5 THE SECRETARY: Section 3. This 6 act shall take effect immediately.

7 ACTING PRESIDENT BENJAMIN: Call
8 the roll.

9 (The Secretary called the roll.)

10 ACTING PRESIDENT BENJAMIN: Senator
11 Borrello to explain his vote.

12 SENATOR BORRELLO: Thank you,
13 Mr. President.

14 These are obviously challenging
15 times. And as I said before, my first budget.
16 Again, my thoughts and prayers go out to all 17 those on the front lines in this fight, our 18 healthcare workers.

19 But in this case we have others on 20 the front lines that have continued to be ignored 21 by this body, and those are the members of 22 law enforcement.

23 We heard from them, when this bail
24 reform bill passed last year, how devastating it 25 would be, and unfortunately they were correct.

1 And now, under the same process of the budget,
2 hidden away and not discussed -- not with law
3 enforcement, not on a wide scale -- we're seeing 4 the same sledgehammer that destroyed our judicial 5 system try to be used again to fix it. And 6 that's just not how it should work.

7 The fallout was a major increase in 8 crime. And we heard in the hearings that we held 9 what the fixes should be. First and foremost,
10 judicial discretion, which is not in here. You 11 cut open a gushing wound in our judicial system
12 that has impacted victims of crime and the people 13 on the front lines of law enforcement, and you've 14 handed them a Band-Aid now to try and fix it.
15 It's simply not enough.

16 And it should be done in an open
17 process outside the budget so we can discuss it 18 openly and let the people decide what's best for 19 the judicial system of New York State.

20 So as a result of that and many 21 other reasons, I'll be voting no.

22 Thank you, Mr. President.

23 ACTING PRESIDENT BENJAMIN: Senator
24 Borrello to be recorded in the negative.

25 Senator Lanza to explain his vote.

23 ACTING PRESIDENT BENJAMIN: The 25 Senator Gianaris, that completes the

1 reading of today's supplemental calendar.

2 SENATOR GIANARIS: Mr. President,
3 at this time can you recognize Senator Flanagan
4 for remarks.

6 Flanagan for remarks.

7 SENATOR FLANAGAN: Thank you,
8 Mr. President.

9 Thank you to Senator Gianaris,
10 Senator Krueger, Senator Lanza, and 11 Senator Stewart-Cousins.

12 I've been thinking a lot throughout
13 the morning, and I was talking with Senator Lanza
14 before we came in. You know, there are times I 15 would come up here on a Sunday night and come
16 over to the Capitol, and there was a tranquility 17 and a serenity, in part because it was night and 18 no one was really here. And I got a chance to 19 walk around and reflect, truly reflect on how 20 magnificent this building is, and this place.

21 So today there's a calmness, but 22 it's not serene. And it's not really tranquil.
23 And I live my life as a very positive person. So 24 I come in here today with my colleagues with an 25 open heart but a heavy heart. And I just think

1 about how incredibly important the work that we 2 do is.

3 So I want to say thank you at large
4 for the opportunity to be part of this august 5 body. I want to say thank you to everyone who's 6 here -- properly spaced. Properly spaced, I
7 might add. But we are doing the people's 8 business.

9 So I say thank you to everyone, God
10 bless you all of you. And that includes every 11 single person who is in and around the halls of 12 this chamber and this Capitol. Because this 13 place still has to operate. And thank God we 14 have the people that we do to take care of us.

15 But you know what, this is about the 16 human experience. And however one approaches 17 their life and seeks good in others and for 18 others, I would from the bottom of my heart ask 19 that people find time to contemplate and to think 20 well of Senator Jim Seward.

21 Senator Seward tested positive. So
22 did his wife. And he's having a tough time. So
23 when I think of him, I think of our colleagues 24 who have had the same type of issue in the 25 Assembly. And no matter what our differences

1 are, part of the insanity of this place is that 2 it becomes like a family. It just does.

3 Mr. President, I look at you and I
4 think of your little girl. I look at Senator 5 Lanza, I think of his three children and how we 6 talk about that all the time. And then I think 7 of my own family, and I think about how anxious 8 they are and the fear that they have, real 9 fear -- the nervousness, the anxiety -- when less 10 than a month ago people were starting to pay 11 attention, but nowhere near the way they are now.

12 I look at my colleague and friend
13 Senator Gianaris. A couple of weeks ago he and I
14 had a debate. We banged elbows a little bit on a 15 debate, and the world has radically changed just 16 in those few weeks. Radically changed. And 17 nowhere has it changed more significantly than in 18 the State of New York.

19 I have been blessed to have three 20 children. And my daughter, who is the apple of 21 my eye, is an actress. So I pay attention to 22 some music, Broadway shows, can't wait for them
23 to open back up. And there's a song from a play
24 called Rent: "Seasons of Love." And it talks 25 about 525,600 minutes. And that's the number of

1 minutes in a year: 525,600 minutes. It's a
2 fabulous song.

3 So how do you measure a year? In 4 daylight, in sunsets, in midnights, in cups of 5 coffee, in inches and miles, in laughter and 6 strife. And now we measure it in life and death, 7 in a way that I don't think any one of us could 8 have predicted.

9 I look at our Majority Leader, she's 10 trying to do everything humanly possible within 11 her power to do the right thing. And yet the 12 scope of what she's looking at is unalterably
13 changed, from St. Patrick's Day forward.

14 So now I think of a wide variety of 15 groups -- our first responders, our EMTs, our 16 police, our doctors, our nurses, our volunteers.
17 People who drop everything. And one of my 18 hospital CEOs gave me a good description, talking 19 about nurses in particular. They're like -- 20 yeah, they run in. They don't walk in, they run 21 in. And thank God we have people that do that.
22 We are all immeasurably blessed because of that.

23 And I think of basic things too.
24 We're all eating. You know, we all get to go to 25 the food store and things like that. Somebody's

1 out there doing the work so that we can do our 2 jobs. And yet people are walking around nervous.
3 And it's understandable.

4 In terms of our colleagues,
5 Senator Stewart-Cousins and I had spoken -- and 6 this is not a time to debate. And certainly 7 we're not engaging in a debate. But I was 8 dubious about -- as to whether or not I should 9 even get up and speak. Because arguably we're 10 talking not to an empty chamber per se, but this 11 will be memorialized in the record and the 12 transcript of the New York State Senate.

13 And my colleagues, out of deference 14 to the process and to the leader and to the 15 Majority, we didn't engage in debate. Maybe a 16 very little bit. But in reality, I'm standing 17 before you as a representative of our conference.

18 So when I see our new colleague
19 Senator Borrello get up and offer heartfelt
20 comments, I know where he's coming from. When I 21 hear Senator Amedore talk about what it means to 22 be a businessperson, I understand where he's 23 coming from.

24 And I could speak to every single 25 person in our conference as to their qualities,

1 as to their temperament, as to their disposition, 2 and to the gut-wrenching feeling that each and 3 every one of us have. I know I feel it. I know
4 I should be here, but oh, man, I am like jonesing
5 to be home. And I also know I have to be 6 incredibly careful when I get that opportunity to 7 go home.

8 Senator Gianaris and I were talking
9 about our mothers. Right? Senator Lanza, we 10 were talking about his father. You want to go 11 and knock on that door in the morning, give that 12 big hug? You can't do it. So we have to do it 13 metaphorically. We have to find some way to 14 continue the human existence and make people feel 15 good about where we are.

16 Yesterday we got the daily update.
17 And Morgan, who works right here, has helped us
18 out. There were roughly 83,000 cases yesterday.
19 Now there's over 92,000. Yesterday there were 20 about -- there were 1941 deaths in the State of 21 New York. This morning's report was 2,373.
22 Twenty-four hours, that's the difference we've 23 seen.

24 So when we get involved in the 25 discussions on this budget, I want to make a few

1 brief comments as to approach. I respect very 2 deeply the work of my colleagues in the Majority
3 and their efforts to bring forth the blueprint 4 for New York as they see it, working with the 5 Assembly and working with the Governor.

6 Our conference would have taken a 7 slightly different tack. I think we would have 8 been more focused on let's handle what is before 9 us, the public health crisis, the pandemic, in 10 lead of a lot of other things that are worthy of 11 consideration, but at a different time and under 12 different circumstances.

13 Simple things. Public financing of 14 campaigns. I don't think the public is worried 15 about that right now, I really don't. Banning 16 polystyrene. Maybe a laudable goal, but frankly 17 that's the stuff that everyone's using to get 18 takeout food right now. Things like that.

19 I actually have been a strong 20 supporter of prevailing wage for working men and 21 women. I just don't know or think that this is 22 the right time given the gravity of what we're 23 facing in our economy.

24 Two other quick things. There's a 25 bond act that's in this budget. And I've always

1 been a pretty strong supporter of bond acts for 2 this reason -- because the public decides. In my 3 opinion and a lot of the opinion of my 4 colleagues, now is not the time. I don't know 5 how we can go out and ask somebody to support an 6 environmental bond act when unemployment claims 7 are rising at a meteoric pace.

8 And even legislation on sick leave 9 or bail, whatever it may be -- but sick leave in 10 particular, changing significantly a law where 11 people are more worried about their jobs as 12 opposed to whether or not they're going to have 13 the appropriate sick leave.

14 But as I said, we want to get into 15 the rough and tumble on that, we just don't think 16 the time is now. And we do have to pass our 17 budget, and we do have to meet our obligations.
18 We just think it should have been done in a 19 different way.

20 And I respect the fact that the 21 Majority will take a different approach, and 22 that's why they're in the Majority. And they 23 have that right and prerogative.

24 So now, too, I'm thinking about the 25 Governor and the federal government. When I

1 looked at what was in this budget, I picked out 2 one thing. There's over a billion dollars in 3 funding for education. There's about 4 $800 million in higher education. There's 5 $25 billion in authority for things that may 6 come.

7 But the thing that I saw that my 8 constituents are going to want to know about -- 9 and they're going to want to thank the federal 10 government, the president, Senator Schumer, 11 Senator Gillibrand, all of our delegation from 12 New York -- they're not only going to want to 13 thank them for that additional unemployment 14 benefit, they're going to want to thank them for 15 that check that otherwise would not have come.
16 But they're also going to want to thank them for 17 almost -- and I want to repeat this number -- 18 almost $40 billion in relation to unemployment 19 insurance.

20 So when the Department of Labor gets 21 50,000 calls a week, and last week they got over 22 8 million inquiries, that shows you what people 23 are focusing on. That shows you where people's 24 heads are at.

25 So when I go home, I don't really

1 want to talk about polystyrene. I want to be 2 able to say to somebody, you know what, the 3 Department of Labor, they took a huge shift and 4 brought in 1500 new people -- whatever the number 5 may be -- to process your claim, to make sure 6 your family is well taken care of.

7 And with all the things the Governor
8 has done, I have to say I'm a little surprised 9 that we haven't seen something much more
10 forthright in that area. It will probably come.
11 Maybe it will come after this debate and maybe 12 after this conversation. But we're at a time
13 where I think that's what people are really 14 looking at.

15 Now, having just said what I did, I 16 want to be clear -- I said it before -- the 17 Governor deserves tremendous praise for his 18 yeomanlike efforts, 24 hours a day, on behalf of 19 everyone in the State of New York. The calm, the 20 repose, the occasional humor and making people 21 feel better, trying to make people feel better, 22 giving them a sense of purpose, giving them a 23 sense of hope. Showing them accomplishments.
24 Showing how many more people have gotten tested.
25 Showing how many more people are getting better.

1 Those are all good signs. And you all know we're 2 not even close, we're not even close to being 3 finished.

4 But as I said before, I live my life
5 as a very positive person. We are absolutely 6 going to get through this. Absolutely. And it's 7 because we know how to stick together. We'll 8 have our differences, but we know how to stick 9 together.

10 I want to support
11 Senator Stewart-Cousins in those types of 12 efforts. I want to support my colleagues because 13 it's good for the people that we represent. Our 14 obligation is fundamental, it's basic, but it's 15 strong, too.

16 And there are two people who are not 17 here that I want to just speak to very briefly 18 because I think they are characteristic of every 19 member in this house.

20 Senator LaValle sits right there, 44
21 years in the Senate, the dean of the Senate. I 22 looked at his chair the other day, it's got 23 tattered edges. That's based on his longevity.

24 Senator Montgomery is not here
25 today, but she's the dean of your conference and

1 the longest-serving member in your conference.

2 They represent what is good about 3 every member in this chamber -- their longevity,
4 their service, their passion, their dedication
5 and their devotion. And God knows they will be 6 missed.

7 And it's kind of weird because 8 Senator Borrello came in -- right? Newest 9 member? If anyone had ever said this is what 10 your first budget is going to be like, he 11 probably wouldn't have signed his oath of office.
12 But he's here.

13 And I've never seen anything like 14 this. And I never thought, my God, today being 15 the closure of the budget, that every one of us,
16 this may be our last day here for session. I 17 mean, I hope not. I don't. But if that's what 18 it is, that's what it is. But I know we're 19 meeting our obligation today.

20 So as I said, with humility and 21 respect, we would have taken a different tack. I 22 know there's good things in here to help people; 23 I'm not going to dismiss that. But there are 24 things that should have been debated outside of 25 the budget, and there will be time for those

1 things.

2 So again, I am honored and 3 privileged to be standing here. The fact that 4 anyone would take the time to listen to my 5 comments makes me a very grateful person. And as 6 I said, I feel like I am being representative of 7 the people of the Senate Republican Conference.

8 So I kind of said this at the 9 beginning. This is about being a human being, 10 trying to be a good person. As we pray for the 11 people that we read about, I would ask again, in 12 sincerity, please think of Jim Seward. I can't 13 think of a finer public servant. And my heart
14 breaks as I speak about him, because there's tens 15 of thousands of Jim Searwards in New York at this 16 very moment who need our love, our service, our 17 devotion, our prayers and our support.

18 I thank the Governor. I thank the 19 Majority Leader and all of my colleagues for the 20 work that they do. Mr. President, you're a good 21 man, and it's been a pleasure to watch you serve 22 up there. God bless this chamber, God bless the 23 New York State Senate, the great Empire State of 24 New York, and the United States of America.

25 Thank you.

1 ACTING PRESIDENT BENJAMIN: Senator
2 Gianaris.

3 SENATOR GIANARIS: Mr. President,
4 let me thank Senator Flanagan as well for his 5 words and his service to New York State. He has 6 left a legacy to be proud of.

7 Thank you, Senator.

8 Can you please now recognize 9 Majority Leader Stewart-Cousins.

10 ACTING PRESIDENT BENJAMIN:
11 Majority Leader Stewart-Cousins for comments.

12 SENATOR STEWART-COUSINS: Thank you
13 so much.

14 I said I'm socially distanced, but 15 I'm not distanced from anyone, so I think I'll be 16 at my desk.

17 So again, I wanted to thank you,
18 Mr. President, too. Because, again, none of this 19 is familiar to any of us. And so I really thank 20 you for the work that you've done throughout this 21 and, you know, through all of our opportunities 22 to be together.

23 And to follow up on Senator
24 Flanagan, I -- it wasn't until your final remarks 25 that I realize that maybe this is, you know, the

1 last time that we might be together in this 2 chamber. And I certainly hope not. Because, you
3 know, we have so many colleagues -- of course 4 Senator LaValle, as you mentioned, your 5 longest-serving member, and Senator Montgomery -- 6 and I don't want to go through the list because 7 it's a very, very long list -- Senator Seward and 8 yourself. So many who don't plan to come back.

9 And so I hope this is not the last 10 time we get a chance. But I will say it's 11 certainly been a privilege to serve in this body 12 with public servants like you and certainly all 13 of my colleagues.

14 And I know that all of us join you 15 in prayers for Senator Seward and for his 16 recovery. And, you know, it reminds us all that 17 nothing is promised, and we have to value, as you 18 said, the opportunities that we have, not only to 19 be together here but to serve the people of 20 New York. So again, we all pray for Senator
21 Seward.

22 And, you know, I listened to your 23 remarks, and there's so much like my remarks, 24 but -- and you did something different, you spoke 25 extemporaneously, which I usually do. But

1 because your remarks are so similar, I'm going to 2 read my remarks.

3 (Laughter.)

4 SENATOR STEWART-COUSINS: And so,
5 you know, like you, as I look around the chamber,
6 this nearly empty chamber, it really is surreal.
7 You know, actually, for me, it's chilling. In 8 many ways, it's upsetting. But it's a testament 9 to this great institution and the work that 10 continues here.

11 As you said, it's been a month since 12 we stood on this floor and we voted to provide 13 $40 million to combat this pandemic. It's a 14 month ago today. And I think back to that night
15 because it was the first time, as leader, that I 16 called us back into session. And everybody came, 17 everybody was here. And so there was a sense of 18 urgency that we all had. But even with that 19 sense of urgency, nobody, nobody could have 20 imagined what was going to unfold in the 21 following weeks.

22 And here we are just one month
23 later. And I'll remind you, that day that we 24 were -- that we passed that $40 million, that was 25 an evening, and the next day we woke up to the

1 first coronavirus case in the State of New York.
2 And it happened to be in my home county, in the 3 city that I represent.

4 And now, as you were saying earlier,
5 a month later, 92,000 of our fellow New Yorkers 6 have been infected with coronavirus; 2,373 have 7 lost their lives. And today we learned that 8 10 million Americans have applied for 9 unemployment, 10 million. These numbers are even 10 beyond chilling and upsetting. These numbers are 11 painful.

12 We all see the terrifying growing
13 curve. We hear these words that we sort of knew 14 but we didn't listen to every day, and certainly 15 not in this context: Apex, social distancing,
16 ICU, intubate, hospitalization rates, death
17 rates. That's our new normal. That's the words 18 of today.

19 And yet as you said, Senator
20 Flanagan, we are in awe of the doctors, of the 21 nurses, of the hospital workers, of the first 22 responders -- of all of the people who are on the 23 front lines, these essential workers, and what 24 they've done. And as we continue to make sure 25 government functions, we are really inspired by

1 those people and their commitment to the greater 2 good.

3 We're all here to do a job. And 4 yes, we are scared for our families, for our 5 constituents, for each other. For our staff.
6 For our nation. But we're here because we have a 7 job to do. And that's really what we're doing, 8 albeit it looks very, very different.

9 As you said, usually on budget day
10 this chamber is filled, the hallways are teeming, 11 and depending upon where you are, what side of 12 the aisle, you know, that's what we're doing -- 13 we're debating, we're deciding what should have 14 been done, what shouldn't have been done, 15 everybody's got an opinion.

16 And for many there's a sense of 17 expectation, and then for most of us -- probably 18 all of us -- there's just a sense of relief that 19 we were able to get it done.

20 But that is not what it feels like 21 now. Today it really is a job, but it's a job 22 that we do with a very, very heavy weight on all 23 of us.

24 And I, like you and all of our 25 colleagues and the people of this great state,

1 really do want to thank Governor Cuomo. We want
2 to thank him because of the outstanding
3 leadership he has provided during this crisis.
4 New York is New York, and we are New York tough.
5 And Governor Cuomo has shown what that looks like 6 and what that means, the difference it makes when 7 we're facing a crisis like this.

8 And of course like all of us he too
9 has been touched by someone very close to him 10 with corona. So we want to of course wish his 11 brother Chris a full and speedy recovery.

12 And because, again, none of this 13 happens alone, I want to thank Speaker Heastie 14 and his staff for our partnership during these 15 tough times. Obviously, again, Senator Flanagan, 16 you and I have had many phone calls, all hours of 17 the day and night, you know, telling him what I
18 thought, and it was always knocked back. But I 19 really thank you for your, you know, 20 professionalism, your forthrightness and 21 cooperation, and your members', during this time.

22 I want to thank my great Finance
23 chair, Liz Krueger. Liz, dear, there are no 24 questions about your readiness. There never, 25 ever, ever has been. I do want to thank you, as

1 a friend and as a great colleague, for always 2 meeting the occasion and going above and beyond.
3 Thank you very, very much.

4 And my wonderful deputy, Deputy Mike
5 Gianaris, for leading us during this, again,
6 unprecedented time with flexibility, with skill, 7 with just, you know, the agility that we need in 8 order to get through this. I know your buddy
9 Senator Griffo isn't here. But, you know, 10 Senator Lanza, you had to stand in for that. But 11 it was -- you know, even though it was different, 12 the stability of what went on in this chamber and 13 how you ran it made all the difference.

14 I also want to thank my counsel and 15 Finance staff. Words cannot express what they do 16 and how well they've done it, and certainly on 17 both sides of the aisle. Thank you for all of 18 your hard work and your perseverance and the long 19 days and the long nights.

20 And of course I especially want to 21 thank my extraordinary chief of staff and 22 counsel, Shontell Smith. Again, words do not 23 express. And not only Shontell, but in these 24 past few days, to really push the ball forward 25 with her, her deputy, Eric Katz. I want to thank

1 my hardworking Finance secretary, Todd
2 Scheuermann; my communications director,
3 Mike Murphy; and my entire team for making this 4 look a lot easier than it's been.

5 And I also want to thank the 6 Secretary of the Senate, Ale Paulino, for not 7 only making sure all this works, but also our 8 remote access, creating the opportunities for us
9 to conduct our business. Thank you.

10 To my Senate Majority, I do wish
11 that every single person that each of you serve 12 were able to witness firsthand how hard you fight
13 for each and every New Yorker. And how you fight 14 for them and, even in this time of uncertainty, 15 you put your constituents and the people of 16 New York first.

17 So to my conference, your unyielding
18 commitment to advocating for the needs of your 19 communities -- again, another inspiration. And 20 so I thank you for being the most incredible 21 people possible to lead. It is a privilege.

22 And of course to all the members,
23 all my colleagues in the chamber who persevered
24 in these extremely tough times, I appreciate 25 every single one of you. Obviously we

1 disagree -- what we should have done, how we 2 could have done it. It doesn't matter. At the 3 end of the day, we understand why we're here.

4 I think, despite all the back and 5 forth, we can all agree that the budget that we 6 are passing is not the budget any of us had hoped 7 to pass at the beginning of this session. It's 8 not even the budget we envisioned a month ago.
9 Our state's financial situation has been thrust
10 into true economic crisis, and I know everyone 11 understands that.

12 On a normal budget day, I would go 13 through the document, I would highlight all the 14 victories and all the great things we were able 15 to do and to accomplish by marshaling our own
16 resources. But again, this was not a normal 17 budget.

18 And yes, even in the crisis,
19 however, we did manage to achieve victories for 20 the people of New York. We held the line on 21 education funding in the face of unprecedented 22 revenue loss. And in that context and beyond, 23 it's already been said, but I do want to give a 24 special thank you to Senator Schumer for all of 25 his help and the help especially provided during

1 this crisis, where he was able to direct billions
2 of dollars to state and local government, things 3 that hadn't happened before. And you listed the 4 unemployment insurance that Senators Schumer and 5 Gillibrand and our congressional delegation 6 brought to us.

7 We were able also to protect funding 8 for our healthcare system, for our most 9 vulnerable citizens in the face of a global 10 pandemic. We were able to help small businesses.
11 We stood up for farmers. We've helped stock food 12 banks. We've provided resources to those 13 New Yorkers facing an uncertain future. We 14 provided protection and resources for our first 15 responders, and we continue to improve public 16 safety.

17 The coronavirus has put New York in 18 a position, however, that we never want to be in, 19 in a position in which our state cannot meet the 20 challenges in front of us alone. New York has to 21 have a balanced budget. We can't run deficits.
22 So that's an answer to, you know, what we could 23 and could not do. Our state's residents cannot 24 bear the burden in this critical time of 25 making us whole on their own.

1 So as I thank our Senators, Senator
2 Schumer and Senator Gillibrand, and our 3 congressional delegation for the unprecedented 4 infusion of funding that they fought so hard for,
5 I must also say that we need more, and we need it
6 quickly. We stand ready to help you and do
7 whatever it takes to make the case for this great 8 state.

9 But, however, it's also important to 10 note that when this crisis passes -- and it will 11 pass -- that we as leaders of this state need to 12 take a hard look at how we got here. The 13 coronavirus amplified our fiscal challenges 14 beyond a scope we could ever have imagined, but 15 it did not create those challenges. When we get 16 to the other side of this, we need to challenge
17 our assumptions about how we fund our government 18 and who in our state bears that burden.

19 We need to continue to look to how 20 we fund our schools. We need to look at how we 21 prioritize our spending and why our health
22 system, especially programs for our poorest 23 residents who cannot afford quality healthcare on 24 their own, get hit the hardest whenever a crisis
25 arises. We need to have a serious conversation

1 about shared sacrifices and make sure that 2 everyone is paying their fair share towards 3 creating a sustainable economy that can thrive in 4 good times and withstand bad times.

5 But in the meantime, all of us and 6 all New Yorkers need to rise together to meet
7 this pandemic head-on. On an individual level, 8 that means what we've talked about -- social 9 distancing, washing our hands, checking in on our 10 loved ones who find themselves alone or 11 struggling. And as a government, it means 12 setting an example and following strict social 13 distance even as we do our work. It means
14 standing here in a nearly empty chamber. It 15 means passing a responsible balanced budget that 16 empowers those working so hard to defeat this 17 virus and, as much as possible, blunts the impact 18 of the financial instability all of our families 19 are currently facing.

20 So that's what we're doing today as 21 we pass this budget. It's not the budget we 22 wanted to pass, but it's the budget we needed to 23 pass to keep New York moving, to secure our 24 foundation, and to help to lead our state, our 25 great state through this crisis.

1 Thank you, Mr. President.

2 ACTING PRESIDENT BENJAMIN: Senator
3 Gianaris.

4 SENATOR GIANARIS: Mr. President,
5 allow me just to give a word of thanks to our 6 great Majority Leader Stewart-Cousins. She is 7 not only a historic figure in this chamber, but I 8 like to say that she is the -- no offense to 9 other former Majority Leaders who might be in the 10 room -- but is the best Majority Leader to ever 11 serve in this chamber.

12 And she has proven it these last
13 several weeks, taking on an unprecedented burden
14 of guiding the Senate through this difficult 15 time.

16 And also let me just add, to the 56
17 of our colleagues who are not in the room with us
18 right now, thanks to them as well. This is a 19 group of people that is used to a slap on the 20 back and a shake of the hand, and they've had to 21 learn how to get by without that and how to 22 govern without being physically all together in 23 this room. We've all learned how to use Zoom and 24 other technologies to get us to this point, and 25 I'm sure it won't be the last time.

1 So a thank you to all my colleagues
2 as well for their indulgence and their 3 flexibility in getting us to this point.

4 With that, Mr. President, is there
5 any further business at the desk?

6 ACTING PRESIDENT BENJAMIN: There
7 is no further business at the desk.

8 SENATOR GIANARIS: I move to 9 adjourn, subject to the call of the Temporary 10 President, with intervening days being 11 legislative days.

12 ACTING PRESIDENT BENJAMIN: On 13 motion, the Senate stands adjourned, subject to 14 the call of the Temporary President, intervening 15 days being legislative days.

16 (Whereupon, at 3:05 p.m., the Senate 17 adjourned.)
