioner pursuant to subdivision twenty-sixth of section one hundred seventy-one of this chapter, or if no rate is set, at the rate of six percent per annum, from the date when the tax, penalty or interest to be refunded was paid to a date preceding the date of the refund check by not more than thirty days. Provided, however, that for the purposes of this subdivision, any tax paid before the last day prescribed for its payment shall be deemed to have been paid on such last day. Such moneys received under the provisions of this article which the commissioner shall determine were paid in error, may be refunded out of funds in the custody of the comptroller to the credit of such taxes provided an application therefor is filed with the commissioner within two years from the time the erroneous payment was made.

6. The provisions of article twenty-seven of this chapter shall apply to the tax imposed by this article in the same manner and with the same force and effect as if the language of such article had been incorporated in full into this section and had expressly referred to the tax imposed by this article, except to the extent that any provision of such article is either inconsistent with a provision of this article or is not relevant to this article.

7. All taxes, interest and penalties collected or received by the commissioner under this article shall be deposited and disposed of pursuant to the provisions of section one hundred seventy-one-a of this chapter, provided that an amount equal to one hundred percent collected under this article less any amount determined by the commissioner to be reserved by the comptroller for refunds or reimbursements shall be paid by the comptroller to the credit of the medical cannabis trust fund established by section eighty-nine-h of the state finance law.

8. A registered organization that dispenses medical cannabis shall provide to the department information on where the medical cannabis was dispensed and where the medical cannabis was manufactured. A registered organization that obtains cannabis from another registered organization shall obtain from such registered organization information on where the medical cannabis was manufactured.

 § 491. Returns to be secret. 1. Except in accordance with proper judicial order or as in this section or otherwise provided by law, it shall be unlawful for the commissioner, any officer or employee of the department, or any officer or person who, pursuant to this section, is permitted to inspect any return or report or to whom a copy, an abstract or a portion of any return or report is furnished, or to whom any information contained in any return or report is furnished, or any person engaged or retained by such department on an independent contract basis or any person who in any manner may acquire knowledge of the contents of a return or report filed pursuant to this article to divulge or make known in any manner the contents or any other information relating to the business of a distributor, owner or other person contained in any return or report required under this article. The officers charged with the custody of such returns or reports shall not be required to produce any of them or evidence of anything contained in them in any action or proceeding in any court, except on behalf of the state, office of cannabis management, or the commissioner in an action or proceeding under the provisions of this chapter or on behalf of the state or the commissioner in any other action or proceeding involving the collection of a tax due under this chapter to which the state or the commissioner is a party or a claimant or on behalf of any party to any action or proceeding under the provisions of this article, when the returns or the reports or the facts shown thereby are directly involved in such action or proceeding, or in an action or proceeding relating to the regulation or taxation of medical cannabis on behalf of officers to whom information shall have been supplied as provided in subdivision two of this section, in any of which events the court may require the production of, and may admit in evidence so much of said returns or reports or of the facts shown thereby as are pertinent to the action or proceeding and no more. Nothing herein shall be construed to prohibit the commissioner, in his or her discretion, from allowing the inspection or delivery of a certified copy of any return or report filed under this article or of any information contained in any such return or report by or to a duly authorized officer or employee of the office of cannabis management; or by or to the attorney general or other legal representatives of the state when an action shall have been recommended or commenced pursuant to this chapter in which such returns or reports or the facts shown thereby are directly involved; or the inspection of the returns or reports required under this article by the comptroller or duly designated officer or employee of the state department of audit and control, for purposes of the audit of a refund of any tax paid by a registered organization or other person under this article; nor to prohibit the delivery to a registered organization, or a duly authorized representative of such registered organization, a certified copy of any return or report filed by such registered organization pursuant to this article, nor to prohibit the publication of statistics so classified as to prevent the identification of particular returns or reports and the items thereof. This section shall also not be construed to prohibit the disclosure, for tax administration purposes, to the division of the budget and the office of the state comptroller, of information aggregated from the returns filed by all the registered organizations making sales of, or manufacturing, medical cannabis in a specified county, whether the number of such registered organizations is one or more. Provided further that, notwithstanding the provisions of this subdivision, the commissioner may, in his or her discretion, permit the proper officer of any county entitled to receive an allocation, following appropriation by the legislature, pursuant to this article and section eighty-nine-h of the state finance law, or the authorized representative of such officer, to inspect any return filed under this article, or may furnish to such officer or the officer's authorized representative an abstract of any such return or supply such officer or such representative with information concerning an item contained in any such return, or disclosed by any investigation of tax liability under this article.

2. The commissioner, in his or her discretion and pursuant to such rules and regulations as he or she may adopt, may permit the appropriate officers of any other state which regulates or taxes medical cannabis, or the duly authorized representatives of such officers, to inspect returns or reports made pursuant to this article, or may furnish to such other officers, or duly authorized representatives, a copy of any such return or report or an abstract of the information therein contained, or any portion thereof, or may supply any such officers or such representatives with information relating to the business of a registered organization making returns or reports hereunder. The commissioner may refuse to supply information pursuant to this subdivision to the officers of any other state if the statutes of the state represented by such officers, do not grant substantially similar privileges to the commissioner, but such refusal shall not be mandatory. Information shall not be supplied to the appropriate officers of any other state which regulates or taxes medical cannabis, or the duly authorized representatives of any of such officers, unless such officer or other representatives shall agree not to divulge or make known in any manner the information so supplied, but such officers may transmit such information to their employees or legal representatives when necessary, who in turn shall be subject to the same restrictions as those hereby imposed upon such officer or other representatives.

3. (a) Any officer or employee of the state who willfully violates the provisions of subdivision one or two of this section shall be dismissed from office and be incapable of holding any public office in this state for a period of five years thereafter.

(b) Cross-reference: For criminal penalties, see article thirty-seven of this chapter.

§ 494. Registration and renewal. (a) (1) Every distributor on whom tax is imposed under this article and every person who sells adult-use cannabis products at retail must file with the commissioner a properly completed application for a certificate of registration and obtain such certificate before engaging in business, provided, however, this section shall not apply to a natural person engaged in lawful activity pertaining to personal use or personal cultivation pursuant to article two hundred twenty-two of the penal law. An application for a certificate of registration must be submitted electronically, on a form prescribed by the commissioner, and must be accompanied by a non-refundable application fee of six hundred dollars. A certificate of registration shall not be assignable or transferable and shall be destroyed immediately upon such person ceasing to do business as specified in such certificate, or in the event that such business never commenced.

(2) Provided, however, that the commissioner shall refund or credit an application fee paid with respect to the registration of an adult-use cannabis business in this state if, prior to the beginning of the period with respect to which such registration relates, the certificate of registration described in paragraph one of this subdivision is returned to the department or, if such certificate has been destroyed, the operator of such business satisfactorily accounts to the commissioner for the missing certificate, but such business may not sell adult-use cannabis products in this state during such period, unless it is re-registered. Such refund or credit shall be deemed a refund of tax paid in error, provided, however, no interest shall be allowed or paid on any such refund.

(b) (1) The commissioner shall refuse to issue a certificate of registration to any applicant and shall revoke the certificate of registration of any such person who does not possess a valid license from the office of cannabis management.

(2) The commissioner may refuse to issue a certificate of registration to any applicant where such applicant:

(i) has a past-due liability as that term is defined in section one hundred seventy-one-v of this chapter;

(ii) has had a certificate of registration under this article, a license from the office of cannabis management, or any license or registration provided for in this chapter revoked or suspended where such revocation or suspension was in effect on the date the application was filed or ended within one year from the date on which such application was filed;

(iii) has been convicted of a crime provided for in this chapter within one year from the date on which such application was filed or the certificate was issued, as applicable;

(iv) willfully fails to file a report or return required by this article;

(v) willfully files, causes to be filed, gives or causes to be given a report, return, certificate or affidavit required by this article which is false;

(vi) willfully fails to collect or truthfully account for or pay over any tax imposed by this article;

(vii) has been determined to have possessed illicit cannabis within one year from the date on which such application was filed;

(viii) is a distributor that has been determined to have knowingly sold adult-use cannabis products to any person who sells adult-use cannabis products at retail and who is not registered under this section, or whose registration has been suspended or revoked; or

(ix) has a place of business at the same premises as that of a distributor upon whom tax is imposed under this article, or person who sells adult-use cannabis products at retail, whose registration has been revoked and where such revocation is still in effect, unless the applicant provides the commissioner with adequate documentation demonstrating that such applicant acquired the premises or business through an arm's length transaction as defined in paragraph (e) of subdivision one of section four hundred eighty-a of this chapter and that the sale or lease was not conducted, in whole or in part, for the purpose of permitting the original registrant to avoid the effect of the previous revocation for the same premises.

(3) The commissioner may revoke the certificate of registration issued to any person who:

(i) has had any license or registration provided for in this chapter revoked or suspended;

(ii) has been convicted of a crime provided for in this chapter where such conviction occurred not more than one year prior to the date of revocation;

(iii) willfully fails to file a report or return required by this article;

(iv) willfully files, causes to be filed, gives or causes to be given a report, return, certificate or affidavit required by this article which is false;

(v) willfully fails to collect or truthfully account for or pay over any tax imposed by this article; or

(vi) is a distributor that has been determined to have knowingly sold adult-use cannabis products to any person who sells adult-use cannabis products at retail and who is not registered under this section, or whose registration has been suspended or revoked.

(4) In addition to the grounds for revocation in this subdivision, where a person who holds a certificate of registration is determined to have possessed or sold illicit cannabis:

(1) such registration may be revoked (i) for a period of up to one year for the first such possession or sale by such person;

(ii) for a period of up to three years for a second such possession or sale within a period of five years by such person; and

(iii) for a period of up to five years for a third such possession or sale within a period of five years by such person. A certificate of registration may be revoked pursuant to this paragraph immediately upon such person's receipt of written notice of revocation from the commissioner.

A person who is notified of a revocation of their certificate of registration pursuant to this paragraph shall have the right to have the revocation reviewed by the commissioner or their designee by contacting the department at a telephone number or an address to be disclosed in the notice of revocation within ten days of such person's receipt of such notification. Such person may present written evidence or argument in support of their defense to the revocation or may appear at a scheduled conference with the commissioner or their designee to present oral arguments and written and oral evidence in support of such defense.

The commissioner or their designee is authorized to delay the effective date of the revocation to enable such person to present further evidence or arguments in connection with the revocation. The commissioner or their designee shall cancel the revocation of the certificate of registration if the commissioner or their designee is not satisfied by a preponderance of the evidence that a basis for revocation pursuant to this paragraph exists. An order of revocation of a certificate of registration under this paragraph shall not be reviewable by the division of tax appeals but may be reviewed pursuant to article seventy-eight of the civil practice law and rules by a proceeding commenced in the supreme court within four months of the revocation petitioning that the order of revocation be enjoined or set aside. Such proceeding shall be instituted in the county where the commissioner has their principal office. Upon the filing of such petition the court shall have jurisdiction to set aside such order of revocation, in whole or in part, or to dismiss the petition. The jurisdiction of the supreme court shall be exclusive and its order dismissing the petition or enjoining or setting aside such order, in whole or in part, shall be final, subject to review by the appellate division of the supreme court and the court of appeals in the same manner and form and with the same effect as provided by law for appeals from a judgment in a special proceeding. All such proceedings shall be heard and determined by the court and by any appellate court as expeditiously as possible and with lawful precedence over other civil matters. All such proceedings for review shall be heard on the petition, transcript and other papers, and on appeal shall be heard on the record, without requirement of printing.

(c) Where a person that does not possess a certificate of registration under this section has been determined to have possessed or sold any adult-use cannabis product or illicit cannabis:

(1) The commissioner may revoke a certificate of authority issued to such person pursuant to section eleven hundred thirty-four of this chapter for a place of business where such person has been determined to have possessed for sale or to have sold adult-use cannabis product or illicit cannabis three or more times within a period of five years without a certificate of registration.

(2) The commissioner may refuse to issue a certificate of authority under section eleven hundred thirty-four of this chapter to a distributor upon whom tax is imposed under this article, or a person who sells adult-use cannabis products at retail, who has a place of business at the same premises as that of a person whose certificate of authority has been revoked pursuant to paragraph one of this subdivision and where such revocation is still in effect, unless the applicant provides the commissioner with adequate documentation demonstrating that such applicant acquired the premises or business through an arm's length transaction as defined in paragraph (e) of subdivision one of section four hundred eighty-a of this chapter and that the sale or lease was not conducted, in whole or in part, for the purpose of permitting the original registrant to avoid the effect of the previous revocation for the same premises.

(d) A certificate of registration shall be valid for the period specified thereon, unless earlier suspended or revoked. Upon the expiration of the term stated on a certificate of registration, such certificate shall be null and void.

(e) Every holder of a certificate of registration must notify the commissioner of changes to any of the information stated on the certificate, or of changes to any information contained in the application for the certificate of registration. Such notification must be made on or before the last day of the month in which a change occurs and must be made electronically on a form prescribed by the commissioner.

(f) Every holder of a certificate of registration under this article shall be required to reapply prior to such certificate's expiration, during a reapplication period established by the commissioner. Such reapplication period shall not occur more frequently than every two years. Such reapplication shall be subject to the same requirements and conditions as an initial application, including grounds for refusal and the payment of the application fee.

(g) Any person who is required to obtain a certificate of registration under subdivision (a) of this section who possesses adult-use cannabis products without such certificate shall be subject to a penalty of up to seven thousand five hundred dollars for a first violation and up to fifteen thousand dollars for a second or subsequent violation within three years following a prior violation. Any such adult-use cannabis product shall be subject to immediate forfeiture to, and seizure by, the commissioner or their duly authorized representatives, or the duly authorized representatives of the office of cannabis management.

(h) No distributor on whom tax is imposed under this article shall sell any adult-use cannabis product to any person who sells adult-use cannabis products at retail and who is not registered under this section, or whose registration has been suspended or revoked.

§ 495. Returns and payment of tax. (a) Every person on whom tax is imposed under this article shall, on or before the twentieth day of the month following each quarterly period ending on the last day of February, May, August, and November, respectively, file electronically with the commissioner a return on forms to be prescribed by the commissioner, showing the total amount of tax due in such quarterly period, and including such other information as the commissioner may require.

(b) Every person required to file a return under this section shall, at the time of filing such return, pay electronically to the commissioner the total amount of tax due for the period covered by such return. If a return is not filed when due, the tax shall be due on the day on which the return is required to be filed.

§ 496. Records to be kept; penalties. (a) Records to be kept. Every distributor on whom tax is imposed under this article and every person who sells adult-use cannabis products at retail shall maintain complete and accurate records in such form as the commissioner may require including, but not limited to, such items as the total THC content of the adult-use cannabis products sold to or produced by such person; complete records of every retail sale of adult-use cannabis, and any other record or information required by the commissioner. Such records must be preserved for a period of three years after the filing of the return to which such records relate and must be provided to the commissioner upon request.

(b) Penalties. In addition to any other penalty provided in this article or otherwise imposed by law, every distributor on whom tax is imposed under this article and every person who sells adult-use cannabis products at retail who fails to maintain or make available to the commissioner the records required by this section is subject to a penalty not to exceed five hundred dollars for each month or part thereof for which the failure occurs. This penalty may not be imposed more than once for failures for the same monthly period or part thereof. If the commissioner determines that a failure to maintain or make available records in any month was entirely due to reasonable cause and not to willful neglect, the commissioner must remit the penalty for that month.

(c) The failure of any person who sells adult-use cannabis products at retail, except a person who possesses a valid registered organization adult-use cultivator processor distributor retail dispensary license or microbusiness license issued by the office of cannabis management, to comply with subdivision (a) of this section for the adult-use cannabis products in such person's possession shall be presumptive evidence that the tax thereon has not been paid, and that such person shall be liable for the tax thereon unless evidence of such invoice, payment or assumption shall later be produced.

(d) If books and records are not provided or are determined to be insufficient, the amount of tax due shall be determined by the commissioner from such information as may be available. In the absence of evidence of the wholesale price for the tax imposed by subdivision (a) of section four hundred ninety-three of this article, the tax may be determined based on the retail price of such adult-use cannabis products.

§ 496-a. Returns to be secret. (a) Except in accordance with proper judicial order or as in this section or otherwise provided by law, it shall be unlawful for the commissioner, any officer or employee of the department, or any officer or person who, pursuant to this section, is permitted to inspect any return or report or to whom a copy, an abstract or a portion of any return or report is furnished, or to whom any information contained in any return or report is furnished, or any person who in any manner may acquire knowledge of the contents of a return or report filed pursuant to this article to divulge or make known in any manner the content or any other information contained in any return or report required under this article. The officers charged with the custody of such returns or reports shall not be required to produce any of them or evidence of anything contained in them in any action or proceeding in any court, except on behalf of the state, the office of cannabis management, or the commissioner in an action or proceeding involving the collection of tax due under this chapter to which the state or the commissioner is a party or a claimant or on behalf of any party to any action or proceeding under the provisions of this article, when the returns or the reports or the facts shown thereby are directly involved in such action or proceeding, or in an action or proceeding related to the regulation or taxation of adult-use cannabis products on behalf of officers to whom information shall have been supplied as provided in this section, in any of which events the court may require the production of, and may admit in evidence so much of said returns or reports or of the facts shown thereby as are pertinent to the action or proceeding and no more. Nothing herein shall be construed to prohibit the commissioner, in his or her discretion, from allowing the inspection or delivery of a certified copy of any return or report filed under this article or of any information contained in any such return or report by or to a duly authorized officer or employee of the office of cannabis management; or by or to the attorney general or other legal representatives of the state when an action shall have been recommended or commenced pursuant to this chapter in which such returns or reports or the facts shown thereby are directly involved; or the inspection of the returns or reports required under this article by the comptroller or duly designated officer or employee of the state department of audit and control, for purposes of the audit of a refund of any tax paid by any person under this article; nor to prohibit the delivery to such person or a duly authorized representative of such person, a certified copy of any return or report filed by such person pursuant to this article, nor to prohibit the publication of statistics so classified as to prevent the identification of particular returns or reports and the items thereof. This section shall also not be construed to prohibit the disclosure, for tax administration purposes, to the division of the budget and the office of the state comptroller, of information aggregated from the returns filed by all persons subject to the taxes imposed by the article, whether the number of such persons is one or more. Provided further that, notwithstanding the provisions of this subdivision, the commissioner may, in his or her discretion, permit the proper officer of any county entitled to receive any distribution of the monies received on account of the tax imposed by subdivision (c) of section four hundred ninety-three of this article, or the authorized representative of such officer, to inspect any return filed under this article, or may furnish to such officer or the officer's authorized representative an abstract of any such return or supply such officer or representative with information concerning an item contained in any such return, or disclosed by any investigation of tax liability under this article.

(b) The commissioner, in his or her discretion, may permit the appropriate officers of any other state that regulates or taxes cannabis or the duly authorized representatives of any such officers, to inspect returns or reports made pursuant to this article, or may furnish to such other officers, or their duly authorized representatives, a copy of any such return or report or an abstract of the information therein contained, or any portion thereof, or may supply any such officers or such representatives with information relating to the business of a person making returns or reports hereunder solely for purposes of tax administration. The commissioner may refuse to supply information pursuant to this subdivision to the officers of any other state if the statutes of the state represented by such officers do not grant substantially similar privileges to the commissioner, but such refusal shall not be mandatory. Information shall not be supplied to the officers of any state that regulates or taxes cannabis, or their duly authorized representatives of any such officers, unless such officer or other representatives shall agree not to divulge or make known in any manner the information so supplied, but such officers may transmit such information to their employees or legal representatives when necessary, who in turn shall be subject to the same restrictions as those hereby imposed upon such officer or other representatives.

(c)(1) Any officer or employee of the state who willfully violates the provisions of subdivision (a) or (b) of this section shall be dismissed from office and be incapable of holding any public office in this state for a period of five years thereafter.

(2) For criminal penalties, see article thirty-seven of this chapter.

§ 496-b. Administrative provisions. (a) The provisions of part four of article twenty-eight of this chapter shall apply to the taxes imposed by section four hundred ninety-three of this article in the same manner and with the same force and effect as if the language of such article had been incorporated in full into this section and had expressly referred to the tax imposed by this article, except to the extent that any provision of such article is either inconsistent with a provision of this article or is not relevant to this article.

(b)(1) All taxes, interest, and penalties collected or received by the commissioner under this article shall be deposited and disposed of pursuant to the provisions of section one hundred seventy-one-a of this chapter, provided that an amount equal to one hundred percent collected under this article less any amount determined by the commissioner to be reserved by the comptroller for refunds or reimbursements shall be paid by the comptroller to the credit of the cannabis revenue fund established by section ninety-nine-ii of the state finance law. Of the total revenue collected or received under this article, the comptroller shall retain such amount as the commissioner may determine to be necessary for refunds. The commissioner is authorized and directed to deduct from the registration fees under subdivision (a) of section four hundred ninety-four of this article, before deposit into the cannabis revenue fund designated by the comptroller, a reasonable amount necessary to effectuate refunds of appropriations of the department to reimburse the department for the costs incurred to administer, collect, and distribute the taxes imposed by this article.

(2) All taxes, interest, and penalties collected or received by the commissioner under subdivision (c) of section four hundred ninety-three of this article shall be deposited and disposed of pursuant to the provisions of section one hundred seventy-one-a of this chapter, provided that an amount equal to one hundred percent collected under such subdivision (c), less any amount determined by the commissioner to be reserved by the comptroller for refunds or reimbursements, shall be paid to the comptroller and the commissioner shall certify to the comptroller the amount of tax, penalties, and interest attributable to retail sales within a city with a population of a million or more and counties (other than a county wholly within such city). Such amount will be distributed by the comptroller to such city and such counties. Such counties shall be entitled to retain twenty-five percent of the monies so distributed. Such counties shall distribute the remaining seventy-five percent of such monies to the towns, villages, and cities within such county in which a retail dispensary is located in proportion to the sales of adult-use cannabis products by the retail dispensaries in such towns, villages and cities as reported by a seed-to-sale system, provided, however, where a retail dispensary is located in a village within a town that both permit cannabis retail sales, then the county shall distribute the monies attributable to such retail dispensary to such town and village in such proportion as may be agreed upon by the elective governing body of such town and of such village or, in the absence of such an agreement, shall evenly divide such monies between such town and village. Such counties shall distribute the monies received for each quarter ending on the last day of February, May, August or November to such towns, villages and cities no later than the thirtieth day after receipt of such monies from the comptroller.

§ 496-c. Additional penalties. (a) In addition to any other civil or criminal penalties that may apply, any person knowingly in possession of or knowingly having control over any type of illicit cannabis, as defined in section four hundred ninety-two of this article, after notice and an opportunity for a hearing, shall be liable for a civil penalty in an amount up to two times the amount of tax otherwise required to be paid for such product for a first violation, and for a second or subsequent violation within three years following a prior violation may be liable for a civil penalty in an amount up to three times the amount of tax otherwise required to be paid for such product.

(b) In addition to any other penalty authorized by this chapter or any other law:

(1) Any person who knowingly possesses for sale, as such term is defined in section four hundred ninety-two of this article, more than five pounds but less than twelve pounds of illicit cannabis or more than one pound but less than four pounds of illicit concentrated cannabis or illicit cannabis edible product, after notice and an opportunity for a hearing, may be liable for a civil penalty of up to twenty-five thousand dollars for a first violation and may be liable for a civil penalty of up to fifty thousand dollars for a second or subsequent violation within three years following a prior violation.

(2) Any person who knowingly possesses for sale, as such term is defined in section four hundred ninety-two of this article, over twelve or more pounds of illicit cannabis or four or more pounds of illicit concentrated cannabis or illicit cannabis edible product, after notice and an opportunity for a hearing, may be liable for a civil penalty of up to seventy-five thousand dollars for a first violation and may be liable for a civil penalty of up to one hundred thousand dollars for a second or subsequent violation within three years following a prior violation.

(3) In addition to any penalty imposed pursuant to paragraphs one or two of this subdivision, any person who knowingly possesses for sale, as such term is defined in section four hundred ninety-two of this article, more than five pounds of illicit cannabis, or more than one pound of illicit concentrated cannabis or illicit cannabis edible product, in a commercial location, after notice and an opportunity for a hearing, may be subject to an additional civil penalty of up to fifty thousand dollars for a first violation and may be liable for a civil penalty of up to one hundred thousand dollars for a second or subsequent violation within three years following a prior violation. For purposes of this paragraph, "commercial location" means real property or a vehicle held out as open to the public or otherwise being used to conduct wholesale or retail transactions, including a storage area in or adjacent to such property or vehicle. Such term shall not include a residence or a personally-owned vehicle located at such residence.

(c) Any distributor on whom tax is imposed under this article that knowingly sells any adult-use cannabis product to any person who sells at retail adult-use cannabis products who is not registered under section four hundred ninety-four of this article, or whose registration has been suspended or revoked, may, after notice and an opportunity for a hearing, be liable for a civil penalty of up to fifty thousand dollars for a first violation and up to one hundred thousand dollars for a second or subsequent violation within three years following a prior violation.

(d) No enforcement action taken under this section shall be construed to limit any other criminal or civil liability of anyone in possession of illicit cannabis.

(e) The penalties imposed by this section shall not apply to natural persons lawfully in possession of adult-use cannabis or concentrated cannabis for personal use as provided in article two hundred twenty-two of the penal law.

§ 496-d. Enforcement. The commissioner or the commissioner's duly authorized representatives are hereby authorized:

(a) To conduct regulatory inspections during normal business hours of any place of business, including a vehicle used for such business, where adult-use cannabis products are distributed, placed, stored, sold or offered for sale. For the purposes of this section, "place of business" shall not include a residence or other real property, or any personal vehicle on or about such property, not held out as open to the public or otherwise being utilized in a business or commercial manner, unless probable cause exists to believe that such residence, real property or vehicle is being used in such a business or commercial manner for the buying or selling of adult-use cannabis products.

(b) To examine any adult-use cannabis products and the books, papers, invoices and other records of any place of business or vehicle where adult-use cannabis products are distributed, placed, stored, sold or offered for sale. Any person in possession, control or occupancy of any such business is required to give to the commissioner or the commissioner's duly authorized representatives or the duly authorized representatives of the office of cannabis management, the means, facilities, and opportunity for such examinations. For the purposes of this section, "place of business" shall not include a residence or other real property, or any personal vehicle on or about such property, not held out as open to the public or otherwise being utilized in a business or commercial manner, unless probable cause exists to believe that such residence, real property or vehicle is being used in such a business or commercial manner for the buying or selling of adult-use cannabis products.

(c) If any person registered under section four hundred ninety-four of this article, or their agents, refuses to give the commissioner, or the commissioner's duly authorized representatives, the means, facilities and opportunity for the inspections and examinations required by this section, the commissioner, after notice and an opportunity for a hearing, may revoke their registration to distribute or sell adult-use cannabis products at retail:

(i) for a period of one year for the first such failure;

(ii) for a period of up to three years for a second such failure within a period of three years; and

(iii) for a period of up to seven years for a third such failure within five years.

(d) The commissioner or the commissioner's duly authorized representatives shall seize any illicit cannabis found in any place of business or vehicle where adult-use cannabis products are distributed, placed, stored, sold or offered for sale by any person who does not possess a certificate of registration as described in section four hundred ninety-four of this chapter.

(e) All illicit cannabis seized pursuant to the authority of this chapter or any other law of this state shall be turned over to the office of cannabis management or their authorized representative. Such seized illicit cannabis shall, after notice and an opportunity for a hearing, be forfeited to the state. If the office of cannabis management determines the illicit cannabis cannot be used for law enforcement purposes, it may, within a reasonable time after the forfeiture of such illicit cannabis, upon publication in the state registry, destroy such forfeited illicit cannabis.

§ 496-e. Notification of enforcement actions. The commissioner shall notify the cannabis control board and the office of cannabis management of the commencement of any enforcement actions taken under this article as well as the conclusion, outcomes, and the amount of penalties collected as a result of such actions.

Section 497. Definitions.

498. Imposition of excise tax.

499. Returns to be secret.

§ 497. Definitions. The following terms shall have the following meanings when used in this article.

(a) "Opioid" shall mean an "opiate" as defined by subdivision twenty-three of section thirty-three hundred two of the public health law and any natural, synthetic, or semisynthetic "narcotic drug" as defined by subdivision twenty-two of such section that has agonist, partial agonist, or agonist/antagonist morphine-like activities or effects similar to natural opium alkaloids, and any derivative, congener, or combination thereof listed in schedules II-V of section thirty-three hundred six of the public health law. The term "opioid" shall not mean buprenorphine, methadone, or morphine.

(b) "Unit" shall mean a single finished dosage form of an opioid, such as a pill, tablet, capsule, suppository, transdermal patch, buccal film, milliliter of liquid, milligram of topical preparation, or any other form.

(c) "Strength per unit" shall mean the amount of opioid in a unit, as measured by weight, volume, concentration or other metric.

(d) "Morphine milligram equivalent conversion factor" shall mean that reference standard of a particular opioid as it relates in potency to morphine as determined by the commissioner of health.

(e) "Morphine milligram equivalent" shall mean a unit multiplied by its strength per unit multiplied by the morphine milligram equivalent conversion factor.

(f) "Registrant" shall mean: (1) any person, firm, corporation or association that: (i) is required to be registered with the education department as a wholesaler, manufacturer, or outsourcing facility pursuant to section six thousand eight hundred eight or section six thousand eight hundred eight-b of the education law and (ii) holds and transfers title to an opioid unit; (2) any person, firm, corporation or association that: (i) would be required to be registered with the education department as a wholesaler, manufacturer, or outsourcing facility pursuant to such section six thousand eight hundred eight-b but for the exception in subdivision two of such section and (ii) holds and transfers title to an opioid unit; or (3) any person, firm, corporation or association that: (i) is required to be registered with the health department as a manufacturer or distributor of a controlled substance pursuant to section thirty-three hundred ten of the public health law and (ii) holds and transfers title to an opioid unit.

(g) "Wholesale acquisition cost" shall mean the manufacturer's list price for an opioid unit to wholesalers or direct purchasers in the United States, not including prompt pay or other discounts, rebates or reductions in price, for the most recent month for which the information is available, as reported in wholesale price guides or other publications of drug or biological pricing data.

(h) "Sale" shall mean any transfer of title to an opioid unit for a consideration where actual or constructive possession of such opioid unit is transferred by a registrant holding title to such opioid unit to a purchaser or its designee in this state. A sale shall not include either the dispensing of an opioid unit pursuant to a prescription to an ultimate consumer or the transfer of title to an opioid unit from a manufacturer in this state to a purchaser outside this state when such opioid unit will be used or consumed outside this state.

§ 498. Imposition of excise tax. (a) There is hereby imposed an excise tax on the first sale of every opioid unit in the state at the following rates: (1) a quarter of a cent per morphine milligram equivalent where the wholesale acquisition cost is less than fifty cents, or (2) one and one-half cents per morphine milligram equivalent where the wholesale acquisition cost is fifty cents or more; except that such tax shall not apply when such first sale is to any program operated pursuant to article forty of the public health law and article thirty-two of the mental hygiene law. The tax imposed by this article shall be charged against and paid by the registrant making such first sale, and shall accrue at the time of such sale. For the purpose of the proper administration of this article and to prevent evasion of the tax hereby imposed, it shall be presumed that any sale of an opioid unit in this state by a registrant is the first sale of such in the state until the contrary is established, and the burden of proving that any sale is not the first sale in the state shall be upon the registrant.

(b) Every registrant liable for the tax imposed by this article shall file with the commissioner a return on forms to be prescribed by the commissioner showing the total morphine milligram equivalent and wholesale acquisition costs of such opioid units that are subject to the tax imposed by this article, the amount of tax due thereon, and such further information as the commissioner may require. Such returns shall be filed for quarterly periods ending on the last day of March, June, September and December of each year. Each return shall be filed within twenty days after the end of such quarterly period and shall cover all opioid sales in the state made in the prior quarter, except that the first return required to be filed pursuant to this section shall be due on January twentieth, two thousand twenty, and shall cover all opioid sales occurring in the period between the effective date of this article and December thirty-first, two thousand nineteen. Every registrant required to file a return under this section shall, at the time of filing such return, pay to the commissioner the total amount of tax due for the period covered by such return. If a return is not filed when due, the tax shall be due the day on which the return is required to be filed. The commissioner may require that the returns and payments required by this section be filed or paid electronically.

(c) Where a sale of an opioid unit by a registrant has been cancelled by the purchaser and tax thereon was previously paid by the registrant, the commissioner shall allow to the registrant a refund or credit of such tax on a return for a later period subject to the limitations period for claiming a refund or credit as prescribed by section one thousand eighty-seven of this chapter. Where a registrant proves that an opioid unit for which it previously paid a tax has been distributed out of the state for use or consumption outside this state, the commissioner shall allow a credit to the registrant for tax paid on a return for a later period subject to the limitations period for claiming a credit as prescribed by section one thousand eighty-seven of this chapter.

(d) All sales slips, invoices, receipts, or other statements or memoranda of sale from any sale or purchase of opioid units by registrants must be retained for a period of six years after the due date of the return to which they relate, unless the commissioner provides for a different retention period by rule or regulation. Such records must be sufficient to determine the number of units transferred along with the morphine milligram equivalent of the units transferred, and otherwise be suitable to determine the correct amount of tax due. Such records must also record either (1) the address from which the units are shipped or delivered, along with the address to which the units are shipped or delivered, or (2) the place at which actual physical possession of the units is transferred. Such records shall be produced upon demand by the commissioner.

(e) The provisions of article twenty-seven of this chapter shall apply to the tax imposed by this article in the same manner and with the same force and effect as if the language of such article had been incorporated in full into this article and had expressly referred to the tax imposed by this article, except to the extent that any provision of such article twenty-seven is either inconsistent with a provision of this article or is not relevant to this article.

(f) The commissioners of education and health shall cooperate with the commissioner in administering this tax, including sharing with the commissioner pertinent information about registrants upon the request of the commissioner.

(g) Each registrant shall provide a report to the department of health detailing all opioids sold by such registrant in the state of New York. Such report shall include:

(i) the registrant's name, address, phone number, federal Drug Enforcement Agency (DEA) registration number, education department registration number, and controlled substance license number issued by the department of health, if applicable;

(ii) the name, address and DEA registration number of the entity to whom the opioid was sold;

(iii) the date of the sale of the opioid;

(iv) the gross receipt total, in dollars, for each opioid sold;

(v) the name and National Drug Code of the opioid sold;

(vi) the number of containers and the strength and metric quantity of controlled substance in each container of the opioid sold;

(vii) the total number of morphine milligram equivalents sold; and (viii) any other elements as deemed necessary by the commissioner of health.

Such information shall be reported annually in such form as defined by the commissioner of health and shall not be subject to the provisions of section four hundred ninety-nine of this article. With the exception of the information collected under paragraph (ii) of this subdivision, the department of health shall make the information collected in such reports available to the public in machine-readable formats and make it publicly available on the department of health's website annually.

§ 499. Returns to be secret. (a) Except in accordance with a proper judicial order or as otherwise provided for by law, it shall be unlawful for the commissioner, any officer or employee of the department, or any person engaged or retained by such department on an independent contract basis or any other person who in any manner may acquire knowledge of the contents of a return or report filed pursuant to this article to divulge or make known in any manner the contents or any other information relating to the business of a registrant contained in any return or report required under this article. The officers charged with the custody of such returns or reports shall not be required to produce any of them or evidence of anything contained in them in any action or proceeding in any court, except on behalf of the state, the state department of health, the state department of education or the commissioner in an action or proceeding under the provisions of this chapter or on behalf of the state or the commissioner in any other action or proceeding involving the collection of a tax due under this chapter to which the state or the commissioner is a party or a claimant or on behalf of any party to any action or proceeding under the provisions of this article, when the returns or the reports or the facts shown thereby are directly involved in such action or proceeding, in any of which events the court may require the production of, and may admit in evidence so much of said returns or reports or of the facts shown thereby as are pertinent to the action or proceeding and no more. Nothing herein shall be construed to prohibit the commissioner, in his or her discretion, from allowing the inspection or delivery of a certified copy of any return or report filed under this article, or from providing any information contained in any such return or report, by or to a duly authorized officer or employee of the state department of health or the state department of education; nor to prohibit the inspection or delivery of a certified copy of any return or report filed under this article, or the provision of any information contained therein, by or to the attorney general or other legal representatives of the state when an action shall have been recommended or commenced pursuant to this chapter in which such returns or reports or the facts shown thereby are directly involved; nor to prohibit the commissioner from providing or certifying to the division of budget or the comptroller the total number of returns or reports filed under this article in any reporting period and the total collections received therefrom; nor to prohibit the inspection of the returns or reports required under this article by the comptroller or duly designated officer or employee of the state department of audit and control, for purposes of the audit of a refund of any tax paid by a registrant or other person under this article; nor to prohibit the delivery to a registrant, or a duly authorized representative of such registrant, a certified copy of any return or report filed by such registrant pursuant to this article, nor to prohibit the publication of statistics so classified as to prevent the identification of particular returns or reports and the items thereof.

(a-1) Cooperation with investigations by certain committees of the United States Congress. (1) Notwithstanding the provisions of subdivision (a) of this section, upon written request from the chairperson of the committee on ways and means of the United States House of Representatives, the chairperson of the committee on finance of the United States Senate, or the chairperson of the joint committee on taxation of the United States Congress, the commissioner shall furnish such committee with any current or prior year returns or reports specified in such request that were filed under this article by the president of the United States, vice-president of the United States, member of the United States Congress representing New York state, or any person who served in or was employed by the executive branch of the government of the United States on the executive staff of the president, in the executive office of the president, or in an acting or confirmed capacity in a position subject to confirmation by the United States senate; or, in New York state: a statewide elected official, as defined in paragraph (a) of subdivision one of section seventy-three-a of the public officers law; a state officer or employee, as defined in subparagraph (i) of paragraph (c) of subdivision one of such section seventy-three-a; a political party chairperson, as defined in paragraph (h) of subdivision one of such section seventy-three-a; a local elected official, as defined in subdivisions one and two of section eight hundred ten of the general municipal law; a person appointed, pursuant to law, to serve due to vacancy or otherwise in the position of a local elected official, as defined in subdivisions one and two of section eight hundred ten of the general municipal law; a member of the state legislature; or a judge or justice of the unified court system, or filed by a partnership, firm, association, corporation, joint-stock company, trust or similar entity directly or indirectly controlled by any individual listed in this paragraph, whether by contract, through ownership or control of a majority interest in such entity, or otherwise, or filed by a partnership, firm, association, corporation, joint-stock company, trust or similar entity of which any individual listed in this paragraph holds ten percent or more of the voting securities of such entity; provided however that, prior to furnishing any return or report, the commissioner shall redact any copy of a federal return (or portion thereof) attached to, or any information on a federal return that is reflected on, such return or report, and any social security numbers, account numbers and residential address information.

(2) No returns or reports shall be furnished pursuant to this subdivision unless the chairperson of the requesting committee certifies in writing that such returns or reports have been requested related to, and in furtherance of, a legitimate task of the Congress, that the requesting committee has made a written request to the United States secretary of the treasury for related federal reports or returns or report or return information, pursuant to 26 U.S.C. Section 6103(f), and that if such requested returns or reports are inspected by and/or submitted to another committee, to the United States House of Representatives, or to the United States Senate, then such inspection and/or submission shall occur in a manner consistent with federal law as informed by the requirements and procedures established in 26 U.S.C. Section 6103(f).

(b)(1) Any officer or employee of the state who willfully violates the provisions of subdivision (a) of this section shall be dismissed from office and be incapable of holding any public office in this state for a period of five years thereafter.

(2) Cross-reference: For criminal penalties, see article thirty-seven of this chapter.

2. (a) "Motor vehicle" shall include any automobile, truck, tractor or other self-propelled device, having a gross weight in excess of eighteen thousand pounds, or any truck having an unloaded weight in excess of eight thousand pounds, or any tractor, having an unloaded weight in excess of four thousand pounds, which is used upon the public highways otherwise than upon fixed rails or tracks.

(b) For purposes of section five hundred two of this article, in the case of an automotive fuel carrier, a "motor vehicle" shall, in addition to every motor vehicle defined in paragraph (a) of this subdivision, include any trailer, semi-trailer, dolly, or other device drawn thereby having a gross weight, alone, or in combination with any other motor vehicle, trailer, semi-trailer, dolly or other device, in excess of eighteen thousand pounds, which is used upon the public highways otherwise than upon fixed rails or tracks.

4. "Gross weight" shall mean the unloaded weight of the motor vehicle plus the unloaded weight of the heaviest motor vehicle, trailer, semi-trailer, dolly or other device to be drawn by such motor vehicle (determined in a manner similar to the method for determining the unloaded weight of a motor vehicle) plus the weight of the maximum load, exclusive of the weight of the driver and his helper, to be carried or drawn by such motor vehicle.

7. "Unloaded weight" shall mean the actual weight of the motor vehicle, which includes all equipment necessary for the performance of the function of the vehicle as a vehicle, necessary for the safety of the vehicle, permanently attached to the vehicle, used exclusively for the protection of the load carried by the vehicle or used exclusively for the loading or unloading of the vehicle.

Such manifest shall include for each such location the total quantity of automotive fuel transported therefrom or delivered thereto and any taxes paid or collected thereon pursuant to or authorized pursuant to this chapter. The term "distributor" shall have the same meaning as it has for purposes of article twelve-A of this chapter, excluding persons who are not required pursuant to section two hundred eighty-two-a to pay the tax imposed thereby. hundred eighty-two of this chapter and motor fuel as defined in subdivision two of section two hundred eighty-two of this chapter.

§ 502. Highway use registration. 1. a. Each carrier shall apply to the commissioner for a certificate of registration for each motor vehicle operated or to be operated by such carrier on the public highways in this state. Application shall be made upon a form prescribed by such commissioner and shall set forth the gross and unloaded weight of each motor vehicle, license plate information for each motor vehicle and such other information as the commissioner may require. Such weights shall be subject to audit and approval by the commissioner. The commissioner shall issue a certificate of registration for each motor vehicle or a consolidated certificate of registration for all or any portion of such vehicles of such carrier which shall contain such information and be in such form as the commissioner shall prescribe. In the case of the loss, mutilation or destruction of a certificate of registration, the commissioner shall issue a duplicate thereof. Any such certificate of registration shall not be transferable, except as hereinafter provided, and shall be valid until revoked, suspended or surrendered. Such certificate of registration shall be maintained in the carrier's regular place of business. In the event of an increase in the gross or unloaded weight of any motor vehicle subject to this article, application for a corrected certificate of registration shall be made upon a form prescribed by such commissioner setting forth the previous gross or unloaded weight, the new gross or unloaded weight and such other information as the commissioner may require. In the event of a decrease in the gross or unloaded weight of any motor vehicle subject to this article, application may be made for a corrected certificate of registration in a similar manner, provided that any such application on the basis of a decrease in the gross or unloaded weight of any motor vehicle may be made only during the month of January. In the event of a decrease in the gross or unloaded weight of any motor vehicle subject to this article, an application to cancel a certificate of registration on the basis of such decrease may be made during any month. The corrected gross or unloaded weight shall be subject to audit and approval by the commissioner. In the event of a change to the license plate information of any motor vehicle subject to this article, an application for a corrected certificate of registration shall be made upon a form prescribed by the commissioner setting forth the previous license plate information, the new license plate information and such other information as the commissioner may require. Upon surrendering the certificate of registration previously issued, the commissioner shall issue a corrected certificate of registration.

b. Every automotive fuel carrier shall apply to the commissioner for a special certificate of registration, in place of the certificate of registration described in paragraph a of this subdivision, for each motor vehicle operated or to be operated by such carrier on the public highways in this state to transport automotive fuel. Provided, however, a special certificate of registration shall not be required under this paragraph for a tractor or other self-propelled device which, except with respect to the fuel in the ordinary fuel tank intended for its propulsion, transports automotive fuel solely by means of a trailer, dolly or other device drawn by such tractor or other self-propelled device if a certificate of registration prescribed by paragraph a of this subdivision has been issued for the self-propelled device. Application shall be made upon an application form prescribed by the commissioner. The commissioner shall issue such special certificate of registration for each motor vehicle listed in the application or a consolidated certificate of registration for all or any portion of such vehicles of such carrier. All of the provisions of this article with respect to certificates of registration shall be applicable to the special certificates of registration issued to automotive fuel carriers under this paragraph as if those provisions had been set forth in full in this paragraph and expressly referred to the special certificates of registration required by this paragraph except to the extent that any such provision is either inconsistent with a provision of this paragraph or not relevant to the certificates of registration required by this paragraph. Any certificate of registration shall not be transferable, and shall be valid until revoked, suspended or surrendered. Such special certificate of registration shall be maintained in the carrier's regular place of business. Nothing contained in this paragraph shall in any way exempt an automotive fuel carrier from payment of the taxes imposed

c. In lieu of the certificate of registration provided for in paragraph a of this subdivision, but not in place of any certificate of registration required by paragraph b of this subdivision, any carrier, except as hereinafter limited, may apply to the commissioner for a trip certificate of registration for any motor vehicle to be operated by him or her on the public highways of this state. Application for the trip certificate of registration shall be made on a form prescribed by the commissioner, shall set forth the license plate information for each such motor vehicle and such information as the commissioner shall require. The application shall be accompanied by a fee of twenty-five dollars for each motor vehicle. Each trip certificate of registration shall be valid for a period of seventy-two hours from the time of its issuance. The issuance of a trip certificate of registration for a motor vehicle shall exempt the carrier from the requirement of filing returns and payment of the taxes imposed by section five hundred three of this article on the operation of such motor vehicle for the effective period of the trip certificate of registration but no refund application may be filed on account of trip certificate of registration applications. Provided, however, that in order for any person liable for the tax to claim such exemption, such person must retain a copy of the trip certificate of registration in his records for the complete period of time required by section five hundred seven of this article. A carrier may not apply for more than ten trip certificates of registration during a single calendar year.

2. The commissioner, for cause, may deny a certificate of registration and suspend or revoke any certificate of registration issued by him or her, after an opportunity for a hearing has been afforded the carrier, provided, however, that a certificate of registration may be denied, suspended or revoked for failure to file a return as required by section five hundred five of this article or for nonpayment of any monies due under this article without a hearing. Such denial, suspension or revocation of a certificate of registration for any motor vehicle of any carrier shall automatically result in suspension or revocation of all certificates of registration issued to such carrier, unless otherwise specified by the commissioner. A violation of any of the provisions of this article or of any rule or regulation of the commissioner promulgated under this article shall constitute sufficient cause for the denial, suspension or revocation of a certificate of registration. The nonpayment of any monies due for any other tax or imposition which is administered by the commissioner shall constitute sufficient cause for the denial of a certificate of registration. Any such action by the commissioner shall be reviewable under article seventy-eight of the civil practice law and rules.

3. If the certificate of registration of any motor vehicle has been suspended or revoked under this section the department of motor vehicles shall not thereafter reregister the motor vehicle or transfer the registration of ownership thereof upon the records of the department of motor vehicles until there is furnished to such department a certificate issued by the commissioner to the effect that such person has fully complied with the provisions of this article. The department of motor vehicles shall not reregister or transfer the registered ownership of any motor vehicle for which a certificate of registration has been issued under this article until there is furnished to it a certificate of tax clearance issued by the commissioner. Such certificate of tax clearance shall be issued after the payment of all monies due under this article or after the payment of any such amount is secured to the satisfaction of the commissioner.

4. Nothing herein contained shall be construed as authorizing motor vehicle weight limits in excess of those permitted by the vehicle and traffic law.

5. For purposes of this section, monies due shall be considered to be due if the monies have been assessed or finally determined to be due.

6. a. The commissioner may require the use of decals as evidence that a carrier has a valid certificate of registration for each motor vehicle operated or to be operated on the public highways of this state as required by paragraph a of subdivision one of this section. If the commissioner requires the use of decals, the commissioner shall issue for each motor vehicle with a valid certificate of registration a decal that shall be of a size and design and containing such information as the commissioner prescribes. In the case of the loss, mutilation, or destruction of a decal, the commissioner shall issue a new decal upon proof of the facts. The decal shall be firmly and conspicuously affixed upon the motor vehicle for which it is issued as closely as practical to the registration or license plates and at all times be visible and legible. No decal is transferable. A decal shall be valid until it expires or is revoked, suspended, or surrendered.

b. The commissioner may require the use of special decals as evidence that an automotive fuel carrier has a valid special certificate of registration for each motor vehicle operated or to be operated on the public highways of this state to transport automotive fuel as required by paragraph b of subdivision one of this section. If the commissioner requires the use of special decals, the commissioner shall issue for each motor vehicle with a valid special certificate of registration a special decal that shall be distinctively colored and of a size and design and containing such information as the commissioner prescribes. In the case of the loss, mutilation, or destruction of a special decal, the commissioner shall issue a new special decal upon proof of the facts. The special decal shall be firmly and conspicuously affixed upon the motor vehicle for which it is issued pursuant to the rules and regulations prescribed by the commissioner to enable the easy identification of the automotive fuel carrier certificate of registration number and at all times be visible and legible. No special decal is transferable and shall be valid until it expires or is revoked, suspended, or surrendered.

c. The suspension or revocation of any certificate of registration issued under this article shall be deemed to include the suspension and revocation of any decal issued under this subdivision.

§ 502-a. Certificate of registration and decal fees. The application for a certificate of registration and decal described in paragraph a of subdivision one and paragraph a of subdivision six of section five hundred two of this article, or a special certificate of registration and special decal as described in paragraph b of subdivision one and paragraph b of subdivision six of such section, shall be accompanied by a fee of one dollar and fifty cents. In the case of the loss, mutilation or destruction of any such documents, the commissioner shall issue a duplicate set thereof upon payment of a fee of one dollar and fifty cents. Provided, however, there shall be no additional charge for the issuance of a corrected certificate of registration pursuant to paragraph a of subdivision one of section five hundred two of this article.

§ 503. Imposition of tax. 1. In addition to any other tax or fee imposed by law, there is hereby levied and imposed a highway use tax for the privilege of operating any vehicular unit upon the public highways of this state and for the purpose of recompensing the state for the public expenditures incurred by reason of the operations of such vehicular units on the public highways of this state. Such tax shall be upon the carrier except that where the carrier is not the owner of such vehicular unit, the tax shall be a joint and several liability upon both. Such tax shall be based upon the gross weight of each motor vehicle and the number of miles it is operated on the public highways in this state except as hereinafter provided.

(a) The tax for each such motor vehicle shall be computed by multiplying the number of miles operated on the public highways in this state by the appropriate tax rate as it appears in the gross weight method table entitled "laden miles" set forth in paragraph (b) of this subdivision for the gross weight of the motor vehicle.

29.	74,001 to 76,000 inclusive	35.0
30.	76,001 and over	add two mills per ton and fraction thereof

(c) Provided, however, when a motor vehicle is operated without any load or cargo, either alone or when it is drawing an unloaded trailer, semi-trailer, dolly or other device, the carrier shall in lieu of computing the tax by the gross weight method table entitled "laden miles" compute the tax by multiplying the number of miles operated under such conditions by the appropriate tax rate entitled "unladen miles" for tractors set forth in this paragraph, if the vehicular unit is propelled by a tractor, and by the appropriate tax rate entitled "unladen miles" for trucks set forth in this paragraph, if the vehicular unit is propelled by a truck. Such tax rate shall be determined by the unloaded weight of the tractor if the motor vehicle is a tractor and, in all other cases, by the combined unloaded weight of any such motor vehicle plus the unloaded weight of the heaviest trailer, semi-trailer, dolly or other device to be drawn by such motor vehicle (determined in a manner similar to the methods for determining the unloaded weight of a motor vehicle) when the motor vehicle is operated under such conditions. Provided further, however, when an unloaded tractor is being operated alone, the carrier shall compute the tax by multiplying the mileage operated under such conditions by the appropriate tax rate for trucks set forth in this paragraph determined at the unloaded weight of the tractor.

5.	26,001 to 28,000 inclusive	9.5
6.	28,001 to 30,000 inclusive	10.0
7.	30,001 and over	add five tenths of a mill per ton and fraction thereof

(d) Provided, however, for purposes of determining the applicable rates of tax under this subdivision, for those miles when a truck does not draw a trailer, semi-trailer, dolly or other device, the gross weight and unloaded weight of the truck shall be determined without regard to the weight of any trailer, semi-trailer, dolly or other device drawn at other times by the truck or the weight of any load carried by any such trailer, semi-trailer, dolly or other device.

2. In lieu of basing the tax on the gross weight and mileage of each vehicular unit consisting of a combination of motor vehicle and trailer operated as a unit, any carrier operating more than one such vehicular unit may elect in his return to base the tax on (i) the gross weight of its heaviest laden motor vehicle and the number of laden miles all of its motor vehicles are operated on the public highways of this state under such condition by the tax rate entitled "laden miles" set forth in paragraph (b) of subdivision one of this section plus (ii) the unloaded weight of its heaviest unladen tractor, if the vehicular unit is propelled by a tractor and in all other cases, by the combined unloaded weight of the motor vehicle plus the unloaded weight of the heaviest trailer, semi-trailer, dolly or other device to be drawn by such motor vehicle (determined in a manner similar to the method for determining the unloaded weight of a motor vehicle) and the number of unladen miles all of its motor vehicles are operated on the public highways of this state under such conditions by the tax rate entitled "unladen miles" set forth in paragraph (c) of subdivision one of this section for the tractor or truck, as the case may be. Provided, however, when an unloaded tractor is being operated alone, the carrier in lieu of the computation required by clause (ii) of this subdivision for such mileage shall compute the tax for the mileage operated under such conditions by multiplying the appropriate tax rate for trucks set forth in such paragraph determined at the unloaded weight of the tractor. Such election may be made with respect to each return filed by a carrier and shall apply to all such motor vehicles required to be included in a return of the carrier during the taxable period covered thereby. Such election shall be irrevocable with respect to the taxable period for which the return is filed.

3. In lieu of computing the tax on the basis provided in the preceding subdivisions, any carrier may elect to compute the tax on the basis of the unloaded weight of each motor vehicle and the number of miles it is operated on the public highways in this state. The tax computed for each such motor vehicle shall be computed by multiplying the number of miles operated on the public highways in this state by the appropriate tax rate in the following tables:

	Unloaded Weight of Truck	Tax Rate (in mills)
1.	8,001 to 9,000 inclusive	4
2.	9,001 to 10,000 inclusive	5
3.	10,001 to 11,000 inclusive	7
4.	11,001 to 12,000 inclusive	8
5.	12,001 to 13,000 inclusive	9
6.	13,001 to 14,000 inclusive	10
7.	14,001 to 15,000 inclusive	11
8.	15,001 to 17,500 inclusive	12
9.	17,501 to 20,000 inclusive	14
10.	20,001 to 22,500 inclusive	18
11.	22,501 to 25,000 inclusive	22
12.	25,001 and over	27
	Unloaded Weight of Tractor
1.	4,001 to 5,500 inclusive	6
2.	5,501 to 7,000 inclusive	10
3.	7,001 to 8,500 inclusive	14
4.	8,501 to 10,000 inclusive	18
5.	10,001 to 12,000 inclusive	25
6.	12,001 and over	33

Such election may be made by the carrier only on the first return required to be filed by him in any calendar year and shall apply to all motor vehicles required to be included therein. Such election shall be irrevocable with respect to the taxable period for which such return is filed and all subsequent returns covering operations during any part of the calendar year in which such election is made.

§ 503-a. Imposition of additional tax. 1. In addition to the tax imposed by section five hundred three of this chapter, and in addition to any other tax or fee imposed by law, there is hereby imposed on and after July first, nineteen hundred sixty-eight and before January first, nineteen hundred ninety-six an additional tax on highway use for the privilege of operating any vehicular unit, other than an omnibus, upon the public highways of this state, and on and after October first, nineteen hundred sixty-nine and before January first, nineteen hundred ninety-six an additional tax on highway use for the privilege of operating upon the public highways of this state any omnibus which is a vehicular unit as defined in subdivision eight of this section. Such tax shall be upon the carrier except that where the carrier is not the owner of such vehicular unit, the tax shall be a joint and several liability upon both.

2. Such tax shall be at a composite rate determined by adding together (i) a fuel tax component which shall be equivalent to the rate per gallon in effect under the taxes on motor fuel and diesel motor fuel imposed by article twelve-a of this chapter and (ii) a sales tax component, which shall be equivalent to the rate per gallon applicable to the receipts from the sale of a gallon of motor fuel and diesel motor fuel in effect under the sales and compensating use taxes imposed by sections eleven hundred five and eleven hundred ten of this chapter plus the highest rate applicable to the receipts from the sale of a gallon of motor fuel and diesel motor fuel in effect in any locality of this state imposing a local sales and compensating use tax on the sale of motor fuel and diesel motor fuel under the authority of section twelve hundred ten of this chapter; provided, however, that the aggregate rate per gallon applicable to the receipts from the sale of a gallon of such fuels imposed under clause (ii) of this subdivision shall not exceed seven percent. Such total equivalent rate per gallon under clause (ii) of this subdivision shall be determined as provided in subdivision (d) of section eleven hundred eleven of this chapter and the schedules prescribed by the commissioner of taxation and finance pursuant to such subdivision, and shall be based on the average price per gallon (including all federal and state and any local taxes included in such price or imposed on the use or consumption of such fuels but determined without the inclusion of any state and local sales tax on receipts from sales of such fuels) paid by the carrier during the return period for all motor fuel and diesel motor fuel purchased for use in its operations either within or without this state. Provided, however, if the commissioner shall determine that the records of any carrier are inadequate or incomplete for such a determination of average price, the price for motor fuel and diesel motor fuel purchased by such carrier shall be deemed to be the prevailing price for motor fuel and diesel motor fuel, as established by the commissioner each calendar quarter pursuant to this section, applicable to the return period. Each calendar quarter, the commissioner shall for each calendar quarter establish a prevailing price for motor fuel and diesel motor fuel based on the prices being charged on any given day during the first fifteen days of the previous calendar quarter at a minimum of ten selected truck stops widely scattered throughout the state. For any return period, a carrier may elect to use the prevailing price per gallon so established by the commissioner. Such tax shall be computed by multiplying such composite rate by the amount of motor fuel or diesel motor fuel, as the case may be, used by a carrier in its operations within this state during each calendar quarter or, where the commissioner has required or permitted a return to be based upon a different period, during such other period. The amount of motor fuel and diesel motor fuel used in the operations of any carrier within this state shall be such proportion of the total amount of such motor fuel and diesel motor fuel used in its entire operations within and without this state as the total number of miles traveled within this state bears to the total number of miles traveled within and without this state. The commissioner may, by regulation, allow use of a miles per gallon factor in computing fuel used in operations in lieu of the above formula if evidence is presented to the commissioner's satisfaction that no loss of revenue will result. Where the records of any carrier are inadequate or incomplete the vehicular units of a carrier filing returns shall be deemed to have consumed, on the average, one gallon of diesel motor fuel for every four miles traveled or one gallon of motor fuel for every three miles traveled unless substantial evidence discloses that a different amount was consumed.

3. Every carrier subject to the tax imposed by this section shall be entitled to a credit against such tax determined by adding together the following components: (i) a fuel tax component computed by multiplying the number of gallons of motor fuel or diesel motor fuel purchased by such carrier within this state in a return period, for use in its operations either within or without this state, by the applicable rate per gallon imposed on such fuel under article twelve-A of this chapter, provided, however, no credit shall be allowed unless the tax imposed under such article twelve-A upon such purchase of fuel has been paid by such carrier, and (ii) a sales tax component computed by multiplying the number of gallons of motor fuel or diesel motor fuel purchased by such carrier within this state in a return period, for use in its operations either within or without this state (as determined in a manner similar to the method for determining the use of fuel in the state as provided for under subdivision two of this section), by the applicable equivalent rate per gallon of the sales tax component of the tax rate (as determined under subdivision two of this section), provided, however, no credit shall be allowed unless the tax imposed under article twenty-eight of this chapter upon such purchase of fuel has been paid by the carrier. Each carrier claiming such credit components shall furnish to the commissioner such evidence of payment of such taxes as the commissioner may require. When the amount of the credit to which any carrier is entitled for any return period with respect to gallonage purchased in such return period exceeds the amount of tax for which such carrier is liable under this section for such return period, such excess shall be allowed as a credit against the tax or which such carrier would otherwise be liable for those succeeding periods (after application of any credits derived with respect to gallonage purchased in each such succeeding period) which fall wholly within the twenty-four month period commencing with the end of the return period from which the excess was derived or, if a claim for refund is filed on or before the last day of the month immediately following the forty-eight month period commencing with the end of the return period which gave rise to the refund, the amount of such excess for such period shall be refunded; but, such a claim for refund may be filed no more frequently than quarterly, with respect to the calendar quarters: January through March, April through June, July through September and October through December. The commissioner shall grant or deny any such claim for refund in whole or in part and shall notify the claimant by mail of the commissioner's determination. Such determination shall be final and irrevocable unless the claimant shall, within thirty days after the mailing of notice of such determination, petition the division of tax appeals for a hearing. After such hearing, the division of tax appeals shall mail notice of the determination of the administrative law judge to the claimant and to the commissioner. Such determination may be reviewed by the tax appeals tribunal as provided in article forty of this chapter. The decision of the tax appeals tribunal may be reviewed as provided in section two thousand sixteen of this chapter. However, such a proceeding may not be commenced unless an undertaking is filed with the commissioner in such amount and with such sureties as a justice of the supreme court shall approve to the effect that if the proceeding be dismissed or the decision confirmed, the petitioner will pay all costs and charges which may accrue against him in the prosecution of the proceeding.

4. Except as otherwise provided in this subdivision, every carrier subject to the tax imposed by this section shall file returns reporting its operations pursuant to the provisions of section five hundred five of this article for the reporting periods provided pursuant thereto. If the commissioner of taxation and finance finds that the enforcement of the tax imposed by this section would not be adversely affected, the commissioner may provide, by regulation, that a carrier operating primarily within this state may file an information return, rather than the aforementioned returns, provided the carrier has purchased in this state all the motor fuel and diesel motor fuel used in its operations during the period covered by such return and pays the taxes imposed under articles twelve-a and twenty-eight and pursuant to the authority of article twenty-nine of this chapter on such fuels in the manner required by such articles. An election to file an information return shall be made in such form, for such time and upon such terms as the commissioner shall require.

5. At the time of filing its return, as required pursuant to the preceding subdivision, each carrier shall pay the tax imposed by this section calculated upon the amount of motor fuel and Diesel motor fuel used in its operations within this state during the period covered by the return filed.

6. For purposes of this section, the definition of "motor fuel" in subdivision two of section two hundred eighty-two and the definition of "Diesel motor fuel" in subdivision fourteen of section two hundred eighty-two of this chapter shall apply.

7. For purposes of this section, the term "operations" means operations of all vehicular units, whether loaded or empty, whether or not for compensation and whether owned by or leased to the carrier which operates them or causes them to be operated.

8. For purposes of this section only, (a) the term "vehicular unit" shall include an omnibus engaged in the interstate or foreign transportation of passengers and subject to the jurisdiction of the interstate commerce commission, or any agency successor thereto, or one or more state regulatory agencies concerned with the regulation of passenger transport, having a seating capacity of more than seven persons in addition to the driver; and (b) the term "carrier" shall include any person having the lawful use or control, or the right to the use or control of any such omnibus.

9. The rest of the provisions of this article shall be applicable to the tax imposed by this section except to the extent such provisions are inconsistent with a provision in this section.

§ 503-b. Supplemental tax. 1. In addition to the taxes imposed by sections five hundred three and five hundred three-a of this article, and in addition to any other tax or fee imposed by law, there is hereby imposed on and after July first, nineteen hundred ninety a supplemental tax, for the privilege of operating any vehicular unit upon the public highways of this state and the purpose of recompensing the state for the public expenditures incurred by reason of the operations of such vehicular units on the public highways of this state, equal to the tax imposed by section five hundred three of this article.

2. The provisions concerning returns under section five hundred five of this article shall be applicable to this section. The supplemental tax imposed by this section shall be payable to the commissioner of taxation and finance in full at the time the return is required to be filed.

3. Except as otherwise provided in this section, all of the provisions of this article applicable to the tax imposed by section five hundred three of this article shall apply with respect to the supplemental tax imposed by this section to the same extent as if it were imposed by such section five hundred three, insofar as such provisions can be made applicable to the supplemental tax imposed by this section, with such modification as may be necessary to adapt such provisions to the supplemental tax imposed by this section.

4. The provisions of this section shall not apply to (i) any vehicular unit used almost exclusively to transport boltwood, logs, pulpwood or woodchips, and (ii) any vehicular unit used almost exclusively to transport raw, unprocessed milk in bulk, provided, however, the provisions of clauses (i) and (ii) of this subdivision shall not apply to any carrier or owner which operates more than three such vehicular units.

5. Notwithstanding any other provision of this article, commencing January first, nineteen hundred ninety-nine and ending March thirty-first, two thousand one, the supplemental tax imposed on the privilege of operating any motor vehicle unit shall be fifty percent of the tax imposed by section five hundred three of this article and commencing April first, two thousand one, the supplemental tax imposed on the privilege of operating any motor vehicle unit shall be forty percent of the tax imposed by section five hundred three of this article.

§ 504. Exemptions. The provisions of this article shall not apply to any vehicular unit:

1. Operating over a rural route and engaged exclusively in the transportation of United States mail under contract.

2. Owned and operated by the United States, the state or any other state or any county, city, town or municipality in this state, or any other state or by any agency or department thereof.

3. (a) Operated by a farmer or by a person that bears the relationship to such farmer described in paragraph (b) of this subdivision and used exclusively by such farmer or such person in transporting such farmer's own agricultural commodities and products, pulpwood or livestock, including the packed, processed, or manufactured products thereof, that were originally grown or raised on such farmer's farm, lands or orchard, or when used to transport supplies and equipment to such farmer's farm or orchard that are consumed and used thereon or when operated by such farmer or such person in transporting farm products from a farm contiguous to such farmer's farm.

(b) The relationship to such farmer as referenced in paragraph (a) of this subdivision, shall include:

(i) members of a family, including spouses, ancestors, lineal descendants, brothers and sisters (whether by the whole or half blood), and entities related to such a family member as described in subparagraphs (ii) through (iv) of this paragraph;

(ii) a shareholder and a corporation more than fifty percent of the value of the outstanding stock of which is owned or controlled directly or indirectly by such shareholder;

(iii) a partner and a partnership more than fifty percent of the capital or profits interest in which is owned or controlled directly or indirectly by such partner;

(iv) a beneficiary and a trust more than fifty percent of the beneficial interest in which is owned or controlled directly or indirectly by such beneficiary;

(v) two or more corporations, partnerships, associations, or trusts, or any combination thereof, which are owned or controlled, either directly or indirectly, by the same person, corporation or other entity, or interests; and

(vi) a grantor of a trust and such trust.

4. Where the motor vehicle has a gross weight of eighteen thousand pounds or less until such time as an election applicable to such motor vehicle is filed to compute the tax under the method provided in subdivision three of section five hundred three of this chapter.

5. Used exclusively in the transportation of household goods (as defined by the commissioner of transportation of this state or the interstate commerce commission) by a carrier under authority of the commissioner of transportation of this state or of the interstate commerce commission.

6. Owned and operated by any fire company or fire department as defined in section three of the volunteer firefighters' benefit law.

§ 505. Returns. Every carrier subject to this article and every carrier to whom a certificate of registration was issued shall file on or before the last day of each month a return for the preceding calendar month where a carrier's total tax liability under this article for the preceding calendar year exceeded twelve thousand dollars. Where a carrier's total tax liability under this article for the preceding calendar year did not exceed twelve thousand dollars or where a carrier was not subject to such tax in the preceding calendar year, returns shall be filed quarterly, on or before the last day of the calendar month following each of the calendar quarters: January through March, April through June, July through September and October through December. Provided, however, if the commissioner consents thereto in writing, any carrier may file a return on or before the thirtieth day after the close of any different period, if the carrier's books are regularly kept on a periodic basis other than a calendar month or quarter. The commissioner may permit the filing of returns on an annual basis, provided the carrier was subject to the tax under this article during the entire preceding calendar year and the carrier's total tax liability under this article for such year did not exceed twelve hundred dollars. Such annual returns shall be filed on or before January thirty-first of the succeeding calendar year. Returns shall be filed with the commissioner on forms to be furnished by such commissioner for such purpose and shall contain such data, information or matter as the commissioner may require to be included therein. The fact that a carrier's name is signed to a filed return shall be prima facie evidence for all purposes that the return was actually signed by such carrier. The commissioner may grant a reasonable extension of time for filing returns whenever good cause exists and may waive the filing of returns if a carrier is not subject to the tax imposed by this article for the period covered by the return. Every return shall have annexed thereto a certification to the effect that the statements contained therein are true.

§ 506. Payment of tax. 1. At the time of filing a return, as required by this article, each carrier shall pay to the tax commission the tax imposed by this article for the period covered by such return. Such tax shall be due and payable at the time of filing the return or, if a return is not filed when due, on the last day on which the return is required to be filed. The tax commission may grant a reasonable extension of time for paying the tax whenever good cause exists.

2. The fees, taxes, penalties and interest accruing under this article shall constitute a lien upon all motor vehicles and vehicular units which are owned by such carrier or of which he has the lawful use or control. The lien shall attach at the time of operation of any such motor vehicle or vehicular unit within this state and shall remain effective until the fees, taxes, penalties and interest are paid, or the motor vehicle or vehicular unit is sold for the payment thereof. Such liens shall be paramount to all prior liens or encumbrances of any character and to the rights of any holder of the legal title in or to any such motor vehicle or vehicular unit, provided, however, that:

a. No lien for any additional tax assessed pursuant to this article shall be enforceable against any motor vehicle or vehicular unit which prior to such assessment had been transferred in good faith to a bona fide transferee for value.

b. The lien of such tax shall be subject to the lien of any indebtedness secured by a chattel mortgage or conditional sales agreement existing against such motor vehicle or vehicular unit previous to the time when such tax became a lien, if:

(1) Such indebtedness was incurred in good faith to secure a portion of the purchase price of such motor vehicle or vehicular unit, and

(2) Such indebtedness is secured by a chattel mortgage or conditional sales agreement duly filed as required by law, and

(3) Such chattel mortgage or conditional sales agreement was not given, directly or indirectly, to any officer or stockholder of the corporation owning or having the lawful use or control of such motor vehicle or vehicular unit, whether as a purchase money mortgage or otherwise.

The lien of such tax shall be enforceable, however, as to any equity after the encumbrance of such chattel mortgage or conditional sales agreement. In the event a motor vehicle or vehicular unit subject to such tax lien is repossessed by a chattel mortgagee or a conditional vendor such motor vehicle or vehicular unit shall not be sold at public or private sale unless at least five days notice of the time and place of such sale is served by registered mail upon the tax commission in Albany.

§ 507. Records. Every carrier subject to this article and every carrier to whom a certificate of registration was issued shall keep a complete and accurate daily record which shall show the miles traveled in this state by each vehicular unit and such other information as the commissioner may require. Such records shall be kept in this state unless the commissioner consents to their removal and shall be preserved for a period of four years and be open for inspection at any reasonable time upon the demand of the commissioner.

§ 508. Responsibility of owner. In those instances where the carrier is not the owner of the vehicular unit, the owner may file the return and maintain the record required by section five hundred five and five hundred seven, and shall be jointly and severally liable with the carrier for the payment of tax required under section five hundred six.

§ 509. Powers of tax commission. In addition to any other power conferred by this chapter the tax commission shall have the following powers:

1. To prescribe such methods and means as the commission determines to be necessary for checking, verifying and ascertaining the number of miles traveled by, and the weight of, each vehicular unit on the public highways in this state;

2. To prescribe the method of accounts and the type of records to be kept by any carrier to the extent necessary to determine liability under this article;

3. To weigh at reasonably frequent intervals any vehicular unit or any motor vehicle, as defined in section one hundred twenty-five of the vehicle and traffic law, having a gross weight in excess of sixteen thousand pounds, operating on the public highways in this state;

4. To require any carrier subject to tax hereunder to file, with the department of taxation and finance, a bond issued by a surety company approved by the superintendent of financial services as to solvency and responsibility and authorized to transact business in this state or other security acceptable to the tax commission, in such amount as the tax commission may fix, to secure the payment of any monies which may become due from such carrier pursuant to this article. If securities are deposited as security under this subdivision, such securities shall be kept in the custody of the comptroller and the commissioner of taxation and finance and may be sold by the tax commission if it becomes necessary so to do in order to recover any sums due from such carrier pursuant to this article; but no such sale shall be had until after such carrier shall have had an opportunity to litigate the validity of any tax if it elects so to do. Upon such sale the surplus, if any, above the sums due under this article shall be returned to said carrier. The amount of the bond or other security required hereunder shall be reasonably related to the probable liability of the carrier under this article;

5. To request the division of state police, the state department of transportation and other public officials to cooperate in enforcing the provisions of this article;

5-a. To take possession of any certificate of registration which has been suspended or revoked under the provisions of this article and any decal issued in conjunction therewith, and any certificate of registration which is being used for a motor vehicle other than the one for which it was issued and any decal that is on a motor vehicle other than the one for which it was issued, or to direct any peace officer, acting pursuant to his or her special duties, or any police officer or any employee of the department to take possession thereof and return the same to the commissioner.

6. To release any property from the lien of any fees, taxes, penalties or interest imposed by this article upon application made to it and the payment of a fee of one dollar provided payment be made of such a sum as the commission shall deem adequate consideration for such release or after payment of any such amount is secured to the satisfaction of the commission;

7. To make reasonable rules and regulations to effectuate the purposes of this article.

8. To issue replacement certificates of registration or decals at such times as the commissioner may deem necessary for the proper and efficient enforcement of the provisions of this article, but not more often than once every year and to require the surrender of the then outstanding certificates of registration and decals. All of the provisions of this article with respect to certificates of registration and decals shall be applicable to replacement certificates of registration and decals issued hereunder, except that the replacement certificate of registration or decal shall be issued upon payment of a fee of one dollar and fifty cents for each motor vehicle and for any trailer, semi-trailer, dolly or other device drawn thereby for which a certificate of registration or decal is required to be issued under this article;

9. To examine, or cause to be examined or cause any person to keep any books, papers or records with respect to the operations on the public highways of this state of any vehicular unit or any motor vehicle, if the tax commission has reasonable grounds to believe that such vehicle may be subject to the provisions of this article or employed in the computation of the taxes imposed by this article, to require the attendance of any person having knowledge thereof and to take testimony and require proof under oath material for its information, for the purpose of ascertaining the correctness of any return filed with respect thereto or for the purpose of determining tax liability under this article;

10. To waive the liability imposed by, or any requirement of, this article, or both, under such conditions and limitations as the commissioner may prescribe, as the commissioner may deem necessary to facilitate prompt relief to an area determined by the president of the United States to warrant assistance by the federal government under the disaster relief and emergency assistance act.

§ 510. Determination of tax. 1. In case any return filed pursuant to this article shall be insufficient or unsatisfactory to the commissioner, or if no return is made for any period, the commissioner shall determine the amount of tax due from such information as is available to the commissioner. Such determination shall be made within four years from the time the return was filed or, if no return was filed or in the case of a willfully false or fraudulent return with intent to evade the tax, such determination may be made at any time. Notwithstanding any of the foregoing provisions of this section, where, before the expiration of the time prescribed in this section for the determination of tax, both the commissioner and the taxpayer have consented in writing to its determination after such time, the tax may be determined at any time prior to the expiration of the period agreed upon. The period so agreed upon may be extended by subsequent agreements in writing made before the expiration of the period previously agreed upon. The commissioner shall give notice of such determination to the person liable for such tax. Such determination shall finally and conclusively fix such tax, unless the person against whom it is assessed shall, within ninety days after the giving of notice of such determination, petition the division of tax appeals for a hearing, or unless the commissioner of his own motion shall redetermine the same. After such hearing, the division of tax appeals shall give notice of the determination of the administrative law judge to the person liable for the tax and to the commissioner. Such determination may be reviewed by the tax appeals tribunal as provided in article forty of this chapter. The decision of the tax appeals tribunal may be reviewed as provided in section two thousand sixteen of this chapter. The proceeding may not be commenced unless the amount of any tax sought to be reviewed, with penalties and interest thereon, if any, shall be first deposited with the commissioner and an undertaking filed with him, in such amount and with such sureties as a justice of the supreme court shall approve, to the effect that, if such proceeding be dismissed or the decision of the tax appeals tribunal confirmed, the petitioner will pay all costs and charges which may accrue in the prosecution of the proceeding, or, at the option of the petitioner, such undertaking may be in a sum sufficient to cover the tax, penalties, interest, costs and charges aforesaid, in which event the petitioner shall not be required to pay such tax, penalties and interest as a condition precedent to the commencement of the proceeding.

2. The remedy provided by subdivision one of this section for review of a decision of the tax appeals tribunal shall be the exclusive remedy available to judicially determine the liability of any person for taxes under this article.

3. Any notice authorized or required under this article may be given by mailing the same to the person for whom it is intended, in a postpaid envelope, addressed to such person at the address given by him in the application for a certificate of registration or in the last return filed by him under this article, or, if no application or return has been filed then to such address as may be obtainable. The mailing of such notice shall be presumptive evidence of the receipt of same by the person to whom addressed. Any period of time, which is determined according to the provisions of this article, for the giving of notice shall commence to run from the date of mailing of such notice.

§ 511. Proceedings to recover tax. 1. Whenever any person shall fail to pay, within the time limited herein, any tax, interest or penalties which he is required to pay under the provisions of this article, the attorney general shall, upon the request of the department of taxation and finance, enforce payment of such tax, interest or penalties by civil action, in the name of the people of the state, against such person for the amount of such tax, interest or penalties. The proceeds of the judgment, if any, shall be paid to the department of taxation and finance.

2. Whenever any person shall fail to pay, within the time limited herein, any tax which he is required to pay under the provisions of this article, the tax commission may issue a warrant under its official seal, directed to the sheriff of any county of the state, commanding him to levy upon and sell the real and personal property of such person, found within his county, for the payment of the amount thereof, with the added penalties, interest and the cost of executing the warrant, and to return such warrant to the department of taxation and finance and to pay to it the money collected by virtue thereof within sixty days after the receipt of such warrant. The sheriff shall within five days after the receipt of the warrant, file with the clerk of his county a copy thereof, and thereupon the clerk shall enter in the judgment docket the name of the person mentioned in the warrant, and the amount of the tax, penalties and interest for which the warrant is issued and the date when such copy is filed, and thereupon the amount of such warrant so docketed shall become a lien upon the title to and interest in real and personal property of the person against whom the warrant is issued. Such lien shall not apply to personal property unless such warrant is also filed in the department of state. The said sheriff shall thereupon proceed upon the warrant in all respects, with like effect, and in the same manner prescribed by law in respect to executions issued against property upon judgments of a court of record, and shall be entitled to the same fees for his services in executing the warrant, to be collected in the same manner. In the discretion of the tax commission a warrant of like terms, force and effect may be issued and directed to any officer or employee of the department of taxation and finance, and in the execution thereof such officer or employee shall have all the powers conferred by law upon sheriffs, but shall be entitled to no fee or compensation in excess of actual expenses paid in the performance of such duty. Upon such filing of a copy of a warrant, the tax commission shall have the same remedies to enforce the claim for taxes, penalties and interest against any person as if the people of the state had recovered judgment against such person for the amount of the tax.

3. Whenever any person is delinquent in the payment of any amount due under this article the commission may forthwith collect such amount from such person by seizing any motor vehicle or vehicular unit subject to the lien of the tax, which is owned by him or of which he has the lawful use or control and may thereafter sell it at public auction in the county in which it was seized to pay the fees, taxes, interest and penalties and any costs incurred on account of the seizure and sale, after giving ten days' notice of the sale in writing to such person and, where such person is not the owner of such motor vehicle or vehicular unit, to the owner thereof provided that he has filed with the tax commission a statement of his ownership of the motor vehicle or vehicular unit subject to the lien. Public notice of the time and place of the sale of the property to be sold shall be given by posting same in at least six public places in the county where the sale is to be made, at least six days prior thereto. A copy of such notice shall be filed at least six days prior to the sale in an office of the department of taxation and finance in Albany to be designated by the tax commission, and shall be available for public inspection. The proceeds of such sale shall be paid into the state treasury to the credit of the general fund provided, however, any excess received upon the sale over the amount of the fees, taxes, interest and penalties and any costs incurred on account of the seizure and sale shall be refunded to such person or owner.

4. In addition to the foregoing proceedings, in case of default of any person to pay, within the time limited herein, any fees, taxes, penalties or interest which he is required to pay under the provisions of this article or to file a bond, other security or a return as required by this article or by the tax commission, the tax commission may forward a written statement of the facts showing such default to the department of motor vehicles which shall suspend all registration plates of all motor vehicles, trailers, semi-trailers, dollies or other devices of such person on account of such default, which suspension shall be terminated if the commission certifies that such persons have paid or secured the above amounts, or filed the required bond or other security.

5. The operation by a nonresident of a vehicular unit in this state or the operation in this state of a motor vehicle, trailer, semi-trailer, dolly or other device owned by a nonresident shall be deemed equivalent to an appointment by such nonresident of the secretary of state to be his true and lawful attorney upon whom may be served the process in any action or proceeding against him growing out of any liability for fees, taxes, penalties or interest under this article and such operation shall be deemed a signification of his agreement that any such process against him which is so served shall be of the same legal force and validity as if served on him personally within the state and within the territorial jurisdiction of the court from which the process issues. Service of process shall be made by either (1) personally delivering to and leaving with the secretary of state or a deputy secretary of state duplicate copies thereof at the office of the department of state in the city of Albany, in which event the secretary of state shall forthwith send by registered mail one of such copies to the person at the address designated by him in his application for a certificate of registration under this article or in the last return filed by him under this article or as shown on the records of the commissioner, or if no application has been filed, at his last known office address within or without the state, or (2) personally delivering to and leaving with the secretary of state or a deputy secretary of state a copy thereof at the office of the department of state in the city of Albany and by delivering a copy thereof to the person, personally without the state. Proof of such personal service without the state shall be filed with the clerk of the court in which the process is pending within thirty days after such service and such service shall be complete ten days after proof thereof is filed.

§ 512. Penalties and interest. 1. (a) Any person failing to file a return or to pay any tax within the time required by or pursuant to this article (determined with regard to any extension of time for filing or paying) shall be subject to a penalty of ten per centum of the amount of tax determined to be due as provided in this article plus one per centum of such amount for each month or fraction thereof during which such failure continues after the expiration of the first month after such return was required to be filed or such tax became due, not exceeding thirty per centum in the aggregate. Provided, however, that any person who fails to file any return required by this article within sixty days of the date prescribed for filing of such return (determined with regard to any extension of time for filing) shall be subject to a penalty which shall not be less than the lesser of one hundred dollars or one hundred per centum of the amount required to be shown as tax on such return. For the purpose of the preceding sentence, the amount of tax required to be shown on the return shall be reduced by the amount of any part of the tax which is paid on or before the date prescribed for payment of the tax and by the amount of any credit against the tax which may be claimed upon the return.

(b) If any amount of tax is not paid on or before the last date prescribed in this article for payment, interest on such amount at the underpayment rate set by the commissioner of taxation and finance pursuant to subdivision twenty-sixth of section one hundred seventy-one of this chapter shall be paid for the period from such last date to the date paid, whether or not any extension of time for payment was granted. Interest under this paragraph shall not be paid if the amount thereof is less than one dollar.

(c) If the tax commission determines that such failure or delay was due to reasonable cause and not due to willful neglect, it shall remit all or part of such penalty. The tax commission shall promulgate rules and regulations as to what constitutes reasonable cause.

(d) If the failure to pay any tax within the time required by or pursuant to this article is due to fraud, in lieu of the penalties and interest provided for in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this subdivision, there shall be added to the tax (i) a penalty of two times the amount of tax due, plus (ii) interest on such unpaid tax at the underpayment rate set by the commissioner of taxation and finance pursuant to subdivision twenty-sixth of section one hundred seventy-one of this chapter for the period beginning on the last day prescribed by this article for the payment of such tax (determined without regard to any extension of time for paying) and ending on the day on which such tax is paid.

(e) In addition to any other penalty imposed by this chapter, any person who fails to obtain a certificate of registration or decal as required under this article shall, after due notice and an opportunity for a hearing, for a first violation be liable for a civil fine not less than five hundred dollars but not to exceed two thousand dollars and for a second or subsequent violation within three years following a prior finding of violation be liable for a civil fine not less than one thousand dollars but not to exceed three thousand five hundred dollars.

(f) The penalties and interest imposed by this subdivision shall be assessed, collected and paid in the same manner as the taxes imposed by this article. Interest under this subdivision shall be compounded daily.

2. For purposes of this chapter the failure to do any act required by or under the provisions of this article shall be deemed an act committed in part at the office of the department of taxation and finance in Albany. For purposes of this chapter, the certificate of the tax commission to the effect that a tax has not been paid, that a return has not been filed, or that information has not been supplied, as required by or under the provisions of this article, or that a claim for refund has been filed, shall be prima facie evidence that such tax has not been paid, that such return has not been filed, that such information has not been supplied, or that such claim has been filed.

3. Violations of this article may be prosecuted by the attorney general in the name of the people of the state, in which case the attorney general shall exercise all the powers and perform all the duties which the district attorney would otherwise be authorized to exercise or to perform therein.

4. Cross-reference: For criminal penalties and other offenses, see article thirty-seven of this chapter.

§ 512-a. Admissibility of weigh slips. An official weigh slip or ticket issued and certified by any truck weigher in the employ of the department of transportation or by any duly licensed weigh master shall constitute prima facie evidence of the information therein set forth and of the operation of the vehicle therein described upon a public highway and shall be admissible before any court in any civil proceeding.

§ 513. Refunds. Whenever the commissioner shall determine that any monies received under the provisions of this article were paid in error, he may cause the same to be refunded or credited, with interest, in accordance with such rules and regulations as he may prescribe, except that no interest shall be allowed or paid if the amount thereof would be less than one dollar. Such interest shall be at the overpayment rate set by the commissioner pursuant to subdivision twenty-sixth of section one hundred seventy-one of this chapter, or if no rate is set, at the rate of six percent per annum, from the date when the tax, penalty or interest to be refunded or credited was paid to a date preceding the date of the refund check by not more than thirty days. Provided, however, that for the purposes of this section, any tax paid before the last day prescribed for its payment shall be deemed to have been paid on such last day. Such moneys received under the provisions of this article which the commissioner shall determine were paid in error, may be refunded or credited out of funds in the custody of the comptroller to the credit of such taxes provided an application therefor is filed with the commissioner within four years from the time the erroneous payment was made, except if an agreement under the provisions of section five hundred ten (extending the period for determination of tax imposed by this article) is made within the four-year period for the filing of an application for refund provided for in this section, the period for filing an application for refund shall not expire prior to six months after the expiration of the period within which a determination may be made pursuant to the agreement or any extension thereof.

§ 514. Secrecy of returns. 1. Except in accordance with proper judicial order or as in this section or otherwise provided by law, it shall be unlawful for the tax commission, any tax commissioner, any officer or employee of the department of taxation and finance, or any officer or person who, pursuant to this section, is permitted to inspect any return or report or to whom a copy, an abstract or a portion of any return or report is furnished, or to whom any information contained in any return or report is furnished, or any person engaged or retained by such department on an independent contract basis, or any person who in any manner may acquire knowledge of the contents of a return or report filed pursuant to this article, to divulge or make known in any manner the contents or any other information relating to the business of a carrier or other person contained in any return or report required under this article. The officers charged with the custody of such returns or reports shall not be required to produce any of them or evidence of anything contained in them in any action or proceeding in any court, except on behalf of the state, the department of taxation and finance, the department of transportation or the tax commission in an action or proceeding under the provisions of this chapter, the vehicle and traffic law or the transportation law, or on behalf of the state or the tax commission in any other action or proceeding involving the collection of a tax due under this chapter to which the state or the tax commission is a party or a claimant or on behalf of any party to any action or proceeding under the provisions of this article or the vehicle and traffic law or the transportation law when the returns or the reports or the facts shown thereby are directly involved in such action or proceeding, or on behalf of officers to whom information shall have been supplied as provided in subdivision two of this section, in any of which events the court may require the production of, and may admit in evidence so much of said returns or reports or of the facts shown thereby as are pertinent to the action or proceeding and no more. The tax commission may, nevertheless, publish a copy or a summary of any decision rendered after the formal hearing provided for in section five hundred ten of this chapter. Nothing herein shall be construed to prohibit the tax commission, in its discretion, from allowing the inspection or delivery of a certified copy of any return or report filed under this article or of any information contained in any such return or report by or to a duly authorized officer or employee of the department of transportation, or by or to the attorney general or other legal representatives of the state when an action shall have been recommended or commenced pursuant to the provisions of this chapter, the vehicle and traffic law or the transportation law in which such returns or reports or the facts shown thereby are directly involved; or the inspection of the returns or reports required under this article by the comptroller or duly designated officer or employee of the state department of audit and control, for purposes of the audit of a refund of any tax paid by any person under this article; nor to prohibit the delivery to any person, or a duly authorized representative of such person of a certified copy of any return or report filed by such person pursuant to this article, nor to prohibit the publication of statistics so classified as to prevent the identification of particular returns or reports and the items thereof; nor to prohibit the publication of delinquent lists showing the names of taxpayers who have failed to pay their taxes at the time and in the manner provided by section five hundred six of this chapter, together with any relevant information which in the opinion of the tax commission may assist in the collection of such delinquent taxes. Returns and reports shall be preserved for four years, and thereafter until the tax commission orders them to be destroyed.

2. The tax commission, in its discretion and pursuant to such rules and regulations as it may adopt, may permit the commissioner of internal revenue of the United States, or the appropriate officers of any other state which imposes a similar highway use tax, or the duly authorized representatives of such commissioner or of any such officers, to inspect returns or reports made pursuant to this article, or may furnish to such commissioner or other officers, or duly authorized representatives, a copy of any such return or report or an abstract of the information therein contained, or any portion thereof, or may supply such commissioner or any such officers or such representatives with information relating to the business of any person making returns or reports hereunder. The tax commission may refuse to supply information pursuant to this subdivision to the commissioner of internal revenue of the United States or to the officers of any other state if the statutes of the United States, or of the state represented by such officers, do not grant substantially similar privileges to the tax commission of this state, but such refusal shall not be mandatory. Information shall not be supplied to the commissioner of internal revenue of the United States or the appropriate officers of any other state which imposes a similar highway use tax, or the duly authorized representatives of such commissioner or of any of such officers, unless such commissioner, officer or other representatives shall agree not to divulge or make known in any manner the information so supplied, but such officers may transmit such information to their employees or legal representatives when necessary, who in turn shall be subject to the same restrictions as those hereby imposed upon such commissioner, officer or other representatives.

3. (a) Any officer or employee of the state who willfully violates the provisions of subdivision one or two of this section shall be dismissed from office and be barred from holding any public office in this state for a period of five years thereafter.

(b) Cross-reference: For criminal penalties, see article thirty-seven of this chapter.

4. Notwithstanding the provisions of subdivision one of this section, the tax commission, in its discretion, may require or permit any or all persons or carriers liable for any tax or fee imposed by this article, to make payment of any tax, fee, penalty or interest to banks, banking houses or trust companies designated by the tax commission and to file returns and reports with such banks, banking houses or trust companies as agents of the tax commission, in lieu of making any such payment directly to the tax commission. However, the tax commission shall designate only such banks, banking houses or trust companies as are or shall be designated by the comptroller as depositories pursuant to section five hundred fifteen.

5. Notwithstanding any other provision of this section: (a) Upon agreement with the heads of the department of motor vehicles, the department of transportation, the department of environmental conservation, the division of state police, the thruway authority, the United States department of transportation, and the United States department of homeland security (or any other federal agency which may assume the duties of either or both of such federal agencies), the commissioner may disclose to such agencies the name, address, employer identification number, vehicle identification number, application status information, and other appropriate identifying and application information, of persons holding a certification of registration or license under this article, persons whose certificate of registration or license under this article has been revoked, suspended or surrendered, and persons whose application for a certificate of registration or license under this article has been denied, for the purposes of improving the safety and security oversight of the motor carrier industry and coordinating and streamlining the credentialing process for such industry administered by such agencies.

(b) Any information disclosed by the commissioner pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subdivision may, pursuant to such agreement, be re-disclosed by and among the heads of such agencies and may also be re-disclosed to the heads of comparable agencies of any other state, the District of Columbia or any province or territory of Canada in furtherance of the purposes specified in this subdivision.

6. (a) Notwithstanding the provisions of subdivision one of this section, upon written request from the chairperson of the committee on ways and means of the United States House of Representatives, the chairperson of the committee on finance of the United States Senate, or the chairperson of the joint committee on taxation of the United States Congress, the commissioner shall furnish such committee with any current or prior year returns or reports specified in such request that were filed under this article by the president of the United States, vice-president of the United States, member of the United States Congress representing New York state, or any person who served in or was employed by the executive branch of the government of the United States on the executive staff of the president, in the executive office of the president, or in an acting or confirmed capacity in a position subject to confirmation by the United States senate; or, in New York state: a statewide elected official, as defined in paragraph (a) of subdivision one of section seventy-three-a of the public officers law; a state officer or employee, as defined in subparagraph (i) of paragraph (c) of subdivision one of such section seventy-three-a; a political party chairperson, as defined in paragraph (h) of subdivision one of such section seventy-three-a; a local elected official, as defined in subdivisions one and two of section eight hundred ten of the general municipal law; a person appointed, pursuant to law, to serve due to vacancy or otherwise in the position of a local elected official, as defined in subdivisions one and two of section eight hundred ten of the general municipal law; a member of the state legislature; or a judge or justice of the unified court system; or filed by a partnership, firm, association, corporation, joint-stock company, trust or similar entity directly or indirectly controlled by any individual listed in this paragraph, whether by contract, through ownership or control of a majority interest in such entity, or otherwise, or filed by a partnership, firm, association, corporation, joint-stock company, trust or similar entity of which any individual listed in this paragraph holds ten percent or more of the voting securities of such entity; provided however that, prior to furnishing any return or report, the commissioner shall redact any copy of a federal return (or portion thereof) attached to, or any information on a federal return that is reflected on, such return or report, and any social security numbers, account numbers and residential address information.

(b) No returns or reports shall be furnished pursuant to this subdivision unless the chairperson of the requesting committee certifies in writing that such returns or reports have been requested related to, and in furtherance of, a legitimate task of the Congress, that the requesting committee has made a written request to the United States secretary of the treasury for related federal returns or reports or return or report information, pursuant to 26 U.S.C. Section 6103(f), and that if such requested returns or reports are inspected by and/or submitted to another committee, to the United States House of Representatives, or to the United States Senate, then such inspection and/or submission shall occur in a manner consistent with federal law as informed by the requirements and procedures established in 26 U.S.C.

§ 514-a. Mailing rules; holidays. 1. If any return, claim, statement, notice, application, or other document required to be filed, or any payment required to be made, within a prescribed period or on or before a prescribed date under authority of any provision of this article is, after such period or such date, delivered by United States mail to the tax commission, bureau, office, officer or person with which or with whom such document is required to be filed, or to which or to whom such payment is required to be made, the date of the United States postmark stamped on the envelope shall be deemed to be the date of delivery. This subdivision shall apply only if the postmark date falls within the prescribed period or on or before the prescribed date for the filing of such document, or for making the payment, including any extension granted for such filing or payment, and only if such document or payment was deposited in the mail, postage prepaid, properly addressed to the tax commission, bureau, office, officer or person with which or with whom the document is required to be filed or to which or to whom such payment is required to be made. If any document is sent by United States registered mail, such registration shall be prima facie evidence that such document was delivered to the tax commission, bureau, office, officer or person to which or to whom addressed. To the extent that the tax commission shall prescribe by regulation, certified mail may be used in lieu of registered mail under this section. This subdivision shall apply in the case of postmarks not made by the United States Post Office only if and to the extent provided by regulations of the tax commission.

2. When the last day prescribed under authority of this article (including any extension of time) for performing any act falls on Saturday, Sunday or a legal holiday in the state of New York, the performance of such act shall be considered timely if it is performed on the next succeeding day which is not a Saturday, Sunday or a legal holiday.

service designated by the secretary of the treasury of the United States pursuant to section seventy-five hundred two of the internal revenue code and any reference in subdivision one of this section to a postmark by the United States mail shall be treated as including a reference to any date recorded or marked in the manner described in section seventy-five hundred two of the internal revenue code by a designated delivery service. If the commissioner finds that any delivery service designated by such secretary is inadequate for the needs of the state, the commissioner may withdraw such designation for purposes of this article. The commissioner may also designate additional delivery services meeting the criteria of section seventy-five hundred two of the internal revenue code for purposes of this article, or may withdraw any such designation if the commissioner finds that a delivery service so designated is inadequate for the needs of the state. Any reference in subdivision one of this section to the United States mail shall be treated as including a reference to any delivery service designated by the commissioner and any reference in subdivision one of this section to a postmark by the United States mail shall be treated as including a reference to any date recorded or marked in the manner described in section seventy-five hundred two of the internal revenue code by a delivery service designated by the commissioner.

(b) Any equivalent of registered or certified mail designated by the United States secretary of the treasury, or as may be designated by the commissioner pursuant to the same criteria used by the secretary for such designations pursuant to section seventy-five hundred two of the internal revenue code, shall be included within the meaning of registered or certified mail as used in subdivision one of this section. If the commissioner finds that any equivalent of registered or certified mail designated by such secretary or the commissioner is inadequate for the needs of the state, the commissioner may withdraw such designation for purposes of this article.

§ 515. Disposition of revenues. All taxes, interest, penalties and fees collected or received pursuant to this article shall be deposited daily in one account with such responsible banks, banking houses or trust companies as may be designated by the comptroller, and to the credit of the comptroller on account of the dedicated highway and bridge trust fund established pursuant to section eighty-nine-b of the state finance law. Such an account may be established in one or more of such depositories and such deposits shall be kept separate and apart from all other moneys in the possession of the comptroller. The comptroller shall require adequate security from all such depositories.

Of the revenues so deposited, the comptroller shall retain in his hands such amount as the commissioner of taxation and finance may determine to be necessary for refunds or reimbursements of the taxes collected or received pursuant to this article to which taxpayers shall be entitled under the provisions of this article, out of which amount the comptroller shall pay any refunds or reimbursements of the taxes collected or received pursuant to this article to which taxpayers shall be entitled under such provisions. The comptroller, after reserving the amount to pay such refunds or reimbursements, shall, on or before the last day of each month, pay the balance of the revenue so deposited during such month into the dedicated highway and bridge trust fund established pursuant to section eighty-nine-b of the state finance law.

Notwithstanding the foregoing or any other law to the contrary, the comptroller shall deposit all monies collected on account of the registration fees imposed pursuant to section five hundred two-a and subdivision eight of section five hundred nine of this article into the highway use tax administration account established pursuant to section ninety-nine-y of the state finance law. The monies deposited in such account shall be available to the commissioner for the costs of issuing the certificates of registration and highway use tax decals required by this article and for any other costs of administering the provisions of sections five hundred two, five hundred two-a and five hundred nine of this article. Any moneys not used in a given year shall be returned to such account and be added to the total funds available for disbursement in the succeeding year.

527. Interest and penalty.

528. Procedure, administration and disposition of revenues.

§ 521. Definitions. For purposes of this article, the following definitions shall apply unless a different meaning is clearly required:

(a) "Person" shall include an individual, co-partner, society, association, corporation, joint stock company, lessee, and any combinations of individuals; an executor, administrator, receiver, trustee or other fiduciary.

(b) Qualified motor vehicle. (1) "Qualified motor vehicle" means a vehicle, other than a recreational vehicle, used, designed or maintained for transportation of persons or property and:

(i) Having two axles and a gross vehicle weight or registered gross vehicle weight exceeding twenty-six thousand pounds; or

(ii) Having three or more axles regardless of weight; or

(iii) Is used in combination, when the weight of such combination exceeds twenty-six thousand pounds gross vehicle weight.

(2) "Recreational vehicle" means vehicles such as motor homes, pickup trucks with attached campers, and buses when used exclusively for personal pleasure by individuals. In order to qualify as a recreational vehicle, the vehicle shall not be used in connection with any business endeavor.

(c) "Carrier" shall include any person having the lawful use or control, or the right to the use or control of any qualified motor vehicle in this state.

(d) "Public highway" shall include any public highway, street, avenue, road, public place, public driveway or any other public way.

§ 522. Licenses. (a) License and decal required. Each carrier shall apply to the commissioner for a fuel use license and a decal or decals for each qualified motor vehicle operated or to be operated by it on the public highways in this state. An original or renewal application shall be made on a form prescribed by the commissioner and shall be accompanied by an application fee of four dollars for each decal required. Upon approval of the application, the commissioner shall issue a license to the applicant and a decal or decals for each qualified motor vehicle. The license shall be valid for the calendar year to which it relates and shall be renewed annually. The license shall be reproduced by the licensee and placed in each qualified motor vehicle to be operated in this state and the decal or decals shall be affixed as prescribed by the commissioner. In the case of the loss, mutilation or destruction of a license or the commissioner shall issue a duplicate license upon proof of facts and payment of a fee of two dollars or a new decal upon proof of facts and payment of a fee of four dollars for each decal. The fuel use license and any decals issued to a carrier shall not be transferable.

(b) Prohibited activity. Except as provided in this article, no person shall operate a qualified motor vehicle on the public highways of this state without the license and decals for such qualified motor vehicles under this section or, if the commissioner enters into a cooperative agreement pursuant to section five hundred twenty-eight of this article, the license and decal authorizing such operation pursuant to such agreement.

(c) Denial, suspension and revocation. The commissioner, for cause, may deny a license and suspend or revoke any license issued under this section, after an opportunity for a hearing has been afforded the carrier; provided, however, that a license may be denied or it may be suspended or revoked for failure to file a return as required pursuant to this article or for nonpayment of moneys due under this article prior to a hearing. A violation of any of the provisions of this article or article twenty-one of this chapter or of any rule or regulation of the commissioner promulgated under this article or such article twenty-one shall constitute sufficient cause for the denial, suspension or revocation of a license. In addition, if the commissioner enters into a cooperative agreement with other jurisdictions pursuant to section five hundred twenty-eight of this article, the commissioner may deny an application for license where a license previously issued to the applicant is under suspension or revocation by any member jurisdiction and a license may be revoked or suspended for failure to comply with such agreement. A denial, revocation or suspension of a license shall be final unless the applicant or licensee shall, within thirty days after the giving of notice of such denial, revocation or suspension, petition the division of tax appeals for a hearing in accordance with article forty of this chapter. If the commissioner enters into a cooperative agreement pursuant to such section five hundred twenty-eight, notice of a hearing shall be given and a hearing held within any time restrictions prescribed in such agreement.

(d) Trip permits. In lieu of the license and decal provided for in subdivision (a) of this section, any carrier, except as hereinafter limited, may apply to the commissioner for a trip permit for any qualified motor vehicle to be operated by him on the public highways of this state. Application for the trip permit shall be made on a form prescribed by the commissioner and shall contain such information as the commissioner shall require. The application shall be accompanied by a fee of twenty-five dollars for each qualified motor vehicle. Each trip permit shall be valid for a period of seventy-two hours from the time of its issuance. The issuance of a trip permit for a qualified motor vehicle shall exempt the carrier from the requirement of filing returns and payment of the taxes imposed by this article and section three hundred one-h of this chapter on the operation of such qualified motor vehicle for the effective period of the permit but no refund application may be filed on account of trip permit applications. Provided, however, that in order for any person liable for the tax to claim such exemption, such person must retain a copy of the trip permit in his records for the complete period of time required by section five hundred seven of this chapter. A carrier may not apply for more than ten trip permits under this section during a single calendar year.

(e) Motor vehicle registration. If the license covering any qualified motor vehicle has been suspended or revoked under this section, the department of motor vehicles shall not thereafter reregister the qualified motor vehicle or transfer the registration of ownership thereof upon the records of the department until there is furnished to such department a certificate issued by the commissioner to the effect that the carrier has fully complied with the provisions of this article. On and after the date tax is first imposed by this article, the department of motor vehicles shall not reregister or transfer the registered ownership of any qualified motor vehicle covered by a license under this article until there is furnished to it a certificate of tax clearance issued by the commissioner. Such certificate shall be issued after the payment of all monies known to be due under this article or after the payment of any such amount is secured to the satisfaction of the commissioner.

(f) Construction regarding vehicle and traffic law. Nothing herein contained shall be construed as authorizing motor vehicle weight limits in excess of those permitted by the vehicle and traffic law.

§ 523. Fuel use tax. (a) Imposition. There is hereby imposed on and after January first, nineteen hundred ninety-six a tax on fuel use for the privilege of operating any qualified motor vehicle upon the public highways of this state.

(b) Rate of tax. The tax imposed by this section shall be at a composite rate determined by adding together (1) a fuel tax component which shall be equal to the applicable rate per gallon in effect under the taxes on motor fuel and diesel motor fuel imposed by article twelve-A of this chapter and (2) a sales tax component, which shall be equal to the sum of (A) a state sales and compensating use tax subcomponent, equal to the applicable rate per gallon in effect under the sales and compensating use taxes on motor fuel and diesel motor fuel imposed by sections eleven hundred five and eleven hundred ten of this chapter as described in subdivision (m) of section eleven hundred eleven of this chapter plus (B) a local sales and compensating use tax subcomponent, which shall be the lower of (i) the lowest applicable rate per gallon in effect under the sales and compensating use taxes on such fuels in effect in any county of this state imposing a local sales and compensating use tax on a cents per gallon basis pursuant to the authority of subpart B of part one of article twenty-nine of this chapter, or (ii) the equivalent rate per gallon based on the highest rate applicable to the receipts from the sale of a gallon of motor fuel or diesel motor fuel in effect in any locality of this state imposing a local sales and compensating use tax on a percentage rate basis on the sale of motor fuel and diesel motor fuel pursuant to the authority of subpart B of part one of article twenty-nine of this chapter. Provided, however, that the total rate per gallon applicable to the receipts from the sale of a gallon of such fuels imposed under clause (ii) of subparagraph (B) of paragraph two of this subdivision shall not exceed three percent. Such equivalent rate per gallon under clause (ii) of subparagraph B of paragraph two of this subdivision shall be determined as provided in subdivision (d) or (m) of section eleven hundred eleven of this chapter and the schedules prescribed by the commissioner pursuant to such subdivision (d), and shall be based on the average price per gallon (including all federal and state and any local taxes included in such price or imposed on the use or consumption of such fuels upon which the state and local sales and compensating use taxes are computed but determined without the inclusion of any state or local sales tax on receipts from sales of such fuels) paid by the carrier during the reporting period for all motor fuel and diesel motor fuel purchased for use in its operations either within or without this state. For purposes of clause (ii) of subparagraph (B) of paragraph two of this subdivision, the price for motor fuel and diesel motor fuel purchased by such carrier shall be deemed to be the prevailing price for motor fuel and diesel motor fuel, as established by the commissioner each calendar quarter pursuant to this section, applicable to the reporting period. The commissioner shall for each calendar quarter establish a prevailing price for motor fuel and diesel motor fuel based on the prices being charged on any given day during the first fifteen days of the previous calendar quarter at a minimum of ten selected truck stops widely scattered throughout the state. The tax imposed by this section shall be computed by multiplying such composite rate by the amount of motor fuel or diesel motor fuel, as the case may be, used by a carrier in its operations within this state during each reporting period. The amount of motor fuel and diesel motor fuel used in the operations of any carrier within this state shall be determined by dividing the number of miles traveled in this state subject to tax under this section by the average miles per gallon for the type of fuel. Where the records of any carrier are inadequate or incomplete, the qualified motor vehicles of a carrier filing returns shall be deemed to have consumed, on the average, one gallon of diesel motor fuel for every four miles traveled or one gallon of motor fuel for every three miles traveled unless substantial evidence discloses that a different amount was consumed; provided, however, that if the commissioner enters into a cooperative agreement pursuant to section five hundred twenty-eight of this article and such agreement prescribes a different average miles per gallon deemed to be consumed, the commissioner shall prescribe such different average.

§ 524. Credits and refunds. (a) Purchases. Every carrier subject to the tax imposed by this article shall be entitled to a credit against such tax determined by adding together the following components: (1) a fuel tax component computed by multiplying the number of gallons of motor fuel or diesel motor fuel purchased by such carrier within this state in a return period, for use in its operations either within or without this state, by the applicable rate per gallon imposed on such fuel under article twelve-A of this chapter; provided, however, no credit shall be allowed unless the tax imposed under such article twelve-A upon such purchase of fuel has been paid by such carrier, and (2) a sales tax component computed by multiplying the number of gallons of motor fuel or diesel motor fuel purchased by such carrier within this state in a return period, for use in its operations within or without this state by the applicable rate per gallon of the sales tax component; provided, however, such credit shall not exceed the tax imposed under article twenty-eight or pursuant to the authority of article twenty-nine of this chapter upon such purchase of fuel that has been paid by the carrier. Each carrier claiming such credit components shall furnish to the commissioner such evidence of payment of such taxes as the commissioner may require. When the amount of the credit to which any carrier is entitled for any return period exceeds the amount of tax for which such carrier is liable under this article for such return period, such excess shall be allowed as a credit against the tax for which such carrier would otherwise be liable for the eight succeeding calendar quarters following the end of the reporting period from which the excess was derived or, if a claim for refund is filed on or before the last day of the month immediately following the four-year period commencing with the end of the reporting period for which such excess is derived, the amount of such excess for such period shall be refunded.

(b) Transition. Every carrier subject to the tax imposed by this article shall be entitled to a credit against the tax equal to the credit determined under subdivision three of section five hundred three-a of this chapter which the carrier would have been entitled to carry forward against the tax imposed by such section but for the termination of such tax. Such credit may be applied against the tax imposed by this section or refunded, subject to the limitations provided in subdivision (a) of this section. A person not subject to the tax imposed by this article may apply for a refund of such excess credit which such person would have been entitled to carry forward against the tax imposed by such section five hundred three-a but for the termination of such tax, subject to the limitations provided in subdivision (a) of this section.

(c) Actual price. Every carrier which can substantiate that its average price paid per gallon (including all federal and state and any local taxes included in such price or imposed on the use or consumption of such fuels upon which the state and local sales and compensating use taxes are computed but determined without the inclusion of any state or local sales tax on receipts from sales of such fuels) during a reporting period is less than the prevailing price determined for such period pursuant to subdivision (b) of section five hundred twenty-three of this article, if such calculation was based upon an amount determined under clause (ii) of subparagraph (B) of paragraph two of subdivision (b) of section five hundred twenty-three of this article, may apply for a refund of the difference between the tax paid relating to the sales tax component computed based upon such prevailing price for such period and the tax relating to the sales tax component computed based upon the carrier's actual average purchase price for such period. Such refund must be applied for on or before the last day of the month immediately following the four-year period commencing with the end of the reporting period which gave rise to the refund.

(d) Erroneous payment. Whenever the commissioner shall determine that any moneys received under the provisions of this article were paid in error, he or she may cause the same to be refunded or credited. Such moneys received under the provisions of this article which the commissioner shall determine were paid in error, may be refunded or credited out of funds in the custody of the comptroller to the credit of such taxes provided an application therefor is filed with the commissioner within four years from the time the erroneous payment was made, except if an agreement under the provisions of section five hundred ten of this chapter as made applicable to the tax imposed by this article by section five hundred twenty-eight of this article (extending the period for determination of tax imposed by this article) is made within the four-year period for the filing of an application for refund provided for in this subdivision, the period for filing an application for refund shall not expire prior to six months after the expiration of the period within which a determination may be made pursuant to the agreement or any extension thereof.

(e) Determination and review. The commissioner shall grant or deny a claim for refund under this section in whole or in part and shall notify the claimant by mail of the commissioner's determination. Such determination shall be final and irrevocable unless the claimant shall, within thirty days after the mailing of notice of such determination, petition the division of tax appeals for a hearing. If the commissioner enters into a cooperative agreement pursuant to section five hundred twenty-eight of this article, notice of a hearing shall be given and a hearing held within any time restrictions prescribed in such agreement. After such hearing, the division of tax appeals shall mail notice of the determination of the administrative law judge to the claimant and to the commissioner. Such determination may be reviewed by the tax appeals tribunal as provided in article forty of this chapter. The decision of the tax appeals tribunal may be reviewed as provided in section two thousand sixteen of this chapter. However, such a proceeding may not be commenced unless an undertaking is filed with the commissioner in such amount and with such sureties as a justice of the supreme court shall approve to the effect that if the proceeding be dismissed or the decision confirmed, the petitioner will pay all costs and charges which may accrue against him in the prosecution of the proceeding.

§ 525. Exemptions. (a) General. The provisions of this article shall not apply to any qualified motor vehicle:

(1) Which is a road roller, tractor crane, truck crane, power shovel, road building machine, snow plow, road sweeper, sand spreader or well driller.

(2) Which is described in section five hundred four of this chapter, except subdivision four of such section.

(b) Omnibus carriers. (1) An omnibus carrier shall not be required to apply for a license and decal or decals for a qualified motor vehicle which is an omnibus operated on a public highway in this state; except, if the commissioner enters into a cooperative agreement under subdivision (b) of section five hundred twenty-eight of this article, the commissioner may, pursuant to such agreement, require such a carrier to be licensed and obtain such decal or decals with respect to such a vehicle.

(2) The taxes imposed by this article shall not apply to motor fuel and diesel motor fuel used by an omnibus carrier in the operation of an omnibus in local transit service in this state, as described under paragraph (d) of subdivision three of section two hundred eighty-nine-c of this chapter, pursuant to a certificate of public convenience and necessity issued by the commissioner of transportation of this state or by the interstate commerce commission of the United States or pursuant to a contract, franchise or consent between such carrier and a city having a population of more than one million inhabitants, or any agency of such city.

(c) Effect of cooperative agreement. Notwithstanding subdivisions (a) and (b) of this section, in the event that the commissioner enters into a cooperative agreement under subdivision (b) of section five hundred twenty-eight of this article, the commissioner may issue a license and decal or decals with respect to qualified motor vehicles described in subdivisions (a) and (b) of this section which are based in this state for the purpose of reporting and payment of tax imposed by other member jurisdictions with respect to such qualified motor vehicles.

§ 526. Returns and payment of tax. (a) Returns. Every carrier subject to this article and every carrier to whom a license was issued shall file a return quarterly, on or before the last day of the calendar month immediately following the close of each of the calendar quarters: January through March, April through June, July through September and October through December. Provided, however, the commissioner may, if the commissioner deems it necessary in order to insure the payment of the taxes imposed by this article or to comply with a cooperative agreement with other jurisdictions pursuant to section five hundred twenty-eight of this article, require returns to be made at such times and covering such periods as the commissioner may deem necessary. Returns shall be filed on forms required by the commissioner for such purpose and shall contain such information and certification as the commissioner may require, including any information required pursuant to a cooperative agreement five hundred twenty-eight of this article. The fact that an individual's name is signed to a filed return shall be prima facie evidence for all purposes that the return was actually signed by such individual and that such individual is authorized to sign on behalf of the carrier.

(b) Payment of tax. At the time of filing a return, as required by this article, each carrier shall pay the tax imposed by this article for the period covered by such return. Such tax shall be due and payable at the time of filing the return or, if a return is not filed when due, on the last day on which the return is required to be filed.

(c) Extensions. The commissioner may grant a reasonable extension of time for filing returns or paying the tax whenever good cause exists and may waive the filing of returns if a carrier is not subject to the tax imposed by this article for the period covered by the return.

(d) Leases. In those instances where the carrier is not the owner of the qualified motor vehicle, the owner may be licensed and file returns and maintain records pursuant to this article as prescribed by the commissioner or, if the commissioner enters into a cooperative agreement under section five hundred twenty-eight of this article, as prescribed in such agreement. In any event, where the carrier is not the owner of a qualified motor vehicle, the owner shall be jointly and severally liable with the carrier for payment of tax under this article with respect to such qualified motor vehicle.

§ 527. Interest and penalty. (a) Interest on tax due. If any amount of tax is not paid on or before the last date prescribed in this article for payment (determined without regard to any extension of time for payment), interest on such amount at the rate of one percent per month or fraction thereof shall be paid for the period from such last date to the date paid.

(b) Penalty. Any person failing to file a return or to pay any tax within the time required by or pursuant to this article (determined with regard to any extension of time for filing or paying) shall be subject to a penalty of fifty dollars or ten percent of the amount of tax determined to be due, whichever is greater. If the commissioner determines that the failure or delay was due to reasonable cause and not due to willful neglect, the commissioner shall waive all or part of such penalty.

(c) Interest on refunds. Interest at the rate determined under subdivision (a) of this section shall be paid with respect to a refund claim for the period ninety days after receipt of a claim for refund in processible form to the date immediately preceding the date of the refund check. No interest shall be paid if the check is mailed within ninety days of such receipt.

(d) Fraud. If the failure to pay any tax within the time required by or pursuant to this article is due to fraud, in lieu of the penalties provided for in subdivision (b) of this section, there shall be added to the tax (1) a penalty of two times the amount of tax due.

(e) Enforcement of penalty and interest. The penalties and interest imposed by or pursuant to this section shall be assessed, collected and paid in the same manner as the taxes imposed by this article.

(f) Cooperative agreement. If the commissioner enters into a cooperative agreement pursuant to section five hundred twenty-eight of this article and: (1) this state is thereby authorized to impose penalties on taxes collected on behalf of other jurisdictions pursuant to such agreement, then the penalties imposed by this section shall apply with respect to such taxes; (2) the rates of interest or any penalty or the method of computation contained therein is different from that prescribed in this section or the imposition of a penalty prescribed in this section is precluded by such agreement, then the provisions of such agreement shall apply.

(g) Location of acts; evidence. For purposes of this chapter the failure to do any act required by or under the provisions of this article shall be deemed an act committed in part at the office of the department of taxation and finance in Albany. For purposes of this chapter, the certificate of the commissioner to the effect that a tax has not been paid, that a return has not been filed, or that information has not been supplied, as required by or under the provisions of this article, or that a claim for refund has been filed, shall be prima facie evidence that such tax has not been paid, that such return has not been filed, that such information has not been supplied, or that such claim has been filed.

(h) Prosecution. Violations of this article may be prosecuted by the attorney general in the name of the people of the state, in which case the attorney general shall exercise all powers and perform all the duties which the district attorney would otherwise be authorized to exercise or to perform therein.

(i) Cross-reference. For criminal penalties and other offenses, see article thirty-seven of this chapter.

§ 528. Procedure, administration and disposition of revenues. (a) General. The provisions of subdivision two of section five hundred six and sections five hundred seven through five hundred fifteen of this chapter (excluding sections five hundred eight, five hundred twelve and five hundred thirteen) shall apply to the provisions of this article with the same force and effect as if the language of such subdivision and sections had been incorporated in full into this article and had expressly referred to the tax under this article, except to the extent that any such provision is either inconsistent with or not relevant to this article or inconsistent with a provision of any agreement which the commissioner enters into pursuant to subdivision (b) of this section, with such modification as may be necessary to adapt the language of such provisions to the tax imposed by this article, provided that (1) notwithstanding such section five hundred ten and subdivision four of section two thousand six of this chapter, a determination, as provided in such section five hundred ten, relating to the tax imposed by this article, shall finally and conclusively fix such tax, unless the person against whom it is assessed shall, within thirty days after the giving of notice of such determination, petition the division of tax appeals for a hearing, or unless the commissioner on the commissioner's own motion shall redetermine the same; (2) the term "vehicular unit" shall be read as "qualified motor vehicle"; (3) if the commissioner enters into a cooperative agreement under this section, the reference in section five hundred fourteen-a of this chapter to the United States postmark shall include a postmark made by the Canadian postal service; and (4) if the commissioner enters into a cooperative agreement under this section, for purposes of applying subdivision four of section five hundred fourteen of this chapter, the banks, banking houses or trust companies which may be designated by the commissioner may include any such banks, banking houses or trust companies designated or seeking designation by other member jurisdictions. For purposes of determining the amount of tax due in accordance with section five hundred ten of this chapter as incorporated by this subdivision, any return filed before the last day prescribed for its filing shall be deemed to be filed on such last day. The commissioner is authorized to provide for the joint administration, in whole or in part, of the tax imposed by article twenty-one of this chapter and the tax imposed by this article.

(b) Cooperative agreements. Notwithstanding any inconsistent provision of law, the commissioner is authorized to enter into a cooperative agreement with other states, the District of Columbia or provinces or territories of Canada for the administration of the tax imposed by this article and similar taxes imposed by other member jurisdictions and for the reporting and payment of tax to a single base state and a proportional sharing of revenue of taxes relating to fuel use among the jurisdictions where a qualified motor vehicle is operated. The agreement may provide for determining the base state for carriers, carriers records requirements, audit procedures, exchange of information, persons eligible for tax licensing, defining qualified motor vehicles, determining if bonding is required and requiring bonds to secure the tax imposed by this article and similar taxes imposed by other member jurisdictions, specifying reporting requirements and periods including defining uniform penalty and interest rates for late reporting, determining methods for collecting and forwarding of taxes, interest and penalties to another jurisdiction, notice and timing of hearings and other provisions as will facilitate the administration of the agreement. The commissioner may, pursuant to the terms of the agreement, forward to the proper officers of another member jurisdiction any information in the commissioner's possession relating to the manufacture, receipt, sale, use, transportation or shipment of motor fuel or diesel motor fuel by any person and may share any information relating to the administration of taxes pursuant to the agreement with such officers. The commissioner may disclose to the proper officers of another member jurisdiction the location of offices, motor vehicles and other real and personal property of carriers. The agreement may provide for each member jurisdiction to audit the records of persons based in the member jurisdiction and determine taxes due each member jurisdiction. The commissioner may adopt rules and regulations for the administration and enforcement of the agreement. In connection with the administration of taxes under such a cooperative agreement, the commissioner may enter into an agreement with other member jurisdictions and any banks, banking houses, trust companies or other similar institutions with respect to the payment of any tax, fees, penalty or interest to such banks, banking houses, trust companies or similar institutions and the filing of returns and reports with such banks, banking houses, trust companies or similar institutions as agent of the commissioner and such other member jurisdictions. Pursuant to a written agreement made with one or more of the appropriate departments, agencies, officers or instrumentalities of other jurisdictions, the commissioner may let contracts for provision of such services to the department and to one or more of such entities of other jurisdictions; provided, that provisions shall be made in all such agreements with the participating governmental entities and in all such contracts let by the commissioner for the assumption by each of the participating governmental entities of sole responsibility for its proportionate share of the costs under the terms of such contract. The commissioner may contract for such services jointly with and pursuant to a contract let by the appropriate department, agency, officer or instrumentality of another jurisdiction; provided that (1) the commissioner shall approve the proposed terms and conditions of all such joint governmental contracts, (2) the letting of such joint governmental contract shall be based on invitation of competitive bids or proposals, and (3) the participation by the department in any such joint contract shall be preceded by an evaluation and finding in writing by the commissioner that a reasonable potential exists for the saving of costs by the state, by means of such joint governmental contract.

(c) Rate changes. In the event the rate of tax imposed under this article or under section three hundred one-h of this chapter or the rate of surcharge imposed on such tax changes and such change does not coincide with the beginning of a reporting period, the rates of tax and surcharge for the reporting period which includes such change shall be equal to the sum of the respective rates otherwise applicable in each month of the reporting period divided by the number of months in the reporting period.

(d) Construction. In the event the commissioner, pursuant to the authority of this article, enters into a cooperative agreement as provided in this section, the commissioner shall carry out any provision of such agreement required for continued New York state participation in such agreement, to the extent not inconsistent with a specific requirement of this article or any other provision of the laws and the constitution of the state of New York.

(E) The tax table benefit is the difference between (i) the amount of taxable income set forth in the tax table in paragraph one of subsection (a) of this section not subject to the 10.30 percent rate of tax for the taxable year multiplied by such rate and (ii) the dollar denominated tax for such amount of taxable income set forth in the tax table applicable to the taxable year in paragraph one of subsection (a) of this section less the sum of the tax table benefits in subparagraphs (A), (B) and (D) of this paragraph. The fraction for this subparagraph is computed as follows: the numerator is the lesser of fifty thousand dollars or excess of New York adjusted gross income for the taxable year over five million dollars and the denominator is fifty thousand dollars. This subparagraph shall apply only to the taxable years beginning on or after January first, two thousand twenty-one and before January first, two thousand twenty-eight.

(F) The tax table benefit is the difference between (i) the amount of taxable income set forth in the tax table in paragraph one of subsection (a) of this section not subject to the 10.90 percent rate of tax for the taxable year multiplied by such rate and (ii) the dollar denominated tax for such amount of taxable income set forth in the tax table applicable to the taxable year in paragraph one of subsection (a) of this section less the sum of the tax table benefits in subparagraphs (A), (B), (D) and (E) of this paragraph. This subparagraph shall apply only to the taxable years beginning on or after January first, two thousand twenty-one and before January first, two thousand twenty-eight.

(G) Provided, however, the total tax prior to the application of any tax credits shall not exceed the highest rate of tax set forth in the tax tables in subsection (c) of this section multiplied by the taxpayer's taxable income.

(d-2) Alternative tax table benefit recapture. Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (d) or (d-1) of this section, for taxable years beginning on or after two thousand twenty-one and before two thousand twenty-two, there is hereby imposed a supplemental tax in addition to the tax imposed under subsections (a), (b) and (c) of this section for the purpose of recapturing the benefit of the tax tables contained in such subsections. During these taxable years, any reference in this chapter to subsection (d) or (d-1) of this section shall be read as a reference to this subsection.

(B) who maintains a permanent place of abode in this state and spends in the aggregate more than one hundred eighty-three days of the taxable continue to be a trustee domiciled outside the state of New York notwithstanding that it thereafter otherwise becomes a trustee domiciled in the state of New York by virtue of being acquired by, or becoming an office or branch of, a corporate trustee domiciled within the state of New York.

For the purposes of the foregoing, a trust or portion of a trust is revocable if it is subject to a power, exercisable immediately or at any future time, to revest title in the person whose property constitutes such trust or portion of a trust, and a trust or portion of a trust becomes irrevocable when the possibility that such power may be exercised has been terminated.

(5) Part-year resident individual. A part-year resident individual is an individual who is not a resident or nonresident for the entire taxable year.

(6) Part-year resident trust. A part-year resident trust is a trust which is not a resident or nonresident for the entire taxable year.

(c) Tax treatment of charitable contributions for determining domicile. Notwithstanding any other provision of any other law to the contrary, the making of a financial contribution, gift, bequest, donation or any other financial instrument or pledge in any amount or the donation or loan of any object of any value, or the volunteering, giving or donation of uncompensated time, or any combination of the foregoing, considered a charitable contribution under subsection (c) of section one hundred seventy of the internal revenue code, or to a not-for-profit organization, as defined in subdivision seven of section one hundred seventy-nine-q of the state finance law, shall not be used in any manner to determine where an individual is domiciled.

§ 606. Credits against tax. (a) Investment tax credit (ITC). (1) A taxpayer shall be allowed a credit, to be computed as hereinafter provided, against the tax imposed by this article. The amount of the credit shall be the per cent provided for hereinbelow of the investment credit base. The investment credit base is the cost or other basis, for federal income tax purposes, of tangible personal property and other tangible property, including buildings and structural components of buildings, described in paragraph two of this subsection, less the amount of the nonqualified nonrecourse financing with respect to such property to the extent such financing would be excludible from the credit base pursuant to section 46(c)(8) of the internal revenue code (treating such property as section thirty-eight property irrespective of whether or not it in fact constitutes section thirty-eight property). If, at the close of a taxable year following the taxable year in which such property was placed in service, there is a net decrease in the amount of nonqualified nonrecourse financing with respect to such property, such net decrease shall be treated as if it were the cost or other basis of property described in paragraph two of this subsection acquired, constructed, reconstructed or erected during the year of the decrease in the amount of nonqualified nonrecourse financing. The percentage to be used to compute the credit allowed pursuant to this subsection shall be that percentage appearing in column two which is opposite the appropriate period in column one in which the tangible personal property was acquired, constructed, reconstructed or erected, as the case may be:

Column 1	Column 2
After December 31, 1968 and prior to January 1, 1974	one per cent
After December 31, 1973 and prior to January 1, 1978	two per cent
After December 31, 1977 and prior to January 1, 1979	three per cent
After December 31, 1978 and prior to June 1, 1981	four per cent
After May 31, 1981 and prior to July 1, 1982	five per cent
After June 30, 1982 and before January 1, 1987	six per cent
After December 31, 1986	four per cent, except that in the case of research and development property the applicable percentage shall be seven

Provided, however, that in the case of an acquisition, construction, reconstruction or erection which was commenced in any one period and continued or completed in any subsequent period the credit shall be the sum of the portions of the investment credit base attributable to each such period, which portion with respect to each such period shall be ascertained by multiplying such investment credit base by a fraction the numerator of which shall be the expenditures paid or incurred during such period for such purposes and the denominator of which shall be the total of all expenditures paid or incurred for such acquisition, construction, reconstruction or erection, multiplied by the allowable percentage for each such period.

(1-a) For a taxpayer that is an eligible farmer, as defined in subsection (n) of this section, the percentage to be used to compute the credit allowed under this subsection shall be twenty percent for property described in subparagraph (A) of paragraph two of this subsection that is principally used by the taxpayer in the production of goods by farming, agriculture, horticulture, floriculture or viticulture.

(2) (A) A credit shall be allowed under this subsection with respect to tangible personal property and other tangible property, including buildings and structural components of buildings, which are: depreciable pursuant to section one hundred sixty-seven of the internal revenue code, have a useful life of four years or more, are acquired by purchase as defined in section one hundred seventy-nine (d) of the internal revenue code, have a situs in this state and are (i) principally used by the taxpayer in the production of goods by manufacturing, processing, assembling, refining, mining, extracting, farming, agriculture, horticulture, floriculture, viticulture or commercial fishing, (ii) industrial waste treatment facilities or air pollution control facilities, used in the taxpayer's trade or business, (iii) research and development property, (iv) principally used in the ordinary course of the taxpayer's trade or business as a broker or dealer in connection with the purchase or sale (which shall include but not be limited to the issuance, entering into, assumption, offset, assignment, termination, or transfer) of stocks, bonds or other securities as defined in section four hundred seventy-five (c)(2) of the Internal Revenue Code, or of commodities as defined in section 475(e) of the Internal Revenue Code, (v) principally used in the ordinary course of the taxpayer's trade or business of providing investment advisory services for a regulated investment company as defined in section eight hundred fifty-one of the Internal Revenue Code, or lending, loan arrangement or loan origination services to customers in connection with the purchase or sale (which shall include but not be limited to the issuance, entering into, assumption, offset, assignment, termination, or transfer) of securities as defined in section four hundred seventy-five (c)(2) of the Internal Revenue Code, or (vi) principally used as a qualified film production facility including qualified film production facilities having a situs in an empire zone designated as such pursuant to article eighteen-B of the general municipal law, where the taxpayer is providing three or more services to any qualified film production company using the facility, including such services as a studio lighting grid, lighting and grip equipment, multi-line phone service, broadband information technology access, industrial scale electrical capacity, food services, security services, and heating, ventilation and air conditioning. For purposes of clauses (iv) and (v) of this subparagraph, property purchased by a taxpayer affiliated with a regulated broker, dealer, or registered investment adviser is allowed a credit under this subsection if the property is used by its affiliated regulated broker, dealer or registered investment adviser in accordance with this subsection. For purposes of determining if the property is principally used in qualifying uses, the uses by the taxpayer described in clauses (iv) and (v) of this subparagraph may be aggregated. In addition, the uses by the taxpayer, its affiliated regulated broker, dealer and registered investment adviser under either or both of those clauses may be aggregated. Provided, however, a taxpayer shall not be allowed the credit provided by clauses (iv) and (v) of this subparagraph unless (I) eighty percent or more of the employees performing the administrative and support functions resulting from or related to the qualifying uses of such equipment are located in this state, or (II) the average number of employees that perform the administrative and support functions resulting from or related to the qualifying uses of such equipment and are located in this state during the taxable year for which the credit is claimed is equal to or greater than ninety-five percent of the average number of employees that perform these functions and are located in this state during the thirty-six months immediately preceding the year for which the credit is claimed, or (III) the number of employees located in this state during the taxable year for which the credit is claimed is equal to or greater than ninety percent of the number of employees located in this state on December thirty-first, nineteen hundred ninety-eight or, if the taxpayer was not a calendar year taxpayer in nineteen hundred ninety-eight, the last day of its first taxable year ending after December thirty-first, nineteen hundred ninety-eight. If the taxpayer becomes subject to tax in this state after the taxable year beginning in nineteen hundred ninety-eight, then the taxpayer is not required to satisfy the employment test provided in the preceding sentence of this subparagraph for its first taxable year. For the purposes of clause (III) of this subparagraph the employment test will be based on the number of employees located in this state on the last day of the first taxable year the taxpayer is subject to tax in this state. If the uses of the property must be aggregated to determine whether the property is principally used in qualifying uses, then either each affiliate using the property must satisfy this employment test or this employment test must be satisfied through the aggregation of the employees of the taxpayer, its affiliated regulated broker, dealer, and registered investment adviser using the property. For purposes of clause (i) of this subparagraph, tangible personal property and other tangible property shall not include property principally used by the taxpayer in the production or distribution of electricity, natural gas after extraction from wells, steam, or water delivered through pipes and mains.

(B) For purposes of this paragraph, the following definitions shall apply:

(i) Manufacturing shall mean the process of working raw materials into wares suitable for use or which gives new shapes, new quality or new combinations to matter which already has gone through some artificial process by the use of machinery, tools, appliances and other similar equipment. Property used in the production of goods shall include machinery, equipment or other tangible property which is principally used in the repair and service of other machinery, equipment or other tangible property used principally in the production of goods and shall include all facilities used in the production operation, including storage of material to be used in production and of the products that are produced.

(ii) Research and development property shall mean property which is used for purposes of research and development in the experimental or laboratory sense. Such purposes shall not be deemed to include the ordinary testing or inspection of materials or products for quality control, efficiency surveys, management studies, consumer surveys, advertising, promotions, or research in connection with literary, historical or similar projects.

(iii) Industrial waste treatment facilities shall mean property constituting facilities for the treatment, neutralization or stabilization of industrial waste and other wastes (as the terms "industrial waste" and "other wastes" are defined in section 17-0105 of the environmental conservation law) from a point immediately preceding the point of such treatment, neutralization or stabilization to the point of disposal, including the necessary pumping and transmitting facilities, but excluding such facilities installed for the primary purpose of salvaging materials which are usable in the manufacturing process or are marketable.

(iv) Air pollution control facilities shall mean property constituting facilities which remove, reduce, or render less noxious air contaminants emitted from an air contamination source (as the terms "air contaminant" and "air contamination source" are defined in section 19-0107 of the environmental conservation law) from a point immediately preceding the point of such removal, reduction or rendering to the point of discharge of air, meeting emission standards as established by the department of environmental conservation, but excluding such facilities installed for the primary purpose of salvaging materials which are usable in the manufacturing process or are marketable and excluding those facilities which rely for their efficacy on dilution, dispersion or assimilation of air contaminants in the ambient air after emission. Such term shall further include flue gas desulfurization equipment and attendant sludge disposal facilities, fluidized bed boilers, precombustion coal cleaning facilities or other facilities that conform with this subsection and which comply with the provisions of the State Acid Deposition Control Act set forth in title nine of article nineteen of the environmental conservation law.

(v) For purposes of this paragraph, the terms "qualified film production facility" and "qualified film production company" shall have the same meaning as in section twenty-four of this chapter.

(C) However, such credit shall be allowed with respect to industrial waste treatment facilities and air pollution control facilities only on condition that such facilities have been certified by the state commissioner of environmental conservation or his designated representative, pursuant to subdivision one of section 17-0707 or subdivision one of section 19-0309 of the environmental conservation law, as complying with applicable provisions of the environmental conservation law, the public health law, the state sanitary code and codes, rules, regulations, permits or orders issued pursuant thereto.

(3) A taxpayer shall not be allowed a credit under this subsection with respect to any property described in clause (i) of subparagraph (B) of paragraph two hereof if such property qualifies for the modification allowed under either paragraph three or paragraph four of subsection (g) of section six hundred twelve whether or not such amount shall have been subtracted. Provided, however, with respect to property which qualifies for a modification under either clause (A), (B) or (C) of paragraph four of subsection (g) because such property was ordered on or before December thirty-first, nineteen hundred sixty-eight, but with respect to which no expenditure has been paid or incurred at such date, the taxpayer may elect to subtract the amount allowable under clauses (A), (B) or (C) or may take the credit provided by this subsection, but not both.

(4) A taxpayer shall not be allowed a credit under this subsection with respect to tangible personal property and other tangible property, including buildings and structural components of buildings, which it leases to any other person or corporation except where a taxpayer leases property to an affiliated regulated broker, dealer, or registered investment adviser that uses such property in accordance with clause (iv) or (v) of subparagraph (A) of paragraph two of this subsection. For purposes of the preceding sentence, any contract or agreement to lease or rent or for a license to use such property shall be considered a lease. Provided, however, in determining whether a taxpayer shall be allowed a credit under this subsection with respect to such property, any election made with respect to such property pursuant to the provisions of paragraph eight of subsection (f) of section one hundred sixty-eight of the internal revenue code, as such paragraph was in effect for agreements entered into prior to January first, nineteen hundred eighty-four, shall be disregarded. For purposes of this paragraph, the use of a qualified film production facility by a qualified film production company shall not be considered a lease of such facility to such company.

(5) If the amount of credit allowable under this subsection for any taxable year shall exceed the taxpayer's tax for such year, the excess allowed for a taxable year commencing prior to January first, nineteen hundred eighty-seven may be carried over to the following year or years and may be deducted from the taxpayer's tax for such year or years, but in no event shall such credit be carried over to taxable years commencing on or after January first, nineteen hundred ninety-seven, and any amount of credit allowed for a taxable year commencing on or after January first, nineteen hundred eighty-seven and not deductible in such year may be carried over to the ten taxable years next following such taxable year and may be deducted from the taxpayer's tax for such year or years. In lieu of carrying over any such excess, (A) a taxpayer who qualifies as an owner of a new business for purposes of paragraph ten of this subsection may, at the taxpayer's option, receive such excess as a refund, and (B) a taxpayer that is an eligible farmer as defined in subsection (n) of this section may, at the taxpayer's option, for taxable years beginning before January first, two thousand thirty-three, receive such excess as a refund. Any refund paid pursuant to this paragraph shall be deemed to be a refund of an overpayment of tax as provided in section six hundred eighty-six of this article, provided, however, that no interest shall be paid thereon.

(6) At the option of the taxpayer for taxable years commencing prior to January first, nineteen hundred eighty-seven, air or water pollution control facilities which qualify for elective modifications under subsection (h) of section six hundred twelve, or research and development facilities which qualify for elective modifications under paragraphs two and four of subsection (g) of section six hundred twelve may be treated as property principally used by the taxpayer in the production of goods by manufacturing, processing, assembling, refining, mining, extracting, farming, agriculture, horticulture, floriculture, viticulture or commercial fishing, provided the property otherwise qualifies under paragraph two of this subsection, in which event, a modification shall not be allowed under such subsection (h) and under such paragraphs two and four of subsection (g).

(7) (A) With respect to property which is depreciable pursuant to section one hundred sixty-seven of the internal revenue code but is not subject to the provisions of section one hundred sixty-eight of such code and which is disposed of or ceases to be in qualified use prior to the end of the taxable year in which the credit is to be taken, the amount of the credit shall be that portion of the credit provided for in this subsection which represents the ratio which the months of qualified use bear to the months of useful life. If property on which credit has been taken is disposed of or ceases to be in qualified use prior to the end of its useful life, the difference between the credit taken and the credit allowed for actual use must be added back in the year of disposition. Provided, however, if such property is disposed of or ceases to be in qualified use after it has been in qualified use for more than twelve consecutive years, it shall not be necessary to add back the credit as provided in this subparagraph. The amount of credit allowed for actual use shall be determined by multiplying the original credit by the ratio which the months of qualified use bear to the months of useful life. For purposes of this subparagraph, useful life of property shall be the same as the taxpayer uses for depreciation purposes when computing his federal income tax liability.

(B) Except with respect to that property to which subparagraph (D) of this paragraph applies, with respect to three-year property, as defined in subsection (e) of section one hundred sixty-eight of the internal revenue code, which is disposed of or ceases to be in qualified use prior to the end of the taxable year in which the credit is to be taken, the amount of the credit shall be that portion of the credit provided for in this subsection which represents the ratio which the months of qualified use bear to thirty-six. If property on which credit has been taken is disposed of or ceases to be in qualified use prior to the end of thirty-six months, the difference between the credit taken and the credit allowed for actual use must be added back in the year of disposition. The amount of credit allowed for actual use shall be determined by multiplying the original credit by the ratio which the months of qualified use bear to thirty-six.

(C) Except with respect to that property to which subparagraph (D) of this paragraph applies, with respect to property subject to the provisions of section one hundred sixty-eight of the internal revenue code, other than three-year property as defined in subsection (e) of such section one hundred sixty-eight which is disposed of or ceases to be in qualified use prior to the end of the taxable year in which the credit is to be taken, the amount of the credit shall be that portion of the credit provided for in this subsection which represents the ratio which the months of qualified use bear to sixty. If property on which credit has been taken is disposed of or ceases to be in qualified use prior to the end of sixty months, the difference between the credit taken and the credit allowed for actual use must be added back in the year of disposition. The amount of credit allowed for actual use shall be determined by multiplying the original credit by the ratio which the months of qualified use bear to sixty.

(D) With respect to any property to which section one hundred sixty-eight of the internal revenue code applies, which is a building or a structural component of a building and which is disposed of or ceases to be in qualified use prior to the end of the taxable year in which the credit is to be taken, the amount of the credit shall be that portion of the credit provided for in this subsection which represents the ratio which the months of qualified use bear to the total number of months over which the taxpayer chooses to deduct the property under the internal revenue code. If property on which credit has been taken is disposed of or ceases to be in qualified use prior to the end of the period over which the taxpayer chooses to deduct the property under the internal revenue code, the difference between the credit taken and the credit allowed for actual use must be added back in the year of disposition. Provided, however, if such property is disposed of or ceases to be in qualified use after it has been in qualified use for more than twelve consecutive years, it shall not be necessary to add back the credit as provided in this subparagraph. The amount of credit allowed for actual use shall be determined by multiplying the original credit by the ratio which the months of qualified use bear to the total number of months over which the taxpayer chooses to deduct the property under the internal revenue code.

(E) For purposes of this paragraph, property (i) which is described in subparagraph (B), (C) or (D) of this paragraph, and (ii) which is subject to paragraph twenty-six of subsection (c) and paragraph twenty-five of subsection (b) of section six hundred twelve of this chapter, shall be treated as property which is depreciable pursuant to section one hundred sixty-seven of the internal revenue code but is not subject to section one hundred sixty-eight of such code.

(F) For purposes of this paragraph, where a credit is allowed with respect to an air pollution control facility on the basis of a certificate of compliance issued pursuant to the environmental conservation law and the certificate is revoked pursuant to subdivision three of section 19-0309 of the environmental conservation law, such revocation shall constitute a disposal or cessation of qualified use, unless such facility is described in clause (i) or (iii) of subparagraph (A) of paragraph two of this subsection. Also for purposes of this subparagraph, the use of an air pollution control facility or an industrial waste treatment facility for the primary purpose of salvaging materials which are usable in the manufacturing process or are marketable shall constitute a cessation of qualified use, unless such facility is described in clause (i) or (iii) of subparagraph (A) of paragraph two of this subsection.

(G) For taxable years commencing on or after January first, nineteen hundred eighty-seven, the amount required to be added back pursuant to this paragraph shall be augmented by an amount equal to the product of such amount and the underpayment rate of interest (without regard to compounding), set by the commissioner pursuant to subsection (j) of section six hundred ninety-seven, in effect on the last day of the taxable year.

(H) If, as of the close of the taxable year, there is a net increase with respect to the taxpayer in the amount of nonqualified nonrecourse financing (within the meaning of section 46(c) (8) of the internal revenue code) with respect to any property with respect to which the credit under this subsection was limited based on attributable nonqualified nonrecourse financing, then an amount equal to the decrease in such credit which would have resulted from reducing, by the amount of such net increase, the cost or other basis taken into account with respect to such property must be added back in such taxable year. The amount of nonqualified nonrecourse financing shall not be treated as increased by reason of a transfer of (or agreement to transfer) any evidence of an indebtedness if such transfer occurs (or such agreement is entered into) more than one year after the date such indebtedness was incurred.

(10) For purposes of paragraph five of this subsection, an individual who is either a sole proprietor or a member of a partnership shall qualify as an owner of a new business unless:

(A) the business of which the individual is an owner is substantially similar in operation and in ownership to a business entity taxable, or previously taxable, under section one hundred eighty-three, one hundred eighty-four or former section one hundred eighty-five former section of article nine; article nine-A or thirty-three of this chapter; article twenty-three of this chapter or which would have been subject to tax under such article twenty-three (as such article was in effect on January first, nineteen hundred eighty), article thirty-two of this chapter or which would have been subject to tax under such article thirty-two (as such article was in effect on December thirty-first, two thousand fourteen) or the income (or losses) of which is (or was) includable under article twenty-two of this chapter whereby the intent and purpose of this paragraph and paragraph five of this subsection with respect to refunding of credit to new business would be evaded; or

(B) the individual has operated such new business entity in this state for more than five taxable years (excluding short years of the business).

(11) Retail enterprise tax credit. A retail enterprise, not eligible to claim the credit under paragraph one of this subsection, but eligible to claim the credit allowable under section thirty-eight of the internal revenue code pursuant solely to the provisions of subparagraph (E) of paragraph one of subsection (a) of section forty-eight of such code, shall be allowed a credit as hereinafter computed. The amount of the credit shall be the percentage appearing in paragraph one of this subsection for the periods described therein for the amount of qualified rehabilitation expenditures, as defined in subsection (g) of section forty-eight of such code, paid or incurred with respect to a qualified rehabilitated building, as defined in such subsection (g), located in this state and such expenditures shall be further limited to only the portion thereof paid or incurred with respect to that part of a qualified rehabilitated building employed by such taxpayer in the retail sales activity of such retail enterprise. For the purposes of this subsection, the term "retail enterprise" means a taxpayer which is: (A) a registered vendor under article twenty-eight of this chapter, (B) primarily engaged in the retail sale, as the term "retail sale" is defined in subparagraph (i) of paragraph four of subdivision (b) of section eleven hundred one of this chapter, of tangible personal property, and (C) otherwise eligible for the credit allowed pursuant to section thirty-eight of the internal revenue code.

(12) Rehabilitation credit for historic barns. A taxpayer shall be allowed a credit, to be computed as hereinafter provided, against the tax imposed by this article. The amount of the credit shall be twenty-five percent of the taxpayer's qualified rehabilitation expenditures paid or incurred within the five years immediately preceding the year in which such tax credit shall be applied with respect to any barn located in this state which qualifies as an historic barn pursuant to subdivision five of section four hundred eighty-three-b of the real property tax law. For purposes of this paragraph, the term "barn" means a building that is or was used as an agricultural facility or for purposes related to agriculture. Provided, however, such qualified rehabilitation expenditures shall not include any such expenditures which are included, directly or indirectly, in the computation of a credit claimed by the taxpayer pursuant to paragraph one of this subsection. Provided further that no rehabilitation credit shall be allowed for any rehabilitation of a barn which, immediately prior to the commencement of such rehabilitation, was used for residential purposes, or which converts a barn not suitable for residential purposes into one which is so suitable, nor shall a rehabilitation credit be allowed for any rehabilitation that materially alters the historic appearance of the barn.

(13)(A)(i) If a taxpayer is required by paragraph seven of this subsection to add back a portion of the credit taken because property was destroyed or ceased to be in qualified use as a direct result of the September eleventh, two thousand one terrorist attacks, such taxpayer may elect to defer the amount to be recaptured for all such property to the taxable year next succeeding the taxable year in which the destruction or cessation of qualified use occurred. The taxable year in which the destruction or cessation of qualified use occurred shall be hereinafter referred to as the "recapture event taxable year". If the taxpayer's total employment number in the state on the last day of the taxable year next succeeding the recapture event taxable year is a significant percentage of the taxpayer's average total employment number in the state for the taxpayer's recapture event taxable year and the two taxable years immediately preceding the recapture event taxable year, then the taxpayer shall not be required to recapture any credit with respect to such property. If the taxpayer's total employment number in the state on the last day of the taxable year next succeeding the recapture event taxable year is not a significant percentage of the taxpayer's average total employment number in the state for the taxpayer's recapture event taxable year and the two taxable years immediately preceding the recapture event taxable year, the taxpayer shall be required to recapture the portion of the credit taken under this subsection, as required by paragraph seven of this subsection, for all of its property destroyed or which ceased to be in qualified use as a direct result of the September eleventh, two thousand one terrorist attacks. The amount required to be recaptured shall be augmented as required pursuant to subparagraph (G) of paragraph seven of this subsection by using an interest rate equal to two times the rate of interest specified in such subparagraph seven applicable for the taxable year in which the recapture occurs.

(ii) The taxpayer's total employment number shall include all employees of the taxpayer employed full-time by the taxpayer in the state. The average total employment number for the recapture event taxable year and the two taxable years immediately preceding the recapture event taxable year shall be computed by determining the taxpayer's total employment number on the thirty-first day of March, the thirtieth day of June, the thirtieth day of September and the thirty-first day of December during the applicable taxable years, adding together the number of such individuals determined to be so employed on each of such dates and dividing the sum so obtained by the number of such dates occurring within such applicable taxable years. However, in the case of the taxable year which included September eleventh, two thousand one, the average total employment number for such taxable year shall be determined by using the total employment number on September first, two thousand one in lieu of September thirtieth, two thousand one and, if such taxable year included December thirty-first, two thousand one, by excluding the total employment number on December thirty-first, two thousand one.

(B) In lieu of subparagraph (A) of this paragraph, a taxpayer may elect to recapture the portion of the credit taken under this subsection, as required by paragraph seven of this subsection, for all of its property destroyed or which ceased to be in qualified use as a direct result of the September eleventh, two thousand one terrorist attacks, in the taxable year in which the destruction or cessation of qualified use occurred. If the taxpayer makes such election and acquires property (hereinafter referred to as "replacement property") to replace any property destroyed as a direct result of the September eleventh, two thousand one terrorist attacks (regardless of when such property was placed in service and whether a credit was claimed on that property pursuant to this subsection), and such replacement property is similar or related in service or use to such destroyed property, the investment credit base of the replacement property shall be determined without regard to any basis reduction required pursuant to section 1033 of the internal revenue code.

(C) The election made by the taxpayer under subparagraph (A) or (B) of this paragraph shall be made in the manner and form prescribed by the commissioner.

(D) A taxpayer, over fifty percent of whose employees died as a direct result of the September eleventh, two thousand one terrorist attacks, may make the election provided for in subparagraph (A) of this paragraph, and shall not be required to recapture any credit with respect to property which was destroyed or which ceased to be in qualified use as a direct result of such attacks, whether or not it meets the employment test specified in clause (i) of subparagraph (A) of this paragraph.

(a-1) Employment incentive credit (EIC). (1)(A) Where a taxpayer is allowed a credit under subsection (a) of this section, other than at the optional rate applicable to research and development property, the taxpayer shall be allowed a credit for each of the two years next succeeding the taxable year for which the credit under such subsection (a) is allowed with respect to such property, whether or not deductible in such taxable year or in subsequent taxable years pursuant to paragraph five of subsection (a) of this section. Provided, however, that the credit allowable under this subsection for any taxable year shall be allowed only if the average number of employees during such taxable year is at least one hundred one percent of the average number of employees during the employment base year. The employment base year shall be the taxable year immediately preceding the taxable year for which the credit under such subsection (a) is allowed except that in the case of a new business, the employment base year shall be the taxable year in which the credit under such subsection (a) is allowed.

(B) The amount of the credit allowed under this subsection shall be as set forth in the following table:

Average number of employees during the taxable year expressed as a percentage of average number of employees in employment base year:	Credit allowed under this subsection expressed as a percentage of the applicable investment credit base:

Less than 102%	1.5%
----------------	------

at least 102% and less than 103%	2%
----------------------------------	----

at least 103%	2.5%
---------------	------

(2) The average number of employees in a taxable year shall be computed by ascertaining the number of employees within the state employed by the taxpayer on the thirty-first day of March, the thirtieth day of June, the thirtieth day of September and the thirty-first day of December in the taxable year, by adding together the number of employees ascertained on each of such dates and dividing the sum so obtained by the number of such abovementioned dates occurring within the taxable year. For the purposes of this subsection, the term "employees within the state" shall not include, except with respect to the employment base year, any employee with respect to whom a credit provided for under subsection (k) of this section is claimed for the taxable year, based on employment within a zone equivalent area designated as such pursuant to article eighteen-B of the general municipal law.

(3) If the amount of credit allowable under this subsection for any taxable year shall exceed the taxpayer's tax for such year, the excess allowed for a taxable year may be carried over to the ten taxable years next following such taxable year and may be deducted from the taxpayer's tax for such year or years. In lieu of carrying over any such excess, a taxpayer who qualifies as an owner of a new business for purposes of paragraph ten of subsection (a) of this section may, at his or her option, receive such excess as a refund. Any refund paid pursuant to this paragraph shall be deemed to be a refund of an overpayment of tax as provided in section six hundred eighty-six of this article, provided, however, that no interest shall be paid thereon.

(a-2) Hire a vet credit. (1) Allowance of credit. For taxable years beginning on or after January first, two thousand fifteen and before January first, two thousand twenty-nine, a taxpayer shall be allowed a credit, to be computed as provided in this subsection, against the tax imposed by this article, for hiring and employing, for not less than twelve continuous and uninterrupted months (hereinafter referred to as the twelve-month period) in a full-time or part-time position, a qualified veteran within the state. The taxpayer may claim the credit in the year in which the qualified veteran completes the twelve-month period of employment by the taxpayer. If the taxpayer claims the credit allowed under this subsection, the taxpayer may not use the hiring of a qualified veteran that is the basis for this credit in the basis of any other credit allowed under this article.

(2) Qualified veteran. A qualified veteran is an individual:

(A) who served on active duty in the United States army, navy, air force, space force, marine corps, coast guard or the reserves thereof, or who served in active military service of the United States as a member of the army national guard, air national guard, New York guard or New York naval militia, or who served in the active uniformed services of the United States as a member of the commissioned corps of the national oceanic and atmospheric administration or the commissioned corps of the United States public health service; who (i) was released from active duty by general or honorable discharge, or (ii) has a qualifying condition, as defined in section one of the veterans' services law, and has received a discharge other than bad conduct or dishonorable from such service, or (iii) is a discharged LGBT veteran, as defined in section one of the veterans' services law, and has received a discharge other than bad conduct or dishonorable from such service;

(B) who commences employment by the qualified taxpayer on or after January first, two thousand fourteen, and before January first, two thousand twenty-eight; and

(C) who certifies by signed affidavit, under penalty of perjury, that he or she has not been employed for thirty-five or more hours during any week in the one hundred eighty day period immediately prior to his or her employment by the taxpayer.

(3) Employer prohibition. An employer shall not discharge an employee and hire a qualifying veteran solely for the purpose of qualifying for this credit.

(4) Amount of credit. The amount of the credit shall be fifteen percent of the total amount of wages paid to the qualified veteran during the veteran's first twelve-month period of employment. (B) "Household" means a husband and wife, a head of household, a surviving spouse, or an individual who is not married nor the head of a household nor a surviving spouse nor a taxpayer with respect to whom a deduction under subsection (c) of section one hundred fifty-one of the internal revenue code is allowable to another taxpayer for the taxable year.

(C) "Household gross income of a husband and wife" shall be the aggregate of their federal adjusted gross incomes for the taxable year irrespective of whether joint or separate New York income tax returns are filed. Provided, however, that a husband or wife who is required to file a separate New York income tax return shall be permitted one-half the credit otherwise allowed his or her household, except as limited by paragraph one of this subsection.

(c) Credit for certain household and dependent care services necessary for gainful employment. (1) For taxable years beginning before January first, two thousand twenty-six, a taxpayer shall be allowed a credit as provided herein equal to the applicable percentage of the credit allowable under section twenty-one of the internal revenue code for the same taxable year (without regard to whether the taxpayer in fact claimed the credit under such section twenty-one for such taxable year). The applicable percentage shall be the sum of (i) twenty percent and (ii) a multiplier multiplied by a fraction. For taxable years beginning in nineteen hundred ninety-six and nineteen hundred ninety-seven, the numerator of such fraction shall be the lesser of (i) four thousand dollars or (ii) fourteen thousand dollars less the New York adjusted gross income for the taxable year, provided, however, the numerator shall not be less than zero. The multiplier shall be ten percent for taxable years beginning in nineteen hundred ninety-six, forty percent for taxable years beginning in nineteen hundred ninety-seven, and eighty percent for taxable years beginning after nineteen hundred ninety-seven. Provided, however, for taxable years beginning after nineteen hundred ninety-nine, for a person whose New York adjusted gross income is less than forty thousand dollars, such applicable percentage shall be equal to (i) one hundred percent, plus (ii) ten percent multiplied by a fraction whose numerator shall be the lesser of (i) fifteen thousand dollars or (ii) forty thousand dollars less the New York adjusted gross income for the taxable year, provided such numerator shall not be less than zero, and whose denominator shall be fifteen thousand dollars. Provided, further, that if the reversion event, as defined in this paragraph, occurs, the applicable percentage shall, for taxable years ending on or after the date on which the reversion event occurred, be determined using the rules specified in this paragraph applicable to taxable years beginning in nineteen hundred ninety-nine. The reversion event shall be deemed to have occurred on the date on which federal action, including but not limited to, administrative, statutory or regulatory changes, materially reduces or eliminates New York state's allocation of the federal temporary assistance for needy families block grant, or materially reduces the ability of the state to spend federal temporary assistance for needy families block grant funds for the credit for certain household and dependent care services necessary for gainful employment or to apply state general fund spending on the credit for certain household and dependent care services necessary for gainful employment toward the temporary assistance for needy families block grant maintenance of effort requirement, and the commissioner of the office of temporary and disability assistance shall certify the date of such event to the commissioner, the director of the division of the budget, the speaker of the assembly and the temporary president of the senate.

At least $65,000 and less than $150,000

(1-b) Notwithstanding anything in this subsection to the contrary, a taxpayer shall be allowed a credit as provided in this subsection equal to the applicable percentage of the credit allowable under section twenty-one of the internal revenue code for the same taxable year (without regard to whether the taxpayer in fact claimed the credit under such section twenty-one for such taxable year) that would have been allowed absent the application of section 21(c) of such code for taxpayers with more than two qualifying individuals, provided however, that the credit shall be calculated as if the dollar limit on amount creditable shall not exceed seven thousand five hundred dollars if there are three qualifying individuals, eight thousand five hundred dollars if there are four qualifying individuals, and nine thousand dollars if there are five or more qualifying individuals.

(2) Residents. In the case of a resident taxpayer, the credit under this subsection shall be allowed against the taxes imposed by this article for the taxable year reduced by the credits permitted by this article. If the credit exceeds the tax as so reduced, the taxpayer may receive, and the comptroller, subject to a certificate of the commissioner, shall pay as an overpayment, without interest, the amount of such excess.

(3) Nonresidents. In the case of a nonresident taxpayer, the credit under this subsection shall be allowed against the tax determined under subsections (a) through (d) of section six hundred one. The amount of the credit shall not exceed the tax determined under such subsections for the taxable year reduced by the credit permitted under subsection (b) of this section.

(4) Part-year residents. In the case of a part-year resident taxpayer, the credit under this subsection shall be allowed against the tax determined under subsections (a) through (d) of section six hundred one reduced by the credit permitted under subsection (b) of this section, and any excess credit after such application shall be allowed against the tax imposed by section six hundred three. Any remaining excess, after such application, shall be refunded as provided in paragraph two hereof, provided, however, that any overpayment under such paragraph shall be limited to the amount of the remaining excess multiplied by a fraction, the numerator of which is federal adjusted gross income for the period of residence, computed as if the taxable year for federal income tax purposes were limited to the period of residence, and the denominator of which is federal adjusted gross income for the taxable year.

(5) In the case of a husband and wife who file a joint federal return, but who are required to determine their New York taxes separately, the credit allowed pursuant to this subsection may only be applied against the tax imposed on the spouse with the lower taxable income, computed without regard to such credit. In the case of a husband and wife who are not required to file a federal return, the credit under this subsection shall be allowed only if such taxpayers file a joint New York income tax return.

before January first, two thousand twenty-five, and taxable years beginning on or after January first, two thousand twenty-eight, a resident taxpayer shall be allowed a credit as provided herein equal to the greater of one hundred dollars times the number of qualifying children of the taxpayer or the applicable percentage of the child tax credit allowed the taxpayer under section twenty-four of the internal revenue code for the same taxable year for each qualifying child. Provided, however, in the case of a taxpayer whose federal adjusted gross income exceeds the applicable threshold amount set forth by section 24(b)(2) of the Internal Revenue Code, the credit shall only be equal to the applicable percentage of the child tax credit allowed the taxpayer under section 24 of the Internal Revenue Code for each qualifying child. For the purposes of this subsection, a qualifying child shall be a child who meets the definition of qualified child under section 24(c) of the internal revenue code. The applicable percentage shall be thirty-three percent. For purposes of this subsection, any reference to section 24 of the Internal Revenue Code shall be a reference to such section as it existed immediately prior to the enactment of Public Law 115-97.

(1-a) (A) For taxable years beginning on and after January first, two thousand twenty-five, and before January first, two thousand twenty-six, a resident taxpayer shall be allowed a credit as provided herein, equal to the sum of:

(i) one thousand dollars times the number of qualifying children of the taxpayer aged three or younger, and

(ii) three hundred thirty dollars times the number of qualifying children of the taxpayer who have attained age four and not yet attained age seventeen.

(B) For taxable years beginning on and after January first, two thousand twenty-six, and before January first, two thousand twenty-eight, a resident taxpayer shall be allowed a credit as provided herein, equal to the sum of:

(i) one thousand dollars times the number of qualifying children of the taxpayer aged three or younger, and

(ii) five hundred dollars times the number of qualifying children of the taxpayer who have attained age four and not yet attained age seventeen.

(C) The amount of the credit allowable under subparagraphs (A) and (B) of this paragraph shall be reduced (but not below zero) by sixteen dollars and fifty cents for each one thousand dollars by which the taxpayer's federal adjusted gross income exceeds the threshold amount. For the purposes of this subparagraph, the term "threshold amount" shall mean: (i) one hundred ten thousand dollars in the case of married taxpayers filing jointly; (ii) seventy-five thousand dollars in the case of a taxpayer filing as single, head of household, or qualified surviving spouse; and (iii) fifty-five thousand dollars in the case of a married taxpayer filing a separate return.

(D) For the purposes of this paragraph, a qualifying child shall be an individual who: (i) is a child, sibling, or stepsibling of the taxpayer, or a descendent of any such relative; (ii) has the same principal place of abode as the taxpayer for more than one-half of the taxable year; (iii) has not attained age seventeen; (iv) has not provided over one-half of such individual's own support for the calendar year in which the taxable year of the taxpayer begins; (v) has not filed a joint return (other than only for a claim of refund) with the individual's spouse under section six hundred fifty-one of this article for the taxable year; and (vi) is a citizen or national of the United States, or an individual with an individual taxpayer identification number issued by the internal revenue service.

(E) For the purposes of this paragraph, the term "child" shall mean an individual who is the offspring or stepchild of the taxpayer, or an eligible foster child of the taxpayer, or a legally adopted individual of the taxpayer, or an individual who is lawfully placed with the taxpayer for legal adoption by the taxpayer.

(F) (i) Except as provided in subparagraph (C) of this paragraph, if an individual may be claimed as a qualifying child by two or more taxpayers for a taxable year, such individual shall be treated as the qualifying child of the taxpayer who is: (I) a parent of the individual, or (II) if subclause (I) does not apply, the taxpayer with the highest federal adjusted gross income for such taxable year.

(ii) If the parents claiming any qualifying child do not file a joint return together, such child shall be treated as the qualifying child of: (I) the parent with whom the child resided for the longest period of time during the taxable year, or (II) if the child resides with both parents for the same amount of time during such taxable year, the parent with the highest federal adjusted gross income who files a return pursuant to section six hundred fifty-one of this article.

(iii) If the parents of an individual may claim such individual as a qualifying child but no parent so claims the individual, such individual may be claimed as the qualifying child of another taxpayer, but only if the federal adjusted gross income of such taxpayer is higher than the highest federal adjusted gross income of any parent of the individual, regardless of a requirement to file a return pursuant to section six hundred fifty-one of this article.

(2) If the amount of the credit allowed under this subsection for any taxable year shall exceed the taxpayer's tax for such year, the excess shall be treated as an overpayment of tax to be credited or refunded in accordance with the provisions of section six hundred eighty-six of this article, provided, however, that no interest shall be paid thereon.

(3) In the case of a husband and wife who file a joint federal return, but who are required to determine their New York taxes separately, the credit allowed pursuant to this subsection may be applied against the tax imposed of either or divided between them as they may elect.

(4) (A) For tax year two thousand twenty-one, the commissioner shall issue a payment of a supplemental empire state child credit in the amount of (i) one hundred percent of the empire state child credit calculated and allowed pursuant to this subsection to taxpayers whose federal adjusted gross income was less than ten thousand dollars; (ii) seventy-five percent of the empire state child credit calculated and allowed pursuant to this subsection to taxpayers whose federal adjusted gross income was greater than or equal to ten thousand dollars but less than twenty-five thousand dollars; (iii) fifty percent of the empire state child credit calculated and allowed pursuant to this subsection to taxpayers whose federal adjusted gross income was greater than or equal to twenty-five thousand dollars but less than fifty thousand dollars; and (iv) twenty-five percent of the empire state child credit calculated and allowed pursuant to this subsection to taxpayers whose federal adjusted gross income was greater than or equal to fifty thousand dollars. Provided, however, that no payment shall be issued if it is less than twenty-five dollars.

(B) The supplemental payment pursuant to this paragraph will be allowed to taxpayers who timely filed returns pursuant to section six hundred fifty-one of this article, determined with regard to extensions pursuant to section six hundred fifty-seven of this article.

(5) (A) For tax year two thousand twenty-three, the commissioner shall issue a payment of a supplemental empire state child credit in the amount of (i) one hundred percent of the empire state child credit calculated and allowed pursuant to this subsection to taxpayers whose federal adjusted gross income was less than ten thousand dollars; (ii) seventy-five percent of the empire state child credit calculated and allowed pursuant to this subsection to taxpayers whose federal adjusted gross income was greater than or equal to ten thousand dollars but less than twenty-five thousand dollars; (iii) fifty percent of the empire state child credit calculated and allowed pursuant to this subsection to taxpayers whose federal adjusted gross income was greater than or equal to twenty-five thousand dollars but less than fifty thousand dollars; and (iv) twenty-five percent of the empire state child credit calculated and allowed pursuant to this subsection to taxpayers whose federal adjusted gross income was greater than or equal to fifty thousand dollars. Provided, however, that no payment shall be issued if it is less than twenty-five dollars.

(B) The supplemental payment pursuant to this paragraph shall be allowed to taxpayers who timely filed returns pursuant to section six hundred fifty-one of this article, determined with regard to extensions pursuant to section six hundred fifty-seven of this article.

(1) For taxable years beginning on or after January first, two thousand twenty-six, an eligible taxpayer shall be allowed a credit as provided herein to enable the eligible taxpayer to be gainfully employed or a full-time student at an educational institution for any period of the taxable year. If the amount of the credit allowed under this subsection for any taxable year shall exceed the eligible taxpayer's tax for such year, the excess shall be treated as an overpayment of tax to be credited or refunded in accordance with the provisions of six hundred eighty-six of this article, provided, however, that no interest shall be paid thereon.

(2) For the purposes of this subsection:

(A) "Eligible taxpayer" shall mean a resident individual as defined in paragraph one of subsection (b) of section six hundred five of this article who, during the taxable year: (i) is not a dependent of another taxpayer pursuant to section one hundred fifty-two of the internal revenue code; and (ii) is not a resident married individual filing a separate return unless such individual meets the conditions in paragraph four of subdivision (e) of section twenty-one of the internal revenue code. Provided, however, where married individuals file a joint federal return, but are required to determine their New York taxes separately pursuant to subsection (b) of section six hundred fifty-one of this article, the credit allowed pursuant to this subsection may only be applied against the tax imposed on the spouse with the lower New York adjusted gross income.

(B) "Qualifying individual" shall mean an individual who: (i) is under the age of thirteen at the close of the taxable year or is physically or mentally incapable of caring for themselves during the taxable year; (ii) resides with the eligible taxpayer for more than one-half of the taxable year; and (iii) is claimed as a dependent pursuant to section one hundred fifty-two of the internal revenue code, or could otherwise be claimed as a dependent. (ii) Provided, however, "qualifying expenses" shall not include: a.

any amounts paid whereby the taxpayer receives reimbursement or are paid from funds provided by a government entity, dependent care account, or other third party; b. any amounts paid to a dependent of the taxpayer for which the taxpayer or the taxpayer's spouse is entitled to a deduction for the taxable year under subsection (c) of section one hundred fifty-one of the internal revenue code; or c. any amounts paid to a child of the taxpayer as defined in paragraph one of subsection (f) of section one hundred fifty-two of the internal revenue code who has not attained the age of nineteen at the close of the taxable year.

(3) The amount of the credit allowed to an eligible taxpayer under this subsection shall be the product of the eligible taxpayer's qualifying expenses determined pursuant to subparagraph (D) of paragraph two of this subsection and the applicable percentage determined pursuant to subparagraph (E) of paragraph two of this subsection. Provided, however, the credit allowed under this subsection shall be reduced by twenty dollars for each one thousand dollars by which the eligible taxpayer's New York adjusted gross income determined pursuant to section six hundred twelve of this article exceeds seven hundred fifty thousand dollars.

(4) To be eligible for the credit provided by this subsection, an eligible taxpayer shall provide the following information to the satisfaction of the commissioner: (i) the amount of qualifying expenses; (ii) identifying information related to the care provider; (iii) identifying information related to the qualifying individual for whom the expenses were incurred; and (iv) any other information as required.

twenty-seven and one-half percent for taxable years beginning in two thousand two, and (vii) thirty percent for taxable years beginning in two thousand three and thereafter. Provided, however, that if the reversion event, as defined in this paragraph, occurs, the applicable percentage shall be twenty percent for taxable years ending on or after the date on which the reversion event occurred. The reversion event shall be deemed to have occurred on the date on which federal action, including but not limited to, administrative, statutory or regulatory changes, materially reduces or eliminates New York state's allocation of the federal temporary assistance for needy families block grant, or materially reduces the ability of the state to spend federal temporary assistance for needy families block grant funds for the earned income credit or to apply state general fund spending on the earned income credit toward the temporary assistance for needy families block grant maintenance of effort requirement, and the commissioner of the office of temporary and disability assistance shall certify the date of such event to the commissioner of taxation and finance, the director of the division of the budget, the speaker of the assembly and the temporary president of the senate.

(4) Part-year residents. In the case of a part-year resident taxpayer, the credit under this subsection shall be allowed against the tax determined under subsections (a) through (d) of section six hundred one reduced by the credits permitted under subsections (b), (c) and (m) of this section, and any excess credit after such application shall be allowed against the tax imposed by section six hundred three. Any remaining excess, after such application, shall be refunded as provided in paragraph two hereof, provided, however, that any overpayment under such paragraph shall be limited to the amount of the remaining excess multiplied by a fraction, the numerator of which is federal adjusted gross income for the period of residence, computed as if the taxable year for federal income tax purposes were limited to the period of residence, and the denominator of which is federal adjusted gross income for the taxable year.

(5) Husband and wife. In the case of a husband and wife who file a joint federal return but who are required to determine their New York taxes separately, the credit allowed pursuant to this subsection may be applied against the tax of either or divided between them as they may elect.

(6) Notification. (A) The commissioner shall periodically, but not less than every three years, make efforts to alert taxpayers that may be currently eligible to receive the credit provided under this subsection, and the credit provided under any local law enacted pursuant to subsection (f) of section thirteen hundred ten of this chapter, as to their potential eligibility. In making the determination of whether a taxpayer may be eligible for such credit, the commissioner shall use such data as may be appropriate and available, including, but not limited to, data available from the United States Department of Treasury, Internal Revenue Service and New York state income tax returns for preceding tax years.

(B) If the department determines that the taxpayer is eligible to receive the credit provided under this subsection but has not claimed such credit on his or her return, the department shall compute the taxpayer's liability and allow the credit, and, if applicable, issue any refund for the allowable credit amount provided under this subsection. Any refund paid pursuant to this subparagraph shall be deemed to be a refund of an overpayment of tax as provided in section six hundred eighty-six of this article, provided, however, that no interest shall be paid thereon.

(7) Reports. The commissioner shall prepare a preliminary written report after July thirty-first and a final written report after December thirty-first of each calendar year, which shall contain statistical

(B) the product of two and one-half and the amount of the earned income tax credit that would have been allowed to the taxpayer under section 32 of the internal revenue code, if the taxpayer satisfied the eligibility requirements set forth in section 32(c)(1)(A)(ii) of such code.

(B) The taxpayer must have attained the age of eighteen.

(C) The taxpayer must be the parent of a minor child or children with whom the taxpayer does not reside.

(D) The taxpayer must have an order requiring him or her to make child support payments, which are payable through a support collection unit established pursuant to section one hundred eleven-h of the social services law, which order must have been in effect for at least one-half of the taxable year.

(E) The taxpayer must have paid an amount in child support in the taxable year at least equal to the amount of current child support due during the taxable year for every order requiring him or her to make child support payments.

(3) If the amount of the credit allowed under this subsection shall exceed the taxpayer's tax for such year, the excess shall be treated as an overpayment of tax to be credited or refunded in accordance with the provisions of section six hundred eighty-six of this article, provided, however, that no interest shall be paid thereon.

(4) No claim for credit under this subsection shall be allowed unless the department has verified, from information provided by the office of temporary and disability assistance, that a taxpayer has satisfied the qualifications set forth in subparagraphs (C), (D) and (E) of paragraph two of this subsection. The office of temporary and disability assistance shall provide to the department by January fifteenth of each year information applicable for the immediately preceding tax year necessary for the department to make such verification. Such information shall be provided in the manner and form agreed upon by the department and such office. If a taxpayer's claim for a credit under this subsection is disallowed because the taxpayer has not satisfied the qualifications set forth in subparagraphs (C), (D) and (E) of paragraph two of this subsection, the taxpayer may request a review of those qualifications by the support collection unit established pursuant to section one hundred eleven-h of the social services law through which the child support payments were payable. The support collection unit shall transmit the result of that review to the office of temporary and disability assistance on a form developed by such office. Such office shall then transmit such result to the department in a manner agreed upon by the department and such office.

(5) A taxpayer shall not be allowed multiple credits under this subsection for a taxable year even if such taxpayer has more than one child or has more than one order requiring him or her to make child support payments.

(6) If a credit is allowed under this subsection and the taxpayer is also allowed a credit under subsection (d) of this section, the taxpayer shall only be allowed to claim one credit.

(7) In the report prepared pursuant to paragraph seven of subsection (d) of this section, the commissioner shall include statistical information concerning the credit allowed pursuant to this subsection. Such information shall be limited to the number of credits and the average amount of such credits allowed; and of those, the number of credits and the average amounts of such credits allowed to taxpayers in each county.

(8) In a report prepared by the commissioner and submitted to the office of temporary and disability assistance, the department shall include information concerning the credit allowed pursuant to this subsection indicating whether or not taxpayers identified by the office of temporary and disability assistance pursuant to paragraph four of this subsection filed an income tax return, filed for a credit, received a credit, and the amount of any such credit. Any individual taxpayer information furnished by the department pursuant to this section shall be deemed confidential and may not be disclosed to any third party and the office of temporary and disability assistance is prohibited from using the individual taxpayer information except for the purpose of analyzing the impact of the credit and its effect on child support payments.

(9) For tax year two thousand twenty-one, the commissioner shall issue a payment of a supplemental enhanced earned income tax credit in the amount of twenty-five percent of the enhanced earned income tax credit calculated and allowed pursuant to this subsection. Such payment will be allowed to taxpayers who timely filed returns pursuant to section six hundred fifty-one of this article, determined with regard to extensions pursuant to section six hundred fifty-seven of this article. Provided, however, that no payment shall be issued if it is less than twenty-five dollars.

(A) (i) For taxable years beginning before January first, two thousand twenty-five, "qualified taxpayer" means a resident individual of the state who has occupied the same residence for six months or more of the taxable year, and is required or chooses to file a return under this article.

(ii) For taxable years beginning on or after January first, two thousand twenty-five, "qualified taxpayer" means a resident individual of the state who has occupied the same residence for six months or more of the taxable year, and has qualifying real property taxes as defined in clause (ii) of subparagraph (E) of this paragraph, or a real property tax equivalent as defined in clause (ii) of subparagraph (F) of this paragraph, in excess of the following percentages of federal adjusted gross income:

$3,000 or less	3 1/2
Over $3,000 but not over $5,000	4
Over $5,000 but not over $7,000	4 1/2
Over $7,000 but not over $9,000	5

Over $9,000 but not over $11,000	5 1/2
Over $11,000 but not over $14,000	6
Over $14,000 but not over $18,000	6 1/2

(B) "Household" or "members of the household" means a qualified taxpayer and all other persons, not necessarily related, who have the same residence and share its furnishings, facilities and accommodations. Such terms shall not include a tenant, subtenant, roomer or boarder who is not related to the qualified taxpayer in any degree specified in subparagraphs (A) through (G) of paragraph two of subsection (d) of section one hundred fifty-two of the internal revenue code. Provided, however, no person may be a member of more than one household at one time.

(c) "Household gross income" means the aggregate adjusted gross income of all members of the household for the taxable year as reported for federal income tax purposes, or which would be reported as adjusted gross income if a federal income tax return were required to be filed, with the modifications in subsection (b) of section six hundred twelve but without the modifications in subsection (c) of such section, plus any portion of the gain from the sale or exchange of property otherwise excluded from such amount; earned income from sources without the United States excludable from federal gross income by section nine hundred eleven of the internal revenue code; support money not included in adjusted gross income; nontaxable strike benefits; supplemental security income payments; the gross amount of any pension or annuity benefits to the extent not included in such adjusted gross income (including, but not limited to, railroad retirement benefits and all payments received under the federal social security act and veterans' disability pensions); nontaxable interest received from the state of New York, its agencies, instrumentalities, public corporations, or political subdivisions (including a public corporation created pursuant to agreement or compact with another state or Canada); workers' compensation; the gross amount of "loss-of-time" insurance; and the amount of cash public assistance and relief, other than medical assistance for the needy, paid to or for the benefit of the qualified taxpayer or members of his household. Household gross income shall not include surplus foods or other relief in kind or payments made to individuals because of their status as victims of Nazi persecution as defined in P.L. 103-286. Provided, further, household gross income shall only include all such income received by all members of the household while members of such household.

(D) "Residence" means a dwelling in this state, whether owned or rented, and so much of the land abutting it, not exceeding one acre, as is reasonably necessary for use of the dwelling as a home, and may consist of a part of a multi-dwelling or multi-purpose building including a cooperative or condominium, and rental units within a single dwelling. Residence includes a trailer or mobile home, used exclusively for residential purposes and defined as real property pursuant to paragraph (g) of subdivision twelve of section one hundred two of the real property tax law.

(E) (i) For taxable years beginning before January first, two thousand twenty-five, "qualifying real property taxes" means all real property taxes, special ad valorem levies and special assessments, exclusive of penalties and interest, levied on the residence of a qualified taxpayer and paid during the taxable year less the credit claimed under subsection (n-1) of this section. In addition, for taxable years beginning after December thirty-first, nineteen hundred eighty-four, a qualified taxpayer may elect to include any additional amount that would have been levied in the absence of an exemption from real property taxation pursuant to section four hundred sixty-seven of the real property tax law. If tenant-stockholders in a cooperative housing corporation have met the requirements of section two hundred sixteen of the internal revenue code by which they are allowed a deduction for real estate taxes, the amount of taxes so allowable, or which would be allowable if the taxpayer had filed returns on a cash basis, shall be qualifying real property taxes. If a residence is owned by two or more individuals as joint tenants or tenants in common, and one or more than one individual is not a member of the household, qualifying real property taxes is that part of such taxes on the residence which reflects the ownership percentage of the qualified taxpayer and members of their household. If a residence is an integral part of a larger unit, qualifying real property taxes shall be limited to that amount of such taxes paid as may be reasonably apportioned to such residence. If a household owns and occupies two or more residences during different periods in the same taxable year, qualifying real property taxes shall be the sum of the prorated qualifying real property taxes attributable to the household during the periods such household occupies each of such residences. If the household owns and occupies a residence for part of the taxable year and rents a residence for part of the same taxable year, it may include both the proration of qualifying real property taxes on the residence owned and the real property tax equivalent with respect to the months the residence is rented. Provided, however, for purposes of the credit allowed under this subsection, qualifying real property taxes may be included by a qualified taxpayer only to the extent that such taxpayer or the spouse of such taxpayer occupying such residence for six months or more of the taxable year owns or has owned the residence and paid such taxes.

(ii) For taxable years beginning on or after January first, two thousand twenty-five, "qualifying real property taxes" means all real property taxes, special ad valorem levies and special assessments, exclusive of penalties and interest, levied on the residence of a qualified taxpayer and paid during the taxable year less any school tax relief credit allowed under subsection (eee) of this section. A qualified taxpayer may elect to include any additional amount that would have been levied in the absence of an exemption from real property taxation pursuant to section four hundred sixty-seven of the real property tax law. If tenant-stockholders in a cooperative housing corporation have met the requirements of section two hundred sixteen of the internal revenue code by which they are allowed a deduction for real estate taxes, the amount of taxes so allowable, or which would be allowable if the taxpayer had filed returns on a cash basis, shall be qualifying real property taxes. If a residence is owned by two or more individuals as joint tenants or tenants in common, qualifying real property taxes is that part of such taxes on the residence which reflects the ownership percentage of the qualified taxpayer. If a residence is an integral part of a larger unit, qualifying real property taxes shall be limited to that amount of the taxes paid as may be reasonably apportioned to such residence. If a qualified taxpayer owns and occupies two or more residences during different periods in the same taxable year, qualifying real property taxes shall be the sum of the prorated qualifying real property taxes attributable to the qualified taxpayer during the periods the taxpayer occupies each of the residences. If a qualified taxpayer owns and occupies a residence for part of the taxable year and rents a residence for part of the same taxable year, the taxpayer may include both the proration of qualifying real property taxes on the residence owned and the real property tax equivalent with respect to the months the residence is rented. Provided, however, for purposes of the credit allowed under this subsection, qualifying real property taxes may be included by a qualified taxpayer only to the extent that such taxpayer or the spouse of such taxpayer occupying such residence for six months or more of the taxable year owns or has owned the residence and paid such taxes.

(F) (i) For taxable years beginning before January first, two thousand twenty-five, "real property tax equivalent" means twenty-five percent of the adjusted rent actually paid in the taxable year by a household solely for the right of occupancy of its New York residence for the taxable year. If (I) a residence is rented to two or more individuals as cotenants, or such individuals share in the payment of a single rent for the right of occupancy of such residence, and (II) each of such individuals is a member of a different household, one or more of which individuals shares such residence, real property tax equivalent is that portion of twenty-five percent of the adjusted rent paid in the taxable year which reflects that portion of the rent attributable to the qualified taxpayer and the members of their household.

(ii) For taxable years beginning on or after January first, two thousand twenty-five, "real property tax equivalent" means twenty-five percent of the adjusted rent actually paid in the taxable year by a qualified taxpayer solely for the right of occupancy of their New York residence for the taxable year.

(G) "Adjusted rent" means rental paid for the right of occupancy of a residence, excluding charges for heat, gas, electricity, furnishings and board. Where charges for heat, gas, electricity, furnishing or board are included in rental but where such charges and the amount thereof are not separately set forth in a written rental agreement, for purposes of determining adjusted rent the qualified taxpayer shall reduce rental paid as follows:

(i) For heat, or heat and gas, deduct fifteen percent of rental paid.

(ii) For heat, gas and electricity, deduct twenty percent of rental paid.

(iii) For heat, gas, electricity and furnishings, deduct twenty-five percent of rental paid.

(iv) For heat, gas, electricity, furnishings and board, deduct fifty percent of rental paid.

If the tax commission determines that the adjusted rent shown on the return is excessive, the tax commission may reduce such rent, for purposes of the computation of the credit, to an amount substantially equivalent to rent for a comparable accommodation.

(2) (A) For taxable years beginning before January first, two thousand twenty-five, a qualified taxpayer shall be allowed a credit as provided in subparagraph (A) of paragraph three of this subsection against the taxes imposed by this article reduced by the credits permitted by this article. If the credit exceeds the tax as so reduced for such year under this article the qualified taxpayer may receive, and the comptroller, subject to a certificate of the commissioner, shall pay as an overpayment, without interest, any excess between such tax as so reduced and the amount of the credit. If a qualified taxpayer is not required to file a return pursuant to section six hundred fifty-one, a qualified taxpayer may nevertheless receive and the comptroller, subject to a certificate of the commissioner, shall pay as an overpayment the full amount of the credit, without interest.

(B) For taxable years beginning on or after January first, two thousand twenty-five, a qualified taxpayer shall be allowed a credit against the tax imposed by this article as provided for in subparagraph (B) of paragraph three of this subsection. If the amount of the credit allowed under this subsection exceeds the taxpayer's tax for the taxable year, the excess shall be treated as an overpayment of tax to be credited or refunded in accordance with the provisions of section six hundred eighty-six of this article, provided, however, that no interest shall be paid thereon. If a taxpayer is not required to file a return pursuant to section six hundred fifty-one, a qualified taxpayer may nevertheless receive and the comptroller, subject to a certificate of the commissioner, shall pay as an overpayment the full amount of the credit, without interest.

(3) Determination of credit. (A) For taxable years beginning before January first, two thousand twenty-five, (i) for qualified taxpayers who have attained the age of sixty-five years before the beginning of or during the taxable year the amount of the credit allowable under this subsection shall be fifty percent, or in the case of a qualified taxpayer who has elected to include an additional amount pursuant to subparagraph (E) of paragraph one of this subsection, twenty-five percent, of the excess of real property taxes or the excess of real property tax equivalent determined as follows:

As used in such sections and such part, the term "taxpayer" shall include a qualified taxpayer under this subsection and, notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (e) of section six hundred ninety-seven, where a qualified taxpayer has protested the denial of a claim for credit under this subsection and the time to file a petition for redetermination of a deficiency or for refund has not expired, he shall, subject to such conditions as may be set by the tax commission, receive such information (A) which is contained in any return filed under this article by a member of his household for the taxable year for which the credit is claimed, and (B) which the tax commission finds is relevant and material to the issue of whether such claim was properly denied. The tax commission shall have the authority to promulgate such rules and regulations as may be necessary for the processing, determination and granting of credits and refunds under this subsection.

In order to receive this credit a volunteer firefighter or volunteer ambulance worker must have been active for the entire taxable year for which the credit is sought.

(2) If a taxpayer receives a real property tax exemption relating to such service under title two of article four of the real property tax law, such taxpayer shall not be eligible for this credit; provided, however (A) if the taxpayer receives such real property tax exemption in the two thousand seven taxable year as a result of making application therefor in a prior year or (B) if the taxpayer notifies his or her assessor in writing by December thirty-first, two thousand seven of the taxpayer's intent to discontinue such real property tax exemption by not re-applying for such real property tax exemption by the next taxable status date, such taxpayer shall be eligible for this credit for the two thousand seven taxable year.

(3) In the case of a husband and wife who file a joint return and who both individually qualify for the credit under this subsection, the amount of the credit allowed shall be four hundred dollars.

(4) If the amount of the credit allowed under this subsection for any taxable year shall exceed the taxpayer's tax for such year, the excess shall be treated as an overpayment of tax to be credited or refunded in accordance with the provisions of section six hundred eighty-six of this article, provided, however, that no interest shall be paid thereon.

(C) "Residence" means a dwelling in this state owned by the taxpayer and used by the taxpayer as his or her primary residence, and so much of the land abutting it, not exceeding one acre, as is reasonably necessary for use of the dwelling as a home, and may consist of a part of a multi-dwelling or multi-purpose building including a cooperative or condominium. Residence includes a trailer or mobile home, used exclusively for residential purposes and defined as real property pursuant to paragraph (g) of subdivision twelve of section one hundred two of the real property tax law.

(D) "Qualifying real property taxes" means all real property taxes, special ad valorem levies and special assessments, exclusive of penalties and interest, levied by a taxing jurisdiction on the residence owned and occupied by a qualified taxpayer and paid by the qualified taxpayer during the taxable year, provided that to the extent the total amount of real property taxes so paid includes school district taxes, the amount of the school tax relief (STAR) credit claimed pursuant to subsection (eee) of this section, if any, shall be deducted from such amount.

A qualified taxpayer may elect to include any additional amount that would have been levied by a taxing jurisdiction and paid by the qualified taxpayer in the absence of an exemption from real property taxation pursuant to section four hundred sixty-seven of the real property tax law. If tenant-stockholders in a cooperative housing corporation have met the requirements of section two hundred sixteen of the internal revenue code by which they are allowed a deduction for real estate taxes, the amount of taxes so allowable, or which would be allowable if the taxpayer had filed returns on a cash basis, shall be qualifying real property taxes. If a residence is an integral part of a larger unit, qualifying real property taxes shall be limited to that amount of such taxes paid as may be reasonably apportioned to such residence. If a taxpayer owned and occupied two residences in the state during different periods in the same taxable year, qualifying real property taxes shall be the sum of the prorated qualifying real property taxes attributable to the taxpayer during the periods such taxpayer occupied each of such residences. A taxpayer who owned and occupied a residence in the state for part of the taxable year and rented a residence in the state for part of the same taxable year, may include the proration of qualifying real property taxes on the residence owned. Provided, however, for purposes of the credit allowed under this subsection, qualifying real property taxes may be included by a qualified taxpayer only to the extent that such taxpayer or the spouse of such taxpayer occupied such residence for one hundred eighty-three days or more of the taxable year, owned the residence and paid such taxes.

(E) "Excess real property tax" means the excess of qualifying real property taxes over six percent of qualified gross income.

(2) For tax years beginning on or after January first, two thousand twenty-one and before January first, two thousand twenty-four, a qualified taxpayer shall be allowed a credit as provided in paragraph three of this subsection against the taxes imposed by this article. If the credit exceeds the tax for such year under this article, the excess shall be treated as an overpayment, to be credited or refunded, without interest.

(3) Determination of credit. The credit amount allowed under this subsection shall be the product of the excess real property tax and the applicable percentage of the excess real property tax, calculated as

(A) For qualified taxpayers whose qualified gross income is seventy-five thousand dollars or less, the applicable percentage shall be fourteen percent.

(B) For qualified taxpayers whose qualified gross income is greater than seventy-five thousand dollars but less than or equal to one hundred fifty thousand dollars, the applicable percentage shall be the difference between (i) fourteen percent and (ii) five percent multiplied by a fraction, the numerator of which is the difference between the qualified taxpayer's qualified gross income as defined by this subsection and seventy-five thousand dollars, and the denominator of which is seventy-five thousand dollars.

(C) For qualified taxpayers whose qualified gross income is greater than one hundred fifty thousand dollars but less than or equal to two hundred fifty thousand dollars, the applicable percentage shall be the difference between (i) nine percent and (ii) six percent multiplied by a fraction, the numerator of which is the difference between the qualified taxpayer's qualified gross income and one hundred fifty thousand dollars, and the denominator of which is one hundred thousand dollars.

(4) No credit shall be allowed under this subsection if the amount determined pursuant to paragraph three is less than two hundred fifty dollars, provided further that if the amount determined pursuant to paragraph three is in excess of three hundred fifty dollars the taxpayer shall be allowed a credit of three hundred fifty dollars.

(5) The commissioner may prescribe that the credit under this subsection shall be determined in whole or in part by the use of tables prescribed by such commissioner. Such tables shall set forth the credit to the nearest dollar.

(6) No credit shall be granted under this subsection:

(A) To a property owner if qualified gross income for the taxable year exceeds two hundred fifty thousand dollars.

(B) To a property owner unless: (i) the property is used for residential purposes; (ii) not more than twenty percent of the rental income, if any, from the property is from rental for nonresidential purposes; and (iii) the property is occupied as a residence in whole or in part by one or more of the owners of the property.

(C) To an individual with respect to whom a deduction under subsection

(c) of section one hundred fifty-one of the internal revenue code is allowable to another taxpayer for the taxable year.

(D) With respect to a residence that is wholly exempted from real property taxation.

(E) To an individual who is not a resident individual of the state for the entire taxable year.

(7) In the case of a taxpayer who has itemized deductions from federal adjusted gross income, and whose federal itemized deductions include an amount for real estate taxes paid, the New York itemized deduction otherwise allowable under section six hundred fifteen of this chapter shall be reduced by the amount of the credit claimed under this subsection.

(f) Credit for the special additional mortgage recording tax. (1) For taxable years beginning before nineteen hundred eighty-eight, a taxpayer shall be allowed a credit, to be credited against the tax imposed by this article, after allowance of any other credit provided under this section and any credits permitted under sections six hundred twenty, six hundred twenty-one and six hundred thirty-five of this article. The amount of the credit shall be the amount of the special additional mortgage recording tax paid by the taxpayer pursuant to the provisions of subdivision one-a of section two hundred fifty-three of this chapter on mortgages recorded on and after January first, nineteen hundred seventy-nine. Provided, however, no credit shall be allowed with respect to a mortgage of real property principally improved or to be improved by one or more structures containing in the aggregate not more than six residential dwelling units, each dwelling unit having its own separate cooking facilities, where the real property is located in one or more of the counties comprising the metropolitan commuter transportation district and where the mortgage is recorded on or after May first, nineteen hundred eighty-seven. Provided, however, no credit shall be allowed with respect to a mortgage of real property principally improved or to be improved by one or more structures containing in the aggregate not more than six residential dwelling units, each dwelling unit having its own separate cooking facilities, where the real property is located in the county of Erie and where the mortgage is recorded on or after May first, nineteen hundred eighty-seven.

(2) In no event shall the amount of the credit herein provided for be allowed in excess of the taxpayer's tax for such year. However, if the amount of credit otherwise allowable under this subsection for any taxable year results in such excess amount, any amount of credit not deductible in such taxable year may be carried over to the following year or years and may be deducted from the taxpayer's tax for such year or years.

(3)(A) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraphs one and two of this subsection, for taxable years beginning after two thousand three, a taxpayer shall be allowed a credit, to be credited against the tax imposed by this article, equal to the amount of the special additional mortgage recording tax paid by the taxpayer or, in the case of a taxpayer who is a partner in a partnership, the partner's pro rata share of the amount of the special additional mortgage recording tax paid by the partnership, pursuant to the provisions of subdivision one-a of section two hundred fifty-three of this chapter on mortgages recorded on and after January first, two thousand four. Provided, however, no credit shall be allowed with respect to a mortgage of real property principally improved by one or more structures containing in the aggregate not more than six residential dwelling units, each dwelling unit having its own separate cooking facilities, where the real property is located in one or more of the counties comprising the metropolitan commuter transportation district and where the mortgage is recorded on or after January first, two thousand four. Provided further, no credit shall be allowed with respect to a mortgage of real property principally improved by one or more structures containing in the aggregate not more than six residential dwelling units, each dwelling unit having its own separate cooking facilities, where the real property is located in Erie county and where the mortgage is recorded on or after January first, two thousand four.

(B) If the amount of credit allowable under this paragraph for any taxable year exceeds the taxpayer's tax for such year, any amount of credit exceeding such tax may be carried over to the following year or years and may be deducted from the taxpayer's tax for such year or years. Provided further, such taxpayer may elect to treat such unused amount of credit as an overpayment of tax to be credited or refunded in accordance with the provisions of section six hundred eighty-six of this article except that no interest shall be paid on such overpayment.

(g) Credit for solar and wind energy systems.

(1) A taxpayer shall be allowed a credit for taxable years beginning on or after January first, nineteen hundred eighty-one and ending before December thirty-first, nineteen hundred eighty-six against the tax imposed by this article for the purchase and installation of a solar or wind energy system by a taxpayer in his principal residence, if such residence is located within the state. The amount of the credit shall be fifty-five percent of the expenditure incurred in purchasing and installing any such system or combination thereof, but not to exceed the maximum credit of two thousand seven hundred fifty dollars.

(2) A solar or wind system is a system whose original use begins with the taxpayer; which meets the eligibility criteria, if any, prescribed by the department of taxation and finance; and which is:

(A) an active solar energy system which shall mean an arrangement or combination of components designed to provide heating, cooling, hot water or electricity through the process of collecting solar radiation, converting it to another form of energy, storing the converted energy, protecting against unnecessary dissipation and distributing the converted energy, and which requires external mechanical power for operation. This term shall not include pipes, controls, insulation or other equipment which are part of the conventional heating, cooling, insulation or electrical system of a building; nor shall it include any expenditure allocable to a swimming pool used as a storage medium;

(B) a passive solar energy system, which shall mean a system which relies upon the original or retrofitted design and elements of a building to enhance the use of natural forces including solar radiation, winds and night-time coolness to provide heating, cooling or hot water through the process of collecting solar radiation, converting it to another form of energy, storing the converted energy, protecting against unnecessary dissipation and distributing the converted energy, and which is not primarily dependent upon mechanical power for operation. This term shall not include pipes, controls, insulation or other equipment which are part of the conventional heating, cooling or insulation system of the building; nor shall it include any expenditure allocable to a swimming pool used as a storage medium; or designed to provide electricity or mechanical energy through the process of converting wind energy into mechanical and/or electric energy, and storing or distributing such energy.

(3) Where a solar or wind energy system is purchased and installed by a condominium management association or a cooperative housing corporation, a taxpayer who is a member of the condominium management association or who is a tenant-stockholder in the cooperative housing corporation may for the purpose of this subsection claim a proportionate share of the total expense as the expenditure for the purposes of the credit attributable to his principal residence.

(4) Where a solar or wind system is purchased and installed in a principal residence shared by two or more taxpayers the amount of the credit allowable under this subsection for each such taxpayer shall be prorated according to the percentage of the total expenditure for such system contributed by each taxpayer.

(5) To the extent that a federal income tax credit shall apply to expenditures eligible for a credit under this subsection, the credit provided in this subsection shall be reduced so that the combined credit shall not exceed fifty-five percent of such expenditures or six thousand seven hundred fifty dollars, whichever is less.

(6) If the amount of credit allowable under this subsection shall exceed the taxpayer's tax for such year, the excess may be carried over to the following year or years and may be deducted from the taxpayer's tax for such year or years.

(7) If all or any part of the credit provided for under this subsection was allowed or carried over from a prior taxable year or years, a taxpayer shall reduce the allowable credit for additional qualifying expenditures in a subsequent tax year by the amount of the credit previously allowed or carried over; provided however that a credit previously allowed or carried over from a prior taxable year or years shall not be taken into account in determining the allowable credit for the purchase and installation of a solar or wind energy system in a subsequent principal residence.

(8) For the purpose of determining the amount of the actual expenditure incurred in purchasing and installing a solar or wind energy system, the amount of any federal, state or local grant received by the taxpayer, which was used for the purchase and/or installation of such system and which was not included in the gross income of the taxpayer, shall not be taken into account.

(9) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, if a credit is allowed under this subsection for a renewable energy system with respect to any property, the increase in the basis of such property which would but for this subsection result from such expenditure shall be reduced by the amount of the credit allowed. When the sale or other disposition of such property results in the nonrecognition of gain under section one thousand thirty-four of the internal revenue code, a like reduction shall be made to the basis of the new residence, if such residence is located within the state.

(g-1) Solar energy system equipment credit. (1) General. An individual taxpayer shall be allowed a credit against the tax imposed by this article equal to twenty-five percent of qualified solar energy system equipment expenditures, except as provided in subparagraph (D) of paragraph two of this subsection. This credit shall not exceed three thousand seven hundred fifty dollars for qualified solar energy equipment placed in service before September first, two thousand six, and five thousand dollars for qualified solar energy equipment placed in service on or after September first, two thousand six.

(2) Qualified solar energy system equipment expenditures. (A) The term "qualified solar energy system equipment expenditures" means expenditures for:

(i) the purchase of solar energy system equipment which is installed in connection with residential property which is (I) located in this state and (II) which is used by the taxpayer as his or her principal residence at the time the solar energy system equipment is placed in service;

(ii) the lease of solar energy system equipment under a written agreement that spans at least ten years where such equipment owned by a person other than the taxpayer is installed in connection with residential property which is (I) located in this state and (II) which is used by the taxpayer as his or her principal residence at the time the solar energy system equipment is placed in service; or

is installed in connection with residential property which is (I) located in this state and (II) which is used by the taxpayer as his or her principal residence at the time the solar energy system equipment is placed in service.

(B) Such qualified expenditures shall include expenditures for materials, labor costs properly allocable to on-site preparation, assembly and original installation, architectural and engineering services, and designs and plans directly related to the construction or installation of the solar energy system equipment.

(C) Such qualified expenditures for the purchase of solar energy system equipment shall not include interest or other finance charges.

(D) Such qualified expenditures for the lease of solar energy system equipment or the purchase of power under an agreement described in clauses (ii) or (iii) of subparagraph (A) of this paragraph shall include an amount equal to all payments made during the taxable year under such agreement. Provided, however, such credits shall only be allowed for fourteen years after the first taxable year in which such credit is allowed. Provided further, however, the twenty-five percent limitation in paragraph one of this subsection shall only apply to the total aggregate amount of all payments to be made pursuant to an agreement referenced in clauses (ii) or (iii) of subparagraph (A) of this paragraph, and shall not apply to individual payments made during a taxable year under such agreement except to the extent such limitation on an aggregate basis has been reached.

(3) Solar energy system equipment. The term "solar energy system equipment" shall mean an arrangement or combination of components utilizing solar radiation, which, when installed in a residence, produces energy designed to provide heating, cooling, hot water or electricity for use in such residence. Such arrangement or components shall not include equipment connected to solar energy system equipment that is a component of part or parts of a non-solar energy system or which uses any sort of recreational facility or equipment as a storage medium. Solar energy system equipment that generates electricity for use in a residence must conform to applicable requirements set forth in section sixty-six-j of the public service law. Provided, however, where solar energy system equipment is purchased and installed by a condominium management association or a cooperative housing corporation, for purposes of this subsection only, the term "ten kilowatts" in such section sixty-six-j shall be read as "fifty kilowatts."

(4) Multiple taxpayers. Where solar energy system equipment is purchased and installed in a principal residence shared by two or more taxpayers, the amount of the credit allowable under this subsection for each such taxpayer shall be prorated according to the percentage of the total expenditure for such solar energy system equipment contributed by each taxpayer.

(5) Proportionate share. Where solar energy system equipment is purchased and installed by a condominium management association or a cooperative housing corporation, a taxpayer who is a member of the condominium management association or who is a tenant-stockholder in the cooperative housing corporation may for the purpose of this subsection claim a proportionate share of the total expense as the expenditure for the purposes of the credit attributable to his principal residence.

(6) Grants. For purposes of determining the amount of the expenditure incurred in purchasing and installing solar energy system equipment, the amount of any federal, state or local grant received by the taxpayer, which was used for the purchase and/or installation of such equipment and which was not included in the federal gross income of the taxpayer, shall not be included in the amount of such expenditures.

(7) When credit allowed. The credit provided for herein shall be allowed with respect to the taxable year, commencing after nineteen hundred ninety-seven, in which the solar energy system equipment is placed in service.

(8) Carryover of credit. If the amount of the credit, and carryovers of such credit, allowable under this subsection for any taxable year shall exceed the taxpayer's tax for such year, such excess amount may be carried over to the five taxable years next following the taxable year with respect to which the credit is allowed and may be deducted from the taxpayer's tax for such year or years.

(g-2) Fuel cell electric generating equipment credit. (1) General. For taxable years beginning before January first, two thousand nine, an individual taxpayer shall be allowed a credit against the tax imposed by this article equal to twenty percent of qualified fuel cell electric generating equipment expenditures. This credit shall not exceed one thousand five hundred dollars per generating unit with respect to any taxable year. The credit provided for herein shall be allowed with respect to the taxable year in which the fuel cell electric generating equipment is placed in service.

(2) Qualified fuel cell electric generating equipment expenditures.

(A) Qualified fuel cell electric generating equipment expenditures are the costs, incurred on or after July first, two thousand five, associated with the purchase of on-site electricity generation systems utilizing proton exchange membrane fuel cells, providing a rated baseload capacity of no less than one kilowatt and no more than one hundred kilowatts of electricity, which are located in this state at the time the qualified fuel cell electric generating equipment is placed in service.

(B) Qualified fuel cell electric generating equipment expenditures shall also include costs, incurred on or after July first, two thousand five, for materials, labor for on-site preparation, assembly and original installation, engineering services, designs and plans directly related to construction or installation and utility compliance costs.

(C) Such qualified expenditures shall not include interest or other finance charges.

(3) Multiple taxpayers. Where fuel cell electric generating equipment is purchased and installed in a principal residence shared by two or more taxpayers, the amount of the credit allowable under this subsection for each such taxpayer shall be prorated according to the percentage of the total expenditure for such fuel cell electric generating equipment contributed by each taxpayer.

(4) Grants. For purposes of determining the amount of the expenditure incurred in purchasing and installing fuel cell electric generating equipment, the amount of any federal, state or local grant received by the taxpayer, which was used for the purchase and/or installation of such equipment and which was not included in the federal gross income of the taxpayer, shall not be included in the amount of such expenditures.

(5) Carryover of credit. If the amount of the credit, and carryovers of such credit, allowable under this subsection for any taxable year shall exceed the taxpayer's tax for such year, such excess amount may be carried over to the five taxable years next following the taxable year with respect to which the credit is allowed and may be deducted from the taxpayer's tax for such year or years.

(g-4) Geothermal energy systems credit. (1) General. An individual taxpayer shall be allowed a credit against the tax imposed by this article equal to twenty-five percent of qualified geothermal energy system expenditures, except as provided in subparagraph (D) of paragraph two of this subsection, not to exceed five thousand dollars for qualified geothermal energy systems placed in service on or before June thirtieth, two thousand twenty-five, and ten thousand dollars for qualified geothermal energy equipment placed in service on or after July first, two thousand twenty-five.

(2) Qualified geothermal energy systems expenditures. (A) The term "qualified geothermal energy system expenditures" means expenditures for:

(i) the purchase of geothermal energy system equipment which is installed in connection with residential property which is (I) located in this state and (II) which is the taxpayer's residence at the time the geothermal energy system is placed in service; or

(ii) the lease of geothermal energy system equipment under a written agreement that spans at least ten years where such equipment owned by a person other than the taxpayer is installed in connection with residential property which is (I) located in this state and (II) which is the taxpayer's residence at the time the geothermal energy system equipment is placed in service.

(B) Such qualified expenditures shall include expenditures for materials, labor costs properly allocable to on-site preparation, assembly and original installation, architectural and engineering services, and designs and plans directly related to the construction or installation of the geothermal energy system equipment.

(C) Such qualified expenditures for the purchase of geothermal energy system equipment shall not include interest or other finance charges or costs that have been used to qualify for any other credit.

(D) Such qualified expenditures for the lease of geothermal energy system equipment under an agreement described in clause (ii) of subparagraph (A) of this paragraph shall include an amount equal to all payments made during the taxable year under such agreement. Provided, however, such credits shall only be allowed for fourteen years after the first taxable year in which such credit is allowed. Provided further, however, the twenty-five percent limitation in paragraph one of this subsection shall only apply to the total aggregate amount of all payments to be made pursuant to an agreement referenced in clause (ii) of subparagraph (A) of this paragraph, and shall not apply to individual payments made during a taxable year under such agreement except to the extent such limitation on an aggregate basis has been reached.

(3) Geothermal energy system equipment. The term "geothermal energy system equipment" shall mean a system whose original use begins with the taxpayer; which meets the eligibility criteria, if any, prescribed by the department; and which is a ground coupled solar thermal system that utilizes the solar thermal energy stored in the ground or in bodies of water to produce heat, and which is commonly known as or referred to as a ground source heat pump system.

(4) Multiple taxpayers. Where geothermal energy system equipment is purchased and installed in a residence shared by two or more taxpayers, the amount of the credit allowable under this subsection for each such taxpayer shall be prorated according to the percentage of the total expenditure for such geothermal energy system equipment contributed by each taxpayer.

(5) Proportionate share. Where geothermal energy system equipment is purchased and installed by a condominium management association or a cooperative housing corporation, a taxpayer who is a member of the condominium management association or who is a tenant-stockholder in the cooperative housing corporation may for the purpose of this subsection claim a proportionate share of the total expense as the expenditure for the purposes of the credit attributable to the taxpayer's residence.

(6) Grants. For purposes of determining the amount of the expenditure incurred in purchasing and installing geothermal energy system equipment, the amount of any federal, state or local grant received by the taxpayer, which was used for the purchase and/or installation of such equipment and which was not included in the federal gross income of the taxpayer, shall not be included in the amount of such expenditures.

(7) Limitation. The credit shall only be allowed for geothermal energy system equipment installed in connection with residential property used exclusively for personal purposes by the taxpayer. No credit shall be allowed for geothermal energy system equipment installed in connection with residential property that is rented at any time during the taxable year for which the credit is being claimed.

(8) When credit allowed. The credit provided for herein shall be allowed with respect to the taxable year in which the geothermal energy system equipment is placed in service and shall be allowed only for geothermal energy system equipment placed into service after January first, two thousand twenty-two. However, the taxpayer shall be allowed a credit for only one such system in any taxable year.

(9) Application of credit. If the amount of the credit, and carryovers of such credit, allowable under this subsection for any taxable year shall exceed the taxpayer's tax for such year, such excess amount may be carried over to the five taxable years next following the taxable year with respect to which the credit is allowed and may be deducted from the taxpayer's tax for such year or years. For taxable years beginning on or after January first, two thousand twenty-six, taxpayers who are (A) married filing jointly or qualifying surviving spouses with a federal adjusted gross income of one hundred eighty thousand dollars or less, or (B) single, married filing separate, or heads of household with a federal adjusted gross income of ninety thousand dollars or less, may elect to receive such excess amount as a refund. Any refund paid pursuant to this paragraph shall be deemed to be a refund of an overpayment of tax as provided in section six hundred eighty-six of this article, provided, however, that no interest shall be paid thereon.

(h) Research and development tax credit. (1) For taxable years commencing prior to January first, nineteen hundred eighty-seven, a taxpayer shall be allowed a credit against the tax imposed by this article after allowance of any other credit provided under this section and any credits permitted under sections six hundred twenty, six hundred twenty-one and six hundred thirty-five of this article. The amount of the credit shall be ten percent of the cost or other basis for federal income tax purposes of tangible personal property, including buildings and other structural components of buildings, described in paragraph two of this subsection acquired, constructed or reconstructed, or erected after June thirtieth, nineteen hundred eighty-two.

(2) A credit shall be allowed under this section with respect to tangible personal property and other tangible property, including buildings and structural components of buildings which are: depreciable pursuant to section one hundred sixty-seven of the internal revenue code, have a useful life of four years or more, are acquired by purchase as defined in section one hundred seventy-nine (d) of the internal revenue code, have a situs in this state and are used or are to be used for purposes of research and development in the experimental or laboratory sense. Such purposes shall not be deemed to include the ordinary testing or inspection of materials or products for quality control, efficiency surveys, management studies, consumer surveys, advertising, promotions, or research in connection with literary, historical or similar projects.

(3) A taxpayer shall not be allowed a credit under this subsection with respect to any property described in paragraphs one and two of this subsection, if such property qualifies for the modification allowed under either paragraph three or paragraph four of subsection (g) of section six hundred twelve whether or not such amount shall have been subtracted, or if a credit is taken pursuant to subsection (a) of this section. Provided, however, with respect to property which qualifies under either clause (A), (B) or (C) of paragraph four of subsection (g) because such property was ordered on or before December thirty-first, nineteen hundred sixty-eight, but with respect to which no expenditure has been paid or incurred at such date, the taxpayer may elect to subtract the amount allowable under clause (A), (B) or (C) or may take the credit provided by this subsection, but not both.

(4) A taxpayer shall not be allowed a credit under this subsection with respect to tangible personal property and other tangible property, including buildings and structural components of buildings, which it leases to any other person or corporation. For purposes of the preceding sentence, any contract or agreement to lease or rent or for a license to use such property shall be considered a lease. Provided, however, in determining whether a taxpayer shall be allowed a credit under this subsection with respect to such property, any election made with respect to such property pursuant to the provisions of paragraph eight of subsection (f) of section one hundred sixty-eight of the internal revenue code, as such paragraph was in effect for agreements entered into prior to January first, nineteen hundred eighty-four, shall be disregarded.

(5) If the amount of credit allowable under this subsection for any taxable year shall exceed the taxpayer's tax for such year, the excess may be carried over to the following year or years and may be deducted from the taxpayer's tax for such year or years but in no event shall such credit be carried over to taxable years commencing on or after January first, nineteen hundred ninety-four.

(6) (A) With respect to property which is depreciable pursuant to section one hundred sixty-seven of the internal revenue code but is not subject to the provisions of section one hundred sixty-eight of such code, and which is disposed of or ceases to be in qualified use prior to the end of the taxable year in which the credit is to be taken, the amount of the credit shall be that portion of the credit provided for in this subsection which represents the ratio which the months of qualified use bear to the months of useful life. If property on which credit has been taken is disposed of or ceases to be in qualified use prior to the end of its useful life, the difference between the credit taken and the credit allowed for actual use must be added back in the year of disposition. Provided, however, if such property is disposed of or ceases to be in qualified use after it has been in qualified use for more than twelve consecutive years, it shall not be necessary to add back the credit as provided in this subparagraph. The amount of credit allowed for actual use shall be determined by multiplying the original credit by the ratio which the months of qualified use bear to the months of useful life. For purposes of this subparagraph, useful life of property shall be the same as the taxpayer uses for depreciation purposes when computing his federal income tax liability.

(B) Except with respect to that property to which subparagraph (D) of this paragraph applies, with respect to three-year property, as defined in subsection (e) of section one hundred sixty-eight of the internal revenue code, which is disposed of or ceases to be in qualified use prior to the end of the taxable year in which the credit is to be taken, the amount of the credit shall be that portion of the credit provided for in this subsection which represents the ratio which the months of qualified use bear to thirty-six. If property on which credit has been taken is disposed of or ceases to be in qualified use prior to the end of thirty-six months, the difference between the credit taken and the credit allowed for actual use must be added back in the year of disposition. The amount of credit allowed for actual use shall be determined by multiplying the original credit by the ratio which the months of qualified use bear to thirty-six.

(C) Except with respect to that property to which subparagraph (D) of this paragraph applies, with respect to property subject to the provisions of section one hundred sixty-eight of the internal revenue code other than three-year property as defined in subsection (e) of such section one hundred sixty-eight, which is disposed of or ceases to be in qualified use prior to the end of the taxable year in which the credit is to be taken, the amount of the credit shall be that portion of the credit provided for in this subsection which represents the ratio which the months of qualified use bear to sixty. If property on which credit has been taken is disposed of or ceases to be in qualified use prior to the end of sixty months, the difference between the credit taken and the credit allowed for actual use must be added back in the year of disposition. The amount of credit allowed for actual use shall be determined by multiplying the original credit by the ratio which the months of qualified use bear to sixty.

(D) With respect to any property to which section one hundred sixty-eight of the internal revenue code applies, which is a building or a structural component of a building and which is disposed of or ceases to be in qualified use prior to the end of the taxable year in which the credit is to be taken, the amount of the credit shall be that portion of the credit provided for in this subsection which represents the ratio which the months of qualified use bear to the total number of months over which the taxpayer chooses to deduct the property under the internal revenue code. If property on which credit has been taken is disposed of or ceases to be in qualified use prior to the end of the period over which the taxpayer chooses to deduct the property under the internal revenue code, the difference between the credit taken and the credit allowed for actual use must be added back in the year of disposition. Provided, however, if such property is disposed of or ceases to be in qualified use after it has been in qualified use for more than twelve consecutive years, it shall not be necessary to add back the credit as provided in this subparagraph. The amount of credit allowed for actual use shall be determined by multiplying the original credit by the ratio which the months of qualified use bear to the total number of months over which the taxpayer chooses to deduct the property under the internal revenue code.

(2) The reduction of a shareholder's proportionate interest in the corporation shall be treated as a disposition of property for which a redetermination of credit is required under subsections (a), (j) and (l) of this section.

(3) Transition provisions relating to S corporation credits allowed for taxable years beginning before nineteen hundred ninety-four. (A) Credit carryover. Any excess credit under subparagraph (A) of paragraph one of this subsection, as it was in effect for taxable years beginning before nineteen hundred ninety-four, may be carried over to the shareholder's following year or years and may be deducted from such shareholder's tax for such year or years, except that any excess credit attributable to subdivision one of section two hundred ten-B of this chapter shall in no event be carried over beyond the ten taxable years next following the taxable year of origin.

(B) Credit recapture. Any redetermination of credit required by this subsection as it was in effect for taxable years beginning before nineteen hundred ninety-four, upon disposition or cessation of qualified use of property pursuant to paragraph (e) of subdivision one, or paragraph (f) of subdivision three of section two hundred ten-B of this chapter shall be attributed in pro rata shares to the shareholders who were allowed credit under this subsection with respect to such property, and the reduction of a shareholder's proportionate stock interest shall be treated as a disposition of property for which a redetermination of credit under such paragraphs is required with respect to such shareholder.

(4) Transition provisions relating to credit for special additional mortgage recording tax. In the case of the special additional mortgage recording tax credit, in addition to any carryover thereof under paragraph three of this subsection (relating to carryover from taxable years of the shareholder beginning before nineteen hundred ninety-four), there also shall be allowed a credit for such tax which is due and paid by an S corporation in a taxable year of the corporation beginning in nineteen hundred ninety-three, which year ends within the shareholder's taxable year beginning in nineteen hundred ninety-four. Any such credit, and carryover thereof, shall be allowed as provided under this subsection as it was in effect for taxable years beginning before nineteen hundred ninety-four.

(j) Empire zone investment tax credit (EZ-ITC). (1) A taxpayer shall be allowed a credit, to be computed as hereinafter provided, against the tax imposed by this article where the taxpayer has been certified pursuant to article eighteen-B of the general municipal law. The amount of such credit shall be eight percent of the cost or other basis for federal income tax purposes of tangible personal property and other tangible property, including buildings and structural components of buildings, described in paragraph two of this subsection, which is located within an empire zone designated as such pursuant to article eighteen-B of such law, but only if the acquisition, construction, reconstruction or erection of such property occurred or was commenced on or after the date of such designation and prior to the expiration thereof. Provided, however, that in the case of an acquisition, construction, reconstruction or erection which was commenced during such period and continued or completed subsequently, the credit shall be eight percent of the portion of the cost or other basis for federal income tax purposes attributable to such period, which portion shall be ascertained by multiplying such cost or basis by a fraction the numerator of which shall be the expenditures paid or incurred during such period for such purposes and the denominator of which shall be the total of all expenditures paid or incurred for such acquisition, construction, reconstruction or erection.

(2) A credit shall be allowed under this subsection with respect to tangible personal property and other tangible property, including buildings and structural components of buildings which: (A) are depreciable pursuant to section one hundred sixty-seven of the internal revenue code, (B) have a useful life of four years or more, (C) are acquired by purchase as defined in section one hundred seventy-nine (d) of the internal revenue code, (D) have a situs in an empire zone designated as such pursuant to article eighteen-B of the general municipal law, and (E) are (i) principally used by the taxpayer in the production of goods by manufacturing, processing, assembling, refining, mining, extracting, farming, agriculture, horticulture, floriculture, viticulture or commercial fishing, (ii) industrial waste treatment facilities or air pollution control facilities used in the taxpayer's trade or business, (iii) research and development property, (iv) principally used in the ordinary course of the taxpayer's trade or business as a broker or dealer in connection with the purchase or sale (which shall include but not be limited to the issuance, entering into, assumption, offset, assignment, termination, or transfer) of stocks, bonds or other securities as defined in section four hundred seventy-five (c)(2) of the Internal Revenue Code, or of commodities as defined in section four hundred seventy-five (e) of the Internal Revenue Code, or (v) principally used in the ordinary course of the taxpayer's trade or business of providing investment advisory services for a regulated investment company as defined in section eight hundred fifty-one of the Internal Revenue Code, or lending, loan arrangement or loan origination services to customers in connection with the purchase or sale (which shall include but not be limited to the issuance, entering into, assumption, offset, assignment, termination, or transfer) of securities as defined in section four hundred seventy-five (c)(2) of the Internal Revenue Code. For purposes of clauses (iv) and (v) of this subparagraph, property purchased by a taxpayer affiliated with a regulated broker, dealer or registered investment adviser is allowed a credit under this subsection if the property is used by its affiliated regulated broker, dealer or registered investment adviser in accordance with this subsection. For purposes of determining if the property is principally used in qualifying uses, the uses by the taxpayer described in clauses (iv) and (v) of this subparagraph may be aggregated. In addition, the uses by the taxpayer, its affiliated regulated broker, dealer, and registered investment adviser under either or both of those clauses may be aggregated. Provided, however, a taxpayer shall not be allowed the credit provided by clauses (iv) and (v) of this subparagraph unless (I) eighty percent or more of the employees performing the administrative and support functions resulting from or related to the qualifying uses of such equipment are located in this state, or (II) the average number of employees that perform the administrative and support functions resulting from or related to the qualifying uses of such equipment and are located in this state during the taxable year for which the credit is claimed is equal to or greater than ninety-five percent of the average number of employees that perform these functions and are located in this state during the thirty-six months immediately preceding the year for which the credit is claimed, or (III) the number of employees located in this state during the taxable year for which the credit is claimed is equal to or greater than ninety percent of the number of employees located in this state on December thirty-first, nineteen hundred ninety-eight or, if the taxpayer was not a calendar year taxpayer in nineteen hundred ninety-eight, the last day of its first taxable year ending after December thirty-first, nineteen hundred ninety-eight. If the taxpayer becomes subject to tax in this state after the taxable year beginning in nineteen hundred ninety-eight, then the taxpayer is not required to satisfy the employment test provided in the preceding sentence of this subparagraph for its first taxable year. For purposes of clause (III) of this subparagraph, the employment test will be based on the number of employees located in this state on the last day of the first taxable year the taxpayer is subject to tax in this state. If the uses of the property must be aggregated to determine whether the property is principally used in qualifying uses, then either each affiliate using the property must satisfy this employment test or this employment test must be satisfied through the aggregation of the employees of the taxpayer, its affiliated regulated broker, dealer, and registered investment adviser using the property. For purposes of this subsection, the term "goods" shall not include electricity. For purposes of this paragraph, manufacturing shall mean the process of working raw materials into wares suitable for use or which gives new shapes, new quality or new combination to matter which already has gone through some artificial process by the use of machinery, tools, appliances and other similar equipment. Property used in the production of goods shall include machinery, equipment or other tangible property which is principally used in the repair and service of other machinery, equipment or other tangible property used principally in the production of goods and shall include all facilities used in the production operation, including storage of material to be used in production and of the products that are produced. For purposes of this paragraph, the terms "research and development property", "industrial waste treatment facilities", and "air pollution control facilities" shall have the meanings ascribed thereto by clauses (ii), (iii) and (iv), respectively, of subparagraph (B) of paragraph two of subsection (a) of this section, and the provisions of subparagraph (C) of such paragraph two shall apply.

(3) A taxpayer shall not be allowed a credit under this subsection with respect to any tangible personal property and other tangible property, including buildings and structural components of buildings, which it leases to any other person or corporation except where a taxpayer leases property to an affiliated regulated broker, dealer, or registered investment adviser that uses such property in accordance with clause (iv) or (v) of subparagraph (E) of paragraph two of this subsection. For purposes of the preceding sentence, any contract or agreement to lease or rent or for a license to use such property shall be considered a lease. Provided, however, in determining whether a taxpayer shall be allowed a credit under this subsection with respect to such property, any election made with respect to such property pursuant to the provisions of paragraph eight of subsection (f) of section one hundred sixty-eight of the internal revenue code, as such paragraph was in effect for agreements entered into prior to January first, nineteen hundred eighty-four, shall be disregarded.

(4) If the amount of credit allowed under this subsection for any taxable year shall exceed the taxpayer's tax for such year, the excess may be carried over to the following year or years and may be deducted from the taxpayer's tax for such year or years. In lieu of carrying over any such excess, a taxpayer who qualifies as an owner of a new business for purposes of paragraph ten of subsection (a) of this section may, at his option, receive fifty percent of such excess as a refund. Any refund paid pursuant to this paragraph shall be deemed to be a refund of an overpayment of tax as provided in section six hundred eighty-six of this article, provided, however, that no interest shall be paid thereon.

(4-a) Any carry over of a credit from prior taxable years will not be allowed if an empire zone retention certificate is not issued pursuant to subdivision (w) of section nine hundred fifty-nine of the general municipal law to the empire zone enterprise which is the basis of the credit.

(5) At the option of the taxpayer, air or water pollution control facilities which qualify for elective modifications under subsection (h) of section six hundred twelve, or research and development facilities which qualify for elective modification under paragraphs three and four of subsection (g) of section six hundred twelve, or property which qualifies for the credit provided under subsection (a) or (h) of this section may be treated as property principally used by the taxpayer in the production of goods by manufacturing, processing, assembling, mining, refining, extracting, farming, agriculture, horticulture, floriculture, viticulture, or commercial fishing, provided the property otherwise qualifies under paragraph two of this subsection, in which event a deduction shall not be allowed under such subsection (h) or such paragraphs three and four of subsection (g) and a credit shall not be allowed under such subsection (a) or (h).

(6) (A) With respect to property which is depreciable pursuant to section one hundred sixty-seven of the internal revenue code but is not subject to the provisions of section one hundred sixty-eight of such code and which is disposed of or ceases to be in qualified use prior to the end of the taxable year in which the credit is to be taken, the amount of the credit shall be that portion of the credit provided for in this section which represents the ratio which the months of qualified use bear to the months of useful life. If the property on which credit has been taken is disposed of or ceases to be in qualified use prior to the end of its useful life, the difference between the credit taken and the credit allowed for actual use must be added back in the year of disposition. Provided, however, if such property is disposed of or ceases to be in qualified use after it has been in qualified use for more than twelve consecutive years, it shall not be necessary to add back the credit as provided in this subsection. The amount of credit allowed for actual use shall be determined by multiplying the original credit by the ratio which the months of qualified use bear to the months of useful life. For purposes of this subsection, useful life of property shall be the same as the taxpayer uses for depreciation purposes when computing his federal income tax liability.

(B) Except with respect to that property to which subparagraph (D) of this paragraph applies, with respect to three-year property, as defined in subsection (e) of section one hundred sixty-eight of the internal revenue code, which is disposed of or ceases to be in qualified use prior to the end of the taxable year in which the credit is to be taken, the amount of the credit shall be that portion of the credit provided for in this subsection which represents the ratio which the months of qualified use bear to thirty-six. If property on which credit has been taken is disposed of or ceases to be in qualified use prior to the end of thirty-six months, the difference between the credit taken and the credit allowed for actual use must be added back in the year of disposition. The amount of credit allowed for actual use shall be determined by multiplying the original credit by the ratio which the months of qualified use bear to thirty-six.

or ceases to be in qualified use prior to the end of sixty months, the difference between the credit taken and the credit allowed for actual use must be added back in the year of disposition. The amount of credit allowed for actual use shall be determined by multiplying the original credit by the ratio which the months of qualified use bear to sixty.

(D) With respect to any property to which section one hundred sixty-eight of the internal revenue code applies, which is a building or a structural component of a building and which is disposed of or ceases to be in qualified use prior to the end of the taxable year in which the credit is to be taken, the amount of the credit shall be that portion of the credit provided for in this subsection which represents the ratio which the months of qualified use bear to the total number of months over which the taxpayer chooses to deduct the property under the internal revenue code. If property on which credit has been taken is disposed of or ceases to be in qualified use prior to the end of the period over which the taxpayer chooses to deduct the property under the internal revenue code, the difference between the credit taken and the credit allowed for actual use must be added back in the year of disposition. Provided, however, if such property is disposed of or ceases to be in qualified use after it has been in qualified use for more than twelve consecutive years, it shall not be necessary to add back the credit as provided in this subparagraph. The amount of credit allowed for actual use shall be determined by multiplying the original credit by the ratio which the months of qualified use bear to the total number of months over which the taxpayer chooses to deduct the property under the internal revenue code.

(E) For purposes of this paragraph, disposal or cessation of qualified use shall not be deemed to have occurred solely by reason of the termination or expiration of an empire zone's designation as such.

(F)(i) For purposes of this paragraph, the decertification of a business enterprise with respect to an empire zone shall constitute a disposal or cessation of qualified use of the property on which the credit was taken which is located in the zone to which the decertification applies, on the effective date of such decertification.

(ii) Where a business enterprise has been decertified based on a finding pursuant to clause one, two, or five of subdivision (a) of section nine hundred fifty-nine of the general municipal law, the amount required to be added back by reason of this paragraph shall be augmented by an amount equal to the product of the amount of credit, with respect to property which is disposed of or ceases to be in qualified use, which was deducted from the taxpayer's tax otherwise due under this article for all prior taxable years (subject to the limit set forth in this subparagraph) and the underpayment rate of interest (without regard to compounding) set by the commissioner of taxation and finance pursuant to subdivision (j) of section six hundred ninety-seven of this chapter, in effect on the last day of the taxable year. The limit shall be (I) the amount of credit, with respect to the property which is disposed of or ceases to be in qualified use, which was deducted from the taxpayer's tax otherwise due under this article for all prior taxable years, reduced (but not below zero) by (II) the credit allowed for actual use. For purposes of this subparagraph, the attribution to specific property of credit amount deducted from tax shall be established in accordance with the date of placement in service of such property in the empire zone.

(iii) In no event shall the amount of the credit allowed pursuant to this subsection be rendered, solely by reason of clause (i) of this subparagraph, less than the amount of the credit to which the taxpayer would otherwise be entitled under subsection (a) of this section.

(iv) Notwithstanding any other provision of this subsection, in the case of a business enterprise which has been decertified, any amount of credit allowed with respect to the property of such business enterprise located in the zone to which the decertification applies which is carried over pursuant to paragraph four of this subsection shall not be carried over beyond the seventh taxable year next following the taxable year with respect to which the credit provided for in this subsection was allowed.

(G) For purposes of this paragraph, where a credit is allowed with respect to an air pollution control facility on the basis of a certificate of compliance issued pursuant to the environmental conservation law and the certificate is revoked pursuant to subdivision three of section 19-0309 of the environmental conservation law, such revocation shall constitute a disposal or cessation of qualified use, except with respect to property contained in or comprising such facility which is described in clause (i), (ii) or (iii) of subparagraph (E) of paragraph two of this subsection other than as part of or comprising an air pollution control facility. Also for purposes of this paragraph, the use of an air pollution control facility or an industrial waste treatment facility for the primary purpose of salvaging materials which are usable in the manufacturing process or are marketable shall constitute a cessation of qualified use, except with respect to property contained in or comprising such facility which is described in clause (i) or (iii) of subparagraph (E) of paragraph two of this subsection.

(H) Except as provided in this subparagraph, this paragraph shall not apply to a credit allowed by this subsection to a taxpayer that is a partner in a partnership in the case of manufacturing property; provided, at the time such property was placed in service by such partnership in an empire zone the basis for federal income tax purposes of such property (or a project that includes such property) equaled or exceeded three hundred million dollars and such partner owned his or her partnership interest for at least three years from the date such property was placed in service. If such property ceases to be in qualified use after it is placed in service, this paragraph shall apply to such partner in the year such property ceases to be in qualifying use.

(7) Notwithstanding the expiration of the empire zones program under article eighteen-B of the general municipal law, a taxpayer that is certified as an empire zone business pursuant to such article eighteen-B on the day immediately preceding the day the empire zones program expired shall continue to be deemed certified under such article eighteen-B for purposes of this subdivision until April first, two thousand fourteen. In addition, the areas designated as empire zones in which the taxpayer is certified as an empire zone business on the day immediately preceding the day the empire zones program expired shall continue to be deemed empire zones for purposes of this subdivision until April first, two thousand fourteen.

(j-1) Empire zone employment incentive credit. (1) Where a taxpayer is allowed a credit under subsection (j) of this section, the taxpayer shall be allowed a credit for each of the three years next succeeding the taxable year for which the credit under such subsection (j) is allowed, with respect to such property, whether or not deductible in such taxable year or in subsequent taxable years pursuant to paragraph four of subsection (j) of this section, of thirty percent of the credit allowable under such subsection (j); provided, however, that the credit allowable under this subsection for any taxable year shall only be allowed if the average number of employees employed by the taxpayer in the empire zone, designated pursuant to article eighteen-B of the general municipal law, in which such property is located during such taxable year is at least one hundred one percent of the average number of employees employed by the taxpayer in such empire zone or, where applicable, in the geographic area subsequently constituting such zone, during the taxable year immediately preceding the taxable year for which the credit under such subsection (j) is allowed and provided, further, that in the case of a new business, the credit allowable under this subsection for any taxable year shall be allowed if the average number of employees employed in such empire zone in such taxable year is at least one hundred one percent of the average number of such employees during the taxable year in which the credit under such subsection (j) is allowed.

(2) The average number of employees employed in an empire zone, or, where applicable, in the geographic area subsequently constituting such zone, in a taxable year shall be computed by ascertaining the number of such employees within such zone, or, where applicable, in the geographic area subsequently constituting such zone, employed by the taxpayer on the thirty-first day of March, the thirtieth day of June, the thirtieth day of September and the thirty-first day of December in the taxable year, by adding together the number of employees ascertained in each of such dates and dividing the sum so obtained by the number of such abovementioned dates occurring within the taxable year.

(3) If the amount of credit allowed under this subsection for any taxable year shall exceed the taxpayer's tax for such year, the excess may be carried over to the following year or years and may be deducted from the taxpayer's tax for such year or years. In lieu of carrying over any such excess, a taxpayer who qualified as an owner of a new business for purposes of paragraph ten of subsection (a) of this section may, at his option, receive fifty percent of such excess as a refund. Any refund paid pursuant to this paragraph shall be deemed to be a refund of an overpayment of tax as provided in section six hundred eighty-six of this article, provided, however, that no interest shall be paid thereon.

(3-a) Any carry over of a credit from prior taxable years will not be allowed to an empire zone enterprise which is the basis of the credit, if an empire zone retention certificate is not issued to such entity pursuant to subdivision (w) of section nine hundred fifty-nine of the general municipal law.

(4) Notwithstanding the expiration of the empire zones program under article eighteen-B of the general municipal law, a taxpayer that is certified as an empire zone business pursuant to such article eighteen-B on the day immediately preceding the day the empire zones program expired shall continue to be deemed in the empire zone in which the taxpayer was certified as an empire zone business on the day immediately preceding the day the empire zones program expired for each of the three years next succeeding the taxable year for which the credit under subdivision (j) is allowed.

(k) Empire zone wage tax credit. (1) A taxpayer shall be allowed a credit, to be computed as hereinafter provided, against the tax imposed by this article, where the taxpayer has been certified pursuant to article eighteen-B of the general municipal law. The amount of such credit shall be as prescribed in paragraph four of this subsection.

(2) For the purposes of this subsection, the following terms shall have the following meanings: (A) "Empire zone wages" means wages paid by the taxpayer for full-time employment during the taxable year, in an area designated or previously designated as an empire zone or zone equivalent area pursuant to article eighteen-B of the general municipal law, where such employment is in a job created in the area (i) during the period of its designation as an empire zone, (ii) within four years of the expiration of such designation, or (iii) during the ten year period immediately following the date of designation as a zone equivalent area, provided, however, that if the taxpayer's certification under article eighteen-B of the general municipal law is revoked with respect to an empire zone or zone equivalent area, any wages paid by the taxpayer, on or after the effective date of such decertification, for employment in such zone shall not constitute empire zone wages.

(B) "Targeted employee" means a New York resident who receives empire zone wages and who is (i) an eligible individual under the provisions of the targeted jobs tax credit (section fifty-one of the internal revenue code), (ii) eligible for benefits under the provisions of the workforce investment act as a dislocated worker or low-income individual (P.L. 105-220, as amended), (iii) a recipient of public assistance benefits, (iv) an individual whose income is below the most recently established poverty rate promulgated by the United States department of commerce, or a member of a family whose family income is below the most recently established poverty rate promulgated by the appropriate federal agency or (v) an honorably discharged member of any branch of the armed forces of the United States.

An individual who satisfies the criteria set forth in clause (i), (ii), (iv) or (v) at the time of initial employment in the job with respect to which the credit is claimed, or who satisfies the criterion set forth in clause (iii) at such time or at any time within the previous two years, shall be a targeted employee so long as such individual continues to receive empire zone wages.

(C) "Average number of individuals employed full-time" shall be computed by ascertaining the number of such individuals employed by the taxpayer on the thirty-first day of March, the thirtieth day of June, the thirtieth day of September and the thirty-first day of December during each taxable year or other applicable period, by adding together the number of such individuals ascertained on each of such dates and dividing the sum so obtained by the number of such dates occurring within such taxable year or other applicable period.

(3) The credit provided for herein shall be allowed only where the average number of individuals employed full-time by the taxpayer in (i) the state and (ii) the empire zone or area previously constituting such zone or zone equivalent area, during the taxable year exceeds the average number of such individuals employed full-time by the taxpayer in (i) the state and (ii) such zone or area subsequently or previously constituting such zone or such zone equivalent area, respectively, during the four years immediately preceding the first taxable year in which the credit is claimed with respect to such zone or area. Where the taxpayer provided full-time employment within (i) the state or (ii) such zone or area during only a portion of such four-year period, then for purposes of this paragraph the term "four years" shall be deemed to refer instead to such portion, if any.

The credit shall be allowed only with respect to the first taxable year during which payments of empire zone wages are made and the conditions set forth in this paragraph are satisfied, and with respect to each of the four taxable years next following (but only, with respect to each of such years, if such conditions are satisfied), in accordance with paragraph four of this subsection. Subsequent certifications of the taxpayer pursuant to article eighteen-B of the general municipal law, at the same or a different location in the same empire zone or zone equivalent area or at a location in a different empire zone or zone equivalent area, shall not extend the five taxable year time limitation on the allowance of the credit set forth in the preceding sentence. Provided, further, however, that no credit shall be allowed with respect to any taxable year beginning more than four years following the taxable year in which designation as an empire zone expired or more than ten years after the designation as a zone equivalent area.

(4) The amount of the credit shall equal the sum of

(i) the product of three thousand dollars and the average number of individuals employed full-time by the taxpayer, computed pursuant to the provisions of subparagraph (C) of paragraph two of this subsection, who

(I) received empire zone wages for more than half of the taxable year,

(II) received with respect to more than half of the period of employment by the taxpayer during the taxable year, an hourly wage which was at least one hundred thirty-five percent of the minimum wage specified in section six hundred fifty-two of the labor law, and

(III) are targeted employees; and

(ii) the product of fifteen hundred dollars and the average number of individuals (excluding individuals described in subparagraph (i) of this paragraph) employed full-time by the taxpayer, computed pursuant to the provisions of subparagraph (C) of paragraph two of this subsection, who received empire zone wages for more than half of the taxable year.

Provided, further, however, that the credit provided for herein with respect to the taxable year, and carryovers of such credit to the taxable year, deducted from the tax otherwise due, may not, in the aggregate, exceed fifty percent of the tax imposed under section six hundred one computed without regard to any credit provided for under this article.

(iii) For purposes of calculating the amount of the credit, individuals employed within an empire zone or zone equivalent area within the immediately preceding sixty months by a related person, as such term is defined in subparagraph (c) of paragraph three of subsection (b) of section four hundred sixty-five of the internal revenue code, shall not be included in the average number of individuals described in subparagraph (i) or subparagraph (ii) of this paragraph, unless such related person was never allowed a credit under this subsection with respect to such employees. For purposes of this subparagraph, a "related person" shall include an entity which would have qualified as a "related person" to the taxpayer if it had not been dissolved, liquidated, merged with another entity or otherwise ceased to exist or operate.

(iv) If a taxpayer is certified in an empire zone designated under subdivision (a) or (d) of section nine hundred fifty-eight of the general municipal law, the dollar amounts specified under subparagraph (i) or (ii) of this paragraph shall be increased by five hundred dollars for each qualifying individual under such subparagraph who received, during the taxable year, wages in excess of forty thousand dollars.

(v) The requirement in this paragraph that an employee must receive empire zone wages for more than half the taxable year shall not apply in the first taxable year of a taxpayer satisfying the criteria set forth in this subparagraph. In such a case, the credit allowed under this subsection shall be computed by utilizing the number of individuals (excluding general executive officers) employed full time by the taxpayer on the last day of its first taxable year. A taxpayer shall satisfy the following criteria: (I) such taxpayer acquired real or tangible personal property during its first taxable year from an entity which is not a related person (as such term is defined in subdivision (g) of section fourteen of this chapter); (II) the first taxable year of such taxpayer shall be a short taxable year of not more than seven months in duration; and (III) the number of individuals employed full-time on the last day of such first taxable year shall be at least one hundred ninety and substantially all of such individuals must have been previously employed by the entity from whom such taxpayer purchased its assets.

(5) If the amount of the credit and carryovers of such credit allowed under this subsection for any taxable year shall exceed the taxpayer's tax for such year, the excess, as well as any part of the credit or carryovers of such credit, or both, which may not be deducted from the tax otherwise due by reason of the final sentence in paragraph four hereof, may be carried over to the following year or years and may be deducted from the taxpayer's tax for such year or years. In lieu of carrying over any such excess, a taxpayer who qualifies as an owner of a new business for purposes of paragraph ten of subsection (a) of this section may, at his option, receive fifty percent of such excess as a refund. Any refund paid pursuant to this paragraph shall be deemed to be a refund of an overpayment of tax as provided in section six hundred eighty-six of this article, provided, however, that no interest shall be paid thereon.

(l) Empire zone capital tax credit. (1) A taxpayer shall be allowed a credit against the tax imposed by this article. The amount of the credit shall be equal to twenty-five percent of the sum of the following investments and contributions made during the taxable year and certified by the commissioner of economic development: (A) for taxable years beginning before January first, two thousand five, qualified investments made in, or contributions in the form of donations made to, one or more empire zone capital corporations established pursuant to section nine hundred sixty-four of the general municipal law prior to January first, two thousand five, (B) qualified investments in certified zone businesses which during the twelve month period immediately preceding the month in which such investment is made employed full-time within the state an average number of individuals of two hundred fifty or fewer, computed pursuant to the provisions of subparagraph (C) of paragraph two of subsection (k) of this section, except for investments made by or on behalf of an owner of the business including, but not limited to, a stockholder, partner or sole proprietor, or any related person, as defined in subparagraph (C) of paragraph three of subsection (b) of section four hundred sixty-five of the internal revenue code, and (C) contributions of money to community development projects as defined in regulations promulgated by the commissioner of economic development. "Qualified investments" means the contribution of property to a corporation in exchange for original issue capital stock or other ownership interest, the contribution of property to a partnership in exchange for an interest in the partnership, and similar contributions in the case of a business entity not in corporate or partnership form in exchange for an ownership interest in such entity. The total amount of credit allowable to a taxpayer under this provision for all years, taken in the aggregate, shall not exceed three hundred thousand dollars, and shall not exceed one hundred thousand dollars with respect to the investments and contributions described in each of subparagraphs (A), (B) and (C) of this paragraph.

(2) (A) If the amount of the credit and carryovers of such credit allowed under this subsection for any taxable year shall exceed the taxpayer's tax for such year, or if any part of the credit or carryovers of such credit may not be deducted from the tax otherwise due by reason of the final sentence of this subparagraph, any amount of credit or carryovers of such credit thus not deductible in such taxable year may be carried over to the following year or years and may be deducted from the tax for such year or years. In addition, the amount of such credit, and carryovers of such credit to the taxable year, deducted from the tax otherwise due may not, in the aggregate, exceed fifty percent of the tax imposed under section six hundred one computed without regard to any credit provided for by this section.

(B) In the case of a husband or wife who is required to file a separate return, the limitation provided for in paragraph one of this subsection shall be fifty thousand dollars in lieu of one hundred thousand dollars and one hundred fifty thousand dollars in lieu of three hundred thousand dollars, unless the spouse of the taxpayer has no credit allowable under this subsection for the taxable year of such spouse which ends within or with the taxpayer's taxable year.

(C) In the case of an estate or trust, the limitation provided for in paragraph one of this subsection shall be reduced to an amount which bears the same ratio to one hundred thousand dollars and an amount which bears the same ratio to three hundred thousand dollars as the portion of the income of the estate or trust which is not allocated to beneficiaries bears to the total income of the estate or trust.

(3) Where the stock, partnership interest or other ownership interest arising from a qualified investment as described in subparagraphs (A) and (B) of paragraph one of this subsection is disposed of, the taxpayer's New York taxable income shall be computed, pursuant to regulations promulgated by the commissioner, so as to properly reflect the reduced cost thereof arising from the application of the credit provided for herein.

(4) (A) Where a taxpayer sells, transfers or otherwise disposes of corporate stock, a partnership interest or other ownership interest arising from the making of a qualified investment which was the basis, in whole or in part, for the allowance of the credit provided for under this subsection, or where a contribution or investment which was the basis for such allowance is in any manner, in whole or in part, recovered by such taxpayer, and such disposition or recovery occurs during the taxable year or within thirty-six months from the close of the taxable year with respect to which such credit is allowed, subparagraph (B) of this paragraph shall apply.

(B) The taxpayer shall add back with respect to the taxable year in which the disposition or recovery described in subparagraph (A) of this paragraph occurred the required portion of the credit originally allowed.

(C) The required portion of the credit originally allowed shall be the product of (i) the portion of such credit attributable to the property disposed of or the payment or contribution recovered and (ii) the applicable percentage.

(D) The applicable percentage shall be:

(i) one hundred percent, if the disposition or recovery occurs within the taxable year with respect to which the credit is allowed or within twelve months of the end of such taxable year,

(ii) sixty-seven percent, if the disposition or recovery occurs more than twelve but not more than twenty-four months after the end of the taxable year with respect to which the credit is allowed, or

(iii) thirty-three percent, if the disposition or recovery occurs more than twenty-four but not more than thirty-six months after the end of the taxable year with respect to which the credit is allowed.

(5) If the designation of an area as an empire zone is no longer in effect because the designations of all empire zones pursuant to article eighteen-B of the general municipal law have expired, a taxpayer that has made a contribution of money on or before the day immediately preceding the day the empire zones expired to a community development project approved by the commissioner of economic development shall be deemed eligible to claim the empire zone capital credit under subparagraph (C) of paragraph one of this subsection for additional contributions made prior to April first, two thousand fourteen and certified by the commissioner of economic development to that community development project as payment of a commitment made by the taxpayer to that community development project before the empire zones expired.

(m) Excess deductions credit. (1) General. For taxable years beginning in nineteen hundred ninety-five, an excess deductions credit shall be allowed against the tax determined under subsections (a) through (d) of section six hundred one of this article. The credit shall be allowed to an individual taxpayer whose New York itemized deduction determined under section six hundred fifteen (whether or not the taxpayer elects the New York itemized deduction for the taxable year) exceeds the base amount determined under paragraph two hereof. The credit shall not exceed the tax determined under subsections (a) through (d) of section six hundred one for the taxable year, reduced by the credits permitted under subsection (c) of this section and sections six hundred twenty and six hundred twenty-one of this article.

(2) Base amount. The base amount shall be determined by the taxpayer's standard deduction status under section six hundred fourteen (whether or not the taxpayer employs the standard deduction for the taxable year) as follows:

If the taxpayer's standard deduction status is:

The base amount is:

Unmarried individual who is not a head of household nor a surviving spouse nor an individual whose federal exemption amount is zero $6,000

(B) Heads of households. The amount of the credit allowed pursuant to this subsection for a head of household shall be:

(n) Agricultural property tax credit. (1) General. In the case of a taxpayer who is an eligible farmer or an eligible farmer who has paid taxes pursuant to a land contract, there shall be allowed a credit for the allowable school district property taxes. The term "allowable school district property taxes" means the school district property taxes paid during the taxable year on qualified agricultural property, subject to the acreage limitation provided in paragraph five of this subsection and the income limitation provided in paragraph six of this subsection. Such credit shall be allowed against the taxes imposed by this article for the taxable year reduced by the credits permitted by this article. If the credit exceeds the tax as so reduced, the taxpayer may receive, and the comptroller, subject to a certificate of the commissioner, shall pay as an overpayment, without interest, the amount of such excess.

(1-a) New York gross income from farming. For purposes of this subsection, the term "New York gross income from farming" means a taxpayer's federal gross income from farming, plus payments from the state's farmland protection program, administered by the department of agriculture and markets, income from a commercial horse boarding operation as defined by subdivision thirteen of section three hundred one of the agriculture and markets law, and income from the production or sale of maple syrup, Christmas trees, and cider or wine from a licensed New York state farm cidery or winery, as provided for in section fifty-eight-c and article six of the alcoholic beverage control

(2) Eligible farmer. For purposes of this subsection, the term "eligible farmer" means a taxpayer whose New York gross income from farming for the taxable year, or whose average New York gross income from farming for the current year and two prior taxable years, is at least two-thirds of such taxpayer's federal gross income from all sources less thirty thousand dollars. The term "eligible farmer" also includes an individual other than the taxpayer of record for qualified agricultural land who has paid the school district property taxes on such land pursuant to a contract for the future purchase of such land; provided that such individual meets the definition of "eligible farmer" pursuant to this paragraph.

(3) School district property taxes. For purposes of this subsection, the term "school district property taxes" means all property taxes, special ad valorem levies and special assessments, exclusive of penalties and interest, levied for school district purposes on the qualified agricultural property (A) owned by the taxpayer, (B) owned by the father, mother, grandfather, grandmother, brother or sister of the taxpayer and a written agreement expressing intent to eventually purchase the land has been entered into, or (C) owned by trust where the taxpayer is an immediate family member of the settlor, and where under the terms of the trust the title to the property shall pass to such taxpayer upon the death of the settlor.

(4) Qualified agricultural property. For purposes of this subsection, the term "qualified agricultural property" means land located in this state which is used in agricultural production, and land improvements, structures and buildings (excluding buildings used for the taxpayer's residential purpose) located on such land which are used or occupied to carry out such production. Qualified agricultural property also includes land set aside or retired under a federal supply management or soil conservation program or land that at the time it becomes subject to a conservation easement, as defined under subsection (kk) of this section, met the requirements under this paragraph.

(5) Acreage limitation. (A) Eligible taxes. In the event that the qualified agricultural property owned by the taxpayer includes land in excess of the base acreage as provided in this paragraph, the amount of school district property taxes eligible for credit under this subsection shall be that portion of the school district property taxes which bears the same ratio to the total school district property taxes paid during the taxable year, as the acreage allowable under this paragraph bears to the entire acreage of such land.

(B) Allowable acreage. The allowable acreage is the sum of the base acreage set forth below and fifty percent of the incremental acreage. The incremental acreage is the excess of the entire acreage of qualified agricultural land owned by the taxpayer over the base acreage. Except as provided in subparagraph (C) of this paragraph:

For taxable years beginning:	The base acreage is:
in 1997	100
after 1997 but before 2006	250
2006 and thereafter	350

For taxable years beginning after two thousand, total base acreage may be increased by any acreage enrolled or participating during the taxable year in a federal environmental conservation acreage reserve program pursuant to title three of the federal agriculture improvement and reform act of nineteen hundred ninety-six.

(C) Base acreage of related persons. Where the taxpayer and one or more related persons each own qualified agricultural property on the first day of March of any year, the base acreage under subparagraph (B) of this paragraph shall be divided equally and allotted among the taxpayer and such related persons, and the taxpayer's base acreage for the taxable year which includes such March first shall be limited to its allotted share. Provided, however, if the taxpayer and all such related persons consent (at such time and in such manner as the commissioner may prescribe) to an unequal division, the taxpayer's base acreage for such taxable year shall be limited to its allotted share under such unequal division.

(D) Related persons. (i) For purposes of subparagraph (C) of this paragraph, the term "related person" means:

(I) a spouse;

(II) a corporation subject to tax under article nine-A of this chapter, where more than fifty percent in value of the outstanding stock of the corporation is owned, directly or indirectly, by or for the taxpayer, or, where the taxpayer is a trust, where such stock is owned directly or indirectly by or for the grantor of such trust;

(III) a partnership, estate or trust of which the taxpayer owns, directly or indirectly, more than fifty percent of the capital, profits or beneficial interest.

(ii) For purposes of subparagraph (C) of this paragraph, where the taxpayer is an estate or trust, the term "related person" shall also mean a corporation subject to tax under article nine-A of this chapter, a partnership, an estate or trust:

(I) where more than fifty percent of the beneficial interest in the taxpayer is owned, directly or indirectly, by or for such corporation, partnership, estate or trust or by or for the grantor of such trust; or

(II) if the same person owns more than fifty percent of the beneficial interest in the taxpayer and more than fifty percent in value of the outstanding stock of the corporation, or more than fifty percent of the capital or profits interest in the partnership, or more than fifty percent of the beneficial interest in the estate or trust.

(iii) In determining whether a person is a related person within the meaning of this subparagraph:

(I) stock owned, directly or indirectly, by or for a corporation, partnership, estate or trust shall be considered as being owned proportionately by or for its shareholders, partners or beneficiaries;

(II) an individual shall be considered as owning the stock owned, directly or indirectly, by or for his spouse;

(III) stock constructively owned by a person by reason of the application of item (I) of this clause shall, for the purpose of applying item (I) or (II) of this clause, be treated as actually owned by such person.

(6) Income limitation. (A) In the event that the modified New York adjusted gross income of the taxpayer exceeds one hundred thousand dollars for taxable years beginning before two thousand six or two hundred thousand dollars for taxable year two thousand six and thereafter, the allowable school district property taxes under paragraph one of this subsection shall be the eligible taxes under subparagraph (A) of paragraph five of this subsection reduced by the product of the amount of such eligible taxes and a percentage, such percentage to be determined by multiplying one hundred percent by a fraction, the numerator of which is the lesser of fifty thousand dollars for taxable years beginning before two thousand six or one hundred thousand dollars for taxable year two thousand six and thereafter or the excess of the taxpayer's modified New York adjusted gross income over one hundred thousand dollars for taxable years beginning before two thousand six or two hundred thousand dollars for taxable year two thousand six and thereafter and the denominator of which is fifty thousand dollars for taxable years beginning before two thousand six or one hundred thousand dollars for taxable year two thousand six and thereafter. For purposes of the preceding sentence, the term "eligible taxes", where the acreage limitation of paragraph five of this subsection does not apply, shall mean the total school district property taxes paid during the taxable year.

(B) The term "modified New York adjusted gross income" means the New York adjusted gross income for the taxable year reduced by the amount of principal paid on farm indebtedness during the taxable year. The term "farm indebtedness" means debt incurred or refinanced which is secured by farm property, where the proceeds of the debt are disbursed for expenditures incurred in the business of farming.

(7) Nonqualified use. (A) No credit in conversion year. In the event that qualified agricultural property is converted by the taxpayer to nonqualified use, credit under this subsection shall not be allowed with respect to such property for the taxable year of conversion (the conversion year).

(B) Credit recapture. If the conversion by the taxpayer of qualified agricultural property to nonqualified use occurs during the period of the two taxable years following the taxable year for which the credit under this subsection was first claimed with respect to such property, the credit allowed with respect to such property for the taxable years prior to the conversion year must be added back in the conversion year. Where the property converted includes land, and where the conversion is of only a portion of such land, the credit allowed with respect to the property converted shall be determined by multiplying the entire credit under this subsection for the taxable years prior to the conversion year by a fraction, the numerator of which is the acreage converted and the denominator of which is the entire acreage of such land owned by the taxpayer immediately prior to the conversion.

(C) Exception to recapture. Subparagraph (B) of this paragraph shall not apply to the conversion of property where the conversion is by reason of involuntary conversion, within the meaning of section one thousand thirty-three of the internal revenue code.

(D) Conversion to nonqualified use. For purposes of this paragraph, a sale or other disposition of qualified agricultural property alone shall not constitute a conversion to a nonqualified use.

(9) Election to deem gross income of New York C corporation to shareholders. (A) General. For purposes of the credit under this subsection, the shareholders of an eligible corporation may elect to take into account their pro rata shares of the corporation's income and principal payments on farm indebtedness as provided in subparagraph (B) of this paragraph, for the taxable year of the corporation ending with or within the taxable year of each shareholder. No election under this paragraph shall be effective unless shareholders holding more than one-half, by vote and value, of the shares of stock of the corporation on the day on which the election is made have so elected.

(B) Inclusion in gross and adjusted gross income. (i) For any taxable year of the corporation for which the election under this paragraph is in effect, the shareholders of the corporation shall include:

(I) in gross income, for purposes of paragraph two of this subsection, their pro rata shares of the corporation's gross income, which income shall have the same character as in the hands of the corporation, and

(II) in adjusted gross income, for purposes of paragraph six of this subsection, their pro rata shares of the corporation's entire net income, and

(III) in principal payments on farm indebtedness, for purposes of paragraph six of this subsection, their pro rata shares of such payments made by the corporation.

(ii) Tiered New York C and New York S corporation. In the event that a shareholder of the corporation is a New York S corporation, the New York S corporation shall make the inclusions prescribed by clause (i) of this subparagraph (except that the inclusion prescribed by subclause (II) of such clause shall be in the entire net income of the New York S corporation), and the New York S corporation shall pass through such inclusions in pro rata shares to its shareholders for purposes of their calculation of credit under this subsection.

(C) Eligible corporation. The term "eligible corporation" means a corporation subject to tax under article nine-A of this chapter which is a New York C corporation for federal income tax purposes.

(D) Pro rata share. For purposes of this paragraph, the pro rata share of any item of income or farm indebtedness principal payments for a taxable year of the corporation shall be determined with respect to a shareholder by assigning an equal portion of the item to each day of such taxable year, and then by dividing that portion pro rata among the shares outstanding on such day.

(E) Election. (i) An election under subparagraph (A) of this paragraph shall be made on such form and in such manner as the commissioner may prescribe.

(ii) When made. Such election shall be made no later than the due date of the corporation tax return (determined without regard to extensions) for the corporation's taxable year for which the election is to be effective.

(iii) When effective. Such election shall be effective for the taxable year of the corporation for which it is made and for all succeeding taxable years of the corporation, until such election is terminated under subparagraph (F) of this paragraph.

(F) Termination. (i) Revocation. An election under subparagraph (A) of this paragraph shall be terminated if shareholders holding more than one-half, by vote and value, of the shares of stock of the corporation on the day on which the revocation is made revoke the election. Such revocation shall be made on such form and in such manner as the commissioner may prescribe, and shall be effective on the first day of the corporation's taxable year following the date on which the revocation is made.

(ii) Ineligible corporation. An election under subparagraph (A) of this paragraph shall be terminated on the first day of the corporation's taxable year with respect to which the corporation ceases to be an eligible corporation.

(G) Election after termination. If an election is terminated under subparagraph (F) of this paragraph, no further election under subparagraph (A) of this paragraph shall be made before the fifth taxable year of the corporation following the taxable year during which the termination occurred, unless the commissioner consents to such election.

(H) Waiver of secrecy. The commissioner shall have authority to reveal to shareholders of the corporation any information with respect to income or farm indebtedness principal payments of the corporation, for any taxable year of the corporation for which the election under this paragraph is in effect, which is the basis for denial in whole or in part of the credit claimed by such shareholders.

(n-1) Homeowner tax rebate credit. (1) An individual taxpayer who meets the eligibility standards in paragraph two of this subsection shall be allowed a credit against the taxes imposed by this article in the amount specified in paragraph three of this subsection for tax year two thousand twenty-two.

(2) To be eligible for the credit, the taxpayer (or taxpayers filing joint returns) (a) must own and primarily reside in real property receiving either the STAR exemption authorized by section four hundred twenty-five of the real property tax law or the school tax relief credit authorized by subsection (eee) of this section, and (b) must have had qualified gross income no greater than two hundred fifty thousand dollars in tax year two thousand twenty.

(3) Amount of credit. (a) For a taxpayer who owned and primarily resided in real property receiving the basic STAR exemption or who received the basic STAR credit, the amount of the credit shall equal the STAR tax savings associated with such basic STAR exemption in the two thousand twenty-one--two thousand twenty-two school year, multiplied by the following percentage:

(i) For a taxpayer whose primary residence is located outside the city of New York:

Qualified Gross Income	Percentage
Not over $75,000	163%
Over $75,000 but not over $150,000	115%
Over $150,000 but not over $200,000	66%
Over $200,000 but not over $250,000	18%
Over $250,000	No credit

(ii) For a taxpayer whose primary residence is located within the city of New York:

Qualified Gross Income	Percentage
Not over $75,000	125%
Over $75,000 but not over $150,000	115%

Over $150,000 but not over $200,000	105%
Over $200,000 but not over $250,000	100%
Over $250,000	No credit

(b) For a taxpayer who owned and primarily resided in real property receiving the enhanced STAR exemption or who received the enhanced STAR credit, the amount of the credit shall equal the STAR tax savings associated with such enhanced STAR exemption in the two thousand twenty-one--two thousand twenty-two school year, multiplied by sixty-six percent if the taxpayer's primary residence is located outside the city of New York, or one hundred ten percent if the taxpayer's primary residence is located within the city of New York.

(c) In no case may the amount of the credit allowed under this subsection exceed the school district taxes due with respect to the residence for that school year, nor shall any credit be allowed under this subsection if the amount determined pursuant to this paragraph is less than one hundred dollars.

(4) For purposes of this subsection:

(a) "Qualified gross income" means the adjusted gross income of the qualified taxpayer for the taxable year as reported for federal income tax purposes, or which would be reported as adjusted gross income if a federal income tax return were required to be filed. In computing qualified gross income, the net amount of loss reported on Federal Schedule C, D, E, or F shall not exceed three thousand dollars per schedule. In addition, the net amount of any other separate category of loss shall not exceed three thousand dollars. The aggregate amount of all losses included in computing qualified gross income shall not exceed fifteen thousand dollars.

(b) "STAR tax savings" means the tax savings attributable to the basic or enhanced STAR exemption, whichever is applicable, within a portion of a school district, as determined by the commissioner pursuant to subdivision two of section thirteen hundred six-a of the real property tax law.

(5) If the amount of the credit allowed under this subsection shall exceed the taxpayer's tax for the taxable year, the excess shall be treated as an overpayment of tax to be credited or refunded in accordance with the provisions of section six hundred eighty-six of this article, provided, however, that no interest shall be paid thereon. For each year this credit is allowed, on or before October fifteenth of such year, or as soon thereafter as is practicable, the commissioner shall determine the taxpayer's eligibility for this credit utilizing the information available to the commissioner on the taxpayer's personal income tax return filed for the taxable year two years prior to the taxable year in which the credit is allowed. For those taxpayers whom the commissioner has determined eligible for this credit, the commissioner shall advance a payment in the amount specified in paragraph three of this subsection, which payment shall be issued, to the greatest extent practicable, by October thirty-first of each year the credit is allowed. A taxpayer who has failed to receive an advance payment that he or she believes was due to him or her, or who has received an advance payment that he or she believes is less than the amount that was due to him or her, may request payment of the claimed deficiency in a manner prescribed by the commissioner.

(6) A taxpayer shall not be eligible for the credit allowed under this subsection if the school district taxes levied upon the residence during the taxable year remain unpaid sixty days after the last date on which they could have been paid without interest, or in the case of a school district where such taxes are payable in installments, if such taxes remain unpaid sixty days after the last date on which the final installment could have been paid without interest. If the taxes remain unpaid on such sixtieth day, the amount of credit claimed by the taxpayer under this subsection or the amount of advance payment of credit received by the taxpayer pursuant to paragraph five of this subsection shall be added back as tax on the income tax return for the taxable year in which such sixtieth day occurs.

(7) Only one credit per residence shall be allowed per taxable year under this subsection. When two or more members of a residence are able to meet the qualifications for a qualified taxpayer, the credit shall be equally divided between or among such individuals. In the case of spouses who file a joint federal return but who are required to determine their New York taxes separately, the credit allowed pursuant to this subsection may be applied against the tax of either or divided between them as they may elect.

(n-2) Credit for farm donations to food pantries. (1) General. In the case of a taxpayer who is an eligible farmer, there shall be allowed a

The amount of the credit shall be twenty-five percent of the fair market value of the taxpayer's qualified donations made to any eligible food pantry during the taxable year, not to exceed five thousand dollars per taxable year for taxable years ending before January first, two thousand twenty-six, and fifty percent of the fair market value of the taxpayer's qualified donations made to any eligible food pantry during the taxable year, not to exceed twenty thousand dollars per taxable year, for taxable years beginning on and after January first, two thousand twenty-six. If the taxpayer is a partner in a partnership or a shareholder of a New York S corporation, then the cap imposed by the preceding sentence shall be applied at the entity level, so that the aggregate credit allowed to all partners or shareholders of such entity in the taxable year does not exceed five thousand dollars for taxable years ending before January first, two thousand twenty-six, and twenty thousand dollars for taxable years beginning on and after January first, two thousand twenty-six.

(2) Eligible farmer. For purposes of this subsection, the term "eligible farmer" shall have the same meaning as set forth in subsection (n) of this section.

A letter or other written communication from the eligible food pantry acknowledging receipt of the contribution and containing the information in subparagraphs (i), (ii), and (iii) of this paragraph will serve as a receipt.

(7) Application of credit. A taxpayer shall be allowed a credit under this subsection against the tax imposed by this article. However, if the amount of credit allowed under this subsection for any taxable year exceeds the taxpayer's tax for such year, the excess will be treated as an overpayment of tax to be credited or refunded in accordance with the provisions of section six hundred eighty-six of this article. dollars in qualified first-year wages earned by each qualified employee. "Qualified first-year wages" means wages paid or incurred by the taxpayer during the taxable year to qualified employees which are attributable, with respect to any such employee, to services rendered during the one-year period beginning with the day the employee begins work for the taxpayer.

(4) Credit where federal work opportunity tax credit applies. With respect to any qualified employee whose qualified first-year wages under paragraph three of this subsection also constitute qualified first-year wages for purposes of the work opportunity tax credit for vocational rehabilitation referrals under section fifty-one of the internal revenue code, the amount of credit under this subsection shall be for taxable years beginning before January first, two thousand twenty-five thirty-five percent of the first six thousand dollars in qualified second-year wages earned by each such employee and for taxable years beginning on or after January first, two thousand twenty-five shall be the first five thousand dollars in qualified second-year wages earned by each qualified employee. "Qualified second-year wages" means wages paid or incurred by the taxpayer during the taxable year to qualified employees which are attributable, with respect to any such employee, to services rendered during the one-year period beginning one year after the employee begins work for the taxpayer.

(5) Carryover. If the amount of credit allowable under this subsection for any taxable year shall exceed the taxpayer's tax for such year, the excess may be carried over to the following year or years, and may be deducted from the taxpayer's tax for such year or years.

(6) Coordination with federal work opportunity tax credit. The provisions of sections fifty-one and fifty-two of the internal revenue code, as such sections applied on October first, nineteen hundred ninety-six, that apply to the work opportunity tax credit for vocational rehabilitation referrals shall apply to the credit under this subsection to the extent that such sections are consistent with the specific provisions of this subsection, provided that in the event of a conflict the provisions of this subsection shall control.

(1) General. A taxpayer shall be allowed a credit, to be computed as hereinafter provided, against the tax imposed by this article, for alternative fuel vehicle refueling and electric vehicle recharging property placed in service during the taxable year.

(2) (a) Alternative fuel vehicle refueling property and electric vehicle recharging property. The credit under this subsection for alternative fuel vehicle refueling property or electric vehicle recharging property shall equal for each installation of property the lesser of five thousand dollars or the product of fifty percent and the cost of any such property less any costs paid from the proceeds of grants.

(b) To qualify for the credit, the property must:

(i) be located in this state;

(ii) constitute alternative fuel vehicle refueling property or electric vehicle recharging property; and

(iii) not be paid for from the proceeds of grants awarded before January first, two thousand fifteen, including grants from the New York state energy research and development authority or the New York power authority.

(5) Credit recapture. (A) If, at any time before the end of its recovery period, alternative fuel vehicle refueling property or electric vehicle recharging property ceases to be qualified, a recapture amount must be added back in the tax year in which such cessation occurs.

(B) Cessation of qualification. Alternative fuel vehicle refueling property or electric vehicle recharging property ceases to be qualified if:

(i) the property no longer qualifies as alternative fuel vehicle refueling property or electric vehicle recharging property, or

(ii) fifty percent or more of the use of the property in a taxable year is other than in a trade or business in this state, or

(iii) the taxpayer receiving the credit under this subsection sells or disposes of the property and knows or has reason to know that the property will be used in a manner described in clause (i) or (ii) of this subparagraph.

(C) Recapture amount. The recapture amount is equal to the credit allowable under this subsection multiplied by a fraction, the numerator of which is the total recovery period for the property minus the number of recovery years prior to, but not including, the recapture year, and the denominator of which is the total recovery period.

(6) Termination. The credit allowed by this subsection shall not apply in taxable years beginning after December thirty-first, two thousand twenty-eight.

(2) The credit shall be allowed only in the first taxable year in which the credit is claimed and in each of the next two taxable years, provided that the conditions of paragraph one of this subsection are satisfied in each taxable year.

(3) For the purposes of this subsection, average number of individuals employed full-time shall be computed by adding the number of such individuals employed by such company at the end of each quarter during each taxable year or other applicable period and dividing the sum so obtained by the number of such quarters occurring within such taxable year or other applicable period; provided, however, that in computing base year employment there shall be excluded therefrom any employee with respect to whom a credit provided for under subsection (k) of this section is claimed for the taxable year.

(4) The amount of the credit shall equal the product of one thousand dollars multiplied by the number of individuals employed full-time by such company in the taxable year that are in excess of one hundred percent of such company's base year employment.

(5) If the amount of credit allowed under this subsection for any taxable year shall exceed the taxpayer's tax for such year, the excess shall be treated as an overpayment of tax to be credited or refunded in accordance with the provisions of section six hundred eighty-six of this article, provided, however, that no interest shall be paid thereon.

(r) Qualified emerging technology company capital tax credit. (1) A taxpayer shall be allowed a credit against the tax imposed by this article. the four years following the year in which the credit is first claimed;

(2) (A) If the amount of the credit and carryovers of such credit allowed under this subsection for any taxable year shall exceed the taxpayer's tax for such year, any amount of credit or carryovers of such credit thus not deductible in such taxable year may be carried over to the following year or years and may be deducted from the tax for such year or years. In addition, the amount of such credit, and carryovers of such credit to the taxable year, deducted from the tax otherwise due may not, in the aggregate, exceed fifty percent of the tax imposed under section six hundred one computed without regard to any credit provided for by this section.

(B) In the case of a husband or wife who is required to file a separate return, the limitations provided for in subparagraph (c) of paragraph one of this subsection shall be seventy-five thousand dollars in lieu of one hundred fifty thousand dollars, and one hundred fifty thousand dollars in lieu of three hundred thousand dollars, unless the spouse of the taxpayer has no credit allowable under this subsection for the taxable year of such spouse which ends within or with the taxpayer's taxable year.

(C) In the case of an estate or trust, the limitations provided for in paragraph one of this subsection shall be reduced to an amount which bears the same ratio to one hundred fifty thousand dollars and an amount which bears the same ratio to three hundred thousand dollars as the portion of the income of the estate or trust which is not allocated to beneficiaries bears to the total income of the estate or trust.

Such expenditures in the two preceding years shall be added to the amounts otherwise qualifying for the credit provided by this subsection that were paid or incurred in the taxable year that the taxpayer relocated from such a facility. Such expenditures shall include expenses paid or incurred for an eligible employee who is a full-time, full-year employee of said taxpayer during the taxable year that the taxpayer relocated from an incubator facility notwithstanding (i) that such employee was employed full or part-time as an officer, staff-person or paid intern of the taxpayer when such taxpayer was located at such incubator facility or (ii) that such employee was not continuously employed when such taxpayer was located at the incubator facility during the one hundred eighty day period referenced in subparagraph (c) of this paragraph, provided such employee Provided, however, the credit shall not exceed five million dollars. For taxable years beginning on or after January first, two thousand thirty, a taxpayer, or a transferee of such a taxpayer as described in paragraph seven of this subsection, shall be allowed a credit as hereinafter provided, against the tax imposed by this article, in an amount equal to thirty percent of the amount of credit allowed the taxpayer with respect to a certified historic structure under internal revenue code section 47(c)(3), determined without regard to ratably allocating the credit over a five year period as required by subsection (a) of such section 47, with respect to a certified historic structure located within the state; provided, however, the credit shall not exceed one hundred thousand dollars.

(B) If the taxpayer or transferee is a partner in a partnership or a shareholder of a New York S corporation, then the credit cap imposed in subparagraph (A) of this paragraph shall be applied at the entity level, so that the aggregate credit allowed to all the partners or shareholders of each such entity in the taxable year does not exceed the credit cap that is applicable in that taxable year.

(2) Tax credits allowed pursuant to this subsection shall be allowed in the taxable year that the qualified rehabilitation is placed in service under section 167 of the federal internal revenue code.

(3) If the taxpayer is allowed a credit pursuant to section 47 of the internal revenue code with respect to a qualified rehabilitation that is also the subject of the credit allowed by this subsection and that credit pursuant to such section 47 is recaptured pursuant to subsection (a) of section 50 of the internal revenue code, a portion of the credit allowed under this subsection must be added back by the taxpayer or transferee in the same taxable year and in the same proportion as the federal recapture.

If there is a change in the most recent five year estimate, a census tract that qualified for eligibility under this program before information about the change was released will remain eligible for a credit under this subsection for an additional two calendar years. The eligibility restrictions set forth in this paragraph shall not be applicable if:

A transferee may not transfer any credit, or portion thereof, acquired by transfer.

(B) A taxpayer seeking to transfer a credit allowed pursuant to this subsection must enter into a transfer contract with the transferee. The transfer contract must specify:

(C) No transfer shall be effective unless the taxpayer allowed a credit pursuant to this subsection and seeking to transfer the credit files a transfer application with the commissioner of parks, recreation and historic preservation prior to the transfer and such transfer application is approved. The transfer application shall include the name and federal identification numbers of the taxpayer and each proposed transferee, the amount of credit proposed to be transferred to each proposed transferee, a copy of the transfer contract, and such other information as the commissioner or the commissioner of parks, recreation and historic preservation may require. The commissioner of parks, recreation and historic preservation shall approve or deny each transfer application and, if an application is denied, shall issue a written determination to the taxpayer. If the transfer is approved, the commissioner of parks, recreation and historic preservation shall issue a transfer approval certificate that provides the name of the transferor and all transferees, the amount of credit being transferred and such other information as the commissioner of parks, recreation and historic preservation and the commissioner deem necessary. A copy of the transfer approval certificate must be attached to each transferee's tax return. The commissioner of parks, recreation and historic preservation, in consultation with the commissioner, may establish such other procedures and standards deemed necessary for the transferability of credits allowed under this subsection.

(D) The commissioner of parks, recreation and historic preservation shall forward copies of all transfer applications and attachments thereto and approval certificates to the commissioner within thirty days after the transfer is approved.

(E) A taxpayer allowed a credit pursuant to section forty-seven of the internal revenue code with respect to a qualified rehabilitation that is also the subject of the credit allowed by this subsection shall remain solely liable for all obligations and liabilities imposed on the taxpayer with respect to the credit allowed by this subsection, none of which shall apply to a party to whom the credit has been subsequently transferred.

(B) If such expenditures relate to both exterior and interior work, the credit shall be allowed for qualified rehabilitation expenditures that have been approved by the office of parks, recreation and historic preservation or by a local government certified pursuant to section 101(c)(1) of the national historic preservation act. Under this subparagraph, approval is necessary for the qualified rehabilitation expenditures related to both the exterior work on the qualified historic home and interior work affecting primary significant historic spaces of the qualified historic home.

(2) (A) With respect to any particular residence of a taxpayer, the credit allowed under paragraph one of this subsection shall not exceed fifty thousand dollars for taxable years beginning on or after January first, two thousand ten and before January first, two thousand twenty-five and twenty-five thousand dollars for taxable years beginning on or after January first, two thousand twenty-five. In the case of a husband and wife, the amount of the credit shall be divided between them equally or in such other manner as they may both elect. If a taxpayer incurs qualified rehabilitation expenditures in relation to more than one residence in the same year, the total amount of credit allowed under paragraph one of this subsection for all such expenditures shall not exceed fifty thousand dollars for taxable years beginning on or after January first, two thousand ten and before January first, two thousand twenty-five and twenty-five thousand dollars for taxable years beginning on or after January first, two thousand twenty-five.

(B) For taxable years beginning on or after January first, two thousand ten and before January first, two thousand twenty-five, if the amount of credit allowable under this subsection shall exceed the taxpayer's tax for such year, and the taxpayer's New York adjusted gross income for such year does not exceed sixty thousand dollars, the excess shall be treated as an overpayment of tax to be credited or refunded in accordance with the provisions of section six hundred eighty-six of this article, provided, however, that no interest shall be paid thereon. If the taxpayer's New York adjusted gross income for such year exceeds sixty thousand dollars, the excess credit that may be carried over to the following year or years and may be deducted from the taxpayer's tax for such year or years. For taxable years beginning on or after January first, two thousand twenty-five, if the amount of credit allowable under this subsection shall exceed the taxpayer's tax for such year, the excess may be carried over to the following year or years and may be deducted from the taxpayer's tax for such year or years.

(4)(A) The term "certified rehabilitation" means, for purposes of this subsection, any rehabilitation of a certified historic structure which has been approved and certified as being consistent with the standards established by the commissioner of parks, recreation and historic preservation for rehabilitation by the office of parks, recreation and historic preservation, a local government certified pursuant to section 101(c)(1) of the national historic preservation act or a local landmark commission established pursuant to section ninety-six-a or one hundred nineteen-dd of the general municipal law.

(B) A certified rehabilitation shall require:

(i) an initial certification that the structure meets the definition of the term "certified historic structure";

(ii) a second certification, to be issued prior to construction, certifying that the proposed rehabilitation work is consistent with standards established by the commissioner of parks, recreation and historic preservation for rehabilitation; and

(iii) a final certification issued when construction is completed, certifying that the work was completed as proposed and that the costs are consistent with the work completed. Such final certification shall be acceptable as proof that the expenditures related to such construction qualify as qualified rehabilitation expenditures for purposes of the credit allowed under either subparagraph (A) or (B) of paragraph one of this subsection.

(5)(A) The term "qualified historic home" means, for purposes of this subsection, a certified historic structure located within New York state:

(8)(A) A percentage of the total expenditures made in the rehabilitation of the exterior of a building containing cooperative or condominium dwelling units shall be attributed to each such unit within the building based on the percentage of space each such unit occupies within the building.

(B) In the case of a building where less than the entire building is used as a residence of the taxpayer, only the portion of the total expenditures made in the rehabilitation of the building that is attributable to the residence of the taxpayer shall be treated as qualified rehabilitation expenditures for the purposes of this subsection.

(C) In the case of a building that is owned by and is a residence of two or more persons, other than a husband and wife, the portion of the total expenditures made in the rehabilitation of the building that is attributable to each taxpayer shall be equal to the taxpayer's share of ownership in such building.

(9) In the case of a building other than a building to which paragraph ten of this subsection applies, qualified rehabilitation expenditures shall be treated for purposes of this subsection as made on the date of the final certification referred to in clause (iii) of subparagraph (B) of paragraph four of this subsection.

(10)(A) In the case of a purchased qualified historic home, the taxpayer shall be treated as having made, on the date of purchase, the qualified rehabilitation expenditures made by the seller of such home. For purposes of this subsection, expenditures made by the seller shall be deemed qualified rehabilitation expenditures if such expenditures, if made by the purchaser, would have so qualified.

(B) The term "purchased qualified historic home" means any qualified historic home purchased by the taxpayer if:

(2)(A) The term qualified New York manufacturer has the same meaning as under subparagraph (vi) of paragraph (a) of subdivision one of section two hundred ten of this chapter.

(B) (i) The term real property tax means a charge imposed upon real property by or on behalf of a county, city, town, village or school district for municipal or school district purposes, provided that the charge is levied for the general public welfare by the proper taxing authorities at a like rate against all property over which such authorities have jurisdiction, and provided that where taxes are levied pursuant to article eighteen or nineteen of the real property tax law, the property must have been taxed at the rate determined for the class in which it is contained, as provided by such article eighteen or nineteen, whichever is applicable. The term real property tax does not include a charge for local benefits, including any portion of that charge that is properly allocated to the costs attributable to maintenance or interest, when (I) the property subject to the charge is limited to the property that benefits from the charge, or (II) the amount of the charge is determined by the benefit to the property assessed, or (III) the improvement for which the charge is assessed tends to increase the property value.

If such final order reduces real property taxes for more than one year, the taxpayer must determine how much of such reduction is attributable to each year covered by such final order and calculate the amount of credit which is required by this subdivision to be recaptured for each year based on such reduction.

(4) If the amount of the credit allowed under this subsection for any taxable year exceeds the taxpayer's tax for such year, the excess will be treated as an overpayment to be credited or refunded in accordance with the provisions of section six hundred eighty-six of this article, provided however, no interest will be paid thereon.

Such statement shall be filed at such time, and in such form and manner, as may be prescribed by the department, and shall be subject to the provisions of section six hundred ninety-seven of this article to the same extent that a return would be. The department shall make such forms and instructions available for the filing of such statements. The local assessor shall upon the request of a taxpayer assist such taxpayer in the filing of the statement with the department.

(E) "Qualifying taxes" means the school district taxes that were or are to be levied upon the taxpayer's primary residence for the associated fiscal year; or, in the case of a city school district that is subject to article fifty-two of the education law, the combined city and school district taxes that were or are to be levied upon the taxpayer's primary residence for the associated fiscal year. If the credit exceeds the tax as so reduced for such year under this article, the excess shall be treated as an overpayment, to be credited or refunded, without interest. If a qualified taxpayer is not required to file a return pursuant to section six hundred fifty-one of this article, a qualified taxpayer may nevertheless receive the full amount of the credit to be credited or repaid as an overpayment, without interest thereon.

(3) Determination of basic STAR credit. (A) Beginning with taxable years after two thousand fifteen, a basic STAR credit shall be available to a qualified taxpayer if the affiliated income of the parcel that serves as the taxpayer's primary residence is less than or equal to five hundred thousand dollars for the applicable income tax year specified by paragraph (b-1) of subdivision three of section four hundred twenty-five of the real property tax law. (4) Determination of enhanced STAR credit. (A) Beginning with taxable years after two thousand twenty-five, an enhanced STAR credit shall be available to a qualified taxpayer where both of the following conditions are satisfied:

(i) At least one of the owners of the parcel that serves as the taxpayer's primary residence is at least sixty-five years of age as of December thirty-first of the taxable year. In the case of property owned by a married couple, if only one of the spouses is sixty-five years of age or over, the credit, once allowed, shall not be disallowed because of the death of the older spouse so long as the surviving spouse is at least sixty-two years of age as of December thirty-first of the taxable year.

(ii) The affiliated income of the parcel that serves as the taxpayer's primary residence is less than or equal to the income standard for the taxable year established by the commissioner for the corresponding "income tax year" pursuant to clause (C) of subparagraph (i) of paragraph (b) of subdivision four of section four hundred twenty-five of the real property tax law for purposes of the enhanced STAR exemption.

(B) Subject to the provisions of subparagraph (C) of this paragraph, such credit shall be the lesser of:

district taxes that were levied upon the taxpayer's primary residence for the associated fiscal year, the credit allowable to such taxpayer shall be equal to the amount determined pursuant to subparagraph (B) of this paragraph multiplied by the percentage that such portion represents.

(5) Disqualification. A taxpayer shall not qualify for the credit authorized by this subsection if the parcel that serves as the taxpayer's primary residence received the STAR exemption on the assessment roll upon which school district taxes for the associated fiscal year were levied. Provided, however, that the taxpayer may remove this disqualification by switching to the credit in the manner provided by subdivision seventeen of section four hundred twenty-five of the real property tax law. Alternatively, the taxpayer may remove this disqualification by renouncing the exemption and making any required payments in the manner provided by section four hundred ninety-six of the real property tax law. Any such switch to the credit or renunciation shall be irrevocable.

(6) Special cases.

(A) A married couple may not receive a credit pursuant to this subsection on more than one residence during any given taxable year, unless living apart due to legal separation. Nor may a married couple receive a credit pursuant to this subsection on one residence while receiving an exemption pursuant to section four hundred twenty-five of the real property tax law on another residence, unless living apart due to legal separation.

(B) (i) In the case of property consisting of a mobile home that is described in paragraph (1) of subdivision two of section four hundred twenty-five of the real property tax law, the amount of the credit allowable with respect to such mobile home shall be equal to the basic STAR tax savings for the school district portion, or the enhanced STAR tax savings for the school district portion, whichever is applicable, that would be applied to a separately assessed parcel in the school district portion with a taxable assessed value equal to twenty thousand dollars multiplied by the latest state equalization rate or special equalization rate for the assessing unit in which the mobile home is located. Provided, however, that if the commissioner is in possession of information, including but not limited to assessment records, that demonstrates to the commissioner's satisfaction that the taxpayer's mobile home is worth more than twenty thousand dollars, or if the taxpayer provides the commissioner with such information, the taxpayer's credit shall be increased accordingly, but in no case shall the credit exceed the basic STAR tax savings or enhanced STAR tax savings, whichever is applicable, for the school district portion.

(ii) The commissioner may implement an electronic system for the reporting of information by owners and operators of manufactured home parks, as defined by section two hundred thirty-three of the real property law. Upon the implementation of such a system, each such owner and operator shall file electronic statements with the commissioner according to a schedule to be determined by the commissioner. Such statement shall require reporting of names of all persons owning an interest in the park, the services provided by the park owner to the tenants, the name of the agent designated pursuant to subdivision 1 of section two hundred thirty-three of the real property law, the names and addresses of all tenants of the park, whether the tenant leases or owns the home, the rent set for each lot in the park, and such additional information as the commissioner may deem necessary for the proper administration of the STAR exemption established pursuant to section four hundred twenty-five of the real property tax law and the STAR credit and any other property tax-based credit established pursuant to this section. In the case of the first registration statement filed in a calendar year, such statement shall also include a copy of all current manufactured home park rules and regulations. In the case that the manufactured home park rules and regulations are modified after the filing of the first registration statement in a calendar year, the next subsequent registration statement shall also include a copy of such rules and regulations. The commissioner shall provide the commissioner of housing and community renewal with the information contained in each report no later than thirty days after the receipt thereof.

(iii) Beginning with the two thousand twenty-two taxable year, to receive the credit authorized by this subsection, an owner of a mobile home described by clause (i) of this subparagraph shall register for such credit in the manner prescribed by the commissioner.

(C) In the case of a primary residence that is located in two or more school districts, the applicable basic or enhanced STAR tax savings for the school district portion shall be determined as follows:

(i) determine the sum of the total school district taxes that were levied upon the taxpayer's primary residence for the associated fiscal year by each of the school districts in which the residence is located;

(ii) for each such school district, divide the total school district taxes that were levied upon the taxpayer's primary residence by that school district for the associated fiscal year by the sum determined in clause (i) of this subparagraph. Express the result as a percentage with two decimal places;

(iii) for each such school district, multiply the percentage determined in clause (ii) of this subparagraph by the basic or enhanced STAR tax savings for the school district portion, whichever is applicable; and

(iv) add the products determined in clause (iii) of this subparagraph.

(7) Disclosure of incomes and other information. (A) Where the commissioner has denied a taxpayer's claim for the credit authorized by this subsection in whole or in part on the grounds that the affiliated income of the parcel in question exceeds the applicable limit, the commissioner shall have the authority to reveal to that taxpayer the names and incomes of the other taxpayers whose incomes were included in the computation of such affiliated income.

(B) Notwithstanding any provision of law to the contrary, the names and addresses of individuals who have applied for or are receiving the credit authorized by this subsection may be disclosed to assessors, county directors of real property tax services, municipal tax collecting officers and enforcing officers within New York state. In addition, such information may be exchanged with assessors and tax officials from jurisdictions outside New York state if the laws of the other jurisdiction allow it to provide similar information to this state. Such information shall be considered confidential and shall not be subject to further disclosure pursuant to the freedom of information law or otherwise.

(8) Proof of claim. The commissioner may require a qualified taxpayer to furnish the following information in support of his or her claim for credit under this subsection: affiliated income, the total school district taxes levied on the property for the associated fiscal year or, in the case of a city school district that is subject to article fifty-two of the education law, the total combined city and school district taxes levied on the property for the associated fiscal year, the qualifying taxes paid by the taxpayer, the names and taxpayer identification numbers of all owners of the property and spouses who primarily reside on the property, the parcel identification number and all other information that may be required by the commissioner to determine the credit.

(9) Returns. Whether or not the taxpayer is required to file a return pursuant to section six hundred fifty-one of this article, the process for requesting advance payment of such credit shall be as provided by paragraph ten of this subsection.

(10) Advance payments. (A) The commissioner shall establish a mechanism by which a qualified taxpayer may apply for an advance payment of the credit authorized by this section, provided that:

(i) If the taxpayer acquired a new primary residence between January first and July first of the taxable year, inclusive, any such application must be submitted to the commissioner by the first day of July of the taxable year, or such later date as may be prescribed by the commissioner in order for the taxpayer's payment to be subject to the processing schedule provided by subparagraph (B) of this paragraph, and

(ii) A qualified taxpayer who fails to apply for an advance payment of such credit by such date may apply for and receive such credit in the manner prescribed by the commissioner, provided that such application shall be made within three years from the time that a return for the taxable year would have had to be filed pursuant to section six hundred fifty-one of this article. If approved, such payment shall be issued as soon as is practicable after the submission of the application but shall not be subject to the processing schedule prescribed by subparagraph (B) of this paragraph, and

(iii) A qualified taxpayer who has applied for an advance payment of such credit in a taxable year may continue to receive such advance payments in future taxable years without reapplying as long as he or she remains eligible therefor.

(B) On or before the date specified below, or as soon thereafter as practicable, the commissioner shall determine the eligibility of taxpayers for this credit utilizing the information available to him or her as obtained from the applications submitted on or before July first of that year, or such later date as may have been prescribed by the commissioner for that purpose, and from such other sources as the commissioner deems reliable and appropriate. For those taxpayers whom the commissioner has determined eligible for this credit, the commissioner shall advance a payment in the amount specified in paragraph three, four or six of this subsection, whichever is applicable. Such payment shall be issued by the date specified below, or as soon thereafter as is practicable; provided that if such payment is issued after such date, it shall be subject to interest at the rate prescribed by subparagraph (A) of paragraph two of subsection (j) of section six hundred ninety-seven of this article. Nothing contained herein shall be deemed to preclude the commissioner from issuing payments after such date to qualified taxpayers whose applications were made after July first of that year, or such later date as may have been prescribed by the commissioner for such purpose.

(i) The applicable dates for this purpose are as follows:

(I) If the school district tax roll is filed with the commissioner on or before July first, the determination of eligibility shall be made by July fifteenth, or as soon thereafter as is practicable, and the advance payment shall be issued by July thirtieth, or as soon thereafter as is practicable.

(II) If the school district tax roll is filed with the commissioner after July first and on or before September first, the determination of eligibility shall be made by September fifteenth, or as soon thereafter as is practicable, and the advance payment shall be issued by September thirtieth, or as soon thereafter as is practicable.

(III) If the school district tax roll is filed with the commissioner after September first, the determination of eligibility shall be made by the fifteenth day after such filing, or as soon thereafter as is practicable, and the advance payment shall be issued by the thirtieth day after such filing, or as soon thereafter as is practicable.

(ii) Notwithstanding the foregoing provisions of this subparagraph, in the case of taxpayers whose primary residence is a cooperative apartment or a mobile home that is subject to the provisions of subparagraph (A) or (B) of paragraph six of this subsection, the payment shall be issued by the sixtieth day following receipt of all of the data needed to properly calculate the credit, or as soon thereafter as is practicable.

(C) A taxpayer who has failed to receive an advance payment that he or she believes was due to him or her, or who has received an advance payment that he or she believes is less than the amount that was due to him or her, may request payment of the claimed deficiency in a manner prescribed by the commissioner.

(D) An advance payment of credit provided pursuant to this subsection that exceeds the taxpayer's qualifying taxes for that taxable year shall be added back as tax on the income tax return for that taxable year.

(E) If the commissioner determines after issuing an advance payment that it was issued in an excessive amount or to an ineligible or incorrect party, the commissioner shall be empowered to utilize any of the procedures for collection, levy and lien of personal income tax set forth in this article, any other relevant procedures referenced within the provisions of this article, and any other law as may be applicable, to recoup the improperly issued amount; provided that in the event such party was determined to be ineligible on the basis that his or her primary residence received the STAR exemption in the associated fiscal year, the improperly issued credit amount shall be deemed a clerical error and shall be paid upon notice and demand without the issuance of a notice of deficiency and shall be assessed, collected and paid in the same manner as taxes.

(11) Administration. The provisions of this article, including the provisions of sections six hundred fifty-three, six hundred fifty-eight, and six hundred fifty-nine of this article and the provisions of part six of this article relating to procedure and administration, including the judicial review of the decisions of the commissioner, except so much of section six hundred eighty-seven of this article that permits a claim for credit or refund to be filed after the period provided for in paragraph nine of this subsection and except sections six hundred fifty-seven, six hundred eighty-eight and six hundred ninety-six of this article, shall apply to the provisions of this subsection in the same manner and with the same force and effect as if the language of those provisions had been incorporated in full into this subsection and had expressly referred to the credit allowed or returns filed under this subsection, except to the extent that any such provision is either inconsistent with a provision of this subsection or is not relevant to this subsection. As used in such sections and such part, the term "taxpayer" shall include a qualified taxpayer under this subsection and, notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (e) of section six hundred ninety-seven of this article, where a qualified taxpayer has protested the denial of a claim for credit under this subsection and the time to file a petition for redetermination of a deficiency or for refund has not expired, he or she shall, subject to such conditions as may be set by the commissioner, receive such information (A) that is contained in any return filed under this article by a member of his or her household for the taxable year for which the credit is claimed, and (B) that the commissioner finds is relevant and material to the issue of whether such claim was properly denied.

(12) When the calculation of any other personal income tax credit is based in whole or in part upon the real property taxes paid by the taxpayer, the amount of real property taxes so paid shall be reduced by the credit authorized by this subsection, if applicable, in the course of performing such calculation. When the calculation of any other personal income tax credit is based in whole or in part upon an individual's state tax liability, the credit authorized by this subsection shall not be taken into account in the calculation of such state tax liability. When the calculation of a city tax surcharge is based in whole or in part upon the net state tax of an individual, the credit authorized by this subsection shall not be taken into account in the calculation of such net state tax.

(13) (A) Nothing herein shall be construed to preclude the commissioner from making a preliminary advance payment of the credit based upon an estimate of the STAR tax savings applicable to a school district portion, where he or she finds that attempting to ascertain the actual STAR tax savings applicable to the school district portion would jeopardize the timely issuance of the payment. When making such an estimate, the commissioner shall consider the STAR tax savings applicable in the school district fiscal year preceding the associated fiscal year, the allowable levy growth factor applicable to the calculation of the tax levy limit for the associated fiscal year pursuant to paragraph a of subdivision two of section two thousand twenty-three-a of the education law, taxable assessed value where appropriate, and such other information that in his or her judgment will help make the estimate as accurate as possible.

(B) Nothing herein shall be construed to preclude the commissioner from making a preliminary advance payment of the credit without attempting to ascertain the taxpayer's qualifying taxes, where he or she finds that attempting to ascertain the taxpayer's qualifying taxes would jeopardize the timely issuance of the payment.

(C) If the commissioner determines that a taxpayer received a preliminary advance payment that is above or below the advance payment to which he or she was entitled under this subsection, the commissioner shall provide notice to such taxpayer that the next advance payment due to such taxpayer under this subsection shall be adjusted to reconcile such underpayment or overpayment.

(D) A taxpayer who received a preliminary advance payment that constitutes an overpayment shall not be required to pay interest on the amount of the overpayment.

(E) On or after April first, two thousand nineteen, a taxpayer who is found to have made a material misstatement on an application for the credit authorized by this section shall be disqualified from receiving such credit for six years. As used herein, the term "material misstatement" shall have the same meaning as set forth in paragraph (a) of subdivision thirteen of section four hundred twenty-five of the real property tax law.

(f) Husband and wife. If husband and wife determine their federal income tax on a joint return but are required to determine their New York income taxes separately, they shall determine their New York adjusted gross incomes separately as if their federal adjusted gross incomes had been determined separately.

(g) Optional modifications. Subject to the conditions provided in paragraphs three and four of this subsection, at the election of the taxpayer there shall also be subtracted from federal adjusted gross income either or both of the items set forth in paragraphs one and two of this subsection, except that only one of such items shall be subtracted with respect to any one item of property, and except that a subtraction of the item set forth in such paragraph two may not be taken with respect to taxable years commencing on or after January first, nineteen hundred eighty-seven.

(1) Depreciation with respect to any property such as described in paragraphs three or four of this subsection, and subject to the conditions provided therein, not exceeding twice the depreciation allowed with respect to the same property for federal income tax purposes. Such modification shall be allowed only upon condition that any depreciation or amortization allowed with respect to the same property in determining federal adjusted gross income shall be added to federal adjusted gross income pursuant to paragraph six of subsection (b) of this section. The total of all deductions allowed pursuant to this paragraph in any taxable year or years with respect to any property described in paragraph three shall not exceed its cost or other basis and, with respect to property described in paragraph four, which is used in a business carried on both within and without the state shall not exceed its cost or other basis multiplied by a percentage of the excess of the taxpayer's business income over its business deductions allocated to this state for the first year such depreciation is deducted. Such percentage shall be determined by apportionment and allocation under regulations of the tax commission.

(2) Expenditures paid or incurred during the taxable year for the construction, reconstruction, erection or acquisition of any property such as described in paragraphs three or four of this subsection, and subject to the conditions provided therein, which is used or to be used for purposes of research and development in the experimental or laboratory sense. Such modification shall be allowed only on condition that, with respect to property described in paragraph four, which is used in a business carried on both within and without the state the deduction shall not exceed the expenditures multiplied by a percentage of the excess of the taxpayer's business income over its business deductions allocated to this state for the first year such expenditures are deducted. Such percentage shall be determined by apportionment and allocation under regulations of the tax commission, and for the taxable year and all succeeding taxable years, any deductions allowed for federal income tax purposes on account of such expenditures or on account of depreciation of the same property except to the extent that its basis may be attributable to factors other than such expenditures, shall be added to federal adjusted gross income pursuant to paragraph six of subsection (b) of this section, or in case a modification is allowable pursuant to this paragraph for only a part of such expenditures, on condition that a proportionate part of any such deductions allowed for federal income tax purposes be added to federal adjusted gross income. With respect to property which is used or to be used for research and development only in part, or during only part of its useful life, the modification allowable pursuant to this paragraph shall be limited to a proportionate part of the expenditures relating thereto. If a modification shall have been allowed pursuant to this paragraph for all or part of such expenditures with respect to any property, and such property is used for purposes other than research and development to a greater extent than originally reported, the taxpayer shall report such use in his return for the first taxable year during which it occurs, and the tax commission may recompute the tax for the year or years for which such deduction was allowed, and may assess any additional tax resulting from such recomputation within the time fixed by subsection (c) of section six hundred eighty-three of this article.

(3) For purposes of this paragraph, such modifications shall be allowed only with respect to tangible property which is depreciable pursuant to section one hundred sixty-seven of the internal revenue code, having a situs in this state and used in the taxpayer's trade or business, (A) constructed, reconstructed or erected after December thirty-first, nineteen hundred sixty-three, pursuant to a contract which was, on or before December thirty-first, nineteen hundred sixty-seven, and at all times thereafter, binding on the taxpayer, or, property, the physical construction, reconstruction or erection of which began on or before December thirty-first, nineteen hundred sixty-seven or which began after such date pursuant to an order placed on or before December thirty-first, nineteen hundred sixty-seven, and then only with respect to that portion of the basis thereof or the expenditures relating thereto which is properly attributable to such construction, reconstruction or erection after December thirty-first, nineteen hundred sixty-three, or (B) acquired after December thirty-first, nineteen hundred sixty-three, pursuant to a contract which was, on or before December thirty-first, nineteen hundred sixty-seven, and at all times thereafter, binding on the taxpayer or pursuant to an order placed on or before December thirty-first, nineteen hundred sixty-seven, by purchase as defined in section one hundred seventy-nine (d) of the internal revenue code, if the original use of such property commenced with the taxpayer, commenced in this state and commenced after December thirty-first, nineteen hundred sixty-three, or (C) acquired, constructed, reconstructed, or erected subsequent to December thirty-first, nineteen hundred sixty-seven, if such acquisition, construction, reconstruction or erection is pursuant to a plan of the taxpayer which was in existence December thirty-first, nineteen hundred sixty-seven and not thereafter substantially modified, and such acquisition, construction, reconstruction or erection would qualify under the rules in paragraphs four, five or six of subsection (h) of section forty-eight of the internal revenue code provided all references in such paragraphs four, five and six to the dates October nine, nineteen hundred sixty-six, and October ten, nineteen hundred sixty-six, shall be read as December thirty-first, nineteen hundred sixty-seven. A taxpayer shall be allowed a deduction under clauses (A), (B) or (C) of this paragraph only if the tangible property shall be delivered or the construction, reconstruction or erection shall be completed on or before December thirty-first, nineteen hundred sixty-nine, except in the case of tangible property which is acquired, constructed, reconstructed or erected pursuant to a contract which was, on or before December thirty-first, nineteen hundred sixty-seven, and at all times thereafter, binding on the taxpayer. However, for any taxable year beginning on or after January first, nineteen hundred sixty-eight, a taxpayer shall not be allowed a modification under paragraph one of this subsection with respect to tangible personal property leased to any other person or corporation. For purposes of the preceding sentence, any contract or agreement to lease or rent or for a license to use such property shall be considered a lease. With respect to property which a taxpayer uses for purposes other than leasing for part of a taxable year and leases for a part of a taxable year, a modification under paragraph one shall be allowed in proportion to the part of the year such property is used by the taxpayer.

(4) For purposes of this paragraph, such modifications shall be allowed only with respect to tangible property which is depreciable pursuant to section one hundred sixty-seven of the internal revenue code, having a situs in this state and used in the taxpayer's trade or business. The modifications provided for in paragraph one of this subsection shall be allowed only with respect to tangible property which is (A) constructed, reconstructed or erected after December thirty-first, nineteen hundred sixty-seven, pursuant to a contract which was, on or before December thirty-first, nineteen hundred sixty-eight, and at all times thereafter, binding on the taxpayer or, property, the physical construction, reconstruction or erection of which began on or before December thirty-first, nineteen hundred sixty-eight or which began after such date pursuant to an order placed on or before December thirty-first, nineteen hundred sixty-eight, and then only with respect to that portion of the basis thereof or the expenditures relating thereto which is properly attributable to such construction, reconstruction or erection after December thirty-first, nineteen hundred sixty-three, or (B) acquired after December thirty-first, nineteen hundred sixty-seven, pursuant to a contract which was, on or before December thirty-first, nineteen hundred sixty-eight, and at all times thereafter, binding on the taxpayer or pursuant to an order placed on or before December thirty-first, nineteen hundred sixty-eight, by purchase as defined in section one hundred seventy-nine (d) of the internal revenue code, if the original use of such property commenced with the taxpayer, commenced in this state and commenced after December thirty-first, nineteen hundred sixty-seven, or (C) acquired, constructed, reconstructed, or erected subsequent to December thirty-first, nineteen hundred sixty-eight, if such acquisition, construction, reconstruction or erection is pursuant to a plan of the taxpayer which was in existence December thirty-first, nineteen hundred sixty-eight, and not thereafter substantially modified, and such acquisition, construction, reconstruction or erection would qualify under the rules in paragraphs four, five or six of subsection (h) of section forty-eight of the internal revenue code provided all references in such paragraphs four, five and six to the dates October nine, nineteen hundred sixty-six, and October ten, nineteen hundred sixty-six, shall be read as December thirty-first, nineteen hundred sixty-eight. A taxpayer shall be allowed a deduction under clauses (A), (B) or (C) of the preceding sentence of this paragraph only if the tangible property shall be delivered or the construction, reconstruction or erection shall be completed on or before December thirty-first, nineteen hundred seventy, except in the case of tangible property which is acquired, constructed, reconstructed or erected pursuant to a contract which was, on or before December thirty-first, nineteen hundred sixty-eight, and at all times thereafter binding on the taxpayer. The modification provided for in paragraph two of this subsection shall be allowed only with respect to tangible property, (A) the construction, reconstruction or erection of which is completed after December thirty-first, nineteen hundred sixty-seven, and then only with respect to that portion of the basis thereof or the expenditures relating thereto which is properly attributable to such construction, reconstruction or erection after December thirty-first, nineteen hundred sixty-three, or (B) acquired after December thirty-first, nineteen hundred sixty-seven, by purchase as defined in section one hundred seventy-nine (d) of the internal revenue code, if the original use of such property commenced with the taxpayer, commenced in this state and commenced after December thirty-first, nineteen hundred sixty-three. Provided, however, a modification under paragraph one of this subsection shall be allowed with respect to property described in this paragraph only on condition that such property shall be principally used by the taxpayer in the production of goods by manufacturing; processing; assembling; refining; mining; extracting; farming; agriculture; horticulture; floriculture; viticulture; or commercial fishing. For purposes of the preceding sentence, manufacturing shall mean the process of working raw materials into wares suitable for use or which gives new shapes, new qualities or new combinations to matter which already has gone through some artificial process by the use of machinery, tools, appliances and other similar equipment. Property used in the production of goods shall include machinery, equipment or other tangible property which is principally used in the repair and service of other machinery, equipment or other tangible property used principally in the production of goods and shall include all facilities used in the manufacturing operation, including storage of material to be used in manufacturing and of the products that are manufactured. At the option of the taxpayer, air and water pollution control facilities which qualify for elective deductions under subsection (h) of section six hundred twelve may be treated, for purposes of this paragraph, as tangible property principally used in the production of goods by manufacturing; processing; assembling; refining; mining; extracting; farming; agriculture; horticulture; floriculture; viticulture; or commercial fishing, in which event, a deduction shall not be allowed under such subsection (h). However, for any taxable year beginning on or after January first, nineteen hundred sixty-eight, a taxpayer shall not be allowed a modification under paragraph one of this subsection with respect to tangible personal property leased to any other person or corporation. For purposes of the preceding sentence, any contract or agreement to lease or rent or for a license to use such property shall be considered a lease. With respect to property which a taxpayer uses for purposes other than leasing for part of a taxable year and leases for a part of a taxable year, a modification under paragraph one shall be allowed in proportion to the part of the year such property is used by the taxpayer.

(5) If the modifications allowable for any taxable year pursuant to this subsection exceed the taxpayer's New York adjusted gross income, determined without the allowance of such modifications, the excess may be carried over to the following taxable year or years and may be subtracted from federal adjusted gross income for such year or years provided, however, that in no event shall such excess, insofar as it reflects subtractions taken with respect to items set forth in paragraph two of this subsection, be carried over to taxable years commencing on or after January first, nineteen hundred ninety-four.

(6) In any taxable year when property is sold or otherwise disposed of, with respect to which a modification has been allowed pursuant to paragraph one or two of this subsection, the basis of such property shall be adjusted to reflect the modifications so allowed, and if the basis as so adjusted is lower than the adjusted basis of the same property for federal income tax purposes, there shall be added to federal adjusted gross income the amount of the difference between such adjusted bases.

(h) Optional modification for waste treatment facility expenditures. For taxable years commencing prior to January first, nineteen hundred eighty-seven, at the election of the taxpayer, there shall also be subtracted from federal adjusted gross income expenditures paid or incurred during the taxable year for the construction, reconstruction, erection or improvement of industrial waste treatment facilities and air pollution control facilities.

(1) (A) The term "industrial waste treatment facilities" shall mean facilities for the treatment, neutralization, or stabilization of industrial waste and other wastes (as the terms "industrial waste" and "other wastes" are defined in section 17-0105 of the environmental conservation law) from a point immediately preceding the point of such treatment, neutralization or stabilization to the point of disposal, including the necessary pumping and transmitting facilities.

(B) The term "air pollution control facilities" shall mean facilities which remove, reduce, or render less noxious air contaminants emitted from an air contamination source (as the terms "air contaminant" and "air contamination source" are defined in section 19-0107 of the environmental conservation law) from a point immediately preceding the point of such removal, reduction or rendering to the point of discharge of air, meeting emission standards as established by the department of environmental conservation but excluding such facilities installed for the primary purpose of salvaging materials which are usable in the manufacturing process or are marketable and excluding those facilities which rely for their efficacy on dilution, dispersion or assimilation of air contaminants in the ambient air after emission. Such term shall further include flue gas desulfurization equipment and attendant sludge disposal facilities, fluidized bed boilers, precombustion coal cleaning facilities or other facilities that conform with this subdivision and which comply with the provisions of the state acid deposition control act set forth in title nine of article nineteen of the environmental conservation law.

(2) Such modifications shall be allowed only

(A) with respect to tangible property which is depreciable, pursuant to section one hundred sixty-seven of the internal revenue code, having a situs in this state and used in the taxpayer's trade or business, the construction, reconstruction, erection or improvement of which, in the case of industrial waste treatment facilities, is initiated on or after January first, nineteen hundred sixty-five, or which, in the case of air pollution control facilities, is initiated on or after January first, nineteen hundred sixty-six, and

(B) on condition that such facilities have been certified by the state commissioner of environmental conservation or his designated representative, pursuant to section 19-0309 of the environmental conservation law, as complying with the applicable provisions of the environmental conservation law, the public health law, the state sanitary code and codes, rules, regulations, permits or orders promulgated pursuant thereto, and

(C) on condition that for the taxable year and all succeeding taxable years, any deductions allowed for federal income tax purposes for such expenditures or for depreciation or amortization of the same property, except to the extent that its basis may be attributable to factors other than such expenditures, be added to federal adjusted gross income pursuant to paragraph five of subsection (b) of this section, or in case a modification is allowable pursuant to this paragraph for only a part of such expenditures, on condition that a proportionate amount of any such deductions allowed for federal income tax purposes be added to federal adjusted gross income, and

(D) where the election provided for in subsection (g) of section six hundred twelve has not been exercised in respect to the same property.

(3) (A) If expenditures in respect to an industrial waste treatment facility or an air pollution control facility have been allowed as a modification as provided herein and if within ten years from the end of the taxable year in which such modification was allowed such property or any part thereof is used for the primary purpose of salvaging materials which are usable in the manufacturing process or are marketable, the taxpayer shall report such change of use in its return for the first taxable year during which it occurs, and the tax commission may recompute the tax for the year or years for which such modification was allowed, and may assess any additional tax resulting from such recomputation within the time fixed by paragraph eight of subsection (c) of section six hundred eighty-three.

(B) If a modification is allowed as herein provided for expenditures paid or incurred during any taxable year on the basis of a temporary certificate of compliance issued pursuant to the environmental conservation law, and if the taxpayer fails to obtain a permanent certificate of compliance upon completion of the facilities with respect to which such temporary certificate was issued, the taxpayer shall report such failure in its report for the taxable year during which such facilities are completed, and the tax commission may recompute the tax for the year or years for which such modification was allowed, and may assess any additional tax resulting from such recomputation within the time fixed by paragraph eight of subsection (c) of section six hundred eighty-three.

(C) If a modification is allowed as herein provided for expenditures paid or incurred during any taxable year in respect to an air pollution control facility on the basis of a certificate of compliance issued pursuant to the environmental conservation law and the certificate is revoked pursuant to subdivision three of section 19-0309 of the environmental conservation law, the tax commission may recompute the tax for the year or years for which the facility is not or was not in compliance with the applicable provisions of the environmental conservation law, the state sanitary code or codes, rules, regulations, permits or orders issued pursuant thereto, and for which a modification was allowed, and may assess any additional tax resulting from such recomputation within the time fixed by paragraph eight of subsection (c) of section six hundred eighty-three.

(4) In any taxable year when property is sold or otherwise disposed of, with respect to which a modification has been allowed pursuant to this paragraph, such modification shall be disregarded in computing gain or loss, and the gain or loss on the sale or other disposition of such property shall be the gain or loss entering into the computation of federal adjusted gross income for such taxable year.

(i) In the case of mines, oil and gas wells and other natural deposits, any allowance for percentage depletion pursuant to section six hundred thirteen or section six hundred thirteen A of the internal revenue code shall be added to federal adjusted gross income. However, with respect to the property as to which such addition to federal adjusted gross income is required, an allowance for depletion shall be subtracted from federal adjusted gross income in the amount that would be deductible under section six hundred eleven of such code if the deduction for an allowance for depletion were computed without reference to such section six hundred thirteen or section six hundred thirteen A. With respect to the computation of depletion pursuant to this subsection, the basis for such computation for taxable years beginning in nineteen hundred seventy-two shall be the federal basis. For subsequent taxable years, the basis for such computation shall be reduced only by the deduction for the allowance for depletion deductible pursuant to this subsection. The portion of any gain from the sale or other disposition of such property having a higher adjusted basis for New York income tax purposes than for federal income tax purposes, that does not exceed such difference in basis, shall be subtracted from federal adjusted gross income.

3. Where, within six months of the realization of a new business investment gain allowable as the basis of a modification under paragraph two of this subsection, such modification is equal to less than one hundred percent of the portion of the gain includable in federal adjusted gross income and the taxpayer purchases a new business investment which is then held for a period of at least six months, the taxpayer may subtract from his federal adjusted gross income ten percent (but not an amount that will reduce the portion of such gain included in his New York income below zero) of the amount of such gain where the purchase price of the new business investment is equal to or greater than the proceeds of the sale giving rise to such gain. Where the purchase price of the new business investment is less than an amount equal to the proceeds of such sale, the modification allowable under this paragraph shall be equal to ten percent of an amount equal to the product of (A) the amount of the gain and (B) a fraction the numerator of which is the purchase price of the new investment and the denominator of which is an amount equal to the proceeds of such sale. The modification allowable under this paragraph may be utilized, at the option of the taxpayer, with respect to the taxable year in which the new business investment gain is realized or the year containing the last day of the six-month retention period described in this paragraph.

4. The state tax commission may prescribe such rules and regulations as may be necessary to carry out the purposes of this subsection.

(p) New business investment deferral. For taxable years beginning before January first, nineteen hundred eighty-eight, at the option of the taxpayer, there may be subtracted from federal adjusted gross income a reinvested amount of long-term capital gain realized in a taxable year from the sale of a capital asset, as such term is defined in section 1221 of the internal revenue code, which is not a new business investment. A reinvested amount of long-term capital gain shall mean an amount which bears the same ratio to the long-term capital gain realized from the sale of a capital asset which was includable in New York adjusted gross income as that portion of the sale proceeds which is reinvested, within one year from date of sale, in a New York new business bears to the total sale proceeds. For the purposes of this subsection, a New York new business is a business enterprise which (1) has been a taxpayer under this article for no more than three taxable years (including short taxable years), (2) over fifty percent of the number of shares of stock that entitle the holders thereof to vote for the election of directors or trustees is not owned, directly or indirectly, by a taxpayer subject to tax under section one hundred eighty-three, one hundred eighty-four, one hundred eighty-five or one hundred eighty-six of article nine of this chapter, or under article nine-A, thirty-two or thirty-three of this chapter, (3) is not substantially similar in operation or ownership, directly or indirectly, to a business entity (or entities) taxable, or previously taxable, under such sections, such articles, article twenty-three or which would have been subject to tax under article twenty-three (as such article was in effect on January first, nineteen hundred eighty) or the income (or losses) of which is (or was) includable under article twenty-two whereby the intent and purpose of this subsection would be evaded, (4) locates and employs at least ninety percent of its assets in the state, (5) employs principally in the state eighty percent of its employees (as ascertained within the meaning and intent of subparagraph three of paragraph (a) of subdivision three of section two hundred ten of this chapter and, in addition, in the case of a partnership, excluding partners), (6) derives less than forty percent of its gross income from dividends, interest, royalties (other than mineral, oil, or gas royalties or copyright royalties), and annuities and (7) reports at least twenty-five hundred dollars in gross income in any taxable year. The reinvested amount must qualify as a capital asset as defined in section 1221 of the internal revenue code and must be retained by the taxpayer for at least twelve months. The modification allowable under this subsection shall be utilized with respect to the taxable year in which the twelve month retention period ends. The commissioner of taxation and finance may require annual information reports on the investments in new businesses made pursuant to this subsection, and such other reports as he may require to ensure against the evasion of the intent and purposes of this subsection.

(q) An amount deferred under subsection (p) hereof shall be added to federal adjusted gross income when the reinvestment in the New York new business which qualified a taxpayer for such deferral is sold.

(r) Related members expense add back. (1) Definitions. (A) Related member. "Related member" means a related person as defined in subparagraph (c) of paragraph three of subsection (b) of section four hundred sixty-five of the internal revenue code, except that "fifty percent" shall be substituted for "ten percent".

(B) Effective rate of tax. "Effective rate of tax" means, as to any state or U.S. possession, the maximum statutory rate of tax imposed by the state or possession on or measured by a related member's net income multiplied by the apportionment percentage, if any, applicable to the related member under the laws of said jurisdiction. For purposes of this definition, the effective rate of tax as to any state or U.S. possession is zero where the related member's net income tax liability in said jurisdiction is reported on a combined or consolidated return including both the taxpayer and the related member where the reported transactions between the taxpayer and the related member are eliminated or offset. Also, for purposes of this definition, when computing the effective rate of tax for a jurisdiction in which a related member's net income is eliminated or offset by a credit or similar adjustment that is dependent upon the related member either maintaining or managing intangible property or collecting interest income in that jurisdiction, the maximum statutory rate of tax imposed by said jurisdiction shall be decreased to reflect the statutory rate of tax that applies to the related member as effectively reduced by such credit or similar adjustment.

(C) Royalty payments. Royalty payments are payments directly connected to the acquisition, use, maintenance or management, ownership, sale, exchange, or any other disposition of licenses, trademarks, copyrights, trade names, trade dress, service marks, mask works, trade secrets, patents and any other similar types of intangible assets as determined by the commissioner, and include amounts allowable as interest deductions under section one hundred sixty-three of the internal revenue code to the extent such amounts are directly or indirectly for, related to or in connection with the acquisition, use, maintenance or management, ownership, sale, exchange or disposition of such intangible assets.

(D) Valid business purpose. A valid business purpose is one or more business purposes, other than the avoidance or reduction of taxation, which alone or in combination constitute the primary motivation for some business activity or transaction, which activity or transaction changes in a meaningful way, apart from tax effects, the economic position of the taxpayer. The economic position of the taxpayer includes an increase in the market share of the taxpayer, or the entry by the taxpayer into new business markets.

(2) Royalty expense add backs. (A) For the purpose of computing New York adjusted gross income, a taxpayer must add back royalty payments directly or indirectly paid, accrued, or incurred in connection with one or more direct or indirect transactions with one or more related members during the taxable year to the extent deductible in calculating federal taxable income.

(B) Exceptions. (i) The adjustment required in this subsection shall not apply to the portion of the royalty payment that the taxpayer establishes, by clear and convincing evidence of the type and in the form specified by the commissioner, meets all of the following requirements: (I) the related member was subject to tax in this state or another state or possession of the United States or a foreign nation or some combination thereof on a tax base that included the royalty payment paid, accrued or incurred by the taxpayer; (II) the related member during the same taxable year directly or indirectly paid, accrued or incurred such portion to a person that is not a related member; and (III) the transaction giving rise to the royalty payment between the taxpayer and the related member was undertaken for a valid business purpose.

(ii) The adjustment required in this subsection shall not apply if the taxpayer establishes, by clear and convincing evidence of the type and in the form specified by the commissioner, that: (I) the related member was subject to tax on or measured by its net income in this state or another state or possession of the United States or some combination thereof; (II) the tax base for said tax included the royalty payment paid, accrued or incurred by the taxpayer; and (III) the aggregate effective rate of tax applied to the related member in those jurisdictions is no less than eighty percent of the statutory rate of tax that applied to the taxpayer under section six hundred one of this article for the taxable year.

(iii) The adjustment required in this subsection shall not apply if the taxpayer establishes, by clear and convincing evidence of the type and in the form specified by the commissioner, that: (I) the royalty payment was paid, accrued or incurred to a related member organized under the laws of a country other than the United States; (II) the related member's income from the transaction was subject to a comprehensive income tax treaty between such country and the United States; (III) the related member was subject to tax in a foreign nation on a tax base that included the royalty payment paid, accrued or incurred by the taxpayer; (IV) the related member's income from the transaction was taxed in such country at an effective tax rate at least equal to that imposed by this state; and (V) the royalty payment was paid, accrued or incurred pursuant to a transaction that was undertaken for a valid business purpose and using terms that reflect an arm's length relationship.

(iv) The adjustment required in this subsection shall not apply if the taxpayer and the commissioner agree in writing to the application or use of alternative adjustments or computations. The commissioner may, in his or her discretion, agree to the application or use of alternative adjustments or computations when he or she concludes that in the absence of such agreement the income of the taxpayer would not be properly reflected.

(s) New York S termination year. (1) General. In the case of a New York S termination year, the amount of any item of S corporation income, loss and deduction included in the shareholder's federal adjusted gross income and any reductions for taxes (as described in paragraphs two and three of subsection (f) of section thirteen hundred sixty-six of the internal revenue code) shall be adjusted in accordance with the treatment provided in paragraph two or three of this subsection.

(2) Pro rata allocation. Unless paragraph three of this subsection applies, an equal portion of each S corporation item shall be assigned to each day of the S corporation's taxable year for federal income tax purposes. The portion of each such item thereby assigned to the S short year shall be treated as an item of a New York S corporation, and the portion of each such item thereby assigned to the C short year shall be treated as an item of an S corporation which is a New York C corporation.

(3) Normal tax accounting. The portion of each S corporation item assigned to the S short year and the C short year shall be determined using normal tax accounting rules if:

(A) there is a sale or exchange of fifty percent or more of the stock in such corporation during the New York S termination year; or

(B) the corporation so elects, in the manner the commissioner may provide. No election under this subparagraph shall be effective unless all persons who are shareholders during the S short year and all persons who are shareholders on the first day of the C short year consent to such election.

(u) Emerging technology investment deferral. In the case of any sale of a qualified emerging technologies investment held for more than thirty-six months and with respect to which the taxpayer elects the application of this subsection, gain from such sale shall be recognized only to the extent that the amount realized on such sale exceeds the cost of any qualified emerging technologies investment purchased by the taxpayer during the three hundred sixty-five-day period beginning on the date of such sale, reduced by any portion of such cost previously taken into account under this subsection. For purposes of this subsection the following shall apply:

(1) A qualified investment is stock of a corporation or an interest, other than as a creditor, in a partnership or limited liability company that was acquired by the taxpayer as provided in Internal Revenue Code § 1202(c)(1)(B), except that the reference to the term "stock" in such section shall be read as "investment," or by the taxpayer from a person who had acquired such stock or interest in such a manner.

(2) A qualified emerging technology investment is a qualified investment, that was held by the taxpayer for at least thirty-six months, in a company defined in paragraph (c) of subdivision one of section thirty-one hundred two-e of the public authorities law or an investment in a partnership or limited liability company that is taxed as a partnership to the extent that such partnership or limited liability company invests in qualified emerging technology companies.

(3) For purposes of determining whether the nonrecognition of gain under this subsection applies to a qualified emerging technologies investment that is sold, the taxpayer's holding period for such investment and the qualified emerging technologies investment that is purchased shall be determined without regard to Internal Revenue Code § 1223.

(v) Amounts deferred. The amount deferred under subsection (u) of this section shall be added to federal adjusted gross income when the reinvestment in the New York qualified emerging technology company which qualified a taxpayer for such deferral is sold.

(w) Alimony modifications. (1) In the case of applicable alimony or separate maintenance payments, the following modifications shall apply:

(A) There shall be subtracted from federal adjusted gross income any applicable alimony or separate maintenance payments made by the taxpayer during the taxable year.

(B) There shall be added to federal adjusted gross income any applicable alimony or separate maintenance payments received by the taxpayer during the taxable year.

(2) (A) The term "alimony or separate maintenance payments" means payments as defined under section seventy-one of the internal revenue code in effect immediately prior to the enactment of Public Law 115-97.

(B) The term "applicable alimony or separate maintenance payments" means payments made under an alimony or separation instrument (as defined in section seventy-one of the internal revenue code in effect immediately prior to the enactment of Public Law 115-97) that was executed after December thirty-first, two thousand eighteen, and any divorce or separation instrument executed on or before such date and modified after such date if the modification expressly provides that the amendments made by this section apply to such modification.

(x) Qualified moving expense reimbursement and moving expenses. (1) In the case of applicable qualified moving expense reimbursement and moving expenses, the following modifications shall apply:

(A) There shall be subtracted from federal adjusted gross income any applicable qualified moving expense reimbursement received by the taxpayer during the taxable year.

(B) There shall be subtracted from federal adjusted gross income any applicable moving expenses paid by the taxpayer during the taxable year.

(2) Applicable qualified moving expense reimbursement and moving expenses are those deductions as allowed by paragraph (g) of sections one hundred thirty-two and section two hundred seventeen, respectively, of the internal revenue code immediately prior to the enactment of Public Law 115-97.

(y) Depreciation and interest adjustments for covered properties owned by an institutional real estate investor. (1) Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, in the case of a taxpayer that is a partner, member or shareholder of an entity that is an institutional real estate investor as defined in paragraph (c-4) of subdivision nine of section two hundred eight of this chapter, New York adjusted gross income shall be computed with adjustments for depreciation and interest related to covered properties as set forth in this subsection.

(2) Depreciation deductions. With respect to covered properties, no deduction for depreciation allowed under the internal revenue code or this section shall be allowed.

(3) Federal interest deductions. With respect to covered properties, the interest deduction for federal income tax purposes allowed under section one hundred sixty-three of the internal revenue code shall not be allowed and must be added back in the computation of New York adjusted gross income, except with respect to interest paid or accrued in the taxable year when such covered property is sold to an individual for use as the principal residence of such individual or sold to a nonprofit organization that has as its principal purpose the creation, development, or preservation of affordable housing. For purposes of this paragraph, any amount of interest that would have been allowed under section one hundred sixty-three of the internal revenue code in connection with a covered property but for an election to treat such interest as chargeable to capital account shall be treated as an amount allowed under section one hundred sixty-three of the internal revenue code.

§ 613. New York deduction of a resident individual. The New York deduction of a resident individual shall be his New York standard deduction unless he elects to deduct his New York itemized deduction under the conditions set forth in section six hundred fifteen of this article. If an individual taxpayer has elected to deduct his New York itemized deduction computed pursuant to section six hundred fifteen of this article, but the department determines that the New York standard deduction allowable pursuant to section six hundred fourteen of this article is greater, the department shall recompute the taxpayer's tax liability pursuant to section six hundred eleven of this article using the New York standard deduction provided in section six hundred fourteen of this article. The department will notify the taxpayer of any adjustment to the election.

§ 615. New York itemized deduction of a resident individual. (a)

General. If federal taxable income of a resident individual is determined by itemizing deductions or claiming the federal standard deduction from his or her federal adjusted gross income, he or she may elect to deduct his or her New York itemized deduction or claim his or her New York standard deduction. The New York itemized deduction of a resident individual means the total amount of his or her deductions from federal adjusted gross income allowed, other than federal deductions for personal exemptions, as provided in the laws of the United States for the taxable year, as such deductions existed immediately prior to the enactment of Public Law 115-97 with the modifications specified in this section, except as provided for under subsections (f) and (g) of this section.

(b) Husband and wife.

(1) A husband and wife, both of whom are required to file returns under this article, shall be allowed New York itemized deductions only if both elect to take New York itemized deductions.

(2) The total of the New York itemized deductions of a husband and wife whose federal taxable income is determined on a joint return, but whose New York taxable incomes are required to be determined separately, shall be divided between them as if their federal taxable incomes had been determined separately.

(c) Modifications reducing federal itemized deductions. The total amount of deductions from federal adjusted gross income shall be reduced by the amount of such federal deductions for:

(1) state and local general sales taxes as defined in subsection (b) of section one hundred sixty-four of the internal revenue code, to the extent included in federal itemized deductions or income taxes imposed by this state or any other taxing jurisdiction, except city earnings taxes on nonresidents that are imposed upon and paid by taxpayers for taxable years beginning after December thirty-first, nineteen hundred seventy and before January first, two thousand, pursuant to the authority of former section twenty-five-m of the general city law, to the extent that the amount of such tax exceeds the tax computed as if the rates were one-fourth of one percent of wages subject to tax and three-eighths of one percent of net earnings from self-employment subject to tax;

(2) interest on indebtedness incurred or continued to purchase or carry obligations or securities the interest on which is exempt from tax under this article; and

(3) ordinary and necessary expenses paid or incurred during the taxable year for (i) the production or collection of income which is exempt from tax under this article, or (ii) the management, conservation or maintenance of property held for the production of such income, and the amortizable bond premium for the taxable year on any bond the interest on which is exempt from tax under this article, to the extent that such expenses and premiums are deductible in determining federal taxable income.

(4) premiums paid for long-term care insurance to the extent that such premiums are deductible in determining federal taxable income.

* (5) real property taxes imposed by this state or any other taxing jurisdiction on renters pursuant to section nine hundred twenty-six-a of the real property tax law.

(d) Modifications increasing federal itemized deductions. The total amount of deductions from federal adjusted gross income shall be increased by:

(1) an amount, not exceeding one hundred and fifty dollars in the aggregate, for net premiums paid or incurred by a taxpayer during the taxable year with respect to any life insurance or endowment policy upon his life; provided, however, for taxable years beginning on or after January first, nineteen hundred seventy-one, such amount shall not exceed one hundred dollars in the aggregate; and for taxable years beginning on or after January first, nineteen hundred seventy-two, such amount shall not exceed fifty dollars in the aggregate; and for taxable years beginning on or after January first, nineteen hundred seventy-three, no such increase in the amount of deductions from federal adjusted gross income shall be allowed;

(2) interest on indebtedness incurred or continued to purchase or carry obligations or securities the interest on which is subject to tax under this article but exempt from federal income tax, to the extent that such interest on indebtedness is not deductible for federal income tax purposes and is not subtracted from federal adjusted gross income pursuant to paragraph (9) of subsection (c) of section six hundred twelve; and

(3) ordinary and necessary expenses paid or incurred during the taxable year for (i) the production or collection of income which is subject to tax under this article but exempt from federal income tax, or (ii) the management, conservation or maintenance of property held for the production of such income, and the amortizable bond premium for the taxable year on any bond the interest on which is subject to tax under this article but exempt from federal income tax, to the extent that such expenses and premiums are not deductible in determining federal adjusted gross income and are not subtracted from federal adjusted gross income pursuant to paragraph (10) of subsection (c) of section six hundred twelve.

Such applicable percentage shall be twenty-five percent for taxable years beginning in two thousand one, fifty percent for taxable years beginning in two thousand two, seventy-five percent for taxable years beginning in two thousand three and one hundred percent for taxable years beginning after two thousand three. Provided, however, no deduction shall be allowed under this paragraph to a taxpayer who claims the credit provided under subsection (t) of section six hundred six of this article.

(5) the full amount of union dues paid during the taxable year if the taxpayer was not allowed federal miscellaneous itemized deductions by operation of section 67 of the internal revenue code. If any amount of union dues representing federal miscellaneous itemized deductions was allowed, then the amount allowed as a New York itemized deduction for union dues paid shall be a percentage of the union dues disallowed by the operation of section 67 of the internal revenue code computed as follows. The amount allowed as a New York itemized deduction shall be computed by multiplying the total union dues paid by the taxpayer during the taxable year by a percentage determined by subtracting from one, a fraction where the numerator is the amount of federal miscellaneous deductions allowed and the denominator is the aggregate federal miscellaneous itemized deductions before application of the two-percent floor under section 67 of the internal revenue code. For the purposes of this paragraph, union dues are those amounts that are deductible as union dues and agency shop fees under section 162 of the internal revenue code.

(e) Modifications of partners and shareholders of S corporations. (1) Partners and shareholders of S corporations which are not New York C corporations. The amounts of modifications under subsection (c) or under paragraph (2) or (3) of subsection (d) required to be made by a partner or by a shareholder of an S corporation (other than an S corporation which is a New York C corporation), with respect to items of deduction of a partnership or S corporation shall be determined under section six hundred seventeen.

(2) Shareholders of S corporations which are New York C corporations. In the case of a shareholder of an S corporation which is a New York C corporation, the modifications under this section which relate to the corporation's items of deduction shall not apply, except for the modification provided under paragraph six of subsection (c).

(3) New York S termination year. In the case of a New York S termination year, the amounts of the modifications required under this section which relate to the S corporation's items of deduction shall be adjusted in the same manner that the S corporation's items are adjusted under subsection (s) of section six hundred twelve.

(f) Except as provided under subsection (g) of this section, the New York itemized deduction otherwise allowable under this section shall be reduced by the sum of the amounts determined under paragraphs one and two of this subsection.

(1) An amount equal to the New York itemized deduction otherwise allowable under subsection (a) of this section, multiplied by a percentage, such percentage to be determined by multiplying, for taxable years beginning in nineteen hundred eighty-eight, ten percent, and for taxable years beginning after nineteen hundred eighty-eight, twenty-five percent, by a fraction,

(A) in the case of an unmarried individual or married individual filing a separate return, the numerator of which is the lesser of fifty thousand dollars or the excess of such individual's New York adjusted gross income over one hundred thousand dollars and the denominator of which is fifty thousand dollars;

(B) in the case of a married individual filing a joint return or a surviving spouse, the numerator of which is the lesser of fifty thousand dollars or the excess of such individual's New York adjusted gross income over two hundred thousand dollars and the denominator of which is fifty thousand dollars;

(C) in the case of a head of household, the numerator of which is the lesser of fifty thousand dollars or the excess of such individual's New York adjusted gross income over one hundred fifty thousand dollars and the denominator of which is fifty thousand dollars.

(2) An amount equal to the New York itemized deduction of an individual otherwise allowable under subsection (a) of this section, multiplied by a percentage, such percentage to be determined by multiplying, for taxable years beginning in nineteen hundred eighty-eight, ten percent, and for taxable years beginning after nineteen hundred eighty-eight, twenty-five percent, by a fraction, the numerator of which is the lesser of fifty thousand dollars or the excess of such individual's New York adjusted gross income over four hundred seventy-five thousand dollars and the denominator of which is fifty thousand dollars.

(g) Notwithstanding subsection (a) of this section, the New York itemized deduction for charitable contributions shall be the amount allowed under section one hundred seventy of the internal revenue code or the amount allowable pursuant to paragraph three of this subsection, as modified by paragraph nine of subsection (c) of this section and as limited by this subsection. (1) With respect to an individual whose New York adjusted gross income is over one million dollars and no more than ten million dollars, the New York itemized deduction shall be an amount equal to fifty percent of any charitable contribution deduction allowed under section one hundred seventy of the internal revenue code or allowable pursuant to paragraph three of this subsection for taxable years beginning after two thousand nine and before two thousand twenty-five. With respect to an individual whose New York adjusted gross income is over one million dollars, the New York itemized deduction shall be an amount equal to fifty percent of any charitable contribution deduction allowed under section one hundred seventy of the internal revenue code or allowable pursuant to paragraph three of this subsection for taxable years beginning in two thousand nine or after two thousand twenty-four.

(2) With respect to an individual whose New York adjusted gross income is over ten million dollars, the New York itemized deduction shall be an amount equal to twenty-five percent of any charitable contribution deduction allowed under section one hundred seventy of the internal revenue code or allowable pursuant to paragraph three of this subsection for taxable years beginning after two thousand nine and ending before two thousand thirty.

(3) Contributions to an organization that meets the definition of an exempt organization under paragraph four of subdivision (a) of section eleven hundred sixteen of this chapter or to organizations that have applied for, and were approved for tax-exempt status under subsection (c) of section five hundred one of the internal revenue code by the internal revenue service before January first, two thousand twenty-five, will continue to qualify as charitable contributions allowable as a New York itemized deduction under this subsection, to the extent otherwise allowable under section one hundred seventy of the internal revenue code, even if the internal revenue service revokes such organization's tax-exempt status, so long as the organization establishes that the revocation was unrelated to the organization's charitable mission and that it continues to meet the statutory requirements of paragraph three of subsection (c) of section five hundred one of the internal revenue code and the regulations and authorities promulgated thereunder.

§ 616. New York exemptions of a resident individual. (a) General. For taxable years beginning after nineteen hundred eighty-seven, a resident individual shall be allowed a New York exemption of one thousand dollars for each exemption for which he is entitled to a deduction for the taxable year under section one hundred fifty-one(c) of the Internal Revenue Code; and for taxable years beginning in nineteen hundred eighty-seven, a resident individual other than a taxpayer whose federal exemption amount is zero shall be allowed a New York exemption of nine hundred dollars for each exemption for which he is entitled to a deduction for the taxable year for federal income tax purposes.

(b) Husband and wife. If the New York income taxes of a husband and wife are required to be separately determined but their federal income tax is determined on a joint return, each of them shall be separately entitled to the New York exemptions under subsection (a) of this section to which each would be separately entitled for the taxable year if their federal income taxes had been determined on separate returns.

§ 617. Resident partners and shareholders of S corporations. (a) Partner's and shareholder's modifications. In determining New York adjusted gross income and New York taxable income of a resident partner or a resident shareholder of an S corporation (other than an S corporation which is a New York C corporation), any modification described in subsections (b), (c) or (d) of section six hundred twelve, subsection (c) of section six hundred fifteen or paragraphs (2) or (3) of subsection (d) of such section, which relates to an item of partnership or S corporation income, gain, loss or deduction shall be made in accordance with the partner's distributive share or the shareholder's pro rata share, for federal income tax purposes, of the item to which the modification relates. Where a partner's distributive share or a shareholder's pro rata share of any such item is not required to be taken into account separately for federal income tax purposes, the partner's or shareholder's share of such item shall be determined in accordance with his share, for federal income tax purposes, of partnership or S corporation taxable income or loss generally. In the case of a New York S termination year, his pro rata share of any such item shall be determined under subsection (s) of section six hundred twelve.

(b) Character of items. Each item of partnership and S corporation income, gain, loss, or deduction shall have the same character for a partner or shareholder under this article as for federal income tax purposes. Where an item is not characterized for federal income tax purposes, it shall have the same character for a partner or shareholder as if realized directly from the source from which realized by the partnership or S corporation or incurred in the same manner as incurred by the partnership or S corporation.

(c) New York tax avoidance or evasion. Where a partner's distributive share of an item of partnership income, gain, loss or deduction is determined for federal income tax purposes by special provision in the partnership agreement with respect to such item, and where the principal purpose of such provision is the avoidance or evasion of tax under this article, the partner's distributive share of such item, and any modification required with respect thereto, shall be determined as if the partnership agreement made no special provision with respect to such item.

§ 617-a. Residents; special provisions. (5) In the case of a trust, there shall be added the amount of any includible gain, reduced by any deductions properly allocable thereto, upon which tax is imposed for the taxable year pursuant to section six hundred forty-four of the internal revenue code.

§ 619. Share of a resident estate, trust or beneficiary in New York fiduciary adjustment.

(a) General. An adjustment shall be made in determining New York taxable income of a resident estate or trust under section six hundred eighteen, or New York adjusted gross income of a resident beneficiary of any estate or trust under subsection (d) of section six hundred twelve, in the amount of the share of each in the New York fiduciary adjustment as determined in this section.

(b) Definition. The New York fiduciary adjustment shall be the net amount of the modifications described in section six hundred twelve (including subsection (d) if the estate or trust is a beneficiary of another estate or trust), in subsection (c) and paragraphs (2) and (3) of subsection (d) of section six hundred fifteen, and in subsection (e) of this section, which relate to items of income, gain, loss or deduction of an estate or trust. The net amount of such modifications shall not include:

(1) Any modification described in paragraphs (1) and (2) of subsection (b) and paragraphs (1), (2), (4), (5), (6) and (7) of subsection (c) of section six hundred twelve with respect to any amount which, pursuant to the terms of the governing instrument, is paid or permanently set aside for a charitable purpose during the taxable year, and

(2) Any modification described in paragraph (4) or (5) of subsection (c) of section six hundred twelve, with respect to gains from the sale or other disposition of property, to the extent such gains are excluded from federal distributable net income of the estate or trust.

(c) Shares of New York fiduciary adjustment.

(1) The respective shares of an estate or trust and its beneficiaries (including, solely for the purpose of this allocation, nonresident beneficiaries) in the New York fiduciary adjustment shall be in proportion to their respective shares of federal distributable net income of the estate or trust.

(2) If the estate or trust has no federal distributable net income for the taxable year, the share of each beneficiary in the New York fiduciary adjustment shall be in proportion to his share of the estate or trust income for such year, under local law or the governing instrument, which is required to be distributed currently and any other amounts of such income distributed in such year. Any balance of the New York fiduciary adjustment shall be allocated to the estate or trust.

(d) Alternate attribution of modifications. The tax commission may by regulation establish such other method or methods of determining to whom the items comprising the fiduciary adjustment shall be attributed, as may be appropriate and equitable. Such method may be used by the fiduciary in his discretion whenever the allocation of the fiduciary adjustment pursuant to subsection (c) would result in an inequity which is substantial both in amount and in relation to the amount of the fiduciary adjustment.

(e) Additional modifications. (1) For any taxable year beginning after December thirty-first, two thousand seventeen, and before January first, two thousand twenty-six, to the extent that the estate or trust claimed a deduction for taxes under section 164 of the internal revenue code that was limited to ten thousand dollars as provided in section 164(b)(6)(B) or was denied as a result of section 164(b)(6)(A), there shall be subtracted the taxes paid or accrued in that taxable year by an estate or trust that the estate or trust was not able to deduct for federal income tax purposes because of such limitation or denial, other than state and local sales taxes and income taxes described in paragraph one of subsection (c) of section six hundred fifteen of this part. In determining the makeup of the ten thousand dollars of deduction claimed by the estate or trust under section 164 of the internal revenue code, it shall be presumed that the ten thousand dollars of deduction first comprises the state and local sales taxes or income taxes the estate or trust accrued or paid during the taxable year.

(2) For any taxable year beginning after December thirty-first, two thousand seventeen, and before January first, two thousand twenty-six, there shall be subtracted the miscellaneous itemized deductions as described in and limited by section 67 of the internal revenue code (but excluding the deductions described in subsection (e) of section 67), but determined without regard to subsection (g) of such section.

(3) For any taxable year, there shall be added the amount of any deduction allowed pursuant to section 199A of the internal revenue code.

§ 620. Credit for income tax of another state. (a) General. A resident shall be allowed a credit against the tax otherwise due under this article for any income tax imposed on such individual for the taxable year by another state of the United States, a political subdivision of such state, the District of Columbia or a province of Canada, upon income both derived therefrom and subject to tax under this article. The term "income tax imposed" in the previous sentence shall not include the portion of such tax (determined in the manner provided for in section six hundred twenty-A) which is imposed upon the ordinary income portion (or part thereof) of a lump sum distribution which is subject to the separate tax imposed by section six hundred three.

(b) Pass-through entity taxes. (1) A resident shall be allowed a credit against the tax otherwise due pursuant to this article for any pass-through entity tax substantially similar to the tax imposed pursuant to article twenty-four-A of this chapter imposed on the income of a partnership or S corporation of which the resident is a partner, member or shareholder for the taxable year by another state of the United States, a political subdivision of such state, or the District of Columbia upon income both derived therefrom and subject to tax under this article.

(2) Such credit shall be equal to the taxpayer's direct share of the pass-through entity tax paid by the electing partnership or electing S corporation to such other state, political subdivision of such other state or the District of Columbia.

(3) However, such credit will be allowed on tax paid only if:

(A) the state of the United States, political subdivision of such state, or the District of Columbia imposing such tax also imposes an income tax substantially similar to the tax imposed under this article; and

(B) in the case of taxes paid by an S corporation, such S corporation was treated as a New York S corporation.

(c) Limitations. (1) The credit under this section shall not exceed the percentage of the tax otherwise due under this article determined by dividing the portion of the taxpayer's New York income subject to taxation by such other jurisdiction by the total amount of the taxpayer's New York income.

(2) The credit under this section shall not reduce the tax otherwise due under this article to an amount less than would have been due if the income subject to taxation by such other jurisdiction were excluded from the taxpayer's New York income.

(3) In the case of a taxpayer who elects to claim the foreign tax credit for federal income tax purposes, the credit under this section for income tax imposed by a province of Canada shall be allowed for that portion of the provincial tax not claimed for federal purposes for the taxable year or a preceding taxable year, provided however, to the extent the provincial tax is claimed for federal purposes for a succeeding taxable year, the credit under this section must be added back in such succeeding taxable year. The provincial tax shall be deemed to be claimed last for federal income tax purposes and for purposes of this subsection.

(d) Definition. For purposes of this section New York income means:

(1) the New York adjusted gross income of an individual, or

(2) the amount of the income of an estate or trust, determined as if the estate or trust were an individual computing his New York adjusted gross income under section six hundred twelve.

§ 620-A. Credit against separate tax. (a) General. A resident shall be allowed a credit against the separate tax otherwise due under section six hundred three for any income tax imposed for the taxable year by another state of the United States, a political subdivision of such state, the District of Columbia or a province of Canada, upon the ordinary income portion (or part thereof) of a lump sum distribution both derived therefrom and subject to tax under such section. Where such ordinary income portion (or part thereof) of a lump sum distribution is not subject to separate income taxation by such other state or its political subdivision or the District of Columbia or a province of Canada, but is included as income under an income tax imposed by such jurisdiction, the portion of the tax on such income which constitutes the income tax imposed on such ordinary income portion (or part thereof) of a lump sum distribution shall be an amount bearing the same ratio to the entire tax paid to such other jurisdiction as the amount of the ordinary income portion (or part thereof) of a lump sum distribution included in the income subject to such tax bears to all income subject to such tax.

(b) Limitations. (1) The credit under this section shall not exceed the percentage of the tax otherwise due under section six hundred three determined by dividing the portion of the taxpayer's ordinary income portion of a lump sum distribution taxable both under section six hundred three and by such other jurisdiction by the total amount of the taxpayer's ordinary income portion of a lump sum distribution taxable under section six hundred three.

(2) The credit under this section shall not reduce the tax otherwise due under section six hundred three to an amount less than would have been due if the portion of the ordinary income portion of a lump sum distribution taxable both under section six hundred three and by such other jurisdiction were excluded from the computation of the separate tax imposed under section six hundred three.

(3) In the case of a taxpayer who elects to claim the foreign tax credit for federal income tax purposes, the credit under this section for income tax imposed by a province of Canada shall be allowed for that portion of the provincial tax not claimed for federal purposes for the taxable year or a preceding taxable year, provided however, to the extent the provincial tax is claimed for federal purposes for a succeeding taxable year, the credit under this section must be added back in such succeeding taxable year. The provincial tax shall be deemed to be claimed last for federal income tax purposes and for purposes of this subsection.

§ 621. Credits to trust beneficiary receiving accumulation distribution. (a) General. A resident beneficiary of a trust whose New York adjusted gross income includes all or part of an accumulation distribution by such trust, as defined in section six hundred sixty-five of the internal revenue code, including a beneficiary who is required to make the modification required by paragraph forty of subsection (b) of section six hundred twelve of this part, shall be allowed (1) a credit against the tax otherwise due under this article for all or a proportionate part of any tax paid by the trust under this article or under former article sixteen of this chapter (as such article was in effect on or before December thirtieth, nineteen hundred sixty), for any preceding taxable year which would not have been payable if the trust had in fact made distributions to its beneficiaries at the times and in the amounts specified in section six hundred sixty-six of the internal revenue code; and (2) a credit against the taxes imposed by this article for the taxable year for any income tax imposed on the trust for the taxable year or any prior taxable year by another state of the United States, a political subdivision thereof, or the District of Columbia, upon income both derived therefrom and subject to tax under this article, provided that the amount of the credit shall not exceed the percentage of the tax otherwise due under this article determined by dividing the portion of the income that is both taxable to the trust in such other jurisdiction and taxable to the beneficiary under this article by the total amount of the beneficiary's New York income.

(b) Limitation. The credits under this section shall not reduce the tax otherwise due from the beneficiary under this article to an amount less than would have been due if the accumulation distribution or his part thereof were excluded from his New York adjusted gross income.

- 632. Nonresident partners and electing shareholders of S corporations.
- 632-a. Personal service corporations and S corporations formed or availed of to avoid or evade New York State income tax.
- 633. New York source income of a nonresident estate or trust.
- 634. Share of a nonresident beneficiary in income from New York sources.
- 635. Credit to trust beneficiary receiving accumulation distribution.
- 637. Computation of separate tax on the ordinary income portion of lump sum distributions received by nonresident or part-year resident individuals, estates and trusts.
- 638. New York source income of a part-year resident.
- 639. Accruals upon change of residence.

§ 631. New York source income of a nonresident individual. (a)

General. The New York source income of a nonresident individual shall be the sum of the following: (1) The net amount of items of income, gain, loss and deduction entering into his federal adjusted gross income, as defined in the laws of the United States for the taxable year, derived from or connected with New York sources, including: (A) his distributive share of partnership income, gain, loss and deduction, determined under section six hundred thirty-two, and

(B) his pro rata share of New York S corporation income, loss and deduction, increased by reductions for taxes described in paragraphs two and three of subsection (f) of section thirteen hundred sixty-six of the internal revenue code, determined under section six hundred thirty-two, and

(C) his share of estate or trust income, gain, loss and deduction, determined under section six hundred thirty-four and

(2) The portion of the modifications described in subsections (b) and (c) of section six hundred twelve which relate to income derived from New York sources (including any modifications attributable to him as a partner or shareholder of a New York S corporation).

(b) Income and deductions from New York sources.

(1) Items of income, gain, loss and deduction derived from or connected with New York sources shall be those items attributable to:

(A) the ownership of any interest in real or tangible personal property in this state; or

(1) For purposes of this subparagraph, the term "real property located in this state" includes an interest in a partnership, limited liability corporation, S corporation, or non-publicly traded C corporation with one hundred or fewer shareholders (hereinafter the "entity") that owns real property that is located in New York or owns shares of stock in a cooperative housing corporation where the cooperative units relating to the shares are located in New York; provided, that the sum of the fair market values of such real property, cooperative shares, and related cooperative units equals or exceeds fifty percent of all the assets of the entity on the date of sale or exchange of the taxpayer's interest in the entity. Only those assets that the entity owned for at least two years before the date of the sale or exchange of the taxpayer's interest in the entity are to be used in determining the fair market value of all the assets of the entity on the date of sale or exchange. The gain or loss derived from New York sources from the taxpayer's sale or exchange of an interest in an entity that is subject to the provisions of this subparagraph is the total gain or loss for federal income tax purposes from that sale or exchange multiplied by a fraction, the numerator of which is the fair market value of the real property, and the cooperative housing corporation stock and related cooperative units located in New York on the date of sale or exchange and the denominator of which is the fair market value of all the assets of the entity on the date of sale or exchange.

(B) a business, trade, profession or occupation carried on in this state; or

(C) in the case of a shareholder of an S corporation where the election provided for in subsection (a) of section six hundred sixty of this article is in effect, the ownership of shares issued by such corporation, to the extent determined under section six hundred thirty-two of this article; or

(D) winnings from a wager placed in a lottery conducted by the division of the lottery, if the proceeds from such wager exceed five thousand dollars; or

(D-1) gambling winnings in excess of five thousand dollars from wagering transactions within the state; or

(E) gains from the sale, conveyance or other disposition of shares of stock in a cooperative housing corporation in connection with the grant or transfer of a proprietary leasehold by the owner thereof and subject to the provisions of article thirty-one of this chapter, whether such shares are held by a partnership, trust or otherwise; or

(E-1) in the case of an S corporation for which an election is in effect pursuant to subsection (a) of section six hundred sixty of this article that terminates its taxable status in New York, any income or gain recognized on the receipt of payments from an installment sale contract entered into when the S corporation was subject to tax in New York, allocated in a manner consistent with the applicable methods and rules for allocation under article nine-A or thirty-two of this chapter, in the year that the S corporation sold its assets.

(F) income received by nonresidents related to a business, trade, profession or occupation previously carried on in this state, whether or not as an employee, including but not limited to, covenants not to compete and termination agreements. Income received by nonresidents related to a business, trade, profession or occupation previously carried on partly within and partly without the state shall be allocated in accordance with the provisions of subsection (c) of this section.

(2) Income from intangible personal property, including annuities, dividends, interest, and gains from the disposition of intangible personal property, shall constitute income derived from New York sources only to the extent that such income is from property employed in a business, trade, profession, or occupation carried on in this state or from winnings from a wager placed in a lottery conducted by the division of the lottery, if the proceeds from such wager exceed five thousand dollars. Income from the disposition of intangible personal property shall also constitute income derived from New York sources to the extent such gains are from the sale, conveyance or other disposition of shares of stock in a cooperative housing corporation in connection with the grant or transfer of a proprietary leasehold by the owner thereof and subject to the provisions of article thirty-one of this chapter, whether such shares are held by a partnership, trust or otherwise.

(3) Income directly or indirectly derived by an athlete, entertainer, or performing artist from closed-circuit and cable television transmissions of an event (other than events occurring on a regularly scheduled basis) taking place within the state as a result of the rendition of services by such athlete, entertainer or performing artist shall constitute income derived from New York sources only to the extent that such transmissions were received or exhibited within the state.

(4) Deductions with respect to capital losses, passive activity losses and net operating losses shall be based solely on income, gain, loss and deduction derived from or connected with New York sources, under regulations of the commissioner of taxation and finance, but otherwise shall be determined in the same manner as the corresponding federal deductions.

(5) In the case of a nonresident individual or partner of a partnership doing an insurance business as a member of the New York insurance exchange described in section six thousand two hundred one of the insurance law, any item of income, gain, loss or deduction of such business which is the individual's distributive or pro rata share for federal income tax purposes or which the individual is required to take into account separately for federal income tax purposes, shall not constitute income, gain, loss or deduction derived from New York sources.

(6) The deduction allowed by section two hundred fifteen of the internal revenue code, relating to alimony, shall not constitute a deduction derived from New York sources.

(c) Income and deductions partly from New York sources. If a business, trade, profession or occupation is carried on partly within and partly without this state, as determined under regulations of the tax commission, the items of income, gain, loss and deduction derived from or connected with New York sources shall be determined by apportionment and allocation under such regulations.

(d) Purchase and sale for own account.-- A nonresident, other than a dealer holding property primarily for sale to customers in the ordinary course of his trade or business, shall not be deemed to carry on a business, trade, profession or occupation in this state solely by reason of the purchase and sale of property or the purchase, sale or writing of stock option contracts, or both, for his own account.

(e) Military pay. Compensation paid by the United States for active service in the armed forces of the United States, performed by an individual not domiciled in this state, shall not constitute income derived from New York sources.

(f) Husband and wife. If husband and wife determine their federal income tax on a joint return but are required to determine their New York income taxes separately, they shall determine their New York source incomes separately as if their federal adjusted gross incomes had been determined separately.

(g) Stock option grants, stock appreciation rights and restricted stock. A nonresident taxpayer who has been granted statutory stock options, restricted stock, nonstatutory stock options or stock appreciation rights and who, during such grant period, performs services within New York for, or is employed within New York by, the corporation granting such option, stock or right, shall compute his or her New York source income as determined under rules and regulations prescribed by the commissioner.

§ 632. Nonresident partners and electing shareholders of S corporations. (a) Portion derived from New York sources.

(1) In determining New York source income of a nonresident partner of any partnership, there shall be included only the portion derived from or connected with New York sources of such partner's distributive share of items of partnership income, gain, loss and deduction entering into his federal adjusted gross income, as such portion shall be determined under regulations of the tax commission consistent with the applicable rules of section six hundred thirty-one of this part. If a nonresident is a partner in a partnership where a sale or transfer of the membership interest of the partner is subject to the provisions of section one-thousand sixty of the internal revenue code, then any gain recognized on the sale or transfer for federal income tax purposes shall be treated as New York source income allocated in a manner consistent with the applicable methods and rules for allocation under this article in the year that the assets were sold or transferred.

(2) In determining New York source income of a nonresident shareholder of an S corporation where the election provided for in subsection (a) of section six hundred sixty of this article is in effect, there shall be included only the portion derived from or connected with New York sources of such shareholder's pro rata share of items of S corporation income, loss and deduction entering into his federal adjusted gross income, increased by reductions for taxes described in paragraphs two and three of subsection (f) of section thirteen hundred sixty-six of the internal revenue code, as such portion shall be determined under regulations of the commissioner consistent with the applicable methods and rules for allocation under article nine-A of this chapter, regardless of whether or not such item or reduction is included in entire net income under article nine-A for the tax year. If a nonresident is a shareholder in an S corporation where the election provided for in subsection (a) of section six hundred sixty of this article is in effect, and the S corporation has distributed an installment obligation under section 453(h)(1)(A) of the Internal Revenue Code, then any gain recognized on the receipt of payments from the installment obligation for federal income tax purposes will be treated as New York source income allocated in a manner consistent with the applicable methods and rules for allocation under article nine-A of this chapter in the year that the assets were sold. In addition, if the shareholders of the S corporation have made an election under section 338(h)(10) of the Internal Revenue Code, then any gain recognized on the deemed asset sale for federal income tax purposes will be treated as New York source income allocated in a manner consistent with the applicable methods and rules for allocation under article nine-A of this chapter in the year that the shareholder made the section 338(h)(10) election. For purposes of a section 338(h)(10) election, when a nonresident shareholder exchanges his or her S corporation stock as part of the deemed liquidation, any gain or loss recognized shall be treated as the disposition of an intangible asset and will not increase or offset any gain recognized on the deemed assets sale as a result of the section 338(h)(10) election.

(b) Special rules as to New York sources. In determining the sources of a nonresident partner's income, no effect shall be given to a provision in the partnership agreement which--

(1) characterizes payments to the partner as being for services or for the use of capital, or

(2) allocates to the partner, as income or gain from sources outside New York, a greater proportion of his distributive share of partnership income or gain than the ratio of partnership income or gain from sources outside New York to partnership income or gain from all sources, except as authorized in subsection (d), or

(3) allocates to the partner a greater proportion of a partnership item of loss or deduction connected with New York sources than his proportionate share, for federal income tax purposes, of partnership loss or deduction generally, except as authorized in subsection (d).

(c) Partner's and shareholder's modifications. Any modification described in subsection (b) or (c) of section six hundred twelve, which relates to an item of partnership or S corporation income, gain, loss or deduction, shall be made in accordance with the partner's distributive share or the shareholder's pro rata share for federal income tax purposes of the item to which the modification relates, but limited to the portion of such item derived from or connected with New York sources.

(d) Alternate methods. The tax commission may, on application, authorize the use of such other methods of determining a nonresident partner's portion of partnership items derived from or connected with New York sources, and the modifications related thereto, as may be appropriate and equitable, on such terms and conditions as it may require.

(e) Application of rules for resident partners and shareholders to nonresident partners and shareholders.

(1) A nonresident partner's distributive share or S corporation shareholder's pro rata share of items shall be determined under subsection (a) of section six hundred seventeen.

(2) The character of partnership or corporation items for a nonresident partner or S corporation shareholder shall be determined under subsection (b) of section six hundred seventeen.

(3) The effect of a special provision in a partnership agreement (other than a provision referred to in subsection (b) of this section) having the principal purpose of avoidance or evasion of tax under this article shall be determined under subsection (c) of section six hundred seventeen.

§ 632-a. Personal service corporations and S corporations formed or availed of to avoid or evade New York State income tax. (a) General. If (1) substantially all of the services of a personal service corporation or S corporation are performed for or on behalf of another corporation, partnership, or other entity and (2) the effect of forming or availing of such personal service corporation or S corporation is the avoidance or evasion of New York income tax by reducing the income of, or in the case of a nonresident, reducing the New York source income of, or securing the benefit of any expense, deduction, credit, exclusion, or other allowance for, any employee-owner which would not otherwise be available, then the commissioner may allocate all income, deductions, credits, exclusions, and other allowances between such personal service corporation or S corporation (even if such personal service corporation or S corporation is taxed under article nine-A of this chapter or is not subject to tax in this state) and its employee-owners, provided such allocation is necessary to prevent avoidance or evasion of New York state income tax or to clearly reflect the source and the amount of the income of the personal service corporation or S corporation or any of its employee-owners.

(b) Definitions for purposes of this section. (1) The term "personal service corporation" means a corporation whose principal activity is the performance of personal services and such services are substantially performed by the employee-owners of such corporation.

(2) The term "S corporation" means a corporation for which an election under section 1362 of the internal revenue code is in effect for such taxable year and whose principal activity is the performance of personal services and such services are substantially performed by the employee-owners of such corporation.

(3) The term "employee-owner" means any employee who owns, on any given day during the taxable year, more than ten percent of the outstanding stock of the personal service corporation or S corporation. For purposes of the preceding sentence, the constructive ownership of stock rules set forth in section 318 of the internal revenue code shall apply, except that "5 percent" shall be substituted for "50 percent" in section 318(a)(2)(C) of the internal revenue code.

(4) All related persons (within the meaning of section 144(a)(3) of the internal revenue code) shall be treated as one entity.

§ 633. New York source income of a nonresident estate or trust. (a) General. The New York source income of a nonresident estate or trust shall be the sum of the following:

(1) The net amount of items of income, gain, loss and deduction entering into federal adjusted gross income, as determined under paragraph four of subsection (e) of section six hundred one, derived from or connected with New York sources. Such determination of source shall be made in accordance with the applicable rules of section six hundred thirty-one as in the case of a nonresident individual.

(2) The portion of the modifications described in section six hundred eighteen which relate to income derived from New York sources other than that portion of the modification provided in subsection three thereof which relates to section six hundred fifteen.

(b) Special New York source rules. Deductions with respect to capital losses, passive activity losses and net operating losses shall be based solely on income, gains, losses and deductions derived from or connected with New York sources, under regulations of the tax commission, but otherwise determined in the same manner as the corresponding federal deductions.

§ 634. Share of a nonresident beneficiary in income from New York sources. (a) General. The share of a nonresident beneficiary of any estate or trust under subsection (a) of section six hundred thirty-one, in estate or trust income, gain, loss and deduction from New York sources shall be determined as follows:

(1) Items of distributable net income from New York sources. There shall be determined the items of income, gain, loss and deduction, derived from or connected with New York sources, which enter into the definition of federal distributable net income of the estate or trust for the taxable year (including such items from another estate or trust of which the first estate or trust is a beneficiary). Such determination of source shall be made in accordance with the applicable rules of section six hundred thirty-one as in the case of a nonresident individual.

(2) Addition or subtraction of modifications. There shall be added or subtracted (as the case may be) the modifications described in section six hundred eighteen, to the extent relating to the items of income, gain, loss and deduction derived from or connected with New York sources as determined under paragraph one of this subsection. No modification shall be made under this subsection which has the effect of duplicating an item already reflected in the definition of federal distributable net income.

(3) Allocation among beneficiaries. (A) The amounts determined under paragraphs one and two shall be allocated among the beneficiaries (and including, solely for the purpose of this allocation, among the estate or trust and resident beneficiaries) in proportion to their respective shares of federal distributable net income.

(B) The amounts so allocated shall have the same character under this article as for federal income tax purposes. Where an item entering into the computation of such amounts is not characterized for federal income tax purposes, it shall have the same character as if realized directly from the source from which realized by the estate or trust, or incurred in the same manner as incurred by the estate or trust.

(b) Alternate methods of determining shares.

(1) If the estate or trust has no federal distributable net income for the taxable year, the share of each beneficiary (including, solely for the purpose of this allocation, resident beneficiaries) in the net amount determined under paragraphs one and two of subsection (a) shall be in proportion to the beneficiary's share of the estate or trust income for such year, under local law or the governing instrument, which is required to be distributed currently and any other amounts of such income distributed in such year. Any balance of such net amount shall be allocated to the estate or trust.

(2) The commissioner may by regulation establish such other method or methods of determining the respective shares of the beneficiaries and of the estate or trust in its income derived from New York sources, and in the modifications related thereto, as may be appropriate and equitable. Such method may be used by the fiduciary in his discretion whenever the allocation of such respective shares under subsection (a) or paragraph one of subsection (b) would result in an inequity which is substantial both in amount and in relation to the total amount of the modifications referred to in paragraph two of subsection (a).

§ 635. Credit to trust beneficiary receiving accumulation distribution. A nonresident or part-year resident beneficiary of a trust whose New York source income includes all or part of an accumulation distribution by such trust, as defined in section six hundred sixty-five of the internal revenue code, shall be allowed a credit against the tax otherwise due under this article, computed in the same manner and subject to the same limitation as provided by section six hundred twenty-one with respect to a resident beneficiary except that such limitation shall be applied as if it also referred to an exclusion from New York source income.

§ 637. Computation of separate tax on the ordinary income portion of lump sum distributions received by nonresident or part-year resident individuals, estates and trusts. (a) General. The tax imposed under section six hundred three for any taxable year, with respect to the ordinary income portion of a lump sum distribution received by a nonresident or part-year resident individual, estate or trust shall be applicable to the ordinary income portion of a lump sum distribution wholly or partly derived from or connected with New York sources, and the amount of such tax shall be computed in the same manner as that set forth in section six hundred twenty-four, except that if the lump sum distribution was partly derived from or connected with New York sources, the total taxable amount and the ordinary income portion of the lump sum distribution referred to in such section shall be determined by apportionment and allocation, pursuant to regulations promulgated by the state tax commission.

(b) Special rule for part-year residents. In the case of a part-year resident, the ordinary income portion of a lump sum distribution wholly or partly derived from or connected with New York sources shall be the sum of:

(1) The ordinary income portion of a lump sum distribution for the period of residence, computed as if the taxable year for federal income tax purposes were limited to the period of residence.

(2) The ordinary income portion of a lump sum distribution for the period of nonresidence, determined in accordance with subsection (a) of this section, computed as if the taxable year for federal income tax purposes were limited to the period of nonresidence.

§ 638. New York source income of a part-year resident. (a)

Individuals. The New York source income of a part-year resident individual shall be the sum of the following:

(1) New York adjusted gross income for the period of residence, determined in accordance with part II of this article as if the taxpayer's taxable year for federal income tax purposes were limited to the period of residence.

(2) New York source income for the period of nonresidence, determined in accordance with section six hundred thirty-one as if the taxpayer's taxable year for federal income tax purposes were limited to the period of nonresidence.

(b) Trusts. The New York source income of a part-year resident trust shall be the sum of the following:

(1) New York adjusted gross income for the period of residence, determined in accordance with paragraph four of subsection (e) of section six hundred one as if its taxable year for federal income tax purposes were limited to the period of residence.

(2) New York source income for the period of nonresidence, determined in accordance with section six hundred thirty-three as if its taxable year for federal income tax purposes were limited to the period of nonresidence.

(c) Stock option grants, stock appreciation rights and restricted stock. A part-year resident taxpayer who has been granted statutory stock options, restricted stock, nonstatutory stock options or stock appreciation rights and who, during such grant period, performs services within New York for, or is employed within New York by, the corporation granting such option, stock or right, shall compute his or her New York source income as determined under rules and regulations prescribed by the commissioner.

§ 639. Accruals upon change of residence. (a) If an individual changes status from resident to nonresident he shall, regardless of his method of accounting, accrue to the period of residence any items of income, gain, loss, deduction, or ordinary income portion of a lump sum distribution accruing prior to the change of status, with the applicable modifications and adjustments to federal adjusted gross income and itemized deductions under sections six hundred twelve and six hundred fifteen, if not otherwise properly includible or allowable for New York income tax purposes for such period or a prior taxable year under his method of accounting.

(b) If an individual changes status from nonresident to resident he shall, regardless of his method of accounting, accrue to the period of nonresidence any items of income, gain, loss or deduction, or ordinary income portion of a lump sum distribution accruing prior to the change of status, with the applicable modifications and adjustments to federal adjusted gross income and itemized deductions under sections six hundred twelve and six hundred fifteen, other than items derived from or connected with New York sources, if not otherwise properly includible or allowable for New York income tax purposes for such period or for a prior taxable year under his method of accounting.

(c) No item of income, gain, loss, deduction, ordinary income portion of a lump sum distribution or modification or adjustment which is accrued under this section shall be taken into account in determining the tax under this article for any subsequent taxable year.

(d) The accruals under this section shall not be required if the individual files with the commissioner a bond or other security acceptable to the commissioner, on condition that the amounts accruable under this section are taken into account in determining the tax under this article for one or more subsequent taxable years as if the individual had not changed his resident status.

(e) The foregoing provisions of this section shall apply if an individual changes his or her status from a resident to nonresident or from a nonresident to resident during a taxable year, or at the beginning of a taxable year, as a result of a change of domicile or as a result of becoming a resident or nonresident based on the definition contained in subsection (b) of section six hundred five of this article.

(f) Except as hereinafter provided, where an individual who is a member of a partnership or a shareholder of an S corporation changes status from resident to nonresident, or from nonresident to resident, the portion of the distributive or pro rata share of income, gain and loss (less deductions attributable thereto) from a partnership or S corporation shall be allocated to the resident and nonresident periods of the partner or shareholder on a proportionate basis throughout the taxable year of the partnership or S corporation. In such event, the portion of the distributive or pro rata share allocated to the period of residency shall be determined based on the number of days of residency within the reporting period of the partnership or S corporation over the total number of days in the reporting period of the partnership or S corporation. Provided, however, that the commissioner may require, or the individual may elect, to accrue to the period of residence, and the period of nonresidence, the portion of the distributive or pro rata share of partnership or S corporation income, gain and loss (less deductions attributable thereto) accruing during the individual's respective resident and nonresident periods in a manner that reflects the date of accrual of said income, gain and loss by the partnership or S corporation.

(g) Except as hereinafter provided, where an individual who is beneficiary of an estate or trust changes status from resident to nonresident, or from nonresident to resident, the portion of any estate or trust income credited, distributable, payable or required to be distributed to such beneficiary shall be allocated to the resident and nonresident periods of the beneficiary on a proportionate basis throughout the taxable year of the estate or trust. In such event, the portion of such estate or trust income allocated to the period of residency shall be determined based on the number of days of residency within the reporting period of the estate or trust. Provided, however, that the commissioner may require, or the beneficiary may elect, to accrue to the period of residence, and the period of nonresidence, the portion of such estate or trust income accruing during the beneficiary's respective resident and nonresident periods in a manner that reflects the date of accrual of said estate or trust income by the estate or trust.

(h) If a trust changes its status from resident to nonresident or from nonresident to resident, the provisions of subsections (a) through (f) of this section shall apply except that the term "individual" shall be read as "trust" and reference to "modifications" shall mean those modifications described in section six hundred eighteen.

(1) every resident individual (A) required to file a federal income tax return for the taxable year, or (B) having federal adjusted gross income for the taxable year, increased by the modifications under subsection (b) of section six hundred twelve, in excess of four thousand dollars, or in excess of his New York standard deduction, if lower, or (C) having received during the taxable year a lump sum distribution any portion of which is subject to tax under section six hundred three;

(b) Husband and wife.

(1) If the federal income tax liability of husband or wife is determined on a separate federal return, their New York income tax liabilities and returns shall be separate.

(2) If the federal income tax liabilities of husband and wife (other than a husband and wife described in paragraph four of this subsection) are determined on a joint federal return, they shall file a joint New York income tax return, and their tax liabilities shall be joint and several except as provided in paragraph six of this subsection, section six hundred fifty-four and subsection (e) of section six hundred eighty-five.

(3) If neither husband or wife files a federal return:

(A) they shall file a joint New York income tax return, and their tax liabilities shall be joint and several except as provided in paragraph six of this subsection, section six hundred fifty-four and subsection (e) of section six hundred eighty-five, or

(B) they may, if both so elect, file separate New York income tax returns, in which event their tax liabilities shall be separate.

(4) If either husband or wife is a resident and the other is a nonresident or part-year resident, they shall file separate New York income tax returns, in which event their tax liabilities shall be separate, unless such husband and wife determine their federal taxable income jointly and both elect to determine their joint New York taxable income as if both were residents, in which event their tax liabilities shall be joint and several except as provided in paragraph six of this subsection, section six hundred fifty-four and subsection (e) of section six hundred eighty-five.

university loan demands on a declaration made in accordance with regulations or instructions prescribed by the commissioner of taxation and finance, that the portion of the overpayment and interest attributable to such spouse not be credited against the past-due support, or a past-due legally enforceable debt, or a city of New York tax warrant judgment debt, or amount of a default in repayment of a guaranteed student, state university or city university loan owed by the other spouse. Such demand may be filed (A) with the return of the spouse not liable for past-due support, or a past-due legally enforceable debt, or a city of New York tax warrant judgment debt, or default in repayment of a guaranteed student, state university, or city university loan or (B) with the commissioner of taxation and finance within ten days after notification is provided such spouse by the commissioner of taxation and finance pursuant to subdivision seven of section one hundred seventy-one-c, subdivision six of section one hundred seventy-one-d, subdivision seven of section one hundred seventy-one-e, subdivision seven of section one hundred seventy-one-f or subdivision six of section one hundred seventy-one-l of this chapter. Upon such demand the commissioner of taxation and finance shall determine the amount of the overpayment attributable to each spouse in accordance with regulations prescribed by the commissioner of taxation and finance and credit only that portion of the overpayment and interest thereon attributable to the spouse liable for past-due support, or a past-due legally enforceable debt, or a city of New York tax warrant judgment debt, or amount of a default in repayment of a guaranteed student, state university or city university loan against such past-due support, or a past-due legally enforceable debt, or a city of New York tax warrant judgment debt, or such amount of a default in repayment of a guaranteed student, state university or city university loan.

(7) The commissioner shall clearly alert married taxpayers, on all appropriate publications and instructions, that their liability for tax will be joint and several if they file joint income tax returns. The commissioner shall include notice of an individual's right to relief from joint and several liability pursuant to section six hundred fifty-four of this article in the disclosure of rights statement required by section three thousand four of this chapter and in any notice regarding collection of tax due with respect to a liability on a joint return.

(c) Decedents. The return for any deceased individual shall be made and filed by the decedent's executor, administrator, or other person charged with the decedent's property. If a final return of a decedent is for a fractional part of a year, the due date of such return shall be the fifteenth day of the fourth month following the close of the twelve-month period which began with the first day of such fractional part of the year. Notwithstanding any provision of law to the contrary, when a return has been filed for a decedent, the commissioner may disclose the decedent's name, address, and the date of death to the director of real property tax services of the county and the assessor of the assessing unit in which the address reported on such return is located.

(d) Individuals under a disability. The return for an individual who is unable to make a return by reason of minority or other disability shall be made and filed by his guardian, conservator, committee, fiduciary or other person charged with the care of his person or property (other than a receiver in possession of only a part of his property), or by his duly authorized agent.

(e) Estates and trusts. The return for an estate or trust shall be made and filed by the fiduciary.

(f) Joint fiduciaries. If two or more fiduciaries are acting jointly, the return may be made by any one of them.

(g) Nonresident noncitizens. Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (a) of this section, the due date for the filing of an income tax return under this article for the taxable year by a nonresident noncitizen individual shall be the date prescribed for the filing of his or her federal income tax return for the taxable year.

(h) Tax a debt. Any tax under this article, and any increase, interest or penalty thereon, shall, from the time it is due and payable, be a personal debt of the person liable to pay the same, to the state of New York.

(i) Cross reference. For provisions as to information returns by partnerships, employers and other persons, see section six hundred fifty-eight.

§ 652. Time and place for filing returns and paying tax. (a) Except as provided in subsection (b) of this section, a person required to make and file a return under this article shall, without assessment, notice or demand, pay any tax due thereon to the commissioner on or before the date fixed for filing such return (determined without regard to any extension of time for filing the return). The commissioner shall prescribe by regulation the place for filing any return, statement, or other document required pursuant to this article and for payment of any tax.

(b) The commissioner may allow individuals who have income only from wages, salaries, tips and like remuneration for services performed as an employee, interest, dividends and unemployment compensation to elect to have the commissioner compute the tax due. To provide for expeditious and uniform administration of the tax computations which involve numerous variables, the commissioner may further qualify, with regard to period of residency, deductions, credits, exemptions, amount and character of gross income, and any other appropriate factors relative to calculation of tax, those individuals who may elect to have their taxes computed by the commissioner. Any such election shall be made on the form prescribed by the commissioner for this purpose. If a qualified taxpayer elects to have the commissioner compute the tax, the amount determined by the commissioner shall be paid (i) within ten days from the date of the issuance of a notice and demand therefor or (ii) on the date fixed for filing such return (determined without regard to any extension of time for filing), whichever is later.

§ 653. Signing of returns and other documents. (a) General. (1) Any return, statement or other document required to be made pursuant to this article shall be signed in accordance with regulations or instructions prescribed by the commissioner. The fact that an individual's name is signed to a return, statement, or other document, shall be prima facie evidence for all purposes that the return, statement or other document was actually signed by him or her.

(b) Partnerships. Any return, statement or other document required of a partnership shall be signed by one or more partners. The fact that a partner's name is signed to a return, statement, or other document, shall be prima facie evidence for all purposes that such partner is authorized to sign on behalf of the partnership.

(1) If a partnership is required to report federal adjustments arising from a partnership level audit or an administrative adjustment request pursuant to section six hundred fifty-nine-a of this part, the partnership's federal partnership representative is the New York partnership representative unless the partnership designates, in a manner determined by the commissioner, that another person shall act on behalf of the partnership.

(2) The New York partnership representative shall have the sole authority to act on behalf of the partnership and its direct and indirect partners shall be bound by these actions.

(c) Certifications. The making or filing of any return, statement or other document or copy thereof required to be made or filed pursuant to this article, including a copy of a federal return, shall constitute a certification by the person making or filing such return, statement or other document or copy thereof that the statements contained therein are true and that any copy filed is a true copy.

§ 654. Relief from joint and several liability on joint return. (a) General. The provisions of section six thousand fifteen of the internal revenue code applicable to the liability of individuals who file joint income tax returns shall apply to the same extent as if such section of such code were contained in and made part of this section, except to the extent that any provision of such section is either inconsistent with or not relevant to this article and except as modified in subsection (b) of this section, or with such other modifications as may be necessary to adapt the language of such provisions to the provisions of this article.

(b) Modifications. Section six thousand fifteen of the internal revenue code shall be read as modified by this subsection.

(1) "Secretary" shall be read as "commissioner".

(2) "Internal revenue service" shall be read as "department of taxation and finance".

(3) "Tax court" shall be read as "division of tax appeals".

(4) In the heading of subsection (a) and in clause (ii) of subparagraph (A) of paragraph three of subsection (c), the phrase

"section 6013(d)(3)" shall be read as "paragraphs two, three and four of subsection (b) of section six hundred fifty-one of this article".

(5) In paragraph three of subsection (b), the phrase "section 6662(d)(2)(A)" shall be read as "subsection (p) of section six hundred eighty-five of this article".

(6) In subparagraph (B) of paragraph two of subsection (d), the phrase "section 1 or 55" shall be read as "section six hundred one of this article".

(7) In clause (i) of subparagraph (B) of paragraph one of subsection (e), the phrase "section 6851 or 6861" shall be read as "section six hundred ninety-four of this article" and "section 7485" shall be read as "subsection (c) of section six hundred ninety of this article".

(8) In paragraph two of subsection (e), the phrase "section 6502" shall be read as "section one hundred seventy-four-a of this chapter and section six hundred ninety-two of this article".

(9) In subparagraph (A) of paragraph three of subsection (e), the phrase "section 6512(b), 7121, or 7122" shall be read as "subdivision fifteenth, eighteenth, eighteenth-a or eighteenth-d of section one hundred seventy-one of this chapter and subsection (b) of section six hundred eighty-nine of this article".

(10) The following provisions of such section six thousand fifteen shall be disregarded: (A) The phrase "notwithstanding the provisions of section 7421(a)" contained in clause (ii) of subparagraph (B) of paragraph one of subsection (e); and (B) subparagraph (C) of paragraph three of subsection (e).

(c) Federal determination. If an individual is relieved of a federal income tax liability pursuant to subsection (b) of section six thousand fifteen of the internal revenue code, there shall be a rebuttable presumption that such individual shall also be entitled to equivalent relief from liability under this section, to the extent that such individual has an understatement of tax under this article for the same taxable year that is attributable to the same erroneous item or items to which the individual's federal income tax liability was attributable.

§ 657. Extensions of time. (a) General. The commissioner may grant a reasonable extension of time for payment of tax or estimated tax (or any installment), or for filing any return, statement, or other document required pursuant to this article, on such terms and conditions as it may require. Except for a taxpayer who is outside the United States or who intends to claim nonresident status pursuant to clause (ii) of subparagraph (A) of paragraph one of subsection (b) of section six hundred five, no such extension for filing any return, statement or other document, shall exceed six months.

(b) Furnishing of security. If any extension of time is granted for payment of any amount of tax, the tax commission may require the taxpayer to furnish a bond or other security in an amount not exceeding twice the amount for which the extension of time for payment is granted on such terms and conditions as the tax commission may require.

(c) Automatic extension for death of a spouse. An automatic extension of ninety days shall be deemed granted for filing a tax return or paying a tax otherwise required on April fifteenth for individuals whose spouse dies within thirty days prior to such date. No penalties or interest shall be assessed or imposed upon a taxpayer during such extension as granted in this subsection.

§ 658. Requirements concerning returns, notices, records and statements. (a) General. The tax commission may prescribe regulations as to the keeping of records, the content and form of returns and statements, and the filing of copies of federal income tax returns and determinations. The tax commission may require any person, by regulation or notice served upon such person, to make such returns, render such statements, or keep such records, as the tax commission may deem sufficient to show whether or not such person is liable under this article for tax or for collection of tax. The tax commission shall provide a space on the form of returns wherein the taxpayer shall indicate the school district in which the taxpayer is a resident.

(b) Identifying numbers.--(1) When required by regulations prescribed by the tax commission:

(A) Inclusion in returns.-- Any person required under the authority of this article to make a return, statement, or other document shall include in such return, statement or other document such identifying number as may be prescribed for securing proper identification of such person.

(B) Furnishing number to other persons.-- Any person with respect to whom a return, statement, or other document is required under the authority of this article to be made by another person shall furnish to such other person such identifying number as may be prescribed for securing his proper identification.

(C) Furnishing number of another person.-- Any person required under the authority of this article to make a return, statement, or other document with respect to another person shall request from such other person, and shall include in any such return, statement, or other document, such identifying number as may be prescribed for securing proper identification of such other person.

(2) Limitation.--

(A) Except as provided in subparagraph (B), a return of any person with respect to his liability for tax, or any statement or other document in support thereof, shall not be considered for purposes of subparagraphs (B) and (C) of subsection (1) as a return, statement, or other document with respect to another person.

(B) For purposes of subparagraphs (B) and (C) of subsection (1), a return of an estate or trust with respect to its liability for tax, and any statement or other document in support thereof, shall be considered as a return, statement, or other document with respect to each beneficiary of such estate or trust.

(3) Requirement of information.-- For purposes of this section, the tax commission is authorized to require such information as may be necessary to assign an identifying number to any person.

(c) Partnerships, limited liability companies and S corporations.

(1) Partnerships. Every partnership having a resident partner or having any income derived from New York sources, determined in accordance with the applicable rules of section six hundred thirty-one of this article as in the case of a nonresident individual, shall make a return for the taxable year setting forth all items of income, gain, loss and deduction and such other pertinent information as the commissioner may by regulations and instructions prescribe. Such return shall be filed on or before the fifteenth day of the fourth month following the close of each taxable year, for taxable years beginning before January first, two thousand sixteen, and on or before the fifteenth day of the third month following the close of each taxable year, for taxable years beginning on or after January first, two thousand sixteen, except that the due date for the return of a partnership consisting entirely of nonresident noncitizens shall be the date prescribed for the filing of its federal partnership return for the taxable year. For purposes of this paragraph, "taxable year" means a year or a period which would be a taxable year of the partnership if it were subject to tax under this article.

(2) S corporations. Every S corporation for which the election provided for in subsection (a) of section six hundred sixty is in effect shall make a return for the taxable year setting forth all items of income, loss and deduction and such other pertinent information as the commissioner of taxation and finance may by regulations and instructions prescribe. Such return shall be filed on or before the fifteenth day of the third month following the close of each taxable year.

(3) Filing fees. (A) Every subchapter K limited liability company, every limited liability company that is a disregarded entity for federal income tax purposes, and every partnership which has any income derived from New York sources, determined in accordance with the applicable rules of section six hundred thirty-one of this article as in the case of a nonresident individual, shall on or before the fifteenth day of the third month following the close of each taxable year make a payment of a filing fee. The amount of the filing fee is the amount set forth in subparagraph (B) of this paragraph. The minimum filing fee is twenty-five dollars for taxable years beginning in two thousand eight and thereafter. Limited liability companies that are disregarded entities for federal income tax purposes must pay a filing fee of twenty-five dollars for taxable years beginning on or after January first, two thousand eight.

(B) The filing fee will be based on the New York source gross income of the limited liability company or partnership for the taxable year immediately preceding the taxable year for which the fee is due. If the limited liability company or partnership does not have any New York source gross income for the taxable year immediately preceding the taxable year for which the fee is due, the limited liability company or partnership shall pay the minimum filing fee. Partnerships, other than limited liability partnerships under article eight-B of the partnership law and foreign limited liability partnerships, with less than one million dollars in New York source gross income are exempt from the filing fee. New York source gross income is the sum of the partners' or members' shares of federal gross income from the partnership or limited liability company derived from or connected with New York sources, determined in accordance with the provisions of section six hundred thirty-one of this article as if those provisions and any related provisions expressly referred to a computation of federal gross income from New York sources. For this purpose, federal gross income is computed without any allowance or deduction for cost of goods sold.

The amount of the filing fee for taxable years beginning on or after January first, two thousand eight will be determined in accordance with the following table:

If the New York source gross income is:	The fee is:
not more than $100,000	$25
more than $100,000 but not over $250,000	$50
more than $250,000 but not over $500,000	$175
more than $500,000 but not over $1,000,000	$500
more than $1,000,000 but not over $5,000,000	$1,500
more than $5,000,000 but not over $25,000,000	$3,000
Over $25,000,000	$4,500

(C) No credits provided by this article may be taken against the fee imposed by this paragraph.

(D) Where the filing fee is not timely paid, it shall be paid upon notice and demand and shall be assessed, collected and paid in the same manner as taxes, and for those purposes any reference in this article to tax imposed by this article shall be deemed also to refer to this filing fee.

(E) Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (e) of section six hundred ninety-seven of this article, the commissioner shall provide the statements and other required information included on the filing fee payment form under section three hundred one of the limited liability company law, subdivision (g) of section 121-1500 of the partnership law, and subdivision (f) of section 121-1502 of the partnership law, to the secretary of state for filing. Such provision may also include a copy or image of that portion of the report solely pertinent to such information to the extent feasible. The commissioner may also provide information on noncompliance.

(4) Estimated tax of nonresident partners, members and shareholders.

(A) General. Every entity which is a partnership, other than a publicly traded partnership as defined in section 7704 of the federal Internal Revenue Code, subchapter K limited liability company or an S corporation for which the election provided for in subsection (a) of section six hundred sixty of this part is in effect, which has partners, members or shareholders who are nonresident individuals, as defined under subsection (b) of section six hundred five of this article, or C corporations, and which has any income derived from New York sources, determined in accordance with the applicable rules of section six hundred thirty-one of this article as in the case of a nonresident individual, shall pay estimated tax on such income on behalf of such partners, members or shareholders in the manner and at the times prescribed by subsection (c) of section six hundred eighty-five of this article. For purposes of this paragraph, the term "estimated tax" shall mean a partner's, member's or shareholder's distributive share or pro rata share of the entity income derived from New York sources, multiplied by the highest rate of tax prescribed by section six hundred one of this article for the taxable year of any partner, member or shareholder who is an individual taxpayer, or paragraph (a) of subdivision one of section two hundred ten of this chapter for the taxable year of any partner, member or shareholder which is a C corporation, whether or not such C corporation is subject to tax under article nine, nine-A or thirty-three of this chapter, and reduced by the distributive share or pro rata share of any credits determined under section one hundred eighty-seven, one hundred eighty-seven-a, six hundred six or fifteen hundred eleven of this chapter, whichever is applicable, derived from the entity.

(B) Treatment of payment. Any payment by the entity under this paragraph with respect to a partner, member or shareholder who is an individual shall be deemed to be a payment of estimated tax by the partner, member or shareholder pursuant to subsection (c) of section six hundred eighty-five of this article.

(C) Additions to tax. (i) If an entity required by this paragraph to pay estimated tax on behalf of a partner, member or shareholder fails to do so, such entity shall pay a penalty of fifty dollars for each such failure for each such partner, member or shareholder, unless it is shown that such failure is due to reasonable cause and not due to willful neglect.

(ii) In the case of an underpayment of estimated tax by the entity, there shall be added to the estimated tax required to be paid by the entity under this paragraph, an amount determined pursuant to subsection (c) of section six hundred eighty-five of this article.

(D) Exceptions. (i) This paragraph shall not apply with respect to a partner, member or shareholder for whom estimated tax required to be paid under subparagraph (A) of this paragraph for the taxable year of the partner, member or shareholder does not exceed three hundred dollars.

(ii) This paragraph shall not apply with respect to any partner, member or shareholder if the entity is authorized by the commissioner to file a group return and such partner, member or shareholder has elected to be included on the group return, or if the commissioner has issued a waiver of withholding pursuant to this section. The commissioner may issue such waivers in respect of partners, members or shareholders who are not subject to New York income tax, or who establish that they are filing New York income tax returns and paying estimated taxes when due, and in other circumstances in which the commissioner determines that withholding is not necessary to ensure collection of income tax on New York source income allocable to the nonresident or C corporation.

(E) Information statements. Every entity required under this paragraph to pay estimated taxes for any of its partners, members or shareholders shall furnish, within thirty days after such estimated tax is paid, to each such partner, member or shareholder a written statement showing the estimated taxes paid by the entity on behalf of such partner, member or shareholder and any other information the commissioner shall prescribe, including any information necessary to identify each partner, member or shareholder on whose behalf the entity has paid estimated taxes. The entity shall provide to the commissioner information necessary to identify the estimated tax paid by the entity for each partner, member or shareholder and information necessary to identify each partner, member or shareholder of the partnership, limited liability company or S corporation, whether or not estimated tax was paid for such partner, member or shareholder by the entity, at such times and in such manner as the commissioner shall prescribe.

(d) Information at source. (1) The commissioner of taxation and finance may prescribe regulations and instructions requiring returns of information to be made and filed on or before February twenty-eighth of each year as to the payment or crediting in any calendar year of amounts of six hundred dollars or more to any taxpayer under this article. Such returns may be required of any person, including lessees or mortgagors of real or personal property, fiduciaries, employers, and all officers and employees of this state, or of any municipal corporation or political subdivision of this state, having the control, receipt, custody, disposal or payment of interest, rents, salaries, wages, premiums, annuities, compensations, remunerations, emoluments or other fixed or determinable gains, profits or income, except interest coupons payable to bearer. Information required to be furnished pursuant to paragraph four of subsection (a) of section six hundred seventy-four on a quarterly combined withholding and wage reporting return covering each calendar quarter of each year and relating to tax withheld on wages paid by an employer to an employee for each calendar quarter, shall constitute the return of information required to be made under this section with respect to such wages.

(2) (A) The commissioner shall be authorized to require, by regulation, that any or all of the returns of information referred to in paragraph one of this subsection, the quarterly combined withholding, wage reporting and unemployment insurance returns required by paragraph four of subsection (a) of section six hundred seventy-four and the reports required by section one hundred seventy-one-h of this chapter be filed on magnetic media or in other machine readable form. Such regulations shall conform, to the extent practicable, with corresponding federal regulations and instructions promulgated pursuant to the authority of section six thousand eleven of the federal Internal Revenue Code. Any person required to file two hundred fifty or more of the returns referred to in paragraph one of this subsection may be required to file such returns on magnetic media or in other machine readable form pursuant to the provisions of this paragraph.

(B) A filer may seek exemption from the magnetic media filing requirement for a particular period, if the filer proves to the satisfaction of the commissioner of taxation and finance that imposition of such a requirement for that period would result in undue hardship. The commissioner shall take into account (among other relevant factors) the ability of the filer to comply at reasonable cost with such a filing requirement.

(C) The regulations provided for in this paragraph may include, but shall not be limited to, the following:

(i) a description of the kinds of magnetic media which can be used to satisfy the filing requirement;

(ii) a description of the kinds of returns and classes of filers to be subject to the magnetic media or other machine readable form filing requirement; and

(iii) procedures governing the voluntary submission by magnetic media or other machine readable form of all or any portion of the returns described in this paragraph.

(3) The commissioner may by regulation or instruction require the filing of a report annually by the comptroller or program manager of the New York state college choice tuition savings program, or their designee, setting forth the names and identification numbers of account owners, designated beneficiaries and distributees of family tuition accounts, the amounts contributed to such accounts, the amounts distributed from such accounts and the nature of such distributions as qualified withdrawals or as withdrawals other than qualified withdrawals, and any such other information as the commissioner may require regarding the taxation under this article of amounts contributed to or withdrawn from such accounts. The commissioner may require that any such report also be made to the account owner, designated beneficiary or distributee of any such account.

(e) Notice of qualification as receiver, etc. Every receiver, trustee in bankruptcy, assignee for benefit of creditors, or other like fiduciary shall give notice of his qualification as such to the tax commission, as may be required by regulation.

(f) (1) Every trust described by subparagraph (D) of paragraph three of subsection (b) of section six hundred five of this article shall make a return for any taxable year in which it makes an accumulation distribution within the meaning of subdivision (b) of section six hundred sixty-five of the internal revenue code to a beneficiary who is a resident, which return shall include (i) information identifying such resident, (ii) the amount of such accumulation distribution, and (iii) such other information as the commissioner may require. In determining whether there has been an accumulation distribution for purposes of this paragraph, such trust shall exclude distributions from income earned by the trust prior to the beneficiary's birth or attaining the age of twenty-one.

(2) Every resident trust that does not file the return required by section six hundred fifty-one of this part on the ground that it is not subject to tax pursuant to subparagraph (D) of paragraph three of subsection (b) of section six hundred five of this article for the taxable year shall make a return for such taxable year substantiating its entitlement to that exemption and providing such other information as the commissioner may require.

(3) The returns required by this subsection shall be filed on or before the fifteenth day of the fourth month following the close of each taxable year. For purposes of this paragraph, "taxable year" means a year or a period which would be a taxable year of the trust if it were subject to tax under this article.

(g) Requirements applicable to tax return preparer.

(1) Signature of tax return preparer. Any individual who is a tax return preparer and prepares any return or claim for refund, shall sign such return or claim for refund in accordance with regulations or instructions prescribed by the commissioner.

(2) Furnishing identifying numbers. Any return or claim for refund which is prepared by a tax return preparer shall include the identifying number of the preparer required by paragraph one of this subsection to sign such return or claim for refund. In addition, where such individual preparer is an employee of an employer which is a tax return preparer with respect to such return or claim for refund, or where such preparer is a partner in a partnership which is a tax return preparer with respect to such return or claim for refund, then such return or claim for refund shall also include the identifying number of such employer or partnership. Such identifying numbers shall be as prescribed by the commissioner in order to secure the proper identification of such individual preparer, partnership or employer. The responsibility for the inclusion of such identifying numbers shall be as set forth in paragraph two of subsection (u) of section six hundred eighty-five of this article.

(3) Furnishing copy to taxpayer. Any person who is a tax return preparer with respect to any return or claim for refund shall furnish a completed copy of such return or claim for refund to the taxpayer not later than the time such return or claim for refund is presented for such taxpayer's signature.

(4) Copy or list to be retained by tax return preparer. Any person who is a tax return preparer with respect to any return or claim for refund shall for a three year retention period described in paragraph nine of this subsection:

(A) retain a completed copy of such return or claim for refund, or retain, on a list, the name and identification number of the taxpayer for whom such return or claim was prepared, and

(B) make such copy or list available for inspection upon request by the commissioner.

(5) Tax return preparer defined. For purposes of this article, the term "tax return preparer" means any person who prepares for compensation, or who employs or engages one or more persons to prepare for compensation any return or claim for refund. The preparation of a substantial portion of a return or claim for refund shall be treated as if it were the preparation of such return or claim for refund. Where an employer and one or more employees of such employer are tax return preparers with respect to the same return or claim for refund, or where a partnership and one or more partners in such partnership are tax return preparers with respect to the same return or claim for refund, for purposes of paragraphs three and four of this subsection, such employer or such partnership shall be deemed to be the sole tax return preparer. A person shall not be a "tax return preparer" merely because such person--

(A) furnishes typing, reproducing, or other mechanical assistance,

(B) prepares a return or claim for refund of the employer (or of an officer or employee of the employer) by whom he is regularly and continuously employed, or

(C) prepares as a fiduciary a return or claim for refund for any person.

(6) Person defined. For purposes of this subsection, the term "person" includes an individual, corporation (including a dissolved corporation) or partnership.

(7) Return defined. For purposes of this subsection, the term "return" shall mean any return required under this article.

(8) Claim for refund defined. For purposes of this subsection, the term "claim for refund" shall mean a claim for refund of or credit against any tax imposed under this article, and shall include any claim for refund of any credit treated as an overpayment of tax under this article.

(9) Retention period defined. For purposes of this subsection, the term "retention period" shall mean:

(A) in the case of a tax return, the period ending the later of three years after the due date of such return (without regard to extensions) or three years after the date such return was presented to the taxpayer for such taxpayer's signature, and

(B) in the case of a claim for refund, the period ending three years after such claim for refund was presented to the taxpayer for such taxpayer's signature.

* (10) Mandatory electronic filing by certain tax return preparers.

(A)(i) If a tax return preparer prepared more than two hundred original returns during the calendar year beginning on January first, two thousand five, and if, in the calendar year beginning on January first, two thousand six, such tax return preparer prepares one or more authorized returns using tax software, then, for such calendar year two thousand six and for each subsequent calendar year thereafter, all authorized returns prepared by such tax return preparer shall be filed electronically, in accordance with instructions prescribed by the commissioner.

(ii) If a tax return preparer prepared more than one hundred original returns during any calendar year beginning on or after January first, two thousand six, and if, in any succeeding calendar year such tax return preparer prepares one or more authorized returns using tax software, then, for such succeeding calendar year and for each subsequent calendar year thereafter, all authorized returns prepared by such tax return preparer shall be filed electronically, in accordance with instructions prescribed by the commissioner.

(B) For purposes of this paragraph:

(i) "Electronic" means computer technology; provided, however, that the commissioner may, in instructions, provide that use of barcode technology will also satisfy the mandatory electronic filing requirements of this section.

(ii) "Authorized return" means any return required under this article which the commissioner has authorized to be filed electronically.

(iii) "Original return" means a return required under this article that is filed, without regard to extensions, during the calendar year for which that return is required to be filed.

§ 659. Report of federal changes, corrections or disallowances. If the amount of a taxpayer's federal taxable income, total taxable amount or ordinary income portion of a lump sum distribution or includible gain of a trust reported on their federal income tax return for any taxable year, or the amount of a taxpayer's earned income credit or credit for employment-related expenses set forth on such return, or the amount of any federal foreign tax credit affecting the calculation of the credit for Canadian provincial taxes under section six hundred twenty or six hundred twenty-A of this article, or the amount of any claim of right adjustment, is changed or corrected by the United States internal revenue service or other competent authority or as the result of a renegotiation of a contract or subcontract with the United States, or the amount an employer is required to deduct and withhold from wages for federal income tax withholding purposes is changed or corrected by such service or authority or if a taxpayer's claim for credit or refund of federal income tax is disallowed in whole or in part, the taxpayer or employer shall report such change or correction or disallowance within ninety days after the final determination of such change, correction, renegotiation or disallowance, or as otherwise required by the commissioner, and shall concede the accuracy of such determination or state wherein it is erroneous. Provided, however, if the taxpayer is a direct or indirect partner of a partnership required to report adjustments in accordance with section six hundred fifty-nine-a of this part, such taxpayer shall also report such adjustments in accordance with section six hundred fifty-nine-a of this part. The allowance of a tentative carryback adjustment based upon a net operating loss carryback pursuant to section sixty-four hundred eleven of the internal revenue code shall be treated as a final determination for purposes of this section. Any taxpayer filing an amended federal income tax return and any employer filing an amended federal return of income tax withheld shall also file within ninety days thereafter an amended return under this article, and shall give such information as the commissioner may require. The commissioner may by regulation prescribe such exceptions to the requirements of this section as they deem appropriate. For purposes of this section, (i) the term "taxpayer" shall include a partnership having a resident partner or having any income derived from New York sources, and a corporation with respect to which the taxable year of such change, correction, disallowance or amendment is a year with respect to which the election provided for in subsection (a) of section six hundred sixty of this article is in effect, and (ii) the term "federal income tax return" shall include the returns of income required under sections six thousand thirty-one and six thousand thirty-seven of the internal revenue code. In the case of such a corporation, such report shall also include any change or correction of the taxes described in paragraphs two and three of subsection (f) of section thirteen hundred sixty-six of the internal revenue code. Reports made under this section by a partnership or corporation shall indicate the portion of the change in each item of income, gain, loss or deduction (and, in the case of a corporation, of each change in, or disallowance of a claim for credit or refund of, a tax referred to in the preceding sentence) allocable to each partner or shareholder and shall set forth such identifying information with respect to such partner or shareholder as may be prescribed by the commissioner.

§ 659-a. Reporting of federal partnership adjustments. (a) If any item required to be shown on a federal partnership return, for any partnership that has a resident partner or any income derived from New York sources, including any gross income, gain, loss, deduction, penalty, credit, or tax for any year of such partnership, including any amount of any partner's distributive share, is changed or corrected by the commissioner of internal revenue or other officer of the United States or other competent authority, and the partnership is issued an adjustment under section sixty-two hundred twenty-five of the internal revenue code or makes a federal election for alternative payment with the internal revenue service as part of a partnership level audit, or files an administrative adjustment request, the partnership shall report, in the manner prescribed by the commissioner, each change or correction in sufficient detail to allow for the computation of the New York tax change or correction for the reviewed year within ninety days after the date of each final federal determination, or ninety days after the filing of an administrative adjustment request.

(b) Definitions. As used in this section, the following terms shall have the following meanings:

(1) "Administrative adjustment request" means an administrative adjustment request filed by a partnership under section sixty-two hundred twenty-seven of the internal revenue code.

(2) "Direct partner" means a partner that holds an interest directly in an impacted partnership during the reviewed year.

(3) "Federal election for alternative payment" means the election described in section sixty-two hundred twenty-six of the internal revenue code, relating to alternative payment of imputed underpayment by partnership.

(4) "Final federal adjustment" means a change to an item of gross income, gain, loss, deduction, penalty, credit, or a partner's distributive share, of an impacted partnership determined under section sixty-two hundred twenty-five of the internal revenue code that is considered fixed and final under the internal revenue code.

(5) "Final federal determination date" means the date on which each adjustment or resolution resulting from an internal revenue service examination is assessed pursuant to section sixty-two hundred three of the internal revenue code.

(6) "Impacted partnership" means a partnership that (i) was issued a final federal adjustment; or (ii) made a federal election for alternative payment with the internal revenue service as part of a federal partnership level audit; or (iii) filed an administrative adjustment request with the internal revenue service.

(7) "Indirect partner" means a partner, member, or shareholder in a partnership or other pass-through entity that itself held an interest indirectly, or through another indirect partner, in an impacted partnership during the reviewed year.

(8) "New York election for alternative payment" means the election described in paragraph three of subsection (d) of this section, relating to payment by the impacted partnership in lieu of taxes owed by its direct and indirect partners.

(9) "Reviewed year" has the meaning provided in paragraph one of subsection (d) of section sixty-two hundred twenty-five of the internal revenue code.

(10) "Tiered partner" means any partner in an impacted partnership where such partner is a partnership, S corporation, or other pass-through entity for New York tax purposes.

(c) Reporting adjustments to federal taxable income. Where partnerships and partners were required to report final federal adjustments or administrative adjustment requests for federal purposes by taking such adjustments into account on a timely filed amended federal income tax return for the reviewed year, such partnerships and partners shall report and pay any New York tax owed under article nine-A, twenty-two, thirty-three, or any law authorized by article thirty of this chapter in the same manner for the reviewed year. Such partnerships and partners shall report final federal adjustments arising from an audit or other action by the internal revenue service or reported by the taxpayer on a timely filed amended federal income tax return, including a return or other similar report filed pursuant to section sixty-two hundred twenty-five of the internal revenue code, or federal claim for refund by filing a federal adjustments report and, if applicable, such partnerships and partners shall pay the additional tax due no later than one hundred eighty days after the final determination date.

(d) Reporting federal adjustments pursuant to a partnership level audit and administrative adjustment request. Except for adjustments required to be reported under subsection (c) of this section, partnerships and partners shall report final federal adjustments arising from a partnership level audit or an administrative adjustment request and make payments as required under this subsection in the year of adjustment.

(1) Unless a de minimis exception applies, impacted partnerships must report any final federal adjustments and administrative adjustment requests regardless of tax impact. Such report must include the impacted partnership's direct and indirect partner identifying information and any other information the commissioner may require.

(2) Except for those subject to a properly made election for alternative payment under paragraph three of this subsection, any changes or corrections made by the internal revenue service pursuant to such a final federal adjustment or as a result of an administrative adjustment request must be reported by the impacted partnership as follows:

(A) No later than ninety days after the final determination date, the partnership shall:

(i) file a completed federal adjustments report, including any information as required by the commissioner;

(ii) notify each of its direct partners of their distributive share of the final federal adjustment, including any information required by the commissioner;

(iii) file an amended return as required under paragraph one of subsection (c) of section six hundred fifty-eight and section six hundred fifty-nine of this article for the reviewed year;

(iv) file an amended group return if the partnership originally filed a group return, and remit the additional amount that would have been due under subsection (c) of section six hundred fifty-eight of this article had the final federal adjustments been properly reported originally as required; and

(v) remit any additional amounts that would have been due under paragraph four of subsection (c) of section six hundred fifty-eight of this article had the final federal adjustments been properly originally reported as required.

(B) No later than one hundred eighty days after the final determination date, each direct partner of an impacted partnership that is taxed under article nine-A, twenty-two, thirty-three, or any law authorized by article thirty of this chapter, other than a direct partner that is included on a group return under clause (iv) of subparagraph (A) of this paragraph, shall:

(i) file a federal adjustments report reporting their distributive share of the adjustments reported to them by the impacted partnership under clause (ii) of subparagraph (A) of this paragraph; and

(ii) remit any additional amount of tax due, plus any penalty and interest computed under this article based on the due date of the originally filed return for the reviewed year, less any credit for amounts paid or withheld and remitted on behalf of the direct partner.

(3) New York election for alternative payment by the partnership. An impacted partnership making an election under this subsection shall:

(A) no later than ninety days after the final determination date, file a completed federal adjustments report, including any information as required by the commissioner, and provide notice, in the manner required by the commissioner, that it is making the election under this subsection.

(B) no later than one hundred eighty days after the final determination date, pay an amount, in lieu of taxes owed by its direct and indirect partners. Such amount shall be determined based on the sum of the following:

(i) for direct partners subject to tax pursuant to article nine-A or thirty-three of this chapter in the reviewed year, the partner's distributive share of gross income or gain and deduction apportioned to New York using the apportionment rules described in article nine-A of this chapter multiplied by the highest tax rate under such article nine-A in effect for the reviewed year; and

(ii) for a direct partner subject to tax under this article that is treated as a nonresident pursuant to paragraph two of subsection (b) of section six hundred five of this article in the reviewed year, the partner's distributive share of gross income or gain and deduction allocated to New York using the allocation rules described in this article multiplied by the highest tax rate under this article in effect for the reviewed year; and

(iii) for a direct partner subject to tax under this article that is treated as a resident pursuant to paragraph one of subsection (b) of section six hundred five of this article in the reviewed year, the partner's distributive share of gross income or gain and deduction multiplied by the highest tax rate under this article in effect for the reviewed year; and

(iv) for a direct partner subject to tax under article thirty of this chapter that is treated as a resident pursuant to subsection (a) of section thirteen hundred five of this chapter in the reviewed year, the amount described in clause (iii) of this subparagraph and the partner's distributive share of gross income or gain and deduction multiplied by the highest tax rate under section thirteen hundred four of this chapter in effect for the reviewed year; and

(v) for tiered partners, include the sum of:

(I) the amount of gross income, gain or deduction from the adjustment that would ultimately flow to a taxpayer subject to tax under article nine-A or thirty-three of this chapter in the reviewed year apportioned to New York using the apportionment rules described in article nine-A of this chapter multiplied by the highest tax rate under such article nine-A in effect for the reviewed year; and

(II) the amount of gross income, gain or deduction from the adjustment that would ultimately flow to a taxpayer subject to tax under this article and treated as a nonresident pursuant to paragraph two of subsection (b) of section six hundred five of this article in the reviewed year allocated to New York using the allocation rules described in this article multiplied by the highest tax rate under this article in effect for the reviewed year; and

(III) the amount of gross income, gain or deduction from the adjustment that would ultimately flow to a taxpayer subject to tax under this article and treated as a resident pursuant to paragraph one of subsection (b) of section six hundred five of this article in the reviewed year multiplied by the highest tax rate under this article in effect for the reviewed year; and

(IV) any amount of gross income, gain or deduction from the adjustment that cannot be established to be properly allocable to a taxpayer described in items (I) or (II) of this clause, multiplied by the highest tax rate under this article in effect for the reviewed year; and

(vi) any applicable penalty and interest as required by this article.

(4) Tiered partners. The direct and indirect partners of an impacted partnership that are tiered partners, and all of the partners of those tiered partners that are subject to tax under article nine-a, twenty-two, thirty-three, or any law authorized by article thirty of this chapter, are subject to the reporting and payment requirements of paragraph two of this subsection and the tiered partners are entitled to make the elections provided in paragraphs three and five of this subsection. The tiered partners or their partners shall make all required reports and payments no later than ninety days after the time for filing and furnishing statements to tiered partners and their partners pursuant to section sixty-two hundred twenty-six of the internal revenue code and the regulations thereunder.

(5) Modified reporting and payment method. In the manner required by the commissioner, an impacted partnership or tiered partner may enter into an agreement with the commissioner to utilize an alternative reporting and payment method, including applicable time requirements or any other provision of this section, if the impacted partnership or tiered partner demonstrates that the requested method will reasonably provide for the reporting and payment of taxes, penalties, and interest due under the provisions of this section, or if the impacted partnership or tiered partner can show that their direct partners have agreed to allow a refund of the tax to the entity. Application for approval of an alternative reporting and payment method must be made by the impacted partnership or tiered partner within the time for election as provided in paragraph three or four of this subsection, as appropriate.

(6) Effect of election by impacted partnership or tiered partner and payment of amount due. (A) The election made pursuant to paragraph three or five of this subsection is irrevocable, unless the commissioner, in their discretion, determines otherwise.

(B) If properly reported and paid by the impacted partnership or tiered partner, the amount determined in subparagraph (B) of paragraph three of this subsection, or similarly under an optional election pursuant to paragraph five of this subsection, will be treated as a payment in lieu of taxes owed by its direct and indirect partners, to the extent applicable, on the same final federal adjustment. The direct partners or indirect partners may not take any deduction or credit for this amount or claim a refund of such amount. Provided, however, that nothing in this paragraph shall preclude a resident direct partner from claiming a credit against taxes paid to the commissioner pursuant to article twenty-two of this chapter for any amounts paid by the impacted partnership or tiered partner on such resident partner's behalf to another state or local tax jurisdiction in accordance with the provisions of section six hundred twenty of this article.

(7) Failure of impacted partnership or tiered partner to report or remit. Nothing in this section shall prevent the commissioner from assessing direct or indirect partners for any taxes due, using the best information available, in the event that an impacted partnership, or a direct or indirect partner of an impacted partnership, fails to timely report or remit any report or additional taxes due required by this section for any reason.

(e) De minimis exception. The commissioner shall have the discretion to promulgate regulations to establish a de minimis amount upon which a taxpayer shall not be required to comply with subsections (c) and/or (d) of this section.

(f) Estimated tax payments during the course of a federal audit. An impacted partnership may make estimated payments of the tax expected to result from a pending internal revenue service audit, prior to the due date of the federal adjustments report and prior to filing the report with the commissioner. If an impacted partnership makes an estimated payment under this subsection, other than an estimated payment made under paragraph four of subsection (c) of section six hundred fifty-eight of this article, such estimated payment must be accompanied by an irrevocable election under paragraph three of subsection (d) of this section. The estimated tax payments shall be credited against any tax liability ultimately found to be due and will limit the accrual of further statutory interest on such amount. If the estimated tax payments exceed the final tax liability and statutory interest ultimately determined to be due, the taxpayer is entitled to a refund or credit of the excess, provided the taxpayer files a federal adjustments report or claim for refund or credit of tax pursuant to section six hundred eighty-six of this article, no later than one year following the final determination date.

(g) Claims for refund or credits of tax arising from a final federal adjustment. Except for final federal adjustments required to be reported for the year of the adjustment, a taxpayer may file a claim for refund or credit of tax arising from federal adjustments on or before the later of:

(1) the expiration of the last day for filing a claim for refund or credit pursuant to section six hundred eighty-seven of this article, including any extensions; or

(2) one year from the date a federal adjustment report pursuant to subsection (c) or (d) of this section, as applicable, was due, including any extensions pursuant to subsection (h) of this section.

(h) Scope of adjustments and extensions of time. (1) Unless otherwise agreed in writing by the taxpayer and the commissioner, any adjustments by the commissioner or the taxpayer made after the period of limitations for assessment or refund has terminated under article nine-A, twenty-two, thirty-three, or any law authorized by article thirty of this chapter, is limited to changes to the taxpayer's tax liability arising from such a final federal adjustment.

(2) The time periods provided for in this section may be extended:

(A) automatically, upon written notice to the commissioner, by sixty days for an impacted partnership or tiered partner which has ten thousand or more direct partners; or

(B) by written agreement between the taxpayer and the commissioner.

(3) Any extension granted under this subsection for filing a federal adjustments report extends the last day prescribed by law for assessing any additional tax arising from the adjustments to federal taxable income and the period for filing a claim for refund or credit of taxes under article nine-A, twenty-two, thirty-three, or any law authorized by article thirty of this chapter.

§ 660. Election by shareholders of S corporations. (a) Election. If a corporation is an eligible S corporation, the shareholders of the corporation may elect in the manner set forth in subsection (b) of this section to take into account, to the extent provided for in this article (or in article thirteen of this chapter, in the case of a shareholder which is a taxpayer under such article), the S corporation items of income, loss, deduction and reductions for taxes described in paragraphs two and three of subsection (f) of section thirteen hundred sixty-six of the internal revenue code which are taken into account for federal income tax purposes for the taxable year. No election under this subsection shall be effective unless all shareholders of the corporation have so elected. An eligible S corporation is (i) an S corporation which is subject to tax under article nine-A of this chapter, or (ii) an S corporation which is the parent of a qualified subchapter S subsidiary subject to tax under article nine-A, where the shareholders of such parent corporation are entitled to make the election under this subsection by reason of subparagraph three of paragraph (k) of subdivision nine of section two hundred eight of this chapter.

(b) Requirements of election. An election under subsection (a) of this section shall be made on such form and in such manner as the tax commission may prescribe by regulation or instruction.

(1) When made. An election under subsection (a) of this section may be made at any time during the preceding taxable year of the corporation or at any time during the taxable year of the corporation and on or before the fifteenth day of the third month of such taxable year.

(2) Certain elections made during first two and one-half months. If an election made under subsection (a) of this section is made for any taxable year of the corporation during such year and on or before the fifteenth day of the third month of such year, such election shall be treated as made for the following taxable year if

(A) on one or more days in such taxable year before the day on which the election was made the corporation did not meet the requirements of subsection (b) of section thirteen hundred sixty-one of the internal revenue code or

(B) one or more of the shareholders who held stock in the corporation during such taxable year and before the election was made did not consent to the election.

(3) Elections made after first two and one-half months. If an election under subsection (a) of this section is made for any taxable year of the corporation and such election is made after the fifteenth day of the third month of such taxable year and on or before the fifteenth day of the third month of the following taxable year, such election shall be treated as made for the following taxable year.

(4) Taxable years of two and one-half months or less. For purposes of this subsection, an election for a taxable year made not later than two months and fifteen days after the first day of the taxable year shall be treated as timely made during such year.

(5) Authority to treat late elections, etc., as timely. If (A) an election under subsection (a) of this section is made for any taxable year (determined without regard to paragraph three of this subsection) after the date prescribed by this subsection for making such election for such taxable year, or if no such election is made for any taxable year, and

(B) the commissioner determines that there was reasonable cause for failure to timely make such election, then

(C) the commissioner may treat such an election as timely made for such taxable year (and paragraph three of this subsection shall not apply).

(6) Years for which effective. An election under subsection (a) of this section shall be effective for the taxable year of the corporation for which it is made and for all succeeding taxable years of the corporation until such election is terminated under subsection (c) of this section.

(c) Termination. An election under subsection (a) of this section shall cease to be effective

(1) on the day an election to be an S corporation ceases to be effective for federal income tax purposes pursuant to subsection (d) of section thirteen hundred sixty-two of the internal revenue code, or

(2) if shareholders holding more than one-half of the shares of stock of the corporation on the day on which the revocation is made revoke such election in the manner the tax commission may prescribe by regulation,

(A) on the first day of the taxable year of the corporation, if the revocation is made during such taxable year and on or before the fifteenth day of the third month thereof, or

(B) on the first day of the following taxable year of the corporation, if the revocation is made during the taxable year but after the fifteenth day of the third month thereof, or

(C) on and after the date so specified, if the revocation specifies a date for revocation which is on or after the day on which the revocation is made, or

(3) if any person who was not a shareholder of the corporation on the day on which the election is made becomes a shareholder in the corporation and affirmatively refuses to consent to such election in the manner the tax commission may prescribe by regulation, on the day such person becomes a shareholder.

(d) New York S termination year. In the case of a New York S termination year, the amount of any item of S corporation income, loss and deduction and reductions for taxes (as described in paragraphs two and three of subsection (f) of section thirteen hundred sixty-six of the internal revenue code) required to be taken account of under this article shall be adjusted in the same manner that the S corporation's items which are included in the shareholder's federal adjusted gross income are adjusted under subsection (s) of section six hundred twelve.

(e) Inadvertent invalid elections. If (1) an election under subsection (a) of this section was not effective for the taxable year for which made (determined without regard to paragraph two of subsection (b) of this section) by reason of a failure to obtain shareholder consents,

(2) the commissioner determines that the circumstances resulting in such ineffectiveness were inadvertent,

(3) no later than a reasonable period of time after discovery of the circumstances resulting in such ineffectiveness, steps were taken to acquire the required shareholder consents, and

(4) the corporation, and each person who was a shareholder in the corporation at any time during the period specified pursuant to this subsection, agrees to make such adjustments (consistent with the treatment of the corporation as a New York S corporation) as may be required by the commissioner with respect to such period,

(5) then, notwithstanding the circumstances resulting in such ineffectiveness, such corporation shall be treated as a New York S corporation during the period specified by the commissioner.

(f) Validated federal elections. If (1) an election under subsection (a) of this section was made for a taxable year or years of a corporation, which years occur with or within the period for which the federal S election of such corporation has been validated pursuant to the provisions of subsection (f) of section thirteen hundred sixty-two of the internal revenue code, and

(2) the corporation, and each person who was a shareholder in the corporation at any time during such taxable year or years agrees to make such adjustments (consistent with the treatment of the corporation as a New York S corporation) as may be required by the commissioner with respect to such year or years,

(3) then such corporation shall be treated as a New York S corporation during such year or years.

(g) Transitional rule. Any election made under this section (as in effect for taxable years beginning before January first, nineteen hundred eighty-three) shall be treated as an election made under subsection (a) of this section.

(h) Cross reference. For definitions relating to S corporations, see subdivision one-A of section two hundred eight of this chapter.

(i) Mandated New York S corporation election. (1) Notwithstanding the provisions in subsection (a) of this section, in the case of an eligible S corporation for which the election under subsection (a) of this section is not in effect for the current taxable year, the shareholders of an eligible S corporation are deemed to have made that election effective for the eligible S corporation's entire current taxable year, if the eligible S corporation's investment income for the current taxable year is more than fifty percent of its federal gross income for such year. In determining whether an eligible S corporation is deemed to have made that election, the income of a qualified subchapter S subsidiary owned directly or indirectly by the eligible S corporation shall be included with the income of the eligible S corporation.

(2) For the purposes of this subsection, the term "eligible S corporation" has the same definition as in subsection (a) of this section.

(3) For the purposes of this subsection, the term "investment income" means the sum of an eligible S corporation's gross income from interest, dividends, royalties, annuities, rents and gains derived from dealings in property, including the corporation's share of such items from a partnership, estate or trust, to the extent such items would be includable in federal gross income for the taxable year.

(4) Estimated tax payments. When making estimated tax payments required to be made under this chapter in the current tax year, the eligible S corporation and its shareholders may rely on the eligible S corporation's filing status for the prior year. If the eligible S corporation's filing status changes from the prior tax year the corporation or the shareholders, as the case may be, which made the payments shall be entitled to a refund of such estimated tax payments. No additions to tax with respect to any required declarations or payments of estimated tax imposed under this chapter shall be imposed on the corporation or shareholders, whichever is the taxpayer for the current taxable year, if the corporation or the shareholders file such declarations and make such estimated tax payments by January fifteenth of the following calendar year, regardless of whether the taxpayer's tax year is a calendar or a fiscal year.

§ 661. Change of election. Any election expressly authorized by this article may be changed on such terms and conditions as the tax commission may prescribe by regulation.

§ 662. Computation of tax where taxpayer restores substantial amount held under claim of right. (a) General. If:

(1) an item was included in New York adjusted gross income for a prior taxable year (or years) because it appeared that the taxpayer had an unrestricted right to such item, and

(2) for the current taxable year the provisions of paragraph five of subsection (a) of section thirteen hundred forty-one of the internal revenue code apply to such item, then the tax imposed by this article for the taxable year shall be an amount equal to

(3) the tax for the taxable year computed without regard to this section, minus

(4) the decrease in tax under this article for the prior taxable year (or years) which would result solely from the exclusion of such item (or portion thereof) from New York adjusted gross income for such prior taxable year (or years).

(b) Special rules. (1) If the decrease in tax ascertained under paragraph four of subsection (a) of this section exceeds the tax imposed by this article for the taxable year, such excess shall be considered a payment of tax on the last day prescribed by law for the payment of tax for the taxable year, and shall be refunded or credited in the same manner as if it were an overpayment for such taxable year.

(2) Nonresidents and part-year residents. In the case of a nonresident or part-year resident, the exclusion of an item from New York adjusted gross income for a prior taxable year beginning after nineteen hundred eighty-seven under paragraph four of subsection (a) of this section shall also be reflected, as appropriate, in the New York

§ 663. Estimated tax on sale or transfer of real property by nonresident. (a) Upon the sale of real property within the state by a nonresident taxpayer, the nonresident shall estimate the personal income tax liability on the gain, if any, from such sale or transfer. In addition, upon the sale, conveyance or other disposition of shares of stock in a cooperative housing corporation in connection with the transfer of a proprietary leasehold by the owner thereof and subject to the provisions of article thirty-one of this chapter, the nonresident shall estimate the personal income tax liability on the gain, if any, from such sale, conveyance or other disposition.

(b) Such estimation shall be done upon a form prescribed by the commissioner, utilizing an estimated tax rate equal to the highest rate of tax for the taxable year set forth in section six hundred one of this article.

(c) This section shall not apply where:

(1) The real property being sold or transferred is a principal residence of the seller or transferor within the meaning of section 121 of the Internal Revenue Code;

(2) The seller or transferor is a mortgagor conveying the mortgaged property to a mortgagee in foreclosure or in a transfer in lieu of foreclosure with no additional consideration; or

(3) The transferor or transferee is an agency or authority of the United States of America, an agency or authority of the state of New York, the Federal National Mortgage Association, the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation, or the Government National Mortgage Association, or a private mortgage insurance company; or

(4) The proprietary leasehold being transferred in connection with the sale, conveyance or other disposition of the shares of stock in a cooperative housing corporation is a principal residence of the seller or transferor within the meaning of section 121 of the Internal Revenue Code;

(d) A recording officer shall not record or accept for recording any deed unless one of the following conditions is satisfied:

(1) it is accompanied by a receipt issued by the commissioner indicating that the estimated tax required by this section has been paid to the commissioner either electronically or as otherwise prescribed by him or her;

(2) it is accompanied by a form prescribed by the commissioner pursuant to subsection (b) of this section and the payment of any estimated tax shown as payable on such form; or

(3) such receipt or form includes a certification by the transferor that this section is inapplicable to the sale or transfer.

(e) Every recording officer shall act as an agent of the commissioner for purposes of collecting the estimated personal income tax, if any, shown to be payable upon the form prescribed pursuant to subsection (b) of this section. The commissioner, by regulation, shall prescribe one or more methods for the recording officer's collection of such estimated tax. Every recording officer shall remit to the commissioner any funds collected and any returns filed with such recording officer under this section on such days as the commissioner shall set by regulation consistent with the provisions of section fourteen hundred ten of this chapter for the remission of the tax imposed under article thirty-one of this chapter. Every recording officer also shall follow such procedures and keep such records in respect to the implementation of this section as the commissioner may prescribe.

(f) A recording officer shall not be liable under this section for any inaccuracy in any statement on the form prescribed pursuant to subsection (b) of this section or in the amount of estimated personal income tax he or she shall collect under this section so long as he or she shall collect the estimated personal income tax shown as payable on such form.

(g) If a deed is recorded notwithstanding an omission or inaccuracy in the form prescribed pursuant to subsection (b) of this section or in any certification by the transferor on such form or a deficiency in the payment of estimated personal income tax required by this section, the record of such deed shall not be invalidated by reason of such omission, inaccuracy, erroneous certification or deficiency nor shall the title founded on such deed be impaired thereby.

(h) The commissioner shall promulgate rules and regulations implementing this section.

(i) The estimated personal income tax liability on the gain, if any, from the sale, conveyance or other disposition of shares of stock in a cooperative housing corporation shall be paid to the commissioner no later than the fifteenth day after the delivery of the instrument affecting such sale, conveyance or other disposition. For purposes of this section, the date of the instrument affecting such sale, conveyance or other disposition shall be presumed to be the date of delivery of such instrument.

672. Information statement for employee.

673. Credit for tax withheld.

674. Employer's return and payment of withheld taxes.

675. Employer's liability for withheld taxes.

§ 671. Requirement of withholding tax from wages. (a) General. (1) Every employer maintaining an office or transacting business within this state and making payment of any wages taxable under this article shall deduct and withhold from such wages for each payroll period a tax computed in such manner as to result, so far as practicable, in withholding from the employee's wages during each calendar year an amount substantially equivalent to the tax reasonably estimated to be due under this article resulting from the inclusion in the employee's New York adjusted gross income or New York source income of the employee's wages received during such calendar year. The method of determining the amount to be withheld shall be prescribed by the commissioner, with due regard to the New York withholding exemptions of the employee and the sum of any credits allowable against the employee's tax. The commissioner shall publish any changes to such method of determining the amount of tax to be withheld on the website of the department of taxation and finance. The commissioner shall also cause notice of such changes to be published in the section for miscellaneous notices in the state register and shall give other appropriate general notice of such changes.

(2) The tax commission may provide, by regulations, for withholding--

(A) from remuneration for services performed by an employee for his employer which does not constitute wages, and if the employer and the employee, or in the case of any other type of payment the person making and the person receiving the payment, agree to such withholding. Such agreement shall be made in such form and manner as the tax commission may by regulations provide. For purposes of this article, remuneration or other payments with respect to which such agreement is made shall be treated as if they were wages paid by an employer to an employee to the extent that such remuneration is paid or other payments are made during the period for which the agreement is in effect.

(B) from any other type of payment, with respect to which the tax commission finds that withholding would be appropriate under the provisions of this article,

(3) The tax commission shall provide by regulation for an exemption from withholding for (i) employees under eighteen years of age, (ii) employees under twenty-five years of age who are full-time students and (iii) employees over sixty-five years of age, provided such employees had no income tax liability in the prior year and can reasonably anticipate none in the current year.

Such a request for withholding or statement of termination shall take effect in such manner as the commissioner of taxation and finance shall prescribe.

(B) Withholding on lottery winnings upon change of residence. If a payee of lottery winnings subject to the provisions of subparagraph (D) of paragraph two of this subsection changes status from resident to nonresident, withholding in accordance with such subparagraph shall constitute other security acceptable to the commissioner within the meaning of subsection (d) of section six hundred thirty-nine of this article.

(C) Proceeds. For purposes of subparagraphs (D) and (E) of paragraph two of this subsection, proceeds from a wager shall be determined by reducing the amount received by the amount of the wager.

A request that an annuity be subject to withholding may, notwithstanding any provision of law to the contrary, be terminated by furnishing to the person making the payments a written statement of termination. A request that lottery winnings be subject to withholding under this article shall not be revocable while the payee is a nonresident, and shall constitute other security acceptable to the tax commission within the meaning of paragraph four of subsection (c) of section six hundred fifty-four of this article. Such a request for withholding or statement of termination shall take effect in such manner as the commissioner of taxation and finance shall provide by regulation.

* NB Effective per ch. 782/88 § 8

(c) Withholding exemptions. For purposes of this section:

(1) The number of New York withholding exemptions which an employee receiving wages taxable under this article may claim shall not exceed the number of New York exemptions allowed pursuant to the provisions of section six hundred sixteen and such additional New York withholding exemptions as may be prescribed by regulations or instructions of the commissioner of taxation and finance, taking into account the applicable standard deduction and such other factors as he finds appropriate.

(2) The amount of each New York withholding exemption shall be the amount of the New York exemption allowed pursuant to the provisions of section six hundred sixteen.

(3) Withholding exemption certificate. An employee shall be required to file with his employer a withholding exemption certificate in accordance with regulations or instructions prescribed by the commissioner of taxation and finance.

§ 672. Information statement for employee. Every employer required to deduct and withhold tax under this article from the wages of an employee, or who would have been required so to deduct and withhold tax if the employee had claimed no more than one withholding exemption, shall furnish to each such employee in respect of the wages paid by such employer to such employee during the calendar year on or before February fifteenth of the succeeding year, or, if his employment is terminated before the close of such calendar year, within thirty days from the date on which the last payment of the wages is made, a written statement as prescribed by the tax commission showing the amount of wages paid by the employer to the employee, the amount deducted and withheld as tax, and such other information as the tax commission shall prescribe.

§ 673. Credit for tax withheld. Wages upon which tax is required to be withheld shall be taxable under this article as if no withholding were required, but any amount of tax actually deducted and withheld under this article in any calendar year shall be deemed to have been paid to the tax commission on behalf of the person from whom withheld, and such person shall be credited with having paid that amount of tax for the taxable year beginning in such calendar year. For a taxable year of less than twelve months, the credit shall be made under regulations of the tax commission.

§ 674. Employer's return and payment of withheld taxes. (a) General. Every employer required to deduct and withhold tax under this article shall file a withholding return and pay over to the tax commission or to a depository designated by the tax commission, the taxes so required to be deducted and withheld, as hereafter prescribed.

(1) If, after having made a payroll, an employer has been required to deduct and withhold, but has not paid over, a cumulative aggregate amount of seven hundred dollars or more of tax during a calendar quarter, such employer shall file a return and pay over the tax. If an employer was required to remit a cumulative aggregate amount of less than fifteen thousand dollars in withholding tax during the calendar year which precedes the previous calendar year, the tax shall be paid over on or before the fifth business day following the date of making such a payroll. If an employer was required to remit a cumulative aggregate amount more than or equal to fifteen thousand dollars in withholding tax during the calendar year which precedes the previous calendar year, the tax shall be paid over on or before the third business day following the date of making such a payroll. In the case of an "educational organization" as defined in paragraph two of subsection (a) of section nine of this chapter or a "health care provider" as defined in paragraph four of subsection (a) of section nine of this chapter, the tax shall be paid over on or before the fifth business day following the date of making such a payroll.

(2) If, at the close of any calendar quarter, an employer has been required to deduct and withhold, but has not paid over, a cumulative aggregate amount of less than seven hundred dollars of tax during such calendar quarter, such employer shall pay over the tax with the quarterly combined withholding, wage reporting and unemployment insurance return required to be filed for such quarter by paragraph four of this subsection, on or before the last date prescribed by such paragraph for filing such return.

(3) If an employer makes more than one payroll per week, then such employer shall determine the applicability of the rules described in paragraphs one and two of this subsection measured by the last payroll made within the week by such employer; provided, however, that in any week in which the end of a quarter occurs between the making of payrolls by an employer, any tax required to be deducted and withheld in a payroll or payrolls made during such week prior to or on the end of the quarter shall be paid over. If an employer was required to remit a cumulative aggregate amount of less than fifteen thousand dollars in withholding tax during the calendar year which precedes the previous calendar year, the tax shall be paid over on or before the fifth business day following the date of making the last payroll in such quarter. If an employer was required to remit a cumulative aggregate amount more than or equal to fifteen thousand dollars in withholding tax during the calendar year which precedes the previous calendar year, the tax shall be paid over on or before the third business day following the date of making the last payroll in such quarter. In the case of an "educational organization" as defined in paragraph two of subsection (a) of section nine of this chapter or a "health care provider" as defined in paragraph four of subsection (a) of section nine of this chapter, the tax shall be paid over on or before the fifth business day following the date of making such a payroll. For purposes of this paragraph, the term "week" shall mean the period Sunday through Saturday.

(4) (A) All employers described in paragraph one of subsection (a) of section six hundred seventy-one of this part, including those whose wages paid are not sufficient to require the withholding of tax from the wages of any of their employees, all employers required to provide the wage reporting information for the employees described in subdivision one of section one hundred seventy-one-a of this chapter, and all employers liable for unemployment insurance contributions or for payments in lieu of such contributions pursuant to article eighteen of the labor law, shall file a quarterly combined withholding, wage reporting and unemployment insurance return detailing the preceding calendar quarter's withholding tax transactions, such quarter's wage reporting information, such quarter's withholding reconciliation information, such quarter's unemployment insurance contributions, and such other related information as the commissioner of taxation and finance or the commissioner of labor, as applicable, may prescribe. Such returns shall be filed no later than the last day of the month following the last day of each calendar quarter.

(B) An employer shall, at the time prescribed by subparagraph (A) of this paragraph for filing each quarterly combined withholding, wage reporting and unemployment insurance return, pay over, in a single remittance, the unemployment insurance contributions and aggregate withholding taxes required to be paid over with such return. Notwithstanding any provision of law to the contrary, an overpayment of unemployment insurance contributions or of aggregate withholding taxes made by an employer with the quarterly combined withholding, wage reporting and unemployment insurance return for a calendar quarter may be only credited by such employer against such employer's liability for unemployment insurance contributions or aggregate withholding taxes, respectively.

(C) The provisions of article eighteen of the labor law relating to administration of the state's unemployment insurance program shall apply to the department's duties under this chapter relating to unemployment insurance information, contributions and payments.

(5) The tax commission may, if it believes such action necessary for the protection of the revenues, require any employer to make such return and pay to it the tax deducted and withheld at any time, or from time to time.

(6) Each employer in the construction classification as defined in section one hundred seventy-one-j of this chapter, shall submit to the commissioner quarterly, with such employer's quarterly combined withholding and wage reporting return, information relating to the aggregate numbers of hours worked by all such employees of such employer on a quarterly basis, and the geographic location or locations in which such employees worked during each quarter. Such information shall be reported in such form as the commissioner shall prescribe.

(b) Deposit in trust for tax commission. Whenever any employer fails to collect, truthfully account for, pay over the tax, or make returns of the tax as required in this section, the tax commission may serve a notice requiring such employer to collect the taxes which become collectible after service of such notice, to deposit such taxes in a bank approved by the tax commission, in a separate account, in trust for and payable to the tax commission, and to keep the amount of such tax in such account until payment over to the tax commission. Such notice shall remain in effect until a notice of cancellation is served by the tax commission.

§ 675. Employer's liability for withheld taxes.--Every employer required to deduct and withhold tax under this article is hereby made liable for such tax. For purposes of assessment and collection, any amount required to be withheld and paid over to the tax commission, and any additions to tax, penalties and interest with respect thereto, shall be considered the tax of the employer. Any amount of tax actually deducted and withheld under this article shall be held to be a special fund in trust for the tax commission. No employee shall have any right of action against his employer in respect to any moneys deducted and withheld from his wages and paid over to the tax commission in compliance or in intended compliance with this article.

§ 676. Employer's failure to withhold. If an employer fails to deduct and withhold tax as required, and thereafter the tax against which such tax may be credited is paid, the tax so required to be deducted and withheld shall not be collected from the employer, but the employer shall not be relieved from liability for any penalties, interest, or additions to the tax otherwise applicable in respect of such failure to deduct and withhold.

§ 677. Designation of third parties to perform acts required of employers.--In case a fiduciary, agent, or other person has the control, receipt, custody, or disposal of, or pays the wages of an employee or group of employees, employed by one or more employers, the tax commission, under regulations promulgated by it, is authorized to designate such fiduciary, agent, or other person to perform such acts as are required of employers under this article and as the tax commission may specify. Except as may be otherwise prescribed by the tax commission, all provisions of law (including penalties) applicable in respect of an employer shall be applicable to a fiduciary, agent, or other person so designated but, except as so provided, the employer for whom such fiduciary, agent, or other person acts shall remain subject to the provisions of law (including penalties) applicable in respect of employers.

§ 678. Liability of third parties paying or providing for wages.--(a) Direct payment by third party.--If a lender, surety or other person, who is not an employer with respect to an employee or group of employees, pays wages directly to such an employee or group of employees, employed by one or more employers, or to an agent on behalf of such employee or employees, such lender, surety or other person shall be liable for the amount of taxes (together with interest) required to be deducted and withheld from such wages by the employer.

(b) Funds supplied to employer by third parties.--If a lender, surety or other person supplies funds to or for the account of an employer for the specific purpose of paying wages of the employees of such employer, with actual notice or knowledge that such employer does not intend to or will not be able to make timely payment or deposit of the amounts of tax required by this article to be deducted and withheld by such employer from such wages, such lender, surety or other person shall be liable for the amount of the taxes (together with interest) which are not paid over to the tax commission by such employer with respect to such wages. However, the liability of such lender, surety or other person shall be limited to an amount equal to twenty-five percent of the amount so supplied to or for the account of such employer for such purpose.

(c) Effect of payment.--Any amounts paid to the tax commission pursuant to this section shall be credited against the liability of the employer.

699. Transition provisions.

§ 681. Notice of deficiency.--(a) General.--If upon examination of a taxpayer's return under this article the tax commission determines that there is a deficiency of income tax, it may mail a notice of deficiency to the taxpayer. If a taxpayer fails to file an income tax return required under this article, the tax commission is authorized to estimate the taxpayer's New York taxable income and tax thereon, from any information in its possession, and to mail a notice of deficiency to the taxpayer. A notice of deficiency shall be mailed by certified or registered mail to the taxpayer at his last known address in or out of this state. If a husband and wife are jointly liable for tax, a notice of deficiency may be a single joint notice, except that if the tax commission has been notified by either spouse that separate residences have been established, then, in lieu of the single joint notice, a duplicate original of the joint notice shall be mailed to each spouse at his or her last known address in or out of this state. If the taxpayer is deceased or under a legal disability, a notice of deficiency may be mailed to his last known address in or out of this state, unless the tax commission has received notice of the existence of a fiduciary relationship with respect to the taxpayer.

(b) Notice of deficiency as assessment.--After ninety days from the mailing of a notice of deficiency, such notice shall be an assessment of the amount of tax specified in such notice, together with the interest, additions to tax and penalties stated in such notice, except only for any such tax or other amounts as to which the taxpayer has within such ninety day period filed with the tax commission a petition under section six hundred eighty-nine. If the notice of deficiency is addressed to a person outside of the United States, such period shall be one hundred fifty days instead of ninety days.

(c) Restrictions on assessment and levy.--No assessment of a deficiency in tax and no levy or proceeding in court for its collection shall be made, begun or prosecuted, except as otherwise provided in section six hundred ninety-four, until a notice of deficiency has been mailed to the taxpayer, nor until the expiration of the time for filing a petition contesting such notice, nor, if a petition with respect to the taxable year has been filed with the tax commission, until the decision of the tax commission has become final. For exception in the case of judicial review of the decision of the tax commission, see subsection (c) of section six hundred ninety.

(d) Exceptions for mathematical or clerical errors.--If a mathematical or clerical error appears on a return (including an overstatement of the credit for income tax withheld at the source, or of the amount paid as estimated income tax), the commissioner shall notify the taxpayer that an amount of tax in excess of that shown upon the return is due, and that such excess has been assessed. Such notice shall not be considered as a notice of deficiency for the purposes of this section, subsection (f) of section six hundred eighty-seven (limiting credits or refunds after petition to the division of tax appeals), subsection (b) of section six hundred eighty-nine (authorizing the filing of a petition with the division of tax appeals based on a notice of deficiency), or article forty of this chapter, nor shall such assessment or collection be prohibited by the provisions of subsection (c).

(e) Exceptions where federal changes, corrections or disallowances are not reported.---

(1) If the taxpayer or employer fails to comply with section six hundred fifty-nine or section six hundred fifty-nine-a, instead of the mode and time of assessment provided for in subsection (b) of this section, the commissioner may assess a deficiency based upon such federal change, correction or disallowance by mailing to the taxpayer a notice of additional tax due specifying the amount of the deficiency, and such deficiency, together with the interest, additions to tax and penalties stated in such notice, shall be deemed assessed on the date such notice is mailed unless within thirty days after the mailing of such notice a report of the federal change, correction or disallowance or an amended return, where such return was required by section six hundred fifty-nine or section six hundred fifty-nine-a, is filed accompanied by a statement showing wherein such federal determination and such notice of additional tax due are erroneous.

(2) Such notice shall not be considered as a notice of deficiency for the purposes of this section, subsection (f) of section six hundred eighty-seven (limiting credits or refunds after petition to the division of tax appeals), or subsection (b) of section six hundred eighty-nine (authorizing the filing of a petition with the division of tax appeals based on a notice of deficiency), nor shall such assessment or the collection thereof be prohibited by the provisions of subsection (c).

(3) If spouses are jointly liable for tax, a notice of additional tax due may be a single joint notice, except that if the commissioner has been notified by either spouse that separate residences have been established, then, in lieu of the joint notice, a duplicate original of the joint notice shall be mailed to each spouse at their last known address in or out of this state. If the taxpayer is deceased or under a legal disability, a notice of additional tax due may be mailed to their last known address in or out of this state, unless the commissioner has received notice of the existence of a fiduciary relationship with respect to the taxpayer.

(f) Waiver of restrictions.--The taxpayer shall at any time (whether or not a notice of deficiency has been issued) have the right to waive the restrictions on assessment and collection of the whole or any part of the deficiency by a signed notice in writing filed with the tax commission.

(g) Deficiency defined.--For purposes of this article, a deficiency means the amount of the tax imposed by this article, less (i) the amount shown as the tax upon the taxpayer's return (whether the return was made or the tax computed by him or by the tax commission), and less (ii) the amounts previously assessed (or collected without assessment) as a deficiency and plus (iii) the amount of any rebates. For the purpose of this definition, the tax imposed by this article and the tax shown on the return shall both be determined without regard to payments on account of estimated tax or the credit for withholding tax; and a rebate means so much of an abatement, credit, refund or other repayment (whether or not erroneous) made on the ground that the amounts entering into the definition of a deficiency showed a balance in favor of the taxpayer.

§ 682. Assessment.-- (a) Assessment date.--The amount of tax which a return shows to be due, or the amount of tax which a return would have shown to be due but for a mathematical or clerical error, shall be deemed to be assessed on the date of filing of the return (including any amended return showing an increase of tax). In the case of a return properly filed without computation of tax, the tax computed by the commissioner shall be deemed to be assessed on the date on which payment is due. If a notice of deficiency has been mailed, the amount of the deficiency shall be deemed to be assessed on the date specified in subsection (b) of section six hundred eighty-one if no petition to the division of tax appeals is filed, or if a petition is filed, then upon the date when a determination or decision rendered in the division of tax appeals establishing the amount of the deficiency becomes final. If an amended return or report filed pursuant to section six hundred fifty-nine or six hundred fifty-nine-a concedes the accuracy of a federal change or correction, any deficiency in tax under this article resulting therefrom shall be deemed to be assessed on the date of filing such report or amended return, and such assessment shall be timely notwithstanding section six hundred eighty-three. If a notice of additional tax due, as prescribed in subsection (e) of section six hundred eighty-one, has been mailed, the amount of the deficiency shall be deemed to be assessed on the date specified in such subsection unless within thirty days after the mailing of such notice a report of the federal change or correction or an amended return, where such return was required by section six hundred fifty-nine or six hundred fifty-nine-a, is filed accompanied by a statement showing wherein such federal determination and such notice of additional tax due are erroneous. Any amount paid as a tax or in respect of a tax, other than amounts withheld at the source or paid as estimated income tax, shall be deemed to be assessed upon the date of receipt of payment, notwithstanding any other provisions.

(b) Other assessment powers.--If the mode or time for the assessment of any tax under this article (including interest, additions to tax and assessable penalties) is not otherwise provided for, the tax commission may establish the same by regulations.

(c) Estimated income tax.--No unpaid amount of estimated tax shall be assessed.

(d) Supplemental assessment.--The tax commission may, at any time within the period prescribed for assessment, make a supplemental assessment, subject to the provisions of section six hundred eighty-one where applicable, whenever it is ascertained that any assessment is imperfect or incomplete in any material respect.

(e) Cross reference.--For assessment in case of jeopardy, see section six hundred ninety-four.

§ 683. Limitations on assessment.--(a) General.--Except as otherwise provided in this section, any tax under this article shall be assessed within three years after the return was filed (whether or not such return was filed on or after the date prescribed).

(b) Time return deemed filed.--

(1) Early return.--For purposes of this section a return of income tax, except withholding tax, filed before the last day prescribed by law or by regulations promulgated pursuant to law for the filing thereof, shall be deemed to be filed on such last day.

(2) Return of withholding tax.--For purposes of this section, if a return of withholding tax for any period ending with or within a calendar year is filed before April fifteenth of the succeeding calendar year, such return shall be deemed to be filed on April fifteenth of such succeeding calendar year.

(c) Exceptions.--

(1) Assessment at any time.--The tax may be assessed at any time if--

(A) no return is filed,

(B) a false or fraudulent return is filed with intent to evade tax, or

(C) the taxpayer or employer fails to comply with section six hundred fifty-nine or six hundred fifty-nine-a.

(2) Extension by agreement.--Where, before the expiration of the time prescribed in this section for the assessment of tax, both the commissioner and the taxpayer have consented in writing to its assessment after such time, the tax may be assessed at any time prior to the expiration of the period agreed upon. The period so agreed upon may be extended by subsequent agreements in writing made before the expiration of the period previously agreed upon.

(3) Report of federal changes, corrections or disallowances.--If the taxpayer or employer complies with section six hundred fifty-nine or six hundred fifty-nine-a, the assessment (if not deemed to have been made upon the filing of the report or amended return) may be made at any time within two years after such report or amended return was filed. The amount of such assessment of tax shall not exceed the amount of the increase in New York tax attributable to such federal change or correction. The provisions of this paragraph shall not affect the time within which or the amount for which an assessment may otherwise be made.

(4) Deficiency attributable to net operating loss carryback.--If a deficiency is attributable to the application to the taxpayer of a net operating loss carryback, it may be assessed at any time that a deficiency for the taxable year of the loss may be assessed.

(5) Recovery of erroneous refund.--An erroneous refund shall be considered an underpayment of tax on the date made, and an assessment of a deficiency arising out of an erroneous refund may be made at any time within two years from the making of the refund, except that the assessment may be made within five years from the making of the refund if it appears that any part of the refund was induced by fraud or misrepresentation of a material fact.

(6) Request for prompt assessment.--If a return is required for a decedent or for his estate during the period of administration, the tax shall be assessed within eighteen months after written request therefor (made after the return is filed) by the executor, administrator or other person representing the estate of such decedent, but not more than three years after the return was filed, except as otherwise provided in this subsection and subsection (d).

(7) Report on use of certain property.--Under the circumstances described in paragraph two of subsection (g) of section six hundred twelve, the tax may be assessed within three years after the filing of a return reporting that property has been used for purposes other than research and development to a greater extent than originally reported.

(8) Report concerning waste treatment facility, air pollution control facility or eligible business facility. Under the circumstances described in paragraph (3) of subsection (h) of section six hundred twelve or in paragraph four of subsection (c) of section seven hundred one, the tax may be assessed within three years after the filing of the return containing the information required by such paragraph, or, if a certificate of compliance in respect to an air pollution control facility shall be revoked, within three years after the tax commission shall receive notice of such revocation from the taxpayer or as required by subdivision three of section 19-0309 of the environmental conservation law, whichever notice is received earlier.

(9) Reports concerning empire zone credits. If a taxpayer's certification under article eighteen-B of the general municipal law is revoked with respect to an empire zone or zone equivalent area, any tax liability generated by reason of such decertification may be assessed within three years after the commissioner has received notice of such decertification as required by subdivision (a) of section nine hundred fifty-nine of the general municipal law.

(10) Reports concerning a certificate of completion. If a taxpayer's certificate of completion issued pursuant to section 27-1419 of the environmental conservation law is revoked by a determination issued pursuant to section 27-1419 of the environmental conservation law, any tax liability generated by reason of such revocation may be assessed within one year after such determination is final and is no longer subject to judicial review.

* (11) Extended statute of limitations for tax avoidance transactions.
(A) If a taxpayer or person fails to file, disclose or provide any statement, return or other information for any taxable year with respect to a listed transaction, as defined in paragraph three of subsection (x) of section six hundred eighty-five of this article, which is required under subdivision (a) of section twenty-five of this chapter, the time for assessment of any tax imposed by this article with respect to such transaction shall not expire before the date which is one year after the earlier of:

(i) the date on which the commissioner is furnished the statement, return, or information so required, or

(ii) the date that the requirements of subdivision (c) of section twenty-five of this chapter are met with respect to a request under such subdivision by the commissioner relating to such transaction.

(B) If later than the time for assessment otherwise provided by this section, tax may be assessed at any time within six years after the return was filed if the deficiency is attributable to an abusive tax avoidance transaction.

(C) For purposes of subparagraph (B) of this paragraph, an "abusive tax avoidance transaction" means a plan or arrangement devised for the principal purpose of avoiding tax. Abusive tax avoidance transactions include, but are not limited to, listed transactions described in paragraph five of subsection (p-1) of section six hundred eighty-five of this article.

* NB Repealed July 1, 2029

(12) Except as otherwise provided in paragraph three of this subsection, or as otherwise provided in this section where a longer period of time may apply, if a taxpayer files an amended return, an assessment of tax (if not deemed to have been made upon the filing of the amended return), including recovery of a previously paid refund, attributable to a change or correction on the amended return from a prior return may be made at any time within one year after such amended return is filed.

(d) Omission of income, total taxable amount or ordinary income portion of a lump sum distribution on return.--The tax may be assessed at any time within six years after the return was filed if--

(1) an individual omits from his New York adjusted gross income, or the total taxable amount or ordinary income portion of a lump sum distribution an amount properly includible therein which is in excess of twenty-five percent of the amount of New York adjusted gross income, or the total taxable amount or ordinary income portion of a lump sum distribution stated in the return, or

(2) an estate or trust omits from its New York adjusted gross income, or the total taxable amount or ordinary income portion of a lump sum distribution an amount properly includible therein which is in excess of twenty-five percent of the amount stated in the return of New York adjusted gross income determined in accordance with paragraph four of subsection (e) of section six hundred one, or the total taxable amount or ordinary income portion of a lump sum distribution, respectively. For purposes of this subsection there shall not be taken into account any amount which is omitted in the return if such amount is disclosed in the return, or in a statement attached to the return, in a manner adequate to apprise the commissioner of the nature and amount of the item of income, total taxable amount or ordinary income portion of a lump sum distribution.

(e) Suspension of running of period of limitation.--The running of the period of limitations on assessment or collection of tax or other amount (or of a transferee's liability) shall, after the mailing of a notice of deficiency, be suspended for the period during which the tax commission is prohibited under subsection (c) of section six hundred eighty-one from making the assessment or from collecting by levy.

§ 684. Interest on underpayment.-- (a) General.--If any amount of income tax is not paid on or before the last date prescribed in this article for payment, interest on such amount at the underpayment rate set by the commissioner pursuant to section six hundred ninety-seven of this part, or if no rate is set, at the rate of seven and one-half percent per annum shall be paid for the period from such last date to the date paid, whether or not any extension of time for payment was granted. Interest under this subsection shall not be paid if the amount thereof is less than one dollar. If the time for filing of a return of tax withheld by an employer is extended, the employer shall pay interest for the period for which the extension is granted and may not charge such interest to the employee.

(b) Exception as to estimated tax.--This section shall not apply to any failure to pay estimated tax.

(c) Exception for mathematical or clerical error.--No interest shall be imposed on any underpayment of tax due solely to mathematical or clerical error if the taxpayer files a return within the time prescribed in this article (including any extension of time) and pays the amount of underpayment within three months after the due date of such return, as it may be extended.

(d) Suspension of interest on deficiencies.--If a waiver of restrictions on assessment of a deficiency has been filed by the taxpayer, and if notice and demand by the tax commission for payment of such deficiency is not made within thirty days after the filing of such waiver, interest shall not be imposed on such deficiency for the period beginning immediately after such thirtieth day and ending with the date of notice and demand.

(e) Tax reduced by carryback.--If the amount of tax for any taxable year is reduced by reason of a carryback of a net operating loss, such reduction in tax shall not affect the computation of interest under this section for the period ending with the filing date for the taxable year in which the net operating loss arises. Such filing date shall be determined without regard to extensions of time to file.

(f) Interest treated as tax.--Interest under this section shall be paid upon notice and demand and shall be assessed, collected and paid in the same manner as income tax. Any reference in this article to the tax imposed by this article shall be deemed also to refer to interest imposed by this section on such tax.

(g) Interest on penalties or additions to tax.--Interest shall be imposed under subsection (a) of this section in respect of any assessable penalty or addition to tax only if such assessable penalty or addition to tax is not paid within twenty-one calendar days from the date of the notice and demand therefor under subsection (b) of section six hundred ninety-two of this article (ten business days if the amount for which such notice and demand is made equals or exceeds one hundred thousand dollars), and in such case interest shall be imposed only for the period from such date of the notice and demand to the date of payment.

(h) Payment within specified period after notice and demand.--If notice and demand is made for payment of any amount under subsection (b) of section six hundred ninety-two of this article, and if such amount is paid within twenty-one calendar days (ten business days if the amount for which such notice and demand is made equals or exceeds one hundred thousand dollars) after the date of such notice and demand, interest under this section on the amount so paid shall not be imposed for the period after the date of such notice and demand.

(i) Limitation on assessment and collection.--Interest prescribed under this section may be assessed and collected at any time during the period within which the tax or other amount to which such interest relates may be assessed and collected, respectively.

(j) Interest on erroneous refund.--Any portion of tax or other amount which has been erroneously refunded, and which is recoverable by the commissioner, shall bear interest at the underpayment rate set by the commissioner pursuant to section six hundred ninety-seven of this part, or if no rate is set, at the rate of seven and one-half percent per annum from the date of the payment of the refund, but only if it appears that any part of the refund was induced by fraud or a misrepresentation of a material fact.

(k) Satisfaction by credits.--If any portion of a tax is satisfied by credit of an overpayment, then no interest shall be imposed under this section on the portion of the tax so satisfied for any period during which, if the credit had not been made, interest would have been allowable with respect to such overpayment.

§ 685. Additions to tax and civil penalties.--(a) (1) Failure to file tax return.--

(A) In case of failure to file a tax return under this article on or before the prescribed date (determined with regard to any extension of time for filing), unless it is shown that such failure is due to reasonable cause and not due to willful neglect, there shall be added to the amount required to be shown as tax on such return five percent of the amount of such tax if the failure is for not more than one month, with an additional five percent for each additional month or fraction thereof during which such failure continues, not exceeding twenty-five percent in the aggregate.

(B) In the case of a failure to file a return of tax within sixty days of the date prescribed for filing of such return (determined with regard to any extension of time for filing), unless it is shown that such failure is due to reasonable cause and not due to willful neglect, the addition to tax under subparagraph (A) of this paragraph shall not be less than the lesser of one hundred dollars or one hundred percent of the amount required to be shown as tax on such return.

(C) For purposes of this paragraph, the amount of tax required to be shown on the return shall be reduced by the amount of any part of the tax which is paid on or before the date prescribed for payment of the tax and by the amount of any credit against the tax which may be claimed upon the return.

(2) Failure to pay tax shown on return.--In case of failure to pay the amounts shown as tax on any return required to be filed under this article on or before the prescribed date (determined with regard to any extension of time for payment), unless it is shown that such failure is due to reasonable cause and not due to willful neglect, there shall be added to the amount shown as tax on such return one-half of one per cent of the amount of such tax if the failure is not for more than one month, with an additional one-half of one per cent for each additional month or fraction thereof during which such failure continues, not exceeding twenty-five per cent in the aggregate. For the purpose of computing the addition for any month, the amount of tax shown on the return shall be reduced by the amount of any part of the tax which is paid on or before the beginning of such month and by the amount of any credit against the tax which may be claimed upon the return. If the amount of tax required to be shown on a return is less than the amount shown as tax on such return, this paragraph shall be applied by substituting such lower amount.

(3) Failure to pay tax required to be shown on return.--In case of failure to pay any amount in respect of any tax required to be shown on a return required to be filed under this article which is not so shown (including an assessment made pursuant to subsection (a) of section six hundred eighty-two of this article) within twenty-one calendar days of the date of a notice and demand therefor (ten business days if the amount for which such notice and demand is made equals or exceeds one hundred thousand dollars), unless it is shown that such failure is due to reasonable cause and not due to willful neglect, there shall be added to the amount of tax stated in such notice and demand one-half of one percent of such tax if the failure is not for more than one month, with an additional one-half of one percent for each additional month or fraction thereof during which such failure continues, not exceeding twenty-five percent in the aggregate. For the purpose of computing the addition for any month, the amount of tax stated in the notice and demand shall be reduced by the amount of any part of the tax which is paid before the beginning of such month.

(4) Limitations on additions.--

(A) With respect to any return, the amount of the addition under paragraph one of this subsection shall be reduced by the amount of the addition under paragraph two of this subsection for any month to which an addition applies under both paragraphs one and two. In any case described in subparagraph (B) of such paragraph one, the amount of the addition under such paragraph one shall not be reduced below the amount provided in such subparagraph.

(B) With respect to any return, the maximum amount of the addition permitted under paragraph three of this subsection shall be reduced by the amount of the addition under paragraph one of this subsection (determined without regard to subparagraph (B) of such paragraph) which is attributable to the tax for which the notice and demand is made and which is not paid within ten days of such notice and demand.

(b) Deficiency due to negligence.--

(1) If any part of a deficiency is due to negligence or intentional disregard of this article or rules or regulations hereunder (but without intent to defraud), there shall be added to the tax an amount equal to five percent of the deficiency.

(2) There shall be added to the tax (in addition to the amount determined under paragraph one of this subsection) an amount equal to fifty percent of the interest payable under section six hundred eighty-four with respect to the portion of the underpayment described in such paragraph one which is attributable to the negligence or intentional disregard referred to in such paragraph one, for the period beginning on the last date prescribed by law for payment of such underpayment (determined without regard to any extension) and ending on the date of the assessment of the tax (or, if earlier, the date of the payment of the tax).

(3) If any payment is shown on a return made by a payor with respect to dividends, patronage dividends and interest under subsection (a) of section six thousand forty-two, subsection (a) of section six thousand forty-four or subsection (a) of section six thousand forty-nine of the internal revenue code, respectively, and the payee fails to include any portion of such payment in New York adjusted gross income, any portion of an underpayment attributable to such failure shall be treated, for purposes of this subsection, as due to negligence in the absence of clear and convincing evidence to the contrary. If any penalty is imposed under this subsection by reason of the preceding sentence, the amount of the penalty imposed by paragraph one of this subsection shall be five percent of the portion of the underpayment which is attributable to the failure described in the preceding sentence.

(c) Failure by individual to pay estimated income tax.--

(1) Addition to the tax.--Except as otherwise provided in this subsection and subsection (d) of this section, in the case of any underpayment of estimated tax by an individual, there shall be added to the tax under this article for the taxable year an amount determined by applying the underpayment rate established under subsection (j) of section six hundred ninety-seven of this part, or if no rate is set, at the rate of seven and one-half percent per annum, to the amount of the underpayment for the period of the underpayment. Such period shall run from the due date for the required installment to the earlier of the fifteenth day of the fourth month following the close of the taxable year or, with respect to any portion of the underpayment, the date on which such portion is paid. For purposes of determining such date, a payment of estimated tax shall be credited against unpaid required installments in the order in which such installments are required to be paid. There shall be four required installments for each taxable year, due on April fifteenth, June fifteenth and September fifteenth of such taxable year and on January fifteenth of the following taxable year.

(2) Amount of underpayment.--For purposes of paragraph one, the amount of the underpayment shall be the excess of the required installment over the amount, if any, of the installment paid on or before the due date for the installment.

(3) Required installment. (A) Except as provided in paragraph four of this subsection, the amount of any required installment shall be twenty-five percent of the required annual payment.

(B) The required annual payment is the lesser of

(i) ninety percent of the tax shown on the return for the taxable year (or, if no return is filed, ninety percent of the tax for such year), or

(ii) one hundred percent of the tax shown on the return of the individual for the preceding taxable year. Provided, however, the tax shown on such return for taxable years beginning in two thousand two shall be the tax calculated as if such years began in two thousand three. Provided further, however, that the tax shown on such return for taxable years beginning in two thousand eight shall be calculated as if paragraph three of subsection (f) of section six hundred fifteen of this article has been in effect for taxable years beginning in two thousand eight. Further provided that the tax shown on such return for taxable years beginning in two thousand eight shall be the tax calculated as if such years began in two thousand nine. Provided, however, that the tax shown on such return for taxable years beginning in two thousand nine shall be calculated as if paragraph two of subsection (g) of section six hundred fifteen of this article was in effect for taxable years beginning in two thousand nine and ending before two thousand thirteen.

Clause (ii) of this subparagraph shall not apply if the preceding taxable year was not a taxable year of twelve months or if the individual did not file a return for such preceding taxable year.

(C) Limitation on use of preceding year's tax.

(i) General. If the New York adjusted gross income shown on the return of the individual for the preceding taxable year exceeds one hundred fifty thousand dollars, clause (ii) of subparagraph (B) of this paragraph shall be applied by substituting "one hundred ten percent" for "one hundred percent".

(ii) Separate returns. In the case of a husband and wife who file separate returns pursuant to subsection (b) of section six hundred fifty-one for the taxable year for which the amount of the installment is being determined, clause (i) of this subparagraph shall be applied by substituting "seventy-five thousand dollars" for "one hundred fifty thousand dollars".

(4) Annualized income installment.--(A) In general.--In the case of any required installment, if the individual establishes that the annualized income installment determined under subparagraph (B) of this paragraph is less than the amount determined under paragraph three, the annualized income installment shall be the required installment. Any reduction in a required installment resulting from the application of this subparagraph shall be recaptured by increasing the amount of the next required installment determined under paragraph three by the amount of such reduction, and by increasing successive required installments as necessary to effect full recapture.

(B) Determination of annualized income installment.--In the case of any required installment, the annualized income installment is the excess, if any, of an amount equal to the applicable percentage of the tax for the taxable year computed by placing on an annualized basis the taxable income for months in the taxable year ending before the due date for the installment, over the aggregate amount of any prior required installments for the taxable year. The applicable percentage of the tax shall be twenty-two and one-half percent in the case of the first installment, forty-five percent in the case of the second installment, sixty-seven and one-half percent in the case of the third installment and ninety percent in the case of the fourth installment, and shall be computed without regard to any increase in the rates applicable to the taxable year unless such increase was enacted at least thirty days prior to the due date of the installment.

(5) Definitions and special rules.--(A) Definition of the term tax and application of credits against tax.--For purposes of this subsection and subsection (d), the term "tax" means the tax imposed under this article minus the credits against tax allowed under this article, other than the credit under section six hundred seventy-three, relating to tax withheld on wages. The credit allowed under section six hundred seventy-three for the taxable year shall be deemed a payment of estimated tax, and an equal part of such amount shall be deemed paid on each installment due date for such taxable year, unless the taxpayer establishes the dates on which all amounts were actually withheld, in which case the amounts so withheld shall be deemed payments of estimated tax on the dates on which such amounts were actually withheld.

(B) Special rule where return filed on or before January thirty-first.--If, on or before January thirty-first of the following taxable year, the taxpayer files a return for the taxable year and pays in full the amount computed on the return as payable, then no addition to tax shall be imposed under paragraph one with respect to any underpayment of the fourth required installment for the taxable year.

(C) Special rules for farmers and fishermen.--For purposes of this subsection, if an individual is a farmer or fisherman for any taxable year there shall be only one required installment for the taxable year, due on January fifteenth of the following taxable year in an amount equal to the required annual payment determined under paragraph three by substituting sixty-six and two-thirds percent for ninety percent and without regard to subparagraph (C) of paragraph three of this subsection. Subparagraph (B) of this paragraph shall be applied by substituting March first for January thirty-first and by treating the required installment under this subparagraph as the fourth required installment. An individual is a farmer or fisherman for any taxable year if the individual's federal gross income from farming or fishing (including oyster farming) for the taxable year is at least two-thirds of the total federal gross income from all sources for the taxable year or if such individual's federal gross income from farming or fishing (including oyster farming) shown on the return of the individual for the preceding taxable year is at least two-thirds of the total federal gross income from all sources shown on such return.

(D) Fiscal years.--In applying this subsection to a taxable year beginning on any date other than January first, there shall be substituted, for the months specified in this subsection, the months which correspond thereto.

(E) Short taxable year.--This subsection shall be applied to taxable years of less than twelve months in accordance with regulations prescribed by the tax commission.

(F) Joint estimated tax of husband and wife.--A husband and wife may make the required annual payment determined under paragraph three as if they were one taxpayer, in which case the liability under paragraph one with respect to the estimated tax shall be joint and several. No such joint payment may be made if husband and wife are separated under a decree of divorce or separate maintenance, or if they have different taxable years. If a joint payment is made but husband and wife determine their taxes under this article separately, the estimated tax for such year may be treated as the estimated tax of either husband or wife, or may be divided between them, as they may elect.

(6) Trusts and certain estates. (A) General. This subsection shall apply to any trust or estate except as provided in subparagraphs (B) and (C) of this paragraph.

(B) Exception for estates and certain trusts. This subsection shall not apply with respect to any taxable year ending before the date two years after the date of the decedent's death to (i) the estate of such decedent or (ii) any trust all of which was treated (under subpart E of part I of subchapter J of chapter one of the internal revenue code) as owned by the decedent and to which the residue of the decedent's estate will pass under his will (or, if no will is admitted to probate, which is the trust primarily responsible for paying debts, taxes and expenses of administration).

(C) Special rule for annualizations. In the case of any estate or trust, subparagraph (B) of paragraph four of this subsection shall be applied by substituting "ending before the date one month before the due date for the installment" for "ending before the due date for the installment".

(D) In the case of a trust, the trustee may elect to treat any portion of a payment of estimated tax made by such trust for any taxable year of the trust as a payment made by a beneficiary of such trust. Any amount so treated shall be treated as paid or credited to the beneficiary on the last day of such taxable year, and for purposes of this subsection, the amount so treated shall not be treated as a payment of estimated tax made by the trust, but shall be treated as a payment of estimated tax made by such beneficiary on the January fifteenth following the end of the trust's taxable year.

(E) An election under subparagraph (D) of this paragraph shall be made on or before the sixty-fifth day after the close of the taxable year and in such manner as the commissioner of taxation and finance may prescribe.

(F) Extension to last year of estate.--In the case of a taxable year reasonably expected to be the last taxable year of an estate, any reference in subparagraph (D) of this paragraph to a trust shall be treated as including a reference to an estate, and the fiduciary of the estate shall be treated as the trustee.

(d) Exceptions to addition to tax for failure to pay estimated income

(1) Where tax is small amount.--No addition to tax shall be imposed under subsection (c) for any taxable year if the tax shown on the return for such taxable year (or, if no return is filed, the tax), reduced by the credit allowable under section six hundred seventy-three, is less than three hundred dollars.

(2) Where no tax liability for preceding taxable year.--No addition to tax shall be imposed under subsection (c) for any taxable year if the preceding taxable year was a taxable year of twelve months, the individual did not have any liability for tax under this article for the preceding taxable year and throughout the preceding taxable year the individual was a resident of this state or a nonresident or part-year resident who had New York source income.

(3) Installment due on or after individual's death.--No addition to tax shall be imposed under subsection (c) with respect to any installment due on or after the individual's death.

(4) Waiver in certain cases.--(A) In general.--No addition to tax shall be imposed under subsection (c) with respect to any underpayment to the extent the tax commission determines that by reason of casualty, disaster or other unusual circumstances the imposition of such addition to tax would be against equity and good conscience.

(B) Newly retired or disabled individuals.--No addition to tax shall be imposed under subsection (c) with respect to any underpayment if the tax commission determines that in the taxable year for which estimated payments were required to be made or in the taxable year preceding such taxable year the taxpayer retired after having attained age sixty-two or became disabled, and that such underpayment was due to reasonable cause and not to willful neglect.

(e) Deficiency due to fraud.--(1) If any part of a deficiency is due to fraud, there shall be added to the tax an amount equal to two times the deficiency.

(2) The addition to tax under this subsection shall be in lieu of any other addition to tax imposed by subsection (a) or (b).

(3) In the case of a joint return under section six hundred fifty-one, this subsection shall not apply with respect to the tax of a spouse unless some part of the underpayment is due to the fraud of such spouse.

(f) Non-willful failure to pay withholding tax.-- If any employer, without intent to evade or defeat any tax imposed by this article or the payment thereof, shall fail to make a return and pay a tax withheld by him at the time required by or under the provisions of section six hundred seventy-four, such employer shall be liable for such tax and shall pay the same together with interest thereon and the addition to tax provided in subsection (a), and such interest and addition to tax shall not be charged to or collected from the employee by the employer. The tax commission shall have the same rights and powers for the collection of such tax, interest and addition to tax against such employer as are now prescribed by this article for the collection of tax against an individual taxpayer.

(g) Willful failure to collect and pay over tax.-- Any person required to collect, truthfully account for, and pay over the tax imposed by this article who willfully fails to collect such tax or truthfully account for and pay over such tax or willfully attempts in any manner to evade or defeat the tax or the payment thereof, shall, in addition to other penalties provided by law, be liable to a penalty equal to the sum of (i) the total amount of the tax evaded, or not collected, or not accounted for and paid over, and (ii) the interest that has accrued on the total amount of tax evaded on the date this penalty is first imposed until this penalty is paid with interest thereon. No addition to tax under subsections (b) or (e) of this section shall be imposed for any offense to which this subsection applies. The tax commission shall have the power, in its discretion, to waive, reduce or compromise any penalty under this subsection.

(h) Failure to file certain information returns.-- (1) Except as otherwise provided in this paragraph, in case of each failure to file a statement of a payment to another person, required under authority of subsection (d) of section six hundred fifty-eight (relating to information at source) on the date prescribed therefor (determined with regard to any extension of time for filing), unless it is shown that such failure is due to reasonable cause and not to willful neglect, there shall, upon notice and demand by the commissioner and in the same manner as tax, be paid by the person so failing to file the statement, a penalty of fifty dollars for each statement not so filed, but the total amount imposed on the delinquent person for all such failures during any calendar year shall not exceed ten thousand dollars.

(2) If any partnership, S corporation, or trust required to file a return or report under subsection (c) or subsection (f) of section six hundred fifty-eight or under section six hundred fifty-nine or six hundred fifty-nine-a of this article for any taxable year fails to file such return or report at the time prescribed therefor (determined with regard to any extension of time for filing), or files a return or report which fails to show the information required under such subsection (c) of section six hundred fifty-nine of this article, or files a return or report which fails to show the information required under subsection (d) of section six hundred fifty-nine-a of this article, unless it is shown that such failure is due to reasonable cause and not due to willful neglect, there shall, upon notice and demand by the commissioner and in the same manner as tax, be paid by the partnership or S corporation a penalty for each month (or fraction thereof) during which such failure continues (but not to exceed five months). The amount of such penalty for any month is the product of fifty dollars, multiplied by the number of partners in the partnership or shareholders in the S corporation during any part of the taxable year who were subject to tax under this article during any part of such taxable year, except that, in the case of a trust, the penalty shall be equal to one hundred fifty dollars a month up to a maximum of fifteen hundred dollars per taxable year.

(i) Additional penalty.--Any person who with fraudulent intent shall fail to pay, or to deduct or withhold and pay, any tax, or to make, render, sign or certify any return, or to supply any information within the time required by or under this article, shall be liable to penalty of not more than one thousand dollars, in addition to any other amounts required under this article, to be imposed, assessed and collected by the tax commission. The tax commission shall have the power, in its discretion, to waive, reduce or compromise any penalty under this subsection.

(j) Fraudulent statement or failure to furnish statement to employee.-- In addition to any criminal penalties provided by law, any person required under the provisions of section six hundred seventy-two to furnish a statement to an employee, who wilfully furnishes a false or fraudulent statement, or who wilfully fails to furnish a statement in the manner, at the time, and showing the information required under section six hundred seventy-two, or regulations prescribed thereunder, shall for each such failure be subject to a penalty under this article of fifty dollars.

(k) Failure to supply identifying numbers. -- If any person who is required by regulations prescribed under subsection (b) of section six hundred fifty-eight

(1) to include his identifying number in any return, statement, or other document;

(2) to furnish his identifying number to another person; or

(3) to include in any return, statement or other document made with respect to another person the identifying number of such other person, fails to comply with such requirement at the time prescribed by such regulations, such person shall, unless it is shown that such failure is due to reasonable cause and not due to willful neglect, pay a penalty of five dollars for each such failure described in paragraph one of this subsection and fifty dollars for each such failure described in paragraphs two and three of this subsection, except that the total amount imposed on such person for all such failures during any calendar year shall not exceed ten thousand dollars; except that for failure to include his own identification number in any return, statement or other document, such penalty shall not be imposed unless such person shall have failed to supply his identification number to the tax commission within thirty days after demand therefor.

(l) Additions treated as tax. -- The additions to tax and penalties provided by this section shall be paid upon notice and demand and shall be assessed, collected and paid in the same manner as taxes, and any reference in this article to income tax or tax imposed by this article, shall be deemed also to refer to the additions to tax and penalties provided by this section. For purposes of section six hundred eighty-one, this subsection shall not apply to --

(1) any addition to tax under subsection (a) except as to that portion attributable to a deficiency;

(2) any addition to tax under subsection (c);

(3) any penalty under subsection (h) and any additional penalty under subsection (i); and

(4) any penalties under subsections (j), (k), (q), (r), (s), (u), (v) and (w).

(m) Determination of deficiency. -- For purposes of subsections (b) and (e), the amount shown as the tax by the taxpayer upon his return shall be taken into account in determining the amount of the deficiency only if such return was filed on or before the last day prescribed for the filing of such return, determined with regard to any extension of time for such filing.

(n) Person defined. For purposes of subsections (g), (i), (o), (q) and (r), the term person includes an individual, corporation, partnership or limited liability company or an officer or employee of any corporation (including a dissolved corporation), or a member or employee of any partnership, or a member, manager or employee of a limited liability company, who as such officer, employee, manager or member is under a duty to perform the act in respect of which the violation occurs.

(o) Failure to make deposits of taxes. -- In case of failure by any person required by this article, or by regulations of the tax commission under this article, to deposit on the date prescribed therefor any amount of tax imposed by this article in a depository authorized pursuant to subsection (a) of section six hundred ninety-two of this article to receive such deposits, unless it is shown that such failure is due to reasonable cause and not due to willful neglect, there shall be imposed on such person a penalty of five per cent of the amount of the underpayment. For purposes of this subsection the term "underpayment" means the excess of the amount of the tax required to be so deposited over the amount, if any, thereof, deposited on or before the date prescribed therefor.

* (p) Substantial understatement of liability.-- (1) If there is a substantial understatement of income tax for any taxable year, there shall be added to the tax an amount equal to ten percent of the amount of any underpayment attributable to such understatement. For purposes of this subsection, there is a substantial understatement of income tax for any taxable year if the amount of the understatement for the taxable year exceeds the greater of ten percent of the tax required to be shown on the return for the taxable year, or two thousand dollars. For purposes of the preceding sentence, the term "understatement" means the excess of the amount of the tax required to be shown on the return for the taxable year, over the amount of tax imposed which is shown on the return reduced by any rebate (within the meaning of subsection (g) of section six hundred eighty-one). The excess under the preceding sentence shall be determined without regard to items to which subsection (p-1) of this section applies. The commissioner may waive all or any part of the addition to tax provided by this subsection on a showing by the taxpayer that there was reasonable cause for the understatement, or part thereof, and that the taxpayer acted in good faith.

(2) The amount of the understatement under paragraph (1) shall be reduced by that portion of the understatement which is attributable to (A) the tax treatment of any item by the taxpayer if there is or was substantial authority for such treatment, or (B) any item if the relevant facts affecting the item's tax treatment are adequately disclosed in the return or in a statement attached to the return.

(3)(A) Subparagraph (B) of paragraph two of this subsection shall not apply to any item attributable to a tax shelter.

(B) For purposes of this paragraph, the term "tax shelter" means

(i) a partnership or other entity,

(ii) any investment plan or arrangement, or

(iii) any other plan or arrangement, if a significant purpose of such partnership, entity, plan, or arrangement is the avoidance or evasion of tax.

* NB Effective until July 1, 2029

* (p) Substantial understatement of liability.--If there is a substantial understatement of income tax for any taxable year, there shall be added to the tax an amount equal to ten percent of the amount of any underpayment attributable to such understatement. For purposes of this subsection, there is a substantial understatement of income tax for any taxable year if the amount of the understatement for the taxable year exceeds the greater of ten percent of the tax required to be shown on the return for the taxable year, or two thousand dollars. For purposes of the preceding sentence, the term "understatement" means the excess of the amount of the tax required to be shown on the return for the taxable year, over the amount of tax imposed which is shown on the return reduced by any rebate (within the meaning of subsection (g) of section six hundred eighty-one). The amount of such understatement shall be reduced by that portion of the understatement which is attributable to the tax treatment of any item by the taxpayer if there is or was substantial authority for such treatment, or any item with respect to which the relevant facts affecting the item's tax treatment are adequately disclosed in the return or in a statement attached to the return. The tax commission may waive all or any part of the addition to tax provided by this subsection on a showing by the taxpayer that there was reasonable cause for the understatement, or part thereof, and that the taxpayer acted in good faith.

* NB Effective July 1, 2029

* (p-1) Reportable transaction understatement.-- (1) If a taxpayer has a reportable transaction understatement for any taxable year, there shall be added to the tax an amount equal to twenty percent of the amount of such understatement.

(2) For purposes of this section, the term "reportable transaction understatement" means the sum of:

(A) the product of--

(i) the amount of the increase (if any) in the applicable tax base which results from a difference between the proper tax treatment of an item to which this section applies and the taxpayer's treatment of such item (as shown on the taxpayer's return of tax), and

(ii) the highest rate of tax imposed by this article, and

(B) the amount of the decrease (if any) in the aggregate amount of credits determined under this article which results from a difference between the taxpayer's treatment of an item to which this section applies (as shown on the taxpayer's return of tax) and the proper tax treatment of such item.

For purposes of subparagraph (A) of this paragraph, any reduction of the excess of deductions allowed for the taxable year over gross income for such year, and any reduction in the amount of capital losses which would (without regard to section one thousand two hundred eleven of the internal revenue code) be allowed for such year, shall be treated as an increase in the applicable tax base.

(3) This subsection shall apply to any item which is attributable to--

(A) any listed transaction, and

(B) any reportable transaction (other than a listed transaction) if a significant purpose of such transaction is the avoidance or evasion of tax.

(4) Paragraph one of this subsection shall be applied by substituting "thirty percent" for "twenty percent" with respect to the portion of any reportable transaction understatement with respect to which the requirement of clause (i) of subparagraph (B) of paragraph ten of this subsection is not met.

(5) For purposes of this subsection, the terms "reportable transaction" and "listed transaction" have the meanings given to such terms by section twenty-five of this chapter, the term "reportable transaction" shall include a "New York reportable transaction" as defined in such section twenty-five, and the term "listed transaction" shall include any transaction designated as a tax avoidance transaction pursuant to such section twenty-five.

(6) In the case of an understatement (as defined in subsection (p) of this section):

(A) the amount of such understatement (determined without regard to this paragraph) shall be increased by the aggregate amount of reportable transaction understatements for purposes of determining whether such understatement is a substantial understatement under subsection (p) of this section, and (B) the addition to tax under subsection (p) of this section shall apply only to the excess of the amount of the substantial understatement (if any) after the application of this subparagraph over the aggregate amount of reportable transaction understatements.

(7) References to an understatement (or a deficiency) in subsection (e) of this section shall be treated as including references to a reportable transaction understatement.

(8) This subsection shall not apply to any portion of any understatement on which a penalty is imposed under subsection (e) of this section.

(9) Except as provided in regulations prescribed by the commissioner, in no event shall any tax treatment included with an amendment or supplement to a return of tax be taken into account in determining the amount of any reportable transaction understatement if the amendment or supplement is filed after the earlier of the date the taxpayer is first contacted by the commissioner regarding the examination of the return or such other date as is specified by the commissioner.

(10)(A) No penalty shall be imposed under this subsection with respect to any portion of a reportable transaction understatement if it is shown that there was a reasonable cause for such portion and that the taxpayer acted in good faith with respect to such portion.

(B) Subparagraph (A) of this paragraph shall not apply to any reportable transaction understatement unless

(i) the relevant facts affecting the tax treatment of the item are adequately disclosed in accordance with section twenty-five of this chapter,

(ii) there is or was substantial authority for such treatment, and

(iii) the taxpayer reasonably believed that such treatment was more likely than not the proper treatment.

A taxpayer failing to adequately disclose in accordance with section twenty-five of this chapter shall be treated as meeting the requirements of clause (i) of this subparagraph if the penalty for such failure was rescinded under subsection (x) of this section.

(11)(A) A taxpayer shall be treated as having a reasonable belief with respect to the tax treatment of an item only if such belief

(i) is based on the facts and law that exist at the time the return which includes such tax treatment is filed, and

(ii) relates solely to the taxpayer's chances of success on the merits of such treatment and does not take into account the possibility that a return will not be audited, such treatment will not be raised on audit, or such treatment will be resolved through settlement if it is raised.

(B)(i) An opinion of a tax advisor may not be relied upon to establish the reasonable belief of a taxpayer if

(I) the tax advisor is described in clause (ii) of this subparagraph, or

(II) the opinion is described in clause (iii) of this subparagraph.

(ii) A tax advisor is described in this clause if the tax advisor

(I) is a material advisor (within the meaning of section six thousand one hundred eleven of the internal revenue code or within such meaning as it also applies to a New York reportable transaction as defined in section twenty-five of this chapter) and participates in the organization, management, promotion, or sale of the transaction or is related (within the meaning of subsection (b) of section two hundred sixty-seven of the internal revenue code or subsection (b) of section seven hundred seven of the internal revenue code) to any person who so participates,

(II) is compensated directly or indirectly by a material advisor with respect to the transaction,

(III) has a fee arrangement with respect to the transaction which is contingent on all or part of the intended tax benefits from the transaction being sustained, or

(IV) has a disqualifying financial interest with respect to the transaction.

(iii) For purposes of clause (i) of this subparagraph, an opinion is disqualified if the opinion

(I) is based on unreasonable factual or legal assumptions (including assumptions as to future events),

(II) unreasonably relies on representations, statements, findings, or agreements of the taxpayer or any other person,

(III) does not identify and consider all relevant facts, or

(IV) fails to meet any other requirement as the commissioner may prescribe.

* NB Repealed July 1, 2029

(p-2) No penalty will be imposed pursuant to subsection (c) or (p) of this section for a taxable year beginning on or after January first, two thousand eight and before January first, two thousand nine resulting from the denial of an empire zone tax credit claimed by the taxpayer because an empire zone retention certificate was not issued pursuant to subdivision (w) of section nine hundred fifty-nine of the general municipal law to the empire zone enterprise which is the basis for the tax credit or credits claimed on the return.

(q) Frivolous tax returns and specified frivolous submissions.-- (1) If any individual files what purports to be a return of any tax imposed by this article but which does not contain information on which the substantial correctness of the self-assessment may be judged, or contains information that on its face indicates that the self-assessment is substantially incorrect; and such conduct is due to a position which is frivolous, including a position identified as frivolous under paragraph three of this subsection, or an intent to delay or impede the administration of this article, then such individual shall pay a penalty not exceeding five thousand dollars. This penalty shall be in addition to any other penalty provided by law.

(2) Penalty for specified frivolous submissions. (A) Any person who submits a specified frivolous submission shall pay a penalty of five thousand dollars. This penalty shall be in addition to any other penalty provided by law.

(B) The term "specified frivolous submission" means a specified submission if any portion of that submission (i) is based on a position that the commissioner has identified as frivolous under paragraph three of this subdivision, or (ii) reflects a desire to delay or impede the administration of this chapter.

(C) The term "specified submission" means a request for conciliation conference, a petition to the division of tax appeals, an application for an installment payment agreement, or an offer in compromise.

(D) If the commissioner provides an individual with notice that a submission is a specified frivolous submission and that person withdraws the submission within thirty days after such notice, the penalty imposed under this paragraph will not apply with respect to that submission.

(3) Listing of frivolous positions. The commissioner will prescribe (and periodically revise) a list of positions that the commissioner has identified as frivolous for purposes of this subsection.

(4) Reduction of penalty. The commissioner may reduce the amount of any penalty imposed under this section if the commissioner determines that such a reduction would promote compliance with and administration of this chapter.

(r) Aiding or assisting in the giving of fraudulent returns, reports, statements or other documents.--(1) Any person who, with the intent that tax be evaded, shall, for a fee or other compensation or as an incident to the performance of other services for which such person receives compensation, aid or assist in, or procure, counsel, or advise the preparation or presentation under, or in connection with any matter arising under this article of any return, report, declaration, statement or other document which is fraudulent or false as to any material matter, or supply any false or fraudulent information, whether or not such falsity or fraud is with the knowledge or consent of the person authorized or required to present such return, report, declaration, statement or other document shall pay a penalty not exceeding five thousand dollars.

(2) For purposes of paragraph one of this subsection, the term "procures" includes ordering (or otherwise causing) a subordinate to do an act, and knowing of, and not attempting to prevent, participation by a subordinate in an act. The term "subordinate" means any other person

(whether or not a director, officer, employee, or agent of the taxpayer involved) over whose activities the person has direction, supervision, or control.

(3) For purposes of paragraph one of this subsection, a person furnishing typing, reproducing, or other mechanical assistance with respect to a document shall not be treated as having aided or assisted in the preparation of such document by reason of such assistance.

(4) The penalty imposed by this subsection shall be in addition to any other penalty provided by law.

(s) False information with respect to withholding.--In addition to any criminal penalty provided by law, if any individual makes a statement under section six hundred seventy-one which results in a decrease in the amounts deducted and withheld under part five of this article, and as of the time such statement was made, there was no reasonable basis for such statement, such individual shall pay a penalty of five hundred dollars for such statement. The tax commission shall waive the penalty imposed under this subsection if the taxes imposed with respect to the individual under this article for the taxable year are equal to or less than the sum of the credits against such taxes allowed by this article, and the payments of estimated tax which are considered payments on account of such taxes.

(t) Unwarranted reduction in utility costs in an empire zone. If during a taxable year a taxpayer has received a reduction in the rate charged for gas, electric, steam or water sold, or gas, electric, steam or water service rendered, pursuant to subdivision eight of section one hundred eighty-six-a of this chapter, based upon a certification as to the claiming of a credit under subsection (k) of section six hundred six of this article, and it is finally determined that such taxpayer is not entitled to such credit in any part, such taxpayer shall be liable to a penalty in an amount equal to such reduction in cost, with interest from the last day of such year, at the rate applicable to underpayments of tax pursuant to this article. The tax commission shall have the power, in its discretion, to waive, reduce or compromise such penalty.

(u) Failure of tax return preparer to conform to certain requirements.--(1) Failure to sign return or claim for refund. If a tax return preparer who is required pursuant to paragraph one of subsection (g) of section six hundred fifty-eight of this article to sign a return or claim for refund fails to comply with such requirement with respect to such return or claim for refund, the tax return preparer shall be subject to a penalty of two hundred fifty dollars for each such failure to sign, unless it is shown that such failure is due to reasonable cause and not due to willful neglect. The maximum penalty imposed under this paragraph on any tax return preparer with respect to returns filed during any calendar year by the tax return preparer must not exceed ten thousand dollars. Provided, however, that if a tax return preparer has been penalized under this paragraph for a preceding calendar year and again fails to sign his or her name on any return that requires the tax return preparer's signature during a subsequent calendar year, then the penalty under this paragraph for each failure will be five hundred dollars, and no annual cap will apply. This paragraph shall not apply if the penalty under paragraph three of subsection (g) of section thirty-two of this chapter is imposed on the tax return preparer with respect to such return or claim for refund.

(2) Failure to furnish identifying number. If a tax return preparer fails to include any identifying number required to be included on any return or claim for refund pursuant to paragraph two of subsection (g) of section six hundred fifty-eight of this article, the tax return preparer shall be subject to a penalty of one hundred dollars for each such failure, unless it is shown that such failure is due to reasonable cause and not willful neglect. The maximum penalty imposed under this paragraph on any tax return preparer with respect to returns filed during any calendar year must not exceed two thousand five hundred dollars; provided, however, that if a tax return preparer has been penalized under this paragraph for a preceding calendar year and again fails to include the identifying number on one or more returns during a subsequent calendar year, then the penalty under this paragraph for each failure will be two hundred fifty dollars, and no annual cap will apply. this paragraph shall not apply if the penalty under paragraph four of subsection (g) of section thirty-two of this chapter is imposed on the tax return preparer with respect to such return or claim for refund.

(3) Failure to furnish copy to taxpayer. Any person who is a tax return preparer with respect to any return or claim for refund, who is required under paragraph three of subsection (g) of section six hundred fifty-eight of this article to furnish a copy of such return or claim for refund to the taxpayer, and who fails to comply with such provision with respect to such return or claim for refund, shall be subject to a penalty of fifty dollars for each such failure, unless it is shown that such failure is due to reasonable cause and not due to willful neglect. The maximum penalty imposed under this paragraph on any person with respect to returns or claims for refund filed during any calendar year shall not exceed twenty-five thousand dollars.

(4) Failure to retain copy or list. Any person who is a tax return preparer with respect to any return or claim for refund, who is required under paragraph four of subsection (g) of section six hundred fifty-eight of this article to: (i) retain a copy of such return or claim for refund or retain on a list the name and taxpayer identifying number of the taxpayer for whom such return or claim for refund was prepared and (ii) make such copy or list available for inspection upon request by the commissioner, and who fails to comply with the retention requirement or who complies with the retention requirement but fails to comply with such request by the commissioner, shall be subject to a penalty of fifty dollars for each such failure, unless it is shown that such failure is due to reasonable cause and not due to willful neglect. The maximum penalty imposed under this paragraph on any person with respect to any calendar year shall not exceed twenty-five thousand dollars.

* (5) Failure to electronically file. If a tax return preparer is required to file returns electronically pursuant to paragraph ten of subsection (g) of section six hundred fifty-eight of this article, and such preparer fails to file one or more of such returns electronically, then such preparer shall be subject to a penalty of fifty dollars for each such failure to electronically file a return, unless it is shown that such failure is due to reasonable cause and not due to willful neglect.

* NB Effective January 1, 2030

(6) For purposes of this subsection, the term "tax return preparer" shall have the same meaning as defined in paragraph five of subsection (g) of section six hundred fifty-eight of this article.

(v) Failure to perform certain acts with respect to the quarterly combined withholding, wage reporting and unemployment insurance return.

(1) Failure to file. (A) Delinquency. (i) General. If an employer fails to file a quarterly combined withholding, wage reporting and unemployment insurance return, or any portion thereof, as required by paragraph four of subsection (a) of section six hundred seventy-four of this article, then such employer shall, unless it is shown that such failure is due to reasonable cause and not due to willful neglect, pay a penalty equal to the greater of one thousand dollars or the product of fifty dollars multiplied by the number of employees shown on the last quarterly combined withholding, wage reporting and unemployment insurance return filed by such employer, or if no such return has been filed, the number of employees may be estimated by the commissioner from any information in the commissioner's possession. The total amount of the penalty imposed by this clause on an employer for any such failure shall not exceed ten thousand dollars.

(ii) Coordination of delinquency penalty with other additions to tax and penalties for failure to file. Except as otherwise provided in subparagraph (C) of this paragraph, an employer failing to file the quarterly combined withholding, wage reporting and unemployment insurance return, or any portion thereof, shall only be liable for the penalty prescribed by this subparagraph; such employer shall not be liable for the addition to tax prescribed by paragraph one of subsection (a) of this section or for the penalty prescribed by paragraph (b) of subdivision two of section five hundred eighty-one of the labor law.

(B) Late filing. (i) Within thirty days of notice. If an employer fails to file a quarterly combined withholding, wage reporting and unemployment insurance return, or any portion thereof, by the due date prescribed by paragraph four of subsection (a) of section six hundred seventy-four of this article, but files such return or any such portion thereof within thirty days after the date the department sends notice of such failure to such employer by certified mail, then the penalty prescribed by subparagraph (A) of this paragraph shall be abated. In addition, such employer shall not be liable for the addition to tax prescribed by paragraph one of subsection (a) of this section and the penalty prescribed by paragraph (b) of subdivision two of section five hundred eighty-one of the labor law. Provided, however, such employer shall remain liable for the other additions to tax prescribed by subsection (a) of this section, if applicable. Provided, further, that where such employer fails to file such return or any such portion thereof by the due date prescribed by paragraph four of subsection (a) of section six hundred seventy-four of this article but is not liable for the penalty prescribed by subparagraph (A) of this paragraph for such failure because such employer complied with the provisions of this clause or clause (iii) of this subparagraph, and where within four successive calendar quarters of such initial failure to file by the prescribed due date, such employer again fails to file such return or portion thereof by such due date, then the provisions of this clause relating to abatement and non-imposition of other additions to tax and penalties for failure to file shall not apply to any such failure within such four successive calendar quarters. In such a case, if such employer files such return or portion thereof within thirty days after the date the department sends notice of such second failure by certified mail, such employer shall be liable for a penalty equal to the lesser of the product of fifty dollars multiplied by the number of employees actually shown on such employer's late filed quarterly combined withholding, wage reporting and unemployment insurance return, but not less than one thousand dollars nor more than ten thousand dollars, or the sum of the addition to tax prescribed by paragraph one of subsection (a) of this section and the penalty prescribed by paragraph (b) of subdivision two of section five hundred eighty-one of the labor law.

(ii) After thirty days of notice. If an employer fails to file a quarterly combined withholding, wage reporting and unemployment insurance return, or any portion thereof, by the due date prescribed by paragraph four of subsection (a) of section six hundred seventy-four of this article, but files such return or any such portion thereof more than thirty days after the date the department sends notice of such failure to file to such employer by certified mail, then such employer shall be liable for a penalty equal to the greater of the product of fifty dollars multiplied by the number of employees actually shown on such employer's late filed quarterly combined withholding, wage reporting and unemployment insurance return, but not less than one thousand dollars nor more than ten thousand dollars, or the sum of the addition to tax prescribed by paragraph one of subsection (a) of this section and the penalty prescribed by paragraph (b) of subdivision two of section five hundred eighty-one of the labor law.

(iii) Late filing prior to notice. If an employer fails to file a quarterly combined withholding, wage reporting and unemployment insurance return, or portion thereof, by the due date prescribed by paragraph four of subsection (a) of section six hundred seventy-four of this article but files such return or any such portion thereof before the department sends notice of such failure to file by certified mail, then the penalty prescribed by subparagraph (A) of this paragraph shall not be imposed. In addition, such employer shall not be liable for the addition to tax prescribed by paragraph one of subsection (a) of this section and the penalty prescribed by paragraph (b) of subdivision two of section five hundred eighty-one of the labor law. Provided, however, such employer shall remain liable for the other additions to tax prescribed by subsection (a) of this section, if applicable. Provided, further, that where such employer fails to file such return or any such portion thereof by the due date prescribed by paragraph four of subsection (a) of section six hundred seventy-four of this article but is not liable for the penalty prescribed by subparagraph (A) of this paragraph for such failure because such employer complied with the provisions of this clause or clause (i) of this subparagraph, and where within four successive calendar quarters of such initial failure to file by the prescribed due date, such employer again fails to file such return or any such portion thereof by such due date, then the provisions of this clause relating to non-imposition of penalties and other additions to tax for failure to file shall not apply to any such failure within such four successive calendar quarters. In such a case, if such employer files such return or portion thereof before the department sends notice of such failure by certified mail, such employer shall be liable for a penalty equal to the lesser of the product of fifty dollars multiplied by the number of employees actually shown on such employer's late filed quarterly combined withholding, wage reporting and unemployment insurance return, but not less than one thousand dollars nor more than ten thousand dollars, or the sum of the addition to tax prescribed by paragraph one of subsection (a) of this section and the penalty prescribed by paragraph (b) of subdivision two of section five hundred eighty-one of the labor law.

(C) Audit following failure to file. If an employer fails to file a quarterly combined withholding, wage reporting and unemployment insurance return and an audit is subsequently commenced with respect to such employer by the department, the department of labor or both, such employer shall, in addition to the penalty prescribed by subparagraph (A) of this paragraph, be liable for the addition to tax prescribed by paragraph one of subsection (a) of this section, the penalty prescribed by paragraph (b) of subdivision two of section five hundred eighty-one of the labor law, or both, as applicable.

(D) Protests and collection. The department of labor shall adjudicate all disputes regarding the imposition of the penalty prescribed by this paragraph (whether alone or in conjunction with the addition to tax prescribed by paragraph one of subsection (a) of this section and the penalty prescribed by paragraph (b) of subdivision two of section five hundred eighty-one of the labor law), in accordance with the provisions contained in article eighteen of the labor law; provided, however, that the department shall adjudicate disputes in accordance with the procedures prescribed by this chapter where (i) an employer only fails to file the portion of a quarterly combined withholding, wage reporting and unemployment insurance return relating to withholding reconciliation information, (ii) the penalty prescribed by clause (iii) of subparagraph (B) of this paragraph is imposed, or (iii) the department conducts an audit described in subparagraph (C) of this paragraph with respect to withholding tax liability. Once the penalty prescribed by this paragraph is finally determined and no longer subject to administrative or judicial review, the amount thereof shall be deemed to be an obligation owed jointly to the department and the department of labor, and either of such departments may collect such amount in accordance with the procedures prescribed by this chapter or the labor law, as applicable. Any penalty amount so collected shall, if necessary, be allocated as between the withholding tax program and the unemployment insurance program, and shall be deposited and disposed of by the respective department in accordance with applicable law.

(3) Failure to provide complete and correct employee withholding reconciliation information. In the case of a failure by an employer to provide complete and correct quarterly withholding information relating to individual employees on a quarterly combined withholding, wage reporting and unemployment insurance return covering each calendar quarter of a year, such employer shall, unless it is shown that such failure is due to reasonable cause and not due to willful neglect, pay a penalty equal to the product of one hundred dollars multiplied by the number of employees for whom such information is incomplete or incorrect; provided, however, that if the number of such employees cannot be determined from the quarterly combined withholding, wage reporting and unemployment insurance return, the commissioner may utilize any information in the commissioner's possession in making such determination. The total amount of the penalty imposed pursuant to this paragraph on an employer for any such failure for each calendar quarter of a year shall not exceed twenty thousand dollars.

(4) Failure to provide complete and correct quarterly withholding information not relating to individual employees. In the case of a failure by an employer to provide complete and correct quarterly withholding information not relating to individual employees on a quarterly combined withholding, wage reporting and unemployment insurance return, such employer shall, unless it is shown that such failure is due to reasonable cause and not due to willful neglect, pay a penalty equal to five percent of the quarterly withholding tax liability required to be shown by such employer for the quarter covered by such return, or if such liability required to be shown by such employer for the quarter cannot be ascertained, the commissioner may estimate such liability from any information in the commissioner's possession. If such employer provides complete and correct quarterly withholding information not relating to individual employees within thirty days after the department sends notice of such failure to the employer by certified mail, then such penalty shall be abated. No penalty under this paragraph shall be imposed if the department is able to properly verify and reconcile withholding and wage reporting information using the information furnished by the employer. The total amount of the penalty imposed pursuant to this paragraph on an employer for any such failure shall not exceed ten thousand dollars.

(5) Failure to file using prescribed format. In the case of a failure by an employer to file a quarterly combined withholding, wage reporting and unemployment insurance return using the format prescribed by the department pursuant to the authority of paragraph two of subsection (d) of section six hundred fifty-eight of this article and regulations promulgated thereunder, such employer shall, unless it is shown that such failure is due to reasonable cause and not due to willful neglect, pay a penalty equal to the product of fifty dollars multiplied by the number of employees required to be shown on such return. If such employer files such return using the prescribed format within thirty days after the department sends notice of such failure to the employer by certified mail, then such penalty shall be abated. The total amount of the penalty imposed pursuant to this paragraph on an employer for any such failure shall not exceed ten thousand dollars.

(6) Except as otherwise provided in this subsection, and except for the penalties prescribed by paragraph one of subsection (h) and subsection (k) of this section, the penalties prescribed by this subsection shall be in addition to any other penalty or addition to tax provided by law.

(w) Failure to file report regarding newly hired or re-hired employees. If any employer required to file a report pursuant to section one hundred seventy-one-h of this chapter fails to file such report at the time prescribed therefor, or files a report which fails to show the information required pursuant to such section one hundred seventy-one-h, unless it is shown that such failure is due to reasonable cause and not due to willful neglect, there shall, upon notice and demand by the commissioner and in the same manner as tax, be paid by the employer a penalty equal to the product of twenty dollars, multiplied by the number of employees the employer failed to report, but the total amount imposed on the employer for all such failures during any calendar year shall not exceed ten thousand dollars. If the failure is a result of a conspiracy between the employer and the employee to not supply the required report or to supply a false or incomplete report, the penalty shall be equal to the product of four hundred fifty dollars multiplied by the number of employees the employer failed to report.

* (x) Failure to disclose or provide reportable transaction information.-- (1) Any person who fails to file, disclose or provide any statement, return or other document which is required under subdivision (a) of section twenty-five of this chapter shall pay a penalty in the amount determined under paragraph two of this subsection.

(2)(A) Except as provided in subparagraph (B) of this paragraph, the amount of the penalty under paragraph one of this subsection shall be ten thousand dollars.

(B) The amount of the penalty under paragraph one of this subsection with respect to a listed transaction shall be twenty-five thousand dollars.

(3) For purposes of this subsection, the terms "reportable transaction" and "listed transaction" shall have the same meanings as used in section twenty-five of this chapter, and the term "reportable transaction" shall include a "New York reportable transaction" as defined in such section twenty-five, and the term "listed transaction" shall include any transaction designated as a tax avoidance transaction pursuant to such section twenty-five.

(4) The commissioner may rescind all or any portion of any penalty imposed by this subsection with respect to any violation if

(A) the violation is with respect to a reportable transaction other than a listed transaction, and

(B) rescinding the penalty would promote compliance with the requirements of this chapter and effective tax administration.

(5) The penalty imposed by this section shall be in addition to any other penalty imposed by this chapter.

* NB Repealed July 1, 2029

* (y) Failure to disclose or provide reportable transaction return.--

(1) Any person who fails to file, disclose or provide any statement, return or other document which is required under subdivision (b) of section twenty-five of this chapter shall pay a penalty in the amount determined under paragraph two of this subsection.

(2)(A) Except as provided in subparagraph (B) of this paragraph, the amount of the penalty under paragraph one of this subsection shall be twenty thousand dollars.

(B) The amount of the penalty under paragraph one of this subsection with respect to a listed transaction shall be the greater of

(i) fifty thousand dollars or,

(ii) fifty percent of the gross income that the organizer or material advisor derived with respect to activities that were the basis for the requirement to file, disclose or provide information pursuant to section six thousand eleven of the internal revenue code, to the extent such gross income is attributable to the avoidance of any tax imposed under this article.

(C) Clause (ii) of subparagraph (B) of this paragraph shall be applied by substituting "seventy-five percent" for "fifty percent" in the case of an intentional failure or act described in paragraph one of this subsection.

(3) For purposes of this subsection, the terms "reportable transaction" and "listed transaction" shall have the same meanings as used in section twenty-five of this chapter, the term "reportable transaction" shall include a "New York reportable transaction" as defined in such section twenty-five, and the term "listed transaction" shall include any transaction designated as a tax avoidance transaction pursuant to such section twenty-five.

(4) The commissioner may rescind all or any portion of any penalty imposed by this subsection with respect to any violation if

(B) rescinding the penalty would promote compliance with the requirements of this chapter and effective tax administration.

(5) The penalty imposed by this subsection shall be in addition to any other penalty imposed by this chapter, except that no penalty shall be imposed under subparagraph (A) or clause (i) of subparagraph (B) of paragraph two of subsection (q) of section one thousand eighty-five of this chapter for the same failure that is the basis for a penalty under this subsection. Nothing in this paragraph shall preclude the imposition of a penalty under clause (ii) of subparagraph (B) of paragraph two of subsection (q) of section one thousand eighty-five of this chapter for the same failure that is the basis for a penalty under clause (ii) of subparagraph (B) of paragraph two of this subsection.

(aa) Tax preparer penalty.-- (1) If a tax return preparer takes a position on any income tax return or credit claim form that either understates the tax liability or increases the claim for a refund, and the preparer knew, or reasonably should have known, that said position was not proper, and such position was not adequately disclosed on the return or in a statement attached to the return, such income tax preparer shall pay a penalty of between one hundred and one thousand dollars.

(2) If a tax return preparer takes a position on any income tax return or credit claim form that either understates the tax liability or increases the claim for a refund and the understatement of the tax liability or the increased claim for refund is due to the preparer's reckless or intentional disregard of the law, rules or regulations, such preparer shall pay a penalty of between five hundred and five thousand dollars. The amount of the penalty payable by any person by reason of this paragraph shall be reduced by the amount of the penalty paid by such person by reason of paragraph one of this subsection.

(3) For purposes of this subsection, the term "understatement of tax liability" means any understatement of the net amount payable with respect to any tax imposed under this article or any overstatement of the net amount creditable or refundable with respect to any such tax.

(4) For purposes of this subsection, the term "tax return prepared" shall have the same meaning as defined in paragraph five of subsection (g) of section six hundred fifty-eight of this article.

(5) This subsection shall not apply if the penalty under subsection (r) of this section is imposed on the tax return preparer with respect to such understatement.

* (bb) Promoting abusive tax shelters.-- (1) Any person who

(A)(i) organizes (or assists in the organization of)

(I) a partnership or other entity,

(II) any investment plan or arrangement, or

(III) any other plan or arrangement, or

(ii) participates (directly or indirectly) in the sale of any interest in an entity or plan or arrangement referred to in clause (i) of this subparagraph, and

(B) makes or furnishes or causes another person to make or furnish (in connection with such organization or sale)

(i) a statement with respect to the allowability of any deduction or credit, the excludability of any income, or the securing of any other tax benefit by reason of holding an interest in the entity or participating in the plan or arrangement which the person knows or has reason to know is false or fraudulent as to any material matter, or

(ii) a gross valuation overstatement as to any material matter, and

(C) satisfies any of the following conditions

(i) the person is organized in this state,

(ii) the person is doing business in this state,

(iii) the person is deriving income in this state, or

(iv) the person conducts any of the activities described in subparagraph (A) or (B) of this paragraph within the state of New York, shall pay, with respect to each activity described in subparagraph (A) of this paragraph, a penalty equal to one thousand dollars or, if the person establishes that it is lesser, one hundred percent of the gross income derived (or to be derived) by such person from such activity to the extent such gross income is attributable to the avoidance of any tax imposed under this article; provided, however, that if an activity with respect to which a penalty imposed under this subsection involves a statement described in clause (i) of subparagraph (B) of paragraph one of this subsection, the penalty shall be equal to fifty percent of the gross income derived (or to be derived) from that activity within the state by the person on which the penalty is imposed. For purposes of the preceding sentence, activities described in clause (i) of subparagraph (A) of this paragraph with respect to each entity or arrangement shall be treated as a separate activity and participation in each sale described in clause (ii) of subparagraph (A) of this paragraph shall be so treated.

(2)(A) For purposes of this subsection, the term "gross valuation overstatement" means any statement as to the value of any property or services if

(i) the value so stated exceeds two hundred percent of the amount determined to be the correct valuation, and

(ii) the value of such property or services is directly related to the amount of any deduction or credit allowable under this chapter to any participant.

(B) The commissioner may waive all or any part of the penalty provided by paragraph one of this subsection with respect to any gross valuation overstatement on a showing that there was a reasonable basis for the valuation and that such valuation was made in good faith.

(3) The penalty imposed by this subsection shall be in addition to any other penalty provided by law.

* NB Repealed July 1, 2029

(cc) False or fraudulent document penalty. Any taxpayer that submits a false or fraudulent document to the department will be subject to a penalty of one hundred dollars per document submitted, or five hundred dollars per tax return submitted. This penalty will be in addition to any other penalty or addition provided by law.

(dd) Failure to supply all the information required or to provide correct information in secretary of state statements. Unless it is shown that such failure to provide the statement and information required by subdivision (e) of section three hundred one of the limited liability company law, subdivision (g) of section 121-1500 of the partnership law, and subdivision (f) of section 121-1502 of the partnership law is due to reasonable cause and not to willful neglect, there shall, upon notice and demand by the commissioner and in the same manner as tax, be paid by the entity failing to supply complete and correct information, a penalty of two hundred and fifty dollars per limited liability company, registered limited liability partnership or New York registered foreign limited liability partnership required to provide such information on its filing fee payment form.

§ 686. Overpayment.-- (a) General.-- The commissioner of taxation and finance, within the applicable period of limitations, may credit an overpayment of income tax and interest on such overpayment against any liability in respect of any tax imposed by this chapter, including taxes imposed under article twenty-three of this chapter, on the person who made the overpayment, against any liability in respect of any tax imposed pursuant to the authority of this chapter or any other law on such person if such tax is administered by the commissioner of taxation and finance and, as provided in sections one hundred seventy-one-c, one hundred seventy-one-d, one hundred seventy-one-e, one hundred seventy-one-f and one hundred seventy-one-l of this chapter, against past-due support, a past-due legally enforceable debt, a city of New York tax warrant judgment debt, and against the amount of a default in repayment of a guaranteed student, state university or city university loan. The balance shall be refunded by the comptroller out of the proceeds of the tax retained by him for such general purpose. Any refund under this section shall be made only upon the filing of a return and upon a certificate of the commissioner approved by the comptroller. The comptroller, as a condition precedent to the approval of such a certificate, may examine into the facts as disclosed by the return of the person who made the overpayment and other information and data available in the files of the commissioner.

(b) Excessive withholding.--If the amount allowable as a credit for tax withheld from the taxpayer exceeds his tax to which the credit relates, the excess shall be considered an overpayment.

(c) Overpayment by employer.--If there has been an overpayment of tax required to be deducted and withheld under section six hundred seventy-one, refund shall be made to the employer only to the extent that the amount of the overpayment was not deducted and withheld by the employer.

(d) Overpayment by a deceased person.--Notwithstanding section thirteen hundred ten of the surrogate's court procedure act, any overpayment by a decedent not in excess of one thousand dollars may be refunded to the decedent's surviving spouse unless the return for the decedent was filed by his or her executor or administrator.

(e) Credits against estimated tax.--The commissioner may prescribe regulations providing for the crediting against the estimated income tax for any taxable year of the amount determined to be an overpayment of the income tax for a preceding taxable year. If any overpayment of income tax is so claimed as a credit against estimated tax for the succeeding taxable year, such amount shall be considered as a payment of the income tax for the succeeding taxable year, and no claim for credit or refund of such overpayment shall be allowed for the taxable year for which the overpayment arises, except upon request to the commissioner on or before the last day prescribed for the filing of the return for the succeeding taxable year, determined with regard to any extension of time granted. If good cause is shown for reversing the credit, the commissioner may, in his or her discretion, credit the overpayment against a liability or refund the overpayment without interest. Provided, the person who made the overpayment will not be relieved of liability for any penalty imposed for a consequent underpayment of estimated tax for the succeeding taxable year. The decision of the commissioner to grant or deny the request is final and not subject to further administrative or judicial review.

(f) Rule where no tax liability.--If there is no tax liability for a period in respect of which an amount is paid as income tax, such amount shall be considered an overpayment.

(g) Assessment and collection after limitation period.--If any amount of income tax is assessed or collected after the expiration of the period of limitations properly applicable thereto, such amount shall be considered an overpayment.

(h) Cross reference. For provision barring application of article fifty-two of the civil practice law and rules to any amount to be refunded or credited to a taxpayer, see section seven of this chapter.

(i) Overpayment.--In case of an overpayment of tax required to be paid by an entity as an estimated tax under paragraph four of subsection (c) of section six hundred fifty-eight of this article, a refund shall be made to such entity only to the extent that such overpayment is attributable to a partner, member or shareholder for whom the entity is not required to pay such estimated tax.

§ 687. Limitations on credit or refund.-- (a) General.-- Claim for credit or refund of an overpayment of income tax shall be filed by the taxpayer within (i) three years from the time the return was filed, (ii) two years from the time the tax was paid, or (iii) in the case of any overpayment arising from an erroneous denial by the department of environmental conservation of a certification of completion pursuant to section 27-1419 of the environmental conservation law, two years from the time a final determination to the effect that such denial was erroneous is made and is no longer subject to judicial review, whichever of such periods expires the latest, or if no return was filed, within two years from the time the tax was paid. If the claim is filed within the three year period, the amount of the credit or refund shall not exceed the portion of the tax paid within the three years immediately preceding the filing of the claim plus the period of any extension of time for filing the return unless such claim is for a credit or a portion thereof provided pursuant to paragraph two or four of subsection (c), paragraph two or four of subsection (d) or subsection (e) of section six hundred six of this chapter. If the claim is not filed within the three year period, but is filed within the two year period, the amount of the credit or refund shall not exceed the portion of the tax paid during the two years immediately preceding the filing of the claim unless such claim is for a credit or a portion thereof provided pursuant to paragraph two or four of subsection (c), paragraph two or four of subsection (d) or subsection (e) of section six hundred six of this chapter. In the case of a claim for credit or refund filed within the period prescribed in paragraph (iii) of this subsection, the amount of the credit or refund may exceed the portion of the tax paid within the applicable period specified in the two immediately preceding sentences, but only to the extent of the amount of the overpayment attributable to the denial described in such paragraph. Except as otherwise provided in this section, if no claim is filed, the amount of a credit or refund shall not exceed the amount which would be allowable if a claim had been filed on the date the credit or refund is allowed.

(b) Extension of time by agreement.--If an agreement under the provisions of paragraph (2) of subsection (c) of section six hundred eighty-three (extending the period for assessment of income tax) is made within the period prescribed in subsection (a) for the filing of a claim for credit or refund, the period for filing a claim for credit or refund, or for making credit or refund if no claim is filed, shall not expire prior to six months after the expiration of the period within which an assessment may be made pursuant to the agreement or any extension thereof. The amount of such credit or refund shall not exceed the portion of the tax paid after the execution of the agreement and before the filing of the claim or the making of the credit or refund, as the case may be, plus the portion of the tax paid within the period which would be applicable under subsection (a) if a claim had been filed on the date the agreement was executed.

(c) Notice of federal change or correction.--A claim for credit or refund of any overpayment of tax attributable to a federal change or correction required to be reported pursuant to section six hundred fifty-nine or by a partner of a partnership required to report a federal change or correction pursuant to section six hundred fifty-nine-a shall be filed by the taxpayer within two years from the time the notice of such change or correction or such amended return was required to be filed with the commissioner of taxation and finance. If the report or amended return required by section six hundred fifty-nine or six hundred fifty-nine-a is not filed within the ninety day period therein specified, no interest shall be payable on any claim for credit or refund of the overpayment attributable to the federal change or correction. The amount of such credit or refund shall not exceed the amount of the reduction in tax attributable to such federal change, correction or items amended on the taxpayer's amended federal income tax return. This subsection shall not affect the time within which or the amount for which a claim for credit or refund may be filed apart from this subsection.

(d) Overpayment attributable to net operating loss carryback.--A claim for credit or refund of so much of an overpayment as is attributable to the application to the taxpayer of a net operating loss carryback shall be filed within three years from the time the return was due (including extensions thereof) for the taxable year of the loss, or within the period prescribed in subsection (b) in respect of such taxable year, or within the period prescribed in subsection (c), where applicable, in respect of the taxable year to which the net operating loss is carried back, whichever expires the latest.

(e) Failure to file claim within prescribed period.--No credit or refund shall be allowed or made, except as provided in subsection (f) of this section or subsection (d) of section six hundred ninety, after the expiration of the applicable period of limitation specified in this article, unless a claim for credit or refund is filed by the taxpayer within such period. Any later credit shall be void and any later refund erroneous. No period of limitations specified in any other law shall apply to the recovery by a taxpayer of moneys paid in respect of taxes under this article.

(f) Effect of petition to tax commission.--If a notice of deficiency for a taxable year has been mailed to the taxpayer under section six hundred eighty-one and if the taxpayer files a timely petition with the tax commission under section six hundred eighty-nine, it may determine that the taxpayer has made an overpayment for such year (whether or not it also determines a deficiency for such year). No separate claim for credit or refund for such year shall be filed, and no credit or refund for such year shall be allowed or made, except--

(1) as to overpayments determined by a decision of the tax commission which has become final; and

(2) as to any amount collected in excess of an amount computed in accordance with the decision of the tax commission which has become final; and

(3) as to any amount collected after the period of limitation upon the making of levy for collection has expired; and

(4) as to any amount claimed as a result of a change or correction described in subsection (c).

(g) Limit on amount of credit or refund.--The amount of overpayment determined under subsection (f) shall, when the decision of the tax commission has become final, be credited or refunded in accordance with subsection (a) of section six hundred eighty-six and shall not exceed the amount of tax which the tax commission determines as part of its decision was paid--

(1) after the mailing of the notice of deficiency, or

(2) within the period which would be applicable under subsections (a), (b) or (c), if on the date of the mailing of the notice of deficiency a claim had been filed (whether or not filed) stating the grounds upon which the tax commission finds that there is an overpayment.

(h) Early return.--For purposes of this section, any return filed before the last day prescribed for the filing thereof shall be considered as filed on such last day, determined without regard to any extension of time granted the taxpayer.

(i) Prepaid income tax.--For purposes of this section, any tax paid by the taxpayer before the last day prescribed for its payment, any income tax withheld from the taxpayer during any calendar year, and any amount paid by the taxpayer as estimated income tax for a taxable year shall be deemed to have been paid by him on the fifteenth day of the fourth month following the close of his taxable year with respect to which such amount constitutes a credit or payment.

(j) Return and payment of withholding tax.--Notwithstanding subsection (h), for purposes of this section with respect to any withholding tax--

(1) if a return for any period ending with or within a calendar year is filed before April fifteenth of the succeeding calendar year, such return shall be considered filed on April fifteenth of such succeeding calendar year; and

(2) if a tax with respect to remuneration paid during any period ending with or within a calendar year is paid before April fifteenth of the succeeding calendar year, such tax shall be considered paid on April fifteenth of such succeeding calendar year.

(k) Running of periods of limitation suspended while taxpayer is unable to manage financial affairs due to disability. -- (1) In the case of an individual taxpayer, the running of the periods specified in subsections (a), (b), and (c) of this section shall be suspended during any period of such individual's life that such individual is financially disabled. For purposes of this subsection, an individual taxpayer is an individual who is subject to any state or local personal income tax or surcharge administered by the commissioner.

(2) For purposes of paragraph one of this subsection, an individual taxpayer is financially disabled if such individual is unable to manage his or her financial affairs by reason of a medically determinable physical or mental impairment of that individual which can be expected to result in death or which has lasted or can be expected to last for a continuous period of not less than twelve months. An individual shall not be considered to have such an impairment unless proof of the existence thereof is furnished in such form and manner as the commissioner may require.

(3) An individual taxpayer shall not be treated as financially disabled during any period that such individual's spouse or any other person is authorized to act on behalf of such individual in financial matters.

§ 688. Interest on overpayment.--(a) General.--Notwithstanding the provisions of section sixteen of the state finance law, interest shall be allowed and paid as follows at the overpayment rate set by the commissioner pursuant to section six hundred ninety-seven, or if no rate is set, at the rate of six per cent per annum upon any overpayment in respect of the tax imposed by this article:

(1) from the date of the overpayment to the due date of an amount against which a credit is taken;

(2) from the date of the overpayment to a date (to be determined by the commissioner) preceding the date of a refund check by not more than thirty days, whether or not such refund check is accepted by the taxpayer after tender of such check to the taxpayer. The acceptance of such check shall be without prejudice to any right of the taxpayer to claim any additional overpayment and interest thereon.

(3) Late returns. Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph one or two of this subsection, in the case of a return of tax which is filed after the last date prescribed for filing such return (determined with regard to extensions), no interest shall be allowed or paid for any day before the date on which the return is filed.

(4) Interest on certain refunds. To the extent provided for in regulations promulgated by the commissioner of taxation and finance, if an item of income, gain, loss, deduction or credit is changed from the taxable year or period in which it is reported to the taxable year or period in which it belongs and the change results in an underpayment in a taxable year or period and an overpayment in some other taxable year or period, the provisions of paragraph three of this subsection with respect to an overpayment shall not be applicable to the extent that the limitation in such paragraph on the right to interest would result in a taxpayer not being allowed interest for a length of time with respect to an overpayment while being required to pay interest on an equivalent amount of the related underpayment. However, this paragraph shall not be construed as limiting or mitigating the effect of any statute of limitations or any other provision of law relating to the authority of such commissioner to issue a notice of deficiency or to allow a credit or refund on an overpayment.

(5) Amounts of less than five dollars. No interest shall be allowed or paid if the amount thereof is less than five dollars.

(b) Advance payment of tax, payment of estimated tax, and credit for income tax withholding.--The provisions of subsections (h) and (i) of section six hundred eighty-seven applicable in determining the date of payment of tax for purposes of determining the period of limitations on credit or refund, shall be applicable in determining the date of payment for purposes of this section.

(c) Income tax refund within forty-five days of claim for overpayment.--If any overpayment of tax imposed by this article is credited or refunded within forty-five days after the last date prescribed (or permitted by extension of time) for filing the return of such tax on which such overpayment was claimed or within forty-five days after such return was filed, whichever is later, or within six months after a demand is filed pursuant to paragraph six of subsection (b) of section six hundred fifty-one of this chapter, no interest shall be allowed under this section on any such overpayment. In regard to an amended return claiming such overpayment or a claim for credit or refund on which such overpayment was claimed, if such overpayment is refunded within forty-five days of filing such return or such claim, no interest shall be allowed from the date such return or such claim is filed until the day the refund is made. For purposes of this subsection, any amended return or claim for credit or refund filed before the last day prescribed (or permitted by extension of time) for the filing of the return of tax for such year shall be considered as filed on such last day.

(d) Refund of income tax caused by carryback.--For purposes of this section, if any overpayment of tax imposed by this article results from a carryback of a net operating loss, such overpayment shall be deemed not to have been made prior to the filing date for the taxable year in which such net operating loss arises. Such filing date shall be determined without regard to extensions of time to file. For purposes of subsection (c) of this section any overpayment described herein shall be treated as an overpayment for the loss year and such subsection shall be applied with respect to such overpayment by treating the return for the loss year as not filed before claim for such overpayment is filed. The term "loss year" means the taxable year in which such loss arises.

(e) No interest until return in processible form.

(1) For purposes of subsections (a) and (c) of this section, a return shall not be treated as filed until it is filed in processible form.

(2) For purposes of paragraph one of this subsection, a return is in a processible form if--

(A) such return is filed on a permitted form, and

(B) such return contains--

(i) the taxpayer's name, address, and identifying number and the required signatures, and

(ii) sufficient required information (whether on the return or on required attachments) to permit the mathematical verification of tax liability shown on the return.

(f) Overpayment credited against past-due support, or against a past-due legally enforceable debt, or a city of New York tax warrant judgment debt, or defaulted guaranteed student, state university or city university loans.--If interest is payable pursuant to this section on that portion of an overpayment of tax imposed by this article which is certified by the commissioner of taxation and finance to the comptroller as the amount to be credited against past-due support, or against a past-due legally enforceable debt, or a city of New York tax warrant judgment debt, or the amount of a default in repayment of a guaranteed student, state university or city university loan, as the case may be, pursuant to the provisions of section one hundred seventy-one-c, section one hundred seventy-one-d, section one hundred seventy-one-e, section one hundred seventy-one-f or section one hundred seventy-one-l of this chapter, such portion of such an overpayment shall cease to bear interest on the date of such certification.

(g) Cross-reference.--For provision with respect to interest after failure to file notice of federal change under section six hundred fifty-nine or six hundred fifty-nine-a, see subsection (c) of section six hundred eighty-seven.

(h) Notwithstanding any other provisions in this section, for taxable years beginning on or after January first, two thousand eight and before January first, two thousand nine, interest will be allowed on an overpayment on any return or report on which one or more empire zone tax credits are claimed, only from the one hundred eightieth day after the taxpayer files with the department an empire zone retention certificate issued pursuant to subdivision (w) of section nine hundred fifty-nine of the general municipal law to the empire zone enterprise which is the basis for the tax credit or credits claimed on the return or report.

§ 689. Petition to tax commission.--(a) General.--The form of a petition to the tax commission, and further proceedings before the tax commission in any case initiated by the filing of a petition, shall be governed by such rules as the tax commission shall prescribe. No petition shall be denied in whole or in part without opportunity for a hearing on reasonable prior notice. Such hearing shall be conducted by one or more members of the tax commission, or by a hearing officer designated by the tax commission to take evidence and report to the tax commission. The tax commissioners shall, acting as a body, jointly decide the case as quickly as practicable. Notice of the decision shall be mailed promptly to the taxpayer by certified or registered mail at his last known address, and such notice shall set forth the tax commission's findings of fact and a brief statement of the grounds of decision in each case decided in whole or in part adversely to the taxpayer.

(b) Petition for redetermination of a deficiency.--Within ninety days, or one hundred fifty days if the notice is addressed to a person outside of the United States, after the mailing of the notice of deficiency authorized by section six hundred eighty-one, the taxpayer may file a petition with the tax commission for a redetermination of the deficiency. Such petition may also assert a claim for refund for the same taxable year or years, subject to the limitations of subsection (g) of section six hundred eighty-seven.

(c) Petition for refund.--A taxpayer may file a petition with the tax commission for the amounts asserted in a claim for refund if--

(1) the taxpayer has filed a timely claim for refund with the tax commission,

(2) the taxpayer has not previously filed with the tax commission a timely petition under subsection (b) of this section for the same taxable year unless the petition under this subsection relates to a separate claim for credit or refund properly filed under subsection (f) of section six hundred eighty-seven of this part or relates to a refund or credit first claimed on an amended return for the taxable year, and

(3) either (A) six months have expired since the claim was filed, or (B) the tax commission has mailed to the taxpayer, by registered or certified mail, a notice of disallowance of such claim in whole or in part.

(4) Notwithstanding paragraph three of this subsection, no petition may be filed by a taxpayer claiming a refund of one or more empire zone tax credits for a taxable year beginning on or after January first, two thousand eight and before January first, two thousand nine, until six months have expired after the date on which an empire zone retention certificate was issued pursuant to subdivision (w) of section nine hundred fifty-nine of the general municipal law to the empire zone enterprise which is the basis for the tax credit or credits claimed on the return or report.

No petition under this subsection shall be filed more than two years after the date of mailing of a notice of disallowance, unless prior to the expiration of such two year period it has been extended by written agreement between the taxpayer and the tax commission. If a taxpayer files a written waiver of the requirement that he be mailed a notice of disallowance, the two year period prescribed by this subsection for filing a petition for refund shall begin on the date such waiver is filed.

(d) Assertion of deficiency after filing petition.--

(1) Petition for redetermination of deficiency.--If a taxpayer files with the tax commission a petition for redetermination of a deficiency, the tax commission shall have power to determine a greater deficiency than asserted in the notice of deficiency and to determine if there should be assessed any addition to tax or penalty provided in section six hundred eighty-five, if claim therefor is asserted at or before the hearing under rules of the tax commission.

(2) Petition for refund.-- If the taxpayer files with the tax commission a petition for credit or refund for a taxable year, the tax commission may

(A) determine a deficiency for such year as to any amount of deficiency asserted at or before the hearing under rules of the tax commission, and within the period in which an assessment would be timely under section six hundred eighty-three, or

(B) deny so much of the amount for which credit or refund is sought in the petition, as is offset by other issues pertaining to the same taxable year which are asserted at or before the hearing under rules of the tax commission.

(3) Opportunity to respond.-- A taxpayer shall be given a reasonable opportunity to respond to any matters asserted by the tax commission under this subsection.

(4) Restriction on further notices of deficiency. -- If the taxpayer files a petition with the tax commission under this section, no notice of deficiency under section six hundred eighty-one of this part may thereafter be issued by the tax commission for the same tax return, except in case of fraud or with respect to a change or correction required to be reported under section six hundred fifty-nine of this article.

(e) Burden of proof. In any case before the tax commission under this article, the burden of proof shall be upon the petitioner except for the following issues, as to which the burden of proof shall be upon the tax commission:

(1) whether the petitioner has been guilty of fraud with intent to evade tax;

(2) whether the petitioner is liable as the transferee of property of a taxpayer, but not to show that the taxpayer was liable for the tax;

(3) whether the petitioner is liable for any increase in a deficiency where such increase is asserted initially after a notice of deficiency was mailed and a petition under this section filed, unless such increase in deficiency is the result of a change or correction required to be reported under section six hundred fifty-nine, and of which change or correction the tax commission had no notice at the time it mailed the notice of deficiency; and

(4) whether any person is liable for a penalty under subsection (q) or (r) of section six hundred eighty-five of this article.

(f) Evidence of related federal determination.-- Evidence of a federal determination relating to issues raised in a case before the tax commission under this section shall be admissible, under rules established by the tax commission.

(g) Jurisdiction over other years.-- The tax commission shall consider such facts with relation to the taxes for other years as may be necessary correctly to determine the tax for the taxable year, but in so doing shall have no jurisdiction to determine whether or not the tax for any other year has been overpaid or underpaid.

§ 690. Review of tax commission decision.--(a) General.--A decision of the tax appeals tribunal shall be subject to judicial review in the manner provided for by section two thousand sixteen of this chapter.

(b) Judicial review exclusive remedy of taxpayer.--The review of a decision of the tax commission provided by this section shall be the exclusive remedy available to any taxpayer for the judicial determination of the liability of the taxpayer for the taxes imposed by this article.

(c) Assessment pending review; review bond.--Irrespective of any restrictions on the assessment and collection of deficiencies, the tax commission may assess a deficiency after the expiration of the period specified in subsection (a), notwithstanding that an application for judicial review in respect of such deficiency has been duly made by the taxpayer, unless the taxpayer, at or before the time his application for review is made, has paid the deficiency, has deposited with the tax commission the amount of the deficiency, or has filed with the tax commission a bond (which may be a jeopardy bond under subsection (h) of section six hundred ninety-four) in the amount of the portion of the deficiency (including interest and other amounts) in respect of which the application for review is made and all costs and charges which may accrue against him in the prosecution of the proceeding, including costs of all appeals, and with surety approved by a justice of the supreme court of the state of New York, conditioned upon the payment of the deficiency (including interest and other amounts) as finally determined and such costs and charges. If as a result of a waiver of the restrictions on the assessment and collection of a deficiency any part of the amount determined by the tax commission is paid after the filing of the review bond, such bond shall, at the request of the taxpayer, be proportionately reduced.

(d) Credit, refund or abatement after review.--If the amount of a deficiency determined by the tax commission is disallowed in whole or in part by the court of review, the amount so disallowed shall be credited or refunded to the taxpayer, without the making of claim therefor, or, if payment has not been made, shall be abated.

(e) Date of finality of division of tax appeals determination or decision.--A determination of an administrative law judge in the division of tax appeals shall become final in accordance with subdivision four of section two thousand ten of this chapter. A decision of the tax appeals tribunal shall become final upon the expiration of the period specified in subsection (a) for making an application for review, if no such application has been duly made within such time, or if such application has been duly made, upon expiration of the time for all further judicial review, or upon the rendering by the tax appeals tribunal of a decision in accordance with the mandate of the court on review. Notwithstanding the foregoing, for the purpose of making an application for review, the decision of the tax appeals tribunal shall be deemed final on the date the notice of such decision is served as provided in section two thousand sixteen of this chapter.

§ 691. Mailing rules; holidays; miscellaneous.--(a) Timely mailing.--(1) If any return, claim, statement, notice, petition, or other document required to be filed, or any payment required to be made, within a prescribed period or on or before a prescribed date under authority of any provision of this article is, after such period or such date, delivered by United States mail to the tax commission, bureau, office, officer or person with which or with whom such document is required to be filed, or to which or to whom such payment is required to be made, the date of the United States postmark stamped on the envelope shall be deemed to be the date of delivery. This subsection shall apply only if the postmark date falls within the prescribed period or on or before the prescribed date for the filing of such document, or for making the payment, including any extension granted for such filing or payment, and only if such document or payment was deposited in the mail, postage prepaid, properly addressed to the tax commission, bureau, office, officer or person with which or with whom the document is required to be filed or to which or to whom such payment is required to be made. If any document or payment is sent by United States registered mail, such registration shall be prima facie evidence that such document or payment was delivered to the tax commission, bureau, office, officer or person to which or to whom addressed. To the extent that the tax commission shall prescribe by regulation, certified mail may be used in lieu of registered mail under this section. This subsection shall apply in the case of postmarks not made by the United States Post Office only

(2)(A) Any reference in paragraph one of this subsection to the United States mail shall be treated as including a reference to any delivery service designated by the secretary of the treasury of the United States pursuant to section seventy-five hundred two of the internal revenue code and any reference in paragraph one of this subsection to a postmark by the United States mail shall be treated as including a reference to any date recorded or marked in the manner described in section seventy-five hundred two of the internal revenue code by a designated delivery service. If the commissioner finds that any delivery service designated by such secretary is inadequate for the needs of the state, the commissioner may withdraw such designation for purposes of this article. The commissioner may also designate additional delivery services meeting the criteria of section seventy-five hundred two of the internal revenue code for purposes of this article, or may withdraw any such designation if the commissioner finds that a delivery service so designated is inadequate for the needs of the state. Any reference in paragraph one of this subsection to the United States mail shall be treated as including a reference to any delivery service designated by the commissioner and any reference in paragraph one of this subsection to a postmark by the United States mail shall be treated as including a reference to any date recorded or marked in the manner described in section seventy-five hundred two of the internal revenue code by a delivery service designated by the commissioner.

(B) Any equivalent of registered or certified mail designated by the United States secretary of the treasury, or as may be designated by the commissioner pursuant to the same criteria used by such secretary for such designations pursuant to section seventy-five hundred two of the internal revenue code, shall be included within the meaning of registered or certified mail as used in paragraph one of this subsection. If the commissioner finds that any equivalent of registered or certified mail designated by such secretary or the commissioner is inadequate for the needs of the state, the commissioner may withdraw such designation for purposes of this article.

(b) Last known address.--For purposes of this article, a taxpayer's last known address shall be the address given in the last return filed by him, unless subsequently to the filing of such return the taxpayer shall have notified the tax commission of a change of address.

(c) Last day a Saturday, Sunday or legal holiday.--When the last day prescribed under authority of this article (including any extension of time) for performing any act falls on Saturday, Sunday, or a legal holiday in the state of New York, the performance of such act shall be considered timely if it is performed on the next succeeding day which is not a Saturday, Sunday or a legal holiday.

(d) Certificate; unfiled return.--For purposes of this chapter, the certificate of the tax commission to the effect that a tax has not been paid, that a return has not been filed, or that information has not been supplied, as required by or under the provisions of this article, shall be prima facie evidence that such tax has not been paid, that such return has not been filed, or that such information has not been supplied.

(e) Attorney general; jurisdiction.--The attorney general shall have concurrent jurisdiction with any district attorney in the prosecution of any offenses arising under article thirty-seven of this chapter with respect to the tax imposed under this article.

(f) Voter registration forms.--The commissioner of taxation and finance shall from time to time distribute mail voter registration forms, designed by the state board of elections, that conform to the requirements of subdivision five of section 5-210 of the election law. One such registration form shall be included by the commissioner in each packet of forms and instructions that the commissioner distributes to residents who may be required to file a return pursuant to section six hundred fifty-one of this article.

§ 692. Collection, levy and liens.--(a) Collection procedures.--The taxes imposed by this article shall be collected by the tax commission, and it may establish the mode or time for the collection of any amount due it under this article if not otherwise specified. The tax commission shall, upon request, give a receipt for any sum collected under this article. The tax commission may authorize banks or trust companies which are depositaries or financial agents of the state to receive and give a receipt for any tax imposed under this article in such manner, at such times, and under such conditions as the tax commission may prescribe; and the tax commission shall prescribe the manner, times and conditions under which the receipt of such tax by such banks and trust companies is to be treated as payment of such tax to the tax commission.

(b) Notice and demand for tax.--The tax commission shall as soon as practicable give notice to each person liable for any amount of tax, addition to tax, penalty or interest, which has been assessed but remains unpaid, stating the amount and demanding payment thereof. Such notice shall be left at the dwelling or usual place of business of such person or shall be sent by mail to such person's last known address. Except where the tax commission determines that collection would be jeopardized by delay, if any tax is assessed prior to the last date (including any date fixed by extension) prescribed for payment of such tax, payment of such tax shall not be demanded until after such date.

(c) Issuance of warrant after notice and demand.--If any person liable under this article for the payment of any tax, addition to tax, penalty or interest neglects or refuses to pay the same within twenty-one calendar days after notice and demand therefor is given to such person under subsection (b) of this section (ten business days if the amount for which such notice and demand is made equals or exceeds one hundred thousand dollars), the commissioner may within six years after the date of such assessment issue a warrant under the commissioner's official seal directed to the sheriff of any county of the state, or to any officer or employee of the department, commanding him to levy upon and sell such person's real and personal property for the payment of the amount assessed, with the cost of executing the warrant and to return such warrant to the commissioner and pay to him or her the money collected by virtue thereof within sixty days after the receipt of the warrant. If the commissioner finds that the collection of the tax or other amount is in jeopardy, notice and demand for immediate payment of such tax may be made by the commissioner and upon failure or refusal to pay such tax or other amount the commissioner may issue a warrant without regard to the twenty-one day period (or ten-day period if applicable) provided in this subsection.

(d) Copy of warrant to be filed and lien to be created.--Any sheriff or officer or employee who receives a warrant under subsection (c) shall within five days thereafter file a copy with the clerk of the appropriate county. The clerk shall thereupon enter in the judgment docket, in the column for judgment debtors, the name of the taxpayer mentioned in the warrant, and in appropriate columns the tax or other amounts for which the warrant is issued and the date when such copy is filed; and such amount shall thereupon be a lien upon the title to and interest in real, personal and other property of the taxpayer. Such lien shall not apply to personal property unless such warrant is filed in the department of state.

(e) Judgment.--When a warrant has been filed with the county clerk the tax commission shall, in the right of the people of the state of New York, be deemed to have obtained judgment against the taxpayer for the tax or other amounts.

(f) Execution.--The sheriff or officer or employee shall thereupon proceed upon the warrant in all respects, with like effect, and in the same manner prescribed by law in respect to executions issued against property upon judgments of a court of record, and a sheriff shall be entitled to the same fees for his services in executing the warrant, to be collected in the same manner. An officer or employee of the department of taxation and finance may proceed in any county or counties of this state and shall have all the powers of execution conferred by law upon sheriffs, but shall be entitled to no fee or compensation in excess of actual expenses paid in connection with the execution of the warrant.

(g) Taxpayer not a resident. Where a notice and demand under subsection (b) shall have been given to a taxpayer who is not then a resident, and it appears to the tax commission that it is not practicable to find in this state property of the taxpayer sufficient to pay the entire balance of tax or other amount owing by such taxpayer who is not then a resident, the tax commission may, in accordance with subsection (c), issue a warrant directed to an officer or employee of the department of taxation and finance, a copy of which warrant shall be mailed by certified or registered mail to the taxpayer at his last known address, subject to the rules for mailing provided in subsection (a) of section six hundred eighty-one. Such warrant shall command the officer or employee to proceed in Albany county, and he shall, within five days after receipt of the warrant, file the warrant and obtain a judgment in accordance with this section. Thereupon the tax commission may authorize the institution of any action or proceeding to collect or enforce the judgment in any place and by any procedure that a civil judgment of the supreme court of the state of New York could be collected or enforced. The tax commission may also, in its discretion, designate agents or retain counsel for the purpose of collecting, outside the state of New York, any unpaid taxes, additions to tax, penalties or interest which have been assessed under this article against taxpayers who are not residents of this state, may fix the compensation of such agents and counsel to be paid out of money appropriated or otherwise lawfully available for payment thereof, and may require of them bonds or other security for the faithful performance of their duties, in such form and in such amount as the tax commission shall deem proper and sufficient.

(h) Action by state for recovery of taxes.--Action may be brought by the attorney general at the instance of the tax commission in the name of the state to recover the amount of any unpaid taxes, additions to tax, penalties or interest which have been assessed under this article within six years prior to the date the action is commenced.

(i) Release of lien.--The tax commission, if it finds that the interests of the state will not thereby be jeopardized, and upon such conditions as it may require, may release any property from the lien of any warrant for unpaid taxes, additions to tax, penalties and interest filed pursuant to this section, and such release may be recorded in the office of any recording officer in which such warrant has been filed.

§ 693. Transferees.--(a) General.--The liability, at law or in equity, of a transferee of property of a taxpayer for any tax, additions to tax, penalty or interest due the tax commission under this article, shall be assessed, paid, and collected in the same manner and subject to the same provisions and limitations as in the case of the tax to which the liability relates, except that the period of limitations for assessment against the transferee shall be extended by one year for each successive transfer, in order, from the original taxpayer to the transferee involved, but not by more than three years in the aggregate. The term transferee includes donee, heir, legatee, devisee and distributee.

(b) Exceptions.--

(1) If before the expiration of the period of limitations for assessment of liability of the transferee, a claim has been filed by the tax commission in any court against the original taxpayer or the last preceding transferee based upon the liability of the original taxpayer, then the period of limitation for assessment of liability of the transferee shall in no event expire prior to one year after such claim has been finally allowed, disallowed or otherwise disposed of.

(2) If, before the expiration of the time prescribed in subsection (a) or the immediately preceding paragraph of this subsection for the assessment of the liability, the tax commission and the transferee have both consented in writing to its assessment after such time, the liability may be assessed at any time prior to the expiration of the period agreed upon. The period so agreed upon may be extended by subsequent agreements in writing made before the expiration of the period previously agreed upon. For the purpose of determining the period of limitation on credit or refund to the transferee of overpayments of tax made by such transferee or overpayments of tax made by the transferor as to which the transferee is legally entitled to credit or refund, such agreement and any extension thereof shall be deemed an agreement and extension thereof referred to in subsection (b) of section six hundred eighty-seven. If the agreement is executed after the expiration of the period of limitation for assessment against the original taxpayer, then in applying the limitations under subsection (b) of section six hundred eighty-seven on the amount of the credit or refund, the periods specified in subsection (a) of section six hundred eighty-seven shall be increased by the period from the date of such expiration to the date of the agreement.

(c) Deceased transferor.--If any person is deceased, the period of limitation for assessment against him shall be the period that would be in effect if he had lived.

(d) Evidence.--Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (e) of section six hundred ninety-seven the tax commission shall use its powers to make available to the transferee evidence necessary to enable the transferee to determine the liability of the original taxpayer and of any preceding transferees, but without undue hardship to the original taxpayer or preceding transferee. See subsection (e) of section six hundred eighty-nine for rule as to burden of proof.

(e) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph one of subsection (e) of section six hundred ninety-seven of this part, the commissioner may furnish information relating to real property transfers obtained or derived from returns filed pursuant to this article in relation to the real estate transfer tax, to the extent that such information is also required to be reported to the commissioner by section three hundred thirty-three of the real property law and section five hundred seventy-four of the real property tax law and the rules adopted thereunder, provided such information was collected through a combined process established pursuant to an agreement entered into with the commissioner pursuant to paragraph viii of subdivision one-e of section three hundred thirty-three of the real property law. The commissioner may redisclose such information to the extent authorized by section five hundred seventy-four of the real property tax law.

§ 694. Jeopardy assessment.--(a). Authority for making.--If the tax commission believes that the assessment or collection of a deficiency will be jeopardized by delay, it shall, notwithstanding the provisions of section six hundred eighty-one and six hundred ninety-six, immediately assess such deficiency (together with all interest, penalties and additions to tax provided for by law), and notice and demand shall be made by the tax commission for the payment thereof.

(b) Notice of deficiency.--If the jeopardy assessment is made before any notice in respect of the tax to which the jeopardy assessment relates has been mailed under section six hundred eighty-one, then the tax commission shall mail a notice under such section within sixty days after the making of the assessment.

(c) Amount assessable before decision of tax commission.--The jeopardy assessment may be made in respect of a deficiency greater or less than that of which notice is mailed to the taxpayer and whether or not the taxpayer has theretofore filed a petition with the tax commission. The tax commission may, at any time before rendering its decision, abate such assessment, or any unpaid portion thereof, to the extent that it believes the assessment to be excessive in amount. The tax commission may in its decision redetermine the entire amount of the deficiency and of all amounts assessed at the same time in connection therewith.

(d) Amount assessable after decision of tax commission.--If the jeopardy assessment is made after the decision of the tax commission is rendered, such assessment may be made only in respect of the deficiency determined by the tax commission in its decision.

(e) Expiration of right to assess.--A jeopardy assessment may not be made after the decision of the tax commission has become final or after the taxpayer has made an application for review of the decision of the tax commission.

(f) Collection of unpaid amounts.--When a petition has been filed with the tax commission and when the amount which should have been assessed has been determined by a decision of the tax commission which has become final, then any unpaid portion, the collection of which has been stayed by bond, shall be collected as part of the tax upon notice and demand from the tax commission, and any remaining portion of the assessment shall be abated. If the amount already collected exceeds the amount determined as the amount which should have been assessed, such excess shall be credited or refunded to the taxpayer as provided in section six hundred eighty-six without the filing of claim therefor. If the amount determined as the amount which should have been assessed is greater than the amount actually assessed, then the difference shall be assessed and shall be collected as part of the tax upon notice and demand from the tax commission.

(g) Abatement if jeopardy does not exist.--The tax commission may abate the jeopardy assessment if it finds that jeopardy does not exist. Such abatement may not be made after a decision of the tax commission in respect of the deficiency has been rendered or, if no petition is filed with the tax commission, after the expiration of the period for filing such petition. The period of limitation on the making of assessments and levy or a proceeding for collection, in respect of any deficiency, shall be determined as if the jeopardy assessment so abated had not been made, except that the running of such period shall in any event be suspended for the period from the date of such jeopardy assessment until the expiration of the tenth day after the day on which such jeopardy assessment is abated.

(h) Bond to stay collection.--The collection of the whole or any amount of any jeopardy assessment may be stayed by filing with the tax commission, within such time as may be fixed by regulation, a bond in an amount equal to the amount as to which the stay is desired, conditioned upon the payment of the amount (together with interest thereon) the collection of which is stayed at the time at which, but for the making of the jeopardy assessment, such amount would be due. Upon the filing of the bond the collection of so much of the amount assessed as is covered by the bond shall be stayed. The taxpayer shall have the right to waive such stay at any time in respect of the whole or any part of the amount covered by the bond, and if as a result of such waiver any part of the amount covered by the bond is paid, then the bond shall at the request of the taxpayer, be proportionately reduced. If any portion of the jeopardy assessment is abated, or if a notice of deficiency under section six hundred eighty-one is mailed to the taxpayer in a lesser amount, the bond shall, at the request of the taxpayer, be proportionately reduced.

(i) Petition to tax commission.--If the bond is given before the taxpayer has filed his petition under section six hundred eighty-nine, the bond shall contain a further condition that if a petition is not filed within the period provided in such section, then the amount, the collection of which is stayed by the bond, will be paid on notice and demand at any time after the expiration of such period, together with interest thereon from the date of the jeopardy notice and demand to the date of notice and demand under this subsection. The bond shall be conditioned upon the payment of so much of such assessment (collection of which is stayed by the bond) as is not abated by a decision of the tax commission which has become final. If the tax commission determines that the amount assessed is greater than the amount which should have been assessed, then the bond shall, at the request of the taxpayer, be proportionately reduced when the decision of the tax commission is rendered.

(j) Stay of sale of seized property pending tax commission decision.--Where a jeopardy assessment is made, the property seized for the collection of the tax shall not be sold--

(1) if subsection (b) is applicable, prior to the issuance of the notice of deficiency and the expiration of the time provided in section six hundred eighty-nine for filing a petition with the tax commission, and

(2) if a petition is filed with the tax commission (whether before or after the making of such jeopardy assessment), prior to the expiration of the period during which the assessment of the deficiency would be prohibited if subsection (a) were not applicable.

Such property may be sold if the taxpayer consents to the sale, or if the tax commission determines that the expenses of conservation and maintenance will greatly reduce the net proceeds, or if the property is perishable.

(k) Interest.--For the purpose of subsection (a) of section six hundred eighty-four, the last date prescribed for payment shall be determined without regard to any notice and demand for payment issued under this section prior to the last date otherwise prescribed for such payment.

(l) Early termination of taxable year.--If the tax commission finds that a taxpayer designs quickly to depart from this state or to remove his property therefrom, or to conceal himself or his property therein, or to do any other act tending to prejudice or to render wholly or partly ineffectual proceedings to collect the income tax for the current or the preceding taxable year unless such proceedings be brought without delay, the tax commission shall declare the taxable period for such taxpayer immediately terminated, and shall cause notice of such finding and declaration to be given the taxpayer, together with a demand for immediate payment of the tax for the taxable period so declared terminated and of the tax for the preceding taxable year or so much of such tax as is unpaid, whether or not the time otherwise allowed by law for filing return and paying the tax has expired; and such taxes shall thereupon become immediately due and payable. In any proceeding brought to enforce payment of taxes made due and payable by virtue of the provisions of this subsection, the finding of the tax commission made as herein provided, whether made after notice to the taxpayer or not, shall be for all purposes presumptive evidence of jeopardy.

(m) Reopening of taxable period.--Notwithstanding the termination of the taxable period of the taxpayer by the tax commission, as provided in subsection (l), the tax commission may reopen such taxable period each time the taxpayer is found by the tax commission to have received income, within the current taxable year, since the termination of such period. A taxable period so terminated by the tax commission may be reopened by the taxpayer if he files with the tax commission a true and accurate return of taxable income and credits allowed under this article for such taxable period, together with such other information as the tax

(n) Furnishing of bond where taxable year is closed by the tax commission.--Payment of taxes shall not be enforced by any proceedings under the provisions of subsection (l) prior to the expiration of the time otherwise allowed for paying such taxes if the taxpayer furnishes, under regulations prescribed by the tax commission, a bond to insure the timely making of returns with respect to, and payment of, such taxes or any income taxes for prior years.

§ 695. Criminal penalties; cross-reference.--For criminal penalties, see article thirty-seven of this chapter.

§ 696. Income taxes of members of armed forces, astronauts, and victims of certain terrorist attacks.--(a) Time to be disregarded.--In the case of an individual serving in the armed forces of the United States, or serving in support of such armed forces, in an area designated by the president of the United States by executive order as a "combat zone" at any time during the period designated by the president by executive order as the period of combatant activities in such zone, or when deployed outside the United States away from the individual's permanent duty station while participating in an operation that is either designated by the United States secretary of defense as a "contingency operation" or which became a contingency operation due to operation of law during the period of such contingency operation, or hospitalized inside or outside the state as a result of injury received while serving in such an area or operation during such time, the period of service in such area or operation, plus the period of continuous hospitalization inside or outside the state attributable to such injury, and the next one hundred eighty days thereafter, shall be disregarded in determining, under this article, in respect of the income tax liability (including any interest, penalty, or addition to the tax) of such individual --

(1) Whether any of the following acts was performed within the time prescribed therefor:

(A) filing any return of income tax (except withholding tax);

(B) payment of any income tax (except withholding tax) or any installment thereof or of any other liability to the state, in respect thereof;

(C) filing a petition with the tax commission for credit or refund or for redetermination of a deficiency, or application for review of a decision rendered by the tax commission;

(D) allowance of a credit or refund of income tax;

(E) filing a claim for credit or refund of income tax;

(F) assessment of income tax;

(G) giving or making any notice or demand for the payment of any income tax, or with respect to any liability to the state in respect of income tax;

(H) collection, by the tax commission, by levy or otherwise of the amount of any liability in respect of income tax;

(I) bringing suit by the state, or any officer, on its behalf, in respect of any liability in respect of income tax; and

(J) any other act required or permitted under this article or specified in regulations prescribed under this section by the tax commission.

(2) The amount of any credit or refund.

(b) Special rule for overpayments. -- (1) Subsection (a) of this section shall not apply for purposes of determining the amount of interest on any overpayment of tax.

(2) If an individual is entitled to the benefits of subsection (a) of this section with respect to any return, amended return, or claim for credit or refund, and such return, amended return or claim is timely filed (determined after the application of such subsection), paragraph three of subsection (a) and subsection (c) of section six hundred eighty-eight of this article shall not apply.

(c) Action taken before ascertainment of right to benefits.--The assessment or collection of the tax imposed by this article or of any liability to the state in respect of such tax, or any action or proceeding by or on behalf of the state in connection therewith, may be made, taken, begun, or prosecuted in accordance with law, without regard to the provisions of subsection (a), unless prior to such assessment, collection, action, or proceeding it is ascertained that the person concerned is entitled to the benefits of subsection (a).

(d) Members of armed forces dying in action.--In the case of any person who dies while in active service as a member of the armed forces of the United States, if such death occurred while serving in a combat zone during a period of combatant activities in such zone, as described in subsection (a), or as a result of wounds, disease or injury incurred while so serving, the tax imposed by this article shall not apply with respect to the taxable year in which falls the date of his or her death, or with respect to any prior taxable year ending on or after the first day so served in a combat zone, and no returns shall be required in behalf of such person or his or her estate for such year; and the tax for any such taxable year which is unpaid at the date of death, including interest, additions to tax and penalties, if any, shall not be assessed and, if assessed, the assessment shall be abated and, if collected, shall be refunded to the legal representative of such estate if one has been appointed and has qualified, or, if no legal representative has been appointed or has qualified, to the surviving spouse.

(e) Treatment of individuals performing Desert Shield services. -- (1) Any individual who performed Desert Shield services shall be entitled to the benefits of subsections (a) and (b) of this section in the same manner as if such services were services referred to in subsection (a) of this section.

(2) For purposes of this subsection, the term "Desert Shield services" means any services in the armed forces of the United States or in support of such armed forces if

(A) such services are performed in the area designated by the president of the United States as the "Persian Gulf Desert Shield area", and

(B) such services are performed during the period beginning on August second, nineteen hundred ninety, and ending on the date on which any portion of the area referred to in subparagraph (A) of this paragraph is designated by the president as a combat zone pursuant to section one hundred twelve of the internal revenue code.

(f) Relief for personnel under hostile fire. -- For purposes of this section, members of the armed forces of the United States who perform military service in an area outside an area designated by the president of the United States by executive order as a "combat zone", which service is in direct support of military operations in such zone and is performed under conditions which qualify such members for hostile fire pay, as authorized under subdivision (a) of section nine of the federal uniformed services pay act of nineteen hundred sixty-three, shall, during the period of such qualifying service, be deemed to have served in such combat zone.

(g) Application to spouse.-- The provisions of subsections (a), (b), (c), (e) and (f) of this section shall apply to the spouse of any individual entitled to the benefits of subsection (a) of this section; provided, however, that such subsections shall not apply for any spouse for any taxable year beginning more than two years after the date designated under section one hundred twelve of the internal revenue code as the date of termination of combatant activities in a combat zone.

(h) Individuals dying as a result of certain attacks and astronauts.--(1) General. In the case of a specified terrorist victim or astronaut, any tax imposed by this article shall not apply--

(A) with respect to the taxable year in which falls the date of death; and

(B) with respect to any prior taxable year in the period beginning with the last taxable year ending before the taxable year in which the wounds or injury referred to in paragraph three of this subsection were incurred.

(2) Taxation of certain benefits. Paragraph one of this subsection shall not apply to the amount of any tax imposed by this article which would be computed by only taking into account the items of income, gain, or other amounts determined by the United States secretary of the treasury to be taxable pursuant to paragraph 692(d)(3) of the internal revenue code.

(3) Specified terrorist victim. For purposes of this subsection, the term "specified terrorist victim" means any decedent who dies as a result of wounds or injury incurred as a result of the terrorist attacks against the United States on September eleventh, two thousand one, provided, however, such term shall not include any individual identified by the attorney general of the United States to have been a participant or conspirator in any such attack or a representative of such an individual.

(4) Astronaut. For purposes of this subsection, the term "astronaut" means any astronaut whose death occurs in the line of duty after December thirty-first, two thousand two.

(i) Collection period after assessment not extended as a result of hospitalization. With respect to any period of continuous hospitalization described in subsection (a) and the next one hundred eighty days thereafter, subsection (a) shall not apply to the collection, by the tax commission, by levy or otherwise of the amount of any liability pursuant to section six hundred ninety-two of this article.

§ 697. General powers of tax commission.--(a) General.--The tax commission shall administer and enforce the tax imposed by this article and it is authorized to make such rules and regulations, and to require such facts and information to be reported, as it may deem necessary to enforce the provisions of this article. The tax commission may divide the state into districts in each of which a branch office may be maintained by it, but in no case shall a county be divided in forming a district.

(b) Examination of books and witnesses.--(1) The tax commission for the purpose of ascertaining the correctness of any return, or for the purpose of making an estimate of taxable income of any person, shall have power to examine or to cause to have examined, by any agent or representative designated by it for that purpose, any books, papers, records or memoranda bearing upon the matters required to be included in the return, and may require the attendance of the person rendering the return or any officer or employee of such person, or the attendance of any other person having knowledge in the premises, and may take testimony and require proof material for its information, with power to administer oaths to such person or persons.

(2) The tax commission may take any action under paragraph one of this subdivision to inquire into the commission of an offense connected with the administration or enforcement of this article, provided, however, that notwithstanding the provisions of section one hundred seventy-four of this chapter no such action shall be taken when a referral by the department or the tax commission to the attorney general, a district attorney or any other prosecutorial agency is in effect. Provided, however, the tax commission shall have power, during the period when such referral is in effect, to examine or to cause to have examined, by any agent or representative designated by it for that purpose, any books, papers, records or memoranda bearing upon the matters required to be included in the return, where such books, papers, records or memoranda are in its possession, or where such books, papers, records or memoranda are in the possession of the attorney general, district attorney or other prosecutorial agency to which such referral is made.

(c) Abatement authority.--The tax commission, of its own motion, may abate any small unpaid balance of an assessment of income tax, or any liability in respect thereof, if the tax commission determines under uniform rules prescribed by it that the administration and collection costs involved would not warrant collection of the amount due. It may also abate, of its own motion, the unpaid portion of the assessment of any tax or any liability in respect thereof, which is excessive in amount, or is assessed after the expiration of the period of limitation properly applicable thereto, or is erroneously or illegally assessed. No claim for abatement under this subsection shall be filed by a taxpayer.

(d) Special refund authority.--Where no questions of fact or law are involved and it appears from the records of the tax commission that any moneys have been erroneously or illegally collected from any taxpayer or other person, or paid by such taxpayer or other person under a mistake of facts, pursuant to the provisions of this article, the tax commission at any time, without regard to any period of limitations, shall have the power, upon making a record of its reasons therefor in writing, to cause such moneys so paid and being erroneously and illegally held to be refunded and to issue therefor its certificate to the comptroller.

(e) Secrecy requirement and penalties for violation.--(1) Except in accordance with proper judicial order or as otherwise provided by law, it shall be unlawful for the commissioner, any officer or employee of the department, any person engaged or retained by such department on an independent contract basis, any depository to which any return may be delivered as provided in subsection (h) or (i) of this section, any officer or employee of such depository, or any person who, pursuant to this section, is permitted to inspect any report or return or to whom a copy, an abstract or a portion of any report or return is furnished, or to whom any information contained in any report or return is furnished, to divulge or make known in any manner the amount of income or any particulars set forth or disclosed in any report or return required under this article, under section one hundred seventy-one-a or section one hundred seventy-one-h of this chapter, or under this article and article eighteen of the labor law.

(2) The officers charged with the custody of such reports and returns shall not be required to produce any of them or evidence of anything contained in them in any action or proceeding in any court, except on behalf of the commissioner in an action or proceeding under the provisions of this chapter or in any other action or proceeding involving the collection of a tax due under this chapter to which the state or the commissioner is a party or a claimant, or on behalf of any party to any action or proceeding under the provisions of this article, or under the provisions of this article and article eighteen of the labor law, when the reports, returns or facts shown thereby are directly involved in such action or proceeding, in any of which events the court may require the production of, and may admit in evidence, so much of said reports, returns or of the facts shown thereby, as are pertinent to the action or proceeding and no more. The commissioner may, nevertheless, publish a copy or a summary of any decision rendered after the hearing required under section six hundred eighty-nine of this article.

(3) Nothing herein shall be construed to prohibit the department, its officers or employees from furnishing information to the office of temporary and disability assistance relating to the payment of the credit for certain household and dependent care services necessary for gainful employment under subsection (c) of section six hundred six of this article, the New York state child and dependent care credit under subsection (c-2) of section six hundred six of this article, and the earned income credit under subsection (d) of section six hundred six of this article and the enhanced earned income credit under subsection (d-1) of section six hundred six of this article, or pursuant to a local law enacted by a city having a population of one million or more pursuant to subsection (f) of section thirteen hundred ten of this chapter, only to the extent necessary to calculate qualified state expenditures under paragraph seven of subdivision (a) of section four hundred nine of the federal social security act or to document the proper expenditure of federal temporary assistance for needy families funds under section four hundred three of such act. The office of temporary and disability assistance may redisclose such information to the United States department of health and human services only to the extent necessary to calculate such qualified state expenditures or to document the proper expenditure of such federal temporary assistance for needy families funds. Nothing herein shall be construed to prohibit the delivery by the commissioner to a commissioner of jurors, appointed pursuant to section five hundred four of the judiciary law, or, in counties within cities having a population of one million or more, to the county clerk of such county, or to the clerk of the court or jury administrator of a United States district court appointed pursuant to title twenty-eight of the United States Code, section 1836(b)(2), of a mailing list of individuals to whom income tax forms are mailed by the commissioner for the sole purpose of compiling a list of prospective jurors as provided in article sixteen of the judiciary law or title twenty-eight of the United States Code. Provided, however, such delivery shall only be made pursuant to an order of the chief administrator of the courts, appointed pursuant to section two hundred ten of the judiciary law or an order of a chief judge of any United States district court in New York State. No such order may be issued unless such chief administrator or chief judge of such United States district court is satisfied that such mailing list is needed to compile a proper list of prospective jurors for the county or such United States district court for which such order is sought and that, in view of the responsibilities imposed by the various laws of the state on the department, it is reasonable to require the commissioner to furnish such list. Such order shall provide that such list shall be used for the sole purpose of compiling a list of prospective jurors and that such commissioner of jurors, or such county clerk, or clerk of the court or jury administrator of such United States district court shall take all necessary steps to insure that the list is kept confidential and that there is no unauthorized use or disclosure of such list. Furthermore, nothing herein shall be construed to prohibit the delivery to a taxpayer or their duly authorized representative of a certified copy of any return or report filed in connection with their tax or to prohibit the publication of statistics so classified as to prevent the identification of particular reports or returns and the items thereof, or the inspection by the attorney general or other legal representatives of the state of the report or return of any taxpayer or of any employer filed under section one hundred seventy-one-h of this chapter, where such taxpayer or employer shall bring action to set aside or review the tax based thereon, or against whom an action or proceeding under this chapter or under this chapter and article eighteen of the labor law has been recommended by the commissioner, the commissioner of labor with respect to unemployment insurance matters, or the attorney general or has been instituted, or the inspection of the reports or returns required under this article by the comptroller or duly designated officer or employee of the state department of audit and control, for purposes of the audit of a refund of any tax paid by a taxpayer under this article, or the furnishing to the state department of labor of unemployment insurance information obtained or derived from quarterly combined withholding, wage reporting and unemployment insurance returns required to be filed by employers pursuant to paragraph four of subsection (a) of section six hundred seventy-four of this article, for purposes of administration of such department's unemployment insurance program, employment services program, federal and state employment and training programs, employment statistics and labor market information programs, worker protection programs, federal programs for which the department has administrative responsibility or for other purposes deemed appropriate by the commissioner of labor consistent with the provisions of the labor law, and redisclosure of such information in accordance with the provisions of sections five hundred thirty-six and five hundred thirty-seven of the labor law or any other applicable law, or the furnishing to the state office of temporary and disability assistance of information obtained or derived from New York state personal income tax returns as described in paragraph (b) of subdivision two of section one hundred seventy-one-g of this chapter for the purpose of reviewing support orders enforced pursuant to title six-A of article three of the social services law to aid in the determination of whether such orders should be adjusted, or the furnishing of information obtained from the reports required to be submitted by employers regarding newly hired or re-hired employees pursuant to section one hundred seventy-one-h of this chapter to the state office of temporary and disability assistance, the state department of health, the state department of labor and the workers' compensation board for purposes of administration of the child support enforcement program, verification of individuals' eligibility for one or more of the programs specified in subsection (b) of section eleven hundred thirty-seven of the federal social security act and for other public assistance programs authorized by state law, and administration of the state's employment security and workers' compensation programs, and to the national directory of new hires established pursuant to section four hundred fifty-three-A of the federal social security act for the purposes specified in such section, or the furnishing to the state office of temporary and disability assistance of the amount of an overpayment of income tax and interest thereon certified to the comptroller to be credited against past-due support pursuant to section one hundred seventy-one-c of this chapter and of the name and social security number of the taxpayer who made such overpayment, or the disclosing to the commissioner of finance of the city of New York, pursuant to section one hundred seventy-one-l of this chapter, of the amount of an overpayment and interest thereon certified to the comptroller to be credited against a city of New York tax warrant judgment debt and of the name and social security number of the taxpayer who made such overpayment, or the furnishing to the New York state higher education services corporation of the amount of an overpayment of income tax and interest thereon certified to the comptroller to be credited against the amount of a default in repayment of any education loan debt, including judgments, owed to the federal or New York state government that is being collected by the New York state higher education services corporation, and of the name and social security number of the taxpayer who made such overpayment, or the furnishing to the state department of health of the information required by paragraph (f) of subdivision two and subdivision two-a of section two thousand five hundred eleven of the public health law and by subdivision eight of section three hundred sixty-six-a of the social services law, or the furnishing to the state university of New York or the city university of New York respectively or the attorney general on behalf of such state or city university the amount of an overpayment of income tax and interest thereon certified to the comptroller to be credited against the amount of a default in repayment of a state university loan pursuant to section

one hundred seventy-one-e of this chapter and of the name and social security number of the taxpayer who made such overpayment, or the disclosing to a state agency, pursuant to section one hundred seventy-one-f of this chapter, of the amount of an overpayment and interest thereon certified to the comptroller to be credited against a past-due legally enforceable debt owed to such agency and of the name and social security number of the taxpayer who made such overpayment, or the furnishing of employee and employer information obtained through the wage reporting system, pursuant to section one hundred seventy-one-a of this chapter, as added by chapter five hundred forty-five of the laws of nineteen hundred seventy-eight, to the state office of temporary and disability assistance, the department of health or to the state office of the medicaid inspector general for the purpose of verifying eligibility for and entitlement to amounts of benefits under the social services law or similar law of another jurisdiction, locating absent parents or other persons legally responsible for the support of applicants for or recipients of public assistance and care under the social services law and persons legally responsible for the support of a recipient of services under section one hundred eleven-g of the social services law and, in appropriate cases, establishing support obligations pursuant to the social services law and the family court act or similar provision of law of another jurisdiction for the purpose of evaluating the effect on earnings of participation in employment, training or other programs designed to promote self-sufficiency authorized pursuant to the social services law by current recipients of public assistance and care and by former applicants and recipients of public assistance and care, (except that with regard to former recipients, information which relates to a particular former recipient shall be provided with client identifying data deleted), to the state office of temporary and disability assistance for the purpose of determining the eligibility of any child in the custody, care and custody or custody and guardianship of a local social services district or of the office of children and family services for federal payments for foster care and adoption assistance pursuant to the provisions of title IV-E of the federal social security act by providing information with respect to the parents, the stepparents, the child and the siblings of the child who were living in the same household as such child during the month that the court proceedings leading to the child's removal from the household were initiated, or the written instrument transferring care and custody of the child pursuant to the provisions of section three hundred fifty-eight-a or three hundred eighty-four-a of the social services law was signed, provided however that the office of temporary and disability assistance shall only use the information obtained pursuant to this subdivision for the purpose of determining the eligibility of such child for federal payments for foster care and adoption assistance pursuant to the provisions of title IV-E of the federal social security act, and to the state department of labor, or other individuals designated by the commissioner of labor, for the purpose of the administration of such department's unemployment insurance program, employment services program, federal and state employment and training programs, employment statistics and labor market information programs, worker protection programs, federal programs for which the department has administrative responsibility or for other purposes deemed appropriate by the commissioner of labor consistent with the provisions of the labor law, and redisclosure of such information in accordance with the provisions of sections five hundred thirty-six and five hundred thirty-seven of the labor law, or the furnishing of information, which is obtained from the wage reporting system operated pursuant to section one hundred seventy-one-a of this chapter, as added by chapter five hundred forty-five of the laws of nineteen hundred seventy-eight, to the state office of temporary and disability assistance so that it may furnish such information to public agencies of other jurisdictions with which the state office of temporary and disability assistance has an agreement pursuant to paragraph (h) or (i) of subdivision three of section twenty of the social services law, and to the state office of temporary and disability assistance for the purpose of fulfilling obligations and responsibilities otherwise incumbent upon the state department of labor, under section one hundred twenty-four of the federal family support act of nineteen hundred eighty-eight, by giving the federal parent locator service, maintained by the federal department of health and human services, prompt access to such information as required by such act, or to the state department of health to verify eligibility under the child health insurance plan pursuant to subdivisions two and two-a of section two thousand five hundred eleven of the public health law, to verify eligibility under the medical assistance and family health plus programs pursuant to subdivision eight of section three hundred sixty-six-a of the social services law, and to verify eligibility for the program for elderly pharmaceutical insurance coverage under title three of article two of the elder law, or to the office of vocational and educational services for individuals with disabilities of the education department, the commission for the blind and any other state vocational rehabilitation agency, for purposes of obtaining reimbursement from the federal social security administration for expenditures made by such office, commission or agency on behalf of disabled individuals who have achieved economic self-sufficiency or to the higher education services corporation for the purpose of assisting the corporation in default prevention and default collection of education loan debt, including judgments, owed to the federal or New York state government; provided, however, that such information shall be limited to the names, social security numbers, home and/or business addresses, and employer names of defaulted or delinquent student loan borrowers, or to the office of the state comptroller for purposes of verifying the income of a retired member of a retirement system or pension plan administered by the state or any of its political subdivisions who returns to public employment.

Provided, however, that with respect to employee information the office of temporary and disability assistance shall only be furnished with the names, social security account numbers and gross wages of those employees who are (A) applicants for or recipients of benefits under the social services law, or similar provision of law of another jurisdiction (pursuant to an agreement under subdivision three of section twenty of the social services law) or, (B) absent parents or other persons legally responsible for the support of applicants for or recipients of public assistance and care under the social services law or similar provision of law of another jurisdiction (pursuant to an agreement under subdivision three of section twenty of the social services law), or (C) persons legally responsible for the support of a recipient of services under section one hundred eleven-g of the social services law or similar provision of law of another jurisdiction (pursuant to an agreement under subdivision three of section twenty of the social services law), or (D) employees about whom wage reporting system information is being Provided, further, that where the office of temporary and disability assistance requests employee information for the purpose of evaluating the effects on earnings of participation in employment, training or other programs designed to promote self-sufficiency authorized pursuant to the social services law, the office of temporary and disability assistance shall only be furnished with the quarterly gross wages (excluding any reference to the name, social security number or any other information which could be used to identify any employee or the name or identification number of any employer) paid to employees who are former applicants for or recipients of public assistance and care and who are so certified to the commissioner by the commissioner of the office of temporary and disability assistance. Provided, further, that with respect to employee information, the department of health shall only be furnished with the information required pursuant to the provisions of paragraph (f) of subdivision two and subdivision two-a of section two thousand five hundred eleven of the public health law and subdivision eight of section three hundred sixty-six-a of the social services law, with respect to those individuals whose eligibility under

Provided, further, that wage reporting information shall be furnished to the office of vocational and educational services for individuals with disabilities of the education department, the commission for the blind and any other state vocational rehabilitation agency only if such office, commission or agency, as applicable, certifies to the commissioner that such information is necessary to obtain reimbursement from the federal social security administration for expenditures made on behalf of disabled individuals who have achieved self-sufficiency. Reports and returns shall be preserved for three years and thereafter until the commissioner orders them to be destroyed.

(3-a) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph one of this subsection, the commissioner may disclose to a taxpayer or a taxpayer's related member, as defined in subsection (r) of section six hundred twelve of this article, information relating to any royalty paid, incurred or received by such taxpayer or related member to or from the other, including the treatment of such payments by the taxpayer or the related member in any report or return transmitted to the commissioner under this chapter.

(4) (A) Any officer or employee of the state who willfully violates the provisions of this subsection shall be dismissed from office and be incapable of holding any public office in this state for a period of five years thereafter.

(B) Cross-reference: For criminal penalties, see article thirty-seven of this chapter.

(f) Cooperation with the United States and other states.-- Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (e), the tax commission may permit the secretary of the treasury of the United States or his delegates, or the proper tax officer of any state imposing an income tax upon the incomes of individuals, or the authorized representative of either such officer, to inspect any return filed under this article, or may furnish to such officer or his authorized representative an abstract of any such return or supply him with information concerning an item contained in any such return, or disclosed by any investigation of tax liability under this article, but such permission shall be granted or such information furnished to such officer or his representative only if the laws of the United States or of such other state, as the case may be, grant substantially similar privileges to the commission or officer of this state charged with the administration of the tax imposed by this article and such information is to be used for tax purposes only; and provided further the commissioner of taxation and finance may furnish to the commissioner of internal revenue or his authorized representative such returns filed under this article and other tax information, as he may consider proper, for use in court actions or proceedings under the internal revenue code, whether civil or criminal, where a written request therefor has been made to the commissioner of taxation and finance by the secretary of the treasury of the United States or his delegates, provided the laws of the United States grant substantially similar powers to the secretary of the treasury of the United States or his delegates. Where the commissioner of taxation and finance has so authorized use of returns and other information in such actions or proceedings, officers and employees of the department of taxation and finance may testify in such actions or proceedings in respect to such returns or other information.

(f-1) Cooperation with investigations by certain committees of the United States Congress.--(1) Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (e) of this section, upon written request from the chairperson of the committee on ways and means of the United States House of Representatives, the chairperson of the committee on finance of the United States Senate, or the chairperson of the joint committee on taxation of the United States Congress, the commissioner shall furnish such committee with any current or prior year reports or returns specified in such request that were filed under this article by the president of the United States, vice-president of the United States, member of the United States Congress representing New York state, or any person who served in or was employed by the executive branch of the government of the United States on the executive staff of the president, in the executive office of the president, or in an acting or confirmed capacity in a position subject to confirmation by the United States senate; or, in New York state: a statewide elected official, as defined

(2) No reports or returns shall be furnished pursuant to this subsection unless the chairperson of the requesting committee certifies in writing that such reports or returns have been requested related to, and in furtherance of, a legitimate task of the Congress, that the requesting committee has made a written request to the United States secretary of the treasury for related federal returns or return information, pursuant to 26 U.S.C. Section 6103(f), and that if such requested reports or returns are inspected by and/or submitted to another committee, to the United States House of Representatives, or to the United States Senate, then such inspection and/or submission shall occur in a manner consistent with federal law as informed by the requirements and procedures established in 26 U.S.C. Section 6103(f).

(g) Cooperation with the cities of the state of New York. Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (e), the tax commission may permit the proper city officer of any city of the state of New York imposing a personal income tax upon the incomes of residents, or an unincorporated business income tax, or an earnings tax on nonresidents, or the authorized representative of any such officer, to inspect any return filed under this article, or article twenty-three (as such article was in effect on or before December thirtieth, nineteen hundred eighty-two), or may furnish to such officer or his authorized representative an abstract of any such return or supply him with information concerning an item contained in any such return, or disclosed by any investigation of tax liability under this article or article twenty-three (as such article was in effect on or before December thirtieth, nineteen hundred eighty-two), but such permission shall be granted or such information furnished to such officer or his representative only if the local laws of such city grant substantially similar privileges to the commission or officer of this state charged with the administration of the tax imposed by this article and such information is to be used for tax purposes only; and provided further the commissioner of taxation and finance may furnish to such city officer or the legal representative of such city such returns filed under this article or article twenty-three (as such article was in effect on or before December thirtieth, nineteen hundred eighty-two) and other tax information, as he may consider proper, for use in court actions or proceedings under such local law, whether civil or criminal, where a written request therefor has been made to the commissioner of taxation and finance by such city officer or his delegate, provided the local law of such city grants substantially similar powers to such city officer or his delegate. Where the commissioner of taxation and finance has so authorized use of returns and other information in such actions or proceedings, officers and employees of the department of taxation and finance may testify in such actions or proceedings in respect to such returns or other information.

(h) Withholding returns.--Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (e) of this section the tax commission in its discretion, when making deposits, pursuant to section six hundred ninety-eight, of taxes withheld by employers, may deliver to the depository the withholding returns filed by such employers as provided in section six hundred seventy-four, for the purpose of insuring that all money so deposited shall be correctly credited to taxpayers' accounts.

(i) Filing returns and making payments to depository banks.--Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (e) of this section, the tax commission, in its discretion, may require or permit any or all individuals, estates or trusts liable for any tax imposed by this article, to make payments on account of estimated tax and payment of any tax, penalty or interest imposed by this article to banks, banking houses or trust companies designated by the tax commission and to file reports and returns which such banks, banking houses or trust companies as agents of the tax commission, in lieu of making any such payment to the tax commission. However, the tax commission shall designate only such banks, banking houses or trust companies as are or shall be designated by the comptroller as depositories pursuant to section six hundred ninety-eight.

(j) Authority to set interest rates.--(1) The commissioner shall set the overpayment and underpayment rates of interest to be paid pursuant to sections six hundred eighty-four, six hundred eighty-five and six hundred eighty-eight of this part, but if no such rates of interest are set, such overpayment rate shall be deemed to be set at six percent per annum and such underpayment rate shall be deemed to be set at seven and one-half percent per annum. Such rates shall be the rates prescribed in paragraphs two and four of this subsection, but the underpayment rate shall not be less than seven and one-half percent per annum. Any such rates set by the commissioner shall apply to taxes, or any portion thereof, which remain or become due or overpaid on or after the date on which such rates become effective and shall apply only with respect to interest computed or computable for periods or portions of periods occurring in the period during which such rates are in effect.

(2) Rates of interest. (A) Overpayment rate. The overpayment rate of interest set under this subsection shall be the sum of (i) the federal short-term rate as provided under paragraph three of this subsection, plus (ii) two percentage points.

Any such rate shall be rounded to the nearest full percent (or, if a multiple of one-half of one percent, such rate shall be increased to the next highest full percent).

(B) Period during which rate applies.

(i) In general. Except as provided in clauses (ii) and (iii) of this subparagraph, the federal short-term rate for the first month in each calendar quarter shall apply during the first calendar quarter beginning after such month.

(ii) Special rule for individual estimated tax. In determining the addition to tax under subsection (c) of section six hundred eighty-five for failure to pay estimated tax for any taxable year, the federal short-term rate which applies during the third month following the taxable year shall also apply during the first fifteen days of the fourth month following such taxable year.

(iii) Special rule for the month of September, nineteen hundred eighty-nine. The federal short-term rate for the month of April, nineteen hundred eighty-nine shall apply with respect to setting the rate of interest for the month of September, nineteen hundred eighty-nine.

(4) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph two of this subsection to the contrary, in the case of interest payable by an employer with respect to income taxes required to be withheld and paid over by him pursuant to the provisions of part five of this article and with respect to interest payable to an employer pursuant to subsection (c) of section six hundred eighty-six, the rates of interest prescribed by this section shall be the overpayment and underpayment rates of interest prescribed in paragraph two of subsection (e) of section one thousand ninety-six of this chapter.

(5) In computing the amount of any interest required to be paid under this article by the commissioner of taxation and finance or by the taxpayer, or any other amount determined by reference to such amount of interest, such interest and such amount shall be compounded daily. rates to be published in the section for miscellaneous notices in the state register and give other appropriate general notice of such interest rates. The setting and publication of such interest rates shall not be included within paragraph (a) of subdivision two of section one hundred two of the state administrative procedure act relating to the definition of a rule.

(7) Cross-reference. For provisions relating to the power of the commissioner of taxation and finance to abate small amounts of interest, see subsection (c) of this section.

Any violation of the provisions of this section shall be punishable in the manner provided for in subsection (e) of this section. Any information obtained by any agency or person pursuant to the provisions of this section shall not be deemed a "record", as defined in subdivision four of section eighty-six of the public officers law.

quarterly combined withholding, wage reporting and unemployment insurance returns required to be filed pursuant to paragraph four of subsection (a) of section six hundred seventy-four of this article.

(m) Disclosure of collection activities with respect to joint return.--Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (e) of this section, if any deficiency of tax with respect to a joint return is assessed and the individuals filing such return are no longer married or no longer reside in the same household, upon request in writing by either of such individuals, the commissioner shall disclose in writing to the individual making the request whether the commissioner has attempted to collect such deficiency from such other individual, the general nature of such collection activities, and the amount collected. The preceding sentence shall not apply to any deficiency which may not be collected by reason of the expiration of time within which to issue a warrant under subsection (c) of section six hundred ninety-two of this article or within which to collect such tax by execution and levy or by court proceeding.

(n) Disclosure of certain information where more than one person is subject to penalty.--If the commissioner determines that a person is liable for a penalty under subsection (g) of section six hundred eighty-five of this article with respect to any failure, upon request in writing of such person, the commissioner shall disclose in writing to such person (1) the name of any other person whom the commissioner has determined to be liable for such penalty with respect to such failure, and (2) whether the commissioner has attempted to collect such penalty from such other person, the general nature of such collection activities, and the amount collected.

number and wages of the parents, the stepparents, the child and the siblings of the child who were living in the same household as a child who is in the custody, care and custody or custody and guardianship of a local social services district or of the office of children and family services during the month that the court proceedings leading to the child's removal from the household were initiated, or the written instrument transferring care and custody of the child pursuant to the provisions of section three hundred fifty-eight-a or three hundred eighty-four-a of the social services law was signed; provided however, that the office of temporary and disability assistance or such social services district shall only use the information obtained pursuant to this subsection for the purpose of determining the eligibility of such child for federal payments for foster care and adoption assistance pursuant to the provisions of title IV-E of the federal social security act.

§ 698. Deposit and disposition of revenue. All taxes, interest and penalties collected or received by the commissioner under this article shall be deposited and disposed of pursuant to the provisions of section one hundred seventy-one-a of this chapter. The comptroller shall require adequate security from such depository. Such departments shall determine the proper allocation of the monies in such account as between unemployment insurance contributions and payments and aggregate withholding taxes. Unemployment insurance contributions and payments shall then be deposited and disposed of pursuant to the provisions of title four of article eighteen of the labor law, and aggregate withholding taxes shall be deposited and disposed of pursuant to the provisions of sections one

§ 801. Imposition of tax and rate. (a) For the sole purpose of providing an additional stable and reliable dedicated funding source for the metropolitan transportation authority and its subsidiaries and affiliates to preserve, operate and improve essential transit and transportation services in the metropolitan commuter transportation district, a tax is hereby imposed on employers and individuals as follows: (1) (A) For tax quarters beginning before July first, two thousand twenty-five, employers who engage in business within the MCTD, in the counties of Dutchess, Nassau, Orange, Putnam, Rockland, Suffolk and Westchester, the tax is imposed at a rate of (i) eleven hundredths (.11) percent of the payroll expense for employers with payroll expense greater than three hundred twelve thousand five hundred dollars and no greater than three hundred seventy-five thousand dollars in any calendar quarter, (ii) twenty-three hundredths (.23) percent of the payroll expense for employers with payroll expense greater than three hundred seventy-five thousand dollars and no greater than four hundred thirty-seven thousand five hundred dollars in any calendar quarter, and (iii) thirty-four hundredths (.34) percent of the payroll expense for employers with payroll expense in excess of four hundred thirty-seven thousand five hundred dollars in any calendar quarter. If the employer is a professional employer organization, as defined in section nine hundred sixteen of the labor law, the employer's tax shall be calculated by determining the payroll expense attributable to each client who has entered into a professional employer agreement with such organization and the payroll expense attributable to such organization itself, multiplying each of those payroll expense amounts by the applicable rate set forth in this paragraph and adding those products together.

(B) For tax quarters beginning before July first, two thousand twenty-five, employers who engage in business within the MCTD, in the counties of Bronx, Kings, New York, Queens, and Richmond, the tax is imposed at a rate of (i) eleven hundredths (.11) percent of the payroll expense for employers with payroll expense greater than three hundred twelve thousand five hundred dollars and no greater than three hundred seventy-five thousand dollars in any calendar quarter, (ii) twenty-three hundredths (.23) percent of the payroll expense for employers with payroll expense greater than three hundred seventy-five thousand dollars and no greater than four hundred thirty-seven thousand five hundred dollars in any calendar quarter, and (iii) sixty hundredths (.60) percent of the payroll expense for employers with payroll expense in excess of four hundred thirty-seven thousand five hundred dollars in any calendar quarter. If the employer is a professional employer organization, as defined in section nine hundred sixteen of the labor law, the employer's tax shall be calculated by determining the payroll expense attributable to each client who has entered into a professional employer agreement with such organization and the payroll expense attributable to such organization itself, multiplying each of those payroll expense amounts by the applicable rate set forth in this paragraph and adding those products together.

(C) For tax quarters beginning on and after July first, two thousand twenty-five, for employers within MCTD zone one, the tax is imposed at a rate of (i) fifty-five thousandths (.055) percent of the payroll expense for employers with payroll expense greater than three hundred twelve thousand five hundred dollars and no greater than three hundred seventy-five thousand dollars in any calendar quarter, (ii) one hundred fifteen thousandths (.115) percent of the payroll expense for employers with payroll expense greater than three hundred seventy-five thousand dollars and no greater than four hundred thirty-seven thousand five hundred dollars in any calendar quarter, (iii) sixty hundredths (.60) percent of the payroll expense for employers with payroll expense greater than four hundred thirty-seven thousand five hundred dollars and no greater than two million five hundred thousand dollars in any calendar quarter; and (iv) eight hundred ninety-five thousandths (.895) percent of the payroll expense for employers with payroll expense in excess of two million five hundred thousand dollars in any calendar quarter. Provided, however, that for employers within MCTD zone one who are local government employers as defined in this article with payroll expense in excess of two million five hundred thousand dollars in any calendar quarter, the tax is imposed at a rate of sixty hundredths (.60) percent of the payroll expense. If the employer is a professional employer organization, as defined in section nine hundred sixteen of the labor law, the employer's tax shall be calculated by determining the payroll expense attributable to each client who has entered into a professional employer agreement with such organization and the payroll expense attributable to such organization itself, multiplying each of those payroll expense amounts by the applicable rate set forth in this paragraph and adding those products together.

(D) For tax quarters beginning on and after July first, two thousand twenty-five, for employers within MCTD zone two that are not local government employers, the tax is imposed at a rate of (i) fifty-five thousandths (.055) percent of the payroll expense for employers with payroll expense greater than three hundred twelve thousand five hundred dollars and no greater than three hundred seventy-five thousand dollars in any calendar quarter, (ii) one hundred fifteen thousandths (.115) percent of the payroll expense for employers with payroll expense greater than three hundred seventy-five thousand dollars and no greater than four hundred thirty-seven thousand five hundred dollars in any calendar quarter, (iii) thirty-four hundredths (.34) percent of the payroll expense for employers with payroll expense greater than four hundred thirty-seven thousand five hundred dollars and no greater than two million five hundred thousand dollars in any calendar quarter; and (iv) six hundred thirty-five thousandths (.635) percent of the payroll expense for employers with payroll expense in excess of two million five hundred thousand dollars in any calendar quarter. If the employer is a professional employer organization, as defined in section nine hundred sixteen of the labor law, the employer's tax shall be calculated by determining the payroll expense attributable to each client who has entered into a professional employer agreement with such organization and the payroll expense attributable to such organization itself, multiplying each of those payroll expense amounts by the applicable rate set forth in this paragraph and adding those products together.

(2) For individuals in calendar years beginning before January first, two thousand twenty-six: (A) the tax is imposed at a rate of thirty-four hundredths (.34) percent of the net earnings from self-employment of individuals that are attributable to the MCTD, in the counties of Dutchess, Nassau, Orange, Putnam, Rockland, Suffolk, and Westchester, if such earnings attributable to the MCTD exceed fifty thousand dollars for the tax year.

(B) the tax is imposed at a rate of sixty hundredths (.60) percent of the net earnings from self-employment of individuals that are attributable to the MCTD, in the counties of Bronx, Kings, New York, Queens, and Richmond, if such earnings attributable to the MCTD exceed fifty thousand dollars for the tax year.

(3) For individuals in calendar years beginning on and after January first, two thousand twenty-six: (A) the tax is imposed at a rate of sixty hundredths (.60) percent of the net earnings from self-employment of individuals that are attributable to MCTD zone one, if such earnings attributable to the MCTD exceed one hundred fifty thousand dollars for the tax year.

(B) the tax is imposed at a rate of thirty-four hundredths (.34) percent of the net earnings from self-employment of individuals that are attributable to MCTD zone two, if such earnings attributable to the MCTD exceed one hundred fifty thousand dollars for the tax year.

(b)(1) An individual having net earnings from self-employment from activity both within and without the metropolitan commuter transportation district is required to allocate and apportion such net earnings to the MCTD in the manner required for allocation and apportionment of income under article twenty-two of this chapter.

(2) In the case of individuals with earnings from self-employment, the net earnings from self employment threshold in paragraphs two or three of subsection (a) of this section will be computed on an individual basis regardless of whether that individual filed a joint personal income tax return.

(c) The determination of whether a covered employee is employed within the MCTD will be made by utilizing the rules applicable to the jurisdiction of employment for purposes of the statewide wage reporting system under section one hundred seventy-one-a of this chapter and substituting the MCTD for the state in that application.

§ 802. Pass through of tax prohibited. An employer cannot deduct from the wages or compensation of an employee any amount that represents all or any portion of the tax imposed on the employer under this article.

§ 803. Exemption override. (a) Except as provided in subdivision (b) of this section, any exemption from tax specified in any other New York state law will not apply to the tax imposed by this article.

(b) If a tax-free NY area approved pursuant to the provisions of article twenty-one of the economic development law is located within the MCTD, the payroll expense in such tax-free NY area of any employer that is located in such area and accepted into the START-UP NY program shall be exempt from the tax imposed under this article. In addition, the net earnings from self-employment of an individual from a business in such tax-free NY area that is accepted into the START-UP NY program shall be exempt from the tax imposed under this article.

§ 804. Payment of tax. (a) Employers with payroll expense. The tax imposed on the payroll expense of employers under section eight hundred one of this article for each calendar quarter must be paid quarterly at the same time as the statewide wage reporting system report is required under section one hundred seventy-one-a of this chapter; provided however, that employers subject to section nine of this chapter other than school districts as defined in section thirty-six hundred nine-g of the education law must pay the tax on the payroll expense at the same time as the withholding tax remitted under the electronic payment reporting system and the electronic funds transfer system authorized by section nine of this chapter.

(b) Individuals with net earnings from self-employment. Individuals with earnings from self-employment must make estimated tax payments of the tax imposed by this article for the taxable year on the same dates specified in paragraph one of subsection (c) of section six hundred eighty-five of this chapter. In addition, these self-employed individuals must file a return for the taxable year by the fifteenth day of the fourth month following the close of the taxable year. Paragraph one of subsection (d) of section six hundred eighty-five of this chapter shall not apply to the estimated tax payments required by this subsection.

and penalties imposed by this article and collected or received by the commissioner shall be deposited daily with such responsible banks, banking houses or trust companies, as may be designated by the comptroller, to the credit of the comptroller in trust for the metropolitan transportation authority. An account may be established in one or more of such depositories. Such deposits will be kept separate and apart from all other money in the possession of the comptroller. The comptroller shall require adequate security from all such depositories. Of the total revenue collected or received under this article, the comptroller shall retain such amount as the commissioner may determine to be necessary for refunds under this article. The commissioner is authorized and directed to deduct from the amounts it receives under this article, before deposit into the trust accounts designated by the comptroller, a reasonable amount necessary to effectuate refunds of appropriations of the department to reimburse the department for the costs incurred to administer, collect and distribute the taxes imposed by this article.

(b) On or before the twelfth and twenty-sixth day of each succeeding month, after reserving such amount for such refunds and deducting such amounts for such costs, as provided for in subsection (a) of this section, the commissioner shall certify to the comptroller the amount of all revenues so received during the prior month as a result of the taxes, interest and penalties so imposed. The amount of revenues so certified shall be paid over by the fifteenth and the final business day of each succeeding month from such account without appropriation into the metropolitan transportation authority finance fund established pursuant to section twelve hundred seventy-h of the public authorities law, provided, however, that the comptroller shall ensure that any payments to the metropolitan transportation authority finance fund which are due to be paid by the final business day in the month of December pursuant to this subsection shall be received by the metropolitan transportation authority finance fund on the same business day in which it is paid.

§ 806. Procedural provisions. (a) General. All provisions of article twenty-two of this chapter will apply to the provisions of this article in the same manner and with the same force and effect as if the language of article twenty-two of this chapter had been incorporated in full into this article and had been specifically adjusted for and expressly referred to the tax imposed by this article, except to the extent that any provision is either inconsistent with a provision of this article or is not relevant to this article. Notwithstanding the preceding sentence, no credit against tax in article twenty-two of this chapter can be used to offset the tax due under this article.

(b) Combined Filings. Notwithstanding any other provisions of this article:

(1) The commissioner may require the filing of a combined return which, in addition to the return provided for in subsection (b) of section eight hundred four of this article, may also include any of the returns required to be filed by a taxpayer pursuant to the provisions of section six hundred fifty-one of this chapter and which may be required to be filed by such taxpayer pursuant to any local law enacted pursuant to the authority of article thirty, thirty-A or thirty-B of this chapter.

(2) Where a combined return is required, and with respect to the payment of estimated tax, the commissioner may also require the payment to it of a single amount which shall equal the total of the amounts (total taxes less any credits or refunds) which would have been required to be paid with the returns or in payment of estimated tax pursuant to the provisions of this article, the provisions of article twenty-two of this chapter, and the provisions of local laws enacted under the authority of article thirty, thirty-A or thirty-B of this chapter.

(3) Notwithstanding any other law to the contrary, the commissioner may require that all filings of forms or returns under this article must be filed electronically and all payments of tax must be paid electronically.

§ 807. Enforcement with other taxes. (a) Joint assessment. If there is assessed a tax under this article and there is also assessed a tax against the same taxpayer pursuant to article twenty-two of this chapter or under a local law enacted pursuant to the authority of article thirty, article thirty-A, or article thirty-B of this chapter, and payment of a single amount is required under the provisions of this article, such payment shall be deemed to have been made with respect to the taxes so assessed in proportion to the amounts of such taxes due, including tax, penalties, interest and additions to tax.

(b) Joint action. If the commissioner takes action under such article twenty-two or under a local law enacted pursuant to the authority of article thirty, thirty-A, or thirty-B of this chapter with respect to the enforcement and collection of the tax or taxes assessed under such articles, the commissioner shall, whenever possible and necessary, accompany such action with a similar action under similar enforcement and collection provisions of the tax imposed by this article.

(c) Apportionment of moneys collected by joint action. Any moneys collected as a result of such joint action shall be deemed to have been collected in proportion to the amounts due, including tax, penalties, interest and additions to tax, under article twenty-two of this chapter or under a local law enacted pursuant to the authority of article thirty, thirty-A, or thirty-B of this chapter and the tax imposed by this article.

(d) Joint deficiency action. Whenever the commissioner takes any action with respect to a deficiency of income tax under article twenty-two of this chapter or under a local law enacted pursuant to the authority of article thirty, thirty-A, or thirty-B of this chapter, other than the action set forth in subsection (a) of this section, the commissioner may in his or her discretion accompany such action with a similar action under this article.

In the case of a decedent whose New York taxable estate exceeds the basic exclusion amount by an amount that is less than or equal to five percent of such amount, the applicable credit amount shall be the amount of tax that would be due under subsection (b) of this section if the amount on which the tax is to be computed were equal to the basic exclusion amount multiplied by one minus a fraction, the numerator of which is the decedent's New York taxable estate minus the basic exclusion amount, and the denominator of which is five percent of the basic exclusion amount. Provided, however, that the credit allowed by this subsection shall not exceed the tax imposed by this section, and no credit shall be allowed to the estate of any decedent whose New York taxable estate exceeds one hundred five percent of the basic exclusion amount.

(2) (A) For purposes of this section, the basic exclusion amount shall be as follows:

(C) (i) For purposes of this paragraph, "consumer price index" means the most recent consumer price index for all-urban consumers published by the United States department of labor.

(ii) For purposes of clause (ii) of subparagraph (B) of this paragraph, the consumer price index for any calendar year shall be the average of the consumer price index as of the close of the twelve-month period ending on August thirty-first of such calendar year.

(iii) If any amount adjusted under this paragraph is not a multiple of ten thousand dollars, such amount shall be rounded to the nearest multiple of ten thousand dollars.

§ 954. Resident's New York gross estate. (a) General.-- The New York gross estate of a deceased resident means his or her federal gross estate as defined in the internal revenue code (whether or not a federal estate tax return is required to be filed) modified as follows:

(1) Reduced by the value of real or tangible personal property having an actual situs outside New York state.

(2) Increased by the amount determined under section nine hundred fifty-seven of this part (relating to limited powers of appointment created prior to September first, nineteen hundred thirty).

(3) Increased by the amount of any taxable gift under section 2503 of the internal revenue code not otherwise included in the decedent's federal gross estate, made during the three year period ending on the decedent's date of death, but not including any gift made: (A) when the decedent was not a resident of New York state; or (B) before April first, two thousand fourteen; or (C) between January first, two thousand nineteen and January fifteenth, two thousand nineteen; or (D) that is real or tangible personal property having an actual situs outside New York state at the time the gift was made. Provided, however that this paragraph shall not apply to the estate of a decedent dying on or after January first, two thousand thirty-two. The amount by which the total tax imposed under this article exceeds the total tax that would have been imposed under this article if this paragraph did not apply shall be treated as an obligation of the decedent as of the decedent's death that is subject to the provisions of this article (but which shall not be deductible for purposes of this article).

(4) Increased by the value of any property not otherwise already included in the decedent's federal gross estate in which the decedent had a qualifying income interest for life if a deduction was allowed on the return of the tax imposed by this article with respect to the transfer of such property to the decedent by reason of the application of paragraph (7) of subsection (b) of section 2056 of the internal revenue code, as made applicable to the tax imposed by this article by section nine hundred ninety-nine-a of this article, whether or not a federal estate tax return was required to be filed by the estate of the transferring spouse.

(b) Valuation. -- (1) The New York gross estate shall be valued as of the time of the decedent's death, except that if a federal estate tax return is filed and the alternate valuation under section 2032 of the internal revenue code is elected for federal estate tax purposes, the New York gross estate shall be valued as of the applicable federal valuation date or dates. Any real property qualified under section two thousand thirty-two-A of the internal revenue code shall have the same value for purposes of the New York gross estate as it has for federal estate tax purposes.

(2) If such alternate valuation could have been elected pursuant to paragraph one of this subsection, but for the absence of an estate sufficient to require the filing of a federal return, the New York gross estate may, upon the election of the executor, be valued as of the federal valuation date or dates which would have applied if a federal return had been filed. However, no election may be made under this paragraph unless such election will decrease the value of the New York gross estate and the amount of tax imposed by this article (reduced by credits allowable against such tax). Any election made under this paragraph shall be irrevocable. The election allowed by this paragraph shall be made no later than the date prescribed for the filing of the return under this article (including extensions) or any time thereafter as the commissioner may prescribe.

(a) General.--The taxable estate of a New York resident shall be his or her New York gross estate, minus the deductions allowable for determining his or her federal taxable estate under the internal revenue code (whether or not a federal estate tax return is required to be filed), except to the extent that such deductions relate to real or tangible personal property situated outside New York state.

(b) Waiver of deductions.-- If the right to any deduction otherwise allowable is waived for federal estate tax purposes, it shall be considered waived for New York estate tax purposes.

(c) Qualified terminable interest property election.-- Except as otherwise provided in this subsection, the election referred to in paragraph (7) of subsection (b) of section 2056 of the internal revenue code shall not be allowed under this article unless such election was made with respect to the federal estate tax return required to be filed under the provisions of the internal revenue code. If such election was made for the purposes of the federal estate tax, then such election must also be made by the executor on the return of the tax imposed by this article. Where no federal estate tax return is required to be filed, the executor must make the election referred to in such paragraph (7) with respect to the tax imposed by this article on the return of the tax imposed by this article. § 957. Modification for limited powers of appointment created prior to September first, nineteen hundred thirty. (a) General.--In determining the New York gross estate, there shall be added to the federal gross estate of a deceased resident the value of all property (other than real and tangible personal property situated outside New York state) passing under a limited power of appointment exercised by the decedent (A) by will or (B) by a disposition which is of such nature that if it were a transfer of property owned by him, such property would be includible in his federal gross estate under section two thousand thirty-five, two thousand thirty-six, two thousand thirty-seven or two thousand thirty-eight of the internal revenue code.

(b) Definition.-- For purposes of this section, a limited power of appointment means a power--

(1) with respect to property which is not or was not subject to New York death tax in the estate of the grantor of such power, but would have been so taxable except for a statute providing that the tax on the transfer of such property should be imposed in the estate of the grantee of such power in the event of its exercise; and

(2) the exercise of which has not required the inclusion of the property in the decedent's federal gross estate under section two thousand forty-one of the internal revenue code (relating to general powers of appointment).

§ 958. Exemptions in other laws not applicable. No exemption provided for in any other article of this chapter or any other law of this state shall be construed as being applicable in any manner under this article.

§ 960. Nonresident's estate tax. (a) General.--A tax is hereby imposed on the transfer, from any deceased individual who at his death was not a resident of New York state, of real and tangible personal property having an actual situs in New York state and either (i) includible in his federal gross estate or (ii) which would be includible in his New York gross estate pursuant to section nine hundred fifty-seven (relating to certain limited powers of appointment) if he were a resident of New York state.

(b) Computation of tax.--The tax imposed under subsection (a) shall be the same as the tax that would be due, if the decedent had died a resident, under subsection (a) of section nine hundred fifty-two, except that for purposes of computing the tax under subsection (b) of section nine hundred fifty-two, "New York taxable estate" shall not include the value of, or any deduction allowable under the Internal Revenue Code related to, any intangible personal property otherwise includible in the deceased individual's New York gross estate, and shall not include the amount of any gift unless such gift consists of real or tangible personal property having an actual situs in New York state or intangible personal property employed in a business, trade or profession carried on in this state.

(d) Works of art on loan for exhibition. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the tax imposed under subsection (a) of this section on the transfer, from any deceased individual who at his or her death was not a resident of the state of New York, of works of art having an actual situs in the state of New York and either (i) includible in his or her federal gross estate or (ii) which would be includible in his or her New York gross estate pursuant to section nine hundred fifty-seven (relating to certain limited powers of appointment) if he or she were a resident of the state of New York, shall not be subject to the tax imposed by this section if such works of art are loaned to a public gallery located within the state of New York solely for exhibition purposes but only if no part of the net earnings of such public gallery or museum inure to the benefit of any private stockholder or individual, and, at the time of the death of such individual such works of art are on exhibition or en route to or from exhibition in such a public gallery or museum.

§ 960-a. Reciprocity. The tax imposed by this article in respect of personal property (except tangible personal property having an actual situs in this state) shall not be payable if the transferor is a resident of a state or territory of the United States the laws of which, at the time of the transfer, contained a reciprocal provision under which nonresidents were exempted from transfer taxes or death taxes of every character in respect of personal property (except tangible personal property having an actual situs therein) provided the state or territory of residence of such nonresident allowed a similar exemption to residents of the state or territory of residence of such transferor. For the purposes of this section, the District of Columbia and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico shall be considered territories of the United States.

(1) the inclusion in the federal gross estate of any item of property or interest in property,

(2) the allowance of any item claimed as a deduction from the federal gross estate, or

(3) the value or amount of any such item, shall also determine the same issue for purposes of the tax under this article unless such final federal determination is shown by a preponderance of the evidence to be erroneous.

(b) Definition.-- For the purpose of this section a final federal determination means:

(1) A decision by the tax court or a judgment, decree or other order by any court of competent jurisdiction which has become final.

(2) A final disposition by the secretary of the treasury or his delegate of a claim for refund. Such disposition shall be deemed to have occurred--

(A) as to items of the claim which are allowed, upon allowance of refund or upon disallowance of the claim by reason of offsetting items; and

(B) as to items of the claim which are disallowed, or as to items applied by the secretary of the treasury or his delegate as an offset against the claim, (i) upon expiration of the time for instituting suit for refund with respect to such items, unless suit is instituted before the expiration of such time, or (ii) upon filing with the surrogate or appraiser a written statement, in such form as may be required by the tax commission, that suit for refund will not be instituted.

(3) A closing agreement made under section seven thousand one hundred twenty-one of the internal revenue code.

(4) An assessment pursuant to a waiver of restrictions on assessment, or a notification in writing issued by the secretary of the treasury or his delegate that the federal estate tax return has been accepted as filed where such notification is issued after an audit of such return, unless the executor shall have filed with the commissioner of taxation and finance a written statement, in such form as may be required by the commissioner, that a claim for refund of federal estate taxes has been or will be filed.

(c) Items determined.-- If there has been a final federal determination with respect to a decedent's federal estate tax, any item entering into the computation of such tax shall be deemed to have been the subject of the final federal determination, whether or not specifically adjusted thereby.

RETURNS AND PAYMENT OF TAX

§ 971. Estate tax returns. (a) Returns by executor. (1) Residents. In the case of the estate of every individual dying on or after April first, two thousand fourteen, who at his or her death was a resident of New York state, his or her executor shall make a return with respect to the estate tax imposed by section nine hundred fifty-two of this article if the decedent's federal gross estate, increased by the amount of any gift includible in his or her New York gross estate, exceeds the basic exclusion amount applicable to the decedent's date of death in paragraph two of subsection (c) of section nine hundred fifty-two of this article.

(2) Nonresidents. In the case of the estate of every individual dying on or after April first, two thousand fourteen, who at his or her death was not a resident of New York state, if such individual's federal gross estate includes real or tangible personal property having an actual situs in New York state, the executor shall make a return with respect to the estate tax imposed by section nine hundred sixty of this article if the decedent's federal gross estate, increased by the amount of any gift includible in his or her New York gross estate, exceeds the basic exclusion amount applicable to the decedent's date of death in paragraph two of subsection (c) of section nine hundred fifty-two of this article.

Every petition for ancillary letters testamentary or of administration and every petition for original letters testamentary or of administration in the estate of a decedent who at the time of his death was not domiciled in this state, shall set forth the commissioner of taxation and finance as a party to be cited, and upon the presentation thereof the surrogate shall issue a citation directed to the commissioner. The decree of the surrogate awarding the letters may contain any provision for the payment of the tax imposed by this article or the giving of security therefor which might be made by such surrogate if the commissioner of taxation and finance were a creditor of the decedent.

(b) Notification in case of estate of nonresident. Whenever the commissioner of taxation and finance is cited on the issuance of original letters testamentary or of administration in the estate of a decedent not domiciled in this state as provided in subsection (a) of this section, the commissioner shall notify the proper taxing authorities of the state in which such decedent was domiciled of the fact of the filing of the petition and shall furnish information submitted by the executor to the commissioner as to the decedent's property and value thereof. No executor shall be entitled to a final accounting or discharge in a surrogate's court of this state unless he shall have filed with the surrogate, in addition to the certificate or final receipt required under section nine hundred eighty-one of this article, (i) proof that all death taxes, together with interest and penalties thereon, due to the state of domicile of such decedent or to any political subdivision thereof have been paid or secured, or (ii) a consent by the proper taxing authorities of the state of domicile to such final accounting or discharge.

(c) Domiciliary state's tax authority as interested party. The official charged with administration of the death tax laws of the domiciliary state shall be deemed a party interested in the estate of a deceased individual who at his death was not a resident of New York state, to the extent that such official may petition for an accounting therein if the death taxes, interest and penalties due to such domiciliary state or a political subdivision thereof are not paid or secured. Upon such petition the surrogate may decree such accounting and may decree the remission to a fiduciary appointed by the domiciliary probate court of so much of the personal property of such estate as may be necessary to insure the payment to the state of domicile, or political subdivision thereof, of the amount of death taxes, interest and penalties due to such state or political subdivision.

(d) Requirement of reciprocity. This section shall apply to the estate of a deceased individual who at his death was not a resident of New York state only (i) if the laws of the state of his domicile contain a provision, of any nature or however expressed, whereby this state is given reasonable assurance of the collection of its death taxes, interest and penalties, from the estates of decedents dying domiciled in this state in cases where the estates of such decedents are being administered by the probate court of such other state by virtue of original letters testamentary or of administration, or (ii) if the state in which such decedent was domiciled does not grant letters testamentary or of administration in estates of nonresidents, until after letters have been issued by the state of domicile.

(e) Cooperation by commissioner of taxation and finance. The commissioner of taxation and finance shall cooperate with the taxing authorities of the state of domicile of a deceased individual who at his death was not a resident of New York state and shall furnish them with such information as may be requested with respect to any such estate. The provisions of this section shall be liberally construed to insure that the state of domicile of a decedent shall receive any death taxes together with interest and penalties thereon, due to it from such decedent's estate.

(f) Definition of state. For the purpose of this section, the term "state" means the states of the United States, the District of Columbia, any territory of the United States and the Dominion of Canada or any province thereof.

§ 972. Time and place for filing returns. (a) Time for filing returns. A person required to make and file a return under this article shall file returns, statements, or other documents, or copies thereof, within nine months after the date of the decedent's death.

(b) Place for filing returns. The commissioner of taxation and finance shall prescribe the place for filing any return, statement, other document, or copies thereof, required to be filed with such commissioner pursuant to this article.

(c) Simultaneous filing of returns with surrogate's court. If required by rule of any surrogate's court, a person required to make and file returns, statements, or other documents, or copies thereof, under this article shall simultaneously file a duplicate copy of such returns, statements, or other documents, or copies thereof, with the surrogate's court in the county where the petition was filed to commence either a proceeding for probate of a will or a proceeding for administration in intestacy. The office of court administration shall promptly notify the commissioner after receiving notice that any surrogate's court has adopted such a rule, so that the commissioner will be able to properly inform taxpayers of their responsibility to file such returns, statements or other documents with the surrogate's court.

§ 973. Signing of returns and other documents. (a) General. Any return, statement or other document required to be made pursuant to this article shall be signed in accordance with instructions prescribed by the commissioner of taxation and finance.

(b) Signature presumed authentic. The fact that the name of the executor or other individual is signed to a return, statement or other document, or copies thereof, shall be prima facie evidence for all purposes that the return, statement or other document, or copy was actually signed by him.

(c) Certifications. The making or filing of any return, statement or other document, or copy thereof, required to be made or filed pursuant to this article, including a copy of a federal return, shall constitute a certification by the person making or filing such return, statement or other document or copy thereof that the statements contained therein are true and that any copy filed is a true copy.

§ 974. Payment of tax. (a) General. The tax imposed by this article shall without assessment, or notice and demand be paid at the time prescribed in this article by the executor, subject to being by him charged against and collected from the persons interested in the estate, to the commissioner of taxation and finance.

(b) Payment. The entire tax due shall, unless otherwise provided in this article, be paid on or before the date fixed for filing the return required under this article.

(c) Cross reference. For interest on underpayment, see sections six hundred eighty-four and nine hundred ninety of this chapter.

§ 975. Liability for tax. (a) Duty of executor to pay tax. (1) The tax imposed by this article shall be paid by the executor, who shall thereupon charge the same against and collect it from the persons interested in the estate in accordance with the rules of apportionment of section 2-1.8 and other relevant provisions of the estates, powers and trusts law.

(2) If the tax imposed by this article, or any part thereof, is paid by, or collected out of, that part of the estate passing to or in the possession of any person other than the executor in his capacity as such, such person shall be entitled to reimbursement out of any part of the estate still undistributed or by a just and equitable contribution by the persons whose interest in the estate of the decedent would have been reduced if the tax had been paid before the distribution of the estate or whose interest is subject to equal or prior liability for the payment of taxes, debts or other charges against the estate, it being the purpose and intent of this section that so far as is practicable and unless otherwise directed by the will or non-testamentary instrument of the decedent, the tax shall be paid out of the estate before its distribution.

(b) Liability of executor. An executor who pays, in whole or in part, any debt due by the estate for which he or she acts, except for a debt owed to the United States or to New York state, or who distributes any asset of the estate, prior to the payment in full of the tax imposed by this article, shall be answerable in his or her own person and estate for the payment of such tax to the extent that the assets of the estate have been so paid out or distributed. The liability of the executor

(c) Liability of life insurance beneficiaries. Unless the decedent directs otherwise in his or her will, if any part of the New York gross estate on which tax has been paid consists of proceeds of policies of insurance on the life of the decedent receivable by a beneficiary other than the executor, the executor shall be entitled to recover from such beneficiary such portion of the total tax paid as the proceeds of such policies bear to the federal taxable estate, reduced by the value of any real or tangible personal property located outside New York state, and increased by any federal estate tax deductions attributable to such property. If there is more than one such beneficiary, the executor shall be entitled to recover from such beneficiaries in the same ratio. In the case of such proceeds receivable by the surviving spouse of the decedent for which a deduction is allowed under section two thousand fifty-six of the internal revenue code (relating to marital deduction), this section shall not apply to such proceeds.

(d) Liability of recipients of property over which decedent had power of appointment. Unless the decedent directs otherwise in his or her will, if any part of the New York gross estate on which the tax has been paid consists of the value of property included in the gross estate under section two thousand forty-one of the internal revenue code, the executor shall be entitled to recover from the person receiving such property by reason of the exercise, nonexercise, or release of a power of appointment such portion of the total tax paid as the value of such property bears to the federal taxable estate, reduced by the value of any real or tangible personal property located outside New York state, and increased by any federal estate tax deductions attributable to such property. If there is more than one such person, the executor shall be entitled to recover from such persons in the same ratio. In the case of such property received by the surviving spouse of the decedent for which a deduction is allowed under section two thousand fifty-six of the internal revenue code (relating to marital deduction), this section shall not apply to such property.

(e) Liability of transferees and others. If the tax imposed by this article is not paid when due, then the spouse, transferee, trustee, surviving tenant, person in possession of the property by reason of the exercise, nonexercise, or release of a power of appointment, or beneficiary, who receives, or has on the date of the decedent's death, property included in the New York gross estate to the extent of the value, at the time of the decedent's death, of such property, shall be personally liable for such tax. Any part of such property transferred by (or transferred by a transferee of) such spouse, transferee, trustee, surviving tenant, person in possession of property by reason of the exercise, nonexercise, or release of a power of appointment, or beneficiary, to a bona fide purchaser, mortgagee, or pledgee, for an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth shall be divested of the lien provided in section nine hundred eighty-two of this article and a like lien shall then attach to all the property of such spouse, transferee, trustee, surviving tenant, person in possession, beneficiary, or transferee of any such person, except any part transferred to a bona fide purchaser, mortgagee, or pledgee for an adequate and full consideration in money or money's worth. Provided, however, where any interest in such property was held by the decedent and the decedent's surviving spouse as tenants by the entirety, such interest in such property shall be divested of the lien provided in section nine hundred eighty-two of this article.

§ 976. Extensions of time. (a) General. (1) The commissioner of taxation and finance may grant a reasonable extension of time for payment of tax (or any installment), or for filing any return, statement or other document required pursuant to this article, on such terms and conditions as he may require. Except in the case of executors who are outside the United States, no such extension for filing any return, statement or other document shall exceed six months. Except as otherwise provided in this article, no such extension for payment shall exceed twelve months from the date fixed for payment.

(2) Where there is included in the value of the gross estate the value of a reversionary or remainder interest in property, the payment of the part of the tax imposed by this article attributable to such interest may, at the election of the executor, be postponed until six months after the termination of the precedent interest or interests in the property, and the amount the payment of which is so postponed shall then be payable, together with interest thereon. If the commissioner of taxation and finance finds that the payment of the tax within such six months would result in undue hardship to the estate and said commissioner has approved payment in respect of such tax over a longer period, he may extend the time for a payment for a reasonable period not in excess of three years from the expiration of such six months. The postponement of the payment of any such amount shall be under such regulations as the commissioner of taxation and finance may prescribe, and shall be upon condition that the executor, or any other person liable for the tax, shall comply with subsection (c) of this section (relating to furnishing of security).

(3) If the commissioner of taxation and finance finds that the payment on the due date of any part of the amount of the tax imposed by this article would result in undue hardship to the estate, he may extend the time for payment for such period as he may deem reasonable, but not to exceed four years from the date of death, and may require payment to be made in annual installments.

(b) Whenever the commissioner extends the time for the payment of tax under this section, that portion of the tax as to which an extension is granted shall bear interest from the date the tax is required to be paid, to the date of payment without regard to any extension of time for the payment of the tax or filing of the return, at the rate prescribed in subsection (a) of section six hundred eighty-four of this chapter.

(c) Furnishing of security. If any extension of time is granted for payment of any amount of tax, the commissioner of taxation and finance may require the taxpayer to furnish a bond issued by a surety company approved by the superintendent of financial services as to solvency and responsibility and authorized to transact business in this state or other security acceptable to such commissioner in an amount not exceeding twice the amount for which the extension of time for payment is granted, on such terms and conditions as such commissioner may require.

(d) Cross reference. For extensions of time for payment of estate tax where an estate consists largely of interest in closely held businesses, see section nine hundred ninety-seven of this article.

(e) If the decedent has a cause of action pending at the time of death, or a cause of action arises which is related to the decedent's death, and any recovery under the cause of action is to be taxable under this article, the commissioner shall waive any penalty and interest associated with such cause of action which accrues from the date that the return disclosing such cause of action is filed, provided that such penalty and interest may not be waived for periods beyond one year after the date of final judgment or settlement of the cause of action.

§ 977. Requirements concerning returns, notices, records and statements. (a) General. The commissioner of taxation and finance may prescribe regulations as to the keeping of records, the content and form of returns, statements or other documents, and the filing of copies of federal estate tax returns and determinations. The commissioner may require any executor or other person, by regulation, instruction or notice served upon such person, to make such returns or documents, render such statements, or keep such records as the commissioner may deem sufficient to show whether or not such executor or other person is liable under this article for tax.

(b) Federal return. (1) If a federal estate tax return is required for federal estate tax purposes, a copy thereof, together with such summary and additional information as the commissioner of taxation and finance may prescribe, shall be filed with the return of tax under this article.

For the purposes of this article, the phrase "return, statement or other document" shall include a copy of the federal estate tax return, document or statement.

(2) If a federal estate tax return is not required for federal estate tax purposes, the return of tax under this article shall include such schedules and information as the commissioner of taxation and finance shall prescribe.

(c) Identifying numbers. (1) When required by the commissioner of taxation and finance:

(A) Inclusion in returns. Any person required under the authority of this article to make a return, statement, or other document, or copies thereof, shall include in such return, statement, or other document, or copies thereof, such identifying number as may be prescribed for securing proper identification of such person, or of the decedent.

(B) Furnishing number to other persons. Any person with respect to whom a return, statement, or other document, or copy thereof, is required under the authority of this article to be made by another person shall furnish to such other person such identifying number as may be prescribed for securing his proper identification.

(C) Furnishing number of another person. Any person required under the authority of this article to make a return, statement, or other document, or copy thereof, with respect to another person, shall request from such other person, and shall include in any such return, statement, or other document, or copy thereof, such identifying number as may be prescribed for securing proper identification of such other person.

(2) Limitation. For purposes of subparagraphs (B) and (C) of paragraph (1) of this subsection, a return, statement, or other document, or copies thereof, of an estate, with respect to its liability for tax, shall be considered as a return, statement, or other document, or copies thereof, with respect to each beneficiary of such estate under this article.

(3) Requirement of information. For purposes of this subsection, the commissioner of taxation and finance is authorized to require such information as may be necessary to assign an identifying number to any person or estate.

(4) Use of social security account number. The social security account number issued to an individual may, except as otherwise specified by the commissioner of taxation and finance, be used as the identifying number for such individual for purposes of this title.

(d) Notice of qualification as executor. Every executor shall give notice of his qualifications as such to the commissioner of taxation and finance in such manner and at such time as may be required by the commissioner. The commissioner may provide such exemptions from the requirements of this section as he deems proper.

§ 978. Compromise agreements in cases of disputed domicile. (a) Determining tax under this article. Where the commissioner of taxation and finance claims that a decedent was domiciled in this state at the time of his death and the taxing authorities of another state or states make a similar claim with respect to their state or states, the commissioner of taxation and finance may enter into a written agreement with such taxing officials and with the executor that a certain sum shall be accepted in full payment of the tax imposed by this article, provided that said agreement also fixes the amount to be paid to such other state or states in full payment of the death taxes thereof. Full power and authority is hereby conferred upon the executor to enter into the agreement provided for herein. The execution of such agreement shall finally and conclusively fix and determine the amount of tax imposed by this article, except as otherwise provided in such agreement with respect to the valuation of estates devoted to farming or closely held business and except as provided in subsection (b) of this section, without regard to any other provision of the laws of this state.

(b) Payment of agreed tax. The executor shall pay to the commissioner of taxation and finance the amount of tax fixed in the agreement described in subsection (a) of this section. In the event the aggregate amount payable under such agreement to the states involved is less than the maximum credit allowable to the estate against the United States estate tax imposed with respect thereto, the executor forthwith shall also pay to the commissioner of taxation and finance so much of the difference between such aggregate amount and the amount of such credit, as the amount payable to the commissioner under the agreement bears to such aggregate amount.

(c) Definition. As used in this section the word "state" means any state, territory, or possession of the United States, the District of Columbia and the Dominion of Canada or any province thereof.

§ 979. Report of change in federal taxable estate, adjusted taxable gifts, additional estate tax imposed by section 2032A of the internal revenue code. (a) General. If the amount of the federal taxable estate reported on the federal estate tax return for an estate is changed or corrected by the United States internal revenue service or other competent authority, the executor shall report such change or correction in the federal taxable estate within ninety days after the final determination of such change or correction or as otherwise required by the commissioner of taxation and finance, and shall concede the accuracy of such determination or state wherein it is erroneous. Any executor filing an amended federal estate tax return shall also file within ninety days thereafter an amended return under this article, and shall give such further information as the commissioner may require. The commissioner may by regulation prescribe such exceptions to the requirements of this section as he or she deems appropriate.

(b) Final federal determination. The executor of every estate which is subject to the United States estate tax shall file with the commissioner of taxation and finance a copy of the final federal determination thereof forthwith after the same is made.

§ 979-a. Notification by surrogate to commissioner concerning tax. A surrogate, in his discretion, may notify the commissioner of taxation and finance of any and all matters which come to the surrogate's attention as a result of any proceeding commenced in surrogate's court, or the filing therein of papers or documents, and which affect the tax imposed by this article.

§ 980. Change of election. The commissioner of taxation and finance may change, by regulation, any election expressly authorized by this article in order to conform such election to its equivalent federal election.

Part III

Liens, Discharges and Surrogate's Court

§ 981. Discharge from liability. (a) Certificate of no tax due. If a return has been filed and the commissioner of taxation and finance determines that no tax is due, he shall issue to the executor a certificate that no tax is due.

(b) Final receipt for tax due. If a return has been filed and the commissioner of taxation and finance is satisfied that the tax paid is the full amount of tax due, he shall issue to the executor a final receipt for tax due.

(c) Final receipt for agreed tax. If the commissioner of taxation and finance enters into an agreement under section nine hundred seventy-eight of this article (relating to compromise agreements in cases of disputed domicile) and if the amount due under such section is paid, he shall issue to the executor a final receipt for tax due.

(d) Discharge of executor upon accounting. If a return is required to be filed under section nine hundred seventy-one of this article, except as provided in subdivision three of section eighteen hundred four of the surrogate's court procedure act, no executor shall be entitled to a final accounting or discharge in the surrogate's court unless he has filed with the surrogate's court a certificate under subsection (a) or a final receipt under subsection (b) or (c) of this section. For additional requirement in case of the estate of a nonresident, see section nine hundred seventy-one-a of this article.

(e) Duplicate certificate or receipt. Any person interested in the estate shall, upon request, be entitled to a duplicate certificate of no tax due or duplicate final receipt for tax due or for agreed tax upon the payment of ten dollars to the commissioner of taxation and finance.

(f) Record of access to safe deposit boxes. The commissioner of taxation and finance may by regulation prescribe requirements for safe deposit companies, trust companies, banks, corporations, firms or other persons holding safe deposit boxes for rental to the public to maintain and retain records as to the persons who have had access to such safe deposit boxes.

(g) Cross reference. For criminal penalties for unlawful entry of safe deposit box, see article thirty-seven of this chapter.

§ 982. Lien for estate tax. (a) General. Unless the tax imposed by this article is sooner paid in full, it shall be a lien upon all property includible in the New York gross estate of the decedent for fifteen years from the date of death of the decedent, except that such part of the New York gross estate as is used for the payment of charges against the estate and expenses of its administration, allowed by any court having jurisdiction thereof, shall be divested of such lien. In the case of a decedent who at his death was not a resident of New York state, the lien shall apply to all property subject to tax under this

(b) Prior mortgages on real property. The lien under subsection (a) of this section shall be subject to the lien of any mortgage indebtedness on real property incurred in good faith prior to the time when the tax under this article became a lien. Such real property may be sold and conveyed free from any such tax lien in an action to foreclose such mortgage to which the people of the state of New York shall have been made a party defendant by reason of the existence of the lien for the tax. The lien may then attach to any surplus moneys which result from such sale, to be determined in the proceedings for the distribution of such surplus moneys.

(c) Discharge of lien.--Subject to such rules or regulations as the commissioner may prescribe, the commissioner may issue a certificate of discharge of any or all of the property subject to the lien imposed by this section if he or she finds that the liability secured by such lien has been fully satisfied or provided for, upon application for such discharge. A certificate of discharge issued under this subsection shall be held conclusive that the lien upon the property covered by the certificate is extinguished.

(d) Recording of certificate of discharge. A certificate of discharge issued under subsection (c) of this section may be recorded in the office of the recording officer of the county where real property described therein is situated.

(e) Power of executor to sell. The executor shall have full power to sell so much of the property of the estate as will enable him to pay the tax imposed by this article in the same manner that he is permitted by law to do for payment of debts of the estate.

§ 983. Surrogates; assistants and clerks; district tax attorneys. (a) The commissioner of taxation and finance may, upon the recommendation of the surrogate, appoint, and may at pleasure remove, assistants and clerks in the surrogate's offices of the following counties, and shall fix their salaries within the amounts appropriated for that purpose:

(1) In New York county, a transfer and estate tax assistant; a deputy transfer and estate tax assistant; a transfer and estate tax clerk; an assistant clerk; a recording clerk; a stenographer; and shall be entitled to expend not more than seven hundred fifty dollars a year in such office for the expenses necessarily incurred in the administration of taxes under this article and articles ten and ten-C (as such article ten-C existed before its repeal) of this chapter.

(2) In Kings county, a transfer and estate tax assistant; a deputy transfer and estate tax assistant; two transfer and estate tax clerks; and shall be entitled to expend not more than five hundred dollars a year for expenses necessarily incurred in the administration of taxes under this article and articles ten and ten-C (as such article ten-C existed before its repeal) of this chapter.

(13) In Richmond county, a transfer and estate tax clerk.

(14) In Nassau county, two transfer and estate tax clerks.

(16) In Orange county, a transfer and estate tax clerk.

(b) The positions of assistants and clerks in each surrogate's office described in subsection (a) of this section may be filled by promotion from among officers and employees of such office. Persons occupying such positions of assistants and clerks in each surrogate's office may be eligible for promotion to other positions in such office.

(c) In each county of the state having a population of over one million, and in each county of the state having a population of over three hundred thousand inhabitants, included in or adjoining a city or county containing a population of over one million inhabitants, the surrogate or surrogates shall each annually receive for compensation for services rendered in connection with the administration of transfer and estate taxes the sum of six thousand eight hundred eighty-two dollars in addition to the salary or compensation paid to such surrogate by the county, but such salary and compensation shall not together exceed the entire salary and compensation paid to a justice of the supreme court in the judicial district in which the county is included. Where a city pays the salary of a surrogate of a county wholly included within such city and such salary is equal to the entire salary and compensation paid to a justice of the supreme court in the judicial district in which the county is included, the state shall pay such city on behalf of such county the sum of six thousand eight hundred eighty-two dollars multiplied by the number of surrogates in such county. Where a county pays the salary of a surrogate and such salary is equal to the entire compensation paid to a justice of the supreme court in the judicial district in which the county is included, the state shall pay such county the sum of six thousand eight hundred eighty-two dollars multiplied by the number of surrogates in such county. The additional compensation provided for by this subsection shall be payable in the same manner as salaries and expenses under this section. The moneys provided to be paid by this subsection to a city or county in lieu of additional compensation shall be paid upon warrant of the comptroller drawn in favor of the city treasurer of the city or of the county treasurer of the county due such amount, which sum shall be paid to said city or county treasurer out of any moneys in the treasury not otherwise appropriated.

(d)(1) In each county of the state the surrogate shall receive annually for such services rendered in connection with the administration of transfer and estate taxes as are not incident to holding courts or performing duties as a judicial officer the respective sums following:

(A) In any such county having a population of less than ten thousand, five hundred seventy-three dollars;

(B) In any such county having a population of ten thousand or more but less than fifty thousand, one thousand eight hundred eighty-six dollars;

(F) In any such county having a population of five hundred thousand or more, six thousand eight hundred fifty-one dollars.

(2) No provision of this subsection shall repeal or affect the provisions of subsection (c) of this section, but the provisions of this subsection shall apply to the surrogate or surrogates mentioned in subsection (c) of this section, provided that any payment or payments made to him or them, whether under this subsection or subsection (c), or both, shall not in all exceed the sum of six thousand eight hundred eighty-two dollars annually. Such sum shall not, however, in addition to the salary or compensation paid to any surrogate by the state, together exceed the entire salary and compensation paid to a justice of the supreme court in the judicial district in which the county is included. The moneys provided to be paid for services by this subsection shall be payable in the same manner as salaries and expenses under this section. Such salaries and expenses shall be paid upon proper vouchers, out of moneys appropriated for such purpose.

(e) The commissioner of taxation and finance is authorized to designate and retain counsel to represent the department and to pay the expenses thereby incurred out of money appropriated for such purpose in the following circumstances:

(1) when the department is cited as a party under section nine hundred seventy-one-a of this article,

(2) in a special proceeding under section nine hundred ninety-eight or any appeal therefrom, of this article,

(3) to examine securities, deposits or other assets pursuant to subsection (e) of section nine hundred seventy-five of this article, and

(4) for such other duties under this chapter as the commissioner may assign.

(c) This section shall not apply if the underpayment is less than one thousand dollars with respect to the estate of the decedent.

(d) The commissioner may waive all or any part of the addition to tax provided by this section on showing by the executor that there was a reasonable basis for the claimed valuation and that such claim was made in good faith.

§ 994. Secrecy requirement and penalties for violation. (a) Secrecy requirements. (1) Except in accordance with proper judicial order or as otherwise provided by law, it shall be unlawful for the commissioner of taxation and finance, any officer or employee of the department of taxation and finance, any person engaged or retained by such department on an independent contract basis, or any person who, pursuant to this section, is permitted to inspect any report or return or to whom a copy, an abstract or a portion of any report or return is furnished, or to whom any information contained in any report or return is furnished, to divulge or make known in any manner the value of the estate or any particulars set forth or disclosed in any report or return required under this article.

(2) The officers charged with the custody of such reports and returns shall not be required to produce any of them or evidence of anything contained in them in any action or proceeding in any court, except on behalf of the commissioner of taxation and finance in an action or proceeding under the provisions of this chapter, or in any other action or proceeding involving the collection of a tax due under this chapter to which the state or the commissioner of taxation and finance is a party or claimant, or on behalf of any party to any action or proceeding under the provisions of this article when the reports, returns or facts shown thereby are directly involved in such action or proceeding or in any proceeding under the surrogate's court procedure act to assist the surrogate to carry out his powers or duties under such act including, but not limited to the determination of the amount of court fees required to be paid under article twenty-four of such act, in any of which events the court may require the production of, and may admit in evidence, so much of said reports, returns or of the facts shown thereby, as are pertinent to the action or proceeding and no more.

(3) Nothing herein shall be construed to prohibit the delivery to a surrogate or to any person liable for the payment of the tax imposed by this article or such liable person's duly authorized representative of a certified copy of any return, correspondence or other data filed in connection with the tax for which such person is liable or a copy of any workpaper, document or other data prepared or developed by the department during the processing, audit or investigation of that return or the collection of the tax derived therefrom or the delivery of any such copy to any person interested in the estate, any heir at law, next of kin, or beneficiary under the will, of such decedent, or a donee of property, but only if the commissioner or the surrogate, as the case may be, finds that such person, heir at law, next of kin, beneficiary, or donee has a material interest which will be affected by information contained therein. Further, nothing herein shall be construed to prohibit the publication of statistics so classified as to prevent the identification of particular reports or returns and the items thereof, or the inspection by the attorney general or other legal representatives of the state of the return of any person (or any report related to such return or any copy mentioned in the preceding sentence) who shall bring action to set aside or review the tax based thereon, or against whom an action or proceeding under this chapter has been recommended by the commissioner or the attorney general or has been instituted, or the inspection of the reports or returns required under this article by the comptroller or duly designated officer or employee of the state department of audit and control, for purposes of the audit of a refund of any tax paid by a taxpayer under this article. Further, nothing contained herein shall be construed to prevent an examination of any documents concerning an estate that are under the control of the surrogate by a title abstractor, attorney at law or title examiner or to prevent a title abstractor, attorney at law or title examiner from applying for and obtaining a discharge of lien in accordance with subsection (c) of section nine hundred eighty-two of this article or from receiving information needed in order to obtain such discharge, for the sole purpose of insuring title to real property or a chattel real and/or preparing a title abstract, title search, or title report in connection with real property or chattel real. The commissioner or the surrogate, as the case may be, may require such title abstractor, attorney at law or title examiner to certify that the sole purpose of such examination is for insuring title to real property or a chattel real and/or preparing a title abstract, title search or title report. Furthermore, nothing herein shall be construed to prohibit the delivery to a person entitled thereto under the provisions of this article of a receipt or certificate that the tax imposed under this article has been paid, in whole or in part.

(4)(A) Any officer or employee of the state who willfully violates the provisions of this subsection shall be dismissed from office and be incapable of holding any public office in this state for a period of five years thereafter.

(B) Cross-reference: For criminal penalties, see article thirty-seven

(b) Cooperation with the United States and other states.

Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (a) of this section, the commissioner of taxation and finance may permit the secretary of the treasury of the United States or his delegates, or the proper tax officer of any state imposing an estate, inheritance or death tax on the transfer of the estate of a deceased individual or on the transfer by will or the intestate laws of such state from any person dying seized or possessed of property in such state, or the authorized representative of either such officer, to inspect any return filed under this article, or may furnish to such officer or his authorized representative an abstract of any such return or supply him with information concerning an item contained in any such return, or disclosed by an investigation of tax liability under this article, but such permission shall be granted or such information furnished to such officer or his representative only if the laws of the United States or of such other state, as the case may be, grant substantially similar privileges to the commissioner of taxation and finance or such other officer of this state charged with the administration of the tax imposed by this article and such information is to be used for tax purposes only; and provided further the commissioner of taxation and finance may furnish to the commissioner of internal revenue or his authorized representative such returns filed under this article and other tax information, as he may consider proper, for use in court actions or proceedings under the internal revenue code, whether civil or criminal, where a written request therefor has been made to the commissioner of taxation and finance by the secretary of the treasury of the United States or his delegates, provided the laws of the United States grant substantially similar powers to the secretary of the treasury of the United States or his delegates. Where the commissioner of taxation and finance has so authorized use of returns and other information in such actions or proceedings, officers and employees of the department of taxation and finance may testify in such actions or proceedings in respect to such returns or other information. Nothing herein shall be construed to prohibit the delivery of any return or the furnishing of information thereon by the commissioner of taxation and finance to the taxing authorities of another state for the purpose of complying with the provisions of section nine hundred seventy-one-a of any report or return, the commissioner shall redact any copy of a federal return (or portion thereof) attached to, or any information on a federal return that is reflected on, such report or return, and any social security numbers, account numbers and residential address information.

(2) No reports or returns shall be furnished pursuant to this subsection unless the chairperson of the requesting committee certifies in writing that such reports or returns have been requested related to, and in furtherance of, a legitimate task of the Congress, that the requesting committee has made a written request to the United States secretary of the treasury for related federal reports or returns or report or return information, pursuant to 26 U.S.C. Section 6103(f), and that if such requested reports or returns are inspected by and/or submitted to another committee, to the United States House of Representatives, or to the United States Senate, then such inspection and/or submission shall occur in a manner consistent with federal law as informed by the requirements and procedures established in 26 U.S.C. Section 6103(f).

(c) Procedure and preservation of returns. (1) Reports and returns or in lieu thereof, copies or reproductions of such reports and returns, shall be preserved for eighteen years and thereafter until the commissioner of taxation and finance orders them to be destroyed.

(2) Requests for the inspection or disclosure of a report or return and such inspection or disclosure shall be made in such manner and at such time and place as shall be prescribed by the commissioner of taxation and finance.

(3) (A) A reproduction of a report or return shall, upon written request, be furnished to any person to whom disclosure or inspection of such report or return is authorized under this section. A reasonable fee may be prescribed for furnishing each page of such reproduction.

(B) Any reproduction of any report, return, document, or other matter made in accordance with this subsection shall have the same legal status as the original, and any such reproduction shall be admissible in evidence in any judicial or administrative proceeding as if it were the original, whether or not the original is in existence.

(d) Filing returns and making payment to depository banks. Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (a) of this section, the commissioner of taxation and finance, in his discretion, may require or permit any or all of the estates, executors, beneficiaries and other persons liable for any tax imposed by this article to make payments on account of any tax, penalty or interest imposed by this article to banks, banking houses or trust companies designated by the commissioner of taxation and finance and to file returns with such banks, banking houses or trust companies as agents of the commissioner of taxation and finance, in lieu of making such payment to, or filing such returns with the commissioner of taxation and finance. However, the commissioner of taxation and finance shall designate only such banks, banking houses or trust companies as are or shall be designated by the comptroller as depositories pursuant to this article.
