1	NEW YORK STATE SENATE
2
3
4	THE STENOGRAPHIC RECORD
5
6
7
8
9	ALBANY, NEW YORK
10	January 18, 2017
11	11:30 a.m.
12 13
14	REGULAR SESSION
15 16
17
18	SENATOR PATRICK M. GALLIVAN, Acting President
19	FRANCIS W. PATIENCE, Secretary
20 21
22
23 24
2 4 25
دے

1	PROCEEDINGS
2	ACTING PRESIDENT GALLIVAN: The
3	Senate will come to order.
4	I ask everyone present to please
5	rise and repeat with me the Pledge of
6	Allegiance.
7	(Whereupon, the assemblage recited
8	the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag.)
9	ACTING PRESIDENT GALLIVAN: In the
10	absence of clergy, may we please bow our heads
11	in a moment of silence.
12	(Whereupon, the assemblage
13	respected a moment of silence.)
14	ACTING PRESIDENT GALLIVAN: The
15	reading of the Journal.
16	THE SECRETARY: In Senate,
17	Tuesday, January 17th, the Senate met pursuant
18	to adjournment. The Journal of Monday,
19	January 16th, was read and approved. On motion,
20	Senate adjourned.
21	ACTING PRESIDENT GALLIVAN:
22	Without objection, the Journal stands approved
23	as read.
24	Presentation of petitions.
25	Messages from the Assembly.

```
1 Messages from the Governor.
 2
                  There is a message from the 3
                It will be filed in the Journal.
     Governor.
 4
                  Reports of standing committees.
 5
                  Reports of select committees.
                  Communications and reports from 6 7
     state officers.
 8
                  Motions and resolutions.
 9 Senator LaValle.
10
                  SENATOR LaVALLE: Mr. President, may we please have the noncontroversial reading 11 of the calendar.
12 13
                  ACTING PRESIDENT GALLIVAN:
                                                The
     Secretary will read.
14
15
                  THE SECRETARY: Calendar Number 16
     10, by Senator Valesky, Senate Print 977, an act to amend the General Business Law.
17
18 ACTING PRESIDENT GALLIVAN: Read
     the last section.
19 20
                  THE SECRETARY: Section 3.
                                                This 21 act shall take effect on the same date and in 22 the same manner as a chapter of the Laws of 2016.
23 24
                  ACTING PRESIDENT GALLIVAN: Call 25 the roll.
```

```
(The Secretary called the roll.)
 1
 2
                  THE SECRETARY: Ayes, 46.
 3
                  ACTING PRESIDENT GALLIVAN:
 4
     bill is passed.
 5
                  THE SECRETARY: Calendar Number
     42, by Senator DeFrancisco, Senate Print 1859, 6 7 an act to amend the Insurance Law.
 8
                  ACTING PRESIDENT GALLIVAN: Read 9 the last section.
10
                  THE SECRETARY: Section 2.
                                               This
     act shall take effect on the same date and in 11 the same manner as Chapter 236 of the Laws of 12 13 2016.
14
                  ACTING PRESIDENT GALLIVAN: Call 15 the roll.
16
                  (The Secretary called the roll.)
17
                  THE SECRETARY: Ayes, 46.
18
                  ACTING PRESIDENT GALLIVAN:
                                               The
     bill is passed.
19 20
                  THE SECRETARY: Calendar Number
21
     43, by Senator O'Mara, Senate Print 1861, an act 22 to amend the Uniform Justice Court Act.
                  ACTING PRESIDENT GALLIVAN: Read 23 the last section.
24
25
                  THE SECRETARY: Section 2.
                                                This
```

```
act shall take effect immediately.
 1
 2
                  ACTING PRESIDENT GALLIVAN: Call 3
     the roll.
 4
                  (The Secretary called the roll.)
 5
                  THE SECRETARY:
                                   Ayes, 46.
                  ACTING PRESIDENT GALLIVAN:
 6
                                                The 7
     bill is passed.
 8
                  Senator LaValle, that completes the 9 noncontroversial reading of the calendar.
10
                  SENATOR LaVALLE: Mr. President, 11 can we go back to motions and resolutions.
12
                  ACTING PRESIDENT GALLIVAN: Motions and resolutions.
13 SENATOR LaVALLE: Can we adopt the 14 Resolution Calendar, with the exception of 15
16 Resolution 282.
17
                  ACTING PRESIDENT GALLIVAN: All in 18 favor of adopting the Resolution Calendar, with 19 the exception of Resolution Number 282, signify 20 by saying aye.
21 (Response of "Aye.")
22
                  ACTING PRESIDENT GALLIVAN:
23 Opposed, nay.
                  (No response.)
24
25
                  ACTING PRESIDENT GALLIVAN:
                                                The
```

```
Resolution Calendar is adopted.
 1
 2 Senator LaValle.
                  SENATOR LaVALLE:
 3
                                     I believe there 4 is a resolution by Senators Stewart-Cousins, 5 Larkin, and Klein, and it is at the desk. May we please have it read in its entirety and move for 6 7 its immediate adoption.
                  ACTING PRESIDENT GALLIVAN:
                                                The
 8
     Secretary will read Resolution Number 282.
 9 10
                  THE SECRETARY: Legislative Resolution Number 282, by Senators 11
     Stewart-Cousins, Larkin and Klein, commemorating 12 the observance of the 32nd Annual Martin Luther 13
14 King, Jr. Day in the State of New York on 15
     January 16, 2017.
16
                  "WHEREAS, From time to time we take note of certain individuals whom we wish to 17 18 recognize for their valued contributions and to publicly acknowledge their endeavors which have 19 20 enhanced the basic humanity among us all; and 21
                  "WHEREAS, Attendant to such concern, 22 and in full accord with its long-standing traditions, it is the custom of this Legislative 23
     Body to join the people of this great 24
25 Empire State in proudly observing the 32nd Annual
```

```
Martin Luther King, Jr. Day in the State of 1
     New York, on January 16, 2017, taking note of his 2 3 many accomplishments and contributions to 4 mankind; and 5
                  "WHEREAS, Dr. Martin Luther King,
     Jr. was born the grandson of a slave into a 6 7 segregated society in Atlanta, Georgia, on January 15, 1929, and was instrumental in 8 formulating a policy which ultimately destroyed 9 10 legal apartheid in the southern states of our nation; and 11
                  "WHEREAS, In February of 1968, 12
     Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. spoke about the 13 14 inevitability of his death and hoped that when we 15 spoke of his life, we would not concentrate on his academic achievements: that he graduated 16 from Morehouse College, that he attended the 17
18
     Crozer Theological Seminary and Boston University, where he earned a doctorate in 19 20 systematic theology; and
                  "WHEREAS, Furthermore, Dr. Martin 21
22 Luther King, Jr. did not find it important that we mention that he won the Nobel Peace Prize and 23 over 300 other awards; and 24
25
                  "WHEREAS, Dr. Martin Luther King,
```

Jr.'s finest legacy of greater social justice for 1 all Americans was truly reflected in his devotion 2 to serve and respect others, and in his steadfast 3 4 love for all humanity; and 5 "WHEREAS, Standing in a long line of great American black leaders, Dr. Martin Luther 6 7 King, Jr. represents the historical culmination and the living embodiment of a spirit of united 8 purpose rooted in Black African culture and the 9 10 American dream; and "WHEREAS, An apostle of peace, 11 Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. fought unrelentingly 12 for the civil rights of all Americans and taught 13 us that through nonviolence, courage displaces 14 15 fear, love transforms hate, acceptance dissipates prejudice, and mutual regard cancels enmity; and 16 "WHEREAS, Dr. Martin Luther King, 17 18 Jr. manifestly contributed to the cause of America's freedom, and his commitment to human 19 20 dignity is visibly mirrored in the spiritual, economic and political dimensions of the civil 21 22 rights movement; and "WHEREAS, In addition, Dr. Martin 23 Luther King, Jr.'s life was devoted to the 24 25 liberation of his people, and his courage

```
transcended the advocates of mindless 1 2 retrenchment; and
                  "WHEREAS, It is the sense of this 3
 4
     Legislative Body that the common and shared 5 responsibility of governance demands an irrevocable commitment to the preservation and 6 7 enhancement of human dignity as exemplified by 8
     Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.; and
                  "WHEREAS, Upon the occasion of the 9 10 celebration of the birthday of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., it is the practice of this Legislative 11 12 Body to commemorate the heroic efforts of Dr. King, who loved and served humanity, and who 13 14 was a drum major for peace, justice and 15 righteousness; and
                  "WHEREAS, The 2017 Dr. Martin Luther 16
17 King, Jr. holiday observance marks the 18 88th anniversary of his birth, and the 32nd annual holiday celebrated in the State of 19 20
     New York in his honor; now, therefore, be it
                  "RESOLVED, That this Legislative 21
22
     Body pause in its deliberations to memorialize and pay tribute to the legendary life and 23 achievements of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., upon 24 25 the occasion of the anniversary of his birth and
```

```
1 the celebration of Martin Luther King, Jr. Day in 2 the State of New York and throughout the nation;
     and be it further 3 4
                  "RESOLVED, That a copy of this 5 resolution, suitably engrossed, be transmitted to the Black, Puerto Rican, Hispanic and Asian 6 Legislative Caucus."
 7
                  ACTING PRESIDENT GALLIVAN:
 8
                                                Senator
 9 Stewart-Cousins.
10
                  SENATOR STEWART-COUSINS: Thank you, Mr. President.
11 12
                  I rise today, as I've had the privilege to rise every year since my election, 13 to commemorate the rich life and legacy of 14
15
     Reverend Dr. Martin Luther King.
                  When I first rose, it was after an 16 election that was certainly improbable, based on 17 18 my beginnings, based on my parents' inability to achieve anything like what they had been able to 19 20 see their daughter achieve, and I attributed that to the relentless struggle that Dr. King and so 21 22
     many had put into making sure that the American ideal and dream was available for all of us.
23
                  In 2009, I was able to rise and 24 25 celebrate the election of the first
```

African-American president, someone who, despite what people thought, became a standard bearer for, again, that ideal and that dream.

Every year I've been able to rise to talk about our ascension and of course our responsibility here in this chamber to make sure that through our policies we create the America that is the ideal that Dr. King fought for. It is a state mandate, a national mandate, and actually a universal mandate. It is important.

Today I had an opportunity to speak to the session assistants who are here from their colleges and are beginning a path that might lead them to be in chambers like this or support people like us.

And when I looked at this crowd, I looked at the diversity. I looked at the reflection of America in this room. And I realized again, that when many of us were growing up, an opportunity like what was presented today, and what has been presented, would never have been had it not been for Dr. King envisioning the beloved community that reflects everyone.

And now, of course, as we stand here between Dr. Martin Luther King's birthday and the ascension of another president, we are called to -- even stronger than any time before -- reassert, remember, reaffirm and commit to that vision.

Today there are people who are concerned, and rightfully so, because there was a tone set that indicated that walls should be built against some, that politically correct language was no longer relevant because it didn't matter who you hurt or who you marginalized. It doesn't matter if you mock, it doesn't matter if you are considered a loser, it doesn't matter what we say, what we think, what we do.

We've learned many lessons as an America that fell short of those ideals. We've learned lessons that, as Dr. King said, all inhabitants of the globe are now our neighbors. We've learned the lessons that, as Dr. King said, together we must learn to live as brothers or together we will be forced to perish as fools. We've already learned those lessons. We repeat them every year, some days with a spirit of optimism, sometimes not so much. But we know the lessons, we've learned them, and many of us here in this chamber have lived them and will continue, if we do it right, to live them, to 1 2 legislate here in ways that support the poor, that embrace our community, that stop mass 3 incarceration, that focuses on education and 4 5

```
     allows us to be the America that we must be.
                  Every year we have the chance to 6 7 rededicate and recommit. And now, we cannot deny 8 that we have a handbook and we have the lessons.
     All we must do is live it. And in memory of 9 10
     Dr. King, I pray that we live it here in this chamber so that we can indeed be a beacon of the 11 12 beloved community.
13
                  Thank you very much.
14
                  ACTING PRESIDENT GALLIVAN: Senator
15 Larkin.
                  SENATOR LARKIN:
16
                                    Thank you,
     Mr. President.
17
18
                  Thank you, Senator Cousins.
19
                  You know, in my lifetime we've 20 celebrated this on many levels. People will tell 21 you that the legacy of Dr. King will be the Washington March in August '63. Some of you 22 23 weren't here then. Someone will tell you it was the Tennessee, where he was assassinated. But I 24 25 believe in my heart and soul his legacy with his vision started right with Selma, Alabama.
```

During the time of January to March of 1965, Dr. King made every effort. He went to the White House, he spoke to the Governor, he spoke to this, that unless we start to turn around and say this is my neighbor, you can't love somebody by hating. And he tried to tell that message. And what happened? The seventh day of March, people of color, mixed up, walked across a bridge, across a bridge that they owned in their town. They were hit with whips, they were shotgunned, gasoline -- there was everything you could think about against your brother or sister in this world.

Now, just think about it. July the 26th, 1948, President Truman said, Take the armed service and spread them out. We're one branch. We're one unit. And every unit spread out with color. I know; I commanded one of them. And did I have hard feelings? No. Tom Croci just became a commander, and he knows what it is. And you lead by example.

Dr. King was trying to provide an example. But Governor Wallace was a thick-headed elected official in Alabama, and all he wanted to do was his way, not the way that we were created by. But Dr. King took it.

On the 7th of March, if you ever go back and look at some things, you see some of the pictures, you'll really wonder how we as human beings, riding on a horse with a whip, cracking a woman, a child, another individual. Some of them had the gas; they sent that off into the crowds. They didn't care. They didn't want to do anything but embarrass anybody. They only embarrassed themselves, because today we're still celebrating.

So what happened? On the 9th of March, Dr. King met with the President. And the President said, "I want to stop this." And Dr. King said, "Mr. President, you can stop it by leading rather than by following."

You read stories that says there were only 2,000 troops brought to Selma. There were not. Maybe 20,000 troops. I was there.

And I want to tell you something. When you saw the look on the face of the people, just to look at them: Here I am, scared to death to walk on the streets that I pay taxes for.

We should be ashamed. And that's why I think Selma will go down as his biggest 1 2 legacy. Because we marched Sunday the 21st. 3 Some members of different groups wanted to stay 4 and have more pictures and everything else, and 5 Dr. Abernathy, a gentleman I think -- I had the greatest respect for him when he was alive, and 6 7 yet today, because he went out there and told Sit down, get ready, and we're marching. 8 And we're marching with leadership, we're 9 10 marching with respect for one another, and we're 11 going to let everybody know we've got it. 12 What happened? We marched for four 13 days. We had -- everything was going good. 14 big issues. Congressman or Senator Murphy from 15 California came up and visited a couple of us, we were wearing civilian clothes, and he said: 16 do you think this is essential?" I said, "Why"? 17 18 I said, "Go back to 1948 when we diversed the military, and we had people sent by our 19 20 government, regardless of color, race or creed, to combat in Korea. They got killed. 21 22 wounded. And they were people from the State of Alabama." 23 24 And what happened? Murphy wanted to 25 know should there be a vote to allow them to vote. And I said just what I just told you:

"You can send me to combat, but I can't vote in my own country." Well, June of 1965, both houses passed the bill and the President signed it in August of '65.

But what does this all tell us? It all tells us -- I hear people say to me the last three days -- I've been to a few events -- Oh, Dr. King, Dr. King. My question is every year -- nobody answers it -- what have you done in your district in the past year to do something in his honor or convince some people to do certain things?

It doesn't hurt. But you've got to remember one thing. This is our country. And if we don't like it, we ought to get out. If we don't like it, we ought to start to change it around. But what we really need to do is to take and look and see the vision that Dr. King had when he talked in August of '63. But in '65 when he led that march, he led it with desire, he led it with vision, and he led it with sincerity. We are all God's children, and we ought to start remembering that.

Ladies and gentlemen, with the help

```
1 of the good Lord, we'll be here next year.
 2 like to have somebody come up and say to me, I 3 did something in my school. Here's what we did.
 4
     You know, you can talk, but I was taught long ago 5 action speaks louder than words.
                  May Dr. King rest in peace.
 6
 7
                  ACTING PRESIDENT GALLIVAN:
                                                Senator
             Senator Klein on the resolution.
 8
     Klein.
 9
                  SENATOR KLEIN:
                                   Thank you,
10
     Mr. President.
                  I rise today to celebrate the life
11 12 of a great leader, Dr. Martin Luther King. You know, we all know about the great works that 13
     Martin Luther King did as far as civil rights.
14
15
     But Martin Luther King was much more than just a civil rights leader. He was a great labor 16 leader. He was a great leader of working people.
17
18
     He always advocated for rights for working men and women throughout his career.
19 20
                  And I think Senator Larkin raised an excellent point. I think we should ask 21 22 ourselves -- not only celebrating Martin Luther King Day, but each and every day -- what have we 23 done here in New York State?
24
25
                  You know, we all understand that
```

Martin Luther King was a national leader, he was 1 an international leader. But why not ask 2 3 ourselves, as Senator Larkin said, what have we 4 done in the Legislature to sort of fulfill the 5 promise and the hopes and aspirations of someone like Dr. Martin Luther King? And I think we have 6 7 accomplished a lot, but there's always more to do. And I think Martin Luther King would 8 9 certainly agree. 10 Just something that we've done over 11 the last several years is fighting foreclosures, 12 which has a disproportionate impact on minority homeowners. We have to ask those questions: Why 13 14 is it that when someone is foreclosed upon, 15 they're four times more likely to be African-American? 16 But we did do something. 17 18 prevented dilapidated homes from destroying our 19 communities, most of them minority communities. 20 We also helped people to make sure they didn't lose their home. That's something Martin Luther 21 22 King would certainly understand. We have to ask ourselves, why did it 23 exist -- certainly it did in Martin Luther King's 24 25 time, but still up until recently, why do we have a digital divide? Why are we a country that's so wedded to technology, yet an African-American child is the least likely to own their own computer?

We have to ask ourselves the question, whenever we have a downturn in the economy, why is it disproportionately on the backs of working African-Americans, that they're more likely to be unemployed?

You know, those are the questions I think we have to continue to ask and do something about each and every day.

But one specific issue I think comes to mind that's certainly relevant right now.

Senator Cousins alluded to it. And it has to do with criminal justice reform.

You know, it was very interesting that many people may not know, but six months before Dr. Martin Luther King's life was brutally cut short, he visited a high school in Philadelphia to speak to students about their life's blueprint. That's what he talked to them about. How they should plan their life, how should they move on with their lives. He wisely urged them to study hard, stay in school, but also acknowledged the sociological and economic hurdles these teenagers would face. Remember, this was a completely different world.

And he turned around and gave them, I think, very sound advice. While he actually urged them to reach for the stars, achieve greatness, stay in school, go to college, do everything you can be, he also said that if your life turns in a way that you're a worker, do it to the best. And that's when he basically said, set out to do such a good job that the living, the dead, or the unborn couldn't do it any better, regardless of the job that you did.

He also said, in those words that have become very famous -- and I think most of us should live by that each and every day -- he said if your lot in life is to become a street sweeper, sweep streets like Shakespeare wrote poetry and sweep streets like Michelangelo painted. Sweep streets so well that the host of heaven will say that that person did their job and did it well.

You know, unfortunately we know right now that there's teenagers -- again, disproportionately African-American -- who aren't going to have that opportunity, that important blueprint in life. Because today our teenagers in New York need our help because some of them might not be able to create Dr. Martin Luther King's blueprint unless we have serious reforms to our criminal justice system.

I think everyone knows, unfortunately, at this time that New York has the dubious distinction of being one of the only states to not have the Raise the Age laws, where we're still punishing 16- and 17-year-olds for nonviolent offenses with jail time.

The other state, by the way, is

North Carolina. You know, North Carolina has very much to celebrate. You know, on their license plates it's "First in Flight." We celebrate the Wright brothers; that's something we should celebrate. But we should not emulate them when it comes to criminal justice reform.

So I think the only way we're going to keep the hope alive that Martin Luther King envisioned for our youth -- not only African-American youth, but all of our youth -- is to make sure we make these changes and we make sure that someone who starts off in life as a teenager, who makes a mistake, commits an offense

```
 1 2
     that's not violent, doesn't have that stay with them their entire life, preventing them probably 3 4 from going to high school, preventing them from 5 actually getting a good job, preventing them to actually move on and, instead of being 6 7 incarcerated, actually move on and be rehabilitated. And the best way we can do that 8 is to raise the age, ladies and gentlemen.
 9 10
                  Again, Mr. President, I thank you.
11
     And this is an important part of our session 12 every year to celebrate the great works of Dr. Martin Luther King. But I think we need to 13 live by those rules each and every day.
14
15
                  Thank you.
                  ACTING PRESIDENT GALLIVAN:
16
                                                Senator
     Sanders on the resolution.
17
18
                  SENATOR SANDERS: On the resolution. Thank you, Mr. President.
19 20
                  I want to first start by thanking the sponsors for this noble effort, this 21 22
     resolution.
                  To honor one who has brought honor to us all is a great thing.
23
                  I often -- the words that all of the 24 25 sponsors have given, of course, have been very inspiring to hear, of course, of personal stories and personal commitments to do some of these things. I often think of what would Dr. King think of the modern world that we find ourselves in. What would he think of New York, for that matter, or Albany? What would he think of where we are today and what we're doing?
```

But I go a step further. I look at what would he think of what I am doing. Not simply a vague what everyone else, but let's start with that personal responsibility. And I can answer somewhat to the colonel's point of some of the things that we have done. And in another moment, Senator Larkin, I'd love to say what I have done for these things, whether it be a debate that I held on Martin Luther King's actual birthday, the 15th.

But when we honor King, let us not forget that we're not simply honoring Dr. Martin Luther King. What you're doing is honoring those faceless people who actually made Martin Luther King, the thousands and tens of thousands of people whose names have been lost to history, that we never will know about. The washerwomen, the sharecroppers, the youth who lost life and limb. And no one, of course, has given them a day, so this will have to be their day.

They are the ones that we really should be remembering. Because Dr. King was able to get a Nobel Peace Prize and other things, but these folk lost jobs, they lost homes, they lost opportunities, they went to jail, their record was scarred forever. These folk we will never speak about. And some of them walk the streets today, hopefully living as whatever status they find themselves, but doing it, as Senator Klein said, perhaps they are sweeping the streets like Michelangelo, or doing whatever those things are.

Yet Dr. King cries out from the grave because his work is not over. If it was, then this holiday would be a nice thing. A bit shallow, but a nice thing. But his work is not over, because he has warned us that an insult to one is an injury to all of us. After all is said and done, Dr. King gives us a chance to look back to that fundamental question that was posed to Cain: Are we our brother's and sister's keeper?

That's the essence of what we're talking about. Are we our brother's and sister's keeper? Are we responsible to one another? Is this American experiment just something that is just he who has the gold, rules, and that's the golden rule? Or is it something deeper than that? Is it something that we all will say that we are all going to walk together in this one? And if we say that, then we understand that Dr. King and those faceless people was an attempt to Americanize America, to actually Americanize America.

So with the fierce urgency of now, I urge all of my colleagues, let's not let this session be like the others before it and others still to come. Let's do something different here. Why don't we take this one and say, you know what, there are some age-old problems that we have to wrestle with, but let's wrestle with them this time, let's do it in a spirit where we can disagree with one another without becoming disagreeable. Let's say to ourselves that you know what, I may not walk in that person's shoes, but I can emphasize, I can borrow some sympathy, I can borrow whatever I need to understand them and do something about it.

He warned us, Dr. King did, that all that is necessary for evil to triumph is for good people to do nothing, good people to do nothing.

```
 1
 2
     So there are good people in this room, and I urge 3 us all, let's do something.
 4
                  So I say, as I conclude -- and I'm 5 sure that that's a happy note to you, that I'm concluding, as it is your job, sir -- that rest 6 7 in peace, Dr. King. And I pray that you will find, at the end of the day, that those who you 8 sacrificed for have proved themselves worthy.
 9 10
                  Thank you very much, sir.
11
     you.
12
                  ACTING PRESIDENT GALLIVAN: Senator
13 Bailey.
14
                  SENATOR BAILEY: On the resolution, 15
     Mr. President.
                  Thank you for the opportunity. I 16 can find no more fitting topic to have my first 17 18 speech on the floor.
19
                  My favorite Dr. King quote: Our 20 lives begin to end the day we become silent about 21 those things that matter.
                  Now, Martin Luther King, Jr.'s work 22 was widely known as the Dreamer, but many of his 23 dreams were realized. That's why I'm able to sit 24 25 before you today -- stand before you today, I should say. That is the reason why my grandfather, who grew up in rural North Carolina, was able to make a great living for the family that he provided for to come to New York and provide for eight children, send them to college, and to send a grandson to law school, graduating-class speaker. Dr. King's dream has been realized through me.
```

Dr. King's dream will continue to be realized through my two daughters, Giada and Carina. And as I look into their eyes every day, as I see what's inside their hearts, I realize that his dream has been realized. But we have so much more to go.

But the March on Washington was not just a march on Washington. The correct name was the March on Washington for Jobs and Freedom.

There were demands made at that march. One of the demands made was for a national minimum wage.

We finally got the Fight for 15 going, but we need more for our working-class folks. We need more for the men and women that do so much for us. We need to make sure that Dr. King's dream is realized not only on a day, not just in a month, but that we keep that collective spirit alive day after day, time after time.

So one of the other things that really struck me about Dr. King was how young he was at the time of his passing. He was a mere 39 years old. I stand before you today as the youngest member of this great distinguished body at 34 years old, and I wonder, I only have five years left to do that what man did. That's a lot of weight on my shoulders.

(Laughter.)

SENATOR BAILEY: But I can bear that burden. That's the reason why I'm here. And as Senator Sanders alluded to, that's the reason why I assume all of my colleagues are here, to do what matters.

So I ask you today, in accordance with Dr. King, what matters to you? What matters to your constituents? And how are we collectively going to make that happen? I will end with a quote from a hip-hop artist -- unconventional, but whatever. A gentleman by the name of Common, and he said something that -- "Waiting for the Lord to rise, I look into my daughter's eyes. And I realize I'm going to learn through her. The messiah might even return through her. But if I'm to do it, I've got to 1 2 change the world through her."

```
                  We have to look at our children in 3 4 our communities. That is who we're going to 5 change the world through. I'm going to be a leader, and I'm going to change world through my 6 7 daughters. You change the world through yours, 8 through your constituents, through the lives of the many families in your communities in the 9 10 districts that you all proudly represent.
11
                  While I am new to this body, I am not new to life on this earth. And I hope that 12 we can all make this a better place. Dr. King 13 14 would want it that way.
15
                  Thank you all. And God bless
     Reverend Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.
16
17 (Applause.)
18
                  ACTING PRESIDENT GALLIVAN:
                                                Senator
     Parker to speak on the resolution. Senator 19 20 Parker.
21
                  SENATOR PARKER:
                                    Thank you very 22 much, Mr. President. I rise to speak on the resolution regarding the life and the legacy of 23
     Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.
24
25 Let me first associate myself with the comments made by my colleagues here, particularly Senator Larkin. And thank you first, Colonel, for your service to this great country, but also for your service to the citizens of this great country. And I don't get tired of hearing you talk about your service, particularly of that day.
```

I also want to obviously thank Andrea Stewart-Cousins, our leader and the sponsor of this resolution. And for her, living the actual legacy of Dr. King, being the first woman to lead a legislative body here in the great State of New York, and being an African-American woman at that. And every day, the kind of grace and steady hand that she provides to our conference and to the Senate is certainly something that is worthy of Dr. King's legacy, and so we thank her for that.

I am very, very happy to hear, just enjoy the comments that people are making today and how everyone is really taking this time to internalize what Dr. King's legacy really is about. And I think that's really admirable, and I think that we're growing as a body if not as people in that conversation.

But to kind of jump off and piggyback off of what Senator Bailey indicated, is that we talk a lot about Dr. King's legacy and particularly the March on Washington and about the "I Have a Dream" speech. But in that "I Have a Dream" speech his main purpose, his main emphasis and theme was not about a dream, it really was about bringing a check to Washington, right, a check for justice and a check that was marked insufficient funds by this country. And if we had that same check today, I think many of us would still find the Bank of Justice with insufficient funds here in America.

And so there's lots to be done.

Senator Klein indicated that as well. And there's lots that we can be doing. We don't have to go to Washington, we have our own Bank of Justice right here in Albany. And we really ought to be bringing that check to bear right here for each one of our constituencies all over the State of New York. And we ought to make sure that we don't walk away from this session with this check still being marked "insufficient funds," that we should make sure that on the issues of economic justice that we in fact are making sure that that check is being cashed.

We should make sure again, on the issues of criminal justice reform, that we do the things that we know we can do this session to make sure that that check for justice is in fact cashed. We should do Raise the Age; there's no reason not to. We should make sure that we codify the Executive Order the Governor put forward around the special prosecutor and make sure that we have a special prosecutor to deal with police, not just when an unarmed civilian is killed, but any time a police officer has a problem and there's a contradiction or, you know, a conflict between the local DA and the police department.

We need to really do some real work around marijuana decriminalization. We started that work, there's still lots to be done on it, and we need to do that.

I have a bill called the Safe Parole

Act that would certainly make sure that people who deserve parole, especially -- you know, our prisons are filled with nonviolent felons who spent way more time than they should in our correctional facilities. And not only is it no longer an issue of public safety, but we're now throwing good money after bad, housing people in these prisons instead of, you know, allowing them to be back in their communities with their families.

My colleague Senator Perkins has been sponsoring a bill that ends solitary confinement. That certainly ought to be part of it. It really doesn't -- and again I'm all for the safety of the men and women who work very hard to secure these criminal justice facilities. But solitary confinement we know doesn't work and doesn't add to the safety of those folks.

We need to stop jailing mentally ill people. Right? Just simple and plain. And we've had -- even already, we've had about three people in the City of New York, to this date, we're only at -- this is only the 18th, right? Eighteen days into the year, we've already had three people in New York City who are mentally ill shot down by the police. We need to implement crisis intervention teams all over the City of New York and create a real modality to address the issues of people who have mental illness.

We certainly also need to decrease 1 2 the population at Rikers. And whether that's, 3 you know, speeding up trials or having a sensible 4 bail policy, we certainly need to do it. 5 These are the kinds of policy things that we can do right here this year to in fact 6 7 live through Dr. King's legacy. We want to talk about, you know, being King-like and using 8 9 Dr. King as an exemplar; here's just a few things 10 that we could do that certainly -- and this is 11 just on one issue -- that would really make a difference in the lives of our constituencies and 12 make this a better place. 13 14 We need to remember the important 15 thing that Dr. King left us with, that peace is not simply the absence of war but the 16 17 presence of justice. 18 Thank you very much, Mr. President. ACTING PRESIDENT GALLIVAN: 19 Senator 20 Savino. 21 SENATOR SAVINO: Thank you, 22 Mr. President. I also want to thank Senators 23 Stewart-Cousins, Klein, and Senator Larkin for 24 25 bringing this resolution. This is the 12th year

1 that I am in this chamber as we commemorate the 2 birthday of the Reverend Dr. Martin Luther King, and over the years I've had the pleasure of 3 4 listening to Senator Larkin recount his 5 relationship and the experience that he had personally with Dr. King. We used to have 6 7 Senator Hassell-Thompson, who used to tell us the stories of her experiences with Dr. Martin Luther 8 9 King. 10 We're at the point in time, though, where there are less and less members who serve 11 12 the body who knew him personally or who had the opportunity to know him personally. And I think 13 14 that's a shame, because most of us look at him 15 through the lens of history now. His place in civil rights history is certainly well known. 16 Every schoolchild knows about it. They know they 17 18 don't have to go to school on that Monday in 19 January because of Martin Luther King. And they're taught about his legacy in terms of civil 20 rights, but his place in labor history is equally 21 22 important.

In fact, in 1961, he spoke at the AFL-CIO's national conference and he said then that the needs of black America is identical to the needs of labor -- decent wages, fair working conditions, livable housing, old-age security, health and welfare measures, conditions in which families can grow, have education for their children, and respect in their community. The exact same needs for all Americans, in fact.

23

24

25

It was that commitment to working people, labor rights, and those issues that led him to Memphis on that fateful day in April of 1968, to lead a small group of striking sanitation workers, black sanitation workers — treated very differently by the City of Memphis than the white sanitation workers, their counterparts — because of the death of two sanitation workers who were treated so poorly by the City of Memphis, so poorly that it sparked national outrage.

The black sanitation workers in Memphis weren't even allowed to ride in a truck; they had to ride in the back with the trash.

They weren't allowed to wear uniforms, because the City of Memphis wouldn't give them uniforms; they had to wear their own clothes. They weren't allowed to walk on the property of white owners to pick up the trash.

They were treated so poorly, and yet they organized. They joined a union. And they went on strike when the ultimate of insults, two of their workers, trying to get out of the rain one day in the back of a sanitation truck, the truck started up, crushed the two workers in the back of the truck. And the City of Memphis wouldn't even acknowledge the deaths, provide death benefits for these two workers, treated them as less than human.

That led to a strike by these workers, and Martin Luther King went to Memphis to lead them in a march. And these men walked through the streets of Memphis facing all sorts of assaults and public vitriol because they weren't picking up the trash, after all, which was more important than their humanity. And they were carrying signs that said something very simple. Not about money, not about dignity, it said "I am a man." That was their message, "I am a man."

Those were the people he was leading that day in that fight, because he believed very clearly in the rights of workers everywhere, regardless of who they were.

And so his message to working people is as pertinent today as it was then. And I think what we should reflect on here in this chamber, in this body, in this state, while other legislatures across the country are attempting to roll back workers' rights, passing right-to-work laws, repealing collective bargaining rights for workers, trying to undo protections that workers have -- that's not happening. Not here, not in this Legislature, not in this Senate, not in this state.

We work together. We don't always agree on everything. We may fight our way to the solutions. But we've protected workers. We've raised the minimum wage, we've drafted the most comprehensive paid family leave program in the country, we have the best wage theft protection laws in the nation because we care about working people. That's been our commitment to the message of the Reverend Dr. Martin Luther King.

We have elected labor leaders to this chamber. I myself am a former vice president of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees. Our newest member, who sits next to me, Marisol Alcantara -- she's outside right now, I'm sure she's talking 1 2 to somebody important -- she came out of the ranks of labor. Senator Peralta came out of the 3 4 ranks of labor. I know Senator Marcellino was a 5 UFT delegate at one point in his time. There may be others in this room that came out of the ranks 6 7 of labor. So we're living that commitment to 8 9 the Reverend Dr. Martin Luther King every time we 10 protect workers' rights in this chamber. every time we do it, I am proud to be a member of 11 12 this body. And so I will say thank you all for allowing me to be part of that experience. 13 14 you for commemorating the life and legacy of the 15 Reverend Dr. Martin Luther King. And let us go forward to continue to do good work for all the 16 people of this state every year. 17 18 Thank you, Mr. President. ACTING PRESIDENT GALLIVAN: 19 Senator 20 Montgomery on the resolution. SENATOR MONTGOMERY: 21 Thank you, Mr. President. 22 I rise to join my colleagues in, 23 first of all, thanking Senator Stewart-Cousins, 24 25 who actually embodies the dream of Dr. King. And I thank Senator Larkin for every year giving us an eye view of what it meant to be part of that movement as a non-African-American person.

And I want to thank Senator Bailey, for his sort of introducing us to also the embodiment of Dr. King. And I want to thank Senator Parkers and Klein and Savino for talking about what we have to do to make sure we are continuing to live that dream.

We celebrate every year because we do need to review for ourselves the meaning of Dr. King's life, to refresh our memory of the things that he went through, and to recommit ourselves to continue his dream and his work and to make sure that whatever we do, hopefully we're addressing issues that he himself died for, fighting for.

And I'm reminded that every generation will have their own interpretation.

And they will not have perhaps the memories that Senator Larkin talks about, but they certainly will have a view, and they are the dreamers of today.

And so I just want to remind us that what Martin Luther King fought was the old

Jim Crow of the South. That's what the bus boycott was about, breaking that tradition in our country. And some would say that what we're trying to do -- and I hear in the words of my colleagues that we're trying to move away from what some people call the "new Jim Crow." That's the mass incarceration issues, the issues of people -- opportunities for people, young and working people and people in our state in particular, to be able to have a quality of life that they can appreciate.

So I am really very encouraged and inspired by the fact that we have, throughout our own legislative body, throughout the Capitol, we have a new generation. I call them millennials. And what I see in them is that they also are intent on outliving the new Jim Crow. These are young people who are very smart, they're very committed. Some of them are college students, some of them are young professionals already. Some of them are young legislators, like Senator Bailey here. Some of them are fellows. But they are all engaged, and they are a diverse group of young people. That's what's so wonderful about them. And they are very comfortable with diversity. They're committed to 1 2 raising their generation to go beyond what we have done even. 3 4 And so I want to say this day, this 5 celebration of Dr. King is a celebration of, yes, ourselves, the work that he has done, but it's 6 7 also a celebration of the next generation who will be, that will be those people who will also 8 be interpreting the dream of Dr. King. And I 9 10 think they are going to do an even better job than we've been able to do. That makes me happy, 11 12 that gives me inspiration and makes me feel like Dr. King's dream is still alive. 13 14 Thank you, Mr. President. 15 ACTING PRESIDENT GALLIVAN: Senator Comrie. 16 17 SENATOR COMRIE: Thank you, 18 Mr. President. On the resolution. 19 I want to thank our leader, Senator 20 Andrea Stewart-Cousins, for continuing to bring this resolution forward so that members can 21 22 reflect on Dr. King and his past and his history. It's always good to hear Senator 23 Larkin's memories of what happened on the ground 24 25 during that time.

It's good to hear our first piece from Senator Bailey. I look forward to his time and tenure here with us in the State Senate.

I wanted to come from a different angle. I was heartened by all of the events that happened in my district leading up to and including on MLK Day, all of the people that have recommitted themselves to making sure that they followed his resolutions to understand that what Martin Luther King was trying to do was to uplift all of us through nonviolence, through protest that was determined, that was focused, that was focused on achieving an issue.

All of the things that happened this weekend, from people building homes with Habitat for Humanity in my district, from people working with young people to make sure that they understood the history of Dr. Martin Luther King by putting on demonstrations, by having people that actually marched in Selma come back and talk to young people about their experience marching in Selma, from people putting together coat distributions for poor people in my district or people that were impoverished that needed help. People actually going to homes and giving them an opportunity to experience a meal or an opportunity for fellowship. For churches that have programs that opened the doors to their church all day.

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

10

11

12

13

14

15

16

17

18

19 20

21

22

23

24

25

There's a spirit in this country, there's a spirit in my district of people that are doing service on a regular basis, and they did a special service on Dr. King's holiday.

And I hope that that spirit continues throughout my district, also continues throughout the Senate, throughout here in Albany. As we deal with the issues of our budget, as we deal with the things that we have to deliberate on, that we do it in a positive spirit, that we do it in articulating our concerns and passions in a way that can be understood by all members and all of the people that we encounter, that we do it in the spirit of Martin Luther King, focused on making sure that there's action behind our words, that there's an opportunity for all of us to understand that as we move forward in the things that we're passionate about, as we deal with the issues of concern that come before us in this legislative body, that we do it in a way that we can bring all people together, that we can continue to move this state forward, that we 1 can continue to find ways to find common ground 2 3 to make things happen. 4 So I just want to again thank all of 5 the groups in my district that have put together programs and also have pledged to continue 6 7 activities of service so that they can make sure that their children and that their children's 8 children can benefit from the best of what we 9 10 have in America, and in the spirit of Martin 11 Luther King, finding ways to work together and 12 not be apart. Thank you, Mr. President. 13 14 ACTING PRESIDENT GALLIVAN: Senator 15 Hoylman. SENATOR HOYLMAN: 16 Thank you, Mr. President. On the resolution. 17 18 I wanted to thank our leader, Andrea Stewart-Cousins, of the Democratic Conference, 19 20 and Senator Larkin and all of my colleagues for speaking so powerfully and eloquently on this 21 22 resolution. 23 You know, we live now in a nostalgic period as the final days of President Obama's 24 administration are winding down, which I think would please Dr. King, to see another towering figure in American history be inspired by Dr. King's work.

25

But here in our own chamber, as Senator Montgomery alluded to, so many of us -including our newest Senator, Senator Bailey -have been inspired by the work of Dr. King. As has my community, the LGBT community.

Dr. King literally wrote the book on organizing the March on Washington for Jobs and Freedom. And I understand that generations following him, including the LGBT community, looked at the principles of organizing that he set forth.

And it's worth noting that one of the individuals who helped write this pamphlet and was one of Dr. King's chief lieutenants was a gentleman by the name of Bayard Rustin, who was a gay man and was known openly to be gay in Dr. King's circles. He faced great persecution from the FBI as a result of his sexual identity, but he remained open and proud and defiant as both an African-American male and as a gay man.

And I'd like to mention the fact that Bayard Rustin's home is in my Senate

```
district in Chelsea, in the affordable housing 1 2
     co-op known as Penn South. And just this year, the national and state registries named Bayard 3
 4 Rustin's home an important national landmark.
 5
                  So thank you to my colleagues, and thank you to the memory of Dr. King.
 6
 7
                  ACTING PRESIDENT GALLIVAN:
 8 question is on the resolution. All in favor 9 signify by saying aye.
10 (Response of "Aye.")
                  ACTING PRESIDENT GALLIVAN:
11 12 Opposed, nay.
13
                  (No response.)
                  ACTING PRESIDENT GALLIVAN:
14 15 resolution is adopted.
16 Senator Lanza.
17
                  SENATOR LANZA: Mr. President, the 18 sponsors would like to open this resolution up 19 for cosponsorship. If someone does not wish to 20 be a cosponsor, they should notify the desk.
21
                  ACTING PRESIDENT GALLIVAN:
                                                The 22 resolution is open for cosponsorship. If you do 23 not wish to be a cosponsor, please notify the desk.
24
25 Senator Lanza.
```

```
1
                  SENATOR LANZA:
                                   Mr. President, I 2 believe there is a privileged resolution at the 3 desk by Senators Flanagan and Klein. May we 4 please have the title read and move for its 5 immediate adoption.
                  ACTING PRESIDENT GALLIVAN:
 6
                                                The 7
     Secretary will read.
 8
                  THE SECRETARY:
                                   Senate resolution 9 by Senators Flanagan and Klein, establishing a 10
     Select Committee on Technology and Innovation.
                  ACTING PRESIDENT GALLIVAN:
                                                The 11 12 question is on the resolution. All in favor signify by saying aye.
13 (Response of "Aye.")
14 15
                  ACTING PRESIDENT GALLIVAN:
16 Opposed, nay.
17
                  (No response.)
                  ACTING PRESIDENT GALLIVAN:
18
                                                The 19 resolution is adopted.
20
                  Senator Lanza.
21
                  SENATOR LANZA: Mr. President, 22
     Senator Flanagan, with Senator Klein, hands up 23 the following committee assignments.
                  ACTING PRESIDENT GALLIVAN:
24
                                                The 25 committee assignments will be filed in the
```

```
1
     Journal. So ordered.
 2 Senator Lanza.
 3 SENATOR LANZA: Mr. President,
 4
     Senator Flanagan, with Senator Klein, hands up 5 the following Independent Democratic Conference committee assignments.
 6
 7
                  ACTING PRESIDENT GALLIVAN: To be 8 filed in the Journal. So ordered.
 9 Senator Lanza.
10 SENATOR LANZA: Mr. President, in consultation with Senator Stewart-Cousins, 11 12
     Senator Flanagan hands up the following committee 13 assignments.
                  ACTING PRESIDENT GALLIVAN:
14 To be 15 filed in the Journal. So ordered.
16
                  Senator Lanza.
                  SENATOR LANZA: Mr. President, is 17 18
     there any further business at the desk?
                  ACTING PRESIDENT GALLIVAN:
19
                                               There 20 is no further business at the desk.
21
                  SENATOR LANZA: Mr. President, 22 there being no further business, I move we adjourn until Monday, January 23rd, at 3:00 p.m., 23 intervening days being legislative days.
24
25
                  ACTING PRESIDENT GALLIVAN: On
```

```
1
     motion, the Senate stands adjourned until Monday, January 23rd, at 3:00 p.m., intervening days 2 being legislative days.
 3 (Whereupon, at 12:30 p.m., the 4 Senate adjourned.)
 5
 6
 7
 8 9 10 11 12 13 14 15 16
17 18 19 20 21
22
23 24
25
```